Additional Local.

We call the attention of ladies to the advertisement in this paper of "Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon." We have in our possession indisputable evidence of its worth, and we recommend the afflicted to try it. This remedy differs from quack nostrums in the following respects: 1st. It is prepared by a regular physician; 2d. It is not recommended for all diseases, but only for a particular class, peculiar to females; 3d. It is recommended and used in practice by many physicians, one of whom at least is well known to the people of New Bedford. 47-ly.

Worth Remembering.

Now that good times are again upon us, it is worth remembering that no one can enjoy the pleasantest surroundings if in bad health. There are hundreds of miserable people going about to day with disordered stomach, liver or kidneys, when a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic would do them more good than all the medicines they have ever tried.

Do not neglect a Cough or Cold until it is too late; try Eilert's Extract of Tar and Wild Cherry, you are sure you will be convinced of its merits, Chronic Coughs, and even Consumptives are cured by following the directions, every bottle is warranted to give satisfaction. 40-ly

WEEKLY NEWS REVIEW.

THE EAST.

THE corpse of an unknown lad has been having a variety of adventures in the Pennsylvania towns. The boy was killed by a train at Johnstown last month, and was identified by a citizen of Bristol as his son and tenderly laid to rest, an event soon followed by the return of the wanderer from Bristol. Reading of the occurrence, an anxious father in Sharon, named Seaburn, had the remains disinterred, became thoroughly satisfied that they were those of his remaining son, and buried them at Sharon, Aug. 24. The reappearance of Eddie Seaburn caused the wildest excitement among those familiar with the circumstances of the double mistake. The real name of the wandering corpse has not yet been ascertained. After a conference of five hours between the puddlers and iron manufacturers of Pittsburgh, last year's scale of wages was signed.

THE members of the mining-stock firm of James G. Sands & Co., of New York, disappeared ten days ago. Sands was Secretary of several mining companies, and is said to have gone to Mexico. Two ladies well known in society have lost $210,000 each by the collapse, and several prominent lawyers are out about $10,000 each. John G. Bigelow, of Washington, filed in the Circuit Court at Buffalo a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Sergt. Mason, on the grounds that the court-martial lacked jurisdiction to try the accused, and that the detail of the battery as a guard at the jail was in violation of an act of Congress. Judge Cox allowed the petition to be filed, but made the papers returnable at Utica.

A FRIGHTFUL collision occurred in the Fourth avenue tunnel, New York. A standing train was run into, two cars telescoped, and one man instantly killed. Another passenger has since died of wounds, and eighteen others were seriously injured. The large jeans mill of J. L. Edward & Son, at Chester, Pa., was destroyed by fire. Loss, $80,000; insurance, $60,000.

THE WEST.

MAYOR HARRISON, of Chicago, returned home the other day, after a six weeks' absence in Europe, and was accorded a big public reception. His arrival was signaled by the booming of cannon and the firing of rockets, and he was escorted to his home by a long procession.

A CONDUCTOR on the Northampton road disobeyed orders and brought about a collision of freight trains at Greenfield, Mass. The offender escaped injury, but the conductor, fireman and brakeman of the other train were killed.

THE Society of the Army of the Cumberland, under the Presidency of Lieut. Gen. Phil Sheridan, and with a large attendance of ex-soldiers of rank and distinction, held its fourteenth annual meeting in Milwaukee. The annual oration was delivered by Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio, followed by an eloquent and interesting address by Gen. Jacob D. Cox on "The Youth and Early Manhood of James A. Garfield." A most determined attempt at suicide, which may result in success, was made by Henry Weiner, a grocer at Carondelet, Mo. He stabbed himself thirty times just below the heart, severed the main artery in each arm, made twelve slashes behind the right ear, cut a gash of an inch on the crown of his head, and wounded himself in the wrist. When the physicians had sufficiently revived him, he drank the contents of a coal-oil lamp.

GEORGE S. ROUSSEAU, formerly a Lieutenant in the United States army, shot himself through the head at Laredo, where he was employed as a quarantine guard. He was a son of Gen. Lovell H. Rousseau, and was three years ago dismissed the service for killing Dr. Rivers at Brackett, Texas.

A MAN named Porter White shot his wife at Sedalia, Mo., and then shot himself. Cause, domestic trouble. White's wife left him a short time ago because he abused her. He shot her through the heart, and she died instantly. He then shot himself in the right temple, and lived about two hours. Flames swept away $50,000 worth of property at Susonville, Col.

THE SOUTH.

CAPT. PAYNE, of Oklahoma notoriety, has been taken to Fort Smith, Ark., where he will be tried in the Federal Court. While passing through Henrietta, Tex., Payne sued out a writ of habeas corpus for himself and followers in the District Court, but Lieut. Taylor refused to recognize it, whereupon a warrant was issued for the arrest of Taylor himself. This was also resisted, the civil officers not being permitted to enter the car. The affair created quite a commotion in Henrietta.

A FIRE in the Boston warehouse, in Lafayette street, New Orleans, destroyed that structure and damaged many others, causing a total loss of $100,000; fully insured.

THE body of Augustus Green, a wealthy Englishman, was found near his residence in Chesterfield county, Va., and guarding the remains was his dog, which was in a starving condition. It is believed Green died suddenly while in a delirium.

THE Cleveland family of six persons, residing at Nashville, Tenn., were poisoned by an insane daughter putting strychnine in the coffee. Mr. Cleveland died from the effects, and another daughter lies in a dangerous condition. At Hot Springs, Ark., Charles Matthews, editor of the Hornet, was shot four times and killed in an affray with Col. S. W. Fordyce, Vice President of the St. Louis and Texas Narrow Gauge railroad, and Col. Rugg, one of the proprietors of the Arlington Hotel. It is not known whether Fordyce or Rugg fired the fatal shot. The trouble grew out of a bitter newspaper controversy over local affairs. At Searcy, Ark., an editor got into a personal difficulty with the Methodist Presiding Elder of the district over the prohibition question, and the Gospel man proved to be the hardest hitter, as he knocked down the journalist, and had to be pulled off by bystanders. Jack Chapman, colored, was hanged at Bellevue, Boston Parish, La., for the murder of John Wilson, colored, on Oct. 2, 1881. The United States Court at Fort Smith, Ark., released Oklahoma Payne and his followers.

A FIRE in the business quarter of Fort Smith, Ark., burned property of the estimated value of $75,000.

WASHINGTON.

A WASHINGTON telegram says: Dorsey's friends say that Ben Butler has been retained to defend the Butlers in the next star-route trial. Senator Jones, of Nevada, expresses the opinion that at the next trial the chief conspirators would be convicted. He said the administration is thoroughly in earnest, and will not relax their determination to convict.

MR. JOHN C. NEW, acting as Secretary of the Treasury in place of Mr. Folger, made a call for $25,000,000 of extended 5-per-cent. bonds, the call to mature Dec. 23.

GENERAL.

A ROCHESTER (N. Y.) dispatch says: "Dr. Lewis Swift, the director of Warner Observatory, is receiving messages from all parts of America claiming the discovery of the large naked-eye comet now visible near the sun. The doctor says it is the same comet recently discovered in South America moving west, and is not the comet of 1812, nor is it identical with any known comet."

THE breadstuffs exported for the eight months ended Aug. 31 were valued at $110,015,703, against $157,505,305 for the same period last year.

PROF. BOSS, of Dudley Observatory, Albany, believes the comet we now see near the sun is the return of the great comet discovered by Dr. Gould in South America on the 5th of February, 1860. The end of the Christian era has been reached at last, the plaintiff having been granted a divorce from his wife on the ground of desertion.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Northern Pacific road, held in New York, the gross earnings for the year ending June 30 were reported at $5,430,363, and the operating expenses, rents and taxes at $3,572,840. The average number of miles operated was 797; the track laid for the year was 285 miles, and 272 miles to be constructed after January next will complete the road. The land department received $1,709,338 during the year. Henry Villard was re-elected President and Samuel Wilkeson Secretary. The National Distillers' and Liquor Dealers' Convention, in session at Cincinnati, resolved that, while sobriety, good order and respect for the customs of others are unwritten laws of the land, and would be obeyed by them, yet a judicious license system would benefit the Government and afford them protection, and they were opposed to prohibition as detrimental to the rights of the majority. The United Presbyterian Synod announces its intention to raise $500,000 in honor of its quarter-centennial. The bursting of a ferry-boat's boiler near Lachine, Canada, caused the death of four persons and the burning of many others by escaping steam.

THE business failures of the week ending Sept. 23 aggregated 141, an increase of two over the previous week, and forty-five more than in the corresponding period in 1881.

THE United States signal station in the North Atlantic in charge of Lieut. Greeley is inaccessible by reason of a large ice barrier which extends from Cape Inglefield to Ross bay. The expedition which sailed July 8 from St. Johns, N. F., with additional supplies for Lieut. Greeley's station was unable to reach its destination, and as ice had formed four inches thick on the 5th the expedition returned to St. Johns to avoid being ice-blocked for the winter. Lieut. Greeley, and his men, however, are supplied with stores of all kinds sufficient to last two years, and no anxiety is felt concerning them. Capt. Rogers, of the steamer Lepanto, which arrived at New York from Hull, England, reports being in collision in a fog, Sept. 21, with the steamer Edam, which foundered. All the Edam's passengers and crew, save the third and assistant engineers, were saved.

FOREIGN.

ONE THOUSAND ejemctment decrees have been posted at Swineford, County Mayo for the special benefit of tenants on Lord Dillon's estate. The Portuguese Government has contracted for laying a telegraph cable between Lisbon and the United States, which shall touch at the Azores. The Czar left St. Petersburg Sept. 20 for Moscow, where, as alleged, his coronation will soon take place. Great military precautions were taken for his safety.

THE Emperor and Empress of Russia, upon their arrival at Moscow, were received with great enthusiasm. They were deeply impressed with the popular manifestations of loyalty. A Catholic clergyman of Breslau has been fined 200 marks for libeling Bismarck. Stanley, the African explorer, has arrived at Lisbon.

TWO HILL tribes marched to Scutari and frustrated a plot got up by the Albanian League to massacre and rob the richest Christians, and among them the English Consul. A meeting at London, under the auspices of the Democratic Federation, adopted a motion calling upon the Government to frame measures to prevent the importation of Chinese workmen. Four towns were entirely destroyed by the floods in the Tyrol. The bodies of twenty-six persons have been recovered. The last of the Irish suspects has been released from Kilmainham jail.

THE President of the last Serbian Skuptschina has been arrested for complicity in the forgeries of requisitions during the war. Patrick Walsh was executed at Galway, Ireland, for murder. He protested on the gallows that he was the victim of perjury. Snow-storms and avalanches have ruined the crops in sections of Switzerland. The Exhibition Building at Sydney, in New South Wales, was totally destroyed by fire, with all its contents. The loss is $500,000.

THE two heroes of the Egyptian campaign, Gen. Wolseley and Admiral Seymour, are to be raised to the Peerage in recognition by the British Government of their distinguished services. The shocking destruction of a school-house, together with its inmates, including both grown persons and children, is reported from the town of Grodno, the capital of one of the governmental departments of Russia. A hardware dealer used the cellar of the house for storing powder, in which he secretly conducted a contraband traffic. While he was moving about incautiously in this place with a light the powder was ignited and the whole building was blown into the air. The number of persons killed was not at last accurately known, but many disfigured corpses and mangled limbs and fragments of bodies have been taken from the ruins.

THE curious fact has been disclosed that women are extensive holders of bank shares in New York. The Bank of Commerce has 1,829 shareholders, and 778 women hold more than one-fourth of its $5,000,000 capital stock. The oldest bank in the State is the Bank of New York Banking Association, 10,270 of whose 20,000 shares are held by 247 women, fifty-two trustees of estates and nineteen charitable institutions. It is the popular belief that the stock of the great banks are held almost exclusively by men of immense wealth, but the facts concerning these two powerful New York banks are wholly against that theory.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

A BLOOMINGTON (Ill.) paper announces the approaching nuptials of Senator David Davis, in November, to a Miss Annie Green, daughter of a wealthy and prominent citizen of Fayetteville, N. C., and who is the Democratic candidate for Congress from that district. His intended bride is described as a beautiful and accomplished young lady about 25 years of age. French influence is actively opposing a reciprocity treaty between Mexico and the United States.

TOWARD the end of the year there will be held in Dublin a great Irish National Convention to review the position and condition of the country. Delegates to the convention will be elected by the people. Premier Gladstone has informed a correspondent that he is powerless to interfere with the proselyting work of the Mormons, as their converts go with them without compulsion. In the barony of Erris, Ireland, fifty families have recently been evicted by the military and police, and the peasantry have been ordered not to shelter the unfortunate. Six more men, mostly released "suspects," have been arrested in connection with the murder of the Healy brothers at Lough Ma-k. A Chinese imperial decree orders that the father of the King of Corea be kept for life under guard at Pao Ping Fu. Friedrich Woehler, the eminent German chemist and Director of the chemical institute at Göttingen, is dead.

In a bank at Baltimore bonds to the value of $12,000 were "sneaked" from a clerk who was cutting off coupons, and the robbery was so cleverly contrived that the loss of the bonds was not discovered until after fifteen minutes had elapsed, during which the thieves had ample opportunity to get beyond pursuit. Three strange men entered the jewelry store of Cook & Sons, Louisville, Ky., looked over some goods on the pretense of making a purchase, and, without doing so, left. The proprietors soon discovered that the shop had been robbed of stock valued at $5,000. Of five convicts who attempted to escape from the Huntsville (Texas) Penitentiary by crawling through a sewer, the guards killed one, wounded another and captured two.

By an explosion of gas in a mine at Plymouth, Pa., two men were instantly killed and a third so badly burned that he will probably die. At Pittsburgh a gallery of the Exposition building gave way, injuring several people, two very severely, and about the same time a shed just outside the building, on which a large number of people was collected to view the fireworks, collapsed and injured several persons. While the guns of Fort William, on Governor's island, New York harbor, were saluting the French Admiral the premature discharge of a cannon killed one man instantly, and fearfully maimed and lacerated a number of others. The Franklin sugar refinery at Philadelphia was partially destroyed by fire, causing a loss estimated at $1,000,000, and throwing 1,000 men out of employment.

THE Spring Meadow distillery, located some miles north of Milwaukee, owned by William Bergenthal & Co., was damaged by fire to the amount of $50,000. The bonded warehouses and two immense copper worms were saved.

A CABINET officer writes that President Arthur has been compelled to abandon his intention to visit Chicago and Milwaukee this fall.

THE ASIA DISASTER.

Miss Morrison's Story. In the Coroner's investigation at Parry Sound, Miss Christy Ann Morrison, the only lady survivor of the wreck of the steamer Asia, testified as follows:

I got up on Thursday morning feeling very seasick. It was pretty rough all the morning. I think that about 11 o'clock the first intimation I had of danger was from the noise made by the horses. I asked the mate if there was any danger. He said they had already thrown off the horses, and would throw off what freight they could. I then went back to my berth, and the boat rolled so much to one side that I got a life-preserver and put it on. Half an hour, possibly, had elapsed between the first idea I had of danger and my putting on the life-preserver. After putting on the life-preserver I sat by the cabin-door until the water came into the cabin. Then by catching hold of the cabin-door and railing I managed to get on the upper deck of all. The boat then seemed to be settling down, one side being much the undermost. The life-boat happened to be close to where I got to.

I lowered myself into the water, and the Captain caught me and held me from sinking till the mate came and helped me into the boat. At that time there were twelve in the boat. I did not know any in the boat except the first mate and a Miss McNab, my room-mate. A number of people from the other boats came into our boat. The reason why they came into our boat was that they were upset. The reason why they were upset was the roughness of the sea. They did not seem overcrowded. One reason that they were upset was that they had not a sufficient number of oars. One of the other boats had one, another had not any, ours had two. The reason I know they had so few oars was that they came alongside of our boat and asked the Captain if we had any to spare. I did not see any person left on board the steamer after we left the ship's side. The boats ran along together for a little, then the other two upset. They upset three times. Every time they righted a few were missing. The third time I did not see any one clinging to them at all. I only saw two boats beside our own. Six of the passengers of the two boats came into ours. About twenty minutes afterward our boat capsized. She righted. I held on to the ropes, or life-lines going round the boat, so that when she righted I was in again. After we righted I heard some one say three were gone. We then sailed or drifted before the storm. Our boat capsized three times. Each time some were missing. I did not notice any one to be hurt on the boat's righting except the mate, who had got a scratch below his eye. After our number was reduced to seven the boat did not capsize any more. It was because the storm moderated that we ceased to capsize. The last capsize took place shortly before dark. Before dark the mate said he saw land, and after dark we saw a lighthouse which the mate said was Bying Inlet light. When we saw the light all cheered up considerably, but soon after one of the strangers died, name unknown. The only members of the crew that I knew in our boat were the Captain and mate. After the stranger died two others died almost immediately together. They just seemed to perish. They did not seem to have sustained any internal injury. I did not hear them complain of any injury. About midnight the mate succumbed, and about ten minutes after him the Captain died. The person I have called the mate was named John McDonald, who was a second cousin of mine. The person I have called Captain was named John Savage, Captain of the steamer Asia. At the time they died the sea was very quiet, and the wind was moderate. Shortly after daybreak I and Mr. Tinkins landed. The bodies were still in the boat. After landing we drew the boat on shore and walked along a piece, and, finding we could not walk, we returned to the boat, and Mr. Tinkins took the bodies out of the boat and laid them on the island. We then got into the boat again, and rowed along with an oar we had picked up (having lost our oars when we capsized) to find a place—a habitable place. That was the last I saw of the bodies. I know that we left the bodies of John Savage, John McDonald and three other men on the island on which we first landed. On the following (Friday) night we slept on the rocks. Next morning we again got into our boat and rowed until, in despair, we gave up. We went ashore again, laid down and slept. Then the Indian came along, and we engaged him to bring us here.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

Abdellal Pasha, who commanded at Damietta, surrendered to the British on the 19th of September. With the surrender of Abdellal ceased the last remnant of organized resistance to the authority of the Khedive, and that functionary at once proceeded to Cairo, the capital city, under escort of Indian cavalry. The entire population of Damietta is again at work in the fields, the telegraph censorship has been abolished, and trains have been restored between Cairo and Kahr-el-Dwar. The civil government of Egypt is the next grave question to be considered, and the establishment of a gendarmerie officered by Englishmen is already seriously discussed. A Turkish newspaper advises that the property of the rebels be confiscated and distributed among the sufferers from incendiarism and pillage. Efforts are being made to secure the services of a prominent English lawyer to defend Arabi. If capital sentences are passed on the Egyptian leaders, they must not be carried out without the consent of the British Government is first obtained.

An Alexandria dispatch states that Arabi Pasha was ill in prison, and had for a companion Mahmoud Fahmy, his Chief Engineer. Disturbances and outrages prevailed in the interior, and the houses and factories of Europeans were being robbed and burned. Wholesale arrests of Arabi's supporters were being made. Arabi insisted that all his acts were instigated by the Khedive and the Sultan.

An Alexandria dispatch, of Sept. 22, states that Gangeel, who was Prefect of Police at Alexandria at the time of the massacre in June, has been captured by the British and placed in irons. One thousand Bedouins had occupied the intrenchments at Kahr-el-Dwar which the British abandoned. Arabi, while in power, despoiled the national treasury of £200,000, £18,000 of which has been recovered. The Ambassadors advised the Porte to act in accord with the British policy in Egypt. Arabi and all of his supporters, the dispatches stated, would be tried by court-martial.

A dispatch from Alexandria says that property in that city valued at $1,000,000 will be confiscated to indemnify sufferers by the massacre. Damietta surrendered on the 22d of September. All rebel officers at Ramleh below the rank of Colonel have been released. The English have abandoned the works erected at Port Said. The Princes Ibrahim, Hamid and Kamil, who signed the petition asking for the deposition of the Khedive last May, called at the palace in Cairo, but were ordered to leave at once.

The Khedive has issued a manifesto declaring England has great interests in Egypt, both in regard to finances and traffic through the Suez canal; that for the protection of those interests she was compelled to interfere, but that she has no intention of annexing the country. The Khedive announces he has authorized Gen. Wolseley to represent him in restoring order and punishing rebels. All loyal Egyptians are called upon to render Wolseley every assistance. Any one refusing will be treated as a rebel. It would appear that a gendarmerie for Egypt is already being organized in Europe, as a party of enrolled men have started from Geneva. Their pay is from 150 to 300 francs per month, and French and Italians are ineligible. British troops dismounted the guns at Ghemileh, and the people have resumed their ordinary vocations. It is generally believed in Egypt that no rebels will be executed, but that they will be banished and their property confiscated. The Khedive has offered the British Consul General the grand cross of the order of Osmanli.

Egypt is now again entirely under the authority of the Khedive. Accompanied by his Ministers, he was escorted by the Bengal Lancers to the railway station at Alexandria, to the music of the Egyptian national anthem, and left for Cairo on the 25th of September. Arriving at Cairo they were received by the Duke of Connaught and Gen. Wolseley, and driven through crowded streets to Ghoghrieh Palace. Abdellal Pasha, Suleiman Bey and others were sent to Cairo under military guard. It is learned that Arabi Pasha declined the services of French, German and Russian officers. He is heartily sorry he fought the English, as they have shown such magnanimity to the prisoners and wounded. He thinks all the notables and prominent men connected with the rebellion should be sent out of the country. A general amnesty will be decreed by the Khedive, except to about six persons connected with the Alexandria massacre. Baker Pasha will effect the reorganization of the Egyptian army.

End of the Iron Strike.

The long strike of the iron-workers is over, and, for the first time in the history of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, they have suffered defeat. A Pittsburgh dispatch of Sept. 19, says: Three district meetings of the Amalgamated Association were held to-day at Pittsburgh, Wheeling and Youngstown. At the Pittsburgh meeting, presided over by President Jarrett, the discussions were long and at times acrimonious, many delegates holding out for the compromise proposition agreed upon at the last meeting, but it was evident from the first that a majority favored a square back-down and resumption at the old scale. Amid much excitement and confusion the vote was taken on the proposition to declare the strike off, and it was carried by 81 to 27. The outcome of the meeting gives great satisfaction to the business community, as there is no doubt the mill-owners will readily agree to pay the old price for puddling. Some of the mills will start this week.

At the Youngstown meeting Vice President Sharon presided. Every lodge in the district except two was represented. On the first ballot the vote showed only eight delegates out of sixty opposed to resuming work at the old scale, $5.50. Later these eight reconsidered their action and made the vote unanimous to resume.

At Wheeling the contest between those in favor of holding out and those anxious to resume at the old rates was very bitter, and for a long time the result was doubtful. After a long discussion the vote was taken, showing a majority of one in favor of breaking the strike. The mills at Wheeling will start as soon as possible—in a week at the farthest.

President Jarrett to-night officially declared the strike off. His words are: "Gentlemen of the Amalgamated Association, the strike is ended."

A BORDER BATTLE.

Desperate Fight Between Two Bands of Cowboys.

Several of the Contestants Killed at the First Fire.

A recent dispatch from Denver says: The particulars of a strange duel between cowboys have just reached here. George Howard, owner of a herd of 3,000 cattle, and John Kelly, owner of a herd of 4,000, were driving in company from Arizona east. North of Trinidad, Col., on the plains the two herds were to separate, Howard to take the old Santa Fe trail to Kansas City, and Kelly to drive north to Denver. On the way an accidental exchange of cattle had been made, and Howard insisted on having his stock, but was unwilling to deliver Kelly's. It was agreed to settle the matter in a battle between six picked men of each party. Accordingly the twelve men ranged themselves on horseback, the two sides fifty feet apart, and at a signal from the employers the fight began. At the first fire four men were instantly killed. George L. Ester, of Kelly's party, was shot through the breast. One of Howard's men fell with a ball through his head, and two others of the same party were shot through the hearts. Dismayed, the Howard party, with the exception of their employer, fled to their camp. Kelly then rode up to Howard and proposed that they fight it out. Howard declined, saying that he understood the matter to be settled according to the terms of the battle made beforehand. This settled the matter. An equal exchange of the mixed cattle was made. The dead were buried by the men of both herds, and the two drovers and those in charge separated for their different destinations. Kelly arrived here to-night en route East, and it was from his lips the story was had.

Disastrous Storm in the East.

A drought of several weeks' duration in the East terminated with one of the heaviest rainfalls recorded in the last forty years. Reports are printed from New York city, Poughkeepsie, Newburg and Port Jervis, in New York; Paterson, Bordentown and Plainfield, in New Jersey; Raleigh, in North Carolina, and elsewhere, all placing the rainfall at five inches as a minimum, and in one instance (Paterson) giving fourteen inches as the depth of water which fell within forty-eight hours. At Plainfield, N. J., a bridge gave way, throwing a crowd of sight-seers in the water, all of whom, it is probable, were fished out, as no bodies were found. The loss of life is small, as human beings very generally come in out of the wet, but the railroad companies are heavy losers. The points mentioned as having sustained heavy losses by the tremendous rain-fall and the rapid rise of rivers which immediately followed include, in New Jersey, Paterson, Princeton, Trenton, Hoboken, Hackensack, Bordentown, Plainfield and New Brunswick, while from Waterbury, Conn., Philadelphia, and Fredericksburg, Va., reports are received of great destruction and damage. Bridges, dams and trestles were carried off, and washouts on railroads numerous. In some towns the water was up to the show-cases in stores, and railway cars were submerged to the windows. Many residences were washed away, and the damage to mills and crops by the overflow is almost incalculable.

Frightful Railway Accident.

A dispatch from Lancaster, Ky., says: As the first of three special trains conveying Sells Bros' show, from Richmond was coming around the curve, 300 yards from Paint Lick, at 3:30 a. m., the fourth car from the engine, from some unknown cause, jumped the track and rolled down the embankment, followed by the balance of the train in its rear, consisting of fifteen cars.

The cars were loaded principally by the luggage of the company, tableaux wagons, electric light machine, and a cage containing the tiger.

Several attaches of the circus were scattered along the train, and the destruction to both life and property was fearful.

Three men were instantly killed, three probably fatally wounded, and seven or eight wounded.

The cage containing the tiger was burst open, the fierce animal turned out, creating much consternation, every one being afraid to go near it until daylight, when the door was opened, and the tiger, which was crouching near by, crept back into his prison and was secured.

The electric light and tableaux wagons were completely destroyed.

HOLLAND CITY NEWS.

WILLIAM H. ROGERS, Editor.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, '82.

ST. NICHOLAS for October, the last number of the present volume, shows no diminution in the excellence that has distinguished the previous issues of the year, and is a better augury for the volume to come than are pages of prospectus.

The frontispiece is a faithful reproduction of a drawing by W. T. Smedley, and is called "When we were Boys."

The opening story is by Prof. H. H. Boyesen. It is a quaint Norwegian legend of "The Famine Among the Gnomes," beautifully illustrated by Birch. W. O. Stoddard contributes a short sketch of boy-life, with the odd title "Radishville," and Charles Barnard has a capital paper descriptive of a New York Riding School, with six spirited pictures by Kelly. "Donald and Dorothy," Mrs. Dodge's entertaining serial story, is brought to a happy conclusion; exactly what it is the girls and boys must find out for themselves.

Among the many other attractions, are: a bright play for young folks, by Mrs. Abby Morton Diaz; a paper written and illustrated by D. C. Beard, entitled "What Can be Made with a handkerchief," in which he shows that great resources for home amusement lie concealed in the folds of those necessary luxuries; some more "Art and Artist Stories"; beautiful pictures by F. H. Lungren; funny pictures by L. Hopkins, and a great deal else.

The Best English History.

No History of England, since the publication of Macaulay's famous work, has more promptly and deservedly won the very highest reputation, than Green's "History of the English People." Ranking fairly with Macaulay in the brilliancy and interest of its style, and superior to it in its accurate delineation of events, it covers the entire field of English history, from the earliest to recent times, (and giving the history of the people, rather than of the conflicts of the kings only), while Macaulay's history is limited to a very brief period. Green was first published in this country by the Harpers, in four octavo volumes, for $10.00, but The Useful Knowledge Publishing Co., New York, have issued very handsome editions, at prices ranging from $1.00 for an octavo cloth-bound volume, to $2.50 for a five volume Elzevir half Russia edition. It ought promptly to find a place in every home library, as, upon the whole, the best as well as the cheapest history of England. For sale in this city by H. D. Post.

"I don't see now I'd git along without Mary, nohow," Mrs. Blucher observed, pausing to wipe the perspiration from her aged features and put another ladle of soft soap into the steaming suds, while her daughter's voice at the piano could be distinctly recognized, floating out from the adjoining parlor. "I don't see how I'd git along without that girl nohow. Al'ays on these days when I hev the tiringest work, she just picks out her nicest pieces, like 'Sweet Rest, By and By,' and 'Mother's Growing Old,' and sings 'em fur me afore she goes out on the lawn to play croquet with the other young folks. 'Tain't every gal as ud be, so thoughtful, I kin tell you. Now, most on 'em ud just bang away with 'Jordan is a hard road to travel,' or 'whoop 'em up, Eliza Jane,' but she ain't none o' that sort. She's a pile o' comfort," and Mrs. Blucher fanned herself with her apron, preparatory to running the clothes through the second water.—Toledo American.

From the Pittsfield (Mass.) Eagle.
Stone in the Bladder is a very dangerous ailment; but many most remarkable cures have of late been wrought by "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy"—the invention of Dr. Kennedy of Rondout, N. Y. Another striking case is now added to the list. Mr. Peter Lawler, of Dalton, Mass., states in a letter to Dr. Kennedy that he had been troubled with bladder complaint for 14 years, and had consulted at different times seven physicians; but nothing beyond temporary allayment of the pain had been worked. Towards the end of last January Mr. Lawler called on Dr. Kennedy. Sounding him the doctor "struck stone." He decided that Mr. Lawler should first try the "Favorite Remedy," so as, if possible, to avoid an operation. And here is the remarkable result: "Dear Doctor Kennedy—The day after I came home I passed two gravel stones, and am doing nicely now. If you would like to see the stones I will send them to you." This letter bears date "Dalton, Mass., Feb. 6th," and is signed "Peter Lawler." The stones, which are so large as to warrant for "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" the claim that it is the most successful specific for Stone yet discovered, are now in Dr. Kennedy's possession. Incidentally Mr. Lawler also states that the "Favorite Remedy" at the same time cured him of a stubborn case of Rheumatism; and it is a fact that in all affections arising out of disorder of the liver or urinary organs it is a searching remedy and works marvellous benefits. It is in itself almost a medicine chest. Order it of your druggist. Price $1.00 a bottle.

JOTTINGS.

Did you go to the Fair this week.

We are late this week. Our readers will have to blame "politics" not us.

LAST Thursday evening some of our young folks "tripped the light fantastic" at Lyceum Hall.

Mr. C. Van Zwaluwenburg, of Drenthe, left last Saturday, for Ann Arbor, where he will pursue the studies of medicine and surgery.

On looking over the proceedings of the Common Council, our readers will see that our city fathers have decided to build a City Hall. The cost of the building is not to exceed $5,000.

Mr. Jan Trimpe, an old and well-known resident of this city, died yesterday morning at 2 o'clock. The funeral services will be held at his residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Trimpe was 76 years of age and was one of our early settlers.

Mr. M. Van Putten, son of Mr. J. Van Putten, of this city, has formed a partnership with a Mr. Miller, of Spring Lake, for the manufacture of brooms. This is one of the results of our State Institute for the Blind, as both of these gentlemen are blind.

CONDUCTOR Tom Martin, of the Chicago & West Michigan Railway, now has an assistant. His weight was 10½ pounds when he arrived at the family residence. Tom conducts the night Express on the road—and the assistant conducts the night distress at home.

Mrs. F. Keift, wife of the Elder Keift of the Third Ref. Church, of this city, died very suddenly last Saturday night at 11 o'clock of heart disease. Three hours before her demise she was enjoying her usual good health. The funeral services were held in the Third Ref. Church last Monday. Mrs. Keift was 57 years of age.

Mr. O. Breyman, our express agent received last Tuesday, a large pumpkin weighing 56 pounds. It was without doubt the same size as the historic pumpkin which Peter Piper used in building a residence for his wife. Breyman says if there was any chance of his becoming "young" again he would seriously think of trying the same experiment Peter tried.

A THREE year old boy of Mr. G. Meenge, of Vriesland, was fatally burned last Monday afternoon. It seems that while the child was at play in a field adjoining Mr. Meenge's house, its clothes caught fire from some smoldering rubbish which it was carting about the field, and before assistance could reach the child, it was burned beyond recovery and died during the night.

Mr. Evert Ellen, one of the largest fruit growers of Fillmore, showed us a large blue egg plum this week that measured 6½ inches in circumference. This is without doubt the largest plum grown in this locality this season. Mr. Ellen has been very successful this year with peaches having sold nearly all that he raised for $6 per bushel. This speaks well for the quality of his fruit.

JUST as we go to press we learn that Mr. J. Castonholz, of Muskegon, the well known dealer in live stock, is badly hurt in Chicago. His family chartered a special train at Muskegon, which ran through to this city at lightning speed, arriving in time to connect with the noon train for Chicago, where they went to render all the care and assistance in their power. No further particulars have yet been obtained.

Mr. E. J. Harrington has received a large and elegant stock of Dolmans, Cloaks and Ulsterettes of the finest quality and make. Mr. Harrington is constantly making additions to his already large stock of Dry Goods, while his clothing department is completely filled with the largest and finest stock of clothing ever brought into this city. We advise those in need of winter clothing to give him a call before purchasing elsewhere.

At the Republican Caucus, held last Monday evening in the vacant room over the dry goods store of Mr. E. J. Harrington, the following persons were chosen as delegates to the County Convention which was held in Grand Haven yesterday: First Ward, Mayor W. H. Beach, and E. J. Harrington; Second Ward, M. M. Clark; Third Ward, W. B. Parks, and P. H. McBride; Fourth Ward, L. Mulder. The delegates were instructed to support the following persons for nomination to the various County Offices; Sheriff, John Vaupell; Clerk, Geo. D. Turner; Register of Deeds, Anne Fletstra; Treasurer, G. Van Schelven; Prosecuting Attorney, G. W. McBride; Coroner, Dr. R. B. Best; and E. J. Harrington, as Member of the State Legislature for this district. These instructions were given as an expression of the feelings of the Republicans of this city in regard to the nominations, and the delegates were not supposed to be bound to them for "time and eternity", but could use their discretion if the best interests of the party were to be advanced by their supporting other eligible and capable men.

FROST very near every night this week.

Butter is going up in price, and cows are becoming valuable.

SOME of the members of Bennie Geo's Juvenile Band have arrived home.

MR. G. J. Diekema left last week for Ann Arbor to resume his law studies.

YESTERDAY Mr. G. Kanters left for Racine, Wis., where he is to attend College.

OUR "City dads" have awarded the job of grading, claying and graveling East Twelfth Street to K. Van Haften.

For bill heads, note heads, letter heads, tags, envelopes; and all kinds Job printing in the Holland and English language go to the News Office.

ALMOST three hundred tickets were sold at the depot of the Chicago & West Mich. Railway last Thursday for Grand Rapids. It seems as though our people are bound to "go to the fair."

A SPECIAL telegram to the Chicago Inter-Ocean dated Sept. 28th, says that the drying house connected with the tannery of Wallen & Phillips, in Douglas, was burned, together with 4,000 sides of leather. Loss, $30,000; insurance, light.

WHAT the editor said to the burglar:—"What do you want here?" Said the burglar, gruffly, "Money!" "Hold on a minute," quoth the editor and I will help you. I've been looking for money myself for ten years, but perhaps two of us may have better luck.

LIST of letters remaining in the post-office at Holland, Mich., Sept. 28, 1882: Miss Gurly Baltema, V. Brown, T. F. Costen, C. V. Chase, Mrs. Mooney, Miss Ette Plumers, James R. Reeves, Samuel Reynolds.

WM. VERBEEK, P. M.

WE call the attention of our readers to the new advertisement of Mr. W. C. Melis, who has just received a large and very fine stock of cook and heating stoves, for coal or wood. Among the number of heating stoves, will be found the celebrated and well-known "Aladdin", which is a perfect beauty. Mr. Melis has also a large stock of Hercules Powder, which is used so successfully in blasting and removing stumps. He has a large quantity of coal which is for sale at the lowest market price. Give him a call.

On yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, the delegates to the Republican County Convention met at the Court House, in the City of Grand Haven, and were called to order by G. W. McBride, Chairman of the Republican County Committee. Hon. C. Van Loo was chosen as the temporary Chairman and a Mr. Goodrich as Secretary. On motion the Chairman appointed a Committee on Organization and Credentials and a Committee on Resolutions and Order of Business. The Convention then adjourned to meet at 1 o'clock p.m. Promptly at the hour the Chairman called the delegates to order and the several committees reported, reports were adopted. The temporary chairman and secretary were then made the permanent officers of the Convention. The order of business as reported by the Committee, was then taken up and the nominations made in accordance therewith. Sheriff, John Vaupell was chosen as the nominee by acclamation. Treasurer, Edwin Thayer, of Polkton, having received the highest numbers of votes, was declared the choice of the convention. Register of Deeds, after two very exciting ballots, Chas. Christmas, of Grand Haven, was nominated. The balance of the nominations for county officers, were made by acclamation and are as follows: Clerk, Geo. D. Turner, of Berlin; Prosecuting Attorney, Geo. W. McBride, of Grand Haven; Circuit Court Commissioner, Chas. E. Soule, of Grand Haven; and A. Vischer, of this city; Coroners, Thos. W. Gray, of Grand Haven, and Dr. R. B. Best, of this city. These were the nominations made up to 2:40 o'clock when we were obliged to leave the Convention to do the remainder of their work alone. At 4 o'clock the following telegram reached this office: "John B. Perham, of Spring Lake and C. Van Loo, of Zeeland, were nominated as Representatives to the State Legislature."

The convention was very orderly and the best of harmony prevailed. The Committee on Resolutions introduced a set of resolutions, during the afternoon, supporting the plank in the Republican platform, which provides for the submission to the people of the State of the prohibition amendment to the Constitution, prohibiting the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors; and endorsing the public acts of Senator T. W. Ferry and favoring his re-election to the U. S. Senate. Hon. William O. Webster, the Republican nominee for Congress, for this the (5th) district, "dropped in" after the arrival of the 2:40 train from Muskegon and made some very excellent remarks. The Convention then adjourned.

JUST received at my store a new fall stock of Dolmans, Cloaks, new styles of Hats, etc. Call and see them.

D. BERTSCH.

MR. D. Bertsch has a word to say this week.—See Special Notices.

A PROMINENT Traverse City gentleman dropped into our office recently and in the course of general conversation concerning the development of Northern Michigan, spread a map before us, and pointed out to us a pencil tracing, commencing at Manistee and following the shore of Lake Michigan to Frankfort, from that point diverging northeastward to Traverse City, thence across the head of East bay and up the shore via Elk Rapids to Charlevoix. This tracing, the gentleman informed us was marked by the assistant Engineer of the Chicago & West Mich. R'y line. The engineer stated they already have 400 men at work north of Manistee, and would put a thousand more on soon after harvest. It is the company's purpose to complete their line to this place before the close of 1883. This information comes from the most reliable sources, and only serves to corroborate what we have been informed from other sources.—Charlevoix Sentinel.

For the Holland City News.

MR. EDITOR:—As "Biddy" is apparently dead and "Pat" among the missing, we think some one ought to take up the theme where they left it, and keep you informed of the local happenings at the "Lake Shore." We will assume the responsibility until some one more enlightened will kindly relieve us. First, we must record the death of Mr. H. Lamers, a Hollander who lived on the "Grand Haven road," he was buried last Saturday; also the death of Mr. Barkley's little child, he had been ill so long that we should all be thankful that his sufferings are at last ended. The principal occupation of our "men-folks" now, is cutting corn, Jack Frost happening along the other evening, gracefully informed our farmers that they would have to hurry, or he would have them where the geese had Paddy. We have succeeded in paying off two of our ministers with albums, bed quilts, etc., and sent them on their way, and we now patiently wait for a couple more to fill their places, when we shall again go to work collecting more quilts. This is all for the present Mr. Editor, but we will try to do better than your former correspondents, who each sent you one communication and then met a premature grave in the vain endeavor to represent our prosperous neighborhood through the columns of the News. ZEKE.

AN AUTOGRAPH.

I write my name as one
On sands by waves of error,
Or winter's frosted pane
Traces a record vain.

Oblivion's blankness claims
Wiser and better names.
And well my own may pass
As from the strand or glass.

Wash on, O waves of time!
Melt nouns the frosty rime!
Welcome the shadow vast,
The silence that shall last!

When I and all who know
And love me vanish so,
What harm to them or me
Will the lost memory be?

—John G. Whittier.

WHAT BECAME OF HER.

There was a great commotion in Foxville when old Parson Fox died.

It was not only because he was the pioneer of the place, having come there when the woods were one primeval mass of green, and himself having erected the old stone parsonage around which the thriving village had grown up with almost incredible rapidity.

It was not that he had preached the gospel to them for four-and-forty years; it was not that his footsteps had been instant on every threshold where sickness came or sorrow brooded.

All this had been received as a matter of course, and forgotten as soon as the necessities were past.

But it was because Foxville curiosity was on the qui vive about Joanna, his grandchild, the sole remaining blossom on the gnarled old family tree, who was left quite unprovided for.

"I declare to goodness," said Mrs. Emmons. "I don't know what is to become of that girl!"

"She hasn't no faculty," said Sabina Sexton, the village dressmaker; "and never had."

"Books possessed no charm to her!" sighed Miss Dodge, who taught the Foxville district school. "She always cried over her parsing rhetoric, and I never could make her understand cube root!"

"There's no denyin' that the old minister was as near a saint as we often see in this world," said Mrs. Luke Lockedge, piously. "But he hadn't ought to let Joanna run loose in the woods and fields the way he did. Why, I don't s'pose she ever made a shirt or fried a batch o' fritters in her life!"

"Is it true," said Miss Dodge, peering inquisitively up under her spectacle glasses, "that she is engaged to your Simon, Mrs. Lockedge?"

Mrs. Lockedge closed her mouth, shook her head and knitted away until her needles shone like forked lightning.

"Simon's like all other young men, Miss Dodge," said she—"took by a pretty face and a pair o' bright eyes. And they set on the same bench at school. And as long as we s'posed Parson Fox had left property, why there wasn't no objection. But there wasn't nothing—not even a life insurance. So I've talked to Simon and made him hear reason. There can't nobody live on air!"

"But that's rather hard on Joanna, ain't it?" said Mrs. Emmons, with a little sympathetic wheeze.

"Reason is reason!" Mrs. Lockedge answered. "My Simon will have property, and the girl he marries must have authin' to match it."

So that Joanna Fox, sitting listlessly in her black dress by the window, where the scent of June honeysuckles floated sweetly in, and trying to realize that she was alone in the world, had divers and sundry visitors that day.

The first was Simon Lockedge, looking as if his errand were somehow connected with grand larceny.

Joanna started up, her wan face brightening. She was only sixteen—a brown-haired, brown-eyed girl with a solemn, red mouth and a round, white throat, banded with black velvet.

"Oh, Simon," she cried, "I knew you would come when you heard—"

Simon Lockedge wriggled uneasily into a seat, instead of advancing to clasp her outstretched hand.

"Yes," said he. "Of course it is very sad, Joanna, and I'm awfully sorry for you. But—"

Joanna stood still, her face hardening into a cold, white mask, her hands falling to her side.

"Yes," said she. "You were saying—"

"It's mother!" guiltily confessed Simon. "A fellow can't go against his own mother, you know. She says it's nonsense our engagement, and we shouldn't have anything to live on! And so," with a final twist, "we'd better consider it all over. That's the sense of the matter—now ain't it, Joanna?"

She did not answer.

"I'm awfully sorry," stuttered Simon. "I always set a deal of store by you, Joanna."

"Did you?" she said, bitterly. "One would scarcely have thought it."

"And you know, Joanna," he added, awkwardly, mindful of his mother's drill, "when poverty comes in at the door, love flies out at the window!"

Joanna smiled scornfully.

"It seems," said she, "that love does not always wait for that."

And she turned and walked like a young Queen into the adjoining apartment; while Simon, slinking out of the door like a detected burglar, muttered to himself:

"It's the hardest job o' work that ever I did in my life. Splitting stumps is nothing to it. But mother says it must be done—and mother rules the roost in our house!"

Next came Mrs. Emmons.

"Joanna," said she. "I'm deeply grieved at this 'ere affliction that's befallen you!"

"Thank you, Mrs. Emmons!" said the girl, mechanically.

"I've come to ask you about your plans," added the plump widow. "Because if you have no other intentions, I'll be glad to have you help me with the housework. I'm goin' to have a house full o' summer boarders, and there'll be a deal more work than me and Elviry can manage. Of course you won't expect no pay, but a good home is what you need most, and—"

"Stop a minute!" said Joanna. "Am I to understand that you expect me to assume the duties and position of a servant, without a servant's wages?"

"You'll be a member of the family," said Mrs. Emmons; "and you'll set at the same table with me and Elviry, and—"

"I am much obliged to you," said Joanna, "but I must decline your kind offer."

And Mrs. Emmons departed in righteous wrath, audibly declaring her conviction that pride was certain sooner or later to have a fall.

"I have plenty of friends," said Joanna, courageously, "or rather dear grandpapa had. I am sure to be provided for."

But Squire Barton looked harder than any flint when the orphan came to him.

"Something to do, Miss Fox?" said he. "Well, that's the very problem of the age—woman's work, you know; and I ain't smart enough to solve it. Copying? No, our firm don't need that sort of work. Do I know of any one that does? N-no, I can't say I do; but if I should hear of an opening, I'll be sure to let you know. Ahem—I'm a little busy this morning, Miss Fox: sorry I can't devote more time to you. John, the door. Good morning, my dear Miss Fox! I assure you, you have mine and Mrs. Barton's prayers in this sad visitation of an inscrutable Providence."

Old Miss Gringe, who had $50,000 at interest, and who had always declared that she loved dear Joanna Fox like a daughter, sent down word that she wasn't very well and couldn't see company.

Dr. Wentworth, in visiting whose invalid daughter poor old Parson Fox had contracted the illness, which carried him to his grave, was sorry for Miss Joanna, of course, but he didn't know of any way in which he could be useful. He understood there was to be a kid glove factory opened on Walling river soon.

"No doubt Miss Fox could get a place there; or there could be no objection to her going out to domestic service. There was a great deal of false sentiment on this subject, and he thought—"

But Joanna, without waiting for the result of his cogitations, excused herself.

She would detain him no longer, she said, and then she went away with flaming cheeks and resolutely repressed tears.

When she returned home she found one of the trustees of the church awaiting her.

He didn't wish to hurry her, but the new clergyman didn't want to live in such a ruinous old place; and it was their calculation, as the parsonage was mortgaged much beyond its real value, to sell it out and buy a new frame house near the depot, with all the modern conveniences, for the use of the Rev. Silas Speakwell.

"Am I to be turned out of my home?" said Joanna indignantly.

Deacon Bydenburg hemmed and hawed. He didn't want to hurt no one's feelings; but, as to her home, it was well known that to all intents and purposes the old place had long ago passed out of Parson Fox's ownership; and they were willing to accord her any reasonable length of time to pack up and take leave of her friends—say a week.

So Joanna, who could think of no remaining friend but her old governess, who had long ago gone to New York to fight the great world for herself, went down to the city and appealed to Miss Woodin in her extremity; and Miss Woodin cried over her and kissed her and caressed her, like an old maiden aunt.

"What am I to do?" said poor, pale Joanna. "I can't starve!"

"There's no necessity for any one starving in this great, busy world," said Miss Woodin, cheerfully. "All one wants is—faculty."

Joanna shrank a little from the hard, stereotyped word which she had so often heard from the lips of Mrs. Emmons, Miss Sabina Sexton, and that sisterhood.

"But how do you live?" said she.

"Do you see that thing there in the corner?" said Miss Woodin.

"Yes," answered Joanna. "Is it a sewing-machine?"

"It's a type-writer," announced Miss Woodin, "and I earn my living on it."

"But what do you write?" said Joanna. "Anything I can get," said Miss Woodin.

And thus, in the heart of the great wilderness of New York, Joanna Fox commenced her pilgrimage of toil.

First on the type-writer, then promoted to a compiler's desk in the "Fashion Department" of a prominent weekly journal; then by means of a striking original sketch, slipped into the letter-box of the Ladies' Weekly with fear and trembling, to a place on the contributor's list; then gradually rising to the rank of a spirited young novelist, until her village damsel had her pretty "flat" furnished like a miniature palace, with Miss Woodin and her type-writer snugly installed in one corner.

"Because I owe everything to her," said the young authoress, gratefully.

And one day, glancing over the exchanges in the sanctum of the Ladies' Weekly, to whose columns she still contributed, she came across a copy of the Foxville Gazette.

"Hester," she said, hurrying home to Miss Woodin, "the parsonage is to be sold at auction to-morrow, and I mean to go up and buy it; for I am sure—quite sure that I could write better there than anywhere else in the world."

Miss Woodin agreed with Joanna. Miss Woodin believed most firmly in whatever Joanna believed. In her loving eyes the successful young writer was always right.

So Joanna Fox and Miss Woodin, dressed in black and closely veiled, went up to Foxville to attend the auction sale.

Everybody was there. They didn't have an auction sale at Foxville every day in the week.

Squire Barton was there, with a vague idea of purchasing the old place for a public garden.

"It would be attractive," said the Squire. "These open air concerts are making no end of money in the cities. I don't see why the Germans need pocket all the money that there is going."

Mrs. Emmons came because everybody else did. Miss Dodge, who had saved a little money, thought if the place went cheap she would pay down a part and give a mortgage for the remainder.

"And my sister could keep boarders," she considered, "and I could always have a home there."

But Simon Lockedge was most determined of all to have the old parsonage for his own.

"I could fix it up," he said to himself, "and live there real comfortable. It's a dreadful pretty location, and I'm bound to have it—especially since mother's investments have turned out bad we've got to sell the old farm. Nothing hasn't gone right with us since I broke off with the old parson's granddaughter. It wasn't quite the square thing to do, but there seemed no other way. But, let mother say what she will, it brought bad luck to us."

And the rustic crowd surged in and out, and the auctioneer mounted to the platform on an old kitchen table, and the bidding began at $500, and "hung fire" for some time.

"Six!" said cautious Simon Lockedge, at last.

"Seven!" piped Miss Dodge, faintly.

"Eight!" said Simon, resolutely.

"A thousand!" uttered the voice of a quiet, veiled lady in the corner.

Every one stared in that direction.

"Tain't worth that," said the Squire, sotto voce; "all run down—fences gone to nothing."

But Simon Lockedge wanted it very much.

"E-le-ven hundred!" said he, slowly and unwillingly.

"Fifteen hundred!" spoke the soft voice, decidedly.

"Fifteen hundred!" bawled the auctioneer. "I'm offered fifteen hundred dollars for this very desirable property. Fifteen hundred—fifteen—teen—teen—teen. Fifteen hundred, once—fifteen hundred, twice—fifteen hundred, three times, and gone! What name, ma'am, if you please?"

And the lady, throwing aside her veil, answered calmly:

"Joanna Fox."

The old parsonage was rebuilt, and studded with little bay windows and medieval porches. Laurels and rhododendrons were set out in the grounds, the little brook was bridged over with rustic cedar-wood, and Joanna Fox and Miss Woodin came there to live in modest comfort.

But Mrs. Lockedge and her son Simon moved out of Foxville when the mortgage on their old place was foreclosed, and the places that had known them once knew them no more.

And Mrs. Emmons said:

"She's done real well, Joanna has. I always knew there was something in her."

And Mrs. Wentworth and the Misses Barton tried desperately to become intimate with the young authoress, but without avail.

For there is nothing in all the wide world so successful as success, and it is a fetish which has many worshippers.

"The Mocking Bird."

According to a Washington correspondent an old attache of the White House relates the following incident: "The first time 'The Mocking Bird' was ever played, I believe, was by the Marine Band. It was during Buchanan's term, and his niece, Miss Harriet Lane, presided with a grace rarely equaled at the White House. The leader of the band had requested Miss Lane to allow him to dedicate the piece to her, and she had consented, inviting a large company to listen to the first rendition. The band leader, following the programme, first presented Miss Lane with a card, on which was painted a mocking bird and the inscription 'To you.' The composition was played in splendid style, and I have never heard it since but what that scene was recalled. I can see Miss Lane bow her acknowledgments again and again, and almost hear the murmur of applause from the assemblage. The flavor of that evening hung about the band concerts for many a day."

OVER 9,000 new farms were started on Government lands in Minnesota and Dakota during the year ending June 30, 1892.

A LOVE OF A ROOM.

Decorated and Furnished by the Hand of a Connecticut Working Girl.
[From the Hartford Times.]

A young working girl, of this city, by the exercise of her own innate good taste and putting every spare penny where it would do the most good, has furnished forth a charming room at comparatively small expense and sufficiently æsthetic to please the most fastidious person. The floor, painted by her own hands, is a dark walnut shade, partly covered by a large rug made of cheap ingrain carpet in a small pattern of cream and olive, bordered by a broad band of plain olive felt. The inexpensive wall paper is plain olive, flecked with pink, finished by a narrow frieze, terminating at the corners with a cluster of four tiny pink fans. One window faces a dingy brick wall, and she painted the window panes in bright water colors, following a pretty traced pattern, which gives a bit of stained glass quite effective in the pretty room. The other window is draped gracefully with long, full folds of sprigged muslin, depending from rings on a plain pine roll, to be replaced in the winter with a heavier curtain of olive cotton flannel.

The furniture is light wood and a lamp with a rosy transparency stands on a 5-o'clock tea-table of unvarnished wood and throws a soft light over the room, which also contains books, shelves of pine, a couple of second-hand easy chairs and a small dry-goods box for shoes, covered by her own hands with pink and olive cretonne. A large clothes-horse, on which she pasted the story of Cinderella in Walter Crane's pictures over olive paper, shuts off the washstand and bedstead from view. The toilet accessories, set off with fresh sprigged muslin over a pink lining, are a pink and white wash-bowl and a large pitcher of the quaint shape that comes now in the cheaper grades of china; a second-hand wardrobe, draped with a portiere of olive Canton flannel, contains the unesthetic dust-pan, brooms and other homely articles necessary to neatness and comfort, all trifles of that description bought at the 5-cent counters. A pretty willow rocking-chair, ornamented with olive and pink ribbon, and a knitted hassock to match, the two latter Christmas gifts, stand on the rug.

On the olive-draped mantel are grandma's Nankin teapot, two tall silver candlesticks and a large ginger jar, not decorated and spoiled with gummed-on pictures, but left in its pristine blue and white beauty, filled with white daisies gathered on Sunday afternoon walks. Two or three photographs of good subjects, that are better than chromos and cost less, hang on the wall and complete the pretty refuge of this proud and industrious girl, who is self-respecting enough to earn her own living rather than to be dependent upon her rich relations.

European Hotels--The Outstretched Palm.

One would think, from the exact way the dinners are gotten up and served on the continent of Europe, that this meal had been prescribed by a congress of nations and could not be violated in the least particular. During my time on the continent my dinners were all exactly alike, to the minutest particular. I did not see during all this time any bread but sea biscuit; not a baked or boiled potato; not a cake or fruit pie of any description; not any cooked fruit; not any baked meat, except veal; not a cooked egg, except boiled; not any puddings, butter, pickles, cheese, tea or coffee. You will ask, what did I have? Dinner was always as follows: First, sea biscuit; second, soup; third, fish; fourth, baked veal cut in slices; fifth, peas or string beans; sixth, boiled chicken sliced up cold; seventh, lettuce, eighth, strawberries. No two of the above dishes were on the table at the same time. You are required to be just so long and no longer in eating each dish. At the ringing of a little bell the table is cleared and the next plate is served, and so on till the end is reached. If one does not take the dish as passed he has to wait until the next comes along.

The hotel charges are make up as follows: So much for the use of the room, so much for chamber attendance, so much for soap, so much for candles (no gas is burned in the sleeping rooms), so much for towels, etc., etc., each being a separate charge. The meals are upon the European plan. Most always my bill was "stuffed."

I speak truthfully, I think, in saying that every waiter, clerk and officer has his hand stretched out for a gratuity from every one he comes in contact with. When I left America I resolved I would not submit to the demoralizing practice, but, when I found I was neglected on every hand on account of not conforming to this custom, and I found the small amount it required, I tumbled from my lofty position, and became an expert, so the travelers say, in this disgraceful business. It has become such a custom that no traveler will receive any favors if he does not drop pennies into these outstretched hands. It is a contemptible practice but "they all do it."—Judge Chatterton, in the Lansing Republican.

A RECENT visitor to the Hermitage plantation, Andrew Jackson's home, found it attractive, the house (a substantial brick building) in fair condition, and the general aspect of the place far from poverty stricken. The tomb is in a secluded corner of the garden, but there were "no marks of footprints to show that any pilgrim had very recently offered homage at this shrine." It was intended to make the place the site of a military academy, but the project failed.

True Friendship Only in a True Heart.

There is, indeed, a great deal of ingratitude and a great deal of injustice in the world, and yet love is a thing so discriminating, so free in its choice, so incapable of purchase, or bribe, or bondage, that I believe it is very rarely, if ever, permanently misplaced, or finally withheld where it is really merited. True affection as naturally flows toward the excellent and amiable, and as naturally avoids the mean, the selfish, the ill-natured, as water escaping from the harsh and rugged rock rests not till it reposes in the flowery bosom of the valley. We do, indeed, sometimes see ill-judging people lavishing their admiration on persons of superficial virtues and great professions; but in the sequel even those will be compelled to own their mistake, and acknowledge the superior worth of the modest, unpretending, consistent, benevolent character. If I were about to make choice of a particular friend among a number of persons, I should not be guided by their conduct and professions to me, but by their behavior in their own families and among their old friends. A person who sustains one relation well, will not fail in another. I should be quite sure that a dutiful, attentive daughter, a kind, disinterested, and self-denying sister would make a good friend; on the contrary, no attentions or professions to myself could induce me to believe that an individual who failed in these relations was capable of disinterested and faithful friendship. I should fully expect that as soon as the novelty of our intimacy was worn off, the first time an interest or inconvenience happened to clash, I should experience the same want of kindness and generosity as I had witnessed in the case of the others.—Jane Taylor

Anecdote of a Great Naturalist.

A good story is told of Agassiz, the great naturalist. His father destined him for a commercial life, and was impatient at his devotion to frogs, snakes and fishes. The last especially were the objects of the boys' attention. His vacations he spent in making journeys on foot through Europe, examining the different species of fresh-water fishes. He came to London with letters of introduction to Sir Roderick Murchison, "You have been studying nature," said the great man bluntly. "What have you learned?" The lad was timid, not sure at that moment that he had learned anything. "I think," he said, at last, "I know a little about fishes." "Very well. There will be a meeting of the Royal Society to-night. I will take you with me there." All the great savants of England belonged to this society. That evening, towards its close, Sir Roderick rose and said: "I have a young friend here from Switzerland, who thinks he knows something about fishes; how much, I have a fancy to try. There is under this cloth a perfect skeleton of a fish which existed long before man." He then gave the exact locality in which it had been found with one or two other facts concerning it. The species to which the specimen belonged, was, of course, extinct. "Can you sketch for me on the black-board your idea of this fish?" said Sir Roderick. Agassiz took up the chalk, hesitated a moment, and then sketched rapidly a skeleton fish. Sir Roderick held up the specimen. The portrait was correct in every bone and line. The grave old doctors burst into loud applause. "Sir," Agassiz said, on telling the story, "that was the proudest moment of my life—no, the happiest, for I knew, now, my father would consent that I should give my life to science."

A Telling Law.

Mr. Charles Law, Jr., in conversation with one of our representatives, recently said: "I have been a sufferer from rheumatism and neuralgia for the past ten years, and tried all kinds of remedies. Having heard so much about St. Jacobs Oil, I tried a bottle, and found it truly wonderful."—Pottstown, Pa., Ledger.

Coffee Taverns.

An English lady writes that coffee taverns are not only great promoters of temperance, but also pay their way as an investment. One of the best coffee taverns is in a town in Hertfordshire. The window is painted half-way up, showing the words "Coffee Tavern," and above hangs a small sign telling that lodging can be had, and nice, neat rooms they are with pretty frilled muslin curtains, fit for a lady's boudoir. The large shop is fitted up with counters for the huge tea and coffee urns; small tables are dotted about, as in a foreign restaurant, and at the side there is a large table given up to newspapers and magazines; in the bar parlor there is a bagatelle board. If properly managed, the experience of most of those who have established coffee taverns over the country is, that they are not only self-supporting, but remunerative; and to bring this about, the eatables and drinkables must be of the best, and the place rendered as attractive as possible. Such establishments are calculated to improve, raise and refine the general character of the people. A breakfast cup of tea or coffee is sold at the rate of two cents, and a slice of bread and butter for one cent. The cheap coffee restaurants here charge five cents, and the stuff is anything but inviting; the places, too, are dingy and miserable looking. Let the temperance people get up a company to establish coffee taverns such as they have in England, and not only will they advance the temperance cause, but also obtain a good dividend on the investment.—Philadelphia Item.

Mr. Ed. Trickett, the celebrated oarsman, Kingston, Canada, says: "I have found St. Jacobs Oil a sure and certain cure for rheumatism, etc."—New York Clipper.

Don't Be Discouraged.

Because it happens that you have failed to find health and strength by dosing yourself with bitters and alcoholic preparations, you should not grow despondent. The Queen of strengthening tonics that will protect and save you is Dr. Guy's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. It also contains Juniper, Iron, Celery and Calisaya. Ask your druggist to get it for you.

The Wood Floors of Russia.

The finest floors are said to be seen in Russia. For those of the highest grade tropical woods are exclusively employed. Fir and pine are never used, as in consequence of their sticky character they attract and retain dust and dirt, and therefore soon become blackened. Pitch pine, too, is liable to shrink, even after being well seasoned.

The mosaic wood floors in Russia are often of extraordinary beauty. One in the Summer Palace is of small squares of ebony inlaid with mother-of-pearl. A considerable trade is done in Dantzic and Riga by exporting small blocks of oak for parquette floors. There is an active demand for these in France and Germany, but none in England.

Mr. Worden Millins, of Circleville, O., writes: "I am an old man, 71 years old, and my wife is 70. We attribute our good health principally to the fact that Dr. Guy's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is the only medicine we use when we begin to feel weak and unwell."

Bitter Creek's Bad Cowboy.

The bad cowboy from Bitter Creek was on the Com-stock last night. He went into the Gem saloon and thus described himself: "I'm a race horse in an advance and a tortoise in retreat! When you hear my voice above the racket you kin begin to measure off land for a graveyard!" About this time the "race horse" found himself doubled up in a corner, and as he sadly wiped the dripping blood from his nose and bulging upper lip he exclaimed: "I didn't mean to cast no slurs onto this place, for here I know the land's measured off and the graveyard established."—Virginia City Enterprise.

The Nice Young Man.

They were talking about dogs—the habits, comparative intelligence, etc., of those sagacious animals—when young Rutherford said: "Well, sir, my dog is a dandy, he is. You ought to just see him sometimes. Honestly, I believe he has more sense than I have." "That's a very doubtful compliment for the dog," said old Mr. Gloomy, who sat in the corner.

Have long plied their vocation on the suffering people. The knife has pared to the quick; caustic applications have tormented the victim of corns until the conviction shaped itself—there's no cure. "No, sir," said Dr. Jalap. "I wouldn't have that apple tree cut down for money." "But you never get any fruit from it," argued Brown; "the boys steal all the apples before they are half ripe." "That's just it," replied the doctor, with a quiet smile; "that tree stands me in a good thousand every season."—Boston Transcript.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead; I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when, to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

What Drunkenness will do for You.

If you wish to be always thirsty, be a drunkard; the oftener you drink, the oftener you will want to.

If you wish to prevent your friends from raising you in the world, be a drunkard, and that will defeat all their efforts.

If you would effectually counteract your attempts to do well, be a drunkard, and you will not be disappointed.

If you wish to repel the endeavors of the whole human race to raise you to character, credit, and prosperity, be a drunkard, and you will most assuredly triumph.

If you are determined to be poor, be a drunkard, and you will be ragged and penniless to your heart's content.

If you wish to starve your family, be a drunkard, and then you will consume the means of their support.

If you would be imposed upon by knaves be a drunkard, for that will make their task easy.

If you wish to be robbed, be a drunkard, and the thief will do it with greater safety.

If you wish to deaden your senses, be a drunkard, and you will soon be more stupid than an ass.

If you are resolved to kill yourself, be a drunkard, and you will hit upon a sure mode of self-destruction.

If you would expose both your folly and your secrets, be a drunkard; they will run out as the liquor runs in.

If you think you are strong, be a drunkard, and you will soon find yourself subdued by so powerful an enemy.

If you would get rid of your money without knowing how, be a drunkard, and you will do it effectually.

If you are hated by your family and friends, be a drunkard, and you will soon be more disagreeable.

If you would be a pest to society be a drunkard and society will avoid you as an infection.

If you would smash windows, break the pace, get your bones broken, tumble under horses and carts, and be put in the lock-up, be a drunkard, and it will be strange if you don't succeed.

If you wish all your prospects in life to be clouded, be a drunkard and they will soon be dark enough.

If you would destroy your body, be a drunkard, as drunkenness is the mother of disease.

If you wish to ruin the soul, be a drunkard, that you may be excluded from heaven.

Because it is beneficial to the scalp and adds to personal beauty by restoring color and lustre to gray or faded hair, is why Parker's Hair Balsam is such a popular dressing.

Facts Speak For Themselves.

C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., writes: "I never sold any medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction as Thomas' Electric Oil. In my own case it cured a badly ulcerated throat, and in threatened croup in my children it never failed to relieve."
