Six Holland area fishermen recently returned from a week-long trip to Canada where the "fish are so ample the catches are measured in pounds rather than number." The fishing site, located approximately 500 miles north of International Falls, Minn., is appropriately named, Great Trout Lake. Using standard bait and casting equipment, the anglers pulled in northern pike ranging up to 24 pounds and lake trout weighing 22 pounds. Holding part of their catch are, (left to right), George Louwma, Russ Boeve, Russ Bouwe, John Jouma, Clair Harrington and Irvele Harrington.

City Auditorium Issue Is Placed On Nov. 4 Ballot

Only Property Owners Will Be Eligible to Vote on Proposal

Holland citizens will decide Nov. 4 whether they want a municipal recreation building for this city.

This decision was made Wednesday night by Common Council after plans were presented for such a building by representatives of Louis C. Kingscott and Associates of Kalamazoo who had been retained to make preliminary plans by a special citizens committee headed by Arnold W. Hertel, former alderman.

Council's action specifically calls for a special election to be held in conjunction with the general election Nov. 4 to decide whether the city shall be bonded for $500,000 to construct a municipal recreation building.

Persons eligible to vote on the special issue will be registered electors who own property assessed for taxation, together with their wives or husbands.

Plans were explained by Raymond M. Stappert of the Kalamazoo architectural firm who submitted three mounts for council's perusal. One was of site development, another of the first floor plans and the last an architect's sketch of the building.

Plans developed thus far call for erection on the tannery property in the area of the northwest corner, leaving the entire eastern section to be developed for parking area accommodating 321 cars. The northwest location provides the most desirable site for a municipal building, and the large parking area on the east allows best accommodations for downtown shoppers, since the parking lot would be in use much of the time.

Site borings have established that the western part of the property is the best for construction since the eastern portion has an old creek or river bed underneath. Even so, some fill on the western section would have to be penetrated for a suitable foundation.

Designer Stappert explained that the firm had given as much thought as possible to all-round activities for a given amount of money and has based its plans mainly about a gymnasium-auditorium arrangement, with stage facilities, dressing rooms, reception center, showers and rest rooms, serving facilities for banquet hall, exhibition or game rooms and other accommodations.

The large central floor provides a basketball floor 50 by 90 feet with a five-foot perimeter clearance and a series of movable bleachers which would seat 1,460 persons. When removable bleachers are removed, there is space available for two practice basketball floors. A balcony on three sides with fixed seats on elevators provides room for another 1,062 persons. Together with additional seats on the stage, 2,700 or more persons could be accommodated at a basketball game.

For an auditorium, the center floor could seat 1,000 persons on the chairs, and in all provide accommodations for close to 2,500 persons. The ample stage measures 23 by 60 feet with an open proscenium 40 feet wide which could be narrowed by folding screens.

In the stage area are dressing rooms, lavatories, a serving room for banquets and a dishwashing center. No facilities are included for banquet cooking, and the architect explained that things of that nature would likely be taken care of by caterers.

Along the south wall would be lockers and shower rooms, a room for game officials, room for a concession and a general office. Space for small game rooms would occupy the corresponding space on the north side. The main entrance would face east, fronted by a wide cement drive where car drivers could easily drop passengers before finding a parking space.

Plans call for a minimum of development in the basement, although some small rooms are planned under the locker rooms. The boiler room and a general storage room under the stage would be in the basement.

The balcony running around three sides of the building would be unobstructed. A press and radio box would occupy a desirable spot high up near the girders where entrance would be gained by a special catwalk.

Moody's tour today includes stops at Grand Haven, Holland, Paw Paw, Lawton, Mattawan, Keeler, Hartford, Bangor and South Haven.

Deputy Henry F. Bowman of Fillmore township said today he had received five reports during the last two weeks of spare tires and wheels stolen from cars.

He said clues are difficult because most owners have no idea when the theft occurred since most persons seldom open their trunks. He suggested car owners keep a closer watch on their spare tires and above all keep the trunks locked.

Mayor Harrington To Represent City At Shore Hearing

Mayor Harry Harrington was appointed by Common Council Wednesday night to represent Holland city at a public hearing to be conducted by the U. S. Corps of Engineers in Muskegon Sept. 26, to consider damage caused by high water levels in the Great Lakes area.

The communication came from Milton R. Adams, executive secretary of the Michigan Water Resources commission. The public hearing is called specifically to consider the nature and extent of damage caused by high water levels, the character and extent of local protective improvements desired, and consideration on participation in cost of construction.

City Clerk Clarence Greengood also presented a letter from the Municipal Employees Retirement System calling attention to the annual meeting in East Lansing Oct. 16, requesting the presence of two delegates and two alternates representing officers and employees. City Auditor John Fonger was appointed officer delegate with Greengood as alternate. City Manager H. C. McClintock was instructed to conduct an election among city employees to select their delegate and alternates.

Council approved a new contract with the Michigan State Highway department on road maintenance similar to last year's contract except for slightly higher allowances on sweeping and flushing and on snow removal.

Council also authorized execution of a city deed for property for a by-pass east of Holland across city-owned property. A check of $4,062.50 has been received for the property at the rate of $325 per acre.

Oct. 1 was set as date for a public hearing on special assessment rolls for paving and sewer contracts. The rolls were prepared by City Assessor William Koop.

A petition from Louis and Helen Padnos requesting that their North River Ave. property be rezoned for non-conforming use in D-Industrial zoning district, was referred to the planning commission to report back at the next meeting if possible. The request was presented by Atty. Vernon D. Ten Cate who explained the need for a change in order that the Padnos might go ahead with plans for certain new equipment for the scrap salvage business.

A letter from Mrs. Chester Belt filing a claim against the city for an accident at Kollen park involving her young daughter, Joanne, was referred to the city attorney and the Michigan Mutual Liability Co. The child had broken both arms, one not so seriously, in a fall resulting from a broken rung on playground equipment, according to the letter.

Council adopted the city manager's recommendation to accept the low bid of Pennington Bros. of Muskegon for cleaning, pointing, patching and water proofing the building stone of the City Hall at a cost of $1,477.

The city manager presented a report summarizing the total total costs for the various projects in the 1952 paving program, indicating the total cost was $133,759.74 with the cost of intersections amounting to $11,622.95, leaving $122,136.79 to be assessed to abutting property owners. In view of the fact that certification had been received from Michigan Colprovia Co. to the effect that all bills and obligations on the 1952 paving program had been paid, Council authorized payment of $24,809.62 representing the remaining 15 per cent to be paid to the company.

Condition of Trio Injured in Crash Is Improved

Considerable improvement was reported Monday in the conditions of the three Hope college students who were critically injured in a car-truck accident early Friday morning near Canandaigua, N.Y., while en route to Holland. Two students, David de Forest of Duaneburg and Carol Ann Fairchild of Schenectady, were killed instantly.

Dr. I. J. Lubbers, president of Hope college, made a flying trip to Canandaigua during the weekend and learned first-hand some of the facts in the tragic accident.

He said it had been determined that David de Forest was driving the car at the time it crashed head-on with a heavily loaded steel truck. Confusion had resulted because the car was owned by Ronald G. Powles who was not driving at the time the car left Albany the night before. Dr. Lubbers visited Powles a short time and found him in good shape although badly banged up and his broken jaw securely wired.

Lucille Adah Tysse, Wallkill, N.Y., who had received critical head injuries, was about to undergo brain surgery Saturday when the brain pressure suddenly subsided and the operation was unnecessary. A brain specialist had been called to Canandaigua. She was declared out of danger but was still under oxygen.

Ethel Smith, 17, Schenectady, also was improved although a long hard convalescence is in store for her. Dr. Lubbers said she received two fractures in her right thigh and a pelvis fracture, as well as a fracture in the lower left leg. She also was under oxygen.

Dr. Lubbers met the families of the three students, all of whom were staying in Canandaigua, south of Rochester, N.Y. He said the families were most happy to see him. Dr. Lubbers also visited the scene of the crash and said it is obvious that the driver of the truck is in the clear, having done what he could to avoid the crash. He said nobody knows exactly what happened.

Jack Schouten Honored at Hope

Hope college students today honored Jack Schouten, who has retired from the college athletic department after 34 years of service. During exercises in Memorial chapel this morning, students presented to their "unforgettable coach and friend" a 17-inch screen television set, to be installed in his home.

The gift was a contribution from all students at Hope last year. Presentation was made by Robert J. Prins, representative of the class of 1954, assisted by Verlaene Siter, representing the class of 1953, Jack van der Velde, the graduating class of 1952, and Billie Houtman, class of 1953.

Presentation was made on behalf of the entire student body which felt that "Jack's retirement should not pass without some recognition of his contribution to one of Hope's ideals, good sportsmanship."

Groundwork for the presentation was laid during the summer when class representatives wrote letters to each student about Schouten's retirement, and all replied with contributions toward the purchase of a gift.

Sen. Moody Makes Brief Stop Here

U. S. Senator Blair Moody charged in a speech before Ottawa county Democratic leaders today that his Republican opponent, Rep. Charles E. Potter, was "picked by Arthur Summerfield, embraced by the isolationist Chicago Tribune and financed by the 'big three' of the auto industry."

The incumbent senator is currently stumping Western Michigan and stopped at the Warm Friend Tavern this noon to meet and confer with local party leaders.

"The king-makers of the auto industry, who have made a down payment on the Republican party of Michigan, seek for their representative in the Senate one whose foreign policy is isolationism and whose domestic policy is medievalism," Moody said.

He pointed out that his opponent has consistently voted against bills that General Eisenhower was backing while the general was assigned as NATO commander.

Moody scored Potter for going against such bills as the point four program, the European Recovery Program, military and economic aid to Europe and "six months before Communist aggression began in Korea, Charles Potter voted against economic aid to South Korea."

"The men who are now buying the machinery of the Republican party in Michigan include in their number the founders and prime movers of that late lamented organization dedicated to the reversal of human progress, the infamous Society of Sentinels."

"They own my opponent in the richest sense of the word, and they have placed their chosen instrument, Arthur Summerfield, until lately Republican National committeeman from Michigan, at the right hand of General Eisenhower."

Moody's tour today includes stops at Grand Haven, Holland, Paw Paw, Lawton, Mattawan, Keeler, Hartford, Bangor and South Haven.

Civic Theater Lists Six Plays

Continuing an association of several years, Holland again is co-operating with the Grand Rapids Civic Theater in its annual membership campaign for the theater's 27th season which opens Oct. 10 with "The Happy Time," a gay comedy of life in a French-Canadian family which had a most successful season on Broadway a year ago.

The membership campaign runs through Sept. 22. Among those assisting in Holland are Mrs. Edward D. Donivan, Miss Cornelia Van Voort, Miss Beth Marcus and Miss Billie Houtman. Mrs. Roger Prince is in charge in Zeeland.

Sydney H. Spayde is returning as Grand Rapids director after a successful first-year season last year.

The schedule of plays for the 1932-33 season follows:
Oct. 10-18—"The Happy Time" in which Samuel Taylor has re-written Robert Fontaine's engaging sketches of a French-Canadian family into one of the gayest comedy successes of last season on Broadway. The "happy time" or "growing up" of the young son in a carefree and uninhibited household is currently delighting audiences all over the country with its humor and charm.

Nov. 21-29—"Heaven Can Wait" by Harry Segall is one of the tried and true audience favorites and involves the story of a prize fighter whose spirit, arriving prematurely at its heavenly destination, returns to earth in search of a body. The happy ending to a series of fantastic adventures puts a final hilarious seal on this popular comedy.

Jan. 16-24—"Curious Savage," a fanciful high comedy by John Patrick, author of "The Hasty Heart," concerns Mrs. Savage who has been left a large sum of money by her husband and has been placed in a sanatorium by her grown-up stepchildren in an effort to get the inheritance.

Feb. 27-March 7—"She Stoops to Conquer" by Oliver Goldsmith is perhaps the brightest and most modern of the Restoration comedies. It was presented last year by Pallette and Masque at Hope college.

April 10-18—"Dracula," one of the great mystery thrillers adapted by Hamilton Deane and John Blaskowitz from Bram Stoker's hair raising novel about vampires. It is a play full of startling situations and unique effects.

May 15-23—"Cheaper by the Dozen," a dramatization by Perry Clark of the best seller book about the spectacle of father, an efficiency expert trying to bring the highly individual members of his family to a state of organization, provides comedy situations that have few parallels.

Parents of members of the first and second grid squads were invited to the meeting, which featured an explanation of the intended program and acquainting the parents with the facilities and equipment used.

The group heard talks by Superintendent Walter Scott, Principal J. J. Riemersma, Athletic Director Joe Moran and Coaches Dale Shearer, Ned Stutta, Carroll Norlin and Bob Connell.

Then the parents toured the locker room, inspected equipment worn by their sons, heard an outline of the training program and listened to details about financial problems. This was followed by a social period.

This was the first time the pre-season conference has been used in the fall. Holland high started the practice before last basketball season and continued through the spring sports program.

Parents present represented about 75 per cent of the entire group.

Two Others Are Seriously Hurt In Auto Accident

Five Were Returning For Freshman Week; Occurs in New York

(SPECIAL TO THE SENTINEL FROM THE ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION)

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — Two Hope college students died instantly and three others were injured when their college-bound auto collided early Friday with a heavy steel truck near Canandaigua, N. Y., south of Rochester.

New York State police listed the dead as Karol Ann Fairchild, 20, Schenectady, who was to have entered the junior class, and David H. de Forest, 19, of Duaneburg, N. Y., a suburb of Schenectady, who was to enter the sophomore class.

In critical condition in Thompson's hospital at Canandaigua are Ethel Smith, 17, Schenectady, who was about to enter Hope for the first time as a freshman, and Lucille Adah Tyse, 19, of Wallkill, N. Y., a sophomore.

The driver of the car, Ronald G. Powles, 19, Schenectady, also in Thompson's hospital, was listed as the least seriously injured of the five collegians.

Truck driver Ralph Roberts, 36, Williamsville, N. Y., escaped with a scratched shoulder and friction burns. He told state troopers the students' westbound truck at 5 a.m. today. The crash occurred on routes 5 and 20 at present the main east-west trunkline across New York state.

The truck made a futile attempt to avoid the crash by heading for the shoulder of the road. The semi was hauling 51,631 pounds of steel to Elmira, N. Y.

Powles was able to walk away from his demolished auto before he collapsed on the roadside, police said. The other four remained in the car after the impact and it took rescuers considerable time to extricate the two girls who were still living.

Powles received a fractured jaw, fractured left knee and forehead cuts. Miss Smith is under treatment for fractured left leg, pelvis and jaw, dislocated right hip and face cuts. Miss Tyse received a double jaw fracture and severe head injuries.

Troopers were unable immediately to establish any reason for the head-on crash and are continuing their investigation.

News of the tragedy which came to The Sentinel shortly after 9 a.m. and immediately relayed to Hope college came as a blow to faculty and students about the campus preparing for the opening of college next week. The annual convocation is scheduled Wednesday.

Dr. I. J. Lubbers, president of the college, immediately sent telegrams of sympathy to the families. In a general statement to The Sentinel, he said, "This accident is a shocking thing. Four of the students were leaders in our college and were returning early to help with our freshman orientation week. We were looking forward to welcoming Miss Smith who was entering as a freshman. She came on the highest of recommendations. Our faculty and student body will be deeply affected."

When word first came to the campus, all persons were deeply affected and later in the day a gloom settled on the campus which was described as "heart-breaking." A faculty party scheduled for Friday was canceled.

Miss Fairchild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Fairchild, Schenectady, was a member of the Girls' glee club, the YWCA and Delta Phi at Hope college. Last year she stayed in Van Vleck hall. She was a graduate of Mt. Pleasant high school in Schenectady and worked for her high school paper. She was majoring in general elementary education.

De Forest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mulford de Forest, was taking a pre-seminary course. He was a member of the Knickerbocker society, Alpha Chi, YMCA and engaged in inter-fraternity sports. He graduated from Draper high school in Schenectady where he was valedictorian and editor of the yearbook.

'Dutch Pikers' Thrilled By Visit to R.R. Yards

Twenty-one members of the "Dutch Pikers," local model railroad club, went to Grand Rapids for an escorted tour of the Wyoming yards and other facilities of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway.

The group spent more than three hours examining the operations of the C & O and were especially interested in old cabooses and old cars that might possibly serve as clubrooms or station houses for clubs interested in such model fields.

The trip was arranged by Arthur Sas, president of the club, assisted by Louis Mulder, vice president; Frank Schwarz, secretary, and Ray Mool, treasurer.

For the first time in their lives, all 21 members rode the turntables at the main shops.

In another encounter—class C—Holland VFW moved into third round play with a 3-1 victory over Muskegon Sheldon. Floyd Vanden Beldt had a no-hitter going into the last of the seventh. However, he allowed two infield singles and they accounted for the lone Muskegon run.

In other games Jenison Merchants scored a 3-1 win over Associated Grocers of Grand Rapids and Grandville IGA won an eight inning contest from Forest Grove, 6-4.

In line with the prevailing sentiment that nothing is to be wasted in these war times, the officials of the Red Cross in Holland are organizing a campaign to conserve the old linens and cottons in the city and to convert them into useful articles for the hospitals on the battle front in France, began a story in the Friday, July 13, issue. Every woman in the city can help in this campaign, the officers announced, and in this way every woman in Holland can do her bit.

The State of Michigan has paid the state road reward on 50 miles of Ottawa county highway built on the specifications laid down by the State and approved by the state highway department inspectors. This county still has about 150 miles of state highway in various stages of construction upon which the state reward will be collected when the work is completed.

The domestic science room of the high school was taxed to its capacity Thursday afternoon when nearly 75 women attended the canning demonstration given by Miss Clara K. Morris and ably assisted by Miss Grace Holthrop. Miss Morris has been an instructor in the domestic science department of Michigan agricultural college for three years. Miss Holthrop is a graduate of the college.

Miss Bos Wed to Glenn Petroelje

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Petroelje

Marriage vows were spoken by Miss Marilyn Bos and Glenn Petroelje in a simple and impressive wedding service Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Ninth Street Christian Reformed church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bos of 51 East 17th St. and Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Petroelje of North State St., Zeeland.

The Rev. Harry Blystra, uncle of the bride, and the Rev. Marvin Vander Werp officiated at the double ring rites. Mr. Bos escorted his daughter to the altar which was decorated with palms, candleabra and bouquets of white and yellow gladioli. Large white bows and white gladioli marked the pews.

The bride wore an Elizabethan-style ballerina-length gown of net over white satin fashioned with a full gathered skirt appliqued with two panels of Chantilly lace. The pointed basque bodice and sleeves which tapered to points at the wrists were of Chantilly lace and tiny covered buttons extended down the back from the lace collar to the waistline. Her double tiered elbow-length veil of nylon net was held by a fitted cap edged with tiny pearls. She carried a bouquet of white and pink roses with a cascade of white ribbon and baby mums.

Her only attendant was Mrs. Jerald Gebben, her sister, who wore a ballerina gown of yellow net over taffeta with a matching yellow net hat. She carried an arrangement of tallisman roses with white baby mums.

Best man was Preston Petroelje, the groom's brother, and seating the guests were Carl Bos and Andre Petroelje, brothers of the couple.

Lovely fall flowers which decorated tables for the reception in the church parlors were supplied from the gardens of the groom's mother and were arranged by the bride and the maid of honor. The 80 reception guests included several from Big Rapids, Spring Lake and Byron Center and the Zeeland area.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vugteveen, uncle and aunt of the groom, were master and mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Doreen Kolean and Mrs. Norma Townsend served at the punch bowl and Mrs. Pat Bloemendaal and Mrs. Donna Franks were in charge of the gifts.

For their wedding trip to Kentucky, the bride wore a three-piece wool suit in gray with matching hat and red accessories.

The couple will make their home in Chicago. Mr. Petroelje will begin studies Sept. 25 at Northwestern university dental school. He is a graduate of Holland Christian high school, attended Calvin college for one year and Hope college two years. Mrs. Petroelje, also a graduate of Holland Christian high school, has been employed at Holland Furnace Co.

Laws affecting educational interests of the state, and some of which are of importance to Ottawa county, were passed by the last Michigan legislature. One law provides for the payment of tuition and transportation of the children from one district who attend school in another district, providing the students have completed the eighth grade. This means that rural student will receive transportation money if they attend high school in city or village. Another law gives the supervisor of a township authority to open a free public library.

POWER OF WOMAN

It never pays to underestimate the power of women, whether in politics, business or elsewhere. A woman aroused cannot be pacified by anything short of victory. The women of Granville, West Virginia, with a population of only 1,000, showed how terrible their force can be. Sick of the ever-increasing dust from the coal-cleaning plant and two coal mines, forty women gathered and marched down to the coal company's cleaning plant where they set up a picket line.

Men knew better than to try to cross that line manned—or womanned?—in some cases by their wives. The plant and the mines were shut down. Some 700 men were out of work. The mayor felt compelled to call the company, which assured him that dust-dispersing equipment was being ordered. The mayor called a town meeting to announce the plans for remedial action and the women called off the pickets, convinced that soon steps would be taken to get coal dust out of their hair, their clothes, their food and their furniture.

The women had proved their strength, their ability to cripple industry. If the coal company has learned this elemental fact, their facilities will be improved immediately. Next time the women of Granville won't be stopped. This time the issue was coal dust. Only women know what issue will be next.

A postscript should be added: Companies which have installed smoke-consuming or dust-preventing machinery have invariably found them money-savers. Many times the by-products of such preventive methods have been worth far more than the cost and maintenance of such installations.

Solomon Begins His Reign
1 Kings 1:28-40; 2:1-4; 3:1-15
1 Kings 6:11-14

By Henry Gearlings

Not every life that begins well ends well. Solomon did not; and not every life that ends well was begun well. But it may be said that these are the exceptions. In the majority of cases it can be said that a life that begins well ends well.

Nothing in an adverse nature can be advanced against the focusing of our attention on the proper training of the children.
Other things being equal the strength of the church thirty years from now will be in proportion to the success we achieve in turning the thoughts of childhood toward Christ. The old idea of letting the children grow up without being influenced toward Christian choices, and having them make their own decisions as to whether they shall be Christians or not, is not only suicidal but is also contrary to the plain teaching of the Bible. They will have plenty of decisions to make when they arrive at young manhood and womanhood without our pushing over on them full responsibility for choices we should help them to arrive at.

It is not unusual for people to make choice of what is cheap and temporary just for passing pleasure. They would not want it to last. They desire something better and more enduring as life draws to its close. They want to have a good time. They want the gaieties that money will buy. They want to be free. They do not want the more substantial things, at least not just now. When they get older and life looks more serious, then they will choose the church and the principles for which it stands. It is not necessary to say that is the worst possible way to choose.

It takes good training to make a good start. Winning a race may be determined by the start of the runner. Prepared, alert, standing with concentrated determination to be off with the gun makes a promising racer. Life is much like a race. The apostle Paul liked to make this comparison. We readily note the similarity. Whoever would win must know the course to be followed, be undisturbed by strange happenings along the way, and above all must endure to the goal post. Starting well is commendable, but it takes more to win this race.

King David had his nation in fine condition when he turned it over to Solomon. But Solomon had not received as much attention from David as he needed to fit him for a long, successful reign over the United Kingdom. He had some hindrances to overcome, but he made the best of things and gained a flattering reputation for himself and an exalted place for the nation. It was his good fortune to have a united people, to have loyal support for his undertakings, to possess wealth and wisdom. It was his hard luck that he had to be rich and widely popular. These made his way difficult.

God was concerned about Solomon's future. He used the dream to show him that God would help him. He tested Solomon by letting him decide what to ask for. He did not promise to give him whatever he might ask for. His plan was to get Solomon's expression as to his chief desire as he faced the throne. Solomon was in proper mood to think quietly and seriously. He had not lost his head over-being king. He talked the matter over with God, reviewing what God had done to bless David. He acknowledged the task assigned him and showed humility before it.

His response to the offer of God was not the natural one to be expected, but one of surprising wisdom. His response was highly pleasing to God. This was the index to Solomon's thinking and choosing. He put aside the glamor of sceptre and throne and power and world wide fame, and set himself to be a good king with the help of God.

God expressed approval of Solomon's prayer. He had asked for the right things. He was willing to grant answer to his prayer and give him more than he had prayed for. He praised Solomon for what he had not asked for, enumerating what would be the natural petitions for a young king to make. But would it have been wrong if he had asked for a long reign, riches and victory? God did not say that such asking would be wrong. But what Solomon did request was more pleasing to God.
God must have known Solomon's sincere motive. God's greater blessing was to be Solomon's. All he asked for and more were to be his.

In seeking to determine what is the best in life, we will turn first of all to the message of God as contained in the Bible. Our own human experience will go a long way in helping us to understand what is right and what is wrong, and what is good and bad.
Life is fraught with many possible purposes, some of which are desirable while others are undesirable. The Christian will make a strenuous effort to make such choices as win the approval of God and of his own conscience. His choices in life will center around those things which minister to his physical, intellectual, social and spiritual well being.

Only constant vigilance, based upon faith and confidence in God, the study of the Word, and the practice of prayer will make it possible for us to hold fast to the choices we have made.

Last year in the United States 37,500 persons were killed and more than 1,100,000 injured in traffic accidents.

International Red Cross Activities Explained

Red Cross operations on the international level were explained by Ralph C. Dudrow, Jr., director of the information bureau for the League of Red Cross Societies, Geneva, Switzerland, at an informal meeting of a group of Ottawa county Red Cross leaders and the press Monday noon at Fireside Inn near Grand Haven.

The Geneva representative, who is an American citizen, was in this area for the Red Cross convention in Toronto, Canada, a month ago, and is currently visiting some chapters in the United States, both sharing the work on the international level and to gain information on the grassroots level. He had been visiting some of the larger chapters in Ohio and Ottawa county had been chosen as a smaller chapter—a well operated lively chapter.

Dudrow explained that the International Red Cross has access to inspecting all prisoner-of-war camps on UN territory but has made little headway in doing the same on Communist-held territory, even though Russia has been co-operative in many phases of International Red Cross activities. He said Russia does not object to Red Cross principles, but objects to the Geneva League on the grounds that International leaders are under western influences. Even so, Russia has one of six vice presidents in top Red Cross circles and has been cooperative on other points, particularly with contributing its share to international finances.

"It's people, not governments, that the Red Cross is trying to protect and because of this policy we deal with both Chinas, with North and South Korea and other countries, although this is hard for many people to understand.

"In our work with difficult situations, our rule is to carry on as far as good will permit.
We also carry on as best we can in countries where governments are constantly changed by revolutions. After long study, the International Red Cross has adopted the policy that our program carries on in any country under previous arrangement so long as the current government makes no specific changes. If a new charter had to be signed every time the government changed in some countries, we'd never even get started."

At present there are 71 countries in the International Red Cross program which maintains central offices in Geneva, Switzerland, traditionally a neutral country. Three of these countries were added at the Toronto convention, San Marino in Northern Italy, Ceylon and Western Germany. Since 1939, the membership has tripled from 35 million to 100 million.

Dudrow said most of the 71 countries contribute funds to the international program, and the problems on exchange of money is a never-ending one. He said the United States contributes a fairly large percentage to the international budget which runs about $300,000 a year. He said the United States has pioneered in effective and systematic fund raising programs and last year loaned two technicians to aid in programs in Europe. After adopting U. S. methods, the Netherlands increased Red Cross gifts 400 per cent in three years. He added several countries still solicit Red Cross gifts on street corners and some countries get subsidies from governments.

nati, Ohio, who was arrested by sheriff's officers early Monday morning after a dramatic search and chase, waived examination when he was arraigned later in the day before Park Township Justice C. C. Wood and was bound over to Circuit Court to appear Thursday. He was charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime with intent to commit larceny.

Sheehy allegedly had broken into the John Bronkema home at 610 Gordon St., raided the refrigerator and spent the night on the living room davenport. He gave Mrs. Bronkema the shock of her life when she found him in the morning but he escaped before her husband arrived on the scene.

Officers conducted a search in the woods nearby and Deputy Clayton W. Forry noted a man mount a train on tracks nearby.
He took chase and picked up his quarry when the train stopped for switching operations east of Zeeland.

Clarence Klaassen

Holland Banker
Elected President
Of Local Chamber

Clarence Klaassen, local banker, was elected president of the Holland Chamber of Commerce at an organizational meeting of the board of directors Monday. He succeeds Marvin C. Lindeman.
Henry Ter Haar was elected vice president and George M. Good treasurer. William H. Vande Wate, will continue for the coming year as secretary-manager.

Because of the inability of Jay C. Pettey to accept a three-year term as trustee due to illness and other reasons, the board appointed Henry Weyenberg for the term.
Other trustees named for one-year terms were Percy Taylor, also serving as president of the Retail Merchants' association, Harold De Loof and Lindeman.

In transacting its regular business for the month, the Chamber decided to have local representatives present at a meeting of the Corps of Engineers Sept. 26 in Muskegon to discuss damage caused by shore erosion. Common Council will receive similar information at its meeting Wednesday.
Mayor Harry Harrington and Randall C. Bosch will work out Chamber plans on representation.

Chamber trustees also viewed for the first time preliminary plans for the new city recreational building and expressed themselves as much in favor of the plans.

A general report was made on the successful Chamber of Commerce Bar-B-Q frolic last week and Co-Chairmen C. C. Wood and Earl Price were commended for their fine work.

A communication from Willard C. Wichers, Midwest director of the Netherlands Information Service, called attention to the Cleveland Home and Flower show Feb.
28 to March 8 which will have as its theme a Dutch motif with emphasis on tulips and other bulbs.
The communication was to ascertain whether Holland would participate in the event, perhaps to the extent of providing bulbs. It was referred to Tulip Time Festival, Inc.

The local Chamber will co-operate with the National organization in the get-out-the-vote program.
National information was turned over to James G. Townsend, new attorney, to work out plans with the Junior Chamber of Commerce which usually carries out such programs.

Locking Through Erie Canal Poses As Time-Consuming Detail for Yacht

(W. A. Butler, Sentinel publisher is aboard the 63-foot burger yacht "Maria II" en route from Lake Macatawa to eventually Florida. This is the fifth in a series of dispatches from the boat.—Editor)

If I haven't already mentioned the fact, our meals have been very good along the way.

We stopped at Crookford's restaurant at Lockport, N.Y., and it too was a fine eating place. At Lockport we also purchased 220 gallons of fuel for 16 cents a gallon. No tax.

We moved on down the Erie canal to Newark, N.Y., then on down through lock Nos. 27, 26, 25, 24 and 23 and tied up for the night at the boat yard. We took on more fresh water and plugged into the city current. This was a great help because we didn't have to run the generator, which is a convenience for any yachtsman.

That evening we had dinner at a Mrs. Waterman's hotel in Brewerton, N.Y.

We shoved off from Brewerton at 8 a.m. and locked through Nos.
22, 21, 20, 19. We found a grocery store and made a few necessary purchases. Because we were ahead of time, the lock tender locked through a large grain barge before we were allowed to go through. It was a one-hour delay. We finally cleared lock No.
18.

We arrived at Little Falls, N.Y., and tied up at the New York barge terminal and started to walk to the city proper. Phil Rich asked a kind neighbor about a taxi and he called one for us. All seven of us piled in and the driver took us to the Elks club, but they were closed. They recommended a Henry's place.

And what a tip that was—we had the most delicious and large-est steaks that one could ask for.
A brother and sister run the place and they make a good combination. The sister, Elsie, does all the cooking and keeps a record of the people they serve from boats that dock in Little Falls.

She told us that other people from Holland had been there the night before but she didn't get their names. We suspect that they were the people off the R. C.
Allen yacht, Abigail.

We left Little Falls at 6:55 a.m. and passed through lock No. 17, which is a 42-foot lock. The lock tender told us that a barge was sunk between buoys No. 455 and 457. It proved to be barge No. 12.
We locked down through Nos. 16, 15, 14 and 13. When we came to lock No. 12 we noticed a lot of fuel oil all over the inside walls.
We were told that an oil barge had hit a rock and thousands of gallons of fuel oil flooded the lock.

That sure made a messy job of locking through and our bumpers showed the effect. This is the phase of our trip that we really like in one day—that's really locking.

We now are tied up at Troy, N.Y., at the Strunk Mari dock for water and fuel. We have found another city light connection and paid a $3 dock charge. It sure was worth it because the man took us to the city in his car for groceries. We had dinner aboard.
We also drove up to lock No. 6 and they told us that we could dock and take on fuel.

I should tell you about locking from 17, 16, 15, 14, 13, 12, 11, 10, 9 and 8. These locks range from eight to 15 feet in depth. Then we came to No. 7 which was 27 feet deep. We hit there about 4:55 p.m. and locked through the next five, which are about 34 feet deep. Those five are fast working locks and we really hit the ball. About all one does is handle the lines, brooms and mops. No, we don't use the mops and brooms at such a time to clean up, but rather to hold the yacht away from the walls.

We left Troy, N.Y., at 8 a.m. and we are now in search of a place to change oil. We have almost completed 1,300 miles and a change of oil is very necessary.
This seems to be a major job. We made one stop at Poughkeepsie and could not get oil. We had already passed through the last lock, No. 3, at 9 a.m. We passed our friend the Abigail again and gave them the big wave, both from the boat and the members on board.

We tied up at Tarrytown, N.Y., across the slip from the public dock. This proved to be on the property of the Chevrolet people where they had a number of Chevrolets waiting for export.
This proved to be a good place to stop in one way as we could not get out of the yard because there was no watchman. High wire fence kept us in, as well as keeping the sightseeing people out.

We left Tarrytown, N.Y., Sept.
12 about 8:20 and arrived at Columbia Yacht club on the Hudson at 9:40 a.m. We are still working on the oil change so we will not doubt be here for several hours. I may be able to have time to get a haircut.

Wonderful weather all the way down the Erie and the Hudson—in fact, we are having real summer. The weatherman says it will be 90 degrees or higher today. Some of the boats in the harbor have the following names: GO-NY, My Mink II, Fury II, Yankee Daddy, Fermina II, Little Queen II, Tycoon, Happy City, South Wind, Dor-Dan—these are only a few of the many.

Four Out of Six Outfits Certain To Be on Roster

Four of the six teams who completed the first year's schedule in the Southwestern Michigan Baseball league this year, indicated at the season's end meeting in Holland Monday night that "they'll be around" when the season begins in 1953.

The Holland Flying Dutchmen, Grand Haven Athletics, South Haven Merchants and champion Grand Rapids Black Sox all indicated they were rarin' to go into the second year.

Campbell - Wyant - Cannon of Muskegon expressed serious doubt that they would return to the fold next season. They pointed out, however, that another team from Muskegon under a different sponsor would be a distinct possibility.

President Russ Vander Poel of Holland was appointed a contact man to get in touch with several possible league entrants to fill out the loop's roster or expand for next season. These possible entries included Caledonia, Benton Harbor, Climax and another Grand Rapids entry. The league will hear Vander Poel's report at its next formal meeting in January.

The league spokesman also discussed the possibility of associating the loop with the National Baseball Congress, with member teams eligible for the state tourney held this year at St. Joseph and the national meet held in Wichita, Kans.

Ted Rasberry of the Black Sox was presented with the championship trophy Monday night. The Sox won in first half play and whipped South Haven in the season-end playoffs.

Through the cooperation of Decker Chevrolet, Inc., De Witt's Zeeland Hatchery has been able to satisfactorily solve a distribution problem with respect to delivery of baby chicks and turkey poulters direct to buyers. De Witt now has in service two large buses which travel from Zeeland as far as eastern Pennsylvania, west to central Nebraska, south to southern Mississippi and north to Minnesota and Canada. By using buses De Witt is able to transport 20,000 chicks or poulters at one time, nearly twice the capacity previously possible with the conventional truck body styles. In addition the heating and ventilation problem is practically eliminated during the long distance delivery and climatic changes. The two bus units are but two of a fleet of 15 Chevrolet trucks and commercial units owned and operated by the De Witt enterprise. It is also found that Chevrolet trucks are popular throughout the hatching industry in this area.

Allegan Fair Adds Up New Records

ALLEGAN (Special)—For the first time in the memory of present county fair officials, Allegan Centennial Fair which closed Saturday night went the entire week without rain. This factor plus the many special centennial events was given credit for the largest attendance in the fair's history.

Total attendance will be well over the 100,000 mark according to President E. W. Delano, but it will take several days to complete the bookwork necessary to arrive at the official figure.

Saturday, last day of the event, saw at least 25,000 people on the grounds. The crowd, resulted in the worst traffic jam in the city's history with cars moving at a snail's pace from the city limits to the fair grounds on every main street most of the evening.

The midway was still going full blast at 1:30 a.m. Sunday and the crowds appeared reluctant to go home. Fair officials said that the midway, larger than ever, reported receipts 20 per cent higher than any previous year.

Kalamazoo Driver Files Damage Suit

ALLEGAN (Special) — Benjamin H. Burnett, of 1601 Union St., Kalamazoo, has filed a claim against the county of Allegan, seeking $2,500 in damages suffered in an accident in which he charges the county road commission was the chief offender.

Burnett claims that the road commission was at fault for "failing to and refusing to remove an eight-foot stand of brush that hid oncoming cars at the intersection."

Burnett alleges that he received personal injuries to the extent of $300 and that his car was damaged 2,000 worth when he collided with another car at an intersection in Cheshire township, July 13, 1952.

It is the first time the county has been cited for failure to cut brush along the highway. In recent years, it has been county policy to leave brush cutting to the townships because of a lack of funds.

Polio Victim to Go To Warm Springs

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Dr. Robert E. Michmerhuizen, 37-year-old Grand Haven physician who was stricken with polio Aug. 11, will leave Sunday morning by ambulance for special treatment in Warm Springs foundation in Georgia.

Ordinarily, patients from this area are moved by plane, but an ambulance will be used in this case because of the doctor's condition and because of weather conditions. The ambulance with all necessary equipment will leave St. Mary's hospital in Grand Rapids at 8 a.m. Mrs. Michmerhuizen, a registered nurse, and Charles K. Bugielski, vice chairman of the county polio chapter, will accompany the patient. Possibly another nurse and therapist will make the trip.

Orders are that the trip be made in a minimum of two days so that the patient will have proper rest at night along the way.

Dr. Michmerhuizen is paralyzed from the hips down and has stomach involvement. He is unable to sit up.

The attending physician states he has shown "very slow" progress but hopes he may again be able to walk.

This is the third patient in the past year to go to Warm Springs from this area. Ordinarily, the county would be entitled to about one patient in six years, as there are 2,300 county chapters and only 165 beds. The county, however, has had two patients per year for the past four years.

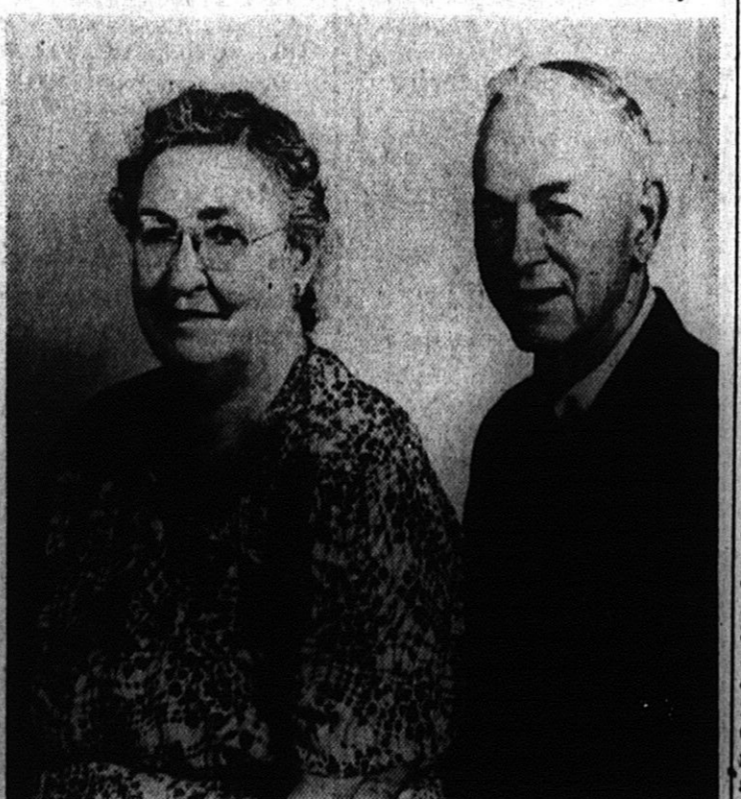

Other patients sent during the last year, both of whom are back home, were Harold Adema, 22, of Jenison, and four-year-old Lena Paasuke of Grand Haven.

The Michmerhuizens have four children, ages 10, 5, 4 and 1. They came to Grand Haven two years ago.

Young Calvinists Rally To Be Held in Zeeland

The Rev. Carl Krommings will be guest speaker at a rally of the Holland-Zeeland Young Calvinist League and the Holland-Zeeland Young Woman's League in Third Christian Reformed church of Zeeland Thursday at 8 p.m.

Song leader will be Henry Vande Linde and special music will include a vocal solo by Miss Lois Kok and flute trio by Ronald, Rose and Lawrence Van Til.

The rally theme will be "Seek Ye the Lord."

When state police arrived, after being notified that a fight had developed at about 1:30 a.m., witnesses said the people had fired several shots into the tavern before fleeing in a car.

Jefferies was apprehended by police at the South Haven hospital several hours later when he appeared with his wife and Flood for treatment of a deep gash on his arm. Witnesses said Jefferies cut his arm in a fight with two bartenders who threw him out.

The fight allegedly started because the bartenders refused to sell beer to Jefferies because it was after hours.

Subsequent investigation proved the firearms charge unfounded. The "wicked looking knife" turned out to be a borrowed butcher knife and the "other weapons" a baseball bat.

Cooling Breezes Blow Away Late Season Heat Wave

Thousands Swarm Beaches for Relief; Smog Covers Detroit

A late summer heat wave, complete with ideal swimming and camping conditions, ended late Sunday as cool breezes swept over the area and sent the soaring mercury down to a comfortable 73 degrees at 11 a.m. Monday. The season gave its all in the final round and temperatures in the area reached almost 90.

Almost 7,000 persons swarmed to the beach at Holland State park during the two-day hot spell. Swimming was perfect, with warm but refreshing water which was cleaner, possibly, than at any time during the season. Clare Broad, state park manager, said the official counter, which allows only 31 persons per car, registered 3,800 visitors on Saturday and 3,100 on Sunday.

There were 14 new camps set up on Saturday, making a total of 19 for the week-end. Broad says. The numbers dwindled Monday, but the park manager expects many more in the dwindling summer days and early autumn. Although facilities have been cut down, the park will remain open until the middle of October. Restroom facilities are being maintained in the laundry building at the north end of the park and one drinking fountain is in use at each end of the oval. The concession and dressing rooms will remain open for some time, he said.

The week-end heat covered the entire state. Freakish weather made a huge smoghouse of the Detroit area Saturday. Residents sweltered in 96-degree heat, one degree short of the 1874 record, and rubbed their eyes over stinging smoke. The weather bureau said a layer of sizzling air in the upper atmosphere kept smoke and industrial gases close to the ground. This, plus high humidity, caused the smog. But rain on Sunday washed it away.

Pleasure boats were out en masse for cooling spins about the lake. Holland Coast Guard reported two towing jobs during the week-end. The Wee Bobcat had motor trouble a half mile south of Holland Saturday and had to be towed into the harbor. Another distress call came Sunday when a speedboat had motor trouble seven miles south of Saugatuck. The boat was towed back to Saugatuck.

Transient Nabbed After Wild Chase

A 30-year-old transient who listed his home town as Cincinnati, Ohio, was arrested here before Justice C. C. Wood Monday on charges of nighttime breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny as the result of a dramatic search and chase early today.

It all started late Sunday night when Hayden J. Sheehy decided to spend the night in a car parked in the yard of the John Bronkema home at 610 Gordon St. and then decided he preferred the comforts of the Bronkema home. About midnight, he slit the screen of the front door, lifted the hook and made himself comfortable after raiding the Bronkema refrigerator.

Mrs. Bronkema woke Monday morning and got the shock of her life when she found the man asleep on the living room day-ent. She called to her husband but before he reached the living room the front door slammed and the man was gone.

Deputies Clayton W. Forry and Nelson Lucas were alerted at 6:20 a.m. and joined in a search of the woods near the Bronkema home, aided by Bronkema and his son. No one was found in the woods, but the officers noticed a C & O switch engine in operation nearby and a man climbing a lumber car. While Forry followed the train, Lucas got in touch with the Waverly yards and learned the train was scheduled to do some switching east of Zeeland. This information was relayed by police radio and when the train stopped Forry nabbed the man. The man later confessed entering the Bronkema home.

The man seemed to know quite a few tricks in getting around quietly. Rather than slam a car door — a most distinguishing sound in the dead of night — he tied a string to the handle and the wheel. He also left the refrigerator door open rather than slam the door.

Allegan Prepares November Ballots

ALLEGAN (Special) — Allegan county's city and township clerks are lacking nearly 9,000 in their drive for getting every eligible voter on their registration books for the coming general election.

This information was disclosed by Esther Hettinger, county clerk, after a check of the various city and township clerks for an estimate of the number of ballots which will be required for the Nov. 4 election.

Mrs. Hettinger said some areas even have fewer persons registered than in 1948, when the total vote was only 51 per cent of the potential.

Allegan county uses the permanent registration system which means that an elector previously registered need not re-register if he has voted during the last four years and lives in the same precinct.

In several county townships, the clerks are deputizing a registrar for the purpose of registering electors in their homes.

Ballots are now being completed for delivery to the city and township clerks this Saturday. Applications for absentee ballots may now be filed, according to Mrs. Hettinger, until Saturday, Nov. 1 at 2 p.m. Many applications have already been received from members of the armed forces.

Hours for Dog Training Set

The annual question of training dogs and the approaching hunting season has kept Conservation Officer Elmer Boerman answering numerous queries lately.

Boerman advises that it is legal to train dogs between the hours of sunrise and sunset right straight until hunting season ends April 15.

Training coon dogs may take place in the after dark hours from sunset to sunrise from Sept. 1 through Oct. 5, Boerman points out.

But in the 15-day period before hunting season opens, trainers may not carry firearms in areas frequented by wild birds or animals. This year, luck season opens on Oct. 1, making the valid period starting Sept. 16 through Sept. 30.

Target shooting is permitted at bona fide target ranges, Boerman states. However, in transporting guns to or from the ranges, the target shooters have three choices: The guns must be broken down, or in a gun case, or be transported in the trunk of an automobile.

A total of 1,000 permits, 200 more than last year, will be issued for the Dec. 1-7 hunt. Season will be three days shorter but hunters can take any deer instead of only antlerless deer as in 1951.

Persons qualifying as farm operators must return applications only to the Plainwell office and not later than Oct. 1. All others must return completed blanks to Lansing only and by Oct. 10. Should there be more applications than the 1,000 quota allows, non-farm operators will participate in a drawing.

Before hunting, permits must be validated at the Swan Creek Wildlife Experiment station in Allegan county.

Special hunting areas and quotas will not apply in certain up-state regions this time since the entire northern lower peninsula or zone two will be open to taking any deer the last three days of the regular season Nov. 15-30.

He explained the importance of retaining a shopping district in the heart of the city rather than encouraging or forcing retail business to the outskirts of town. He also cited the need for offstreet parking facilities to attract people to the downtown area.

He explained that although the effect of the planning commission may not be felt immediately, future development of residential and commercial zones will be greatly aided.
