'Peanie' Rowan Forced Into Semi-Retirement

Henry "Peanie" Rowan, a pillar at the Holland Army since it was built in 1924, has been placed on the semi-retired list.

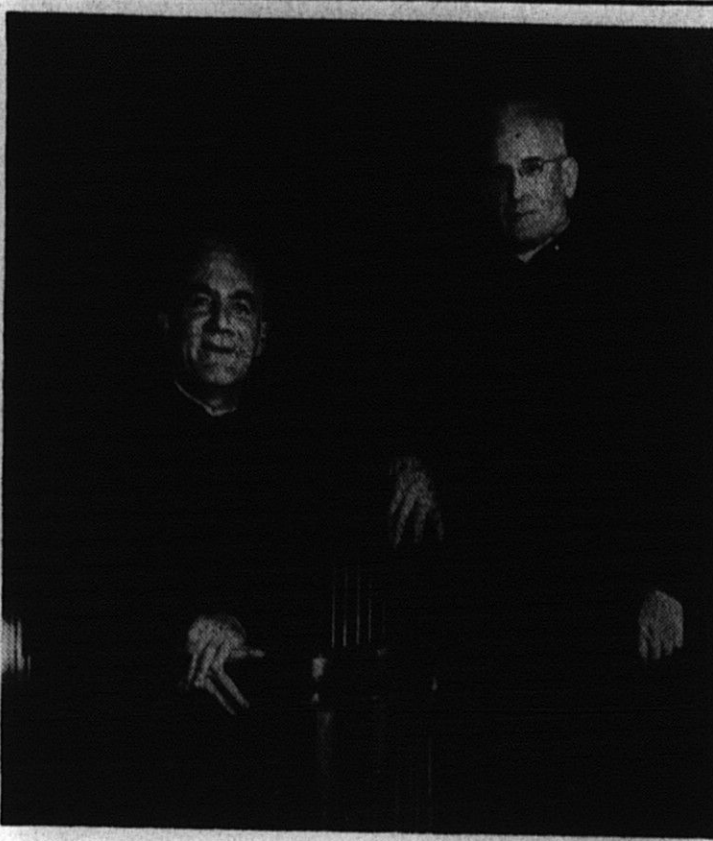

Following a serious operation last January, Peanie returned to work, but was forced to cut down after his physician ordered "take it easy."

Capt. Bill Sikkel, head of the Army control board, announced the order through division headquarters at Lansing. Sikkel explained that Peanie will be his own boss—he can work as long as he wants to and when he wants to.

Harold Bremer succeeds Rowan as Army custodian. Peanie started working at the Army before the building was completed in 1924. He installed all electric fixtures.

Through his leadership, a National Guard unit was organized in Holland in 1920. After a recruiting campaign, the company was mustered on March 22, 1921.

Peanie has watched hundreds of basketball players come and go. Milton L. "Bud" Hinga's Holland high team in 1926 inaugurated basketball in the gym. Since that time, Holland Christian, Hope college, city leagues, the former Flying Dutchmen, Holland Hurricanes and many other teams have played at the Army. Peanie saw 'em all.

Haas of the Grand Rapids diocese blessed the building. Students are scheduled to register Friday and Saturday and classes begin Monday morning. Two members of the faculty are the Rev. H. A. Wierman (left) and the Rev. C. C. McGrath, superior of the house. The seminary is located at the former D. E. Felt estate.

Bishop Haas, speaking briefly after Mass, said, "This is a big day for the Grand Rapids diocese. We welcome you."

Mass was celebrated in the new seminary chapel, located in the former living room of the 25-room mansion.

After the ceremonies, the clergymen were guests of the seminary at a dinner in the main building.

Fifty students will register Friday and Saturday for classes that begin Monday morning. The student body includes youths of high school age who have signified their intention of becoming Augustinian priests.

The Rev. John Toomey is in charge of the school and the Rev. C. C. McGrath is superior of the house. The Rev. James P. Lyne is director of students.

Members of the faculty are the Revs. H. A. Wierman, C. J. Hart, Leo J. Burke and John X. Gavin. The former five-stalled garage has been converted into classrooms and a reference library. Students will live in the large house. Tables have been set up for eating in the huge dining room.

"Renovations aren't completed, but with minor adjustments, we'll get along all right," Rev. Toomey said.

The Rev. Joseph A. Coyne of Chicago, was in charge of converting the mansion and garage into a seminary to house faculty and students. "I let all work contracts to many Holland and Saugatuck area firms."

Buccaneer Sold To Fishing Firm

The big black schooner "Buccaneer" was back in Holland. Crewmen are dismantling the mast under the direction of Captain Christopher McArdle for a trip through the Illinois waterway and down the Mississippi river to Mobile, Ala.

The sleek 68-foot schooner had been anchored at Jesiek's boat yards until early this summer when it was sold to E. H. Holzworth of Buffalo, N. Y. It was formerly owned by Frank Ford of Kalamazoo, president of the Great Lakes Sea Scouts. Sea Scouts from the Kalamazoo area had used it for the last six years until it was sold to Holzworth.

Holzworth sailed the schooner to Buffalo this summer. However, he has sold it to the Star Fish & Oyster Co., of Mobile. It will be used as a fishing "smack" on the Gulf of Mexico, along the Mexican coast line.

A nine-man crew is at Jesiek's preparing the boat for the trip to Mobile. The mast is being removed to clear bridges at Chicago and other points.

According to Jesiek officials, the boat will leave Holland harbor Tuesday weather permitting.

Archery, Hunting Permits Issued

Allegan, Sept. 22 (Special)—Swan Creek Wildlife Experiment station began issuing permits today to those intending to hunt with bow or gun on the station area. Orland Haugen, manager, announced. Permits are issued for upland game and waterfowl hunting as well as for muskrat, raccoon and mink trapping.

Permits are necessary only on that part of Allegan Forest which lies within the Swan Creek station boundaries, Haugen stressed.

Trappers interested in trapping muskrats in this area will submit their names before Oct. 15. Shortly afterwards a drawing will determine two to share trapping privileges in the station area, he said.

All bow and arrow hunters are requested to register at the headquarters when hunting deer in Allegan forest, and all deer killed in the county must be brought to the station for a confirming seal.

The biologists also ask that all deer killed by gun during the regular season be brought in for a check-up on weight and age of the animal and to total the season's kill.

"Co-operation in this program will greatly aid the game division in determining the deer population and will consequently serve as a guide toward future deer herd management measures," Haugen said.

Lean Pigs Bring Bigger Profits

There's no money in lard says Lyman Bratzler, meats specialist at Michigan State college. And he takes out a stubby pencil to do a little figuring and show why it pays farmers to sell their hogs at lighter weights.

Hog numbers are up all over the country. The use of vegetable oils has cut the demand for lard as has use of synthetic materials in soap making. So the demand for lard is low.

Result is that packers have to sell lean meat for a high price to pay for the low value fat. When hogs are selling for about 18 cents a pound, the fat on the live hog is worth only a third of that amount. Some packers, Bratzler reports, say they get more lean meat from a 200 pound hog than they do from a 300 pound hog. A 300 pounder will produce almost twice the lard a 200 pound hog will.

Bratzler believes farmers can't expect packers to pay good prices for a heavy hog when it dresses out so much of a low-priced product. Breeders have gone a long way toward developing a lean-type hog, but the present answer seems to be in selling smaller hogs.

Corn may be plentiful, but the farmers who continue to feed hogs to heavier weight are adding more headaches to the meat industry which cannot find an outlet for the surplus fat, Bratzler thinks.

North Dakota Farmer Works by Moonlight

Making hay while the sun shines may be the rule for most farmers. But Irwin Dittmer of eastern North Dakota puts his up by moonlight, when everything is cool and quiet.

Dittmer has scientific reasons for his unusual methods in the hayfield, according to an article in a farming magazine. He says, after 10 years of experience, that his system results in less work, practically no loss of forage and higher quality hay. All the nutritive leaves and fine stems are saved. Dittmer applies his system to alfalfa and sweet clover.

When the first blossoms began to appear in the sweet clover, haying starts on the Dittmer farm. If a rain comes up, the work goes right on. A 12-foot grain windrower is used, leaving a heavy windrow on eight or nine inches of stubble. A mower and side delivery can be used, he says, if the rake follows the mower immediately.

Nursery Stock Not Sold at Ag Offices

Inquiries are infrequently received in the Michigan Department of Agriculture offices regarding evergreen seedlings and other types of nursery stock. C. A. Boyer, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, reports that the Michigan Department of Agriculture does not propagate or dispense any type of nursery stock, the department duties being confined to inspection and certification of all plant materials disposed of within Michigan.

Nursery stock can be purchased from licensed commercial nurserymen; and evergreen seedlings used for reforestation and windbreaks may be secured from the forestry department, Michigan State college and/or the forestry division of the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Trees purchased from a state or federal nursery cannot be inspected and certified by the department, Boyer said, since Act 189 PA 1931 makes such inspection unlawful.

Names of commercial licensed nurserymen from whom evergreen seedlings and other plant materials can be purchased, will be furnished upon request to the department.

Annual Cow Testing Results Announced

The annual report of the No. 2 cow testing association has been filed recently. H. M. Sutton, Coopersville, is tester of this new association.

'Peanie' Rowan Forced Into Semi-Retirement

Henry "Peanie" Rowan, a pillar at the Holland Armory since it was built in 1924, has been placed on the semi-retired list.

Following a serious operation last January, Peanie returned to work, but was forced to cut down after his physician ordered "take it easy."

Capt. Bill Sikkrel, head of the Armory control board, announced the order through division headquarters at Lansing. Sikkrel explained that Peanie will be his own boss—he can work as long as he wants to and when he wants to.

Harold Bremer succeeds Rowan as Armory custodian.

Peanie started working at the Armory before the building was completed in 1924. He installed all electric fixtures.

Through his leadership, a National Guard unit was organized in Holland in 1920. After a recruiting campaign, the company was mustered on March 22, 1921.

Peanie has watched hundreds of basketball players come and go. Milton L. "Bud" Hinga's Holland high team in 1926 inaugurated basketball in the gym. Since that time, Holland Christian, Hope college, city leagues, the former Flying Dutchmen, Holland Hurricanes and many other teams have played at the Armory. Peanie saw 'em' all.

He has readied the drill floor for such varied events as rabbit, chicken, dog and auto shows. The annual Tulip Time flower show, manufacturer's exhibits, banquets and Farmers' institutes have been held in the Armory during Peanie's time.

Immanuel church was organized in the Armory and services were held three times a week for many years.

Peanie estimates the largest crowd during his time was 2,300 persons at an Evangelist meeting a few years ago. Paul Rader of Chicago spoke at the meeting. The 14-tier bleachers from the football field were crammed in to seat the crowd.

Peanie was first sergeant of Co. D for 16 years and when he quit in 1939 was the oldest post-kick in years of service, of any guard unit in the state.

When the local company mobilized in 1940 for World War II, Peanie helped organize the state troops. He was a captain for six months, then promoted to major and named commander of the Armory.

Following the war, he helped reorganize Co. D.

Young Mother Dangerously Ill Of Poliomyelitis

Former V. Vanderbeek
Has Full Paralysis;
Is Iron Lung Patient

Mrs. Harry Larson, 28, of 14 East 34th St., latest polio victim in the Holland area, was on the "dangerous" list today at Butterworth hospital, Grand Rapids, suffering from complete paralysis.

Mrs. Larson, the former Vera Dorothy Vanderbeek, was taken ill Wednesday and entered Holland hospital at 1 p.m. Saturday. At 3 p.m. she was taken to Butterworth and on Sunday morning her condition was listed as "fair and improving."

Early Monday she was placed in an iron lung and at 9:30 a.m. her name was placed on the list of those dangerously ill.

She is a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John Vanderbeek of East Holland and a sister of Sheriff Jerry Vanderbeek of Grand Haven.

Mrs. Larson is a patient in the hospital where she took nurse's training. She and her husband have two small children.

Since 34th St. is over the county line, Mrs. Larson is considered a patient of Allegan county.

Ottawa county's toll remained at 43 Tuesday after illness of two polio suspects were ruled out.

Mrs. Charlotte Finkbeiner, 26, Coopersville, was returned to her home Saturday night from Butterworth hospital following diagnosis. Clara Van Gogelen, 28, of 923 Madison St., Grand Haven, also entered Butterworth Saturday as a suspect. Diagnosis was completed today.

The "big black schooner" "Buccaneer" was back in Holland.

Crewmen are dismantling the mast under the direction of Captain Christopher McArdle for a trip through the Illinois waterway and down the Mississippi river to Mobile, Ala.

The sleek 68-foot schooner had been anchored at Jesiek's boat yards until early this summer when it was sold to E. H. Holzworth of Buffalo, N. Y. It was formerly owned by Frank Ford of Kalamazoo, president of the Great Lakes Sea Scouts. Sea Scouts from the Kalamazoo area had used it for the last six years until it was sold to Holzworth.

Holzworth sailed the schooner to Buffalo this summer.

However, he has sold it to the Star Fish & Oyster Co., of Mobile. It will be used as a fishing "smack" on the Gulf of Mexico, along the Mexican coast line.

A nine-man crew is at Jesiek's preparing the boat for the trip to Mobile. The mast is being removed to clear bridges at Chicago and other points.

According to Jesiek officials, the boat will leave Holland harbor Tuesday weather permitting.

Permits Issued

Allegan, Sept. 22 (Special)—

Swan Creek Wildlife Experiment station began issuing permits today to those intending to hunt with bow or gun on the station area. Orland Haugen, manager, announced. Permits are issued for upland game and waterfowl hunting as well as for muskrat, raccoon and mink trapping.

Permits are necessary only on that part of Allegan Forest which lies within the Swan Creek station boundaries, Haugen stressed.

Trappers interested in trapping muskrats in this area will submit their names before Oct. 15. Shortly afterwards a drawing will determine two to share trapping privileges in the station area, he said.

All bow and arrow hunters are requested to register at the headquarters when hunting deer in Allegan forest, and all deer killed in the county must be brought to the station for a confirming seal.

The biologists also ask that all deer killed by gun during the regular season be brought in for a check-up on weight and age of the animal and to total the season's kill.

"Co-operation in this program will greatly aid the game division in determining the deer population and will consequently serve as a guide toward future deer herd management measures," Haugen said.

New Catholic Seminary Dedication Rites Held

St. Augustine seminary, formerly the D. E. Felt estate, was formally dedicated today.

Bishop Francis J. Haas of the Grand Rapids diocese blessed the buildings and grounds before a Mass with the Very Rev. Charles J. Melchior, O.S.A., as celebrant. Rev. Melchior is provincial of the Augustinian's Midwest province.

The Very Rev. Joseph A. Hickey, prior general of the Augustinian order headquartered in Rome, attended the ceremonies. Fifty-five priests and laymen from the area, and from St. Augustine stations, attended the opening.

The new well, for which he just obtained his state permit, will go down in section 27, Ganges township, and will be the first use of a rotary rig in the area. Most wells in the state are drilled with cable rigs and require from two to three weeks drilling time. Rotary rigs get down to pay dirt in four or five days, Zellman says.

Oilmen are watching the operation with interest since Zellman recently brought in a test well on the John Brown farm in the same section of Ganges township. He reported a "nice showing of gas and oil" and added that geologists believe that a test well "a little north and west" will open up the new pool.

Robert J. Devine, Grand Rapids geologist, said the locations were three miles north of recently completed producing wells in sections 11 and 12, Ganges township. He pointed out that reports from 23 wells drilled in the Traverse limestone formation in Ganges and Casco in the past 11 years establish a north-east-north-west trend about eight miles long.

Devine concluded that the recent show of oil confirms the "indicated closure" and a strong possibility of developing oil production in the Traverse lime. He recommended the location for Zellman's next well which will be drilled with rotary tools in the northeast quarter of section 27 on the John Brown farm.

These Holland high school graduates of the class of '49 have a big job done towards preparations for college days. Trying to pack all the favorite sweaters, skirts, suits, sports togs and strictly dress-up clothes into a limited space in suit demands an education, as any co-ed well knows. Tailors Win Game For Softball Title; Herk Cramer Stars

Dykema Pitcher Raps In All Four Tallies; Record-Breaking Crowd

Herk Cramer was at his best Thursday night as he pitched and batted Dykema Tailors to their second consecutive city softball championship.

Dykemas won the fifth and final game of the City Softball league playoff series, 4-0. An estimated 1,000 fans, the largest crowd of the season, watched the game at Fourth St. diamond under the lights.

Cramer was brilliant as he batted in all four runs and limited the Heaters to four hits.

Corky Weener, on the mound for Holland Furnace, allowed just five hits, including Cramer's two out of two official times at bat. Weener had trouble in early innings as he slipped behind the batter many times on the ball and strike count. However, he also pitched his way out of two tight squeezes. He walked three men.

The game was the finals for 1940 softball in Holland. The teams went onto the field with two wins apiece in the playoff series.

Holland Furnace had one hit in the first half of the first. Russ Woldring's double blast to left field, Wes Vryhof led off for the Tailors with a double to left. Two more walks loaded the sacks. Ben Jansen hit a grounder to third that Ray Morren threw home to nip Vryhof. Walt Wlodarczyk grounded out to end the inning with the sacks loaded.

Holland Furnace threatened with hits by Ken Bauman and Woldring in the top of the third, but Cramer put the fire out as he forced the next two batters out on infield balls.

The first score came in the last of the third. Wes Vryhof walked. Gil Bos sacrificed him to second and he went to third on Tony Westerhof's infield out. Cramer came to bat and rapped a sizzler down to third. The ball took a high bound and before Morren could bring it under control, Vryhof had scored and Cramer was on first. Jansen ended the inning by going out, pitcher to first.

Both sides went down one-two-three in the fourth. Bill Prince, leadoff man for the Heaters in the fifth, was safe as he rapped the ball through Claud Dykema's legs. The next three batters went out in order.

Dykema came to bat in the last of the fifth and pounded a single to left field. Mel Sjaarda juggled the pick-up and Dykema went to second. Wes Vryhof popped up to second. Dykema went to third on a passed ball. Gil Bos beat out a slow rolling bunt as Weener held Dykema on third. Tony Westerhof was safe on an error by Morren to load the bases.

Cramer came to bat with one out and plastered a triple between left and center field to knock in the other three runs. The next two batters flied out.

The Furnace-Makers had one man left on base in both the sixth and seventh innings, but no runs scored.

Cramer for Dykemas, and Woldring with two out of three for the Heaters, were the big stick men Woldring hit a hard drive to right field in the fifth, but Jansen was playing just right and caught the ball.

The winners, and still champions, will receive emblems for their accomplishment.

WILL CHURCHILL
COME BACK?

A London dispatch predicts
that if the present British Socialist government should fall, Winston Churchill will once more be called upon to serve as prime minister. Churchill is still the head of the Conservative party
and if that party is to come back
it will have to do so largely on the still potent prestige of the colorful war premier.

During the war, when the Conservatives seemed sure of a long period of power after the coalition government had ceased to exist, it was generally agreed that Anthony Eden stood a good chance of being Churchill's successor. But if there is nothing so successful as success, there is also nothing so fatal as failure.
During the Socialist tenure of office the magic has to a considerable degree departed from the Eden name. Even if the Conservatives should come back, it seems doubtful, at least from this distance that Anthony Eden could make the grade.

He would have to do so with the consent and assistance of course of Churchill. He might have had both if Churchill had received a post-war mandate from the people. Churchill is along in years and he has his war memoirs
to write. It seems reasonable that after he had set his post-war program in motion he would have stepped aside for a younger man.
But defeat at the polls has changed all that. A political leader is always looking for what has universally come to be known as "vindication." If the Socialist government should go on the skids, it seems probable that Churchill would want more than anything else this personal vin-dication. Merely having the party win would hardly satisfy a man of Churchill's temperament. His quarrel with the Socialist government is personal as well as political.

If he should come back he would match to a certain extent
the career of William E. Gladstone in the nineteenth century.
Gladstone kept coming back,
right on into extreme old age.
Disraeli displaced him a couple of times, but always there was a comeback for Gladstone, until finally he got so old that mere feebleness vetoed further service.
That might happen to Churchill, who is getting on in the seventies.

North Holland Farm
Bureau Elects Officers

New officers were elected
Thursday night at the first fall
meeting of the North Holland
Farm Bureau group which gathered in the Gerald Veldner home.
The discussion centered on how group officers can make the farm bureau more effective. The group rated "A" on a personality quiz
from East Lansing, scoring 85
points out of a possible 100.

The group decided to attend the livestock show in Chicago in November.

New officers are Chester West-
rate, discussion leader; Jay Kamphuis, assistant; Peter Sierma,
chairman; Henry Hop, vice-chairman; Mrs. Jay Kamphuis, secretary; Mrs. Fred Koetsier, assistant; Gerald Veldner, recreation;
Mrs. Ed Koops, publicity; Ed
Koops, song leader; Albert Steg-enga, action committee man.

Settlement Entered

Grand Haven, Sept. 22 (Special)—The case of 75-year-old Robert A. Slaughter who sought
$15,000 from Farmers Co-operative Elevator Co. of Hudsonville, was settled by the parties Thursday after a two-day court session.
Amount of the settlement was not made public. Slaughter sued for $15,000 for permanent injuries allegedly received Nov. 22, 1948,
when he slipped and fractured his right hip while moving a 70-pound
sack of mash on a hand truck.

Although it lies near the Arctic ocean, the harbor of Narvik, Norway, is ice free because of the influence of the warm Gulf Stream.
East Africa was not opened to the outside world until 1768.

The Psalms We Sing
Psalms 23; 42; 90
By Henry Geerlings
From the days when David was called into King Saul's presence to calm his troubled spirit with music, and long before, singing
has been a means of worship.
Moses and Israel sang their song unto the Lord. Samuel in his old age lamented that he could no longer hear the voices of the singing men and women. David set certain people over the service of song in the house of the Lord. All through the Old Testament hymns
are strewn along the path of law
and history, as God has covered the earth with flowers. It is natural for the grateful soul to burst into song.

When we open the New Testament, we are in the midst of singing. Songs accompanied the birth of Jesus. Mary and Elizabeth sang in anticipation of His birth. Jesus
must have often joined in song
with his friends and in the worship in the temple. He sang in the upper room at the last Passover Feast.

Paul writes to the Ephesians
about speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns, singing and making melody in the heart to the Lord. He set an example for singing when he and Silas sang in prison in Philippi. The New Testament closes with singing. It pictures heaven as a place of song.
Those who go there will sing a new song.

The 23rd Psalm is a song about Jehovah as shepherd, companion
and host. The Psalm is ascribed to David who had been a shepherd boy, and had been taken from the quiet of the sheepcote to rule over Israel. We do not know in what period of his life he wrote it, but it is generally agreed that it was in the mature days because of its expressive calmness, depths and breath of thought, which speak of an expanded experience. Such an experience and knowledge could be gained only by years of testing,
and a life lived in fellowship with God. David had lived in fellowship with Jehovah, had trusted
Him and served Him for years and thus had come to know Him in a real and intimate way.

There is nothing difficult of understanding in the Psalm. The train of thought is clear. The experiences which it details are common, the emotions it expresses simple and familiar. The tears
that have been dried, the fears
that have been dissipated, the love and thankfulness which have found in them their best expression, prove the worth of its simple words.

The 42nd Psalm describes a yearning of the soul for communion with God. The language used is strong. Two interesting figures are used. The figure of the hart
panting after the water brooks.
The word translated is a common
noun, but inasmuch as it is here
joined with a feminine verb it denotes the female deer. There is an idea of tenderness here which would not strike us if the reference had been to any other animal.
In the figure of thirst the Psalmist's deep longing was not for restoration to his palace and throne, or even to the tabernacle itself, but for a realization of the presence of the living God. Under these two figures he expresses his deep desire, his yearning of soul
for the communion with God. This is ever the attitude, the object,
the desire and longing of a healthful soul fellowship and communion with God.

There was a tradition among
the Jews, although these traditions are not altogether trustworthy, that Moses wrote the 90th Psalm. And it has always been felt that this psalm seemed to have some special connection
with, or reference to the experience and the impressions of the children of Israel in the days that they were doomed to wander up and down in the wilderness without being allowed to enter into the Promised Land. And there is much that corroborates that view.
It is the psalm of a generation
of men who felt themselves to be wasting away under the wrath of God. The vanity and emptiness of life are pressed home upon them with great severity. They are spending their years as a tale
that is told. At the same time it is not a psalm of mere wailing and lamentation. Very far from
it. There is the exercise of faith in it, in the appeal to God to come and dwell with them and make them experience his mercy. The cloud is dark that hangs over them but faith sees the bow in the cloud.

The slow sad experience of life
wrought out in the Psalmist a twofold result. He has learned the secret both of detachment and attachment. This aged pilgrim grows more and more weaned from the world and detached from things
trivial and temporal. He stands aloof from the accidents of existence. But he clings closer and closer to things unseen and eternal. Such should be the effect of a right numbering of the days and
years as they escape us, to teach
at last, though the world passeth
away, and the lust thereof, yet he who doeth the will of God abideth
forever.

Michigan Small Colleges Join Hands
To Seek Grants From State Industry

FIVE PRIVATE colleges in Michigan have merged forces to seek financial assistance from industry. Their aim is to raise money—free of strings if possible—to meet rising costs of operations.
They have enrolled under the name of the Michigan Colleges Foundation, Inc. And the door is open to other colleges not receiving tax support.

The charter members are:
Adrian college, Alma college, Emmanuel Missionary college (Berrien Springs), Hillsdale college and Hope college. It is by coincidence that all are church related, representing respectively Methodist, Presbyterian, Seventh-day Adventist, Baptist and Reformed church
in America.

The colleges got many of their ideas from Henry Ford II, who wrote in a Yale alumni publication that the private college
should flourish as an educational balance wheel to the state-supported university.

Sponsors believe that Ford's ideas will be echoed by other industrialists who may loosen the corporation purse strings to bring financial succor to private institutions.

THE FOUNDATION has named
as president Dr. Dale D. Welch
of Alma college. Other officers are Dr. Samuel J. Harrison of Adrian and Harvey L. Turner of Hillsdale.

To spearhead the drive, the foundation has named Dr. Bruce Raymond, former business manager of Hope college, as executive secretary. He will maintain offices in Detroit and will spend much of his time in the field contacting Michigan industrialists.
The chief argument for support
will be that state and city institutions are subject to whims of politicians and that private institutions should offer less fertile
ground for red-tainted instruction.
The foundation will not seek funds primarily for endowments—
the colleges need cash for operating expenses. And the foundation intends to make it as easy as possible for donors. If funds are to be earmarked for any particular
member of the foundation, that college will get those funds. But all unencumbered gifts will be divided equally among the five colleges. Or if other colleges come into the fold, they will receive equal shares, regardless of enrollment. Altogether, the charter members have about 4,000 students. Should all nine eligible colleges in Michigan enroll, this figure would be doubled.

AND THE FOUNDATION expects to use another approach. Instead of asking corporations or other foundations for large single grants of money, the colleges will ask for more modest sums on an annual basis, extending five, 10 or 20 years. The foundation trustees also hope that by making one appeal in the name of all, the colleges will fare better than if each college made a separate appeal.
They point out that any corporation that now makes a gift to a college expects to be a target for appeals from all, one at a time.

Sponsors say that before the war, the smaller colleges operated reasonably efficiently through endowments and tuition charges. But after the war all church related colleges felt obligated to expand
to take care of GI's and took into their student bodies many who would not normally be expected to attend. All doubled or trebled
their student populations above pre-war levels.

THEY HAVE MET mounting
costs of operating by increasing tuition and the only direct government aid was in the nature of housing, which further complicated the dollar famine.

Now that the crest of the GI
student wave is ebbing, there is a falling away of students, but the foundation has its eye on the statistical prediction that this is only a lull and that by 1960 the colleges will again be flooded with students. The small colleges need money from new sources to help balance the books. They fear they cannot further raise tuition fees,
because they would be pricing
themselves out of the market and many prospective students would attend state institutions.

The foundation points out that
one way or another industry is going to have to pay for larger student enrollments. If the students attend state institutions the cost to taxpayers will be $600 per year per student. And corporations are tax payers. If a considerable number of students can be kept in small colleges, the burden
on tax payers will be less because
the small colleges claim their money goes further.

Volleys From
Ambush

Junius Wood has further shaken
the Ambusher's confidence in Congressmen with this little story of goings-on at a chrony capital
cocktail caucus:

Senator Blank and Senator
Blink attended together. Now Senator Blank was an orator of
no small ability, while Senator Blink's principal attribute was that he was no brighter than lax laws allow. So when they found an animated discussion in a corner of the room, Senator Blank
jumped in with both feet.

"The discussion was whether Bacon had written Shakespeare's works."
"Ah, yes," boomed Senator Blank. "Senator Blink and I were discussing that very question on our way down here . . ." and proceeded to extend his remarks considerably, pausing on occasion to get an affirmative grunt from Senator Blink to back up his argument. Finally Blank ran down and the two august solons drifted
away to find other audiences.
Blink stood the suspense as long
as he could and finally blurted out:
"I say, Blank. That fellow Bacon you committed me to. Is he a Republican or a Democrat?"

Humor persists through the ages, and sometimes when jewels
of yesteryear turn up, current horseplay may appear drab by comparison.

The other day M. G. Manting, regarded as Holland's leading historian, turned over such a jewel
to Clyde Geerlings, public relations man at Hope college. It was a program for the 16th annual commencement June 22, 1881, the class of the late G. J. Diekema.

The cover was sedate as covers
were in those days, but the contents were shocking. In place of the speeches by the salutarian
and valedictorian, the program
substituted such subjects as "The Survival of Animals Raised on Milk" and "The Esthetics of Mud." Even a clog dance was announced.

What happened was that some college pranksters prepared a special set of programs and interspersed them through the regular programs. Since covers were identical, the contents could not be suspected. About every 10th person attending exercises in Hope church that day received a humor program.

Next, time grandpa starts talking about his early day shenanigans, better listen, Junior. His pranks are likely to be more
original than what gives today.

Poor woman! She received jaw
and foot injuries in an accident.
That started office was. "Maybe she's got hoof and mouth disease," one said.

After appreciative laughter,
another said, "Maybe she opened
her mouth and put her foot in it."

It's so easy to be glib about how things should be done. But doing something out of the ordinary can present complications.

Education Theme
Of Kiwanis Meet

"Education for Active Citizenship in a Postwar World" was the subject of a talk by Dr. Bert Bos, superintendent of Holland
Christian schools before the Kiwanis club Monday night at the Warm Friend Tavern.

"The postwar world should be based on the democratic way of life," Bos said, "and education
must contribute to clarify the meaning of democracy to make
for a better understanding of it
and appreciation of its privileges
and opportunities."

Bos, who expressed a need for more active participation by young people in governmental affairs, deplored the lack of interest
in government matters "because we have put a stigma on people
who are interested in trying to develop our nation."

The local educator also emphasized the necessity of developing initiative and individuality in the youth of the country, along with a sense of responsibility and self-discipline.

"In this material age there has been a tendency on the part of most of us to forget God and to neglect his worship," Bos said, explaining "it is essential there be a better understanding and appreciation of this problem of working together on the part of the church, school and home."

Pointing out the definite lack of religious education, Bos asserted
"there must be a return to Christian basic principles on which our country was established nearly 200 years ago."

Rhine Vander Meulen, program
chairman, introduced the speaker,
Daniel Vander Werf, Jr., president, conducted the meeting and welcomed John Eaton as a new member. Lester Flight of St.
Louis, Mo., was a guest.

Report of advance ticket sales
for the World Travel Series, colored moving picture program to be presented this winter by the

Herbert Bultuis.

New Hunting Laws List Time Limits For Area Nimrods

Game Licenses Void In Lower Peninsula From Sept. 22-Oct. 6

Leaves are beginning to change color. Sports store windows are cluttered with plaid jackets, guns, shells, etc. Hunting season draws near.

With the coming of hunting season, comes the annual state game law reminders—and a few game law changes.

One of the more important laws at this time is the regulation that voids small game licenses in the Lower Peninsula from Sept. 22 to Oct. 6, inclusive.

This law specifically means that hunting for crows or predatory birds is unlawful between those dates. It is unlawful to carry firearms in wild animal or bird areas between the dates. Carrying guns in cars also is unlawful between the dates.

Elmer Boorman, Holland conservation officer, emphasized that the old excuses such as "I was just taking my gun home," will not work.

Small game licenses are void in the Upper Peninsula from Sept. 16-30.

According to the law, duck hunting season opens at noon Oct. 7 and runs through Nov. 15. Daily limit per person is four, and a possession limit of eight birds, including not more than one wood duck.

The following official wildlife time limits are in effect for hunters of migratory waterfowl in this area:

Oct. 7-14	6:20	5:17
Oct. 15-21	6:29	5:04
Oct. 22-28	6:37	4:53

And a rule that applies to bow and arrow hunters specifies that bows must be unstrung while being carried in an automobile. Purpose of this regulation is to eliminate deer hunting from automobiles.

All trapping seasons this year open at noon instead of midnight as in other years.

And this year, hunters must have permits for camps on state-owned lands. A camp registration must be posted at the campsite. Registration cards should be left after hunters break camp.

Any licensed agent has camping blanks. Hunters are advised to get a registration card if they are in doubt about land ownership. Through the law, state conservation officers can check on nimrods who leave junk and debris at campsites.

Reliable Service at Ottawa Auto Sales

Ottawa Auto Sales, Inc., 12-14 West Seventh St., is one of the firms in Holland to which people look for their automobile needs. Sam Dagen, president of the firm, says, "Ottawa Auto Sales, Inc., isn't the only place in this community where you will get a fair square deal in the purchase or sale of a car or truck, or repair service, but it is one place that is building its future by the way it serves its customers."

Their business is selling and supplying automobile transportation to this community in the form of new cars, used cars, parts, material and skilled labor. "That is why we are investing in more facilities, building up a larger establishment, sparing no effort or expense to learn more about our business and becoming more proficient in all that we do," Dagen says.

"We may be wrong but we believe the time is close when we will be asking you to drop in to see some of the new Dodge and Plymouth automobiles we have in stock for immediate delivery. If our hunch is right, the time will come when we will be glad that many people learned to depend on us for their new cars and for repair service," Dagen continues.

The management says, "When we sell or service a new or used Dodge or Plymouth, we are thinking of a satisfied customer as the greatest asset of our business."

Holland Persons Testify at Trial In Barry Court

John Loring of Caledonia, was found guilty of reckless driving by a 12-member jury Monday in Barry county circuit court. Loring was ordered to appear for sentencing Saturday morning at 10 a.m.

The charge was the outgrowth of an accident April 30, three and a half miles south of Caledonia on M-37. The car he was driving was involved in a mishap with cars driven by Mrs. Jud Bolhuis of South Shore Dr., and Mrs. Henry Oonk of 191 West 27th St.

The local women were returning to Holland with carloads of Klompen dancers who had performed at the Hastings high school J-hop earlier that evening.

Mrs. Oonk and four girls were injured in the collisions. The Oonk car was struck almost head-on by the Loring car and the Bolhuis car was sideswiped.

Mrs. Joseph Borgman was driving the car ahead of Mrs. Bolhuis. Loring was driving in the opposite direction.

Mrs. Oonk was seriously hurt in the accident. She received a broken knee cap, smashed heel, and a severe concussion. She was in St. Mary's hospital at Grand Rapids for 10 days following the accident and returned home in an ambulance.

She was abed at her home until mid-June. A cast was removed from her leg four weeks ago.

"I have been having trouble with my left eye ever since the accident," Mrs. Oonk told the Sentinel today.

Mrs. Oonk was carried on a chair to Hope chapel last June to watch her daughter graduate from Holland high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolhuis, Mrs. Oonk and 11 girls that were involved in the accident went to Hastings Monday to testify at the trial. Loring had appealed a municipal court conviction rendered Aug. 11.

Mrs. Oonk told the Sentinel today that the Caledonia man didn't have insurance on his car and already her bill has exceeded $1,400. Both cars were sold to junk dealers, she said.

Fish Tug Finds Drowned Boater Far Off Shore

Friends, Relatives Identify Young Man From Dental Charts

The body of a man found floating in Lake Michigan Tuesday afternoon has been identified as Robert Arnold Gulbrandsen, of Chicago, 19-year-old Northwestern university student. The body was found by the crew of the fishing tug Bon Jour. Gulbrandsen had been missing since Aug. 31.

The body was found at 3:15 p.m. seven miles due west of Holland harbor. Keith Chambers of Jensen Park, tug owner, said the Bon Jour was returning from a regular run to nets in the lake.

The Ben Jour with the body in tow was spotted from above by a northbound airliner on regular flight. Believing the Bon Jour to be in distress, the airliner messaged Chicago Coast Guard, which in turn called Holland Coast Guard. Gustave A. Nynas of the local station and a crew met the Ben Jour several miles out and brought the body to the Coast Guard dock at Macatawa. There they were met by Coroner Gilbert Vande Water, sheriff's officers, city police and state police.

Gulbrandsen and a fellow Northwestern student, Don Kenney, 22, of Ludington and Naperville, Ill., had left Milwaukee, Wis., at 1 p.m. Aug. 31 for Kenosha, Wis., in the sail boat "Kins-Rho" owned by Kenney and Don Rhodes, 27, also of Naperville.

Kenney said he and Gulbrandsen were caught in a gale on Lake Michigan and about midnight the boat tipped over. For two hours the two clung to the vessel and when the storm subsided, Gulbrandsen said he was going to swim for shore. It was the last Kenney saw of him alive.

Kenney was in the water 23 hours before he was picked up by a tug from Milwaukee. Coast guardsmen of Kenosha took him to St. Catherine's hospital where he was a patient five days.

Gulbrandsen's badly decomposed body was identified by his teeth and by his apparel. When found he was wearing white swim trunks, Navy rain jacket with cape, a blue life preserver and an undershirt stenciled "Northwestern" and showing the university seal. Identification was made at the Dykstra funeral home by Kenney and Rhodes and by Roy Hansen, an uncle of Gulbrandsen. Accompanying them were Gulbrandsen's mother and Mrs. Rhodes. The group arrived in Holland at 2:30 a.m. today after being notified by Chicago Coast Guardsmen. Teeth identification was made from a chart provided by Gulbrandsen's dentist.

Officers speculated that the body drifted nearly across Lake Michigan in the weeks since the boat was upset in heavy seas off Milwaukee. Absence of markings on the dead man's clothing added to the problems of identification.

Gulbrandsen was born in Chicago April 21, 1930. He is survived by his mother, Alice, and a sister, Karen, 10. His father, Arnie, died a few years ago.

The body will be taken to the Charles W. Anderson funeral home in Chicago. Burial is scheduled Friday at Elmwood Memorial park at Elmwood park, Ill.

It was first believed the body was one of four persons drowned when the yawl Lorelei II was wrecked Sept. 4 between Michigan City and Chicago. At that time the body of Mrs. Laurel Neitzel, 22, wife of Carl Neitzel, was found lashed to the rigging of the craft. Bodies of the other three have not been recovered. They were Mrs. Neitzel's husband, Carl, Louis McQuessan, 24, and his wife, Clarice, 22, all of Chicago.

Nothing else belied a theory expressed at first that the body could have been that of John D. Rice, Flint pilot who with a woman passenger disappeared on a flight to Milwaukee Sept. 12.

Showers Compliment Miss Ruth Vander Leek

Miss Ruth Vander Leek was guest of honor at a personal shower Friday evening given by Mrs. Ray Stam of 212 West 14th St. Miss Vander Leek will be married on Oct. 3 to Charles Niersman, Jr., of Muskegon.

Games were played and duplicate prizes awarded to Mrs. Robert Harrington and Miss Margaret Baraman. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Gifts were tied to streamers which fell from a decorated umbrella.

Guests were Miss Sadie Van Langevelde, Miss Doris Wieskamp, Miss Barbara Zoeller, Mrs. Harrington, Miss Baraman and the guest of honor.

On Tuesday evening, Miss Zoeller entertained at a shower for Miss Vander Leek. The party was held at the Zoeller home in Muskegon. Guests were members of the 1949 graduating class of Hackley hospital School of Nursing, of which Miss Vander Leek was a member. A gift was presented to the guest of honor from the group and the evening was spent socially.

Miss Vander Leek was honored at a miscellaneous shower last Thursday evening given by Mrs. Charles Meraman, Sr., in Grand Rapids. There were 25 guests present.

This unposed photo symbolizes the drama of death by drowning. Officials are intent looking for possible identification on a life jacket found on the body of a man in Lake Michigan. This jacket and clothing provided the first clues to establishing the identity of 19-year-old Robert Gulbrandsen of Chicago, missing from Milwaukee since Aug. 31. Crouching near the preserver are, left to right,

85th Convocation Opens Hope College Activities

The 85th annual convocation exercise was held at Hope Memorial chapel this morning with Dr. Bernard J. Mulder of Metuchen, N. J., as speaker. Dr. Mulder is general secretary of the board of education, Reformed Church in America.

The college chapel was filled with new and returning students and visitors as the new school year officially opened.

Dr. Mulder's subject for the occasion was "A Kite Across the Niagara," in which he compared the skill and preparation of building and flying a kite across the gorge with education as a preparation for life and success. He challenged Hope college students to decide what it is that the world needs, and then to set their goals accordingly. "A thorough preparation plus hard work spells achievement," he said.

The exercises were opened with a procession of the college chapel choir and the faculty. Dr. M. Eugene Osterhaven gave the invocation. Scripture was read by Dr. E. D. Dimmet, president emeritus. He read the same selection that has been read at each convocation since the turn of the century.

The Rev. John J. Banninga, of Claremont, Calif., member of the class of 1898, led the prayer and pronounced the benediction. Mrs. George Lumsden sang "The Ninety and Nine," by Campion, accompanied by Mrs. W. Curtis Snow at the organ. Mrs. Snow also played for other numbers throughout the program.

Following the convocation address, Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, Hope president, spoke briefly and paid tribute to the first president of Hope college, Dr. Philip Phelps. He related that at the first convocation in 1864 there were 45 students and six faculty members. Dr. Lubbers then asked Mrs. Lubbers to escort the first president's daughter, Mrs. J. A. Otte, to the chapel stage, where she could view the audience. Mrs. Otte is one of the first female graduates of Hope.

Activities at the college today include registration of freshmen. Tonight there will be a campus orientation meeting in the chapel to introduce and explain college extra-curricular activities. The student council is in charge of the meeting.

Some May flies have an adult life lasting only six hours.

Tauno Hannikainen, conductor of the Chicago symphony orchestra, will direct three of the four concerts to be presented this season by the West Shore Symphony, according to decision of the symphony board of directors.

Mr. Hannikainen has an international reputation as a musician and conductor. He came to the United States in 1940 from Europe as guest conductor with the Boston symphony and immediately won success. Later he conducted the New York, Detroit, Minneapolis, Toronto and Duluth symphonies and was guest conductor of the Philadelphia symphony at Robin Hood Dell. He was engaged for the 1946-47 season as guest conductor of the Chicago orchestra and is now director of this famous group.

Palmer Quackenbush of Grand Haven, who organized and has been conductor of the symphony since 1938, will be the associate conductor and will be in entire charge of the orchestra personnel. He will continue to direct rehearsals.

As in previous years concerts will be held in Grand Haven and Muskegon on consecutive nights.

First appearance of Mr. Hannikainen with the orchestra will be Oct. 24 in Grand Haven, followed by a repeat concert in Muskegon on Oct. 25. Next concert dates are Dec. 5 and 6. Other dates will be set later.

Walter Hummel, president of the orchestra association, stated that it is his and Mrs. Quackenbush's desire to make the orchestra "one of the best for the size of the community in which it appears." Mr. Quackenbush coached with Mr. Hannikainen last year and through this association the plan to bring him here began.

Holland-Zeeland Employers Attend Round-Table Talk

An enthusiastic audience of 20 Holland and Zeeland industrialists attended a round-table discussion on employee-employer relations Thursday night at the Warm Friend Tavern.

John M. Convery, member of the industrial relations staff of the National Association of Manufacturers, headed the discussion.

Convery emphasized the need of giving workers a true picture of America's economic system. He related the importance of personal contact within industry, thereby giving workers an interest in welfare and progress of the company.

Convery said it is necessary to make employees feel they are part of the business and understand their wants and thoughts.

"Initiative must come from top executives to improve the labor-management relations," Convery said.

Day-to-day dealings with workers by management are the framework for good relations in a plant, the NAM representative said.

"The main concern of employees, is the assurance of steady work and steady pay," Convery said. "Employers must meet problems face to face and should not try to hide the profits."

Following the discussion, it was suggested that a foremen's club be formed in this area. It would include bosses from all interested plants. Its purpose would be to better industrial relations.

The Chamber of Commerce, that sponsored the round-table, will make a survey of the area and get opinions on what management thinks of a foreman's club.

Bears Top Canes By Baseball Tally In Football Game

Penalties and Fumbles Mar League Contest; Four Hurricanes Hurt

Whistle-happy officials and fumbles featured the Highland Park-Holland Hurricane fracas Saturday night. The visitors eked out a 2-0 win over the Canes.

According to Lions club officials 1,632 paid admissions watched the game at Riverview park. Highland Park scored the baseball-like victory early in the third quarter. Following the second half kickoff, the Canes offense was stalled for three downs. Laverne Boeve dropped back to the Hurricane two-yard line in punt formation. Center Norm Baggot loosed a back-pass that sailed over Boeve's head and rolled into the end zone. Boeve raced back, picked up the ball, but the Highland Park line was on him before he could get out.

The Bears had two points and Holland kicked off from its own 20.

The loss was costly for Holland. It plunged the Canes into the Michigan Football league cellar and cost the services of four outstanding players, notably Jason De Vries.

De Vries suffered a badly injured hip and will be out of action for at least two weeks, if not the season, according to coaches. Vern Vandewater received a bruised shoulder and will be out at least one week. Jack Westerhoff hurt his finger and Tony "Tiny" Wesolowski was sidelined with a sore hand.

Halfback Paul Tenerian of Highland Park received a possible fracture of an arm.

There were 16 fumbles in the game, 10 by Holland and six by the visitors. Highland Park was penalized 90 yards to 50 against the Canes.

Holland outrushed the visitors, 117 yards to 93, but the first downs were even at six apiece.

Both teams bogged down on offense or fumbled in crucial spots. Highland Park had the most scoring opportunities. The visitors worked the ball to Holland's four yard line, 15, 13 and 17, but each time lost it on downs, fumbles or penalties. Midway in the fourth period, Holland pushed the ball to Highland Park's seven-yard line but lost it on downs.

Quarterback Jerry Nemman kept Holland in its own territory most of the evening with his deft quick kicks.

Holland scored a touchdown in the third period, but officials ruled a runner can't pick up a fumble and run with it. Boeve had punted to tailback Ed Skownski on the Bear's 36. Skownski fumbled and Don Leeuw snatched up the ball and raced over the goal.

However, officials called the play back and said the ball was dead on the 36.

Holland's offensive attack was improved from last week's showing at Grand Rapids, but repeatedly bogged down in the clutches. The locals tried 20 passes in the game and completed four. Two were intercepted.

Highland Park's standouts were Skownski and Ed Crook, both speedy and elusive backs. Both were potent threats after taking laterals or handoffs from Quarterback Nemman. Tackles Platon Tarloff and Wendy Holens played good defensive games for the Bears.

Holland's standouts were Tackle Lawrence McCormick, Center Jim Schurman on offense and defense, Tackle Jack Harrington and Ed Boeve.

August Shipping On Great Lakes Hits Postwar High

Despite slackening activity in Great Lakes shipping during recent weeks, the season's record as of Sept. 1 showed the largest post-war movement of ore and grain, according to Lake Carriers' Ass'n. Grain shipments for August were the heaviest for the month since 1945.

Coal volume was understandably down for the month, and for the season, but addition of cumulative tonnages for the three major commodities up to September 1st placed 1949 ahead of 1948 by the margin of a single cargo, 97,761,465 net tons, as against 97,753,367 net tons.

A comparison of basic commodity movements, compiled by Lake Carriers' Ass'n., for August and for the season to date follows:

Iron Ore: 11,314,928 gross tons in August, about 300,000 tons below August of 1948, but well ahead for the season, 57,268,216 gross tons, as against 54,569,709 gross tons on September 1, 1948.

Coal: 5,271,702 net tons, appreciably below August 1948's 8,656,532 net tons, and for the season to date, 26,901,583 net tons compared with 32,727,503 net tons on September 1, 1948.

Grain: 1,435,250 net tons, nearly double the 833,869 net tons of August a year ago, and for the season, 6,719,480 tons, nearly twice the 3,907,790 tons carried up to September 1, 1948.

The several carriers now being used for grain storage will be appreciably reduced the ore movement during the balance of the navigating season.

Joe Fendt Named Acting Captain For Ottawa Game

Coach Bob Stupka gave his first 11 players a comparative rest Monday afternoon while he concentrated on building up the Dutch reserve strength.

Led by Quarterback Bruce Van Voort, the regulars did exercise and ran through plays Right Guard Jack Kuipers turned up after Friday's game with a bruised shoulder muscle but is expected to be ready for this week's game. Halfback Tom Carey did not report for practice Monday because of a stomach hurt but will be ready to go this week.

The Hollanders travel to Grand Rapids Friday night for a game against the Ottawa Hills Indians at South field. Ottawa bowed to East Grand Rapids 13-6 in its season inaugural last Friday night.

Right Halfback Joe Fendt has been named acting captain of the Dutch for this week's game.

While the regulars ran plays and concentrated on ball handling and timing, Stupka and his aide Curley Wiegink pitted their reserves against Coach Carroll Norlin's second team in a rugged scrimmage.

Norlin's rangy second teamers were on offense and the reserves took the defense. Throughout the scrimmage the reserves kept the scrubs' offense bottled up most of the time.

Stupka pointed out his need for reserve strength to back up his first eleven. He said only one man can be considered on par with the first-stringers at this time. The others are questionable.

Practice this week will consist of more blocking and tackling work along with timing and ball handling.

"We may scrimmage for a while tonight, but we aren't going to take any chances on our regulars getting hurt," Stupka said.

Stupka and Wiegink were satisfied with last Friday's showing against Creston, but said blocking and tackling need improvement.

Holland Wallops GR Creston 24-6 In Opening Game

Record Crowd Sees Locals Display Blocking and Tackling

Coach Bob Stupka unveiled a scrapping Holland high team Friday night before the largest opening game crowd in the history of the local high school. School officials estimated more than 5,000 persons crammed into Riverview park to watch the Dutch maul Grand Rapids Creston 24-6.

Holland's deft, blocking and tackling—football fundamentals—were the differences between the teams. A quartet of the best backs seen on a local high school team in many years, provided the scoring punch.

The Dutch didn't waste any time getting their season off on the right foot. A few minutes before the end of the first quarter, little Tom Carey, playing his first varsity game, dashed through a mile-wide hole in the center of the line, headed for the sidelines, and outran the Creston secondary to score standing up from the 23 yard line.

Jack Kuipers set up the scoring chance when he partially blocked Dan Stevens' punt and the ball went laterally out of bounds on Creston's 35 yard marker. Joe Fendt piloted through center to the 26 and Bob Tasma bulldozed his way off tackle to the 23 and a first down. Carey carried the mail from there.

Paul Vander Meer's extra point boot was wide.

After returning the kickoff to the 25, Creston lost three yards on a lateral pass play. Holland was offside on the next play, bringing the ball to Creston's 27. Herb Stouten fumbled and Ivan Imminck pounced on the ball on Creston's 24. Tasma rammed to the 11 for a first down. Carey picked up two yards to the nine. Tasma went to the three and on the next play exploded through left tackle to score.

A holding penalty put the extra point try back to the 17. On the next play both teams were caught holding. Bruce Van Voort's pass was incomplete and the point no good.

Creston caught Holland napping just before the half to score its lone six points. An ancient sleeper play, with third down and 30 yards to go, covered 36 yards and put the ball on Holland's one-yard line. Quarterback Dick Proos tossed the ball out to Stouten who raced to the one. On the next play Stouten hit pay dirt. Gale Imhoff's extra-point plunge was no good.

Early in the third period, after Creston marched from its 35 to Holland's 40, Burt Harris fumbled and Jack Hobeck recovered on Holland's 38. Tasma and Carey, and a 15-yard unnecessary roughness penalty moved the ball to the Polar Bears' 24. Tasma went around left end, followed his interference, and scored standing up. Right Halfback Joe Fendt provided the key block as he crashed a would-be Polar Bear tackler out of the picture. Tasma's extra point boot was low.

On the first play after the kickoff, Fendt plucked Proos' pass out of the air on Creston's 45 and ran to the visitor's 20 before he was spilled. Fendt went to the 16. Carey took a handoff to the 10. Glenn Essenburg lost five. Van Voort punted a pass over center to Imminck on the Creston three. Essenburg plunged through left guard for the score. Vander Meer's kick was no good.

Creston dominated offensive play throughout the final period. Hats off to the entire Holland forward wall led by Jack Hobeck. From end to end Ivan Imminck, Hobeck, Don Sprong, Jay Vander Sluis, Jack Kuipers, Roger Hill and Jack Kruid, were outstanding.

Bruce Van Voort must receive a pat on the back for his field generalship and devastating ankle-high tackling.

News of Interest to Western Michigan Farm Operators

Use of Homemade Electric Fences Carry Big Risk

You're taking a big risk if you use homemade electric fence equipment on the farm, warns Robert Maddex, Michigan State college agricultural engineer.

Each year, the newspapers report cases of deaths and injuries to humans and stock caused by electric fences constructed by farmers to operate from the ordinary lighting circuit.

Farmers who make these fences often believe that they are saving money both from the amount of fence needed and the cost of purchasing an approved fence controller. The farmers who use these fences believe them safe because they arrange to have the current flow through a light bulb with a low wattage. This continuous current does not give the needed warning sting but rather gives a paralyzing shock that may keep the victim from pulling away from the wire. Serious burns or electrocution may result.

A good electric fence saves time, labor, and materials, Maddex states, but the controller should be of an approved type. The controllers which bear an approval give only a warning sting, which causes the person or animal touching them to pull away immediately, unharmed.

Maddex advises purchase only a fence controller that has been constructed to give good dependable service with no danger to animals or people. Constructing a homemade controller may mean that you are making a death trap on your farm.

Fertilizer Outlook Bright for 1950

The outlook for fertilizer supplies for 1950 is brighter, L. R. Arnold, agricultural agent for Ottawa county, learned today from officials at Michigan State college. He warned farmers, however, that they should purchase fertilizers to be needed next spring and take delivery whenever it can be made.

Nitrogen production is expected to be up about 25 per cent. Potash materials may increase 10 to 12 per cent and phosphate materials for fertilizer are about 15 per cent greater, Arnold reports.

Although production facilities have also increased, the fertilizer industry faces a big problem of keeping plants going during the fall and winter because of a lack of storage.

Ottawa county farmers should purchase and accept delivery this fall or winter instead of waiting until spring, the agent advised. Such action will assure the farmers of having an adequate supply and also enable factories to utilize fully their labor and equipment and produce maximum output.

A dry, well-ventilated place is needed for storage of the fertilizer, the agent explained. It should not be stacked more than six to 10 bags high and should be placed on planks in a manner to allow circulation of air underneath the piles.

Custom Rates Listed For Harvest of Corn

With corn harvest time rapidly approaching, Byron Bookhout and R. W. Christian, Michigan State college agricultural economists, have released results of a recent survey of custom charges for this work.

The survey covers many custom operators in Michigan and presents the most common rates charged. Custom rates for picking corn were reported for both one and two row pickers. The two row pickers were used briefly in the southern part of the state.

The most common rates for picking corn with a one row picker were $5 per acre or $5 per hour.

Farmers reporting custom work with two row pickers gave rates only on an acre basis. The rates were lower with two row pickers than for one row pickers. The most common rate was $4 per acre.

Some farmers reported that they furnished one or two wagons with the corn picker. The custom rates were about the same with or without wagons. The custom workers who furnished wagons apparently felt they could do more work in a day and thus increase their income.

Ottawa 4-H'ers Attend Conservation Camp

Three Ottawa county 4-H boys attended the Conservation camp at Chatham this week. They are Robert Henning, Coopersville; Orle Bennett, Allendale; and Joseph Voeveck of Grand Haven.

Accompanied by the County 4-H agent, Dean Troop, they left last week Monday morning, and returned Saturday. These boys have all been active in 4-H conservation projects as well as many others during the past several years.

The Kentucky Derby has been run every May since 1875.

Culling Dairy Herd Brings More Income

Jim Hays, extension dairy specialist at Michigan State college, thinks the best way for the dairyman to meet the price squeeze is through keeping records and eliminating the cows not making a profit.

Testing to find out just how much each cow is producing and feeding animals in proportion to production is one of the first steps. Then Hays says any cow that produces less than 200 pounds of fat a year as a two-year-old or 300 pounds of butterfat as a three-year-old would make the farmer more money when sold at current good prices for beef animals.

He advises culling the herd before beef prices start to drop.

Farm Dining Room Common Problem

To have or not have a dining room is a common problem with farm families building or remodeling homes. You may like to eat in the kitchen at least part of the time, yet you may want a separate dining room.

If you decide to have a dining room, the space can be used to better advantage if it is so arranged that sewing, studying, and the keeping of business records can be done there.

It is not usually desirable, believes Mary E. Bullis, home extension agent, to use the living room for family meals. The living and dining rooms can be combined, however, into one space by partially separating the two with a partition or a storage wall, or by making the dining room an ell or alcove off the living room.

In planning a dining room, remember that 11 feet is the minimum width to accommodate a full-sized table, chairs and other furniture. Each person needs 24 inches of table space. Thus tables should be 48 inches long to seat two people on each side, 72 inches to seat three, and 96 inches to seat four.

Dining tables should be at least 30 inches wide. Full-sized tables are 36 to 48 inches wide. Allow 30 inches of clearance between the table and other furniture or wall so that the chairs may be pushed back.

Place doorways leading from the dining room in such a way as to permit direct passage to both kitchen and living room.

Fire Destroys Barn on M-40

Fire of undetermined origin Sunday afternoon destroyed an old barn on the Fred Van Dommelen farm on M-40, located 4 1/2 miles southeast of Holland. Included in the loss were a heifer calf and 25 tons of hay.

Occupants in a passing car noticed the fire in the roof of the barn at 5 p.m. While the woman in the car notified persons in the home, the driver ran to the barn and drove out two heifer calves and a cow. Another heifer was tied with a chain which the man could not dislodge.

Overseer fire department was called but the fire was beyond control. Loss was estimated at $2,500.

Two Cars Collide At Local Crossing

Two cars crashed at the intersection of 22nd St. and College Ave., Saturday afternoon.

A car going south on College Ave. was driven by Mrs. Anna Pike of New Richmond, and a car going west on 22nd St., driven by Israel Roden of Grand Rapids, were involved.

Roden told police he was about three-quarters of the way through the intersection when he was hit. Mrs. Pike said she was coming slow and the other car bumped into her car.

Drying Care Needed for Home Lumber Supply

Drying is one of the most important operations in the utilization of homegrown timber says Michigan college foresters. A few precautions will help insure better quality lumber.

The foresters say lumber should be stacked on a site well-drained and exposed to the wind. It should be kept free of weeds and trash and should be 25 or more feet from the nearest building. A strong foundation is important. Concrete piers are best, but wooden ones can be made by sinking posts into the ground.

Horn Blowers Cited

Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff today warned that officers are going to crack-down on excessive horn blowing after football games. Van Hoff said the station received many complaints after Friday night's game. He said police would allow 15 minutes after games before making arrests.

SAFETY MEASURES

The Cream of Michigan's 4-H Club Crop

More than 4,000 Michigan 4-H club members entered 5,000 individual exhibits at the State 4-H club show at Michigan State college early this month. Hundreds of champions were named.

Included among them were these: (1) State champions in garden judging and the right to represent Michigan at the national contest at Washington, D. C. in December are James Brinks, Plymouth; Alan Curtis, Mason; and Maxine Harris, Mattawan. (2) The "queen" of the 16,000 girls who entered clothing projects is 17-year-old Donna Kalmbach, route 1, Chelsea. The style revue champion will take time from her studies at Michigan State college this December to model in the 4-H club congress dress revue in Chicago.

(3) Grand champions of the dairy breeds around the clock starting at 12 o'clock (top) are: Robert Henning, Coopersville (Guernsey); James Brenay, South Lyon (Ayrshire); John Russell, Battle Creek (Red Poll); Clarence Reeves, Ithaca (Milking Shorthorn); Leo Myers, Midland (Brown Swiss); and Ann Reisbig, Ionia (Holstein). John Vredenburg, Ada (Jersey) was not available for the picture. (4) To live up the show, Leo Myers' 7-year-old cow gave birth to a calf and he named him "Mack"—for Macklin stadium. Then his cow, "Mary," showed before the judge the following morning and won the grand championship for Brown Swiss.

(5) Plowing champ Fred Long, Tecumseh, (center) gets congratulations from second place winner Dan Gilchrist, Eden, (right) as Fred Feight, third place winner also from Tecumseh, seems glad that his buddy won. Herd Replacement Poses Problems

Should a dairyman raise his own dairy herd replacements or buy them is a question that is quite often asked of L. R. Arnold, Ottawa county agricultural agent. Arnold says there are definitely two schools of thought with advantages on both sides of the question. But more farmers raise their own replacements.

The theory that you can raise your own heifer replacements cheaper did not stand up in a recent survey made by Michigan State college farm management specialists, the agent says. The average farmer in the survey had about $237 tied up in a heifer he had raised and freshened. But the average cow purchased by those covered in the survey cost only $217.

The county agent says, however, it is important to consider what type of a dairy animal you get for the price you pay. Most people do not sell their best young cows, especially if they're going to stay in the dairy business.

The risk of bringing disease into the herd through purchased cows is also a consideration. Many farmers also have a definite program of herd improvement mapped out and want to use their own animals.

Arnold says the survey showed the average farmer covered in the MSC survey purchased 3.6 heifers and bought 1.5 cows for herd replacement. Since the average herd was 16.5 cows, the 5.1 replacements each year meant an average turnover of the entire herd every three years or more.

"That's a good reason for keeping a good producer when you get one—especially if she will produce you good calves every year," the agent concluded.

Speeder Fined

Mary Milewski, 19, of South Shore Dr., paid a $5 speeding fine in municipal court Thursday Steve Boneburg of 214 West Ninth St., and Carl A. Bunce of Fremont, each paid $1 parking fines.

PARASITES DESTROY

Parasites cut livestock profits by millions of dollars, causing loss of weight, anemia, and unthriftiness. Control of these pests will mean more money for livestock producers.

Cape Horn is at the Southernmost tip of South America.

Grass Pasture Ups Milk Production

Robert De Pree, tester of the Southeast Testing association, emphasizes a point long stressed by L. R. Arnold and the West Ottawa Soil Conservation district, namely, that nothing can keep up milk production better than good grass. Good grass will produce milk at less cost, less labor.

This is more or less shown by results on the Neal Andre farm. Andre's herd placed first in the large cow division. He had the two high milkers in the class under three years, had high cow in the class under four years of age and had high cow in the mature class. This was not accomplished except through some important factor. This factor is good grass produced through irrigation. Andre's farm is situated in such a way that ditches supply ready water during summer months when many non-irrigated pastures dry up.

This association which has 24 herds listed, shows an average fat production of over 30 pounds fat for July.

Other herd owners who placed in the tests were: Eugene Brower, second in class under four years; Lloyd Heckel, first, and Bernie De Vries, second, under five years; Bernie De Vries, second, mature class over five years; Harold Ter Haar and Elmo Heft, first and second, small herd, 5 to 10 cows; Virgil Warren and Groen Bros., first and second, medium herd, 11 to 20 cows; Lloyd Heckel, large herd, 21 or more cows.

Begin Decorating With Colors from Walls, Draperies

"Where do I start?" is the big question of homemakers planning to decorate.

The easiest rule-of-thumb is to start a new color scheme from a floral print or pattern. The pattern may be in your new wallpaper or draperies. Wherever it is, its colors can provide the scheme of an entire room. Study each room carefully and find out what your home needs.

Use no more than three different colors in each room. Four are permissible if one is a neutral gray, beige or white. Several shades of the same color count as one color. All colors should be clear, clean and bright if you want a cheerful place to live.

There should be only one major pattern in each room. Remainder of the room should be in solid colors, with perhaps one stripe or one plaid to blend.

Furniture styles should blend together. Periods need not be identical but woods and styling should be similar.

Pictures and accessories should serve a purpose. Pictures should be large or grouped to give importance to a particular piece of furniture. Knickknacks should enhance a piece of furniture rather than overshadow it.

Furniture arrangement should be the best possible. Traffic lanes should not be blocked. Largest pieces should be grouped around one main center of interest. All furnishings should be useful. Extra odds and ends should be discarded.

Fall Is Time to Build New Lawn

Fall is nature's chosen seeding time. You can't choose a better time to build a new lawn or to renovate your old lawn. The warm days and cool nights, the heavy dew and frequent rains that come with late summer and fall are ideal for seed germination and deep root development.

Follow these simple steps to lawn beauty:

1. Spade deeply all bare spots and areas without dense sod. Pulverize the soil thoroughly.

2. Apply complete plant food over entire lawn area. Use four pounds per 100 square feet of area. Use a spreader to secure even coverage. If done by hand, apply half lengthwise and half crosswise.

3. Work plant food into the soil using a rake or any other appropriate tool. On spots with established sod, water the plant food into the soil.

4. Seed with high grade grass seed a few days after feeding. Buy the heaviest and cleanest seed obtainable, use about four or five pounds per 1,000 square feet on bare areas and about two or three pounds on thin sod.

5. Roll the lawn. This will embed the seed and assure close seed-soil contact. A tamper or board can be used on small areas. This is an important step, do not omit it.

6. Sprinkle daily with a fine spray until the grass germinates. Follow these steps and the grass will develop a strong root system before winter comes. The kind of a root system that will give you a thick, green turf next summer.

Check Farm Tractor for High Fuel Consumption

If you're interested in having money in tractor operation, the Michigan State college farm machinery specialists have a few hints.

Any of a number of things can be causing high consumption of fuel, faulty spark timing, improper valve tappet setting, leaky valves, or a partially plugged radiator.

Then they suggest a check on the setting of the load needle valve of the carburetor. Even one quarter turn of this valve beyond that which is necessary can result in the use of at least two more gallons of fuel each day.

Be careful not to set the mixture too lean, however, for it will cause the engine to misfire and lose power.
