Wheat as Animal Food.

During the past year there have been numerous inquiries in regard to the chemical composition of wheat as compared with corn and oats, its relative value as a food for growing and fattening animals, and the method of feeding which would bring the best results. These inquiries have, doubtless, been suggested by the great change in the comparative prices of the grains just mentioned. In the past we have been accustomed to see a bushel of wheat sell for two or three times as much as a bushel of corn. Recently we have seen 56 pounds of corn sell for more than could be obtained for 60 pounds of wheat. This readjustment of the prices of grain evidently calls for a reconsideration of the methods for disposing of the cereal crops in order to determine which is most profitable.

Corn comes nearer being an ideal grain for fattening animals in this country than is indicated by the tables. Such animals apparently do not need as much protein as is contained in the standard, and may take with advantage more carbohydrates and fats. Equal parts of wheat and corn prove better for fattening animals than either of these grains alone. For growing animals corn is plainly not so suitable as is wheat or oats.

When wheat and corn are the same price per bushel, it is preferable to feed wheat and sell corn: First, because wheat weighs 7 per cent. heavier per bushel than corn; secondly, because wheat is weight for weight an equally good grain for fattening animals, and better for growing animals; and thirdly, because there is much less value in fertilizing elements removed from the farm in corn than in wheat.

There are certain points to be borne in mind when one is commencing to feed wheat. Our domestic animals are all very fond of it, but are not accustomed to eating it. Precaution should consequently be observed to prevent accidents and disease from its use. It is a matter of common observation that when full-fed horses are changed from old to new oats they are liable to attacks of indigestion, colic and founder. If such results follow the change from old and new oats, how much more likely they are to follow a radical change, such as from oats to wheat? For this reason wheat should at first be fed in small quantities. It should, when possible, be mixed with some other grain, and care should be taken to prevent any one animal from getting more than the quantity intended for it.

Hypochondrical, despondent, nervous, "tired out" men—those who suffer from backache, weariness, loss of energy, impaired memory, dizziness, melancholy and discouragement, the result of exhausting diseases, or drains upon the system, excesses, or abuses, bad habits, or early vices, are treated through correspondence at their homes, with uniform success, by the Specialists of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. A book of 136 large pages, devoted to the consideration of the maladies above hinted at, may be had, mailed securely sealed from observation, in a plain envelope, by sending 10 cents in one-cent stamps (for postage on Book), to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, at the above mentioned Hotel. For more than a quarter of a century, physicians connected with this widely celebrated Institution, have made the treatment of the delicate diseases above referred to, their sole study and practice. Thousands, have consulted them. This vast experience has naturally resulted in improved methods and means of cure.

These precautions are especially necessary when wheat is fed to horses, as these animals are peculiarly liable to colic and other disturbances of the digestive organs, accompanied or followed by laminitis. Cattle, sheep and hogs frequently crowd each other from the feeding troughs, in which case some individuals obtain more than their share, and may bring on serious or fatal attacks of indigestion.

The best form in which to feed wheat is to roll or grind it into course meal. It may then be fed alone, or mixed with corn meal or ground oats. When ground fine it is pasty and adheres to the teeth, gums and cheeks so that it is not so readily masticated or eaten. In the form of a course meal it is relished by all animals, it is in a condition to be attacked by the digestive processes whether thoroughly masticated or not, and in most cases it gives the best results. Dr. Gilbert appears to have obtained better results from whole than from ground wheat when fed to sheep. Sheep feeders may, therefore, experiment with whole wheat, but wheat meal will certainly be found to give better results with all other kinds of animals.

Antiquity of the Human Race. The Department of State, Washington, has received a dispatch from Minister Terrell, at Constantinople, announcing the results of American explorations now being conducted at the ruins of Niffer, near ancient Babylon.

The work began in 1886, and, except at intervals, has been actively conducted since. From 150 to 200 Arabs have been constantly employed.

In the number of tablets, bricks, inscribed vases, and in the value of cuneiform texts found, this American enterprise rivals, if it does not exceed in the opinion of the minister, the explorations of Layard at Nineveh and Rassam's excavations at Abu-Hatba.

Prof. Heppricht remains at the museum in Constantinople, at the request of the Turkish government, translating inscriptions and arranging tablets, bowls and vases used from 1,000 to 4,000 years before Christ.

Many tons of tablets, etc., have already been procured, and the enterprise has revealed an antiquity for the human race nearly ten centuries older than had before been acknowledged. The report of the minister is very long and full of details of interest to archaeologists.

All the celebrated Scott's Remedies are sold at the drug store of H. WALSH.

Dandruff is an exudation from the pores of the skin that spreads and dries, forming a scurf and causing the hair to fall out. Hall's Hair Renewer cures it.

M. T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York city, says that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured him of a dry and scaly humor, from which he had suffered intolerably. He adds: "I have not now a blemish on my body, and my cure is wholly due to Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

Itch on human and horses and all animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Heber Walsh, druggist Holland, Mich. 12-6m.

It makes but little difference whether the constitutional vigor has been undermined by acute disease, overwork, or certain mischievous indiscretions; or whether the broken down condition is called by one name or other, so long as there is nervous exhaustion, general or local weakness—so long as enervation and debility are the type of the ailment, this is the remedy.

GRAND OLD MAN.

Wolverines Honor Ex-Gov. Felch's Ninetieth Birthday.

Governor, Senator and Supreme Judge, His Long Career Has Been a Notable One—Remembered by the Wash-tenaw County Bar.

A NOTABLE CAREER.

ANN ARBOR, Sept. 28.—A banquet was given Friday evening by the Wash-tenaw County Bar association to ex-Gov. Alpheus Felch in honor of his 90th birthday. The governor is hale and hearty and, barring a slight deafness, is quite as lively as a man of 50. He has had a most notable life. The dates of the leading events are best given by quoting from the first page of the tasty parchment menu cards, got up in the form of a legal brief. The head of the page was adorned by an excellent photograph of the ex-governor, taken only three weeks ago: Horn, Limerick, Me., 1804; Bowdoin college, 1827; 1877, degree of LL. D. conferred by alma mater; settled in Monroe, 1833 to 1843; 1834, village attorney at Monroe; 1835 and 1836, member of the legislature; 1838, bank commissioner; 1840, candidate for congress; 1842, auditor general; 1843, judge of supreme court; 1845, governor; 1847, senator; 1853, commissioner to settle Spanish claims in California; 1879 to 1883, Tappan professor of law in University of Michigan.

The guests assembled in the Cook house parlors. After a formal greeting and introductions by A. J. Sawyer, president of the bar association, the company descended to the dining-room, where the tables were loaded with all the delicacies of the season and many speeches were made eulogistic of the ex-governor.

BISMUTH IN UPPER MICHIGAN.

Mineral Not Heretofore Produced in This Country Found in Large Quantities.

ISHPEMING, Oct. 8.—While men were prospecting for a continuation of the Ropes gold mine vein a short distance from the main shaft, rock containing bismuth, a mineral entirely new to the upper peninsula, was discovered. From present indications a large quantity of the mineral exists. Bismuth has a commercial value of about $2 per pound and is largely used for medicinal purposes. It is produced in England and a few other foreign countries, but nowhere in the United States is it mined at present. Analysis of the Ropes rock shows it to contain metal in sufficient quantity to afford profit. There are apparently many thousands of tons of the rock holding the mineral, and it is said the process of separating it from the rock is simple and can be done very cheaply.

HAS A CONSUMPTION REMEDY.

Dr. Vaughan Thinks He Possesses a Certain Specific for Tuberculosis.

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 3.—Dr. V. C. Vaughan, dean of the University of Michigan, medical faculty, believes that he has discovered a certain specific for tuberculosis. The product is called nuclein, and was but recently made. The doctor has just returned from the international congress of hygiene at Buda-Pesth, Hungary, where he read a paper on his discovery which attracted great attention. He has not proceeded far enough in his experiments to declare that nuclein will absolutely prevent tuberculosis in men, but he has proved that it will in animals. Albert A. Watson, a senior law student from Detroit, has, however, tried the nuclein. In nine months he gained twelve pounds, and seems entirely cured.

Political Notes.

Attorney-General Ellis, nearly forgotten, has been heard from, in an interview at a Detroit hotel. As a matter of habit he still talked "reform."

The executive Republican committee of this county met at Grand Haven Tuesday, and arranged for a series of meetings throughout the county.

Gen. M. D. Manson, a leader of Indiana, a life long Democrat, and a veteran with a good army record, not unknown to many of the old soldiers here, attended the great McKinley meeting in Indianapolis last week, and announces that he is ready to support the great protectionist.

American workmen will not be pleased to hear that the exports from Berlin will be doubled under the new tariff law. Every additional importation of German goods takes work away from an American factory and gives it to the workmen on the other side of the water. This is the sort of change the toilers of the country are to expect under the new bill. It is a most unwelcome one in view of the overcrowded condition of our labor market.

The Democratic Senatorial convention for this district met at Muskegon Friday and tendered the nomination to David Bertsch of this city, the candidate of the Populists. The nomination however was conditional, in this, that if elected, and there should be no prospect for electing a Populist to the U. S. senate by the Legislature next winter, he was to vote in conjunction with the Democrats as against the Republicans. In case Mr. Bertsch should refuse to accept the nomination upon these terms his name was not to go on the ticket. A committee consisting of R. Kanter of this city, and Mr. O'Hara of Muskegon, was appointed to wait upon Mr. Bertsch and ascertain his views, and they received from him the following reply: "I am a Populist and can make no pledges. I wish to be a free man." The gist of the matter lies in the fact that there is a marked degree of sympathy on the part of the Populists for Mayor Pingree of Detroit, and if the opportunity should present itself, they would prefer to cast their votes for him rather than for either of the gentlemen designated by the Democratic party at their recent state convention. Hence Mr. Bertsch prefers to remain a "free man." At this writing no action has been reported to fill the vacancy on the Democratic ticket.

Grand Rapids was the scene of two noted political events on Tuesday of this week. One was the congressional democratic convention, which resulted in the nomination of Gen. L. G. Rutherford. The proffered distinction of leading the untitled to the fray this fall had been tendered off and on to leading men in the district, including Mayor Hummer, of this city, but were invariably declined, with regrets. The convention opened with an apparent dullness, but before its close there was an animated discussion and jingle, involving the majority and two-thirds rules. Under the former Kent county would have lacked only four votes from casting the required number, provided it voted as a unit, as at one time its delegates attempted to do. To this, however, Ottawa and Ionia with a part of Kent rebelled, and finally carried their point. The nominating ballot gave Gen. Rutherford 53, John M. Mathewson of Lowell 14, scattering 2. L. T. Kanter, of this city, served on the committee on credentials, and J. G. Van Putten on that of permanent organization. On the congressional committee Ottawa county is represented by L. T. Kanter and Peter J. Danhof, with Geo. N. Davis as chairman. The other event was the holding of the republican primaries for the election of delegates to the conventions that will nominate the Republican candidates for representatives and senators in the state legislature. It is claimed that these are largely anti-Patten. Should this prove to be correct it will go a great ways in strengthening the prospects of Mr. Burrows, who is Mr. Patten's leading competitor for the U. S. senatorship, short term.

It is reported from Republican headquarters at Washington that among the speakers most in demand by western audiences is Roswell G. Horr, formerly a congressman from this state. Since the ex-congressman has taken up the editorial pen for the New York Tribune he has permitted his hair to grow quite long, as well as his beard. Both are snowy white, and when Mr. Horr gets his glasses on he is claimed to be a pretty good likeness of the great founder of the Tribune, Horace Greeley. As a debater and talker on the tariff it is held that the ex-Michigan congressman has no equal on the stump today, and he will be heard in the campaign in Wisconsin towards the latter part of the contest.

The depletion of the gold reserve in the U. S. treasury is going right along, until the amount on hand October 2 was only $58,873,000.

The National Republican Text Book for 1894, just issued, is one of the most complete volumes ever presented to the people. It contains 330 pages, arranged in the form of a political encyclopedia. Send twenty-five cents in postage stamps to Thos. H. McKee, Secretary, 210 Delaware Avenue, N. E., Washington, D. C., and get a copy.

The returns of the town elections in Connecticut, held Monday, show unprecedented Republican gains.

From the Muskegon Chronicle: Yesterday Senator C. L. Brundage received from Wm. H. Green of Detroit, secretary of the Barbers' Sunday Closing Association, the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

Hon. C. L. Brundage:—At a meeting of the Barbers' Sunday Closing Association, held in Detroit on the 16th day of March, 1894, the following resolution of thanks was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That we, the barbers of the state of Michigan, who petitioned the state legislature for the closing of barber shops on Sunday, do hereby tender our sincere thanks and respects to you for the kind assistance you gave towards the bill, that since its passage and sustenance by the supreme court has given the barbers a day of rest, which they never enjoyed before, and which is unanimously appreciated by them."

Signed by William Gearing, president; Wm. H. Green, secretary.

The Government of our Cities by Charters.

The municipal commission, consisting of G. J. Diekema of this city, Mark Brewer of Pontiac, and E. F. Conely of Detroit, appointed by Gov. Rich according to the provisions of the law passed by the last legislature, to study the municipal governments of the state and recommend general laws under which all cities could be organized instead of each city going to the legislature for a separate charter or changes in the old charter, met in Detroit last week to consider the answers received by them to inquiries sent out to various cities, bearing on the subject matter on hand.

The plan outlined by the commission is to divide the cities into four classes according to size. Detroit will be a city of the first class and the only one of the class in the state. Grand Rapids will be a second class city and, like Detroit, will be the only one of the class in the state. Cities like Saginaw, Muskegon, Jackson and Bay City will be in the third class, and the fourth will include the smaller cities. Each class will have a law of its own, differing in various particulars, yet in a general way the same. As soon as the census shows that a city of a lower class has advanced to the class of the higher, the next higher grade law is applied without any special legislation.

A striking feature of the proposed legislation will be the curtailment of the power of the councils. In nearly if not all the cities visited by the commission the common council orders work done and awards the contracts, raises the money and disburses it, and not only exercises legislative but also executive authority. It is proposed to confine the powers of the councils to the legislative and initiative branches only, and intrust the executive labors to a system of boards, approved by the mayor. The council, for instance, will order a street improved, and at that point the authority of the council will cease. The Board of Public works will decide on the material to be used, advertise for bids, award the contract and see that the contract is carried out and the board, and not the council, will be held responsible. There will be various boards, each having control of its own particular branch of the municipal government. The council will levy the taxes as now and apportion the money among the various boards, and after the money has been appropriated the council will cease to have control over it. This method, for instance, prevails now in Grand Rapids with reference to the fire and police board. The council sets aside a certain amount of money for the departments and the board is held responsible for its economical disbursements.

The boards are to be appointed by the mayor, with or without aldermanic confirmation, and for a term expiring with the administration. The system is a modification of the so-called Federal system. It gives the mayor more authority, makes him the head of the city in fact as well as in name, and he will be held responsible for whatever the boards may do. He will, of course, be given authority to remove members of the board for cause. In the large cities the members of the boards will receive salary, but in the third and fourth classes, and possibly in the second, the officers are purely honorary.

The labor of drafting the bill will be commenced immediately after election, so as to have it ready for submission to the legislature when they meet in January.

College Items.

The new college year opens under most favorable auspices. The increased facilities in the new building, with its commodious lecture rooms, are being duly appreciated.

The four rooms on the second floor have been assigned to Profs. Gillespie, Sutphen, Boers and Kleinhessel, while President Kollen meets his classes in his own room, on the first floor.

The heating apparatus works to satisfaction. The Y. M. C. A. room has been occupied by the association, and is also used for large class gatherings.

In the chapel the seats have all been numbered and each student has his seat assigned.

Profs. Doesburg, Yntema and Nykerk have their class rooms in "Van Vleck Hall," and Prof. Whitenack in the Grammar School building.

Mrs. C. Gilmore, lady principal, meets the girls in one of the rooms of the new building.

Some of the old lecture rooms are now being utilized as waiting rooms, where students can review their lessons during hours vacant for recitation, the want of which heretofore was sorely felt.

During his visit here, on Monday morning, Rev. A. DeW. Mason of New York gave the boys a brief talk, complimenting them upon their improved environments, and laying stress also upon the better opportunities for thorough work afforded by the smaller colleges, so called—"a small number of students is like a small family; it takes less to go around and each gets more of it." A very pleasing sequel to his visit was when on Thursday morning at chapel exercises Pres. Kollen announced to the boys that he had received a letter from Mr. Mason, enclosing a check for $25, "to pay for subscriptions for the current year to such periodicals as you may think most suitable and needful for the reading room of Graves Library." This graceful act was duly appreciated by the students and received with a round of applause.

In addition to this it might also be mentioned that President Kollen is in receipt of promises from other sources for some very valuable additions to the library proper.

AN EARLY IRONCLAD.

It Was Built to Break Through the Spanish Lines.

The idea of protected ships, such as the modern men-of-war, is by no means an absolutely new one. This is proved, says the Western Mail, of Cardiff, by the fact that an armored vessel was constructed, though crudely, of course, as far back as 1585 by a shipwright of Antwerp during the wars between the Spaniards and the Dutch. In the summer of 1585 Antwerp was invaded by the Spaniards both by land and water, and the people of Antwerp built the first protected ship on record in an attempt to break through the line of besiegers in the river. It was a craft of unusual size, with flat bottom, its sides armed with iron plates fastened into great beams of wood. When finished the builders thought it a floating castle, impregnable to the artillery and missiles of those days, which should crush all opposition, as it contained a great number of men, some of whom were placed like sharpshooters in the tops of the masts, and the rest protected by the bulwarks.

They were so confident that the craft would rout the enemy that they called it "Finis Belli," thinking it no doubt would put an end to the war. Unfortunately, however, the early ironclad proved a disastrous failure, getting stuck upon a bank of the Scheldt after a very short and unhappy career. The Spaniards were greatly amused with the untimely end of the vessel, while the brave burghers of Antwerp changed the name from "Finis Belli" to "Perdito Expensal," or "Money Thrown Away." The crew then deserted the ship, and the Spaniards, after defeating the Netherlands in a naval battle, carried the monster in triumph to the camp of Alexander, of Parma, where it became one of the sights of the times. The city of Antwerp was taken August 17, 1585, and so the first ironclad on record came to an unfortunate end.

CROWN PRINCES PRESENT.

Those of England, Russia and Austria Dancing at the Same Ball.

It is not often that the heirs to three of the world's most powerful empires are dancing at the same ball, so a quadrille d'honneur at Buckingham palace the other night was a memorable occasion, says London Figaro. The prince of Wales and crown prince of Russia and Austria were footing it together, and subsequently the Austrian archduke and the czarowitz were noticed waltzing with their backs almost touching each other. The heir of the czar is very fond of dancing, a taste which is shared to the full by his betrothed, Princess Alix of Hesse. The Austrian prince is inclined to be awkward, and managed to entangle his spur with disastrous consequence to the gown of Princess Louise of Battenberg. He is described as a taciturn young man and rather inclined to be morose. During his visit to England he avoided all the society he could and really only went to court because he could not very well stay away. At the state ball he managed to wander to a comparatively obscure corner, together with the Japanese prince, where the two royal gentlemen doubtless consoled each other with anecdotes. Another prince to whom the Austrian prince is inclined to be civil was a royal highness from Siam, whom he delighted by addressing in a few words picked up by the archduke while in Bangkok.

With added facilities in an enlarged plant of the most modern type, we ask the continued favors of all our old trade and will also be glad to add to our list of customers, believing that none will have any reason to regret entrusting us with their business.

The Best Medicine.

J. O. WILSON, Contractor and Builder, Sulphur Springs, Texas, thus speaks of Ayer's Pills:

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I ever tried; and, in my judgment, no better general remedy could be devised. I have used them in my family and recommended them to my friends and employes for more than twenty years. To my certain knowledge, many cases of the following complaints have been completely and by the use of Ayer's Pills alone: Third day chills, dumb ague, bilious fever, sick headache, rheumatism, flux, dyspepsia, constipation, and hard colds. I know that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the disorders I have named above."

"I have been selling medicine for eight years, and I can safely say that Ayer's Pills give better satisfaction than any other pill I ever sold."—J. J. Perry, Spottsylvania C. H., Va.

THE AMENDMENTS.

Propositions to Be Voted for at the General Election, November 6.

GRAND RAPIDS, Oct. 1.—In accordance with action taken by the last legislature two amendments to the state constitution will be voted on at the general election, November 6. One proposes that none but actual citizens shall be allowed to vote. Under the present constitution foreigners may vote on their first papers, and very often they can vote long before they have acquired an ordinary speaking acquaintance with the English language. The foreigner can declare his intention and take out his first papers the first day he arrives in the state, and if the next general election is six months off he has equal rights and privileges at the polls with the native-born citizen. If the amendment is adopted, two and a half years shall elapse after declaring intention before the newcomer to the country shall vote.

The other amendment has reference to the voting of the inmates of the soldiers' home. The amendment will confer upon the inmates of the home the right to vote at the home. Under the present constitution electors are not deemed to have gained or lost a resident by reason of being employed in the service of the United States or of this state, nor "while kept at any almshouse or other asylum at public expense." The inmates of the home, under this provision as interpreted by the supreme court, may go to Detroit to vote if they come from Detroit, but shall not vote in the precinct in which the home is located. The amendment proposes to allow the members to vote in the home precinct, not only for state officers, but for the county, congressional, legislative and township officers. It makes them residents and confers upon them equal rights with property owners and legal residents.

BROUGHT BACK.

A Would-Be Assassin Landed in Jail at Benton Harbor.

BENTON HARBOR, Oct. 1.—Sheriff Whitcomb arrived Sunday afternoon from San Quentin, Cal., with Lewis Robb, who is wanted here for an attempt to assassinate Mayor Fred Hobbs in January, 1892. In March of the same year he jumped his bonds of $7,000 and could not be found until a short time ago, when he was located in prison at San Quentin, serving a three-years sentence for stage robbery. Bondsman Edward Brant has been looking for him and there was a reward of $1,000 for his capture. He will be tried here this month.

University Opens.

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 2.—Monday was the opening day of the University of Michigan. As a result of the approaching college year Ann Arbor is once more assuming a state of increased activity after the quiet of the last three months. For the last week students have been arriving, but the greater number of upper classmen have yet to arrive. From present indications there will be an increased attendance, especially in the law department. Here an increase of 200 is expected, caused by the lengthening of the law course from two to three years, to take effect after this year.

"Shot by an Unknown Person."

ALLIANCE, Oct. 2.—The coroner's jury in the Hurd inquest finished its work Monday morning. The verdict was as follows: "We find the deceased, Ira Hurd, came to his death from a gun-shot wound from a revolver or gun in the hands of a person to us unknown." It was advised that the testimony taken be not made public at present. The seriousness of this verdict, so far as Mrs. Hurd is concerned, is easily seen, as she has all along declared she shot her husband.

Michigan Underwriters Elect Officers.

GRAND RAPIDS, Oct. 2.—The Michigan Association of Fire Underwriters held its annual meeting here Monday afternoon. The following officers were elected: President, J. W. O'Brien, Grand Haven; vice president, F. A. Verner, Detroit; secretary and treasurer, John S. Fletcher, Detroit; executive committee, J. A. Armstrong, Detroit; J. P. Sheridan, Saginaw; Sam H. Row, Lansing.

Ends Disastrously for Strikers.

CALUMET, Oct. 2.—The strike of the trammers at the Tamarack mine has ended in the total defeat of the men. Many secured their old places by applying Monday night, but others are out of jobs, as new men in ample numbers are being found by the company.

Salvation Army Arrested.

BAY CITY, Oct. 2.—Mayor Crump, republican candidate for congress, has ordered the arrest of the entire Salvation Army in West Bay City for blocking the street and violating the city ordinance. The army and officers have been at sword's points for several days.

Acquitted.

PAW PAW, Oct. 1.—William Broadwell was Saturday afternoon acquitted of the charge of attempted murder for shooting his father-in-law, Albert H. Moore, of Bangor. Self-defense was claimed.

HINDOO CHILD-MARRIAGES.

A Brahmin's Daughter Must Marry Very Early or Her Reputation Suffers.

The Brahmin has to get his daughter married before she attains puberty. This custom has crept into religion. The Hindoo religion strictly forbids single life for woman or man; especially must the woman be married. Hence there are no old maids in India. Sometimes one may meet an old "cranky" bachelor, who has remained unmarried because he was too poor to marry, or because his character was not good; but even these are seldom found except in the lower classes. If a man is not married at the latest by his twenty-fifth year his reputation suffers. It is a belief that those who have a son go to Heaven, when the son, after the death of his parents, performs the spiritual rites. However this may be, whether they go to Heaven or not, this severe rule tends to a strict cultivation of home life.

Owing to this rule, if a Brahmin's daughter attains puberty before marriage the father is disgraced; he loses his caste and no one will marry the girl. Thus when a poor man has more than one daughter it is a misfortune for him. The Hindoo father himself has to find out a suitable husband for his daughter, so he goes to a gentleman who has a son. He first makes inquiries about the family, the property, the health and education of the boy. Then he asks the father of the boy to marry his son to his daughter. The father of the boy asks for dowry, and the amount of this is fixed according to the means of the man who asks for it and not of the man who gives it; that is to say, if the father of the boy is very rich he asks thousands of dollars. Hence the Hindoo father of a girl has to spend much for the marriage of his daughter, for he always wishes to see her married into a rich family.

A PATRIOT'S PETTICOAT.

And How It Helped to Drive Off the British Soldiers.

In a letter to the New York Times David S. Turner, of New Dorp, S. I., says: "During the war of 1812, when Commodore Hardy attacked Stonington, the people there had no military defense except one old cannon which had been used for firing salutes. At Groton, on the bank of the Thames, opposite to New London, lived Mrs. Bailey in her own house. In the full vigor of womanhood and patriotism for her country, who, learning of the attack, immediately mounted her horse and started for that place to take part in the fray. Upon her arrival there the fight to prevent the landing of the Hardy force had already commenced, in which the old cannon was playing a conspicuous part, but soon it was found that the old gun must be given up for want of cartridges or material to make them. It was at this critical moment that Mrs. Bailey arrived, and, upon understanding the matter, gave instant notice that she could supply the needful, and then and there stripped off her flannel petticoat, which was soon worked into cartridges. The old gun was kept at work, and Commodore Hardy's force went back to the fleet to report progress. "When Gen. Jackson was president and made his tour through New England he crossed the river at New London, made a call upon Mrs. Bailey at her Groton home and gave her a cordial handshaking and his hearty congratulations upon her courageous and patriotic action upon the occasion of the battle of Stonington."

IN NO DANGER.

This Young Man's Head Would Never Get Bald.

A barber out on New York avenue was cutting the long, curling, profuse locks of a young man, who has some pretensions to being literary and occasionally poses before his friends as a great genius, says the Washington Post. With a supercilious smile and words that could be heard all over the room the young man inquired: "Say, barber, what makes a man grow bald?"

The barber snapped his scissors once or twice and ran the comb through his beard.

"Well," he answered, slowly, "if a man has got lots of brains and is a deep thinker he generally gets bald. That, they say, leads to it every time."

Several of the customers looked at the young man's luxuriant crop and smiled rather broadly. The young man, however, did not exactly see the joke. So pretty soon, when the barber was running his fingers over the curly locks, he tempted fate again.

"Say," he asked, "do you think my hair will come out and I'll get bald?"

The man of the scissors passed reflectively, and then, in a tone like he was delivering a judicial decision, announced:

"No; I don't think you stand in any danger of getting bald."

Then the crowd laughed and the barber looked surprised.

WHEN "SCAB" DATES FROM.

The Word Has Been in Use Since the Year 1800.

The first time the word "scab" is known to have been used in its present sense by union men was in 1800. Although in 1817 several shipbuilders struck at Medford, Mass., for a continuous rum supply, not till 1891 did strikes become frequent. Thirteen hundred persons were idle at Fall River for six months in 1850.

The railroad strike of 1890, which began in St. Louis, May 5, will long be remembered for its magnitude. A union man had been discharged by the Missouri Pacific road, and the mechanics and shompen struck. This was the nominal cause. Texas, Louisiana, Missouri, Kansas and Arkansas were largely affected, and governors of these states issued proclamations.

Preceding this came the memorable strike of 1877 with its immense destruction of life and property. The four great New York trunk lines were in the hands of the strikers from first to last. The riots of Chicago and St. Louis were the work of tramps.

STEWARDS OF AN OCEAN LINER.

A Position of Responsibility with an Army of Subordinates to Oversee.

It may surprise some old globe trotters to know that the big ocean greynolds running between New York and the European ports carry on an average nineteen thousand pieces of sterling silverware for their table service, and that this large amount of plate is handled during the voyage by from two hundred to two hundred and forty waiters or "stewards," as they are called on shipboard. The chief steward is responsible for every piece, says the New York Mail and Express. He must be a man of quick powers of observation, a student of human nature and be up to all the little devices of a small army of subordinates usually keener and quicker witted than those found ashore in the same calling. It is a busy day for the steward twenty-four hours before the time set for departure. He has purchased or contracted for all the supplies and an assistant sees that the contracts are fulfilled. But his personal attention must be given to silverware. He keeps a regular debit and credit account and can tell to a toothpick just what he will start away with. On the voyage passengers are apt to lose spoons or forks or other ware by accident, and occasionally a gay blade may think it amuse to toss a sugar bowl or half a dozen knives through a porthole. It is needless to say that he furnishes a quid pro quo before he goes ashore. When the other side is reached the chief steward spends a day in balancing accounts. He started with so much, and so much should be on hand. If there is a difference he seeks to find it, and if he can't find it he "makes good" himself. The responsibility of such a position naturally commands a high salary, and every chief steward on every ocean steamship running from this port is, without exception, a man of unimpeachable integrity. The extraordinary record is that in thirty years there have been but two accusations of a betrayal of a trust.

FAIRY RINGS OF HELENA.

Theories Advanced as to Their Origin—Common in Eastern Montana.

The well-known circle on the pasture lands about six miles east of Helena, near the old overland stage road, and which has been a curiosity and a source of speculation for years, is identical with the fairy rings so common in some parts of England. There were formerly two of these rings, says the Helena (Mont.) Independent, but one has entirely disappeared within the last few years. The remaining one is about two hundred feet in diameter and forms a perfect circle. The ground forming the circle is about two yards wide and quite destitute of vegetation. Many theories have been advanced as to the cause of these rings. Some say that it is the result of lightning; others that a herd of buffalo, pursued by wolves, stopped and formed themselves into a circle as a means of defending their young, and thus tramped out the grass. These rings have attracted the attention of scientific men, and recent investigations have shown they are the result of centrifugal development of certain kinds of fungi, among which is the common mushroom, which shows a tendency to grow in this manner. The spot where it has grown is unfitted for its continued nourishment, and the spawn extends outward to new soil, forming the circle. These rings are common in eastern Montana, along the Musselshell river, but the one near Helena is the most perfect in the state.

COMPLACENT CHINA.

Condescension Toward Wayward Young Nations Like America.

It is not easy for the outside world to understand that the position of China toward foreigners is one of philosophical condescension, and that nothing could be more genuine than the Chinese sense of mental superiority in dealing with human affairs, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. During one of the controversies between this country and China about immigration a Chinese editor put the case in this way: "We must remember that we are the oldest nation and that America is one of the youngest. We who have been so favored as to inherit a high civilization from our wise rulers of antiquity and have been blessed with the sublime teachings of our great sages, ought to be patient with the excited caprices of a nation in its unthinking childhood. If we maintain a calm attitude and do not allow ourselves to get angry over the pranks of a young country, why, in course of time America will change and grow wiser and abandon her present foolish conduct. Nations learn by experience, just as children do, and we ought to maintain our dignity and wait in patience while America advances to a state of maturity and learns to manage things in a proper and judicious way."

This is the tranquil tone of Socrates sending away a spoiled child, admonished, but pardoned and unspanked.

The Heir to China's Throne.

The birth of an heir to the Chinese throne at this time is an event of more than ordinary importance to the peace of the empire. Kuang Hsu is the first emperor of the present dynasty whose right of occupancy is not based upon actual descent. His predecessor, Tung Chih, died childless in 1875, after a reign of only one year. He left several brothers, all having children, among whom a strife at once arose as to the succession. After several weeks of contention and intrigue a compromise was effected by which the young widowed empress and her unborn child were put to death, and the present emperor, then two years old, and the son of the "seventh prince," who was a brother of Tung Chih, and himself one of the contestants for the throne, was chosen by a family council. In order to correct the succession, the dead emperor was supposed to adopt this infant as his son and successor, and an imperial decree to that effect was promulgated throughout the empire. Kuang Hsu has been an invalid from his birth, and his death at any time would occasion no surprise.

Through the instrumentality of Dr. J. D. Wetmore our citizens will be given the opportunity at an early date of viewing the original allegorical painting, "The Stream of Human Life," 10x12 feet, by Prof. W. L. Knowles. The proceeds of the exhibition will go towards some religious or charitable organization of the city. See small bills.

Monday, Oct. 8, will be a day well worth remembering as it is the date of C. L. Streng & Son's annual cloak sale. They have made arrangements with Marshall Field & Co., to have their agent here with a complete line of samples from their stock, thus giving the people of Holland an opportunity to select cloaks from one of the largest stocks in the United States, with prices practically at wholesale. If any of our readers are in need of a cloak, it will certainly pay them to attend the sale, Monday, Oct. 8.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Port Sheldon.

On taking up the Independent of Sept. 13, I see the correspondent at this place is inclined to be funny in his report of the visitors that have graced these parts this summer by referring to them as "sports." Bad taste, to say the least.

Mr. A. Lilly and Mr. Searls of Chicago have been staying with Mr. Cook for a few days.

Even if wheat is at a low price there is more acreage sowed here than for many years.

The boys from the Lake Shore who have been tenting out below the bridge had a hard time finding ducks.

Cha's Anys contemplates moving in the place of John Rosenberg, next to the school house, and will do a little farming for a while.

Christian B. Cook is kept busy preparing land for some of the neighbors with his new Cutaway harrow, for which he is sole agent for Ottawa county. Those who have seen the work pronounce it a first rate implement. He will be pleased to demonstrate it to any one who will call at his place next to the bridge.

The late rains and warm weather gave us good pasturing.

The young man, William De Witt, who is running the knot saw at Good-In's shingle mill, had the misfortune to lose the ends of three fingers on Monday night just before quitting time.

Saturday last L. Klyne of this place went to Holland with his wagon and road cart and put his horses in the Standard Mill barn. During his absence up town some one stole his bridle and double lines. It is hoped some one will be caught at this petty pilfering of farmers' teams and be made an example of.

Dennis O'Brien of the Lake Shore is very low and not expected to live. He never recovered from the shock he got when his team ran away a few weeks ago and threw him and his wife out of the wagon near the Roller Mills.

Vriesland.

At the West Michigan fair held in Grand Rapids last week special premiums to the amount of $50 were offered for the best factory cheese, by Messrs. Lemon, Wheeler & Co., and the Musselman Grocery Co., both of Grand Rapids. John Borst of this place took both first and second premiums, $25 and $15.

Grand Haven.

James J. Danhof is spending the week at Minneapolis, the guest of H. C. Akeley.

Geo. A. Farr and Geo. W. McBride will take a part in the Republican state campaign.

The amount of school taxes to be raised this year is $13,500, city taxes $32,200; total $45,700.

This city has four candidates for the office of U. S. boiler inspector to take the place of Myron Scott, deceased. It is the opinion however that Mr. Newham of Saugatuck, will take the office.

The common council has taken steps towards the drafting of a new city charter.

Mrs. Pauline Shields, a widow of fifty-three and her family, living near Agnew, are suffering with black diphtheria in the worst form. The G. H. Tribune has the following particulars: The Shields family are in a pitiable plight and diphtheria is carrying them off one by one. The family consists of a widowed mother and five grown up children. Two or three weeks ago a son, aged 23, died in Chicago from the disease. Members of the family went over and attended the funeral. A few days ago the entire family was taken with the disease. One little child, aged eight, died last week. Monday morning, Bertha, aged sixteen, passed away. Two more are very sick and will probably die. Dr. Mastenbroek is attending to the family. He reports the disease to be the terrible black diphtheria.

If Spring Lake and the Peach Plains section of Grand Haven township should be annexed to this city we would have a population of nearly 8,000, and a summer population of 10,000.—Tribune.

H. T. Root of Coopersville has opened a law office here.

The steam barge Mary H. Boyce, owned in this city, has been in ordinary all season and has now gone into commission. She has left for Escanaba to load with ore for Lake Erie ports.

Of the parties obtaining marriage licenses in this county thus far this year 78 are from Holland, 51 from Grand Haven, Zeeland claims 18, Spring Lake 14, Georgetown 12, Allegan county 11, Robinson 10.

Cards are out announcing the marriage on Wednesday evening, Oct. 17, at the home of the bride's parents, of Miss Martha M. Nyland and John J. Gleason.

Allegan County.

Circuit court opened Monday with a large calendar.

The coroner's jury in the Hurd inquest has finished its work and returned a verdict as follows: "We find that the deceased, Ira Hurd, came to his death at the village of Allegan, from a gunshot wound from a revolver or gun in the hands of a person to us unknown." The testimony taken at the inquest will not be made public at present. It is surmised that good clues have been obtained, but no information can be had from the jurors or officers. Mrs. Hurd continues to reiterate her statement that she shot her husband, mistaking him for a burglar. It is evident, however, from the verdict, that the coroner's jury did not accept her statement as true, evidently holding that her paramour, or some one else, must have done the shooting. Two men are under suspicion. One, Mrs. Hurd was seen talking with Saturday evening, before the shooting. She admitted conversing with him, but claimed a neighbor was with her all the time. Letters belonging to the other man, and a note from him were found in her room after the tragedy. Her oldest boy testified that some man came home with his mother from town that night, but he did not see the man. Later he heard his father say: "Get out of here," and shortly after a shot was fired. At intervals Mrs. Hurd is delirious. Her husband carried a $2,000 Maccabee insurance.

The Journal calls the county convention held last week "The Democratic Lodge of Sorrow." The following nominations were made: Sheriff, William H. Hooper; clerk, John A. Pieters; treasurer, George T. Lay; register of deeds, H. D. Poelakker; Overisel; prosecuting attorney, Hannibal Hart; circuit court commissioners, Myron B. Moore and Theodore P. Wade; coroners, Dr. Thompson and Dr. Homer A. Cranmer.

Gazette: A Fennville correspondent seems to find a great deal of pleasure in finding fault with the local option law. All that he said may be true, and probably is true of most places in the county. But whatever may be said against local option, there is this much in its favor: that with no open saloons the young men who have not yet acquired the habit of drinking will not have so many opportunities to do so.

TWO SIDES TO THE QUESTION.

In Fitting Spectacle Bows to the Ears Both Must Be Considered.

Having selected a pair of frames with a nose piece of the right height and spread to bring the glasses into the proper position, and having had them fitted with glasses made in accordance with the oculist's prescription, the optician now proceeds to fit the completed spectacles to your head, says the New York Sun. You might put them right on and wear them off just as they are.

But no, he reaches over and places the bows over your ears himself. Then he tries the spectacles gently, as they rest upon your nose, taking hold at the outer ends of the frame, where the bows hinge. Not just right. He takes them off again and smooths the bows out between the tips of his fingers and changes their shape a little and tries them again. Better, but not just right yet. He takes them again, and smooths out and bends in a little more. You observe as he hands them to you, as he does this time, that the bows have not only been changed somewhat in shape, but now they vary in sweep and curve. You put them on and find that they fit perfectly and very comfortably. He touches them and finds them right and says so.

"But the bows are not alike," you say.

"No," says the optician, "but they are now made to fit. Your ears are not just alike. One of them is a little bigger than the other, and they are not placed exactly alike on the head."

"What?" you say, and he says: "Yes. There are very few of us that are perfect or just alike on both sides."

MALARIA AND MISERY.

A CASE TOO OFTEN SEEN IN MALARIOUS SECTIONS.

He was a raw-boned, hard-handed farmer, less than fifty years of age, but with a sallow complexion, peculiar to seventy, just such a mixture of malaria and manhood as the Mississippi valley only can furnish—hardy, horny, homely and honest. He was unhitching from a rickety wagon an old horse so knobby and loose-jointed that the oft-mended harness seemed necessary to hold it together. A two-roomed, mud-chinked log house, a faded, slattern woman, a troop of under-fed children, some long-legged chickens, a tamerack swamp stretching away in all directions—these complete the picture, and again had done it all. It had changed stalwart manhood, healthy womanhood, to gaunt ghastliness. Thrift became squalor and plenty poverty; weeds and shrubs overran well-tilled fields and dismal untidiness had prevailed every nook and cranny of the once well-kept premises of "Squire", of —, La. While the "Squire" proceeded unhitching, the woman, his wife, began lifting out of the wagon the few groceries which he had bought from the village, a few miles away. "Where's the bottle 'of quinine?" she asked with a querulous, rasping voice. "You didn't go and forget that, did you?" No, I did not exactly forget it, either. The drug-store man showed me a new medicine for malaria which, he says, is a good deal better than quinine, and so I bought it. I spent one farm buying quinine, and I'm getting tired of it. "Well," she answered, "we'll try it, but I haven't a particle of faith in the new faufled stuff. I should think they could find a better name for it than Pe-ru-na," she added, spelling out the name on the bottle.

Three years later "Squire" was seated on the front veranda of his new house; a pair of prancing steeds and a stylish carriage stand before the door. The "Squire" looks twenty years younger than when we first saw him. No one would recognize the place or inhabitants—a buxom, happy wife, strong, healthy children, a well-stocked farm, waving meadows, where once dreary swamps festered disease. What has wrought the change? Hear the "Squire's" answer, "Health did it. As soon as I began we at once regained our health, our spirits, our ambition, our enterprise, and our strength. All these malaria had taken away from us. Pe-ru-na has cleansed our system of all malaria poison and keeps us from having another attack. This is the whole story. Pe-ru-na did it. It has also done the same thing for our neighbors. Malaria brings disaster and destruction—Pe-ru-na brings health and success. But, by the way, speaking of Pe-ru-na and malaria, every one should have a copy of an illustrated book on malaria, published by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio. They send it free to any one. I haven't got the words to tell you what this book does about Pe-ru-na and malaria."

"Many of the citizens of Rainsville, Ind., are never without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house," says Jacob Brown, the leading merchant of the place. This remedy has proven of so much value for colds and croup in children that few mothers who know its worth are willing to be without it. For sale by Heber Walsh.
