America's Indebtedness to Holland.

In common with a great many of my countrymen, I once regarded America as a sort of New England, an evolution of that wonderful island across the Atlantic. This, notwithstanding the fact there are more Germans than English on this continent, that there are nearly as many Irish, and that, compared with the total sum of the various nationalities represented here the number of Englishmen is very small. I was exceedingly surprised, on careful inquiry, to discover how few of our prominent men at the foundation of our commonwealth were English or of English origin, and how largely our States were settled by representatives of other nations. Washington was of English descent, but Hamilton was Scotch and French; Jefferson, Welsh; Jay, French; Schuyler, Dutch; Clinton, Irish; Hoffman, of Swedish origin. Most of our distinctively American institutions were not possessed by England until this century—such as a free press, public schools, a secret ballot and full religious liberty; and some, such as universal suffrage, an elected upper house, church disestablishment and a republican form of government, England has not even now. Neither can the use of the English language and literature make Englishmen of the children of parents who are not of English origin, any more than it can convert an Indian or a negro into a Caucasian.

Every nation represented here has contributed towards our formation, and the contributions made by England are, no doubt, very large, but unless my authorities misled me, (which are English, German, Italian, French and Dutch,) the contribution made by Holland is far larger, and is altogether out of proportion to the size of the country or the number of Hollanders that have settled among us.

Most readers are familiar with the remarkable civilization which the Dutch possessed during the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. This civilization had been inherited by them from Italy. Ever since the days of Julius Caesar, whose body guard was composed of Dutchmen, there existed close relations between Italy and Holland. Large numbers of Italians settled in the seacoast towns of Holland, and brought the culture of the world's capital along. The swampy nature of the soil left the Hollanders comparatively free in their development, when feudalism and civil war prevented development in other European countries. The civilization of the ancient world reached the western world by a sort of underground passage, and that passage was Holland.

We must pass over for lack of space, the incidents in the Dutch revolution by which Holland shook off the power of Spain and the yoke of Rome, and established a Protestant republic. From this revolution she emerged the foremost power in Europe; foremost in wealth, in liberty, enlightenment and privileges. At a time when education and industry and freedom languished in England; when the ruler of France could say with truth, "L'etat c'est moi"—I am the State; when Germany lay devastated as a result of the thirty years war; when the hopes of Scandinavia had departed in the death of Gustavus Adolphus—the Dutch "red, white and blue" waved over a people as happy, prosperous and free as the most civilized nation of to-day.

1. They had full religious liberty. Catholics and Protestants and Jews worshipped side by side. Their constitution had the clause that "no inquisition should be made into any man's belief and conscience, nor should any, because thereof, suffer any injury or hindrance."

2. They had excellent reformatory and charitable institutions. English travellers at that time speak not only in terms of praise, but of astonishment, at the provisions made for such unfortunates.

3. They had a very wide system of suffrage. In the agricultural districts in the North every citizen who owned a house, no matter how small, could cast his vote.

4. They had a secret ballot. It was first used in a church election in the city of Alkmaar, in 1578. Its use spread shortly throughout the provinces.

5. They had a representative government. Their upper and lower house or chambers were most like to our House of Representatives and Senate. Their constitution seems to have been the model of our own. It had two or three fatal weaknesses; weaknesses which Butler, Randolph, Madison, Morris, Franklin and Hamilton pointed out, and which we thus avoided. But for these weaknesses, the Dutch Republic might exist to-day.

6. They had an independent judiciary. The senate could appoint the judges, and after their confirmation by the stockholder, they could not be removed, except by impeachment.

7. They had a just penal system. The accused was always confronted with the witness against him, and had full liberty to cross-examine; if too poor, was provided with a lawyer, and when accused unjustly his accuser had to pay the costs.

8. Their prison government had many features in common with ours. The inmates had to labor, saw wood, sew and spin, etc. Their treatment was very humane.

9. They had common schools free for all. Education was insisted on because they said "It is the foundation of the commonwealth." As early as 1609 the schools had become the property of the people, and were paid for by the municipal authorities.

10. They had a free press. So long as an author did not offend public morals or attack private character, he was not molested. The government did not concern itself with opinions on philosophy, religion or politics.

11. They had excellent opportunities for higher education. A full college education could be secured at a very low cost. The country supported six great universities, the most famous of which was Leiden. More than two thousand students from England studied there the first century after its establishment.

The reader will notice the great similarity between these institutions and privileges and those which we possess. If it can be shown that the connection between America and Holland was sufficiently close to allow for their transmission, the probability is that we are indebted for them to Holland. Let us see. In 1614 a colony of Hollanders planted itself in New York. They brought, of course, the institution of the fatherland along. This State was the first one that had free schools open to all, was the first to do away with church establishment, the first to assert by constitutional provision the principle of perfect religious freedom, and ever maintained the freedom of the press. This certainly is significant.

In 1621 the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth. They had for twelve years lived in the heart of Holland, in Leiden. They had enjoyed the freedom of the Dutch republic and seen its working. Coming here, they were more liberal and enlightened than either of the other English colonists. They banished no Baptists, hung no Quakers, burned no witches, a delusion which at that time was ridiculed in Holland.

In 1626 the Puritans settled in Salem. According to Fiske, two thirds of them came from the east coast of England, from a section of country where a century and a half ago thousands of Hollanders had settled, and whither, fifty years before, eighty thousand Hollanders had fled at the outbreak of the war with Spain. The conduct of the Salem colonists strikingly agrees and disagrees with what they saw in England. They practiced the intolerance of England, but introduced reforms with which the English Parliament many years later struggled in vain. They did, however, not introduce a single religion which they might not have learned from the Dutch refugees.

In 1633 a detachment from Plymouth settled at Windsor, Conn. It is claimed by historians that here the American form of commonwealth originated. "On the banks of the Connecticut, under the mighty preaching of Thomas Hooker, we drew the first breath of that atmosphere which is so familiar to us." This Thomas Hooker resided and preached for three years in Delft, Holland. It also furnished a home for John Davenport for the same length of time.

In 1636 Roger Williams established a settlement in Rhode Island. Roger Williams was a thorough student of Dutch history and literature. He preached in a region of country which was full of "Anabaptists," a people who had maintained for over a century the views which Williams advocated, and for which he is famous.

In 1681 Wm. Penn founded Pennsylvania. He was the son of a Dutch woman, Margaret Jasper, of Rotterdam. His religious ideas were derived from his mother's country. According to "Barclay," English and American Quakerism is the doctrine of the Dutch Mennonites under another name. Penn traveled extensively in Holland, spoke the language, and made there many converts, who settled in his commonwealth.

Seven of our States—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania—came under the direct influence of Dutch ideas. The connection between Holland and America was thus sufficiently close to allow for their transmission.

Various other things can be traced back to Holland influences. Arminius, a Dutch professor, systematized the doctrines which Wesley, the founder of Methodism, embraced. Rutgers College, Union College, Hope College, and other schools, all established by Dutch immigrants, have rendered splendid service to freedom and religion. One of her sons, Hugo Grotius, gave to the world the first code of international law. Van Vondel did much for literature in influencing Milton. Patinier, Rembrandt, Paul Potter, the brothers Van Dyke, Gerard Don, Adrian Brouwer, Frank Hals, Van der Helst, Buysdaal and others did much for painting; Erasmus for scholarship, Spinoza for philosophy, and Kuenen for higher criticism.

Was there space I would enumerate some of the many flowers and trees and vegetables which the Hollanders have introduced into our garden society, the various fabrics and patterns of lace work that are the delight of our ladies, the dainties that tempt the palate—cookies and waffles and muffins and crullers and doughnuts—which are Dutch inventions.

In our great revolutionary struggle Holland gave us her unselfish sympathy. Her example in shaking off the yoke of an oppressive master inspired our leaders and nerved them on to victory. She politely refused to give to Great Britain the aid to which she, according to the treaty of Nymwegen, was entitled. She opened her harbors for the protection and shelter of our fleets. She advanced us a loan of fourteen million in the most critical moment of our struggle, when our silver dollar had depreciated to the value of five cents, and our credit was gone. Hollanders were the first to salute our new-born stars and stripes; burned the first powder of welcome to our flag, and were the first after France to acknowledge our independence.

Pamphlets written by Dutch scholars greatly encouraged and cheered our struggling revolutionists. These facts are gratefully recorded in the letters and addresses of Madison, Franklin and Washington. When at length our independence was announced among them, a wave of joy spread over the country, which found expression in thanksgivings, illuminations and bon-fires.

Many loving links bind Holland and America. Great and glorious is the part which this little country of windmills and dykes, and polders and vessels, and velvety meadows and comely farms and quaint old cities, and liberty-loving people, has played in the development of humanity, and especially in the formation of America.

May nothing break the friendship that has existed between the two countries until now. May both stand the invincible foes of every form of tyranny; may both be inexorably firm in the protection of virtues; may both stand in the radiant front of humanity's benefactors, and may their common colors, the red, white and blue, be seen on every sea, and be honored in every clime, for unnumbered centuries to come.—The Herald and Presbyter.

STATE CENSUS FIGURES.

A Gain of 147,565 Shown Since the Government's Count in 1890.

LANSING, Sept. 7.—An important bulletin has been issued from the state census department. It gives the corrected total population of the state at 2,941,641, of which 1,070,786 are natives and 1,870,855 foreign born. The population of males among the foreign born is 3.47 per cent greater than in the native population. The report shows a steady proportionate increase in the number of foreign born persons in the state over the census of 1890.

The table relating to the nativity of the inhabitants of the state is of considerable interest, nothing so exhaustive having ever been compiled in the state before. The number of inhabitants of incorporated cities returned as having both parents native is 240,633; the number having both parents foreign born, 467,536, and the number having one of each, 90,182.

Outside the cities the number is 671,173 native, 537,392 foreign and 168,292 native and foreign. The number in each 1,000 having native parents is 301 in the cities, as compared with 488 in the country; the number having both parents foreign born is 586 in the cities, as compared with 390 in the country; and the number having one parent native and the other foreign born is 113 in the cities, as compared with 122 in the country. The number of inhabitants the total of foreign parentage was 412 in 1870, 547 in 1890 and 584 in 1900.

The state has increased in population since 1890 but 147,565, a large proportion of the number being accounted for by the growth of the cities. Many of the agricultural counties show an actual decrease in population. The population of some of the leading cities is given as follows:

Detroit.....	287,887	Battle Creek.....	15,822
Grand Rapids.....	79,434	Menominee.....	12,838
Saginaw.....	44,444	Ann Arbor.....	11,069

VICTIMS OF DYNAMITE.

Explosion of a Cartridge Kills One and Injures Two Persons.

HASTINGS, Mich., Sept. 7.—A terrible accident occurred Friday morning on the farm of Henry Ragley, 6 miles northeast of this city, which resulted in the death of one and serious injury of two other persons. Robert Bryan, of Coates' Grove, was employed in driving a well. He had driven down 99 feet and was blasting with dynamite through a large rock. As he stood by the well with a cartridge in his hand ready to drop into the pipe, the cartridge exploded with terrific force, killing him instantly and severely injuring Mrs. Henry Ragley and Miss Whitney, who were standing near. Bryan was terribly mangled, having his forearm entirely blown away and his body torn open so that his vitals protruded.

THE STATE FAIR.

It Opens at Grand Rapids—Entries Are Numerous.

GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 10.—The forty-sixth annual fair of the state fair association opened at Comstock park, in this city Monday, in conjunction with the West Michigan association. The entries in all departments are numerous, and if the weather be favorable the success of the meeting is assured. The display of live stock, agricultural products and fruits is especially large, varied and choice. The agricultural implement manufacturers have not in late years made exhibits at the fairs, but this year most of the leading concerns are represented and the display is the largest ever made in Michigan.

Four Boilers Explode.

MARINE CITY, Mich., Sept. 11.—Just before resuming work at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the four boilers in the Marine City State company's salt block exploded with terrific force, completely demolishing the boilers, boiler-house and a portion of the main building, and injuring two men. Charles Essenberg was probably fatally and Roswell Heath was severely injured. The explosion was caused by low water or high steam in one of the boilers. The damage is estimated at $15,000.

Michigan Bankers Meet.

DETROIT, Sept. 11.—Over 100 of the leading bankers of the state gathered in annual session here Tuesday afternoon. The address of welcome by Don M. Dickinson was responded to by Gerritt J. Diekena, of Holland. The feature of the day's session was the annual address of President S. M. Cutcheon. In his remarks he declared that the effect of the passage of a free coinage law would be disastrous to the best interests of the country, not to say dishonest.

The farmers on the island are leaving everything and fleeing to the St. James river and the coast. Many thousand dollars' worth of valuable timber has already been burned, and clouds of smoke cover the lake. Cinders have been borne to the mainland. The only hope of stopping the fire is in backfiring at the swamp between the marsh and the village of Cross. If not stopped there the town must go.

Holland City News.

SATURDAY, Sept. 14

"Died on His Ship."

One of the most harrowing accidents that the News has been called upon to chronicle in its columns for several months befell Captain George Crawford of the steamer City of Holland last Sunday morning between 11:00 and 12:00 o'clock. He left here Saturday evening on the Holland feeling hale and hearty, and in good spirits. His boat reached Chicago on time and after landing its passengers at the State street dock pulled down to the lower wharf to unload and take on freight. It was here that Capt. Crawford made the mistake that cost him his life. The crew were engaged in loading hides for the Cappon & Bertsch Leather Co. In the hurry one of the pelts fell into the water from the gang plank. Captain Crawford stepped down upon the stringer of the wharf and made an effort to recover it when the swash of a passing tug forced the Holland toward the pier thus crushing the unfortunate man between the boat guard and the dock. It was readily seen that he was seriously injured and a physician was at once summoned who administered treatment which for the time being allayed the pain which was of an internal nature. It was not thought, that the injuries were of a serious character although Manager W. R. Owen and others advised that Capt. Crawford be sent to St. Luke's Hospital where he could receive proper care and treatment. He however expressed a desire to be brought to his home in this city and his wishes were complied with. Soon after leaving Chicago Mr. Crawford's symptoms became more alarming and he sank rapidly until 12:30 o'clock when he passed away surrounded by his shipmates and friends who were on the steamer at the time. Just as he expired the Soo City, the companion steamer of the line, passed them in mid-lake.

But few in Holland knew of the accident although a telegram conveyed the intelligence to Mrs. Crawford on Sunday evening that he had been injured. After the steamer reached Holland, Monday morning, the news spread rapidly and the shock to the wife when she learned that the injuries had terminated fatally prostrated her completely. All steamers have since carried there colors and jacks at half mast and there has been universal feeling of sympathy.

The funeral took place from the home of the deceased on Twelfth st. on Wednesday afternoon and was conducted under the auspices of Unity Lodge F. & A. M. About fifty members of the order were out in regalia and the attendance at the funeral was large many coming from Saugatuck, South Haven and other points. Floral emblems were numerous and handsome and included an anchor from the crew of the Soo City a large pillow and other floral tributes from the crew of the City of Holland, and wreaths, sprays and flowers from the lodge and personal friends. Brief services were conducted at the house by the Rev. Mr. Linsley and at the grave by Chaplain Britton of Saugatuck in accordance with the ritual of the Masonic order. The pall bearers were James Huntley, Wm. Hopkins, John Van Anrooy, G. H. Williams, Arthur Goodrich and Alfred Huntley.

Captain Crawford has considerable capital invested in the Holland & Chicago Transportation Co. and has taken an active hand in advancing its interests. He was well known throughout Ottawa, Allegan and Van Buren counties and has been engaged in the steamboat business for years. He was respected by every one with whom he came in contact and during his two years residence in Holland made many warm friends.

Our Mayor Abroad.

Mayor Diekema was a prominent figure at the banquet of the Michigan bankers at the Russell House in Detroit on Tuesday. He had the honor of being the first speaker of the evening and President S. M. Cutcheon through toastmaster Henry Russell introduced him as "a Dutchman, one of the Mayflower Dutch." The Detroit Journal gives the following synopsis of his remarks:

"The Position of the National Revenue, which is Merely Interest on Material Capital, probably does not amount to One-Third, the Rest is the Result of Personal Capital, or, in Other Words, of Education." Mr. Diekema said that he was reminded of a story, where a Dutchman and his Katrina were out on a sparking tour. He asked her how she would like a kiss and the reply being suspicious he said, let us pray, and the osculation followed the prayer, and after this the Dutch lover said, 'Let us return thanks,' and the return of thanks was followed by more osculation. He said that when he was called upon for a speech he was reminded that when a man knew nothing about a subject he must search the books and he had read Cleveland on Revenue and the Tariff Tax, and Carlisle on the 16 to 1 question, but he had not found any thing that would cover his subject. He put in a sly dig for Holland and Ottawa county, and told a story of a man who was arraigned before a local court for bigamy. The justice, he said, and looked up the law, and could not find any such offense, and when the sheriff told him the man had been arrested for living with three wives, the justice replied that this was trigonometry and not covered in the law at all. Growing serious, he said, "No child born under the stars and stripes can say he has no capital (applause). Capital is money, experience and education." Then he told the story of the young Hebrew who had started a clothing store in a fireproof building, and disappointed his parents by so doing. He said the farmer is the true capitalist, because he produces something. Behind capital you must have experience and education, and such capital has the native American. (Applause.)

Tragedy at the Beach.

JAKE VAN RY SHOTS HIS WIFE THREE TIMES AND THEN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Those who passed back and forth on Macatawa Bay on Saturday morning and saw the smoke curling up from the ruins of Jacob Van Ry's cottage north of Ottawa Beach on the big bayou little realized that a tragedy was to follow. The usual quietness of the Sabbath afternoon in Holland was disturbed by receipt of the news that Van Ry had in a moment of desperation about 2:30 o'clock had shot his wife three times at Ottawa Beach and then turned the weapon upon himself with probably fatal results in both instances. Information of the shooting spread rapidly and in a very short time a curious crowd gathered. As soon as possible the injured parties were carried to the steamer Music and medical assistance summoned from Holland. Doctors George Baker and J. D. Wetmore took the Lizzie Walsh and met the Music near King's dock.

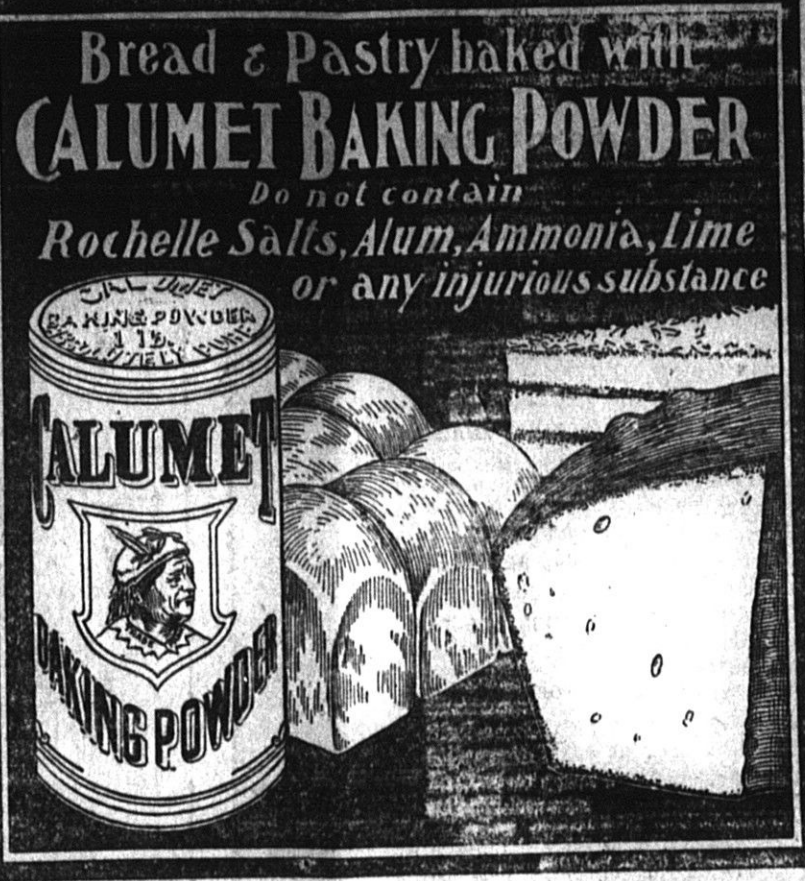

The circumstances of the shooting so far as can be ascertained are these: For some time the domestic relations between Van Ry and his wife have not been of the pleasantest nature. On Friday last they had a quarrel and it was virtually understood that they would separate. There was some talk about removing her effects from the cottage but as Van Ry and his wife had frequently disagreed before and it was an open fact that they were jealous of each other, little heed was paid to their personal wrangles.

The following morning only ashes and smoldering timbers showed where the Van Ry cottage, built by an inheritance from his grandmother, stood. During Saturday Van Ry said to a friend that he was without home, money or wife, and despondent and he had little to live for. Sunday he acted strangely and about noon went to John Bush the fisherman saying: "Can I borrow your gun as I want it to shoot a bothersome dog with." Soon afterward the shooting occurred. Later he appeared on the Ottawa Beach dock and approached his wife who was in company of Klaas Baker, her sister Minnie Ogden and Mary Baker, saying, "Mattie, I want to see you and have a talk." She showed considerable indifference, answered that she did not care to see him, and started to walk away. Van Ry then took the revolver from his pocket and grasping his wife shot her in the cheek just below the left eye. She managed to release herself from his embrace and cried for help, but before any assistance could be rendered two more shots were fired in rapid succession, one taking effect at the left of the carotid artery, close to the jugular vein, the other in the lower part of the left scapula opposite the heart.

The bullet which Van Ry turned upon himself crashed through his skull and lodged in his brain.

Upon reaching Holland Van Ry was immediately taken to the home of his brother Marshall Frank Van Ry on Seventh street where he has been under the treatment of Dr. Geo. Baker. He, at the time of going to press was in comatose condition and has been since the tragedy. He takes nourishment quite freely. At times he seems to rally and again relapse into a weaker and more alarming state. This Friday afternoon his pulse was 49 and his temperature 99 and he seemed to be resting quietly.

Mrs. Van Ry was in such a condition on Wednesday that she could be taken to the home of her father Chancy Ogden and it is thought she will recover. The bullet that entered her cheek has not been located as yet but the other two have been extracted. Dr. Wetmore has the bullet which lodged in the neck and it shows two sides flattened as if trimmed off by the barrel of the revolver. His theory is that if the revolver had been in good condition any one of the three shots might have resulted fatally as it was a .38 caliber weapon. Those who witnessed the shootings say that the first cartridge that Van Ry snapped at himself missed fire and that he deliberately and calmly adjusted the chamber of the cylinder so that the shot would be more effectual. There has been no meeting between the husband and wife since the tragic occurrence.

Sent to the Reform School.

It was learned through the authorities at Grand Rapids last week, that several young girls had left their homes in this city on Labor day and gone to Grand Rapids with the avowed intention of entering houses of ill fame. In some instances the parents of the girls did not seem to take much interest in them, but Harm Koster whose daughter Hattie aged 15 was located in one of these houses, had her arrested there by Marshall Van Ry on Saturday and brought to this city. She was arraigned before Justice Kollen on Monday charged with leading an immoral life and was sent to the Reform School at Adrian for a period of six years.

The girls are not the only ones who should be made to pay the penalty of the law. There are procuresses who come to Holland occasionally and induce young girls to sacrifice loving parents and respectable homes for lives of shame. They are the ones that ought to come within the clutches of the law.

Crop Report.

Washington Gardiner, secretary of state, sends out the following crop report under the date of Sept. 7:

For this report correspondents have secured from threshers the results of 4,929 jobs, aggregating more than 76,000 acres of wheat threshed in the state, the yield from which was 962,832 bushels, an average of 12.61 bushels per acre. In the southern counties more than 61,000 acres threshed averaged 12.37 bushels per acre. In the central counties the average is 13.83 bushels, and in the northern counties 11.29 bushels.

The number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers since the August report was published is 702,999. Of this amount 263,195 bushels were marketed before August 1, but not reported until late in August, and 439,804 bushels in August. The amount of wheat reported marketed since the August report was published is 249,804 bushels less than reported for the same time in 1894, and the amount reported marketed in the 12 months ending with July, which is the wheat year for Michigan, is 11,270,799 bushels or 4,180,159 bushels less than marketed in the same months of the previous years.

There are 317 stations in the state from which reports of wheat marketed were received regularly each month during the two years 1893-94 and 1894-95. The amount marketed during the former year was 6,872,583 bushels, and during the latter year 5,287,792 bushels, a decrease of 1,584,791 bushels.

Oats are estimated to yield in the state about 23 bushels, and barley 16.50 bushels per acre. Beans promise 76 per cent; potatoes 81 per cent; apples, 28 per cent, and peaches 80 per cent of average crops.

The mean temperature of the state was 67.9 degrees. The mean temperature of the southern four tiers of counties was 70.4 degrees; of the central counties, 66.5; of the northern, 64.8; and of the upper peninsula, 62.4 degrees. Compared with the normal there was a slight excess in each section except the northern.

The average rainfall in the state during the month was 3.09 inches; in the southern counties, 3.85 inches; in the central, 3.14 inches; in the northern 2.68 inches, and in the upper peninsula, 2.30 inches. Compared with the normal there was an excess in the southern and central counties and the state, and a deficiency in the northern counties and the upper peninsula. In the southern part of the state the rainfall after the 22d was nearly three times the amount previous to that date.

Card of Thanks.

Myself and daughter desire to extend through the columns of the News our heartfelt thanks to ladies of the Maccabees and the neighbors and friends who so kindly extended assistance during the illness and at the funeral of my wife.

A Pleasant Event.

The Bay View Reading Circle held its first banquet on last Friday at the cottage of Mrs. J. P. Oggel, Jenison Park. Nearly all the members were present and the affair was a very pleasant one.

Mrs. Oggel placed her dining room at the disposal of the circle and the ladies found the table prettily decorated with smilax and golden rod, while at each plate was a rose and souvenir card, presented by the hostess, who is also a member of the circle. The viands were various and delicious and after doing full justice to them, the ladies gathered on the piazza.

The after dinner talk was a "feast of reason," interspersed with pearls of wisdom and diamonds of wit. Among the diversions was voting for the class flower and color yellow, and the rose received the highest number of votes. Four o'clock tea was served which completed the feminine idea of a "truly delightful day."

The ladies wish it understood that there is no limit to the number who may join the circle. It is open to all who are interested in study or other literary work.

The coming year is an English course and begins Nov. 1st.

Blue Rock Gun Club.

There was a smaller team out than usual at the Tuesday shoot of the Blue Rock Gun club. At 25 singles the score stood: C. J. De Roo 7, C. Harmon 16, A. Mabbs 9, D. Blom 13, R. M. McKee 16, W. Thomas 13. A special shoot between R. M. McKee and C. J. De Roo at 10 singles resulted in the former score 8 the latter 6.

A Shoot on the Beach.

Friday afternoon last some members of the Blue Rock Gun Club, a few crack shots from the life saving crew, two representatives of the Zealand club and a few local nimrods participated in a shoot at Macatawa Park for a medal offered by the life saving crew. The medal a very unique one composed of aluminum was the handy work of Mr. Tanner one of the members of the crew. The score for the first shoot at 25 birds stood:

Skinner 20, Tanner 14, Johnson 13, Smith 19, Fairbanks 4, Karsten 22, Ferguson 21, J. Kraus 16, H. Harmon 16, A. Harrington 13, J. C. Post 9, G. J. Diekema, Col. W. H. Perry 6.

In the second contest at the same number of birds the score stood:

Karsten 16, H. Harmon 21, A. Harrington 9, Skinner 20, Johnson 14, Regemoter 8, Tanner 17.

Henry Harmon wears the medal, but there will be another fight for it.

Careless Shooting.

We would like to call the attention of our local Nimrods to the fact, that as duck hunting is again the order of the day, careless firing in the direction of the houses or yards of the people living along Black River, will no longer be tolerated. Time and again volley after volley have struck the houses or passed over the heads of the people in our neighborhood, and it is high time a halt should be called to this reckless business, as sooner or later some one may be injured, if this is continued.

We notice that signs have been put upon the college campus requesting people not to loiter upon it, or to cross it. This is evidently a move in the right direction by the council of the college. We hope that those who loiter there till sometimes late in the night for mischievous purposes, will be looked after by the proper authorities. The paths the public have made in crossing the campus, we notice are rapidly growing wider. If allowed to go on, they would soon comprise a large part of the campus, and would make it as barren as a street. A little reflection will lead people to see the appropriateness of such a notice, and all who take pride in this educational institution will be glad to heed it.

MERCURIAL POISON

Is the result of the usual treatment of blood disorders. The system is filled with Mercury and Potash remedies—more to be dreaded than the disease—and in a short while is in a far worse condition than before. The most common result is RHEUMATISM for which S. S. S. is the most reliable cure. A few bottles will afford relief where all else has failed. I suffered from a severe attack of Mercurial Rheumatism, my arms and legs being swollen to more than twice their natural size, causing the most excruciating pains. I spent hundreds of dollars without relief, but after taking a few bottles of S. S. S. I was completely cured. I can heartily recommend your wonderful medicine to anyone afflicted with this painful disease. W. F. DALEY, Brooklyn Elevated R. R. Still Talking.
The People of Holland Interested--A Personal Interview.
We have been talking to the public about a remedy for lame back, backache and all kidney disorders; now the people are talking to us. If you are weak or weary, have "bad back," lame or aching, your kidneys are talking to you, warning you that they are overtaxed, and this talk interests you.
Listen:
Our representative has been kept pretty busy investigating the numerous and almost wonderful cures in Holland that are occurring daily, through the agency of those little enemies to Kidney Complaints, Doan's Kidney Pills. The subject of this interview is Mrs. D. Van Oort, who resides on River Street. Our representative asked if she had been benefited by taking Doan's Kidney Pills.
"Yes," she replied, "very much."
"What was the main cause of your trouble?"
"Oh, it was my back. For years it caused me much suffering; some mornings I was in such pain I could not get out of bed."
"Whereabouts was the pain?"
"Right in through the back."
"Were you feeling badly at the time you began with the pills?"
"Yes, indeed, I had been for a whole week unable to do anything but sit around. I got a box of them at J. O. Doesburg's drug store, and they helped me from the start."
"How many did you take?"
"I used only that one box and I was restored. I am now able to get around and perform my work without suffering from that terrible 'bad back.' Doan's Kidney Pills are good medicine and you are welcome to use my name as an endorsement of them."
Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers,
price 50 cts. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's and take no other.

MINERS PERISH.
Fire Breaks Out in a Copper Mine
in Michigan.
Thirty-Five Men Entombed in the Burning Pit--All Avenues of Escape
Cut Off, and They Are Doubtless Dead.
Houghton, Mich., Sept. 9.--At 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon fire was discovered by timbermen in the thirty-seventh level of the Osceola copper mine. The timbermen at once rushed to the shaft, and when brought to the surface in the big bucket gave the alarm. Thirty-six miners were at work at the time, and up to the present but one person has been rescued, a pump boy, and he died shortly after reaching the open air. Among those known to have been imprisoned in the burning mine are the following:
The Doomed Men.
Capt. Richard Trembly, shift boss; Fred
Beardon, Richard Bichel, Michael Johnson,
Michael Schulze, Alexander Daniel, John Gud-
dly, Moses Greenfield, William Bryant, Thomas Curtis, Robert Johns, Peter Palm-
seen, William Donald, Barney Elmer, Anton Sevsky, Peter Stangard, Frank Leader, Walter Dahl, Joseph Lawler, Joseph Harrington,
A. Wiazia, Andrew Ross, Stephen Bythore, Joseph Stutta, Isaac Harvey and two Austrian trammers, names unknown.
Twenty of the unfortunates are married and most of them have large families.
The blaze on the thirty-seventh level
is 3,000 feet below the earth's surface.
The underground workings are heavily timbered with pine, and as the fire spread it generated great quantities carbonic acid gas, which sank to the lower level, so that death from suffocation is as certain to all in the level below the thirty-seventh as to those above. Smoke is pouring in dense volumes from the mouth of every shaft in the mine, and escape through those openings is impossible.
An Incendiary's Work.
It is now positively known that the thirty-five men entombed cannot possibly escape, nor can their bodies be recovered until the fire is entirely extinguished, which may not be for months.
It is the opinion of some of the oldest officials of the mine that the fire was the work of an incendiary. They say there could be no other explanation of the fire starting in that portion by any other means, as no oil, waste or rubbish is used or accumulates there,
and the timber work is out of the reach of the lamps on the miners' hats.
Warnings Unheeded.
The saddest feature of the disaster is that all the doomed wretches might have escaped had they heeded warnings, as Capt. Edwards, who was the first to detect the existence of fire, dispatched messengers to every slope
where the miners were known to be working, but as the mine is not heavily timbered, except in the shafts, the idea of serious danger was scouted.
By going a roundabout way the last men who were in the lower level of No.
4 shaft might have escaped, but they preferred a shorter route of ascent, and when they got up to the eighteenth level found themselves cut off. Some passed into lateral drifts expecting to reach other shafts. Capt. White descended with Anton Sevsky, who said
he had left his father in a lower level,
but Sevsky lost his head, and finding him unmanageable Capt. White abandoned him to his fate and pushed toward the south workings of the mine and reached the surface in safety, the only one of the party in No. 4 shaft to escape. He reported that he had offered to carry one of the drill boys to the surface, but the boy was so frightened that he refused to move and was left to perish.
Pathetic Scenes.
Gathered about the shafts of the Osceola are the wives, mothers and children of the unfortunate men, anxiously awaiting further news from their loved ones. The scenes are very pathetic, but beyond the doubtful assurance that the men may have found the abandoned Hecla drift little comfort can be extended. Every effort is being put forth to rescue the unfortunate men, but hope is not high.
The Burning Mine.
The Osceola is, next to the Tamarack, the chief copper producer in the Clark Bigelow group. It has been in continuous operation since 1888 and paid average dividends of $100,000 annually. The deepest point of the mine is 2,700 feet.
CALUMET, Mich., Sept. 11.--Ten miners went down the southernmost shaft of the Osceola mine Monday morning.
The men were especially selected
among the fearless and experienced workmen, habituated to breathing powder smoke and foul air. The party descended in the skip, or iron car, used in bringing up rock from the mine to the 24th level, and managed to press
north on that level to within 250 feet of No. 4 shaft, next south of the burning one. At that point two of the party were overcome by the gas, and to save adding fresh victims to the already long list the relief expedition turned back. In No. 1 shaft at the other end of the mine a similar attempt was made by a carefully organized party similar to the first, but at the depth of only 280 feet down the shaft smoke was met in such volume that it was foolhardy to descend further and the miners quickly came to the surface. The experience of the rescuing parties are in Nos. 1
and 5, where the smoke would naturally be met with in the least quantities, renders it certain that the entire mine is now filled with it, and cuts off
the last hope that the missing men may have been able to preserve their lives. Rescuing parties will be sent down as frequently as possible to test the condition. It will probably be several days before the mine will be clear of smoke, even if the fire has gone out, which is quite doubtful. Every shaft was late Monday afternoon ordered tightly closed up, to remain so for twenty-four hours.
