The Coming Fair.

There was a time during the earlier part of the season when a rather doubtful attitude prevailed on the part of the public as well as the board of directors with reference to the success of the Ninth Annual Fair of the South Ottawa and West Allegan Agricultural Society, to be held in this city week after next. It was feared that the Columbian Exposition would overshadow every other industrial exhibition, and the general interest so concentrate upon the White City and wipe out for the time being all local enterprise, that there would be nothing left for a home demonstration.

This fear however has been happily dispelled, and the secretary informs us that never in the history of the society was there more interest manifested throughout the rural districts in any coming fair than there has been of late, ever since the premium list has been placed in the hands of the public. The farmers especially seem to be very much interested. Many of them are, or imagine they were, prevented from attending the World's fair, and they evidently desire to make up along the home line.

Stimulated by this outlook the directors have taken particular pains to add to the attractions. The speed trials this year will be what they have never been before. The race track has been placed in fine condition, and for several weeks it is being continually used by leading horsemen in training their horses.

Since the issue of the premium list several important changes and additions have been made as regards the races, and the program now includes the following:

Wednesday—Exhibition of roadsters and standard bred classes on the track; also of ladies and gents' riding and driving horses. Two-year-old class, trotting and pacing, half-mile heat, 3 in 5, purse $25. Farmers' green race, mile heats, 2 in 3, purse $20.

Thursday—2:35 Class, trotting, mile heats, 3 in 5, purse $125. Three-year-old class, trotting and pacing, mile heats, 2 in 3, purse $75. Novelty race, purse $10, divided $5, $3, and $2; farmers or farmers' boys to draw their bugles on track, lead horses by bridle to buggy, harness, and drive half a mile, go as you please. No entry fee.

Friday—3:00 Class, trotting and pacing, mile heats, 3 in 5, purse $100. Merchants' and manufacturers' purse for free-for-all class, trotting and pacing, mile heats, 3 in 5, purse $150. Novelty race, purse $10, divided $5, $3, and $2, for farmers' horses only, walk half a mile, trot half a mile and go as you please half a mile. No entry fee. Also cavalcade of premium stock in the forenoon.

There is promise of a large display of horses, and no doubt we will have some fine racing. Several well-known race horses from Grand Rapids will be in attendance.

In addition to the above the second day of the fair, Wednesday, will be "Auction day." The object of this is to incorporate into the fair the one and only worthy feature of the old-timed "market-day," for the sale of stock. Farmers and all others will be allowed to bring on the grounds, without extra charge, horses and stock of all kinds that they desire to dispose of. Part of the grounds will be partitioned off and set apart for this purpose. The usual entrance ticket at the gates will be all that is required.

Two matched games of base ball will be played, with clubs from Allegan and Grand Haven; and perhaps a third, with a club from South Haven. A balloon ascension will also be one of the probable attractions.

We have been requested to call attention to the rule that the time for entries will close on Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 3:00 p. m. Entries can be made by mail, addressed to the secretary, G. J. Van Duren.

The fair annually draws large numbers to our city, and a proportionate benefit is derived therefrom. At the same time it has been observed that the entries on the part of city folks, merchants as well as others, are on the decline. This is not as it should be. Let all do their share towards making the fair a success, and in no way can this be done more effectually than by a grand display in Art and Floral Halls. Nothing gives visitors a more depressing feeling and tends to belittle the fair more, than empty space.

At each legislative session a large portion of the time is occupied with charter work for cities and villages. With a view of obviating this the last legislature provided for the appointment of a commission to prepare and report a general municipal incorporation bill. As such commission Gov. Rich has appointed Messrs. Wm. Hartshoff of Port Huron, G. J. Diekema of this city, and E. F. Conely of Detroit.

The attendance at the World's Fair continues to be brisk.

Hope College.

The stars and stripes proudly waved over Van Vleck Hall on Wednesday. It was the opening day of Hope College, and never in the history of the institution did it enter upon a new school year under more promising and favored auspices than the present.

The number of new students enrolled in the D. class of the Grammar school department is 70. The Freshmen class in the college department numbers 24. The ground total, exclusive of the Normal department and Theological Seminary exceeds 200, of which 25 are female students.

The election of a new president and the appointment of two new professors have added largely to the prestige of the Faculty and increased the scope of the curriculum. With these additions the present corps of instructors embraces the following:

Gerrit J. Kollen, A. M., President. In charge of Logic and Political Economy.

Rev. Chas. Scott, D. D., Professor of Geology and Mineralogy.

Cornelius Doesburg, A. M., Professor of Modern Languages and Literature. In charge of Art Studies.

Henry Boers, A. M., Professor of History.

John H. Kleinheksel, A. M., Professor of Mathematics.

James G. Sutphen, A. M., Professor of the Latin Language and Literature.

Rev. John H. Gillespie, A. M., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature.

John B. Nykerk, A. M., Professor of Music and English.

Douwe B. Yntema, A. M., Professor of Chemistry and Physics.

Erastus A. Whitenack, A. B., Professor of English Literature, and Instructor in French and German.

Mrs. C. Van Raalte Gilmore, Lady Principal.

The financial stringency of the times prevented the completion of the new building in time for the opening this fall, and hence the facilities as to recitation rooms just now are not what were expected, nor such as the exigencies demand. Nevertheless the old quarters have been duly renovated and Van Vleck Hall has received a thorough overhauling.

Wednesday was a beautiful day, and the campus swarmed with the prospective sons and daughters of Hope. Promptly at the hour of nine they filed into the chapel, where the opening exercises were to be held. All the members of the Faculty, with the exception of Prof. C. Scott, who is still confined to his home by reason of illness, were present.

The new president, Prof. G. J. Kollen, was given a hearty welcome by the students and took his seat amid the plaudits of all present; and another very gratifying feature of the occasion was the attendance of some of our citizens—a fair indication of the new and more cordial relations the institution is to sustain towards the vicinage.

After the usual devotional exercises, led by Prof. Beardslee of the Seminary, President Kollen assumed the duties of his new position in an address to the students, as follows:

We very much regret that our beloved Dr. Scott, who has for so many years conducted these opening exercises while president of the college, is confined to his home by serious illness, and is therefore not able to be present with us. In accordance with the action of council at its last session, it now devolves upon me to speak to you a few words, and, in the name of the Faculty, bid you all a hearty welcome.

Standing at the opening of another College year fills the hearts of all of us with strong hope, and at the same time, with a deep sense of responsibility. It is well to ask ourselves the question, why we are here? We certainly are here for some purpose. We have come with a purpose of our own, or we have been sent for a purpose. You are here, we trust, for the purpose of acquiring power. We hope that you all desire intellectual and spiritual power for the purpose of making yourself strong in doing. With such a purpose in your heart, we bid you a most cordial welcome; and we as a Faculty most cheerfully and solemnly pledge ourselves that we will help you all we can, to attain to such a worthy object in life.

I say help—for remember that these professors with their hearts full of sympathy and love for you, and their minds well stocked with all needed knowledge, can be but helps to you. The bulk of the work must be done by yourselves. No royal way has yet been discovered up the hill of science. The higher planes of moral and intellectual power have never yet been reached on flowery beds of ease. The road to the highest success and the greatest usefulness means a struggle; but when faithfully pursued, it affords the struggle intense satisfaction and supreme delight.

Are your hearts, as we stand upon the threshold of this new College year, filled with noble aspiration for intellectual, moral and spiritual power, then, with your eyes fixed upon the hills from which your help cometh, to the work! Do you desire to be useful in your day, then let the Macedonian cry that comes to you from many worthy causes which have for their object the uplifting and salvation of mankind, inspire you to holy living and noble action.

Young men and women, there never was a time so replete with incentives to do your best, as the present. The opportunities for ready spirits and willing and able hands, are well-nigh boundless in our day. Your privileges are great. See to it, that you will ever be found at the top of your possibilities. Your friends, the Church and the World are expecting great things of you. Do not, by any lack on your part, disappoint them.

The results of a christian civilization, the sacrifices of the Church, and the self denying spirit of those dear to you—all these make it possible for you to enjoy these educational privileges. Large and valuable investments are, as it were, locked up in you. You should do all you can to have society, church, and friends realize, in due time, a reasonable dividend on the investment.

Knowledge is power, but in proportion as the power is great, does it become dangerous when uncontrolled. A wild locomotive is a terrible power. It is only when the skillful engineer is at the lever that it is a power for good. So knowledge, if it shall become a blessing to ourselves and to others, must be controlled by an enlightened conscience, and sanctified by the grace of God.

HOPE COLLEGE has been founded on the prayers of our fathers, many of whom have already entered upon their eternal reward. It has been fostered and strengthened by the love and generosity of those consecrated to religion and education. Thus, this College has become the agency whereby young men and women have become strong for God and for humanity; and to-day we may recognize in our blessed institution a great power for good. Its history is one to which we can point with just pride and profound gratitude to God. The seed sown in prayer and faith has indeed yielded an abundant harvest.

And how shall the harvest be in the future? To-day we, as students and teachers, largely form the connecting link between the fruitful past, and the unknown future. The future, unknown, and not yet altogether unknown; for faithful service rendered in the name of the Lord, shall not fail of its reward.

Some say that the future of Hope College will depend largely upon the fact whether there will yet be others who will in their generosity provide us with needed tools and equipments, in the line of buildings and special scientific instruction. Others claim that it will depend upon the Council, whether they will greatly increase the teaching force, in order that a variety of courses of study may be made possible. Now we readily admit that much will depend upon these; but let me tell you in all earnestness, that the future of HOPE COLLEGE will more largely depend upon you than upon any one or even all these other agencies that are connected with this institution.

The work done here can only commend itself to the world through you. You are the epistles of this College, read, wherever you go. Good work done here will recommend the institution to others, and thus drawing them, will increase our numbers. And let me assure you that proportionately as the demands become great and strong, the council must and will devise more liberally for us; and accordingly other friends will be raised up for us who, valuing our work and appreciating our opportunities for doing good, will, like a generous Mr. Graves, and a kind-hearted Mrs. Winants, perpetuate their names among us and make investments in our educational enterprise here, that will yield glorious returns for time and for eternity.

Shall HOPE COLLEGE come up to the full measure of its possibility then the youngest lad in the "D" class must exert himself to the full extent of his powers, as well as the oldest member of the grave Seniors. We must all do what we can, and then will "Hope" and glad fruition be ever joined closely together. Then shall the fruit of Hope shake like Lebanon.

At the close of the exercises the new president was being heartily congratulated and none the less so by the students, who manifested their gratification in his merited promotion.

The lessons proper were resumed the next day, and thus Hope College was auspiciously ushered into the twenty-eighth year of its course of usefulness.

A little boy of Mrs. McDonald's living near here, fell against a red hot stove and was fearfully burned. The pain was terrible, and it was thought the burn was so severe as to scar the child for life. I sold the lady a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which, after greasing the sore, she applied. It soon removed all the fire and eased the pain, and in ten days the boy was well, no trace of the scar remaining. J. D. McLaren, Keyport, Clinton, county Ill. HONORS TO HOLLAND'S INDUSTRIES.

C. L. King & Co., Capture Several Awards on their Exhibits in the World's Fair Forestry Department.

The list of awards in the department of Forestry at the Columbian Exposition, Chicago, was completed Saturday, and given out for publication. Among the prizes awarded to Michigan exhibitors, as published in the papers the next morning, we noticed the name of "C. L. King & Co., of Cadillac"—bushel and market baskets. This was soon found to be erroneous, for on Wednesday noon Messrs. C. L. King & Co., of this city, were officially notified that the Jury of Awards had honored their display of the products of their factory in this city with First Prizes on not less than four different articles.

Here at home it was felt at the time the firm was preparing their exhibit that such a display could not very well escape favorable consideration, but to have been thus signally honored exceeded all expectation.

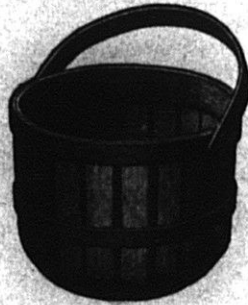

Among the group of articles exhibited was their universally known

MAPLE WIRE END BUTTER PLATE.

an article that is as near perfect for the purpose for which it is used as can be produced, one of its strongest points being that it is free from any objectionable odor or taste. For the market they are put up in crates of 250 plates each, and are universally known and used.

Next was the

the special merit of which is that it answers two purposes: a good picking basket, and shipping package as well.

For firmness and durability even such an ordinary article as the Bushel Basket, came in for a mark of distinction. As manufactured by Messrs. C. L. King & Co., it answers also for the Fruit trade, in that it is made without inside, middle, or bottom hoops, thereby insuring the carrying of fruit, especially peaches, without injury from bruising.

BUSHEL BASKET.

In the close competition which every manufacturer has to meet now-days, it are the small points and details that count, and these can only be brought out by close application and an industrious watching of the business in hand—for all of which the firm of C. L. King & Co. are noted, and by reason of which they stand thus honored. One more article to be mentioned in the list of awards is the more particularly known in the market as the Standard Climax Basket.

This basket is made of basswood. It has a wooden bottom and slat cover, and is complete. It is made up in two sizes, one fifth and one-half bushel, and is considered next to indispensable in the marketing of both peaches and grapes. Any fruit raiser appreciates the merits of this package, and an early morning walk on South Water street, Chicago, will verify every claim that can be made in its behalf.

The above however, do not constitute all the exhibits made by C. L. King & Co. They include specimens of their delivery basket, berry boxes and crates, round peach basket, market basket, etc., etc., all in their various styles and sizes.

The firm also had a beautiful display of some excellent specimens of birds-eye maple veneer, which was favorably noticed by the Jury, as well as sheets of hardwood, cut as thin as paper, taking 150 sheets to measure an inch in thickness. Nor was their "Columbia Fly Chaser" overlooked in this aggregation of manufactured wooden ware.

It is gratifying to note that the enterprise of this firm is being rewarded by a constantly increasing demand for their goods. Their butter plates are being sent by the car load, and the various kinds and styles of manufactured ware are being shipped to every state of the Union, some even to England and Australia.

Furthermore Messrs. C. L. King & Co. find themselves rewarded for their World's fair display in receiving letters of inquiry as to prices, etc., from several foreign countries, the representatives and merchants of which had their attention drawn to the firm's meritorious exhibit in the Forestry building, thus again exemplifying the merit of advertising, and what a splendid means to that effect the World's fair presents.

We cannot refrain from expressing to Messrs. C. L. King & Co. our hearty congratulations upon their flattering success, and refer once more with gratification and pride to the efforts of our public spirited citizens who were instrumental in securing the locating of this enterprising firm in our midst, thereby not only giving employment to over two hundred hands, but also adding to our local prestige as a manufacturing town.

A HOTEL INCIDENT.

The Traveler Who Was Mistaken for a Dead Man.

"The most singular thing that ever happened to me at a hotel," said the traveling member of the club, according to the Detroit Free Press, "was this: I was stopping over night at a large hotel in Chicago, and retiring late I left word to be called in the morning. I intended getting up in time for a late breakfast.

"I was awakened by a knocking at the door of the room next to mine, mysterious whisperings and orders given in a suppressed voice. I lay still, wondering what time it was, and whether I should get up or not, when there came a loud racket against my door, and a sound of the transom moving. I sat up—my bed being close by the door—in time to see a small boy backing in over the transom. Hanging full length, he held by his hands and then dropped to the floor. As he gained his feet he turned toward the bed, and, seeing me sitting up and looking at him, he gave a yell that made my blood thrill.

"Open the door," commanded a man's voice on the outside.

"He's a-l-i-v-e," yelled the boy, sprawling on the floor in abject terror.

"I thought everybody was crazy as I heard the noise outside, and, unlocking my door, I asked what was the matter. The hall was full of chambermaids, bell boys and porters, all of whom took to their heels as soon as they saw me, and ran as if possessed with demons.

"The landlord and one of the clerks came up to explain matters, which they did quite smilingly. It was a slight mistake, that was all; they had mistaken my room for the one next door, where a man had killed himself the previous night. They had looked in at his transom, and seen that he was dead, but when the boy came up with a step-ladder to climb in and unlock the door they had helped him into my room by mistake. That was all."

HE LIKED FISH.

Sam Wanted a Whale and Nothing Short of It.

A party of young men who were on a fishing excursion on the Ohio river some years ago were joined by an eccentric man, skilled as a fisherman, known in that region as "Barefooted Sam." He was a good cook, and made himself useful in so many ways that his presence, though uninvited, was tolerated by the amateur sportsmen.

One morning two members of the party returned to camp with their appetites well sharpened for breakfast, and were greeted enthusiastically by a third man, who said: "You just come along and see the finest baked perch you ever laid eyes on."

They hurried to the table, but saw only a rick of bones, from which every fiber of meat had been taken. Sam was nowhere to be seen. When he returned no comments were made upon the circumstance; but in the afternoon, when the company were lounging on the bank, Sam drawled out:

"I'd like to have all the fish I could eat, jest onst. I aint had a mess sence Pete Follet ketched that big catfish, three years back."

"Sam," remarked one of the group, dryly, "I thought you had quite a fair mess this morning. That perch weighed about ten pounds, I've been informed."

"Oh, yes," replied Sam, with no sign of embarrassment on his placid countenance, "I ate that; but what I mean is a reel, reg'lar mess!"

The company pondered on this remarkable statement in absolute silence for some moments, until at last the man who had caught the perch ejaculated: "Well, I anum!" and nothing more was said.

COMPETITION AVOIDED.

Shops in France Not Allowed to Crowd Each Other.

In France two shops selling the same thing are not allowed to exist within a certain area. In provisions this absence of competition materially increases the price, but, says a woman who has large experience in housekeeping in France, your taxes are less, and you have in return clean streets, good gas, constant water supply and perfect sewerage. In addition, by virtue of state supervision, you never receive short weight or inferior goods. There is no quantity so small that the grocer will not sell it. And in doing this and in delivering it he is as scrupulously polite and careful as in buying larger amounts. The butcher is the cook's friend and will trim the meat and take out the bones with loving care. Meat is dear. Good beefsteak costs from thirty-seven cents to fifty cents a pound. Fish is very expensive, but poultry is reasonable and good, and comparatively cheap. A good deal of cooking in small households is done with gas, and gas stoves are loaned by the gas companies for this purpose. Sugar, matches and all imported articles are dear, owing to the high tariff. The lowest price for servants is ten dollars a month. Charwomen ask six cents by the hour. Englishwomen say that life on the continent is much more agreeable for Americans than for themselves, owing to the fact that in each consular town the consul and his family make a nucleus for a colony, which soon gathers about them.

Glass Eyes Worn Secretly. A New York optician, was relating to a party of friends the other day some of the peculiar features of his trade. "You would be surprised," he said, "at the large number of locomotive engineers and firemen who have glass eyes. Of course, an engineer could not hold a place on a railroad an hour if the fact that he had a glass eye was known to his superior officers. Consequently men in that line of business exercise the utmost secrecy with regard to their infirmity. When they come into my store to buy a new glass eye or have some flaw in their old one attended to they beg the privilege of transacting their business in my private office, and they usually slip in and out of the store when no other customer is around."

HOW THE PHILADELPHIA MINT THIEF WORKED.

Furious Theater Fire at Canton, Ill.—Stern Talk to Senators—Flames Ravage an Ohio Town—A Minneapolis Man in Serious Trouble.

He Robbed the Mint.

Remarkable discoveries were made in the old stone house of Henry C. Cochran, the man who robbed the Philadelphia mint at Darby. There were many secret hiding places between walls, concealed by trick panels, but the most surprising discovery was the last. In the cellar of the pretty home of the man who robbed the gold vault at the mint was found a tunnel leading from the southwest corner of the cellar to the end of the grassy lawn overlooking Woodland avenue, and it was intended to serve as a means of escape for the dishonest bullion guardian should he be surprised while at his crucible melting the stolen gold.

PANIC IN A THEATER.

Materials Used in a Realistic Play at Canton, Ill., Explode.

The new Canton, Ill., opera house was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday evening and in the excited scramble of the panic-stricken audience to escape from the burning building one man was fatally burned and as many as twenty-five other persons sustained burns and severe bruises as they were jostled and trampled upon. The Baldwin-Melville Company presented "Michael Strogoff." About 8:30 o'clock some fireworks used in the play exploded with terrific force and blazing brands were hurled in all directions. The inflammable material surrounding the stage quickly ignited and in an incredibly short time the building was doomed to complete destruction. Panic seized the audience, who wildly fled from the burning building, but fortunately and most miraculously those in the parquet, dress circle and balcony escaped serious injury, though many were trampled under foot and seriously bruised. The actors were all burned, some of them quite badly. They had scarcely time to escape themselves and lost all their belongings. The exploding fireworks were hurled into the second balcony and many of the people there were badly burned before they could escape. The money loss is fully $100,000.

THE PRESIDENT IS ANGRY.

Mr. Cleveland Getting Tired of the Delay in the Senate.

The President is angry, and the Senators are the cause. Mr. Cleveland, according to a Washington correspondent, believes that patience has now ceased to be a virtue, and that the time has arrived to settle the question physically. This will be done by a continuous session unless the anti in a very few days permit a vote. In his speech at the Centennial celebration there was a sentence the significance of which was lost to all but a few within the sound of his voice. As he reached the sentence he turned abruptly from the crowd in front and faced the Senators. His face was clouded and very stern as he said: "If representatives who here assemble to make laws for their fellow countrymen forget the duty of broad and disinterested patriotism, and legislate in prejudice and passion, or in behalf of sectional and selfish interests, the time when the cornerstone of our Capitol was laid and the circumstances surrounding it will not be worth commemorating." He paused for an instant as he finished. Those who had heard him applauded, and then he faced the crowd again and finished his speech.

SLEW FIVE PEOPLE.

Whole Family Chopped to Pieces by a Fiend Near Glendale, Ind.

By far the most atrocious and sensational murder that has been committed in that section of the State took place Tuesday morning one and one-half miles west of Glendale, Ind. It was the slaughter of Dennison Wratton, a well-known farmer, and his family, consisting of his mother, wife and two children. The deed was done by some one who knew all about the family and knew that the women had no means with which to defend themselves, as the only man about the house was very sick and they were too far away from any neighbors to call help. No evidence that would point to the guilty parties has yet been secured, as they have thoroughly covered their tracks. The only weapon used, it is thought, was a hatchet, as all the gashes are very nearly alike. A pack of bloodhounds have been scouring the immediate vicinity, but have thus far been unable to track down the assassins.

Patterson, Ohio, Is in Ruins.

At 4 o'clock Sunday morning the flouring mill at Patterson, Hardin County, Ohio, caught fire, and before the flames could be checked over a third of the town had been destroyed. Ten business blocks burned, six residences, the postoffice building and all its contents, the total loss being $60,000, with but $5,000 insurance. Household goods were all destroyed and a child of John Bamer is missing.

W. S. Streeter Arrested.

W. S. Streeter, vice president of the Insolvent Guaranty Loan Company at Minneapolis, was arrested on a warrant sworn out by J. H. Burke. The complainant charges the prisoner with having declared a dividend when the company was insolvent. Burke has posed for some time as a financial reformer and has long been following up the Guaranty Loan Company.

Whole Family Butchered.

Benson Wratton and family, six in all, living near Washington, Ind., were butchered the other night. The victims were horribly mutilated.

Failure at St. Paul.

Floods in Virginia.

Advises received from Madison County, Va., say that the floods in that section have caused immense damage to crops and fencing. Four large mills on the banks of the Rapidan River and three dwellings in the county have been washed away.

Died in Their Beds.

A small house in the Whitechapel district of London was burned the other morning. After the fire was extinguished a search was made of the ruins and the bodies of a man and four women were found.

NEAL ON THE STUMP.

Opens the Democratic Campaign in Ohio at Newark.

Lawrence T. Neal, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, made the opening speech of his campaign at Newark Thursday. His audience was large, delegations being present from Columbus, Zanesville, Mansfield, and many other cities. Mr. Neal's speech was mainly an attack on that system of tariff which he was pleased to term McKinleyism. Mr. Neal said that the Sherman silver law and the McKinley tariff law underlie the want of confidence, which is the cause of the trouble, and gave it as his belief that prosperity can only be obtained by adherence to the Democratic faith in the matter of both currency and tariff reform. "The purchasing clause of the Sherman silver law," he said, "must be repealed, and the Democratic party stands committed not only to its repeal but to the unlimited use of both gold and silver as money. The Democracy of Ohio has reaffirmed the declaration and I give it my personal endorsement." Mr. Neal then expressed the opinion that "the greatest foe to the prosperity of the people is McKinleyism." He said: "So long as the Federal system of protective taxation is continued we can have no general and permanent prosperity in this country. To regain such prosperity we must apply the ax to the root of the evil with earnestness and vigor, and forever destroy the McKinley method of taxation."

RAGING FOREST FIRES.

Northern Wisconsin Is Suffering from a Terrible Visitation.

The report of the burning of Marshfield, Wis., by forest fires was exaggerated, but Northern Wisconsin is one smoldering furnace. The line of fires ravaged the forests between Marshfield and Lake Superior. Where they will end no one can say. Unless there is rain in Northern Wisconsin soon even greater disasters than have already occurred may be expected. Many families are homeless and destitute. As yet no one has been able to confirm the reports of losses of life, but that some settlers have been cut off by the flames and killed is very probable. So far all who have been reported as missing, however, have been located. Many persons escaped death only after adventures of a most thrilling character, and some of the stories of the refugees are dramatic. The fire is the greatest since that of 1871. The extent of the damage cannot be estimated owing to the fact that the fires have cut off telegraphic communication with most of the smaller towns. On timber the losses are the heaviest, and Frank McMillan, of the McMillan Lumber Company, in an interview said the loss to Wisconsin forests would probably amount to between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. This represents a vast amount of pine as well as hardwood timber, covering a land area which even those most familiar with the forests of Wisconsin cannot estimate.

Will They Catch Them?

Several days have passed since the New York express was held up in the cut near Kessler's Station, Ind., days of unremitting, vigilant effort on the part of the most skillful detectives of the railroad and express companies' service and of amused contemplation on the part of the people of northern Indiana, and the boldest, most determined, most desperate band of train robbers that ever operated east of the Mississippi river are still at large. They are not at large, but their liberty is not freedom. They seem to be within a circle the circumference of which is growing less with the relentless persistence of the cylinder of the Inquisition born in the mind of Poe. The cordon of police, private watchmen, and railroad detectives, which at first included the whole State of Indiana and much of the contiguous territory, has been drawn closer. It is now narrowing down upon the northern part of Noble County. Rome City is the center of it, and the bandits are believed to be in it.

New Baby in Full Control.

Baby Ruth's little sister is behaving very much like an ordinary infant these days. The fact that the President of the United States is ready to leave Senators and Representatives at any moment to soothe her to sleep when she is tired of staying awake or to extract the unclasped safety from her tender flesh doesn't seem to have the slightest effect upon her. It doesn't matter to her whether her papa has been up half the night to save the country, and has just fallen into his first nap; if she wakes and feels lonesome she will immediately set up a yell that will bring papa to his feet and an anxious look to his face in the twinkling of an eye. It is true that she has a nurse, and a very capable one she is. But G. C. often beats the nurse by a full length in a rush for the cradle when the blessed infant gives the signal.

Extent of the Great Hurricane.

Reports of the recent great hurricane are still being received at the Hydrographic Bureau of the Navy Department for use in the publication of the monthly pilot chart. According to the information at hand the extreme southern point of the hurricane was latitude 24.33, longitude 70.30, about 270 miles directly north of the central part of Santa Domingo. One interesting piece of news received is that H. M. & Tartar had a narrow escape from destruction in West Indian waters. She was thrown on her beam ends, three boats were washed away, and altogether had a very exciting experience.

Lumber Piles Ablaze.

Fire started at West Bay City, Mich., in John Welch's lumber docks and before it was got under control it had destroyed 2,500,000 feet of lumber. Balling, Hanson & Co., of Grayling, and Fisher & Co., of Bay City, were the owners. There is no doubt that the fire was of incendiary origin, as two explosions were heard just before the fire started.

Lit Her Own Funeral Pyre.

The insane wife of Frank Ogden of Republic, O., ignited her own funeral pyre and committed suicide. The unfortunate woman, who formerly was an inmate of the asylum, saturated her clothing and bed with kerosene and then lying down as if to sleep applied a match to the inflammable material and an instant later was enveloped in flame.

Thieves in Queer Places.

Into the temples the usurers went in the days of old to ply their questionable calling, and now it comes to pass that into the places made sacred by the gathering of the champions of every creed that claims a votary men with lamblike faces and nimble fingers have gone and departed with other people's property. Into the bosom of the very elect of all the faiths that flourish, or try to flourish thieves, cold-blooded, callous, hopeless thieves, have gone and filched money, jewelry, books, a typewriter and other articles from men who, with "grave, becoming and sublime deportment, met for such a mystical occasion"—as Goldsmith said once of men similarly engaged—were occupied during the past week at the Art Palace in Chicago in presenting their theses on the proper plan to pick a path to paradise. In a word, thieves have invaded the parliament of religions.

CASHIER BAIN AN EMBEZZLER.

Confesses to the Directors of the Home Bank That He Lost in Speculation.

The Home Bank, at New York, has been robbed of $16,185 in bonds by its cashier, Howard L. Bain. Bain has confessed to the directors of the institution that he lost the money in speculation in Wall street. The discovery that the bonds had disappeared from the safe was made three weeks ago. The defalcation was kept quiet, however, until it leaked out through an unguarded statement of an officer of the bank to one of the depositors. Bain has not been arrested. He sent in his resignation, but was not discharged. He was bonded for $15,000 by the Fidelity Casualty Company. The latter has agreed to pay the full amount of its bond to the bank. The rest of the defalcation, $1,185 has been made good by the directors.

FAIL IN A FIENDISH PLOT.

Saturate a Plucky Woman's Clothing with Oil and Attempt to Burn Her.

Two feds entered the residence of G. W. Nicodemus, in the heart of Newton, Kas., gagged and bound Mrs. Nicodemus, saturated her clothing with coal oil and attempted to set her on fire. At this juncture Mr. Nicodemus came home and the men made their escape in the darkness. Two nights before the same men robbed the house and secured $25. In departing, Mrs. Nicodemus shot one of them in the leg, and he told her that he had returned to burn her for this act. A good description of both men is at hand, and should they be found a lynching is likely.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review.

Returns from every part of the country show decided improvement. Hopeful feeling prevails as money grows abundant at speculative centers and somewhat easier for commercial purposes. Weekly failures have declined about half in number and more than half in amount of liabilities. The number of establishments reported as resuming work—thirty-one wholly and twenty-six in part—exceeds the number closing—thirty-three the last week, besides ten reducing force—so that the hands employed have somewhat increased. The number of unemployed is still very large. Business is pulling itself together, and even the crop report has caused little depression in stocks.

Fallen to Get a Home.

Over 1,000 ex-boomers passed through Kansas City en route to their homes in all parts of the country from the Cherokee strip. A more tired and disgusted lot of men was never seen together. They had gone to the opening unprepared for such a tremendous rush as occurred, and were mainly those who had depended on the trains to take them into the strip, but the trains were outdistanced by the horsemen and wheelmen, and they got to the heart of the promised land only to find every claim pre-empted and every town lot gone.

Result of the Storm.

Over 60,000 baskets of peaches lay in warehouses and on docks on the Michigan side of Lake Michigan Sunday and spoiled. They were bound to Chicago and were to have been brought over by the dozen steamers running across the lake. But the big storm effectively prevented these boats from leaving port, and with no other means of getting the fruit to its destination there was no alternative and the good fruit spoiled. Several steamers, from Detroit around Chicago, were beached in making or leaving harbor.

Lima People Anticipate Smallpox.

The Lima, Ohio, Board of Health held a session to consider the matter of taking some means of protection against smallpox, which is traveling that way from Muncie, Ind., where it has been epidemic for several weeks. It was decided that all children in the city be vaccinated without delay. Means of prohibiting persons from the infected towns from entering the city were discussed, and very severe measures may be resorted to to keep persons fleeing from the epidemic out of Lima.

Must Get Off 'Mellon Man's Soil.'

At San Francisco United States Commissioner Hancock decided what was considered to be a Chinese test case. Wong Mat, a member of the firm of Bow, Kee & Co., of San Jose, Cal., was landed in the United States last June. Before that time he was employed at menial labor for two years. It was contended that, he being once landed, he was entitled to remain. The commissioner held otherwise and ordered him deported. The case will be appealed.

Gate City Guard Disbanded.

HOSTS OF WOLVERINES.

They Royally Celebrate Their Day at The Columbian Exposition.

Michigan had a multitude at the Fair Wednesday. The people came in by every train and boat, and from the nethermost back yard to the last structure in the State row it seemed a majority of the folk present wore the yellow ribbon with the State's name flying down its center. Pennsylvania had a jam and Wisconsin nearly equaled the host, but with no attraction save the Governor and his loyal proclamation to his constituency Michigan turned out and filled the grounds from fence to lake front. The total, 165,000, did not reach the enormous figures scheduled on the recent fete days, but it nevertheless is a fact that nearly 100,000 Michigan people registered and reported at the State Building. Each train of the half-dozen lines from the two peninsulas was loaded to standing and the single boat which brought the Governor's party from St. Joseph had on deck 2,500 souls. From the south and from the north whence it takes nearly two days to make the journey, the hosts came, and never did a Governor of the State see so many of his kin as faced Governor Rich Wednesday.

AWFUL MURDER AT DETROIT.

Head and Face of the Victim Hacked Beyond Recognition.

At Detroit a horrible murder was committed some time Tuesday night at the dock at the foot of Randolph street. The head and face of the victim are hacked and battered almost beyond recognition. Although it had rained hard during the previous night traces of the bloody crime were everywhere. A big pool of blood lay near the head and the surrounding stones were spattered with bloodstains. Pieces of cloth had adhered to a block of stone, as if the unfortunate's head had been jammed against it to make his death sure. The man was dressed in sailor garb. There is no clue to the murderer.

HEAVY TRAVEL TO CHICAGO.

The New York Central Compelled to Restore the Great Limited Train.

Owing to the great increase in Chicago travel, the New York Central has decided to restore to service the "New York and Chicago Limited" trains. The "Exposition flyer" has proved such a success that passengers are turned away nearly every day, the full capacity of the train being sold, and to secure accommodations on it now it is necessary to have them reserved three or four days in advance. Another indication of the increase in business to Chicago is the excursion of the New York Central on Monday, which carried 1,543 passengers out of the State to the World's Fair.

Philadelphia Sensation.

The startling announcement that 5,000 ounces of gold bullion worth $124,000 had been stolen from the United States mint in Philadelphia was a shocking bit of news that came up from mint headquarters in Washington, Friday. Leading mint officials from Washington are at the Quaker City, and although no arrests have been made some are looked for. The robbery, if robbery it was, must have taken place several years ago. In 1887, during the superintendency of Daniel M. Fox, now dead, $15,000,000 in gold bullion was transferred from New York to Philadelphia and stored in one of the reserve vaults in the mint. This vault was locked and sealed, and these locks and seals were not broken until several days ago, when the vault was opened and the bullion counted. It was found to be 50,000 ounces short. How the shortage occurred, if the bullion was abstracted from the vault, or how it was effected is inexplicable. So far as the loss to the government is concerned, Colonel O. C. Bosbyshell, the present superintendent of the mint, is responsible for the amount.

Fatal Result of a Practical Joke.

A practical joke perpetrated on a young man named Pinyard, at Denton, Kan., cost him his life. Pinyard was induced to visit a melon patch, and it was arranged to follow the young man and fire a revolver off to scare him. The report of the pistol so frightened Pinyard that he jumped through a barbed wire fence and has since died.

STEWART ROUSES 'EM

HIS CURIOSITY CAUSES GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Wants to Know How Many Senators Own National Bank Stock—Says He Doesn't Own Any Silver Mines—Crossed Swords with Hill.

A Monkey and Parrot Time.

Washington correspondence.

THAT gay but bawky band of patriots, the Senate, has been the center of interest for some time now, and occasionally in its silver debate sparks fly as from flint and steel. The other day Senator Stewart, of Nevada, started the fun. With a manner indicating that he was loaded for bear and ready to kick, when the Senate chamber was unusually full, he offered a resolution that a committee be appointed to discover how many Senators owned stock in national banks. This resolution was a tremendous success in the line intended by its author. It was about such a success as one might expect in pulling out the insides of a piano with a garden rake. Before the general grasp for breath had subsided, Mr. Stewart proceeded to rub salt on the wound he had caused by saying he was sick and tired of Wall street men and New York papers charging that the silver advocates owned stock in silver mines. He himself hadn't owned any in fifteen years. But he had an awakening suspicion that a good many Senatorial opponents of silver owned stock in national banks, which would be benefited by repeal, and he thought what was sauce for the goose was just as good a dressing for duck. He had discovered in some dusty old tome a long-forgotten law that no person who owned stock in the United States bank, which Jackson broke up, could hold a seat in Congress. If the principle of this law was good then, it was good now; and he wanted to know just how many Senators' interests were hampered by this silver legislation.

If the number whose faces showed astonishment, chagrin, or alarm was any indication, Mr. Stewart's shot had winged about four-fifths of his colleagues. Senator Hill was the first to line up in battle array. With a flush that crept up over the bald spot until it disappeared in the fringe of hair behind his ears, the New-Yorker, shaking what the Honorable Tim Campbell called his "long, acquiescent finger" at Stewart who glared truculently, denounced the resolution as an outrage, and demanded that the heel of senatorial disapproval crush and bruise its head. "Whose business is it," Mr. Hill asked, "what Senator or who owns any investment, provided he is lucky enough to have it and come by it honestly." He could not believe that Mr. Stewart offered that in good faith. Mr. Stewart beat a tattoo on his desk with his fingers and was visibly disturbed at the tone and vigor of Hill's remarks. He was just coming down the main aisle to make a furious reply when Mr. Hawley, who had been all the while writing a letter, suddenly shouted, "I object." Stewart turned in his testy way and glared, but Mr. Hawley said he objected to further discussion. "Well, object," said the man from Nevada, "but I give notice that I will have all the time I want to-morrow." And so the matter drags.

Routine Proceedings.

In the Senate Tuesday morning Mr. Equire, of Washington, gave notice of a substitute which he intended to offer for the bill to repeal the silver purchase act, and it was read in full. It permits the deposit of silver bullion by its owners and the coinage thereof into standard silver dollars, of which he is to receive only the amount corresponding to its commercial value. The coinage is not to exceed $4,000,000 a month, or $20,000,000 in all. The dollars are to be legal tender, and no certificates are to be issued. The bill to repeal the silver purchase act was then taken up, and Mr. Voorhees spoke at length, urging a vote. Mr. Dubois of Idaho, opposed. Senators Hoar, Platt, Teller and Messers also took part. The floor transacted no business.

The Federal election law caused a skirmish in the House Thursday, but no action was taken. Senator Daniel, of New Virginia, occupied the time of the Senate in a carefully prepared argument against the repeal of the Sherman law; he spoke to crowded galleries and a good Senatorial audience. During the course of his speech many members of the House came into the chamber and took seats in the rear of Senators' chairs, or stood against the wall. When the routine morning business was concluded Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, moved to take up his resolution for a committee to investigate whether Senators were interested in national banks. Mr. Voorhees' counter-motion to proceed to the consideration of the repeal bill was agreed to on a viva voce vote which was quite unanimous, and Mr. Stewart sat down.

The First Train.

In 1790 Nathan Reed built the first steam road wagon in America. Four years before Symington, in England, had mounted a coach body on thorough-braze springs, and in 1803 Trevithick put a coach body in a frame, attached a boiler underneath, connected a cylinder with cog wheels and thus brought together the component parts of a modern train.

RECOVERED THE BOOTY.

Short Work Made of the Mesaba Range Robbers.

The whole of the $70,000 taken by the Mesaba Range, Mich., train robbers has been recovered. When the robbers had secured their booty they were smart enough to know that it was impossible successfully to secrete the gold anywhere on the Keweenaw Peninsula. It was equally dangerous to keep it on their persons. One of the gang went to Houghton, dressed as a miner, and for a consideration of 50 cents, it is said, induced a baggageman to check his trunk through. It is not known that the baggageman was aware of the contents of the trunk, but a special train soon followed with officers, and the booty was overtaken on the road quite a distance from Houghton. Liberty, a fireman on the Duluth Road, was arrested on suspicion of being a party to the conspiracy. He made every effort to get away, but without avail. Another fireman on the road is also in custody.

The other men now under arrest for the daring train robbery are John King, the Cornish wrestler; Jack Chellev, said to be the keeper of a respectable place in Ishpeming; John Kehoe, a Red Jacket saloon-keeper; John Quinlan, and a stranger named Butler from Marquette. A strong clew is that some women saw a horsetail near the scene of the robbery that tallied with the description of a horse hired by King earlier in the day. In addition, Chellev, King, and Kehoe left Hancock early in the morning and returned to town from the direction of the robbery shortly after it was committed.

The robbery was one of the slickest jobs in the annals of criminal history. The robbers knew that $30,000 furnished by

My Campaign Rooster.
How well I remember last fall at the rally,
I marched in the line with the workingmen,
shure,
And felt just as proud as a king at behouldin'
The fall of the rich and the rise of the poor.
Shure that's what they told me was mint by the victory.
And, no wonder that I was elated at that,
As I stepped to the music, just like an old sojer,
And wore a big rooster on the top o' me
hat.
How I envied the boss with his riches and comforts;
No share in the profits I'd get, if I agin
I voted to keep up the tariff, that only Protected the bosses and burdened the min.
"Ah, shure, I'll git even now wid ye, my honeys,
I'll vote, just as shure as my name it is Pat,
For Grover; and thine at the ratification
I'll wear a big rooster on the top o' me
hat."
I done it—bad luck to the day and the hour;
I'd loike to recall the same vote if I could,
And once agin hear the old shame whistle
sounidin'
That called me to work whin the toimes they were good.
The boss he looks worried; the foreman is sour;
The old mill's deserted and gloomy at that;
And all I have left for me share of the glory
Is the old battered rooster on the top o' me hat.
So there's the whole story, and none can deny it;
The truth must be told, though the hives
should fall.
We made a mishtake in defeatin' the party
That gave us Protection, good money and all,
In four years from now, ye may talk till yer spacheless,
An' argufy until you're as gray as a rat,
But if the same party agin is triumphant
The divil a rooster ye'll see on me hat.

Peach Notes.
Saugatuck Commercial: One bushels of peaches this week is worth as much as four bushels of wheat.
Thirty thousand baskets of peaches were carried by the boats from Saugatuck and Douglas to Chicago and Milwaukee last Monday night. In addition to this, twenty thousand baskets were shipped from Ganges piers.
It is remarkable that peaches have withstood the drought so well as they have. On some farms finer fruit was never raised than is being shipped this season. The cool night and heavy dews have been of much advantage to the peaches.
In every part of the United States where peaches are grown, there seems to be a good crop this year, and there is nothing to be wondered at if they sell cheap.
Fifty thousand baskets of peaches
were received in Chicago last Friday morning, and three-fourths of them came from Saugatuck and Ganges townships.
The practice of charging one cent per basket cartage on peaches from the dock in Chicago to the commission house, is an outrage which the shippers have been compelled to submit to ever since the peach business here was started. Giving the commission man one-tenth of the gross value of the crop for selling is enough, without the extortion which is carried on under the name of cartage.
Fennville Herald: About 15,000 baskets are now being sent each night by fruit train and about as many more by the boats from the Ganges piers.
The comparison between raising fruit and grain can be seen when a fifth-basket of peaches will sell for more than a bushel of wheat. If anyone has a doubt of the fact that this is the richest section in the whole state, a trip through the peach country will convince him.

OUR NEIGHBORS.
Allegan County.
The Allegan Democrat is for sale, and Chas. Kellogg, foreman of the Journal office, is negotiating for the purchase of it.
Gazette: Settlement of the Journal
office affairs is near at hand, and Don.
C. Henderson will become sole propie-tor. The terms of settlement are as follows: Don takes the office and assumes the indebtedness; Ward takes something over $2,000 in accounts—the amount is not yet definitely fixed. No cash agreement. This is practically the same proposition made by Henderson some months ago, and was undoubtedly accepted this time only because another application for a receiver would have been made with the certainty that a refusal would not follow.
The 2nd Mich. Infantry will hold its annual reunion at Allegan Thursday, Sept. 28.
I. M. Wolverton, a civil engineer in the employ of the King Bridge Co.,
of Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss Florence M. Pope, daughter of H. H. Pope of Allegan village, were married at Mr.
Pope's cottage, at Wequetonsing,
Tuesday afternoon.
Herald: Fires are numerous in the swamp lands around Fennville and much damage will be done. The vegetable mould, which comprises a large part of land, is very dry and burns readily, thus destroying the life of these low lands. In some places the fire has burned holes in the ground four feet deep.
Saugatuck Commercial: There was a monkey and a parrot time at Allegan
last Saturday between W. J. Pollard, ex-president of the village, and the Harrison Electric Light Company.
The company started to put their poles along the street in front of Mr.
Pollard's property, when he at once raised a wordy objection. They persisted, and early Saturday morning four members of the company and their employes began digging holes for the poles. Pollard took a shovel and tried to throw the dirt back as fast as they dug it out, but the four were too much for him holding him fast while they dug. He then secured an injunction from Judge Padgham and getting a number of stout men so as to have plenty of force in case of resistance, took down the poles that they put up. A lawsuit will probably be required to settle the matter.

The steamer Browne is doing a very good business this year between Saugatuck and Holland, which is some encouragement to make the route a permanent one.
The steamers Douglas and McVea now run direct to Chicago without stopping at Ganges piers. The steamer Root is making daily trips from the north pier at Pier Cove. She has been housed over and is in shape to carry the fruit in good condition.

Grand Haven.
County treasurer Pelgrim is steadily recovering from his recent illness and again at his office.
Herman Julstema has left for Princeton, N. J., to resume his theological studies.
Mrs. Nugent of Council Bluffs, Ia., formerly Mrs. Geo. Stewart of this city, was here last week, and the ladies of the W. C. T. U. tendered her a reception.
Prof. Henry Post has begun his music classes at Akely Institute.
John De Jong and Robt. De Bruyn will represent Grand Haven at Hope college this year.
A visitor here from the state of Massachusetts thinks the Ottawa county court house, for a building of such size and material, is being put up at a comparative low cost as compared with like structures of the east.
The members of the Grand Haven ball club are still talking of the measly trick played on them by the Holland club, by not coming to this city to play a return game after the same had been advertised. It would not be safe for a member of the Holland club to visit Grand Haven just now, as the local players would get revenge or get whipped in trying.—Tribune.
Rev. J. J. Van Zanten has been called to Muskegon.

Joel B. Lillie, an early settler of Tallmadge, father of Walter I. and Colon C. Lillie, died at Coopersville, Tuesday, aged 70 years.
The city is once more infested with a set of fire bugs, who are bent upon the destruction of certain buildings on Washington avenue.
Geo. Hancock shipped 600 cases of tomatoes one day this week.
Lake Shore.
The rain came just in time to put in the fall grain and the farmers are very busy just now sowing, and reaping the corn.
Walt Drinkwater, Chas. Lyons, Clyde and Chas. Ogden are working among the peaches, at Peach Belt.
N. W. Ogden is hauling clover six miles south east of the city. He reports clover to be a fair crop on the sand, but very poor on clay.
John Cochran shipped several porkers to Muskegon Tuesday.
Al. Dolph is busy shipping his peaches. He has an immense crop, but they are small, on account of the dry weather and too little cultivation.

Olive Centre.
Henry Cheeseman's brother, Edgar,
and his sister Mrs. Rose are visiting him from Gulf Summit, N. Y. Also his nephew Geo. Balcom, of Milps, Minn. The whole party, together with the family of Rudolph Meiers, were entertained by Bert Welton, of Ottawa Station, on the 15th inst.

MANUFACTURE OF DIAMONDS.
It Is Believed the Secret of Nature Will Yet Be Solved.
M. Moissan's discovery of a method of manufacturing diamonds has naturally attracted the attention of chemists, who are assiduously laboring to improve on the process; and though it is admitted that "much time and labor will have to be expended before marketable-sized jewels can be produced," their production seems to be somewhat confidently anticipated. If so it will be unfortunate for the possessors of fortunes in these stones. But it has long been believed that in time the secret of nature—how to produce diamonds—would be solved. M. Moissan, it seems, hit on the idea that if the ordinary forms of carbon could be converted into a liquid or gas, they might then be made to solidify as diamonds;
but the point was, how to convert the carbon? The inventor, it is explained,
"took advantage of the property possessed by melted iron of absorbing and diffusing carbon throughout its mass.
He saturated the highly-heated iron with carbon by infusing into it a quantity of purified sugar. By suddenly cooling the melted metal, he formed a solid crust over the still liquid interior.
As the mass continued to cool the interior gradually solidified, but it was prevented from expanding by the rigid exterior. The interior was thus compelled to solidify under enormous pressure. During the process of hardening the carbon solidified in part as diamond." Usually graphite is formed by a cooling of melted iron, and it thus appears that the transformation of the graphite into diamond depends entirely upon the infusion of the purified sugar.
Having got so far it seems not unreasonable to believe that M. Moissan and his fellow-laborers in the field of science
—one which alchemists have sought to explore for centuries past—will go still farther.—London Standard.

A NARROW ESCAPE!
How it Happened.
The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting; but, thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband bought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it, as I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. I weighed 125 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 120.
Its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry Starr, Pottsville, Pa., October 12, 1892.
Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr.

Everybody patronizes The Noss JOLLITIES, because their performances are clean and full of wit and humor, and are the theme of praise everywhere.

Our citizens will be pleased to learn of the return to this city of "The Noss Jollity Company," that visited us before and left the very best of impression. They are billed for Saturday evening, at Lyceum Opera House. The members of this company are artists and everyone of them is a specialist, making a hit at every appearance, double and thrice encored. The comedy is a pretty pot-pourri of strolling and comical incidents, effervescing into bubbles of refined features, that by their novelty, unique design and original stage setting, fill the foot light front with dazzling rays of shimmering beauty, bursting upon the moods of the audience, of whatever degree, like meteoric fragments.

Woman's Missionary Convention.

The first Woman's Missionary Convention of the Reformed Church, in the west, was held in this city, Thursday, in the First Ref. church, and was in every respect a satisfactory affair. The audiences were large, and representative in their character, not less than thirty clergymen being present, besides many ladies from surrounding places, representing local societies. The platform was handsomely draped, the American and Holland flags entwining the pulpit. The Dutch flag used on this occasion was the one lately presented to the Woman's Mission Board in New York by the ladies of Holland. It was throughout a woman's convention, ushers and all, and the proceedings and addresses reflected creditably upon the ladies that had the matter in charge.

The exercises were in accordance with the following program:

Cremation in Olden Times.

The Smithsonian Institution has printed a paper by Dr. F. Snyder describing an urn containing incinerated human bones which was dug out of an ancient mound in Georgia. The urn, or vase, is nearly conical, eleven and a half inches high, and was covered by an inverted bell-shaped vessel fifteen and three-fourths inches in height. The ashes nearly half filled the vase, and mingled with them were calcined human teeth and fragments of bones. Lying on the surface of these remains were a quantity of wampum and several small pearls that had been pierced for stringing.

Antiquity of Tobacco.

Tobacco was noted by Columbus on his very first voyage. It was first cultivated by John Rolfe in 1613, and as early as 1619 a lot of 30,000 pounds was shipped to England. In 1733 a tobacco factory was started on the Rappahannock river, and about 1709 the first south of the James river was built in Mecklenburg county. In 1745 the exports from Virginia amounted to 42,841 hogheads of about 1,000 pounds each, and increased till 1753, after which there was a decline until after the revolution. It is now grown in most of the southern states with Kentucky in the lead.

BORN TO A HAPPY FATE.

The Persian Cat Cherished and Respected in His Native Land.

The Persian cat is born to the happiest fate of any of his family, for, according to the tales of travelers, he is, in his native land, not only loved and cherished, not only well treated, but thoroughly respected, and he has an acknowledged position and rights. In form the bewitching Persian does not greatly differ from the Angora, but the tail is much more effective, for the longest and the thickest-set hairs being at the tip they form a magnificent plume, which the dignified owner carries proudly erect, waving it in the air as he moves. In his splendid silky coat is not a trace of wooliness, and it clothes the graceful creature from the tips of his ears to the well "feathered" toes, writes Olive Thorne in Harper's Bazar.

Unless some undreamed-of feline marvel shall yet be unearthed, this animal must forever be regarded as the perfect flower of the domestic cat family. Not only does he easily surpass all his competitors in beauty and grace, but he possesses charms of disposition and manner, and dignity of bearing; and while most affectionate and loving, is still self-respecting and independent.

The love of liberty is the ruling passion of the Persian, as it is of the Angora. Every one of the long-haired, indeed, delights in long, solitary tramps. It seems impossible to cure them of the desire; and what a cat really desires he generally succeeds in getting, sooner or later. To own one of these most attractive and most costly pets in the city, where thieves abound, is to live a life of constant anxiety and watchfulness. Only those who have kept guard over a sly and cunning human lunatic, ever plotting to escape, can appreciate the vigilance necessary for his safety. Yet, in spite of this, or ornamental and so beautiful is the gentle creature that few who are able to do so can deny themselves the pleasure of owning one.

IS THE EARTH SOLID?

Various Theories, Some of Them of a Contrary Showing.

A very large part of the educated public believes that the earth is a molten globe superficially enveloped by a chilled crust, and a magazine article in support of such a theory has recently attracted much attention. A very large part of the natural philosophers consider it most probable that the rocks at and near the surface of the globe would expand in melting. If the earth were thus constituted a time would come when the solid crust would crack from its own weight or from some moderate internal disturbance; and then block after block of the crust, region after region of the world we know and love so well would plunge slowly and heavily to meet the rising, molten flood, while whirlwinds of scalding steam would shroud perishing humanity. It would require a Dante to do justice to the tragic side of this theme, says a writer in the North American Review.

A hard-hearted physicist would simply remark that a crust of such dimensions resting on a fluid of inferior density is in unstable equilibrium; the rest being an evident consequence. Statements such as this are commonly considered as extremely uninteresting; but the Dantesque view of the subject has been indicated sufficiently to show that the earth's interior is within the sphere of human interest.

Aside from ignoble fears there seems scarcely any topic better suited to excite a legitimate intellectual interest among men than this most fundamental question concerning that little planet, our world. Is it a molten globe with a pellicle of cool dry land or is it really terra firma, a solid earth?

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHERS.

The Artistic Requirements of a Thorough Craftsman of the Camera.

The number of steps in the process of making a photograph which call for the exercise of the same artistic powers that must be possessed by the painter will be surprising, says a writer in the New England Magazine. The artist-photographer must select his picture with reference to its composition of lines, masses of light, shade and texture. By his choice of lens he determines the width of angle or the scope of the picture. In focusing and diaphragming he divides his definition and his vagueness to suit the requirements of his sense of pictorial beauty. His development is almost as individual as the painter's brush, which chooses between the minute exactness of a pre-Raphaelite or a Dusseldorf canvas and the poetic vagueness of a Corot. In printing he has a wide range of expression. He may use the gloss of albumenized paper, the rough surface of Whatman's drawing board, the lustrous sheen of Japanese papers, or the rich depth of a monochrome. Although confined to monochrome, the various toning baths and the pigments of carbon films open to him an infinite variety of colors, comprising the lusters of gold, silver, platinum and other metals, deep charcoal blacks, and the chalky reds of Botticelli. It is, however, not the wealth of materials so much as the artistic discrimination in the use of them which is illustrated by the amateur work of to-day, and in which progress is now being made.

Professional Advice.

Most people are aware, says Life, that it is the custom of turf gentlemen to settle their accounts every Monday at Tattersall's. It was on one of these occasions that a baker, by an oversight, paid his bookmaker a betting debt which he had settled already. This put the "bookie" in a mental fix as to what would be the best course for him to take. "Shall I rob my wife and family," he argued with himself, "and return the money; or shall I keep it and go about with a seared conscience?" Unable to decide the point himself, he sought the advice of a brother professional of greater experience. "Paid you twice over, did he?" said the latter. "Ask him for it again!"
