Four State Troopers Hurt in Crash

COOPERSVILLE (Special) — Four Michigan State troopers from the Grand Haven post were injured at 8:55 a.m. Wednesday when their cruiser and a dump truck collided at the unmarked intersection of Wilson Ave. and 40th St., north of here.

Injured were:

- Trooper William Hassinger, 25, possible chest injuries, cuts.
- Trooper Richard Sheppard, 30, cuts and bruises.
- Trooper Paul Cleaves, 24, shock, bruises.
- Darrell Pope, 29, cracked bone in left arm, cuts.
- William Van Oeffelen, 45, route 2, Conklin, cuts and bruises.

Authorities said the State Police cruiser, driven by Hassinger, smashed into the dump truck, loaded with marl, driven by Van Oeffelen, in the middle of the intersection.

Police said the view at the intersection is partially blocked by trees and shrubs.

Both vehicles received extensive damage. Three of the troopers were taken to Grand Haven Municipal Hospital by ambulance. Sheppard remained at the scene but was later taken to the hospital for treatment.

Van Oeffelen was treated by a local physician and released. The four troopers were enroute from the Grand Haven post to the Rockford post for a police pistol match.

Sheriff Urges Care When Road Opens

Ottawa County Sheriff Bernard Grysen today warned local motorists that the intersection of US-31 and Eighth St., will become a potentially dangerous intersection with the opening of the US-31 and M-21 cloverleaf.

Grysen pointed out that the traffic signal, which will remain at the Eighth St. intersection will be the only light on US-31 between Holland and Grand Haven.

A recent highway survey showed that traffic on Eighth St. will continue to be very heavy even with the opening of M-21, because of the many homes in the Holland Heights area, Grysen said.

Grysen urged drivers to use extreme caution when crossing US-31 at Eighth St. amid fears that the high accident rate at the old US-31 and M-21 intersection may shift to the Eighth St. corner.

Varsity and reserve team candidates will receive physical examinations and the varsity will draw equipment. Coach Jarold Groeters said today.

Two-day practices start Monday, Aug. 31, and candidates are to be in the lockers at 8:30 a.m. and out on the practice field at 9 a.m.

Groeters expects 30 players on the varsity this season, and reports that he lacks depth in the backfield. Chalk talks will precede each afternoon practice during the first week.

Ottawa County WCTU Meets at Trinity Church

The 80th annual convention of the Ottawa County Women's Christian Temperance Union held its meeting Tuesday in Trinity Church in Holland with about 70 members attending.

At the meeting a resolution was passed to give $150 to the Holland police to be used to purchase a Breathalyzer. However, Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff said that he as yet hadn't heard anything of the WCTU's action.

The WCTU's board also decided to use $500 to purchase a temperance film to be available for use in the new Herrik Public Library. The money that the group is using is part of a legacy given by the Robinson sisters of Coopersville.

Newly elected officers for next year are Mrs. Dennis Wallinga of Grand Haven, president, Mrs. Don Stevens of Holland as vice president, Mrs. Mildred Barrows of Spring Lake, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Olla K. Marshall of Coopersville as treasurer and Mrs. Dick Vander Meer of Holland as recording secretary.

Mrs. Maurie Walters of Lamont, this year's president, was made honorary president for next year and Mrs. Edith Walvoord presented her with a corsage.

The afternoon program consisted of a memorial service led by Mrs. Ernest Meerman and Mrs. John Meerman, both of Coopersville. A memorial solo "When I Come to the End of the Road" was sung by Gordon Verkomas.

Mrs. Cecil Streeter, fifth district vice president from Grand Rapids, led the recruiting service

The building was erected five years ago, but it took until this year for the allocation in the city budget.

New draperies also have been placed in the exhibition area on the Eighth St. side.

KEEP COOL — That's just what these youngsters are trying to do while the mercury soars into the high 80s and 90s on humid August days. In the top picture, two-year-old Paul Haefer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Haefer of 559 West 32nd St., tries to coax his dog, Lucky, into a rubber wading pool. Just below (at left), Paul decides the best way to be comfortable is to shed his clothes and dash through the water from the sprinkler.

Residents Seek Many Methods To Keep Cool

Holland residents today turned to all kinds of tricks and devices to beat the prolonged heat wave while discouraged weather observers looked in vain for a break in the long humid marathon.

Most of these attempts involved water—sprinklers, pools or lakes. For the most part, air conditioners that worked offered the best relief and employees in air conditioned stores and offices were most envied.

An electrical storm accompanied by rain Wednesday night failed to bring hoped-for relief. Lowest point on the thermometer in Holland during the storm was 72 degrees and after the rain, the temperature rose and the stifling humidity returned. Wednesday's maximum was 92, compared with 95 on Tuesday.

The weather bureau predicted more hot, humid weather for the next five days.

As has happened for several days, Holland escaped the brunt of Wednesday's rainstorm. Rain pelted down intermittently Wednesday evening for about a half hour. More rain fell during the night for a total of 12 inch, according to Weather Observer Charles A. Stekette at Hope College.

A power failure south of Holland and in Saugatuck left people without electricity for 2½ hours Wednesday night.

The power failed just after "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" got underway at the Red Barn Theater, and in the best traditions of "The Show Must Go On," the players put on the show by candle light. Producer James Dyak announced tickets would be refunded but only four persons took advantage of the offer and the full house remained.

In many parts of Michigan high winds and lightning caused considerable damage resulting in two deaths. One victim was an eight-year-old boy struck by lightning as he prepared to go swimming in Saginaw Bay. Timothy Wurdock, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wurdock of Jackson, was dead on arrival at Bay City General Hospital, although doctors massaged his heart in an attempt to revive him. The same lightning bolt knocked down four other young people who were standing near the victim.

At New Baltimore, a Detroit Edison Co. employee was electrocuted while helping clean up damage by a twister that uprooted trees and knocked down power lines in the Ridge Road area. Harry Douglas, 30, Cass City, grabbed a live wire after picking up two others that were not dangerous. He was dead on arrival at a Mt. Clemens hospital.

In western Upper Michigan, severe winds disrupted long distance telephone service and winds knocked down a number of trees, fences and power lines. A Bell Telephone Co. spokesman said today that more than 4,000 phones were expected to be back in service by evening. Some 1,800 were out in Detroit area, 1,400 in Lansing area and 500 in Escanaba.

Charge Reduced

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — A rape charge against Charles Herring, 28, of 111 West 15th St., Holland, has been dismissed and a new complaint issued charging him with indecent liberties. Arraigned before Justice Lawrence De Witt Monday, he waived examination. Unable to furnish $200 bond, he was remanded to county jail to await arraignment in Circuit Court Sept. 9 at 9 a.m. The alleged offense occurred July 7 in Holland township.

Drivers Go to School

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan school bus driver education programs will be conducted throughout the state again this year by Eastern Michigan University, Western Michigan University, Central Michigan University and Northern Michigan University.

Owen D. Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Bittner, 150 West 16th St., who was promoted to sonarman third class, USN, June 16, is serving aboard the Atlantic Fleet submarine USS Sarda; operating out of New London, Conn.

Driver, Unhurt, Ticketed After One-Car Smashup

Donald Hulst, 24, of 320 West 16th St., escaped injury when his car left the road, traveled 250 feet in the ditch, struck a drainage embankment, flew through the air, rolled over and landed on its wheels in the middle of 64th St., a half-mile south of Drenthe at 4:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Ottawa County deputies ticketed Hulst for reckless driving. They said his 1953 model car, which ended up 360 feet from the point where it left the road, was a total loss.

Deputies Ticket Woman

Mrs. Lorraine Peterson, 42, of Grand Rapids, was charged by Ottawa County deputies with interfering with traffic, after she collided with a car driven by Leonard N. Cook, 47, of Grand Rapids at the intersection of M-21 and Chicago Dr., just east of Zeeland Wednesday at 3:45 p.m. Deputies estimated damage at $400 to Cook's 1957 model car, and at $300 to the 1953 model Peterson car.

The regular meeting of Holland Chapter No. 429, OES, which was scheduled for Sept. 1, has been postponed until Tuesday, Sept. 8.

Boston Firm Low Bidder For Bonds

A proposal of First Boston Corporation and Associates to purchase $4,000,000 electric revenue bonds at an average interest rate of just over 4 per cent was approved by City Council at an adjourned meeting Wednesday night, scheduled for opening bids in the bond sale.

First of Boston Corp. was the lowest of six bids opened Wednesday night. Each was accompanied by an $80,000 certified check.

The low bid listed a $360 premium and three changes in interest rates as follows: from 1960 to 1967, 5 per cent; 1968, 4½ per cent; 1969 to 1989, 4 per cent, for an average interest rate of 4.036361. Associates were not listed in the bid, although some other bids listed as many as 22 associates.

Reading and checking of bids took a full hour before a recommendation was made. Other bids ranged 4.04, 4.05, 4.06, 4.07 and 4.11 per cent. Net interest in the 30-year period on the low bid will amount to $3,026,800.42.

James Pollock, Kalamazoo investment official who aided in the local bond program, described the bid as "good" and said he had no hesitancy in recommending First Boston Corp. as purchaser. Randall C. Bosch, president of the Board of Public Works, likewise described the bid as good.

In other business, Council approved a resolution prepared by bond attorneys setting up an election on issuing $2,900,000 in general obligation bonds to defray cost of improving, enlarging and extending the sewage disposal system and to acquire the necessary lands and easements.

The election will be held Oct. 13, in all 16 precincts in the city for property owners only. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The Board of Public Works has been studying sewer improvements for the last few years, but recent annexations have required a broader program than was first planned.

Although the program calls for general obligation bonds, costs will be largely financed through sewer service charges. First bills in the new program will go out in October for a third of the city. Another third will be billed in November and the remainder in December. Fee for residential users will be around $6 per quarter. Institutional and industrial users will be billed on other formulas.

Council also took action to eliminate the 90-day cancellation clauses in contracts for equipment for the new light plant. This action was taken in view of the fact that electric revenue bonds have been sold.

Council placed an order for printing the $4,000,000 electric revenue bonds with Northern Bank Note Co. at base bid of $840 plus $15 for each change in interest rate and $35 for impressing the city seal on said bids.

In the only outside business of the evening, Council awarded a contract for No. 5 topped fuel oil for Holland Hospital and Civic Center to Ray Smith Oil Co. for 82½ cents per gallon, plus the stipulation that although it is a firm bid in the event of a reduction in price, the price to the city will be reduced accordingly.

Council recessed to meet informally with the Board of Public Works for a discussion on possibilities of federal sewage treatment construction grant provisions. No action taken.

Sheriff Receives Home-Made Bomb

ALLEGAN (Special) — Allegan County Sheriff Walter Runkel and acting prosecuting attorney Fred MacDonald are still contemplating the future of a bomb taken to the sheriff's department Tuesday afternoon.

The bomb was left at the sheriff's department by a woman who said it was invented by an elderly boarder in her home. The bright red bomb is rocket-shaped and about eight inches long.

Apparently the elderly man intended to take out a patent on the bomb when he began work on it in 1942. It had been in the home for several years, but the woman decided Tuesday to turn it over to officials.

No one at the sheriff's department has had the proper training to open the bomb. Although an Otsego demolition crew has volunteered to do the job, Runkel said the bomb will probably be disposed of in the Kalamazoo River, where it can do no harm.

Construction 'On Schedule'

Construction on the new $7,000,000 manufacturing plant at the Parke, Davis Co. is proceeding on schedule, James Thomas, resident engineer for Parke, Davis on the project said today.

Thomas said workmen have prepared and graded the site on Black River and have installed some piping. Piles which will support the two-story building are now being driven.

Thomas said that more than 600 piles will be driven into the ground about 60 feet to form the base for the new plant. Pile driving is expected to continue for another 15-20 days, he said.

After the piles have been driven, crews will form and pour the pile caps and grade beams which will be the floor supports for the new facility.

Completion of the plant, part of the pharmaceutical firm's $50,000,000 five-year capital expansion program, is scheduled for late next year. The unique H-shaped building will produce fine chemicals for eventual use in production of Parke, Davis products.

Darin and Armstrong Co., of Detroit, are general contractors for the new plant.

Christian High School To Sponsor Marine Band

The 161-year-old United States Marine Band, the oldest military symphonic musical organization in the country, will visit Holland on Sept. 22, under auspices of Christian High School Band and Orchestra Parents, as part of the Presidentially approved tour of 21 states, covering the north central and northwestern section of the country. The tour will open at Kennett Square, Pa. on Sept. 13—carry the Band approximately 10,500 miles—and conclude at Yardley, Pa. on Nov. 14.

Gerald Vande Vusse has announced that matinee and evening concerts will be presented at the Civic Center, with musical works by the world's finest composers and stirring marches which have brought the Marine Band acclaim from visiting dignitaries of almost every country in the world.

Under the leadership of Lt. Col. Albert Schoepper, the Marine Band is known to millions of Americans through its annual tours, its frequent radio broadcasts and television appearances, and its concert series in the Nation's Capital. The annual tours originated under the direction of John Philip Sousa in 1891 and have afforded Americans living outside the Washington area an opportunity to see and hear the world-famous Band, whose history goes back farther than the Capitol City itself.

Familiarly known as "The President's Own," the Marine Band has played for every inauguration since Thomas Jefferson's. Founded in 1798 by an Act of Congress, the Band has played for all official functions in the Nation's Capitol and all important history-making events in this country since that date.

The personnel of the Band includes musicians carefully screened and selected from some of the nation's leading conservatories, symphony orchestras, high school and college bands. To be accepted in the Band, an applicant must pass a strenuous audition and undergo a rigid physical examination.

When the Marine Band appears in Holland on Sept. 22, it will mark the second Fall concert appearance of this colorful musical organization in this community.

Man Kills Ex-Spouse, Then Himself

PULLMAN (Special) — A 53-year-old Pullman man shot his former wife to death, and then took his own life late Saturday afternoon.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Chapel Funeral home at Pennville for Lewis Atteberry, a salesman. Services for Mrs. Iva Atteberry, 53, who died enroute to South Haven Hospital, will be held in her home state of Missouri.

South Haven State police said the tragedy occurred in front of the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Doorn, of Pullman, where Mrs. Atteberry was baby sitting. Troopers said Atteberry drove up about 4:12 p.m., when his wife was just entering the home.

Atteberry got out of the car, across the street from the Doorn home, walked a part of the way across the road, and pointed a 12-gauge shotgun at his former wife, troopers said. They said he shot her at a range of about 15 feet.

Officers said he then reloaded the weapon, placed the muzzle next to his ear with the butt on the ground, and pulled the trigger. Two witnesses, Cecil Harris of route 1, Pullman, and Ray Nelson of route 2, Grand Junction, said they were too surprised and shocked to stop him.

Harris said he was standing about 10 feet from Mrs. Atteberry when she was shot. Nelson witnessed the shooting from his car, as he was driving by about 100 feet northeast of the scene.

A third witness, Harold Habley who lives nearby called police after Mrs. Atteberry was shot but said he did not see Atteberry take his own life.

Van Buren County medical examiner Dr. Joseph Cooper of Bangor said Mrs. Atteberry died of gunshot wounds of the stomach. Dr. James Clark of Pennville, Allegan County medical examiner, pronounced Atteberry's death a suicide at the scene.

State Police said the couple had been separated for about three years, and divorced for one year. Neighbors had reported seeing Atteberry frequently around his former wife's home, two doors north of the Doorn home.

The Atteberys were survived by seven children. The two youngest, Linda, 13 and Barbara Ann, 11, lived with Mrs. Atteberry.

Plan Dedication Of Tennis Lights

Holland's tennis court lighting program, the first such outdoor lighting arena in Western Michigan, will be dedicated Thursday, Aug. 27 with ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. at the 21st St. courts.

L. A. Wade, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Recreation, will turn on the switch to illuminate the courts and the men's singles finals in the City Recreation tennis tournament at 8 p.m. will be the first match played under the lights.

Plans call for the winning team of the Little League tennis program, Bob's Sports Shop, to receive a trophy as part of the ceremonies and Rog Plagenhoef, coach of the Holland entry in the inter-city tennis league, will accept the inter-city tennis trophy. Holland won the league over Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Muskegon.

Plagenhoef a junior at Michigan State University and Bill Japenga, a junior at Kalamazoo College, will play in the finals of the men's tournament. Both former teammates at Holland High and two of the finest players ever developed here, Plagenhoef and Japenga are members of the MSU and Kalamazoo net teams respectively.

Members of the Citizens Recreation group have been invited to attend the event, including John Van Eerden, representing the City Council on the group and Bernard Arendshorst, representing the Holland Board of Education.

The lights, eight 1,500-watt mercury vapors, will light the five north courts while a ninth light, another 1,500-watt mercury vapor, will flood the basketball court, just east of the courts.

Placed on six 40-foot poles, the lights were installed by the Holland Board of Public Works. The Citizens Recreation group approved $300 for the installation and the City Council approved the measure.

The lights have been installed to encourage adult tennis playing in Holland and will be in operation each night, except Sunday, with an automatic turnoff at 10:30 p.m. The lights will not be metered. A dry run on the lights was held Thursday night at the courts and showed that the five courts will be well-lighted. The bulbs are totally enclosed and have reflectors on the back.

Intersection Opens Friday

The new intersection of US-31 and M-21, east of Holland, is expected to be open for traffic Friday, Frank Halliday, district engineer for the State Highway Department said today.

Halliday said that the opening of the intersection depends now on getting traffic signs in place in time. He said all work on paving and the shoulders has been completed.

Work still remains to be done on sodding and guard rails around the semi-cloverleaf junction, but this work will be done while traffic is traveling the road, Halliday said.

The completion of the job, originally scheduled for Aug. 15 was delayed recently when the contractor asked for an extension on the deadline. Traffic has been traveling two ways on the southbound lane of the US-31 overpass for several weeks.

The semi-cloverleaf design will not eliminate all right-angle meeting of traffic. Cloverleaf access ramps and gentle turnoffs will carry traffic from M-21 to US-31 into gradual merging traffic situations in all cases.

But traffic switching from US-31 to M-21 will meet M-21 at right angles, and in the cases of southbound cars turning east and northbound cars turning west, will have to cross one lane of traffic to get into the far lane.

Allegan Fair Hopes For Record

Fair Opens Sept. 14; TV Stars Scheduled For Grandstand Shows

ALLEGAN (Special) — Allegan county's fair board will pin its hopes for a brand new attendance record this year — topping last year's mark of 107,000 — on an outstanding grandstand revue, featuring four top TV and recording stars.

Sharing top billing in "The Show of Shows," will be Carmel Quinn, "Snooky" Lanson and Homer and Jethro.

Carmel Quinn, one of the most popular members of the Arthur Godfrey radio and TV family, will be featured in Tuesday and Wednesday night productions.

"Snooky" Lanson, who will take Miss Quinn's place as the singing star on Thursday night of the fair — which opens September 14 for a six-day run — will continue in the spotlight through Saturday.

An extra, special "one-night-only" appearance also has been scheduled for Friday when Homer and Jethro, recording stars, will present a sort of two-man country music festival, Friday afternoon and evening.

The "big name" stars will be backed by the greatest collection of talent ever offered at the Allegan county fair.

The specialty acts include Victor Julian and His Pets, a dog act, the Elkins Sisters, offering acrobatics in triplicate; the Tuckers who are world famous artists on the trampoline; Hank the Clown, self-styled "Sultan of Balloons," Ernie Rudy and his Band, and an outstanding balancing and juggling act, The Catalas Duo.

Hoping to retain its title as "The smallest town with the biggest fair in the whole wide world," the fair board has made several additions to the "mixture as before" in an attempt to top last year's all-time attendance record.

Shuttle service between the more distant parking areas, made necessary by the size of the grounds and the huge crowds, will be provided this year. Buses will run to and from the fairgrounds parking areas and seating will be provided at several "bus stops" located in all sections of the 100-acre grounds.

Agricultural competition — backbone of the fair — has seen its first new addition added in many years. To keep pace with a rapidly growing county industry, more than 150 county Christmas tree growers are expected to compete for cash prizes in the new division. A large area west of the agricultural hall has been set aside for the Christmas tree display.

Another special feature of this year's fair will be found on the Midway. It will be the American premier of the "world's largest pipe organ." The instrument was purchased in Germany and will provide continuous concerts throughout the fair week. The organ is being shipped to Michigan via the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Sanitarian Accepts Job In Minnesota

James H. Hensley, who has been Holland's city sanitarian for the last two years, has accepted a position with the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, Minn., and plans to leave Holland the week of Sept. 14.

In his new position, he will do some teaching in the public health department, plus some research on food contamination in the atomic age, and will work toward a master's degree. He will start the new position on Sept. 21.

During his two years here, Hensley was instrumental in introducing many new methods and modern ideas in the field of public health. New health codes were enforced, a restaurant rating program was introduced, milk sanitation standards were improved and food handling establishments effected many improvements.

One of the greatest impacts was Hensley's work on sewage disposal, enforcement of a new septic tank ordinance and his work on eliminating raw sewage from drainage ditches and streams.

Although few cases landed in court, Hensley's work on enforcing housing codes was significant. He placarded many substandard homes, ordered repairs and the result in some cases was tearing down old structures which had become eyesores.

City Manager Herb Holt expressed regret at losing Hensley from the city's staff, but agreed that the offer from the University of Minnesota was a fine opportunity that could not easily be refused. Hensley is assisting Holt in trying to locate a replacement.

Hensley has a degree in chemistry and bacteriology and an area major in public health from the University of Denver.

New Letters Oppose Tax On Business

Sen. Geerlings Praised For His Firm Stand On Business Climate

Letters from local businessmen opposing the proposed business receipts tax now under consideration by the Michigan Legislature continue to trickle into The Sentinel which is carrying on its own poll on effects of the proposed legislation.

Seymour Padnos, manager of Louis Padnos Iron and Metal Co., writes: "I feel I could probably add very little light to the many words which already have been written and spoken. I do believe, however, that the obvious should be apparent to anyone who wishes to take the time to drive into Detroit and see empty building after building, which formerly housed automobile parts manufacturing facilities.

"Actually, any disproportionate increase in taxes which may adversely affect my competitive relationships with suppliers of basic raw materials, such as is our business, from outside of the state of Michigan, will have a considerable effect towards reducing my potential, and, consequently, when this is done, I no longer need employes to perform these functions.

"I think that State Sen. Clyde Geerlings has done an admirable, honest and forthright service for our community and for the state in presenting the picture of a gradually diminishing economy. He certainly is due a lot of credit for being so outspoken against such formidable opposition. I am in 100 per cent agreement with the situation as he presents it, as I believe that Michigan now, already, has a lower potential of establishing new facilities and the consequent new job opportunities in the United States."

Stuart E. Boyd, president of Holland Furniture Co., writes: "I think it is pretty well known by most people in this area who are acquainted with the furniture industry, that any tax which would affect our selling price would put us in a more unfavorable competitive position with the South than what we are now.

"I think you are acquainted with the late survey made by the Grand Rapids furniture industry relative to excessive tax assessments on older furniture plants in the Grand Rapids area. This survey, which showed that the present assessments on the Grand Rapids plant was already working a hardship, to the point of causing some factories to move outside the city limits, and, in some instances, outside the state. This survey pointed out that two plants have already located in the South. They have done this to put themselves in more favorable competition.

"The article further pointed out that North Carolina plants which are big competitors in this area pay 41.2 per cent less in wages and fringe benefits than do plants in this area.

"There are other things which place the South in a more favorable competitive situation than we are, such as proximity to lumber and material supplies which result in lower transportation costs. There are many reasons which make the South a very tough competitor. They produce more and they have younger workers to draw on and one of the big reasons that some manufacturers in the furniture industry and, I know in other industries, are considering moving to the South is because it is a much more favorable climate. Our winters here are getting too tough. The South is making fabulous offers so that any further tax, such as a proposed Michigan business tax, would cause not only furniture manufacturers, but many other manufacturers, to consider seriously moving out of this area to a more favorable climate.

"In my opinion, if we must be taxed, some form of sales tax would be the most preferable and one of the big reasons for this is that it would not require any more of a staff than we already have for the collection.

"Aside from the question of the impact of business tax on job opportunities in Michigan, we have an old multiple floor factory for which we are being assessed and have to pay high taxes. In contrast, our competitive furniture plants in the South are single-floor and conveyerized. We have offers repeatedly to come South where they will give us a new one-story building, tax free, and many other inducements. I can tell you if I were a younger man I would give this very serious consideration.

"All of this affects job possibilities for employment in Holland when we are put in an unfavorable competitive position which cannot give full employment. There is a lot we can do in our own plants to cut costs and produce more but there is very little we can do about taxes unless those who are in a position to legislate understand and appreciate just what is going on in industry today.

"I think that this type of survey should be very helpful to our state legislature and it seems to me that they should listen very carefully to businesses who are already in operation and who are already feeling a very definite competitive squeeze, to say nothing of what would happen if we were saddled with further taxes."

Danger of Fire at Allegan Well Has Been Minimized

ALLEGAN (Special) — Danger of fire in the vicinity of Heath Township's new gas and oil well has now been minimized, according to conservation department firemen.

Drilling contractor Elkin Palmer's efforts to shut off terrific gas pressure by filling the well with salt water were successful late Thursday. New fittings were installed Friday at the well head. Palmer now will start swabbing out the hole with a baler to remove brine.

The well is owned by Lloyd C. Green. It is located northeast of M-40 on 130th Ave. between Allegan and Hamilton.

The well is considered to be an indication of a new oil and gas field which would exceed anything ever seen in Allegan County. However, the new well's real potential will not be known until after swabbing operations are completed.

Two attempts to open up the oil and gas bearing formations failed Tuesday and Wednesday. The well was perforated a third time Wednesday night. Thursday morning gas and oil gushed from pipes into the slush pit and big tanks, forced by terrific subterranean pressures later estimated at 2,500 pounds per square inch.

It was learned Saturday that it will not be necessary for oilmen to petition for an auction of drilling rights on Allegan State Forest lands. The federal government retained mineral rights when it turned this land over to the state in 1940. Although Michigan's policy is to auction off drilling rights, the federal government's department of the interior grants such requests on an individual basis.

OUR FAMILY EDUCATION

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers is joining the American Social Hygiene Association on a project which has been going on for some time.

A pilot project aimed to promoting family life education in the United States, is scheduled to start this fall in Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah. Mrs. James C. Parker of Grand Rapids, president of the national PTA group, recently mentioned its efforts "to revitalize interest in, and knowledge about, the family and its members." Four family education projects have been developed by the American Social Hygiene Association since 1953 involving some 19 states and the District of Columbia.

There is no doubt a great need for these projects because there have been break ups in the family type of living. We think many of the problems that face our civilization today could be traced to broken homes. The importance of the family is basic and more and more we find that with the breaking up of families and homes there are many problems.

Any work that will lead back to the family way of life and more attention to the young people we think is a step in the right direction.

Education is a good way but sometimes it seems like a long, slow process. All people who give time and money to help these projects along deserve a large vote of thanks.

A New Spirit for A Renewed People
(Book of Joel)

Lesson Text: Joel 1:13-20
C. P. Dame

(Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and used by permission.)

Some of the prophets of Israel left their writings for us and some did not. The prophets who wrote are divided in two groups—the major and the minor prophets. Our lesson directs our attention to one of the minor prophets—the man Joel. The minor prophets are not called by this name because they were inferior to the others but because their writings are smaller. The Book of Joel has a message for our times.

I. Every one of Israel's prophets had a message. We do not know exactly when the prophet Joel lived. Judging from his book he lived in Jerusalem and he knew about the times in which he lived. Conditions in the nation were bad. In those days most of the people made their living from the soil. Locusts had swept over the land and had eaten up everything and so there was much poverty. The fields were bare and the animals were suffering from lack of food. The prophet wrote, "How do the beasts groan! the herds of cattle are perplexed, because they have no pasture; yea, the flocks of sheep are made desolate." The barns were empty and they were falling into decay because they were no longer used. Everyone suffered—the drunksards could not even get wine and no offerings were presented in God's Temple.

The prophet says in his little book of three chapters that God was punishing the nation for their sins. He does not mention the special sins of the people. Perhaps they were too well known. Today plagues, droughts, hurricanes and storms are looked upon as natural phenomena, brought on by natural causes. However they are all the results of mankind's sin — not necessarily brought about because of some special sin. That God at times afflicts people because of sin is also true. The disasters should teach us how helpless we are.

II. Troubles should turn us to the Lord, who is always available. People who think they can handle every situation themselves never seek God's help but they who become aware of their own inability will seek God's aid. The prophet Joel summoned his nation to turn to the Lord with great sincerity: "Therefore also now, saith the Lord, turn ye even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning: And rend your heart, and not your garments, and turn to the Lord your God." Note the encouragement the prophet gives in the words, "for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil." Before people turn to God they must have sense of guilt which will express itself in genuine contrition. The observance of religious ceremonies is not enough. God is greatly pleased when people acknowledge their sins, turn from them and seek his pardon.

III. God's Spirit renews people. Our lesson text ends with a jubilant note. The prophet calls the people to gladness. Conditions have changed. The locusts are gone, rain has fallen, the fields show forth life and blessings abound. It was God who had sent these blessings. "Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice: for the Lord will do great things." The prophet spoke of the future when God would pour out his spirit upon all flesh. This prophecy was fulfilled at Pentecost. Peter in Acts 2:17-21 refers to Joel's words and by them explains the events of Pentecost. God's people are renewed not through drives and programs but through the working of God's Holy Spirit. How much we need the Holy Spirit is far too little realized today. Let us pray more for the renewing power of the Holy Spirit.

VIBRATE BERRIES OFF BUSHES — An electric machine for picking blueberries is in operation at three farms north of Holland this summer and is speeding up the picking of the berries. It is estimated that one vibrator equals about 10 hand pickers in decent picking. Here, Wendell Ratloff (left) and Harold Floyd Jones, itinerant pickers, are operating the pickers. Early picking was reported down this year but the second picking is reported good on most of the farms. (Sentinel photo)

Machines Speed Up Picking Of Blueberries This Summer

A revolution in blueberry picking in the Holland area started at a few farms this summer with the introduction of a picking machine. The four-tanged machine vibrates the berries off the bushes into large containers. The vibrators are electrically controlled by a generator and the wires are attached from the vibrators to the generator.

Four rows of berries may be picked at one time with two vibrators used per row. The head of the vibrators has special driver and resembles an electric drill. Carl Petroelje, farm manager of the Kieft's Blueberry farm, one of the farms using the machines, estimates that one vibrator equals about 10 hand pickers in decent picking. This also includes cleaning up and sorting of the berries on a conveyor belt, located in a shed, and operated by six persons. While the growers are paying seven cents a pound for berries picked by hand, the machine can pick the berries for about four cents a pound. When the machines get into full use, it is expected to cut down hand pickers considerably.

Paul Jones of Grand Junction is credited with inventing the machine picker.

Most of the farms on the second picking of Jersey berries at the present time. Another is expected around the middle of September. About 75 per cent of the third picking will be done by machine on the Kieft farm, Petroelje, estimated.

But despite the machines, James Bieby, in charge of obtaining summer help for blueberry picking, reports more youngsters over 14 and women interested in picking are still needed.

Ardith Kunzi, Evert Fikse Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Evert H. Fikse (Joel's photo)

Miss Ardith J. Kunzi and Evert H. Fikse were married in the South Blendon Reformed Church on Aug. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in a double ring ceremony with the Rev. A. Aalberts and the father of the groom, the Rev. Henry Fikse, officiating.

The church was decorated with bouquets of gladioli and mums, palms and candelabra.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kunzi of Hudsonville are the parents of the bride and the groom's parents are the Rev. Henry Fikse of London, Ontario, Canada.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a dress which featured nylon tulle over taffeta, styled with a sabrina neckline outlined with embroidered flowers. The bouffant skirt, also embroidered with flowers was formed by a tiered underskirt of tulle. A sequin-touched crown of lace outlined in pearls secured her fingertip veil of imported French illusion and she carried a white Bible adorned with a white orchid with tuberose on the streamers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Gordon Mast, wore a ballerina-length pale yellow gown of iridescent taffeta fashioned with a scoop neckline and a full bouffant skirt accented by a wide cummerbund ending in a back bow tie.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. Harold Zwighuizen, chose a ballerina-length aqua gown of iridescent taffeta, similar in styling to the matron of honors. Both the bridesmaid and matron of honor wore white whimsies and carried arrangements of glameles across white fans.

Gail Ann Kunzi, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl and wore an aqua dress fashioned similarly to that of the bridesmaid's dress. She carried a basket of mixed field flowers. Steven Romano, a nephew of the groom, was the ringbearer.

The groom chose his brother, John Fikse to be best man and Vernon Essenburg was the groomsman. Seating the guests were Warren Kunzi and Gary Looman.

The bridegroom sang "Wedding Prayer" and John Vander Wal sang "O Lord Most Holy" and "Wedding Benediction." Mrs. Elmer Vrugink was the organist.

For the occasion, Mrs. Kunzi chose a navy dress with navy and white accessories and a red rose corsage. Mrs. Fikse selected a grey dress with navy and white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Officials Praise Company D For Performance at Camp

Holland's National Guard Co. D arrived in Holland Saturday for the annual Summer Encampment at Camp Grayling with the praise of Fifth Army Inspection officers ringing in the ears of the local guardsmen.

This was the first encampment for the local unit since its reorganization into a rifle company from a heavy weapons company, and the two-week field training session was to be a major test of the success of the reorganization.

Only 44 point separated the unit from the 95 points needed for a superior rating in all-around performance. The unit's score of 94.66 of a possible 100 points and a "high excellent" rating was evidence that the company had successfully accomplished the transition, and had made the grade as an effective unit.

Administration and supply officer Sgt. Ray Naber said that the company lost several points in the rating because enough personnel had not, in the opinion of company officers, had time to receive sufficient training in their new duties to be listed as "fully qualified," before the encampment.

But Company D scored the highest rating in the camp in the field training department, and company officers came in for special praise from inspecting officers from Fifth Army headquarters in Chicago.

Inspection officers cited the "good leadership and command" of the unit, and remarked that the military courtesy and appearance was "outstanding." In addition, officials said that the tactical problem accomplished by the unit showed the "best class preparation observed during the encampment."

Vows Spoken in Allegan Church

Mrs. Gary H. Wilcox
The First Reformed Church of Allegan was the scene of a double ring ceremony July 31 in which Dr. C. P. Dame united in marriage Miss Cathlene Joan Klein and Gary H. Wilcox. One hundred and ten guests witnessed the rites which began at 8 p.m. before an altar adorned with bouquets of white gladioli, palms and candelabra. The pews of the church were marked with white gladioli and bows and huckleberry.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Klein of route 4, Allegan, and Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox of Grand Rapids.

The bride designed and made her floor length gown of satin and silk organza designed with a bodice of imported Chantilly lace. The sabrina neckline was trimmed with pearls, as was the fingertip veil of imported illusion. Front panels of lace extended along the hem of the gown to a chapel length train.

The sister of the bride as maid of honor wore a street length dress of white embroidered nylon over blue taffeta with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Style features included short sleeves and a white nylon bow at the waist. She carried a bouquet of gladioli which matched the dress.

Miss Elma Redder, bridesmaid, and Miss Karen Klein, sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, wore gowns like the maid of honor's with pink and green taffeta, respectively. They carried matching gladioli. The groom's sister, Joyce Wilcox, was flower girl. Her dress of white nylon over yellow taffeta was trimmed with lace. She carried a basket of yellow flower petals.

The groom chose Richard Wuis of Allegan as best man. Guests were seated by Joel Klein of Allegan, brother of the bride, and David Cheyne of Grand Rapids, cousin of the groom. The bride's cousin, Elwyn Becksvort of East Saugatuck, was ringbearer.

During the ceremony, Evelyn Olsen accompanied John Renema who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Sandra Boeve poured punch at the reception following the wedding. Miss Marcia Klein and Miss Sharon Klein assisted with the gifts and Miss Marylou Love was in charge of the guest book.

The mother of the bride chose a powder blue lace dress with white accessories for the occasion. The groom's mother wore a beige print dress with white accessories. They each had a corsage of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Firms Oppose Business Tax

Comment from local businessmen on proposed business taxes continued to trickle into The Sentinel office in response to a questionnaire on how the proposed increase would affect local companies and job opportunities.

O. W. Lowry, president of Slight-Lowry Furniture Co., wrote: "Increase in business taxes would have to be added to the price of our product, thereby putting us at a competitive disadvantage with furniture firms in other states. It would cause loss of business and a reduction in employment and profits."

Randall C. Bosch, president of Western Machine Tool Works, wrote: "We manufacture metal working machine tools which are shipped throughout the entire world with the exception of countries behind the Iron Curtain. We have found competition to be very keen and as a matter of fact foreign competition has also cut a very deep wedge in sales of machine tools in this country."

"We compete with machine tool manufacturers in other states and certainly if taxes on businesses in the state of Michigan are increased it will make the matter of competitive selling that much more difficult. Jobs depend upon sales and all of us in our state of Michigan should be vitally interested in the highest possible production in our state, thus enabling greater opportunities for increased jobs. Increased taxes increase costs and thereby make the job of competitive selling that much more difficult, and in the end everyone suffers."

The entire teaching staff will meet at St. Mary's Lake Camp near Battle Creek for the annual pre-school conference, Sept. 7 to 9.

Red Cross Considering New Building

A new county Red Cross headquarters in Holland city is under consideration by the Ottawa County chapter of the American Red Cross.

At a special meeting of the board Thursday night in Hotel Warm Friend, the executive board was authorized to present a formal recommendation at a special meeting of the full board sometime late in September.

General plans call for a $30,000 structure to be built in the vicinity of Holland Hospital. The headquarters would include blood bank facilities conforming to requirements of the National Institute of Health. A new headquarters has been under study for about three years.

Chapter Chairman Arthur Read of Holland reported on a trip he and Dr. O. van der Velde of Holland had made to Washington, D.C., Aug. 11 to consult with national officials on a new headquarters building. Dr. van der Velde has been medical director of the Holland Community Blood Bank since its organization in the 1940's. The Washington visit included a 30-minute visit with G. Guenther, national chairman.

Because of national blood bank requirements, the county chapter faces two choices in the blood program. It can establish a new blood center or join the Lansing regional center. Because of the excellent record established by the local blood program and the intense loyalty of donors and volunteer workers, local Red Cross leaders are of the opinion that the local blood bank must be continued.

Corinne Otto, midwestern Red Cross field director, explained requirements of the national blood bank program. This will involve some changes in the local setup requiring fulltime service of a registered nurse and a technician on full or part time basis.

Alaska Has Year-Round Ice-Free Port at Whittier

Water Runs 600 Feet Deep Here

Average Rainfall Hits 174 Inches a Year; Snowfall at 22 Feet

By W. A. Butler

WHITTIER, Alaska — Although we are not able to determine the origin of the name of this small spot on the map at the west end of passage canal, an arm of Prince William Sound, we are told by old timers that Whittier was named after a miner who operated a mine in this area for years.

The port of Whittier occupies a usable land area of 435 acres with berthing facilities for ocean going vessels accessible through deep water to the open sea.

Whittier is surrounded by precipitous mountains and glacial masses with weather conditions varying from 70 degrees in the summer to -29 in the winter. There are few extremes other than winds of 25 to 80 miles per hour during the winter months and an average rainfall of 174 inches and snowfall of 22 feet. Last winter, snow measured 45 feet. When it snows, men work around the clock 24 hours per day on snow removal. During the long summer days, one can read a newspaper at midnight. When the sun shines, this is one of the beauty spots of the world.

The port is 62 miles south of Anchorage and is connected by the Alaska Railroad. In view of the necessity to enter this area from the land side through tunnels, a highway connection would be expensive and has not been accomplished. Railroad tunnels are 2.9 and .9 mile.

With a single track railroad through the tunnels, the port capacity is established by this access route which is estimated to be 6,300 short tons per day. Berthing capacity is summer includes space for three cargo ships, one tanker and one LST at the west ammo ramp. An additional tanker can be berthed at the Union Oil Co. pier, and three vessels can be unloaded in the stream over the beach.

The port was established in 1943 to fill a requirement for an ice-free military port in support of Alaska during the war. The military port was deactivated in December, 1945, after which the Alaska Railroad operated a port facility until April, 1946, when for all intents and purposes, port operations were abandoned.

Since defense policy dictates two ice-free ports connected by railroad to the interior, the Army reopened this port in September, 1946.

The port of Whittier enjoys a strategic location important to the Alaskan Military Line of Communications. The operation of the port assures continuity of supply in peacetime, is essential in war and provides sufficient revenue to the Alaska Railroad to justify retention of the rail line connection with the line of communications.

This is the only Army port using military labor currently in operation on a year-around basis handling live cargo, and the only one where military personnel can be trained in actual loading, unloading and handling of ships. Men and officers are trained in all phases of port operations from stevedoring to documentation. Young officers can be trained in such related functions as comptroller, engineering, cost analysis, etc.

The Army operates a sub-port at Anchorage where a detachment supervises the discharge of military supplies and dependents. An out-post is also operated at Dutch Harbor with a small detachment to accomplish documentation on a seasonal basis in support of "Mona Lisa," "Dew Line" and stretchout operation. The Army periodically operates at Bethel, Ketchikan and Wrangell when shipments are made through these ports. The Army is prepared to operate any Alaskan port utilizing military or indigenous labor, if and when necessary.

Alaska operations can move the nucleus of an organization to any other port in the world and operate efficiently either using military or civilian labor. This unit works around the clock in good weather and foul. They load vessels at side or over the beach. They get real training.

The Army maintains 80 major items of engineer, ordnance, transportation, quartermaster and signal equipment. Floating equipment and craft consists of a 100-ton floating crane, the only crane with this capacity at any port in Alaska, two large tugs, two small tugs, two J-boats for patrol work and an M-boat for litterage training and general work around the port. There also are 10 barges.

There is a consolidated maintenance shop capable of all marine maintenance except general overhaul and hull work on large craft which is provided for by the Beaver Storage Activity in Oregon. First, second and third echelon performance is done on technical service equipment. Backup support is provided by the U.S. Army Supply and Maintenance Center at Fort Richardson.

The organization consist of a terminal operation company and a headquarters company. Civilians are utilized in many housekeeping and administrative jobs. The terminal

OVER-ALL VIEW OF PORT — Here is an over-all view of the Port of Whittier, an ice-free, deep-water, year-around port located at the west end of Passage Canal, an arm of Prince

William Sound, which in turn connects with the Gulf of Alaska and the Pacific Ocean. Although the port never freezes over, temperature in winter can hit 29 degrees below zero.

MOUNTAIN VIEW—When the sun sets, the port of Whittier in Alaska is a scene of unparalleled beauty, ringed by snow-capped mountains which are reflected in the ice-free waters which are 600 feet deep. The port lies 62 miles south of Anchorage and is connected by the Alaska Railroad. To get inland, the railroad goes through two tunnels, one 2.9 miles long and the other 9/10 mile long.

terminal company performs the stevedoring service and consist of 248 personnel.

The headquarters company consists of 241 enlisted personnel, 34 officers and 10 warrant officers. There are also such technicians as harbor masters, boat crews, mechanics and the like. In the interest of economy, total strength of the command was reduced 40 per cent in 1958 and 7 per cent in 1959. Through management methods the budget is continuously being reduced and each department head is required to manage his money and account for every dime. Excess equipment has been reduced to a minimum of tugs, cranes, tractors, vehicles, etc., according to Col. Eugene M. Elliott.

Additional government activities in the area which the Army supports in such things as fire protection, some housing and port operations are the Alaska Railroad, Petroleum Distribution System and Military Sea Transportation Service. Private enterprise in the area supported on a reimbursable basis are Union Oil Co., Columbia Lumber Co., Whittier Arms Apartments and FHA housing.

The fixed plant has grown from tarpaper shacks, tents and trailers. There is now a Buckner building which houses all troops, actually a city within one building. Terminal headquarters houses the office of the port commander and terminal staff. There are consolidated maintenance shops, modern power house, fire station, warehouses, chapel, gymnasium and other normal support facilities. A 14-story Hodge building has 177 modern apartments for military and civilian families with a total population of 629 of whom 267 are children.

Most important of all is the natural facility—deep water, 600 feet in depth, the natural recreational facility of water and woods with some of the very finest hunting and fishing in the world. Boating is one of the high participation recreational activities.

On the military community side is a fine school for the children through high school level, adequate Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religious activities, fine medical and dental facilities and all forms of athletics.

ALASKAN RHYTHM — Here are skin drums used in Eskimo ceremonial dances in the village hall in Nome, Alaska. Natives of all ages in native costume participate in this dance to the rhythm of the skin drums.

Arrangements for this ceremony in Nome performed for visiting U.S. publishers and editors were made by Frank Whaley of the Wien Alaska Airlines.

Man Studies Moth Damage

Dr. James W. Butcher is studying the best way to control the Zimmerman moth that is damaging many Scotch pines and a few Australian white pines in the Holland area and all of Southwestern Michigan.

With the Entomology Department of Michigan State University, Dr. Butcher is now at the Marion Van Sleet farm in West Olive experimenting to find the best means of control by varying the amount and frequency of spraying DDT on the trees. He is also gathering information on the life history and habits of the insects and will continue his research in Douglas and Berrien County.

The insects are more numerous near the Indiana-Michigan border but last spring, Van Sleet said, the road commission cut down 45 pine trees on Port Sheldon St. which had been injured by the moths.

The moth, which is 1/4 inch long with a wing span of 1 1/2 inches and is a dull grey with lighter stripes, attack the ends of branches and stems as well as the trunk.

The shearing of Christmas trees to ensure an even shape, Dr. Butcher said, seems to attract the female moths to lay their eggs in the scars so the damage of the trees can run into thousands of dollars a year for tree farmers.

If anyone is interested in more information contact the county agent or write to the Department of Entomology at MSU.

Brothers and Sisters Entertained at Cottage

PIER WAREHOUSE — The pier warehouse, immediately behind the Marginal Wharf, provides storage space for goods as they await further shipment at this deep water port of Whittier. Offices and shops are necessary for efficient pier operation. The port was developed during World War II and was deactivated in 1945. The Army reopened the port in September, 1946.

HIGH TOSS — A favorite game of Alaskan natives is the blanket toss in which people hold a walrus hide with rope handles at the edges and toss a person high into the air to the rhythm of skin drums. Aim of the person being tossed is to land on the feet. This game was witnessed by a group of U.S. publishers and editors on a visit to Kotzebue in the upper part of Alaska. W. A. Butler, Sentinel publisher, was in the group.

Murphy Dome Installation Is Vigilant, Compact Unit

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — A vital link in the United States' defense against enemy air attack from the north is Murphy Dome Air Force Station, 19 miles west of Ladd Air Force Base at Fairbanks.

The installation was one of the places visited by Holland Evening Sentinel Publisher W. A. Butler, with a group of 21 other publishers touring Alaska recently. The group, staying at Cripple Creek, near Fairbanks, was flown to the base by helicopter from Ladd AFB, and enjoyed dinner and a tour of Murphy dome.

Dr. Gerstner will deliver three lectures on the theme "Notes on the Preaching of Calvin." The first will be given on Wednesday, Sept. 9 at 2 p.m. on the subject "John Calvin's Two-Voice Theory of Preaching."

In the evening at 7:30 Dr. Gerstner will give an illustrated lecture on the life of John Calvin as a preacher. The formal convocation service will be on Thursday at 10 a.m. when the lecturer will speak on "A Comparison of the Preaching of Calvin and Jonathan Edwards."

The convocation theme and lectures this year are a part of Western Seminary's celebration of the 450th anniversary of the birth of John Calvin, a leader in the Reformed-Presbyterian family of churches and the 400th anniversary of the publication of his famous "Institutes of the Christian Religion" and of the founding of the Academy of Geneva.

This year will mark the 75th anniversary of the re-establishment of theological instruction in the "Western" portion of the Reformed Church in America. Such instruction has been in the two countries.

Dr. John H. Gerstner had begun in 1866 and lasted until 1877 when it was discontinued. It was resumed in 1884.

To commemorate this event, the Rev. Henry J. Ten Clay president of the Board of Trustees of the seminary, and pastor of the First Reformed Church of Grandville, will deliver an inspirational address at the Convocation Luncheon to be held Thursday noon at 12. After a year spent in Europe and the Near East on sabbatical leave Dr. Lester J. Kuyper will resume his teaching. Miss Mildred Schupert, seminary librarian, has returned from a tour of Europe this summer.

Opinion Still Sought on Justice Fees

GRAND HAVEN — Prosecutor James W. Bussard, who has been seeking an attorney general's opinion on fees for justices of the peace for almost two years, has been invited to meet with members of the attorney general's staff in Lansing at a date convenient to him.

Bussard said he will be willing to meet with the group, but has set no date.

The problem has been a controversy for several years. Justices have posed the question on what fees they are allowed to charge. May they charge for making out a complaint and warrant, docket entry and report to the prosecutor totaling $2.20 plus an additional fee of $1.50 for receiving a plea and another fee of 60 cents for a certificate of conviction, totaling cost of $4.30? Or are they limited to a straight $2 fee?

On Dec. 18, 1957, Bussard sent memorandums to all justices in the county, quoting the section of the law on fees, but since interpretations posed further questions, Bussard referred the question to the attorney general's department.

The request for Bussard to attend a meeting in Lansing was signed Paul L. Adams, by Joseph B. Bilitzke, assistant attorney general.

Oil, Gas Boom In Area Still Moving Ahead

ALLEGAN — One of Western Michigan's biggest oil and gas booms in recent years was moving ahead at full speed Wednesday.

The boom got started last week when drillers brought in a natural gas well in Heath Township between Allegan and Hamilton in Allegan County.

It gained momentum Tuesday when the Carter Oil Co., a drilling subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co., brought in a gas well in Holland Township.

The new well, which is rated at about three million cubic feet of gas a day, is located in the old Holland-Fillmore field near the Ottawa-Allegan County line.

Oil and gas men predicted the new well will touch off the greatest drilling activity ever seen in the counties.

Robert Breed of Allegan, a Conservation Department geologist said the new gas field may be many times larger than the Overisel Field in Allegan County which the Taggart brothers of Big Rapids sold to Consumers Power Co. two years ago for $14 million.

The new well in Holland Township was tapped at the 2650-foot level. Carter officials said they would seal the well off for the time being and continue drilling for oil.

It was reported that oil company lease men are paying as much as $10 an acre for lease rights on property close to the two new wells.

Drivers Asked To Reduce Speed

ALLEGAN — Residents of the Dumont Lake area, near Dunningville, have asked motorists using Dumont Lake Rd. and 125th Ave. to drive more slowly so as to keep the roads in better condition.

Mrs. David Thompson of 125th Ave. told a Sentinel reporter that cars with boat trailers, headed for Dumont Lake, have been traveling along the dirt road at high rates of speed, resulting in dust flying up and making ruts in the road.

Mrs. Thompson said that some persons living on 125th Ave. paid to have oil put down on a section of the road. Since Monterey Township does not have the funds to keep the road in good condition, she said, residents are planning to petition the state to take over responsibility for the road.

PLANE ALL READY — Barriers have been removed from the jet plane at Smollenburg Park on Fairbanks Ave. and youngsters may now swarm all over the plane with full permission — something they've managed to do pretty well even when the rope barriers were up. Husbands of members of Beta Sigma Phi, the sorority which was instrumental in getting the plane here as an attraction, have completed smoothing out rough spots so children do not get hurt. Swarming over the plane are John Byrne, 5, Mark Byrne, 7, and Robert Byrne, 11, with seven-year-old Philip Vander Ploeg sitting on the wing. The Byrnes live at 211 East 16th St.

First Nighters Applaud Red Barn's 'Ten Nights'

An unusually responsive audience helped Red Barn players get "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" off to a fine start at the opening of the old melodrama Monday night.

The gay audience joined in the musical numbers, cheered the hero, wept with the heroine and hissed the villain, getting rid of huge supplies of peanuts whenever that vile creature appeared.

And James Dyas' professionals had a wonderful time, making the most of their stony lines and broad gestures, playing up to a happy audience with ad libs and managing to get an extra laugh under any pretense.

In plot, "Ten Nights" has less to draw on than last year's "The Drunkard" but this made little or no difference to the full house or to the 35-member cast in the three - act 13 - scene presentation which had everything but the kitchen sink — and maybe that was there too. In general, the Red Barn family tried to top last year's performance, and pretty well succeeded.

Jack Doner as villain didn't really have a villain's role, but in his heavy makeup playing a card-playing booze-drinking regular at the ale house, he spiced his role with enough ab-libs to appear as the star. And his between-scenes performance of ditties to operatic music, while swinging on a rope, brought down the house.

William Cain suffered as the degenerate boozier who spent ten nights at the Sickle and Sheath. Dorothy Lee Tompkins played the long-suffering wife and Kathy Dyas was the angel child who ascended to heaven, done in by a poorly aimed bottle. Kathy's "Father, Dear Father," song was embroidered with the usual pranks that have made her father's productions famous at the Red Barn.

Appearing as a nastier villain than Doner was Alan James as the operator of the tavern, the man who left the old mill to enter a business full of degradation and shame. Other important roles were taken by Lisa Marshall as his wife, John Corkill as the village character and Harriet Olson as his girl friend.

Larrie Clark, Holland music teacher, had an important role as sort of a temperance worker, the man appeared first at every act to explain what was going on and what had gone on "as time flies by" in the form of a ballet dancer with wings and a clock on her back. Clark's closing solo, the sentimental "Home Sweet Home," was probably the best music of the show. Mrs. Clark was accompanist for the show.

The show was strung together with some 18 musical numbers ranging from "There Is a Tavern in the Town" in which the audience joined in lustily to such favorites as "Ta-Ra-Ra-Boom-De-Ay," "Strolling Through the Park," "Daisy," "She's More to Be Pitied Than Censured" and "By the Sea."

The melodrama will play two weeks closing Sept. 3. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. with two shows on Saturday at 3:30 and 9 p.m.

Allegan Juvenile Case Load Heavy

ALLEGAN (Special) — Allegan County Probate Judge Harold Weston has revealed that Allegan County's juvenile case workers are currently handling double the maximum case load recommended by American psychiatric and sociological associations.

Weston indicated he will make a third attempt in October to obtain the board of supervisors' approval for at least one new staff member.

In the past month, Weston's two case workers have handled investigations of 77 delinquent cases. In the same period they also worked on 19 adoption cases, sought aid for 38 neglected children and interviewed 36 juvenile probationers.

The work load of double the recommended maximum necessarily limits the time workers can devote to each case. Weston pointed out that visits are often too brief for workers to gain the confidence of delinquents and their parents.

In addition, Weston admitted frankly that Allegan County's juvenile court decision is not adequately staffed to achieve its purposes.

Optimists Hear W. J. Hoffmeyer

W. F. Hoffmeyer of the General Electric Company was the speaker at the meeting of the Holland Noon Optimist Club Monday.

Mr. Hoffmeyer is the chairman of the Holland Science Seminar and explained its operation. He said that the Seminar, conducted by resource personnel employed in the field of science in the Holland area, serves as a stimulus for high school students to learn more about some field of science.

The students, he continued, are given an insight into the type of problems encountered in different types of scientific activities. This helps them decide which specific phase of science they are most interested in studying.

P. H. Frans reported at the meeting that the Optimist baseball excursion on Aug. 20 was highly successful. The trip included swimming, a box lunch and attending the Detroit Tigers versus the New York Yankees baseball game. Jointly sponsored by the breakfast Optimist Club and the Noon Optimist Club, 58 boys and chaperons attended the annual excursion this year.

Robert Van Dyke was a guest at the meeting.

More Oppose Business Tax

Continued opposition to the proposed increase business tax in Michigan is voiced in letters to the Sentinel from local firms included in a survey on the tax question carried on by The Sentinel.

Terry W. Kuhn, president of Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corp., writes: "Our company certainly is NOT willing to be burdened with additional taxes in Michigan. Compared with the taxes we presently pay in other states, we are already paying too much here."

"It is not a question of business' willingness to pay its fair share. I'm sure you know that taxes on Michigan business have increased 1300 per cent since 1948. The important issue is whether the citizens of Michigan should allow this state to become such a big spender that the tax revenues required to support its program make this state no longer competitive with surrounding states."

"Some business firms — including our company — have left Michigan because of the unfavorable business climate engendered over the past years. We have closed two plants in Detroit and have started up three new plants in Indiana and Illinois. Imposing additional taxes on Michigan business now would not make the state more attractive to potential employers nor to present employers in Michigan considering expansion."

Earl Hamelink of Holland Concrete Products Co. wrote: "We do not favor an additional tax because it would have to be passed on to our customers in one way or another, so why go through all the extra work and cost of a new tax when an addition to the sales tax would accomplish the same thing."

Dwight D. Ferris, treasurer of the De Pree Company, wrote: "Increased Michigan taxes would again put serious pressure on the upward trend to costs which would have to find its way into the selling price of our products. It is too easy for some people to ignore the fact that business taxes are paid by the general public in the purchase price of the products consumed. Additional taxes at this time may not have an effect on the number of jobs available; however, it definitely would affect the economic welfare of the employers of this company."

This Justice Doesn't Like Bad Checks

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Writing checks that bounce just isn't the thing to do, but when a man does it twice to a justice of the peace, that's worse.

And so William F. De Young, 26, Grand Rapids, found himself in the county jail here Friday night. He was arraigned Saturday before Justice Lawrence De Witt on charges of issuing a check with insufficient funds, and demanded examination set Sept. 15 at 10 a.m.

It all started when De Young pleaded not guilty to a traffic charge in Justice Bert Van Dyke's court in Allendale. For bond he gave the justice a $100 check drawn on Old Kent Bank and Trust Co. of Grand Rapids.

When the check bounced, Justice Van Dyke got in touch with Prosecutor James W. Bussard who ordered De Young forthwith to make the check good. De Young issued another $100 check on Old Kent Bank dated Aug. 7 and that bounced too.

At that point Justice Van Dyke signed the complaint. After arraignment today, De Young furnished $200 bond-in cash.

Seminary Chapel Scene of Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lee Boeve

Miss Donna Mae Paris was married to Gerald Lee Boeve in the Western Seminary Chapel Aug. 8 at 8 p.m. in a double ring ceremony with the Rev. Kenneth H. Hesselink of the Laketon-Bethel Reformed Church in Muskegon officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Paris, 35975 West Chicago Rd., Livonia are the parents of the bride and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Boeve, 854 South Lincoln Ave.

Amid the setting of ferns and palms, the father of the bride gave her in marriage at the candlelight service.

Miss Paris wore a gown of princess styled French imported silk organza over satin with a high neck, long sleeves, peacock bustle and a bell skirt. Her veil of pure silk illusion was held in place by a cap of pearl sequins and seed pearls. Her flowers were white calla lilies.

Mrs. Bettie Paris, sister-in-law of the bride, was the maid of honor as she wore a gown of Nile green taffeta covered with white emerald organdy cut in a princess style with a sabrina neckline. Her headress was made of Nile green veiling and her flowers were Nile green pompons surrounded by white and dark green petals.

Many Clocks Shift Speeds

ALLEGAN (UPI)—The mystery of why Allegan's electric clocks keep gaining and losing time was explained today by city Electric Department Supervisor Clarence Looman.

Several times each year, Alleganites are puzzled because every electric clock in town shows a different time. During the last week the electric clock mix-up occurred again, but this time the mystery was solved.

Early last Thursday there was a brief, 15-minute power failure on city electric lines. That made all self-starting electric clocks 15 minutes late.

At this point the clocks began keeping accurate time and clock watchers had to set their clocks ahead 15 minutes.

Looman said the same thing has been happening for years. He said that whenever there is a brief power failure, the city figures most people won't think to adjust their clocks. So the city adjusts them for them by speeding up the frequency of the impulses of the alternating current which is controlled from the city diesel plant's main control board.

For a period after a power failure, Allegan gets 70 or 75 cycles of alternating current, rather than the usual 60 cycles.

4 Rescued From Lake

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Two Grand Rapids couples were rescued from Lake Michigan at 12:20 a.m. Friday by U.S. Coast Guardsmen after their boat sank leaving them bobbing on cushions for an hour and 15 minutes.

Rescued were James Bice, 29, Larry Van Loo, 35, Geneva Van Dyke, 26, and Julie Vogel, 30, who had gone boating in Bice's 14-foot runabout after a picnic on the north shore.

The boat sank about a half mile offshore after a bilge pump reportedly reversed and pumped water into the boat. Bice returned to Grand Haven at 6 a.m. Friday and he and Coast Guardsmen recovered the boat about 1 1/2 miles north of the breakwaters.

Northshore residents heard calls for help and called sheriff's officers who relayed the message to the Coast Guard. Two Guardsmen went out in a 30-foot rescue boat and with the aid of a searchlight found two people floating. The other couple was found 200 yards away. Water was choppy at the time and it was difficult to spot the people even with a searchlight. Neither woman could swim.

In Spain, the women use olive oil regularly on eyelashes to make them long and glossy.

Couple Exchanges Vows in Church

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Dale Lemmen

Miss Barbara Ann Kievit was wed to Ronald Dale Lemmen in Holland Heights Christian Reformed Church on Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. amid decorations of ferns, candle tree, gladioli and carnation bouquets and candelabra.

The Rev. Harry Vander Ark officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kievit, 164 Walnut Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lemmen, 347 East Seventh St., are the parents of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown with a fitted lace bodice and long sleeves. Her scalloped sabrina neckline was delicately edged in sequins and pearls and the bouffant tulle skirt had front panels of soft pleated lace and lace medallions scattered on the skirt.

Her elbow-length illusion veil fell from a lace clip hat trimmed with sequins and pearls. Her cascading bouquet of pink and white carnations had white roses.

Miss Maxine Timmer as the matron of honor wore a white dotted nylon over sky-blue taffeta. The bouffant skirt and sabrina neckline were complimented by the sashes and back bows. She wore a blue picture hat with nylon bows and carried a colonial bouquet of pink cananons.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Phyllis and Karen Kievit, sisters of the bride, wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor. Gayle Harper wore a white floor-length gown with a lace bodice and tulle skirt styled similarly to that of the bride's gown. She wore a small veil.

Three Injured In Collision

Three persons were injured in a car and church bus collision at 5:40 p.m. Friday at the corner of 24th St. and Washington Ave.

Mrs. Lee Bolton, 41, a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Charles Bolton, 41, of 325 1/2 Columbia Ave., was admitted to Holland hospital for treatment of facial lacerations and leg injuries. Her condition was described as "good."

The driver of the bus, Richard Russell Brink, 27, route 3, and his four-year-old son Rodney, were released from Holland hospital after treatment for minor cuts and bruises.

Holland Police said Bolton's car, traveling west on 24th St., smashed into the right front of the bus, traveling south on Washington Ave. Holland police charged Bolton with failure to yield the right of way.

Both Bolton's 1954 model car and the 1946 model bus were damaged in excess of their value.

Cubs Enjoy 2nd Day Camp

More than 100 Cub Scouts and Den Mothers participated in the second Cub Day camp activities Wednesday at Camp Kirk, north of Holland.

Taking part were Cubs from Beechwood, 3052; Maplewood, 3044; Lakeview, 3042; West Olive, 3057; Montello Park, 3056; Longfellow, 3009; Harrington, 3030 and St. Francis, 3008.

The Cubs received instruction in cooking a foil dinner and prepared a dinner following a firewood hike. In the afternoon a nature scavenger hunt was held with the Den Mothers scoring the points. The three winning dens were from West Olive, Montello Park and Lakeview.

The day's activities ended with a swim in Lake Michigan. Explorers from Beechwood Post 2022 served as counselors and lifeguards.

Next Wednesday, Aug. 26, all Cubs will hike through the property at Camp Kirk, enjoy land Olympics and a swim. Cubs are to bring lunches and swim suits.

CASTLE PARK HORSE SHOW JUDGE—Bill Steinkraus, 33, of Westport, Conn., will judge the hunters, jumpers and equestrian events at the 37th annual Castle Park Horse Show Wednesday, Sept. 2. Steinkraus is captain of the U.S. equestrian team that will compete in the forthcoming Pan-American Games in Chicago. Here Steinkraus is clearing a seven-foot jump with his mount Ksar d'Esprit. Steinkraus rode on the U.S. Olympic teams in 1952 and 1956 and on the 1955 Pan-Am Games team. He will lead his teammates against the top riders of the Western Hemisphere in the colorful Prize of Nations jumping event at Soldier's Field. Steinkraus recently won the Jumping Championship of Germany during the team's training tour of Europe.

Plans Progress for Castle Park Horse Show

Plans are progressing for the 37th annual Castle Park Amateur Horse Show, the oldest horse show in Michigan, to be held Wednesday, Sept. 2 at Castle Park.

Horses from throughout the Midwest will be competing in the 19 events. The morning show begins at 9 a.m. and the afternoon show at 1:30 p.m.

William Steinkraus of Westport, Conn., captain of the U.S. Equestrian team and winner of the coveted King George V Cup at the London White City Horse Show, will judge the hunters, jumper and equestrian events.

Steinkraus returned recently from Europe where he defeated three of Europe's top riders, Fritz Tiederman of Germany, Capt. Piero D. Inzoe of Rome and Muzard of Paris. From the Castle Park show, Steinkraus will go to the Pan-American Games in Chicago where the U. S. Equestrian team will represent the United States in the Games.

The Castle Park Show, which is Michigan Horse Show Association point approved, concludes with the famed working hunters over the outside course. The winner receives the Carter P. Brown of Castle Park and Tryon, N. C. trophy.

Young horsemen under 18 will be competing for the Brown Mantle trophy in junior equitation and for the Michigan Hunt's Perpetual Junior Challenge trophy.

Some of the other events include the open jump, green hunters, three-day eventing, five gaited stakes, eight working hunters, pairs of hunters and knock down and out.

The annual Castle Park Horse Show dance will be held Tuesday night Sept. 1. Gordon Wright of White Plains, N. Y., former instructor of Steinkraus, will go toward the Olympic Equestrian team for its trip to Rome in 1960. The U. S. equestrian team is using Brown's home in Tryon as its winter quarters.

Winners in the equitation classes at Castle Park will receive a book with articles by the U. S. equestrian team and autographed by these riders.

General committee members for the Castle show include: Henry Boersma, Austin Brown, Carter P. Brown, P. T. Chaff, Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald, Jerry Helder, J. Brown Mantle, Mrs. Roy Noble and L. M. Pease. Miss Charlotte Butler heads the junior committee.

Mooring at Peak Of Resort Season

The resort season at The Mooring reached what was probably the peak last week and is now slowly tapering off. School is but a short time away.

New guests this week are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Younker, of Chicago, who spent a fourth long weekend here, and plan at least one more. Mr. Younker is an eager sailor. He was in either the sailing canoe or the Flying Dutchman, Jr., most of the daylight hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Newman, son Mark, and Mrs. Newman's brother, Joe Brendel, are here from Cincinnati. Also from Cincinnati are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rosenberg and their two sons.

Mr. and Mrs. James Griffin and their six children, Connie, Jim, Marcia, Mary Ann, John, and Pat are from Chicago. Mrs. Joseph White and son Joel, also from Chicago, are Mooring guests.

Sea lions bark noisily but they are no relation to dogs. Shriill barks mean one thing to their pups, while gruff barks mean something else.

Erosion causes a daily loss of some eight thousand acres of land in the United States.

Charles Cooper Speaks To Breakfast Optimists

Charles Cooper, president of the Holland Motor Express, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Breakfast Optimists Monday.

Speaking on the transportation industry, he gave a complete picture of the far-flung reaches of modern transportation. He also touched on the problems of the trucking industry specifically, especially with regard to the teamsters union.

In scanning the future, Mr. Cooper spoke of such new developments as submarine freight carriers, the new type of barges, and cargo air freight.

President Don Reek presided over the meeting which also heard a report on the project of last week when a group of local boys were taken to the Tiger-Yankee game at Briggs stadium.

Big Oil and Gas Boom Seen in Allegan

ALLEGAN (Special) — There is a smell of natural gas, crude oil and excitement in Heath Township today and many a veteran wildcatter is sniffing the air and saying that Allegan County's biggest oil and gas boom is just around the corner.

Robert Breed, geologist for the state conservation department, oil and gas office in Allegan, said that Lloyd Green's deep test in Section 21 of Heath Township may be the granddaddy of a gas field many times larger than the Overisel field which Taggart Bros. of Big Rapids sold to Consumers Power Co. two years ago for more than $14 million.

There is a smell of danger also in the vicinity of the test well just northeast of M-40 on 130th Ave. between Allegan and Hamilton.

The conservation department has posted large areas with big red signs reading "Danger — Keep Out" as gas rushes from the new well at a rate which cannot be estimated as yet. The gauge at the well head reads 800 cubic pounds of pressure per square inch in spite of the fact that the gas is being released through two three-inch pipes.

After two previous attempts to open up oil and gas bearing formation failed earlier this week, a third fracturing attempt proved successful and the well was opened up early Thursday.

Gas and oil gushed from pipes into the slush pit and big tanks forced by terrific pressure later estimated at 2,500 pounds per square inch.

Cook and Palmer had the well tapped three different "pay zones" and there is every indication that it will be a profitable oil producer in addition to a big gas well.

Today the well was closed down by drowning it with salt water so that proper fittings and tanks could be installed.

Cook said most private lands in the area have already been leased but that oilmen plan to petition the Federal Government to conduct an auction for drilling permits on the thousands of acres of Allegan State Forest land in the vicinity. The U.S. government retained mineral rights when it turned State Forest Land over to Michigan in 1940.

Meanwhile Register of Deeds Howard Strand was predicting a big upswing in oil activity as leasing registrations appeared to be headed for a new high.

Other guests were Dawn, Ricky, Johnny Jr. and Brian Lee Savage, Howard Holcombe Jr., Elaine Haverdink, Terry and Larry Jansen.

Pikaart-Bruursema Rites Read

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Pikaart (See View photo)

Miss Marilyn Jean Bruursema, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bruursema of route 2, Zeeland, became the bride of Ken Pikaart Aug. 14 in the First Reformed Church of Zeeland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pikaart of 12 South Elm St., Zeeland.

The Rev. John den Ouden performed the double ring rites. Elmer Luevense, organist, accompanied Dale Ver Meer who sang "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The floor length gown chosen by the bride was designed with an empire bodice of lace. The scoop neckline was trimmed with pearls and featured a tulle bow. The panels of tulle ended in a bouffant tulle skirt with a train. Her veil of illusion fell from a matching hair edging in seed pearls. She carried a white Bible and an orchid.

Miss Phyllis Bruursema, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of shrimp colored chiffon with sabrina neckline and flowing back panels. She had a matching half hat and circular chin length veil. Her colonial bouquet was of white carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Diana Bruursema, another sister of the bride, wore an ensemble identical to the maid of honor's. Ronald Pikaart, the groom's brother, was best man, and Roger Bruursema, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Ushers were Ronald and John Bruursema, brothers of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Munro were master and mistress of ceremonies at a reception held in the church basement. Miss Bruursema chose a light blue sheath dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. The groom's mother wore a blue sheath dress, also with white accessories.

For a wedding trip to northern Michigan, the bride selected a green and blue prime sheath dress and, white accessories. She is a graduate of Zeeland High School and is employed at Holland Furnace Co. The groom, also a Zeeland graduate, is employed at the Holland Metalcraft Co. The couple will live at 345 West 21st St., Holland.

Two Boys Are Rescued From Locked Concession

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—Two panicky little boys, about 8 and 10, were released from a locked toilet room in the main concession at state park about 12:20 a.m. Friday after their cries for help penetrated the outside world.

City Police Officer Charles Rumsey who was off duty first heard the cries near the entrance of the park, and he went on foot with his flashlight to the lake to investigate. Here park officers joined him but they had heard no commotion.

Just then, more cries for help came and the men traced it to the locker bathroom. The boys were not identified but were believed to be staying in a trailer.

Cincinnati, O., is still a great meat packing center in the world and has been called "Porkopolis."
