Story of Most Remarkable Indian Told

"RED MAN" WAS HIGHLIGHT AT HOLLAND SEMI-CENTENNIAL

Simon Pokagon Once Chief of the Pottawatomies. Lies in Unkept,
Unmarked Grave.

The younger folks know very little of Indian lore, especially as this relates to Ottawa and Allegan Counties and Western Michigan. The fact is, however, that Black Lake, now Lake Macatawa, and Black River were prominent stamping grounds for the Indians when trees were so dense that the overhanging branches swept the water's edge. There was a large tribe at "Point Superior," now Waukazoo; another tribe at Macatawa; and a veritable village on the bluff at Kollen Park and on the site of the H. J. Heinz Co.

There even was an Indian burying grounds under the pine trees on the site where the new H. J. Heinz Co. building was erected. The "happy hunting grounds" was located in a large grove of pine, some of the trees still remaining.

A beautiful cove, with a sizeable stream running into the little bay, was where the village stood. It was an ideal harbor for Indian canoes paddling in from Black Lake. It is said these could go a considerable ways up the small stream. This stream today is a rivulet, obscured by a culvert, and modern methods have practically obliterated it. Less than fifty years ago the cove was still in existence and there was a clump of woods bordering it; and it doesn't take a great imagination as to how beautiful it must have been before the encroachment of civilization and industrial development. Today the cove has been filled in almost entirely, since the Holland-St. Louis Sugar Co. was built some years ago. It was a real ideal spot for Indian tribes.

There were several groups of Indians through Fillmore as was shown in the article of I. H. Fairbanks, printed in April, 1937. In fact, Fillmore was the headquarters for the Indians, where the venerable Isaac Fairbanks, government agent, sent here by the government, had his trading post and was the interpreter for these aboriginal tribes.

There was a large village at Pigeon Lake and River, and what is more, there were well-defined Indian trails from village to village existing less than fifty years ago. The writer remembers going over a supposed Indian trail from Macatawa to Castle Park not over thirty-five years ago, and for tourists' consumption this trail may still be in existence.

Hamilton and that vicinity was also Indian headquarters, and less than twenty years ago there was still a tribe of basket-makers and small farmers on the shores of Purdy's Lake, once a small body of water on M-40 south of Hamilton. In recent years it has been drained or the water has sunk away and celery is planted in the lake bottom; and the few straggling Indians have found refuge away from civilization, somewhere in the "oak grove" of Allegan county.

Well, Simon Pokagon and the long line of Pottawatomie chiefs reigned over these Indians, and about the last of the line to rule was Simon. The late Edwy Reid of the Allegan Gazette, a real historian of Allegan County and Western Michigan, some time ago printed an article on Chief Simon Pokagon. The editor of the Holland City News had met the chief several times. The late Gerrit Van Schelven of Chief Pokagon, and prevailed upon this well-educated Indian to come to Holland during the semi-centennial held here in 1897 and give a talk to the vast multitude.

It was eminently fitting that this chief of the "red men," so closely identified with the Holland colony when Dr. Van Raalte came and even before, when our own Isaac Fairbanks settled in Fillmore, should speak to this vast audience that filled Centennial Park, to tell them of the relations of the Indians with the white men in Ottawa and Allegan counties and Western Michigan. The Holland City News, therefore, first prints a review of Edwy Reid on the life of Chief Pokagon, which is an unusual resume.

We follow this story with the speech given in Holland by the "Big Chief" in Centennial Park, the

HOLLAND'S FINE HORSES STAND OUT AT DETROIT HUNT MEET

It may not be known by many in this vicinity, but Holland horse flesh is well-known today by lovers of fine horses throughout America, and especially around Detroit where the nation's finest equines are placed on exhibition. The local stables entered the Bloomfield Metamora Hunt meet held October 1, and Ted Cheff of the Holland Furnace Company, and Carter Brown of Castle Park had their best at this annual hunt is staged. Several hundred of the country's outstanding thoroughbreds attended the meet, including horses by stables such as Fred Alger and Pierce. Mr. Alger's mount, "Azucar" winner of the one-hundred-thousand dollar San Anita California race was one of the outstanding entries in the Fall Hunt Meet. Local entries were by Mr. P. T. Cheff with "Gypsy Queen" and "Chick's Play"; also Mr. Carter Brown with "Boo." Carter Brown's horse "Boo" raced in the steeple chase but unfortunately fell. Mr. James Helder rode both horses from Mr. Cheff's stables, and did extremely well, taking a first and second for Mr. Cheff out of a large field of horses entered. In fact, the Cheff horses broke the track record.

occasion being Holland's semi-centennial forty-one years ago this summer.

Edwy Reid

This article was printed in a recent number of the Gazette but without the illustrations. It will interest each reader that may read it again, for Pokagon was a remarkable character, a man gifted in many ways, who devoted his life to interests of his distressed people. Of the three hundred members of his tribe a considerable number were residents of Allegan county. In his clothing of civilization he is no less striking than when garbed in the finery of his forefathers.

This prominent and most capable Indian, and his father Leopold before him, was long ago known to Allegan county whites. These Pottawatomies were entirely peaceful, never making the least trouble. A great friend to them was Mr. Engle of Hartford, father to Miss Allie Engle and Mrs. T. P. Noble of Allegan. While in western Michigan the Indians were in greatest degree peaceful. Those in the eastern part of the state warred with Tecumseh in besieging Detroit. A company from this part of the state joined them but, dissatisfied returned without taking any part.

Simon Pokagon, though living mainly in VanBuren county, passed much time with his people in Allegan county. There were considerable numbers of them at Bradley, Hamilton, and in Salem township and some of the descendants of these still remain in those vicinities. The following account of Pokagon's life and his portrait are copied from PawPaw Courier-Northerner:

We are indebted to our townsman Dana P. Smith for the following interesting story of Chief Simon Pokagon and his father Leopold who were at the head of the Pottawatomies here more than a century ago.

Simon Pokagon, son of Leopold, according to his own story, was born while his parents were living in a wigwam beside the Indian mounds at Summerville in 1830 and at the age of fourteen he was

STORY ON CHIEF POKAGON ELIMINATES SIXTY-YEAR AGO COLUMN

The Holland City News contains several historical articles, including one on Indian Chief Pokagon and his visit here during the semi-centennial in 1897. There are other historical articles, enough for one week, and the regular sixty-year-ago feature will appear as usual next week. A few other articles were crowded out because of lack of space and last-minute news.

Aged Lady Saw First Train Come Into Holland

MRS. DOGGER PASSED AWAY
AT 91; LOVED HER GARDEN

The funeral rites for Mrs. Anna Dogger, 91 years, widow of Mr. John S. Dogger, were held on Monday at 2 o'clock from the residence on R. R. No. 6, Holland, the services being in charge of Dr. C. F. Fields of this city, and interment took place in the Graafschap cemetery. Mrs. Dogger was born in The Netherlands in 1847 and came to America with her parents in 1848, after a long voyage of 43 days in a sailing vessel. After considerable, tiresome traveling, they landed in Grand Haven, where they resided for 7 years, but have lived in Holland at the old family homestead for 58 years. There were no railroads between Holland and Grand Haven at that time, and they took an old rickety stage-coach over roads that were almost impassable, winding between and around stump-filled lands. On the way to Holland they stopped for a short time at the Port Sheldon hotel on Pigeon Lake that has figured in song and story. It was the first resort bubble to burst, and the hotel was built by eastern capitalists who had even built a railroad station long before the railroad was built; also a harbor and a lighthouse which never brought ships.

Mrs. Dogger in Her Garden

The Doggers lived in Holland before there was a railroad, and the coming in of the railroad and the first train was an event here. Mrs. Dogger often tells of their arrival in Holland by stage-coach. However, when they came, which was at night, there was nothing but darkness with the exception of some dim lights here and there among the forest trees. It must be remembered that the Holland colony was only a few years old and the streets were stump-filled. Mr. Dogger died in 1902, and Mrs. Dogger, despite her age, was generally found in her garden, for she loved flowers and nurtured them. The picture shows her among her blooms. The remains of Mrs. Dogger were in charge of the Nibbelink-Notter mortuary. Friends were given the privilege to pay their respects to this fine old lady at the home.

The pallbearers were nephews of the deceased. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, indicative of the love in which this aged lady was held by her friends and neighbors. The survivors are one son, Paul J. Dogger at home, Mrs. Fanny Raak at Holland.

Plan Extensive Program In Ref. Churches

REFORMED CHURCHES OF AMERICA FOSTER "WITH ONE ACCORD" MOVEMENT
IN HOLLAND

Golden Milestone Celebration Honors
Samuel Zwemer of Holland
Who Started Arabian Mission

A very important movement is being developed by the Reformed Churches of America under the name "With One Accord," the outgrowth of what is known as "Greater Things" movement a year ago. The president of general Synod and his cabinet have been planning this movement for some time, and already churches in the west have been contacted and their programs have been given.

They are about to come to Holland, and the date of their coming will be next week Wednesday, October 12. Those coming will be Dr. J. Harvey Murphy and his cabinet, and their scheduled "With One Accord" program will then be given. The committee in charge of this local area is Rev. H. D. Ter Keurst, of Trinity Reformed church, chairman; Rev. W. Van't Hof of Third Reformed church; Mrs. Wynand Wichers of Hope College, and Rev. James Wayer of First Reformed church. The afternoon meeting of the "With One Accord" movement conference will be held in Third Reformed church from 2:30 to 3:30. At that time there will be a public meeting by one or more of the general Synod teams. It is possible that the meeting will be addressed by either Dr. Luman Shafer, Dr. J. Harvey Murphy, or Dr. Raymond Drukker, and possibly all together.

From 3:45 to 4:10 next Wednesday at the Third Reformed church there will be discussion groups, the themes to be discussed are the ones suggested by the committee of Synod. Then from 4:15 to 5:00 there will be a question box, also at this church. The questions are to be submitted by both lay workers and ministers. The purpose of this question box is to ascertain how the leaders of the Reformed church denomination stand on certain questions. Furthermore, the leaders of the Reformed church wish to find out exactly what is in the minds of the people of the church at large. It is planned that the Woman's Conference, who also hold a large meeting, will have adjourned by that time, and they too, will be given an opportunity to take part in this last question box as this relates to the question box.

From 6:30 to 7:45 the young people's supper will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church on West 10th Street. The Christian Endeavor Union of Holland will be in charge of this supper, represented by groups of young people of the classis of Holland. All those attending should notify their Christian Endeavor officers of their intention to attend the supper at an early date. It is planned that Dr. Raymond Drukker will address the young people's supper guests.

Evening Program

The evening program will be held in Hope Memorial Chapel. It was called the "Golden Milestone Celebration of the Arabian Mission." The meeting is called for 8 o'clock sharp, and Dr. Wynand Wichers will preside at this meeting. The speakers will be Dr. James Cantine, Dr. William Thoms, and Dr. J. Harvey Murphy. Dr. Samuel Zwemer was to be on the program, but ill health prevented him from coming. This "Golden Milestone Celebration" is in recognition of the fiftieth anniversary of the Arabian Mission of the Reformed Church which was founded by Dr. Samuel Zwemer of Holland and Dr. J. Cantine. There will also be a gigantic chorus, in fact, a combined chorus, of the classis of Holland. Rehearsal will be on Monday night, preparatory to the "With One Accord" program on Wednesday.

In connection with this story, it might be well to relate that the regular Women's Missionary Conference, held every year, will be in conjunction with this program as stated above. The woman's meeting will be held in the Fourth Reformed church, with morning sessions beginning at 10 o'clock, Wednesday, and afternoon sessions at 2 o'clock. The meeting will dovetail with the "With One Accord" program held in the Third Reformed church. The speakers are to be Mrs. Edgar S. Romig, the new president of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions, Mrs. George Laug of Macy, Nebraska, Miss Harriet Brumler, missionary to India, Dr. J. Harvey Murphy, president of Synod, of Hudson, New York, and members of the team to promote

"Tulip Time" Continues to Receive Publicity; Surprised When Announcer Mentions Holland Four

The above little Holland group from left to right are Mr. and Mrs. Al Joldersma and Mrs. and Mr. Chet Van Tongeren. They were in California attending the American Legion convention where there were 40,000 veterans in the parade. Al and Mrs. went by motor car, taking the northern route and returning the southern route, seeing the scenery so often described. Mr. and Mrs. Van were not content with an automobile, they took one of those "new-fangled" streamlined trains that scoot along 100 miles an hour. Anyway, they landed safely, as you will notice, and since that time they have all returned safely.

Al in some way is mighty interested in something. He even put on his far-sighted glasses. We are wondering if it is a movie star. Mrs. who is looking the same direction, seems rather wistful, but Al will remain in the right path with a cane to help him. The Van's seemed equally tickled about something. They are bubbling over with pleasure. We are surely wondering what it is all about. Anyway, they saw everything there was to see around Los Angeles, the movie stars, men and women giving of their talent in large groups on three stages in the open air, all for the edification of World War Veterans.

Our foursome was also in the parade, and what a parade! Thousands and thousands in line. They first marched through the streets of Los Angeles and the wind-up was in the tremendous stadium which seated 150,000 people. The parade made the rounds of the inner field and passed on. They were cheered and cheered by the multitude that filled every available seat and sat on the grass in the foreground. It was estimated that at least 200,000 jammed their way in, or in close proximity of, this large place. The whole area was provided with loud speakers and a very distinct announcer who "knew his stuff" described the different entries in the parade, and the features connected therewith. Detroit was mentioned as having the only original locomotive and box car in their division with all the ramifications that the "forty and eight," a spectacular auxiliary of the Legion, can put forth. Mayor La Guardia received an ovation as he marched at the head of the New York division. Iowa marched down the line with tall corn stalks instead of guns over their shoulders, and all were singing, "Iowa, where the tall corn grows." And so unit after unit was described by the announcer as the parade proceeded.

The small group from Holland was indeed surprised since they were tucked away among the thousands. They had no idea that their little four would ever be mentioned by the announcer, but while they were a block away from the speakers stand where the announcer stood, they heard the following: "You will soon see a small group from Holland, Michigan, decked out in the true costumes of The Netherlands, including the wooden shoes. You will remember that Holland is the city on Lake Michigan, where the Tulip is the official flower, the same as in their mother country across the sea. In Holland, Michigan, is where the sturdy Dutch settled a century ago, and here is where the traditions of the home land are exemplified every year in May when tulips bloom. A commemoration that draws Americans from every corner of the land to that substantial city." The Los Angeles newspapers added to these comments, and to say that the Holland four received an ovation all along the line as part of the Michigan division, is putting it mildly. Another coincidence was when a little girl who followed the wooden-shoed folks for four blocks called to them, "Where do you come from?" "From Michigan," "Holland, Michigan," "Yes." The little girl cried, "Please take me home. I am so homesick." The local folk are still wondering who the little girl could be, undoubtedly someone from Holland who has moved to California with her family.

Heinie Vining, formerly with Dick Boter, was with the Holland party for an entire day, reluctant to break away. "Heinie" lives in California, going there because of the illness of his wife, whom he is glad to say has improved in health. However, it was evident in Heinie's eyes that he felt a longing for "Michigan, my Michigan." He finally pulled himself away, happy that he had seen some of his friends from home.

GEORGE SCHULING RE-ELECTED HEAD OF THE OTTAWA COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

At least 1,200 attended the Ottawa County Sunday School convention held at Grand Haven yesterday. The official program was given in last week's issue which was followed without any change. Mrs. Wynand Wichers will preside, and Mrs. James Wayer is vice president of the Board. This is the sixth annual conference of the women, and they are scheduling their meetings for adjournment in order to take part in at least part of the "With One Accord" program.

Many Holland Republicans At Convention

OTTAWA COUNTY WELL REPRESENTED AT REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

Kent and Allegan County Give John R. Dethmers Small Support

The state press has given pages on the Republican state convention held in Grand Rapids Monday. The speeches were given in full, but not much was given individually to Ottawa County and Holland. This county presented its candidate for attorney general in the person of John R. Dethmers of this city and Park Township, and while he made a very creditable showing and made many friends creating stepping stones to future achievements, he failed to muster the desired number of votes to win a place on the state ticket this fall. Mr. Dethmers surely had the support of the young Republicans of Michigan—that was plainly evident.

Ottawa County's chief interest was centered in the race for Attorney Generalship, and naturally so. The Ottawa County delegates, including those from Holland, had pledged in a resolution to advance the interest of the local attorney, and they did all in their power in an honorable way to bring this about. There were three candidates in the field for this office: Thomas Read of Shelby; O. L. Smith of Detroit, and John R. Dethmers of this city. The latter candidates ran about "even Steven" in the balloting, but did not have sufficient votes to overcome the majority rolled up by the scheduled forces. It appeared for a moment that the Read forces might be defeated, when a poll was demanded with the Wayne County delegation with its 404 votes for Read. It was evident that if a poll were taken, as was asked by some dissatisfied Wayne County delegates, the vote would be split and Read would not have had enough votes to nominate him. Estimators figure that in this poll Read would fall short a substantial number of votes; however, before the balloting was finished the man from Wayne who made the motion withdrew his motion and the entire vote was cast for Tom Read. It is a hard and fast rule in a Republican convention that if any delegate is dissatisfied with the polling of the votes, he or she has a right to ask that the vote be polled—this is mandatory. With this in mind, the vote was polled and it was evident that Tom Read would have the majority and then delegates from counties from different parts of the state who voted for either Mr. Dethmers or Mr. Smith earlier in the balloting changed their vote to Read, jumping in the band wagon on a substantial number of votes; however, before the balloting was finished the man from Wayne who made the motion withdrew his motion and the entire vote was cast for Tom Read. September Weather

Who started the notion that summer is all over Sept. 1? That silly tradition costs business a lot of money and the human race a lot of fun.

Just before the beginning of September there is a general rush homeward by vacationists. Resort places put the chairs up on the tables and bring down the wooden window shutters from the attic. And all along the line those who cater to the traveling public begin to say, "Well, it'll all be over next week!"

And then come gorgeous, luxurious, abundant days over all the fields and groves and dells and mountain sides and only a scattered handful of the wise folks get out and enjoy them. Of course, there are obligations on those who have children that have to get back in school. The wisdom of the present fixed school terms may not here be questioned.

But what millions there are who have no parental obligations or responsibilities. The millions of folks who "just love children," but don't like to be bothered by them might make special declarations in favor of autumnal holidays.

And the gamble on good weather is better than a lot of risks taken in June or even August if vacation times are to be appointed several weeks ahead. There may be rainy days in the fall, but there are sure to be rainy days any good season in June. And for the loss of the roses there is the golden reward of the autumnal foliage which riots in color over all the landscape. And it is no mean consideration that one may stop at wayside stands and stock with peaches, apples, pears and melons for miles of munching between meals.

Why not start a boom for better distribution of the tourist season?

Can't Be Done

The figures show that in March, 1938, approximately 41,697,000 persons in this country were employed in private industry or government service.

At the same time 11,246,000 persons were unemployed. Add to the number of unemployed the 3,600,000 persons on national, state and local payrolls, and you have a total of nearly 15,000,000 persons who were eating into the national wealth, without producing more wealth.

Subtract the number of persons on public payrolls from the total of employed persons and you have a remainder of some 38,000,000 persons in private employment, who were producing something.

This means that last March, and conditions have not materially changed since then, there was one nonproducer riding on the back of every two and a half producers in the United States.

The question is how long this country can keep out of bankruptcy when more than one-third of its employable workers have to be supported by less than two-thirds its working population.

A nation can't have more unless it produces more, any more than an individual can.

The authors of the New Deal's planned scarcity ought to be able to see that, after six years' disastrous experience with their efforts to bring about a more abundant life by working fewer hours and producing less.

Nearly 600 persons attended the annual promotion day and rally day exercises in Third Reformed church Sunday school Sunday. Miss Mildred Kirkwood was the leader. Sermonettes were sung by the Hope college trio composed of Misses Gertrude Young, Mary Jane Vaupeil and Thelma Kooker. Representing each department in the rally day messages were Bobby Du Mes of the primary department; George Dale Zuidema, junior department; Dale Van Lente, intermediate; Beatrice Geerlings, senior; and George Mool, adult, who gave responses. The exercises closed with the song, "Follow the Glean," and a talk by Dale Van Lente. The names of the graduating pupils appeared on the programs which were distributed.

SPOT LIGHTS FAVORED BY POLICE DEPARTMENTS

The regular session of the Board of Police and Fire commissioners was rather uneventful this week. Chief Van Ry submitted his report for the month which indicated that 52 cases had been disposed of and 92 traffic warnings given during September by the police department. Justice of Peace Nicholas Hoffman, Jr., reported collection of officers' fees for August, amounting to $10.40. The oath of office of Edward Prins, special police officer, was accepted and placed on file.

Andrew Hyma, temporary chairman in the absence of Chairman John Donnelly, asked of City Clerk Peterson what progress the common council had made in reference to a proposed pension system for police officers and firemen. City Clerk Peterson stated that Alderman Ben Steffens, chairman of the ways and means committee, had reported progress.

Mr. Van Ry advised the board that installation of spotlights on River Ave. at Ninth and 10th Sts. will cost more than originally estimated to install new poles which will cost approximately $75. The board voted to have the board of public works carry out the work. The spotlights will be used to light up traffic officers on duty at these intersections.

Upon request of Police Chief Frank Van Ry, the board voted to use the sound car for at least two more times to warn pedestrians and motorists of traffic violations in the downtown business area. Police Chief Van Ry reported that he was used Saturday night and inquired whether the board wanted to use it again.

Only five persons received fines in Holland for various traffic violations, Police Chief Frank Van Ry reported.

Those fined, with no addresses given, follow: Jack De Kruif and William Smith, speeding, De Kruif fined $13 and Smith, $45; Len Vandenberg and Earl H. Poll, failing to stop for stop street, each $3; Harrison J. Davidson, running red light, $5.

BLIND AND DEAF MAN DIES IN ZUTPHEN

The funeral services of Henry Brower who died at his home at the age of 66 years, were held on Friday afternoon at the home and at the Zutphen Christian Reformed church with burial in Zutphen cemetery. Mr. Brower had been ailing for the past three years. The last year he became blind and the last month became deaf. He was survived by the widow, eight sons and four daughters: Willard, Stanley, Ethel and Dorothy at home; Allen and Laurence of Hudsonville; Chester and Russell of Zeeland; Charles of Jenison; Irvan of Grandville; Mrs. Louis Klammer of Dorris; Mr. Robert Gort of Zeeland; one brother, Marius Brower of Holland and one sister, Miss Ida Brower of Central Lake.

LIKE 4TH OF JULY YOUTH STARTS A MONTH AHEAD

It seems the Halloween in Holland is starting to be a long drawn out affair like the 4th of July with shooting of crackers starting late in May and continuing until after the celebration of Independence Day. Halloween, Oct. 31st, is already started, according to Chief Van Ry, who says complaints of playing pranks had begun a week ago. He promises some arrests unless a state of "wax rubbing" put to these mean means of creating mischief.

Any damage done by juveniles falls on the shoulders of the parents of that child or children. Parents should warn their offspring to be more careful and less destructive.

The police are keeping a sharp lookout for early celebrators and citizens, too, can help by notifying the police immediately. The number is 3141.

JUNIOR CHAMBER MEETS

The junior chamber of commerce has the right idea, namely, to give the youngsters something to entertain them with and keep them off the street when they get to doing mischief. This newly-organized chamber is planning for Halloween night with a party for all being held with that purpose in view. Just what that entertainment will be arranged for, yet been fully perfected, but it will be good. Youth will be given another avenue to enjoy themselves—surely better than waxing windows.

The Halloween committee consists of Bruce Veltman, chairman, Floyd Otteman, Carl Zickler, Russell Van Tatenhove, Nelson Boschett, Ralph Jones, Hadden Hanchett, Pete Donnelly, Pete Jonker and Mel Vander Vliet to arrange the party program. Three directors, James D. Boter, Earl Goosen and Mel Van Tatenhove will work with the committee.

ONE TIME JANITOR OF HOPE COLLEGE PASSES AT 76

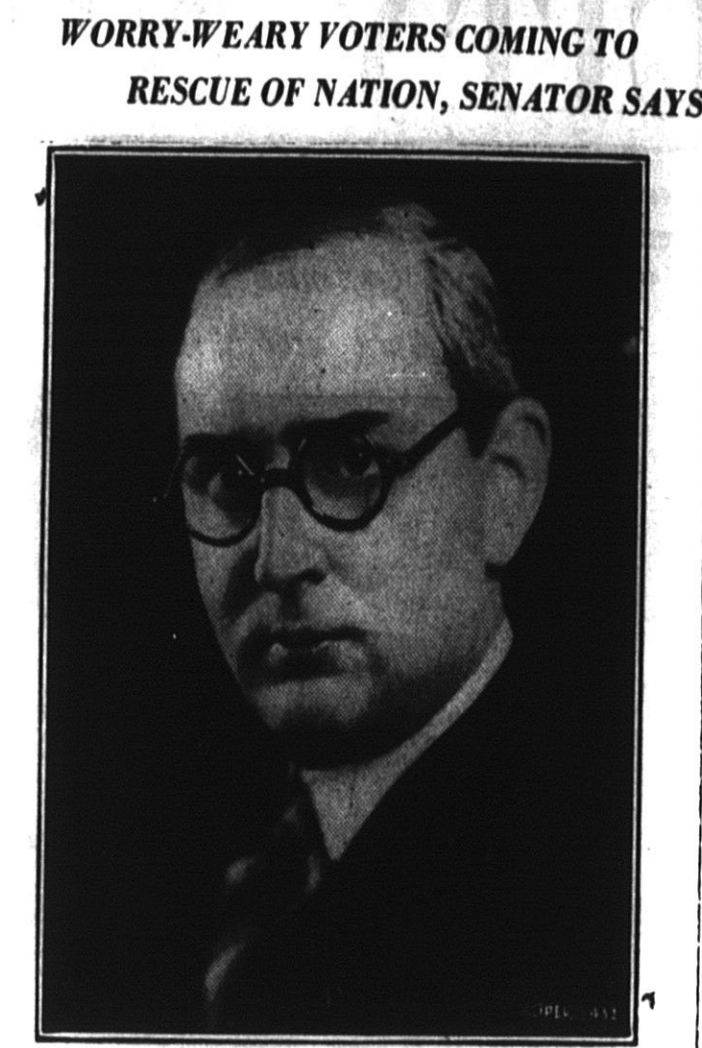

Gerrit Kemper, age 78, 239 Lincoln Ave., died early Tuesday at his home following a lingering illness.

Private funeral services were held this Thursday at 1:30 p. m. from the residence with formal services at 2 p. m. from the Dykstra Funeral chapel, with the Rev. D. H. Walters, pastor of Central Avenue Christian Reformed church officiating. Burial was in Fairlawn cemetery.

Mr. Kemper was born in The Netherlands Sept. 24, 1860, to Mr. and Mrs. Reakus Kemper. He was a resident of Holland for the past 54 years. For a number of years he was employed as janitor at Hope college. He also served as janitor at Central Avenue Christian Reformed church, of which he was a member, until ill health forced his retirement 10 years ago.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Sadie Kemper; one daughter, Mrs. August Van Langevelde; three grandchildren, Faye, Gertrude and Sadie Jean Van Langevelde, all of Holland; and one brother, William Kemper, of The Netherlands.

REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC WORRY-WEARY VOTERS COMING TO RESCUE OF NATION, SENATOR SAYS

SENATOR VANDEN BERG

The keynote speech of United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg before the Republican state convention in Grand Rapids on Monday was devoted largely to the national scene and "the need of salvation from New Dealism."

"The plain people, the average God-fearing, debt-paying, law-loving men and women who are the backbone of our citizenship, are about to recapture sane, sound and solvent government," the senator predicted. "They are tired of promises that are never kept; of patent medicines that never cure; of pell-mell reformers who create more problems than they solve; of follies that fail; and of depressions that never end."

"They want to be able to 'sleep nights' once more and to know that their country is safe while they are doing it. They still love the Constitution and the bill of rights and they propose to defend them against all enemies, foreign and domestic. They still think that bankrupt governments are bad governments. They still believe in a healthy, wholesome, traditional American free enterprise as a means to regain prosperity, American style."

Predicts Victory

"And, unless all recent signs of an outraged public conscience fail, the plain people, the 'folk' from farm and freestone are about to say so with November ballots that will save America before it is too late." The senator predicted Michigan would do its part and pointed to the "ground swell" that surged to the polling places in the primary election. "The Republican primary vote, the senator said, showed that we are done with 'red'—whether it be riots on the state house grounds, or whether it be ink upon the ledgers of the commonwealth."

The errors at Lansing, he charged, are so akin with the errors at Washington "that common condemnation turns thumbs down on both."

Senator Vandenberg asserted the state was equally as fortunate in its GOP congressional as in its gubernatorial timber. None of them, he said, is a "rubber stamp" or a man "whose patron saint is Bergen with 'Charley McCarthy' on his knee." Both house and senate in the national congress, he declared must be restored to its deliberative status.

Pointing at the so-called presidential purge, Senator Vandenberg said it led "straight to the most ominous of contemporary issues, namely, shall constitutional democracy persist in the United States?" The senator delineated existing presidential powers and charged the president already has "one foot in the door that leads to autocracy." He warned of the third-term hazard and reminded the delegates that the present Michigan governor had suggested it might become necessary.

"Danger of Dictatorship"

"Across the seas the raw materials of dictatorships have been snatched up and put to dreadful use," said the senator. "Only a fool will say 'it can't happen here.' Here the raw materials lie all around about. What shall we do about it? How long shall we postpone doing it? You are either for or against the spirit of the Constitution with its checks and balances and its bill of rights. You are either for or against the American system. And next November tells the tale."

The constitutional issue, the senator said, leads straight to the "second fundamental challenge—interference with free enterprise." Centralized dictation permeates not only commerce, but government, he charged. "If the administration's economic pattern much longer continues," he warned, "we shall find our country's industry and agriculture unescapably gripped and throttled by a process of complete regimentation and rigid control from Washington. Bureaucrats, most of whom never met a pay roll in their lives—bureaucrats, not business men—will run the business of a nation and that way lies loss of jobs as well as liberty."

"The Middle Ground"

The senator recommended for the nation's business a "middle ground" which applies whatever minimum of federal control is undeniably necessary, in interstate commerce, to curb chiselers and gougers and monopolists and exploiters, and added, "We will take this ground. We shall have no sympathy or traffic with dishonest business which cares more for its own cash registers than for social and economic consequences of its acts. There we stand at war. But there is no middle ground between the principle of free enterprise which brought America to the peaks of mass prosperity, and economic dictation which has plagued every endorsement to the entire ticket and stated that although defeated they would find him fighting in the front ranks for the Republican Party in this state.

The nominating speech, which was limited to three minutes for John R. Preceding the convention, the Ottawa County delegation met to organize, and then later met in the Silver room of the Pantlind Hotel, together with the Kent County delegation representing the fifth district. At this meeting the following delegates were awarded places on various committees. Nelson A. Miles, attorney of Holland, was elected Chairman of the 6th District Caucus. Ate the Church

The gypsies of Privlaka, Jugoslavia, boast a church, but not as toothsome a one as legend says they once had. Centuries ago folklore says they traded their fine marble church to the Romans for one made of white cheese. The cheese proved so tempting that the tribe promptly ate it and so had to go without a church until modern times, when a rich gypsy fiddler gave his fortune to build a new one.

America's First Chartered City

York Village, Maine, was the first chartered city in America and the King's prison, or old York gaol, built in 1657 is the oldest public building in New England. The King's prison is now a museum and the sheriff's quarters are furnished in the style of the 1600s. The dungeons and court room with rare old documents are of particular interest.

Marbles Used Ages Ago

In a British museum are "marbles" used by Egyptian and Roman boys and girls more than 2,000 years ago. Scientists believe the small stone spheres found among even more ancient remains once were "knuckled" by Stone Age lads. Marbles are so named because the English once made theirs of marble chips. In Britain the game was popular among all classes and ages.

Turtle Talk

In America the names turtle, tortoise and terrapin are used rather interchangeably. . . . In England, however, tortoise is considered the correct name for the land species. . . . terrapin for the freshwater edible kinds. . . . and turtle is employed only for sea-dwelling ones. . . . incidentally, turtles suffer from parasites. . . . such as ticks, says the American Wildlife institute.

European Rattle Snakes

Viper snakes, apart from several characteristics, are the European version of our rattlers. The common vipers are small, less than two feet long, but make up in pugnacity what they lack in size. Their bite isn't deadly—if it's taken care of immediately, says the Washington Post. More dangerous than the common viper is its larger kin, the sandviper. These reptiles, two feet long and more, are even more vicious than the common vipers. They don't like moisture, lie for hours sunning themselves on warm sands.

Meaning of Name Allison

The name Allison is of Teutonic origin and means "of holy fame." It may be either a man's or woman's name but in the latter case is usually spelled Alison, and by some authorities given the slightly different meaning of "famous war maid."

OTTAWA COUNTY

Miss Jean Vander Kolk of Oakland and Herm Warren of Grand Rapids, formerly of Lucas, were united in marriage last Wednesday. The double ring ceremony was used. The bride was groomed in white chiffon velvet with silver shoes and a silver wreath in her hair. Her flowers were white roses, carnations and gardenias. Miss Pearl (Bredheoff) was bridesmaid and Ernest Vander Kolk, the bride's brother, performed the duties of best man. A reception was held at the bride's parents' home. The couple left on a wedding trip and will make their home in Grand Rapids after Oct. 8. For traveling, Mrs. Warren wore a black wool suit and white accessories and an orchid corsage.

The engagement of Miss Dorothy Van Langevelde, daughter of Herman Van Langevelde of Holland, to Marvin N. Nienhuis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nienhuis of West Crisp, was announced at a party Saturday night in the Nienhuis home. The affair marked the 18th birthday anniversary of Miss Van Langevelde and the first birthday anniversary of Herbert Nienhuis. A social time was spent and refreshments were served. Attending the party were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nienhuis, Mr. and Mrs. Eldert Nienhuis, Mr. and Mrs. David Van Vliet, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Vandenberg, H. Nienhuis and Peter Van Vliet, Herbert Paul Nienhuis and Miss Van Langevelde.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Heneveld entertained a number of relatives last week Wednesday evening at their home in Laketown in honor of Mrs. Heneveld's brother, Henry Mulder, of Oklahoma. This is Mr. Mulder's first visit in 31 years. He plans to spend a few months in this vicinity. Judge John Gallen allowed a change of plea in his court when Russell Vreiling, 19 years of age, was charged with speeding instead of reckless driving. Ever since the days when the Indians used these homemade vessels to ply up and down between their settlements on the West Coast of South America, a thousand or more years ago, they have watched, undisturbed, the evolution of seagoing craft—the old sailing vessels which spent months steaming down around Cape Horn to reach Chile and Peru, and to reach the Chincha Islands whose vast guano deposits were bringing wealth to distant ports of the world; the Spanish fleets which came down from the Isthmus to load the gold and silver looted from Inca temples and palaces; the famous old side-wheelers

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

October 9, 1938.
Spiritual Worship—John 4:19-24.

Henry Geerlings

Often times mighty issues come forth from the merest incidents. Jesus was going north and stopped at a well to rest. There is nothing remarkable about that. A woman came to that well to draw water while Jesus was resting there, and there is nothing remarkable about that. She had done that probably hundreds of times before. But this time was different because Jesus was there. A great soul makes incidents extraordinary and crowds into the commonplace ways and doings of life the very glory of heaven. A well and one woman gives Jesus an opportunity to open the treasure-house of His mind and takes out some of its choicest jewels. Jesus clothes this occasion with a wealth of charm and interest and vibrant truth.

It is interesting to note the delicacy and tact of Jesus. He never blundered. He was never offensive or rude or forward. He knew the amenities of life, and practiced them. He saw in this simple-minded woman one to whom He might reveal Himself and entrust with a great message. He asked her for a drink, quite a natural thing for a thirsty man on a hot day to do. But she was somewhat taken back that He should do it, not because He was a man and she a woman, but because He was a Jew and she was a Samaritan. The Jews and Samaritans hated each other. Here was race feeling that ran hot in the blood. But Jesus had none of it. He rose above such pettiness and such arbitrary fences of division and included all people within the field of interest and affection. A Samaritan woman was a human being with a priceless soul in the mind of Jesus, and that was the big thing.

That she happened to be a Samaritan was of no more consequence to Jesus than the color of her hair or the architecture of her home. She was susceptible to divine overtures and capable of giving a hospitable reception to a great truth. We moderns claim to be the followers of Jesus and we say we are of His spirit, but some of us still harbor race hatred and still talk about the rights of the superior races and still make it hard in an already hard world for so-called inferior peoples. One wonders how much we have grown in the last two thousand years in the matter of Christian brotherhood. One pauses to call some people Christians who see how they feel toward Jews and negroes and Chinese and Japanese and Hindus. At any rate, Jesus the Jew, talked to the woman, the Samaritan, and He ignored the old hatreds and differences in the warm glow of His beneficent purposes toward her. By asking for a drink He tactfully opened the way for a conversation that led her finally to the very feet of God and to a spiritual apprehension of the Christ. He conducted her gradually from the known to the unknown, from the material to the spiritual, from the temporal to the eternal, from the well of man to the fountain of God.

Of course she was somewhat tardy of apprehension. She was slow in recognizing the identity of the man who talked so graciously to her. But small wonder—the intellectual and great of Jerusalem. But she arrived in good time, as all genuine souls do. She was disposed to be argumentative. Her misunderstanding of what Jesus meant by the water He offered her led her astray. Her spiritual blindness made Jesus as mysterious to her as the water He was talking about. But she is evidently impressed with the sincerity of Jesus and so she is ready to take the gift. But she is not as prepared to receive as she thinks she is. She must be made conscious of her sin and then a thirst for the living water must come as she sees herself as Jesus sees her. He cannot give gifts to people that they do not want. He is an impossible gift to some people for the simple reason that there is no desire for Jesus. You can give a man a book, but the book will not be his until he loves and appreciates the contents of the book. You cannot give heaven to people who have no heavenly minds.

So Jesus takes another step in His process of reaching the soul of this woman with His great truth. He asks her to go for her husband and then He touched a sore spot in her soul. She had no husband for the issue. She would lead the mind of Jesus away from that disagreeable theme. She introduced another thought which seemed to guide Him to the dizzy heights of a new glory of God. And it looks as if she at last opened her heart to the fact that Jesus was the Messiah and for her a new life began. May we not feel that thereafter as she came to draw water from that well she sent her bucket down into the waters of life and her soul was satisfied.

The Women's League for Service of Fourth Reformed church gave a shower at the home of Mrs. H. Van Dyke, 240 West 15th St., in honor of Mrs. Ralph Houston, formerly Miss Sadie Kuite, whose marriage was announced recently. Mrs. A. Van Dyke and Miss Nedra De Groot were in charge of games and prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. Atman, Mrs. Harold Van Dyke and Mrs. Kobes. A two-course lunch was served by Mrs. M. Den Herder, Mrs. B. Members of the Faculty Varsity club were entertained Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. R. A. Schaafsma, 75 West 12th St., with Mrs. Clyde Geerlings and Mrs. E. P. Heister assisting. Mrs. R. A. Schaafsma presented a travelogue, telling of her trip into Mexico during the summer. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Marinus Roseboom and Harv Van Ark of Holland were in Chicago yesterday attending the second game of the world series which is being played between the Chicago Cubs and the New York Yankees.

COUNCIL NOTES

The meeting was called to order by the mayor, who offered prayer. Roll call showed Aldermen Kleis, Oudemool and Brouwer to be unavoidably absent.

It was moved by Ald. Prins, and supported by Ald. Menken that the lights be turned on at Riverview Park for the benefit of the Halloween party that is to be given there for the benefit of the Holland children. Approved.

Various building permits were read by the clerk and approved by the council on the motion of Ald. Vogelsang.

A petition from residents in the vicinity of Pine Ave. and 19th St. asking for redress because of the unsightliness of the basement building on that corner was read by the clerk. The petition was signed by approximately fifty residents of that vicinity. Ald. Huyser rose to say that when the basement was built, that the agreement with the city was that the building would be finished within two years. "But the depression has changed the plans of many of us," he added. The petition was referred to the ways and means committee.

Ald. Drinkwater announced that City Engineer Zuidema would inform the council as to what had been done about the sagging floor in Engine House No. 1. Mr. Zuidema said that the floor had been supported by a single beam, but this had rotted, and allowed the floor to sag. He said that it had been temporarily bolstered up, and that permanent repairs could be delayed until spring.

Ald. Drinkwater reported progress on the proposed dog-pound.

A motion of appreciation to Gov. Frank Murphy, State Senator Earnest Brooks, U. S. Senator Prentice Brown for the work which they did toward obtaining the WPA grant for the new light plant was given unanimously.

It was observed that Ald. "Casey" Kalkman said nothing during the entire meeting, but practiced the art of blowing perfect smoke rings in preference to that of oratory.

A telegram from D. R. Kennicott, regional director for the PWA, advising that the city's application for a grant of $675,621 to be used in connection with construction of a new electrical power generating plant here had been approved, was submitted by City Clerk Oscar Peterson. Council accepted the telegram and ordered it referred to board of public works.

City Inspector Ben Wiersma submitted his monthly report of activities as follows: Inspection of milk plants, 21; milk and cream samples taken to laboratory for tests, 40; water samples taken for tests, 40; producers inspected, 10; slaughter houses inspected, 12; meat markets inspected, 12; grocery stores inspected, 14; restaurants, lunch rooms, etc., inspected, 16; bakeries inspected, 4; public rest rooms inspected, 16; complaints and investigations, 28 notices served to require sewer connections, 18.

MESSINGER BOY WHO CLIMBED HIGH, RETIRES

George Hunt, who has been with the Pere Marquette system for 55 years, was put on the retired list by the company officials. Mr. Hunt began his career in Holland; first, as a telegraph messenger boy at a time when all telegrams came from the depot. This was when the old Chicago-West Michigan railroad was still in existence. Officials saw an energetic boy around the depot and drafted him as ticket agent. He was the most polite, the most accommodating, and the best-dressed ticket agent Holland has ever seen, for George was a fastidious, neat appearing man, and he carries this same dignity today. Accommodation in the old railroad days did not have the affable aspect as today. The old saying of "the public be damned" has all ways been more or less connected with the railroads of 40 years ago, but George surely was never responsible for that phrase, since he was the essence of politeness.

When the Pere Marquette took over the Chicago-West Michigan and the Detroit-Lansing, and Northern, George Hunt stayed on with the road. He went to Grand Rapids in 1849 as clerk in the traffic department. He later served in Detroit, Milwaukee, Traverse City, and Chicago as traveling agent, and in 1920 he made his permanent home in Grand Rapids as division freight agent. For many years he lived in this city and his children received their fundamental education and graduated from Holland public schools. Harold Hunt, the oldest son, was at one time mayor of the student body. He has become prominent in Rotary circles and was president of the state organization. He was superintendent of several schools in the state, including Kalamazoo. He was one of two, a boy and a girl.

Mr. Hunt married Miss Kate Harold one of the daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. Harold, pioneers of Holland whose old home stood on Graves Place up to a few years ago. This home was the mecca of early-day society and where hospitality was paramount. Mr. Harold was in the shoe business, conducted in a frame building just west of the Du Saar Photo Shop. Mrs. Hunt passed away some three years ago. Former mayor, E. P. Stephan, was intimately acquainted with George and his family. Mr. Stephan, in speaking of Mr. Hunt, said: "Everybody who knew George Hunt loved him and his many friends here for the rest of his life."

Mr. Hunt will succeed in the Grand Rapids office Oct. 1 by James M. Gately, formerly the commercial agent for the Pere Marquette in New York, whose railroad experience has been mainly in the east.

Four applications for building permits, totaling $4,500 were on file today with City Clerk Oscar Peterson. They include: Standard Oil Co., 16th St. and River Ave., enlarge service station to super service station, 34 by 26 feet, brick construction and asphalt roofing, $3,500; Dutch Tea Rusk, enlarge building at 150 East Eighth St., occupied by Ter Haar Auto Co., brick construction, $1,000; Mrs. J. Van Zomeren, 27 West River Ave., construct single garage, 12 by 20 feet, asphalt roofing and frame construction, $40.

sent to school at Notre Dame three years and then to Oberlin college a year. Later he went to Twinsburg, Ohio, where he remained two years.

He was an apt scholar and spoke five languages and was undoubtedly the best educated full-blooded Indian of his time.

He wrote numerous articles for the leading magazines and was much in demand as a public speaker. "Queen of the Woods" which is a classic in Indian literature and during the World's fair in 1893, another entitled "The Redman's Greeting" a booklet of birch bark.

He was a poet and just before his death some of his verse appeared in the Chicago Tribune.

He managed creditably the affairs of his 300 tribesmen and pressed and collected a claim of $150,000 against the United States in relation to Indian lands.

He was a man of sturdy character, of retiring, simple habits, and a consistent Catholic.

He was an eloquent speaker and a strong advocate of prohibition. His granddaughter, Julia Pokagon, if possible, excelled him in eloquence; and in speaking at the dedication of the monument to Chief Menominee at Twin Lakes, Ind. Her description of the wrongs suffered by the Indians at the hands of the whites brought tears to the eyes of many in that large gathering.

A monument has been erected by the citizens of Chicago in Jackson Park to the memory of Simon Pokagon and his father Leopold and yet, here in VanBuren county, in an unkept and unmarked grave—"The world forgetting and by the world forgot" rests Michigan's last great chief.

He died near Pearl, Allegan county, Jan. 27, 1899, and is buried in the Indian cemetery at Rush lake, near Hartford.

There should be something done to mark his last resting place before it is too late.

A Noted Guest at The Semi-Centennial

By Gerrit Van Schelven

From News Files, Sept. 4, 1897. A pleasing interesting incident of the celebration was the presence of Simon Pokagon, the last of the line of royalty which has swayed the tribe of the Pottawatomies. He has nearly passed the three-score and ten span of life, and is still a power for good among his people—witness his recent successful effort in securing from the U. S. government the annuity of $118,000 due his people, and in which Uncle Sam had been in arrears for many years.

Chief Pokagon has long been a prominent character. He visited President Lincoln soon after his inauguration, and was the first Red Man that called upon that kind-hearted Great Father. In 1874 also he had an audience with Gen. Grant in the White House. "I expected he would put on military airs," said the chief, in telling the story, "but he treated me kindly, gave me a cigar, and we smoked the pipe of peace together."

As a public speaker Pokagon has an enviable reputation. His sentiments are pathetic, and all his addresses, including the one delivered here on the first day of the celebration, betray kindness of heart and earnestness of thought. He has a face that would attract attention anywhere.

Pokagon was born in the town of Pokagon, near Niles, Mich., named after his father, the doughty chieftain. He now resides half a mile from Lee, Allegan county, on a small farm, which he tills for his daily sustenance. In 1847, the year of the advent of the first Holland colonists, he lived near Dowagiac, in Cass county. His first visit in Holland was in the early '60s.

The connection point between the Hollanders and the Indians, in 1847, covers two tribes—the Ottawas and Pottawatomies. Prior to the treaties of 1821 and 1833, between the U. S. government and the several tribes herein named, this region, including part of Michigan, Indiana and Illinois, belonged to the Pottawatomies, Ottawa and Chippewa tribes—all springing from the powerful Algonquin family, and was occupied by them jointly as their common hunting ground. In 1826, by what is known as the treaty of Tippecanoe, it was agreed between them, with the assent of the government, to make a division of territory and assign a part of each tribe. By this treaty the Upper Peninsula was set apart to the Chippewas; the tract between the Straits and Grand River to the Ottawas, and all south of Grand River, including parts of Indiana and Illinois, to the Pottawatomies. This arrangement has always been duly observed, even after the title to the soil was ceded to them by the government in subsequent treaties, and up to the time of the actual occupation of these regions by the white settlers.

Nevertheless when the Hollanders came here in '47 this immediate locality was occupied by the Ottawas, notwithstanding that their hunting grounds had been fixed north of Grand River. Pokagon explains this in this way: The headquarters of the Ottawas was Grand Traverse. Here they spent their summers. The game in that early period, as a rule, migrated south in the winter, and this made poor hunting and trapping in the Traverse region. Hence they—the Ottawas—followed the game in the fall and located during the winter at and near Black Lake. There they stay, however, was only temporary, and was with the consent of the Pottawatomies, whose headquarters were further south in the counties of Cass, Berrien and Van Buren. Here the Pottawatomies lived on small farms, which they owned, having purchased them back from the government after the treaty of 1833, by which treaty the elder Chief Pokagon, father of our guest, had ceded to the government the title to all the land south of Grand River, including the present site of Chicago, for about three cents an acre.

Beyond this we will not go at this time, deeming the above ample as an introduction of our honored visitor at Holland's Semi-Centennial, and at the same time indicating why he was such.

Ladies and gentlemen:—I welcome you one and all as the true nobility of this land. I am indeed glad to meet you at this important gathering of the fathers and mothers, who have reclaimed from an unknown wilderness a paradise, if such there is on earth.

I would not have you think that I flatter myself in having been invited here on account of my reputation of intelligence, as I most keenly realize you have looked forward to my coming with a sort of novel pride, that you might point me out to your children and say: "Behold, a living specimen of the race with whom we once neighbored, a race we once loved, and yet with that love was mingled distrust and fear."

Our people who sleep beneath your soil, came here from the coast of the Atlantic. They were pioneers in their time, as you are today, and when they first entered these beautiful woodland plains they said in their hearts: "We are surely on the borderland of the happy hunting grounds beyond."

I pray you, do not covet the narrow ground they occupy and their resting place. For the good of yourselves and your children, you had better erect some simple monument over their remains and engrave thereon, "An unknown Red Man lies buried here."

Our fathers here found game in abundance; the buffalo and the deer had not yet learned to fear the face of man, and they started at the twang of the bow.

Here our people built their wigwams, and their children played under the green pavilion of the mighty forests, as happy as your children now play in the open field or on your decorated lawns.

I speak of this not complainingly, for I have always taught my people not to sigh for years long gone by, nor pass again over the bloody trails their fathers trod. I fully realize that, as pioneers of this land, you had mountains of difficulty to overcome, of which our race knew not.

The same forest that frowned upon you smiled upon us. The same forest that was ague and death to you, was our bulwark and defence. The same forest you have cut down and destroyed, we loved, and our great fear was that the white man in his advance westward would mar or destroy it.

I realize fully how hard you labored, day in and day out, year in and year out, to reclaim your farms from the unbroken forests, until your labors were crowned with success, and the wilderness budded and blossomed as the rose. Indeed you deserve great credit for what you have here accomplished, and I pray that your children may fully appreciate the goodly inheritance they have and will receive from your hands.

As I survey the face of this country, I cannot refrain from saying to your sons and daughters, do not forget the command: "Honor thy father and mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord, thy God (The Great Spirit), hath given thee." To do them honor you must be good to yourselves; keep your mouths clean from profanity; and as your parents cut down the mighty forests that covered the land, so may you push forward the great car of reformation, until all enemies that press down the right, and uphold the wrong, shall be overthrown.

Fathers and Mothers! How dear those names! And while I have here stood among strangers, my heart has continually whispered in my ears saying, "Pokagon, your father and mother a century ago passed and re-passed this very spot along their winding trails."

My parents once lived near Plymouth, Indiana. Mr. Prentice, an honored citizen of this county, who has just gone into the world beyond, were he alive and here today, would tell you that when he was a young man, lost and starving, he found our wigwam home, and how he shared our simple meals and beds for many moons. We loved him dearly, and when he left us, we all wept. It rejoices my heart to feel that he and my father are in that great wigwam, where there are many rooms prepared by our Heavenly Father.

I am getting old and feeble, and feel that one foot is lifted to step into the world beyond. I have stood all my life as a peace-maker between your people and my people, trying to soothe the prejudices of the two races toward each other. Yes, without bow or gun I have stood as one standing between two armies advancing toward each other for the fight, receiving a thousand wounds from your people and my own people.

In conclusion, permit me to say, I rejoice with the joy of childhood, that you have granted "a son of the forest" a right to speak to you; and the prayer in my heart shall ever be so long as I live, that the Great Spirit will bless you and your children, and that the generations yet unborn, may learn to know that we are all brothers, and that God is the Father of all.

The certificate holders of the old Holland City State Bank will receive each a part of $60,000, since a 10% dividend has been declared and payment will start next week Monday at 9 a. m. Henry Geerds, secretary of the Holland Depositors' Corporation, having charge of the bank's segregated assets, made this announcement. This is gratifying news, considering that not only this old bank but the Peoples State Bank, too, will soon pay a substantial dividend as was reported in last week's issue of the Holland City News.

Payments are to be made in the office of the Holland City Depositors' Corporation, on the second floor of the old bank building "under the clock."

Mr. Geerds said it is important that the holders of the certificates bring them when they make application for payments.

"If they should send some one else with the certificates, a letter signed by the person whose name appears on the certificates, should also be sent authorizing payment to the person presenting the certificate," stated Mr. Geerds.

"To avoid a rush in the office, it is highly advisable that persons whose last names start with A to M, inclusive, make application next week and that persons whose last names start with N to Z, inclusive, make application for payment the following week."

Mr. Geerds announced that his office, after Monday, will be open from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., including the noon hour, with the exception of Saturday when it will close at noon.

When the bank was reopened a few years ago, a 50 per cent cash payment to certificate holders was made through a loan from the federal government. This second 10 per cent payment represents a total of 20 per cent to be paid on the remaining 50 per cent due the holders of certificates, Mr. Geerds said.

Both local banks reorganized some time ago have nothing whatever to do with these segregated assets. Both banks were reorganized under a solid footing and are operating under the government act which is a guarantee to depositors of an amount of up to $5,000 for each depositor through depositors' insurance which is a federal law.

Simultaneously, with this good banking news there is also some similar news coming from our neighbors in Zeeland. The trustees of the segregated assets announce a 10% payment at the Zeeland State Bank on and after Monday.

Simultaneously, with this good banking news there is also some similar news coming from our neighbors in Zeeland. The trustees of the segregated assets announce a 10% payment at the Zeeland State Bank on and after Monday.

The total amount of money to be released is $70,000 which will mean that 76% will have been paid to depositors. The Board of Trustees are Corey Post, John Hartgerink, and H. Baron.

The company normally employs about 55 men, but this new contract will provide employment for six or seven additional men. Mr. Keller announced. Local Man Lauded By County Seat Paper

JOHN R. DETHMERS

The Ottawa County delegates viewed with a great deal of pride the sportsmanship of John R. Dethmers, defeated candidate for attorney general at the state convention. We in Holland who know John, also know that he wouldn't do anything else. It is his attitude, together with another defeated candidate, that brought harmony to the party, and the only contest at the state convention held at Grand Rapids Monday.

It is, however, gratifying to hear what someone else has to say about the Holland attorney who is just finishing up his fourth term as prosecuting attorney of this county. Under the caption "Dethmers' Splendid Showing" the Grand Haven Tribune editorially gives the following:

(Grand Haven Tribune)

John R. Dethmers, well known to all the citizens of Ottawa county, made a splendid showing in his bid for the attorney general's nomination on the Republican ticket. He and O. L. Smith, both of whom lost to Tom Read, might have pooled their strength and made it tough for Old Guard Republicans. But they did not, they might have split the party wide open. Dethmers would not listen to such a plan and Smith proved himself to be a good loser.

NEW STYLE OF LICENSE
PLATES FOR 1940

Larger and more legible license plates are to be made for the year 1940, according to Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, who has recently approved of the new design. The 1940 plates are to be wider and the length varying with the size of the numbers stamped on it. The style of the numerals will also be changed, making the plate more readable. This has been advocated by the State Police and the Police and Sheriff's Department for several years.

The new plates will be so punched that when affixed to the license bracket of a car, there will be a more firm contact and eliminate rattles and the number of lost plates.

The old dies, for stamping out license plates now nearly worn out, have been in service for eight years and have stamped nearly 18 million pairs of license plates. The new dies will also allow a different spacing of the numerals.

The auto license plant of the Michigan State Industries is able to turn out 18,000 complete sets of license plates every eight hour working day.

ZEELAND BRIDE DECKED IN MOTHER'S WEDDING GOWN

Miss Helen Carol, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Jarrett N. Clark of Zeeland and Earl Paul Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Babcock of Grand Haven, were married Saturday at 4 p. m. in a pretty autumn wedding at the Clark home in Zeeland. Both young people are socially prominent and members of leading families.

About 60 guests witnessed the ceremony, performed by Rev. Richard J. Vanden Berg of Zeeland before the fireplace, banked with palms, ferns and baskets of white gladioli. The wedding music was played by Carl Senob, violinist, and Gerard W. Hanchett, pianist, both of Holland. The wedding marches of Wagner and Mendelssohn were played as processional and recessional.

Miss Jane Peter of Grand Haven attended the bride and Richard Babcock attended his brother as best man. Mistresses of ceremony were Miss Dorothy M. Fair and Miss Catherine E. Jackson. Close friends of the bride and groom were the bride's brother, was master of ceremonies.

The bride was charming in her mother's wedding dress, an ivory crepe de chine, Venetian lace trimmed, with full skirt and short train. Her finger tip veil of ivory illusion descended from a small cap of lace, matching that of the gown. Her bridal bouquet was a nosegay of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Peter wore a burgundy velvet gown with gold accessories and carried token roses and bouquet.

Mrs. Babcock wore black crepe with colored sequin trim and Mrs. Clark, a gown of rust crepe embroidered in gold. Their corsages were of gardenias.

A two-course supper at the Clark home followed the ceremony, decorations being principally autumn flowers. Assisting in the serving and arrangements were Miss Frances Vyn of Grand Haven, Miss Barbara Van Volkenburgh, Miss Lois Vanden Berg, Miss Florence Bouwens and Miss Janice Van Koeveering, all of Zeeland.

Mr. and Mrs. Babcock will reside at 109 South Fourth street, Grand Haven upon their return from a trip Oct. 15. Mrs. Babcock wore a green wool suit trimmed with Baranduk and black accessories, for travel. Both Mr. and Mrs. Babcock are graduates of the University of Michigan. Mr. Babcock, a graduate of Grand Haven high school, was prominent in athletic and scholastic activities, and is now employed at the Challenge Machinery company. He is a director of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Babcock was born in Zeeland and is the daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Jarrett Clark. Mr. Babcock's father is superintendent of the Grand Haven schools.

The night of the All-College Mixer turned out to be a big night, what with the sophomores sending the frosh down the fire escape, and then an impromptu serenade by the Fraternals. Loud fire-crackers drew the Voorheeses to all the court windows, where they were entertained. Much enjoyment was had by all, and the girls are looking forward to more serenades in the near future.

More than 100 workers will be aligned for the Community chest drive in Holland Oct. 31 to Nov. 5, it was made known today by O. W. Lowry, chest president, as he announced the general structure for the campaign.

The appeal for funds will be conducted under six major divisions, it was decided last night by the campaign committee headed by A. W. Tahaney. A chairman will be named for each division. These chairmen will name their captains and other co-workers.

The divisions will include:

1. Special gifts division, which will secure the major donations from factories and executives.

2. National corporation division, which will solicit organizations whose offices are in other cities. These include the telephone company and chain stores.

3. Factory-employee division, which will have one person as solicitor for each factory. This is a new division. A list which will be signed by employees, rather than individual cards as in the past, will be used this year. Under a program as is used in Grand Rapids and other cities, each employee will be asked to give a sum representing four hours of work. Under this plan, pay for one hour's work would be deducted for four consecutive weeks.

4. Public employee division, which will solicit workers in the city hall, board of works, police and fire departments and the like.

5. School and college division, which will contact local educational institutions.

6. General solicitation division. This is the largest division. Under this division the city will be divided into four sections, with co-chairmen to be assigned to each section. Numerous captains and others will be included in this grouping.

No homes, other than those of retired businessmen or persons who cannot be solicited through their businesses or places of employment, will be contacted in the campaign.

The campaign committee also arranged for a woman's committee, which will have charge of posters, luncheons and a poster contest; a speakers' committee, which will engage speakers to address all local organizations; and an auditing committee, which will audit the campaign results and books of the chest agencies.

Names of the various workers were not announced.

The chest's board of directors will meet Friday night to adopt the budgets for the agencies which will share in the campaign funds.

AUTHORS WILL MEET AT WARM FRIEND TAVERN SATURDAY

At the autumn meeting of the Michigan Authors' association, to be held at the Warm Friend Tavern tomorrow (Saturday), Dr. E. D. Dimment of Hope college, is scheduled to be named president for the coming year. Mr. Dimment has served the association as vice-president the past two years and will be graduated to the presidency according to custom. The term of office of Dr. George Sprau of Kalamazoo will end at this meeting. James Scherhorn of Detroit is the association's nominee for the vice-presidency.

The gathering at the tavern will be in the nature of a dinner meeting. Members from many sections of the state are expected to be here. There will be a program in addition to the annual business meeting.

Dr. Nancy Scott, of the social science department of Western State Teachers' college, who has for many years made a special study of the Czech people, will speak on "The Epic of Czechoslovakia."

Dr. Scott has been a student of Czech history since the middle of the World war. Because of her interest in the subject she was granted a fellowship by the Czech government for further study at Charles university, Prague, for the year 1927-28.

While there Dr. Scott learned enough of the difficult Czech language to make some use of historical documents in her study. She visited every section of the country and talked with all classes of people, particularly with Germans and other of the minority groups. Her investigations carried her on extended trips into surrounding countries as far as Smyrna in Asia Minor.

Dr. Scott had four talks with the late President Masaryk and one with Dr. Edward Benes, who is now president of the republic. Since her return to America she has kept in close touch with friends there and some of them have been her guests here. She is a member of the American institute in Prague and to the Masaryk institute here.

Dr. Dimment will also give a talk but his subject has not yet been announced. Music will be provided by the department of music of Hope college.

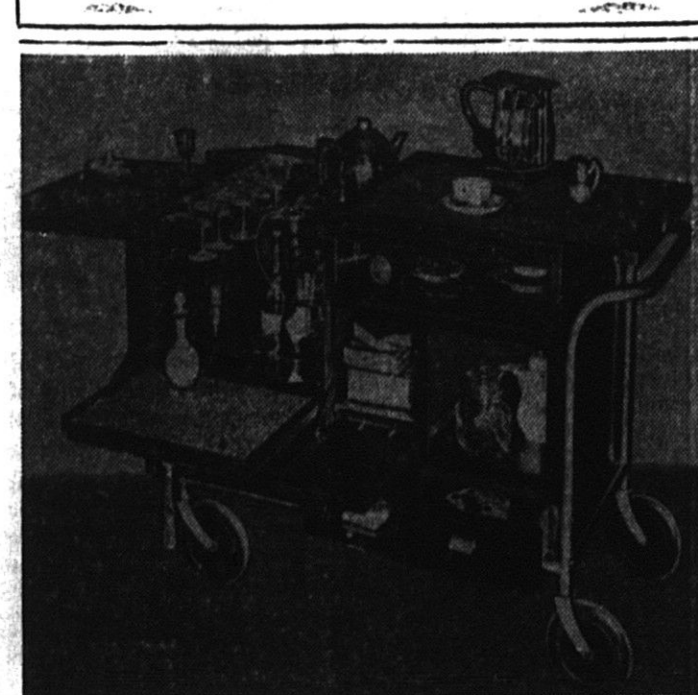

POTATO BLIGHT DAMAGES OTTAWA COUNTY "SPUDS"

Late blight, probably one of the most serious potato diseases, has struck many potato fields in Ottawa county, according to L. R. Arnold, agricultural agent. The disease spreads rapidly in cool, moist weather. The fungus spreads by means of spores. A few affected plants will furnish spores enough to cause the entire field to be affected within a few days when weather conditions are right. Late blight may be looked for in any season when July is wet with cool nights followed by moderate or heavy rainfall in August. The blight struck many fields in the county about 10 days ago. Mr. Arnold found one field which on Saturday had been green. On the following Tuesday it was a field of brown, dead plants. Spraying or dusting is recommended, but such practice should be continuous throughout the growing season.

Fortunately many of the affected fields had approached maturity and potatoes were of good size. These potatoes, however, may suffer from the blight. The tubers are usually attached. A moist, firm type of decay sets in. Under moist conditions complete rotting of the potato may take place. In cases where the blight has struck it would be advisable to dig the potatoes to escape the danger of losing all of them. Such digging should be delayed until soil is fairly well dried on surface. The tuber should be allowed to dry in the field on a bright day, then placed in a dry, cool storage of a temperature of around 40 degrees F. Development of rot in storage will depend much upon humidity and temperature maintained. Leaving the potatoes in the field until wet weather arrives is inviting total loss of crop.

A surprise birthday party was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Schaap on West 20th St. Friday afternoon. The affair was in honor of Mrs. William Mokma, Mrs. H. A Kitchen on Wheels

A Movable Feast

UP-TO-DATE inventions have relieved housekeeping of its ancient drudgery. The tasks of the housekeeper have been scientifically solved. Time and labor saving devices now available by the average housewife would have seemed black magic a generation ago.

In the newest scientific kitchens the labor of many hands is performed by ingenious electrical devices. Fruits and vegetables are quickly cleaned, pared and sliced by nimble mechanical fingers. The modern stove is controlled by electric push buttons. Scientific cleanliness is assured by many forms of automatic scraping, scrubbing and polishing devices, controlled by the touch of the finger.

The latest time and labor saving devices for the home in a score of countries are regularly assembled for comparison and inspection at the Leipzig Fair, which serves as a clearing house for new inventions. More than 400 exhibits of household furniture and equipment comprising thousands of new devices are regularly demonstrated. Since the Fair is attended by buyers from seventy-four countries, including the United States, new inventions quickly find their way to the farthest corners of the world. The photograph above shows one of the many new features this year. The ingenious travelling table makes possible to prepare and serve meals and refreshments in every corner of the house.

Crossroads of Speech

then and now

Once upon a time the telephone switchboards of Michigan were like sleepy country crossroads. . . Today's switchboards are like the busy, well-regulated intersections of the most crowded motor highways, thronged with hurrying traffic day and night.

This traffic of speech has grown until now an average of 3,200,000 calls a day . . . about 2250 every minute . . . travel over Michigan Bell lines. It is the efficiency of the modern equipment developed by Bell System research and manufacturing skill . . . together with the work of highly trained telephone employees . . . that enables us to direct each message along the right road to its destination . . . without confusion and without delay—a reasonable cost.

PARK AND CEMETERY ORDINANCE HELD OVER FOR FURTHER PERUSAL

Below will be found the complete ordinance, drafted by the Park and Cemetery Board, as this relates to the new and the old Pilgrim Home Cemetery. The Common Council did not pass the ordinance, and for that reason this publication is unofficial and subject to change.

A meeting is to be held this Friday night jointly by the Park and Cemetery Board and the Ways and Means Committee at the Common Council rooms to go over the new ordinance again. Some changes were suggested by Council members, and the meeting will indicate whether changes will be made. In any event, the ordinance will come up again at the next regular meeting of the Common Council.

It is well, however, to publish this ordinance for the benefit of our readers to give some idea as to what the new law will embrace. As we said before, however, it is subject to change. The ordinance, as drafted, follows below:

AN ORDINANCE NO. 385
Chapter No. 64

Relative to the Control, Management, Preservation, Improvement, Regulation and Use of Pilgrim Home Cemetery of the City of Holland.

The City of Holland Ordains:

Sec. 1 This ordinance is adopted more particularly to provide for the control, management, preservation, improvement, regulation, and use of that part of the cemetery to be established on the south side of east sixteenth street, and comprising the property now owned by the City of Holland for cemetery purposes, but not heretofore platted, laid out and improved; provided, that all pertinent provisions hereof shall also apply to any and all other cemetery sites now owned by said City of Holland; and provided, further, that where the fair interpretation and enforcement of the provisions of this ordinance might tend to create a hardship, or condition not readily complied with, in the parts of the cemetery heretofore laid out and established, it shall be within the province and power of the Board of Park and Cemetery Trustees to forego compliance with the provisions hereof; and provided, further, that as to any cemetery grounds hereafter to be platted, laid out and improved, there shall be no variance from the terms of this ordinance.

Sec. 2 The entire cemetery, including the original cemetery and its additions, together with the cemetery acquired on the south side of east sixteenth street, and that part adjacent thereto, and on which work has begun for its development and improvement shall be known as "PILGRIM HOME CEMETERY."

Sec. 3 Every purchaser of a burial right in any cemetery plat, shall receive a certificate thereof, in such form as may be established by the Board of Park and Cemetery Trustees, to be executed in the name of the City of Holland, by the Mayor and City Clerk, and on such terms as the said Board may determine, subject to the approval of the Common Council of the City of Holland, and in which certificate it shall be provided that the same is and forever shall be subject to the ordinances of the City of Holland, then in force, or that may thereafter be regularly enacted, and the rules and regulations of the Board of Park and Cemetery Trustees then in force and effect, or such as may thereafter be regularly adopted by said Board, and approved by the Common Council of said City of Holland.

Hope College Pulls Of Other Years

Frosh vs. Soph

Sophomore girls continued the practice set up by last year's sophomore class when they initiated the freshmen girls by sending them down the fire-escape after the all-college mixer last Thursday evening. The picture shows sophomores Bilkert and Jacobs paddling Ruth Vander May, frosh, as she finally arrives at the bottom.

Sophomores, freshmen and tradition will again hold sway this year, in the famed and furious pull across Black River. Rumor has it that the river is unusually high and cold, making it a highly unpleasant spot to linger in. Combining this with a large amount of class spirit should produce a roaring fight to stay dry.

Last year's struggle was a tummy-wrencher, lasting nearly two hours, the frosh emerging defeated and very demoralized in appearance. It was a great battle, however, and one that this year's frosh will find hard to duplicate, with the exception of the defeat.

In an effort to keep the pull within a reasonable time limit, the rules were somewhat changed, and several judges added to the executive list. The event is intended to proceed as follows: A whistle signal will warn the teams to prepare to dig in. One minute later another signal will begin five minutes of digging in, which will be followed by a five-minute rest. Then, one minute after another warning signal the pull will begin, both teams pulling from their holes for fifteen minutes. At the end of this period, a one-minute rest will precede the final pulling, which has to be done in a standing position to the end. Any man who does not remain in a standing position after his team has stood up will be taken from the rope. If the frosh win the scrap they will not have to pot to sophomores.

Captain for the sophomore team will be Bob Dykstra, for the frosh, Ken Vandenberg, with coaches Gord Pleune and Don Cordes, respectively. The feminine bearers of

Bitter Enemies Meet Today Friday Over Black River for Annual Pull

A tug-of-war, a fight to the river, a struggle of the classes, — in other words, the annual pull between the freshmen and the sophomores, is just around the corner, and if one turns left on Thursday he'll come to the Black river on Friday.

Two spirited classes renew the rivalry of the lower classes on October 7 when they face each other across the cold waters of the river north of town. Here, late in the afternoon, the decision of the strongest, best-coached team is made when one weary, blistered squad gets a cold bath by being dragged through the muddy waters to meet their conquerors across the way.

Aiding the brawn of either class will be the beauties who attempt to see that their support is more than moral, by dousing the perspiring teams with water and stuffing their mouths with lemon, sugar, and such energy-providing foods. Many a heart is won by the care given during this trying time — freshmen take note.

Lining up as cheering sections will be the division of the juniors on the frosh side and the seniors on the sophomore. The juniors, having once tasted of the river at the hands of the present seniors, and having passed the drinking cup on to the sophomores, are more than eager to have their younger brothers, the frosh, introduce a beaten sophomore class to them on the frosh side of the river. But the seniors, too, would be pleased to meet a dampened class of frosh on the soph side and give them the old line, "We told you so."

For the information of the freshmen there is a reward for the winning team—not a gold cup, but a privilege. If the freshmen win they are under no further obligation to "pot" the upperclassmen, although they continue to wear their green. But if the sophomore class wins, its members have the right to command the freshmen to "pot," just as the juniors and seniors have the right to make such demands. So to the freshmen, beware the soph strength or you'll be wearing to the green and potting your natural enemies.

mercy, water and oranges, and the committees serving to make the event a bigger and better one will be: sophomore, Jean Wismeier, chairman; Ruth Stryker, Marthene Van Dyke, Margaret Bilkert, Marion Tyssie, Phyllis Newcastle, Ruth Klassen, Doris Van Lente, Mary

Nafe, Wismeier, Chairmen, Plan For Homecoming

The program for the 1938 homecoming week-end of October 22 is already well under way under the direction of co-chairmen Genne Nafe and Bob Wismeier.

A general welcome is planned for the alumni on Friday, but the highlight of the day comes with the evening parade of floats and the succeeding meeting of pep around the bonfire. House and dormitory decorations will be additional campus attractions. Cliff Marcus, Bob Bonthus, and Virginia Ellison are in charge of the open-air meeting while co-chairmen Nafe and Wismeier will direct the parade. The bonfire is also the occasion for the award of float and house prizes.

On Saturday morning society breakfasts and fraternity stags will be arranged in honor of the alumni.

A parade of the college band and organization floats will lead the way to the football field for the game with Alma on Saturday afternoon. Traditional freshman field activities provide entertainment during the fifteen minutes between the halves. Following the game the fraternities will open their houses to all students and alumni.

The all-college banquet, which will be held at seven on Saturday evening, will serve as a finale to the events of the week-end. Music, fun and entertainment are promised for the occasion under the management of Gordon Pleune, Dean Dykstra, Margaret Allen and Peg Bergen. Bill Jacobs, John Olert, Kit Van Raalte, and Mildred Mulder are making arrangements for the banquet proper.

Other committees are underway on plans for the week-end. The campus decorations are in charge of Jimmie Hallan and Jean Hoekje. Betsy Race, Mary Frellick and Marjorie Mulder will take care of the outside decorations for Voorhees Hall, and Dorothy Bonga, Caroline Kremers, Margaret Nagy and Ruth Vander May will work on the inside.

The field decorations are in charge of Althea Raffenaud, Harold Leetsma, Dave De Pree and Lucille Kardux.

Decorations for the banquet are in the hands of Gerly Vischer, Martha Morgan, Bob Vandenberg and Don Saeger.

Jack Schouten, Bob Dykstra, Bill Tappan and Mr. Leon Moody will direct the freshman field activities. The publicity committee consists of Corrie Steketee, Bob Powers, Bob Taft, Dorothy Vanden Bout and Teddy Meulendyke.

MAGAZINE REPLETE WITH INTEREST

The Woman's Day magazine for October is replete with interest, beginning with an article by Henry Ford "Your Boy in the Future," as told by Charles Morro Wilson. The article is well illustrated. McAvoy also tells graphically how formerly, women folk spent time in the garden and not so much time in the garden club. "No one can take my husband away from me" is a contribution of Marguerite Mooers Marshall. A story "The Tall Tree" by Mary Robert Rhinhardt takes up several pages. "Don't be Afraid to Upholster," by Rose Wilder Lane, shows how an old chair can be turned into a serviceable, homey piece of furniture. Several pages are given to "Fifth Avenue Frocks," "The Land of Counterpanes," "The First Baby," "It Is Easy to Make Hook Rugs," "Is Your Home Dated," "Six Good Apple Recipes," with pictures, "Your Child," "Rolling Rhyme," and "Funnies," "October Menus," "Pages of Recipes," Birthday Party for Grandmas, For Children, For Father, For Mother" with illustrations. "From the Notebook of Elsa Connors" is interesting reading. These and many other subjects of interest find a place in this month's pages of Woman's Day magazine.

The regular issue of the Woman's Day, a monthly publication sponsored by the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., is now available and copies can be secured at 2c each at any Holland, Ottawa, or Allegan county A&P food stores. Ask for your copy.

A&P's beginning in a little ship, the Vesey Street of Old New York. It was in the early fall of 1859 that a little masted sailing vessel carried to America's shores A&P's first stock in the cargo of Canton teas brought halfway around the world. A&P began its business with that clipper cargo of tea.

In creating his A&P Anniversary picture, Norman Price's full artistry of pen and brush was plemented by a comprehensive, mate knowledge of the subject spent many hours in research before the first line of the picture was drawn. Even after the composition was worked out and the details carefully sketched, Mr. Price had an old hand who had spent years "before the check all details of the construction of the clipper ship and its rigging that every line would be technically accurate.

Famed for his beautiful and authentic historical illustrations, artist Norman Price was recently commissioned by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company to create the "theme picture" for the 75th Anniversary Celebration of its A&P Food Stores which takes place during the month of October.

Mr. Price's painting, now completed, faithfully portrays a waterfront scene typical of the year 1869—the year of
