The boat house belonging to Arthur Visscher was entered Monday night and several fishing rods and tackle were taken by thieves. The padlock on the door had been hammered off and entry gained through the door.

Thanksgiving recess at our public schools will begin on the evening of the 23d and close on the morning of November 28; Winter vacation from the evening of December 23 till the morning of January 3; Spring vacation from March 24 till April 3; school closes for the year on June 21.

One of Saugatuck's oldest business men went out of business last week when Fritz Walz closed his market. He sold the balance of his stock to Mr. Kuite in Holland and is now in Grand Rapids where he has a good position in a market on South Division street. He has bought the John Huff place where his family will move.

The steamer Liberty, Capt. Brittain, brought in an excursion Saturday noon of sixty of the teachers in Holland schools. The Liberty arrived at noon and went directly to Fruitport. She came down the river this afternoon and remained until four o'clock.—Grand Haven Tribune.

Cornelius Stoketee employed in the Sentinel Printing plant held a lighted match before an empty gasoline can that had not been used for a long time and the result was disastrous to his trousers but beneficial so far as gaining knowledge by experience was concerned. Luckily the boy was not directly in the path of the flying can and thus escaped serious injury.

Albert K. Hunt is in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of wife desertion, the complaint being made by his wife who lives at 25 W. 9th street. The arrest was made by Officer Stoketee and upon hearing before Justice Miles Monday, Hunt was bound over to circuit court. It is alleged that Hunt left for the West in 1908 leaving his family here and failing either to contribute to or make any provision for its support. Hunt claims he returned Saturday to assume his responsibility as head of his family but his wife claims otherwise.

Holland High school will open the foot ball season here Saturday with Allegan. Both teams report unusual strength this year and the old time rivalry promises to develop a good game with a large crowd of rooters in attendance.

The annual state convention of the Michigan Christian Reformed churches is being held today in the First Christian Reformed church at Zeeland. About 150 delegates are present. Among the speakers at the three sessions are, R. Bakker of Zeeland, Mrs. A. Keizer of Beaverdam, Anthony Rosbach of Holland, Rev. J. Bruinooga of Zutphen, Rev. J. A. Kett of Grand Rapids and Rev. H. Walkotten of Fremont.

Dr. H. Kremers and A. B. Bosman, owners of what is known as Kruijenga Island, the large island north of the city formed by Black river intend to build a bridge to the island from the foot of Columbia avenue. The bridge which will be about seventy feet long will have a concrete foundation. When this work is completed the owners will start to develop the island the land being very productive, the portion on the east side having been under cultivation for many years.

A story entitled "Living is—What?" will appear within the next few months in Hampton's Magazine written by Arnold Mulder for which he received a fat check from that monthly. The story is said to have a good deal of local color, the scene being laid in a Dutch community and the plot dealing with the institutions such as all Holland people are familiar with.

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 the ordination of Rev. J. W. Beardslee, jr. will take place at Hope church and the charge will be given to his son by Dr. J. W. Beardslee, sr. At the same services Rev. Edward Niles, pastor of Hope church, will be installed. Rev. John Baldwin Shaw, of the 2nd Presbyterian church of Chicago will deliver the sermon and Dr. N. M. Steffens will deliver the charge to the Minister, while Prof. John E. Kruijenga will deliver the charge to the congregation.

Chairman Diekema of the state Central committee has appointed Hon. N. J. Whelan of this city as temporary secretary of the committee and Mr. Whelan has gone to Detroit to act in that capacity. Mr. Whelan takes the place of Dennie Alward whose brilliant service as secretary of the Michigan State committee caused his transfer to the National committee of which he is now secretary. During the last campaign Mr. Whelan was chairman of the speakers bureau.

The anti cigarette law is being enforced in Holland. Albert Hoo-venga a lad of about twenty years of age was arrested for smoking a cigarette on Eighth street and given a good stiff talking to by Justice Miles. The young man admitted buying the cigarettes from Nick De Rose an Italian fruit dealer. De Rose was also arrested and pleaded not guilty. Later the boy refused to testify against the dealer and the case was dropped the costs being paid by De Rose.

In the new city hall at Holland there will be a hall which will be used for the purpose of holding court. It has been reported that an effort would be made in the next state legislature to provide for holding circuit court there. A Holland man admitted today that an effort would be made to secure the trial of a portion of the circuit cases in Holland. This he stated was because Holland people believed the largest city in the county should have some of the cases. Grand Haven and the rest of the county will not take kindly to this idea of holding court at Holland. Grand Haven is the county seat and Ottawa county has established a fine court house with all of the facilities for that purpose and court should be held here and nowhere else. Candidates for the state legislature should be instructed to oppose any such move.—Grand Haven Tribune.

Holland Man Has Great Airship

Other states have contributed their part to the great new field of aeroplaning, but until now Michigan has been left behind in the mad race for aerial notoriety. Although she comes late to the forefront, it is believed by competent engineers that John Buchanan has patented the greatest airship of the age, and one that will prove to be a revolution in aerial navigation.

John Buchanan is a citizen of Holland, Mich., and for the greater part of his 61 years of life has been applying himself to aeronautical studies. The result is a monoplane that is expected to be superior to that of any air craft on the market. It is an evolution, and its inventor claims to have overcome all of those drawbacks that have been characteristic of monoplanes hitherto manufactured.

Like most of the air vehicles, it is patterned after the bird. In appearance it is very much like that of the bug, which children know as the devil's darning needle. In a mechanical sense it is the prairie hawk of the western plains, which soars through the air without a flutter of the wing for long distances. It is this position, with a propeller in front to suck it along through the air upon a cushion of compressed air, so to speak, that is expected to make the machine a success.

Like the bird, but again unlike the models of monoplanes and biplanes now in use, it has the ballast below the level of the wings, as does the bird. The type used by Bleriot and others who have built monoplanes is one that places the machinery and driving mechanism above or between the wings of the airship. In Buchanan's machine all is below, and the weight makes it impossible to turn turtle.

An added feature, and one that will in itself make the plane of greater value than all others, is that the operator will not be confined to his seat while in the air. He will be able to move about his car, and if he choose, may have a promenade, which will allow his passengers, which in the model about to be built will number three and four, besides the operator, to move freely, as the gyroscope will take up automatically any divergence there may be in the position of the machine while in flight.

So sure is one of the airship manufacturing companies in St. Louis that Buchanan's invention will be a success, that they have offered to build and test this machine free of charge. They have also, on the strength of their confidence in this new invention, made a contract with the United States government to carry mails between any number of points that may be desired, and at any distance. It is their belief that if they do not build the new aeroplane they can buy them when they are manufactured and transport an interstate transportation business.

The wings are to be each about 35 feet long, with a curve of about one-eighth of an arc. These are joined to a beam in the center of the plane. At the point of joining they will be about 5 feet wide and at the outer ends 10 feet. The wings are to be rigid and not warp as those of most of the present types. They will be covered by specially manufactured aeroplane canvas.

From the beam in the center will be suspended the machinery and car. This beam will be about 5 feet long, and to the rear end will be attached the rudder. The design of the monoplane is such that all of the heavy part, which will form the ballast, is more effectually balanced by suspending the weight considerably below the aeroplane itself. This allows the airship to be more easily steered and managed, and more effectually operated and propelled.

When ready to leave the ground the reversible propeller is thrown into the wind and the machine lifts. As it clears the ground the tail piece drops into a position even with the forward part and locks. Now the machine becomes two parts—the car and rudder being one and the wings another.

The operator sits in an automobile seat and is protected from the wind by the framework of the car, which becomes a shield. In it is placed two windows, through which the driver can see which way he is going. His steering gear works similar to that of an automobile and by it his whole mechanism is controlled.

When once in the air the height may be changed by an upward tilting of the wings. The object in having the plane itself separated from the balance of the airship is that it allows the car to remain in the same position all of the time. No matter in which direction the craft is driven the great weight of the driving apparatus and car automatically establishes an equilibrium. This is further assured by the Gnome gyroscope, which is used by Paulhan on his machines.

The car will be made of aluminum, as will also the rudder and all metal parts of the aeroplane that will allow. The engine will be a seven-cylinder 50-horsepower Gnome, the same as that used by Farman and Bleriot. The propeller blades are reversible, that is, they may be thrown out of or into the wind. This allows a graduation of speed without a slackening up of the engine.

If the mechanism should get out of order while the machine is in the air, Buchanan believes that it would not be helpless, but from the force with which he is going at the time, and the distance up in the air, he would be able to execute a waving motion, by the tilting of the wings, that would allow him to go a considerable way in search of a satisfactory landing place.

This aeroplane is the result of many years of study, and the second that has been modeled by Mr. Buchanan. It will be manufactured in Michigan, although a firm in New York and one in St. Louis are trying to get the contract. Local men are already interested.

One of the most competent aeronautic engineers of the world, Edward Weigold, Detroit, Mich., has said that he will draft and design the machines, confident that it will go on the first attempt. Mr. Weigold is a graduate of several European technological schools.

John Lampen the Central avenue blacksmith has purchased the home of J. Grevel on Sixteenth street. The deal was made through the Weersing agency.

John Haight, an 18 year old boy was arrested Thursday by Officer Meeuwse on the charge of assault and battery on the person of John A. Hoeker, another boy aged 17. Haight is said to have tied the other boys hands and then assaulted him. Arraigned in Justice Miles court Haight was ordered to pay the costs and spend 90 days in the Detroit House of Correction. The jail sentence was suspended however on good behavior for a year.

The organ recital given in the Methodist church last Thursday evening by Alle D. Zuidema of Detroit was well attended. Mr. Zuidema furnished music of an exceptionally high order. The occasion was the dedication of the new Carnegie organ and speeches were made by Cong. Diekema and Rev. P. E. Whitman, pastor of the church. In addition to the musical numbers given by Mr. Zuidema, Miss Florence Taylor and Mrs. Henry Agard contributed a duet and J. Jans Helder rendered an exceptionally pleasing solo.

The Eighth street lights which were turned off part of the week owing to fact that the old contract had expired have been turned on again and will doubtless be continued permanently. A committee of business men have taken the matter in hand and set about to arrange for the continuance of the present method of lighting. This committee which will confer with the board of public works is composed of L. Altman, chairman, Nick Hoffman, M. Notier, H. Van Ark and George Huizenga.

Jake Nibbelink's saddle horse Prince Henry that recently marched in the Civic parade at the Grand Rapids Home Coming celebration and won high praise, carried away two prizes at the West Michigan State Fair. The first prize was a high school saddle horse, and the second prize won was a lady's saddle horse. Miss Grace Nibbelink rode the horse when the judges gave Prince Henry second honors. Seth Nibbelink had a number of mules at the fair and they succeeded in winning two first prizes, two second prizes and one third. These with the Boone and Belt horses on the track showed that Holland was well represented at the fair.

A surprise party took place at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Koele at Rusk by the members of the consistory with their wives of the Christian Reformed church in honor of Rev. Wm. Koele's 46th birthday anniversary. As a token of their esteem for the pastor they presented him with a fine spring rocker. Dainty refreshments were served.

A farewell reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Rosenraad on Main street by the members of the Christian Endeavor society in honor of Rev. J. De Jonge pastor of the First Christian Reformed church who will soon leave for his new field in Alton, Ia. Addresses were made by the president of the society, Miss Nettie Rosenraad and some of the other members. As a token of their esteem they presented the pastor with a fine gold filled fountain pen and a watch fob with gold locker with the letters engraved "C. E. Zeeland First, 1910." The pastor answered the society with a few words of thanks. Refreshments were served.

After a lingering illness with summer complaint the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Doezeman died at his home in Oakland at the age of two years. Funeral services were held today from the home Rev. Walkotten, pastor of the Christian Reformed church officiating. Interment was at the Oakland cemetery. This is the second victim in the vicinity of this disease during the summer.

Farmers are busy getting their silos filled now days.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Redder of Holland spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Redder.

Mrs. Charles Van der Zwag of Grand Rapids is visiting relative in this vicinity.

After a thorough canvass by the board of health, assisted by an expert chemist it is found that Holland ranks high in the purity of its milk supply. There are about thirty milk dealers who supply milk to this city and many of them in turn buy it from farmers to supply their customers. The health board is very rigid in its tests both as to the percentage of butter fat in the milk and as to its freedom from disease germs. But by all the tests the milk of the local dealers was found to be of a satisfactory standard.

The method of procedure of the health department is very simple. The inspector can stop any milkman on the street at any time and secure a bottle of milk for testing purposes. This bottle is labeled with a number and the milkman takes another bottle of the same milk marked with the same number. The bottle is turned over to the chemist and he keeps a record of his findings by number so that all partiality in testing is eliminated.

The penalty for a dealer who sells impure milk is very severe, being a fine of $100 or 90 days in the county jail, and the dealers make every effort to be up to the standard.

"We keep on testing right along," said Health Officer Godfrey this morning. "Eternal vigilance is the only safe way in matters of health, and we cannot afford to endanger the health of the people by letting up for a minute. When we suspect a man, milk is secured from him in such a way that he does not know it is for testing purposes, and then if it is found there is something wrong we go after him in the usual way."

"So far the tests have been very satisfactory. Nevertheless the utmost care by the farmers in regard to cleanliness of the cows and stables is desirable. All receptacles for milk should be thoroughly scalded and washed clean."

"The health department is not in any way antagonizing any milk dealer but in protecting the public who are protecting the honest dealer. We want the dealers to help us in this matter for in helping to get a pure supply they will be helping their own business."

This is the second year that the farmer boys of Allegan county are given an opportunity of showing their metal in the raising of corn. Last year a Y. M. C. A. contest was begun for which all farmer boys of the county were eligible, and prizes were awarded to the boys bringing in the fall the best specimens of corn. The contest was conducted along rigid lines, the boys being compelled to keep a careful record of the progress of their corn, amount of work put on it, etc. It was a success, making as it did, the boys interested in doing their work scientifically, and take pride in it.

The corn committee are planning on holding the exhibit earlier this year so it will be necessary for all the boys who are going to have corn at the contest to send their names with the kind of corn they will enter to the secretary by the last of the month, when the list of prizes will be published with other information. At present the interest amongst the boys is fine and the exhibit promises to be a success. The work of the association throughout the country is very gratifying and everything points toward a very profitable year for the boys of the county. Plans are being formulated for the organization of a few distinctly rural groups this winter.

Corn Laid Down

An annoying aftermath of the storm of August 22 is occupying the attention of the farmers in this vicinity, now that the harvesting of the corn crop has begun. For many years past most of the progressive farmers have used corn harvesters to cut the stalks and bind them in bunches preparatory to cutting them up for the silos. The harvesters have been brought to such a high point of perfection that they easily cut the stalks that have been blown down by the wind as well as the straight one.

But the August storm seems to have been too much for the machines. It has tangled up the stalks so inextricably, that it seems impossible to untangle them. The fields are a big crazy-patch in which a machine can do but little. Many of the farmers have abandoned the attempt and have gone laboriously back to the primitive way of cutting corn with a hand sickle. Fortunately the crop is not heavy otherwise they would find it hard to get it harvested before the fall frosts.

BIG BEARS STEAL HONEY IN TEXAS AND THRIVE ON IT

SWOOP DOWN ON THE HIVES AT NIGHT AND EAT THEIR FILL

Montell, Tex.—Black bears are giving the beekeepers of this section a lot of trouble. The honey output of Uvalde county is larger than that of any other county in the United States, running as high as 500,000 pounds. The bears know the importance of the honey industry and their numbers have increased year by year, until they are a serious menace to the apiarists.

When employed in robbing a beehive a bear is lost to all other things. It scoops the honey out with its paws and pours it down its throat, comb and all, with an evident relish that makes it oblivious to any danger. It is a comparatively easy matter to kill one of these honey-stealing bears.

Ben Pollard, who runs a ranch and apiary in the mountain country, passed through here on his way to Uvalde to lay in a supply of hives for his bees recently. He reported an exciting encounter with a black bear.

"A couple of nights ago I was aroused by the yelping of my dogs. When I got to the apiary the bear evidently had finished its work. The animal was standing upright, licking its chops and slapping at the dogs with its paws when one of them got within reaching distance. It seemed to be well pleased with its feast and was willing to take a little punishment for the exceptionally good time that it had had."

"I could have shot and killed the bear, but I thought that would not be sufficient punishment. But I was unprepared for the quick grab which the bear made at my gun when I hit it over the nose. It hit the stock so hard that it broke. That left me without a gun. I picked up a piece of wreckage and waded into the bear. It took one slap at me and knocked me head over heels about ten feet."

"The bear started towards me and I ran towards the house. I don't know how far the animal chased me, but when I got another gun the animal was making off for the dense thicket, and escaped along the river."

ADS. AND TEAS FILL CHURCH

Pastor Credits His Success Also to Hot Suppers, Moving Pictures and Flags.

Spokane, Wash.—"I have drawn people to hear my sermons by advertising. I have attracted them with moving pictures, hot suppers, pink teas and flowers and flags. If I have had any degree of success in Spokane, it is because of the liberal use of printer's ink," said Rev. Dr. James W. Kramer, pastor of the First Baptist church, who came to Spokane from South Carolina two years ago.

"There is something worse than sensationalism. It is the inability of the church to produce life. The church that does not advertise is behind the times and is nursing empty pews, and he who rails against the minister for advertising is suffering for a congregation."

"I am not an advocate of ragtime methods or vulgar preaching, but I do plead for the church which is a humming plant of machinery, with live coals in the firebox, smoke curling from the stack and every belt, wheel and pulley going."

"I believe, too, that the people need instruction and that a minister of the gospel is first, last and all the time a teacher. There must be life."

Forbidden to Go to Church.

Kansas City, Kan.—Few men are so set in their habit of attending church that the law must be invoked to stop them. But that is what has happened to William W. Jones of Kansas City, Kan. A petition was filed in Wyandotte county district court asking that Jones be restrained from attending the Armourdale Baptist church. The action was brought in the name of "Lewis B. Major and others," deacons of the church. The petition declares that Jones, who was expelled from the church in September, 1909, persists in attending services and by "facial grimaces and noises" annoys the congregation. A temporary restraining order was issued.

NO MORE POLITICS FOR HIM

Abusive Campaign Tactics Causes Uncle Zeke to Lose Confidence in Fellow Citizens.

"Yes, sir," said Uncle Zeke, "politics is a dirty business. You don't catch me mixin' in it any more. Never again. I know when I've had enough."

"You've been a candidate for office?"

"Wunst. That's enough for me."

"Got beat, did you?"

"Yes, sir. I got beat, but I didn't mind that. It was the loss of confidence in my fellow citizens, the findin' out that our politics is rotten all through, and that you can't depend on a man's promises. That's what hurt."

"Was it an abusive campaign?"

"Abusive? They circulated a report that I had corns in the palms of my hands. They said I took out my false teeth when I ate my dinner, so I wouldn't wear 'em out. They charged me with cuttin' my stogies in two when I smoked 'em, so's to make 'em last longer. One of the papers printed the story that my grandfather on my mother's side was an Algerian pirate. They got a man to swear that I never had my hair cut in the dark of the moon. They accused me of belongin' to a non-church church. They said I drunk my soup instead of eatin' it with a spoon. They said my breath always smelt of onions, and that my dog had fleas."

"What office were you running for?"

"I was runnin, sir," answered Uncle Zeke, with impressive dignity, "for the office of coroner."

Oriental Love.

It has been said many a time and oft that Oriental women have not been honored and loved enough. It is impossible for us to understand the heart and soul of races totally different in most respects from ours. Although they never do show it in the presence of a third person. Orientals love their women much indeed. Love by them is not shown publicly by soft words or kisses, pats and hugs. They are often called "henpecked," because they are so under the influence of their women. Love is the food of the Oriental soul. A few of the American women think they will love just so long as they are loved, and the consequences show a plenty in the divorce courts. Such "Independent" spirit in love matters, such profit and loss and happy-go-lucky marriage ways strike an Oriental as gross, innate hopeless materialism, or else are utterly unintelligible to him.

When Her Back Aches

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Holland women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headache, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidney, and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Holland woman's words:

Mrs. Edwin McCarty, 290 Van Raalte Ave., Holland, Mich., says: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills as they are the best remedy I ever used. Backache caused me much suffering and I was subject to spells of dizziness. None of the remedies I tried brought me relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Geo. L. Lage's Drug Store. They not only removed the pains in my back, but corrected the difficulty with the kidney secretions. Another member of my family has taken Doan's Kidney Pills and has been helped as greatly as I."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Sugar Beets Doing Well

On this month depends the quality of the Michigan sugar beet crop. Providing that September is all sunshine, the percentage of the sugar will be very high and as a result the farmer will reap his harvest in revenue as well as in beets. The growth of the beets is over and now comes the profit development. The acreage around Holland this year is larger than ever before and a bumper crop is anticipated. The factory is now being repaired to have everything in readiness for the harvesting which commences in October. After hauling starts, slicing will continue until after New Year.

Sore Eyes of Three years standing. cure. Miss Ffie Faulkner, New Castle, Pa., writes: Sutherland's Eagle Eye Salve cured me of a case of sore eyes of three years standing. I cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a remedy.

Electric Bitters

A TYPEWRITER BUILT TO ORDER

If you could have a typewriter made to order, how would you have it? Built for show—or built for service? Loaded down with attachments, devices and mechanism—or simple, durable and efficient? Would you demand the most machinery—or the best, in materials, workmanship and results?

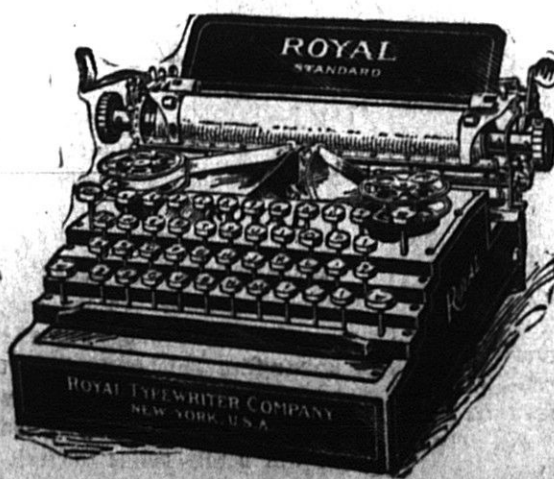

The ROYAL STANDARD TYPEWRITER

has every quality that you would demand in a made-to-order machine. It meets every requirement of efficiency, durability and economy.

The first thing you notice about the Royal is its simplicity. You see instantly that it is constructed on new and correct principles, with all needless attachments and devices eliminated.

The Royal is built for service. It has only about half as many parts as other standard machines. The simplicity thus secured works for your advantage in four ways: A saving in the original investment; low cost of maintenance; minimum of effort and maximum of convenience in operation; and the long life of the machine.

The price of the Royal is $65—a new standard price for a high grade writing machine.

Holland Furnishes Another Care

The chief of the fire department in Canton, Ohio, the former home of President McKinley has added another nail to the long column against cigarette smoking by barring all who practice it from his force on the ground that they lack "stamina and nerve".

In this age, when all aspiring boys are desiring to be athletes the thought comes with special force. With history and experience, with observation and in many instances with practice as a teacher, the nuisance can not be choked out. Few parents, even among those addicted to tobacco in other forms, will countenance the cigarette. And yet—vile serpent that it is—it continues to creep along. In many places its existence is necessarily concealed, yet it is not stamped out.

Though it can not be legally sold or in any other way furnished to minors, minors are its largest patrons. Officers of the law are baffled when attempting to furnish legal evidence against certain parties, although the moral evidence is plain enough. This was again self-evident in Holland when Albert Hoovenega was arrested for smoking cigarettes and after implicating DeRose, the Eighth street Italian, later refused to testify against him.

Boys who will indulge in so dangerous and so vile a pastime seldom betray those who furnish the goods. And there is always someone in every community old enough to pass the evil along the line of youngsters.

Dealers there is a responsibility with you which you can not dodge. You know the evil effects of the cigarette. You know, further, that while you never sell to a minor, while you strictly conform to the letter of the law, you are just as surely breaking its purpose. So long as the goods from the shop do harm to the humanity, you are morally responsible. Put a ban on this class. Deal only in such material as will benefit mankind. Lend your aid in stamping out the trouble by refusing to handle the goods.

"Off again," "On again": The Eighth Street lights.

It must be borne in mind that the Maine frost of September 12 did not injure the harvest. Neither corn nor cotton grows in Maine.

Just as Col. Roosevelt started on his recent trip to the West and Northwest his new book was thrown on the market. The expert advertiser is one who knows just when to strike.

Considering the fair weather this week, it is only fair to say that the fair ought to fare better this year than former Fairs fared.—A pretty fair pun coming from the foreman.

"As goes Maine, so goes the country"—sometimes. Maine went Democratic for governor in September, 1880, and Maine and the country went Republican for president two months later.

A G. Spalding, the baseball magnate, is a candidate for United States senator from California, and John K. Tener, a famous pitcher, is a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania. The national game is gradually increasing its hold upon the American public.

The democrats held their primaries according to law but before the election day they met in convention in Grand Haven and decided who would be the party nominees. Such action is similar to that of the man who wanted to commit suicide by hanging. To make death doubly sure he took a quart of paris green before kicking the barrel from under his feet. The democrats can now be doubly sure.

Political Notes

Congressman Diekema of the 5th district, who is himself a candidate for speaker, puts Speaker Cannon out of the running thusly, in a talk with the Grand Rapids Press: "There is no need to consider Mr. Cannon" said the Holland congressman. "He will be back in the house I believe. His district will send him. But he has no more chance of being speaker again than you (indicating the interviewer). Every republican in the house recognized that Uncle Joe was serving his last term as speaker. Mr. Cannon is an able man. He will exert some influence on the floor. But he never will preside again. He is out of the reckoning.

There promises to be a great fight for the Republican shrievelty nomination two years from now. Candidates are springing up for the position all over the county. William O'Connell of this city makes no secret of the fact that he is to be a candidate. Al Hidding of Holland is said to be casting longing eyes toward the jail office. E. P. Stephan of Holland is also looked upon as a sure candidate. Coopersville, it is said will present Officer Bonner, of blood hound fame, as a candidate. Former Under Sheriff Bouma it is reported, will also be a candidate and there is a dark horse grooming in one of the three cities of the county, who with the political prestige he has, is liable to lead all of them at the primaries. It is early yet but just the same keep your eye glued on the sheriff fight two years from now. Grand Haven Tribune.

County Republican conventions were held throughout Michigan last week to name delegates to the state convention in Detroit. In several instances, congressmen speaking before these conventions, pledged their support to Cong. G. J. Diekema should he seek to succeed Uncle Joe as speaker.

Who will be the chairman of the Ottawa county delegation which goes down to the state convention in Detroit? This is a matter which appears to bother some of the politicians. William O'Connell, who was the reputed leader of the Townsend movement in Ottawa county believes that he should lead the delegation at the state convention. But there are other Warwickers in the field. Corie C. Coburn's friends, who would like to see him district attorney, believe that Mr. Coburn, being the chairman of the first district delegation, should be the chairman of the county delegation. Members of the late Ellis club too, are up in arms, because they were not represented on the delegation sent down to the state meet.

The dickens is to pay despite the fact that nobody seems to know what the state convention amounts to. One fact is apparent and that is that there are many candidates for some kind of an office in this big county. Grand Haven Tribune.

Marion L. Fish, principal of the Berlin High school, was in the city Saturday, looking up political prospects. He will be a candidate for school commissioner next spring and says Mr. M. M. DeGraaf will not run again.

SUTHERLAND'S EAGLE EYE SALVE
Good for Nothing but the Eyes.

Old Corner Stone Found.

In the construction of the new tower at the Presbyterian church at Grand Haven it became necessary to tear out a portion of the mason work at the northwest corner of the structure. Cutting into the heavy brick and stone work the workmen discovered the corner stone of the old church, placed many years ago, and firmly embedded in it was a copper box which no doubt contains the records and data placed there, at the time of the removal of the church from its original downtown location.

The copper box was turned over to the Rev. F. P. Burchell, who in turn gave it into the keeping of the church trustees. In their hands it remains still sealed firmly. The pastor and trustees have decided to open the box and place additional records therein, at the time when the old church is being again completely changed and rebuilt. A meeting of the congregation will be held tonight when the old copper chest will be opened and the contents placed there years ago, examined by those present. Many will be present who witnessed the placing of the corner stone when the church was moved from site occupied by the VanderZalm block to its present location. The examination of the contents will be a particularly interesting ceremony.

Facts Disclosed by Alaskan Census

Alaska is in the same latitude as Sweden, Norway and Finland; has a much better climate, more arable ground and is much larger than all three of those countries, which have a total population of 10,030,000.

Alaska, in a word, is worth while and those who would conserve its resources for the benefit of the nation have undertaken a job that is worth while.

Some Good Ones

Biggs—So your wife got you to attend that suffrage meeting with her?

Riggs—Yep. Only a few men there but I felt perfectly at ease.

Biggs—So?

Riggs—Yep. You see, my office at the works is next to a boiler shop.

The Hostess—Wasn't it strange that Mr. Tank should win the first prize from such a field of good players?

The Host—Oh, I don't know. We started him at the table farthest from the punch-bowl.

Visitor—Grafton resides in this building, doesn't he?

Mr. Flatleigh—Yes.

Visitor—What story does he live on?

Mr. Flatleigh—Generally "wife very sick, children need medicine, and I'll pay you next week."

All persons knowing themselves indebted to me are earnestly requested to make payment of their accounts. All payments can be made to M. Notier at the store of Notier, Van Ark & Winter. Owing to my misfortune I earnestly request all my old debtors to make their payments now.

Students will Soon Leave

Within a week or two the annual exodus of students who will attend the universities will begin. With the coming of the 400 students who will attend Hope college this year many people will hardly notice the exit of the students who are attending other schools for post graduate or special courses. Since Hope opens next week the out of town schools will this year claim some fifteen or twenty of Holland's boys and girls who are out for degrees of some kind. A partial list of those who will attend the University of Michigan includes John Dry in the engineering department; James Westveld and John Vaupell in the pharmacy school; Russell Takken and George Van Duren in the department of Art and Sciences and Verne Ogge and Tom N. Robinson in the law school. Bernie De Vries will go back to Michigan, not as a student, but as an instructor in the dentistry department and there are several others who are contemplating taking courses at the big state university, but have not fully made up their minds.

Gerrit Catts, who graduated from the preparatory department last June will be an M. A. C. student this year and Bert Bonma of last year's class of the High school will attend the Ypsilanti State Normal school.

Edward Hundermann will return to the Detroit College of Medicine and Surgery from which he expects to graduate next June, and August Veenker, who took his A. B. degree at Hope last June will take a post graduate course in German and French at the University of Chicago. Prof. Henry Brush will work in the same department at the Chicago school.

Although this city attracts many students from other places it is nevertheless well represented in the big schools by local people working for higher degrees.

Death of Ex-Alderman Prakken

At about six o'clock Saturday morning at the home of his father-in-law John Van Dyke north of the Macatwa bay, Ex-Alderman Nicholas Prakken died at the age of 44 years. He had been ill for more than a year with tuberculosis of the throat and for several months his condition had been critical. Last spring he left his home in the city here and lived as much as possible out of doors north of the bay but hope for his recovery was abandoned some time ago.

The deceased is survived by a wife and four children, three girls and one boy, two brothers, John and William and two sisters Martha and Jennie of this city.

NICHOLAS PRAKKEN

Mr. Prakken has been prominent in the city's affairs for many years. In 1904 he was elected as alderman from the third ward and was re-elected in 1906 and 1908 serving the city in that capacity until his failing health about a year ago compelled him to give up his work. During his three terms of office in the council he was a faithful representative of his ward always looking out for the city's interests. Among other measures he was prominent in the paving of River street.

A member of the Third Reformed church he served as deacon of that church for a number of years and was always found faithful to the duties imposed upon him in that capacity as well as in all other things.

Born in the Netherlands Mr. Prakken came to this country as an infant and has lived in this city practically all his life, and was considered one of the best contractors in the business here.

"Mr. Prakken was a man of few words," said E. P. Stephan this morning in paying a tribute to the memory of the man who was his colleague in the council for several years; "but you could depend on what he said and his word was as good as his bond. Blunt in expressing his opinions, he treated friend and foe alike in his alderman career. He looked upon the city's business as his own and was just as conscientious in looking out for the interests of the city as he was for his own. He was never afraid to speak up when he thought the city's affairs were not taken care of, and I wish to say that Holland never had a more conscientious officer than Mr. Prakken."

"He was a public spirited man, and sound though conservative in his judgement on public matters. As a member of the charter commission that framed up Holland's new charter he did good service."

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Rev. E. J. Blekink of the Third Reformed church officiating.

In tribute to the memory of their former associate, the members of the common council and the city administration attended in a body.

Vander Meulen Lectures

Many local people who read the series of articles by Herald Bolce in the American Magazine last year on religious conditions at the American universities will be interested in an opinion expressed by Rev. John M. Vander Meulen, former pastor of Hope church. Mr. Vander Meulen is in Michigan to spend his vacation and in a lecture on "The Three H's" at the Bethany Reformed church in Kalama-zoo, he said in part:

"The moral and religious conditions of Michigan, Columbian and many of the larger educational institutions of our country are absolutely rotten, and it cannot be otherwise with the scores of infidel professors, daily pouring their infidelity into the minds of the young men."

"I have never known a young man to go out from my church into one of these schools and return as good a young man as when he entered," he continued. During the course of his discussion he referred to Prof. Weidley of Michigan University, deprecating this professor's attitude toward women and the home.

"Time was," said the speaker "when the development of the intellectual life was thought to consist in the mastery of the three 'R's' reading, riting and 'rithmatic, but now men have come to know that the education and development of a man depend upon the development of the three H's the head, the hand and the heart. These embrace the development of the mental physical and spiritual sides of a man's life."

"The intellectual development depends upon the development of the head for we have come to know that the seat of a man's mind is in his brain. This can best be developed by the means of impression and the retention of impressions."

"I do not believe with Darwin that man developed from the ape. I believe that God made the ape to show man what he might become. The brain is developed through the impressions received through the senses and all the senses must receive impressions if the brain is to be fully developed. This has been proved beyond dispute by the discovery of the localization of brain functions. If we would not be mere fragments of men we must develop all of the senses. Reading and thinking are the other two methods by which the brain is to be developed. Roosevelt is a practical man, yet he is a reader and a thinker. He is a man who can do things. Whether it is lassoing a kicking steer or lassoing a kicking congress, busting a bucking broncho or busting a bucking trust, as police commissioner in New York, governor of the state or president of the United States he was a man who can do things. He reads and at the same time he thinks. This is the sort of man we once had in the White House, and may have again."

Scholarship tells of the past, thinking fits us for the present and the future. "The second H is the hand and stands for practicability. Don't be afraid of work with the hands, it means development of brain and of character."

"The development of the heart means the growth of love and affection, the development of the emotional life. Today there are many empty cradles and many empty hearts because men do not care for the heart. This is encouraged and fostered by such men as Prof. Wenley of your state university who sneers at women and that Columbia University professor who made the statement that just as intellectuality increases divorce will also increase. The religious side of the heart must be developed. Some men pride themselves in having no religion. They might as well pride themselves in having a cork leg or a wig. The religious element is normal and natural and when the young man says he has no religious nature he has lost it. This is the problem of the church today. The moral and religious life in our universities and colleges, in your own state university and in Columbia is absolutely rotten. I know whereof I speak and it cannot be otherwise with the scores of infidel professors pouring their infidelity into the minds of the young men day after day. The rottenness of the social life of rich young men who come to these institutions adds to the condition. The church is not alive to the condition and it is the problem before it."

CALIFORNIA'S WINE CISTERN

This Huge Tank is the Largest in the World, Carved From Solid Rock.

One of the show places of northern California is the Italian-Swiss colony's immense dry wine vineyard and winery at Asti in Sonoma county, which is also famous as being the section where Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, has conducted most of his wonderful experiments with flowers and fruits.

At Asti is the largest wine tank in the world. This great cistern is virtually a huge subterranean lake of wine, carved from the solid rock and lined with a two foot thickness of Portland cement, with a glazed surface. The upper sides and roof are of reinforced concrete topped by a unique center dome built of rough rocks. This mighty tank contains enough ruby vintage for a whole nation to toast its heroes with and is just 10 times as large as the great tun at Heidelberg.

To be precise, the Asti cistern is 84 feet long, 34 feet wide and 25 feet high, and its contents would provide a glass each to 16,000,000 people. An idea of its great size may be gained from the fact that when it was first emptied a hundred couples joined in a gay ball within it, to the music of a large military band.

The cistern was built to conserve the wine until an opportune time arrived for selling it, and to make large blends and maintain from year to year the same type and character. In this tremendous underground concrete receptacle the ruddy vintage, hermetically enclosed and safe from outside influences, mellow and ripens.

HE WAS A MARTYR TO ART

Rheumatics Were Bad, but He Kept on That His Womankind Might Enjoy Advantages.

Those who know the gallery of the Pitti palace in Florence will remember its long and painful staircase. Climbing this one chill February day, I came upon the limping figure of an acquaintance. He was a gentle, God-fearing, harmless man, who the year before had retired from the paint business in Detroit, and had been borne abroad by a wife and daughter, who were hot from the study of art under the auspices of some local woman's club.

"It's the cold rooms we live in," he explained pathetically. "I never had the rheumatism before this winter."

He had hobbled as far as a comparatively little known, relatively unimportant room of portraits. I expressed surprise as he started to turn in there.

"It's about the only thing left I haven't done," he said. "I didn't want much to come today—the rheumatics were bad again—but they said 'Courage, one more try,' and here I am."

He smiled patiently, faintly, and then suddenly he seemed caught up by emotion.

"I don't know as I was ever meant for this," he broke out. "I try. This studying art is all very well, but oh, the pain in the legs afterward!"

One must laugh. But one must cry, too. I heard of his death a year later, and I actually believe he was martyred that his womankind might not lack advantages.—Dellmeator.

Pronunciation of "July."

The Spenserian pronunciation of the word July is not by any means dead yet. In English country districts the accent is still commonly put on the first syllable, while in Scotland that pronunciation is the general one. But the word does not then rhyme with "duly," for the second syllable is as clearly pronounced as if it were accented. Indeed, "July" might almost be included in the small list of English spondee, which is generally held to consist solely of "Amen" and "Goodby." "Goodby" has always seemed to the writer a very doubtful specimen, for it is seldom that one hears its two syllables equally accented. Another unrecognized spondee is, if one accepts the rural pronunciation, the name of the month April. Millions of Englishmen pronounce it slowly and deliberately "Ay-pril."

Value of Being Sociable.

To simply live alone, with no provision for the gratification of the social instincts, is apt to prove too severe a strain upon the reserve forces of even the happiest marriage. There is some excuse outside the home wherein no thought is given to social pleasure, while the wife is apt to grow petty and personal, and so less attractive as she shuts herself away from intercourse with others, says Woman's Life. This dropping out is very easy, but even when prosperity comes, and large social functions are possible, it is too late to gain that most valuable possession, friendship, which is entirely independent of financial success. To have and to hold a place in the social life of the world is not only the right but the duty of the young wife who desires to have a home in its truest and best senses.

The Blight of Luxury.

"You don't want to elect that man again," said the person who will stoop to any device. "He is wholly unfitted to represent you. Why, I saw him eating pie with a knife!"

"I guess you're right," replied Farmer Cornotess. "When he was out here among us plain people he didn't want no silver-plated implement. He'd grab his pie in his naked fist, for like one of us feller citizens."

WHEN HE MISSED HIS MOTHER

Bishop of Lincoln Regretted Inability to Make Frank Criticism of Poor Sermon.

Cannon Scott Holland, in an appreciation of the late bishop of Lincoln, mentions that Doctor King was a bachelor, and his mother lived with him till her death. "He said once, after hearing a rasping sermon that irritated him: 'It is at such a time that I miss my mother.' He was asked why

"Because directly we were through the door I should have turned to her and said: 'That was a beastly sermon,' and then it would have been out, and I should have been sorry to have said it and should have begun to apologize for the sermon and to love the preacher. Now the poison is in me all the week and I can't get rid of it."

Doctor King had a delicate and subtle wit. Once, said the canon, we had all been rather swept off our feet by the vivacity of certain Bampton lectures which were laid out on rather well worn conventional lines.

The material was old, no doubt, but still it was surprising how well they went. How was it? What would King say of them? "Well, it is wonderful," he said, "how good an old pair of trousers will come out if you have laid them away for some time in a drawer."

He had hit it exactly. The trousers were green, for all their apparent sheen.

"A BROOM FOR THE STOMACH"

So the French Call Parsley—Pumpkin and Apple Both Rich in Phosphorus.

The French have a saying that "parsley is a broom to sweep the stomach." Lettuce is a nerve food. Radishes build tissue and are rich in phosphorus, also in iron.

Horse radish contains a higher percentage of sulphur than all the other vegetable roots, spinach ranking next in value. Spinach also contains a large percentage of iron.

A mayonnaise dressing with lettuce is especially desirable for thin people, but for the over plump French dressing is to be recommended. The action of vinegar on the digestive organs, however, is not to be considered. The acid of lemon juice is preferable.

While apples are a most excellent fruit for brain building, which phosphorus aids in, the humble pumpkin, desecrated to the uses of pie and jack o' lanterns, holds the prize. Pumpkin rates 2.79 in phosphorus, while apple is but .45.

When in search of this special element take up a pumpkin diet. But as winter squash would stand the same analysis, it can be used as a vegetable in many varieties and thus the needed phosphorus supplied. Cucumbers rank next in phosphorus value to pumpkins, being 2.08.—Vegetarian Magazine.

And the Money Came Back.

When a Darby man sent a vest to be cleaned he forgot that in the inside pocket was a roll of notes amounting to $165. He made up his mind that the money was lost in some other way and marked it down as something of the past. When the vest came home the money was discovered.

Perhaps the owner has not yet decided whether the money was overlooked by the cleaner, whether it was returned by an honest man, or whether the cleaning of the vest was merely imaginary. That he got the money back is enough to know, yet it would be only fair to the cleaner to give credit for not being curious to the extent of examining the pockets of garments sent to his shop, or else to hold that he is really an honest man, too modest to parade himself.—Wilmington (Del.) News.

Child's Fiendish Temper.

"Death from exhaustion due to burns caused by being pushed into the fire by her younger brother," was the verdict at a Crewe (Eng.) inquest on the body of five-year-old Violet Capper. The mother left a number of little children playing in the yard, with instructions not to go into the house. Scarcely had she turned her back when Frank, aged two, got into the house, and Violet, who followed to bring him out, was pushed into the fire by him. The mother said Frank had a very nasty temper, and since the occurrence had attempted to push one of the other children into the fire. The coroner said it seemed almost incredible. The child was too young to be criminally charged.

Quarrels of Friends.

I think I have observed universally that the quarrels of friends in the latter part of life are never truly reconciled. A wound in the friendship of young persons, as in the bark of young trees, may be so grown over as to leave no scar. The case is very different as regards old persons and old timber. The reason of this may be accounted from the decline of the social passions, and the prevalence of spleen, suspicion, and rancor, towards the latter part of life.

Didn't Appeal to Him.

"How did you enjoy the pony show?" "Oh," replied the sophisticated little boy, "I didn't care for it. There was too much horse play."

Apple vs. Onion.

She—They say that an apple a day will keep the doctor away.
He—Why stop there? An onion a day will keep everybody away.—Boston Transcript.

LIVELY TIME WITH PYTHON

Crew on British Gunboat Has Exciting Experience When Reptile Breaks Loose.

Once when the British gunboat Rattler was in eastern waters the crew had a lively time looking after a python on board that got loose.

Besides the python there was on board a big Borneo orangoutang. The python, which was 19 or 20 feet in length, having dined heartily on a deer about three weeks before, began to feel its appetite returning, and in searching about its box for a place of egress found one side in bad repair. It did not take the python long to come through the weak part, and, quite unobserved, it began its perambulations around the boat.

Seeing the orangoutang chained up a few yards off, the big snake invited itself to a dinner very much to its taste. It would have been all over with the orangoutang had not the quartermaster at that moment made the discovery that the two pets were about to be merged into one. He promptly cut the orangoutang loose.

The latter was up the masthead before any mischief could be done, and a lieutenant, the proprietor of the orangoutang, the quartermaster, and a member of the crew flung themselves upon the hungry python—one at the head, another at the tail, and a third in the middle.

Then the fun began, for the python wanted to get one of the aggressors nicely in its coils, and the men were determined it should be kept out in something as nearly approaching a straight line as possible.

For a minute it was the Laocoon group all over again, only in this case the three men and the snake were sprawling over the deck instead of standing upright in a classic attitude.

Reinforcements, however, arrived in hot haste, and about 20 bluejackets, each embracing a foot of python, reduced the reptile to comparative quiescence. The procession marched back to the python's box, coiled the creature inside, and shut it up. But the orangoutang sat aloft in the masthead a long time before he came to the conclusion that he was off the menu for the day.

Phosphorus in Human Body.

When a photographer attempts to make a flashlight picture in a darkened room he sometimes uses a long, thin metallic ribbon that blazes with fiendish intensity. There is a yard and a half of this metal in the body of the normal human being. Naturally, it is not in the form of a ribbon, but is scattered all through the cells in the shape of a metallic salt. The phosphorus and the magnesium ribbon are rather costly. Phosphorus is worth about one dollar a pound, and the match-making materials in the human tissues would sell for about $1.80 if weighed up over the druggist's counter in his prescription scales. An ounce and a half of magnesium costs 33 cents in the chemical markets.

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8 hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Cincinnati, O., or Philadelphia, Pa.

BIBLE STUDIES

SUCH SHALL NOT INHERIT THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

Galatians 5:15-26—September 25.

"If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit."

ST. PAUL was a practical man, not merely a theorist; he brought his teaching down to a practical level which his readers could comprehend. Today's Study is one of these. Like all of St. Paul's epistles and treatises, it is addressed to the Church, to those who have turned aside from the broad road of selfishness and worldliness, to walk the narrow way, in the footsteps of Jesus, and thereby to become joint-heirs with Jesus in his Messianic Kingdom—which is shortly to bless the world. Nevertheless, many who are not saints, many who are not wholly consecrated to God, may draw valuable lessons from the Apostle's words in this lesson, as well as in others. Many lessons of life especially applicable to those who have made a consecration to be the Lord's followers are valuable also to the remainder of mankind.

The Christian has, so to speak, stepped out of his old self and become a New Creature, a Spirit being, which merely resides in the flesh and has interests that are distinctly separate and often antagonistic thereto. The Apostle urges these to walk in the spirit; that is to say, to let their daily course of life be in accord with their new nature. So doing, they will resist and not fulfill the desires of the flesh. Why? Because they will realize that there is an antagonism of interests as between the desires of the flesh and their desires as New Creatures. The two are at warfare, the one desiring against the other. There may be a truce for a time, but there will never be peace between them. Our interests as New Creatures are along spiritual lines, while our depraved appetites and tastes go in the opposite direction. Hence the Apostle said, "Ye cannot do the things that ye would." As New Creatures you would follow in the footsteps of your Master, perfectly, but having fallen flesh, you cannot do this! You can only hobble after him at very most. But if we take this position and become his followers, we will be no longer under judgment according to the flesh, but will be judged as New Creatures, perfect in will—rendering the best obedience to righteousness we are capable of, under our handicap of imperfect human organism.

In order that none might make a mistake as to what would constitute the desires of the flesh, the Apostle recites and declares that they are manifest or openly discernible, namely: "fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, strife, jealousies, wraths, factions, divisions, brawls, envyings, drunkenness, revellings and such like, of the which I forewarn you, that they which practise such things shall not inherit the Kingdom of God." These are works of the fallen flesh and antagonistic to righteousness. All of God's people are to resist them. If they would not lose his favor. They have the seeds of all these iniquitous things in their flesh, turned by heredity; but their minds, their wills, have been changed, converted, turned around, to righteousness—to the doing of the will of God. As New Creatures they must not practise the fleshly things, else they will not grow in the fruits and graces of the holy Spirit and will not be fit for the Kingdom.

The Apostle does not here say that if anyone were overtaken in a fault and lost his temper, for instance, and got into strife, that this would bar him forever from the Kingdom. He might, indeed, through tears and prayers and Divine forgiveness, come back into harmony with God and subsequently become a valued soldier of the Cross and follower of the Lamb. But if any practise such things they should know that they are developing and strengthening a character contrary to the one which God will approve—they are going backward and not forward. Let us note the difference between an accidental slip with a penitent recovery, and a wilful practising of a wrong course. Alas! how many Christians have the evidence in themselves that they will not inherit the Kingdom of God—unless they make a fresh start and reverse the order of their living!

If the Apostle led us into a tangled wildwood of human selfishness, thorns and thistles, as a specimen of the fruitage of the fallen flesh, he next leads us in the opposite direction, and shows us the fruits and flowers of sweet odor which belong to the Garden of the Lord. He tells us that these delightful fruits of the Spirit should more and more be cultivated, and should be developed to perfection in our hearts, and, as far as possible, should overrun and cover and choke out the imperfections of our flesh. The fruits of this garden are all the fruits of the Spirit of God—all such as he originally planted in man and which have become vitiated through sin—all such as he now has implanted afresh and would develop in the hearts of his sanctified ones. The fruits of the Spirit, which should be manifest in all of the followers of Jesus in more or less perfection are these: "love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law."

The Apostle explains that those who have become Christ's followers have crucified the flesh with the passions and desires thereof. They have voluntarily agreed that they will live contrary to the emotions and desires of the fallen flesh. He urges, if we live by the Spirit, by the Spirit let us also walk! It is the Spirit of God which has quickened us and which ultimately is to perfect us. But it can perfect us only if we are led by it and walk in its ways. Otherwise we will not be fit for a place in the Kingdom, whatever other place in God's arrangements we may have. One of the most dangerous besetments of the Christian is vanity. It leads to more trouble, provokes more quarrels and envyings than is generally supposed. If we are walking after the Spirit of our Master, it will mean that instead of being vain-glorious we will be meek, humble, teachable. And only such will eventually be ready for the glory, honor and immortality which God will bestow upon the faithful at the Second Coming of our Savior.

WHAT YOU SAW IN THIS PAPER

35 Years ago To-day.

The re-union of the Twenty fifth Michigan Infantry was held here on Wednesday. The weather, although somewhat cool was favorable, and the result of the day's enjoyment can be considered as a success. The attendance was not as large as had been expected, owing to the weather, but every train entering the city brought a delegation from neighboring towns.

The frosts this week have seriously damaged the late varieties of grapes. The fact is our fruit growers must give their attention to early grapes more exclusively and they will have better success.

Some excitement was occasioned last week by the reported discovery of coal upon land owned by Mr. A. L. Visser, three miles from the city. Specimens were brought here which certainly indicate that there is some thing of the kind on his farm.

While a cellar was being dug for Mr. J. Flieman, (on the corner of River and Second streets) it was discovered that they were in the region where many of the old settlers were buried before the Village of Holland was laid out, and thirteen skulls and other human bones were found, gathered up, put in an appropriate box and reinterred in the regular cemetery.

H. Meyer, Brouwer & Co., have purchased the furniture business of Mr. W. Wakker, and at present occupy both places. Their own store is undergoing some changes and improvements. It is to be widened four feet, and the whole building is to be lowered to the range of sidewalk for the convenience of the public.

A new side track is being laid near the north "Y" at the Chicago and West Mich. R'y Depot. Not enough yard room at this station made this a necessity.

Mr. H. Boone is making preparations for the immediate erection of a large Sale Stable Barn opposite the livery barn of Van Raalte & Keppel on Market street. Mr. Boone's business is constantly increasing and his large stock of horses has necessitated his seeking more commodious quarters for them.

Burglars gained an entrance into the jewelry store of Mr. H. Wykhuisen last week Friday night by removing a large pane of glass from the front window sash. Mr. Wykhuisen's store is located in his residence and himself and wife were sleeping in an adjoining room and so quietly did the intruders do their work that neither of them awoke. The plunder secured by them is valued by Mr. Wykhuisen at sixty dollars. No clew to the thieves has as yet been obtained.

News was received here this week that the schooner Phantom, thirteen tons, foundered off Little Point Sanble last Friday at 5 o'clock. Captain Jennings and the crew were saved. She was loaded with seventy-five thousand lath consigned to Frank Haven of this city by a Manistee firm. The schooner was owned by Frank Stansbury of the West Michigan Furniture Co., and J. Jennings both of Holland. There was no insurance and the loss is total.

L. De Kraker one of the well known G. A. R. men about town, took in the Louisville excursion last week. When about to start for home he fell in the hands of sharks, who took from him his return railroad ticket. Mr. DeKraker says that the man who obtained his ticket was well dressed, wore a silk hat, and promised to do him a good turn. It cost Mr. DeKraker $7.50 for a return ticket and he had to telegraph to the First State Bank for the money. He has made up his mind that he will not go farther than Graafschap or Zeeland next time.

Judge Goodrich of the probate court has approved the application for the removal of Hattie Koster to the Industrial Home at Adrian. There is no room for her there at present and in the meantime she will remain at her brothers home.

Elias G. Young one of the oldest residents of the Grand River Valley, died on Tuesday at Grand Rapids. He was formerly a resident of Grand Haven and at one time county clerk and register of deeds of Ottawa county, while serving in that office he made a record of being one of the best officers that the county ever had.

On Tuesday a ver bold attempt at robbery was made at the home of Mrs. Van Husen between here and Saugatuck. A masked man entered the house, grappled her by the arms and demanded her money, she denied having any. He told her how much she had and said he saw her hide it in the bed, when he proceeded to search the bed, she took the baby and fled with the money in her pocket.

There is every indication that work will be begun on a new hotel at Ottawa Beach this fall. The matter will probably be settled this week.

Harry Westveer one of the well known young men of Holland is now mayor of La Porte, Texas, the thriving new town on the coast between Galveston and Houston, and with a population close to 1,000. They call it the City of Groves where high land and deep water meet.

Jacob Van Ry who two weeks ago tomorrow shot his wife three times at Ottawa Beach and then placed a bullet in his head still lives and the chances for his recovery seem quite favorable. He takes nourishment freely and today (Friday) seems brighter than at any other time since the shooting. Mrs. Van Ry is gradually recovering from her three wounds and was able to drive up from her father's home on the lake shore one day this week. She has not seen her husband since the shooting.

Klaas Dornbos of this city and Mrs. Barbara Sherman, of Muskegon were married Tuesday in the county clerk's office at Grand Haven. Justice Pagelson performed the ceremony. The organ for the Ninth Street Christian Reformed church arrived Wednesday.

Wm. Rinck who will leave today for Ann Arbor to take up a course in the U. of M. was greatly surprised Tuesday by members of the Ninth street Christ. Ref. church choir of which he was a member. Plans were made to meet at the home of home of Miss Madeline Van Patten of South River street and to go from there in a body to the house of Mr. Rinck which was successfully carried out, surprising him completely. He was presented with an elegant time piece by the members of the choir, after which a program was rendered, followed by refreshments. The party was attended by the Misses Anna Werkman, Marguerite Mulder, Madeline Van Patten, Hannah Van Ry, Maud Marsilje, Miss Jostema, Sena Schols, Johanna Van Goor, Mr. and Mrs. Arend Bosman, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Van Vyven, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vegter, Ralph Schols, A. J. Schermer and Rev. K. Van Goor.

Miss Lila Thurber left Wednesday for Grand Haven where she takes a course in Ackley College.

Actual work of construction on the Grand Rapids and Holland Electric railroad will begin about Oct. 1. It is fully expected that 20 miles of steel will be laid this fall, and a large share of the grading will be done. Should winter hold off, as it often does, it is possible that the road will be completed for running of cars by January 1.

At 11:30, Wednesday night, fire was discovered in the restaurant formerly owned by Henry Scott, since then having changed hands, being bought by Mr. Terry, of West Olive, who in turn sold out to Mrs. C. Larkhurst a day before the fire. The fire started in the rear of the building used as a kitchen and all indications show that it was caused by a defective chimney. The building is owned by Mrs. Howe formerly of this city but now living in Chicago. Most of the kitchen furniture was destroyed but is covered by insurance. The damage to the building will not exceed $300. The good work of the fire laddies was shown by keeping the blaze confined to the rear end of the building.

PROPOSED IMPROVEMENT OF FIRST AVENUE SPECIAL STREET IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT.

Clerk's Office,
Holland Mich. Sept. 8, 1910.
Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Holland has caused to be made and deposited with the City Clerk for examination, the profile, diagram and estimate for the proposed grading of First Avenue between Sixteenth and Thirty-second streets, pursuant to grade and profile to be adopted in connection with the proposed improvement.

That the whole of the cost and expense of said work and improvement be defrayed by special assessment upon the lots and lands or parts of lots and lands abutting upon said part of said First Avenue; provided, however, that the cost of improving street intersections on said part of said street be assessed against the City of Holland and paid from the General Street fund of the city.

That the lots, lands and premises upon which said special assessment shall be levied shall include all the lots, lands and premises abutting upon said part of said street; also the street intersection where said street may intersect other streets; all of which said lots, lands and premises as herein set forth, to be designated and declared to constitute a special street district for the purpose of a special assessment to defray the cost and expense of grading and otherwise improving said part of said street in the manner hereinbefore set forth, said district to be known and designated as the "First Avenue special street assessment district" in the City of Holland.

That on Wednesday, the fifth day of October, 1910, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., the Common Council will meet at their rooms to consider any objections or suggestions that may be made to said assessment district, and to the improvement, estimates, plans and profile.

By order of the Common Council.

Best Ever Used

A. B. Heinlein, Harrison, Idaho says: I have used Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey for coughs and colds and it is the best I have ever tried. Look for the Bell on the Bottle.

NO FAITH IN POSTPONEMENTS

Distress of a Mother Whose Child Contracted Whooping Cough on the Eve of a Journey.

Just when Mrs. Ackroyd had finished packing her trunks and after William Ackroyd had bought railway tickets for her and their two daughters, little Bessie came down with a severe case of whooping cough. The doctor positively refused to let the child start on a long journey, and even if he had thought it safe for the little one to leave home he assured Mrs. Ackroyd that she would not be permitted to take the patient into a hotel anywhere.

"Isn't it a shame," the distressed lady wailed. "Here we are with everything in our trunks, and my husband has even bought our berths in the sleeper."

"It is unfortunate, but I don't know what you can do except sit down and wait for four or five days. It may be safe then for you to start away."

When her husband got home that evening Mrs. Ackroyd was weeping.

"Don't take it so hard, dear," he said. "It might be a good deal worse. Our little one is likely to get along all right. The doctor says the case isn't an unusually severe one, and when I telephoned him this afternoon he said he thought it might be safe for you to start away by the end of the week."

"I know. He told me the same thing. But I feel that we'll never go. I never postponed anything yet that didn't turn out badly. I once postponed a wedding, and the marriage never took place."

Half an hour later William Ackroyd was still sitting in a corner alone, thinking it over.—Chicago Record-Herald.

TOBACCO USED AS MONEY

In the African Interior Kentucky Leaf is Bartered to the Natives for Their Products.

Kentucky leaf tobacco is now put up for the African trade. In the interior of Africa leaf tobacco is practically used in place of money to barter with the natives for their products.

The wants of the natives are few. Food and most of their clothing are supplied by nature. They follow the primitive custom of acquiring personal property in the form of cattle, wives and children, and depending on the children in old age for support. They give little thought to laying aside anything for use in illness or old age.

In the interior, traders say, the natives often refuse money in exchange for their products, but will take tobacco, spirits, cotton goods, etc. In fact, in some parts of the interior tobacco is an absolute necessity in trading with the natives.

This tobacco is generally retied in smaller bundles so that the African merchants can figure out how the distribution of this tobacco would calculate, and to facilitate those calculations the tobacco is tied in various styles, that is, so many bundles to the pound, from four to ten as desired. The retying and manipulation of Kentucky leaf has become as specialized as the manufacture of tobacco.—The Tobacco Leaf.

The Fatal Whisper.

"I had a funny dream last night," said the little grass widow. "I dreamed I was being married again. Shut up! I was sitting by my new husband-to-be, having a perfectly lovely time; he was awfully handsome in my dream—I forgot just who he was, but he was awfully handsome—when all of a sudden I turned to the man who sat on the other side of me and said: 'Oh, I forgot! I haven't got my divorce yet.'"

"Then this man whispered back to me: 'Hush! Don't let a little thing like that worry you.'"

"I wasn't going to. I was about to drop the subject and go on marrying—this was a dream. Silly—when I looked around for my new husband-to-be, and he was gone. What say? Yes, I reckon you are right. He must have heard the whisper."

Russian Mail Inspection.

In Russia one letter in every ten passing through the post is opened by the authorities as a matter of course. Some kinds of paper can be steamed open without leaving any traces and this simple operation is finished by re-burnishing the flap with a bone instrument. In the case of a seal a matrix is taken by means of new bread before breaking the wax. When other methods fail the envelope is placed between pieces of wood with edge projecting one-twentieth of an inch. The edge of the envelope is first flattened, then roughened and finally slit open. Later a hair line of strong white gum is applied and the edges are united under pressure.

Kittens as Reformers.

Captain Wallace of the Bath night police force, has a couple of young kittens which are very much at home in the police wardroom in City hall. When prisoners are brought in and locked behind the gratings in the strong room just beyond, the captain allows the prisoners possession of these pets and the unfortunate behind the bars in most cases seem very much interested in watching the kittens play. Captain Wallace has a theory that the antics of the innocent pets will suggest to the minds of the offenders who are brought in, the innocence of their boyhood and possibly produce reform.—Kennebec Journal.

MAMMOTH SNAKE CAPTURED ALIVE

HUGE MONTANA MONSTER MEASURES OVER EIGHTEEN FEET IN LENGTH.

TERRORIZES A WHOLE TOWN

For Years the Village of Laurel, in Little Pryor Mountains Has Suffered From the Depredations of This Reptile.

Butte, Mont.—The story of an extraordinary battle between two sheppens and a mammoth snake, coming from Laurel, a remote section of Montana, in the Little Pryor mountains, has caused "great excitement among naturalists and others. The huge reptile, declared to be larger than any ever heard of before located in this region and of a species as yet unidentified, was taken alive after a thrilling hunt in a wild mountain ravine whither L. N. O'Dell and J. W. Vaught had been guided by a number of terror-stricken Indians whose superstitious fright sent them fleeing from the neighborhood long before the actual capture of the snake was accomplished. The reptile is 18 feet in length and weighs 200 pounds. Around the body it measures more than eighteen inches.

At different times in recent years, O'Dell had heard from the Indians of the strange monster that made its home in a wild canyon a few miles from Laurel, but until three braves returned terror-stricken recently from the vicinity, he took it for granted that the story had its birth in the superstitious imagination of the redskins. He then became impressed with the remarkable tale and, after enlisting the aid of Vaught, started forth with a party of Indians as guides.

At the entrance to the canyon the swarthy guides deserted precipitately and the two men ventured into the narrow ravine, where a large hole entering near the top of a ledge covered with slippery shale rock and innumerable trails leading in all directions from its mouth gave unmistakable evidence that the opening was a lair. Cutting a square hole several feet back from the entrance to this wild abode, they discovered the coils of a monster even larger than they had been led to expect.

Stirred to wrath by the disturbance, the snake began to make a great noise and the few remaining redskins, who had retired thirty or forty rods, scampered off on their fleet-footed ponies at a gallop. As the monster started to leave the entrance, O'Dell threw a gunny sack over its head and clasped his arms around its throat. Then one of the wisest struggles ever recorded in Montana history was on. Back and forth over the narrow ledge the huge snake writhed and twisted, finally tightening itself about O'Dell's hips until he was lifted from the ground.

Vaught seized the snake by the tail and forced it to release its hold upon O'Dell. The strange contest continued upon the yielding floor of the little ravine for almost three-quarters of an hour before the two men succeeded in tiring the snake, when they bundled it into a sack and took it alive, struggling, to Laurel, as living proof of their strange story.

The reptile is marked with large, dark mahogany spots, outlined with lighter color, and extending across its back. Its method of killing prey is apparently by constriction, but the spots are not the shape and color of a boa, nor is it an anaconda, as its body is much too large.

Friday is to be Holland Day at the Fair. The stores and factories will nearly all close at noon on that day in order to give employers and employees a chance to attend. On that afternoon some of the biggest races of the meeting will take place and interest will continue all over the ground until darkness puts an end to the festivities.

Milton Hoffman left this morning for New York enroute to England where he will enter Oxford university as holder of the Rhodes scholarship from Michigan. A group of friends gathered at the car this morning to say their farewells to this popular graduate of Hope college who greatly surpassed a large number of contestants in the examinations held over a year ago thereby winning his present honor.

The people in and around Moline are rejoicing in their good fortune in securing Rev. P. Hoekstra as their minister. He is a fine able young man, and will do good deal for the increase of the congregation there, which is already thriving, as this is a fine agricultural district.

About 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Charles Finkler, the 21 year old son of Henry Finkler one of Wright Townships well to do farmers went out to shoot an owl that was sitting in a near by tree, in some manner still unknown the gun was accidentally discharged; the full charge of the gun entering his left side near the region of his heart, breaking two ribs, but no shot striking any vital part. Physicians were summoned at once and for some hours his life was despaired of but if no complications set in he will recover.

The windows of the upper corridor at the county jail are being strengthened. Cross bars are being placed on all of the windows which will make four inch openings instead of eight inches as formerly. In order to cut their way out of these windows hereafter prisoners will have to saw through four bars instead of one as has previously been the case. After the last jail delivery it was realized that by a little cutting a prisoner could loosen one bar and wrench it free, leaving a hole large enough to permit his escape. The sheriff has asked that the windows be strengthened and the board of jail examiners recommended it in their last report.

Of all the chicken enthusiasts in and near Allegan not one is of higher degree or takes better care of his fowls than Rrp Ellinger, the Citizens Telephone company's trouble director. He has a very fine flock of Black Orpingtons and guards them zealously. He missed a couple of his finest pullets last week, so when he heard a great cackling in the hen coop a few nights afterwards he got up, roused his mother and father and told them to wait in the door while he went out and caught the thief. Ray got close to the coop and saw a shadow. Without fear he plunged into the coop and grasped the form. His people heard him shouting: "I've got you, old kid, this time" and "No you don't; no, you don't." Then they heard him begin to swear. The thief that night was a neighbor's big black calf.—Allegan Gazette.

Church People in Session

The fall session of the classis of Michigan of the Reformed churches was held Tuesday in the Second Reformed church at Grand Haven. There were about twenty delegates present from the English speaking churches of Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Holland and Grand Haven. The afternoon was devoted to a business meeting and in the evening there was a popular service in the Second Reformed church. The principal address of the evening was presented by the Rev. Niles, pastor of the Hope church at Holland and his subject was: "Why I am in the Reformed Church." Among the Holland delegates to this meeting were Prof. John Kuizenga and William Brusse.

The November Election

With the November election less than six weeks distant, the republicans of Michigan are preparing to present a strong front on election day and indications are that the entire ticket will be elected with large majorities from the head of the ticket down.

After the primaries the various leaders of the several gubernatorial candidates have united which will give the nominee, Chase Osborne, a solid vote throughout the length and breadth of the state. Its up to all republicans to turn out on election day and see that their choice is given a big majority, for this year the vote will not be swelled by a presidential election.

The big majority with which Mr. Osborne was chosen as gubernatorial nominee should be given to him on election day by four or five times as great and its up to the republicans of this state to unite in the cause of republicanism and republican principles.

The Golden Case

The Smith Golden Case is being tried now in Circuit Court for the third time, both other trials having resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

During the progress of the trial Grand Haven will no doubt be visited by many of the best known members of the medical profession in Ottawa county and Grand Rapids. The doctors will come both as witnesses and spectators in the case, if they can spare the time. Should a verdict be reached one way or the other, the probability is that it will be carried to the supreme court, by the losing side. This may not be the case, although it is freely predicted by the officers around the court room that such will be the outcome.

The Fair Is On

This is the second day of the Fair. Thanks to a plentiful supply of clear weather and sunshine, the tireless efforts of the various committees and Fair officials, the unusual attractions of the speed committee which has hung up purses double those offered in former years, the unprecedented array of exhibits and concessions, the Fair this year promises to rank high in interest and will doubtless bring out an unusually large attendance.

All day yesterday there was hustle and work at the grounds. Exhibitors were arranging their displays under the supervision of the several committees, show tents and concession stands were springing up along the line of travel and everything was being placed in shape for the crowds that will come today, tomorrow and Friday.

There is the usual number of refreshment counters about the grounds with perhaps a few extra this year for good measure. The several shows are of high order. Among the attractions of this nature a large tent holding a dog and pony show. One of the freaks of this year's Fair, advertised in glaring colors upon a flap in front of the tent is a calf with five legs and six feet—a living calf.

As usual those who entered the grounds yesterday were not pleasure seekers but those occupied by the business of the fair. Yet there was the same big crowd of school kids brought there by their curiosity, getting in the way of the show men, bothering the gypsies, and seeing everything on the grounds in whirlwind style.

There will be plenty of room for the poultry exhibits this year. The space formerly taken by the sheep exhibit will be given over to poultry and the sheep show will be placed in a special tent nearby. The entire ground and buildings are in great shape and the track is unusually well prepared.

And there will be something doing on the track all the time this year. This afternoon interest centers on the special race for amateurs. Joe Brown will drive his fast horse Reuben C, John Kleis will drive Protocello and Walter Clark his fast mare Lena Medium. Several other entries have been made in this race. Another event which promises much local interest is the special race on Friday's program, in which it is believed that McKinley will start. The Boones will enter Lightfoot and Casper Belt will send Sadie Brooks to the post. Friday will be the big day, with the free for all, and the 2:40 trot to be contested as well.

Thursday's races will be the 2:40 pace and the race for green trotters of which there are a number entered. There will be novelty races on Wednesday and Thursday afternoon. On Thursday and Friday at one o'clock, the cattle and horses will be shown in front of the grand stand.

After a separation of 32 years James Fall of Battle Creek and John Fall of Lyle, Ontario, Canada, met yesterday at a reunion of the Fall family at Spring Lake.

The brothers have been away from home all these years and never were able to get back to their birthplace at the same time.

The house advertised for $1850 located on West 10th in the Weersing ad on Page 2 should be $1750.

Hope College Open

About 90 new students have enrolled at Hope college for work during the coming year and it is probable that when the late enrollment is added to the present list the number of new students will reach the 100 mark. These students come from both East and West. Fully a dozen of the new students who will enter the Freshman class come from Sioux County, Iowa, from the Northwestern Classical academy and the High schools there.

Some also come from the Memorial academy of Cedar Grove, Wis., of which Paul E. Kinkamp of the class of 1907 is principal and Miss Martha DeJong of Zealand one of the instructors.

Prof. Peter J. Schlosser of Syracuse, N. Y., has arrived to take the chair in German, while Mrs. Durfee will teach French. Miss Elma Martin will be an assistant instructor in English to take the place of Miss Carrie Krell. She is from Montclair Falls, N. Y., is a graduate of Vassar college and took postgraduate work at Denison, Ohio University. Miss Fornschock, who is to be the girl's physical director received her education at Oberlin and at the Courty school of Oratory at Boston.

Rats Eat Rats

Rats are confirmed cannibals and perhaps this is why a provision of nature to prevent this extremely prolific animal from increasing even more rapidly than unfortunately it does. The female rat is a most affectionate mother, and will stop at nothing to defend her young ones. But the paternal rat evidently has no fatherly feelings for if he condescends to pay a visit to his own family it is with the intention of eating them.

Bomb to Kill Bugs

A bomb for the destruction of tree bugs and insects has been devised by Dexter M. Rogers of Boston, Mass., who has dedicated the invention to public use. The bomb is charged with powders designed to scatter death and destruction among the various insects which infest the trees, and it is designed to explode over the tree when it reaches a certain height having been shot from a gun. The poisonous powder is in this manner scattered through the air and settles on the leaves and branches of the trees. It is claimed that in this manner the powder will reach all parts of the tree and the application is made with economy and rapidity.

Served the Church Thirty Years

Rev. Matthew Kloyen, who will assume his duties as professor of historical theological at the Western Theological seminary next Thursday at the opening of the school delivered his farewell sermon to his congregation of the Second Reformed church of Grand Rapids, Sunday morning. It will mark the close of approximately thirty years of continuous service in the ministry.

How Cood News Spreads

"I am 70 years old and travel most of the time," writes B. F. Tolson, of Elizabethtown, Ky. "Everywhere I go I recommend Electric Bitters, because I owe my excellent health and vitality to them. They effect a cure every time." They never fail to tone the stomach, regulate the kidneys and bowels, stimulate the liver, invigorate the nerves and purify the blood. They work wonders for weak, run-down men and women, restoring strength, vigor and health that's a daily joy. Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction is positively guaranteed by H. R. The New Testament From Memory.

Today the Bible is the best memorized book in the world, and no doubt it could be entirely reconstructed from the minds of its students. One young woman alone could dictate the New Testament. She is Miss Leste May Williams of North Carolina, now 20 years old. Some time ago Rev. J. A. Grendall, pastor of the local Baptist church, offered a prize for memorizing verses of Scripture.

On the day of the award Miss Williams had committed and recited to the committee 12,236 verses of Scripture, covering the entire New Testament excepting the two genealogies of Jesus in the first chapter of Matthew and the third chapter of Luke, and including liberal selections from Genesis, Psalms, Ecclesiastes, and other parts of the Old Testament. The New Testament itself contains 7,959 verses and 190,000 words.

A Guilty Conscience.

"That view is rather unscientific," said, at a dinner party in New York, Dr. Simon Flexner, the head of the Rockefeller Institute.

"That view reminds me," continued Doctor Flexner, "of Hopkinson, who was wont to observe Lent very vigorously."

"But on a certain fast day, after three hours of golf, Hopkinson couldn't resist a luncheon of chops. And as he munched his chops, a violent storm came up suddenly; a blue light filled the room, and then a terrific clap of thunder shook the building."

"Hopkinson, pale and shaky, laid down his knife and fork."

"What a fuss," he muttered, "over a mutton chop!"

A PLEA FOR HOPEFULNESS

Writer Well Describes Pessimism as a Sin and the Pessimist a Man to Avoid.

Hopefulness is a true sign of greatness. It means a conviction that we are greater than our troubles, greater than the world itself, greater than death, and can hold our own whenever it comes, in the universe anywhere and through all eternity. Such conviction makes a man a god. It is better than riches or high position. It makes a poor man a king. A person who constantly fears or worries is practically an atheist. He has no faith in himself or any other being. He does not usually live long. Worry kills more than whisky; it really hardens the arteries.

No man has a right to kill his friends by a sad, morose countenance. A long face is a mark of religion. It is out of date just now and forever. Sour-looking people should be shut up in jail; they are dangerous. It is a good thing to throw back your shoulders, walk erect, and believe that you own the whole city. You do it as really as anyone else, and you feel better for the belief. Most of our troubles are fear for the future, only "boggles" which disappear when you walk up to them. There is a good time coming. It is here already, if we only knew it. To falter would be disloyalty. To falter would be sin.

CURIOUS EFFECTS OF SCENTS

Penetrating Odors Have Been Known to Induce Unconsciousness and Even Death.

There is no evidence to support the theory that the smell of narcissus may cause influenza. But many strange cases are on record regarding the effects of the smell of flowers.

"A foreign officer," said a medical man, "one night went to sleep with a number of bunches of oleander—an evergreen shrub with red and white flowers—in his bedroom. In the morning he was found dead. The pungent smell of the oleander had asphyxiated him."

"Less serious is the case of a doctor who, after sitting for some time in a room where there were several bowls of jasmine, became exceedingly giddy. He removed the flowers, whereupon he was himself again at once."

"A number of oranges in a room has been known to make a man unconscious. I know also of the case of a man who, going to sleep in a store-room full of apricots, was discovered next day in an unconscious condition, and lay for some time in peril of his life."

EXPLORING BARKING ABBEY

Workmen Excavating for New Street Find Subterranean Passage Leading From Old Edifice.

In the course of excavations for a new street at Barking a subterranean passage was discovered which had evidently led from the old abbey.

A workman, while digging at a depth of ten feet, drove his pick into some soft stonework; and after the subsequent collapse of earth the passage was revealed. It was found that the pick had been driven through the arched ceiling of a stone-built passage some eight feet six inches high and about six feet wide. Exploring parties have investigated the interior by the aid of candle light. The walls were found to be damp and clammy, and the floor was covered with a thick carpet of spongy substance, into which the feet sank slightly. For a distance of nearly 20 yards the passage is clear, and at either end of this stretch it is blocked, in one case by a fall of earth and in the other case, presumably, by the character of the structure itself. Two smaller passages turn off the first passage, and in one of the side turnings there were found half a dozen human skulls and a quantity of bones. Among the latter is a number of jaw bones of horses or other large animals. All the bones and skulls are charred, and the walls of the passage also show traces of fire.

The Abbey of Barking is reported to have been built in A. D. 679 by Erkenwald, who afterwards became Bishop of London, and whose sister Ethelberga became first abbess at Barking. It was the first nunnery established in this country. In A. D. 870 the Danes destroyed it by fire, and it lay desolate for a century until restored by King Edgar. Many members of royal families were among its abbesses. From the fact that the main passage runs in the direction of Barking creek, a short distance away, it is believed to have afforded a channel of communication from the abbey to the waterway and thence to the Thames.—London Standard.

HEARD IN JUVENILE COURT

Judge Is No Match for Colored Mammy, Who Outwits Him at Every Turn.

The judge of the juvenile court, leaning forward in his chair, looked searchingly from the discreet and very ragged pickaninny before his desk to the ample and solicitous form of the culprit's mother, says the Youth's Companion. "Why do you send him to the railroad yards to pick up coal?" demanded his honor. "You know it is against the law to send your child where he will be in jeopardy of his life."

"Deed, jedge, I doesn't send 'im; I nebber has sent 'im, deed—"

"Doesn't he bring home the coal?" interrupted the judge, impatiently.

"But, jedge, I whips 'im, jedge, every time he brings it, I whips de little rapscallion till he cayn't set, 'deed, I does."

The careful disciplinarian turned her broad, shiny countenance reprovingly upon her undisturbed offspring, but kept a conciliatory eye for the judge.

"You burn the coal he brings, do you not?" persisted the judge.

"Burns it—burns it—cose I burns it. W'y, jedge, I has to git it out ob de way."

"Why don't you send him back with it?" His honor smiled insinuatingly as he rasped out the question.

"Send 'im back, jedge!" exclaimed the woman, throwing up her hands in a gesture of astonishment. "Send 'im back! W'y, jedge, ain't yo' jest done been told me I didn't oughter send my chile to no sech dange'some and jeopardous place?"

"Knew the Remedy. 'Til be turned if I didn't have to laugh good an' hard at one uv them there atty-lunatic, although I didn't feel much like snickerin' at the time," said Farmer Chinfuzz to the other soap-box warmers in the cross roads store; "an' here's the answer: On my way down to the county seat the boss barked good an' stubborn for a spell an' in the midst uv my rippin' an' snortin' along comes a big red auttomobile with a real friendly feller behind the goggles. When the feller found out that my outfit was stationary for the time bein', what do you s'pose he up an' done? Grabbed a monkey wrench, an oil can an' a hammer, crawled under my wagon, made a noise like a b'ffer factory, an' may I be tottally honswaggled if that there boss' mane didn't stand up like a porkypine's an' he made tracks so fast I'm thinkin' uv trainin' him fer the ring speedin' at next county fair, b'gosh."—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

"A Vision of the Future. 'Bishop Potter,' said a New York clergyman, "was progressive, but he thought that some churches went too far in their effort to attract the public. He was talking to me very seriously one day about churches that give moving picture entertainments and hire actors and opera singers and have billiard rooms and allow smoking, when he broke off with a laugh and said:

"Why, Jim, if this thing keeps on things will come to a pass that the wife, putting her head out of the window at three in the morning and sternly asking her husband where he has been, will be met with the startling reply, 'I been-hic-to church m' dear.'"
