Allegan County sheriff's deputies said the mishap occurred at 6:10 p.m. along M-89 at 63rd St. about three miles west of Fennville.

Barron, alone in his 1970 model car, was believed returning from a golf tournament at Battle Creek where he played with pro Bruce Emmet and amateur Joe Morton, both of South Haven.

The van truck veered to the left and into the path of the westbound Barron auto which apparently passed under the truck. The Barron auto burst into flames.

Council Considers Rezoning

At a special meeting Wednesday night in City Hall, City Council received for first reading an ordinance to rezone property between 24th and 32nd Sts. in the vicinity of US-31 bypass for a shopping development. The petition came from the 324 Corp. which envisions a shopping center, apartments and an office building.

The ordinance makes no provision at this time for an apartment district. It was the thinking of the planning commission which reviewed the application that such buffer zones should remain agricultural until designs are completed.

Council set Sept. 16 as date for public hearing. Atty. Donald Hann representing the 324 Corp. suggested an informal meeting with the developers to review plans for sanitary sewers, storm sewers, streets and the like.

Council currently is considering a C-4 shopping district ordinance which will come up for second reading and passage Sept. 2.

Albert Kleis Jr. took the oath of office as new councilman-at-large succeeding Al Dyk who has moved outside the city.

After the meeting, Council members went to Herrick Public Library for an information meeting with downtown property owners and merchants concerning revised plans for a downtown mall. Andrew Vollink who earlier opposed plans for a $500,000 development presided.

New plans call for an expenditure of less than $150,000, a program that would keep Central Ave. open, retain existing walks, eliminate some fountains but adhere generally to the beautification plans.

City Manager William L. Bopf explained council action on a new building authority which could encompass parking ramps and the like, and he said the Michigan Highway Department is concerned with the number of accidents on Eighth St. He said Holland is one of the few communities without a one-way traffic system, and spoke of proposals to have Seventh and Ninth Sts. one-way streets.

Fred Bulford, felt Seventh and Ninth Sts. would be inadequate as alternate routes and suggested a new highway following the riverbed.

Vollink suggested temporary closing of Eighth St. for a test period of three or four weekends. Others said shoppers are interested only in "free parking" and Bopf said there is no such thing as free parking since costs would have to be absorbed whether by the city or merchants, the latter through an arrangement with the Chamber of Commerce.

Dale Fris reviewed original plans designed to strengthen position of downtown merchants in keeping the downtown as the center of the city and making it attractive so that people would want to go downtown for their shopping. He opposed any token closing of Eighth St. for weekends, stating this would only create ill will.

No new petitions have been circulated, but Vollink told Council there seems to be much more substantial approval for the new plan than the original plan which had listed 44 per cent in favor, 44 per cent opposed and 12 per cent uncommitted.

Rogers, 55, of Bakersfield, Calif., attempted a left turn into the auto sales and collided with a car, southbound on Washington, operated by Dennis R. Allen, 27, of 233 Francis, Saugatuck. The Allen car continued into the auto sales lot after impact and struck a car parked in the lot.

Admitted to Holland Hospital with a neck injury was Carl Johnson, 15, of 137 Central Ave., a passenger in the Allen car. He was listed in good condition.

Allen was treated for lacerations of the forehead and knee injuries and was released. Rogers was treated for forehead lacerations and a shoulder injury and his wife, Ruth, 56, was treated for a fractured right collar bone. Both were released.

Rogers was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Payroll Checks Missing From Trailer Recovered

Holland police and officials of Holland Motor Express Inc. said today payroll checks reported missing from a parked semi-trailer truck were recovered late Monday afternoon from an area of the terminal property near Sixth St.

A company spokesman said the grounds area had been scoured earlier in the day and it appeared thieves had decided to return the mail and checks, some of which had been opened.

Police said a seal on a locked rear door of a trailer at the terminal had been broken, the door opened and some cargo removed from the truck. The shipment, which originated in Holland, was destined for Indianapolis.

A check of shipping records revealed all of the cargo has been accounted for and none was missing. Some boxes removed from the trailer were found in bushes near the edge of the terminal property.

Betsy Palmer Stops in City

Betsy Palmer, the tv actress, was in Holland briefly late Wednesday afternoon, making a quick stop at the Wooden Shoe Factory because she was interested in wooden shoes.

Once inside, her interest switched to a large display of tulip bulbs and she ended up with several dozen bulbs. She was accompanied by her daughter, Melissa, some other young folk, and her mother, Mrs. R. V. Hronek, a widow who established a new home on route 2, Gobles, in recent years.

Betsy was recognized by somebody in the store, and admitted her identity. Although gracious, she was far more interested in the wooden shoes, the tulip bulbs, some souvenirs and continuing to Zeeland where her mother wanted to buy some wedding gifts, than in talking about herself.

Although she visits her mother periodically, it was Betsy's first visit to Holland.

Thieves Break Seal on Truck, Remove Items

Thieves broke a seal on a locked semi-trailer truck parked in the terminal yard at Holland Motor Express along Central Ave at Fifth St. over the weekend and removed part of the general cargo including payroll checks for workers in Indianapolis.

A company spokesman said night dispatcher Julius Holt, making an inspection of trucks Sunday night, discovered a seal on a rear door of a trailer broken and the door open. Police were notified at 9:06 p.m.

The spokesman said the truck was allowed to make its run to Indianapolis after the theft was discovered and attempts were being made to learn whether other items in the shipment were missing.

The cargo originated in Holland.

The company spokesman said the checks were drawn on Peoples State Bank and were numbered from 84551 to 84600.

BACK TO SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

Summer is waning and many schools and colleges will soon open for the fall term.

Today's Sentinel is a back-to-school issue featuring many advertisements on merchandise geared to school apparel and supplies.

Education in this changing world is more important than it ever was.

An article in the Christian Science Monitor points up the need for greater sensitivity to the student viewpoint as a means of bridging the communications gap.

Dr. Norman Drachler, superintendent of Detroit schools, was confronted with a westside championship basketball game of black players scheduled to be played in a gym seating only 300 persons. The fact that a white championship game would be played in the same place was beside the point because the whites always play in football championship games in a stadium seating 10,000.

It was too late to change the place of the game, but the superintendent arranged for television coverage and placed tv sets in lounges in several high schools. It worked out all right.

Dr. Drachler also is concerned with meeting the needs of that 60 per cent of students who do not go on to college. He feels that an exciting and intensive course be started in the seventh or eighth grade in job opportunities and guidance and not wait until high school. This would not be vocational training, but would be designed not to lock out any job opportunities.

For instance, when a student is steered to nursing in the 10th or 11th grade, or even an apprenticeship program, the chances are that he hasn't taken enough courses in preparation for it. This would not be a blue-collar orientation but an awareness situation in which all students, not only minority groups, would be "opening windows" to the future.

Hopkins School Plans to Open On Aug. 31

HOPKINS — Hopkins Public School students will report for a full day of classes Monday, Aug. 31, according to Superintendent R. G. Anderson. Teachers will start the fall term a day earlier, spending Friday, Aug. 28, on orientation programs.

Superintendent Anderson said children new to the district should register as soon as possible. Registration hours are from 9 to 12 a.m. and from 1-3 p.m. at the school offices, Monday through Friday.

Nine new teachers will be joining the Hopkins staff this fall, according to Anderson. The newcomers include Miss Ruth Ann Eyer, girls' physical education; Miss Patricia Van Laan, 8th grade history and English; Miss Kathryn Bassett, 7th and 8th grade English; Miss Ann Elmore, 7th and 10th grade English; James Newell, physical education, physical science and 7th grade science; William Grody, world history and 3rd grade history; Charles McLaughlin, band and chorus; Miss Linda Isca, Fairview School, sixth grade; and Mrs. Naomi Morgan, Sandhill School, sixth grade. Miss Bernadette Iciek is succeeding Mrs. Nancy Miller as secretary to the superintendent.

New Board of Education officers also were announced following the annual reorganizational meeting. Jack Smith was elected to serve as President; Mrs. Eleanor Schwartz, Secretary; and Carl Johnson, Treasurer. Trustees include Russell Brenner, Edward Marcinek, Walter Krug and Burrell Stein.

The Danger of
Compromising with Evil
Genesis 13:8-13

By C. P. Dams

Some people do not have the grit to refuse to do evil and begin to compromise and fall for it. This lesson teaches us that any one who compromises with evil will suffer for it.

I. The prosperous too have problems. Some think that money solves all problems, they forget that often it makes them. Lot was Abraham's nephew who had come with him to Canaan. Both had become rich. Their herdsmen quarrelled about pastures. Abraham fought when necessity compelled him but he preferred peace and therefore said to Lot, "Let there be no strife between you and me, and between your herdsmen and my herdsmen for we are brethren."

Our world is full of conflicts. Getting is a common passion. Often people forget that getting easily leads to conflicts. One wants this and another wants the same. Never before has our nation been as wealthy as it is now, and never has there been so much strife, bickering and lawlessness.

II. Some make unwise decisions. Lot made one. Abraham suggested that he and Lot separate and he let Lot choose and Lot did. Abraham, being the older should have chosen first; Lot should have insisted that his uncle make the selection first. Lot was impolite and greedy. He should have prayed first but this he failed to do.

Lot noted that "all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered everywhere" and so he selected it. Greed moved him to choose. Only material gain counted with Lot. Note the downward trend that followed Lot's choice. First he looked at Sodom (13:10) and liked it, then he "moved his tent as far as Sodom (14:12) and finally he sat at "the gate of Sodom" and learned as a judge what was going on.

The family of Lot took on the color of the community. The women of the family liked Sodom and its social life. The daughters were engaged to marry Sodomites. When the young men were warned about the coming destruction of Sodom they laughed and ignored the warning and died.

III. God punishes sin. Sodom's sin became intolerable to God who intended to destroy the city but before doing it He talked with Abraham who pleaded with Him to spare it. God sent two angels to lead Lot out of the city. The family was told not to look back but Lot's wife did so for her heart was in the city.

Jesus preached a sermon on the destruction of Sodom and singled out Lot's wife and said, "Remember Lot's wife." She lost her life for a look. The sad story of Lot's wife and his daughters shows that the family had gone spiritually bankrupt. Some modern families who try to be half Christian and half secular eventually go the same way. To compromise with evil does not pay.

CENTENNIAL CONGRATULATIONS — Douglas' 100th year of incorporation was marked last week by a resolution passed in the Michigan Legislature. A framed copy was presented to Gov. William Milliken by Ralph J. Galitz, Centennial chairman. At the presentation (left to right) are State Sen. Gary Byker, one of the authors of the resolution with Sen. Charles Zoller and Reps. Edson Root and James Farnsworth; Gov. Milliken; Galitz; Nat P. Steinberg, centennial co-chairman and Ray Henneman, Douglas village president. The village was incorporated on Oct. 14, 1870, after a long history as an American Fur Co. trading post and permanent settlement in 1850 when Jonathan Wade opened a sawmill. William F. Dutcher is credited with naming the village in 1861. The village's sawmill and tanning days gave way to fruit growing and the manufacture of wooden fruit baskets. In the early 1900's, it began its present phase as a tourist resort.

"I would like to see spring football practice at Hope College." Those were the words of Hope's new football coach Ray Smith at a luncheon Tuesday in Point West.

The MIAA doesn't allow spring football practice but Smith is hoping someday that the rule might be changed. However, according to line coach George Kraft, "it will never happen."

Hope's new coach was eager for the season to open and indicated that he expects around 65 players to compete for starting positions on this year's squad.

"No one from last year's team is guaranteed a starting assignment," Smith said. "That includes lettermen too. They will be given the first shot for the opening positions but everyone will get a fair chance to show what they can do."

Smith expects to run out of a slot offense with many variations which includes running out of the I and using the Pro Set at times.

"We will be basically a running team but if the situation calls for a pass, we will pass the daylights out of our opposition," added Smith.

On defense, Smith plans on using a 5-2 and 6-1-1 plus the so-called victory and prevent defenses. He added, "We hope to stunt at times."

Hope's strongest position on paper at least, is at defensive tackle and linebacker. "We got good size at tackle," said Smith.

Holland native Dave Gosselar will be given a shot at defensive tackle and at tight end, according to Smith.

On paper, Smith said, "we'll have to improve our offensive line. With Bob De Haan graduating last year, the all-important center position is up for grabs."

Smith thinks that Hope will be playing Grand Valley State College in football in the near future. "We are trying to arrange a game for next year," he continued.

As far as goals go for himself in his first year of coaching the Flying Dutchmen, Smith wants a winning season. However, he added, "Winning isn't everything, but I don't plan on losing too often."

Smith is looking forward to playing the teams in the MIAA. "As of now, I can't wait until we play Alma, Kalamazoo and Albion, but I sort of wished that we didn't have to open with Defiance at home."

Hope's coach's reasoning was that it takes time to put in a new offensive formation and that the team has only 12 days to get ready for its first game of the season and that Defiance is one of the tougher teams on its schedule. The Flying Dutchmen will open grid practice next Tuesday.

"The boys are really eager and enthusiastic about the new season," noted Smith. "We have received numerous letters, phone calls and even had a lot of the boys coming down to look at films already this summer."

"I think I am stepping into a positive situation and that's one thing I admire about Hope. This has to be a great plus factor."

As far as recruiting goes, Smith knows that he can't compete in a bidding war for the boys' services but he believes that Hope can offer more to athletes in different ways.

"We have a spiritual school here at Hope and that's one big factor in our favor. Another factor is that we are church-related and the final factor, is there are enough good potential football players in this area to recruit that want to go to Hope College and play some good college football."

Smith also expects to land some boys from the Chicago area through Young Life which he expects to be organized some day in Grand Rapids. "I'm going to find out right away if I have any friends in Young Life," Smith concluded laughing.

The Flying Dutchmen coach will work in the physical education department as a teacher. "This is my area and I just love it."

The coaching staff will consist of former head coach Russ De Vette, who will be in charge as defensive coordinator while Kraft will again be offensive line coach. A former Hope player, Jim Bultman, is in charge of the offensive ends and defensive secondary.

The new coach is eager, his coaching staff is eager and the players are eager. That can only mean that things are looking up at Hope College this fall in football.

The Flying Dutchmen should, and we feel will, improve on their 4-6 record of last year. They haven't even started the season and we got the impression that they are already 3-0.

Ottawa County 4-H News

By Willis S. Boss

Extension 4-H Youth Agent
Ottawa County has a number of delegates at the 4-H Youth Exploration Days this year. This event is being held on the Campus of Michigan State University from Aug. 25 to 28. Girls representing us in the clothing division are Rosemary Laug of Coopersville; Lois Breuker and Jean Yamaoka of Holland; Gwen Lubbinge of Hudsonville; Nancy Genzink of Hamilton; Cheryl Youngquist of Kent City; Teresa Wassenaar of Allendale; and Darlene Van Hoven of Zeeland. They are being chaperoned by Mrs. Dorothy Van Hoven of Zeeland and Mrs. Ted Yamaoka of Holland Heights.

Dairy members attending State Show are Betty Kamps of Bryon Center; Carol Modderman of Marne and Mike Diekema of Hudsonville. They will be showing their Guernsey and Holstein animals on Thursday and Friday in competition with members from other counties in Michigan. We have two dairy judging teams going to State Show. Members included in the 1st team are Janet Drake of Coopersville, Bob Aukeman of Byron Center, Dan Roberts of Door and Herb Schoenborn of Conklin.

The second team includes Patsy Post and Mari Vander Tuyn of Byron Center, and Bill Miller and John Schoenborn of Conklin. Leaders attending a special luncheon on Wednesday Aug. 26 are Mrs. Herman Rasch, Mrs. Ray Arnock, Mrs. Kay Mengel, Mrs. Keith Nieboer and a group of leaders from Holland Heights. Several other leaders have indicated that they would attend special events on a one-day basis. I hope that all members attending and receiving this experience on a state level will be able to report to their local clubs and create enthusiasm for another year.

This is the week of the Hudsonville Fair. There are two or three days left for members and leaders and the public to view the exhibits on display. It has been a busy week thus far. On Monday we judged beef, sheep and swine. On Tuesday all other exhibits were judged plus the dairy cattle. On Tuesday evening we sold fat stock at public auction. On Thursday, Aug. 27 we will be judging the horses and ponies. There is still ample time for folks to see the exhibits on display at the fair as we will not be releasing them until Saturday, Aug. 29 after 8 p.m. We have always appreciated the support of businesses in purchasing our fat stock animals. We hope that in our next few news columns we can sight our winners and also our buyers who have helped support 4-H.

The fund for the Expansion '70 campaign is coming along real well. Many of our clubs have responded by sending their money into our office, and our goal is in sight. For the benefit of those who do not know about it, Expansion '70 is a campaign to raise $1. per member towards our National 4-H Center in Washington, D.C. Clubs have been holding baked goods sales, car washes, selling cards, candy, etc. to raise their quota. Some clubs have made club exhibits to show at the fairs and some horse clubs have sponsored horse shows to raise their share. The 4-H Council sponsored a Country Western Show in June.

Some clubs still have to send in their money. If you have completed your drive, would you send your money to the Ottawa County 4-H Clubs, in care of Willis S. Boss, County Building, Grand Haven 49417 so we may fulfill our obligation to the National 4-H Center.

The Jamestown Saddle Partners have been meeting regularly throughout the summer in connection with the horse program. They have also done much work with setting up the new building at the Hudsonville Fair. They have been very regular in reporting to us about their meetings. We also know that many other horse clubs have been active and meeting regularly to get ready for the fairs.

Many of our dairy clubs have been holding clinics on their own using older members to teach younger members. Many leaders have been asking parents to bring exhibits to the fairs. We have noted too that many 4-H members do not meet year around but that parents and leaders keep in touch on a year 'round basis.

Asian Youth Concerned With World Problems

Young people in Asiatic nations are just as concerned with world problems as the youth in America today, according to the Rev. Edwin Luidens, executive director for the East Asia Department, Division of Overseas Ministries for the National Council of Churches, currently visiting in Holland.

And because young people in Asiatic nations have always been extremely respectful and reverent with their elders, the resultant trauma caused by radicalism is more serious and unsettling for Asian adults than in America.

The churches in Asia are working together to help solve problems on many fronts in a complex program.

Rev. Luidens, son of Dr. Anthony Luidens and son-in-law of Dr. Miner Stegenga, who previously was general secretary of the Board of World Missions for the Reformed Church, served as observer at two conferences of East Asian Christian leaders in Japan last month.

One was for leaders from 19 Asian countries attempting to plan and work together through Asian churches, and the other was an Asian Ecumenical Conference for Development, associated with the church's role in development of undeveloped countries.

At the first conference for 50 persons, 25 voting and others staff and resource personnel, Rev. Luidens was one of three observers, the others from Latin America and Africa. The

53,892 Park Visitors Recorded Last Week

The total number of campers, picnickers and people using the beach last week at Holland State Park numbered 53,892. Michigan residents bought 231 annual stickers last week and 608 daily stickers. The park sold 123 annual stickers to non-residents and 221 daily stickers.

This past weekend 18,835 people visited the park with 7,709 visitors recorded on Saturday and 11,126 visitors Sunday.

second conferece attracted 100 delegates.

The first conference sought to draft guidelines for the next two years in terms of urban industrial missions, rural development, student activities, use of mass media and health programs with emphasis on preventive rather than curative.

The second conference was mainly concerned with determining the church's role in a changing world, a weighty decision in view of the change from rural to urban, changes in culture, and the point of view of youth. Luidens said half of the people in Asia are under 25 years of age, all post World War II youth deeply involved in making changes.

Luidens is based in New York and makes two four or five-week trips a year to Asian countries for the National Council of Churches. His department works with 22 American and Canadian mission boards and 13 agencies like the American Bible Society. Among denominations cooperating are the Reformed Church, United Presbyterians, United Methodists, Episcopalians, United Church of Christ, American Baptists, United Church of Canada. The department also has considerable contact with Catholics.

Luidens said the Reformed Church, although small, is well known and recognized in missionary activities overseas. In Japan, the RCA was among the first to start missionary work after Commodore Matthew C. Perry negotiated a treaty to open Japan to U. S. ships in 1854.

In their quest to be "free," Luidens said university youths in Japan are just as radical or possibly more radical than in America. "They want change fast, and they are anxious to get some part of the decision making."

Luidens was graduated from Hope College in 1940 and from New Brunswick Theological Seminary in 1943 and received an advanced degree from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1944. He was ordained by Classis Rochester and served in Arabia from 1944 to 1964. He was with the Board of World Missions from 1964 to 1968 and since then with the National Council of Churches Division of Overseas Ministries.

DAVID TAKES A JUMP—This time David Ryder, 22-year-old Londoner who walked 2,960 miles on crutches from Los Angeles to New York City to raise money for a new form of therapy for the handicapped, successfully makes a jump astride "Dusty" at the Cheff Foundation Center at Gull Lake. The young polio victim took one spill before making the three-rail jump.

WITH FOUNDATION DIRECTOR—David Ryder, who refuses to let polio get him down, is shown here with Mrs. Lida L. McCowan, executive director of the Cheff Foundation Center. Mrs. McCowan has been in Holland on several occasions speaking on the center which advocates riding as an aid for the handicapped. It is the only center of its kind in this country. Mrs. McCowan received special training at a similar center in England.

Polio Victim Rests At Cheff Foundation

AUGUSTA, Mich. — A wiser but no sadder young Londoner will tell you that—contrary to an opinion common in some parts of the world—America's highways are not paved with gold.

David Ryder, 22-year-old polio victim from Battersea, London, who walked 2,960 miles on crutches from Los Angeles to New York City to raise money for a new and innovative form of therapy for the handicapped, is recuperating from his labors at the Cheff Foundation Center near Gull Lake.

David wound up his cross-country trek Aug. 14 in smog-bound New York with a little over $700 to deposit in the David Ryder Trust Fund at the European-American Bank and Trust Company, 52 Wall St.

While the contributions averaged out to a little less than 24 cents a mile, David thinks he may have done better in spreading the word about horseback riding as therapy for the handicapped. During the 20-week trip he accumulated an impressive portfolio of press clippings and most of them told how learning to ride changed David from a polio-crippled 16-year-old who couldn't walk across the room without resting into a young man who on two successive summers walked the length and breadth of the British Isles and traversed the United States, two trips totaling 9,838 miles.

It was only fitting that he should come to the Cheff Foundation Center for two weeks of rest and recreation. The center is unique in the United States for handicapped youngsters—the same sort of training that put David back on the road to a normal life.

In fact, the Cheff Foundation project is modeled after Grange Farm, at Chigwell, in Essex, the world's first such riding center, where David became an expert horseman and in the five-year process regained his confidence in at least partial use of his legs. Grange Farms, operated by John Davies, pioneered the riding therapy concept. Davies is the author of the only definitive book on the subject and he and his wife, Donna, and brother-in-law, Michael McGarry, accompanied David on the transcontinental trek in a British-built camping van.

Mr. and Mrs. Davies flew back to England after reaching New York, but David and Michael accepted an invitation from Mrs. Lida L. McCowan, executive director of the Cheff Foundation Center, to unwind for a few weeks at the big farm near Gull Lake which also is home of the Battle Creek Hunt Club.

The center, dedicated only last April, presently is working with nearly 100 handicapped children from Calhoun and Kalamazoo counties, youngsters to whom David's accomplishments are a real inspiration.

Mrs. McCowan hopes to see the day when every state has at least one such center and she envisions the 300 acres owned by the Cheff Foundation as the site of a complete recreational complex for the handicapped, with swimming, fishing and special facilities for many other sports.

Riding is her first interest, however, and she feels it holds out the most hope for the handicapped. Unlike other forms of therapy, she says, riding enables a youngster to experience the joy of associating with a living animal. "While mounted, the child uses every scrap of muscle and nerve he has left. Psychological improvement usually is immediate and physical improvement follows."

David agrees, but puts it another way:

"In a wheelchair, everyone is looking down on you. On a horse, you're looking down on them."

Crippled by polio at the age of two, David said fear of falling is no problem. "I must have fallen once or twice a day for years. You learn to fall, like a football player. I've fallen from horses probably a hundred times. Got hurt just once, when I forgot to relax."

Proving his point, David was spilled taking one of the center's horses over a three-rail jump for the benefit of a news photographer. It didn't faze him. He remounted and took "Dusty" over the jump again.

Trained as a watchmaker, there is some question whether David ever will be able to settle down to such a sedentary trade. "I'd really like to keep on working with the handicapped at riding centers like this. It's so much more worthwhile and rewarding."

If he ever does go back to a watchmaker's bench, he'll have a lot of memories to keep him company.

Like the day last summer when he reached Lands-End at the conclusion of his nearly 7,000-mile walk through the British Isles. A crowd estimated at 10,000 was on hand to greet him, including Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton — themselves involved in helping the handicapped — who presented him with a gold wrist watch to commemorate the day.

His American expedition failed to excite that kind of interest. "Perhaps," he said, "it's because you don't have any truly national newspapers like the Times or the Guardian. One story in either of them and everybody in Great Britain knows all about you."

"Don't get me wrong, American papers are wonderful, but there are an awful lot of them and they are really quite independent," he said.

Among his other American memories: Being chased by a rattlesnake whose meal he disturbed in the Mojave Desert, terrific thunderstorms all across the country, the tornado that only just missed him near Lubbock, Texas, and the heat, humidity and smog as he neared the East Coast. That's when his mileage went down, from a high of 30 miles to a low of about 10 miles a day.

Most of all he will return to England with fond memories of America's small towns and with an especially warm spot in his heart for Ellisville, Mo., which is located 16 miles west of St. Louis. He had walked half-way across the country by the time he reached Ellisville, with about $100 in contributions to show for it. "Mayor Pat Payne thought that was awful. He gave us the key to the city and went out and single-handedly collected $300. We stayed there two days and everybody was wonderful."

Migrant Worker Held Under Bond

GRAND HAVEN — Migrant farm worker Ramundo Molina Saudia Jr., 26, of Corpus Christi, Tex., was held under $5,000 bond today in Ottawa County jail following his District Court appearance Monday on a charge of felonious assault.

Saudia requested a court appointed attorney to represent him and is to confer with Holland attorney Donald Hann before his arraignment on the charge.

Ottawa County sheriff's deputies said Saudia was charged in connection with an incident Saturday at the Kiel blueberry farm, 13885 Blair St., Olive Township, in which another migrant worker was stabbed in the left hand with a butcher knife and Saudia's wife, Maria, 23, was struck in the abdomen with a knife handle.

Deputies said Saudia allegedly grabbed the knife and began fighting after a bottle of beer he was drinking was tipped over by children playing.

BRIDGE COLLAPSES — This bridge, constructed in 1909, collapsed Monday night south of Bentheim on 38th St., a half mile north of 136th Ave. in Allegan County. The single lane span was 90 feet long and 13 feet wide with a three ton load limit. The bridge was weakened when excavating was begun Monday in a project to replace the old bridge according to Fred Neils, engineer manager of the Allegan County Road Commission. (Sentinel photo)

Old Bridge Collapses In Bentheim

BENTHEIM — Construction workers at a bridge project for the Allegan County Road Commission had a big surprise when they reported Tuesday. The old bridge over Rabbit River near Bentheim had collapsed overnight.

Engineer-Manager Fred Neils believes bridge supports were weakened when dirt was taken away Monday in preliminary work to replace the bridge on 38th St. a half mile north of 136th Ave. The bridge was built in 1909 with a span of 90 feet. The single-lane was 13 feet wide and had a three-ton limit. In 1968, Allegan county residents passed a millage issue to replace this and similar bridges. To this date, 25 bridges have been replaced, Neils said.

The new span to replace the collapsed one was designed by Delwin Redder of Hamilton who works for the Allegan Road Commission. He will supervise the construction.

The new bridge will be two-lane, 33 feet wide with a 117-foot span and a designed capacity of 36 tons.

A new feature will be galvanized steel I-beams which will not require paint and will last 50 years before having to be regalvanized. The cost of the new bridge will be around $72,300, Neils said.

Driver Injured When Car Collides in Turn

John Derks, 24, of 333 East Lakewood Blvd., suffered minor injuries Monday at 8:50 p.m. when the car he was driving and one operated by Wayne A. Stegeman, 22, of 2563 30th St., collided along Ottawa Beach Road 66 feet west of Wood St.

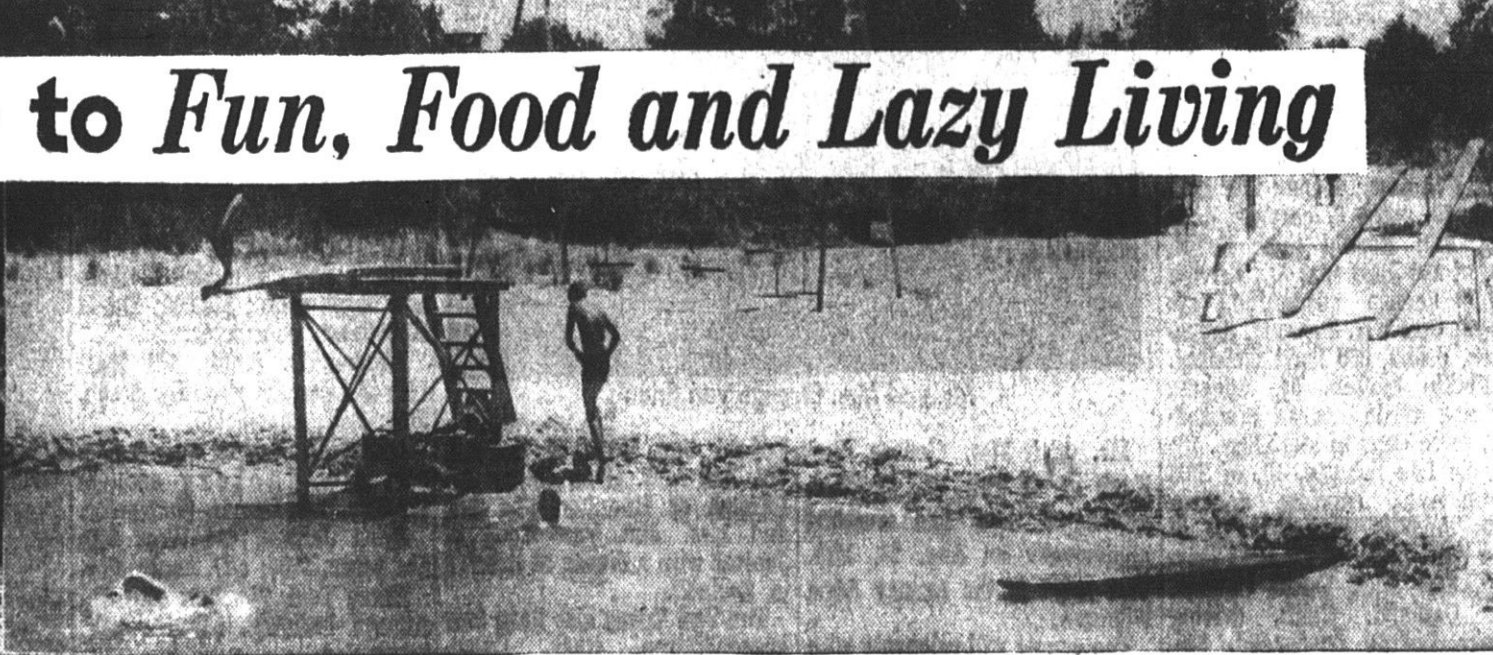

Ottawa county sheriff's deputies said both vehicles were heading in the same direction when Stegeman attempted to pass Derks while Derks was attempting a left turn into a driveway. Derks sought his own treatment and deputies continued their investigation.

Perschbacher of Schaaheim, West Germany. The Vos-Lankamps on their first visit to America spent 3½ weeks with a sister-in-law, Mrs. Johanna Diekjacobs, in Graafschap, who had come here in 1939. Arend Naber at right served as interpreter. (Sentinel photo)

Mayor Receives Greetings From German Counterpart

A West German Lutheran minister and his wife stopped in City Hall a few days ago to present verbal greetings and best wishes to Mayor Nelson Bosman from his counterpart, Burgomaster Ludwig Perschbacher, of Schaaheim in West Germany.

The Rev. and Mrs. Heinrich Vos-Lankamp, on their first visit to America, had been visiting a sister-in-law, Mrs. Johanna Diekjacobs, in Graafschap.

While they visited no large cities in America, the visitors saw a generous slice of West Michigan, plus a "clipper" trip across Lake Michigan to Milwaukee, and were amazed at American prosperity (good living, they called it), the church attendance on Sunday and the expanses of so-called idle land which could be developed. The latter observation is a "natural" from Europeans who outnumber Americans three to one and live on a continent smaller than the United States.

Most of all, Rev. Vos-Lankamp was amazed at the "good drivers" in America and the easy movement on streets and highways with little effort on the part of traffic officers. This is a common observation of European visitors long beset with traffic problems under chaotic conditions.

The Lutheran pastor who operated a book store before he entered the ministry was particularly interested in a visit to the Grand Rapids offices of "The Banner" and the Christian Reformed book store. The Vos-Lankamps also visited the Knollcrest campus of Calvin College and Pinerest in Cutlerville.

Arend Naber of Holland served as their interpreter during the visit to the mayor's office. Naber explained he grew up on the Dutch-German border and attended German - speaking schools. "But at recess we talked Dutch," he explained.

Sparkling Wit Prevails In Comedy at Red Barn

Sophisticated wit prevails this week at the Red Barn Theatre near Saugatuck in the laugh-packed comedy for adults, "My Daughter, Your Son," starring Bill McCutcheon, longtime friend of Producer-Director James Dyas, in the role he played on Broadway.

McCutcheon, whose "silly putty" face has enlivened many a tv commercial from cereals to airlines, really played a lesser role, but he stole the show everytime he opened his mouth, particularly in one funny scene in his office (he played a dentist) in which sophisticated equipment matched the comic situation.

It was not easy for McCutcheon to stand out since others in the cast were topnotch, each giving super performances in a comedy situation which flowed smoothly and sparkled with wit, a true test for professionals.

Bruce Hall and Dorothy Lee Tompkins were at their best as the tolerant parents of a daughter about to be married, the father as a tv writer in Los Angeles and his wife an actress. Some of Miss Tompkins' lines were rib-tickling as she resorted to soap opera in current situations.

Laurie Hutchinson as the daughter and William Tost as her fiancé gave the "ole pros" a run for their money in their part of the plot in New York City. Whatever the problem, it was never a matter of a generation gap, the situations never associated with subterfuge.

Add to this the parents of the bridegroom, back in Columbus, Ohio, working into the plot with a new brand of comedy, sparked by McCutcheon's individual wit. As his wife, Lois Carlson added plenty of her own in getting a 30-year-old son married.

The seventh member of the cast was Jon Freeman as the 19-year-old son in Los Angeles, with his own set of problems just in case the elders ever solved their own.

This cast had a lot of fun, working together smoothly as scenes took place in New York, Los Angeles and Columbus, in a succession of garden settings, apartments, bedrooms, hotel rooms, even a bridal shop and a dental office.

Sets and lighting were designed by Geoffrey D. Fishburn and costumes were by Kathy Dyas. Noel Coward's "Private Lives" will be the closing production of the season next week. This glittering comedy, first presented in 1930, deals with a divorced couple, each of whom remarry and inadvertently choose the same hotel for their respective honeymoons.

It opens Monday, Aug. 31.

He was graduated from Zeeland High School.

Windmill Art, Hobby Craft Show Set Here

A successful show was forecast today as the administration of Windmill Island Municipal Park made final preparations for the first annual Windmill Art and Hobby Craft show this Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 29 and 30.

Jaap de Blecourt, park director, said nearly 70 entries have been received, and the number may reach 100 by the time the exhibit opens Friday morning.

Entries have been received from the immediate area, and from Detroit, Dearborn, Saginaw, Mackinaw City, Dayton, Ohio, and other distant points.

The work to be exhibited covers a broad range of individual creative expression, including water colors, ceramics, metalcraft, and even the design and fabrication of water fountains for landscaping use.

Artists will start setting up their exhibits at 7:30 a.m. Friday in the area near the post-house on Windmill Island. It is planned to arrange the exhibit on both sides of the canal that surrounds the 200-year-old Dutch windmill "De Zwaan."

De Blecourt said entries will be accepted up to the day of the exhibit. The entry fee for the space includes admission to the park both days of the show. Entry forms are available from de Blecourt at Windmill Island Municipal Park, Eighth Street at Lincoln Ave.
