Between Henry Stegink and Dykman Brothers

Longtime Friendship Blossoms With Walks

By Ann Hungerford

"Hank, you'll probably be on television next," the old friend chided Henry Stegink on his new-found recognition.

"And maybe soon they'll give you a free trip to the moon," Roy Dykman poured on the ribbing.

Henry broadened his winning smile: "I'd just as soon sit here."

Three men enjoying afternoon coffee and conversation in the Hitting Post — a scenario, familiar to many—but this day conversation focused on the trio's long friendship spanning more than 40 years.

Notoriety compliments the almost willing, yet slightly embarrassed recipients—Henry Stegink and the Dykman brothers, Roy and Miner—as The Sentinel photographer captures the men in a talkative tableau.

A life long resident of the area and a 50-year-plus employee of West Michigan Furniture, Henry Stegink glowed in the jesting of his two best friends. It's been a friendship based on mutual concern, compassion and companionship.

To the best of their collective recollection the three met around 1930 when Roy took walks past Henry's house. The conversation and friendship evolved and so did the walks.

When he was 16, Roy Dykman was informed by eye specialists that he had retinitis pigmentosa, a disease which inevitably ends in total blindness and which also afflicted his younger brother, Miner.

Throughout the years from the time he totally lost his sight about 30 years ago, Roy has taken evening walks with his good friend, Henry. During the last two years of Henry's retirement, the afternoon walks have been almost daily except in severe weather.

"Henry has the gift of getting a blind person around," Roy says. "Very few people know how to lead a sightless person."

Ten years ago Roy was struck by a milk truck near the Post Office where he had operated a vending stand. Prior to that accident which necessitated corrective surgery, Roy had seen eye dogs. But the accident slowed his walk to the point that a dog was impractical.

The walks with Henry took on even more importance.

But according to Mrs. William (Sena) Hoogstrate, Henry's younger sister with whom he makes his home, the two men complement one another.

"Henry also receives a great deal from the relationship. It keeps him active and Henry has always believed that you have to be a friend to have a friend," Mrs. Hoogstrate says.

It's a philosophy and Christian belief that Henry carries even further as he helps Roy and other neighbors mow their lawns and calls on friends in area nursing homes.

"Henry is aggressive and that's good," Roy says. "He'll go up and talk to people. It's harder for me."

Miner, married with three children, Myra, Steven and Ken, also suffers from diabetes, an ailment which severely curtails walks with his Alaskan Husky, Tsar. The dog maintains too fast a pace on occasion for Miner.

Henry rides his bicycle to Miner's house on Madison and assists him in walking downtown where he can meet with his brother.

As are all the men, Roy is deeply religious, believing that "the Lord has been good" to him all the years. He considers himself fortunate that he can still "mop floors and wash windows."

A ravenous reader, Roy takes along braille books and magazines as he waits for his brother and Henry in the Hitting Post. The men then will frequently listen to baseball games or indulge in boyhood talks.

Friends in the restaurant will occasionally buy coffee for the trio.

The friendly kidding comes to a halt when the men are asked for stories about each other. They grin and refuse.

Recent — Accidents

Tom Evenhouse, 12, of 1268 West Lakewood Blvd., suffered minor injuries when the bicycle he was operating north along the sidewalk on the west side of River Ave. collided with a car driven by Anthony Arthur Klassen, 62, of 517 East 24th St., heading east along 11th St. Tuesday at 3:41 p.m.

CONSTRUCTION — Mike Miedema, co-partner in Lakewood Construction Co., and partner in Lakewood Mfg., Inc., heads the construction division of the Greater Holland United Way campaign which has a goal of $4,865. Miedema and his wife, Virginia, have four children and live at 594 Lake St. Assisting Miedema as co-chairman is Cornelius "Junior" Nyhoff and assistant chairman Bill Mouw.

Leaf Pickup Starts Oct. 12 In Holland

Autumn leaves are beginning to fall in Holland.

It's still a long way off, but the street department has scheduled the fall leaf pickup program from Oct. 12 to Nov. 16.

Beginning Saturday, Oct. 12, leaves can be raked into the gutter on curb and gutter streets and to the road shoulder on gravel shoulder roads in the city.

Until then, citizens are reminded it is illegal to place anything in the street right-of-way except during the authorized leaf pickup program in the fall or the annual spring cleanup.

In the case of leaves, City Engineer Gordon Start points out it is not economical to take care of them until large volumes build up. Consequently, residents should either store early leaves temporarily on their own property until Oct. 12 or dispose of them through refuse disposal services.

From Oct. 12 to Nov. 2, the street department will have nominal crews operating for the leaf pickup. For the first two weeks in November, full crews will be working on the pickup.

Saturday, Nov. 16, is the last day to rake leaves into the street.

Program Cuts Keyed To Inflation

18.9 Mill Passage Assures Operation Of School District

After two previous defeats, West Ottawa voters overwhelmingly approved an 18.9 millage renewal in a special millage election Thursday, but rejected an additional 1.5 mills by only four votes.

In the almost 5 to 1 approval of the 18.9 mills, the vote was 2,883 to 571. The narrow defeat of the second proposal of 1.5 mills was 1,684 yes to 1,688 no. Total vote cast was 3,514, or 41 per cent of the total registered vote of approximately 8,500.

"I am more than pleased that the voters in West Ottawa so clearly indicated their support for the continued operation of their schools," Supt. Lloyd Van Raalte said today.

"A sincere and loud thank-you must go to all those who have worked so hard to carry the needs of the schools to the community. Now let us get on with the education of the children remembering clearly what has been learned. Those lines of communication that were so effectively used in past weeks must be maintained and expanded," he said.

Van Raalte explained that the 18.9 mill levy (unchanged from last year) will permit continued operation of all programs in the schools, but at a slightly reduced level. He said the degree of reduction is contingent on the effects of inflation.

He added that there will be reductions in supplies available to children, and a reduction in elementary, middle and secondary staffs. He said attempts would be made to maintain a balanced reduction in all aspects of the school program.

Previous millage proposals that were defeated had called for 22 mills.

Hawkeyes Fall To Caledonia

HAMILTON—With a flourish of scoring in the second quarter the Hamilton home crowd saw their Hawkeyes go down to defeat for the second time here Friday night, 24-6.

All the scoring of the game happened in the second quarter with Caledonia starting it off on a 65-yard run by Don Deurkee from scrimmage. The PAT was good making the score, 8-0. A Bob Koning to Tom McKee 29-yard pass play set up the next Caledonia TD, followed by the extra point making it, 16-0.

Hamilton then entered its tally of the game, as Jim Kraker ran in from seven yards out on a pitch play. The score then stood at 16-6 after the PAT failed.

The final tally of the quarter and game came with one second left when the Hawkeyes were ready to leave for the locker-room. Koning connected with Deurkee for a 67-yard pass play making the final score of the game, 24-6 after the PAT was converted.

Panthers Lead Until Final Period

By Roger Kuiken

ROCKFORD — West Ottawa dropped a close game to the Rockford Rams Friday night by an 18-14 score. It was the first Big Red Division football game for both teams as each scored victories in their first non-conference tilts last week.

The Panthers led the game for the first three quarters but couldn't hold off a last period rally by the Rams, thanks to some costly mistakes by West Ottawa.

The Panthers seemed to be in control the first half as they racked up 150 yards rushing on some nice ball handling by quarterback Jack Murdoch and the running of Jamie Bloemendaal. West Ottawa, one of the few sophomores on the squad, broke through for several long gains. Scott Tubergen and Matt Johnson also racked up several yardage.

Neither team was able to score in the first quarter but the Panthers got moving early in the second period when Johnson scampered six yards for a TD and Sam Angel split the uprights to give West Ottawa a 7-0 lead.

West Ottawa's defense held good but a fumble gave the Rams the ball on the Panther 45-yard line. The Rams took advantage of the break and scored on a five-yard pass play. On the try for a two point conversion, Murdoch made a beautiful defensive move to break up the pass and West Ottawa held on to a 7-6 lead.

Again the Panthers moved the ball well with Murdoch completing passes to Ken Hamstra and then a touchdown pass to Jim Carson in the end zone. Again Angel kicked the extra point giving West Ottawa a comfortable 14-6 half time lead.

The third period went scoreless but the Rams got rolling in the final period and scored twice, both on Panther mistakes. The first was on a Panther fumble on their own 30-yard line. West Ottawa's defense did a good job in holding the Rams on this drive but with a fourth down and five a pass in the end zone put six more points on the scoreboard for Rockford. The extra point try failed as Matt Johnson knifed through and made a fine tackle on Ram halfback, Jeff Gamble, as the Panthers still led 14-12.

With seven minutes to go in the game, West Ottawa was forced to punt. Hamstra was unable to get the ball off and the Rams took over, this time on West Ottawa's 25-yard line. After a couple completed passes, the Ram quarterback went eight yards for a TD giving Rockford a 18-14 lead. West Ottawa had enough time to score but the Rams were really fired up and held on to win.

Coach Don Verduin's Rams are now 2-0 for the season, as they defeated Sparta in the opener last week. The Panthers had more yards in both rushing and passing but Rockford capitalized on the mistakes. This is a fine spirited Panther team and they will be looking forward to hosting the Jenison Wildcats next week.

Niles Beats Dutch Ninth Time in Row

By Leo Martonosi

NILES—The Detroit Lions can't beat the Minnesota Vikings and the Holland High Dutch can't seem to get by the Niles Vikings. Holland lost to the Vikings for the ninth straight time here Friday night, 26-6. It was the second consecutive win for Niles and second straight defeat for the Dutch.

Niles might have thought it was Christmas, as the Dutch presented them with many turnovers (gifts), as each Viking touchdown came after an Holland miscue.

The Dutch defense spearheaded by tackle Bill DeWitt, linebacker Tom Ter Haar and cornerback Randy Schutt, did an outstanding job most of the evening in shutting off the Viking offense but Holland's offense, especially its running game was non-existent.

A late touchdown pass of 84 yards from quarterback Dan Bartlett to Juan Ramirez gave Holland a respectable 101 yards in passing for the game. However, the rugged Viking defense didn't give the Dutch an inch on the ground, as Holland finished the evening with negative seven yards.

The first of four Holland fumbles lost gave the Vikings a first down on the nine-yard line of the Dutch. But with De Witt, Ter Haar, Schutt and Clare Slager doing yeoman work, the Vikes' Tim Dill looked more like a "sliced pickle," as he was stopped on fourth in one.

With the score 0-0 after one period, a short punt set up Niles first touchdown. Dill managed to bust his way one-yard up the middle for the score with 8:33 left in the first half. The first of two extra point kicks by Dan Kasprzak gave the winners a 7-0 lead.

The Dutch defense stopped the Vikings bid again after another Holland fumble in the second quarter, as the Dutch were still in the game at the intermission even though they made numerous mistakes.

Both teams traded fumbles early in the third stanza with the Vikes on top, 7-0 when Schutt's hard blow on a Niles back caused Coach Ray Backus to comment, "Holy Mackerel." The lone Viking fumble was coughed up by Ter Haar.

But still another Dutch turnover (fumble) resulted in Niles second TD, a one-yard run by Steve Adams.

Rick Elzinga of Holland was injured on the ensuing kickoff, and fumbled after being decked by a Viking tackler to help Niles build its lead to 20-0. Adams again dashed seven yards into paydirt.

One of three pass interceptions by Niles closed out its scoring in the fourth quarter, just two plays after Ross Nykamp made a fine stop of a Viking TD bid. Dill tallied his second touchdown on a three-yard run.

Bartlett gave Holland's fans something to cheer about as he layed a pass into the waiting arms of Ramirez, who was all alone in the Dutch 40-yard line and out-ran the Viking secondary into the end zone in the dying minutes of action.

Holland seeks its first win of the season next Friday at Riverview Park when it entertains Muskegon Heights.

"Michigan farmers share an interest with sportsmen in the observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day Sept. 28, since much of the game harvested in Michigan comes from farm land, said B. Dale Ball, Director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

"The mixed bag of food and leftovers that results from farming stimulates production of pheasants, rabbits, deer, ducks, geese, squirrels, turkeys, quail and other Michigan game, said Director Ball.

"Good soil and water management, practiced with the assistance of soil and water conservation districts, improves wildlife food and cover on Michigan farms and helps assure Michigan hunters of a continuing harvest.

"Tree farms, whether they're the back woodlot of a dairy farm or a solidly stocked northern forest, provide plentiful cover and lush new wildlife food following periodic harvests, Ball noted. "The intensively harvested forest is generally the forest that's most productive of wildlife," he added.

"About twenty million acres of Michigan is owned and operated by farmers and private timberland owners. All of this produces wildlife, but farmers go above and beyond their jobs of food and fiber production to manage three-quarters of a million acres especially for fish and game, said Ball.

"With the help of their soil conservation districts, they build wildlife ponds, leave unplowed field corners, manage hay fields for pheasant production, leave weeds, grasses and grain for winter food and cover, plant wildlife food, leave den trees for raccoons and squirrels, and a host of other practices of benefit to fish and game.

"Ball urged hunters and fishermen to respect the property of others and ask the property owner first before going onto the land. If hunting and fishing in the American tradition is to survive, it's up to sportsmen to encourage all who use the outdoors to use good outdoor manners, he concluded."

So when you are moving around in the great outdoors it is well to remember the rules and regulations. This will make it better for everyone.

Sunday School Lesson

In the Midst of Change
1 Samuel 12:13-18, 22-24
By C. P. Dame

We are very conscious of changes because so many have come recently with astounding rapidity. History tells us that changes took place frequently in the past. In this lesson let us affirm that it is important in the midst of changes to remain loyal to God.

I. The desire for changes is old. Our lesson speaks of a radical change. Under the leadership of Joshua, Israel conquered Canaan partially. The pagans who were left tempted the newer generations and often led them astray, punishment followed, then repentance and then deliverance through judges whom God sent, of whom Samuel was the last. When he was old he appointed his sons to judge but they became corrupt. At that time the Philistines were aggressive. The elders of the nation came to Samuel with the request for a king who would unite the nation against its foes. Samuel frowned upon the idea and prayed about it to God who told him to yield to the people's request comforting him with the words, "for they have not rejected you, but they have rejected me from being a king over them."

The desire for a change reflected the mood of the elders. The secular took the place of the prophetic. Israel was meant to be a theocracy, ruled by God, but the nation wanted to be like the other nations and be ruled by a king. God wanted the nation to be different and distinctive.

II. Loyalty to God is basic. In chapter 12 Samuel gives the history of God's people; in his address he speaks of the great acts of God wrought on their behalf, giving names and events. The nation had a king for whom the elders had asked. A new episode faced the nation: Samuel cited two courses of action. And he mentioned the consequences of each course. The nation could fear, serve and obey the Lord, or disobey him and rebel against him, this was the choice. Blessings or punishment, weal or woe awaited them.

III. Prayer power is real. The prophet prayed and God answered decidedly. The thunder and rain caused the people to feel guilty because they asked for a king. The people asked Samuel to pray for them. They had sinned in asking as they did. Samuel urged them not to fear but to follow the Lord wholly and serve him with all their hearts. Samuel promised to do two things for the nation, pray for them, if he did not, he would sin, and teach them. Our nation needs leaders like Samuel, men who will pray and teach the nation the good and right way.

Changes come. They sometimes challenge. In the midst of changes let us cling to the basic truths, and remain loyal to God and serve him better on account of the changes.

BOONE FAMILY HOME, BEGUN IN 1857, HAS HOUSED THREE GENERATIONS (Sentinel photos)

Historic Family Home Is Special to Ada Raak

By Cathleen Collins

The old brick home of Mrs. Ada Raak at 11045 Paw Paw Dr., tree shaded and vine-draped, stands in graceful harmony with the land on which it stands.

The two have had some time to become used to one another, for it was 117 years ago that Mrs. Raak's great-grandfather and grandfather first bought the farm land from Albertus C. Van Raalte the founder of Holland and dug it out to build their home there. They had crossed over from the Netherlands in 1847.

The original building was only a fraction of its present size, three rooms built on one floor. In 1885 the "Project of a House for Mr. G. J. Boone", a floorplan taped on two hinged pieces of wood, recorded their plans to expand it to 18 rooms on two stories. The plan was carried out and the building has been changed little since then. Its large kitchen, large bedrooms and plenty of closet space are unusual in an old home.

Mrs. Raak looks back on the varied lives which four generations of her family have spent in the house. Her parents were married coming down its stairway in 1901 and she was born there in 1904.

Her view of the past and of her own life are thus framed by the home in which she has spent all but 11 of her 70 years. She seems close and comfortable with times past, when butter was churned and then pressed with butter forms and an ice-box was still a wooden box with ice in it; when flatirons were heated on the range before they could be used to press clothing and Paw Paw Dr. was the main road between Grand Rapids and Chicago. For her, solid wooden doors and china doorknobs are the norm; others, marvelling, have had to point out that all houses are not built that way.

The house was certainly expensive to build, but not as expensive as it would seem. For Mrs. Raak's grandfather owned a lumber mill and several of his sisters married Veneklasens, who owned the brickyards. They never had more outside help than a hired man to aid in the farming, even when it was common and relatively inexpensive to do so. The women in the family took care of the upkeep of the large house.

The nooks and crannies of the wood-lined home would be a delight for a child to explore. A special well in the wall of the kitchen was used to facilitate the movement of china from the kitchen through the parlor to the pantry. A wood bin opens out of the same wall next to where the wood-burning stove used to be.

The opposite wall of the same room is lined with six doors, revealing perhaps the crazy construction of an older home and arousing some mystery as to what is behind them - all sorts of things: a hallway, a pantry, a closet, a dumbwaiter as tall as a man. In addition to the long, bannistered stairway leading upstairs, a small winding one leads directly to the bedroom of the hired man and was used only by him. It was sealed off securely from the rest of the upstairs rooms - for, as Ada Raak says with a laugh, her grandfather had seven sisters!

She is content to be able to live out the rest of her life in the family home with the company of her small dog, for as she says, "Everything here is very dear to me." The house is solidly built and wearing its age well, but the worn wood sills on the floors testify to the many feet and years between now and 1857.

In Civic Center.

May 14-17 are the dates for the Tulip Time Flower Show in Holland Armory with all ages welcome to participate.

Marionette Presentation Is Highly Entertaining

By Cornelia Van Voorst

Holland Concert Association members were treated to an exciting new art form in De Witt Cultural Center on Hope College campus Thursday night when Peter Arnott presented Aristophanes' "The Birds" in his marionette theatre.

While marionette theatre might be new to local concert audiences, it actually is very old, and the enterprising Arnott has been highly successful in exploiting this neglected medium in a selection of serious drama. He has appeared in Holland area twice previously.

In his artistic presentation, Arnott is a virtual one-man show, appearing alone, handling all the voices, manipulating all the marionettes and even the lights, in the 2,000-year-old Aristophanes drama which somehow is just as applicable today as it was in the old days when Greek drama flourished.

Arnott is appearing tonight and Saturday night in other performances. Tonight's drama is Euripides' "Medea" and Saturday night "Scapin" by Moliere. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. Membership holders must make reservations with the college theatre, but seats are not assigned. Early arrivals have the choice of best seats.

Since marionette theatre is an intimate form of theatrics, seats up front are desirable. "The Birds," which has no association with the Alfred Hitchcock film thriller, is essentially the story of two old Greek men fed up with all the current talk on politics and taxes and seek diversion elsewhere. This diversion turns out to be a new bird world full of interesting characters in a new life style.

The concert association again unites this year with the Hope College Great Performance Series offering a series of seven attractions.

The remaining attractions: Oct. 8 — Two Generations of Brubeck, Civic Center. Oct. 28-29 — "The National Players Oct. 28 'Charlie's Aunt' matinee and evening in De Witt Center. Oct. 29 'Henry IV, part 1,' Civic Center.

Nov. 15 — Kenneth Jewell Chorale, Dimment Chapel. Feb. 18 — Vermeer Quartet, Dimment Chapel. March 19 — Indianapolis Symphony, Civic Center. April 11 — Joy Blackett, mezzo, Dimment Chapel.
