'Involvement' Is Mayor's Byword

By Linda Klungie

The city of Holland is experiencing growth in all phases of its operations and Mayor L. W. Lamb Jr. sees the establishment of set, city-wide goals as a necessary outgrowth of this expansion.

Mayor Lamb says there are goals for such things as new roads, better storm sewer systems and increased parking, but there are no intangible, people-oriented goals.

Individuals and groups may have goals in themselves that involve the city, but so far no one has undertaken a study to determine goals and priorities for the community although City Council is in support of any such study.

The main stumbling block for establishment of the goals the Mayor feels are needed is time. City officials are often too busy with regular duties to undertake such a study and are often too close to city government to be objective and sufficiently far-sighted.

Set goals would allow for shifting priorities to establish projects for successive city councils, the Mayor said, because with the achievement of the top priority, the way would be open to begin work on those following.

Among the main accomplishments during his term of office, Mayor Lamb lists the involvement of different groups and minorities in city government and activities, and an improvement in the relationships of the city and surrounding townships. Hard feelings built up over annexations in 1958 giving way to mutual understanding and increased city-townships cooperation are further achievements.

There are obviously many problems facing a mayor and Mayor Lamb said one of the greatest is conveyance of information to the public. Changes that come up for council discussion are tabled and reported to allow the public to become aware of them before they are implemented; however, although local government is generally quite sensitive to the will of the people, local officials normally don't hear from the individual until change hits his pocketbook.

The Mayor pointed out that many people are unaware of proposals even after publication and that most people who come to council meetings are there because they are against something. Citizens are sometimes completely uninformed on functions and actions of city government, but the Mayor has received no questions to be asked and answered during his weekly report to the city on a local radio station.

Prior to the formal City Council proceedings, members of the news media are supplied with rather complete agendas for the meeting and, when asked if questions brought up during the meeting are already decided and if the meetings themselves are nearly formalities, the Mayor explained that the bulk of council material is indeed discussed at study sessions prior to the formal meetings. If all questions were introduced for initial discussion at the regular meeting, most of them would be tabled; but, under the present plan, officials feel they can attain a more thorough understanding of any question before presenting it to the public for floor discussion.

In spite of study sessions, however, being a councilman is becoming increasingly time consuming and the amount of council business is increasing to a point that councilmen are presently meeting on the Wednesdays alternating with formal meetings. The feasibility of weekly, rather than bi-monthly, council meetings has even been considered.

The effect of his position on his business is definite, Mayor Lamb feels, adding that sometimes citizens unhappy with something in city government show their displeasure by not patronizing a given firm. This aspect of office holding is one of the primary reasons it is difficult to get people to serve on committees and boards and to run for positions — many are afraid that the outside activity will hurt their jobs or businesses. Although the fear is justified to a certain extent, Mayor Lamb pointed out that sometimes holding a position of responsibility can help a business or individual too.

Operating a business and holding public office can combine to create other unique problems. For example, Mayor Lamb agrees that a conflict of interest claim would be possible in regard to the city's contract with his firm, L. W. Lamb Co., to build the Kollen Park boat launch although he abstained from the council vote. Another member of the family placed the bid during the Mayor's vacation, but Lamb said he would not have bid on the contract and that the company will not involve itself in similar circumstances while he is mayor.

One of the Mayor's most recent innovations is the newly-established Youth Commission involving young people between the ages of 16 and 21, an age group generally neglected, according to Lamb. The situation at the Civic Center parking lot before it was closed pointed up the need for activities for youth, but a main aim of the program is for the young people themselves to find solutions to their problems rather than being allowed to do what someone else thinks they would like. Quite often, Mayor Lamb pointed out, there's a difference between activities adults choose for young people and activities young people choose for themselves; and, although the group will receive help and guidance from the city, it will be largely autonomous.

Members of the commission were chosen mainly from those who attended preliminary meetings and showed an interest in the project, but emphasis in membership was in making the program an area-wide venture with youths of different ages, races, economic and social backgrounds included. Youths serving on the commission come from the entire surrounding area and being a resident of the city is not a criterion for membership.

Like any other city, Holland has some pressing problems and racial prejudice is one of the ugliest ones. Mayor Lamb feels that, in spite of the fact that the true racial bigots are in the minority and that the inclusion of Latin Americans in city activities has done much to better race relations in the city, Holland still has a definite racial problem. He estimates the city's Latin American population at 10 per cent but said attempts are being made to gain a truer picture of the percentage through the 1970 census report. Prejudice in Holland is a major "area of concern," the Mayor said, adding that it is not limited strictly to race but encompasses, ideas, faiths and people as well.

Another important problem only beginning to make itself visible in the city is the decay of the downtown area. The first signs are only apparent at present, Mayor Lamb said, but if the situation is not treated, the problem can only grow.

Among projects Lamb lists as yet to be achieved are a new sign ordinance which was requested by most of the Eighth St. merchants and which, according to the Mayor, will help eliminate "eye pollution" and will be one step toward improving the downtown area. Also included is a road system coordinated with Zeeland, the state and the townships with the main arteries connected and cooperative roads for traffic loads. One-way street systems within the city, truck routes and the implementation of the valid under way, are other programs set for the city.

Public understanding is a primary concern for the Mayor and he is open to suggestions from groups for members to serve on the boards and committees essential to good, sensitive local government. He is also interested in public awareness through explanations of planned city actions by persons most involved in the projects and remarked that staff members are willing to speak to groups in order to answer questions and present ideas.

"Involvement" and its variations are words that recur frequently in conversation with Mayor Lamb and "involvement" is probably the word that best describes his feeling toward people and his office.

Woman Critically Injured in Crash

HUDSONVILLE—Mrs. Bonnie Carson Anthony, 27, of Hudsonville, was critically injured in a two car collision at 8:50 a.m. Wednesday at 40th Ave., and Port Sheldon St. in Georgetown township.

She was admitted to Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids with multiple injuries. Her condition was listed as "critical". Ottawa county sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Anthony was northbound on 40th and pulled into the path of a car driven by Regina Jaarsma, 24, of Hudsonville, eastbound on Port Sheldon.

Mrs. Anthony's two children, Kevin, 6, and Jacob, 1, were treated at Butterworth Hospital for bumps and bruises and released. The Jaarsma woman also was reported injured.

1,400 at Sport Show

Some 1,400 persons attended the two-day Fall and Winter Sports Show in the Civic Center Friday and Saturday sponsored by the Holland Jaycees. More than 20 exhibitors displayed items ranging from campers to skis and snowmobiles designed for use in the fall and winter outdoor sporting season.

Greed Often Linked With Mail Fraud

The innate greed of persons is largely the underlying motive in fraud cases, J. W. Zaiger, an inspector with the U. S. Postal Service who has been stationed in Grand Rapids since 1966, told Chamber of Commerce Early Birds at their monthly breakfast in Hotel Warm Friend Tuesday.

But for the U. S. Postal Service to get a conviction, there must be evidence of intent to defraud, some documented misrepresentation in which a pledge is not fulfilled, and use of the mail must be proved. Persons victimized in any nefarious scheme should save all their mail including envelopes.

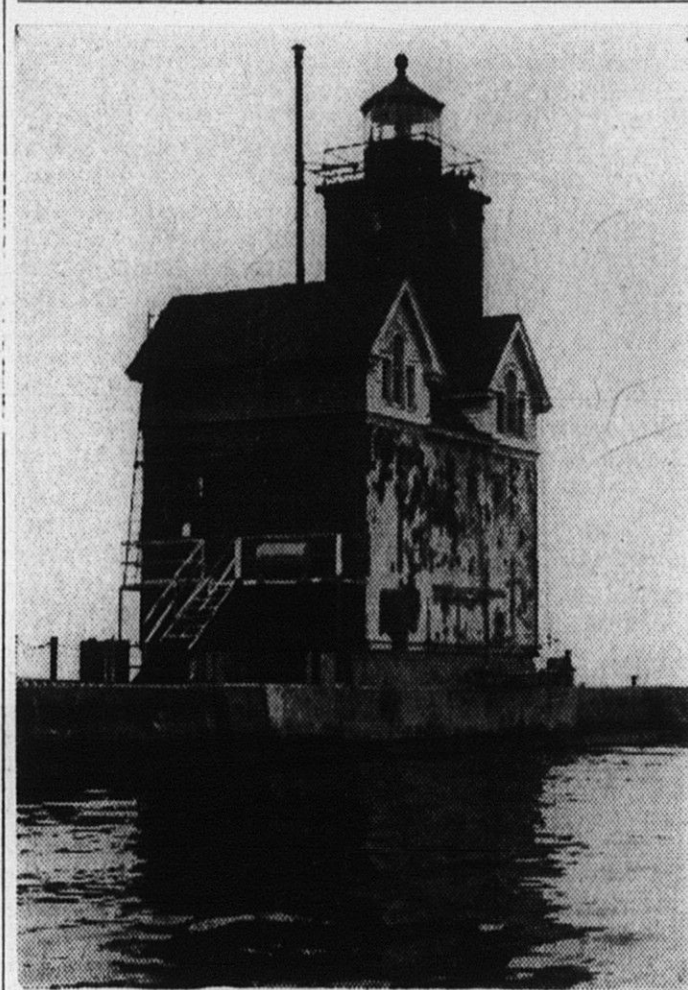

Booklets on mail fraud laws protecting consumers, investors, businessmen, medical patients and students were distributed.

Among the most common frauds were the chain-referral scheme (pyramiding 10 times could lead to 10 trillion people); fake contests, the low-price trap, home improvements, debt consolidation, auto insurance fraud for "bad risk" drivers; retirement homesites for $1 down and $10 a month in sun-baked deserts or under water in Florida.

Other common frauds are the missing heir scheme, charity rackets, unordered merchandise, business opportunities, business franchises, vending machines, distributorships, work-at-home, business directories, fake newspapers, advance fees, medical fraud, fake lab tests and self-improvement.

Zaiger said poor business practices often are linked to criminal intent and this can be unfair. He said he could risk his own reputation on the integrity of many businessmen who need more capital and are beset with other problems. Besides, small businessmen are easier to sue than big corporations.

James Vande Poel who presided called attention to the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner Oct. 25 at Point West with Dr. Clifton R. Wharton Jr., president of Michigan State University. Because Dr. Wharton is on a tight schedule, his address will be given at 6:45 p.m. preceding the dinner. The meeting is scheduled at 6:30 p.m.

Holland Harbor Lighthouse
... Listed Aesthetic Landmark

Lighthouse Saved As Landmark Site

A campaign to Save the Lighthouse has finally resulted in the solution from the Ninth U.S. Coast Guard District in Cleveland, Ohio.

The South Pierhead Light Structure at Macatawa has been designated an "aesthetic landmark" and as such will be maintained by the Coast Guard. A group of disturbed citizens at Macatawa last Sept. 10, 1970 drew up petitions to get signatures to save the lighthouse as an historic landmark.

After months of writing letters to various government officials and others in the Department of Natural Resources including Coast Guard Commandants, U.S. Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, and many others, letters have been received by James A. Bryant, Historic Preservation Coordinator of the Office of Planning Services, Department of Natural Resources, Dr. Ralph MacMullan, director, and addressed to Wayne H. Verspoor of the department. The letter follows:

"Reference is made to your letter of 7 September 1971 concerning Holland Harbor South Pierhead Light Structure.

"Based upon numerous letters from the citizens of Holland, Michigan, we have recognized the South Pierhead Light Structure to be an aesthetic landmark. Plans for the improvement of the aids to navigation system at Holland have been revised to provide for the continued maintenance of this structure by the U.S. Coast Guard.

"I trust this information relieves any doubts you may have had for the future of the South Pierhead Light.

Sincerely,
J. Natwig, Captain,
U. S. Coast Guard
Chief of Staff,
Ninth Coast Guard District."

According to Mrs. A. J. Tazelaar of Macatawa and Mrs. Mary Heuvelhorst, who have been spearheading the campaign, the lighthouse has been painted and repainted within the past two or three weeks.

Allegan Mail Carrier Retires After 37 Years

ALLEGAN—Friday marked the 75th anniversary of "rural free delivery" in the United States, but to the 582 families who live on Allegan's rural route 4, the day had even more significance.

It was Willett S. "Bill" Wedge's last day on his appointed rounds as route 4's mail carrier. His retirement began Saturday after 37 years and four months with the postal department — a career just two months short of being exactly half the time that "RFD" has been in existence. He began as a substitute carrier June 1, 1934.

Events of the past week indicate that Wedge made a lot of friends during his postal career. At nearly every stop along his route, patrons have been waiting for him to say good-bye and tell him how much they've appreciated the way he's served him. A lot of the mail he's picked along the way was addressed to him — cards and notes of appreciation.

Last Saturday he was guest of honor at an open house hosted by Probate Judge and Mrs. Dwight Cheever, where a large number of his patrons gathered to say "thanks for everything" and present him with a retirement gift.

Tuesday night his fellow postal workers feted him at a dinner in an Allegan restaurant.

Friday afternoon, at Chicora, patrons in that area were waiting for him at Godfrey's Store to present him with a check for more than $400, representing a collective gift from Cheshire township residents.

As a result, he was a little late getting to the roadside mailbox across the road from Sunset Bowling Lanes, last stop on his 74 mile route. Ordinarily according to Route 4 patrons, "you can nearly set your watch by the time he gets to your place."

Jaycees Set Program For Coming Year

Mayor L. W. Lamb Jr. urged Holland Jaycees to take part in area-wide projects and not to concern themselves only with the city in an address at the first fall meeting of the Holland Jaycees Tuesday at the Holland Country Club.

About 60 Jaycees and guests attended the meeting during which committee appointments for the coming year were announced.

Lamb urged the Jaycees to take part in the democratic processes by supporting candidates for municipal elections and to get behind programs of the city council they thought were important.

Chairmanships announced were Riverview Park concession, John Bristol; Merchants Flags, Dick Hilbink; Civic Center concession, Chuck Wojahn; Fall and Winter sports show, Don Disselkoen; Manpower, Bill Clay; Spoke and Spark, Jan Peterson; Reports and Recognition, Larry Goodwin.

Leadership and Action, Jack Marquis; Publicity, Doug Carter; Membership, Gary Holvick; Orientation, Paul De Maagd; Credit Counseling, Jim Crozier; Haunted House, George Stegelder, and Punt, Pass and Kick, Jack Van Kampen.

Demands Examination On Marijuana Count

GRAND HAVEN—Michael De Wild, 21, of Grandville, demanded examination at his District Court arraignment Tuesday to a charge of possession of marijuana. He was remanded to the county jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

State Police said De Wild's vehicle was stopped at a traffic check lane along M-45 in Tallmadge township and officers detected what appeared the odor of marijuana. A quantity of marijuana and hashish was found on De Wild, troopers said.

Five New Signals Are Added

Holland's one-way street system in the downtown area will go into effect Monday, Oct. 18, at 4 a.m.

Around that time, city police and state highway employees will remove hoods from newly installed traffic signals and put up final signs for the new system designed to improve traffic and increase safety.

The new system calls for: Seventh St., one way west, Columbia Ave. to end of road at Mill St.

Ninth St., one way east, Lake St. (also known as Kollen Park Dr.) to Columbia Ave.

Eighth St., one way west, Pine Ave. to Ninth St. looping around Lake St.

River Ave., one way north, Ninth to Seventh Sts.

Pine Ave., one way south, Seventh to Ninth Sts.

Columbia Ave., one way north, Ninth to Seventh Sts.

New traffic signals have been placed at Seventh St. and Pine Ave., Seventh St. and College Ave., at Ninth St. and Central Ave., Ninth St. and River Ave. and Ninth St. and Pine Ave.

The signal at Eighth St. and Pine Ave. will be removed, and westbound Eighth St. traffic will stop for Pine Ave. All other traffic signals will remain for the present.

City Manager William L. Bopf said one-way traffic system was first designed in 1956 and since then has been revised and improved. He asked patience and cooperation in the transitional period.

Police Chief Charles Lindstrom added that city police will aid wherever possible in helping motorists adjust to the new schedule. He said the function for the police for the first week will be education rather than enforcement.

Bopf said parking will be limited to one side of the street on Seventh and Ninth Sts. from Pine to Columbia Aves. After June 30, 1972, there will be no parking on either side.

Work has been completed on broadening some curves for easier turning in the one-way system.

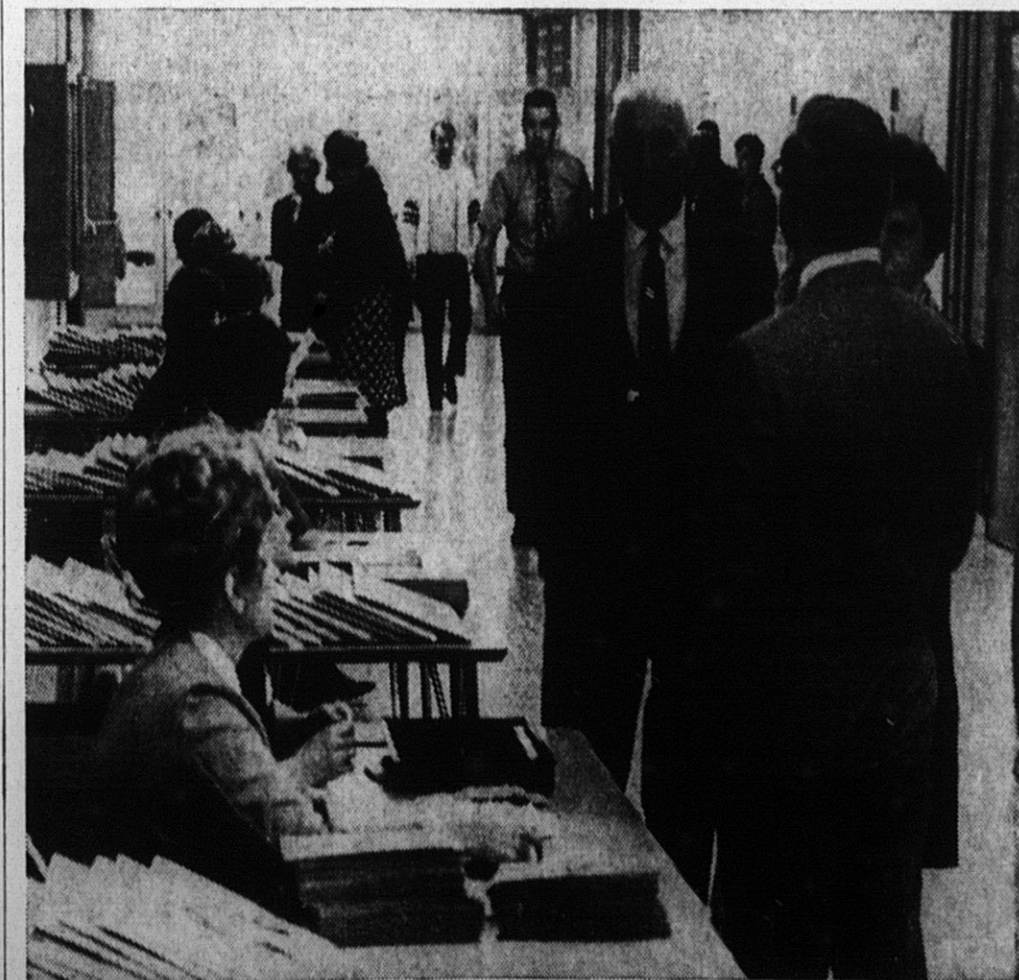

With the implementation of one-way traffic in the central business district, Seventh and Ninth Sts. will become state trunklines from Pine to Columbia Aves. and Eighth St. will cease to be a state trunkline for that distance. Pine Ave. and Columbia Ave. will also become trunklines between Seventh and Ninth Sts. River Ave.'s status as a trunkline will be unchanged.

Long-range plans call for making Pine Ave. one-way south from the Black River bridge, but the street will have to be rebuilt for heavier traffic before such a program is implemented. Other plans involve 16th and 17th Sts., River Ave. and Michigan Ave.

Copies of the map on this page are available in the city treasurer's office on the first floor of City Hall, at police headquarters and at Herrick Public Library.

Crash at Intersection

Cars driven by Raymond Tubergen, 47, of 798 136th Ave., and Mary Jane Kavathas, 50, of 1170 Ottawa Beach Rd., collided Wednesday at 12:37 p.m. at 16th St. and Cleveland Ave. Tubergen was northbound along Cleveland while the Kavathas car was heading east on 16th St.

Jewish Fete Sets Flag Dedication

WEST OLIVE — Land here was deeded to the United Israel World Union during ceremonies Monday that marked the dedication of three flags at the center.

The plot of land was turned over to the local group by Edward S. Abrahams, a vice president of the international movement.

The occasion marked the first day of the ancient Succoth or Feasts of Tabernacles festival which runs eight days.

Taking part in the event were Rabbi Daniel Lowy of Temple B'nai Israel, Muskegon and Abrahams and David Horowitz of New York, founders of the movement. Horowitz is U.N. correspondent for the World Union Press.

Congratulatory messages were received from Rabbi Max Nussbaum of Hollywood, Calif., Rabbi Harold H. Gordon, executive vice president of the New York Board of Rabbis; Rabbi Ben Zion Bokser of New York, Rabbi Irving J. Block, New York; Alan D. Bennett, director of education of the Fairmount Temple religious school, Cleveland, and Rabbi Israel Movshowitz, one of the originators of the International Synagogue at JFK airport.

Ray Beekman, president of the Michigan unit of the United Israel World Union, presided at the raising of the flags of the United States, Israel and United Israel.

Gayle Brown and Judith Brown raised the American flag while the National Anthem was played. The Israeli flag was raised by Mitchell Brown and Ruth Dobson as the Israeli Jewish national anthem, Hatikvah, was played. The United Israel flag was raised by Aaron Trinker and Debra Lowy as the Am Yisrael Chay was sung by Judah Lowy.

Following the ceremonies, a special Succoth prayer was offered by Rabbi Lowy in the Tabernacle, erected in back of the center.

In the ceremony, Beekman explained the nature and aims of the United Israel World Union founded in 1943. The movement maintains that the so called lost ten tribes of Israel are not lost at all but represent today the hundreds of millions of people residing in the western world.

United Israel holds that the time has come for these peoples, recognized as the House of Israel, to unite with the Jewish peoples representing the House of Judah. Headquarters of the organization is in New York.

Volleyes From Ambush

The latest issue of Holland Herald, a Netherlands news-magazine, carries a story on the shattered image of Old Holland taken from an article in Newsweek written by Bruce van Voorst, former local resident and currently head of the Bonn-Berlin Newsweek bureau.

Bruce, who formerly worked for the Holland Sentinel and radio station WHTC, visited the "other Holland" some time ago and wrote that the stock image of the Netherlands as a placid land of windmills and wooden shoes, quaint brick houses on tranquil canals, tulips, dikes and Rembrandt, no longer exists. Once peaceful Dutch society has boiled over, revealing considerably more internal stress than anyone would have expected.

He supports this view by pointing to port strikes, anarchistic Kabouters being elected to city council seats, Catholic priests marrying, the proliferation of pornographic publications among other things.

He spoke of the pollution of the Rhine basin and Amsterdam canals, the mercury level of Dutch waters (third highest in the world), the density of population and acute housing shortage.

Yet, despite the upheaval, van Voorst maintains Holland still has much to recommend it: excellent education, medical care among the best in the world, poverty virtually nonexistent. Crime is negligible, suicide rates extremely low.

"In short," sums up the ex-Michigan man, "the Netherlands is a land of paradoxes. However much its institutions may be in turmoil, Holland still retains the image of a land whose people can correct their problems."

He quotes an unnamed American writer as saying: "I think that if the world were coming to an end I would go to Holland, not because everything happens there but because the Dutch might well have worked out a way of forestalling it."

tious and dedicated teacher is almost forgotten. But West Ottawa has that dedicated and conscientious teacher — and many of them."

So began a tribute to the teachers of West Ottawa at the written by June Reimink, elementary director speaking for all West Ottawa principals. She pointed to an energetic teacher who sent personal welcome notes to each child in her class, at her own expense. . . and the innovative teacher who accepted the challenge of a multi-age classroom in late August and spent many hours preparing for it.

She mentioned the beginning teacher who spent every morning for one week in late August in her classroom to get ready for the new challenge. . . plus the many other dedicated teachers who spent far more than 1½ days preparing for the school year. There were teachers who were in their classrooms on Saturday and Labor Day.

Jim Vande Poel, president of Tulip Time, has experienced the rare thrill of a 29-point hand in cribbage.

It happened Labor Day weekend and it was dealt by Don Haan while playing two-handed cribbage in a cabin on Sand Lake in Manistee county where the two families were week-ending.

Jim had taken in three fives and the jack of hearts and Don obligingly cut a five of hearts.

News of the death of Lloyd Kanter Sept. 2 in Racine, Wis., at the age of 81, stirred some old memories of early days in Holland.

Lloyd's grandfather lived in the big house just east of Holland Theatre now torn down for Burger King. The old building was a combination residence with offices on the street level for R. Kanter and sons, marine harbor contractors. This firm dealt with such large contracts as the west entrance to the Welland Canal in Canada and in Galveston, Tex.

Lloyd's uncles were active in the business life of Holland. Rokus operated a grocery store where Reliable Cycle is now located on River Ave. Girard operated a hardware store with a Mr. Standard known as Kanter and Standard in the Knoll block on Eighth St. Another Kanter was chief of the Holland fire department in the days of the man-pulled hose reels.

And his aunt Jennie Kanter was city librarian for many years, operating the library on the second floor of the No. 2 fire engine house, and later on the second floor of what is now Cumerford's restaurant before moving to City Hall.

Mrs. Noella R. De Leon, of 158 College Ave., has come across an old clipping from the Ottawa County Times of Aug. 30, 1907, which her brother-in-law found in an attic in a house on West 10th St.

With great pride, it announces the arrival of a new Mergenthaler linotype at The Times office, doing away with the old system of hand setting. It pointed out that the machine will set more type in a day than "a whole string of hand compositors."

An interesting thing about the Mergenthaler linotype machine is that it has changed but little from the original machine. The picture shown in Nancy Stam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Stam, 1723 Van's Blvd., was in Dallas, Texas representing Michigan as Michigan Junior Quarter Horse Association director to the second National American Junior Quarter Horse convention scheduled last week.

Miss Stam also represented Michigan at the first National Convention in Amarillo, Texas, in 1970. The convention is limited to the directors and advisors of affiliated state junior associations. Also attending as a director is Cindy Reigle of Holly, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hinkins of Bay City. Hinkins is an adult advisor to the Michigan youth group.

Both girls are active members of the Michigan Junior Quarter Horse Association. Miss Stam serves as vice-president, secretary, and as a director. Miss Reigle is on the board of directors of Michigan Junior Quarter Horse Association.

The convention, which was scheduled for Aug. 3 through 7 in connection with the Youth Finals Horse Show and the National 4-H Finals Horse Show was postponed due to the outbreak of VEE. The convention will set a fast pace this Friday and Saturday at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas.

The convention will close with a dinner-dance on Saturday evening. Miss Stam has been showing a two-year old mare, Midnight Reward, and a gelding, Hank's Good Time. She has been requested to represent Michigan at the National 4-H Finals Horse Show in Dallas, Texas.

The Times clipping looks just like the machines in the composing room of The Sentinel today. Of course, refinements like electronic components have been added in recent years.

Linotype machines always used to be black. But at The Sentinel they are painted green with touches of red buff. Much more interesting that way.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Hope Reformed Church

Mrs. Robert Jefferis Voss

Miss Sally Jean Korstange of Bellevue and Robert Jefferis Voss of Dallas, Texas, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at the Hope Reformed Church with Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra officiating. Mrs. Barbara Veurink was organist at the 2 p.m. ceremony and Miss Jan Luben, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Korstange of Bellevue and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Voss Jr., Dallas, Tex.

Miss Candace Weaver and Roger Voss attended the couple as maid of honor and best man. Miss Weaver wore a floor-length gown of candlelight, brown and burnt-orange India print velvet with U-shaped neckline and long gathered sleeves. She carried an arm bouquet of baby's breath, yellow sweetheart roses and burnt-orange chrysanthemums.

The bride wore her mother-in-law's gown of candlelight satin channel in princess styling with self covered buttons from the neckline to the hem. The long sleeves were puffed at the shoulder and her candlelight illusion shoulder-length veil was held with a pearl studded tiara and trimmed at the borders with old-fashioned candlelight lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of orange pinocchio roses, pale yellow pompons and candlelight baby's breath.

The reception was held at Point West with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Douwstra as master and mistress of ceremonies. The couple will be traveling to Padre Island on the Gulf of Mexico.

The bride is a graduate of Hope College and the groom, a graduate of North Texas State University, is a professional golfer.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at Point West.

Showers for the bride were given by Mrs. Waldo Frankenstein; Mrs. Marshall Cloyd, Mrs. W. W. Newton and Mrs. Morris Spencer; a tea was given by Mrs. Dan H. Voss Jr. and Mrs. Roger H. Voss in Dallas. A luncheon was given by Mrs. James Erwin also of Dallas.

HARVEST MOON, SHORTER DAYS

A bright Harvest Moon and shortening days are among the astronomical features of October, says the University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

Defined as the full moon nearest the autumnal equinox, the Harvest Moon first appeared Monday. The peculiarity of this moon, Prof. Losh notes, is that it rises at very nearly the same hour for several nights in succession.

The reddish hue of the Harvest Moon while near the horizon is attributable to the earth's atmosphere, she explains. The molecules of the air and the suspended dust particles "strip" most of the blue rays in light, allowing red to dominate. The Harvest Moon may also look larger than usual while near the horizon, but Prof. Losh says this effect is considered an optical illusion.

Another feature of October is the noticeable shortening of days, Prof. Losh says. Twelve-hour days begin the month, but they will be reduced to 10 hours and 20 minutes by the end of October.

Among the stars prominent in October's skies are Capella and the celebrated cluster Pleiades, according to the U-M astronomer.

Capella rises in the northeast around sunset. It is the third brightest star visible from northern latitudes. Capella, which has a temperature and yellow color very much like our sun, was called the "Driver" by ancient Arabs because it appeared early in the evening as if to help guide their nighttime caravans, Prof. Losh notes.

The Pleiades comes into view in the east about an hour after sunset, Prof. Losh says. With six easily observed stars forming a tiny dipper, the cluster was mentioned as early as 2,400 B.C. in China. Additionally, it is noted in the Bible and was worshipped by the Egyptians. Prof. Losh says Halloween can be traced back to the custom of worshipping or feasting to the Pleiades.

Sunday School Lesson

God Creates a Community
Exodus 19:1-8; 1 Peter 2:9-10
By C. P. Dame

This series of lessons is fixing our minds on God, who He is, what He does, how He acts and reveals Himself. This lesson tells about God creating a community, by making a covenant with Israel.

I. God made an offer to a people. God had called Moses to lead Israel out of Egypt and bring them to the land He had promised to Abraham. The Israelites left Egypt and in a miraculous manner crossed the Red Sea and were led into the wilderness and after traveling about six weeks they reached Mt. Sinai, which is also called Horeb. When God called Moses to liberate Israel He promised him that He would serve him upon this mountain — Exodus 3:12b. This promise was fulfilled.

"And Moses went up unto God" — climbed the mountain, and got away from the noise and confusion of the camp and communed with God who gave him a message to give to "the house of Jacob" also called "the children of Israel." The name "Israel" has spiritual significance. God reminded Moses of what He had done to the Egyptians at the Red Sea, and how He had led Israel thus far. The nation was under obligations to God.

God offered to make Israel His own possession among all people. Note that God took the initiative. This offer implied that Israel would obey God and keep His commandments and be "a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation." God made a sovereign choice.

II. A response pleases God. "And all the people answered and said All that the Lord has spoken we will do." Before the people made this promise God had spoken to Moses, and he in turn had spoken to the elders and they presented the offer to the rank and file of the people. Here is a fine example of real communication. Before a decision was made the people were informed. The whole nation made a commitment. If the nation had kept the promises made to God the history of the nation would have been far different. Making a promise is one thing, keeping it is another.

III. God has one people. The early church took the promises and honors God bestowed upon Israel and claimed them. There is but one church and it is composed of people whom God chose; it is "a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a peculiar people" — in short God's own people. The task of this church is to "declare the wonderful deeds of Him who called you out of darkness into His marvelous light." The church is composed of changed people who seek to change others so that all may conform to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Dads Post 132 Makes Ready For Local Convention

The Dads of Foreign Service Veterans had a special meeting last Tuesday at the VFW Post to discuss and appoint the committees for the Department of Michigan State Convention which will be held in Holland June 22-25, 1972.

With delegates and their wives, the Dads are expecting approximately 250 to 300 people to attend the 23rd Annual Convention. The president, Fabe Lichtenberg, of the National Dads of Foreign Service Organizations is expected to attend with officers of the State organization.

The local Dads of Post 132 are planning well in advance for the convention. Emil Le Jeune was appointed chairman of the convention with co-chairmen Steven Roberts, Henry Vischer, Earl Kennedy, and Lloyd Zimmerman.

Exchange Club Reviews Half Century of Service

Reminiscences of a half century were a highlight of the 50th anniversary celebration of the Holland Exchange Club at its Ladies Night Monday in Holiday Inn.

Clarence Jalving, an almost charter member lacking but two years of a 50-year record, presented a plaque to A. C. Joldersma, one of four living charter members and the only one still active in the club. Others are Harris Meyer of Kalamazoo, James De Pree at 93 currently in Florida and Earnest C. Brooks of Holland.

Jalving who reviewed 50 years of club minutes said first meetings actually were held in 1920 but the charter was received in 1921. He said A. A. Visscher was the first president, Sears McLean the first vice president and Otto Kramer the treasurer. Membership at first was limited to 75 members but in 1923 it rose to 100.

He reviewed service projects of the club but said the outstanding accomplishment was the Good Fellows Foundation in the 1930's which first financed tonsillectomies for children and later milk, hot lunches and dental work. He recalled the days of Exchangites selling the Sentinel Good Fellows edition, and also paid tribute to two local members, Jacob Fris and the late Dr. William Weststrate Sr., who became state president.

In congratulating the club on its 50th anniversary, Mayor L. W. Lamb Jr. had probed the Sentinel files of May, 1921, and pieced together the city of that day. He learned there were dead fish in Black Lake, that Holland had a water problem, that the Saugatuck road was in poor condition, and the Seventh St. paving project was having opposition. Mayor Lamb said Zeeland was voting on fast time and Dr. Kools, an Exchange, was advertising on the front page of the Holland Sentinel which in those days carried a lot of ads on page 1. He also learned that a Chevrolet cost $710 and an Overland $695, and that the Exchange Club was offering $100 for a slogan to be paid in gold coin. Jalving later said the motto was "Unity for Service."

There also were greetings from Ralph Juchartz, Michigan district president No. 4 of Wyandotte, and George Wallace Jr., Michigan district director of Grand Rapids.

As main speaker, Earl J. Hill of Jackson, a former electrical engineer for Consumers who served as personnel director and in public relations, delivered a talk on "The Pursuit of Happiness." By turns serious and humorous, Hill said happiness is a journey, not a destination; it is a passport for giving and living geared to service, respect and love.

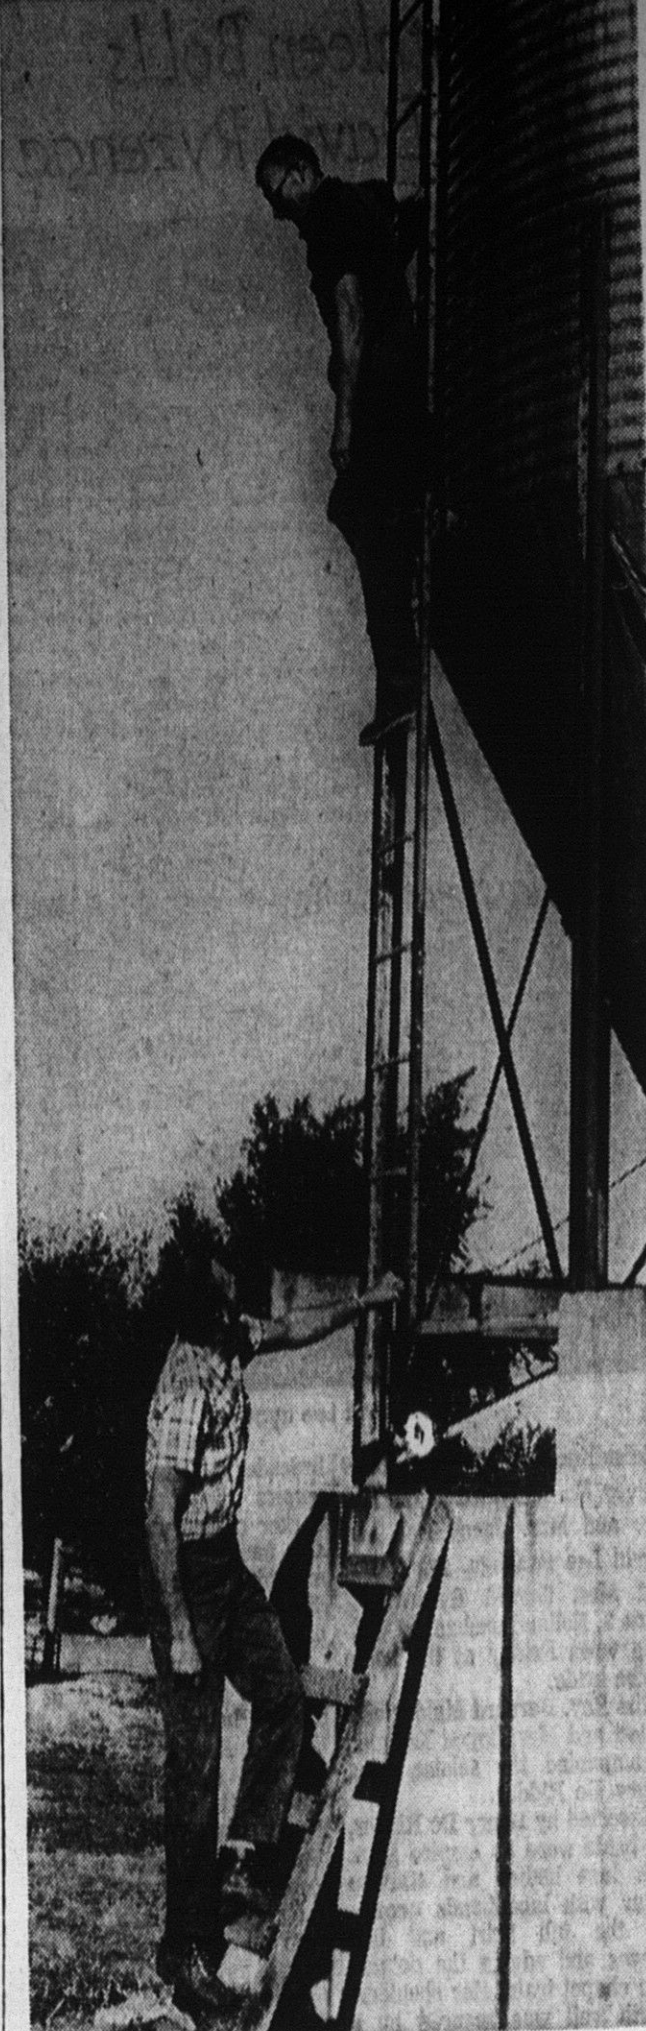

He told his audience they should not be negative about little things, and should "listen better," should not act react, not return incivility for incivility, return good for evil, and get rid of those self-generated internal tensions. "Anger is the wind that blows out the light of reason," he said.

Jack Leenhouts served as master of ceremonies and John Muller, club president presided. The invocation was given by Arnold Dood.

Lightfield's truck was just around the corner of this feeder base, and Mast gave a lusty kick to free the Wisconsin man from the equipment.

KICKOFF SPEAKER — Salvation Army Col. Sallie Chesham and Greater Holland United Fund campaign chairman James L. Juries meet during the kickoff dinner at Holiday Inn Thursday under a campaign poster. Col. Chesham, an author and a third generation Salvationist, told some 160 persons at the dinner of her experiences during three years with the Old Hat program in the inner city of Chicago and how she worked with young people under 10 years of age. Juries holds Col. Chesham's latest book of poetry which won the Chicago Poetry Award in 1970. The campaign, with goal of $204,436, continues through Nov. 1. (Sentinel photo)

Col. Sallie Chesham Tells Of Inner City Program

The Greater Holland United Fund campaign opened Thursday with a kickoff dinner at the Holiday Inn where Salvation Army Col. Sallie Chesham addressed about 160 workers, volunteers and others interested in the United Fund.

The goal this year is $204,436 to help support the work of 10 health and welfare agencies in Holland and 36 others in the state and nation. The campaign continues through Nov. 1.

Col. Chesham, an author and a native of Detroit who founded an inner city program in Chicago, told of her experiences with the Old Hat program and how seven college students, including her two children, turned three store buildings into a haven for youngsters of the neighborhood under 10 years.

With no operating funds, the small group obtained materials with which to conduct the program and attracted a number of youngsters including the brother of a street gang leader.

It was the summer of 1967, Col. Chesham recalled, that police warned of rumors of planned destruction in the ghettos by the street gangs and urged the Old Hat to remain open on the planned evenings.

Col. Chesham said soon the gang leader began frequenting the Old Hat because his younger brother had been welcomed at the program.

The gang leader told her the Old Hat was a place "where they don't kick me out." The planned destruction did not take place that summer, she said.

United Fund campaign chairman James L. Juries introduced campaign chairmen and urged workers to tell the story of the needs in Holland to the citizens.

He said pilot campaigns had been completed at Michigan Bell Telephone where more than 50 per cent of the employees pledged Fair Share giving, and at Skeetee-Van Huis Inc., where employee giving was up 40 per cent and the firm gift was up 50 per cent from last year.

A singing group from Albion High school, the Ecumenical Choir, provided a musical interlude before the keynote address.

Christian Schools Hold Annual Meet

Five new board members were elected at the annual meeting of the Holland Christian School Society held Thursday night in the Christian High School auditorium.

New board members named are George Brink, Stanley Ellens, Gordon Greengood, Earl Vander Meulen and Dr. Gordon Deur. Retiring members are Vernon Beelen, Warren Mulder, Rev. Thomas Vanden Heuvel, Jack Vannette and Gordon Van Tuinen.

Society members also heard financial reports of various schools funds as presented by Treasurer Donald Zwier. The treasurer reported that revenues $1,503,117.77 as compared to expenditures of $1,394,313.68, indicating an excess of revenues of $108,804.09. Zwier reported that the new school year began with a balance of $15,093.98, compared with a deficit of $93,710.11 one year ago.

He called attention to the fact that two big sources of extra revenue during the past year were state funds and a deficit drive which netted a combined total of $250,000. He reported that as of Aug. 31 there is a parent contribution deficit of $101,536.07. He also reported that the Sustaining Membership Fund during the past school year showed a deficit of $39,691.27. A total of $80,000 was received under the SMP but the budget figure was $120,000.

The treasurer also noted the actual expenditures during the past year were approximately $4,000 below that allowed in the budget.

Pertaining to the building fund, Zwier announced through his annual report that total debt of the building fund now stands at $636,790.02. Total contributions to the building fund during the 1970-71 school year amounted to $139,359.40, a decrease of $11,000 from the prior year.

Supt. Mark Vander Ark presented his annual report and touched on numerous items that pertained to the whole school system. He noted that the enrollment had dropped to 2,706 students — a decline of 87 students. A breakdown showed 1,205 in elementary, 630 in the junior high and 871 in the high school.

He reported on enrollment trends for the next few years and how it affected overall school planning. Under curriculum, the superintendent noted significant innovations in elementary social studies, English and mathematics. He also gave brief reports on various board committees.

Principal Paul Mulder of the high school also gave information on high school activities and curriculum changes during the past year. Significant high school changes occurred in English with a switch to miniature week courses and a number of new offerings in mathematics and mechanical drawing.

William Vogelzang, chairman of the board presided and led in opening devotions. The Rev. Robert Holwerda, pastor of the Harderwyk Christian Reformed church, led in the closing prayer.

GREAT PUMPKIN'S HERE — Signs of Halloween are evident at the Gilbert Lugten home in Hamilton and the Lugtens' grandchildren are probably envisioning giant jack-o'-lanterns. Three-year-old Mike Lugten and his sister, Kelli, 1½, children of Mr. and Mrs. David Lugten of Hamilton,

R. Kuipers Rushes For 162 Yards

WYOMING — Holland High's All-State football candidate Randy Kuipers was the offensive show here Friday night as the Dutch won their second contest of the season, 20-0 from Godwin on the Wolverine's beautiful new field.

The hard driving Kuipers, who runs like Jim Otis did at Ohio State, bulled his way for 162 yards in 24 attempts for a fine 6.7 per carry mark.

Kuipers not only showed his tremendous power on the ground but Coach Dave Kemper found out that he can pass too, as he teamed with end Ron Israels to notch Holland's second TD of the evening.

While Kuipers was the offensive standout, the whole defensive team did a great job against the run, as they held the Wolverines to minus seven yards.

Godwin's lone spark was supplied by the passing of sophomore quarterback Jim Kenyon and the receiving of another sophomore Paul Dieterle.

Kenyon, who sustained a knee injury in the Holland game last year as a freshman completed 13 of 23 passes for 110 yards with six of his completions going to Dieterle.

End Brian Ritterby downed Kuipers' long punt on the Wolverines' four-yard line early in the first period. Three plays later Dick Wood pounced on a Godwin fumble on the 33 to set up Holland's first touchdown.

The Dutch moved 33 yards in four plays for the score, as Kuipers ran over and around several defenders to notch the TD from the 18 with 5:59 to play in the first period. Steve Hibma's extra point kick was no good.

Kirby Howard's interception of a Kenyon pass on the Dutch 12 killed off Godwin's first good opportunity to score.

Wood, who was doing a fine job all night batted down a fourth down pass on Holland's 19 shortly later, as the young Wolves were trying to score.

With Kuipers and Terry Marlink running at will behind the fine blocking of tackle Roy Moeller and company, the Dutch were determined to put some more points on the scoreboard.

Holland's first pass completion from quarterback Larry Horn to Kuipers set up the second TD, as the play covered 31 yards.

The Dutch were faced with a fourth and seven situation on Godwin's 15 when Kuipers took the handoff from Horn and darted to his right, only to stop and fire a touchdown pass to Israels, who was all alone in the end zone. Horn's attempted pass to end Hue Simpson was picked off instead by Kuipers, who made a diving reception for two points with 9:35 to play in the game.

Horn's sharpest pass of the night covered 20 yards, was hauled in by Ritterby on the Wolves' 10, as the Dutch were once again knocking on the door.

The quick moving Horn eventually tallied from the two on a keeper play to close out the scoring at 20-0.

"It was a great game for us," said Kemper. "We needed this one real bad."

Kemper continued, "the line opened some big holes and I can't say enough about the running of Kuipers."

The Dutch now stand at 2-1, will travel to Benton Harbor next Friday while the Wolves, 0-3 will host Kentwood.

Zeeland Drops 1st Game, 6-0

GRAND RAPIDS — "We were beaten by the best 0-2 football team in the state." Those were the words of Coach Ken Postma of Zeeland after his Chix suffered their first defeat of the season to Rogers here Friday night, 6-0.

Fumbles cost the Chix the game as they blew two scoring opportunities on miscues and fumbled on their own 11 which set up the games only score in the third period.

Mike Eaton tallied Rogers touchdown by dashing into the end zone from the three. The PAT failed.

Zeeland's longest march was from its own two-yard stripe to the Golden Hawks 26. A fumble killed their chances of scoring.

Kurt Bennett, who injured his hip led all rushers with 111 yards on the ground. Zeeland out-gained the winners 207-104 yards on the ground.

Back Bob Johnson and end Keith Kraai suffered leg injuries for the Chix. However, the injury didn't seem to bother the rugged Kraai, as he was second in tackles with 13.

Joe Zylstra led the Chix with 14 tackles while Jeff Flaherty chipped in with nine.

The Chix, now 2-1 for the season will host rough Wyoming Park next Friday.

Three Holland High Students Attend Congress

Three Holland High School students participated in a session of Student Congress Sept. 24-25 at the Capitol building in Lansing.

The students, chosen for their outstanding contributions in the 1971 spring discussions, were Dave Chamness, Kevin Counihan, and Paul Timmer. In these discussions, Counihan received the only superior rating in the region, while Chamness and Timmer received excellent ratings. Earning these ratings enabled them to be among the 121 students attending the congress.

"How can the jury system of the United States be improved?" was the theme of the congress. Following parliamentary procedure, the students drew up, argued and presented bills. This provided experience in legislative procedure.

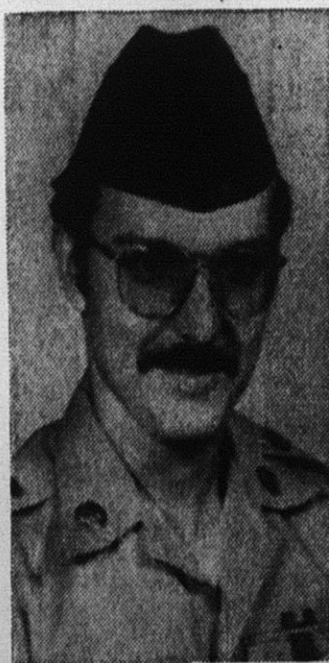

Holland High was rated one of the top 10 schools in the state and received a 1971 Student Congress "Award of Excellence," sponsored by the Michigan High School Forensic Association.

Hope Faculty Member, Alumnus Publish Study

Dr. Edward L. Ervin, associate professor of biology at Hope College, and Glenn Syperda, a 1970 Hope graduate from Grand Rapids, have recently published a manuscript entitled: "Seasonal Effects on Soluble Sugars and Cytological Aspects of Polygonatum canaliculatum (Solomon's Seals) Rhizomes," in the bulletin of the Torrey Botanical Club.

The study revealed that this native Michigan plant seasonally changes the type of sugars it stores in its underground stem in order to cope with growth requirements and prevailing climatic conditions. Studies such as this yield important information towards understanding the ecological adaptations of an organism.

Syperda earned a masters degree in botany at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio and is presently studying at the Chicago College of Osteopathy in Chicago.

Rockford Ruins Band, Parents Day

It was a long hot night for the Panthers of West Ottawa Friday, as they were crushed by the Rockford Rams 49-12 before a capacity crowd in the Panthers home opener on Parents and Band Day.

This was a rugged and tough Rockford team that showed a speedy offense, who scored almost every time they got the ball, and a rough forward wall who continually pounded the offensive line of West Ottawa to get the quarterback before he could handle the ball. It was a well coached team with good balance and depth.

West Ottawa's offense couldn't get rolling and showed very little for the capacity crowd to cheer about until late in the second quarter when quarterback Pat Allen returned a kickoff for 87 yards to put the Panthers on the score board.

This was after the Rams had already racked up 28 points and by halftime the game was completely out of reach with Rockford out in front 35-6.

The Panthers usual good defense showed very little as the Rams scored two via passing and three on the ground by halftime. In the first period quarterback Jim Hoekstra passed for 50 yards to Bernard Hunting for the first score with Lee Sowerby kicking his first of seven extra points.

Rockford took every advantage of West Ottawa's mistakes in the second quarter as they scored after an Allen pass was intercepted on West Ottawa's 40 yard line. The next series of downs saw West Ottawa fumble on the 28 yard line and the Rams scored on a fine pass play from Mark Hoekstra to Mark Hubbard on the first play from scrimmage.

With Rockford leading 35-6 at halftime, the fans were somewhat consoled as the West Ottawa bands put on a spectacular halftime show. Scoring slowed to a standstill in the third period as neither team could score. The Panthers defense toughed somewhat in the second half with Paul Berkompas and Brent DeVries blocking up the holes.

The fourth quarter saw a Jeff Haltenhoff pass intercepted by Hunting who scampered 70 yards for another Rams score. The Rams blocking was exceptional as they again scored in the final period with substitute quarterback Craig Zart sneaking over from the five to end the scoring for the Rams. West Ottawa's offense then rolled for their second score on two nice pass plays from Haltenhoff to Doug Vork.

This was the third straight loss for the Panthers. Next Friday West Ottawa meets Forest Hills at The Rangers field and will not play home until their Homecoming game on the 22nd of October when they meet Kentwood.

Trees vs. Street Lights? Both Have Their Place

A letter to the editor from Gerhardt F. Megow, Ph. D., points up two sides of the ecology situation, streets lights versus the trimming of shade trees in the city.

In a somewhat whimsical mood, Dr. Megow writes a scenario, cast at the corner of 11th St. and Washington Blvd., three city trucks, three men and a sign "men working in trees." Under the corner tree, a still lusciously green, majestically crowned maple, a modern-day Brontosaurus, the thick squat body of a green truck and stretching from it a mechanical arm with yellow bucket with man inside wielding a small power saw which angrily eats into the branches. Conversation:

Megow: Hi! What are you doing this for? Are you sick?

Man: No! Too dark. Street light can't get through!

Megow: I happen to love trees and hate street lights. What do you say about that?

Man: (silence)

Megow: (pointing to dying branches) Do you realize that these produce the oxygen which you breathe?

Man: Hmmm.

Megow: What would you rather have, oxygen to breathe with, or street lights?

Man (with quizzical grin)

Street lights. Megow: By which I can bury you!

(end of conversation) Dr. Megow concludes with a question about whatever happened to the Brontosaurus... something must have killed him a long time ago... wonder what it was.

Park Supt. Jake De Graaf was asked about tree trimming versus street lights. Unperturbed, he said curb strip trees have to be trimmed for reasons other than street lights. And he added that his men often get a thank-you and a compliment for the service, and sometimes get an argument.

He said trees must be trimmed so that they are not hit by trucks and other vehicles, and for every tree the Park department takes down, the men plant at least two the next season.

And he added there is an ever-growing list of requests for more street lights all over the city.

As their main weapon of defense, Brill and Turbot fish change color in minutes by expanding and contracting their color cells. They expand to become dark and contract to become translucent.

AUTUMN SPECTACULAR — Western Michigan is full of beauty spots but one of the best is this vista in Hamilton just east of the M-40 bridge over Rabbit River in the center of the village. This water rushes over an old dam amid lush vegetation along the river banks, just now beginning to turn color for Michigan's annual pageant of colors. This scene is a "must" for local color tours this month.

Wisconsin Clipping Reveals Heroism of Holland Resident

A story of heroism involving a local man has come to light with a clipping from the Burlington, Wis., Standard Press, which credits Harold Mast, 42, of 14895 Quincy St., with saving the life of a Burlington truck driver hit by 4800 volts of electricity while delivering a load of feed to Tulip City Duck Farm north of Holland where Mast is employed.

It happened Sept. 21 when Ted Lightfield, 47-year-old employee of Murphy Products Co., was delivering several tons of Murphy duck breeder pellets in bulk to the Tulip City Duck Farm six miles north of Holland. The local duck farm is a division of the C and D Duck Co. of Union Grove, Wis.

Ted backed the big semi toward a 20-foot high holding tank, part of the self-feeding system, and raised a long boom or snorkel through which the duck feed was to be augered from trailer to tank. He noted a power line overhead but kept a few feet away.

He believed the snorkel was about three feet away "when hell broke loose." Experts versed in the ways of electricity are inclined to think the snorkel was closer to the cable than Ted realized. In any event, 4800 volts jumped the gap, passing down the boom into Ted.

Earlier Ted had removed his comfortable shoes for the leather engineer boots he carries on delivery trips. The soles, of cork composition, are a half-inch thick. The ground was covered with morning dew and the soil underneath was wet from the previous day's rain.

Before losing consciousness, Ted was aware of pain, intense constriction and a "feeling that my head was going to burst."

Mast nearby did not realize what was happening, but heard Ted groan. "I turned toward him and saw blue sparks shooting out from his shoes. I knew then that electricity was passing through his body and somehow I had to break the current's hold on him."

Ted knew Mast was close by. "I tried to shout to him to get a board and knock me away from the crank handle. The words were in my mouth but I couldn't get them out. All I could do was grunt. Then I must have passed out."

A cardinal rule of all first aid authorities in this type of emergency is that under no condition should a rescuer touch a person in the grip of electrical current since such current then passes through the second person as well. If the electricity cannot be turned off, the recommended way to separate a person from the electrical contact is by means of a long dry stick or board, a dry rope, or length of dry cloth. It is imperative that the rescuer's hands are dry and that he be standing on a dry surface.

The American Red Cross says: "Telephone the power company to turn off the current before you attempt rescue unless you are willing to accept grave risk to your life." Harold Mast accepted the risk.

He said, "There was no immediate way to turn off this current. My impulse was to get Ted's hand off that crank. There was nothing close by to work with. The only way I could see to break the contact was to kick him away. I aimed as high as a could and gave him one heck of a boot. Ted fell away from the trailer."

Professional electricians shudder at this. Though physical contact between the two men lasted only a fraction of a second, the current could have entered Mast with dire and possibly lethal results. The soles of his shoes probably acted as insulation against his receiving the charge in his own body. The soles happened to be rubber, but he didn't give this a thought as he thrust his foot at the truck driver.

The next concern was to get medical attention for Ted who remained unconscious for several minutes. Mast dashed for a phone to summon an ambulance, the police and an emergency crew from the power company.

When Ted came to, he smelled burning rubber and saw smoke. The sizzling current was charring four of the big tires on the semi. It burned holes completely through the thick casings and bisected the steel rim on one wheel.

In the emergency room of Holland Hospital, a doctor reached for his stethoscope as Ted was brought in on a stretcher.

Ted: "He checked my heart, pulse and blood pressure. On the palm of my right hand which I thought for awhile was welded to the crank at the bottom of the boom while I was getting the shock, I had five small burn spots. There also was a burn on the big toe of my left foot. The doc said, 'You're lucky!' I said I'd go along with that."

Murphy Products Co. officials in Burlington took immediate steps to bring Ted home as soon as possible. A twin-engine Cessna skymaster was soon winging across Michigan, and that afternoon Ted stepped from the plane at Burlington airport.

Staying behind in Holland to look after the semi was Joe Essman, the company's truck dispatcher, who replaced the incinerated tires with new ones before driving the semi back to Burlington.

Joe didn't know what to expect of a truck that had been juiced up with 4800 volts ripping through it. He stopped periodically to check wheel bearings. He pulled up to the plant at 9 p.m. that night after no mishaps.

Ted wasn't home long with his wife and five children, 2 to 12, when Bob Spitzer, Murphy president, stepped across the threshold to see him. The Murphy firm was just marking its 50th anniversary and Ted had been with it nearly 25 years.

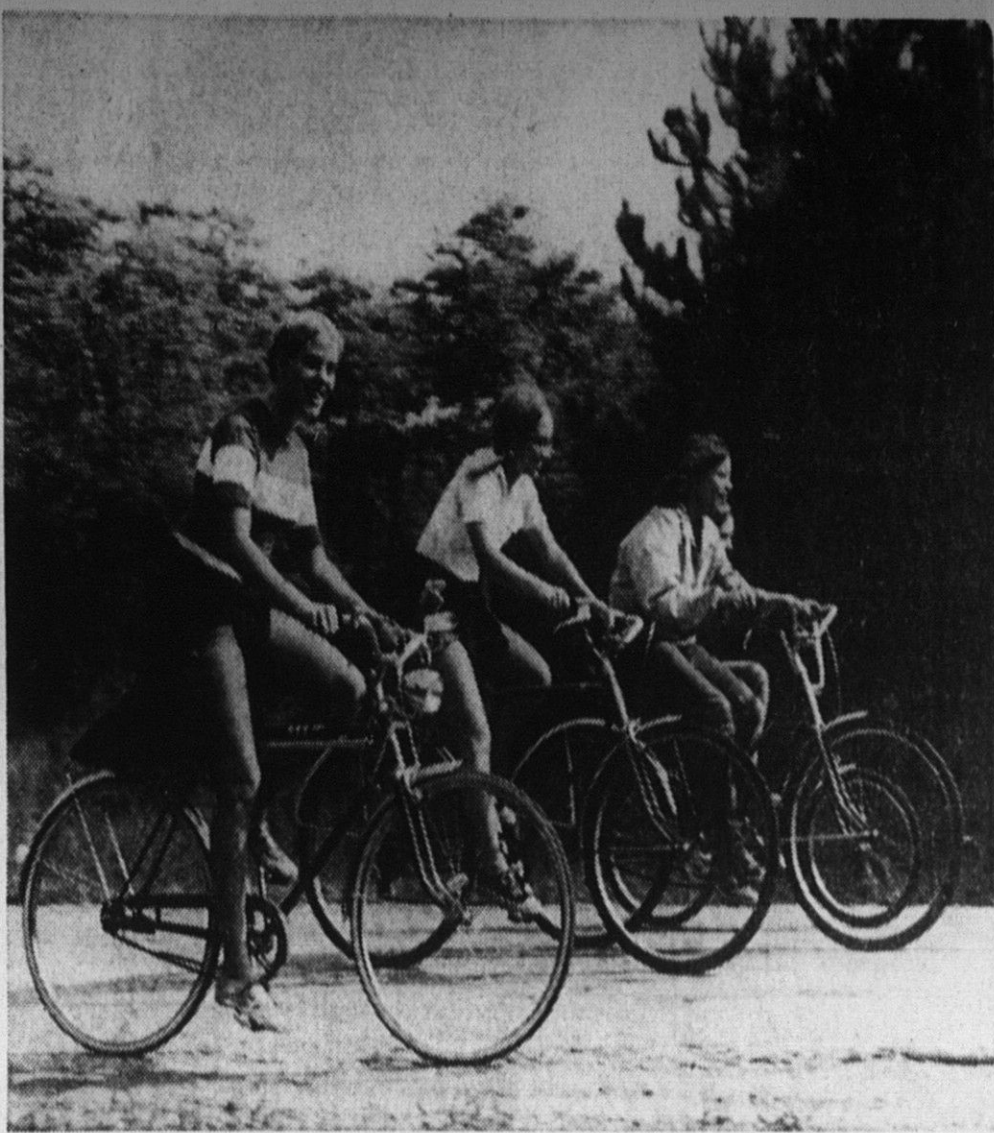

In Holland, Mast was one modest guy. A phone call from the Standard Press brought this plea: "Please don't make any heroics out of this. It was just one of those things you have to do, and I know Ted would have done the same for me." Mast has five children, 4 to 15.

Thursday evening more than 60 teachers and community members met at the school cafeteria to begin planning for the proposed new high school.

General information was discussed. Planning committees are being formed using the school departments as a nucleus, drawing on the expertise of the department heads. Superintendent Martin explained that a "core facility" (library, auditorium, cafeteria, gymnasium) would be planned to handle approximately twice the present enrollment, but that classrooms would be constructed on enrollment projections of five years, with an architectural design providing for additional classrooms to be added when and if they're required.

Arrangements are being made for the various committee members to visit recently completed schools in surrounding areas so that they may become familiar with recent developments and trends in school construction. Anyone wishing to serve on a committee is asked to contact the superintendent or high school principal James Thrall, or the head of that particular department.

Area voters will vote on the two million dollar bonding proposal Dec. 6. By that time a preliminary plan, based on the committees' recommendations, will have been prepared by the architectural firm of Vander Meiden and Koteles, and a site will have been selected by the Fennville Board of Education. Details of the project will be presented to the public as rapidly as they materialize, according to Superintendent Martin, so that voters will have all the facts available at the time of the election.

Mobile Home Park Developer Seeks Zeeland Services

ZEELAND — City Council Monday tabled for further study a request for municipal sewer and water services outside the city limits by a realty firm seeking to develop a mobile home park.

The request was from the Oxford Realty Co. of Grand Rapids who sought the services for land on the south side of M-21 west of State St. The developer plans a 250-site mobile home park.

Council instructed that signs against use of firearms be posted in Huizenga Park which is outside the city limits. Council took under consideration possible use of the park for supervised snowmobile rallies.

Council instructed the superintendent to remove trees on the west side of Church St. from the public library south to Cherry St. necessary for widening of the street.

It was reported that $3,000 in surplus funds was received from the Ottawa County library board. The funds were assigned for future library purposes in Zeeland.

Century Club Opens Season With Dinner

Judge Wendell A. Miles, president of Century Club, welcomed 76 members and guests to the first meeting of the club's 75th year Monday evening at a dinner at Il Forno in Saugatuck. New members welcomed were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bolte, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Dalman and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Padnos.

The speaker, Lawrence W. Prakken, chose the topic "Notes From an Old Salt's Log." Mr. Prakken, who lives in Ann Arbor, is president of Prakken Publication, Inc., which publishes "Lakeland Boating" and two national educational magazines, "The School Shop" and "The Education Digest." He also chairman of the Board of Control of Ferris State College and was a member of the Ann Arbor Board of Education from 1963 to 1967.

Mr. Prakken said he felt at home in Holland because his grandfather had immigrated from Friesland in 1870, his father was born here and had attended Hope College, and that he had often visited cousins in this locality.

The speaker asserted that every Michigan auto license announced boating interest in the state. There are a half million boats in Michigan's recreational fleet, including some for fishing, some for sailing and some just for transportation.

He related the fact that no area in Michigan is more than 85 miles from a Great Lake and every area is within six miles of some stream. There are more than 11,000 lakes, and he outlined several water routes in the state including the Cheboygan and Torch Lake routes.

He spoke of the many yacht and boating clubs which foster not only recreation but promote safety legislation and pollution control. The Detroit Yacht Club with 3,000 members is the largest club of that type in the world.

Mr. Prakken concluded with two statements: boating is a family sport with women taking an active part in all phases, and that the most compelling magnet is the departure from land which seems to bring relaxation and appreciation of the serenity and oneness of nature.

Mrs. Prakken who accompanied her husband on his sailboat travels was introduced.

Prior to the dinner the members and guests were treated to a short Island Queen boat ride and a conducted tour of the S. S. Keewatin. The curator of the ship's museum and two knowledgeable guides related the history of the ship which was built in Scotland in 1907.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 1 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ten Cate. The speaker will be Dr. Richard Handlon, warden, Ionia.

Drivers Urged To Obey State Laws For School Buses

Motorists were reminded today of state codes requiring vehicles to stop for a stopped school bus loading or unloading children.

Police chief Charles Lindstrom said several complaints have been received in regard to violations of the state vehicle codes.

The codes require the driver of a vehicle overtaking or meeting any school bus which has stopped and is displaying two alternating flashing red lights, shall bring his vehicle to a full stop at least 10 feet from the bus and shall not proceed until the bus resumes motion or the bus driver signals to proceed or the visual signals are no longer activated.

Police officers observing violations of the law will issue a traffic summons, Lindstrom said. School bus drivers also will report vehicles in violation by obtaining the vehicle license number.

Fred Bertsch, principal at Holland High announced today that the school's all-time successful football coach Dave Kempker, will resign at the conclusion of the season.

"We would be delighted to have Dave stay on as mentor but it's strictly his decision," said Bertsch. "Dave's leaving with good grace and he's never felt any pressure to win at Holland."

Bertsch continued, "we will accept applications from within our faculty and from out for this position."

Holland's principal admitted that it was his decision to announce Dave's resignation now instead of at the end of the year. He added, "We thought it would be better to do it now instead of putting it off to the conclusion of the year."

Kempker, who replaced Jim Jebb, ex-Michigan State University star as coach in 1965, has won 31 games, lost 18 and has 5 ties to his credit for an outstanding record entering his seventh year as Dutch mentor. His all-time coaching mark is 74 - 39 - 10.

Kempker's 1966 squad won the Valley Coast Conference cham-the year at 3-6. The 1967 eleven was 5-2-2 while the 1968 squad finished 5-3-1 compared to the 1969 record of 6-2-1. Last year's team was 6-3.

Kempker's clubs have only had one losing season in his six years at the helm which is a real good mark considering what the previous teams have won at Holland.

In the five years in the VCC, the Dutch have the second best record next to powerful Grand Haven at 22-7-1 while the Bucs had a 24-4-1 mark in this span.

Dave was a 1949 graduate of Holland where he played full-back and quarterback on the football team and was a standout at those spots at Hope College for four years. Kempker was also all-conference in basketball in high school.

After graduating from Hope in 1954, Kempker spent two years in the Army where he was a brilliant passing quarterback in Korea.

"The main reason I'm stepping down as coach is because also a good friend of his said, 'Dave put Holland on the map in football and it's going to be tough to replace him.'"

Holland's athletic director continued, "I've worked with Dave for 13 years and I can't say enough good things about him. He's probably done more for football in Holland than anyone else."

Kempker wouldn't signal out any team or any player as being the best. It wouldn't really be fair if I did that," he replied.

Although Dave wouldn't say who was the all-time best, he did add, "Doug Morse was the best middle guard that I have ever coached and that Randy Kuipers is one of the best runners."

"We have had many players in the past that were real good, like Gary Cuperus and Terry Marlink are now, that don't receive as much credit as Morse or Kuipers," Kempker said.

"Working with young men, has been the most pleasure that a coach can have," he continued. "Some of my proudest moments were when we were beaten."

Kempker admitted that he has always had good assistant coaches to work with. He stated, "this is half the battle."

The 40-year-old coach, has a 2-1 record after wins over West Ottawa and Godwin this season compared to a loss to rated Niles.

Kempker has been happily married for 12 years and has three children, Dave 10, Dan 9 and Susan 6.

Dave is proud of his record at Holland and so are we but we think that his son Dan probably said it best. "Daddy, I think I'm going to cry when you quit coaching. Somehow it won't be the same."
