Glasses that do not fit perfectly hurt
the eyes in the long run, though they may give temporary relief. Good glasses are indeed friends in need.
They are a comfort, a consolation and
a necessity.

The reasons our glasses are good is twofold: in the first place they are made of the best material, and in the second place they are always selected to fit the eyes of the wearer.

gain first rank among American uni-

In view of the early introduction of mail delivery, it will be well for our residents in writing letters to which a reply is expected to give the number and street to which the return letter is to be sent. It will promote prompt delivery by the carrier.

The steamer Music laid up here on Tuesday morning upon her arrival from Saugatuck, where she had been engaged in carrying fruit between that point and Milwaukee since Sept.
7, when she was withdrawn from the resort route. On the whole the steamer has had a fairly good season.

From some source or other a rumor
was started last week that the standpipe, now being erected by the board of public works, was not safe, that the foundation was insufficient, and that the site where it is located was ill-chosen by reason of its being springy and in the path of the water vein from which the wells are being supplied.
The work however goes bravely on and the iron column has already reached a height of one hundred and ten feet.

The restaurants in this city done a land-office business Sunday. In the afternoon large delegations of hungry
excursionists came down from Ottawa Beach to be fed. The C. J. & M. R'y had run in an excursion train of eleven coaches from the east. At the resorts everything had entered into winter repose. The hotels, stores and refreshment booths were all closed, and there was nothing left for the disappointed visitors but come to town for a bite.

The board of supervisors meets the

Some farmers in Overisel are experimenting with a new kind of wheat

the M. E. church in this city, is now stationed at Three Oaks, Berrien Co.

Judd of Grand Rapids is about to succeed Mr. Crozer as commandant of the

The natural curiosity of the season
can be seen at the premises of James

In Polk county, Arkansas, is a Holland colony, with a live city of 4,000 inhabitants. Its chief industry is the lumber business. The city was originally started by capitalists from the Netherlands and by them was named Mena, in honor of Wilhelmina, the young queen of Holland.

The state tax for 1897 has been apportioned between the several counties. The amount apportioned to Ottawa county is $31,228, as against $27, 141 in 1896 and $40,007 in 1895. The difference between these figures is to be attributed in part to the fact that in the odd numbered years, when the legislature is in session, the tax levy
for state purposes is always larger.

At the national encampment of the Union Legion the following was adopted with reference to pensions for the veterans of the late war: "All persons who served over 90 days each to receive $5 a month and one cent a day for the time they were in the service. The widows of officers and enlisted men who served three years and over, $12 a month; widows of those serving over two and under three years, $10 a month; widows of those serving over 90 days and under two years, $8 a month."

Supervisor Johannes Dykema was under the painful necessity this week
of taking his wife to the insane asylum for treatment. Judge Goodrich was here from Grand Haven and after consultation with Drs. Kremers and Godfrey issued the necessary order admitting her to the asylum at Kalamazoo. Mrs. Dykema has been suffering from extreme nervousness for some time, causing at times a derangement
of mind, and it is thought that a timely removal with proper treatment will soon restore her to health, physically and mentally. It was her own desire that this course be pursued.

city this year includes: Will Kremers,
pharmacy; James Van Zwailenburg,
literary; John Elenbaas, engineering;
G. W. Kooyers, law; Mr. and Mrs. J.
J. Mersen, medical. Some of these parties have already left for Ann Arbor, and the others are to follow Monday morning. Abe Van Zwailenburg, who has lately returned from Mexico, will also spend another year
at the University. He is the recipient of a $350 fellowship, given by F.
Stearns & Co., of Detroit, and will devote himself to experimental work in organic chemistry, along the line of pharmaceutical preparations in which the firm are interested as manufacturers and dealers.

It has been suggested in connection with the Grand Rapids carnival next week to designate one day on which all our citizens that desire to go should do so, thus making a demonstration that would not only be creditable to our city, but at the same time a proper recognition of the interest the Valley City people took in our Semi-Centennial celebration.

Married, at the home of the bride's parents, one and a half miles east of Zeeland, on Wednesday afternoon,
Sept. 29, by Rev. K. Kreulen, Harry
G. Mokma and Miss Jeannette Van Kley. The guests were limited to the immediate relatives. The new couple will make their home in this city, on 206 west Tenth street, where they will be happy to receive their friends after
Oct. 5.

The Temperance House at Saugatuck, better known as the Union
house, was discovered to be on fire
about 3 o'clock Wednesday morning.
The family were all in bed at the time
and had to be awakened by the neighbors. The entire building and part of the household effects were destroyed.
The building was one of the oldest in Saugatuck. It carried an insurance of $600.

The next meeting of the Western Social Conference will be held in Hope
Church, in this city, on Tuesday, Oct.
5, at 10:30 a. m. The following assignments have been made: "Messianic
Expectations in the time of Jesus Christ," by Prof. J. T. Bergen. "Calvin the Prince of the Reformers," by Prof. H. E. Dosker, D. D. Persons expecting to attend will please inform
Rev. H. G. Birchby.

With reference to the entangled condition of the electric street railway there is nothing new to report. The streets as they are left by the contractors are in a very unsatisfactory condition, and the various claims for labor and material still remain unsettled. Nevertheless the officials of the road persist that the embarrassment is only temporary and that ultimately everything will come out all right.

The faculty of the Western Theol.
Seminary are devoting their spare hours in arranging upon the shelves of the library the recent addition of one thousand volumes and over, bequeathed to the institution by the late Rev.
W. E. Gordon, D. D. The collection is said to be a rich one and up to date
in every department, and with the recent addition of the library of Rev.
Dr. T. W. Chambers of New York, makes the whole a very efficient and diversified theological library. Another installment of valuable books,
of the late Rev. Dr. J. E. Demarest, is expected to arrive in the course of a few days.

The mapping out of a plan of campaign by and for the Y. M. C. A. of this city, during the coming season,
has been placed in the hands of a committee of five, composed of Prof. J. T.
Bergen, Peter Takken, Henry Geer-lings, Chas. S. Dutton and Henry Van der Ploeg. This was the outcome of the meeting held on Saturday evening in pursuance to call. Although the attendance was light, largely by reason of its being Saturday evening, still on the part of those present sufficient interest was manifested to warrant a continuance of the association.
The Sunday afternoon gospel meetings have been regularly kept up during the entire summer, and a fair degree of interest maintained. The meeting discussed the various features connected with successful Y. M.
C. A. work, and adjourned to next Monday evening to receive the report of the committee.

of the Davison restaurant, lately managed by Walter Van Kuren. John has considerable experience in that line, and is confident of his share of the trade.

Married, in this city, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Geo. Ford, on College avenue, by Rev. J. T. Bergen,
on Tuesday, the 28th ult., Charles F.
Warner and Miss Kittle Van Ry. The young couple left in the evening for Chicago, where they will make their home.

H. W. Brooks, contractor for the water works extension, resumed operations this week where he left off last summer. The work on hand consists in the laying of a main connecting the pumps with the standpipe, a new 14-inch suction pipe from the pumps to the wells, the placing of the new fire pump and taking out the Walker
pump, and the erection of an air pump which will keep the air out of the mains.

Following the general teacher's meeting this fall, the teachers who are ex-graduates of the High School,
numbering sixteen, resolved to organize a High School Alumni Association.
Invitations have been sent out to all ex-graduates and arrangements made for a general meeting to be held Friday, Oct. 8, at which the association will be organized and a short literary program given, followed by refreshments and a social time.

The executive committee of the Semi-Centennial Commission held a meeting on Tuesday at the office of the secretary. The auditing committee reported that the amount of funds subscribed was sufficient to meet all the expenses incurred. The main object of the meeting was to consider the proposed publication of a historical volume commemorative of the celebration and the period it represents. Some preliminary information was handed in as to what such an undertaking would involve, financially, and a committee of three was appointed, consisting of Messrs. I. Cappon, A. Visscher, and G. J. Diekema, to draw up a plan whereby the required backing can be secured to carry the project into effect, and report at a subsequent meeting.

Much local interest is centering
around the competitive examination
to be held in this city on Friday, Oct.
8, for the appointment of mail carrier.
At one time it looked as though the number of applicants would reach one hundred, but since it was learned that each application must also be accompanied by a certificate of medical examination, which is very rigid, the number has been materially decreased
and will probably be less than fifty.
The examination will be held in Maccabee hall, over the First State Bank,
and will last four and a half hours.
The admittance will be limited to the applicants, each one of whom will be given a card of admission, signed by the secretary. The examining board is composed of three members, two of these, J. R. Proctor, chairman, and another member, are of the civil service commission at Washington, and the third member is the secretary, Postmaster C. De Keyser. All applications should be handed in with the secretary not later than the closing hour of business on Monday next, Oct.
4. All papers received later than this will not be considered at this examination, but will be referred to the next. The carrier-system will be inaugurated in this city on Monday,
Nov. 1.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Fennville.

A Rebecca lodge was instituted here Friday afternoon and evening with a membership of 47. The Grand master of Odd Fellows officiated in the ceremonies and was assisted by Saugatuck and Holland lodges, they being present with 50 visiting members. A fine banquet was served at 6 p. m. by the ladies of the local lodge.

Congressman Todd planted 1100 acres of peppermint this year and has already harvested 900 acres and he will finish the other 200 acres in the next two weeks. The frost of Monday night caused a damage of at least $1,000 to the mint that was still standing. One of his large stills distilled 800 pounds of oil on Monday.

Only about 10,000 baskets of peaches have been going from here each evening the past week and prices have been very satisfactory, good fruit netting about $1.50 a bushel here, about all expense. The Smock are above the peaches left to be shipped. This year's crop has been small but a great deal more money has been made from this year's small crop than from last year's big one.—Herald.

Saugatuck.

The school opened Monday with Prof. P. A. Latta of Holland in charge. The Douglas House has closed for the winter.

Van Anrooy's pile driver of Holland is in this port doing some light jobs for different parties.

The peach crop this year has been the lightest known in this section for the past six years, but there is more clear money for the grower in a hundred baskets of peaches this year than there was in a thousand baskets last year.

Peter Crock has caught a muskallonge which measured four and a half feet in length and weighed thirty-five pounds.

F. B. Wallin of Grand Rapids has in view the securing of a permanent summer residence here for himself and family, a move which will be hailed with delight by his old friends and neighbors here.

Capt. Brittain returned last Sunday from Chicago, where he has been for the previous ten days. He reports business in marine circles more active than it has been before in the past five years. There is something to do for every boat that is able to do business, and old schooners that have been out of commission for several years are being fitted out and put in the lumber carrying business.—Commercial.

Ottawa County.

Arrangements are being made for a series of lectures by Jason Woodman, lecturer of the State Grange, throughout Ottawa county, under the supervision of the Western P. Monna Grange. Mr. Woodman gave a series of lectures last winter, but during his tour the weather was so cold and stormy that the attendance was not what could be desired.

The Fruitport Furnace will have two large additional boilers put in shortly. Business is rushing and a large force of men are at work. Vessels will bring in ore from Escanaba all the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Beckwith of Spring Lake will make their home in Chicago the coming winter.

The Mutual Telephone Company of Coopersville has completed its line to Grand Haven.

Allendale creamery butter received first premium at the State Fair again this year. That makes three premiums in three years.

Miss Hattie Zwemer of Spring Lake has returned to her school at Orange City, Iowa.

Three Ottawa county veterans attended the state reunion of Mexican soldiers at Grand Rapids last week: Enos Parish of Allendale, Wm. C. Sevey of Coopersville and Isaac N. Lowling of Georgetown.

A frame barn owned by Hamilton Courson, situated in Georgetown, burned last Saturday. Loss $700, partly insured.

Hiram Boltbouse of Ferryburg has on exhibition a pumpkin weighing forty-five pounds.

Among the cases that will come up at the October term of supreme court is that of John Barnett of Coopersville vs. the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Co. of Allegan and Ottawa counties, in which W. L. Lillie is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Geo. Cooper of Nunica, who was arrested last week for disturbing the peace, and released on suspended sentence, was again arrested by U. S. marshal for getting money under false pretenses through the mail, and has been held to the U. S. court at Grand Rapids in $200 bonds. There is a Fitch Cooper living at Nunica, and a letter containing a money order for $250 arrived at the Nunica post office intended for Fitch Cooper, but addressed to Fred Cooper. Now George Cooper is the father of a twelve-year-old boy, named Fred Cooper, and the father took the letter, it is claimed, and went with his son to have the order cashed, identifying the boy as the Fred Cooper designated in the letter.

B. L. Johnson has been appointed postmaster at South Blendon, vice Alfred Purchase, and L. D. Heath has been appointed postmaster at Spring Lake, vice Martin Walsh.

Judge of probate Goodrich, county agent Whipple and Supts. of the poor Angel and Noble made their semi-annual inspection of the county jail this week and report the following: "The jail is old and superannuated in its construction. Management as good as can be had under present circumstances. Having thoroughly inspected the jail we unanimously condemn it as unsafe for the retention of prisoners, as insufficient in its accommodations, there being only one apartment for the retention of all classes of male prisoners, no matter what their condition or with what they are charged. Young men under arrest for trivial offenses are being associated with hardened criminals. It is also in such condition that it is impossible to keep it in a cleanly or even decent sanitary condition. We therefore recommend that a new jail be built at once." The number of prisoners confined during the past six months is 209, for the following offenses: Drunk 103, disorderly 73, burglary 4, rape 2, criminal assault 1, larceny 14, arson 1, civil capias 1, forgery 1, false pretensions 1, bastardy 1, illegal fishing 1, assault and battery 2, non-support 1, disturbing meeting 1, attempt to kill 2. At present there are six in jail for trial and five serving sentences.

Rev. P. Jonker has accepted the call of the Christ. Ref. church at Jamestown Center.

Allegan County.

Three Allegan county survivors of the Mexican War attended the reunion at Grand Rapids last week.

The bean crop in the vicinity of Plainwell this year was very large. Hundreds of acres were harvested last week and the quality and price are good.

Under the auspices of the Allegan High school a course of lectures is arranged which includes Hon. Henry Watterson and Col. L. F. Copeland.

The next semi-annual county Sunday school convention will be held at Otsego on Nov. 9 and 10.

A number of mills and factories at Allegan were obliged to shut down last week on account of low water in the river, being the first time it has occurred this season.

The Fennville Herald of last week warns the people of that village not to subscribe anything for the improvement of the road between that place and Allegan for the reason that such an improvement would benefit only the merchants of Allegan, who ought therefore to pay for the road. There are two other sources from which we think some money ought to be derived. One is from Sheriff Whitbeck, who on account of certain tendencies of the people of Fennville, is obliged to make a journey to that place more often than any other one of our citizens and another is from the saloon keepers of Fennville, who will find the road a great convenience when on their way to the county jail. We hope these gentlemen will not be backward in their contributions to the road.—Allegan Democrat. That sounds very well, brother Kellogg, but why not add that the graveling of this same road would be equally well appreciated by many Allegan "sports" who take a Sunday off to come down here and fill up on lake breezes and other things more or less "invigorating." And then there's that crack(ed) ball team of yours. A better road would make it possible for them to drag home a larger load of "goose eggs," should they ever summon up courage to wander down this way again. By all means gravel the road.—Fennville Herald.

C. E. Siple, ex-postmaster at Hamilton, is reported missing. It is said that two weeks ago he told his wife he was going to the probate court at Allegan on business, but he did not call there. Mrs. Siple is very much worried.

Grand Haven.

Edward H. Andres and Warren Scutt have assumed the proprietorship of the Andres House.

There seemed to be some misunderstanding among our fishermen as to whether or not they could fish during the month of November, and the opinion of Game Warden Osborn has been written for. In reply the letter says that the closed season for fishing, made by the recent legislature, becomes operative this year. This means that our fishermen will do no fishing from this port between Oct. 30th and Dec. 15th hereafter.

The first fire of any consequence in Grand Haven was in 1857, when the Washington House burned. It was owned by Henry Pennoyer. The next important fire was in 1885 when C. B. Albee's tannery was destroyed.

Two pieces of glass were received at the glass factory that weighed respectively 3200 and 3700 pounds.

The street railway has closed down for the season, making its last run on Sunday last.

The total amount of city and school taxes to be raised this year is $33,750, as follows:

|----------------------|----------|
| Fire department..... | $ 1,500 |
| Streets..... | 1,500 |
| Water..... | 1,900 |
| Police..... | 1,900 |

| Poor..... | 2,000 |
| Salaries..... | 1,200 |
| Bonded debt..... | 5,900 |

| Total..... | $33,750 |

Frank Meyers, the suspect pickpocket from Holland, has been released. The evidence against him was weak, and Prosecuting Attorney Vischer received rather favorable reports from his home town, Toledo.

The examination of L. D. Taylor of Ravenna for assaulting a young lady at Coopersville was conducted before Justice Pagelson behind closed doors in the court house Thursday, and at its conclusion Taylor was bound over to the November term of court.

Burglars entered the house of Mrs. Raymond Monday morning and at the point of a revolver compelled her to give them all the money in the house, $10.

Saturday afternoon the shoppers at the fall opening of Walsh & Co.'s dry goods were treated to a novel interruption by the sheriff, who came in and with assistance removed from the store shelves and loaded upon a dray a large load of goods. This action was the result of an attachment issued at the instance of Krolick & Co., Detroit. As soon as the papers could be issued and served, Burnham, Stoepl & Co., of the same city replevined the goods seized and restored them to their places on the shelves. Krolick & Co. had attached for unsecured claims amounting to $1300 and Burnham, Stoepl & Co. replevined in order to hold them under a $0000 chattel mortgage given them and filed a few months ago. Besides these claims mortgages have been placed on the same stock recently to almost its full value. Walsh & Co. is the firm name under which D. O. Watson carries on his business.

Zeeland.

Miss Johanna Keizer, daughter of Rev. A. Keizer of Drenthe, who has been quite sick in Grand Haven, is improving.

THE HINEVERE GOWN, MADE IN A COMBINATION OF CHESTNUT BROWN CLOTH AND VELVET.

Fashionable modistes are overwhelmed with questions concerning the width, length and arrangement of fulness in the up-to-date skirt. It is now a conceded fact that the skirt with full back, measuring from four to four and a quarter yards at the bottom, is at the head of the list, but the newer than skirts, wider and with various dispositions of fulness, is fast winning in popularity. Its circumference is given as than the full-back skirt because more fulness is allowed at the seams. Of course, the back of the skirt is invariably full, but the graceful moderately expanding fan is well defined and the ripples at the sides have been lessened so that a graceful skirt without exaggeration, and with more or less decoration is now approved. Five bones are comprised in the skirt of the costume illustrated and fashionably known as the Hinevere. The fan back is a feature of the skirt and it is tastefully trimmed with braid. A ruche is revealed above the front and back of the stylish waist, which is shaped low—the back in rounding outline and the front in a fanciful V effect. Epaulettes of velvet stand out over the sleeves.

The Butterick pattern is costume No. 9491, 10 sizes, bust measures, 30 to 42 inches, and size, 49 cents.

Lilies and Tulips.

Printed Liberty satins are as cool as the foulards and China silks and equally stylish carrying similar designs. Any of these silks may be made up as fancifully as personal taste suggests.

Pearly purple-shaded pea blossoms bloom in profusion upon a sailor of black straw, a simple hat that may be worn with almost any sort of gown. Peacock-blue ribbon is twisted about the crown and above it are arranged the flowers in a wreath to which are added a bunch of green palm leaves at the left and a ribbon rosette at the right. Under the brim at the back are two more rosettes.

Another stylish sailor-hat in white straw has a black straw facing. At the left side a fan of accordion-plaited rose chiffon rises from a rosette and back of the arrangement are pink and red carnations and leaves, the grass-like foliage being laid flat upon the brim. The floral trimming is duplicated at the right side. Under the brim at the back are more flowers in addition to a black velvet bow.

Too much cannot be said in favor of the narrow Mechlin laces, which are adaptable to almost every material in vogue. While they are newer than Valenciennes laces, the latter are nevertheless extensively used because of their daintiness.

Either Valenciennes or Mechlin lace insertion may be disposed on a gown of organdy in a series of bow-knots framed with black velvet baby ribbon. The bow-knots may either be separated or joined by lace in imitation of ribbon. The effect of such a decoration is at once unique and pleasing. Deep points could also be arranged with one or several rows of the insertion.

Another admirable method of disposal is to place it between three very narrow frills of the dress material—presumably of sheer texture—the frills being edged with velvet or silk baby ribbon and applied in serpentine lines. The lowest frill could fall over one of lace edging. Skirt and bodice should be correspondingly trimmed. Arabesques may also be arranged with lace insertion.

Foulard and China silks are most satisfactory and at present they are much sought. The ground of one very dainty foulard is pale green and the printed arabesques in black and a darker shade of green stand out as if in relief from the tinted ground. The same effect is produced in heliotrope, the ground being several tones lighter than the design.—From The Delicater.

DOUBLE MURDER.

A Detroit Man Kills His Son and a Neighbor.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29.—A most horrible double murder occurred in this city Tuesday night at about 8:30 o'clock. Frank Fadellin, Sr., a trunk maker living at 1345 Medbury avenue, killed his son, Frank Fadellin, shot his wife in the right shoulder and killed Joseph Stadelman, a contractor who lived across the street. It appears that some three months ago Fadellin refused longer to support the family. This led to serious difficulties and ended in his being forced by his wife to leave. Tuesday night Fadellin came to the back door of his wife's residence and rapped for admission. Joseph Aour, Mrs. Fadellin's brother, went to the door, but on learning who was outside refused to open it. Fadellin pleaded with his wife to admit him, but she steadily refused, telling him to come in the daytime.

Then Fadellin fired four shots in rapid succession through the kitchen window. Frank, Jr., fell to the floor dead with a bullet in his breast and Mrs. Fadellin rushed into the front part of the house with a wound in her shoulder. Hearing the reports of Fadellin's revolver, Joseph Stadelman rushed across the street. As near as can be ascertained Stadelman must have entered Fadellin's yard before the shot that killed him was fired. He was killed with a terrible wound in the heart, but staggered 15 or 20 feet before falling. Mrs. Fadellin is not dangerously injured. She has nine children, and Stadelman's wife is left with six children, one a two-months-old babe. The murderer has not yet been captured.

POST OFFICE ROBBED.

Thieves Secure $1,500 in Cash and Some Stamps at Omer.

Niles, Sept. 25.—A party of bandits at an early hour Friday morning blew open the safe in the postoffice at Omer and carried away about $1,500 in money and a quantity of stamps and valuable papers. The robbery occurred a few minutes after the village night watchman had passed the building in which the post office is located. At that time he noticed nothing unusual, but about 20 minutes later he was startled by a muffled explosion in the direction of the post office. The noise was heard by other citizens, and they hurriedly made their way into the building. The interior of the office was littered with the ruins of the safe and papers. So quickly had the robbers worked that when the people arrived at the scene of the robbery they had utterly vanished. Entrance into the building had been effected by prying open the door with chisels. There is no clue to the robbers.

NEW PIER IS COMPLETED.
Ludington, Sept. 29.—The new pier at the harbor at this point was completed Tuesday and pronounced entirely satisfactory by the United States inspector having the matter in charge. The work is something a little different from that usually done, and was tried as an experiment. The timber work is not dovetailed as it usually is, and allows the replacing of one timber without tearing out a large number of them. The contract was let this spring for $8,800, and the work was commenced about May 1. Besides the regular appropriation about $1,000 extra was spent from money left over from former appropriations.

Chicago and the Pottawatomies.

It seems that during the World's Fair year Chief Simon Pokagon, in an interview with the late Carter Harrison, then mayor of Chicago, obtained some information which led him to investigate the details connected with the various treaties by which his tribe, the Pottawatomies, through his father Leopold Pokagon, ceded the land on which Chicago is built. His researches, with the aid of attorneys, have included Chief Pokagon to the belief that, owing to a confusion of boundaries, which was not very uncommon in those early days, there is a strip of 130 acres, in the heart of the city, now mostly owned by W. H. Cox, which still belongs to the Pottawatomies. The other day Chief Pokagon held a council with the surviving members of his tribe and he is now in Chicago pressing his claim.

The relations between Chicago and the Pottawatomies are historic and apparently difficult to sever. The most tragic of these is the massacre of the garrison of Fort Dearborn in 1812, a graphic description of which is given in the following:

"On the rim of the shore of Lake Michigan, on a spot then a desolate waste of sand hills, but now crowded with palaces, such as the stately mansions of Marshal Field, P. T. Armour, Geo. M. Pullman, and others, stands, leafless and twigless, the trunk of an old cottonwood tree, which marks the site of the massacre of the garrison. Four score years and more have passed since the thirsty and drunk the life-blood of the victims of that Indian war, but still the gaunt witness of the fight looks down upon the altered scene.

"In 1812, when the British were at war with the French in Europe, our Canadian neighbors were busy fighting and diplomating against the French and their allies on the Great Lakes. The Americans had struck in on their own account on the side of the French, and the British had wiped them out of Detroit and Michigan. War is war, and British and Americans fought on, each using as best it could the Indian tribes which swarmed in the unsettled country. The British made allies of Tecumseh, the great chief of the Pottawatomies, and Fort Dearborn, the American outpost at Chicago, became the immediate objective point of the allies after the Americans had been driven out of Detroit and Michigan.

"The officer in charge, Capt. Heald, a weak incompetent, decided to evacuate by arrangement with the Indians. Whether this decision was right or wrong, he carried it out in the worst possible way. He first summoned the Indians to a council and promised them all the goods in the fort, including the ammunition and fire water, and then broke his word by throwing all the powder and shot down a well and emptying the liquor into the river. The Indians, furious at this breach of faith, waited until the little party had reached the open, a good mile distant from the fort, when they attacked and massacred all but twenty-five soldiers and eleven women and children. The scene of the massacre is marked by the trunk of the cottonwood tree, while close by the genius of a Dane has commemorated, at the cost of a millionaire, the evacuation and the massacre, in a spirited group surmounting a pedestal with bas-reliefs.

The sculptor by a happy inspiration has selected as his motif the one incident of that bloody fray that possesses other than a gory interest. While the Pottawatomies were scalping or tomahawking the palefaces, regardless either of sex or age, Mrs. Helm, the daughter of Mr. Kinzie, the patriarchal settler of early Chicago, was rescued from imminent death by Black Partridge, an Indian chief, who had long known and loved his father. The group on the summit of the pedestal represents Mrs. Helm desperately struggling to seize her assailant's scalping-knife, while the splendid chief, Black Partridge, intervenes to snatch her from her impending doom. The surgeon, who was slain, is receiving his death-blow at her feet, while a frightened child weeps, scared by the gleam of the tomahawk and the firing of the muskets. The bas-reliefs tell the story of the evacuation, the march, and the massacre, and enable the least imaginative observer, as he looks out over the gray expanse of the lake, to picture something of the din and alarm of that bloody August day, and to recall, too, something of the elements of heroism and of humanity which redeemed the grim tale of Indian war."

Chief Pokagon in a recent article in The Forum, on "The Fathers of the Red Man," thus refers to this bloody chapter in the history of his race:

"I always think of my people in those days as the dog kept by the schoolmaster to be whipped whenever a child disobeyed. During the war of 1812 we were again incited through English influence to take the war-path. Proctor, the English general of the North west, said to our heroic Tecumseh, 'Assemble all your warriors together, join forces with us, and we will drive the Americans beyond the Ohio River, and Michigan shall be yours forever.' Such a promise from so high an authority, awakened all the native energies of our being to regain our liberty and homes, for which we had been contending against overpowering forces.

"The Ottawas and Chippewas of the north, the Pottawatomies and Miami of the south, and other tribes gathered themselves together to make the last desperate effort to regain the promised land. In this war our cause was far more sacred to us than was the Americans to them. They had drawn the sword in defense of one of their rights; we, for all of ours; for our very existence, for our native land, and for the graves of our fathers most sacred to our race.

"The last engagement in which the confederate Algonquin tribes fought the Americans was at the battle of the Thames in Canada, on October 5, 1813, where we and the English were defeated by General Harrison and General Tecumseh, our brave leader, was killed.

"After this battle our fathers became fully convinced that the small remnant of their tribe must either accept extermination, or such terms as their enemy saw fit to give. So they sued for peace; and the American warriors, uplifted by victory, and our Algonquin fathers, bowed down by defeat, stood around the grave of the hatchet—buried forever—and smoked the pipe of peace together.

"At the time of this battle, Tecumseh was a brigadier-general in the English army, with Proctor. I have seen in United States histories pictures of Tecumseh, tomahawk in hand about to strike a soldier named Johnson, who claimed that he shot the dreaded chief with his pistol. But I have repeatedly heard old Indian warriors say: 'After the British infantry gave way, they came to an open or clear spot in the woods, and here Tecumseh ordered his men to halt and fight the Americans once more. Just then the open space was swept by American musketry; and Tecumseh fell, saying: 'Me-daw-yo-em o-kawd (My leg is shot off). Hand me two loaded guns. I will have the last shot. Maw-tchawn we-wib (Be quick and go). Those were the last words of Tecumseh.' Our fathers believed that neither the Americans nor the Indians knew who fired the fatal shot.

"My father, Leopold Pokagon, had been a Pottawatomie chief thirteen years before this battle, and so remained until his death, twenty-seven years after. Most of his band were sent West in 1837. He and some five hundred of his people, having embraced Christianity, were permitted to remain in Michigan. In 1866, they numbered three hundred and fifty; nearly all of them were of pure Indian blood. At the present time they number two hundred and seventy-one; nearly one-half are of mixed blood."

A Trio of Pioneers.

At the time the new county court house was nearing completion, the board of supervisors authorized the building committee to procure and place in the board room suitable portraits of the three men, who, each in their own way, locality and period have been considered, and justly so, as the founders of Ottawa county. At a later date the board also ordered a short biographical sketch to be prepared of these pioneers and placed below each portrait. This latter instruction was carried into effect during the week and the three sketches are as follows:

1821.

R. H. ROBINSON.

Born in Auburn, N. Y., in 1792; acquired an academic course and studied law, but never practiced, preferring a more active career. Came west, arrived in Detroit in 1814 and became an army sutler; went to St. Louis and obtained an outfit and stock of merchandise for Indian trading. At Mackinaw became identified with the American Fur Company. Established trading posts on the Calumet and Illinois rivers and at Milwaukee, and in 1821 landed at the mouth of Grand River; located an Indian trading post there and at the Thorn Apple, and in course of time became permanently identified with the settlement and some of the early business enterprises of Grand Haven and the Grand River country.

Rix Robinson was brave, a man of inflexible honor, the friend of the Indian, their interpreter and negotiator with the U. S. Government, and married two of their daughters. Throughout a long and varied life he maintained a front rank in the early history of this section of the State. Was supervisor, associate judge, state senator, state commissioner of internal improvement etc., and member of the state constitutional convention of 1850.

Died in 1875, at his home in Ada, Kent county. His grave there is marked by a monument erected by the Old Residents Association of Grand River Valley.

WILLIAM M. FERRY.

Born in Granby, Mass., Sept. 8, 1796. Without means or aid, sought an education. At 18 was Tutor in a Female Seminary, at Kinderhook, N. Y. At 20 was Principal of Sanderson Academy, Ashfield, Mass. Graduated at Union, in his 24th year. Took a three-years theological course at New Brunswick, N. J. Was licensed and ordained a minister by the Presbytery of New York, in 1822; offered his services in the missionary field, and was appointed to the Island of Mackinaw. Continued his missionary labors, including chaplaincy of the garrison, at Mackinaw, until fall of 1834.

Arrived at the mouth of Grand River Nov. 2, 1834, and founded what is now the City of Grand Haven and the northern part of Ottawa county. On the day of his arrival, Sunday morning, he preached the first sermon from the text, "Despise not the day of small things." Built church, school and court house; for twenty years conducted religious services, and until his death carried on a large and successful business, principally lumbering and banking.

Died in his Grand Haven home, Dec. 30, 1887, and peacefully rests in Lake Forest cemetery under a slab bearing the memorial inscription he directed:

"First toll, then rest;
First grace, then glory."

1847.

A. C. VAN RAALTE.

Born in the parsonage of Wanneperveen, in the province of Overijssel, Netherlands, Oct. 17, 1811. Received a full University course and graduated at Leyden, in 1834. Was ordained a minister of the gospel, and preached and taught theology until 1846, when with others he placed himself in the lead of that great movement since known as "The Holland Immigration of 1847," and which dotted its settlements over the States of Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, the Dakotas, and other States East and West.

Embarked with the first band of his followers at Rotterdam, Sept. 16, 1846, in an American brig from Boston, the "Southerner." Arrived in New York Nov. 4, wintered in St. Clair and Detroit, and located at the head of Black Lake Feb. 12, 1847, this founding the present City of Holland and southern part of Ottawa county.

In 1851 he laid the foundations of Holland Academy, since developed into Hope College.

Pioneer, colonizer, educator, preacher, orator, patriot, and a powerful leader of men.

He died Nov. 7, 1875, at Holland, and his remains rest there, near the spot where stood the first log church, and where he led his followers in worship.

From the Lake to the Ocean.

The American Commission on Deep Waterways, composed of Maj. Raymond of Philadelphia, Geo. Y. Wisner of Detroit, and Alfred Noble of Chicago, have opened their headquarters at Detroit and are preparing an outline of the course to be pursued in obtaining a twenty-eight or thirty feet depth of navigable water from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. The most eligible route is thought to be the one that starts at the head of Lake Michigan and Lake Superior, through Lake Huron and Lake Erie, to Lake Ontario; thence from Oswego by canal through the Mohawk Valley to Troy, N. Y., and thence follow the Hudson river to the seaboard.

What such a deep waterway from the great lakes to the sea would mean in the way of agricultural and commercial value to the continent cannot be readily estimated. It would certainly affect to a great degree the courses of the world's shipping and would bring the grain of the United States and Canada to the markets of the other side of the world at a far less cost for transportation than at present prevails. The iron of Michigan and her sister states would secure an entrance into the mills of England and Europe. The lake cities would increase in size and wealth, and imports would come to them cheaper because of a continuous water route from foreign ports.

At present the farmers of this country are at a disadvantage in regard to fast bringing her grain fields into connection with her seaports. The countries of South America are rapidly developing enormous agricultural interests. India pours her grain through the Suez canal into Europe. This country with all her resources has been thus far content with a patchwork system of transportation from the northwest to the Atlantic—by rail to the ports of Lakes Michigan and Superior, thence by water to Buffalo, again by rail to the Atlantic, and then the long distance across the sea to Europe.

When a vessel is loaded at Duluth, Milwaukee or Chicago, it is only the beginning of the work. At Buffalo bulk must be broken and the grain elevated and reloaded into cars or canal boats for New York, where the same thing must be gone through with in putting the stuff for foreign shipment in the holds of the great ocean freighters. More than half the cost of transporting a bushel of wheat from Chicago or Duluth to Europe, which is from 9 to 10 cents, is in commissions, elevator charges and freight from Buffalo to New York.

Traffic on the great lakes has assumed gigantic proportions. In 1885, 5,390 vessels passed through the locks at St. Mary's Falls, with a tonnage of 1,035,937 and 3,256,628 net tons of freight. Last year these figures had been increased to 18,615 vessels, a tonnage of 17,249,418 and 10,230,061 net tons of freight. The value of the freight passed in 1895 was estimated to be $159,575,130. The yearly traffic passing through the Detroit river is estimated at 10,000,000 tons greater than the aggregate foreign trade of all the seaports of the United States. The effect of this trade upon manufacturing industries can scarcely be overestimated. Nine states border upon the lakes, containing more than one-third of the population of the United States. Yet the amount expended by the government upon the deepening and widening of canals is only about $12,000,000 annually. With an open way to the sea, an outlet for this great inland commerce would be provided and the beneficial results would make the enormity of the undertaking appear insignificant by comparison.

A Week of Sport.

The city of Grand Rapids will devote the last week in this month to a series of festivities, for which its citizens are arranging a program that promises to be imposing and entertaining.

Four days—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 26 to 29 inclusive—are to be given up to the event. The management is in the hands of a large committee, and Col. M. A. Aldrich is director-general.

Tuesday, Oct. 26, is Governor's day. Gov. Plagree and staff and ex-Governors Alger, Luce and Rich are to be invited as the special guests of the day. The festivities will begin at high noon, when an artillery salute will be fired, and bells rung. Immediately on the stroke of 12 o'clock one or more men in carnival costume will issue from each of the business houses on the principal streets and form a nondescript procession of fun. The afternoon will be given up to amusement. In the evening the business streets will be lighted by fireworks and colored fires. Two parades will take place in the evening. The first will be a gorgeous military display, and then will come a procession made up of thousands of bicyclists in carnival costume, and all sorts of illuminations.

Wednesday, Oct. 27—Fraternal day. This day will be given up to festivities by fraternal organizations. Lodges of all sorts will be invited to participate with the Grand Rapids brethren in making a splendid display of such organizations.

Thursday, Oct. 28—Industrial day. This day will be devoted to displays of organized labor and the products of the manufactories of Grand Rapids. In the evening two immense parades will be combined. The first will be that of the Trades Unions and other organized labor societies. The second will be a grand display of floats, emblematic designs and productions of all sorts of factories.

Friday, Oct. 29—Carnival day. This day will close the session of festivities with everything and everybody in carnival attire. The evening will be given up to a monstrous parade intended to excel the Mardi Gras festivities of New Orleans and similar celebrations in other cities.

Marine Notes.

The propeller Williams of the Chicago-South Haven line has been withdrawn, being the first of the trans-lake boats to go into winter quarters.

The steamer Douglas which formerly ran on the Saugatuck-Chicago route, is still in active service and is doing a good business on Lake Huron. The steamer Pilgrim which was her rival on this route is now running with her, forming a line.

If shipping lumber means prosperity, says the Menominee Herald, then the Menominee river is getting its full share. Not in five years has so much lumber left the harbor as in the past three weeks. Forty million feet is a rough estimate of the shipments made by prominent lumber inspectors. The price is going up on all grades and buyers have come so rapidly of late that there is now scarcely any for sale.

The Chicago project for taking 300 miners to the Klondike on the schooner George Sturges has collapsed with a big loss to those who were in the scheme. Capt. Adolph Freitche, who paid $1,000 down for the boat, and was to pay $9,000 more by Oct. 1, has voluntarily surrendered the schooner to Ed E. Ayer, from whom he purchased her. He has been to a large expense in fitting out the schooner, building state rooms in the hold and preparing accommodations for the 300 hunters of fortune in the Klondike. All this work will now have to be torn out before the schooner can return to her regular trade. Capt. Freitche originally planned to take the Sturges from Chicago down the great lakes and St. Lawrence river to the Atlantic, and then by doubling Cape Horn to reach St. Michael's about April 1. He agreed to give the passage and board for this extended trip for $200. Prospectors fought shy of the scheme from the start. Capt. Freitche secured ten passengers, who were to pay $200 apiece, but he gave up hope of securing the remaining 290 before the sailing day.

The steamer I. M. Weston, recently owned at Saugatuck, was sold Friday to Charles Robertson of Manistee for $1500. The boat was libelled and sold for wages of the crew and was bid in by Capt. Baker at $875 for a Cleveland firm, which held a $1600 mortgage on her. The mortgage was superseded by the libel sale and then the company failed to claim its property. The boat is valued at about $4000, and will be remodeled and put in the freight business between Milwaukee and Chicago.

It is claimed that more money is lost in one year by bad roads than is levied by all the dutiable articles imported, and more than all the money that is collected from all the internal taxes levied by the general government. The bad roads of this country cost those using them three hundred millions a year. The yearly freightage of all the ships, canal boats and railways in the country is far less than the freightage which passes along the country roads. There is hardly a pound of freight hauled upon the railways of this country which does not first have to pass over some highway designed for the use of vehicles and horses. American railway freight rates, though they are the lowest in the world, are frequently grumbled at, but does the complainor ever think that it has cost him more to haul forty bushels of corn or wheat over ten miles of bad roads than to ship it one hundred miles over a railway? These are things that the farmers who are most interested in good roads seldom think of, because, as they do not have to pay in cash upon the spot the loss has turned the tables on high price baking powders. The directions on High Price cans are the same as on Calumet cans, viz.: 2 teaspoonfuls to a quart of flour, but they say that one can of High Price will go three times as far as any other. Can any claim be more ridiculous? The frantic cry of adulteration, danger and poison made by the high price baking powder people is a blind to intimidate the public and induce them to pay fancy prices for their goods—also to divert attention from this defect in their own goods.

Calumet Baking Powder

Calumet Baking Powder is safe. Food baked with Calumet is absolutely free from Rochelle Salts, Alum, Lime, Ammonia or any injurious substance.

that results in carting their products over roads deep with mud or dust, or full of loose rocks and deep ruts, they imagine that they have lost nothing. In reality, they have lost labor, horse flesh, wagons, and worst of all, great quantities of time, which to every man who makes the most of his business is the most valuable commodity of all. If this were better realized the economists at the annual town meeting would not exert themselves so much in voting down or reducing appropriations for highway purposes. We have had of late years considerable discussion on the problem of "Good Roads," but after all said and done, the practical way of improving the country roads is to appropriate money for it and see that it is judiciously expended.

Bob Kulte is once more in trouble for making an unprovoked assault upon his father, Jacob Kulte, Sr. This was last week, when he dealt him a severe blow in the face. The father entered a complaint against Bob before Justice Kollen, whereupon Bob made himself scarce and kept somewhat in hiding until Monday morning when the two met on the fair grounds and Bob then and there threatened his father to make it hot for him if he didn't withdraw the complaint.

The father fearing a repetition of last week's experience apparently consented to do so, but when he came to town and was beyond Bob's reach he changed his mind and notified the officers of his son's whereabouts, since where no further steps were taken. This was the situation up to Thursday morning, when, true to precedent, father and son appeared before Prosecuting Attorney Visscher, gave him to understand that matters had been fixed up between them, and that they were ready now to withdraw the complaint, they to pay all the costs. To all of this Mr. Prosecutor gave an emphatic "no." This refusal is based in part upon the fact that in view of the gravity of the assault and at the urgent representation of the father, the complaint was drawn charging Bob with "assault to do great bodily harm less than murder," and not merely assault and battery.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Rapine, editor Tishkiliwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. The Thirteenth Annual Fair.

Everybody was wishing for rain during the week, except the fair people, and for a wonder it did not rain. Still, more is needed than fair weather for a successful fair.

A combination of circumstances rendered it up-hill work this year for the fair officials to enlist popular enthusiasm. There was Grand Rapids with its state and county fairs; next Muskegon, Coopersville, Berlin and Allegan; the recent Semi-Centennial celebration; the short crops of apples and peaches; with no special attractions to offset these drawbacks.

The small attendance on Wednesday, however, was more than made good by the large crowd on Thursday. The number on the grounds that day is estimated at between seven and eight thousand. Thursday is always the big day, and this year more so than ever.

It is also well enough to observe that of late the general interest in rural fairs is centering more and more around the races, at the expense of the exhibits. This was especially so this year with us, the number of entries being only 1172 as against 1372 last year, a discrepancy largely to be found in the horticultural department. The entries in this class were over 200 less than in '96, owing to the failure in whole or in part of the fruit crop.

In one department, that of woman's work, the entries exceeded those of last year. Cattle were also well represented this year, better than horses. There was some fine white-girdled Frisian stock, and as one Frisian farmer expressed it, every year marks some improvement in the grade of cattle of our farmers. Swine and sheep were few.

Conspicuous this year was the gradual decline in the display of agricultural implements, which seems to be the case at fairs all over the country, and is ascribed to the intense personal canvass upon which manufacturers and dealers rely for the sale of farm machinery.

Van Landegend's pump and windmill was the most conspicuous entry of this class upon the grounds.

Poultry was fairly good and among the exhibits in this department were some fine specimens of domestic fowls. On the whole fruit was poor. We missed those abundant exhibits of apples and peaches. Neither were grapes up to the usual standard. But pears were plenty, and surpassed in every way all previous exhibits.

The trade displays in art hall were limited to J. Vanderveen, hardware; Wm. Brusse & Co., clothing; Ed Vaupe, harness; H. Meyer & Son, sewing machines and musical instruments. These dealers rightly understand the art of advertising and availed themselves of the space at their command in making fine exhibits. Among the artistic entries Miss Alice Wheeler's display of paintings, oil, water and crayon, was the most prominent; next came a case of minerals of Hubert Birchby, and a rich herbarium of Paul Coster.

In the floral department J. A. Kooyers was the main exhibitor, the green houses not being represented at all this year. Other entries that drew the attention were by Mrs. Dr. H. Kreners, Mrs. W. H. Beach, Miss Hattie Ten Have, and Geo. H. Souter.

As usual the collection of A. Westerbos, in the line of garden vegetables, caught the eye of all. He had nearly 100 varieties of all sorts of roots, greens and garden truck. J. Schippers of Overisel had ten varieties of potatoes; and, by the way, he is an ardent supporter of the fair, having not less than 60 entries this year.

Among the favorable comments to be made is that the judging was promptly attended to; by Wednesday afternoon every class had been reviewed. The police regulations also were excellent and good order was maintained on the grounds and the race course. The music this year was supplied by the Zeeland band and was very satisfactory. The increased attendance and interest in the races also demonstrated that the grand stand needs enlargement. The horizontal bar and trapeze performances were of a high order and elicited much applause. The gate receipts on Thursday footed up $835, an excess of $25 over and above the big day last year.

The races, especially on Thursday, were the leading attraction, and the entries exceeded those of last year. Owing to the dry season the track was a little slow, while the clouds of dust at times literally obstructed the view.

BICYCLE RACES.

Thursday's bicycle races were won in slow time, owing to the deplorable condition of the track. There was an inch or more of dust and the course was not free from pitch holes, hence the wheelmen deemed it unsafe to attempt to make fast time.

The Class B half-mile championship of Holland City and Township was won by Ben Van Raalte, Jr., in two straight heats. Time 1:23, 1:38. Geo. Hyma, 2nd.

Hope College Lecture Course

We are pleased to announce that the citizens of Holland and vicinity will this season have an opportunity to hear several of the very best readers and orators in the country. The course will be under the auspices of the college and no money will be spared to secure the best talent that can be bought.

The series of entertainments will be opened by Russell H. Couwell, the brilliant preacher, author and orator, pastor at the Baptist Temple, Philadelphia, and president of the Temple College. He is today the greatest pulpit orator in the land, being often styled the "Spurgeon of America." He never lectures for less than $150 a night, but devotes all his money to charity. The lecturer will appear at Winants Chapel on November 10. His subject will be "Acres of Diamonds."

The second entertainment in the course will be a series of Shakespearian and general readings by one of America's three best readers, George Riddle, whose name is on the tongue of every one.

January 11 will also appear either Henry Watterson or John Temple Graves, the great southern orator.

The financial risk is dangerously great, but a hearty response on the part of our citizens is confidently expected. Course tickets will be sold at $1.50 apiece, and 275 of the best seats will be reserved for holders of such tickets. The price of admission to single entertainments for such as hold no course tickets will be from 75 cents down to 25 cents for standing room. The city will be canvassed in a few days.

Y., writes: "For 28 years, I was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and a weak stomach. The lightest food produced distress, causing severe pain and the formation of gas. No matter how careful of my diet I suffered agonizing pain after eating. I was treated by many physicians and tried numerous remedies without permanent help. Two years ago I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and Nerveine. Within a week I commenced improving, and persisting in the treatment I was soon able to eat what I liked, with no evil effects. I keep them at hand and a single dose dispels any old symptoms."

deceased was well known among the old residents here.

Saturday last Sheriff Van Ry arrived home from Harbor Springs, with Chas. E. George, the one-hadded all-around crook, who made his escape in this city a few weeks ago while awaiting transporting to the Detroit House of Correction under a 75-days sentence for stealing a watch at Ottawa Beach. According to his statement George on the afternoon that he broke out of the city lock-up here, took the Macatawa road and when out a short distance paid a farmer to convey him to Saugatuck, where he took the boat for Chicago that same evening. Here he pawned his watch and took passage for Mackinaw, where he spent the balance of the season, taking in also the resorts at Petoskey, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs, moving in good society and beating his way at the different hotels as best he could. He had just completed his sentence in the county jail at Harbor Springs for stealing a watch when Sheriff Van Ry arrived, he having been notified by the officials of Emmet county of his presence there. George claims that his father is a clergyman in Detroit, that he has not been home in three years, and that he is now passing under an assumed name. He was brought before Justice Pagelson upon the charge of escaping from justice and will no doubt be held for trial at the November term of court.
