Local News

It has been learned that 10,000 new Lincoln pennies en route from the mint to the First State bank fell into the hands of a train robber in Pennsylvania. Some time ago, the bank forwarded a draft for $100 to the mint, asking for the pennies in return, and last week they were notified that the desired coins were finally on their way. They never arrived, and the tracer which has been sent out has just brought the information that they were "lost in shipment." The bold burglar carried them only a little way before he discovered that his plunder was copper and not gold and the majority of them were recovered. The loss, however, will not fall upon the bank.

Dick Hesselink and Tony Serier, two local young men who were arrested on the evening of Farmers' picnic by Deputies Irving and Kleis on a disorderly charge, were each fined $10 and costs, which amounted to some $16. The boys claimed that they had simply engaged in a little scuffle when arrested. They were released on their own recognizance after the arrest had been made but failed to show up in court, which made the costs as heavy as they were.

Louis P. McKay, a Grand Rapids musician and a former resident of this city, has begun suit in the circuit court of Kent county for a divorce from his wife, Frances McKay, charging cruelty. McKay is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton McKay, Sr., 231 West Ninth street, and is a teacher of piano and a church organist in Grand Rapids, with classes in Zeeland and other adjacent towns. He married July 16, 1903, Miss Frances Dykema, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johannes Dykema, West Thirteenth street. The couple is well known here. J. Byron Watkins is solicitor for the complainant.

In the September "Munsey" is a well written article on "The Story of John Earley" from the pen of Izola Forrester of New York. The writer, who is now Mrs. Reuben R. Merrifield, is well known here, having spent several summers in Holland. She is a niece of Capt. John M. Mitchell of the Steamer "Williams" of the Crawford line.

The day boat service has been discontinued by the Graham & Morton company. The change went into effect yesterday. From now on the Steamers Puritan and Holland will alternate from Holland to Chicago every night, leaving Holland at 9:30 p. m. On Saturdays, on account of the late car from Grand Rapids, boats will leave at 10:30 p. m. In connection with this service the Interurban will run a boat train from Grand Rapids at 8 p. m. every night except Saturday, when a special late train will leave Grand Rapids at 9 p. m. The boat will leave Chicago at 8 p. m., every night except Saturday, when they will leave at 9 p. m. This service will be continued until late in the be put on until the close of navigation, with tri-weekly trips.

Gaining entrance with keys or some equally easy method, burglars last Thursday night made a considerable haul from the clothing store of P. S. Boter & Co., on Eighth street, taking six suits of gold collar buttons, totalling in value about $150, and the police in all the neighboring cities have been on the lookout since for a pair of suspicious characters who are believed to have done the job. The burglary was discovered the next morning when John Van Tatenhove, one of the employees, opened up the store and found that the drawer of the cash register had been pried open and a trifling amount of change taken. Standing in the middle of the aisle was one of the firm's own suitcases packed full of socks and fine handkerchiefs, and Van Tatenhove's first thought was that Dick Boter who, was in Grand Rapids the day before, might have made some purchases and brought them down, but inspection showed that the boxes on the shelves were empty and these were the firm's own goods. A hasty survey showed the disappearance of six first-class suits of clothing, all the better grade of buttons, and one suit case, the price tags from the whole outfit being found on the floor. The employees of the store suspect two young strangers who bought some trifling articles at the store during the day. But no clue of the whereabouts of the thieves has been discovered.

Brought up incidentally in the discussion of the contracts for supplies for the city schools, the boards of education finds itself in the position of having countenanced for years a practice of purchasing supplies from members of the board which is expressly forbidden by the city charter, an opinion from City Attorney Van Duren having just been received by Secretary Henry Geerlings of the board in answer to a request for an opinion. "No member of the board shall be a party, or interested in any contract with the public schools," is the wording of the clause in the city charter upon which the opinion is based, several cases in point are cited. The matter was brought up by Trustee J. J. Mersen, who has been very active in the movement to secure a vaccination requirement for attendance in Holland's schools, and also hits Trustee B. Steketee, from whom supplies have been purchased for some time. An enforcement of the provision will also mean the loss of the business which Henry Vander Ploeg, one of the newly elected trustees, has done with the board in furnishing stationery and other supplies, and the ruling may be held responsible for some sudden shifts in the system of purchasing and awarding of insurance on the buildings. The board has not yet had an opportunity to act officially on the opinion.

When Holland Nearly Had a Lynching Bee

As the stranger walks down the streets of Holland on a Sunday afternoon the one thing that impresses him is the quiet orderliness of the city. No one intimately acquainted with Dutch character could ever imagine that this quiet people could be lashed into the fury of mob rule. We dare say that even very few of the present citizens of Holland know that in old days when this city was hardly more than a straggling village, the slow plodding Dutch people were roused to a fury of lynch law that nothing save the efficiency of the officers prevented from becoming a miniature Springfield riot. This is how it happened on that August day in the summer of 1884:

Three tramps, two white men and one colored, stopped at the farm of Gerrit Van den Berg, about three miles south of this city, and asked for something to eat. They were fed and departed, as the farmer supposed, for other fields, when to his surprise he saw them killing his sheep and dressing them. He immediately started for Holland and notified Marshal Vaupell who set out to find the villains. On arriving at Van den Berg's farm the tramps were pointed out to Vaupell and he advanced to arrest them and had approached to within a few feet of them, when the "colored gentleman" raised his arm and fired a revolver almost in the face of the officer. The tramp cocked his revolver to fire again, and Vaupell hearing this, dodged and slipping, fell, rolling down an embankment into a ditch or gully. The tramps undoubtedly thinking that they had killed the officer or mortally wounded him, fled precipitately, throwing away their revolver in their flight.

Vaupell and some of the neighboring farmers gave chase, and after running a mile and a half succeeded in capturing the fugitives. They were immediately taken before Justice Brink of Graafschap, and the white men arraigned on a charge of petit larceny, and the negro for assault with attempt to kill. Pleading guilty and waiving examination they were brought here and placed in the "lockup" for safe keeping until the officers from Allegan arrived to take them to their county jail.

Vaupell went to Dr. Best's office, and on examination it was found that the bullet from the negro's pistol had entered the side of his neck and came out at the back of the neck near the spinal column. Some of the citizens of the city were very indignant, and expressions that boded no good to the tramps were heard on all sides. After supper a crowd of nearly 200 collected at the jail, and but for the presence of Sheriff John Vaupell and our local officers a first class lynching would have taken place in our otherwise quiet and orderly city. Speeches were made and other demonstrations that tended to arouse those present, were freely indulged in.

No damage or violence was done until between one and two o'clock when the posse that guarded the jail went inside to eat their lunch. The rioters then fastened the doors and began battering down the building opposite the cell that confined the negro and had nearly succeeded in getting inside when the officers placed the negro in another cell. Thus frustrated the mob seemed to be disgusted and discontinued their operations, but made the night hideous with loud talk and the ringing of the fire bell. With the approaching day quiet was again restored and the officers spirited their prisoners away and they were taken to Allegan in safety.

The jail at that time was located on the northwest corner of Centennial park and was also used as an engine house, where the fire bell and old hand engine held sway. Among those who made speeches on that occasion were men now prominent and living in this city and some who have passed away.

From estimates at hand at the present time, it is believed that the 1909 apple crop for the nineteen counties comprising the territory covered by the Western Michigan Development bureau, will amount to three million barrels. These apples are worth better than $1.50 a barrel on the tree. This means $4,500,000 to the fruit growers of the region, for their apple product alone. The fruit packages and the labor of picking and packing calls for another million, making a total of $5,500,000 to be distributed throughout the rural sections of the territory. The larger part of the apple crop has already been sold by the producers. The prices at which the sales were made vary from $1.50 a barrel on the tree to $3 a barrel packed and delivered at the shipping point.

Saugatuck

The town line road between Ganges and Saugatuck has never been in so good repair as at present and yet improving it, which is much credit to the highway commissioner. The most that is needed at present is for a man to go over the road with rake or shovel and throw out the small stones (which is specified in the road law) which are annoying with heavy loads, besides being somewhat dangerous to horses by their stepping on them and stumbling over them. There seem to be many stone in some parts of the road and especially in the new gravel just being put on the highway. The highway commissioner of Saugatuck township is having some good work done on the Chase road now. Commissioner Gable has been doing a fine job of grading on the Mechem hill, spreading the dirt for at least thirty rods.

E. H. House has bought Mrs. Barber's farm of about 56 acres which lies east of town for a consideration of $6,000. This with the other orchards Mr. House controls makes him one of the largest fruit growers in this part of the country.

Dr. Gray received a telegram from the Board of Directors of the Forward Movement stating that they had purchased a fine building at the corner of Monroe and Loomis streets facing Jefferson Park for headquarters for the Forward Movement. This new building will be occupied at once and with it work can be extended.

Fennville

We understand that the Fennville Herald has changed hands. Editor Bassett having sold out to an editor from Shelby, consideration $4,000.

Prosecutor Hoffman of Allegan county has not been oblivious to the character of the "drug store" which Nelson G. Nelson has been running in Fennville since about the first of July. It was of course understood that it was started for the sake of supplying whiskey more than anything else, for Fennville had no need of another drug store; and Nelson had been running one of the worst sort of saloons the town ever knew—and it has had some decidedly bad ones. Nelson's statement to the prosecuting attorney for the last day of June, the first day he did business, showed sixteen sales of liquor; and if any druggist in the county was likely to falsify his report of sales, Nelson was most likely to be the man. Last week Mr. Hoffman got busy at Fennville, and now Nelson is under arrest on four warrants for violating the local option law. Four other arrests were made on drunk and disorderly charges connected with the offending drug store.

When your back gives out; Becomes lame, weak or aching; When urinary troubles set in, Your kidneys are "in a bad way." Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Here is local evidence to prove it.

Otto VanDyk, 28 W. Eighteenth Street, Holland, Mich., says: "About a month ago while splitting some wood, I was seized by a pain in the small of my back which was so severe that I had to give up. I paid little attention to the trouble, thinking it would go away, but it did not however, and developed into a steady, dull ache across the small of my back. I could hardly walk and felt miserable in every way. My son advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box. When I had taken a few doses, the pains became less severe and I continued the use of the remedy until I was entirely relieved. I am now in good health and cannot recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to highly.

Genuine pearls have been found on the beach at Macatawa Grove. A few days ago Prof. Anderson's little daughter was playing in the sand on the beach in front of her father's cottage, when she raked up some pretty stones, which she admired very much and decided to keep them. She showed them to her parents. The professor thought they resembled pearls and he took them to one of our jewelers who pronounced them the genuine article. He said that one was a beauty and worth $50. Mr. Harrington's lots along the shore where the pearls were discovered, of course, are being eagerly sought after in prospect of finding more of the hidden treasure. They are known as "clam" pearls.

After a lingering sickness of several months, Mrs. C. DeJong (late Plummer) departed this life on the early morning of Wednesday last.

Mrs. Geo. Huntley committed suicide Thursday forenoon. She shot herself through the heart and for fear that she might not succeed she was further supplied with a bottle of carbolic acid. The tragedy took place at the residence of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kuite, Sr., west of the city, under the grape arbor, a few feet south of the house. On her person, pinned to her dress pocket, was found a note, alleging despondency and despair as the causes for the rash act, and closing with the usual plea for forgiveness. She was twenty years old and had been married but a few weeks, and expected soon to start housekeeping. She was buried Thursday afternoon, Rev. H. E. Dosker officiating.

WHAT YOU SAW 10 YEARS AGO

The safe in the store of Rutgers & Tien at Graafschap was shattered by burglars early Saturday morning. About 2 o'clock, Mr. Tien, who lives near the store, was awakened by a terrific explosion. He dressed hurriedly, grabbed his revolver, and started to investigate. It was very dark, but he arrived on the scene in time to see two men leap into a buggy and drive rapidly away. He fired a shot after the fleeing men, but the bullet evidently went wide of the mark. Mr. Tien entered the store and found everything in confusion. The safe had been blown into fragments, but its contents, including $75 in currency and $100 worth of postage stamps, had been unharmed. Evidently the cracksmen had become frightened and hurried away without looking for valuables. All the plunder they secured was between $2 and $3 that was left outside the safe in a cigar box. The store was broken into just a year ago Saturday night and a quantity of shoes taken.

IN ATTEMPT TO SAVE CHILD, MOTHER DIES

LITTLE ONE STRUGGLED OUT OF

New York.—In trying to aid in the rescue of her eleven-year-old daughter Winifred, Mrs. Mary Kane, 42 years old, wife of the caretaker on the Havemeyer estate at Throg's neck, was drowned in Long Island Sound, upon which the estate fronts the other afternoon. The sacrifice of Mrs. Kane's life was useless, as 13-year-old Harry Swift, a neighbor's son, had already gone to the rescue of the girl and was bringing her ashore when Mrs. Kane rushed into the water.

The sudden appearance of the mother caused Winifred to throw herself out of the arms of Harry Swift, who had already managed to get her near enough to shore to touch bottom, and the girl immediately began to flounder toward Mrs. Kane. In her attempt to reach her daughter, Mrs. Kane went beyond her depth. The Swift lad again caught the girl and dragged her, unconscious, to the shore.

Mrs. Kane was brought ashore afterward by Harry Swift and his brother Jerry, who had hurried to the scene in a rowboat, but although a surgeon from Fort Schuyler worked over her for more than half an hour he was unable to revive her.

Thomas Kane, the dead woman's husband, is a horticulturist, and together they took care of the Havemeyer and Huntington estates, which lie side by side on the shore of the Sound. They were married 13 years ago, and had four daughters and two sons.

The other afternoon the four girls went in bathing. Nora, ten years old; Anna, eight years, and Mary, five years, remained near the shore, but Winifred ventured out until the water reached her shoulders. She was unable to swim.

The shore in front of the Huntington and Havemeyer estates shelves abruptly in many places, and Winifred suddenly found herself beyond her depth. She screamed, and her sisters joined with cries for help. Mrs. Kane ran from her cottage to the shore at the same time that the Swift boys went to the rescue. Harry swam out to the child and Jerry put out in a rowboat.

Jerry caught hold of the child and succeeded in getting her into shoal water, when Mrs. Kane reached the shore and plunged in. In attempting to reach her daughter she got beyond her depth.

Harry Swift had all he could do to drag Winifred ashore, but as soon as he had saved the girl he turned to help his brother, who had reached the place where Mrs. Kane had gone down. Harry, by swimming, reached his brother's boat, and then the boys caught Mrs. Kane by the hair when she arose to the surface. Several men who had arrived by this time helped tow Mrs. Kane ashore. Then they hastened to Fort Schuyler and got Dr. Hogan, the post surgeon. He worked for nearly half an hour over Mrs. Kane, but was unable to revive her. Winifred will be all right in a day or two.

FLEES POLICE, CLIMBS POLE

Man Goes to Top of High Flag Staff in Order to Elude Waiting Officials.

Louisville, Ky.—The sight of Isaac Martin perched upon the topmost pinnacle of the clubhouse at the Jockey Club park, while Patrolmen Lowe and Krieger of the sixth district stood at the foot of the pole and begged him to come down, was an inspiring one for the residents south of the city.

It was only after Martin had thrown his knife at the officers and every other article that he could lay his hands to that they finally succeeded in capturing him.

Martin had been fighting with another man, and after a chase through South Louisville the officers finally ran him up on the roof of the clubhouse. From there the fellow made his way to the top of the flag pole.

WHAT YOU SAW IN THIS PAPER

35 Years ago To-day.

The quietude of the township of Allendale was disturbed on Monday morning by discovering in the woods the corpse of a man who to all appearances had been murdered. The deceased was found on the road between Warner's and Brown's houses on Monday morning, with his feet entangled in the saddle of his horse. The horse was shot through the neck and the man was stabbed in two places. The supposition is that he was waylaid by one or more of a gang of roughs; who of late have infested that locality; that the horse was shot and fell with the rider, and that the latter was stabbed before he could extricate himself. At the side of the deceased was found a pistol and a carbine, both loaded and cocked but not discharged, apparently placed there to mislead. Attempts were also made to cover up fresh tracks in the road. At one of the above houses the firing of a shot was heard on the Sunday evening before.

The job of making the twelve fire wells has been taken by Quartel, Bouwman & Co. for $314, and of constructing the six reservoirs in and near the tannery creek, by H. Homkes for $33.

Education's Duty Toward Labor

Labor day, quiet as it was in this city, gave the children another day's respite from school. It seems more than a co-incidence that the vast American public school system should be put in operation immediately after the day that has been dedicated to labor. Most people suppose that education and labor are two distinct phases of human activity. But we believe that not until labor and education co-operate—not until labor is elevated through education, and education recognizes in practice as well as in theory, the dignity of labor—not until then will education do its full duty nor labor receive its just reward.

Perhaps most of our readers do not know that American skilled labor is not nearly on so high a plane as the European. We are so accustomed to consider America head and shoulders above all other countries that we forget her weak points. But the fact is that a large percentage of our skilled labor and labor superintendents are imported from Germany, while the American laborer must be content to do the comparatively common grades of work. We need not go far to find the reason. The German government has established an elaborate system of manual training called the trade school system, and this gives her the ascendancy. In the first place manual training is given considerable attention in the public school. Then at the age of 14 the boy or girl can enter one of these trade schools and get a thorough training in his chosen vocation—be he carpenter, mason, or any other hand worker.

Our present American school system is based on the mediaeval ideal of educating the head only and not the hand. That system of education served its purpose in its day, but its day is long past and America has been for the most part too blind to see it. When industry was based on the apprenticeship system, manual training took care of itself; but now that industry calls for highly specialized training, the school should heed the call. The Democratic ideal in education is to give every child an opportunity to find out what he is fitted for and to give him the best possible training for his chosen vocation. And this is what the trade school does. It does not compel the boy who has the making of a good carpenter in him to study poetry which he does not understand, thus making out of him both a poor scholar and a poor workman. It opens wide the door of opportunity and gives the man who toils a chance to choose his vocation and get the proper training for it as the lawyer or doctor or minister chooses his profession.

The trade school system is not an absolutely new thing in this country. Massachusetts has adopted it with great success. The state of Massachusetts encourages the establishment of trade schools by contributing from one-half to one fifth toward their maintenance, with the provision that the more the community itself pays toward them the more the state pays. In many other states a few trade schools have been established and they are doing a great deal for the American working man.

The nucleus of what will doubtless develop eventually into a vast trade school system has already been incorporated in our public school system. Even Holland has its beginning of manual training. We continually hear parents protest against manual training, calling it a fad and nonsense. But instead of being a fad manual training is a forward step in education, and as such every parent in Holland should first of all get acquainted with what our schools are doing in this line and then agitate for more. For in the last analysis the highest success of labor depends on the intelligence of the laborer. For as long as the laborer receives an education that is inadequate to his needs and merely drifts into his work through lack of opportunity, instead of choosing his vocation, so long will avarice of the rich persist in "pressing upon the brow of labor a crown of thorns."

The Point of View

We sit philosophically back in our editorial chair and smile about much of the local base ball "dope" that we and our contemporaries in Ottawa and Allegan counties print. But this develops in a broad grin when "The Allegan Press" gets busy. During the 1908 season we printed an editorial on the "Allegan Type of Sportsmanship." We showed up Allegan's unsportsmanlike methods in a strong light and it was a rather better pill.

About a month ago the Holland Independents went to Allegan and this is what our sporting editor said about that game:

"In the sixth the Independents added one to their score and would have added still one more had it not been for a rank decision at home plate when umpire Ladue called Te Roller out when he had the plate by at least four feet. . . . The Independents are very sore at Allegan because of the treatment they received. But for the robbery of the one score by umpire Ladue, the Independents would have had the game won in the ninth by the score of 5 to 0. But the roots also came in for their share of rowdism, throwing stones at the locals, interfering with men running after the ball, and one rowdy even went so far as to hit Te Roller while he was catching. The Independents have played ball in many of the towns around the state during the past three years but never yet have they run up against a dirtier deal than they received at Allegan."

This was the straw that broke the camel's back. Rankling with a 7 to 1 defeat two weeks later, the "Allegan Press" burst into print with a "reply" that has an epic touch to it which is almost Hameric (whatever that is). It is so classic that we cannot refrain from printing it, all the more so because it was inspired by an apple-core which a small boy carelessly threw away, making a hit—which is more than Allegan did:

"The game was scheduled to begin at 3 p. m., and at about 2 o'clock some of the Allegan boys began looking for the baseball park, after some inquiries and much trudging through the sand we found out in country what was called the "park" or baseball diamond. A much finer place to play the game could be found down in our pine stump township. The wheat stubble and pine stump diamond on which the Millgrove Mugwumps and Dunningville Sandpankers had so many games last season was a paradise to the baseball grounds in Holland. The diamond had once upon a time been marked out—long ago—it was clay, great holes dug in many places; some of the bases filled with cobble stones, home plate was about two and one half feet the longest way across with many sharp corners, and the field was nothing better than a caution. Uneven, weeds, clots of grass, besides at regular intervals great tall telephone poles were set up about where the fielders were stationed. Nevertheless this was named the 'baseball park.'"

"As the Tigers appeared on the field they were greeted with remarks like this: 'Ah! the robbers.' They were pelted with apple cores, and one of our players was struck on the shoulder with a stone while he was running from home plate to first. All of these compliments came from some Holland rooters."

And here follows a sentence, which, in spite of its bad grammar, gives the Holland umpire a good send-off:

"Mr. Van Schouten, of Holland, officiated as umpire and gave his decisions fairly and satisfactorily."

It must be very comforting to Allegan however, that after they have been throwing decayed vegetables, ancient eggs, stones, and other things "too numerous to mention" for some dozens of years, they have at last succeeded in finding cause for complaint in Holland in a wet diamond and a boy who threw an apple core. Meanwhile our editor, comparing the points of view of each side, sits back and grins.

Former Hope Student Becomes Professor at Olivet

A former Hope College student, James Sterenberg, A. M., Ph. D., has been appointed as a member of the faculty of Olivet College, in the literary department. In his announcement President Lancaster of Olivet shows that Mr. Sterenberg has had a remarkable career for scholarship since he left Hope. Here is a brief record of Mr. Sterenberg's scholastic career: Dr. James Sterenberg is a native of Fulton, Ill. He received his preparatory and collegiate education at Hope College from which he was graduated in 1893. He then entered the Princeton Theological Seminary, from which he took his degree in Divinity in 1896. The next year was spent in the graduate school of Harvard University, from which he received his A. M. degree. He was then called to a pastorate at Orange City, Iowa, where he spent the next year and a half. To further qualify himself for teaching which he now choose as his life work, he then went abroad and entered upon a period of study in Germany. Three years and more were thus passed in the universities of Leipzig and Halle-Wittenberg.

Since his return to America in 1903 he has been successively professor of Greek at Bellevue College, Nebraska, 1903-1908, and professor of Latin and Greek in the same, 1908-1909. A leave of absence was granted him for the year 1906-1907. This time was spent in advanced study in the University of Munich, from which he received his doctorate at the close of the year. He is highly recommended as a popular and efficient instructor. Dr. Sterenberg will take the place of Professor Crittenden at Olivet.

President Lancaster has the following to say of Dr. Sterenberg: "The record of Dr. Sterenberg indicated such remarkable scholarship that I feared he might be a mere book-worm. I went to Omaha to satisfy myself. Asking the first student I met on the Campus if he knew Dr. S., he said: 'Oh, yes, he is the coach of all our college athletics.' He is a live man and will be a great addition to the Faculty."

Van Lente Choir Evolves Novel Plan

On Labor Day afternoon the members of the famous old Van Lente Choir gathered at Macatawa park to celebrate the fifty-third anniversary of the organization of the choir. The choir is the oldest musical organization in the county and without doubt in the state. A large crowd of the old timers gathered at Macatawa to celebrate the event. Every member of the organization is proud of the distinction which such membership confers upon him.

At the meeting Monday afternoon a plan was evolved which is of great interest to all the old settlers in the county as well as to all contemplating attending the Holland fair during Home Coming Week. There will be a Home Coming tent at the fair grounds, for the reception of Home Coming guests, and the plan is to assemble the Van Lente choir there as a sort of host. All the old members of the choir, who have been identified with Holland and vicinity are to be asked to be there for the purpose of furnishing music in the good old way. Doubtless the old Dutch folk songs will form part of the entertainment, and the programs will be interspersed with addresses. All in all, if the plan is carried out it will make one of the most interesting features of the Fair.

This evening a meeting of the Van Lente choir will be held to make active plans in the matter, to appoint committees and send out formal invitations to all members of the choir.

Baby Contest a Winner

About 6000 people took in the big celebration at Saugatuck Labor Day, and the little river resort was crowded to its capacity. It was one of the biggest days ever seen at this rising little town, and the big pavilion with its variegated lights and all the other wonders of Saugatuck that have been added during the past year were eye openers to the thousands who had not been there for some time.

All of the attractions of the day centered at the big pavilion, and perhaps the most interesting of these attractions was the baby beauty contest. Sixty-five babies were submitted to the judges, and there is little doubt but that all of the parents except the half dozen lucky ones consider the judges mere chumps who don't know a good thing when they see it. The judges were Mrs. Torph of Chicago, Mrs. R. Moore of Saugatuck, Chas. A. Floyd and Ben Mulder of Holland. The decision of the judges in the girl baby contest gave Baby Baker first prize, Dorothy Menier second and Genevieve Burdick third. In the beauty contest of the sterner sex Willard Prentice was given first honors, Marshall Orin Smith second and Wm. Frances Jones third.

Tributes of Affection for Paris Dead.
Foreign visitors to the cemetery of Pere La Chaise in Paris often wonder at the tributes of affection deposited on the graves. Many French people refuse to believe that their dead cannot enjoy the good things they used to like when alive.

Mothers bring fruits and sweets and leave them on the tombstones of their children. The graves of older people are frequently spread with wine, beer and tobacco, and there is (or was last year) one affectionate father who leaves a potato salad on his son's tombstone every Sunday. Parisian street prowlers are of course well aware of this practice, and despite the vigilance of the cemetery guardians manage to pilfer many a meal from the graves.

Verse Stirred His Memory.
A young married woman recently took her little boy with her to make a call. As they were about to leave the youngster faced one corner of the room, stretched out both his arms, muttered something and then shook hands with the hostess. Naturally she was unable to understand the child's strange behavior and asked his mother the reason.
"Oh, that's all right," she replied. "George uses one hand just as well as the other and he has to face the north and say a little verse which I taught him before he can distinguish the right from the left. I have told him not to shake hands with his left, so he has to do that first."

The Culture of the Age.
We are now passing through the age of the Distribution of Knowledge. The spread of the English-speaking race since 1850 and the cheapness of printing, have brought in primers and handbooks by the million. All the books of the older literatures are being abstracted and sown abroad in popular editions. The magazines fulfill the same function; every one of them is a penny cyclopedia.—John Jay Chapman, "Emerson and Other Essays."

He Didn't Care.
"See how fair and white your sister's complexion is, Robbie," said the mother.
"Well, I suppose my face would be the same way if I kept washing it every day like sister does!" was the youngster's reply.

Notes of Sport

Twice over on Labor Day the Lake Views were compelled to take a back seat by the Holland Independents, in the morning by a score of 8 to 1 and in the afternoon to the tune of 6 to 2. Both games were slow and uninteresting, the locals never being pushed hard enough to give the fans a single thrill. Shaw and TeRoller formed the battery for the Independents in the morning game and Woldering and TeRoller in the afternoon. Shaw and Woldering were given the usual good support by the Independents and they found the visitors an easy mark.

About the only thing that made the games interesting was the clown work of the Muskegon short stop. He tried to roll the essence of the pranks of Hugh Jennings and all the other base ball clowns in the big leagues into one, and even at that strutted about with the air as though he didn't dare "be as funny as I can." After a particularly funny (?) stunt he made three errors in succession thus giving the local fans a real cause for a good hearty laugh.

The afternoon game started out with a good deal of vim, but the visitors were soon distanced completely, and $25 side bet between Young Beekman and Johnnie Vre, north of Holland, weighed in 123 lbs. at ring-side. General admission 25 cents.

Chas. A. Floyd of this city was appointed by Gov. Warner as a delegate to the Deep Water Ways convention to be held at New Orleans during the first part of November.

Roy La Chaine and Rozeta Mulder will be made one at the Holland fair and thus win the premium offered by the directors to the couple who participated in a "public marriage" at the fair. Everything wanted in a complete household is included in the premium. There were several applications for the chance, and Secretary A. B. Bosman, who was in charge of the feature, was compelled to inform the others that as far as the premiums were concerned, it was "first come, first served."

Secured big Feature for Home Coming Week

The committee on concessions of the Holland Home Coming Week, composed A. B. Bosman, Chas. A. Floyd and E. P. Stephan secured the biggest feature of the Detroit State fair for Holland Home Coming Week. The committee looked over the field yesterday at Detroit and were fortunate in securing the Indian Village, which has made a big "g-r-i-t" at Detroit than any other attraction there.

Fifty full blooded Indians in their native dress and living as the Indians were wont to do in the wilds, covered with war paint and adorned with beautiful variegated feathers, will play their tom toms, dance their war dances and make the air hideous with their songs of festivity and war whoops.

The Indian Village will be at the Fair Grounds during the day and in Holland during the evening of Home Coming Week. It is one of the committee's strongest cards for Holland's big celebration. Several other attractions of the State Fair were secured by the committee yesterday.

Capt. Leopold McLaglen, the Jiu Jitsu champion of the world, who will meet Prof. Kondo Kaura, champion of Tokio, Japan, at the Big Pavilion in Saugatuck Saturday evening.

The famous big pavilion at Saugatuck, which has been lauded all summer as the second biggest pavilion in the United States, has got into some characteristically big trouble. Suit has been begun by the Hines Lumber Co. and John A. Timm of Chicago against the Saugatuck Amusement Co. The Holland Interurban and Bos & Bolhuis of this city are made codefendants with H. J. Hartman Co., H. M. Reynolds Co. of Glendon A. Richards and the C. J. Litscher Electric Co. of Grand Rapids. The Zealand Brick Co. is another codefendant, all having filed liens upon the pavilion earlier. The Hines Lumber Co. alleges $10,707 is due for lumber and Timm has a claim of $650 for labor. The lumber company holds a mortgage for $7,400 in addition. The complainants ask that the claims of the codefendants shall be adjudicated with its own and the U. S. court decide whose claims are just and in what amount.

due to poor support of the pitcher. The feature of the game was a drive to the road by Lievensen, bringing in two runs.

Saturday evening Saugatuck is to have another sensation in its big pavilion. The management has arranged for a program of sensations such as are seldom seen in Western Michigan. The feature of the evening will be a finish match for the world's Jiu Jitsu championship, between Capt. Leopold McLaglen, present champion vs. Prof. Kondo Kaura, champion of Tokio, Japan, for a $1,000 purse and a side bet of $500.

Following are the preliminaries to the big finish match:
Wrestling match at catch-as-catch-can for a $100 purse, and a side bet of $50, between E. E. Feyk, of Grand Crossing, Chicago, the phenomenal middle weight wrestler of America, 158 pounds, and P. L. Ream of Douglas, 152 pounds, better known as the mysterious engineer never defeated in Michigan.

Marie Rolson pulls against five men for a wager of $200. The wager is that five men cannot push a billiard cue from the palm of her hands to the floor. The five men are selected by Mr. Martel who deposited the $500.
