Five Injured In Collision at Fire

Five persons were injured in a two-car collision along the Blue Star Highway Thursday at 5:34 p.m. in front of the home of one of the injured where a small bus-type vehicle was burning.

Treated in Holland Hospital and released were Richard Miles Overkamp, 32, of 204 East 35th St., driver of one car; his passengers, Jacqueline Overkamp, 25, Lisa Overkamp, 12, and Stephanie Masters, 15, of 1573 Blue Star, and Katherine Nancy Potter, 20, of 3901 58th St., driver of the second car.

Police said the Overkamp car was stopped southbound along Blue Star for a left turn into the driveway at the Masters' residence when struck from behind by the Potter car.

A small bus-type vehicle parked in the Masters' yard and owned by Ken Masters was destroyed by fire reported at about the same time as the accident. Firemen said a portable heater in the vehicle apparently exploded and caused the fire. The loss was estimated at $1,500 to the vehicle and contents.

Final Statement Set for Disposal

A final environmental statement for a proposed dredge disposal facility at Holland Harbor has been sent to federal, state and local agencies for study and comment.

The 58-page report prepared by the Army Corps of Engineers at Detroit lists the environmental impact of the proposed dredging and disposal facility on land at Windmill Island and the former city landfill off Sixth St. and College Ave.

The recommended plan consists of the construction of two dike disposal facilities for containment of polluted dredge materials. The combined capacities are 280,000 cubic yards for the 10-year life of the project.

The 11-acre landfill site has a capacity of 120,000 cubic yards while the Windmill Island site of 16.7 acres has a capacity of 160,000 cubic yards.

Dikes will enclose the areas to prevent polluted runoff into the river and lake. Pumpout will be from a mooring west of the River Ave.

County Group Denies Ordering Firing of Four

ALLEGAN — A member of the Allegan County finance committee said his committee did not order the firing of any member of the Allegan County finance committee said his committee did not order the firing of any member of the Allegan County Department of Social Services.

Ralph Senese of Otsego said the decision to dismiss the four county employees of the 86-member Social Services staff was made by the director of the department, Harold Leep.

Senese said Thursday no action by the finance committee could be construed as singling out the four for dismissal.

"In fact we didn't even realize until a meeting Sept. 4 attended by the committee, the social welfare board and chairman Jerry Lohman that the county department of social services had any county-paid employees," he added.

Senese continued that until the Sept. 4 meeting "we thought all of the county funds were being appropriated for direct relief — the department never gave us a breakdown of how the money would be spent."

Senese said Leep's request for additional funds was turned down by the county commissioners and Leep was advised by the finance committee to reduce his expenditures and with the concurrence of the county social welfare board the four staff members were notified of their dismissal.

The four cut were aides in health screening and child care, receptionist and the coordinator of transportation in volunteer services.

20 Per Cent for Electrical Expansion

BPW Says Why New Rate Hike

The Holland Board of Public Works Tuesday explained why it needed a 20 per cent increase in electric utility rates to pay for a proposed $45 million expansion of generating facilities to meet the energy needs of the community in the next ten years. Included in the proposed rate hike is a fuel adjustment clause. BPW president Charles Cooper said the 20 per cent rate hike request went to City Council in July and Mayor Lou Hallacy said council could act on the request in 60 days. The rate hike would become effective about four months after council approval and would bring in an additional $1 million a year.

The newest rate hike follows a 33 per cent increase for customers in July.

Cooper said a study of the electric needs and facilities by engineers Black & Veatch projects a peak load of 111.6 megawatts of power by 1985.

The maximum demand on Holland's system was 55.5 megawatts in 1973 and the present rated capacity of Holland's equipment is 97.250 megawatts which includes two standby units scheduled for replacement and the oil-fired peaking unit placed into service this past year.

The proposed rate increase would create a reserve fund for expansion and assure necessary bonding for the expansion.

The fuel adjustment clause in the rate hike package would allow the BPW to pass on to customers increases in the cost of fuel for generation.

Cooper said six plans were under study and four of them involved construction of new generating facilities at a new site. Such a site has not been chosen.

The other two proposals would join the BPW with another or other electric utilities in a nuclear generating unit. This could involve purchase into the Midland Consumers Power Co. nuclear plant or joining other utilities in construction of a co-operative unit.

Cooper said the BPW plans to issue $15 million in revenue bonds by July 1, 1976, for the first phase of the proposed expansion and $30 million by July 1, 1978 to complete the project.

Cooper said with the increase in rates, the BPW "would try our best to remain competitive with Consumers' rates and they (Consumers) have another rate hike request coming."

Both Cooper and Hallacy said the BPW and council have not decided which expansion route is best for Holland.

The new BPW general manager will be charged with studying the proposals and making recommendations. Frank C. Whitney is to begin his new duties Wednesday as head of the BPW.

Cooper said the first four plans calling for new generating facilities would allow Holland to continue its tradition of self-sufficiency. The two other plans would place future reliance on base load facilities outside the Holland facility.

Two of the plans to expand the Holland generation facilities would allow for the sale of excess power.

Expansion of the present generating plant would be impossible Cooper said, because of limitations of facilities to dispose of ash and use of cooling water facilities plus the necessary anti-pollution controls required on the existing equipment.

Mayor Hallacy Not Included In Ford Conference

Mayor Lou Hallacy of Holland was not among the mayors of small cities in four states who met President Ford Wednesday during his Chicago visit.

Hiring By Sheriff Questioned

GRAND HAVEN — The County Affairs committee of the Ottawa County Board of Commissioners Monday discussed with Sheriff Bernard Grysen the hiring of added personnel, including a relative, for the emergency units without prior approval of the committee and reserved final approval until later.

Committee chairman Kenneth Raak of Holland said Sheriff Grysen said the ten men had received necessary training as emergency medical technicians to operate equipment on the units serving Holland-Park township and Georgetown township and that others could not be hired for the units without the specialized training.

At least two of the officers were new employees while others were transferred from the department to the E units.

One of the newly hired persons was a nephew of the sheriff, Brad Grysen.

Raak said the committee questioned whether Grysen had advertised for the new deputies in accordance with affirmative action policies adopted by the commissioners. Raak said Grysen told him he had advertised.

The committee also studied affirmative action proposals for the Health Department and the Manpower Services department, both of which were under state and federal deadlines to adopt such policies.

The committee agreed to send a working draft of the Health Department policy to the state pending formal committee action next month. Action on the Manpower policy will be delayed until the October meeting of the committee.

In addition to Raak, other committee members are Don Williams of Holland and Jack Smant of Grand Haven.

Please Avoid South Shore Dr. Where Possible

Traffic is becoming more hazardous than ever before on South Shore Dr. which is still closed to traffic for road improvements.

Street Department officials said work currently is being done on raising manhole covers amid increasing local traffic, often suspected as through traffic.

They issued a special appeal to avoid using South Shore Dr. wherever possible, and for slower movement among residents who use the road to get to their homes. It is hoped the new road will be open to full traffic soon.

The detour calls for closing from Ottawa Ave. to Old Orchard Rd. with main trouble spots from the "Y" to the west limits.

29 Vocational Programs Listed

Holland Votes 2,461 to 1,792

GRAND HAVEN — Voters in Ottawa Area Intermediate School District Monday approved a 1.2 mill levy for a vocational center serving Ottawa county and parts of Allegan and Muskegon counties. The vote was 9,477 to 7,717. It was the third vote on an area center.

Heaviest vote was in Holland which approved the measure, 2,461 to 1,792. That represented 28 per cent of the registered voters.

Of the 11 school districts in the intermediate district, seven approved the measure. Districts rejecting the vote were Grand Haven, Zeeland, Coopersville and Hamilton.

The new $3.2 million center will be erected on a 72-acre site on the northeast corner of US-31 and Port Sheldon St. north of Holland which is easily accessible from all points in the intermediate district. A federal grant of $1.6 million will finance half of the construction costs.

Plans call for 29 vocational programs to be taught in the center designed mainly for 11th and 12th graders who will attend the center half days. They also will attend their own high schools half days. Evening courses will be offered in a general program which also serves adults. It is estimated 25 per cent of total enrollments in 11th and 12th grades will attend the vocational center.

The program will serve all high schools in the district, including Holland Christian High School.

Two Youths Held Again in Break-Ins

Holland police have cleared five more break-ins with the arrest of two juvenile boys, the same ones, police say, who were apprehended Sept. 8 in connection with another series of break-ins and who were released on bond from the county youth home.

The two were arrested during a break-in at Washington elementary school Monday at 10:00 p.m. where $190 in cash was recovered.

Police said other break-ins cleared up were at homes at 80 East 34th St., 373 East 24th St. and 121 West 33rd St. and an entry at the Tulip City Sign Co., 255 East 26th St.

Officers said they planned to take the two youths, aged 14 and 16, for a ride in the city to clear up other possible break-ins.

Police said the two had been released on bond from the county youth home after being referred to probate court in connection with a series of house break-ins in Holland this summer.

Ottawa District Has 'Alternative'

By Constance Allen

A young woman may have to face the psychological and sociological problems of pregnancy along with the joys, but for the pregnant woman who has not yet finished high school, pregnancy may be a special kind of catharsis.

The West Ottawa Alternative School under the direction of Mrs. Carol Pease is helping 31 high school girls from Ottawa County in continuing their education as well as providing practical information on pregnancy and infant care.

Like other special education schools, the Alternative School is contracted by West Ottawa and not funded by the district itself. Districts pay for each student enrolled at the school.

Legal action in recent years allows a girl to remain in her high school if she so chooses; before that time and the development of the Alternative School, she would have been referred to the school by counselors, ministers, and, many times, by friends. Most girls remain for a semester and then return to their home school.

Mrs. Pease said that because of limited space, priority is given to the pregnant students, then seniors who can complete in one semester are admitted. Her staff consists of another teacher, a parttime nurse, a clerical aid, a teaching aid and three nursery aids. She can also use the services of a social worker and psychologist in the Ottawa Intermediate school system.

An important part of the school is the licensed nursery for 14 infants. It is a real part of the educational process at the school, as infant care classes are given here as part of the emphasis on practical education.

The funding for the nursery came from the Department of Social Services under Title IV. A but it was recently cut.

On Sept. 30, Mrs. Pease will attend a meeting in Lansing on infant care where she hopes to find new funds to continue what she feels is a vital part of the program. The nursery was added in the second year of the school's three year existence.

Mrs. Pease stressed that the pregnant girl is no longer a part of the protected situation of high school. She must suddenly face life's continuum of problem solving. Thus, the Alternative school is life oriented with every course except lab courses of the normal high school given on an individualized basis but with practical courses added. Continuing the process toward graduation is the primary goal but it is also a "parenting" school.

The girls who ride the minibuses here find counseling that does not take sides but gives information to aid in the decision-making process. Mrs. Pease said that only about 10 per cent of the girls place their babies for adoption which is close to the national average. She is a counselor herself and she emphasizes a "no-sides-taking" attitude. She notes that the most important aid to the new student is the other students who use each other as sounding blocks.

The school is operating at a maximum and Mrs. Pease likes it that way. It serves a large area in an effort to maintain the enrollment, staff and full utilization of the building. As a result, it is a busy, hectic place where young women can face some common problems and reach common goals.

Arnheim Horror Story Enjoys a Happy Ending

By Cornelia Van Voorst

A nightmare experienced over 30 years ago by a 17-year-old school girl of Arnheim, The Netherlands, has resulted in memorable pleasure—a trip to the United States and to Holland, Mich.

Anje Brummelkamp - van Maanen who found writing in her diary just the right therapy to retain sanity during the Arnheim holocaust of 1944 is on her American visit—because of the diary.

Her account of the horror of World War II figured in the research of Cornelius Ryan's book, "One Bridge Too Far," which was published in two parts in the Reader's Digest late in 1974. Ryan also is the author of "The Longest Day," an account of the D-Day invasion, and "The Last Battle."

And last week, Mrs. Brummelkamp along with five others is in the United States promoting the paperback issue of "A Bridge Too Far" which also is slated to be a movie.

With her husband, Domine Jacobus Everhardus Lambertus Brummelkamp, a clergyman in Middleburg on the island of Walcheren, Zeeland province, Domine Brummelkamp is a direct descendant of the Domine Brummelkamp who helped his brother-in-law, Holland's founder, Dr. A. C. Van Raalte, plan the Dutch immigration in 1846. Van Raalte's group arrived in what is now Holland, Mich. Feb. 9, 1847. In the six generations in the Brummelkamp family, nearly all of Rev. Brummelkamp's forebears have been clergymen.

The 1846 Immigration was planned because of economic reasons and tight restrictions on religious practice. By the time Van Raalte's group was ready to leave, restrictions had lifted somewhat and Domine Brummelkamp decided to remain in the Netherlands. Both Van Raalte and Brummelkamp were graduates of the University of Leiden.

Mrs. Brummelkamp said her associations with Author Ryan began eight years ago when he was in the Netherlands researching "A Bridge Too Far," one of the bloodiest battles in World War II claiming more casualties than D-Day at Normandy. "Operation Market Garden" was designed to take a series of bridges behind German lines creating a corridor into Germany that could end the war in 1944. Living in occupied territory, 17-year-old Anje van Maanen made herself useful aiding her physician father, Dr. Gerrit van Maanen, in operating a makeshift hospital in a hotel near Arnheim. The horrors of war proved too much for a sensitive teenager, and a suggestion to write her experiences proved a good solution. She recalls that her father insisted in treating German wounded as well as the Allies, a decision which served well when the Nazis recaptured the Arnheim area with reprisals on all fronts.

After the war, there were suggestions for publishing the girl's diary, but she felt it far too personal to share on such a scale. When the Ryan research began, she demurred for two weeks in filling a detailed questionnaire, and then added a postscript: "I have a diary."

The Ryan story, told in the same gripping style that made "The Longest Day" a best seller, is one of sacrifice and heroism, revealing minute-by-minute details of bloody battle which has become known as the Allies' most severe defeat. Two months before Ryan's death in November, 1974, he hosted a party in the Amsterdam Hilton for the people he had worked with on the book. Mrs. Brummelkamp treasures a commemorative brooch given at the time.

The Brummelkamps spent two days in Holland as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wichers of the Netherlands Consulate. They also visited New York City, Toronto and Pittsburgh.

Overisel Lumber Marks 50 Years

Overisel Lumber Co., which had its beginnings as a feed mill 50 years ago in the Allegan County village of Overisel, observes its 50th anniversary this year as much more than a lumber company.

The firm moved to its present 3½ acre site on 32nd St. in the south side industrial park area in 1965 after undergoing some corporate changes and new ownership.

Today El Slenk and Gord Zuverink guide the company which has a branch in South Haven and has expanded into services for the do-it-yourself persons.

Fifty years ago in Overisel John Voorhorst was in the feed business serving the farmers of the Overisel area. A few years later fire swept the buildings but villagers assisted Voorhorst in rebuilding and helped put the business back into operation.

Gradually Voorhorst added shingles and other lumber items until he had a full lumber yard in addition to the feed business.

By 1953 Slenk joined the firm as salesman and designer and five years later Zuverink came to the firm in sales and designing. By now the firm was offering design and supplies to contractors, many of whom lived in the Holland area.

Voorhorst retired in 1958 and Slenk and Zuverink assumed charge of the company and in 1960 the two became sole owners of Overisel Lumber Co. The feed business continued on its own.

In 1965 Slenk and Zuverink moved the lumber company to Holland to better serve its customers.

The Overisel Lumber Co. was contractor-orientated until 1975 when the two expanded the facilities to include items and service for the do-it-yourselfers. The concept was changed from a lumber yard to a home service center.

Slenk, who lives at 722 Sandy Lane, is a graduate of Holland High and a Navy veteran of World War II. He studied ac-

Prior to Saturday night's football game here against Wheaton College, Hope sophomore Kevin Clark of Lake City never touched the ball. However, like Gary Constant, Clark came up with the big plays in the Flying Dutchmen 30-9 romp over the Crusaders.

In his first attempt in running the ball, Clark dashed 28 yards on a reverse to give Hope a quick 6-0 lead. Clark also did his thing again in his second carry in the fourth period, this time the play covered 18 yards.

Showing that he could catch the ball as well as run it, the former Class D all-stater grabbed Tim Van Heest's pass and ran 72 yards for a score to close out the scoring in the fourth stanza.

Bill Blaquiere scored on a seven-yard run in the second period for Hope to give the Dutchmen a 14-3 halftime margin. John Billett kicked a 29-yard field goal for the Crusaders three points.

Kurt Bennett sprinted 45 yards for a score and Jim Miller booted a 27-yard field goal in the third period for Hope.

Steve Andrews, who hit on 28 of 53 passes for 333 yards, passed 15 yards for a TD to highly regarded wide receiver Pete Bylsma. Bylsma hauled in 14 passes for the night for 143 yards.

Bennett, who rushed for 116 yards in 19 carries, fumbled three times. Blaquiere finished with 89 yards in 21 tries while Clark had 46 and two attempts and John Bonnette 41 in nine carries.

Dave Yeiter blocked a field goal try while Todd Richardson intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble. Rick McLothin also picked off a pass and Tom Barkes fell on a fumble.

Hope's defense was in a real test, as they held Wheaton on downs inside the 10-yard line four times.

Wheaton ran 93 plays in the game compared to 69 for Coach Ray Smith's crew.

Miller had his string of 13 straight extra point kicks stopped after the final Hope TD.

Tom Renner, publicity director for the MIAA pointed out that it was an unusual weekend for league teams, as they all won against outside competition.

Olivet nipped Monmouth, 21-20. Kalamazoo tripped Ohio Northern, 14-10. Alma destroyed Saginaw Valley, 27-6. Albion tripped Wabash, 7-6 and Adrian surprised Bluffton, 24-20.

URBAN CONGESTION REMEDY

A meeting of the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association in Paris was the forum for an intriguing disclosure about American plans to curb urban traffic congestion. Federal Highway Administrator Norbert T. Tiemann told delegates that experimental "auto-free zones" will be inaugurated next year in several U.S. cities.

Tiemann said that perhaps six cities, not yet chosen, would be sites for one-year experiments with such a plan under auspices of his agency. Basically the idea will be to keep automobiles out of large downtown areas.

The concept is not a new one. Variations on this theme have been proposed off and on for many years, and there have been some experiments on a small scale. In general the intention is to provide alternative means of transportation into the auto-free zones. Some plans involve making provision for private cars to be parked on the periphery of these zones.

This is a sound approach to the problem of reducing downtown congestion. At present traffic threatens to stifle the core areas of many cities. Somehow these areas must be freed for easier movement of people who work and shop there. The Federal Highway Administration experiments will be watched with interest.

Going Where God Leads

Genesis 12:1-9

By C. P. Dame

If a Bible reader would be asked to name ten of the greatest men of the Bible he would surely include Abraham. Now we call him the Father of all believers. This lesson tells that God calls individuals for a definite purpose.

I. God calls individuals. This he did in the past and does so now. If a person wants to be an intelligent Christian he should know Genesis. The first eleven chapters deal with the human race. From chapter 12 to the end Abraham and his descendants receive attention. With the call of Abraham, a new era begins in the history of the race and in the story of redemption. Abraham was living in Ur of the Chaldees when God called him. We know that the people there worshipped the moon goddess. The people had reached a high degree of civilization and dwelt in houses with all manner of conveniences. While living comfortably, God called him to pack up and go.

Before leaving his native land, Abraham was given great promises. God told the childless Abraham that he would become a great nation and bless him and make his name great and he would become a blessing to mankind and those who blessed him, he would bless while those who cursed him, he would curse. Note the connection between the command and the promises.

II. God's commands merit obedience — "and so Abraham departed as the Lord had spoken" and he, with Sara, his wife, and with Lot his nephew went from home and kindred and set out not knowing where. They came to the land of Canaan — a different country. "And the Canaanite was then in the land." The land which had been promised to Abraham was then occupied by the people who belonged there. God told him that this was the very land some day his descendants would occupy. The promise Abraham received he passed on to his descendants.

III. Faith expresses itself. Abraham was travelling in a strange country and pitched his tent here and there but he did something else — note the words, "and there he builded an altar unto the Lord and called upon the name of the Lord." Abraham obeyed God because of his faith in God. He believed what God promised him and witnessed to his faith. It is interesting to note that in chapter 12 there is recorded both the faith of Abraham and his failure to show his faith in Egypt. There are no hundred per cent believers portrayed for us in the Bible.

Citizens Give Tips For Investigation

At least a dozen leads have been checked out by police investigating the alleged assault on four young children reported Monday at the Meadowlans townhouse complex along south Washington Ave.

Officers said residents have been providing tips on the car and subject sought in connection with the investigation but none of the leads has been a turning point in the case.

Police said no one was in custody.

The four girls, aged two to eight, told police a man approached them at a playground at the townhouses and coaxed them to a shallow pond area 100 yards away where they removed their clothing. The man allegedly sexually molested two of the girls before screaming from the girls brought the mother of one of them. The man fled.

Oldest Businessman Still Active at Lokker-Rutgers

By Ann Hungerford

His female employees call him a "doll, an absolute doll." John Kobes, 80, blushes and protests.

He firmly declines to divulge any anecdotes of his 65 years in retailing.

An employee at Lokker-Rutgers

gers prods Kobes, a part owner of the store, to reminisce but he remains firm. "When I make up my mind no, it's no. I could tell several stories but they might hurt someone."

The plea for anecdotes is halted and Kobes plunges into an historical account of his life in merchandising.

At 15 he assisted his father with shoe repairs in the basement of Lokker-Rutgers in the same area that has been converted into a pleasant coffee shop for employees.

In 1915 his father bought the shoe repair shop and Kobes continued helping in the store upstairs. He attended Hope Preparatory School and in 1917 he was drafted, serving in the 85th Division, American Expeditionary Forces in France during World War I.

When he returned in 1919 Kobes worked fulltime as a salesman in Lokker-Rutgers and then was employed for a few months as first assistant manager at J. C. Penney's in 1922.

He returned to Lokker-Rutgers in 1923 and he and John Sturing began to buy into the business in 1929. Kobes retired from fulltime work in 1970 but continues working a few hours a week "to help out. It's also good for me," he confesses. "I like to meet people and it's a good environment." Confiding that he "wouldn't brag on it, but I think I'm a natural salesman," Kobes says that "liking people, being polite, understanding and helpful" are the keys to successful selling.

Kobes enjoys coordinating ensembles for men but admits that with the styles changing so rapidly today it is more difficult for buyers to keep up with trends in men's apparel.

Though he says it's not really a problem Kobes believes selling to children is more difficult today since most voice strong opinions in what is purchased.

Kobes and his wife, the former Eva Meinsma, whom he married in 1973, vacation in Florida three months a year but Kobes says he would not move to Florida because he would miss his friends too much. His first wife, the former Ella Westra, died in 1971.

Kobes has two children, Ronald W. and Joyce Ensing, and seven grandchildren whom he says are "really well outfitted."

According to the survey taken by the Holland Downtown Merchants Kobes is the oldest active merchant in the downtown area.

The Downtown Merchants Association concludes its "Get Acquainted Month" with special sales on Tuesday.

Panthers Hold Off Jenison; Dutch Almost Pull Out Win Showdown Slated For West Ottawa

By Roger Kuiken

JENISON — West Ottawa, showing all the class of its ninth ranking, destroyed Jenison's hopes for an upset here Friday night. The Panthers' 29-20 victory came precisely on time to set the stage for the big showdown with powerful East Grand Rapids next week.

The win over Jenison didn't come all that easy however, and this game turned out to be one of the most exciting for the large crowd on a perfect football evening.

At first, it looked as though West Ottawa was going to run away with things until the Wildcats regained their poise and made a fine comeback.

John Witkowski set up the Panthers first score early in the first quarter when he intercepted a pass and ran it back to Jenison's 16-yard line. Four plays later, Scott Tubergan drove in from the eight for West Ottawa's first score. Sam Angell split the uprights for a 7-0 lead.

The next time the Panthers got the ball, Tubergan went around left end on a brilliant 78-yard run for the second score. This time Angell passed to Dave Beckman for a two point conversion and a 15-0 lead in the first quarter.

Early in the second period the Wildcats got a good break on a blocked punt that set the ball up on the one-yard line. Quarterback Greg Markert sneaked in for the score and passed to Rick Cunningham for a two-point conversion making it 15-8.

The Panthers came right back after a nice tackle by Jamie Bloemendaal forced Jenison to kick.

Again it was the Panthers All-State selection, Tubergan, who scampered in from the seven. Angell's kick gave W.O. a 22-8 lead.

Not to be denied, Jenison came right back to score on two long pass plays from Markert to Dave Ulberg, making it 22-14 at halftime.

The Wildcats came out like gangbusters in the third quarter and quickly scored on a 22-yard pass to Cunningham making it 22-20. But a series of bad breaks and penalties against Jenison set up West Ottawa's next TD. A high pass from center gave the Panthers the ball on Jenison's 15. Glenn Rider faded back and found John Van Eenennaam in the end zone and Angell made it 29-20. There was plenty of excitement in the final period, but no scoring.

"We made some mistakes tonight, but they made more," said coach Deb Nolan. "We did a good job of controlling the ball in the fourth quarter when we had to."

Tubergan had another good night gaining 183 yards rushing.

Athletic director Larry Randall of Jenison replied, "We made some mistakes but West Ottawa is a fine football team. Last week we should have beaten Kentwood, but we had a TD called back."

He also stated that one of the best players he ever saw come to Jenison was out with a broken leg he received before the season. His name is Jim Szczepaniuk, a sophomore transfer from GR West Catholic.

This was a fine Jenison team that the Panthers beat, that's for sure. Beckman played a super game for the Panthers on both offense and defense, especially in the last quarter. His rugged hitting enabled the Panthers to control the ball in the final six minutes. Tom Goodrow intercepted a Wildcat pass in the closing minutes that iced it for the Panthers.

And now it all boils down to the big game with East Grand Rapids next week. Only once have the Panthers defeated East, that being in 1970 when Jon Helder rushed for 325 yards. But it will be homecoming and this has to be the best Panther team this writer has ever seen. The winner could well be the OK Red Division champs.

Mustangs Ride to Win Over Holland

By Leo Martonosi

The Holland High Dutch were ambushed like Patricia (Tania) Hearst in the first half of their football game here Friday night against Portage Central.

However, the second half was like an escape, as the Dutch made an exciting contest out of it in dropping a hard fought 33-25 decision.

Portage jumped out to a 27-7 halftime margin and the Dutch couldn't quite recover, as they went down to their third consecutive defeat, despite a great passing dual in tall Dennis Lawson and Todd De Young.

Lawson hauled in seven of De Young's airdrops for 130 yards including touchdown passes of 45, seven and 15 yards.

Central took the opening kickoff and marched 70 yards into pay dirt with quarterback Greg Gebben going in for the score from the one. Gebben also added all the extra point kicks.

After Central held Holland on downs deep in its own territory, Gebben came right back to dash 71 yards on a keeper play for the Mustangs next score.

De Young's beautiful lob to the 6'7" Lawson and his extra point conversion, cut Central's margin to 14-7 with 6:23 left in the half.

Right after Holland had scored, Gebben hit Mark Louis for a 50-yard TD strike and Don Yovanovich dashed six yards for a touchdown. This score resulted from the ensuing when Holland fumbled.

Former Dutch griddler Bill DeWitt said at the half, "Can you actually believe that Central hasn't won any games this season."

On the first play after Loren Schrottenboer intercepted a deflected pass, Rick Elzinga sprinted 34 yards into Central's end zone with 10:33 still to play in the third quarter.

Yovanovich picked off his second pass of the night and six plays later ran six yards for Central's final TD. The pass was thrown by reserve quarterback Dan Molenaar, who replaced the briefly injured De Young. However, Molenaar did fall on Jamie Hinojosa's beautifully exhibited inside kick for the Dutch in the fourth stanza.

De Young and Lawson teamed up again for some nice pass receptions and Elzinga and John Hosta ran with authority, as the never say die Dutch were determined to make a game out of it.

After cutting the once huge deficit to 33-25 with still enough time left on the scoreboard, Central started another one of its long drives but was stopped short by a great goal-line stand defense by Holland on the three-yard stripe.

Linebacker Brian Bouwens and back Ross Nykamp and Co. were all over the field in the second half.

The Dutch not only were making it close but were driving Coach Bob Knight of Portage up the wall by moving down field for another score.

Holland was not only fighting the clock in the drive but were fighting to keep the drive alive, as they were faced with several third and 10 and third nine situations.

Central eventually stopped the drive and the clock ran out to 1:00. The Mustangs' first win.

"Those 27 points in the first half is what beat us," stated Coach Ray Backus. De Young and Lawson had a fine game and we moved the ball real well on the ground. But it's hard to come back and win after trailing by 20 points."

Backus was also proud of his fellows for not giving up.

The Dutch may be winless but they rank as the top offensive team in the Big Seven Conference.

Niles will travel to Holland next Friday night.

Pamela Kammeraad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kammeraad of 90 East 38th St., took part in a special segment of pre-college orientation for Kalamazoo College from Sept. 6 to Sept. 24.

The 50 Kalamazoo College freshmen, who selected this segment, spent two weeks canoe tripping, backpacking, and rock climbing, studying the flora and fauna of the area and feeling and learning all manner of survival under the leadership of faculty members and upperclassmen. Special arrangements were made with Killarney Provincial Park officials in Ontario, Canada. A comfortable base camp was established three remote miles by water from the nearest boat landing for the three separate groups of students.

As an introduction to the Georgian Bay Waters, each group spent an additional week aboard the brigantine, Playfair, where the students performed all functions of the sail.

College officials feel the Land/Sea program, as it is referred to, affords a special way to become acquainted, to interact and to experience a personal unity with nature. Academic counselling was given at the base camp preceding the adventure.

Four hundred other freshmen went through a more normal orientation on campus at Kalamazoo while their counterparts were some six hundred miles away. Intensive minicourses as well as social and recreational activities were arranged.

Kalamazoo hopes that the two contrasting choices for orientation will ease the transition to college life for all of its freshmen.

PUMPKIN PROMOTERS? — Craig Bouwman, 8, a pumpkin "magnate" of sorts, has decided to sell his huge 110-pound specimen to raise money for a miniature car race track but his sister, Tina, 3½, had no comment on the ultimate fate of her 100-pound prize. The two children of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bouwman, A-4220 Blue Star Highway, assisted their grandfather with the planting on Memorial Day and the harvesting on the first day of fall, Sept. 23.
