Drive for Hope Building Opens

$50,000 Sought in Holland This Week at Start of Campaign

Need Two Hundred, Fifty Thousand for Science Structure

Hope college has launched a far-flung campaign for funds for the erection of a science building on the campus, President Wynand Wichers announced. The objective is the sum of $250,000 for a thoroughly modern and completely equipped building to be erected as soon as the campaign for funds has advanced far enough to justify it.

While the drive for funds will probably be extended over a period of months so that all sections of the country served by Hope college and from which it draws students and financial support may be properly canvassed, Holland as a local community is being covered in an intensive campaign of one week, beginning last Monday.

Plans have been perfected and committees have been organized to canvass the local community during this week and to give all an opportunity to share in the success of the project. Later on campaigns will be put on in the various Reformed churches in America, and many other groups directly or indirectly connected with Hope college will be given an opportunity to contribute, but during the week of Sept. 11 Holland as a community is being given an opportunity to fire the opening gun, on the theory that success at home will be a powerful aid in soliciting funds in other places; and those in charge of the campaign suggest that Holland as a community is always liberal in such causes and is likely to be a good pace-setter for other communities.

Plans have been rather carefully worked out in line with the most approved technique of handling campaigns of this sort. Holland is not being asked to subscribe blindly but has been given an allotment that is held to be in reasonable proportion to the benefit the community derives from Hope college.

Holland as a community is being given the opportunity to subscribe one fifth of the sum required, or a total of $50,000. An attempt will be made to raise that amount during the week of Sept. 11. If at the end of the week that sum has been pledged the committees will not only feel that the local campaign has been a success but that the biggest step has been taken to make the project as a whole a success.

It is pointed out that some hundreds of students from families of the city and surrounding community attend Hope college from year to year, some of whom would have little or no opportunity for higher education if they had to go away from home for it. Since the cost of educating a student is materially higher than the amount paid in tuition, many thousands of dollars are contributed annually by the institution to people of the community. It is considered logical therefore that the community should have the first chance to do its part in supplying the college with the physical equipment it needs to carry on this work of education.

RECORD IS SET BY FALL HEAT

Wednesday's 95 Is Highest in Twenty-Six Years in Holland

A belated summer heat mark was established here Wednesday when the mercury soared to 95 degrees about 4 p.m.

The 95-degree mark was the hottest September day Holland had experienced in 26 years and was one degree under the all-time record of 96 degrees which was set Sept. 3, 1913. Bert Smith, weather observer, reported today.

This is the second time this month that the temperature has soared to a new record, the previous mark being 93 on Sept. 3. Prior to that date the summer heat record was 91.

Mr. Smith released figures today to show the high temperatures for each September since 1906 as follows: 1906, 92; 1907, 87; 1908, 88; 1909, 90; 1910, 78; 1911, 86; 1912, 94; 1913, 96; 1914, 87; 1915, 90; 1916, 87; 1917, 88; 1918, 84; 1919, 78; 1920, 90; 1921, 89; 1922, 93; 1923, 92; 1924, 88; 1925, 91; 1926, 82; 1927, 92; 1928, 87; 1929, 91; 1930, 89; 1931, 91; 1932, 87; 1933, 92; 1934, 85; 1935, 86; 1936, 89; 1937, 91; 1938, 82.

There was little moderation in today's weather. At 11 a.m. today, the temperature in Holland was 85 in comparison with 84 for the same hour Wednesday.

The temperature at 1:45 p.m. today was 90 degrees.

HEAR HEAD OF STATE'S CLUBS

Local Exchangeites Given Suggestions for Work During Year

Gale L. Wessinger of Detroit, state Exchange club president, spoke to members of the Holland Land Exchange club at the first meeting of the new Exchange year at the Holland Country club Monday noon.

He urged that Holland men support a state-wide Exchange movement to declare Sept. 14 a national holiday commemorating that date as the 125th anniversary of the writing of the Star Spangled Banner.

He also presented local members with an Exchange award for standing first in attendance among the clubs of the state for the past year.

As other objectives for Exchange clubs for the new year, he suggested that the state organization be divided into districts so that clubs within a district could be organized to hold joint meetings and that each club send two representatives to visit other clubs of the state.

During the meeting, Jack Dykstra, John Kobbes, and Bruce Van Leuven were received as new members of the local club. They were welcomed by Jacob Fris. Guests were J. Bennett and Dr. Garrett Heyns, former superintendent of the Holland Christian schools and former warden of Ionia reformatory.

Those in charge of the canvass for funds here and later throughout the territory served by Hope college announced that a science building will be erected, regardless of whether the whole amount is subscribed or not. A beginning will be made as soon as circumstances permit, and those who subscribe can feel assured that their subscription will be earmarked specifically for the erection of a science building on the campus. But it is hoped that the total amount can be secured in pledges within a reasonable time so that plans may go forward on the basis of erecting a science building on the campus that will fill the need of the local institution for many years to come.

RAYMOND SAYS U.S. WILL ENTER LONG CONFLICT

Assails Cash and Carry Neutrality as Sure War Danger

Tells Club Only Rebellion by German People Will Shorten Crisis

If the war in Europe continues three or four years, the United States will be in it, Dr. Bruce M. Raymond, head of Hope college's history department, predicted in an address to members of the Holland Rotary club at their luncheon meeting in the Warm Friend tavern last Thursday.

"I have no hope, if this is a long war, but that we will be in it," he declared in summing up an interesting analysis of the background of the European war. America's chance of escaping the conflict, he said, rested on a strict neutrality policy and the possibility that the war may not be prolonged.

But he said he believed an early end of the war could be accomplished only by a rebellion within Germany against Hitler.

He asserted that cash-and-carry neutrality would not be strict neutrality "and the closer we come to it, the closer we come to war."

"If Nazis do not revolt, you will see a long war, a series of incidents changing public opinion, and, finally, active participation by this country," he warned.

Pertinent to his talk was his analysis of the present neutrality act, which he described as a "good" act. However, he said that he had no sympathy with President Roosevelt's cash-and-carry policy.

"If we initiate a cash and carry neutrality, selling supplies to the warring nations, we would necessarily sell only to the allied nations. It would merely be a subterfuge to fight Germany without going to war."

Dr. Raymond said he would side with strict isolationists. "The longer we stay out of the war," he declared, "the better our neutrality, the longer we stay out of the war."

He devoted his talk to a comparison of history past with history in the making. After he had sketched the events since 1500 in Europe, he pointed to similarity between events of the present and those preceding 1914 in Europe.

"It seems that the explanation offered that there is a stock market panic about every 20 years because it takes approximately that long to grow a new crop of suckers is pertinent in the case of war."

Dr. Raymond pointed out that the treaty of Versailles at the end of the World War laid the foundation for the present conflict. He described humiliating treatment of the German conference representatives by the allies. "If ever a group of greedy old men got together to divide the spoils, it was then," he said. He quoted Clemenceau, then president of France, as saying, "After what we've done, the world is sitting on a keg of dynamite."

Dr. Raymond said that "Hitler would have done the world a great service by remaining a paper hanger, but he got into power by promising to junk the Versailles treaty."

CHEST BUDGET HERE STUDIED

Committee of Council of Social Agencies Votes on Requests

The executive committee of the Council of Social Agencies at a meeting at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the office of the E. R. A. in the city hall, considered the various budgets of those organizations which are requesting admission under the Community chest.

The committee voted on the recommendations which the committee will make to the Community chest regarding budget appropriations.

The Community chest board of directors will meet either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week in the office of Cornelius Vander Meulen to consider the budgets and recommendations. From these budgets, the board will determine the quota for the 1939 drive for chest funds.

The Rev. Paul E. Hinkamp, chairman of the council's executive committee, appointed a committee of three to investigate the matter of establishing a council of persons to whom delinquents could be paroled.

Rev. Hinkamp, chairman, George Schulling and M. P. Russell comprise the committee. The matter was first considered at the June committee when Rev. Hinkamp was authorized to appoint a committee.

Late Record Brings Honors

The late season record of Skipper Harold Van Tongeren in the 22-square meter racing class of the Macatowa Bay Yacht club gave him third place in the season's standing after Labor day races. The Van Tongeren boat won first in a special race for Macatowa boats of that class on Sept. 3.

HEAR EVIDENCE ON HOAX CASE

DeKok Facing Charge of Embezzlement; Case Is Adjourned

Grand Haven, Sept. 14 (Special) — After hearing evidence in the case of John DeKok of Lamont, charged with embezzling money from the Consumers Power Co., Judge Fred T. Miles adjourned the case until Monday when he will hear arguments of opposing counsel in the afternoon after which he will dispose of the case. Dr. William Reus of Jamestown testified that he, together with Dr. Patterson of Ann Arbor and Dr. Currier of Grand Rapids, held a consultation on the mental condition of DeKok. Dr. Reus informed the court that from the time the respondent was a youth he wanted sympathy and recognition. At one time, he applied for a teacher's position but was rejected because of his reputation, he said.

He informed the court he thought the reason DeKok on Feb. 4 bound his feet and arms, placed blood-soaked cotton as a gag in his mouth and remained in an apparently unconscious condition for nearly 24 hours was because he desired to make himself a "hero" in the community and not because he wanted to conceal any money.

Judge Miles granted DeKok's request to absent himself from the court room during Dr. Reus' testimony.

DeKok was arrested on complaint of Sheriff Frank Van Etta as the result of a hoax robbery he reported Feb. 4. He said two armed men held him up, taking his personal funds and $146 he collected as agent for the Consumers' Power Co. His wife found him bound in the store.

No postal funds were taken although post office authorities interested themselves and before his arrest, DeKok wrote a seven page letter to Inspector Arthur Hamilton in Grand Rapids describing the robbery. Later he admitted it was a hoax, Sheriff Van Etta said, and since has undergone treatment for an illness at Cutlerville sanitarium, a circumstance which brought about two postponements of the trial.

RELIEF CHANGE TO TAKE PLACE AT EARLY DATE

Selection of County's New Board Is Problem of Supervisors

Administration of Welfare on Economical Basis Faces Ottawa

With the approach of the time when the welfare setup in Ottawa county must be completely changed in order to conform with a statute passed at the last session of the state legislature, the question has arisen among county supervisors as to whether the relief problem, including administration costs, can be handled as economically under the new law as it has been conducted under the 40-60 basis.

The individual units of the county furnished 40 per cent of the funds required while the state supplied the remaining 60 per cent under the old plan.

The board of supervisors convenes Monday, Oct. 9, and one of the principal matters to be considered will be the appointment of a county board of social welfare which will consist of three members, two of whom will be appointed by the supervisors and a third who will be named by the state commission as its representative. However, each member will be a resident of Ottawa county and no person holding an elective office is eligible for appointment to the board.

Members of the present emergency relief administration commission, which will be dissolved after the new board has been formed, are George Heneveld, Park township supervisor, and Joseph W. Eaton, Jr., and Mayor Richard L. Cook of Grand Haven. Miss Deborah Veneklasen of Holland is county administrator.

To date, there has been no indication among the supervisors as to who will be the county appointee to the new welfare board.

Under provisions of the new welfare law, all the duties now performed by the poor commission will be taken care of by the new county department of welfare. The mothers' pension law has been repealed and will be administered under the social security program to be known as the aid to dependent children program. The new law also cares for old age assistance which is now a separate administration.

Supervisors in this section of the county have been questioned and they expect that, with local control, proper relief can be administered on an economical basis.

Mayor Henry Geerlings, one of the five Holland city supervisors, said that cities and townships are more able than the state to determine which persons need relief in their respective communities.

"Local control should result in a better handling of relief with less waste of funds and a more economical operation," he said.

City Assessor Peter H. Van Ark, also a member of the board by virtue of his office, said he hoped that relief can be handled as economically as in the past. He pointed out that each county will still be responsible to the state but the new law will eliminate the old method of handling welfare.

City Attorney Clarence A. Lokker said he could not make a definite statement as he had not thoroughly informed himself of the new welfare setup but he did state that he favored local relief control over state control.

Abel Postma, another Holland city supervisor, while not inclined to discuss the merits of the law, said that he somewhat favored the old welfare law. He stated that "in one way I favor local control and in another way I favor state control." Mr. Postma declined.

Chest Campaign Leader Selected

Peter Van Domelen, Jr., to Serve in Brief Drive in October

Budgets to Be Examined in Setting New Goal for Solicitations

Peter Van Domelen, Jr., will serve as chairman of the 1939 Community chest campaign which will open Oct. 23 and end Oct. 27, O. W. Lowry, president of the chest board, announced Tuesday.

Mr. Van Domelen will be assisted by A. W. Tahaney who as campaign chairman last year not only thoroughly organized his own campaign but formed a permanent setup for future drives.

In preparation of a new goal, the Holland Council of Social Agencies at its meeting Wednesday examined the 1939 budgets of the various organizations which are requesting admission under the Community chest. These budgets will be examined further by the budget committee of the chest board.

From these budgets, the quota for the drive will be determined. It is expected that the names of the participating organizations and the quotas for each group will be announced next week.

The organizations which have been sponsored by the chest the past year are Camp Fire girls, City Rescue mission, Michigan Children's Aid society, Michigan Crippled Children's society, Red Cross, Salvation army, Boy Scouts and Good Fellows' foundation.

"The community should consider itself extremely fortunate in securing the voluntary services of Mr. Van Domelen," Mr. Lowry said. TRAFFIC RULES TAKE EFFECT IN STATE SEPT. 29

Drivers to Be Unable to Turn Right on Red
Signal in State

Graduated Speed Limits
To Be Local Rule
for Vehicles

Michigan's new traffic law, which goes into state-wide effect Sept. 29, will have immediate effect on local traffic practices. Applications of the new law, which changed 21 sections of the old rules, will be particularly noticeable locally in regard to amended sections on traffic lights, speed limits, parking and conduct of pedestrians.

The new law provides for obedience to official traffic control devices and further states that vehicles may not turn right on the red light. The amendment reads: "Vehicular traffic facing the signal shall stop before entering the nearest crosswalk at an intersection or at such other point as may be indicated by a clearly visible line and shall remain standing until green or 'go' is shown."

A vehicle facing the green or "go" signal may proceed straight through or turn right or left unless a sign at such place prohibits either such turn; provided, that vehicular traffic shall yield the right of way to other vehicles and to pedestrians lawfully within the intersection at the time such signal is exhibited.

In regards to speed limits, the act provides that "any person driving a vehicle on a highway shall drive the same at a careful and prudent speed not greater than nor less than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic, surface and width of the highway and of any other condition then existing, and no persons shall drive any vehicle upon a highway at a speed greater than will permit him to bring it to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead."

The state law sets a limit of 25 miles per hour in a business district; 25 miles per hour in a residential district; and in public parks unless a different speed is fixed by local authorities and duly posted.

It further states that local authorities may establish speed limits on highways outside of business or residential districts which limits shall in no case be less than 25 miles per hour. They are also authorized to increase the limit in business districts provided that the highways on which greater speeds are allowed are marked as through streets at entering intersections.

Local officials said the speed limit in the business districts of Holland likely will be 20 miles per hour, and that highway limits will be gradually increased to city limits. The standard, which will be fixed in conference with the state highway engineer, has not been set. Signs, indicating speed allowed on highways entering the city, will be posted.

The state ordinance prohibiting angle parking on trunkline highways within cities has already brought the change to Holland. The act provides that vehicles shall be parked with the right hand wheels parallel to and within 12 inches of the right hand curb on all highways provided that local authorities may by ordinance permit angle parking upon highways other than state trunk line highways.

The rights of pedestrians are defined in the new act. Pedestrians facing a green signal may proceed across the highway within any marked or unmarked crosswalk. Pedestrians facing a yellow or caution signal are advised that there is insufficient time to cross the highway, and any pedestrian then starting to cross shall yield the right of way to vehicles. No pedestrian facing a red light or stop signal shall enter the highway unless he can do so safely and without interfering with any vehicular traffic.

The law also defines rights of a vehicle turning left at an intersection. The driver of a vehicle within an intersection intending to turn left shall yield the right of way to any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction which is within the intersection or so close thereto as to constitute an immediate hazard, but said driver, having so yielded and having given a signal for making the turn, may make such left turn and the drivers of all other vehicles approaching the intersection from the opposite direction shall yield the right of way to the vehicle turning.

This is subject to the provision that at an intersection at which a traffic signal is located, a driver intending to make a left turn shall permit vehicles bound straight through in the opposite direction which are awaiting a green signal to pass through the intersection before making the turn.

RELIEF PLAN

ed to elaborate or explain his statement.

Neil De Cook, Holland city's fifth supervisor, is out of the city until Oct. 1 on business and could not be reached for a statement.

John Ellander, Holland township supervisor, said that with only two years of experience as supervisor he did not feel thoroughly qualified to discuss the matter. He said he favored local control of welfare and that he was "satisfied with present arrangements."

He stated he could find no fault "with how the present administration is handling the welfare situation at the present time."

Mr. Heneveld said economical handling of relief would depend upon whether the county can obtain a 50-50 settlement with the state commission. He felt that a 50-50 basis would be just as economical as the present 40-60 basis.

Under the present arrangements, each township or city unit takes care of its own relief matters. Supervisors have found this method most acceptable for it means that if their relief load is low in the township they are not forced to raise funds to help defray the costs of relief in other sections where the load is heavier.

The annual report of the E. R. A. commission, for the fiscal year ending, Aug. 31, 1938, discloses that the county's 40 per cent share of the welfare costs amounted to $23,254.66 while the state's 60 per cent total $65,623.04, with a total of 3,962 cases in the county.

In Holland city alone, the city's share amounted to $6,576.20 and the state expended $9,864.30 in caring for 1,074 cases from Sept. 1, 1937, to Aug. 31, 1938.

Chester township had the lightest caseload of 39 cases. The township's 40 per cent amounted to only $220.68 for the year.

Under the new law, in those counties which have a distinction between township, city and county poor, the county board is authorized to enter into agreement with the governing bodies of the township and cities for the participation by township and cities in the cost of administering the act as to those recipients of assistance or relief. In counties with this distinction, the county is authorized to make appropriations for the support of the poor, "anything in the laws of this state to the contrary notwithstanding."

The new state law provides that the county board may be a full time working board and each member's salary and expenses shall be fixed by the supervisors, according to the amount of time necessary the board may devote to relief duties.

One of the members to be appointed by the supervisors will be named for a two-year term and the other for a three-year term while the state appointive will be for one year. At its first meeting the board will elect a chairman. Succeeding appointments will be for three years.

The law also provides that the county board may appoint one of its members as director or employ a director who will be responsible to the board for the performance of his duties and also serve as secretary to the board. With the approval of the board of supervisors, the new board will fix the salary of the director as well as select the personnel and fix the salaries of all employees and assistants of the county board of social welfare.

The board may adopt rules and regulations but they must comply with the rules of the state department as to those forms of relief wholly or partly financed by federal funds and cooperate with the state department in relief problems of the county.

Under the new law, it will be the duty of the county department to administer general public welfare, including relief known as unemployment relief and poor relief and medical care other than hospitalization; relief for destitute persons lacking residence; furnish the probate court, on request, investigation and follow-up service in respect to the hospitalization of afflicted adults and afflicted and crippled children; provide temporary relief to non-residents; administer medical care to the aged and dependent children and aid blind cases, but not hospitalization; supervise the operation of county infirmaries; furnish such aid as will restore persons to financial and social independence; require satisfactory proof from clients of their need for relief; investigate the circumstances of each application for relief; maintain adequate social and financial records for each recipient for aid; develop a sound child welfare program; and bury indigents.

The county board will apply to the state department of social welfare for the allocation and distribution of state or federal money available for the several forms of public aid and relief. The state commission will provide for the distribution of the moneys appropriated by the legislature to the county department of social welfare on the basis of need for relief as demonstrated by experience of the respective counties during the preceding one year, on the financial resources of the respective counties, and on the amount expended by the respective county departments exclusive of state and federal funds during the preceding one year; provided, however, that the state funds distributed to any county, city or district department of social welfare for any month "shall not be less than the amount expended by such department for general public relief, exclusive of state and federal funds during the preceding month."

Under the new law, the state social welfare commission held its organization meeting July 1 and has already carried out preliminary work and now awaits formation of the county departments. Since the organization meeting, only temporary appointments were made and at a later date a permanent organization was established at which time a state director was appointed who will have charge of both the social security program and the general program.

The new law, more or less, provides for the return to the counties of control over relief for which the board of supervisors all over Michigan fought. It is the general idea that local control over the relief situation will result in less waste of the taxpayers' money and in a more intelligent distribution of relief funds.

Complaints were recently received in Lansing from supervisors of 11 northern counties that the state's new welfare reorganization law is shifting a larger share of relief costs to local departments. Governor Dickinson, in reply, refused to sign "blank checks" for county relief commissions.

However, Attorney General Thomas Read has issued an opinion that the state social welfare commission must match county expenditures for food, fuel, shelter and medical service, as well as for general relief.

Read, according to news dispatches from Lansing, said the law obligated the state to pay a 50-50 share of all county welfare duties except administration and hospitalization of the poor. Under the new law, the state must take into consideration need, ability of the county to pay and the amount expended by the county for welfare in making up allocations to the counties. The latter point prevents an allocation smaller than the amount actually spent by the county.

It is conceded that the return to local control of relief is a good thing and that local control means not only fairly efficient disbursement of the relief funds as far as possible. The state may help somewhat but if the supervisors will return to their former economical and careful habits of determining who is eligible and entitled to relief and the amount, it still will be possible for the counties to find most of the money needed to care for those in distress, it was pointed out.

Taxpayers are expecting the supervisors, through the new county welfare department, to perform their functions economically. It is hoped that politics will be removed from relief as was charged during state and federal control.

In order that county supervisors may become better acquainted with the details of the new welfare law, several of them are making arrangements to go to Kalamazoo Friday where a meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. This meeting was arranged by the state commission to hear discussions by county boards of supervisors, welfare relief commissions, judges of probate and private welfare organizations.

One of the members to be appointed by the supervisors will be named for a two-year term and the other for a three-year term while the state appointive will be for one year. At its first meeting the board will elect a chairman. Succeeding appointments will be for three years.

The law also provides that the county board may appoint one of its members as director or employ a director who will be responsible to the board for the performance of his duties and also serve as secretary to the board. With the approval of the board of supervisors, the new board will fix the salary of the director as well as select the personnel and fix the salaries of all employees and assistants of the county board of social welfare.

The board may adopt rules and regulations but they must comply with the rules of the state department as to those forms of relief wholly or partly financed by federal funds and cooperate with the state department in relief problems of the county.

Holland Lions Hold Their Final Summer Meeting

Holland Lions club members at their final summer meeting of the year entertained golfing members of the Grand Rapids Lions club at the Holland Country club Wednesday.

They spent the afternoon at golf, participating in a special blind bogey tournament, and then joined for a dinner meeting in the clubhouse at 7 p.m.

Jerry Vinkemulder, of the Grand Rapids Association of National Aeronautics, spoke on air progress as a part of a program to stimulate interest in National Air Progress week the last of September.

Russ Haight, president of the Holland club, presided.

Blind bogey winners Wednesday were led by Bernard Arendshorst of Holland and Barney Greenhous of Grand Rapids, tied for first. H. S. Robinson of Grand Rapids, second; L. E. Phillips of Grand Rapids, third; John Ketchum, of Grand Rapids; Russ Barnard, Holland; and Carl Renier and Floyd Mayo, Grand Rapids, were other prize winners.

Dr. T. Van Haltema was awarded a cup and prize by the club as winner in the Lions club handicapped tournament for the summer. Play has been under way in the meet for the past month.

Joe Kramer, who was also chairman of the club tournament and of the special blind bogey tournament for the meeting Wednesday, was runner up.

Other prize winners were Rube Nienhuis and Russ Barnard, tied for third; and Russ Haight, Ray Smith, Vern Klomparsa and Elmer Schapers, tied for fourth.

Prizes were donated by Jerry Houting, Bert Post and Harry Wieskamp.

President Haight introduced the speaker, and also introduced Allen James Lowe of Grand Rapids, vice-president of the Grand Rapids aeronautics association.

Vinkemulder said air progress probably began in days before civilization, but that practical air progress began Dec. 17, 1903 at Kitty Hawk, N. C., when the Wright brothers flew their machine 12 seconds at 40 miles an hour.

"Now we travel 6,000 miles, we have speeds of 470 miles per hour at sea level, and vertical speeds of 600 miles per hour," he said.

It was pointed out that this year's air travel is twice as safe as it was last year. Vinkemulder said there "were 10 per cent more passengers in the last 24 hours than there were in all of 1926. There was 300 per cent more air express than there was in 1926. There are 1,189 passengers in the air every second of day and night, and there are 15 tons of mail in the air continually."

He explained the government's promotion of air progress. "It established the civil aeronautics authority, and now it is establishing the civil pilot training program in colleges.

"Between 11,000 and 15,000 students will learn to fly this year under the authority. The trained men are not in military service. It is possible to have the training at Hope college," he assured the group.

Qualifications for the course were listed briefly. A candidate must be between the ages of 18 and 25, must be enrolled in the college in charge of the course, must have had no solo work before, and must take between 35 and 50 hours work in the air.

The speaker concluded with an interesting discussion of gliding and soaring. He explained that gliding becomes soaring when a pilot is able to rise on air currents and soar for hours at a time. Germany trains its airplane pilots in gliders first, he said.

LACK OF FUNDS CAUSES PWA TO CURTAIL ITS AID

Zeeland Disposal Plant Assistance Lost by New Action

Three County Projects Are Listed in Rejections for Michigan

D. R. Kennicott, regional PWA director, announced in Chicago Friday that three Ottawa county and one Allegan county applications for PWA funds had been rejected by the federal works administration.

However, only one of the rejections, a project for a sewage disposal plant at Zeeland, was expected to cause any concern in Ottawa county.

Plans for federal funds for Holland and Pine Creek projects had been abandoned.

For Allegan, the action meant a delay in providing stand-by power for its municipal plant.

The projects included: Holland, school building, $20,000, and municipal building, $154,545; Zeeland sewage disposal plant, $76,363; Allegan, power improvement, $144,000.

Mr. Kennicott said that all applications have been returned to the respective sponsors. Eighty-one projects with an estimated cost of $82,089,235 were rejected in Michigan.

He assessed congress' failure to authorize further PWA allotments had forced curtailment of the federal works' program. The curtailment affected many projects for which plans had been approved by PWA engineers.

The school building project called for the construction of a new school at Pine Creek. A. Van Doesburg, school board secretary, said application for PWA aid had been filed July 2, 1938, and the project was approved, contingent upon the sponsor's provision of its share of the cost, amounting to 55 per cent.

Despite appeals from PWA officials, delays to raise the necessary funds occurred with a result that PWA funds expired, Mr. Van Doesburg said. However, construction work on the new school got under way recently but the entire cost is being borne by the taxpayers of the district, he reported.

The local municipal building project was in connection with the proposed construction of a combination library and museum building at 12th St. and Central Ave. This project, likewise, was given PWA approval, providing the city raised its share of the cost involved.

However, at the September primary election last year, Holland taxpayers repudiated an $85,000 bond issue. This money would have been used to pay the city's share of the cost of erecting the building. Willard C. Wichers said the PWA office had held the project "open" should the city have been able at a later date to obtain the necessary funds.

The Zeeland project concerned the construction of a new sewage disposal plant in Zeeland which the city is still contemplating. J. N. Clark, Zeeland city attorney, said Friday he did not know what action the council would now take in the matter.

A communication from the state stream control commission, regarding the city's present sewage disposal system, was presented at this week's common council meeting and the matter was referred to the city attorney. The communication asked city officials to contact Milton P. Adams, secretary of the commission, within 15 days and present plans for improvement of their sewage facilities.

Mr. Clark said that the letter had not been written but he indicated that his answer will inform the commission that Zeeland is "making progress" in the matter. J. Ford Stratton, manager of Allegan's municipal power plant, pointed out that Allegan's project provided for the installation of Diesel engines to be used as standby power for the plant there. He reported that upon completion of Allegan's power plant as a PWA project, it was discovered that some sort of standby power would be needed.

The city then applied to WPA about a year ago for funds to carry out this work. He said that with rejection of the project, the city will have to operate the plant without the stand-by power until the time when the city finds itself in financial condition to bear the entire cost of installing the Diesel power.

"In the meantime, we can only hope that nothing will go wrong in which the Diesel standby power will be needed," said Stratton.

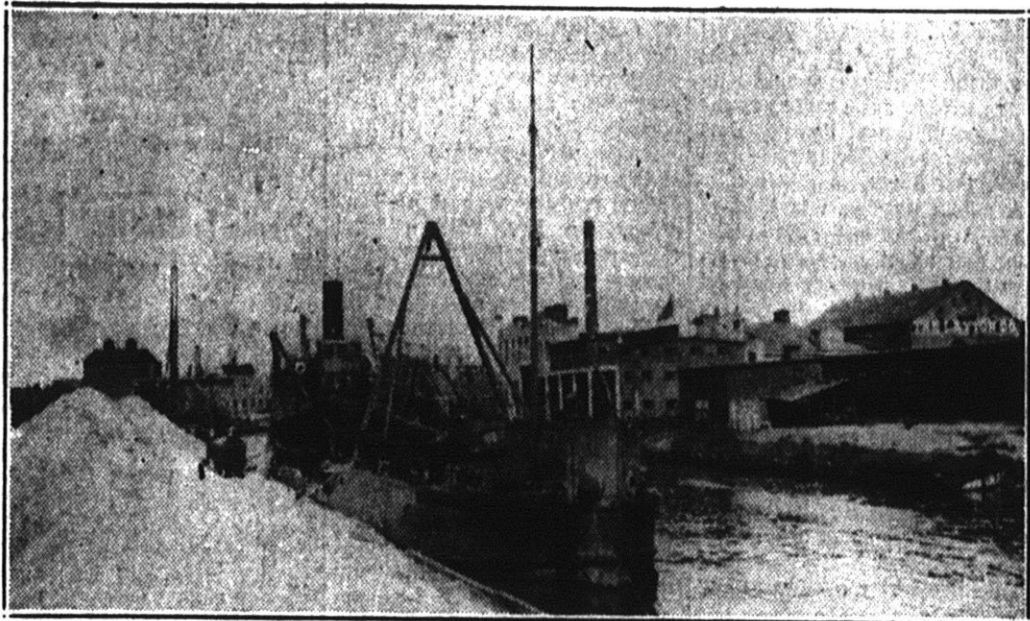

Single Men Victorious in Sixth Church Game

The single men's softball team of the Sixth Reformed church Friday night defeated the married men in a seven-inning game at the 19th St. diamond, 12 to 7. The game originally had been scheduled for six innings and at the end of that time the score was 6 to 5 in favor of the single men. In the seventh the single men scored six runs to their opponents' two. The inning featured a home run for Paul Jekel and three strike-outs in a row by Vern Kraai, pitcher for the younger team. A 16-inch ball was used.

Appalling Lake Michigan Disasters of Yesteryear

Proof of the loss of the Andaste were these life preservers found on the beach north of Holland.

This was the stone barge Andaste which foundered, with all aboard perishing, off Port Sheldon ten years ago.

By Ben Mulder

Part One

Fall and winter during the past many years have comprised the period when most of the lake disasters of ships have taken place. Late in the fall there was always a date of closed navigation. Lifesaving stations closed early and reopened in the spring; however, there were always venturesome captains and ship-owners who sailed their craft beyond the period set for lake navigation. Today coast guard stations remain open the year round, and navigation continues to available harbors also the year round.

Here in Holland, we have always commemorated the loss of the Alpena, for it generally has been considered that this large side-wheeler from Grand Haven went down off this shore in one of the worst gales known to sea captains up to that time. This disaster took place in October, 1880, and for the reason that much of the wreckage came to shore off what later was called Alpena beach, now Lakewood farm, this vicinity is better acquainted with the details of the loss of the Alpena than of any other lake disaster that has occurred before or since.

The loss of the steamer Checora of the Graham and Morton fleet was more than 35 years ago, and is also vividly remembered here, since some of the wreckage came ashore between Holland and Saugatuck. The Checora was a winter boat, practically new, and was making a trip from Milwaukee, starting in a dead calm for Benton Harbor. The ship was only out a short time when one of those winter blasts struck her, together with a blinding snow storm.

Nothing was ever heard of this steamer, although the company spent thousands of dollars endeavoring to locate the wreck. Lightkeepers on the east shore of Lake Michigan claimed they saw a dark object on the horizon, but the harbor entrance was closed with a solid wall of ice. Whether the captain of the Checora, finding that it could never enter, endeavored to turn his craft in the trough of the sea and was battered to pieces by large pieces of ice, will never be known. All the crew and a few passengers on board perished. The wreckage picked up at Saugatuck was a blood-covered gangplank found caked in the ice, showing that those on board who endeavored to escape, battling with ice and water in a terrific storm, must have suffered a terrible end in that caldron of water and ice.

The loss of life on the steamer Alpena and the Checora did not begin to compare with the loss of life in what might be called one of the most unusual disasters in the history of the Great Lakes. This was when the steamer Eastland turned turtle in Chicago harbor. The ship was ready to go on an excursion trip with 1,000 passengers aboard. Without warning the Eastland turned bottom side up, filled with water and remained in that position until the lives of 800 of those aboard were snuffed out. This occurred in the early days of the moving pictures, and the cinema for weeks showed pictures of a large crew chopping holes through the bottom of the boat, and for several days bringing out the bodies from a ship that turned out to be a tomb rather than a pleasure craft. Long inquiries followed this disaster by the U. S. government.

A more recent disaster occurred on Sept. 17, 1929, that was also closely identified with Holland. On this occasion the steamer Andaste, a gravel barge, left Grand Haven late at night on Monday of that week in the face of a stiff wind, which within an hour, increased to a 60-mile gale. For several days nothing was heard of the stone boat, which had no radio connections. George F. Getz of Lakewood farm picked up an oar and other pieces of wreckage, and more wreckage was found on the shore at Castle park south of Holland. A few days later wreckage was picked up nearly everywhere along the beaches here. Of these were the pilot's cabin, a staircase, a cook's galley, some oars and life preservers.

One of the bodies was found by John Kuipers of Jenison park. It was found secured by two life buoy rings and a cork life preserver, and the man was fully clothed. In this lake horror, 25 men perished. The captain was Albert Anderson, 64 years old. The ship was used to carry gravel from the Grand River gravel pits to Sturgis Bay, Wisconsin. The ship often visited Holland with a load of gravel for road work.

It is believed that the ship went down in about 60 fathoms of water off Port Sheldon. Some of the sailors who had sailed on the ship, during the inquiry stated they thought that in the heavy sea the heavily-laden steam barge shifted her load of gravel and went down like a plummet, and the men had little chance to escape. Charles Brown of Grand Haven was first-mate, and Claude Kibby of Fennville was chief engineer. George Watt, A. Bluecheit, and Frank Casperman also of Grand Haven were among the crew to perish, as was Fred Nienhouse of Ferrisburg. The wreck of the Andaste was never discovered. Coroner Gilbert Vande Water and Prosecutor Clarence Lokker were in office at that time, and conducted the inquiry.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR ROLL CALL

Legion Post and Auxiliary to Conduct Drive for Red Cross

Plans for the approaching roll call of the American Red Cross were discussed at a meeting of local members of the board of directors of the Ottawa county chapter Friday afternoon in the city hall.

The American Legion and its auxiliary will sponsor the annual membership drive from Nov. 11 to Nov. 30. The dates will coincide with the national roll call.

A roll call chairman will be selected soon. William C. Vandenberg, county chairman, reported that the Red Cross will try this year to increase its membership by 25 per cent to be able to care for additional activities.

The national organization receives one-half of all membership dues, the other half being used to defray costs of local chapter activities. Memberships and subscriptions during the past two years have not been sufficient to cover expenses in Ottawa county, it was said.

The annual meeting of the chapter will be held Monday, Nov. 27. Mr. Vandenberg announced.

Mrs. Mabel Vandenberg, executive secretary for southern Ottawa county, reported on activities of the chapter. The outstanding achievement during the past year has been the development of interest in Junior Red Cross work. Miss Beth Marcus, acting chairman of the junior activities, has created a wide interest among young people and the board expressed its appreciation to her.

Considerable emergency aid has been rendered during the year, especially to stranded travelers. Abstrical kits have been dispensed at a cost of approximately $125.

During the past summer, 40 swimming and lifesaving classes were held at Holland, with an approximate enrollment of 1,600 swimmers and beginners, under the direction of Edward Damson.

A few weeks ago at the suggestion of Dr. O. Vander Velde, the board approved purchase and installation of ring life buoys at bathing beaches throughout the county.

Local members of the board are Mrs. G. J. Van Duren, E. C. Brooks, A. C. Joldersma, Sum H. Bosch, Otto P. Kramer and Mr. Vandenberg.

Women's Federation Will Meet Sept. 29

Mrs. D. Vander Meer read the secretary's report and Mrs. J. Van Zomeren as treasurer gave her report. Some literature on the work among the Moslems was read. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Oosterhof. A social hour followed.

Temperance Union Holds First Meeting of Year

The first meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance union in Holland for the year 1939-40 was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. J. Blekkink with Mrs. Margaret Markham presiding. Mrs. C. Van Duren led the devotions. Reports were read by the officers and department directors. Mrs. E. J. Leddick, corresponding secretary, reported that a sum of $260 has been sent to the Frances E. Willard centennial fund. Mrs. F. Kooyers, recording secretary, stated that ten new members have been added to the enrollment.

Mrs. Paul E. Hinkamp, promoter of the Union Signal Young Crusader and Michigan union, told of the work that was done under the auspices of her department during the C. E. convention recently held in this city.

Mrs. Blekkink conducted a short memorial service in honor of one departed member, Mrs. Nellie Stanton. After reading from Revelation, she spoke a few words about the life history of Mrs. Stanton touching upon her faithfulness and loyalty in church and temperance work. The "In Memoriam" was closed with the singing of "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," led by Mrs. Kathryn Essenburgh with Mrs. E. Ruissard at the piano.

Mrs. John De Boer, a missionary on furlough from Vellore, India, gave a short talk on temperance work in India.

Mrs. Margaret Markham gave a reading by request entitled "If They Had Quit." This was followed by a solo, "The Stranger of Galilee," by Mrs. Essenburgh accompanied by Mrs. Ruissard.

Mrs. Leddick called attention to the week set aside in September as Frances E. Willard's Centennial week by proclamation of Gov. Luren D. Dickinson. It was said that during her wonderful work in the cause of temperance, Frances E. Willard was considered the uncrowned queen of the U. S. A. The speaker stated that even today she would rank among the four greatest women America had produced.

The meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction. Tea was served by Mrs. S. Habing, assisted by Mrs. Frank Kooyers and Mrs. H. Potts.

Holland Teachers Stage Banquet

Holland Country club was the scene of the annual fall banquet of the Holland Teachers' club Friday night, with new teachers and members of the Board of Education as special guests. A total of 166 attended the affair.

Russell Welch, principal of East Junior High school, president of the club, presided at the program which followed the dinner. Music was presented by a brass quartet composed of Victor Cherven, August Van Eerden, Ted Evans, and Howard Jalving.

Dr. Wynand Wichers, Hope college president, brought a brief message to the public school teachers, exhorting them to keep education on a high level, saying that one of the important needs of the modern teacher is a good sense of humor.

One of the highlights of the program was an informal talk by Miss Ruth Geerlings, Junior High school teacher, who told of her favorable impressions of countries visited in Europe during the past summer. Accompanied by Miss Margaret Boter, she traveled in England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Germany. She found the peoples of the countries they visited, extremely cordial. They returned early in August before the war plans of Germany seemed obvious to the traveler.

Mrs. John Wolfert, the former Alma Koerte, who has served as school nurse for a number of years, was presented a gift from the club.

Principal J. J. Riemersma of Holland High school announced the essay contest which will be conducted for pupils of the public schools in connection with national art week. Members of the board of education were introduced.

UNCOVERS LAW ABOUT PARKING

Enforcement Is Provided to Keep Cars Within Marked Spaces

Police Chief Ira A. Antles has been told by City Attorney Lokker that a section of the city's traffic ordinance provides means for police enforcement of parallel parking when motorists fail to park their automobiles within the marked-off spaces.

Chief Antles informed the police and fire board Sept. 5 that he could find no provisions in the traffic ordinance whereby police could make arrests for such violations. He was asked to confer with the city attorney.

Section No. 32 of the traffic ordinance covers the situation, Mr. Lokker advised Chief Antles. The section provides that where density of traffic, protection of life and property, public convenience or any hazardous condition makes it advisable, parking may be limited, restricted or prohibited and when so regulated, such limitation, restriction or prohibition shall be indicated by paint of distinguishing color or signs or devices of uniform character, indicating the distance, place and space and no person shall park a vehicle in violation of such limitation.

RINGS LEFT IN G.H. ARE 'STOLEN,' FOUND

Grand Haven, Sept. 14 (Special) — Two diamond rings, valued at $1,400 and belonging to Mrs. Paul L. Griffin of Decatur, Ala., were recovered Friday afternoon by Grand Haven police and Charles Beukema, former state police officer, who operates a gasoline filling station at Fulton and Seventh Sts. in Grand Haven.

Mrs. Griffin stepped into the washroom of the Beukema filling station Thursday afternoon and was several blocks away before she discovered she had left her rings lying on the wash bowl. The rings were gone when she returned.

The woman said she had noticed a young girl go into the wash room as she was coming out. Police questioned school children.

Police reported that Miss Viva Shell, high school teacher, noticed a valuable ring which one of her students was wearing Friday. The girl admitted she had taken it from the rest room and turned over the other ring.

A reward of $10 had been offered for the return of the rings. Mr. Griffin is a jeweler.

TYPES OF WAR

During the week of negotiations
it was a "war of nerves"—a phrase reiterated so often that it finally became stale. During the opening days of the conflict it was a "blitz krieg"—a phrase that did not become quite so monotonous, perhaps because it is alien and hence unfamiliar. But during that opening phase the war was, and is, quite definitely a war of guns and bombs and air raids and killing men, women and children.

A little later, it may be expected, the war will become a war of economics. When the men have been in the trenches for months, perhaps for years, the various forms of starvation will begin to get in their work and the inexorable economic laws will reassert themselves. It will then be a war between national surpluses or national credits and the ability of countries to convert those surpluses or credits into guns and ammunition will be the deciding factor.

If the war lasts long enough,
still another type of conflict is almost sure to develop—the war of morales. In that war the side with the most money or credit and most food will have an immense advantage, but that advantage is sometimes overbalanced by other factors. Some peoples can "take it" better than others and can better keep on "taking it." Also, there is such a thing as unreasoning fanaticism, that sometimes helps morale as no amount of wealth or credit can do.

Perhaps another type of war that may operate in the course of the conflict in Europe is the war of what might be called "national psychologies." If that word "psychology" had not been abused as much as it has been, but some peoples just naturally are better than others in gauging world opinion and thus winning or keeping world sympathy. In the World War Germany made fatal mistakes in this type of war, causing America to plunge in. Will Germany again be the weaker in making use of the psychological factors, or will France and England this time make fatal mistakes? Much may depend on the answer to that question.

War between near-equals is no longer a matter of battles in the field or on the sea or in the air.
There are many types of war
several of them sometimes going on at the same time. And all form a part of the struggle of which the big guns are merely a kind of outward symbol.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

Consecrated Thought Power
Beecher said, "There is much contention among men whether thought or feeling is the better;
but feeling is the bow and thought the arrow and a very good archer must have both. Alone one is as helpless as the other. The head gives artillery, the heart, powder.
The one aims, and the other fires."
A consecrated mind is a power for good. A desecrated mind is a power for evil. Too much stress can not be placed on the kind of thoughts which possess us. The church expresses the thoughts of God. Why not accept the invitation and go to church next Sunday?

Miss Parkyn Addresses
Methodist League

Miss Hannah Parkyn, mathematics instructor at Holland high school, spoke on "Friendship" at the regular meeting of the Epworth league in First Methodist church Sunday evening. Thirty-six young people were present. Speaking regretfully of the present war
she traced the part her generation played in the last world war.
"Our boys came back disillusioned and cynical," she said. Expressing the hope that America will not be drawn into the present conflict, she warned, "If your generation loses its ideals it will be your own fault."
"Friendship," Miss Parkyn continued, "is inseparably linked up with character. It has three sides:
giving, receiving and sharing."

A Messenger of Social Justice
Micah 3: 1-12

By Henry Geertlings

Micah was one of the minor prophets; that is, the book that bears his name is a small one. In one sense he was a major prophet,
in that he prophesied over a period of nearly fifty years, and his work is to be regarded as making a very profound impression on the kingdom of Judah. More than that he labored for the recovery of the spiritual life of the nation
over the reign of three kings—Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah. He therefore witnessed the rule of a tolerably good king, Jotham, a very wicked king, Ahaz, and a very good king, Hezekiah.

The prophet delivered his message to the leaders of the nation.
They were party to the iniquity that was being practised everywhere. They closed their eyes to its existence, and acted as though they were totally ignorant of what was going on.

It was to these leaders the rank and file of the people looked for righteous conduct and for that understanding of the principles of justice and fair play which should prevail throughout the land. If they pretended to be ignorant of these principles, what could they expect of those who were less skilled in the rights of the people.

Micah describes the ways of greedy people. All they live for is to take advantage of others, so as to gain more possessions for themselves. They constantly work out plans whereby they can get a little more money or another porcel of land. They use all their powers to secure what they have been coveting. Nothing is regarded by them as sacred. They do not hesitate to scheme so as to obtain control of anything that they desire.
The fact that they have no right to a thing because some one else is its lawful owner does not restrain them. Their greed must be satisfied. They are willing to stoop even to criminal acts. They are clever. They are shrewd. They see everything from the point of view of their own gain. They are concerned only about the problem of getting what the other man has without involving themselves in any difficulty. They are without conscience. They operate without mercy. They are deaf to the cries of justice and the right. They are in the world to get what they can get and it makes no difference
about the rightness or wrongness
of their methods.

This is the class of sinners
against whom Micah is speaking with such a show of righteous indignation. They had their eyes and hearts on other men's land and houses and they used their diabolical brains in scheming methods of coming into possession of this property. No wonder is made a righteous man's soul burn with righteous indignation. No wonder the sense of a great evil and a great wrong built a mighty impulse into the soul of the prophet to speak against these oppressors in his country.

It is a sense of injustice and great wrongdoing that has stirred the souls of great prophets and great reformers in all ages to pour out the lava streams of their burning spirits upon the heads of men who wickedly take advantage of their fellows.

Perhaps the greatest sin today and the greatest in that day is the desire to get rich regardless of the methods which are used to reach that end. The prophet speaks of the dishonesty of false prophets, of the advantage which even priests would take of the common people and of the heavy burdens placed on the men and women of that time by their rulers. The multitudes did not have much chance to protect themselves. The persons who were in positions of power and influence had the upper hand and could demand of the common people whatever they might wish.

A very sad aspect of this whole matter was that these persons in authority who had done such unfair things toward the individuals who could not protect themselves would escape punishment if they brought a costly gift to the sanctuary or even went to the temple to worship. They did not feel that their dishonesty and their receiving of bribes would make God feel displeased towards them. We can see something of the same thing today. Dishonesty is widely practiced without any question and many persons who are guilty of this sin feel that if they attend the church services and leave an offering there and occasionally talk about religion they are all right and God will not be displeased with them.

Old Days

(The following items were taken from the Ottawa County Times, published in Holland nearly a half century ago.)

The April 20 issue of the Ottawa
County Times published in 1894
by M. G. Manting contained a brief news item concerning the governor's Arbor Day proclamation. It was as follows: "The governor has issued the usual Arbor
Day proclamation to be on Friday, April 27. The proper observance of this day in the planting of trees, shrubs, and flowers will result in beautifying and adorning our homes and highways and is most earnestly recommended. To inculcate a love of the beautiful in nature should be a pleasant duty for the teachers in our public schools and it further recommended that the exercises in our schools upon that day be of such a character as will impress its benefi-cient object upon the minds of the pupils."

John H. Skinner, one of the U.
S. Life Saving Crew at this station was the victim of an accident
one day last week which might have killed him, another article stated. He was standing out near the pier at the station shooting at some ducks as they were flying over. The gun was an old one and the discharge blew it in pieces.
The barrels went over John's head and struck the station building with such force that they were broken in two. The stock remained in his hand. He had his face badly burned by the powder.

LIBRARY LISTS BOOKS ON WAR

Conflict in Europe Brings Queries From Readers in Holland

Influence of Europe's war is being felt by the Holland public library. A number of books and pamphlets have been placed in the library's display case to answer questions which are arising about Europe's historic background, the changing governments, the economic and social conditions of the nations at war and the problem of war or peace for the United States.

Miss Dora Schermer said these books and pamphlets will answer many of the questions that come to a reader's mind.

Theories of the National Socialist government and the resulting conditions in Germany, the attitudes of the German people themselves in regard to their fuhrer and his regime are revealed in Hitler's Mein Kampf, Lengy's Biography of Hitler, Roberts' The House that Hitler Built, Dodd's Through Embassy Eyes and Waln's Reaching for the Stars.

Two newspapermen have given a revealing account of political situations in Europe in "I Found No Peace" by Webb Miller, ace United Press correspondent, and "Days of Our Years" by Van Pausen. "The Ramparts We Watch" by Eliot and "Our Country, Our People and Theirs" by Tracy show the state of preparedness of this country.

In addition to histories, other recent books in demand are Goeth's German Reich and Americans of German Origin, The Hundred Years, Twenty Years Armistice, Life and Death of a Spanish Town, Dorothy Thompson's Political Guide, Peace with Honor, War and The Christian, and Vital Peace.

Pamphlets giving information in brief also are in circulation. They are Five Years of Hitler, Should Our Neutrality Act be Repealed or Revised? Changing Governments Amid New Social Problems, Political Problems in Present Day Europe, Church and State Dictatorship and Nazi Objectives in Eastern Europe.

The accident tied up traffic for some time at Crockerly flats on US-16. Sgt. Earl E. Secrist said considerable study would be required to fix any blame.

George Erhardt, 45, Grand Rapids, told police he was following a westbound truck which slowed down. A car driven by Edne Helder, 19, of Grand Rapids, struck Erhardt's car causing the bumpers to lock. Both cars were moved partly off the road.

While attempts were made to entangle the two cars, a westbound car, driven by Roy Wilson, 50, of Grand Rapids, attempting to pass, caromed off the east-bound Dennis car and struck a guard post. SPORT WRITERS TO MAKE HONOR SQUAD CHOICES

Southwestern Loop Will Have Six Scribes Pick All-Star Teams

Association Leaders Meet in Warm Friend Tavern; List Schedules

Representative newspaper men of six cities will name honor teams in football and basketball for coaches of the Southwestern Michigan high school conference. The association mentors, on the eve of the 10th birthday of the league, shifted the annual responsibility of choice of honor selections to the scribes of the conference in their annual fall meeting at the Warm Friend tavern here Monday night.

Jerry Hagen, Kalamazoo; James F. Henderson, Muskegon; Norton Baser, Benton Harbor; Art O'Connor, Muskegon Heights; Ray Fisher, Grand Haven; and Bob Wismer, Holland, are the representative writers assigned to the task of looking over high school players previous to the time post season selections are made.

Writers were guests of the conference schools at the Monday meeting, and for the purpose of making the selections following the football and basketball seasons, their invitations were renewed for the November and March meetings of the conference board. The suggestions came from coaches, who felt writers see the game more impartially than a coach who must watch his own men during a contest. Coaches required, in offering the choice to writers, that each representative see every team of the conference in action.

The 1939 football schedule follows. For 1940, home arrangements will be reversed. The schedule for 1941 was drafted by coaches a year ago.

Sept. 30 — Kalamazoo at Benton Harbor; Oct. 7 — Grand Haven at Muskegon; Muskegon Heights at Holland; Oct. 14 — Muskegon at Benton Harbor; Kalamazoo at Grand Haven; Oct. 21 — Grand Haven at Benton Harbor; Muskegon at Holland; Kalamazoo at Muskegon Heights; Oct. 28 — Muskegon Heights at Grand Haven; Nov. 4 — Benton Harbor at Muskegon Heights; Holland at Kalamazoo; Nov. 11 — Benton Harbor at Holland; Kalamazoo at Muskegon; and Nov. 18 — Holland at Grand Haven and Muskegon Heights at Muskegon.

Improvements Voted for Grounds at Lincoln School

The board of education, meeting Monday night in Holland high school building, discussed the proposed formation of a vocational unit in the public schools here.

Trustee William Arendshorst invited board members to make a trip to Sandusky, O., to inspect the vocational setup in schools there. Supt. E. E. Fell said a trip also should be made to South Haven.

Mr. Fell said a number of students, enrolled in school, show little interest in academic work, yet are too young to quit school. He stated that a vocational school would assist them in learning some trade that would be beneficial to them after they left school.

A decrease of 39 students in this year's enrollment in the local schools under that of last year was reported by Mr. Fell. The total enrollment is 2,837.

The board accepted the report of the building and grounds committee which recommended through Chairman A. E. Van Lente that repairs be made to Lincoln school grounds at an estimated cost of $350. Mr. Van Lente said installation of a new wire fence on the north end of the grounds would cost about $150, two drains to drain surface water would cost about $180 and a gate in the fence would cost about $20.

A Science Building for Hope College

During the week of September 11 Holland as a community is to be given an opportunity to make its contribution for a science building for Hope College. The Sentinel is not much given to urging people to go into their pockets, preferring to let each one exercise his own private judgment in such matters. But there are a few causes and projects that are so peculiarly and fundamentally a community affair that a newspaper would be remiss as the community's voice if it did not get back of them. The annual Community Chest is one such cause; the science building for Hope College is also such a project.

Holland is not being asked to finance this project; the community is being given the opportunity to do its share in erecting the building as a community investment. As a community Holland should look upon this opportunity as a privilege, and it is in this light that The Sentinel regards it and feels free to urge the people of Holland to support it liberally.

It is understood that Holland is being given the opportunity to subscribe about one-fifth of the funds needed to erect and maintain the science building. That word "opportunity" is not a mere polite euphemism for "touch." As a community Holland will be getting a valuable institution, and a beautiful semi-public building, by investing in it only one-fifth of the cost, the other four-fifths coming from the outside. Even in community government projects that would be considered excellent business for a community; it is not often that even liberal Uncle

Sam will match a community on a basis of four-fifths to one-fifth. It is therefore good business for the people of Holland to do their full liberal share in raising their part of the money that will be needed; the building will in the truest sense be a community investment.

And something is due to community gratitude and appreciation. Very many people whose lives have been invested in Holland and who have made their money here, owe at least a part of the success of those investments to the fact that Hope College was here, perhaps first to give them an education they might otherwise not have had, and second, to bring annually to Holland a flow of money and customers that would otherwise not have come. Nor should it be forgotten that Holland is, and has been, a good place to live in, partly at least because of the energizing and civilizing influence of its college. An educational institution of that kind is an asset to a community that would instantly be missed, in actual dollars and cents and in cultural values, if it should be withdrawn. When a community has a good investment it cannot afford to let that investment's physical plant run down; that would not be good business.

For all these reasons, and for many others, The Sentinel feels free to get behind this project and to urge the community as a community to get behind it. In supporting the science building project Holland is not giving charity to Hope College but making an investment that promises big dividends. This is essentially a community project.

BOAT COMPANY FOUNDER DEAD

Christopher Smith Dies in Hospital; Plant Being Built Here

Christopher C. Smith, 78, founder of the Chris-Craft Corp., which is now engaged in building a plant on the short cut road to Ottawa beach, northwest of Holland, died Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in St. Joseph's hospital in Mt. Clemens where he had been ill since Sept. 2.

Construction work on the plant began Aug. 2, after announcement had been made June 16 that the company would locate here. It is planned to complete the construction of the new plant to begin production on 1940 models by Nov. 15.

Mr. Smith, better known as the "Grand Old Man of Algonac," was born in Cottleville township, St. Clair county, May 20, 1861, and when seven years old his parents moved to Algonac. As a youth he played on the banks of the St. Clair river.

A hobby provided Mr. Smith with the idea that made him head of one of the largest manufacturers of motor boats in the world. While carving some duck decoys, Smith wondered if a boat hull the same shape—short and broad and flat, so as to ride the water's surface rather than cut through it—would permit greater speed.

He adapted his discovery in design to craft which brought the two greatest trophies in water racing in Michigan.

Fete Justice Newnham on His 85th Anniversary

Saugatuck, Sept. 14 (Special) — Judge Stephan L. Newnham observed the 85th anniversary of his birth Saturday.

He was born in London, England, Sept. 9, 1854, and at the age of 12 he, his mother, a brother and two sisters took passage on a packet ship bound for America. Landing at New York after a ten weeks' voyage which proved to be a stormy one, they went to Kalamazoo by rail and were conveyed from there to Saugatuck by bobsleighs. The father, Richard B. Newnham, had already established a home in Saugatuck, where he conducted a boat and shoe business following service with the U. S. navy.

Here Mr. Newnham finished his schooling, and after this employed himself teaching school in winter and sailing the Great Lakes in summer between Chicago, Duluth, Buffalo and Montreal. For 47 years he sailed the lakes, filling the berth of chief engineer during 45 years of this time and for 27 years he was employed by the firm of Samuel Neff and Sons of Milwaukee.

After his retirement from sailing he worked for the government for three years on the hydraulic dredge Delaware between Philadelphia, Pa. and Camden, N. J. In 1879 he married Althea Deming of Saugatuck and more than 50 years ago built the home on top of the hill which he and his family occupied for 39 years. About 15 years ago he moved to his present home on Mason St., where in January, 1937, Mrs. Newnham died.

Upon the death of John W. Egellkraut justice of peace, Mr. Newnham was appointed to fill the two years of the unexpired term, and he is still serving in this capacity, having last spring received his own fourth consecutive election to that office, this making his 15th consecutive year as justice of the peace in this community.

Mr. Newnham enjoys good health and takes a keen interest in all that goes on, both in his own community and in the world.

Honoring Mr. Newnham, 35 relatives and friends gathered at Maplewood Sunday for a birthday dinner party. Guests were present from Chicago, Kalamazoo, Wayland and London, England, as well as from Saugatuck and vicinity. The occasion also honored the birthday anniversaries of two other guests, Miss Norma Rutgers of Holland and Mrs. "Bud" Waltman of Saugatuck, a great-niece of Mr. Newnham who has always observed a joint birthday celebration with him.
