Crash Climaxes Local Air Show; Pilot Walks Away

Thousands Witness
Crash Near Airport;
Plane Is Demolished

An unscheduled event provided a premature climax to the Saturday air show at the local airport. An AT-6 all-metal plane crashed near the field in full view of 3,000 spectators and the pilot escaped with minor injuries.

Harlen C. Bouman, 24-year-old former Army fighter pilot, was at the controls of the plane when it passed less than 100 feet over the heads of spectators in the reserved seat section and crashed into an adjoining field.

Today Bouman declined to comment on causes of the accident and said he would make a statement at an investigation at the proper time.

His only injury was a cut on his head that required two stitches to close. Bouman was flying the plane from the front cockpit. He said he had made a "belly landing" and denied a wing had hit the ground first as witnesses had reported.

The crash occurred during the fifth event of the show, sponsored by the Holland Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Bouman had been executing a series of low level maneuvers in the 650-horse power plane, thrilling and frightening the crowds with loops, spins, wing overs and other stunts. He made a simulated strafing dive on the crowd, passed a few feet over the largest hangar and disappeared.

A cloud of dust obscured the wreckage, from which the pilot came running. Both wings and tail section were ripped from fuselage and the heavy motor, torn loose from the plane, rolled through the fence of the North Shore Community club property toward the main road.

Thousands of spectators broke through the barriers to surround the wrecked plane. Sheriff's officers, directing traffic, forced a "road" through the crowds for the fire engines and "broke" the crowds crossing the road by forcing cars through the mass.

The plane crashed on property owned by P. T. Cheff, who uses the field to train his horses.

Sheriff's officers said the right wing of the plane seemed to touch the ground sending forth a puff of dust just before the crash. They estimated the plane wreckage came to rest 450 feet from the place where the plane first touched the ground, and the motor was 150 feet from the fuselage.

Officers immediately set up a guard around the wreckage and were still maintaining it today. They estimated at least 7,500 persons stopped Sunday, some as late as 11:30 p.m. to investigate with flashlights.

Sheriff William M. Boeve attended the air show as a spectator. The department said today it would continue its investigation into the crash and likely would recommend that charges of recklessness be placed against the pilot.

It was understood that a full report of the accident would be filed with CAA in Grand Rapids. Whether state or federal charges would be placed against Bouman will be determined later.

The wrecked plane was the property of Northern Air Service of Grand Rapids owned by Chester Hall. It was rented for the Holland event by Ken Kentosh of Grand Rapids whom the Junior Chamber hired to do stunting.

Bouman, a 1940 graduate of Holland high school, was discharged just two weeks ago from the Army air forces in which he was a first lieutenant. He entered the service in January, 1943, and received his wings in May, 1944. He spent 18 months in the south Pacific and piled up many hours as a combat pilot. He said he obtained a commercial license while on terminal leave.

The accident occurred in view of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Bouman, 108 East 25th St. A brother, Bastian, was killed about five years ago when a load of steel shifted in a truck accident.

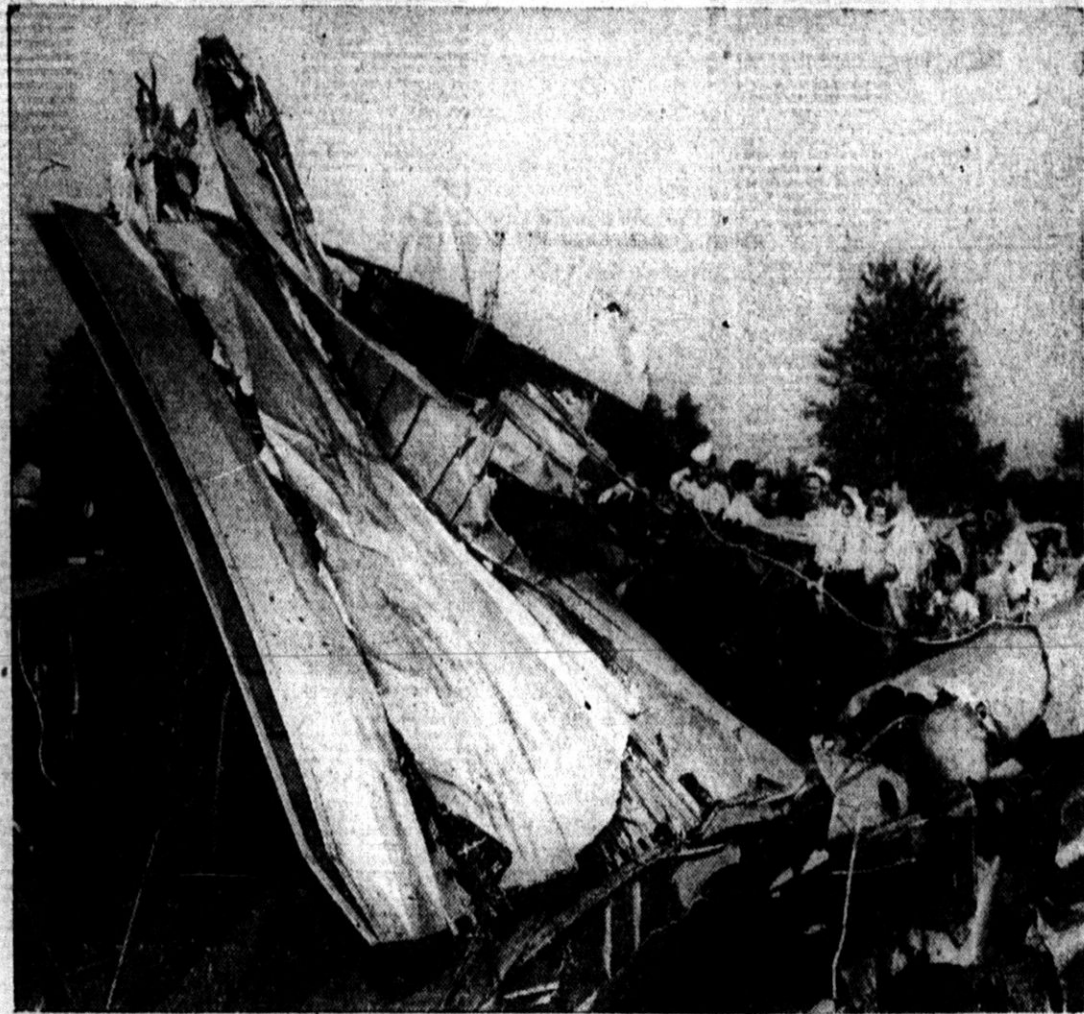

Clyde Geerlings of Holland and Ev Thomas of Douglas served as emcees for the afternoon show which started with a demonstration by six Navy planes. Stunting by Ken Kentosh in the plane which later was to crash was the next attraction. A parachute drop by Byron Webber of Kalamazoo from 500 feet above the field provided a thrill for the crowd.

Ed Boeve, chairman of the Jaycee aviation committee, termed the mishap regrettable.

"This is the very thing we didn't want. The whole spirit of the show was conceived in the idea of showing people flying is a safe and pleasurable occupation. I told all participants before the show to 'take it easy.' We are thankful the accident had no more serious consequence," he said.

Hollyhock Leaves

The Hollyhock, a buoy tender, which pulled into Holland harbor Wednesday night left this morning after checking and repairing buoys here.

Bouman, the plane plunged into a field across from the local airport during the air show Saturday. The pilot escaped with minor injuries. The Andaste Sank Here Seventeen Years Ago

Just 17 years ago last week, all Holland was astir.

The steamship Andaste, which sailed from the Grand Haven port with a capacity cargo of two-inch stone Sept. 9, 1929, sank with the loss of 25 lives.

Fears for the Andaste's safety, following a severe storm on Lake Michigan, were not general until three days later and it was not until Sept. 13 that the first wreckage of the vessel was discovered four miles north of Getz farm.

The first body was recovered Sept. 14 and in the next few days 14 bodies were found. The remaining 11 bodies were not found, nor was the ship, which was believed sunk six miles north of Lake Michigan at a point six miles north of Lakewood farm. Many believe the 11 bodies were trapped in the hull.

The bodies recovered were identified as those of Capt. A. L. Anderson of Surgeon Bay; Ralph Wiley, Booth Bay, Me.; Charles Brown, Grand Haven; J. J. McCadde, Cleveland; Theodore Thorgensen, Wisconsin; William Joslin, George Watts and M. Green, addresses unknown; Fred Nienhouse, Ferrysburg; George Radcliff and Frank Casperson, Grand Haven; Claude J. Kirby, Fennville; L. Godas, address unknown; and Clifford Gould, Lincoln, Neb.

Capt. Anderson was believed to have gone down in the traditional manner, with his ship. His body, unlike all others, had no lifebelt when it was recovered.

A check of The Sentinel's files over a period of three weeks supplied details of the tragedy. The Sept. 9 storm was one of the most unusual in the history of local navigation. There was practically no warning that a storm was brewing. The severe storm was believed due to unusually warm air uniting with a cold wave which swept in from the west leaving snow and exceptionally cold weather in its wake.

At Chicago Heights, destination of the ill-fated freighter, with its cargo of stone of the Construction Materials Co. of Grand Haven, a shaggy airdale, the Andaste's mascot, waited on the dock three days.

The mascot, Queenie, had been left behind when Capt. Anderson took the Andaste to Grand Haven the week before.

Final irrefutable proof that the steamer went down was provided Sept. 13 when William Delplidge, caretaker of Wild Goose beach, four miles north of the Getz farm, picked up a board about six feet long with the name Andaste painted on it. The sign had probably been over the cabin of the boat.

The first body, that of Ralph

Wiley of Booth Bay Me., was found at 2 p.m. Sept. 14 at Castle park. It was sighted by John Kuipers who was repairing a roof of a cottage and recovered by Chicago Coast Guardsmen.

The second body, identified as that of First Mate Charles Brown of Grand Haven, was found at 7 p.m. that day just north of the Ottawa beach oval. More wreckage washed ashore and souvenir collectors swarmed local beaches. (Continued on last page.)

Allegan Schools Have Total of 1,175 Pupils

Allegan, Sept. 19 — Schools in Allegan began last Thursday with a total of 1,175 pupils. Elementary students accounted for 592 with 281 in Dawson; 124 in South Ward; 141 in North Ward and 60 in West Ward. The West Ward school has the first three graders. Junior High has 166 students and high school students number 400. The enrollment this year is 20 less than high school enrollment last year but more rural pupils were expected this week with the closing of the Allegan County fair.

Holland Cafe Manager Confused by OPA Rule

Confused is the word for Holland cafe managers. None has received instructions on the price rollback and all wonder just what items are affected. Some price rises have been noted locally, but the increase was neither uniform nor large.

"I am confused and propose to sit tight until OPA tells me what to do. Naturally I intend to follow the regulations, but I can't do much until I know what they want me to do. I operate on a 5 per cent net profit and if the rollback takes that I might as well quit," a spokesman said.

Michigan woods in autumn are an invitation to beauty.

Woodlands at any time excite poetic emotions—in spring when budding twigs herald awakening of nature; in summer when leafy boughs intercept hot sun's rays; but never is a tree lovelier than in fall when frosts turn foliage into an artist's dream of reds, yellows, bronzes and silver daubed against the velvety softness of evergreens.

According to scientific theory, the color change in leaves is due to chemical reactions. The leaves lose their green coloring matter, or chlorophyll, when the sap goes down into the tree and leaves, a

Damson Appointed Assistant Coach

The appointment of Edward Damson as assistant football coach for Holland high school was confirmed today by Supt. Carroll C. Crawford.

Damson, history teacher, will assist in the football program under Coach Paul Camburn. Camburn also is assisted by Don Mulder, Hope college student who starred in basketball last year. Because of an injury, Mulder will not play football at the college this year.

Carroll Norlin will coach the second squad and Fred Weiss will coach the ninth grade team. Damson, native of Holland, taught in Holland High school 10 years before reporting for service as a Naval officer in May, 1944. He was discharged early this year and in February rejoined the high school teaching staff as an assistant in the vocational school. After spring vacation, he returned to teaching history.

Damson starred in sports while attending high school and Hope college, from which he was graduated in 1934.

Case of Diseased Cattle Postponed to Next Term

Grand Haven, Sept. 19 (Special) —The new trial of George and Christine Hoeksma of Grand Rapids against Edward and Ray Van Haften, both of Jamestown township, which was scheduled to begin Wednesday in Ottawa Circuit Court, has been put over until next term upon motion of the attorney for the defendants.

The case involved the purchase of cattle which are alleged to have been suffering from Bang's disease and for which plaintiffs sought $12,000 damage.

In a cross bill filed by the defendants, the Van Haftens allege the Hoeksma's owe them $7,740.68 on a note. The case was first heard in Ottawa Circuit Court in May, 1945, and on June 1 the jury reduced the amount of the note in favor of the plaintiffs by $856.40. On July 12, 1945, plaintiffs were denied a motion for a new trial. Upon appeal to supreme court, the verdict of the jury was set aside and returned for new trial.

Woodlands Changed to Symphony of Color by Frost

Sassafras, poplar, chestnut, willow, and tulip trees all take on a yellow hue. These are contrasted by the outstanding red of the sumac with its waxy white berries. Sumac is found often in ditches along roadsides and in marshy woods.

The leaves of both elm and witch hazel trees turn to yellow. However, the witch hazel leaves change again to bronze color. The trees blossom in late fall with flowers having yellow, strap-like petals. The seeds do not develop until the next autumn.

The glossy dark green leaves of the black gum are some of the most beautiful to be seen in summer and in winter they change to arothe: beautiful hue, a brilliant blood red. The beech tree changes first to yellow and then to brown, beautifully contrasted with the silver bark of the branches and trunk. The rose red of the dogwood with its red berries, completes many an awe-inspiring view.

Renumbering of Houses Discussed Here by Council

Ald. De Pree Presides
In Place of Steffens,
Who Is at Convention

Considerable business was cleared by Common Council Wednesday night with Mayor Pro Tem Bernard De Pree presiding in place of Mayor Ben Steffens, who was attending a supervisors' convention in Sault Ste. Marie. City Attorney Vernon D. Ten Cate served as clerk in the absence of Oscar Peterson.

Council approved appointment of a three-man committee to consult the local group studying numbering of houses for Ottawa county on possibilities of renumbering Holland city on a basis of 100 numbers to the block. The committee selection was left to Mayor Steffens. This action followed an informational report by Ald. Melvin Van Tatenhove of the Chamber of Commerce committee.

A complaint from neighbors on East 14th St. on the appeal board's approval of an outdoor stairway for a house owned by Mrs. S. Nelson at 102 East 14th St., to allow an apartment, or apartments, was referred to the appeal board. Neighbors have protested the construction.

An application by veterans to operate a taxi service in Holland, which was introduced at a previous meeting was referred to the License committee, with instructions to report at the next meeting.

The issue was introduced by Ald. John Bontekoe, raised the question about the Board of Public Works announcement Wednesday that sprinkling was restricted because of mechanical failure, and asked whether it was lack of water or a breakdown. Ald. Herman Mooi, a member of the Board of Public Works committee, explained the pump failed because of burned out bearings and was expected to operate again in a day or so.

On suggestion of Ald. Harry Harrington, the Buildings and Grounds committee was authorized to consider plans for remodeling the front of Fire Engine House No. 2 on East Eighth St., eliminating the center abutment and taking away the unnecessary tower. Harrington suggested remodeling in Dutch architecture.

Council approved rental of a 60-foot wide section of the city dump at Fifth St. and College Ave. to a Mr. Becker for dumping junk metal.

Complaints on black smoke from diesel-operated trucks on Eighth St. were discussed and referred to the Public Safety Commission. City Attorney Ten Cate explained that the city has no control over trucks on state highways but likely could restrict travel of such trucks on its own streets.

Referred to the Ordinance committee was a communication from the Appeal Board limiting construction of garages on residential lots to 22 to 24 feet. The communication pointed out that the present regulation which allows a four-stall garage has been abused.

Mayor Steffens was named official representative at the forthcoming convention of the Michigan Municipal League Oct. 10, 11 and 12 in Detroit. A League communication also called attention to a proposed revision of bylaws and articles of incorporation relative to the purposes of the organization, and a possible increase in dues in order to maintain league services.

Dutch Trade Promoter Comes to Holland First

Lubertus Smilde, who has just arrived in the United States from the Netherlands to be director of trade promotion at the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce in New York City, visited here with his family Wednesday.

This city was one of the first places that the new trade promoter wanted to visit in America and he came here almost directly from the Old World. Actually, the local visit was a side trip from Chicago where he had gone to confer with the new consul general. He was back in Chicago today and by next week plans to go to New York to start his new work...and look for a place to live.

The Hollander explained that Netherlands trade promotion is being reorganized. Heretofore, all trade was directed through government agencies. Now, a large part is being turned over to private institutions working in collaboration with the government, known temporarily as Central Institute for Trade Promotion, with main headquarters located in The Hague.

He explained that the new Central Institute plans to open branches all over the world except where contacts already are established such as the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce in New York. In such cases the Central Institute will be an extension and expansion of trade relations conducted by the Chamber.

He said the Institute is founded in order to have a better knowledge of products of other countries, secure trade information and trade promotion. The agency will keep abreast of markets and tastes, and deal with customs, tariffs, etc.

Products exported by the Netherlands to America deal mainly in agricultural products such as tulip bulbs, textiles and such specialized mechanical products as optical instruments which are not in mass production in this country.

The Smilde family, consisting of the trade promoter and his wife and three children, remained in the Netherlands during the long years of occupation in World War II. There, they went through the same experiences of the average Dutchman. Mr. Smilde spent only one month in jail when his name was found on a list of distributors of the Underground press.

It was evident that Mr. Smilde wanted to forget all about the war experiences when he was interviewed Wednesday afternoon in the Netherlands Museum. The interview was arranged by the Netherlands Information Bureau which will co-operate with the new Central Institute.

Mr. Smilde visited the United States on one occasion earlier this year to make preliminary plans for organizing the Institute. His first impressions of this country were "excellent," he said. He added he was overwhelmed with the traffic and general tempo.

While in Holland, the family visited the museum, Hope college, local parks, some industries and schools. The Smildes have two sons, 10 and 12, and a daughter, 6. Mr. Smilde previously had six years' experience with an American advertising company in Great Britain, the Netherlands and Belgium.

The next meeting of the Commission will be held Oct. 8.

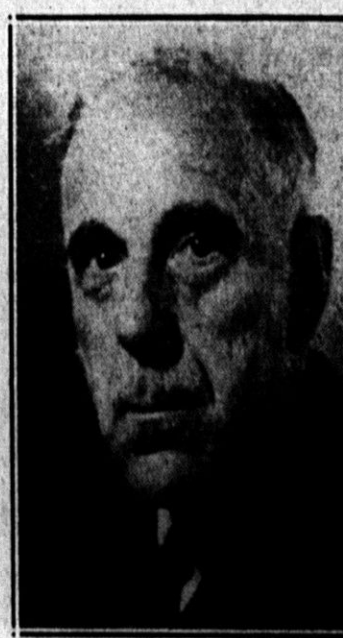

The Man From Cucumber Just Wasn't So Cool

The man from Cucumber wasn't so cool Tuesday.

Or maybe he was on the verge of being "out cold." Anyway, William Knox, 34, who says he comes from that cool sounding place in West Virginia, pleaded guilty today to a drunk charge when arraigned before Municipal Judge Raymond L. Smith, and was assessed fine and costs of $15 or serve 15 days in the county jail. Knox chose the fine.

He was arrested by Holland police Tuesday in Centennial park with a bottle of milk in his possession. It was quite clear that his condition was not due to that beverage.

Other fines were paid by Lawrence Bowman, route 6, overlaid, $13.10; Adrian Mulder, 26, of 125 East 18th St., stop street, $5; Lewis Van Klompenburg, 32, route 3, Zeeland, stop street, $5; Wally Winstrom, 36, route 1, speeding, $5; Menno J. Vander Kooi, 40, route 3, Zeeland, excessive speed, $10; Don L. Vandenburg, 24, Covent, stop street, $5; Wesley Van Til, 36, route 4, faulty brakes, $5; Russell M. Hessler, 18, route 1, speeding, $5.

Cornelius vander Meulen

Vander Meulen Heads Centennial Commission Here

Religious Service
In Hope Chapel to Be
First Event of Year

Cornelius vander Meulen was elected chairman of the Centennial Commission at the first meeting of the group Tuesday night. William H. Vande Water, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, was named secretary.

The first active event of the Centennial year in 1947 will be a religious service Feb. 9 in Hope Memorial chapel with a committee of the Ministerial association working in conjunction with a Centennial Commission committee.

All churches in Holland will be asked to devote one service that day to commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of Holland.

The Commission also will work closely with the Tulip Time committee in the 1947 May festival. Commemorative booklets and other publications will be arranged. Further committees for the 1947 event will be appointed soon by vander Meulen, Vande Water and Willard C. Wichers who was appointed 1947 Tulip Time and Centennial chairman by the Chamber of Commerce early this year.

Members of the Commission, authorized by Common Council Sept. 4, are Mayor Ben Steffens, Mrs. George E. Kollen, Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, the president of the Chamber of Commerce, Rev. Bastian Kruitthof, Cornelius vander Meulen, Willis Diekema, Marvin C. Lindeman, Prof. Clarence De Graaf, John Fenlon Donnelly, William H. Vande Water, Willard C. Wichers, Bernard De Pree, Melvin Van Tatenhove and Henry Te Roller.

The next meeting of the Commission will be held Oct. 8.

Building Permits Sought by Six

An application of the Doughnut Corporation of America to build a quonset building 41 1/2 by 180 feet of steel construction at a cost of $12,000 provided for the greater part of the applications for building permits filed with City Clerk Oscar Peterson last week. Witteveen Bros. were listed as contractors.

Only six applications were filed this week totaling $12,640, an increase of $10,281 over the previous week's total of $2,359 which represented 10 applications.

Other applications follow: Siebolt Wolters, 412 West 21st St., re-roof part of house, $50; self, contractor. Raymond H. McFall, 379 West 23rd St., asbestos siding on garage, $140; self, contractor. Martin Petroelje, 231 East 14th St., kitchen cupboards and window, $200; self, contractor. Helen Eding, 256 West 14th St., interior repairs, $150; self, contractor.

Holland Cotton Products Co., 455 Columbia Ave., repair of doors, $100; Martin Witteveen, contractor.

Police Test New Boat In Search for Old Boat

Holland police got a chance to try out their new boat Monday after two reports came in that a rowboat containing a body was adrift on Lake Macatawa.

Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff, Officer Dennis Ende and Conservation Officer Theodore Hay went to the scene and found an old rowboat with oar locks gone, floating with two inches of water and considerable oak leaves and acorns in the bottom. They tied the old boat near the light plant. There were no identifying marks. The trip proved one thing. The new police boat is seaworthy, Chief Van Hoff said.

Pump Fails And Lawn Sprinkling Curtailed Again

Water Usage Greater
This Year Than in 1945
Despite Restrictions

All sprinkling of lawns was restricted by the Board of Public Works Wednesday because of mechanical failure at the No. 2 pump on Eighth Eighth St.

Workmen are working to repair the pump within a day or two, and the water users in Holland will be informed when sprinkling again will be permitted, the board said.

Although sprinkling has been curtailed practically all summer here, more water has been pumped this year than in 1945 when there were no sprinkling restrictions.

Restrictions were first imposed July 11. For a time, sprinkling was restricted to four hours, then restricted altogether and for several weeks now to two hours. The two hours from 6 to 8 p.m. was selected as the period most convenient for the greater number of residents.

Water pumped at the four wells in Holland during August totaled $3,970,500 gallons compared with $7,472,500 in August, 1945. During July, 100,007,000 gallons were pumped compared with 78,234,000 in July, 1945.

The two wells on East Eighth St. pumped 66,233,000 in July and $9,616,500 in August, compared with 52,726 in July, 1945, and 50,899,000 in August, 1945.

Many Hope Men Attend Convention

Dr. Gerrit Van Zyl, head of the department of chemistry at Hope college, spent last week in Chicago where he attended the national meeting of the American Chemical society and the Chemical exposition.

The newly organized science chapter of the Hope College Alumni association held a dinner at which 50 were present. Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, president of Hope college, gave an interesting address outlining the changes which have taken place at Hope, and his plans for the future.

Hope graduates and guests at the Chicago meeting were Dr. Lubbers, Dr. and Mrs. Van Zyl, Dr. J. H. Kleinhekel, Otto Dresel, John J. Van Zoren, and Dr. James D. Quist of Holland; also Dr. and Mrs. B. W. Rottschaef, Dr. Lester Kieft, Dr. H. B. Dykstra, Dr. Martin Cupery, Dr. Calvin Vander Werf, Dr. Marvin Den Herder, Dr. and Mrs. John De Vries, Dr. Clifford Keizer, Dr. James B. Hinkamp, Dr. F. H. Papers on the research work of Oliver J. Lampen, Robert Emmick, Howard Hartough, Robert Donia, Calvin Van der Werf (2) and Frederick Yonkman were presented at the meetings of The American Chemical society. Dr. Raymond L. Zwemer, executive director of the International Committee on Scientific and Cultural Cooperation at the State Department in Assisting International Cooperation between Scientific Groups, at the Chemical exposition.

State Sheep Exhibit At Hartford Fair

Because the big show at Detroit has been cancelled since the war began, the Michigan State Fair exhibits of Corriedale sheep will be shown at the Van Buren county fair in Hartford, October 1 to 5.

Livestock competition throughout the state has been maintained by assigning the various exhibits to county fairs, the fair at Hartford drawing the sheep exhibit for which the Michigan State Fair is offering $203 in prize money. Competition in twelve divisions is open only to Michigan exhibitors.

Pilot Visits Here

Robert W. Vande Water, Cadillac pilot, flew to Holland Saturday for the air show. His plane was an AT-6 similar to the one demolished in the crash which climaxed the show. Vande Water the previous day had put on a stunning demonstration on another field. He is a brother of William H. Vande Water, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Flooded Quarry Is Now a Beauty Spot

The oldtimers remember... but it seems hard to believe now that the pond which furnishes a beautiful setting for the Charles K. Van Duren home at Waverly was once a stone quarry.

But a stone quarry it was, and it was considered one of Holland's most valuable industries in the early days.

The top picture was provided by Arthur A. Vlascher, local insurance man, who snapped the scene on the day President McKinley was assassinated in Buffalo, N. Y., shortly after the turn of the century.

Vlascher remembers the day well. He and a boyhood chum had looked at operations in the quarry (two men are seen at work at lower right) and had returned to town walking on the railroad tracks. At the depot, they learned of the assassination. The news had just come over by telegraph.

The lower picture was taken a week ago. Just when the quarry was abandoned and left to fill with water from springs could not be learned. It was believed, however, that operations tapered off gradually and that the abandonment was as much due to the increasing popularity of less expensive cement for use in laying foundations, as to the leaky springs.

For years, the pond served as "the ole swimmin' hole" and it was not until after the Van Durens acquired the property and built a home there in 1927 that the sport was discouraged, as a safety measure.

Because of the 41-acre pond in a 16-acre meadow, the Van Durens named their home "Het Loo Meer," or "The Lake in the Meadow." Their range 90-foot long home, built on three floor levels, is an Ernest Flagg design, made of glacier boulders and hardwoods found on the property and in the Boone pasture nearby.

The former owner of the property had used the land as a cow pasture but abandoned it for that use after cows persisted in descending the rocky banks of the pond and then being unable to get out under their own power.

The property is bounded by the Waverly road and Black river. Van Duren was primarily interested in the land for a home after he learned to swim in the pool as a boy. He and his 16-year-old son, Charles, Jr., still take daily swims there in summer.

The sandrock deposits on the banks of Black river were discovered by H. D. Post, Holland pioneer, in 1848, a year after Holland was founded. The first practical use of the stone was in 1859, when a quantity was quarried in a crude way, and moved in scows down the river to Lake Macatawa for constructing foundation and basement walls of Van Vleck hall at Hope college which still stands today.

The quarry took its name from the geological formation of the stone known as the Waverly sandstone from its development in Ohio at Waverly, and the extensive quarries at Berea and Amherst. The rock here was a fine grained uniform bluish gray siliceous sandstone, entirely free from the iron pyrites which discolor the stone from some of the quarries in this formation.

The cement was silica and the stone when first quarried was soft and easily worked, but on exposure and drying of the "quarry sap," rapidly hardened and soon became practically indestructible. In a test in Madison, Wis., on four one-inch cubes, the stone was found to resist an average crushing strain of 8,200 pounds per cubic inch.

In 1867 John Roost purchased the quarry and used several thousand cords for pier ballast at harbors at Holland, Grand Haven and Saugatuck. In 1880 several carloads were shipped to Kalamazoo and used in the construction of a three-story building on South Burdick St. which had its entire front made of this stone. This was the first use for other than foundation walls.

On April 20, 1889, the Waverly Stone Co. was incorporated, and operations were begun for developing the industry by constructing side tracks, erecting derricks and putting in a steam saw gang. Other developments and improvements followed rapidly in the next few years.

When the water is exceptionally clear, one can still see a track and one loading car in the bottom of the pond. Although legend had it that the pond was "bottomless," the Van Durens tested it with plumb lines and learned that it's no deeper than 40 or 50 feet.

Among the Holland buildings constructed of Waverly stone are the Tower building, Winant's chapel on Hope college, the Chamber of Commerce building and a few other commercial buildings downtown besides the basements of numerous older homes in the city.

Officers of the Waverly Stone Co. when the business flourished in 1892 were H. D. Post, president; H. H. Pope, vice-president; W. J. Garrod, secretary; J. C. Post, treasurer; F. C. Hall, manager; John Stroop was chief engineer. V. Brown Monnett, a geologist of the University of Michigan, was in Holland in August to study the Waverly rock formation in connection with a geological report on this sandstone all over Michigan.

Consul Says Progress in Netherlands Remarkable

Progress has been remarkable in restoring wartorn Netherlands since peace was declared in May, 1945, Dr. Jan B.V.M.J. van de Mortel, new Netherlands consul-general at Chicago, said in an interview here Saturday.

The new consul, who had come to Holland to confer with Willard C. Wichers of the Netherlands Information bureau, said work in rebuilding the tiny country had progressed faster than was thought possible, although there is still much, much to be done to bring Holland to her pre-war economic level.

He said most of the 220 bridges damaged or destroyed during the war have been rebuilt and expected that by Jan. 1, 1947, all would be replaced. The Moerdijk bridge, one of the longest spans in the world, has been replaced between Rotterdam and South Holland, and the network of railroad tracks has been restored.

Although it will be five or more years before farm lands flooded with salt water will be returned to their pre-war fertility, some crops already were raised on the salt inundated land in Zeeland as early as autumn of 1944, Dr. van de Mortel said.

He explained this was possible because the autumn of 1944 was the wettest fall in 50 years and constant soakings dissolved salt deposits on the top layer of soil. He said only three or four inches of top soil is "sweet," but crops are being raised.

He also said there would be a critical fuel shortage in the Netherlands this winter and use of electric power is restricted because of coal shortage.

Yet, Holland plans to export coal from its Maastricht mines to Belgium in return for window glass, Dr. van de Mortel said. Since most windows in Dutch buildings were broken and must be replaced, there is not much use providing coal for fuel if there is no glass to keep the cold out, he explained.

Dutch names of Holland signs here and in the telephone directory proved to be a novel surprise to Dr. van de Mortel and his son, Jan, 20, who accompanied him to Holland Friday. The consul explained that "van's" and "van de's" are not filed under V's in the Netherlands but under the first letter of the last part of the name. For instance, his name in the Netherlands comes under "M" instead of "V."

His three years as mayor of Noordwijk during the German occupation provided considerable diplomatic training for Dr. van de Mortel, whose Chicago assignment is his first experience in a diplomatic post.

From 1940 to 1943, he continued as burgemeester of Noordwijk, a fashionable seashore resort, to which he was assigned in 1929 by Queen Wilhelmina. He was one of a group of Dutch leaders who considered it best to retain their official positions and thereby serve the Dutch cause more fully.

The populace often misunderstood and accused the leaders of collaboration. "Naturally, we couldn't tell them just what we were doing," Dr. van de Mortel said.

"We had to be very careful. Quislings were always about, wires were being tapped, and well-meaning Hollanders who had been helped by leaders often 'talked,'" the consul said. "The Dutch are too frank a people. It takes training to keep their mouths shut," he said.

Leaders were careful not to talk, too, except to German officers. For German leaders' benefit, the Dutch learned the trick of talking volubly without saying much. The Dutch also used psychological tricks, planting little seeds in their conversation that the Germans would lose the war.

After three years, Mayor van de Mortel was "kicked out" by the Germans. This occurred in 1943 at the time the Allies had landed in North Africa and had taken Bizerte. Dr. van de Mortel had refused to turn over official registers which would have enabled the Germans to round up Dutch men for slave labor.

He went into hiding and later lived quietly at his country estate near Tilburg until the Allied invasion of September, 1944.

Dr. van de Mortel said the mental suffering during the occupation was as bad as the physical suffering. Physically, every Dutchman lost 20 pounds and the next generation will be two inches shorter because of lack of food, he said.

The insidious and diabolical propaganda planted by the Germans during the five-year period had an even worse effect, he said. The Dutch love the four freedoms as much as the Americans do, and for a Dutch leader to observe what the Germans were doing mentally to the Dutch and have to sit idly by, "it revolted the soul."

After the Allied invasion in 1944, Dr. van de Mortel enlisted with the Netherlands military forces and was commissioned a major. For six months starting in November, 1944, Tilburg and that part of the Netherlands were in the path of doodlebugs aimed from Germany and parts of occupied Holland at Antwerp, Belgium. The van de Mortel home was shelled but not destroyed.

These buzz bombs had to be shot down before hitting crowded Antwerp and at first 20 per cent were brought down and later 90 per cent. Bringing the bombs down in Holland caused considerable damage but not so much as if they had landed in the city. On Feb. 2, 1945, a bomb hit a Roman Catholic church in Tilburg, killing 29. Another time, one hit a theater in Belgium killing 1,100 officers and men.

Twenty-year-old Jan van de Mortel will enter Northwestern university in Evanston this fall to study political science. He has just finished his high school training in the Netherlands, his schooling interrupted often by the war. His mother and sister are in the Netherlands.

The two van de Mortels attended a meeting of the Holland Professional Men's club Friday night at the Ten Cate cottage. Last Aug. 17 they attended the luncheon of the Klompen Dancers in Chicago in connection with the Chicago-Land Music Festival.

'Louie's Boat' Takes Phil Rich To Glacier Scene

Boat Owner Co-operates Holds up Trip Half Hour To Take Party to Camp

By Phil T. Rich

HOLE-IN-THE-WALL Glacier, Taku Inlet—"Just ask for Louie of Mary Joyce's camp. He's in town, has the boat and will take you out." That's what Katherine Kuh of the Chicago Art Museum told us when we met her here at the Baranof hotel. We'd seen her in Ketchikan and she told us about "Mary's place" and the glorious scenery and glaciers.

However, before we could find Louie, she had seen him and Louie came to the hotel and said he was at the Union Oil float and wanted to leave at 2 o'clock to catch the tides right.

We'd just arrived in from Pack creek, were dirty, had to eat and pack, get film out and do a dozen other things, but Dean Williams stuck with us and helped us get going.

But that's the way it goes up here when you travel without schedule. People are mighty nice to you and help you a lot. We told Louie if he'd wait until 2:30 we'd try to make it, so he agreed.

The boat is a 32 footer with a 75 horsepower engine, and strangely enough made by the "Gray Marine Motor Co. of Detroit." It can make the 40 miles with favorable tides in three hours but it takes four hours if the tide is against you.

BY THE TIME we got all our luggage aboard there was not much room for the passengers—eight of us.

In the party were the two Mole-naar brothers just in from conquering the 18,000 foot Mt. St. Elias; four women from the public health service—a doctor, two nurses and a secretary—and Louie—nine of us packed in like sardines.

First part of the trip was rough but it soon got smoother and Louie piloted the boat around the shallow bars, so close to the rocks you could nearly touch them and zigzagged about the Taku inlet to keep off the shoals. Louie had made a late start. One of the party was an hour late and the tides were bad.

In the four-hour run, we talked or shouted at each other to be heard above the roar of the motor; dozed; pointed out scenic spots; changed seats to make it more comfortable. One of the Mole-naar lads used my raincoat to keep the sea spray off his back.

ON THE BOAT was Dr. Berneta Block of Juneau, who is a good friend of Dr. Emily Hautau of Midland. She has been in here three years and says health conditions need a lot of attention. She spent some years in Lansing and worked a lot in southern Michigan. The incidence of TB is high, something like eight times what it is in the states...the natives have about six times as much tuberculosis as the non-whites in the states and the whites twice as much as whites in the states.

There has also been an epidemic of diphtheria and Anchoorage has been quarantined. Dr. Block wanted to be remembered to Dr. Hautau and sends greetings. She likes her work here. On one trip she made out the other day to an isolated spot, the weather closed down and she was stuck there. She says she delivered three babies while there...a bit off her regular duties. The nurses, too, not only instruct but actually do the work in the field to try to help the natives. They are off to Kodiak on a two or three months trip.

THERE IS NO privacy on a small boat like this...and four hours is a long time. The canvas cover on the top covered us about like a "panel job" in a car, only lower for headroom and the luggage, groceries and motor were at the back and that was open and you could see out back and front. Louie had imbibed a couple of beers and I wondered how long he'd hold out. Finally, without ceremony, Louie got up, flashed that bewitching smile of his around and said, "I go to the back of the boat. You take it." The surprised passenger took it. The wheel. The inlet here was about two miles wide and all you had to do was to hold the boat on course...but the woman "pilot" was tense until Louie had taken care of the situation and returned with that aly look in his eye and a big grin.

It was quite a trip and "Mary" met us at her dock. I call her "Mary" because no one up here calls her anything else...never Miss Joyce. It's just Mary's place or occasionally "Mary Joyce's place." Actually the place is known as "Taku lodge" after the inlet and glacier by the same name. This is pronounced like it was spelled Tahkoo.

Later I hope to write a story about Mary, how she came here, who she was professionally and what she has done and is doing. I will also give more on the Mole-naar boys and others. Also a sketch about Louie, whose name is DeFlorian, a Tyrolean, a happy gent who looks after Mary's camp and is a jack of all trades.

Firearms Rules Stay Unchanged

Lansing, Sept. 19—There are no new rules on firearms for hunters to observe this season, but the old rules are all in force, and enforced.

For waterfowl only shotguns may be used, of 10 gauge or smaller bore, and they may not have a capacity of more than three shells in barrel and magazine. Where plugs are necessary to reduce capacity to three, the one-piece wood or metal filler must be incapable of removal through the loading end.

For other hunting, no automatic, semi-automatic or autoloading shotgun or rifle larger than .22 caliber rim fire may be capable of holding more than six shells at one time in barrel and magazine. Tracer and explosive bullets are banned.

Conservation officers are particularly concerned about violations of the law against carrying loaded guns in a car, for besides being illegal it is hazardous, and the cause of gunshot deaths and injuries.

DAR State Regent Tells Of Citizenship Activities

The extensive activities of the Daughters of the American Revolution, especially in the fields of citizenship and Americanism, were emphasized Thursday, Sept. 12, by Mrs. Chester F. Miller of Saginaw, state regent, before members of the Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton chapter in the home of Mrs. C. C. Wood at Waukazoo.

Mrs. Miller, who is on a tour of west Michigan chapters, was guest of honor at the opening luncheon of the local group.

"With two wars in our generation bringing hate, greed, envy and loose morals, there is a great need at present for many more 'good citizens,'" said Mrs. Miller. DAR Americanism committees are doing a splendid work in city communities, she explained, and told of the Junior American Citizenship clubs, the DAR manuals for use of prospective United States citizens, Ellis Island work and state loan funds.

Mrs. Miller also stressed the work among American Indians, the needs of the DAR approved schools and the activities of the National Defense committee. There are now more than 152,000 members in the national DAR organization, including 7,390 new members last year, Mrs. Miller stated.

Mrs. Milton L. Hinga, chapter regent, presided and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. W. C. Vandenberg was in charge of the patriotic opening ceremony, with Mrs. Martha Robbins at the piano. Devotions were conducted by the chaplain, Mrs. W. F. Kendrick.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the acts of Depositors Liquidation Corporation, plaintiff herein, and the Peoples State Bank of Holland, its agent, in giving notice of the availability of the uncalled for portion of the trustee's first dividend of and of the trustee's final liquidating dividend, be approved and ratified, said acts being pursuant to and in full compliance with the appropriate terms of the Decree heretofore entered in this Court and cause.

Community Chest Campaign to Open Here October 21

Henry S. Maentz Will Be Chairman of Drive; Goal Is Set at $27,075

A goal of $27,075 for the Community Chest campaign during the week of Oct. 21 was announced today by Henry S. Maentz, drive chairman. This goal was established by the Community Chest board, which met in regular session late Thursday to approve the budget for the coming year, presented to the board by the Council of Social Agencies. Last year the quota was $37,600.

The council, composed of representatives of all civic and religious organizations, screened requests for funds from member agencies presented a final budget to the board for approval.

The 1946-1947 budget is somewhat less than that of last year, because of discontinuation of the National War Fund. However, local needs have not decreased substantially and the full cooperation of all local citizens will be needed to reach the goal, Mr. Maentz said.

Although the local USO club rooms will close this year, the National USO has appealed to the local chest for help to continue the work among men and women still in service. This request has been approved and included in the budget.

A new agency, "The American Cancer Society," is also included in this year's budget. Financial assistance is greatly needed by this organization to carry on the fight against cancer, a cause which the board feels merits full support.

Community Chest board members present at Thursday's meeting included Dr. Lester Kuipers, president; Mrs. Mayo Hadden, sec-

Henry S. Maentz, drive chairman; L. C. Dalman, treasurer; E. S. Johnson, E. H. Landwehr and J. H. Van Dyke.

Hope Blue Team Defeats Whites

The Hope college 'Blues' defeated the 'Whites' 13-0 in a regulation football game at Riverview Park Friday afternoon and Coaches Al Vanderbush and Russ Waters were most impressed by the work of the White line, which was composed mostly of first year men.

It further confused the coaches who are trying to find seven starters from a group of outstanding candidates.

The same problem was not in evidence in the backfield. The 'Blue' backs included Nick Yonker, Dick Higgs, Art Timmer and Ernie Post and there's a good chance these boys will start against Ferris Institute next Friday.

The linemen are four deep in every position and the coaches faced the task of naming seven to a first string in the next few days of practice. The squad has been cut from 70 to 45.

The college announced today that Hope students may call at the college office for tickets anytime preceding the game.

Four Babies Born Here On Friday, the 13th

A daughter was also born to Mr. and Mrs. William LeBarge, 239 West 17th St. Parents of a son, Nicholas John, born Friday, the 13th, are Mr. and Mrs. John Weeber of 339 Eastern Ave., Grand Rapids. Mrs. Weeber is the former Elsie Piersma formerly a nurse in Holland hospital.

OPA Office to Close

Allegan, Sept. 19 — The OPA office here will close Oct. 11, along with 15 other OPA offices scheduled to close at that time in a statewide consolidation of the price-fixing set up. The county's OPA business will be conducted through the Hastings office.

Progress Good In M-21 Project

The M-21 construction between Jenison and Zeeland, a 14-mile stretch which has been most troublesome to motorists, and truck drivers, soon will be smoothed out.

Pouring of concrete on the 24-foot road between Jenison and Hudsonville is nearly complete and the stretch will be open to traffic about Nov. 1.

The Jenison-Hudsonville project, being built by the state with federal aid, and the grading from Jenison to four miles west of Hudsonville was completed during 1942 and 1943, although no concrete was laid because of the war.

Concrete pouring was begun last Aug. 2 on the new ribbon which is four to five feet above the grade of the old M-21 between Hudsonville and Jenison.

The elevation will put the pavement considerably above the water level. It will enable the wind to sweep the highway clear of snow, and it will prevent seepage of water into the road bed, which in winter, causes cracking due to freezing.

Eventually the old road site will be elevated and widened to 24 feet with a 30-foot depressed boulevard.

It is probable that this divided lane highway ultimately will extend from Jenison to Zeeland and that the Hudsonville-Zeeland stretch will be finished next summer.

Local Woman Reunited With Sister Overseas

Mrs. Lena Dekker 82 years old, and her two daughters, Mrs. J. Jacobs of Holland and Mrs. Arie Branderhorst of Zeeland, have arrived safely in the Netherlands, according to word received here by Mr. Jacobs.

The three women left New York Aug. 27 on the SS Washington and arrived in the Netherlands Sept. 5 after an exceptionally smooth sailing. They were among 1,100 passengers on the ship.

In Amsterdam, Mrs. Dekker was reunited with her 80-year-old sister whom she had not seen for 49 years. Mrs. Dekker was born in the Netherlands but came to this country many years ago. She made one return visit there with her daughter, Mrs. Jacobs, when the latter was only four years old.

The three women plan to visit relatives in Rotterdam, Amsterdam and other places and expect to return here late in October or early November. They had planned the Netherlands trip for a year.

PEOPLE TALKING about mass production generally mean automobiles, typewriters, etc., overlooking the newspaper, the largest mass production business of them all.

LETTUCE AND "rootabegies" were in lush growth in his garden and he picked two big bunches to take back. He says he gets some grouse, a few ptarmigan and that moose come right down around his cabin in winter. He just takes the game he can use. Last winter he took some marten and beaver, got $75 for the marten and averaged out well on 10 beaver which run from $25 to $70. His mink ran around $32.50. Muskrat are not so plentiful he says and are worth $2.60.

He is a grand little guy—5'6" and 54 years old, Louie came over from Austria, where he served nearly six years against the Russians and later the Italians. He's been up here about 10 years and has worked all that time for Mary Joyce in the summer and then gone to his own camp most of the time. His cabin is unusually neat and clean.

In January and February there was lots of snow and he said he didn't get out much... just cooked, read, listened to the radio, looked after his dogs and housekeeping.

LOUIE MEETS lots of interesting people and has guided Father Hubbard about the glaciers in this area. The "Glacier Priest" usually stays here between trips and uses one of the cabins. He is intelligent and quick of wit, and has an unfailingly good disposition and an interesting accent. Everyone seems to like Louie and when you see him and get to know him you can see why. Only a stubborn outdoorsman seems to provoke him to picturesque profanity and some sly remarks. But he's full of chuckles in spite of the rain, the motor and the work... which is ever present here... lots of it.

Each day in the United States there are 49,000,000 newspapers printed. Of these, Michigan produces 1,521,490 papers printed for a population of 5,256,106.

Each day's paper represents a new model. The fact that an entirely new product is created each day is one of the achievements of modern civilization.

A newspaper out West recently added a column width to its paper. The editor candidly reported he had received too many complaints that the smaller size paper was too small to wrap up a bottle of whiskey.

We (The Sentinel) have been taken to task for not paying stricter attention to the sufferings of hay fever victims by Bill Vander Heide. He pointed out we didn't print a pollen count. So the editor said he hadn't used pollen counts because he had been unable to find an accurate source.

Besides nobody needs to tell a hay fever sufferer when the pollen is flying. Bill agreed with that, and offered to withdraw his complaint if suitable notice were given the gentry of the irritated nasal passages.

Here's a partial list of the exclusive club of fellow sufferers: Cornelius Brewer, Ernie Bear, John K. Vander Broek, Kenne Fougnt, Kay Schaafsma, Nona Penna, Myra Brouwer, Louelle Jonkmann, Barbara Bishop, Millard De Weerd.

We've saved this for the climax for today's membership list: Both Mr. and Mrs. Nick Lanning are members in good standing!

Sipp Houtman and Orrie Bishop have been done to a turn by envious localities who saw their prize fish. Cruel jest of all was The Sentinel carrier who said, "Haw, haw, haw, they're putting the funnies on page one today!"

Officer Dennis Ende watched Bishop struggling to unload the fish from his car and said bittlingly, "Hey fellows, look what Bishop went and bought!"

The mimrods are having the last laugh. At least they have meat to eat.

The family of "Ike" Meyer, 201 East 16th St., will eat strawberries from their own plants soon. The Meyers harvested their first Dunlap summer berries in June. Now the plants have decided to bear again.

Holland's cynic can be credited with this—"The only letters a woman likes to receive are the ones that should never have been written!"

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Eva Ten Brink of Holland; two brothers, Jacob and Henry Van Hall of Grand Haven; seven grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Legion Cancels Lake Cruise Today

Continued chilly weather was blamed for a disappointing advance ticket sale and resulted in cancellation of the cruise the American Legion had scheduled for Monday, according to A. C. Prigge, post commander.

"Circumstances beyond our control dictated that we cancel the cruise," Prigge said.

All ticket holders were to receive refunds beginning Tuesday afternoon at the USO room in the tower building, he said.

The North American, which would have been used on the cruise, docked early Monday in Macatawa bay. This ship and the South American are berthed in the Holland harbor each winter.

"We are sorry to call off the cruise, but under the circumstances, this is the wiser course," Prigge said.

The increase alone in the world's population during the past 50 years has been equal to its entire population 200 years ago, or about 545 million.

Cards Are Mailed for Vets Housing Project

Cards have been mailed by the Chamber of Commerce to more than 135 veterans who have applied for units in the Veterans Housing project on the Tannery property.

The cards were to notify the veterans that questionnaires are available at the Chamber office or the Veterans counseling office regarding their eligibility for a unit. The questionnaire was devised so that each veteran could be given the same consideration by the screening committee. The questionnaire must be returned to the Chamber office by Sept. 23.

Besides the usual questions such as name and address, discharge questions, the veteran must tell the number in his household, occupation, employer, where now living, rental and a description of his present quarters and state why they are inadequate or unsuitable.

About 45 per cent of the matches used in the U.S. are in books.

The answers to these questions must be complete and fully describe the situation as the number of units is inadequate to fill the demand and the selection will be made on the basis of need. The committee appointed by Mayor Ben Steffens is composed of two veterans and a civilian who are well acquainted with the veterans problems in the city.

After questionnaires are returned, committee members will interview the applicants. Veterans selected will be notified of the time and date that the project will be ready for occupancy.

At present, plumbing is halted because of the contractors' inability to obtain piping.

About 45 per cent of the matches used in the U.S. are in books.

Sister of Holland Man Passes in Grand Haven

Grand Haven, Sept. 19 (Special)—Mrs. Mary Cirussel, 81, died in her home at 606 Columbus St. Thursday, Sept. 12. She had been ill six weeks.

Surviving are two daughters, Marian at home and Mrs. Isaac Vanden Belt of Grand Haven; a son, Cornelius of Battle Creek; a brother, Frank Newhouse of Holland and a grandson, Donald Vanden Belt of Grand Haven.

Phil Rich Gang Gets 250 Pound Bull Hair Seal

Louie's Dogs Also Benefit in Field Day Seal Shooting

On the Taku River, Alaska. — We got the first hair seal today after many tries—a big bull that weighed "over 250," according to Louie. When we hung up the hide it measured from nose to tail flipper six feet, 11 inches and we recovered 35 pounds of blubber and meat for Louie's sled dogs.

We have been on several trips up the Taku, but today on invitation of Capt. A. J. Currie, who runs the tug for the Polaris Mining Co., we were towed upriver 14 miles returning with an outboard and river boat. It took us three hours and we had a field day shooting at seals.

A young chap from Boston, who is working for this Canadian mining firm as a deck hand, also had a rifle and he and I popped away at them all the way up—lots of misses—at long range.

FINALLY WE approached a sand bar with a whole flock of seals on it and both of us opened fire simultaneously. One seal stayed on the bar and the rest fled into the water. We picked it up later in the day on our way back. It was all we could do to drag it into the scow.

It took two of us an hour to skin it out. Then we removed the blubber coating which in many places was over an inch thick. The hide is thick and tough and it is hard skinning to get the fat away.

The hair seal up here is a pest and the Alaskan territorial government will pay $3.50 for the "scalp," because the seals are fish-killers. They hang around the creeks during the salmon runs and eat fish by the hundreds.

We started out from the dock at 8:30 and the Skipper pushed up a heavy scow loaded with a large bulldozer, cement mixer and other machinery.

His boat, the Taku Chief II, is equipped with two 180 horse power diesels and draws only 18 inches of water. There is a current of about six to seven miles an hour in the river, he says, and it was a master strike of piloting he did to arrive up the Taku. The mine is located 20 miles away on Canadian soil, six or seven hours up and one hour and 45 minutes to return. The scow-tug arrangement wove in and out among floating ice, trees with roots attached, logs and sticks of all kinds and small cakes of ice. We crossed and criss-crossed the river to avoid bars and swirling water.

SKIPPER CURRIE loves the river. "These mountains change every day," he says. "The light is different and you always see something new up here. We see lots of game."

He makes the 20-mile run in here, bringing in gold aggregate—120 tons this last trip and about 8,000 tons a year. This ore runs about $12 a ton which is good grade. The mine now has about 100 men but uses up to 250 when they can be hired. At this point the freighters come in and pick up the ore and take it off for refining.

Reardon and I visited with the engineer, Skipper Currie, and the deck hands and Louie went back and had the cook get him some coffee. Capt. Currie helped us to spot seals. They come up and swim along and form a small black spot on the water. We only saw a few at close range and then only for a second or two, but there were lots of them and between us we must have shot 25 times.

About 11:30 we arrived at Louie's camp. It had started to rain about an hour out and as we swung our tow line loose it was pouring down and kept right on raining until we got back—a cold, chilling rain and wet everything—except the one camera which we wrapped in a rain coat and put under canvas.

LOUIE HAS a swell camp. We went up to get some smoked salmon for his dogs. Aside from the smokehouse and utility shed where he keeps his gear, including traps, seines, etc., there is a neat cabin. In it he has most everything including a radio, provisions, a stove for cooking and a drum heater.

His woodshed is on two sides and the roof extends from the main cabin. His beds are upstairs and he managed to get an airplane cover which is tacked up a few inches from the roof. He says the inside upstairs frosts in the winter and this canvas keeps the water off when the frost melts in the heated cabin. He provisions for about six months and traps there in the winter when he's through working down at Mary Joyce's summer camp. He says his supplies usually run about $200 or less and he can get all the fresh meat and fish he wants for the taking.

Every fall he puts up fish. The salmon are split in two, the backbone removed, soaked in brine and then smoked for human consumption. For dogs just split and smoked and they will also eat the backbone and attached fins. The fish we picked up were moldy but he said that would "brush off."

Louie, whose last name is De-Florin, allowed we needed some coffee and at once built a fire from split spruce and put on a pot of rainwater. The river here is a muddy torrent of glacial water. He got out some toast. "I made this bread last March," he said, "a good lunch."

"and the toast in April." It was not half bad and not at all moldy. Louie does not use sourdough as do so many of the trappers in these parts. He opened some potted ham and jam and we had a good lunch.

Run, Don't Walk!—Thar's Birds in Them Thar Trees

"Heads up, here come the birds!" With a whirl of wings and chattering shrilly like a group of excited women at a fashionable tea, the starlings, hundreds of them, arrive to settle in a large black cloud in the tops of tall poplars, maples and elms.

After three weeks or more of viewing this fascinating sight, residents in the Longfellow school area are becoming accustomed to the daily visitations of "the birds" as they are known in the neighborhood.

Each evening as twilight approaches the flock returns to its favorite roosting spot in the trees between 23rd and 25th Sts. Noisy, staccato chirpings fill the air as the birds flit from tree to tree in small groups. Suddenly, when darkness falls, the flock is silent and the trees sway serenely in the night breeze, burdened with clusters of strange black "fruit."

Early risers say the flock leaves for its day's foraging about 6 a.m. and telephone wires tremble when the starlings chance to swoop down en masse for a moment's rest.

Although the birds are rarely viewed closely enough or on the ground (starlings walk instead of hopping or running) all other characteristics of the feathered visitors resemble "Sturnus vulgaris," the common starling which abounds in northern Europe and Asia.

Some conjecture that, though the birds closely resemble starlings, they may be common "cowbirds," found in rural areas of this region. Argument continues until a competent authority can settle the question.

The lively, bustling birds habitually congregate in enormous flocks in autumn, some flocks containing an estimated 100,000 birds, according to one authority. They nest in holes in trees, crevices in cliffs and in London, have taken a fancy to roosting on large buildings. Another authority says they lately have taken to roosting in branches of trees.

One author says there are 200 varieties of starlings, but "Sturnus vulgaris" is the only one known in America. About 50 of the birds were liberated in Central Park, New York City, in 1890 and spread rapidly to adjoining states and regions.

Of handsome glossy plumage, the starling is fond of mimicking other birds and in captivity, some say, may be taught to "speak" or to whistle. The birds are migratory. When in flight their simultaneous turns in the air are a remarkable sight.

Comings and goings of the flock have attracted considerable attention in the neighborhood, but indications are that for some people the starlings have begun to "wear out their welcome."

"It's not safe to walk around in your own back yard," said one hill resident whose huge poplar tree is a nightly lodging place for hundreds of the birds.

Jay VanderMeulen Weds Miss Sylvia Huizenga

In a candlelight ceremony, before a background of palms, ferns and white gladioli, Miss Sylvia Annette Huizenga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Huizenga of Zeeland, became the bride of Jay R. VanderMeulen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rhine VanderMeulen of Holland, Wednesday Sept. 11 in the North Street Christian Reformed church of Zeeland.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Martin Huizenga of Waupun, Wis., uncle of the bride.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Adrian Blauwkamp who also accompanied Miss Kay Ballast while she sang "God Sent You to Me" and "Through the Years" preceding the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony John E. Gilbert sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, wore a lovely gown fashioned with taffeta basque waist and leg o'mutton sleeves edged with Venetian lace over the wrists. The skirt was of hoop design with bouffant net and train with Venetian lace inserts. Her veil of bridal illusion fell from a headdress of Tulle and roses and asters. She carried a white Bible topped with pink roses and streamers of roses.

Miss Ruth VanderMeulen, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, wore a gown of pale pink chiffon. She carried a bouquet of roses and mixed flowers. Misses Alene Huizenga Evelyn Huizenga, sisters of the bride, as bridesmaids wore identical gowns of aqua and white, respectively. All wore elbow length mitts and wreaths of flowers in the hair.

Little Miss Judy Schrotenboer as ring bearer, wore an aqua gown and a headdress of flowers and carried the rings in a lily. Her sister, Miss Jane Ann Schrotenboer, as flower girl, strewn rose petals in the path of the bride. She wore a white gown, identical to her sister's and a floral headdress.

Frank Pettinga was best man. Harvey Huizenga and Robert Pool seated guests. Rhine Pettinga was master of ceremonies and Miss Marie Dogger was mistress of ceremonies. Misses Jeanette Dykstra and Gertrude Karsten were in charge of the gift room.

A reception for 120 guests was held in the church parlors with Misses Betty Jean, Mary Jane and Barbara Bor, Dorothy and Angeline Huizenga and Lois Schrotenboer, cousins of the bride and groom, as waitresses. Mrs. Albert Luursemma was cateress, assisted by Mrs. H. Ballast, Mrs. John E. Gilbert and Miss Julia Prins presided at the punch bowl.

Out-of-town guests were from Texas, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Muskegon, Grand Rapids and Holland.

Immediately following the reception Mr. and Mrs. VanderMeulen left on a trip to New York and other Eastern states. For traveling the bride wore a gray gabardine suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. They will be at home on East 16th St., Holland, after Sept. 23.

Mrs. VanderMeulen has lived in Zeeland all her life. She was graduated from Holland Christian High school and at present is employed in the office of Crampton Manufacturing Co. Mr. VanderMeulen, also a graduate of Holland Christian High school, is a veteran of World War II and is associated with his father in building and contracting work.

Scouts at Camp Advance Rapidly In Merit Ranks

Camp Report Shows Success of Summer In Ottawa-Allegan

A complete report on summer camping activities at Camp Ottawa, operated by the Ottawa-Allegan Boy Scout council, was issued today by Glenn Eaton of Grand Haven, chairman of the camping and activities committee.

Twenty-six different troops attended camp with a total of 226 Scouts. Scouts staying for more than one week brought the boy-week total to 265. Eight troops attended camp with their own leaders.

Due to the adult staff, advancement at camp was rapid and thorough. Special classes were provided for all aquatic and outdoor merit badges.

Much emphasis was put on swimming instruction, both for the non-swimmer, and those who were more advanced. Of the 38 Scouts who came to camp not knowing how to swim, 27 of them passed the minimum swimming requirements for beginners. Of the 11 who did not learn how to swim, six of them could not go in or under the water for physical reasons.

Twelve Scouts passed from beginners to advanced swimmers, 18 passed their life saving merit badge and seven qualified as scout life guard.

Second class tests passed totaled 149; first class test, 235, and merit badge, 306.

Ninety per cent of all Scout campers received an honor camper award.

The camp was inspected by the Council Health and Safety Committee, the Camping and Activities Committee, the Regional Office of the Boy Scouts, and the State Health department. Physical accommodations and health and safety factors were all approved as well as program content and administration.

"Camp Ottawa proved to be not only a safe place for boys," said Eaton, "but a valuable training camp in Scouting skills and citizenship responsibilities."

Lewis Cross, route 2, Spring Lake, seated before the easel on which he has painted hundreds of scenes of Ottawa county. Behind him is one of his larger canvases, on which he has detailed the flight of the now extinct passenger pigeons. On the easel is a small painting of the boat he and his brother once sailed from Grand Haven to Florida, via the Mississippi river. After 82 years of life, Mr. Cross faces the atomic age with confidence and good humor. Work is his secret for a long life. He paints during the winter months when work is slack in his orchard. He is now engaged in harvesting an excellent crop of apples.

Hard Work Is Formula For Young 82-Year-Old

This started out to be the story of Lewis Cross, artist. But it ended up the story of Lewis Cross, a man with courage enough to live life as he sees it.

True, he can paint convincingly, deftly transferring his intuitions to canvas gently or boldly as occasion demands. But this is only one side of this remarkable man.

He was born Jan. 10, 1864 in Tuscola county and in 1867 came with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cross, to Spring Lake where he has since lived. His ancestry he describes as "Scotch and Downeast Yankee."

One brother, Ira, owns an orchard nearby. A second brother, Charles B., one-time municipal judge at Muskegon, died four years ago.

Mr. Cross now lives in a building he built himself. He relates that he made the concrete blocks, planned and built the entire house himself. He called in extra help when he poured the concrete floors on street level and second story. He completed the structure in 1914. The upstairs contains his living quarters, studio and art store room. The first floor contains work space for the orchard he operates, and the basement is planned for storing of fruit.

Mr. Cross says that he went to Valparaiso university in Indiana when it was a normal school less than 10 years old. That was in 1884, when the president and founder, H. B. Brown, was active in school affairs. He didn't want to the course he took during the first six months term, but he returned for another six months study and took perspective drawing, penmanship and black and white drawing. At another time he studied oil painting and found his medium.

In the 65 years, Mr. Cross has painted hundreds of canvases, mostly dealing with scenes in Ottawa county. There are scenes of hunting waterfowl and passenger pigeons, spearing fish by jack light, log jams in Grand River, scenes in the bays, portraits of friends and families, copies of masters and Biblical scenes. One of the most carefully drawn is a painting of his father.

The pictures range from small scenes to canvases measuring 10 feet or more in height and proportionally wide. He has sold hundreds, although he has never pushed his work. He has exhibited a few times and has accepted commissions to paint portraits or scenes, but mainly he has painted because he loves it.

There is a sense of obligation behind some of his work. In his youth he recalls that passenger pigeons literally darkened the skies, taking as long as one hour for a single flock to pass overhead. Pigeon river was so named because it was a favorite nesting spot of this now extinct bird, he said. Pigeons appear in many of his pastorals and woodland scenes. "There are not many of us left," brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L.J.

who remember the pigeons as they were then," he said. "Maybe some of my work isn't artistic, but it is historical and that's why I intend to leave some of the larger canvases to some museum or educational institution."

A single passenger pigeon he mounted many years ago, has served as model for the thousands he has painted in his life time. It was his first attempt at taxidermy. The specimen is more than 50 years old and is now worth $500 as a museum piece.

Mr. Cross has never married. For the last 30 years he has been his own housekeeper. Never much of a meat eater, although he likes to hunt, his meals are simple and abound in fruit and vegetables.

He doesn't drink or smoke, but he feels these are less important to a long life than work. He has never worn glasses and his eyes at 82 are keen enough for the intricate work at the easel. He reads current magazines and a daily paper.

As for city life he has definite ideas: "I wouldn't live in it if you gave me the whole city of Chicago."

Farm Liming Hits Drop This Season

Recent data on liming material shows a decrease in 1945 compared to 1944. This is the first instance since 1934 where a decrease has occurred. The slight decline in 1945 was attributed to acute manpower shortage on farms and in lime plants plus industry's requirements for these materials.

According to figures submitted by Glen Taylor, AAA, a total of 15,000 tons of limestone and 30,000 tons of marl were distributed to farmers of the county through his program. This is equivalent to 30,000 tons of lime. The total for Michigan was 667,000 tons. Ottawa county used one-twentieth of all the liming material used in Michigan.

L. R. Arnold, farm agent, states that a few years ago farmers had to be urged to use liming materials. Today all Ottawa farmers desire to correct the soil acidity. The AAA, Soil Conservation district and Extension services have continued the liming program for years and will still continue to do so.

The Andaste Sank Here Seventeen Years Ago

Seven bodies were recovered Sept. 16 in the Grand Haven area, two of them three miles south of Grand Haven, one 200 feet south of the pier and another near Agnew.

Coast Guard crews all over Lake Michigan started search immediately after public alarm was given three days after the storm. As wreckage washed ashore within the next few days, reports of all finds were made to Coroner Gilbert Vande Water. Some of the wreckage was displayed in local store windows.

F. H. Hulbert, Port Sheldon contractor, found part of the wrecked cabin at the mouth of the Port Sheldon channel. George F. Getz recovered an 18-foot car at Lakewood farm marked Andaste. Howard Kronmeyer of Hamilton, resorting at Eureka park, found the desk of the chief engineer.

Holland Coast Guardsmen, directed by Capt. Tuft, searched an area and found many pieces of wreckage.

Carl Harrington at Cardeau beach on the night of the storm reported he saw lights of a ship going in one direction for a time, then in another, and finally the lights disappeared.

With the recovery of nine bodies, Holland became the center of extensive operation to determine the fate of the lost vessel and Coroner Gilbert Vande Water empaneled a jury to investigate safety precautions taken by the ship's owners. The coroner was assisted by Prosecuting Attorney Clarence A. Lokker.

Appointed as jurors were Mayor E. C. Brooks, E. P. Stephan, Dr. Wynand Wichers, Henry Winters, William Vissers and G. T. Haan.

By Sept. 17, a total of 14 bodies had been recovered. On that day, Henry Strabbing and Bartel Homkes found a piece of wreckage of the Andaste with pencil writing: "Worst storm I ever been in. Can't stay up much longer. Hope to God we're saved. A.L.A." This was believed to have been written by Capt. Anderson.

The following day the Szekely Aircraft Corp. volunteered the services of two planes and pilots to search for the sunken wreck. Planes circled the spot for an hour without success. Deeper water in the area searched was believed to be 50 feet deep.

The official inquiry into the disaster opened in Grand Haven Sept. 24 and on Oct. 3 the coroner's jury gave a verdict that no one could be blamed in the disaster. The jury found no laxity on the part of the owners or Coast Guard, but recommended that ships of that size carry a wireless. It also recommended that a central marine office be established where delays may be reported, and further recommended that proper facilities be maintained for immediate searches.

Among the crew members whose bodies were not recovered were H. Raymond, H. Whittaker, John Anderson, Darwin Smith, Orval Johnson, H. Schuitema and T. Godas, addresses unknown; J. Bayles and Harry Lutes, Benton Harbor, William Lorens, Grand Rapids, and Earl Zietlow, Grand Haven. The latter, only 15 or 17, was making his first trip.

Joe Collins and George Evars of Grand Haven, regular members of the crew, did not make the trip.

The Andaste's fate was similar to that of a sister ship, the Clifton, which sank in 1924 in Lake Huron, also carrying a load of stone. Twenty-eight men were lost.

Another tragedy was the sinking of the Alpena in 1880 in Lake Michigan near where the Andaste was believed to have sunk. The Alpena was a passenger ship with a large cargo of barreled apples. Only one body was recovered from the wreck, it was recalled.

Fennville

(From Wednesday's Sentinel)

Fennville now has two British war brides, the second being Mrs. Leon Billings who arrived Sunday in Kalamazoo where she was met by her husband, Mrs. Billings, the former Miss Beryl Davies, of Burry Port, South Wales was married there to S/Sgt. Leon Billings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Billings of Pearl, route 3, Fennville, last June 1. The church service was attended by a large company of relatives of the bride and her many friends. She wore the traditional bridal gown and veil of white and her flowers were pink roses. Attending her as bridesmaids were three sisters, two of whom wore pink and one mauve colored gowns, with matching head dress and bouquets of iris.

Mr. Billings, after ten months of training in this country went overseas in October of 1944, where he received additional training and met his future bride. They are making their home with his parents and additional room is being built for their convenience.

The other British war bride is Mrs. Richard Severens, from Australia.

Mrs. Howard Beagle was also married in England, but she was not British, her home having been in Lafayette, La. She had been serving in the Army Nurse Corps in England where she met Lt. Beagle, and was married to him. Fennville extends a welcome to these three attractive young women.

Mrs. Edith Betzer of Kenosha, Wis., arrived last Friday to be the guest of her brother, Charles Wadsworth and of other relatives here and in Osego. The birthday of Mr. Wadsworth which was on Monday, was celebrated Sunday, his guests being Mrs. Betzer and another sister, Mrs. Inez Tucker of Kenosha and Fennville and their niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne York of Osego.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Van Blois spent Sunday with relatives in Grand Haven. It was especially pleasant for Mrs. Van Blois who had not been well enough to get out of town for a number of weeks, besides Mr. Van Blois' lameness which also kept him at home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Walton drove to Jacksonville, Ill., last Friday, taking their sister, Miss Elizabeth Crane there to enter her sophomore year at McMurray college. She is to be a counselor and had to be there early to receive the girls and assist them in getting established.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chapman took over the operation of their restaurant last Thursday. It was previously operated by Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hadaway. Assisting will be Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Stehle Mr. and Mrs. Stehle have moved to the cottage of Mrs. Alice Earl.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. John K. Andrews from Wednesday to Sunday were the former's uncle, George Angel, of Alhambra, Calif., and their son Robert Andrews of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Andrews left Monday for Elmhurst, Ill., where he will resume duties on the teaching staff of Principia college. Mr. Andrews served a number of years there after discontinuing service in the Navy in World War I and some years afterwards. On the outbreak of World War II he volunteered his services again and re-entered with his rank of Lt. Commander. He came from Washington this summer and they have made their home at Lake Michigan near Pier Cove. He recently bought the cottage they lived in, and have now rented it to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hutchinson for the winter, to solve their housing problem. They moved Monday.

Supt. Glenn K. Kelly was successful in securing a teacher for the commerce department who took over his duties the second Monday of school. He will also teach mechanical drawing. Jack Robb is the new man, coming from Southeastern Missouri Teachers college. He did some teaching before entering the Army. Mrs. Robb has not arrived yet. They will live in the former Bessie Panuska place which was sold this summer to Mr. and Mrs.

Frank Jirik of Chicago.

On Monday a teacher was being sought to teach eighth grade which will be departmentalized with high school classes. This extra teacher is necessary because of an extra large enrollment in the grades. Mrs. Spencer will have 30 pupils in the first grade which will now be taught alone, instead of first and second together. This will put six and seventh together, thus moving eighth to the high school. The enrollment on the second Monday was 318. An increase of 25 over last year. An agricultural teacher has not yet been found and it is thought that branch will have to be omitted this year.

Many improvements in buildings here are being made. Noticeable particularly is the new Gee building which is showing signs of completion by early winter. The cement blocks have been surfaced with white waterproof cement, window casings are appearing and the cement floor being laid. This will be a real ornament to Main St.

Another great improvement will be entire new front of the first floor of the Jackson garage and auto sales business. Fine display windows, new cement floor and modern office will be installed. Other improvements are many paint jobs, new double garages built in two places, and remodeling of homes. Shortage of white paint is delaying some house beautification, it is reported.
