FIRE CHIEF DICK BRANDT

Fire Chief Quits After 46 Years

"The Holland Fire Department certainly is a lot different today from the old days."

That was the comment of Fire Chief Dick Brandt who is retiring Aug. 31 after 46 years of service with the department, serving as a volunteer for 30 years and as chief for 16 years.

Facing mandatory retirement at 70, the fire chief Tuesday displays as much vigor as ever, a true son of his fire fighting father, Marinus Brandt, who retired in the late 1940s at 73 after 45 years of service. He had served as assistant chief for many years. He was 73 when he climbed to the top of the tallest ladder truck in a demonstration. "I bawled him out for it," Dick recalls. Marinus died at 89.

It was only one case of father-son combinations on the fire department through the years. Bert Vande Water's two sons, Teno and Mel, were active as were Sam Plagenhoef and his son Nelson, and Harold Barkel and his sons, Earl and Jack.

When Dick joined the department as a volunteer in 1917, there were five fulltime drivers and a total of 36 fire fighters in two companies. Today, with a fine new fire station in Holland's industrial park, the city maintains three stations with 25 full-time fire fighters and 30 volunteers. In the old days, the department used a 2½ gallon extinguisher and 2½-inch lines which were laid from hydrants. Today, 1½-inch lines through pumps are used almost exclusively, along with high pressure foam which snuffs out the oxygen which feeds fires.

Chief Brandt is looking forward to the fine new Sutphen aerial platform unit currently on order and a new rescue unit. Both units will be lime-yellow instead of fire engine red, since extensive research has shown red trucks are not visible at night.

Brandt also looks forward to improved equipment. "We've come a long way, but there's lot more we can do. The space age has produced better protective clothing but the price remains high. Flame retardant suits will hit mass production some day, and then we'll have them."

Brandt recalls some of the largest fires in Holland, the Lear Siegler fire near Windmill Island, the Vogelzang fire at 18th and Washington which claimed two lives. He was only a spectator at the spectacular fire which leveled the old S. S. South American at the local docks in the 1920s and the big Ottawa Beach Hotel fire in 1924.

Brandt spoke feelingly of his appreciation to the police department for excellent cooperation at fires through the years. "The police often have fire areas closed to traffic before the last of our own men have arrived," he said.

He was presented with a watch at a luncheon today attended by heads of city departments.

As for retirement, Dick has two new fishing poles and a 16 gauge shotgun. He loves the outdoors.

Motorcyclist Fails To Outrace Train

GRAND HAVEN — William Edward Oziewicz, 17, of Marne, apparently decided too late that his motorcycle was not as fast as an approaching train at a crossing at 116th Ave. and Cleveland St. in Wright township Wednesday at 7:13 p.m.

Ottawa County deputies said witnesses told them Oziewicz was westbound on Cleveland heading for the tracks as a train approached and it appeared the motorcyclist attempted to beat the train but realizing it was impossible slammed on his brakes and slid 215 feet into the side of the engine. Oziewicz was tossed another 25 feet after impact.

He was taken to Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids with internal injuries. His condition was listed as "critical."

Welcome Rain Breaks Heat Wave

Mercury Dips to 70;
BPW Sets Records
In Use of Electricity

Welcome relief in the form of a brief electrical storm at 11 a.m. today broke a four-day heat wave in Holland in which maximum temperatures ranged from 93 to 95 Sunday through Wednesday.

The short-lived rainstorm caused some flooding in the community.

The temperature dropped to 70 at 11 a.m.

The heat wave broke records for electrical power generation in Holland. Output topped a million kilowatt hours Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for the first time in the history of the Board of Public Works, a spokesman said today.

A record demand of power was reached shortly before noon Tuesday when 58,400 kilowatts were used.

Local generating equipment has an installed capacity of 77,250 kilowatt demand.

The record power consumption was attributed to heavy use of air conditioners and freezers during the hot and humid temperatures.

Monday's output reached 1,070,000 kilowatt hours, Tuesday, 1,109,000 and Wednesday 1,102,000 kilowatt hours.

Included in the output was some electrical power sold to Consumers Power Co. through the statewide power pool.

The BPW said the generating equipment would take care of the power needs for Holland customers and a spokesman saw no shortage of power.

The current heat wave which hit the midwest and east has left its mark elsewhere in the region. In Detroit Wednesday, fresh ripe cantaloupes "blew up" in the heat and wholesale prices dropped as temperatures pushed past 91.

In Detroit area, employees walked out at some plants of Chrysler and General Motors, and management sent many other employees home.

Michiganers retreated to the beaches to beat the heat. There was unusual demand for electrical power in Eastern Michigan but no indication of breakdowns or brownouts.

In Mt. Pleasant, the use of water for lawn sprinkling or car washing was banned as all wells were being pumped to capacity. Upper stories of high rise dormitories at Central Michigan University were without water because of falling water pressure.

A widespread power blackout hit the Queens section of New York City Wednesday leaving 180,000 persons without power overnight.

Several thousand persons at the Ohio State Fair in Columbus were stranded on rides when a power transformer short circuited Wednesday night.

It was 98 degrees in Washington, D.C., the highest in four years. Washington also had the highest level of air pollution in at least four years.

Agricultural officials in north-central Nebraska said increasing numbers of farmers were without power to operate portable irrigation equipment.

Medic Alert Plan Launched by Area Life Underwriters

The Holland Association of Life Underwriters launched a public service Medic Alert program as Mayor L. W. Lamb Jr., proclaimed September as Medic Alert month in Holland. Medic Alert is a program whereby medical identification emblems are distributed and medical records of members are maintained in a central file for use in emergencies on a 24-hour a day basis serving physicians, hospitals and other authorized personnel at no cost to the patient or treating physician.

The Medic Alert Foundation is headquartered in Turlock, Calif. and serves more than 500,000 persons with about 4,000 new members added each month.

Information concerning the program will be available Sept. 5 at 2 p.m. in the Heritage Room of Holland City Hospital. Additional information may be obtained by contacting a life underwriter.

Assessment Ruling Sought

City Files Appeal Of South Shore

The City of Holland has appealed an Ottawa County Circuit Court opinion enjoining the city from assessing property owners for proposed improvements to South Shore Drive.

Necessary papers were sent to the Michigan Court of Appeals in Lansing during the weekend, deputy city attorney John R. Marquis said. The appeal was expected to be handled by the Western District Court in Grand Rapids.

City manager William L. Bopf indicated a decision might be reached by next August and said no new street paving projects would be initiated until the appeal was decided.

Marquis said earlier it was hoped an opinion on the appeal would clarify the issues involved, give a full treatment to the facts presented by the city as being the basis of the South Shore Drive assessment and provide a definitive analysis of the factors that the city can look to in establishing assessment districts for the street improvements.

A group of property owners along South Shore Drive brought suit against the city claiming the proposed street widening and additions of storm sewers and curb and gutters would be of no benefit to them. Visiting Judge Harold Van Domelen, in his opinion handed down Aug. 13, agreed with the plaintiffs and enjoined the city from levying special assessments.

Bopf said until clarification is received from the courts on a 1970 Supreme Court case concerning special assessments, the city would not proceed with additional street projects.

Two now under way will be completed. They are Prospect Ave., between 22nd and 24th Sts. and Fourth St. from River to Pine Aves. The prospect project is under court suit but the city was not enjoined from proceeding.

Marquis said the Holland case is the only court case he has heard of in Michigan in which the original street was not proposed to be widened from the existing two lanes to four lanes of traffic.

The city had proposed widening the 22-foot street to about 28 feet from Plasman Ave., to Myrtle and widening the street from Myrtle to Old Orchard Rd. to 36 feet. The total cost was $741,000 of which $170,900 was proposed for special assessments.

Geerts Promoted By Holland Police

Cpl. Glenn Geerts, 42, a member of the Holland Police Department since 1963, has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant of police effective Sunday, it was announced by Chief Charles L. Lindstrom.

Geerts was named to fill a vacancy created by the promotion of Burton Borr as lieutenant.

Sgt. Geerts will be a shift supervisor in charge of a platoon of patrolmen. He is married and has two married children. Geerts is a member of the Immanuel Baptist Church.

Victim of Alleged Beating

Pagan Charged In Death of Alvarez

GRAND HAVEN — Antonio Alvarez, 45, formerly of Detroit and Puerto Rico, died Thursday of injuries suffered in an alleged beating Aug. 4 in a dormitory building at Bill and Marv's Turkey Farm, 8300 96th Ave.

His alleged assailant, Jose Rodriguez Pagan, 26, appeared in District Court this morning where he demanded examination to a charge of murder. No date was set and Pagan was returned to the Ottawa County jail where he was held without bond.

Ottawa County deputies said Alvarez suffered severe head injuries when allegedly struck over the head with a length of pipe. He was found in a small room in the dormitory building at the turkey farm. A pipe was recovered, deputies said. They added the alleged beating apparently followed an argument. Alvarez had been listed in "critical" condition at Blodgett Hospital in Grand Rapids where he was admitted.

Deputies said Pagan was taken into custody a short time after Alvarez was found and was held at the county jail on original charges of assault with intent to commit murder. A warrant charging murder was authorized by the prosecutor's office.

Survivors include the mother, Bacilia, two brothers, Daniel and Catarino, and a sister, Amelia, all of Jerez, Zacatecas, Mexico, and several nephews and nieces.

'Just Started Him Breathing'

Boy, 9, Revived From Drowning

By Paul Van Kolken
Temperatures were in the 90s Monday and some neighbor children and West Ottawa High School football players taking a break in the practice were in the water at the pool of the Willis Driesenga residence, 2418 142nd Ave.

Among them was Kyle Van Slooten, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Van Slooten, 14203 James St., a neighbor.

Suddenly Kyle was spotted on the bottom of the pool in about four feet of water. Ottawa County deputies said it was 11:39 a.m. Monday when Kyle was found, given mouth to mouth resuscitation, revived and taken to Holland Hospital. He was listed in "good" condition Tuesday.

Deputies credited Kevin Driesenga, 20, an employee at Herman Miller and a West Ottawa graduate, with saving Kyle's life.

"Everybody was playing in the pool when they saw Kyle on the bottom," Driesenga said today.

"One of the kids (Kelly Solis) picked up Kyle and set him on the edge of the pool and someone ran into the house to get me," Kevin added.

He said he ran to Kyle and "I just started him breathing, I guess."

"I gave him mouth to mouth resuscitation and slapped him in the face a few times and hollered at him to wake him up. He started to open his eyes and started to breathe and then the ambulance came," he explained.

Kevin said he learned the mouth to mouth resuscitation technique while in high school.

THE BILL IS GOING UP

If you have a notion that prices in the next ten years will go down, we would like to call to your attention a study by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which deals with the cost of education for the school year 1981 to 1982.

Using the 1971-1972 dollar as a standard, the cost of educating public elementary and secondary students in 1981-1982 was $599 per student. Ten years later in 1971-1972 this had risen to $934 per student. The prediction for the school year 1981-1982 is that the cost will have risen to $1,303 per student.

Using the 1971-1972 dollar as dollar as a standard, the study tells us that the cost of educating a college student at a publicly controlled school will have gone in the same ten year cycles from $1,598 to $2,189, to $2,822. At a privately controlled institution the cost per student will rise in those ten year cycles from $1,797, to $2,888, to $3,959.

The only change in the future seems to be that the school-age population is increasing less rapidly or declining. This means that we may be spared some of the expensive bond issues for a rapidly increasing enrollment, though we still will have replacements and updating of equipment. The ten year period, 1971 to 1981 will give us a 2.4 per cent drop in the elementary age, and a 9.8 per cent drop at the secondary level. But costs will go up. Note the $36 million increase in Michigan colleges and universities, even as enrollments have gone down.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, Sept. 2
Paul Speaks To The Church
I Corinthians 1:10-15
II Corinthians 12:19-21
By C. P. Dame

The theme of the new series of lessons for this new quarter is the heart of the gospel of Jesus Christ as proclaimed by Paul in Romans and in I and II Corinthians. One passage from I Corinthians and one from II Corinthians constitute the lesson text which discusses the truth that divisions in the church are wrong, unity is Christ.

I. Divisions in a church hurt. Corinth was a busy, thriving, wealthy, wicked commercial center where fun, pleasure and sin were put first. Paul came to this city during his second missionary journey and worked there eighteen months. Here he met Aquila and his wife Priscilla, making tents with them. A church composed of Jews and Gentiles was established. Paul wrote I Corinthians in Ephesus in 56 or 57 A.D. II Corinthians was written in Macedonia about 60 A.D. The Corinthian church had problems of various kinds.

The partisan spirit hurt the church. After praising the church for its faith he tactfully deplores the divisions in the church. "Now I beseech you brethren" — so he addresses them, reminding them of being brothers which calls for a loving brotherly spirit of unity. There were four parties in the church. Some adored Paul, others liked Apollos, and some were devoted to Peter, and a number put Christ first.

Some congregations have divisions due to doctrines, social status, wealth, and this hurts. In present day denominations there are parties and divisions which create conflicts. Unity based on God's Word gets real results. Members should know what things are essential and which are of no account.

II. Unity in the church leads to upbuilding. The purpose of I Corinthians was to teach the members of the Corinthian church had accused Paul of seeking his own glory. This hurt Paul. He always had given himself wholly to the work of building the Church, ever forgetful of himself.

Paul planned to come to Corinth, again and he hoped to find them living lovingly and in a Christian way in a pagan atmosphere. Leaders in a church are important. A consecrated preacher forgets himself and shows constant concern for the church and its members who may hurt the cause of Christ or build it up.

Goals Are Outlined By Christian School Head

By Mary Ellen Stevenson

Meetings are held, schedules worked out, school bells ring, halls fill with students and the name of Dr. Martin Essenburg is on the lips of many more as the new superintendent of Holland Christian Schools.

Dr. Essenburg, 38, succeeds Mark Vander Ark after spending 14 years as headmaster of the Christian Academy in Japan where he saw the enrollment double to 400 students, most of them children of missionaries from various denominations.

While the physical, American, school scene may vary a bit from what Dr. Essenburg has seen in the Orient, his ideas are basically the same as he views all of life in a Christian perspective.

Sitting in an office in a building that's surrounded by "wide open spaces" (unlike that in Tokyo), Dr. Essenburg spoke of his goals and some of the special programs to implement them.

"Broadly speaking, we shall strive to unite parents and teachers in a joint effort to 'train up children in the way they should go,' teaching them that, in the words of the Psalmist, 'The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein,' and encouraging them to view education as a life-long pursuit," he said.

Along the lines of "viewing education as a life-long pursuit," Dr. Essenburg said career education will receive attention as the choice of an occupation is one of life's most important decisions.

"We view this (career education) more as an emphasis to permeate our entire system. K-12, than as a program of study, but we do have plans underway for a six-weeks mini course in career education to be taken by all our eighth graders."

"Exposure will be given to a wide variety of occupational fields and efforts will be made to motivate students to better understand their aptitudes and vocational interests," he said.

There was an added note of excitement as Dr. Essenburg told of another tool to "train up children" — the humanities course. He reported, "More than 80 high school students will be enrolled in the new course, an inter-disciplinary study of 19th century America."

"It will be taught by a team of teachers from our departments of art, music, literature, history and Bible. Financial assistance to develop the course has been received from the National Humanities Foundation, which will be sending five or six experts in this field for a few days each to work with us during the coming semester."

There appear many opportunities for the students, but as they are branches, so are there vines, and Dr. Essenburg continued, "We shall also endeavor to promote the professional growth of our faculty — growth in knowledge, teaching skills, understanding and love of children and young people, and rapport with them."

"The professional growth of our teachers will be encouraged in two specific ways," he went on to say. "First, in addition to regular faculty meetings, a series of monthly meetings for our entire faculty is being planned."

"These meetings," he pointed out, "will involve presentations and discussions of educational concepts and innovations, teaching methods and book minister of Trinity Reformed Church in Holland and a member of the Hope College board of trustees.

Participating in the convocation were President Gordon J. Van Wylen, Academic Dean Morrette Rider and Chaplain William Hillegonds.

Cornie's Corner

The more things change, the more they are same. . .

Mrs. Don Sundin, 238 West 29th St., brought in a story about a family dinner party celebrating the Sundins' 25th wedding anniversary. She had a copy of the Aug. 9, 1948, Sentinel containing her wedding story.

On the front page was a story about a housewife's boycott in Dallas, Tex., protesting (you guessed it) high beef prices.

It was a coincidence, but at the same time the Sentinel carried an account of a visit in Russia, Corry Hoekstra, 459 Rose Park Dr., received a copy of the Michigan Bell publication "Tie Lines" which carried a story of Anna Pasichny, of Detroit, a Bell Telephone cafeteria dining assistant, visiting her 80-year-old mother in the Russian Ukraine, the first visit in 32 years of forced separation.

Visiting a relative in a remote area of Russia is quite different from the well planned tourist visits to Russia's great cities. The poverty Mrs. Pasichny encountered in outlying villages is in sharp contrast to the bustling activity in Moscow or Leningrad.

These contrasts exist all over the world, even in America.

Bicycles! They seem to be propagating all over the area. Between bicycles and motorcycles the beleaguered motorist has to be sharp.

May we call attention to the "walk bicycles" signs in the downtown area. This means bicycles on sidewalks should be walked in any of these areas.

Bicyclists also are subject to the same rules as motorists. There's nothing so disconcerting as meeting a bicycle going the wrong way up a one-way street, especially at night. Don't do it!

Great Debut

Wasn't it great to see Jim Kaat pitch a three - hitter in his debut last Sunday with the Chicago White Sox.

Unfortunately it was against the slumping Detroit Tigers but for some reason, Kaat has just been a brilliant pitcher any time he steps on the Chicago field.

It seemed like all Kaat had to do was throw his glove on the field and the White Sox were beaten. He had a 29-10 life - time record against the Sox and even if he doesn't win another game for them, they won't have to worry about losing to him.

Claimed on waivers recently from the Minnesota Twins for $20,000, Kaat has already signed his 1974 contract with Chicago for a reported $70,000 which is about $10,000 more than his Twins pact.

"Kaat has said, 'I'm happy to be with the White Sox. This is a team that obviously wants to win now and will make use of a veteran. This will either be a great break for me next season or it will be my way out of baseball. By that I mean I'll find out if I can still be of use.'"

The Zeeland native wrote a letter of farewell to the Minneapolis Tribune saying he enjoyed his 13 years with the Twins and the friendships he made through the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

This letter was different than the one he wrote several years ago criticizing the Twins management for firing a pitching coach by the name of Johnny Sain.

It's good to see the two on the same team again.

Winningest Division Mentor

Central College's head football Coach Ron Schipper, a native of Zeeland, is the nation's winningest active college division coach, according to statistics released by the NCAA.

Ron Schipper
... Zeeland native

In Schipper's 12 years at the Central helm, Flying Dutchmen grid teams have won 83, lost 23 and tied two contests for a torrid .778 percentage.

Darrell Mudra of Western Illinois University is second with a .99-28-2 record .775 percentage and Earl Banks of Morgan State College ranks third with a .758 clip on 90-28-2 slates.

The Dutchmen have never had a losing season and have won four conference championships under Schipper. His Central teams have not lost more than three games in a season.

New Program Solid as "Rock"
That's right — Solid as the "Rock" upon which new Lynchburg Baptist College is founded.

Scott Vanden Brink, former West Ottawa football flash, accepted a football scholarship to Lynchburg and is presently practicing in Lynchburg, Va.

... accepts football scholarship

Maryland. An LBC assistant coach is John Cartwright, a former star quarterback at Navy.

This will be the first year of football at Lynchburg and Royer added in a press release that the school will play on the junior varsity level this year and gradually grow until it becomes a major college team, competing against the better state colleges.

A deeply religious man, Royer said, "just how fast we will grow, is up to the Lord."

Lynchburg has its own private plane and diesel bus which will be in use this fall for football.

The Lynchburg City Stadium, picturesquely located on one of the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, is the home of LBC football. The stadium hosts many fine teams, including the Minnesota Twins farm club.

In fact, Twins' pitching coach Al Worthington will be head baseball coach at Lynchburg next year.

Vanden Brink was the Panthers leading pass thief and fumble recovery man last year and was called by Coach Deb Nolan, a "real hitter."

Scott is trying out for a defensive back and offensive end spot for Lynchburg. He was first team all-area in 1972 and was the best defensive back we saw all last year.

Lynchburg is not only a deeply religious school but also enforces strict rules. The boys must wear ties to class and a sport coat to lunch and dinner. All the guys on the football team must have hair cuts too. That's kind of amazing nowadays when you consider that 65 boys are fighting for position on the team.

While Coach Royer says the whole purpose of the football program is missions, he let it be known he expects his players to hit once a game is under way.

"We will pray before a game, we will pray after a game. We will witness for the Lord," he says, "but on the football field, we will knock their heads off. Hitting is the name of the game."

We know that Vanden Brink has what it takes to play football at Lynchburg.

Win Again

ART OR ENGINEERING? — This attractive copper fountain is the answer of an engineer to an artist that a piece of engineering ingenuity can be a work of art. The fountain is in the yard of the James Sheridans in Saugatuck. It was built by his brother, Joseph, in Chicago five years ago and brought to Saugatuck in 1971. The fountain has 14 copper spouts and cones and is lighted at night when the fountain is in use. A concrete bird bath is the base which sits in a pool surrounded by flowers. In the background is one of the old (150 to 200 years old) oak trees on the property. (Sentinel photo)

Fountain Is Art Engineer Proves

By Lorraine Hohl

Merits of design from an engineering standpoint or an artistic standpoint led to the creation of an attractive fountain in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sheridan at 413 Hoffman St., Saugatuck.

Joseph Unwin Sheridan, formerly of Chicago and now of Havelock, N.C., a semi-retired consulting engineer for Commonwealth Edison, had an argument with his daughter Nancy, about art and engineering. He told her he would build something that would show that an engineering creation could be just as attractive as an artistic creation.

So, in his spare time at home, he made a fountain using 14 copper spouts and cones in a copper bowl with a circulating pump. The fountain was built five or six years ago, and when the James Sheridans came back to Saugatuck, brother Joseph decided their attractive yard was the place for the fountain.

The Sheridan brothers found a concrete bird bath to mount the copper creation on and also formed the pool underneath of carved cinder blocks. Borders of flowers grow around the pool which is lighted at night when the fountain is used. The fountain from the ground up is about 6½ feet tall.

The yard and garden are in themselves a show place with old oak trees, especially one visible from the fountain, between 150 and 200 years old, according to old photographic records of the area. There are several on the property which overlooks the town below.

The Sheridan name is a familiar one in Saugatuck history. The late George and Sarah Sheridan came to Saugatuck in 1909 when he was the last lighthouse keeper until 1914. This was after the new harbor was built. Mrs. Sheridan continued to live in Saugatuck after her husband died and the boys attended area schools until 1931.

James Sheridan retired in 1971 after teaching, being a principal and superintendent of Schools in Ironwood, Mich., and came back to Saugatuck with his wife to make his permanent home. Joseph has a summer home in Saugatuck now. Just recently, the James Sheridan's son, Steve and his wife, Tanya, moved to Saugatuck where he will practice law.

The Sheridan clan now includes three generations who visit frequently and can admire the fountain which will certainly be passed down to one of the members of the family.

BREEZE ALONG ON BIKES — These hardy young men, Norm Taylor, 16, Kevin Vanden Bosch, 16, Jack Taylor, 26, (left to right) and Rob McEmber, 16, (not shown) returned Monday from a two-and-one-half week, 900-mile bicycle journey to Ironwood and back. The vacation including camping, fishing and swimming went without incident until the day before their return when a car backed into Rob's bike at Silver Lake. Rob was not injured but his bike was damaged and he rode back with Kevin's RCYF group that was also at Spring Lake.

Bicyclists Make 900-Mile Journey

"We started out with a prayer and Jesus took care of us all the way."

That's how Jack Taylor explained the fun and success of the 900-mile bicycle trip he, his brothers and a friend made to Ironwood on the Michigan-Wisconsin border in the Upper Peninsula.

They returned Monday and on Tuesday were already posing thoughts as to where their next pedalling adventure would take them.

Jack, 26; his brother, Norm, 16; Rod McEmber, 16, the foster child who lives with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Taylor, and their friend, Kevin Vanden Bosch, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Vanden Bosch, left the Taylor home on 96th Ave. on Aug. 2 and returned 18 days later.

The trip was the culmination of plans started last summer after bicycling to Ludington. They had then decided to go to Ironwood and agreed to meet Jack's friend, Chuck Richardson from New York, and spend a week there.

Carrying about 20 pounds apiece of equipment (two pup tents, cooking utensils, clothing and some food), they figured, according to Kevin, that they averaged 65 miles a day on the six-day trek up and 30 miles a day on the five-day return.

They stayed off the busier roads, Jack said, and had no real problems except for traveling and camping in rain two or three days. The days off the bikes were filled with cooking, fishing, swimming and washing — at the laundromat.

On the last leg of their journey, while camped at Silver Lake, a car backed into Rob's bike, putting it out of commission. Kevin knew his RCYF group was also at Silver Lake and arranged for Rob to return with them.

The young men figured they spent about $75 on the trip and are anxiously talking about where they will go next.

Holland Schools Announce New Time Schedule

Due to anticipated program changes and the implementation of a lunch program in the Holland Public Elementary Schools in September, 1973, it has been necessary to make some adjustments in the hours of the school day. These changes will in no way reduce the amount of instructional time each student receives.

Beginning Thursday, Sept. 6, the following time schedule for the Holland Public Schools will be in effect: elementary schools begin at 9 a.m., noon lunch hour is from 11:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and dismissal is at 3 p.m.

E. E. Fell Junior High School classes begin at 8:15 a.m. with the noon hour from 11:55 to 12:40 p.m. and dismissal at 2:30 p.m.

The High School begins at 8 a.m., with dismissal at 3:25 p.m.

Highway Aides Discuss Transit

Representatives of the State Department of Highways and Transportation met with the city manager's office staff Monday concerning requirements for a proposed Dial-A-Ride Transportation (DART) system.

Holland is among the cities under consideration for a state-funded project to bring DART to smaller communities on a trial basis.

Brian Chase, working in the city manager's office, said a proposal would be submitted to council next month as one of the preliminary steps necessary to qualify for the state project.

DART offers door-to-door transportation usually aboard small van-type buses to persons who telephone a central dispatch office. It has been operating in larger cities in the state.

'Odd Couple' Fine Choice For Red Barn Finale

By Cornelia Van Voorst

"The Odd Couple," which is just about everybody's favorite Neil Simon comedy, is proving to be just the right selection for the last play of the season at the Red Barn Theatre at Saugatuck.

Opening Monday night to a responsive audience, "The Odd Couple" is the answer to the desire for light entertainment with lots of laughs. It is a comedy that a person can attend again and again and enjoy it unabated.

For his 1973 production, Producer-Director James Dyas retained the reverse casting of his first production a few years ago, casting Red Barn regular Bruce Hall as the sports writing slob and big Don Bonevich as the compulsively clean "nut" and hypochondriac. An apartment setting for two such men living together cannot help but bring out the best comedy lines in the Simon repertoire.

One might hope that if Dyas ever produces the play again in Saugatuck (and he could) that more predictable type casting would put Bonevich in the he-man role and the smaller Hall as the meticulous "Mr. Clean," notwithstanding the fact that both Bonevich and Hall have long ago proved they are believable in any role.

Dyas said the 1973 season has been a successful one, but attendance has been down with the majority of people laying the cause to daylight savings time. It's hard for people to go inside while the sun is shining, even for stellar theatre entertainment.

While Dyas retained his casting of main characters, staging was completely different from a few years ago, allowing for far better movement on the stage set. The stage design called for a ceiling and overhead chandelier, tasteful wallpaper, alcoves and all the necessary doors.

The numerous poker scenes were among the funniest in the production with all players outstanding. William Tost appeared as Speed, Norman Anderson as Murray, Michael Salvador as Roy and Robert Bugnard as Vinnie.

Mary E. Baird and Bridget Pierce had a wonderful time as the fun-loving British sisters in an upper apartment. Although the roles are brief, they are plummy and director Dyas missed no opportunities to draw an extra laugh.

Dorothy Lee Tompkins, wife of Director Dyas, served as stage manager and Richard Gaunther designed scenery and lighting.

This week's program included a questionnaire for Red Barn customers asking preference in choice of plays, curtain time, etc.
