HANG IN THERE BOY!—When 9-year-old Johnny Witteveen wants to play with his best pal Danny, he has to put on his cowboy gloves 'cause Danny can get a little rough. Danny is a three-month-old raccoon. He comes to the Jack Witteveen home on Ottawa Beach Road every evening for bread and milk, and to see a few TV programs. Usually the animal will sit quietly on Johnny's lap, looking at the television set, but when he wants to play he's all over the Witteveen living room. Danny was tamed by the Robert De Bruyn family of Zeeland, who have a summer cottage on Lake Michigan. He lives in the woods, but appears faithfully every evening at Johnny's house. The raccoon gets along well with all of the pets at the Witteveen's, including a bunny, banty hen, chicken, two kittens, a dog, and several ponies and horses. (Sentinel photo)

Marna Creed, owned by M. Van Wyk of Holland, tightened her grip on the leadership in Michigan's three-year-old pacing standing with a close victory over Liz last week at Wolverine Raceway in a $1,500 stakes.

It was Marna Creed's ninth victory over Detroit John Toner's filly in the Michigan Harness Horsemen's Association colt stakes.

Public School Enrollment Now At All-Time High

There are exactly 300 more enrolled in the public schools this year over last year, Supt. Walter W. Scott reported to the Board of Education Monday night. The new figure is an all-time high for public schools.

Overall total for this year is 3,467 enrollees, compared with 3,147 last year.

Scott's report revealed that the 300 increase is the largest in the last five years. In 1954 the increase was only 18. Increase was 112 in 1953, 158 in 1952, 44 in 1951 and 86 in 1950.

Holland high enrollment (upper three grades) is listed at 995 while junior high enrollment (eighth and ninth grades) is 672. There are 1,800 enrolled in the five elementary schools. Breakdown follows: Washington, 370 (seventh grade included); Van Raalte school, 310; Jefferson school, 359 (seventh grade included); Longfellow, 390; Lincoln, 371.

The new enrollment is broken down as follows: kindergarten, 252; first grade, 233; second, 243; third, 266; fourth, 177; fifth, 194; sixth, 215; seventh, 195; eighth, 187; ninth, 470; 10th, 356; 11th, 336; 12th, 303; special education, 40; total, 3,467.

It was pointed out that completion of two classroom wings enabled the opening of school at Thomas Jefferson school last Thursday according to schedule. Such occupancy indicates the construction of this building is more than two months in advance of contract time of completion.

Temporary wood partitions separate classroom areas from those parts of the building still under construction. Both class work and construction are proceeding with little or no interference. Final completion is anticipated in the next few months.

Holland Darkened By Power Failure

A generator break-down at the James De Jonge power plant threw much of Holland into darkness for up to an hour and a half last Thursday night.

BPW Superintendent George Rendleman said an 11,500 kilowatt generator started sparking and was turned off at 8:40 by James Vande Wege, turbine man on duty.

An auxiliary 7,500 kw unit was started immediately, and put into service as soon as it warmed up. It takes about an hour and a half to get the unit into operation. The lights went on again about 10:15.

Lights were out for the full time in the east and southern parts of the city. Power in several other sections was restored after a few minutes when it was determined the other generators could handle the increased load.

Rendleman explained that selection of circuits to cut out depended upon technical factors within the two light plants. The generator that broke down was a new one, put into operation in 1952.

Light plant crews, aided by a specialist from Grand Rapids, were expected to have the big generator back in operation by Saturday morning.

The total darkness failed to stop some big church business, however.

At Sixth Reformed Church on Lincoln Ave. the congregation discussed and approved an $82,000 remodeling and addition project with the aid of flashlights and gas burners.

Approximately 100 members of the congregation were present at the special meeting.

Local theatres issued emergency tickets to patrons who had to depart shortly before 9.

Coaches Impressed After Scrimmage

Holland High football coaches were pleased after watching the Dutch gridders in a full game under the lights scrimmage Friday night at Riverview Park.

"On the whole I think we looked pretty good," Coach Dale Shearer said following the drills. "There were a lot of rough spots that will have to be ironed out but overall it was good," Shearer said.

Holland's first unit ripped off several good gains, scored six times and showed alertness on defense. Downfield blocking on several occasions looked good.

The gridders were issued game uniforms this morning and posed for yearbook pictures.

Group Wants Children's Mental Hospital in Area

A group of Western Michigan parents are circulating petitions asking for a state hospital for mentally retarded children in Western Michigan.

Petitions are being circulated in seven counties, including Ottawa, terminating the present hospital space shortage an "emergency."

Officials of the drive point out that all of the state's large institutions for mentally retarded children are located far from Western Michigan.

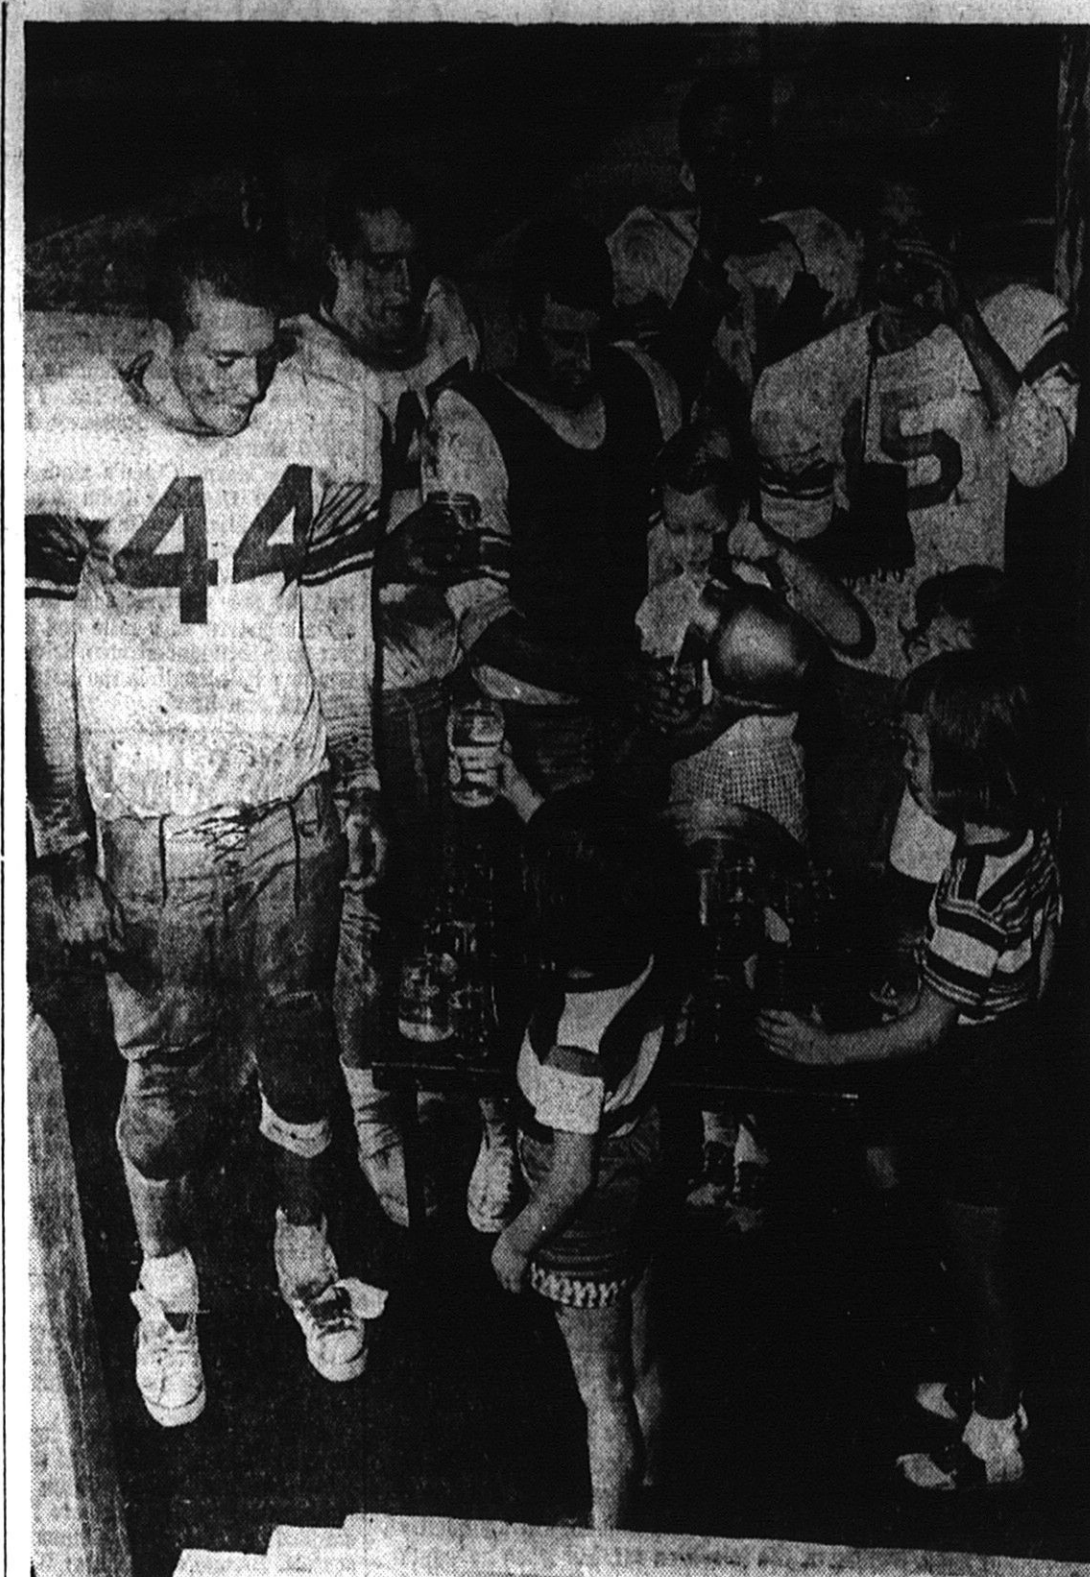

Two of them, at Mt. Pleasant and Lapeer, are in the eastern part of the state and the other, at Coldwater, is near the southern border.

They cite Gov. G. Mennen Williams' statement last week that there are 2,000 children on the waiting lists of the state's institutions.

Williams released the figures in an announcement that he would call a special session late in October to deal with the problems of mental health and traffic safety.

In Holland today, State Senator Clyde H. Geerlings disputed the wisdom of discussing large mental health expansion plans at a special legislative session.

Township Votes Combination Hall

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — At a special election Saturday, Grand Haven township citizens voted to have a combination fire station and township hall. It was the fourth time such an issue had come up for public vote.

Specifically, voters approved two proposals, one to borrow up to $10,000 for a $22,000 building, and also to increase taxes by one mill for a six-year period starting this year. The first carried 227 to 154 and the second 215 to 158.

Site for the new building is a five-acre site on US-31 just north of Stone school. The fire station part of the building will house two trucks currently kept in the Grand Haven fire station. The township hall will be 42 by 50 feet and will seat 200 persons.

The building also will house a 17 by 40-foot apartment for the caretaker who also will drive the fire truck. Plans also include a 16 by 21-foot room for township board meetings and for use of the township treasurer to collect taxes and transact other official business. There also will be a kitchen.

Cost of the building has been cut two-thirds since it was first proposed two years ago. There is $12,000 in the building fund plus $4,000 for furnishings. Clarence Reenders is township supervisor.

Project's Start Hinges on Federal Highway Program

Department Aide Announces Study Of Hinge Cloverleaf

LANSING (Special) — Plans for a $600,000 cloverleaf interchange at the dangerous US-31 and M-21 intersection one mile east of Holland are being drawn up by engineering consultants, Michigan Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler's office revealed last week.

But officials were quick to point out that the development program, including extension of US-31 north at four lanes, depends upon federal highway program action.

The federal funds are needed to supplement revenue expected under the controversial Coleman highway program, passed by the state legislature at its recent session.

"Failure of federal funds to come through could put a big crimp in all our plans," explained E.S. Gleason, assistant bridge engineer with the department.

The cloverleaf interchange is scheduled under a billion dollar highway construction program outlined by Ziegler to Gov. G. Mennen Williams after the Legislature passed the Coleman bill.

The giant interchange, stretching almost 1,000 feet each way from the intersection, would include depressing M-21 several feet below the current grade level, and erecting a bridge to carry US-31 over the corner.

The Hazlet and Erdal engineering firm of Chicago has been working on the plans for some time and hope to submit them to the Michigan department about Feb. 15.

After the plans and specifications have been surveyed by C.A. Weber, chief engineer of the department, contracts will be let. "We expect that to be about April, 1956," Gleason said.

Under this schedule, most of the work could be completed by fall of that year. "Structural work would be finished, but it's doubtful if all the surfacing would be done," he added.

Included in the cloverleaf interchange plans is an overpass structure for US-31, estimated to cost more than $300,000. Another $300,000 would be spent for depressing M-21, for considerable fill in, and for paved approaches.

At the same time three US-31 bridges, currently spanning Black River, the Work on a single lane bridge over Black River is completed "except for some sodding" according to L.W. Lamb Co. engineers. The 35-foot-wide bridge was constructed under a $127,000 contract. The old bridge will be used for west-bound traffic.

Library Adventures

Although the book is no longer strictly new, "The Marshall Story," by Robert Payne, is new enough to deserve the attention of Americans who have not read it. "The Marshall Story" is a book-length comment on the public career of General George C. Marshall, the man who gave his name to the famous "Marshall Plan."

The book is listed as a "biography" on the title page, but the author disclaims any intention of making it such. In an introduction he says: "In a strict sense, it is not a biography at all. What he had in mind was to learn 'what kind of a man he is, why he developed the way he did, and how he became a legend.'"

In other words, "The Marshall Story" is an extended character sketch of a public man who is less well understood by the American people than most men of his prominence are. It is what the magazine, "The New Yorker," would call a "profile," but whereas the "profiles" in that publication are usually confined to an article of a few thousand words, Mr. Payne's book covers more than 300 pages.

The outstanding fact that comes out of the examination is that General Marshall is not a politician. He is a military mind, not the mind of a man who can engage in the give-and-take of politics.

From youth up he was trained to give orders and to have those orders obeyed. In politics you don't give orders, you ask favors. General Marshall has always been incapable of asking a favor.

When he was sent by President Truman to China on a special mission, he announced with deliberate formal intent that he was not a candidate for any public office. This was to stave off a movement by admiring Democrats to draft him for the presidency (Marshall is presumably a Democrat, because he is from Virginia.)

Running for President would have been a tragedy for him, although as an executive and administrator he probably has few equals in America. One of the greatest men of our time, he would almost certainly have failed in the field of politics.

His failures were in fact tragic in positions that were at least semi-political. One of the significant things about Robert Payne's book is that it makes no attempt to whitewash Marshall, although the general tone of the book is one of admiration.

On the morning of Pearl Harbor Marshall was out of touch with his office, away on a horseback ride so that he could not be reached.

When the office got through to him—before the attack, when the tragedy might still have been averted or at least mitigated—he failed to see the true meaning of events and neglected to take proper steps. This was a major tragedy for America.

On his mission to China, Marshall proved himself a failure in political negotiations. This was another tragedy, not only for America but for the whole world.

But his successes, largely in a military sense, far overbalanced those two major failures. Marshall, behind the scenes, had more to do with the success of the invasion of Europe than Eisenhower, who was in physical command. He had more to do with the defeat of Japan than MacArthur, who got most of the headlines.

President Truman was not too far out of line when he called Marshall the greatest American of his day. Truman presumably included in this contrast President Roosevelt, General Eisenhower, and General MacArthur.

The last word has obviously not been spoken about Marshall. It seems likely that his stature will grow. Mr. Payne's book seems to be a first attempt to make the American people aware of a truly great man's size.

High Winds Fan 40-Acre Grass-Land Fire Friday

High winds fanned a pit fire early Friday afternoon and sent firemen from two departments scurrying in a successful effort to block a grass fire that swept over 40 acres near Macatawa Park.

Three trucks and a dozen men from the Graafschap and Park township departments were called out to battle the blaze that burned right up to the edge of buildings and turkey pens on the Van Regenmorter turkey farm, just south of 32nd St. a half mile west of Windmill Station.

Firemen said a pit fire that had burned for five days apparently started the blaze about 1:30 p.m. It swept across the rough ground at a tremendous speed but took only about a half hour to stop once firemen had arrived. There was nothing on the land and no financial loss.

PET CIRCUS (RIOT) — Getting a dozen kids all to look the same way at the same time is bad enough, but when they have an armful of animals it's utterly impossible. Major problem was that the dogs didn't like the cats and the cats didn't like the dogs and the rabbits didn't like either one. Pictured (left to right) in the front row are Paul Boerman, Suzanne Masuga, David Rudick, Jack Vande Wege, Judy Baker and John Rympa. Standing are judge Jim Grossman, Tom Comey, Don Bakker, Ward Walters, Bobby Walters and judge Stuart Emmons. (Sentinel photo)

Children Plus Animals Equal One Pet Circus

Forty kids in one backyard are a bundle. But forty kids with animals add up to a pet circus—if this howling band of youngsters and screaming animals can be called one.

Jim Grossman, son of Mrs. Harold Grossman of 258 West 24th St., got the idea last week to see which of the neighborhood's numerous animals was the best.

Mrs. Grossman offered a can of animal food to the winning rabbit, cat and dog, and ice cream, cookies and candy to the youngsters.

With the ice cream, cookies and candy a sure thing, and chances to pick up a bit of animal food on the side, 40 kids streamed into the Grossman yard. Jim disqualified his mammoth collie, Heidi, and with Stuart Emmons served as judge.

"Chico," owned by Judy Baker, was the winning dog while "Rusty," owned by John Rympa, took second. Top honors in cats went to Paul Boerman's "Blackie" and Danny Bakker's "Cream Puff" took second. Topping the list of two rabbits, were "Jack" of Jack Vander Wege and "Twinkle" of Douglas Rudick.

State Regent Is Speaker At Opening DAR Meeting

Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton, chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its opening meeting last week Thursday at the home of Mrs. M.L. Hinga. Mrs. Eldon Dirk, flag chairman, led the pledge of allegiance. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Benjamin L. Van Lee, chaplain. Mrs. Earl Price, regent, presided at a brief business meeting.

Mrs. R. B. Champion announced a regional meeting to be held in Third Reformed Church Sept. 22. Mrs. Clarence Wacker of Birmingham, state regent, spoke on the objectives and scope of the DAR. These achievements have been attained because of the courage, ability and foresight of the founders, she said. The first continental congress was held in 1792 upholding the ideal of liberty and freedom. The national work of the society is done through committees.

Mrs. Wacker gave a brief report of the continental congress held last April in Washington, D.C. At that time the Freedom award for the most outstanding programs of an organization was presented to the DAR. Only two organizations, the speaker said, gave a report to Congress, the DAR and the Red Cross.

The present state project is that of equipping the Kraft center building which the Michigan Daughters completed under the former state regent, Mrs. Ralph Newland of Benton Harbor. This building is located at Kate Duncan Smith DAR owned and operated school at Grant, Ala.

Mrs. Wacker emphasized that through its many projects there is something of interest for all women who are associated with DAR. Besides the grant school, there is one other which the society owns and 11 which it operates.

Other DAR projects include DAR magazines, library, historic research, national defense, citizenship including the foreign-born, the high school good citizenship awards and the Junior American citizen award, conservation, student loan fund (51 men and 31 women in Michigan), American Indians (five Michigan Indian girls in high school, two in college), American music (cataloguing of old American music, hymns and spirituals), and awards for outstanding motion pictures.

Mrs. Wacker closed with a plea to observe Constitution Week Sept. 17 through 23. "The freedoms which we enjoy and take for granted," the speaker said, "would not be possible without our constitution signed 168 years ago Sept. 17, 1787."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. W. McKenna and her committee.

Zuverink Appears

Returning on a Flying Tiger chartered plane, the group left Amsterdam for New York via the Azores and Gander, Newfoundland. According to Corkins the Nurnberg convention was the largest with a peak of 107,423 persons attending. During the Assembly there the Nurnberg newspapers reported a new wave of persecution of Jehovah's Witnesses in the Russian zone of Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Corkins spoke to several from the Russian zone who had risked their lives to attend the affair.

The Holland group also attended a convention in New York City. It was announced that at the 12 District Assemblies in the United States, Canada and Europe a total of 12,830 were baptized.

WAYNE MORSE'S BATTLE

The Republican high command announces that it will go all out to defeat Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon in his coming try for reelection. The Republican national committee will do all it possibly can to return the former Republican senator to private life.

The Democratic national forces have not said specifically that they will do all they can to re-elect him as Oregon's senior senator, but you can bet with confidence that they will. They will work as hard as the Republicans, or perhaps harder, to keep Senator Morse where he is.

For Wayne Morse's battle has ceased to be a state issue. Each party quite reasonably feels that national party prestige is involved in the Oregon contest. If Morse wins re-election the Republican party will lose face; if he loses, the Democrats will suffer in the same way.

Last time he ran Morse went to the voters on the Republican ticket and with the solid backing of the Republican national organization. Presumably the Republicans of Oregon wanted to be represented in Washington by a Republican. But two years after the election they discovered they were not so represented; Morse had come to the conclusion that he could not support the Republican program.

It is, of course, any senator's privilege to change his mind. On specific issues many senators and congressmen in both parties find it impossible to vote with their parties. But when any one of them repudiates the entire program and definitely leaves the party, the people who elected him would seem to have a right to change their minds also.

Tentatively at first Morse became an independent; then he went all the way and moved to the Democratic side of the senate chamber. No party could ignore such a situation.

So the battle for the senatorship in Oregon has changed from a state to a national contest. Morse seems to believe that the people of Oregon have changed sides and have turned into Democrats. Perhaps they have. The Republican national committee will put its money on the theory that the people of Oregon have not switched sides. At least the Republican forces will try to persuade the Oregon voters that they have been misrepresented by the man they elected to the office.

All in all the Wayne Morse battle will be worth watching. Perhaps no other state contest for the senatorship will be so significant in next year's elections.

Sunday School Lesson

September 18, 1953

God's Call to Righteousness—Malachi 3:1-6, 13-18.

By Henry Geerlings

Malachi was the last of a long line of Old Testament prophets. His book closes the canon of the Old Testament. From then until the days of John the Baptist no inspired prophetic voice was heard in Israel. He was a contemporary of Nehemiah and followed closely after the prophets Zechariah and Haggai. His ministry was to the descendants of the Israelites who had returned from the captivity in Babylon about 170 years before. The temple had been rebuilt and its worship restored. Under Nehemiah's leadership the walls of the city of Jerusalem had been rebuilt and both the civil and religious life of the people had been put upon a more stable basis.

Once again the remnant of the people had an opportunity to show their devotion to the Lord who had so signally blessed and prospered them, by loving obedience to His will and by living in brotherly relations with one another. We might have supposed that in view of their past history they would now be willing to be subject to the revealed will of God, knowing it was for their personal and ultimate good.

But human nature never seems to remember or learn. The long history of the human race has shown us that no matter how well placed and conditioned men may be they will not stay there long. Another generation will grow up that does not know the Lord and degeneration is the result. And the condition of Israel at this time is a good illustration of that fact.

Between the expedition of Ezra and that of Nehemiah almost fourteen years had elapsed. The report of the men of Judah shows that they were sad years for the remnant in and around Jerusalem. Ezra's reform had been impeded and partly nullified by the opposition of the Samaritans and religion was declining. It was in this period of decline that Malachi prophesied.

It was a period of disillusionment, despair and doubt. The hopes expected on its completion had not been granted. Instead, there had been some sixty years of distress, misery and hopelessness. As the years of waiting passed, the enthusiasm of the restoration movement declined. Their morale, sapped by the insidious campaign of the Samaritans and the divine vindication of the remnant's being delayed, the people became careless, indifferent, skeptical, formal in their religion and corrupt in their conduct.

The prophet condemned in no uncertain manner the sins of all classes. The people offered blemished victims for sacrifices and the priests in allowing them to be brought, were especially to blame. Such conduct was an insult to God. The anger of Malachi is especially aroused against divorce. He condemns it because it was practiced with a view to contracting heathen marriages. But it was more, it was a grave sin, a breach of faith, abhorrent to a God of justice.

Malachi addresses himself both to the willful reckless sinners and to those whom the success of sinners had tempted to despair in their service to God. The basis of his message was that the seeming indifference of God to them was due to their indifference to Him. It was their own sin which had brought them under the curse, and obscured for them the real character of Jehovah. God can only truly be known and His ways understood by those living in right relations with Him.

This was the truth Christ taught the Jews in later days. They cannot know God as He really is while they live in sin simply because He cannot be to them what He would be if they were living in righteousness. While they live in unrepentant sin they cannot know that He is eternal love and equity.

Not all Israel fell into the shameful excesses which the prophet condemns. They were largely the sins of the privileged and powerful, but the whole community was infected with the spirit of skepticism. Even they that feared the Lord held the promises in doubt and fear. Some doubted reverently and observed the commands of God; others doubted defiantly and lived recklessly, but all challenged the ways of God. Belief in the love of God for Israel, upon which the promise was based, was vanishing in the depression of wary delay.

U.S. Government Draws Heavily on Michigan

By Junius B. Wood

(Special Dispatch to The Holland Evening Sentinel)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 13—Congress is in recess, the tumult and shouting is ended and the fluent lawmakers and investigators have scattered to their home districts or flown to foreign lands. A host of executives remain in the national capital to direct the many sided and farflung affairs of this great nation.

In selecting these men and women of proven ability and experience in private business to run an infinitely complicated national government, the present administration draws heavily on the state of Michigan. The state stands out among the 48 whose patriotic citizens have put aside their more profitable private interests to serve the nation. Michigan's preeminence was emphasized a few weeks ago when a Senator named a sizeable number of states that never have been called on to supply a single ambassador to a foreign country or a member of a president's cabinet.

Michigan is equalled only by New York, each state with two members of President Eisenhower's cabinet. Charles E. Wilson of Bloomfield Hills is Secretary of Defense and Arthur Summerfield of Flint is Postmaster General. George M. Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury, might bring the Michigan representation to three as he was born, educated and won his legal reputation in the state before his law office moved from Saginaw to Ohio.

Though not among the senior ten but with Cabinet rank in the presidential circle are Wilbur M. Brucker of Detroit, former Michigan governor and now Secretary of the Army and Joseph M. Dodge of Grosse Pointe, former Budget Director and now a Special Assistant to the President.

Ranking in the more numerous diplomatic corps are: Frederick M. Alger Jr., former Michigan Secretary of State, now Ambassador to Belgium; Homer Ferguson, two-term U.S. Senator, Ambassador to the Philippines; Arthur E. Gardner, all three from Detroit; Ambassador to Cuba, and Joseph C. Satterwaite of Tecumseh, Minister to Morocco.

An executive department in Washington which does not have a Michigan citizen in a responsible office is rare. The rollcall, with their Michigan home town address and duties in Washington, is imposing:

Curtis E. Anderson, Cadillac, Chief, Procurement Assistance Division of the Small Business Administration; Berry N. Beaman, Parma, vice president of Federal Prison Industries; Lewis S. Berry, Cheboygan, deputy council for the Army department; Charles A. Bowser, Lansing, Underwriting Administrator in the Federal Housing Administration; Clark L. Brody, Lansing, member Federal Farm Credit Board; Harold B. Corwin, Grand Rapids, Deputy General Counsel for the Commerce Department; Moreau S. Crosby, Grand Rapids, Special Assistant in Small Business Administration.

Vogel, Chairman, Board of Directors, Tennessee Valley Administration; Philip Weiss, Detroit, Labor Management Board, Atomic Energy Commission; Arthur W. Winston, Midland, Assistant Administrator, Business Defense Services Administration; Harold H. Yokes, Operations office, Navy department.

DAMAGE ESTIMATE CREEPING UPWARD—Original fire damage estimate of $500,000 won't cover the loss at Camfield Manufacturing Co. in Grand Haven, several contractors working on the clean-up job (above) agreed Monday. It'll be a lot closer to a million dollars, one commented. Standing amid the warped steel girders and crumbled concrete walls another pointed out that truckloads of damaged frying pans, coffee makers and toasters have been hauled out on an almost round-the-clock work schedule. Stuart Padnos, whose firm is handling the scrap, said: "We hauled load after load of ruined punch presses." Meanwhile company officials were steadily increasing the work force as production resumed in undamaged portions of the plant. Arrangements were made for sub-contracting processes normally carried on in the burned-out wing. Local firms were expected to handle the operations. Increased production costs are covered by the firm's insurance, which also covers business interruption losses.

Newly-Dedicated Church Has Fellowship Service

A large group of friends attended a "service of fellowship" last week at the newly-dedicated Park Christian Reformed Church on West 32nd St.

The program, featuring musical numbers and greetings from several neighboring churches, was followed by inspection of the building. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. D. Genzink presided at the organ and the pastor, the Rev. Vincent Licatesi, read scripture. Musical numbers included songs by a children's chorus, a mixed quartet, including Mr. and Mrs. A. Bouman and Mr. and Mrs. V. Tinkhoff, and by a men's quartet. Pictures of the church in the process of construction were shown by L. Hoffmeyer and J. Van Iwaarden.

Rev. Licatesi presided at the dedicatory service Wednesday evening. During the service, greetings from Classis Holland were extended by the Rev. John De Kruyter of Maple Avenue Church. Mrs. Fred Veltman presided at the organ.

The church, located on West 32nd St., actually originated July 31, 1952, when the first meeting was held to determine the possibility of starting another church in the Central Park area. Fourteen persons attended and a committee was named to canvass the area. As a result, first services were held Oct. 12, 1952, in Lakeview School and were conducted by the Rev. J. Beebe, who had been appointed advisor by the Classis.

Services were conducted by local ministers until Jan. 11, 1953, when Dr. John Van Dyke, home missionary from Grand Rapids came here and organized several church societies.

Organizational meeting of the Park Church was held June 24, 1953, and a consistory was named. A congregational meeting was held July 21, 1953, to buy the plot of ground and discuss building. Rev. Licatesi accepted a call to the church in December that year and was welcomed in March, 1954. Installation was held in Montello Park Church.

First services in the new building were held on Good Friday, April 8, 1955. The church has now grown to 40 families, an increase of 16 families in two years.

Members of the church building committee are: R. Lubbers, R. Ploekmeyer, A. Streur, E. Teusink and J. Sienk.

Get-Acquainted Meeting Featured at Waukazoo

The Waukazoo School held their first PTA meeting of the season last week Thursday. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Arnold De Feyter, president.

City Represented At League Confab

Holland is well represented at the Michigan Municipal League convention, which was held on Mackinac Island last week.

Included in the Holland delegation are Mayor Robert Visscher, City Attorney James E. Townsend, City Assessor William Koop, City Treasurer Alden J. Stoner, City Auditor John Fonger and City Clerk Clarence Greengroed.

At a conference Friday on providing municipal services for urban areas adjacent to cities, Mayor Visscher said that annexation is not a magic solution, although many persons think it is the only solution.

He pointed out that annexation puts an increased tax load on the city because surrounding areas get benefits from the city without having contributed anything to capital investments.

Mayor George Veldman of Grand Rapids believes annexing urban areas is a solution, and Commissioner Lewis DeKorne explained how Grand Rapids has worked out a system of extending municipal services to fringe areas at 16 times the rate paid by city taxpayers.

"Basically, we are still one community, mutually profiting from co-ordination or suffering from lack of co-ordination," DeKorne said. He was a member of the panel discussing "The Cooperative Solution to Urban Problems."

Auxiliary Unit Has Fall Meet

A panel discussion led by Dr. G. J. Kemme, assisted by Dr. Alvin Bonzelaar and Dr. Chester Van Appledorn was featured at the annual fall meeting of the Christian Reformed Unit of Holland Hospital Auxiliary. The event was held last Thursday in Maple Avenue Christian Reformed Church.

Undaunted by the darkness resulting from a local power failure, the physicians continued their discussion on a variety of medical topics. Amid a "profusion of candles," they discussed questions which covered many subjects from the Salk vaccine to cancer research. All questions under consideration were submitted by members of the unit.

Mrs. Glenn Mannes, president, conducted the meeting. Following devotions led by Mrs. John De Kruyter, a vocal selection was presented by a sextet from the Ninth Street Christian Reformed Church. Members were Mrs. Joe Israel, Mrs. Albert Schreur, Mrs. Jason Rypma, Mrs. Clarence Tubergen and Mrs. Alden Stoner, accompanied by Mrs. Allen Boltman at the piano.

During the brief business meeting, minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. John Terpsma. It was announced that the training program for the "pinkies" will be continued under supervision of Mrs. Fred Klunder and Miss Kathryn Groeneveld.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Glenn Mannes offered prayer. A social hour followed with refreshments served by hostesses from the Maple Avenue Church.

Over 400 Attend GOP Picnic in Civic Center

When storm clouds gathered shortly before 3 p.m. Thursday accompanied by sharp winds and big drops of rain, the 5th district GOP picnic at Kollen Park was hastily transferred to Holland's new Civic Center where picnickers happily tailored their activities to an indoor event.

Actually, the only change in the program was the cancellation of the water skiing exhibition and a change in certain games for the young fry. Picnickers were comfortably seated at the front of the large auditorium while tables were set up in the rear.

And by the time the big event was over, persons in charge of registration said more than 400 persons had entered the building. A sports program for children was carried on in the front of the auditorium, interspersed by short talks.

Charles R. Sligh, Jr., of Holland and Grand Rapids, chairman of the Kent county GOP committee, served as master of ceremonies and Carl C. Andreasen of Holland, chairman of the Ottawa county committee, served as host.

Perhaps the most significant remarks came from U.S. Rep. August E. Johansen of Battle Creek who said the time had arrived in congress for efficient government. He said Congress was now on a good working basis, was spending less money, and getting more for its money.

U.S. Cong. Jerry Ford, of Grand Rapids, spoke on general aims and accomplishments of the Republican party and gave a strong plug for a second term for President Eisenhower, urging all Republicans to "get behind Ike and get him nominated and elected for a second term." U.S. Cong. Alvin M. Bentley also spoke along the same lines. John P. Milanowski, executive secretary for 5th district Republicans, also spoke.

A 20-piece pickup "German" band of high school and junior high musicians made a big hit with the picnickers playing several selections under the direction of Ralph Houston who also is chief of police at Junior High.

A good share of the picnickers came from Grand Rapids and other parts of Kent county where such picnics have been staged before. All sections of the district were well represented.

Local Woman Addresses Convention Luncheon

About 75 women gathered in the Warm Friend Tavern last Thursday for a ladies luncheon in connection with the annual convention of the State Association of County Social Welfare Boards, a three-day event which closes today in Civic Center.

Main speaker was Mrs. Donald F. Brown of Holland whose subject was "Spain and its Romantic Poor." Mrs. Brown, who has traveled extensively in Spain, said the romantic poor are not very romantic but are living in extreme poverty. She discussed the political, historical and geographical condition of the country and pointed out there is no middle class. She closed with the thought that although it has been said that Spain is the land which time has forgotten, the people hope soon to be remembered. A question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Evelyn Knuth of Cadillac presided and gave the invocation. Mrs. Earl Vanden Bosch sang "Hills of Home," Fox, and "Sleepy Hollow Tune," Fosdick, accompanied by Mrs. Earle Tellman.

Christian School Enrollment Up 137 Students

With the high school making the biggest gain, Holland Christian schools again showed a jump in enrollment, Supt. Bert P. Bos reported Saturday.

Figures released late Friday, revealed that the system had gained 137 pupils over last year, amounting to an increase of 7 per cent. Lacking 26 pupils, the local system would have reached a total of 2,000 pupils. To date there are 1,974 registered compared to last year's 1837.

The high school surprisingly enough came up with a 638 total, showing a boost of 60 pupils over last year's 578. Although school officials had expected the high school to approach the 600 mark this year, they hadn't anticipated this large a gain.

"Following the pre-enrollment conference held last May, I estimated conservatively 588 students," Bos said.

The elementary department, kindergarten through six, showed a 1,075 figure, compared to last year's 1018, showing a gain of 57. The junior high, housing grades seven and eight, had a 261 mark, 20 more than last year.

By schools, the Central Ave. school listed 433, the South Side, 399 and the West Side, 243. Bos said the West Side showed the much lower total than the others, because of a transfer of some pupils to the Central Ave. school.

Figures by grades follow: kindergarten, 186; first, 150; second, 170; third, 182; fourth, 140; fifth, 123; sixth, 124; seventh, 136; eighth, 125; ninth, 177; tenth, 183; eleventh, 162; twelfth, 116.

Looking back 10 years the figures reveal some interesting data, and evidence of remarkable growth. Since 1945, the entire system has grown over 100 per cent. At that time, there were just 921 pupils in the schools. There were 86 in the kindergarten, 125 in the junior high and 334 in the high school.

Gleaners Class Names Officers at Meeting

Miss Dena Muller, retiring president, presided and Mrs. William Moerdyke led devotions. Mrs. Gilbert Holkeboer, home on furlough from Lupine, Nigeria, Africa, where she and her husband have been missionaries for five years, was guest soloist. She sang "Eye Hath Not Seen, Ear Hath Not Heard" from the Holy City by Gaul.

During the business session annual reports were read by various chairmen. Officers elected were Mrs. John G. Kooker, president; Mrs. J. W. Young, vice president; Mrs. John Olt, secretary; Mrs. A. B. Van Dyke, assistant secretary; Mrs. Marius Mulder, treasurer; Miss Jennie Karsten assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Martha Pelgrim, mission treasurer.

Three Cars Damaged In Spring Lake Crash

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — A car driven by Robert G. Lucking 33, route 2, Spring Lake, was wedged in between two cars driven by teenagers on the jackknife bridge shortly before 8 p.m. last Thursday as all were headed west.

Lucking stopped behind a car driven by Suzanne Cooper, 17, Spring Lake, waiting in a lane of traffic for a traffic light. Then a car driven by Howard Garthwaite, 17, rammed into the rear of the Lucking car which in turn rammed the heavy Cooper car.

Damage to the Lucking car was estimated at $300, the Garthwaite 1940 model, $100, and the Cooper car, $75. State police charged Garthwaite with failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead.

Guns Really Boom At Police Range

Target practice is getting to be mighty risky for members of the Holland police department.

For the second time in five days a .38 caliber revolver exploded at the police pistol range as it was being fired.

Officer Clarence Van Langevelde's service gun blew up in his hand Saturday the same way that officer Ed Kampen's gun did earlier in the week.

Fortunately neither of the men were injured. A probable cause was too much powder in the shells. Men serving sentences in the Holland jail had been used periodically to help reload the shells.

After the second mishap the officers decided to dispense with the help and load their own bullets. Officers have the tedious task of unloading 2,500 rounds of ammunition to prevent any more explosions.

Stolen Boat Found At Bottom of Lake

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — A 19-foot Chris-Craft owned by Bernard Pipes of Grand Haven which has been missing since Aug. 22 has been found at the bottom of Lake Michigan near East Chicago, according to state police and sheriff's officers.

Information on the location of the boat came from a 16-year-old youth now being held in Indiana on the Dyer act, having been picked up with a stolen car from Tennessee.

Also under suspicion is Larry Bouten, 23, Mason, currently serving a 30-day jail sentence in Ingham county jail on a non-support charge. Bouten admits being in Grand Haven the night the boat disappeared and admitted leaving his car at the North Shore Marina because it had broken down. Bouten submitted to several lie detector tests which showed he was not telling the truth when he denied taking the boat.

He admitted he was with a 16-year-old escapee from Boys Vocational School, Trooper Richard Sheppard and Under Sheriff Harris Niessma went to Hammond, Ind., to question the youth Tuesday.

Silk thread for the coronation robe of Queen Elizabeth II was furnished by England's silk farm at Lullingstone castle, in Kent.

BEST OF BREED—It's enough to soften a dog-lover's heart. That's about the best description of this beautiful Golden Retriever, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Louis De Kraker, of 127 South Elm St., Zeeland. With a shiny golden coat, and alert eyes, it's not hard to see why "Duke of Earl, C.D." won best of breed honors recently at a Lexington, Ky., dog show. The "C.D." signifies he's an approved companion dog of the American Kennel Club. But it's not all on looks as he won honors in obedience, high and broad jump and free heeling. The two-year-old animal has had more training than any young child. He's been taking top honors in classes at Grand Rapids, and has won something every time he's been shown at state-wide events. The De Krakers figure the handful of ribbons Duke has already won is a pretty good start—this being only the second dog they've trained. Duke was bought at seven weeks—for a tidy $150 figure. With all the training, the honors he's won. Duke is now a valuable animal. Pictured with the dog is Louis De Kraker.

... Holland Archery Tournament Champion

Glen Brower Grabs First In Holland Archery Meet

Glen Brower sharpened his eye for the archery season on deer coming up Oct. 1 with a come-from-behind victory in the recently completed Holland archery field tournament.

Firing at 28 targets, ranging in distance from five to 80 yards, Brower fired a total score of 671 over the approved National Field Archery Association course located at the Holland Fish and Game club grounds on M-21, three miles east of Holland.

Brower trailed first leader Bill Brown by 20 points in the free-style competition but outshot Brown by 82 points on the final half of the course to cop the cup. Brown's total of 609 put him in the runner-up spot.

John Lam with a 553 score took third in the free style shooting. Other free style scores were: Gene Hiddinga, 536, and Andy Naber, 273.

Norma Naber won the ladies free style with a 370 score. Other women's scores included: Joyce Barkel, 293; Glad Jousma, 289; Barb Rozema, 22; Joey Wabeke 115 and Reka Brown, 63.

Juke Ten Cate won the instinctive class with a 561, followed by Jerry Kline with a 519. Other scores in the instinctive division were: Mary Wabeke, 517; Chuck Rozema, 509; Paul Barkel, 470, and Mel Jousma, 279.

Free style archers use a sight while instinctive class shooting is accomplished without use of a sight.

Brower and several other Holland archery club members will be leaving here in a couple of weeks for the deer hunting bow and arrow season.

The group of local archers constructed a cabin in the Dead Stream Swamp area four miles from Higgins lake and seven miles from Houghton Lake in the heart of the deerland bear hunting area in Roscommon County.

The cabin was made in a day back in 1950 by 15 local shareholders. It's located about 180 miles from here.

The group purchased the property and put up the cabin. It's a 16 by 22-foot cabin and has bunks for 12, welded together three high. The cabin has a single room and two windows with steel window sash.

Carnegie-Schouten Gym Is Completely Renovated

Carnegie-Schouten gymnasium stands today, one of the fine physical education centers in Western Michigan. Originally built and dedicated in 1906 from funds secured from Philanthropist Andrew Carnegie, the structure stood out as a model of gymnasium construction.

According to Mrs. J.C. Pelgrim of Coral Gables, Fla., this was the only time Mr. Carnegie gave money to be used for a physical education project. Mrs. Pelgrim is a daughter of the late Dr. Gerrit J. Kollen, president of Hope college at the time of Mr. Carnegie's gift.

Mrs. Pelgrim said that the great philanthropist was usually interested in fostering libraries but made this one exception because a mutual friend of Carnegie and Dr. Kollen had shown Hope's need in that direction.

The gymnasium has now been completely remodeled at a cost of $60,000 and the new construction was dedicated last fall to former coach John H.L. Schouten.

The remodeling of Carnegie-Schouten gymnasium is part of a program involving the construction or remodeling of five major campus buildings. The project, which was authorized in the late 1940's by the Hope college board of trustees, includes: Durfee Hall, completed in 1950; the central heating plant, built in 1950; Carnegie-Schouten gymnasium; The new men's dormitory scheduled for completion this year, and a new music building, also scheduled for construction this year.

Salk Vaccine Has Strong Support in Ottawa Area

This was the way Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., University of Michigan vaccine authority, announced on April 12, 1955, the results of the 1954 Salk anti-polio vaccine field trials.

More than 500 scientists and 100 reporters were assembled for the report which touched off a barrage of publicity unprecedented in medical history. Newspaper headlines kept up a day-by-day jargon of c's, antibody levels and incubation periods.

Thousands of words were printed when inoculated children developed polio. The subsequent medical meetings and developments were covered in great detail.

Yet today, four months later and despite the publicity, most parents are unsure whether to have children inoculated by supplies now being made generally available.

Few doctors, even in Holland, are willing to make recommendations.

Right from the start Ottawa county was one of the centers of the nation-wide controversy on the anti-polio vaccine. Participation here in the 1954 field trials and this year's general inoculations although considerable, was well below the national average. Supporters of inoculation emphasize three things:

1. The Francis report on the 1954 field trials.
2. The revised federal tests for safety of the vaccine, and
3. Federal and state approval of inoculation at the present time.

The Francis report dealt with results obtained in field tests involving 1,800,000 children. Of these, 430,000 got the Salk vaccine (1935 in Ottawa County) while the others were used as control groups to contrast the 'normal' incidence of polio.

According to Francis' findings, the vaccine was 60 per cent effective against type I polio, and 70-80 per cent effective against paralysis with types II and III. These figures must be contrasted with the accepted estimate that 65 per cent of all polio is type I, five per cent is type II and 30 per cent is type III.

On the basis of these results, Dr. Francis judged the vaccine effective.

Because there was only one death in the inoculated group (with strong evidence of prior infection in that case) and because other minor reactions were infrequent, the vaccine was judged safe.

The United States Public Health

Service licensed the vaccine the same day and some six and one-half million American children received shots, 3,847 in Ottawa County. After it was found some inoculated children came down with polio, the vaccine was recalled and new testing procedures adopted.

Under the new system more samples of the vaccine are tested, the process of killing live virus is lengthened, two successive negative tests for live virus are required and tests for live virus must be run even after bottling. A "satisfactory degree of sensitivity" is now claimed by the Health department for its testing procedures.

Last week the United States Public Health Service said it's own testing procedures were responsible for the live virus in the Cutter vaccine. Said the report, "the cause of the trouble was inadequate inactivation killing of the virus coupled with failure of the safety test to demonstrate the presence of the virus."

The report was generally accepted as pinpointing shortcomings of the safety testing procedures, rather than either the vaccine or the Cutter manufacturing procedures. After formulating the new procedures, the Public Health Service again released the vaccine. Approval of the release under the new system was also urged by President Eisenhower's advisory committee.

Vaccine now in use has been approved by President Eisenhower's advisory committee, the Division of Biologic Standards of the National Institute of Health, Governor G. Mennen Williams' advisory commission and the National Polio Foundation.

Manufacture, distribution and inoculation with the vaccine is, also urged by these groups. The recommendations are being followed in all except three states. Congress has appropriated $30 million for supplying the shots to needy children under 20 years old and pregnant women.

At its June meeting in Atlantic City, N. J., the American Medical Association adopted a report stating, "resolved, that the American Medical Association urge the Congress of the United States to allow the Salk poliomyelitis vaccine to be produced, distributed and administered."

Several national magazines have recently contended the vaccine is reducing expected polio cases in

Wind, Rain Keep Trap Scores Low

The Tulip City Rod and Gun Club held its first Public Trap Shoot Saturday, but due to high winds and rain scores were low. The wind made the clay birds do acrobatic stunts, which made some of them nearly impossible to hit.

Trap shooting was curtailed at 4 p.m. because of rain. No one was able to break 20 or more birds out of 25, in order to qualify for the Championship Shoot to be held Saturday, October 15th.

It is hoped that better weather will prevail for next Saturday's shoot which will start at 1 p.m. sharp.

Only the scores of those breaking five or more birds out of twenty-five during the Public Trap Shoots scheduled will be listed.

The six highest scores for the last Saturday's shoot were: Roy Strenght 15, John Landwehr 15, Henry Bol 14, Larry Kolb 13, H. Leeuw 13 and Sam Althuis 13.

Other scorers were: Ken O'Meara 12, Earl Cranmer 12, Junior Nyhof 12, H. Elferdink 12, Bob Roelofs 12, Vern Leeuw 12, Mike DeWitt 12, Duke Lieverse 11, Dick Crowe 11, Frank Lieverse 10, Willie J. J. van 10, Jim Landwehr 10, Jake Roelofs 8, Clarence Becker 8, Ken Behrendt 8, George Wennersten 7, John Brouwer 7, Don Kane 7, Larry Williams 7, Bernie Waterway 7, Andy J. van 7, John Hellenhal 5, Evert DeWeerd 5, Jim Vandenberg 5, Abe Verschure 5.

Herman Jacobs Dies Of Lingering Illness

Herman Jacobs, 76, died Monday noon of a lingering illness at his home, 128 West 17th St.

Surviving are the wife, Fannie; seven daughters, Mrs. George Beckvoort, Mrs. John G. Meiste, Mrs. Herman Schierbeek, Mrs. Marvin Waterway, Mrs. Frances Steketee and Mrs. Herman Ten Harnselt, all of Holland, and Miss Hilda Jacobs at home; 23 grandchildren; five great grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Ben Breuker, and a brother-in-law, Henry Lemmen.

inoculated groups. For instance, of the 6.5 million children inoculated with at least one shot, only 247 cases of polio were recorded when the normal incidence in that age bracket would be about 653. Indications of less severe paralysis in the inoculated group are also emerging.

National Polio foundation officials are reportedly keeping close watch on developments in Ottawa county because of the somewhat lower participation in inoculations. In the county of 5,511 eligible for the first round of shots in April, 3,847 were inoculated, while in Holland city where 1,803 were eligible, 1,175 got the shots.

Confusion over the Cutter vaccine and the local controversy cut deeply into the numbers returning for second round shots in July, with only 450 getting the shots in Holland city and 2,477 in the county.

According to Health Department records, of the 16 polio cases reported thus far in the county, four were among the age group eligible for the shots, but none had been inoculated.

"We don't expect the vaccine is perfect," one official observed. "But after all, none of the other vaccines for small-pox, rabies and the like are perfect, but they sure do help."

"We're convinced the Salk vaccine can help, too."

Industrialist Is Named Member Of School Board

Carl C. Andreasen, president of Holland-Racine Shoes, Inc., and active in civic affairs, was unanimously appointed to the Board of Education at a monthly meeting Monday night in administration headquarters.

Andreasen succeeds Mrs. Kenneth De Pree, member of the board for 11 years, who resigned last month because of her husband's illness and her decision to return to the teaching field. She is now teaching sixth grade in Lincoln School.

Andreasen, who indicated he would be happy to accept the appointment, will serve until the next school board election less than a year hence in June, 1956. Should he seek election at that time, he would be running for a one-year term. Thereafter the post would have the normal four-year term.

The new appointee came to Holland from Racine, Wis., in the late 30's when the Holland and Racine shoe firms merged. He has been active in Community Chest work and Chamber of Commerce work and three years ago was named chairman of the Ottawa county Republican committee.

The board also adopted a resolution for Mrs. De Pree expressing appreciation for her interest and untiring concern for the proper education of children and also expressed pleasure that her influence will continue in the school room. Mrs. De Pree served as clerk of the board for four years.

Andreasen was nominated by Kuyper who with Mrs. John K. Winter had been appointed to a committee to make a recommendation.

The board adopted a new policy on rental of musical instruments, setting a $5 semester rental on school-owned instruments for elementary students and $5 a year for high school students. The fund is to be earmarked for the repair of school-owned instruments.

The board adopted a resolution governing a student scholarship fund whereby worthy high school graduates may borrow funds for college at little or no interest rates.

The board approved an arrangement whereby Construction Supervisor Arthur Read will devote two half-day periods a week to supervising a new school job in Muskegon Heights.

Contract for library shelving in Jefferson school was awarded to low bidder, Michigan Woodwork and Specialties Co. of Battle Creek for $755. Bids by two Holland firms exceeded $1,200.

The buildings and grounds committee was authorized to advertise for bids for laying additional sidewalks at Jefferson school. Plans also have been made to obtain a marble bust of Thomas Jefferson for the new school.

President James Hailan presided at the meeting which adjourned at 10:15 p.m. Secretary Kuyper gave the invocation. Members absent were Mrs. John K. Winter and Bernard Arendshorst.

New Radar Unit Nabs 29 Speeders

More than two dozen Holland motorists Monday night were the target of the unseen eye of the police department's new radar unit.

Within the space of roughly five and a half hours police issued 29 tickets for speeding violations ranging up to 53 miles per hour.

For the first time locally the unit was used at night for several hours. The location was on River Ave. south of the bridge near Windmill Park. Although local police have been using radar for the last two weeks Monday was the first time it had been given a thorough test.

Two Muskegon officers, Ben Homrich and Art Craymer, who have operated the radar device in their city the last few years, came to Holland Monday to instruct local officers.

Based on the Muskegon officers' long experience the unit operates most efficiently using two cars.

One police car contains the radar box which emits radio waves which strike moving vehicles and bounce back.

The lapse of time is calibrated on a meter in miles per hour. The same speed is automatically written on a graph as a permanent record.

As the speeding violator passed the radar car word is radioed ahead to the second car which makes the stop.

Most of the violators Monday took time to drive back to the radar car and watch the unit in operation as it spotted other speeders.

Police expect to use radar each day in different locations throughout the city, both during the daylight hours as well as at night.
