Boy Killed and Parents Hurt in Kentucky Crash

Four-year-old Theodore Essenburg, Jr., of Whitehall, was killed in an automobile accident near Bardonia, Ky., Saturday night and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Essenburg, Sr., former local residents, were injured. His sister, Marceline Lee, 2, escaped injuries.

Funeral services for young Teddy were held Thursday at 2 p.m. from Olivet Evangelical church, corner Southern and Franklin, in Muskegon, with Rev. Bernstein, pastor of the church, officiating.

Essenburg, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Essenburg, 236 West Ninth St., had taken his family to Kentucky on a commination business-pleasure trip while transacting some business for a leather firm in Whitehall where he is employed.

The accident occurred late Saturday afternoon when a speeding truck, driven by J. T. Eichler, pulled onto a main highway near the city of Bardonia. Eichler's address was not given. He escaped uninjured and was held by a Bardonia police.

Essenburg suffered multiple cuts and bruises and was badly shaken. His wife, 29, suffered a broken nose and cuts. Their two-year-old daughter, Marceline Lee, was unhurt.

Monday they came to Holland with Mrs. Essenburg's parents, Rev. and Mrs. John Lanting of Chicago, who, like Mr. and Mrs. Ben Essenburg of Holland, were called to Louisville, where the accident victims were confined in Louisville General hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Essenburg of Holland, who were visiting relatives in Angola, Ind., also went to Louisville and returned home Monday.

Essenburg, former basketball star for Holland High school from which he was graduated in 1932, has been affiliated with the Whitehall company for several years. Mrs. Essenburg is the former Majorie Lanting, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Lanting of Chicago, formerly with Immanuel church here.

Mayor Proclaims Religious Week

Mayor Elmer J. Schepers today proclaimed the week of Sept. 30 through Oct. 7 as the 15th annual Religious Education week in Holland.

"During these days, I hope we may give deserved honor to those who are engaged in the religious education of our people, young and old alike. I trust our churches, schools, homes and civic groups will discuss plans by which we may strengthen the forces of religion in our midst. 'Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it,' the mayor said.

"We want our community to appear as fair to those who happily returned as it seemed when they were far away. Our churches and homes have a heavy responsibility in creating and maintaining that religious devotion without which our city will surely fail to achieve its own highest ideals.

"Religious faith will prove such a permanent foundation only as it is passed on from one person to another by patient and conscientious teaching in families, schools and churches. Many persons in our community have been fulfilling in quiet manner in unnoticed groups this great responsibility of teaching resting upon us all."

Survey Reveals Only 3 Available Apartments Here

Canvass of Houses by Jaycees Discloses 22 'Possibilities' in City

The house-to-house canvass conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce last week to locate homes and apartments for returning veterans and their families proved successful in that most house owners readily filed the desired information but was discouraging because very few places to live were located. Bert Selles, chairman of the campaign, said today.

Only three readily available apartments were located in the canvass which covered about 4,000 homes in Holland and vicinity, and these three likely are rented by now, Selles said. The survey is about 90 per cent complete.

The survey also revealed that 152 houses have enough rooms to make an additional apartment, but only 22 owners were willing to make the necessary alterations.

Even more surprising was the revelation that 88 service men needing places to live will return to Holland shortly.

The Junior Chamber carried on the canvass at the request of Cornelius vander Meulen, local serviceman's counselor, who found in his talks with servicemen that the housing shortage loomed as one of the greatest problems in changing from military to civilian life.

The Jaycees, assisted by auxiliary members and close to 200 former office of civilian defense block leaders, arranged the campaign to (1) find available homes, (2) find what can be made available, and (3) find what housing will be needed in the near future. All data in this fact-finding campaign will be turned over to the veterans' counseling center in the Tower building.

Campaign leaders today urged any house owner having available room who had not filed information during the campaign to contact the counseling center immediately.

land Community Chest and war fund campaign in October are also urged to attend.

Dr. Meerloo, who holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Royal Netherlands army, is an internationally known physician and psychologist. He spent three years in occupied Holland and after his escape served with the Dutch army and headed the psychological warfare department. He has only recently come to this country after visiting his liberated homeland and learning the need first hand.

"The after-effects of mental shock through war and occupation must by no means be underestimated," he has said. "It is one of the consequences of war most difficult to combat."

Food, he declared, and more food for the liberated peoples of western Europe must be part of the cure, making a difference between the actual satisfaction of hunger and the higher value in calories needed to satisfy all needs of the human body.

"Delayed mental reaction caused by the strain of occupation has varied consequences for the attitude of liberated peoples," he said. "These run the gamut from apathy to irritability and there remains a latent fear of Germany among many people."

He said there was a tendency to find scapegoats for past mistakes instead of an effort to concentrate on constructive work for the future.

In the Good Old Days

When the daily service between Holland and Chicago, via the lake route, is opened next summer, the traveling public will be invited to take the trip in one of the largest, most elegant and commodious boats afloat on Lake Michigan, according to a story appearing in the November 30 issue of the Ottawa County Times published in 1900 by M.G. Manting. The contract for building the new vessel was closed in October and the steamer is now in process of construction at Toledo, Ohio, and is being built by the Craig Ship Building Co. of that place. The total cost of the steamer will be $150,000 and this amount has been raised entirely by local capital. The new boat will be a first-class steel propeller, 240 feet over all, which makes it 55 feet longer than the Soo City. She will be 40 feet wide and when completed with her fixtures and furniture and accommodations for 200 passengers, she will be a veritable floating palace. She will be guaranteed to travel 18 miles an hour and the power will be produced by four marine watertube boilers and triple expansion engines, 21, 34 and 58.

The good feeling between the employers and employees of the Ottawa Furniture company was emphasized at a banquet Wednesday night given by the company for its employees and their families. Covers were laid by caterer Ed Van Drezer for 400 guests.

Local Ministers Hear Dr. Olert

Dr. Fred Olert, pastor of First Presbyterian church, Detroit, addressed two meetings of the inspirational conference at Western convocation of the seminary.

In the afternoon Dr. Olert spoke to ministers on "The Life and Work of the Minister." Four factors enter the life and work of the minister, he said. These are the world in all its conflicts, the impact of reading, the meeting of various personalities and the experience of Christian living. The speaker's final emphasis was that the cross of Christ must be the background of the service which the minister may render.

At the evening session Dr. Olert addressed the conference on the subject, "The Secret of the Christian Radiance." He used the word light as one of the great symbols of the Christian life. This light finds its origin in Christ. "A sunless world has its counterpart a Christless world. As the sun is necessary for natural life, so necessary is Christ in our spiritual and moral world," he declared.

Meetings were under the direction of Dr. John R. Mulder, seminary president. An open forum was conducted after the first meeting. Dr. Mulder informed the conference that plans will be made to hold a similar conference next year.

Dutch Trample Traverse City Trojans, 30-14

Coch Paul Camburn's Holland High school football team came within three minutes of administering the worst defeat a Traverse City team has suffered in 15 years Friday night, but a Trojan pass play good for 50 yards and a touchdown in the final stages of the game made the score Holland 30, Traverse 14. The game was played in Traverse City.

Holland end, Leo Vander Kuy, who played an outstanding game both offensively and defensively, batted the last-minute touchdown pass away from the intended receiver but halfback Jack Hemming came swooping in and grabbed the ball before it hit the ground. He picked up a blocker and ran 30 yards for a touchdown, gaining some honor by having the game appear closer than it actually was.

Vander Kuy scored two times for Holland by being on the receiving end of touchdown passes, he scored another on an interception and twice scored touchdowns that were nullified by penalties.

The name that was being repeated on the lips of grid fans last night was of course, Leo Vander Kuy, but Holland's quarterback, Bill Hinga, shared honors with the lanky, towheaded junior.

Hinga tossed the two touchdown passes to Vander Kuy and started the Dutch rolling in the second quarter after a disheartening first game saw Traverse City power its way to a touchdown as soon as it got the ball. Hinga also peeled off a touchdown run from 20 yards out to score the first Holland six-point.

Holland received the opening kickoff and after Joe Caravia gained eight yards around right end and Ken Van Tatenhove lost the same amount around the other end, Warren Nysson boomed out a 53 yard punt which was downed on the T. C. 37 yard line. Ten plays later Hemming tossed a touchdown pass to Ward Wehr good for 15 yards and a score. Red Kaley kicked the extra point.

Holland again was on the receiving end of a kickoff and again failed to make a first down. Hinga punting to the Trojans' 43 from where the Trojans, like Holland, failed to gain. They punted into Holland's end zone.

Then the Dutch moved for their first score with Hinga, Bob Harrington and Ken Kuipers alternating in line smashes. Hinga finally went through right tackle and scored standing up. From then on it was all Holland.

Near the end of the second period Hinga threw a pass from Traverse's 27 yard marker to Vander Kuy who pulled the ball out of the air with three defensive players surrounding him. He was dropped immediately on the eight yard line. Then Hinga threw one to Vander Kuy in the end zone.

After a scoreless third quarter Ken Kuipers plunged over the ball 14 yards on the previous play. Later Hinga threw another touchdown pass to Vander Kuy and with about five minutes to go Vander Kuy broke through T. C.'s defense to intercept a short pass and run 41 yards for a fifth Holland touchdown.

Traverse City could gain little through the Dutch line which, for the greater part of the game, was composed of end Vander Kuy, tackle Jerry Groeters, guard Rudy Bilek, center Bob Van Dyke, tackle Stan McClure, guard Poogey McCormick and end George Boisls. Vander Kuy replaced Nysson in the lineup after Nysson hurt his leg early in the game.

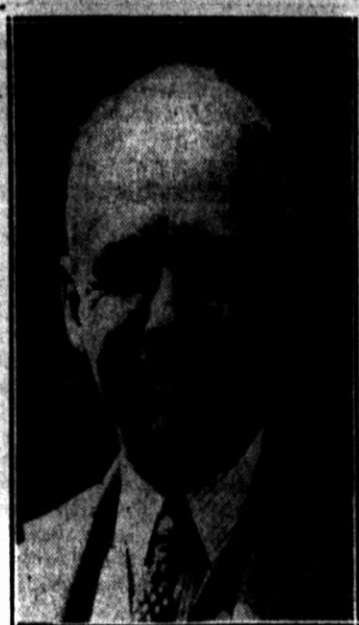

Holland's backs peeled off 243 yards from scrimmage with the line opening up nice holes. Kuipers, Harrington, Jack Van Dorpe, Caravia and Hinga all carried the ball several times.

Parcels Arrive In Netherlands

Fears that parcels sent to the Netherlands are not being received are greatly exaggerated, Willard C. Wichers of the Netherlands Information bureau said Saturday.

He said several persons had expressed concern over possibilities of looting, but he assured them that packages mailed properly were being delivered in four to six weeks. He said packages not adhering to instructions may be returned, or if they go overseas are and inspected, postal authorities have the legal prerogative to remove or confiscate any items not conforming to rules.

Wichers quoted Baron C.G.W.H. van Boetzeler, Netherlands minister to the United States in Washington under Ambassador Alexander Loudon, who said: "Information that parcels in Holland are not delivered is greatly exaggerated. This may have happened in a few isolated instances owing to somewhat difficult conditions inevitably resulting from chaos brought about by war. But recently we have received many assurances that these parcels have been delivered promptly and entirely intact."

Local postal authorities also called attention to the proper addresses on boxes for the Netherlands. Several boxes simply addressed "Holland" have been received here from many points in the United States instead of being sent to the Netherlands. Only about two provinces in the Netherlands are named Holland. "Netherlands" is a necessary part of the address.

Serving Under the Stars and Stripes

Marine Pfc. Warren L. Huyser, who arrived at Tokyo Harbor aboard the USS Colorado Sept. 1, has written a brief resume of his experiences overseas since leaving Pearl Harbor last fall, in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell V. Huyser, route 5.

At Leyte his ship was hit by a suicide plane and by the wing of another plane but pulled out for Palau three days later. The Colorado was later hit by two five-inch shells at Lingayen Gulf and during its 60 days at Okinawa, which Huyser described as a long and hard operation, the Colorado took a five-inch shell burst on the port side, but there were no dead.

He said the ship's itinerary led from Pearl Harbor to Ulithi in the Carolines and arrived in Leyte Gulf Nov. 22, 1944, for patrol duty. On the 27th, the ship was hit by a suicide plane and left for Palau. With three other wagons, it participated in the Mindoro operations which he described as rather easy.

By Christmas Huyser had crossed the equator and was in the Admiralties. Then came the battle of Lingayen Gulf where an escort carrier and a few destroyer escorts were sunk. It was here that the New Mexico on which Tony Bowman of Holland was stationed was hit, also the West Virginia on which Huyser's cousin, Raymond, is now stationed.

After spending two months at Ulithi the Colorado joined a task force with nine other wagons, 14 cruisers and about 40 destroyers for Okinawa where operations lasted 60 days. Here again the New Mexico and West Virginia were hit along with the Colorado. The ship returned to Leyte Gulf and two months later went back to Okinawa where Huyser spent a week before the Japs sued for peace. On Aug. 23, the Colorado and four other wagons left for Tokyo, stopping en route for support landings at Sagami for three days.

Huyser, 19, entered the marine service April 7, 1944, after completing one semester at Hope college. One of his sisters, Laverne D., is a cadet nurse.

PHILIP NOLEN TODAY

When the United States immigration officers put Fritz Kuhn, the German-American Bund leader, on a freighter and sent him on his way back to Germany they could be certain of the applause of the American people. America does not want such people as Kuhn as "citizens"; we are much better off with people who are out and out openly enemies than with the Fritz Kuhns who undermine our institutions from within. If they prefer a European type of government, or a European ideology, well and good. Give them a lifetime of leeway to find out for themselves what life is in those countries. The Fritz Kuhns have no business in the land they attempt to destroy.

The only trouble with the deportation of Fritz Kuhn is that it is too one-sided. For while we do not want any Nazi ideologues here, and feel that it is only common sense to deport those who wish to impose them on us, neither do we want any other European ideologues. As things stand at the moment, Americans are likely to feel that only the Fritz Kuhn type of person should be sent packing back to his own country. There are other types of government that all sorts of people in America are backing, some of them doing so no more legally than Kuhn backed Nazi Germany. Just because we happen at the moment to be on a basis of alliance with those governments, it is fairly safe to work for them as over against the interests of America. There are not a few persons who ask, "Is it for the welfare of such-and-such a country?" "Is it for the welfare of America?" They are something else before they are Americans.

Very well, we Americans do not want to dictate to the conscience of any person. If a man prefers Russia or Rumania or Italy or Belgium or Holland or England or any other country, let him be placed on a freighter bound for the land of his choice. Give him all the rope he wants to find out what the country is like that he loves and for which he works. That is almost always the sure cure.

In the days before the Civil war, Edward Everett Hall won fame with his story "The Man Without a Country." His Philip Nolen cured America and expressed the hope that he would never see it again. The government granted him the wish by placing him on a vessel and never allowing him to come within sight of his country's shores. As readers of the story know, it was a tragic cure for him. In deeds, if not in words, many Philip Nolens today curse America and express the wish that this country be turned into a Germany or a Russia or some other country. Give them their wish to such a degree at least that they can get a stomachful of the countries they prefer to their own. But make it apply not to Germany alone but to all countries. There should be no place in this country for half-hearted Americans.

Sunday School Lesson

September 30, 1945
The Israelites in a Foreign Land
Genesis 47:1-12

By Henry Geerlings

There is nothing more romantic and thrilling than the story of Israel's sojourn in Egypt. The story begins with Joseph and the plot of his brethren against him. No dime novel of the old days has any more exciting moments than this story of the jealousy and hatred of Joseph's brethren and of the way these vitriolic passions worked themselves out against this splendid youth. Begin to read the story and you cannot lay it down until you have finished it. It fascinates, it grips, it stirs, it excites, it eats into the very home of your imagination. You live with Joseph, you suffer with him, you pray with him, you grow strong with him, you triumph with him and run the whole gamut of his emotions with him.

Joseph's brethren did a wicked thing when they sold him into the hands of heartless merchants and, thus turned his face toward what they supposed would be eternal oblivion, but God makes the wrath of man to praise Him. He has a way out from dark alleys. He may be able to build a city beautiful at the end of those courses wicked men have ordained should lead to endless night. Narrow minded shepherds with their petty jealousies and fermented souls cannot hamper the eternal God. He has methods and ways they know not of. They know nothing about the far-flung purposes of a far-seeing God, and if they get in the way of their fulfillment God simply goes around them. So God turned the seeming doom of Joseph in a ride to a throne. To be sure, it was a down-and-up ride, but he reached the purple by and by.

Our lesson today has particularly to do with one incident in this thrilling story of the long sojourn. Joseph's home folks have come to Egypt to live there. Strange indeed the turn of the wheel of human interests. The sold boy becomes the savior son. He has gone up in fortune. They have gone down. He reaches down and lifts them up. He is not ashamed to present them royalty, though a lesser man than Joseph would have abundant reason for shame and vengeance. He tells Pharaoh that his own folks with all they own have arrived. Then he took five of his brethren in for an interview with Pharaoh. I wonder how these herdsmen felt in this presence and I wonder more what they thought! It is really a dramatic scene. Get the setting. They of fields and flocks were before the mighty ruler of the mightiest empire of the ancient days. And their brother was next in power and place to this Pharaoh. How did those simple men of the desert feel! One's imagination fails him. It is one of the big moments of human souls. And think, too, of how these crude men of the up-country were treated. They were about to be made beneficiaries of the empire. They were not looked upon as begging immigrants, but as new citizens, whom it was the pleasure of the ruler to honor. Like some Chesterfield gentlemen, Pharaoh seemed to bow before Joseph and say that the best Egypt has is for thy father and thy brethren. How more could royalty do! What modern ruler has done more, or even as much, for the incoming foreigner?

Of course it must be noted that Pharaoh's attitude was not all politeness. His wisdom and shrewdness were working contemporaneously with his grace. He put the newcomers in a rich area, it is true, but in an area where possibly they could be best managed. And furthermore, the skillful and practical Pharaoh discovered that he could use some of these new immigrants. They said they were shepherds. It was a family occupation for generations. No doubt they claimed experience and the knowledge and ability that come from long experience. Pharaoh got this. His mind was no sieve. It had a copper bottom. And he politely should make them the rulers over his cattle. You can imagine with what care Joseph would select this number.

And now Joseph brings his old father in to meet Pharaoh. Here we have two gentlemen face to face with each other. They occupy different stations in life. They live on different social levels, but for all this they are two country gentlemen. They know the amenities. They are masters of the graces. Their hearts ever were attuned to the same music in the court of life's niceties. They met on the same level where true gentlemen meet and forget the accidental differences of life.

State Farm Leads Insurance Field

Ben L. Van Lente, 177 College Ave., local agent for the State Farm Insurance companies for over 18 years, states that the State Farm Mutual, originator of the popular 80 per cent collision coverage, leads the auto insurance field with over one million cars insured.

Statistics show that since gas rationing has been lifted, accidents are increasing. Dollars for auto insurance are well invested. Are you properly protected against the hazards of driving your automobile?

Mr. Van Lente recommends the full service policy for owners of good cars, which covers $10,000 and $20,000 liability and $5,000 property damage, medical payments up to $500 for each person in the car, fire, theft, and glass breakage; 80 per cent collision and emergency road service. The rates on this full service are surprisingly reasonable.

The State Farm Life Insurance Co. has a policy to fit the needs of each member of the family including children.

Mr. Van Lente states that anyone planning a trip may inquire at the office how to obtain a valuable up-to-date road atlas.

Dutchmen Hope to Avenge Defeat in Battle With Kazoo

Last season Kalamazoo State High's football team, like this season, came to Holland to battle the Holland High school team in the second game of the season for each school, and after an evening in Riverview park returned home, having handed a favored Dutch eleven a 7-6 defeat. The 1945 edition of the Holland High team will take the Maroon and Orange colors into battle Friday night in an effort to avenge this loss.

Following a 30-14 shellacking over Traverse City Friday, the Dutch would seem to stand a good chance of wreaking revenge on the Kazoo Cubs but, win, lose or draw the Dutch will know they have been in a fight because eight lettermen return to the Cubs from last season's outfit.

Although Coach Bob Quiring has lettermen to fill every position his team is light and he has lost one important player, Ernie Gibbs, a pile-driving fullback.

Paul Rafferty, a letterman but not a regular on the '44 squad, will have to fill the shoes of Gibbs. Rafferty will be put into a speedy veteran backfield, Bob Ryan and Gene West, a couple of speedsters, return to the half-back spots while little Bobby Burns will be at quarter.

The Bruin line is bolstered by lettermen at the ends, guards, and at center but the tackle slots will probably be filled with newcomers. Captain Gordon White will be at center, Hank Berry and Jim Ralston at ends and Douglas Johnson and Norris Sutton, at guards.

Quiring has been experimenting in an attempt to bring weight and experience into the line this week and the guards and ends of last season may see some action at the tackle Friday.

The Cubs are apparently weak in reserves. They made only one substitution in tying Buchanan last week, 13-13.

Award Judgment In Cafe Sale Case In Circuit Court

Grand Haven, Sept. 27 (Special)

A circuit court jury Tuesday rendered a verdict in favor of Robert J. Caughey of Riordan and Caughey agency, Muskegon, in the amount of $729 against Walter C. Ames, his wife, Pauline Ames, and his daughter, Dorothy Schledewitz, owners and operators of the Home cafe on Savidge St. in Spring Lake.

The suit arose over the defendant's alleged refusal to abide by the terms of a contract between plaintiff and defendants for the purchase of the Home cafe, which included all real and personal property and also a class C liquor license. Plaintiff alleged he paid $10 to apply on the purchase price of the property, which was $14,000 and which, it was understood, was to be resold by Caughey to Arthur Werner and his wife, Oma, Muskegon Heights, for $15,000.

The 1945 liquor license had been applied but when defendants were asked to sign or permit plaintiff to take the assignment of the liquor license, they allegedly refused to abide by the terms of the contract.

This was the last jury case scheduled for the September term of the Ottawa circuit court and the jury was dismissed Tuesday afternoon subject to call. There were only two jury cases this term, the other being that of the people vs. Henry Fisher, 44, of Ferrysburg, who was convicted Monday afternoon of a breaking and entering in the night time charge, and whose case is expected to be disposed of Thursday afternoon, as well as his two companions in the offense, Quintin Paulson, 17, of Grand Haven, and Marvin Ernst, 16, of West Spring Lake.

Among others expected to have their cases disposed of Thursday afternoon are Raymond Berwald, 30, 825 Lake Ave., on a charge of indecent exposure; Hermine May Booma, 17, 474 West 22nd St., Holland, on a charge of larceny from a rooming house; Louis Lawrence, 52, 63 West 9th St., Holland, on a charge of embezzlement; and Gordon Burt, 17, 37 East 14th St., Holland, on a charge of unlawfully driving away an automobile, all of whom previously pleaded guilty in circuit court.

The Holland board of education has approved the construction of a building on the Holland High school athletic field between Pine and Washington Avenues and 22nd and 24th streets in which players can change their clothes and take showers. The building will be equipped with showers, lockers and storage space for football and other high school equipment which would be used on the field.

The board has also given its approval for improving the football practice field there. A sprinkler system will be installed. Construction on the building is expected to be started soon.

Grand Haven High school will have a lighted football field and will shift its gridiron from Ferry to Green Hill field as soon as the lights can be installed and the grounds made ready for play at the new location. Estimated cost of installation is about $4,000.

Jason De Vries, All-Conference tackle on Malcolm Mackay's 1944 Holland High school football team, is vying for a starting tackle berth with Western Michigan. He is a freshman there.

They say that the seventh inning is the home team's blinding but the Holland Flying Dutchmen's best inning was the sixth.

Holland scored 34 runs in the sixth frame during the season; They scored 26 times in both the fifth and second; 19 in the seventh; 16 in the third and eighth; 13 in the first and fourth and three in the ninth.

Wildlife Population Shows Increase

By Bill Thake
In a relatively short length of time the hunting season will be in full swing and hunters should be conditioning their dogs for the strenuous work that lies ahead.

If this important pre-season conditioning is neglected the dog will be soft and when the shooting season opens cannot be expected to perform to the best of his ability.

If a dog is to keep the necessary enthusiasm for hunting he must be in good physical condition and even if well trained his education will need some polishing before the season begins.

Generally speaking, this summer marked the beginning of an upward curve in Allegan county's wildlife population. Pheasants are not overly plentiful. But cotton-tails are numerous and squirrels are abundant. Deer are not hard to find and woodcock seem to be at least holding their own in most sections. In some localities woodcock population is on the increase.

The future of this nation's wildlife depends largely upon the sportsman and the farmer. Make it a point to ask permission to hunt the lands of the farmers in your section and encourage them to help preserve the various game species of your locality.

Farmers should be encouraged to leave vegetation standing near woods and along fences. In winter this cover will supply vital food that is necessary to the existence of many wildlife species. If you are interested in better hunting, be conservation-minded and cooperate with the farmer.

Some hunters claim that ducks travel from 100 to 125 miles per hour when pressed. But truth is the fastest duck rarely exceeds 80 miles per hour and in order to attain that speed the duck must be flying with the wind when it's blowing a gale. Pintails and canvasbacks are speedy ducks and so are blue wing teal. But the record of the bureau of biological survey lists the duckhawk as being the fastest bird that flies. When diving on a victim, these hawks have been known to fly 175 miles per hour when timed with a stop watch.

Stan McClure, a senior in Holland High school, by almost unanimous vote of his fellow players, was elected captain of the 1945 Holland High school football team at a meeting in the school Sept. 20.

Which man are YOU...in 1955?

You and the man you work next to, are in about the same spot—today.

Tomorrow, your positions may be widely different.

In 10 years, one of you may be a decided success. The other—frankly—a failure.

No one wants to be a failure. Most failures hope for great success to come—even as you do now.

But failures, somehow, lack just a bit of the resolution, the self-discipline, that successes are apt to have.

Take War Bonds, for instance... Victory Bonds, now.

The way of success is to stick to your resolutions—to buy more and more Bonds, and keep them! Knowing they'll form a nest egg to help you feel secure... to give the confidence that contributes to success as you make your way through life!

More: Those Bonds can mean a home of your own. An education for your children. Your own business when the opportunity knocks!

And the extra money that holding them to maturity will mean: four dollars for every three you invest in U.S. Bonds.

Those Bonds are your future.

But the way of the failure is to forget these things. To sluff off on bond buying—to be tempted to cash unnecessarily the bonds he already holds...

Keep more Bonds! Buy more! And more! Think of your future—hang on to your bonds!

VICTORY BONDS...TO HAVE AND TO HOLD!
