Prof. Richard D'Zeeuw, a graduate of Hepe college and the U. of M., has been appointed assistant professor of biology at M. A. C.

Among the jurors selected for the November term of Circuit court are Jerry Leapple and Albert Hoeksma W. Karsen Zeeland, William De Pree, Zeeland.

The Graham Morton fall schedule is now in effect and the steamer Holland has been taken off the route and will be placed in winter quarters at Benton Harbor. The Puritan will be the heavy weather boat.

Attorney Fred T. Miles has moved his office from 41 East Eighth street over the store of the Lokker Rutgers company to the flat over Cook's Music store.

The Modern Woodmen will adopt a class of fifty new members tomorrow evening, October 7, in Eagle hall at 8:15. There is considerable enthusiasm in the order. It is the largest class ever put through at one time.

During the electrical storm Tuesday afternoon a horse, valued at $150 was killed by lightning on the farm of Peter Branden near Crisp. Two cows, of Hendricus Poest were also killed by lightning during the same storm. The cows were in the pasture on Mr. Poest's farm, east of this city. Considerable damage was done by the wind in this vicinity.

The addition to the First Reformed church which has been in process of construction for some time has been completed. The addition consists of a two story room the lower one containing kitchen and other conveniences, and the upper story being furnished for the meetings of the ladies' societies, consistory, etc. The Ladies' Aid society furnished the upper room with carpets, chairs and tables. The church has flourished during the pastorate of Rev. H. J. Veldman, who has served it for a number of years.

While he "stood on the bridge at midnight," L. T. Snyder was assailed by holdup men, when he was coming from the Waverly yards over the P. M. bridge. Three men put in their appearance and struck him with sand bags and Indian clubs. The plucky Snyder went at them however with a full "dinner pail," for the first time not appreciated by a hobo, and his trusty lantern which also threw some light upon the subject. He finely put them to flight however after being cut on the hand and sandbagged on the jaw.

While crossing the street, Lester, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Carl fell directly in the path of an automobile. John Glupkers, who was driving the car, immediately put on the brakes and stopped just as he reached the child. Dr. Tuttle was called as the child was in a partially unconscious condition, but he pronounced it nothing more serious than a few bruises. The child was not much the worse for his experience.

The Consumer's Ice & Fuel company successfully conducted for several years by Ed. T. Bertsch will in the future be under the management of Mr. Bertsch and John W. Wendell, who has been taken into partnership. The name of the firm will remain the same and the company will start in to increase the volume of their business. Mr. Wendell is a brother-in-law of Mr. Bertsch and was formerly with the Heinz Pickle Co., for many years after which he went to Grand Rapids.

No one knows when the grim reaper of death will overtake them. Mrs. Augusta Dowd who was having a neighborly chat at the home of Mrs. Newel Gilmore 166 East Seventh street on bidding her friend goodbye opened the wrong door, fell down a flight of sixteen steps and received injuries from which she died Sunday without gaining consciousness. Mrs. Gilmore shortly afterward had occasion to go into the basement and there saw the gruesome sight and womanlike fainting, where her husband found her on his return home. Mrs. Dowd seems to have struck the stone floor of the basement and a deep gash was cut in her head at the base of the skull. Dr. Thomas was hurriedly called and pronounced the case hopeless. The deceased is survived by a husband, a son in Muskegon and a daughter, Mrs. Geo. Fritzpatrick also of this city. The funeral was held yesterday, Rev. P. E. Whitman officiating.

Conductor Al Brinkman is again on his run on the Interurban line.

Arthur Lantinga was arrested by officer Leonard on the charge of assault and battery on the person of George Weidema. He was arraigned before Justice Miles, pleaded guilty to the charge and given fine and costs amounting to $5 Friday.

Fully 1,000 people saw the sophomore class of Hope college take an impromptu bath in the river here when the freshman class won the annual tug-of-war across the stream. Neither side had the advantage until the contest had been on for about five minutes then the freshmen by a sudden lurch and strong pull worsted the opponents. One by one the 22 sophomores were pulled through the river at a depth of five feet.

Reports of apple and pear blossoms are numerous enough, and such abnormal things are not so very unusual in seasons like the present, but Mr. Frank Miller of Watson brings to the Gazette several trusses of the purple lilac well flowered, which he found growing on a wayside bush. These phenomena doubtless are caused by the premature ripening of buds during the drouth, the ensuing rains and warm weather starting a growth. A few pear trees are reported full of bloom.—Allegan Gazette

E. P. Stephan of Holland, has for a number of years been a strong figure in the political and official life of the county and events of the past few days prove that Mr. Stephan is still on top despite the fact that many have long declared that he was a dead one politically. Mr. Stephan has certainly accomplished a great deal. He drove the hobo evil out of Holland and is still fighting to drive all form of graft from the county. Apparently he is still "there."—Grand Haven Tribune.

The monthly report of Chief of Police Kamlerbeek shows that during the month of September thirteen arrests had been made. Of these two were for larceny; one, injury to property; one, false pretense, one, profane language; one smoking cigarettes on the street; one, furnishing cigarettes to minors; two, assault and battery, one, vagrancy; one, drunk; and one jumping board bill. The amount of fines collected during the month was $37.40. Seven of those arrested paid fines and costs; for one fine is pending; on one sentence was suspended; one was bound over to circuit court and three drew sentences in the county jail.

A slight of hand performer, playing at the Idea theatre, was arrested last night by Officer Meeuwse on the charge of seduction. The complaint was made by the father of a girl named Violet Schultz of Grand Rapids. Floyd will be arraigned before Justice Miles this afternoon.

Fred F. McEachron of Grand Haven is planning to erect six houses on Pennoyer avenue this fall and winter. Mr. McEachron has completed the plans for his houses which will contain seven or eight rooms each and be suitable for either tenant houses or homes, should prospective occupants care to purchase. All are to be built on a new and attractive design and will be an improvement to the fourth ward residence section. Carpenters are already figuring on the job.

Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer will become editor of the Moslem World, a quarterly review of current events, literature and thought among Mohammedans, and the progress of Christian missions in Moslem lands. Associated with Dr. Zwemer will be Rev. W. H. T. Gairdner of Cairo and Dr. John Lepsius of the Potsdam Seminary for the Training of Workers among Moslems. Dr. Zwemer is now on his way to Arabia, where he has been a missionary for sixteen years.

Martin Beukema, proprietor of the West Mich. Laundry was very much surprised Sunday to receive a letter containing three $100 bills and the following missive enclosed: "In passing through your city a few days ago I was reminded of a favor you showed me at one time. It is something that you have doubtless long ago forgotten. Enclosed you will find a slight token of my esteem," and signed, "From a friend." Mr. Beukema has no idea who this unknown friend is but thinks it may have been someone who he had helped when he was in the ferry business at Macatawa as upon several occasions he had saved people who had fallen in the water.

And now the carriers on the rural routes throughout the country will have an opportunity to make a little money outside of their salary. The creation of an army of 40,000 notaries public has been authorized by the post office department in accordance with legislation enacted during the last session of congress. All carriers of the rural delivery mail service are now required to execute vouchers for United States pensioners residing on their routes for which service they are to receive 25 cents for each voucher executed.

There was a barn raising in Robinson Center one day this week, that marked the construction of the largest barn in the county and one of the largest in the state. The structure is located on the farm of Charles Brems and is 40 by 64 in size with cement basement and all of the very latest barn improvements. Mr. Brems is embarking in the grazing and dairy business on a large scale and has a barn that will easily accommodate 80 head of stock. The barn is supplied with water pipes and feed carriers and a silo will be erected later. The new barn was erected by Ben Smith and William Harbat of Olive. The raising the other day was an important event in Robinson.

The resolutions of the Board of Public Works took up the greater part of the time at the meeting of the common council last evening. The Board asked the council to draw up an amendment to the city charter to be submitted to the people in the November election asking that the board members receive a salary of from $100 to $300. There was a long wrangle about the matter, several of the aldermen holding that if the members received a salary they should also be elected by the people and not appointed by the council. There were only three days left for action on the matter to get the governor's signature, because thirty days are required before election to advertise the amendment. Although the trouble was taken to go into the committee of the whole, at the last minute three of the aldermen got cold feet and voted against the drawing up of the amendment providing for the salary. It was a long wrangle that fizzled out into nothing, the aldermen wishing to take longer time to consider the matter.

The Gas Co. asked the council that a committee be appointed to meet with a committee appointed by the company, to adjust the differences amicably before the differences between the company and the city got into the courts. The council decided to meet the company in a body in an adjourned meeting next Wednesday evening.

Several of the claims against the Geo. Rickman Sons Co. were presented with requests that the firms be protected by the city. This matter was referred to the City Attorney, the Ways and Means committee and the City Hall committee.

The bid for the West Eighth street bonds was accepted, and registration places were designated by the council in the various wards. The date set for registration of voters is November 5 and the places are: First ward, Engine House No. 2; Second ward, 173 River street; Third ward, Council room; Fourth ward, the ward's election building; fifth ward, Price's Rink.

Just What You Have Been Waiting For!

CRUSHED COKE

COKE

Will work as well as hard coal in any coal furnace, boiler or stove, which means DOLLARS SAVED.

THE MOST SATISFACTORY FUEL

—FOR—

Base Burner, Kitchen Range, Round Oak

AND COAL STOVES OF ALL KINDS.

You are using some kind of fuel, but unless you are burning Genuine Gas Coke you are not getting the most heat for your money. More heat is saved by burning Coke because it requires but little draft. Strong drafts carry the heat up the chimney.

COKE

Does not smoke. Soft coal does. Kindled in half the time of hard coal.

HOW TO BURN GENUINE GAS COKE

Keep down the draft
That's the whole secret of burning Gas Coke successfully.
Keep down the draft.
It is the most important thing—and it saves the heat instead of rushing it out the chimney.
Keep down the draft.
Genuine Gas Coke does not require as much draft as hard coal.
Do Not shake the fire down as hard coal requires—probably just a trifle to get rid of the excess of ashes—but only a very little bit. Saves the work and fuel—and the grate.
To Bank a Fire—Put on a heavy bed of coke. Spread with fine coke or throw on a few ashes. Close the draft and open the feed door if you like. The fire will keep over night and in 15 minutes next morning you will have a glowing fire and intense heat.

There are 27 bushels of Hard Coal in one ton.

50 Bushels

GENUINE GAS COKE

FOLLOW OUR INSTRUCTIONS

For burning Genuine Gas Coke. There is a right way and a wrong way. If you have heard some one say that Genuine Gas Coke did not last as long as hard coal, they gave it too much draft.

Order a ton and examine it—you will find it's all good, clean coke. Burn it according to our instructions, being sure that the drafts are closed. You will find it easy to kindle, economical to use and a wonderful heat maker.

Try a ton of this most satisfactory fuel; follow the directions, and you will use nothing else.

DIVORCE THE CLIMAX OF A "CARVING" IN SOCIETY

MRS. CUDAHY IS NOW FREE AND GETS $5,000 ANNUALLY FOR LIFE.

Kansas City.—One of the most sensational domestic scandals in the history of the country reached its climax when Mrs. John P. Cudahy secured a divorce from her husband, the son of Michael P. Cudahy, the millionaire Chicago meat packer.

Readers will recall the carving in polite society last spring, when John P. Cudahy, aided by his chauffeur, seized and bound Jere S. Lillis, a banker, whom he found in his house, and cut streaks over his body. Lillis might have been cut to pieces were it not for the appearance of a policeman, who had been summoned by Mrs. Cudahy. Cudahy was arrested and then released in $100 bond. He was never brought to trial and Lillis subsequently went abroad.

The Cudahys then parted and have not met since. A short time ago Cudahy announced that he was going to sue for a divorce, and the wife retorted that she would also institute divorce proceedings. Then nothing further was publicly known of the matter until Mrs. Cudahy filed a petition in the circuit court in Kansas City and was promptly granted a decree, based upon "incompatibility of temper." The whole proceedings lasted only 15 minutes and no defense was interposed by the husband.

The court gave the custody of the four children of the luckless couple to Michael P. Cudahy, their paternal grandfather, and allowed Mrs. Cudahy one dollar in alimony. But a private financial agreement had been previously reached, whereby Mrs. Cudahy will receive $5,000 a year as long as she lives. This money is to be paid to her by Michael P. Cudahy, the packer, and father of "Jack" Cudahy. There are no reservations in that part of the agreement. Should Mrs. Cudahy marry again the $5,000 annually will be forthcoming.

The same agreement provides a fund of $100,000 to be held in trust for the four children. It is to be divided among them equally as they reach the age of maturity. The eldest is now ten years of age. The decree of the court gave the custody of the children to Michael P. and Mary Cudahy, the paternal grandparents.

Relatives of the two families tried to bring about a reconciliation on account of the children, but Mrs. Cudahy absolutely refused to have any negotiation with her husband and lived with her parents until the suit for divorce was brought.

DEER JUMPS INTO CARRIAGE

Frightened Animal Greatly Enlivens a City Man's Vacation in Maine.

Bangor, Me.—Francis F. Mitchell, a New York man, vacationing in Maine, had the surprise of his life, while driving along a road a few miles from here. He was sitting back in the seat enjoying the beautiful scenery when he was startled to see a frightened deer spring from the forest at the roadside and leap into the carriage, falling between the dashboard and the horse.

The latter kicked until the vehicle was demolished. After both the horse and deer had kicked about for three minutes the child of the forest managed to extricate itself and ran back into its retreat, apparently none the worse for its experience.

The story when told was not credited by some, but the eloquent testimony afforded by the wrecked carriage was convincing.

Alarm Clock Ring Is Fatal. Rockford, Ill.—Mrs. Marie Engdahl, who came to Rockford from Sweden recently, was awakened by an alarm clock the other morning, and when she jumped up to shut off the alarm the shock affected her heart and she fell back dead. Her eight-year-old daughter slept with her, and in falling the mother struck the sleeping girl. The latter was almost suffocated before she succeeded in arousing her brothers. Mrs. Engdahl had suffered with heart disease for years, and the awakening by a method new to her was too much for the weakened organ.

RANCHER FOLLOWS WOLVES INTO CAVE

AFTER ONE IS SHOT, INTREPID HUNTER IS SAVAGELY ATTACKED BY ANOTHER.

THREE ARE FINALLY KILLED

Men in Dark Cavern Engage in Rough and Tumble Fight With the Ferocious Beasts Before They Are Shot.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—To crawl into a wolf den with a rifle and fight a life and death battle with gray wolves—those pest of the range—was the experience of George Porch, a rancher, living in the region between the Missouri river and the Black Hills, in western South Dakota.

The gray wolves of that part of the state are unusually large and fierce, and when the region was devoted to cattle raising, it was nothing uncommon for the wolves to attack and kill a half-grown steer. The loss of stockmen from the raids of these pests being greater than from any other cases, not even excepting the fierce storms of winter when great herds of cattle were turned loose on the open range to shift for themselves until spring.

Recently the small ranchers, who have supplanted the big cattlemen, have suffered considerable loss from the depredations of gray wolves, and Porch and four neighbors started to run down and kill the varmints which had been particularly active in killing their cattle and sheep.

The five men came upon the trail of four full-grown wolves, and after following the trail several miles, killed one of them on the open prairie. The other three animals were cornered in a cave. Porch, however, when the party reached the opening to the wolf's den, did not hesitate, but entered the cave after the wolves. He crawled a mile or more into the side of the high bluff before he reached the lair.

It was necessary at times to enlarge the hole which, while large enough to admit of the passage of the wolves was not large enough at some points for a man to pass. One of Porch's companions did a part of this work while engaged in enlarging the passage. Porch suddenly saw ahead of him, in the darkness, six sparkling bright eyes. But there was no stopping short of securing the three wolf pelts which he had set out to capture. Some more rimming out of the hole and he was near enough to fire a shot from his rifle straight into the group of shining wolf eyes ahead of him.

Bang went the rifle and in an instant all was darkness and smoke. Porch's lantern was extinguished by the concussion of the rifle. He re-lighted the lantern and saw the body of one wolf.

As he reached forward to drag out the dead wolf, one of the live ones attacked him, snapping at his arm. The sharp teeth of the animal closed upon his coat sleeve, tearing it and leaving a mark on his arm. A rough and tumble struggle, between Porch, an old cowboy, and the wolf followed. The courage and strength of the old cow-puncher was not lacking and after a fierce battle he overpowered the wolf and then shot it.

The remaining wolf was then attacked and killed by Porch. When the hunter emerged from the wolf den he was covered with grime and dirt and his companions declare they would not have known him elsewhere. By his feat he has won the distinction of being the champion wolf killer of western South Dakota.

Scored Feat in Failing.

Hazleton, Pa.—Hungry Sam Miller, who holds the eating record in Columbia county, has a strong rival in the person of Rocko Levitch of this city.

Levitch made a wager of $26 that he could devour 40 plates of ice cream in one hour. He made a desperate attempt to win the wager, but fell just three plates short.

Levitch has a record for eating and on a recent evening got away with 50 hard-shell crabs and then topped off with a large sirloin steak.

THE GARDEN OF MONTEZUMA

Important Discoveries Made in Beautiful Pleasure Grounds of Early Mexican Rulers.

That an unknown, highly cultured people, of whom neither history, tradition nor legend has preserved any record, flourished in or near the valley of Mexico and enjoyed spiced chocolate and aromatic beverages from transplanted tropical fruits grown by them in a marvelously built garden at Oaxtepec from 1500 to 2000 years ago is the latest theory of Guillermo Tellez regarding the recently discovered garden of Montezuma.

Mr. Tellez applied to the department of public instruction for a special permit to make explorations in the garden. He states that concerning twenty-one successive cactuses on the land with codices in possession of the national museum has led him to believe that the garden has great antiquity.

He has been devoting a large part of four years to studying the plants found there. Through the inscription he has been able to glean historical data concerning twenty-one successive cactuses. Tropical trees, flowers and fruits were transplanted from the isthmus of Tehuantepec and Central America to this garden, and there were grown cocoa, vanilla, parota, yolloxochitl, meacoxochitl and another rare flower which gives off its odor in the night.

These plants and their friends were ingredients of the delicious chocolates which were the favorite beverage of the Aztec lords when Cortes arrived. The garden was visited by Acamapixtli and Ilhucamina, the second named being identical with Montezuma. It is claimed that Montezuma Ilhucamina appropriated this beautiful garden to his personal royal uses and pleasure.

To Conquer Fog Germ.

Many years have been devoted by Sir Oliver Lodge to the study of fogs, with the hope of discovering some means of dispersing them. The distinguished scientist has devised apparatus which is said to indicate that he is on the right path, and more recently he began some extensive experimental researches in Liverpool and afterward at Birmingham, England, but this work has been recently abandoned. The reason is, however, that he found these locations unsuited for the work, as there was not fog enough to answer the purpose of the investigation. It is now proposed to remove the laboratory to London, the center of the fog field, and this would be done at once except that the money available for the work has been exhausted and there is some question as to the direction whence the necessary funds will materialize.

Re-making of Our Bodies.

From the fact that every few years we get a perfectly new body through-out from the continual dying of old body cells and new cells taking their places, thus constantly giving ourselves an entirely new living mantle of flesh, if not a new identity, that which seems surest and most secure to our faculties really waxes and fluctuates with treacherous changes, and we ourselves slide away from ourselves and are none the wiser. While the spirit or inner man stays unchanged in the midst of all this hourly shift and change like a lighthouse in a whirling change of sands and waters, the mind alone of all the man has the power of being constant. Strange we cannot make a single living thing, yet we ourselves are undergoing a form of reconstruction and death every second and all the time.

Not a Glass Child.

They were having a glass of beer on the pavilion when all at once on the walk below there was the sound of crashing glass. They looked and saw that a child of about eight months had fallen prone upon the pavement face down. His mother ran to pick him up.

"He's a glass child," lamented the woman who was drinking the beer, "and he broke himself when he fell."

"No," said the man, and looking again, she found that he was right. It was not the child that was broken, but a large bottle of milk which he had held clasped to his bosom when he fell face down.

Ruby Loses Caste.

There was a time when the ruby was next to the diamond in the estimation of lovers of precious stones. Now it has fallen from its high estate. The reason is that the ruby, like the sapphire, can be imitated so closely that even experts cannot discriminate between the real gem and the imitation. The greatest sufferer by this is said to be the Czar of Russia, who owns the finest collection of rubies in the world. The St. Petersburg court jewelers estimate the loss in value of the Czar's rubies at $4,000,000. Some time ago he tried to take out a policy of insurance on them, but no company would accept the risk.

A Misunderstood Genius.

Mischa Ellman, the boy violinist, told on his last visit to New York a story of his early childhood.

"When I was very small indeed," he said, "I played at a reception at a Russian prince's, and, for an urchin of seven, I flatter myself I rattled off Beethoven's 'Kreutzer Sonata' finely. This sonata, you know, has in it several long and impressive rests. Well, in one of these rests a motherly old lady leaned forward, patted my shoulder, and said:

"Play something you know, dear."

Censure and Comment

The editorial in the News of last week entitled "The Aldermans Pay" created considerable comment, both favorable and unfavorable. The main reason for this editorial was to make plain that persons who sacrifice their time in doing work for the public faithfully and honestly should not be compelled to pay for the privilege of doing it. In favoring the raise of the alderman pay we do not have in mind the present council alone but any body of men who are offering their services to this city or any other city the size of Holland. For instance members of the board of public works who spend night after night looking after the cities interest are not being paid one penny for their time and labors or even for small expenses incurred incident to holding the office. The News holds that this body of men as well as the council members should also receive compensation for their work. Their remuneration should be on a par with the council members and in revising the charter. The city fathers should inculcate this clause in their revised charter. What is the use of being niggardly about these matters. Very few towns are found of the size of Holland who scrape to the bone as does Holland. Our policy is not one of extravagance but it also is not of a "penny wise and found foolish" sort. No matter if a man is blessed with this worlds goods there are few who wish to go down in their pockets and foot the bills of expense incurred, by a good Alderman or a good member of the board of public works and we can certainly say we have several good ones.

State Convention Opens

The conflict seeming imminent over the choice by the central committee of a secretary at the Republican State convention held today at Detroit, has been amicably settled by an agreement that Paul H. King shall be secretary and Nicholas J. Whelan shall be field secretary and in charge of the speakers. W. Frank Knox from the Soo will have no opposition for the chairmanship of the state central committee, in the place of Congressman Diekema who has resigned.

Mr. Diekema opened the convention this morning with the following address:

Gentlemen of the Convention:

For ten years it has been my proud privilege to call to order the representative Republicans of the state in convention assembled for the purpose of nominating a winning ticket.

Sometimes I have performed this pleasant task when the greatest harmony prevailed within our ranks, when platform and candidates were agreed upon by a nearly unanimous vote, and then again, the call to order has been the signal for the fiercest conflicts; but the results of the deliberations have always been crowned with triumphant victory at the polls.

Today the waves upon the political sea are turbulent. We can see the whitecaps and hear the pounding of the breakers upon the beach. Personally I do not regret it, for agitation produces education, and I have unlimited faith in the wisdom of the people to finally discern truth from falsehood, fact from fancy, and to separate the wheat from the chaff.

The Republican party has nothing to fear from agitation and education, but everything from stagnation.

We are told by the great apostle of love how in the ancient city of Jerusalem there was the pool of Bethesda, with healing in its waters; but it was only when an angel came down to trouble the waters that cures were effected; and so I believe the present troubling of the political waters is for the healing of the nation.

Agitation and progress are synonymous words in American political history, and the great party of progress to which we belong has won its most substantial victories through fiercest conflicts.

Is there an American so dull and blind that he cannot discern the writing of the finger of progress upon every line of human endeavor for the past fifty years? If so, he should have his thinking machinery overhauled and the cobwebs swept from his eyes. Politically this splendid record of progress is but the history of our party.

Each generation must settle its own problems, and ours are momentous, for upon their correct solution depend not only the future happiness of our own people, but the hope of earth's liberty-loving of every race and clime.

The protective tariff question, all important as it is to American labor and capital is not the only great present problem, for through the maximum and minimum provision of the new law, guaranteeing us equal opportunities with other nations in foreign markets, and the Tariff Board or Commission to correctly ascertain the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, the rule for the solution of the problem has been found, and it will need only honesty and integrity in the application of the rule to work out the problem.

The conservation of our natural resources, important as it is, is not the great present problem, for nearly all thinking people have united upon the principle, and the present conflict is practically limited to the selecting of the best methods, state and federal, for working out the principle.

One of the great present problems is whether this great Republic of the West, this majestic temple of human liberty, dedicated through the blood of the fathers to freedom, shall continue to be a government of the people, by the people and for the people, a government of free men, a true democracy, with equal rights for all and special privileges for none, or whether, through unbridled greed, centralization and monopoly, it shall become a plutocracy, an oligarchy of wealth.

It was not personal ambition, not love of notoriety, not lust for power which sent Theodore Roosevelt like a burning torch through the West. It was a realization of the magnitude of this great problem and a burning zeal for the rights of the many against the few which drove him on.

The Republican party has the wisdom, courage, patriotism and statesmanship to solve the problem. It has never yet failed the people in an emergency and will not now. It possesses the highest order of constructive genius and loves a difficult task. Already the path has been blazed, already effective governmental regulation of the great interstate commerce carrying agencies has been effected; rich and poor violators of the law are being punished with the same relentless energy. Our faces are firmly set in the right direction and more will follow. To turn aside for relief at this moment to a party of negation and obstruction would be a calamity.

The God of nations, who has never yet forsaken this favored land, has in His wisdom and mercy given us two of the world's greatest men to help solve this problem. They are as opposite as the poles in methods, but they are absolutely alike in essential aim and purpose. The one has aroused the public conscience, has revealed great national sins, has stimulated courage and patriotism, and, like the ancient prophets, has preached repentance and reform. The other has used his powerful influence to crystallize into permanent law these reforms which his advice and work helped to produce, in order that the receding wave might not rob the people of permanent advance. Without the one the work of the other would be incomplete or impossible. Then here's to the greatest of the world's great—William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt.

Under their leadership the Republic is safe, the solution of the problem is sure, and the triumph of true democracy inevitable.

You will not, I am sure, mistake the foam and frenzy of the waves for the irresistible undercurrent of public opinion, nor yet will you allow the stagnation of non-progressive standpatism to deaden the party. There must be no halting, no marking of time, no retracing of steps. Forward to greater achievements and added victories must be the watchword.

You will endorse the wisdom, courage and patriotism, and the splendid record of unparalleled achievements of President Taft.

You will praise the work of Congress for writing into law the party's platform pledges.

You will not forget the old cardinal doctrines of the Republican faith as you behold the watchfires kindled upon the hills of progress.

You will not allow irresponsible individualism to be substituted for efficient party organization, which alone can produce lasting beneficial results in a Republic like ours.

You already feel through your veins the thrill of enthusiasm which has come from the nomination for Governor of the fearless man, whom I can give no higher praise than by saying that he is every inch worthy of this exalted position, the Honorable Chase S. Osborn.

You will follow with faith and courage the banners of the strong young knight, who comes from under the very shadow of the oaks at Jackson, and whom you have selected to wear Michigan's stainless senatorial toga, the Honorable Charles E. Townsend.

With such inspiring leaders, with such high ideals, and with such invincible principles, I can best close in the language of another, "Up, guards, and at them."

You Can't Beat the Dutch

A prominent Ottawa county politician who during the recent primary campaign traveled the county from one end to the other stated that in his opinion three-fourths of the voters of the county, today, are Holland-Americans. All through the county the politicians found the Holland vote the big vote except in the northern part. The Dutch invasion of the past fifteen years has been a march through the more northern townships from the seat of original Dutch settlement in Holland and Zeeland, Jamestown long since became a Dutch township. The farms of Blendon are nine tenths in the hands of the dutch and the descendants of old Netherlands have supplanted the Germans who use to be strong there. Georgetown too is largely Hollander. In Allendale and Tallmadge is where the Dutch invasion is noticed particularly. 20 years ago the old yankee families were still in a majority there. Today the Hollanders control. Polkton too, has many Hollanders, although they are not as numerous there as yet as in the township to the south, but it is a fact that whenever a farm is sold in that section it is a Holland family that buys it. All through the Holland settlement you will find the finest kept of farms, and a thrifty, hard, progressive law abiding people who make the best kind of American citizens, and who are far less clannish than many other former Europeans. Grand Haven Tribune.

Hans Dykhuus is New Deputy

Hans Dykhuus, who for the last two years has been a member of the Holland life saving crew, has been appointed as one of Sheriff Andre's working deputies, and will leave the service of Uncle Sam to go on duty at the county jail within a short time. The announcement of the appointment of Mr. Dykhuus was made public by the sheriff. Mr. Andre in explaining the appointment stated that another man was needed at the jail, since the resignation of H. K. Bouma and he believed that Hans would be just the man for the job.

The new deputy is an officer of tried experience and he seems to be naturally a police officer. He served eight years on the sheriff's force during the time his father, Henry J. Dykhuus held the office, and during the latter part of the term, he served as under sheriff and working deputy. During that time he distinguished himself through the capture of William Wilson, who had shot the sheriff and made a break from the jail. Wilson would have escaped had Hans not pursued him and pounced upon him after a lively gun battle.

He was a candidate for sheriff after his father's term expired and was beaten for the nomination in the convention by Jesse G. Woodbury after a hot fight. He moved to Holland and after working several years for the city, went into the life saving service, a very natural move for the some of a sailor.

His appointment to the deputyship at this time may have some bearing upon the political situation of two years hence. Hans has always had aspirations to become sheriff of Ottawa county and it is believed by many of the wise ones that his appointment to the sheriff's force at this time is going to put him directly in line for the job when Sheriff Andre's term expires.

Seals in Great Lakes

That sealskin coat that Mrs. Neighbor is wearing may be only dyed muskrat skins, or some other fur doctored to make it look like the royal seal, but in a few years it may be possible for all the little neighbors to have real seal caps and gloves and coats. The seal in Alaskan waters is rapidly becoming extinct. Originally they numbered some 5,000,000 head, but today, by the most frantic searching, only 170,000 can be found. Incidentally the United States has received some $2,000,000 more in hunting licenses than the original purchase price of the great territory.

The rapid disappearance of the seal herds has troubled the government authorities for years and they have terminated all contracts with the seal hunters to give the animals a chance to multiply.

In the meantime, however, the Bureau of Fisheries wants to help things along. For some time it has been experimenting with raising baby seals in fresh water, the officials are now convinced that seals do not require either the icy waters of Alaska or the salty waves of the ocean. George M. Bowers, Fish Commissioner, insists that it is possible to raise seals in the Great Lakes, especially in Lake Superior and in the other large and cold fresh water lakes of the north, and that he is going to do the job.

$1,200 in a Tomato Can Bank

Gelmer Kuiper of Grand Rapids, claim attorney for the Pere Marquette railway company, was in Allegan and agreed upon a settlement for the destruction of the barns and their contents belonging to Palmer Cook, in a fire which took place the 19th day of last March. The amount which the company will pay Mr. Cook is $5,000, and O. S. Cross, Mr. Cook's representative, expects a draft for that amount shortly. The settlement was largely due to Mr. Cook's wishes. He realizes that he is of advanced years—he is eighty-four—and his wife is very feeble. They are fearful that a trial would draw heavily upon their strength, and therefore preferred to accept less than the actual amount of their loss rather than enter a legal fight. The amount claimed by Cook and his attorney was $8,000, but the actual loss he sustained was but a few dollars more than $7,000. This included the $1,200 in cash which went up in the smoke in the tomato-can bank in one of the barns. He collected from insurance companies about $1,700 and from the $5,000 he will have to pay to those companies about five eighths of the $1,700. Wilkes & Stone represented the insurance companies in the settlement. So, when all matters are closed, and the attorneys paid. Mr. Cook will have less than $3,000 of the settlement money. Mr. Cross regretted the settlement and wished to fight for the full amount of the loss, but Cook's eyesight and his wife's failing condition made the settlement advisable. There is no doubt about the guilt of the Pere Marquette company. Sufficient evidence to convict them of gross neglect and direct responsibility was a quantity of cinders and coals picked up in the wheatfield the day after the fire and in the spot where the flames originated. They were carefully preserved and would alone have won the case for Cook.

RATS WERE FRIENDLY WITH GAYNOR'S WOULD-BE SLAYER

HOW GALLAGHER MADE PETS OF SWARMING, LONG-TAILED DOCK RODENTS.

New York.—Inquiry into the life of James J. Gallagher, the man who attempted to murder Mayor Gaynor, reveals him as one of the queerest and most uncanny criminals who have ever fallen into the hands of the police. Superficially a man of religious devotion, who has the appearance of intelligence, he is shown to be under the surface a person with a weird domination over rats and other detestable rodents. He was constantly at war with his fellow workers, although he sought every assistance from them—a man of whimsical humor and yet murderously morbid. Not in all the years of his life in New York did he make a sincere friend, but he drew solace in his companionship with rats.

His character as unfolded shows him to be a person of moods that governed him for days; of habits that predominated his life. His was an ego exaggerated to the utmost, and because of his feelings of superiority he made himself universally despised and a subject for mockery. Despite his unpopularity Gallagher viewed his social ostracism as a joke and through utter perverseness would demonstrate his strange power over animals.

For this trait he was feared when he worked in the appraisers' stores as an opener and packer in 1893. Gallagher was appointed in that year and often boasted that political pull had led to his selection from the third grade list of the custom house.

The old stores building was overrun with rats and they were the one abomination of the men uncrating and wrapping the stores. They possessed no terrors for Gallagher, however. He delighted in their coming. He often demonstrated his peculiar command of his voice to his fellow laborers and seemed to get any call he desired from the throat region.

One day the tide drove many of the dock rats among the barrels and boxes in the stores office. They ran for shelter to the heaps of wool in the section where Gallagher was working, and in fright the packers deserted the room. The stocky Gallagher laughed at their alarm and pursued the rats into the wool piles. They were about to attack him when a weird call issued from his throat.

His fellow workers looking in upon him saw the rats gather about him with squeals of affection that sounded similar to the noise that Gallagher made. They crept upon him from all sides. He stroked the rodents as he continued the chuckle and they climbed all over him. Many of the rats, fattened on the refuse that had been thrown from the stores, were almost the size of cats and aggressive ly fierce.

Gallagher gave no need to their size or appearance. He coddled them and let them nestle in his arms. They ran about his neck and down the back of his coat. He tweaked their long tails, but they did not bite him, and he performed other minor cruelties that would ordinarily have provoked the rodents to sink their teeth in him, but they made no move to hurt the laborer. Their tails swished across his face, but he only laughed between his intermittent calls.

He finally put the rats away from him, but to horrify the other men he called them back every noon hour with the same throaty cry. They came through cracks in the floor and from holes in the wall. His summons was irresistible. To shock his fellows, almost to nausea he permitted the rats to nibble the food he held between his lips. The men appealed to him to stop, but he laughed at them.

"They are lovable animals," he often told his companions. "The rat is much misunderstood. You must greet him with his own love call and he will never harm you."

On occasions when other men in the rooms were bitten by the rats, resulting ultimately in blood poisoning, he laughed in apparent delight, and, to show his own control of the rodents, gathered them about him in scores.

"The Pied Piper of Hamelin was a man of my own type," boasted Gallagher. "He could make the rats come from their hiding places, but I am superior to him. He used a flute; I have nothing but my throat to win them."

When the situation finally became unbearable recourse was had to the officials, and in 1897 Gallagher was driven from his position. He had been guilty of another offense, but the opportunity to leave the appraisers' stores honorably was given to him.

Treble Clef Club planning to Give Concert at Grand Haven

Within the last few days the Treble Clef Club has been negotiating with Dr. DeKlein, who was instrumental in giving the Wagner's an opportunity of being heard in Grand Haven. Dr. DeKlein, it is said, is eager to introduce Holland's Ladies Chorus to the people of this city.

Owing to the splendid impression made by the Wagners, Grand Haven expectancy has soared to a high pitch, for the Treble Clef Club has received extraordinary praise for its artistic work, and we hope the people of our sister city may have an opportunity to hear this splendid chorus. Should the deal be closed, a special train will be chartered, affording many who undoubtedly wish to accompany the club, the privilege of attending the concert.

The program will include some of the new selections recently added to the clubs repertoire, and together with some of the older numbers, the concert promises to be a repetition of the former excellence.

Infant Mortality Increasing

The department of state has received reports of 3,587 deaths as occurring during the month of August, or 509 more deaths than were returned for the month of July. It is stated that the increase is due to the large number of deaths of children under two years of age, and the unusually large number of deaths from typhoid fever, which is somewhat surprising in view of the efforts of the state food and dairy department to check the inroads of typhoid fever and save the little children by a more careful inspection of the milk supply this year than ever before.

There were 5,197 certificates of births returned to the state department as having occurred during the month of August.

At the Majestic

The author is himself a native of Kentucky and has written of a people whom he has known and lived among all his life.

Schuiling-DeBruyn

A very pretty wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents on W. 8th street when Mary De Bruyn was united in marriage to George Schuiling, who is employed by the G. R. H. & C. Ry. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. J. Veltman, the ring service being used. A reception was given in the evening in the G. A. R. Hall. A very pleasant time was reported by all who attended.

Saugatuck Boat Disabled

The trim little steamer Liberty, owned by the Crawford Trans. company, was towed into the St. Joseph port Tuesday by the fishing tug Edward K., answering the signal of distress sent out by the steamer.

The steamer left Saugatuck with a load of fruit and a few passengers and a few miles off port broke some of the keys and gibs causing the piston to be shoved through the cylinder, disabling the machinery and putting the boat completely out of commission. The only thing the crew could do was to let her drift until the signals of distress could be heard by some passing boat, and the first craft to offer assistance was the Edward K.

While the damage is not very great it will take some time to make repairs. The fruit was transferred and taken on to the Chicago market.

Steam Barge Destroyed by Fire

The steam barge Frank L. Vance until recently owned by Vance & Joys of Milwaukee, was totally destroyed by fire on Lake Michigan 35 miles off Ludington Tuesday morning. The crew of the doomed ship was taken off by the steam barge Maggie Marshall which stood by the burning Vance until the crew was forced to leave. The first news of the trouble reached the shore through a wireless message from the Pere Marquette No. 19 which steamer had discovered the Vance in trouble and had gone to the rescue at once. The Maggie Marshall was then along side and both boats did all possible to assist the distressed steamer until Capt. Rand of the Vance advised the commander of the No. 19 to proceed on his course as there was nothing more to be done.

The car ferry started away and the last report from her wireless operator reported that the crew of the Vance were being taken off by the Maggie Marshall.

The Vance had a cargo of coal and the fire which destroyed her, broke out in the hold, gaining such headway that neither her own pumps or those of the Maggie Marshall could control it. Fortunately for the crew help was near and the entire ship's company of the Vance was saved.

The steamer was so thoroughly burned, however, that she sank a total loss. The ill-fated Steamer was sold by Vance & Joys to a Milwaukee stock Co. of which Mr. Rand, her master, was the executive shareholder. The Vance was one of the best known of the Lake Michigan barges.

Medal for Bravery

After waiting 32 years James Cummings of Custer City, Mich., has been awarded a medal for bravery in the rescue of several lives during a very severe storm at Ludington Bay in 1878.

During November of that year Lake Michigan was storm lashed and the grain laden vessel J. R. Rutter could not make port. So violent was the storm that the life saving crew at Ludington could not launch a boat. The United States tug "Colonial" was moored at the dock. Captain Fred Kendrick, who now resides at Grand Haven, and Cummings, the boat's engineer took their boat to the rescue, bringing 75 men into harbor safely.

Kendrick was soon after given a gold medal but Cummings was overlooked. Through the efforts of J. C. McLaughlin, congressman from this district, the matter was recently taken up at Washington. With the gold medal which is appropriately lettered, the secretary of the treasury sent a letter reciting the bravery of the engineer and captain.

HOW THE MEDIUMS FOOL THE PEOPLE

THEIR SO-CALLED MANIFESTATIONS ARE NOTHING BUT INGENIOUS TRICKS.

ARE DIFFICULT TO DETECT

Takes an Expert to Tell How the "Spiritual Phenomena" Deception is Practised—Much That Everybody Wants to Know.

New York.—Hereward Carrington, investigator of spiritualistic phenomena, gave what he called an "expose" of the methods of mediums the other afternoon in the Berkeley theater.

The audience was treated to manifestations of the ordinary seance, including slate writing, bell ringing, table levitation and finally a materialization, all of which manifestations he afterwards explained.

Mrs. Carrington introduced the audience into the proper atmosphere by playing the piano, and the hall was darkened, the red curtains parted, and the stage was disclosed set for a seance.

First, Mr. Carrington took an ordinary wax hand, made to resemble the human hand, with a cuff and part of the coat cut off just above the wrist. He placed this on a piece of glass supported by four tumblers on an ordinary table. He then retired to the further corner of the stage and asked the hand questions which could be answered by rappings. The hand tipped and rapped. The audience was mystified until Mr. Carrington explained that by means of a black thread from the cabinet to the hand of his assistant the hand, which was finely balanced, could be easily tipped.

A glass bell was rung by a somewhat similar contrivance. Mr. Carrington held the bell close to Daniel Frohman, who sat in a box, but that manager was unable to detect any trickery, although the bell was ringing at the time.

Mr. Carrington then placed a mandolin, a bell and a tambourine on a table. He held a red handkerchief in front of these. Both of his hands seemed to be visible, holding the handkerchief, yet the bell was hurled over the top with great violence, the strings of the mandolin were twanged and the tambourine was shaken.

All this was explained when Mr. Carrington exposed the back of the handkerchief. A wooden rod held in his left hand held the handkerchief in position, and at the other corner the simulated fingers of a wooden hand appeared. His right hand was free.

A large oak table placed in the center of the room was raised three feet from the floor and then dropped. A smaller table even performed evolutions in the air guided by Mr. Carrington's hand. A delicate piece of wire was found connected to the table and twisted around one of the medium's fingers.

The larger table was moved first with hooks attached to the wrist and placed under the table while the hands were above, and later by hooks protruding from under his waistcoat.

In these table levitations Mr. Carrington was assisted by a confederate, as he explained mediums generally are. He said that with hooks protruding from the waistcoat supported by straps from over the shoulders that a table with a man on it could be lifted. Other methods, he said, were used by some mediums, but this was the most common.

The slate writing mystified the audience to some extent until Mr. Carrington explained. One trick of slate writing that was dazzling was too trivial to be interesting when shown up. The performer then sat at a table and materialized a baby's hand, which gradually rose over the top of the table. It was later discovered that this hand was attached to Mr. Carrington's foot.

In utter darkness Mr. Carrington then retired to a cabinet and materialized a Turk out of misty whiteness. The effect was startling until Mr. Carrington did the same thing with all the lights on. Then it seemed easy to do with a false mustache and a piece of cheese cloth covered with phosphorus.

THE RECKONING HOUR
Matthew 25:14-30—October 9

"His Lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

THIS study follows the one of last week. It also illustrates the fact that Messiah at his Second Advent, before appearing to the world in power and great glory and in the time of trouble, will be present amongst his consecrated people and many of them will know of his parousia, or "presence," in this time. He will do amongst them a judging work—deciding their rewards in proportion to their faithfulness. It is well that we keep in memory the difference between the parable of the pounds and the parable of the talents. Both represented money. But a talent is sixty times as valuable as a pound. In the parable of the pound each servant got one pound, but in the parable of the talents the numbers given varied. In some respects all of God's people have one common footing and common privilege of service, as represented by the pound. In another respect their opportunities, privileges and advantages vary, as represented in the present study, the parable of the talents.

This is another parable of the Kingdom. The Great Teacher himself went into the far country, even heaven; but before departing he delivered unto his servants certain blessings, privileges, opportunities—"to each according to his several abilities." The beginning of this parable was in the days of the Apostles when Jesus ascended up on high and at Pentecost shed forth in the Father's name the holy spirit, communicating a blessing upon each one of his followers, as represented in the talents and opportunities of each follower. All through this Gospel Age these servants have been making more or less use of their privileges and more or less wisely exercising themselves to serve the Master. Some traded with their talents, or used them in preaching, teaching, etc. And others hid them in the earth, perhaps under cares and responsibilities. After a long time the Lord of these servants cometh and reckoneth with them. This long time is this Gospel Age, and the presence of the King in the end of the Age to hear the report of his servants and to reward them represents the parousia (or presence) of Messiah and his testing, sifting work in his Church. We should distinctly note that this testing and proving is not of the world, for Christ never recognized any as his servants, except the consecrated. Many Christian people believe that we are now in the time when the servants of the Lord are rendering up their accounts, and when he is saying to some, "Well done, good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord," and when he is saying to others, "Thou wicked and slothful servant . . . take ye away, therefore, the talent from him, and give it unto him that hath the ten talents." All of this testing and rewarding of the servants of Christ is manifestly prior to any outward manifestation of the King in his glory, because the worthy ones are to share with the Master in his glorious manifestation and this testing must demonstrate the worthy ones, in advance of the revelation in glory.

The one who had received five talents and used them wisely, energetically, faithfully, loyally, doubled them and was invited to share in the Master's joy and glory. His reward would be to sit as a ruler of many. In other words, the service of the present life is but an insignificant one in comparison to the glorious service which awaits the Lord's faithful people in the future—when they shall sit with Messiah in his Throne and, as kings and priests, bless and instruct and uplift and control Israel and all the nations of the world. The approval of the one who was given two talents and who was equally faithful, was in equally kind and benevolent terms. He also was a good and faithful servant over a few things; he also would be set as a ruler over many things; he also might enter into the joy of his Lord. The servant who failed to use his talent was branded as wicked and slothful. He knew in advance that the talent was given him for use and because he had professed to be a faithful servant. His failure to use the talent proved him disloyal, unfaithful. He lost the talent. It is not for us to say that the Lord will have no blessing for that unfaithful servant. He was a servant all the time. He respected the talent. He did not lose it. But he did not use it properly. He seems to represent a very similar class to the one described in our study of a week ago as the foolish virgins. This class will fail to get into the glories of the Kingdom, but will surely get into the time of trouble and its outer darkness, disappointment and chagrin, with which this Age will end and the New Age be ushered in. The Lord grant that this lesson may help some of the Lord's consecrated servants to be more helpful, more careful, in the use of their consecrated talents, that they may glorify the Lord and hear his "Well done" in the end!

One difficulty with many of us in the past has been fear of the Master. We should have gotten better acquainted with him. We should have learned more respecting his real, true character and his purposes. If now the eyes of our understanding are opening, if now we are seeing the beauty of our talents and privileges of service as never before, let us quickly dig the talent out and wash it free from all soil of the earth and use it earnestly, zealously, vigorously, for the praise of our King, redeeming the time, knowing that the days are unfavorable. Even now we may show our Lord that we are getting awake to the great privilege and enjoyment of being his servants and mouthpieces and that we will delight, at any cost, to show forth the praises of "him who has called us out of darkness into his marvelous light."

On Friday night of last week Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Post was presented with a bouncing boy.

On Wednesday evening a second attempt was made to organize a Garfield and Arthur Club. About twenty men of the one hundred and thirty who signed a paper, purporting to show their willingness to become members, met at Lyceum Hall on the evening mentioned. After some parleying Mr. P. H. McBride was elected temporary chairman and Mr. W. H. Finch, secretary. After some more short speeches and propositions Mr. W. H. Finch was elected chairman of the club and Mr. I. Verwey, secretary. A committee was then appointed to draft a constitution and by laws and to report at the next meeting which will be held on Tuesday evening next. It was the general remark that it seems to be such an "up-hill" job, this time, to organize a club. "What can the matter be?"

Hon. Geo. A. Farr, of Grand Haven, was renominated by the Republicans for State Senator from the 26th district, and Hon. Lyman G. Mason, of Muskegon, was nominated by the Democrats for the same office.

The steamer Alpena arrived on Wednesday morning at Grand Haven, about 8 o'clock, after a very rough passage from Chicago. Crossing the bar a heavy sea ran up under her port wheel and stove in the bulkhead back of the paddle-box, filling the after part of the deck with water, which caused the boat to list over so that the starboard wheel could not touch the water. Considerable damage to goods was done by water entering the lower cabin, and washing some baggage and other light articles overboard but besides this and scaring a lot of passengers rather badly, no serious injury was done to the boat, or any person on board of her.

Capt. Pabst, the millionaire brewer of Milwaukee, has decided to build a fleet of three of the finest passenger boats afloat on Lake Michigan. The boats will cost over $1,000,000 and will be in point of speed and furnishings excelled by no boats on the ocean or the lakes. They will be of steel throughout, and will be over 300 feet in length. They will have a speed of twenty miles an hour. The interiors will be finished in mahogany. They will run between Chicago, Milwaukee, and MacKinaw. No money will be spared in making the boats the finest afloat. They will not be as large as ocean steamers, but in point of finish and elegance he declares that the steamers will excel anything that enters New York Harbor. They will be built like the ocean steamers City of Paris and City of New York and the furnishings and finish will be rich.

While unloading potatoes from his wagon in a box car, on the Fifth street switch the spring seat on the wagon tipped over and scared the young team. They started on a full run and rushed head-long from Harrington's dock into Black Lake, wagon, potatoes and all. The horses were drowned before anyone could rescue them.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to burglarize Den Herder's bank at Zeeland last Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. The attempt was not discovered until the clerks went to work this morning. A powerful explosive was used in forcing a way through the vault. The safe is of peculiar construction being of the screw door style and it completely baffled the robbers. Though the vault was wrecked the strong box was not opened and no money was taken. The burglars escaped on a hand car to Waverly from which place it is suspected they boarded a freight train for Grand Rapids or Chicago. Sheriff Van Ry and Deputy sheriff Ford are working on the case but thus far no definite clew has been obtained. The safe was crippled to such an extent that the bankers themselves could not reach the money and it was necessary to telegraph to Boston for an expert. The safe cost $1,100 and was insured against damage by burglars. The same bank was robbed a year ago, the thieves securing between $3,000 and $4,000.

William Rosendahl, of 23 West Second street was killed about 11:45 this forenoon while working in the roller mills of the Walsh-De Roo Milling Company.

Death was the result of a terrible accident. Nobody knows just when it occurred as it was probably an hour after that his lifeless body was found.

A sensational and daring burglary was committed in this city between the hour of midnight Saturday and 6 o'clock Sunday morning. The Citizens Telephone company office was entered and money and checks to the value of $60 were taken.

To accomplish their work the burglars chloroformed Will Kellogg the night operator. Mr. Kellogg retired about eleven o'clock Saturday night. When Miss Estelle Scott, one of the day operators arrived at the office about 8:40 Sunday morning she noticed that several of the numbers on the switch board were down. Thinking this rather strange she looked around for Mr. Kellogg and saw that he was lying on the bed apparently sleeping.

Thinking he was shamming, for a joke, she went to rouse him but could not. She then pulled his head toward the edge of the bed when she discovered that froth was oozing from his mouth and the pillow was also covered with froth. Miss Scott was alarmed and summoned Dr. Cook who has his office in the same block. Dr. Cook saw that Mr. Kellogg was suffering from the effects of chloroform and immediately applied restoratives. Assisted by Will D. Bosman who arrived with him, the Doctor succeeded in restoring Mr. Kellogg to consciousness after 25 minutes of brisk work.

The patient was in a dazed condition for some time but as soon as he was fully aroused those present investigated the offices and found strong evidence that a clever burglary had been committed. On the floor was a bottle that originally contained chloroform and an empty can that had been filled with ether. A ladies handkerchief saturated with those drugs was found on the bed. It was discovered upon investigation that the ether was taken from Dr. Cook's office and the chloroform bottle looked as if it had been carried in some one's pocket for some time.

In all parts of the telephone office were found evidences of the intruders. The drawers of the office desk were opened, Mr. Kellogg's clothes were scattered about and the night call bell was torn from the wall.

The burglars showed their nerve by taking Mr. Kellogg's diamond ring from his finger. Money belonging to Mr. Kellogg and checks and money belonging to the telephone company, the whole amounting to about $60 were taken.

Mr. Kellogg's watch and some silver money were overlooked by the thieves. The watch was in the vest pocket of Kellogg's Sunday suit and the thieves evidently did not think of looking for it there as Mr. Kellogg had changed suits that night previous and the only pockets rifled were those of his light colored every day suit.

The law office of Geo. E. Kollen on the same floor was entered the same night and an attempt was made to open the safe. A hole was bored in the lock but the attempt to break the safe was unsuccessful. A pair of kid gloves were taken from Mr. Kollen's overcoat which hung in the office.

The thieves tried to enter J. A. Vander Veen's hardware store. Holes were bored in the back door, but the thieves were presumably frightened away before they finished their work. Will Bosman sleeps in the same block and as he was up and moving about his room after midnight it is supposed that he frightened the burglars away.

Thus far no clue has been found. W. H. Orr, manager of the Citizens Telephone company, has offered a reward of $50 for the apprehension of the guilty parties and Marshal Dykhuys and Detective Ford are working on the case.

The burglars took desperate chances as Mr. Kellogg came nearly losing his life from the effects of the chloroform and ether, and if death had resulted, the burglars if caught would have to answer to the charge of murder.

MADE FAMOUS BY DICKENS WAYS OF MIDDLEAGED MAN

Places Are Hardly Discoverable as One by One They Have Undergone Changes.

One by one the places made famous by Charles Dickens have undergone such changes that they are hardly discoverable. The rookeries in Tabard street, Southwark borough, among the last of these places are now being closed up and very soon this characteristic place of Dickens-land in London will have passed away, the "housing committee" having determined for sanitary reasons that it must be obliterated. The Church of St. George the Martyr, which stands at one end of the street, is the house of worship immortalized as Little Dorrit's church, and on this account is visited every year by thousands of American admirers of the great novelist. Near the other end of the street was the Marshalsea prison for debtors, where Little Dorrit's father, a man with "a mild voice, curling hair and irresolute hands," as the years passed by became gray-haired and venerable and was known as "the father of the Marshalsea," a title which he grew to be ridiculously vain. And this character (much of the color of which Dickens is said to have taken from that of his own father) is one of the most pathetic in any of his novels. But the medical officer for the district says it has long had a wicked reputation, and London cannot allow such a degraded and unhealthy spot to remain, no matter what its romantic and historic interest. Long before the days of Dickens this corner of Southwark was known as the hiding place of highwaymen and debtors of the worst description.

NEW POWERFUL MICROSCOPE

Enormous Magnification Is Attained Without Former Blemishes Due to Optical Causes.

There has been exhibited before the Royal society of London a form of microscope, the invention of Professor Gordon, by means of which enormous magnification of an object can, it is stated, be attained without the blemishes due to optical causes that formerly marred such images.

We may suppose that the enlarged image of an object is received from a microscopic lens upon a ground glass focusing screen, and that then another microscope is employed still further to enlarge the image so formed. This is, of course, quite feasible, but the grain of the glass would be magnified together with the image and would vitiate the result. Professor Gordon uses a translucent screen of the finest possible texture, and he causes it to be kept in constant motion while the object is being viewed or photographed. By this means the grain of the screen is eliminated and the greatly magnified image of the object alone seen. Specimens magnified to the extent of ten thousand diameters were shown as proofs of the efficacy of the method adopted.—Harper's Weekly.

Thibetan Trickster.

Fraud nestles even on the "roof of the world." In other words, the unsophisticated Thibetan does little cheating on his own account. He is almost the sole purveyor of all mink. It is sold at something like a dozen times its weight in silver, so one would think the scent would be pure. But this is far from the case. It is always sold in "pockets," and the vendors will not allow an examination by the buyer other than touch. But by this means he is unable to determine upon the purity, and it frequently happens that the vendor has adulterated his merchandise with amidon, peas, beans, potatoes, mixed with blood, the yolk of eggs, pounded in a mortar until it resembles mink.

The Barber in History.

Lovers of history will readily recall the influence possessed by the barber-valet and confidant of Louis XI of France, Olivier le Dain, and perhaps less easily the name of Nicholas Stagebeck, who gained a like influence with Christian II of Denmark; while there is no doubt that many other men in the calling have been on the most friendly terms with their famous customers who enjoyed their discourse and did not disdain their advice, like the barber of Montbard, in Burgundy, who, to the end of his days, boasted that on one memorable morning he had shaved before breakfast "three men capable of ruling a world." Messrs. Buffon, Rousseau and Voltaire.

A Wonderful Dog.

A government official in Bavaria connected with the forestry department has a wonderful dog, which is as clever at climbing trees as a cat. If his master fastens a handkerchief up in the tree-tops the animal will clamber up after it in the nimblest way, and never fails to bring it down. He was taught by his mother, who was famous as a tree climber. The clever animal has won several medals by his extraordinary talent, and takes particular delight in climbing silver birches—not the easiest tree in the world to scale, for the trunk is particularly smooth and slippery.—Wide World.

Invitations to the Party.

"What is the idea of this new political party they are talking about?" asked the studious woman. "I don't know," replied Miss Cayenne, "but I suspect it is to be like some of the parties with which we are familiar—gotten up for the purpose of snubbing somebody."

He Finds His Greatest Happiness in a Life That to Youth Is Iridescent.

"Younger people," said the middle-aged man, "want variety, they want to be always on the go. Routine galls them; they hate to have to do the same thing over and over and over again day after day.

"They want to go somewhere or do something different all the time. Older people are happiest in a life of routine, most disturbed when variety is thrust upon them.

"For myself I welcome my daily task, endlessly repeated and always the same. I should be lost without it, disturbed if it were changed. A life of habit suits me best. I like the old scenes, familiar, friendly surroundings. I don't want to change.

"Nor do I want much outside pleasure. In fact I think I should be best suited with none. I like my groove; it fits me and I fit it. I don't want change. I just want to be left alone, to work in my accustomed ways. It is in my groove that I am most comfortable. I like a life of labor and routine.

"And could there come to one a greater blessing. Nature and the customs of men enforce routine upon us whether we like it or not. In youth this irks us, but in our maturer years in a life of routine, in the undisturbed enjoyment of a familiar labor we may find our greatest happiness."

NAUTICAL ALMANAC FIGURES

Great Care Exercised in Preparing Tables for the Guidance of the Sailor.

It may be safely said that no one outside the publishing office has read the entire "Nautical Almanac" from beginning to end, but each figure of the printed almanac is, in the office, examined twice and read three times. The total number of figures exceeds a million, but great as the number is, it is trifling compared with the number of figures employed in the calculations, as the almanac figures represent "bare" results only. The moon, for instance, requires for its calculation more than a million and a half of figures, and similarly with other branches of the work, such as the sun, the planets, etc. Contrary to the general opinion, practically every figure in the book is fresh from year to year. The tables from which nearly all the work is calculated have been originally constructed from the labors of the astronomical observer, and to a larger extent from the observations of the sun, moon and planets made at the Royal observatory, Greenwich. Telescopes and other astronomical appliances are conspicuously absent, as the work of the staff is purely mathematical and not observational.—From "The Sailor's Bible" in the Strand.

Pardonable Curiosity.

That cats occasionally "suck the breath" of sleeping persons is a persistent belief as recent news items indicate. Recently the story was told of a cat nearly strangling an infant and the fact was explained on the supposition that the child's milk-laden breath had attracted the animal. But from New York comes the story of a man brought near to the point of death by a cat that used his bosom as a couch and his chin as a pillow. It is not impossible that his breath was milk-laden, but it is somewhat improbable. Without making any insinuations, one may be pardoned for wondering whether or not the cat had been raised in a saloon.

Divides Waters of Two Oceans.

Situated exactly at the highest point of the divide of the Rocky Mountains, on the Crow's Nest division of the Canadian Pacific railway, in British Columbia, the Summit hotel, of which "Andy" Goode, a famous hunter and frontiersman, is proprietor, claims a unique distinction. When it rains in the mountains the water which falls on the eastern slope of the Summit hotel roof trickles away to join a tiny rivulet, which in due process of time mingles its waters with the broad Atlantic. The water falling just beyond the ridgepole, on the other side of the roof, flows westerly, and ultimately into the Pacific—Wide World.

Our Happiness.

Our happiness mainly depends on the freedom that widens with every good deed and contracts beneath acts of evil. Not metaphorically, but literally, does Marcus Aurelius free himself each time he discovers a new truth in indulgence, each time that he pardons, each time he reflects. Still less of a metaphor is it to declare that Macbeth enchains himself anew with every fresh crime. And if this be true of the great crimes of kings and the virtues of heroes, it is no less true of the humblest faults and most hideous virtues of ordinary life. Many a youthful Marcus Aurelius is still about us; many a Macbeth who never stirs from his room.—Maeterlinck.

Local News

Three stores have damaged windows, long cuts being made in the glass by some sharp instrument. None of the stores were entered. The police are investigating. It is thought that boys are responsible.

An attempt will be made by Edward Kirby, County Chairman, to secure Congressman Townsend and Congressman Hamilton for two addresses in Grand Haven before the election this fall.

The West Michigan Steam Laundry is soon to install a new steam press system, that will give Holland all the laundry facilities that such concerns as the American Steam Laundry and the Ottawa Laundry of Grand Rapids have. Proprietor Beukema of the laundry will leave for Chicago Friday evening to purchase the necessary machinery there. He will install it in his plant on West Eighth street early next week, to be ready for business at the end of the week.

Last evening the annual reception for the students of the Western Theological seminary was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Steffens at 133 West Eleventh street. The members of the three classes of the school with their friends took possession of the professor's home for an evening of enjoyment. No program of any kind was rendered the object of the reception being to get the new students acquainted with the upper classmen, and for the older members to renew acquaintances interrupted by the summer vacation. Refreshments were served.

Water tight hatches are being built for the two Grand Trunk car ferries that ply between Grand Haven and Milwaukee and they will be installed as soon as they are completed. These hatches will effectively seal the hatchways into the engine room, the flicker and all other entrances to the hold below the car deck. The arrangement should go far toward preventing the seas from running in through the stern and rushing below decks. The arrangement should be a step toward making the car ferries safer ships in which to ride. A number of other improvements in the way of escape ladders have also been ordered placed on board of the ships.

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. R. N. DeMerell next Friday. All business will be omitted and the meeting given over to recitations and music. Three young ladies and two young men will participate in a declamation contest, the winner of which will receive a silver medal. The judges are Mesdames E. J. Blekink, Edwin N. Brown and D. B. K. Van Raalte. Two special numbers on the program are "The Bridal Wing Cup," by Miss Ina Wing and a selection in the Holland language by tiny Mary Slowinski. Other numbers are a Voluntary; by Mrs. C. S. Dutton; song, "The Bird With the Broken Pinion," by Mrs. W. W. Wing; and a violin solo with piano accompaniment by the Misses Koppel. The meeting is called at 4 o'clock so that the students may be able to attend and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

Political Notes

Congressman Diekema will start an active campaign for re-election some time this week. Strong speakers will be brought to this district by Mr. Diekema's campaign committee, and the entire section will be thoroughly stumped. Senator Dooliver of Iowa and possibly Senator Beveridge of Indiana will be among the speakers.

Between now and the spring election period is a long call but third ward Republicans are already figuring on what they are going to do next spring. It is said that they are figuring on making Andrew J. Ward their candidate for supervisor. Mr. Ward has decided to make Grand Haven his home, and is showing his faith in the town of his adoption by the purchase of property and the erection of homes thereon.

To Correl the Acreage

A dispatch from Saginaw states that an announcement was made at the offices of the Michigan Sugar Company Tuesday of a gigantic plan whereby the company, with its six big plants in this state, will crush competition in the fight for sugar beet acreage. Farms, rich and poor, costing thousands of dollars, are being picked up here and there.

When George L. Walt, of the Owosso Sugar Company, was asked about the situation, he stated that the Lansing firm is following its usual method of securing acreage.

"I do not think that the Michigan Sugar Company is purchasing any land itself," said he. "There is a land company formed which is buying up some farms, and then selling these on contracts to foreigners who come over to this country to work in the sugar beet fields."

In Huron county $50,000 has already been spent, and over 1,000 acres have been purchased in the territory adjacent to the Sebewaing Sugar Company in that district, said the dispatch received here. Farms have been purchased near Saginaw and Alma factories, and it is estimated that several hundred thousand dollars will be expended before the acreage desired is obtained.

Fair Association in Good Condition

At a meeting of the directors of the South O tawa and West Allegan Fair association held in the office of Secretary A. B. Bosman. A report of the financial condition and the receipts of the fair this year was made and the management is exceptionally well pleased with the showing made. It has taken the secretary several days to get the whole report into shape, since the business this year was larger than usual.

The gate receipts this year amounted to $2,294.20 with an additional amount of $300.55 collected at the grand stand. This together with the money collected for concessions and the entries makes a total that compares very favorably with the showing made in other years. In spite of the fact that last year the fair was combined with Home Coming Week, thus swelling the attendance abnormally, the total receipts last year only slightly surpassed the total of this year's fair. This goes to show that it was a big year when compared with other fairs held here. The secretary is in possession of reports of county fairs all over the state, and the local fair compares favorably with any of them in attendance, etc.

After the interest has been paid on the indebtedness of the association and after all the expenses have been paid in connection with premiums, races etc., the association is still about $400 to the good which is a better showing than has been made for many years. Last year there was a good surplus but it was nearly eaten up by the many permanent improvements made at that time.

The bills and accounts were allowed at the meeting and all the premiums will be paid immediately. It was only in the fruit department that there was a small showing, the late frosts last spring having effected the fruit.

WIFE IS REMARRIED WHEN HUB RETURNS

INDIANA MAN WHO WAS GONE FOUR YEARS AND BELIEVED TO BE DEAD.

DISAPPEARS WITH HIS SON

Is Declared to Have Said That He Found Woman Happy and That He Would Go Away Again Never to Return.

Indianapolis.—"How are you, Mandy!" spoke Samuel Stevens, the other evening, to a woman sitting in front of her little cottage. The voice startled her. She looked up and suddenly rose to her feet.

"I-I thought you were dead—dead and buried!" the woman cried. "How did you get here? Where did you come from?"

"No, no, Mandy; I am very much alive," the man replied evenly. "I don't know what made you think I was dead," he continued, tenderly, to the emotion-swept woman before him. She then told him of her belief that he was dead, and that she had married William Hall, who had given her a good home and been a kind husband.

Such is the brief description given of the meeting of Samuel Stevens and his wife, from whose presence he had disappeared four years before.

The story of the Stevenses is like a chapter from a novel. Four years ago they were living together and had seven children. The husband and father was a laborer. The family is said to have gotten along as well and lived as comfortably as the average family of a laboring man and the family relations were pleasant. Then, one day, after some little upset over one of the children, the punishment by him of a daughter, it is said, neighbors made a complaint, and a warrant is declared to have been issued for his arrest. He disappeared from his home. His wife expected that he would soon return.

As time wore on she found the struggle alone of trying to provide for the large family too hard a battle.

She made a brave effort, but the handicap was great. She could not get steady work and sickness now and then invaded the little home. Then she allowed three of the children to be taken away, she keeping the youngest. Through the day she toiled for her children, and continued to hope for her husband's return. She was confident that he would come back and believed that he was doing the best he could and what he thought was right.

Then one day a grocer brought the news that her husband was dead. He had received a letter, he said, in which it was stated that Sam Stevens had been a victim of yellow fever at Oswego, Miss.

She lost heart and gave up the remaining children except the youngest, Harry. With only one child to care for she found it a little easier to get along. Neighbors helped and time softened her grief. And then William Hall came into her life.

"How Are You, Mandy!"

He was kind to her, relieved her of many burdens, and finally they were married in January of this year. Life was bright for her again. Hall was fond of her boy. Mrs. Hall began ever to sing as she went about her work. Their little cottage was a model of neatness and it was comfortable.

It was before this cottage that she was sitting the other evening while her husband was downtown on some business, when her former husband greeted her.

Mrs. Hall said that when she saw him she grew faint. She could hardly believe it was Sam, but it was Sam. Then after they had talked it all over he tried to comfort her, it is said, and explained that at one time while in the south he had been ill and had tried to send her word and he supposed that this was the cause of the message saying he was dead.

After a time Stevens and his little boy went down the street and did not come back. Stevens had left the city so far as was known. He is said to have told friends before going away again that he was going this time never to return, that his wife seemed to be happy, had a good home, and that he would leave her to get a divorce if she wished and remarry Hall

RECOGNIZED TASTE OF ROPE

Mystery of Cigars Furnished by Schoolhouse Custodian Cleared by Member of Board.

The school committee was in executive session. There were many problems for sober consideration as the sessions of the schools gathered in thoughtful consideration, says an official connected with headquarters. Schoolhouse Custodian Mulvey, who does not use tobacco in any form, entered with a handful of cigars and distributed them as gifts to four of the five members present.

"Thank you," was the response from each as a neat bundle of the weed was passed to him. Soon matches were applied, and smoke and a mysteriously suspicious odor floated in the air.

A minute or two elapsed. The chairman had removed his cigar from his mouth and was looking at it long and thoughtfully.

Joseph Lee, who does not smoke, sat silently gazing into space, wondering how men can.

Dr. Scannell was puffing and frowning furiously.

George Brock was the first to break the silence, holding his cigar at a secure distance from his nostrils: "I wonder what kind of cigar this is?" he asked.

It was J. P. Magenis who responded as he quizzically surveyed the roll of tobacco between his fingers. "That," said he, "is a Manila cigar."

"How can you tell?" asked the doubtful Brock.

"Readily," replied Magenis, "I recognize it by the taste of the rope."—Boston Evening Record.

SHOWS SAGACITY OF SHEEP

Ewe's Care of Blind Lamb Proves They Are Not Devoid of Intelligence.

Sheep are not usually considered sagacious, but the following incident will show that they are not devoid of intelligence. A ewe gave birth to a lamb which was totally blind. The ewe soon realized that something was wanting in her offspring, and bestowed special care on it, so that it grew up a fine, healthy animal. One day the farmer was driving the ewes and lambs to a field of fresh pasture. On the way they had to cross a small river by a rude bridge that had no railing or defence of any kind at the side. The farmer forgot all about the blind lamb, but the mother ewe did not. On reaching the bridge she turned quickly round and, seizing her offspring by the ear, walked slowly backward over the bridge, drawing the lamb after her and making a murmuring noise all the while. Nor did she quit her hold till safe on the other side, while the farmer looked on in amazement.

The Right to Die.

The man who has killed himself on Monday would on Saturday have wanted to live; but one only kills one's self once. Man's life is made up of past, present and future; so life must be a burden to him, if not for the past, the present and the future, at least for the present and the future. If it is only a burden for the present he is sacrificing the future. The evils of one day do not authorize him to sacrifice the life that is ahead of him. Only the man whose life is unhappy and who could have the certainty—which is impossible—that it will always be so, and that conditions and desires will never change, either through modification of circumstances and situations or through habit and the lapse of time—which again is impossible—only this man would have the right to kill himself.—Napoleon Bonaparte.

Origin of the Kiss.

Concerning the kiss and its origin, opinions differ. Some wise men declare that the kissing habit is one of the remains of cannibalism, and that its beginning was nothing more than the carnivorous impulse to bite. When primitive man gave a kiss, he expressed an affection equal to his love for his foods. The kiss meant, "I love you well enough to eat you." It is certain that kissing was one of the most ancient of customs. It was current among the ancient Jews, and is well known among all Orientals. Nor is it to disappear. Exalted by the dying act of more than one historical hero, sung by all the poets, from Solomon onward, the kiss is here to stay. The world could not do without it.

Turkish Girls Do Go Out.

On summer nights in Turkey, when people should be asleep, you can see closely hooded figures flitting about noiselessly, like black ghosts. They are Turkish peasant girls. What they are about nobody knows. Perhaps looking for the moon, which will not rise for some hours. At every dark corner of a wall also you may see a young gent sitting in the deep shadow with wonderful perseverance. If you go very near, and they do not happen to see you, you may hear them singing songs, as low as the humming of bees, and always through the nose.

Models Disapproved.

"You shouldn't quarrel with your wife about her desire for handsome clothes," said the near relative.

"I don't object to her having handsome clothes," replied Mr. Sirius Barker. "All I tell her is that if she ever succeeds in really looking like those fashion pictures she tries to copy she will come pretty near breaking up her home."

HONESTY IS BEST POLICY

Candid Workman's Plea for Raise in Wages Met With Prompt Response.

At a table in the Philadelphia Manufacturers' club the other evening several manufacturers were gathered, discussing subjects with great interest and with as great impartiality. The talk switched in time to the question of wages and all had more or less to say on that point.

One of the men, who employs hundreds of workers, was called on to tell what he thought of the increased cost of living.

"Well," he said, "I know that my men are constantly asking for more wages and saying that they cannot live on what they earn, but one of them gave the richest excuse for a raise that I ever heard."

"He came into the office a few weeks ago and said that he had just been married and wanted more money. In a spirit of jest I said to him: 'So you want to take home more money to little wife? That's what you want the raise for, is it?'"

"Oh, no, sir," he replied, "I want the raise for myself. The wife knows how much I am getting now, sir, and I can't knock down any of my present wages; she gets it all. I need the raise for personal expenses."

"Well, you men can easily guess he got that raise; he is too blamed honest to let get away."

MOVED THE CHURCH TOWER

Method of Increasing the Size of Sacred Edifice Employed by Belgians.

A large crowd gathered in the little village of Bechtolt on the Belgian frontier to watch the unusual spectacle of a moving church tower. Some time ago it was decided that the church should be enlarged in order to accommodate the increased number of people in the village.

It being impossible to enlarge the church at the choir end it was decided to lengthen the nave. It was thought that this would involve the demolition of the tower, but to this, however, the authorities were opposed, holding that the tower was of great historical value, dating many centuries back, and to this opposition was added that of the villagers, who were against the scheme on sentimental grounds.

It was therefore decided to remove the tower, which is 90 feet high and about 8,000 tons in weight. This enormous mass of stone was cut away at the foundations, and a platform placed beneath it on rails. Slowly and carefully with great patience by the workmen engaged in this extraordinary task the tower is being advanced inch by inch.

Its new place is about fifteen yards in front of the old one, and it is estimated that it will take ten days or a fortnight to reach the spot which is in readiness to receive the moving mass. While the operation was in progress the bells in the steeple were ringing loudly, as though to signal the extraordinary move it was about to make.

A Bird Sanctuary.

It is the custom during the summer months to leave the ventilating panes open in the old church at Hamstead Ridwane, Staffordshire. A robin took advantage of this lately and built its nest in the wooden case of the organ behind the false pipes, where it did no harm to the instrument. It was sitting when discovered, and was allowed for this once to hatch and rear its brood, one solitary chick. A few leaves of an old prayer book formed part of the nest. The hen sat quite steadily during the service and took no notice of the organ. But the cock would not face the congregation, and only ventured to appear at the windows with food in his bill, but did not dare to come in. A thrush also built in a low laurel bush at the church door, where every one looked into it, but the boys all agreed it must not be touched, and the eggs hatched quite safely.—Field.

A Knotty Problem.

Sir David Gill, the famous astronomer, who has lately been appointed a foreign knight of the German Order of Merit for Science and Art, tells an amusing story of a meteorite which fell on a highland farm some years ago. Being a valuable meteorite the landlord claimed it as being mineral on his land; but the tenant pointed out that the meteorite was not on the land when the lease was drawn up. Then the landlord claimed it as flying game; but the tenant said it had neither wings nor feathers, and, as ground game, was his. The discussion was ultimately cut short by the revenue officer, who appeared on the scene and took possession of the meteorite, "because," he said, "it is an article introduced into this country without payment of duty."—Tit-Bits.

Church Buried in Sand for Centuries.

After having been buried for several hundred years in immense sand drifts, St. Edenock's church, in Cornwall, England, is now being used once more as a place of worship. The edifice was built about 1200 A.D. It is situated near the shore, in a section of the country which is almost devoid of vegetation, great sand rifts covering many square miles. High winds, blowing in from the sea, piled the sand up over the church, completely burying it. No attempt was made to dig it out for several hundred years. A few years ago, however, work was begun, and the ancient church was repaired and services held in it.

THE TACTFUL WOMAN'S WAY

Studies Man at Most Important Hour of Day With View of Keeping Peace.

An experienced and observant woman declares that the most important moment of the day to a man's peace of mind is the ten minutes that follow his return from the work of the day have frequently brought him to a change his whole state of feeling. He comes home usually tired. Work or the vexations of business during the day have frequently brought him to a point of fatigue or nervousness at which a very little thing may decide what his mood will be for the rest of the evening. Of course the particular disposition of every man is going to tell here, just as it does everywhere else. But the rule will hold good for the average man. The most important thing for the tactful woman to do is to wait until she sees some signs of his temper before she makes any decided move. Don't, above all things, tell him that the plumber has just sent in a terrible bill merely for making that little alteration. Don't talk too much in the beginning on any subject. Conversation taken torrentially at the outset is likely to upset anybody who is a little tired after a day's work and who wants the quiet enjoyment of the home.

The woman who follows this advice will find her evenings pleasanter than if she jumped at the beginning into the heart of things, especially disagreeable things.—Woman's Life.

NOT SO BAD AS HE EXPECTED

Young Man's Nice Cunch of Excuses Were Not Needed, After All.

There is a young man in Dallas whose work keeps him up until the small hours of the morning, which is rather an awkward thing, inasmuch as he has but recently taken unto himself a wife.

But the lady knew of these hours, and he is not expected until very late.

A few days ago this man met an old friend, and over a cigar after working hours they discussed the past, present and future until daylight's gleams began to show rays over the housetops. Then the young man with speed made for his home, fearful of his reception.

On nearing his habitation he discovered a bright light in the window, and excuses born of desperation began to circle through his head. He was in for it this time sure.

He decided to tell the truth as being more nearly satisfactory than a lie, and with this good resolution in his head he threw open the door and beheld a sight that filled him with amazement.

Upon a chair, with her skirts tucked about her feet, sat his wife. The lamp was turned too high and had smoked the chimney.

On his entrance she precipitated herself into his astonished arms and wept.

"It was right over there," she said, weeping. The man stared.

"What was?" he demanded.

"A m-m-mouse," explained the lady. "It came out of the closet soon after you'd gone, and I've been up here ever since."

Philosopher and Philosophy.

According to Life, philosophy is a short cut to knowledge. Being a short cut to knowledge philosophy is nothing at all, because there is no short cut to knowledge.

A philosopher is a man who thinks that if he finds out a certain thing which nobody else has ever found out, he will be able to find out everything else without looking. Therefore, he spends his life looking for that one certain thing, and thereby overlooks everything else. Accordingly, a perfect philosopher knows nothing at all. Happily the world has never yet been burdened with a perfect philosopher. There are, however, a good many imperfect philosophers floating around who are interesting to associate with directly, as they follow philosophy not as a vocation but as an avocation.

Your Thoughts.

Don't go to sleep with a frown on your brow. A drawn-down mouth and screwed-up eyes help to bring wrinkles.

But really one needs to think pleasant thoughts in the daytime, too. Pleasant thoughts bring a serene expression to the face, which, as the years go on, becomes permanent.

The people you meet who have pleasing faces are the ones who have never allowed hard or unkind or discontented thoughts to find a resting place in their minds, and there is urgent necessity for cultivating serenity to fall asleep with.

When the Japanese Advertise.

The Japanese have an original way of advertising and they apply to the art all the poetry that their oriental imagination is capable of, an exchange says. They have recourse to the most varied and improvised methods and their combinations are sometimes as picturesque as they are original. A Japanese merchant informs his customers that his goods are sent off with the rapidity of a shot. A stationer calls his knowledge of history to his aid thus: "Our wonderful paper is as durable as the hide of an elephant." A Tokyo grocer borrows from psychology, and, in mordant language, announces that "Our vinegar of extra quality is sharper than the bitterness of the most diabolical of mothers-in-law."
