Fred Kamferbeek

Former Ottawa County Sheriff Succumbs at 77

Fred Kamferbeek, 77, former Ottawa county sheriff, died at 2:30 p.m. Monday in Smith Convalescent Home where he had been in failing health since January, 1947.

When elected sheriff in 1924, he was the first Democrat to serve in that office in 40 years. He served two terms. Eleven years ago this month while operating his print shop in Holland, he had occasion to reminisce on county politics with another Democratic sheriff of Ottawa county, Joos Ver Plank, who was 93 years old at the time.

At that time Ver Plank held the distinction of being the county's first elected Democratic sheriff, serving four years from 1877 until 1881. There was a difference of almost 50 years in the terms of offices for the two men.

Kamferbeek had long been associated with enforcement work at the time he was elected sheriff. He belonged to the old hand-drawn fire department No. 2 and served as constable several years in the old second ward. He served as city marshal and as deputy sheriff and was the first elected chief of police, serving from 1909 to 1913.

He was born Sept. 12, 1871, in Holland, son of the late Frederick Kamferbeek. A printer by trade, he operated De Wachter and De Hope print shop on Hope college campus and managed the De Pree Co. print shop for several years. He retired three years ago after operating his own print shop for many years.

He was president of HOH at one time and a member of the police and fire board (now public safety commission) for several years. He was a member of Fourteenth Street Christian Reformed church.

He is survived only by in-laws and several nieces and nephews. Brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law are Mrs. Albert Kamferbeek, Mrs. H. Schaefenaar, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Schaefenaar, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Schaefenaar and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Etta.

Sidewalk Laying Halted on Street Near C-O Depot

A letter from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co. outlining difficulties in laying a sidewalk on the north side of Eighth St. between Lincoln and Fairbanks Ave., was referred to the sidewalk committee and the city engineer at a regular meeting of Common Council Wednesday night.

The railway company pointed out the excessive costs involved in view of the fact that certain controls and switches are on locations where the sidewalk would be placed.

A second letter from the railway company informed council that all locomotive engineers had been contacted on complaints of excessive blowing of train whistles and hoped this would take care of the matter to the satisfaction of the city.

Signatures of the mayor and clerk were authorized on an agreement with Michigan State Highway department for traffic controls at 8th and College Ave., 8th and Central, 8th and River, River and 10th, 8th and Columbia, and River and 17th.

The Civic Improvements committee reported it had met with Baker Furniture representatives to discuss smoke nuisance and company officials promised an investigation with a view to correcting the matter. From Our Washington Bureau

Washington, Oct. 7 (Special)—Industrial Michigan may soon see many of its factories pack and move to other parts of the country if the muddle created by a recent Supreme Court decision on methods of sale is not cleared up.

That is the gist of most letters now pouring into the offices of Sen. Homer Capehart's committee, which is investigating the effect of a high court ruling that has seemingly outlawed the old multiple-basing point system of selling. This system was universally used by large steel and cement manufacturers.

Capehart, an Indiana Republican, will preside over an Oct. 21-22 meeting in Chicago, of a 40-member panel of industry experts,

With chalk rag in hand, James C. De Pree of Zeeland pauses for a chat while working on his newest pastel, a scene of "Government Cut" at Miami, Fla. On the wall is one of his favorite pictures, a scene of a road in the Netherlands. Successful in business, De Pree finds his pastels an absorbing hobby. He took up this form of art when his wife gave him the colors for a gift about seven years ago.

Looking for New Hobby? You Might Try Pastels

Zeeland, Oct. 7.—Dabbling in pastels is a nice relaxing hobby after a hard day's work.

Just ask James C. De Pree, successful Zeeland merchant, who would rather work with the powdery chalk-like crayons in his spare time than go hunting, fishing or golfing.

He says it's fun, and the results are such that his colorful pictures have drawn favorable comment from the few experts who have seen his work.

Always interested in art, Jim thoroughly enjoyed what art was offered when he attended school years ago, and when he was graduated from Hope college in 1904 he had ambitions to study at the Chicago Art Institute.

But his father discouraged him. The elder De Pree pointed to well known truths that only the very best artists succeed in the field and young Jim would be better off selling furniture and hardware.

So Jim became a part of the William De Pree Co. and advanced with the company until he now is manager and holds several offices.

He never forgot about art in the intervening years, but it wasn't until Mrs. De Pree gave him a set of pastel colors for a gift about seven years ago that he took an active interest. Since then he figures he has turned out about 25 pictures.

Some time ago, Mrs. De Pree decided there were too many pictures knocking around the house so she took them to the store, more or less to get them out of the way. And people wanted to buy them, particularly those who recognized the locale of the scenes.

One of his favorites is a tree-lined road in the Netherlands where GI paratroopers landed during World War II. An art supervisor wants him to exhibit this picture at the American Artists exhibit in Grand Rapids. Maybe he'll do so next spring.

The only formal training Jim has had outside of the public schools was a week at Ox Bow art colony in Saugatuck last summer. It was nice, he said, but it was apparent that Mrs. De Pree, an artist in her own right, profited more than he did.

Mrs. De Pree, who taught practical arts several years in schools in Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, pursues her own hobbies. She dabbles in oils, collects and makes dolls and collects glassware and silver.

Coach Howard Elzinga

Zeeland Football Squad All Set for Coopersville

Zeeland, Oct. 7.—Coach Howard Elzinga will take his football squad to Coopersville for a night game Friday with hopes that Zeeland will return to the win column after an 18-0 shellacking by Wyoming park gridders at Grandville last Friday.

So far this season, Zeeland has lost to Grandville and Wyoming park and defeated Fennville. The training season got off to a slow start with the late arrival of the new coach who spends summers operating the Galveston lobster pound at Bar Harbor, Me.

Elzinga, a native of Ellsworth, is a graduate of Central Michigan college at Mt. Pleasant. He spent about four years in the U.S. Navy during the war and came to Zeeland this fall after coaching at Pigeon and Grant. He is married and has a four-year-old son.

His players are recovering from assorted bruises and injuries, received in the Wyoming park game

Friday. With one possible exception, all are expected to be in shape for the Coopersville fracas.

Elzinga succeeds Coach Albert Jones, now coaching at Northville near Detroit after three years in Zeeland.

Assistant to Elzinga is Mel Bouma, Zeeland native and Western Michigan graduate, who has been teaching in Zeeland for four years.

Zeeland's next home game will be Oct. 15 when the Chix play Otsego on the newly developed athletic field a few blocks east of the high school. The new field has 128 open-type lights used both for football and baseball.

The remainder of the 1948 Zeeland football schedule follows: Oct. 8, Coopersville, there; Oct. 15, Otsego, home; Oct. 20, Paw Paw, there; Oct. 26, Allegan, home; Nov. 5, Plainwell, there; Nov. 10, Sparta, home.

Women Important to Peace, Club Is Told

The American woman's great opportunity will come in the making of peace. Louise Leonard Wright, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, told members of the Woman's Literary club at their opening luncheon and first meeting of the season Tuesday afternoon in the Warm Friend Tavern.

Opening her discussion of "Women's Place in the International Scene," with the comment that the position of women has advanced progressively during times of war, Mrs. Wright asked frankly, "Do women work for peace?"

She reviewed the changes that have taken place in the status of women in foreign countries as she observed them on a recent trip abroad, showing that although women have advanced in many fields, their influence in politics is still negligible.

The influence of women in the forming of public opinion cannot be overestimated, said the speaker. Their ideas dominate the radio, movies, educational systems and churches as well as economic matters. On paper women would seem to have unlimited influence and power, but they throw away their opportunities.

World citizenship is the goal in the making of peace and there is no better way to achieve world citizenship than through the co-operation of women, said Mrs. Wright. Many opportunities may be found in UNESCO. There is a role to play in the re-arranging of curricula in schools, where the responsibility and importance of the United Nations should be taught.

"We need to learn to be good neighbors, we need to develop imagination, sympathy and understanding. If we are to build up the defenses of peace, women must develop their powers," she said.

Mrs. John K. Winter, club president, presided. Mrs. Kenneth De Pree read the Club Collect as an invocation. In opening the club year Mrs. Winter challenged the group to outstanding achievements. Study groups are open to all members, she announced.

Next Tuesday the club will meet in the club house to hear Kenneth Walker, author, lecturer and educator, talk on "Personal New Horizons." Contributions to apply on the mortgage will be received at the meeting.

A simple ceremony Tuesday afternoon at the Cornelius Stroop home in Central Park, united in marriage his daughter, Peggy, and Earl E. Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Butler of Hamilton. The Rev. Wayne Lemmen, brother-in-law of the bride, performed the double ring service at 2 p.m.

The fireplace was decorated with palms, ferns and baskets of white gladioli and dahlias.

The bride wore a rust gabardine suit with dark brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Cleason Butler, sister-in-law of the groom, the bride's only attendant, wore a gray sharkskin suit and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Cleason Butler attended his brother as best man.

A reception for the immediate family was held at the bride's home. Later Mr. and Mrs. Butler left on an eastern wedding trip.

The bride is a Holland high school graduate. She lived in Holland most of her life except while employed by the War Department at Ft. Custer and the Veterans Administration at Los Angeles, Calif. She returned to Holland last November. The groom is a graduate of Allegan high school and attended Hope college one year. He was in military service and spent two years in Washington, D. C. He is employed by Hamilton Co-op.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler will live at 1210 Floral Ave., upon their return Oct. 20.

This old coin dated 1774 bearing the head of Joseph Maximilian II on the face and Patrona Bavaria on the back is owned by John F. Felon, a Hope college student who obtained it while serving with the U. S. Armed forces in Bavaria. Initials on the face represent the princely states over which Joseph Maximilian had jurisdiction. On the back, Patrona Bavaria or Virgin Mary was the patron saint of Bavaria or "patroness." Felon gathered the information on the coin from books and dictionaries and by consulting the Rev. John M. Westendorp.

Hurricanes Whip Invading Flint In League Tilt

Locals Show Improved Offensive Attack;
Mel Klinge Injured

Holland's Hurricanes bounced back into the win column at Riverview Park Friday night when they scored an impressive 14-0 victory over the Flint Falcons before 1,200 fans. The game was a league contest. Holland now has two wins, a tie and a defeat in the conference, while Flint has dropped two tilts while knotting one.

With the game but five minutes old, Jack Westerhof swept around his own right end from the five yard stripe to score. Vern Vandewater's conversion attempt was good, making the score 7-0. Holland started its touchdown drive after taking a Flint punt on the Falcon 43-yard line. The Dutch reeled off a first down on three plays, moving the ball to the 33 yard marker. Then after Don Leeuw gained to the 30, Jack Westerhof completed a beautiful pass to Ted Bos on the five yard line. Rudy Belik gained nothing on the first play, before Westerhof reached the end zone.

Holland's final touchdown came midway in the fourth period on a well-executed aerial from Don Leeuw to End Ted Bos, who was standing alone in the end zone. The pass was good for nine yards. "Old Reliable" Vern Vandewater again made his place kick good, giving the Hurricanes their 14-0 margin.

Holland's touchdown was well deserved since the locals had been knocking at the gates for most of the third and fourth periods. However, a stubborn Falcon forward wall stiffened on the earlier threats. The last touchdown march started on the Flint 14-yard line. After Wyngarden and Leeuw advanced only to the nine yard stripe on three plays, Leeuw faked an end run and threw the "payoff" pass to Bos.

Flint's only serious threat came early in the second quarter. In fact the Falcons had scored a touchdown on a pass, but it was nullified by a Flint penalty. In their drive, the Falcons moved the ball from the Holland 42-yard stripe to the 15-yard line. Then Fulton Graves, lanky Negro back, passed to MacGillivray on the two yard stripe. Holland held the invaders for no gain on the first play. Then the jittery Falcons fumbled, moving the ball back to the 15-yard stripe. Finally on fourth down Graves passed to Phelps in the end zone, only to have the play called back for an offside penalty.

The second half was all Holland, with Flint showing no offensive attack. The Hurricanes showed an improved offense over previous contests, using several deceptive plays. Jack Westerhof and Ted Bos were outstanding for the locals throughout the contest.

Holland's entire line played a superb ball game, holding the Flint offense to a mere 67 yards by rushing. Graves and LeMire played good ball for the losers. The contest was marred by a serious injury to Mel Klinge, local tackle. According to reports received at the contest, Klinge received a broken leg during a line mixup. The injury occurred in the second quarter of the tilt. Next Thursday night the Hollanders will play host to the Twin City Independents from Benton Harbor. This club is practically the same aggregation which was entered in the Michigan Independent Football league last season.

PROCLAIMS WEEK

Lansing (UP)—Gov. Sigler has proclaimed the week of Oct. 3-9 as "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" in Michigan.

The job of governing nine million Germans... American style is a big order in an uncertain postwar world, but Murray D. Van Wagoner manages a big smile for the cameraman as he relaxes with his big German boxer as company. 'Pat' Van Wagoner, former Michigan governor, will complete his first year in November as governor of Bavaria. His headquarters are in Munich.

Job Rough in Bavaria, But Pat Isn't Kicking

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Munich, Oct. 4 (Special)—An American governor finds being governor of a "state" in a foreign country is something quite different. The job is full of surprises... and a new kind of headache.

At average day of the former governor of Michigan, Murray D. Van Wagoner, in his executive office in Munich, is likely to start off with an appointment with his No. 1 German in his state of Bavaria.

Minister-President Hans Ehard doesn't speak English even as well as Van Wagoner speaks German. So usually an interpreter is called into the conference.

The next caller may be a businessman from back home. He comes to buy for export, perhaps Rosenthal china, Bavarian beer, textiles, or some product of the area. He's very welcome. Van Wagoner is as proud of the Bavarian export record as he used to be of the automobile output in Michigan.

Then the governor's calendar may list a conference with an American-born German baroness who wants to bring her sick husband, a former Nazi diplomat, back home. Next is probably a cabinet meeting, a Van Wagoner innovation harking back to his days as highway commissioner when he achieved teamwork by letting the department heads have a say-so in the decisions.

Lunchtime finds the governor in his favorite corner table at the Haus der Kunst where Hitler's top men used to dine. The afternoon is certain to bring a mountain of "paper work" since the across-the-seas and inter-zonal correspondence is heavy.

The basic difference between a governor's job at home and in occupied Germany lies in the word "military." It's a Department of the Army function, civilian in character, but with Army control.

This explains the need for some "show" of authority, for it is well recognized that the Germans respect a leader who acts and lives like a leader. The governor's house is typical of the best of Hitler architecture. Downstairs are three spacious living rooms, two dining rooms, most rooms opening onto a big flagstone terrace where there's a sunken pool. Beyond are the gardens. Along the back flows the Isar river. The only surplus in Germany is domestic help, who eat better if they work in an American household.

Heading the omissions is just the preferred joy of living in one's own country with the good, familiar comforts, physical and otherwise. "Pat" misses reading his favorite newspaper or the same day it's published. He misses being there when a friend has a big moment. He misses real ice cream and the corner drug store which stocks his favorite cigar. He misses having his family together. His elder daughter, Ellen, is a sophomore at the University of Michigan and young Jo is finishing high school in Munich.

To the Van Wagoners, one of the few couples who have a budget and keep it, the job means losing money every month. The post calls for an assumed rank of brigadier general, a salary of $10,000 and no fancy expense allowance for the official entertaining that must be done. In Van Wagoner's case he has two households to maintain, one in Birmingham, Mich., where Mrs. Van Wagoner's parents live, and in Munich. He's at a standstill in advancing in his engineering profession until he returns.

But Van Wagoner is glad he accepted "the draft" made by Army Secretary Kenneth Royall. His first year will be up in November.

Dutchmen Score 13-7 Victory Over Monmouth

Goal Line Stand Features Contest
At Illinois School

Hope's grid team perched on a 13-0 halftime lead Saturday and staved off a second half Monmouth attack to win a decisive 13-7 victory.

The Dutchmen unleashed a powerful running attack which netted two scores in the first half. Perhaps the outstanding feature of the game was Hope's gallant goal line stand in the third quarter. Monmouth had the ball on Hope's one-yard line with four downs to go. Hope held for three downs, then set the Scots for a loss back to the nine-yard line on the last down.

Jim Pfingstel climaxed a 40-yard march early in the second quarter to score from the one foot line and send the locals into a 6-0 lead. After taking a Scot punt on Monmouth's 40-yard marker, the Dutchmen smashed to two first downs bringing the ball to the 16. Claus Holtrop drove to the one-foot line from where Pfingstel scored.

The Dutchmen drove 38 yards on eight plays for the scoring drive.

Late in the same quarter, Nick Yonker heaved a 27-yard pass to Ted Barrett who caught the ball in the end zone for the second score. The extra point kick was good and the locals had a 13-0 halftime lead.

Monmouth came to life in the second half with a brilliant passing attack.

The Fighting Scots scored midway in the fourth quarter. Two passes took them from their own 40-yard line to Hope's 15. Ace Halfback Don Armstrong went the final 15 yards off a spread formation to score. Armstrong's plunge for extra point was good.

Monmouth netted 10 first downs while Hope made nine. The Dutchmen completed one out of five passes, two were intercepted. Monmouth made seven out of 17 passes good. They completed five out of nine in the second half.

Hope drove deep into Scot territory late in the fourth quarter but were unable to score before the final gun sounded.

Barrett and Pfingstel were the standout players on offense for the Dutchmen while the entire forward wall was outstanding on defense.

Army Recruits Get Assignments

Direct assignments with two of the Army's most distinctive units are now authorized for men enlisting in the U. S. Army through the Michigan recruiting district.

Men enlisting for three or more years service may request direct assignment to either the constabulary corps or the famed first infantry division. Both units are presently on duty in the U. S. zone of Germany.

The constabulary corps is a mobile striking force which maintains law and order throughout the American occupation zone in Germany. Members of the constabulary wear the most distinctive uniform of any unit in the Army. Yellow scarfs and distinctively striped helmets have made the constabulary insignia the symbol of law and order.

The first infantry division is the Army's oldest; with a history dating back through World War I. Its record is filled with a number of "firsts." It was the first unit to arrive in France in World War I. It was the first infantry division to invade North Africa, Sicily and France and the first to smash through the supposedly impregnable Siegfried Line during World War II.

Both veterans and non-veterans can qualify for assignment to these units. Information about enlisting for direct assignment to the constabulary or the first infantry division is available at the Army and Air Force recruiting station at the Armory in Grand Haven, or any Tuesday at the Holland post office between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

New Oil Products Introduced Here

More than 100 gasoline jobbers and dealers of Western Michigan were guests of Henry Poppen, local distributor for Lubri-Gas, at a general sales lecture Thursday night in the Tulip room of the Warm Friend Tavern.

The lecture was given by Charles E. Paden of Chicago, president of Lubri-Gas International, who outlined the theories of lubrication and its effects in combustion engines.

Paden repeated often that a perfectly lubricated piece of machinery cannot and will not wear out. He predicted the day when service stations will offer a variety of products instead of those of a single trade name.

Paden illustrated his lecture with charts and drawings.

Street Numbers Made to Replace Rural Deliveries

The number is up for 600 patrons of the Holland post office. That many houses will have new mailing addresses beginning Tuesday Oct. 5, according to Postmaster Harry Kramer.

Routes will be changed to letters and have numbers. All persons involved have been notified by the post office.

Some 20 new street names will be put into use as mail addresses. To familiarize the public with the new streets and their location, The Sentinel will print a map of the entire Holland area showing the changes as soon as the drawings are available.

City delivery will be extended down South Shore Dr. up to Jensen Park. All of Central Park will be included, although Virginia Park south of the South Shore Dr. will remain as rural route one. Rogers Rd. north of 32nd St., 35th St. from Washington Ave. to Lincoln Ave., 40th St. from Central Ave. to Lincoln Ave., Eighth St. east to Dartmouth Road; Waverly Road from 16th St. to the Short Cut Road; Short Cut Road west to the Grand Haven railroad tracks crossing and all of Scott's Woods area will be removed from rural to city delivery.

The newly established delivery will be by truck so mail boxes will not have to be relocated. There will be one delivery. The 35th St. and 40th St. delivery will be by carrier. It is hoped patrons on these streets will be able to move their mail boxes to the houses, explained Sipp Houtman, superintendent of mails.

Muskegon Heights Drubs Impotent Holland Eleven

67-Yard Run Features
One-Sided Contest;
Howell Scores Marker

Holland flopped in their Southwestern conference opener against Muskegon Heights Friday night. The Tigers won 13-0.

The local eleven showed spurts of brilliance but were cut short repeatedly by Heights linemen. The longest Holland gain was a 33-yard pass from Appledorn to Israels just before the final whistle sounded.

Holland's ineffective blocking and tackling enabled the Heights runners to reel off sizeable gains throughout the game at Phillips field in Muskegon.

Frank Howell, ace Tiger back, romped around Holland's right end midway in the second period to score the first touchdown from Holland's 15-yard line. The sprint climaxed a 37-yard drive by the Heights.

The Heights took an out of bounds punt on their own 43-yard line and the drive started. Flanker Chuck Zorn carried the ball 25 yards on an end around play to the local's 33. Dan Felcoski and Howell teamed to advance the pigskin to Holland's 28. Jack Bramble flipped a pass to Zorn who was downed on the 15 from where Howell scored. Ed Cole's extra point boot was good making the score 7-0.

The Tigers again scored soon after the third period kickoff. Howell took a Holland punt on his own two yard line and ran it back to Muskegon's 23. On the next play, Howell cracked off tackle for five yards and Felcoski hit center to the Heights 33-yard line.

On the next play, Felcoski hit center, found a hole and raced 67 yards for the final score of the game. The conversion attempt was downed.

Holland never got past the Tigers' 33-yard line while the Heights penetrated deep into Dutch territory on several occasions.

Muskegon Heights gained 299 yards rushing while holding Holland to 60 yards gained rushing. The Tigers made 17 yards through the air and Holland made 40 via aerials.

The Heights eleven totaled 11 first downs to six for Holland. Holland attempted 13 passes and completed seven while the Tigers tried seven passes and completed three. Holland had two of their passes intercepted.

Holland was penalized 40 yards and the Tigers 25.

Ron Appledorn was taken out of the game on several occasions because of a twisted ankle and Kempker was hobbled off the field in the final quarter with a leg injury.

CHOICE PRESIDENTIAL

LANGUAGE

As the campaign progresses it becomes plainer by the hour that President Truman is slugging it out with bare fists. Somebody appears to have convinced the president that the tone of his acceptance speech at Philadelphia struck the right note and that the American people would love more and more of the same. The campaign is too young to decide whether the president's judgment is good, but certainly not too young to convince many that his taste is poor.

The president seems to have argued with himself that the average American voter is a slangy tough guy who understands best the tough language of the prize ring. So when the President of the United States and his hundred and forty million citizens announced the plans for his swing about the country he promised that "he would give 'em b-l-l." Most certainly that language startled not a few of those millions of voters, to put it very mildly, but the president seemed to believe that it would startle them into a feeling of good will for him.

But that was only a sample.
When the president wanted to tell the voters to defeat the presents congress for re-election he advised them to "fire" the legislators. But that epithet was mild in comparison with his description of the 80th congress as a "bunch of old mossbacks."

Apparently Mr. Truman is going on the mistaken assumption that to gain the attention of the masses of the people a speaker must employ the idiom of the common people. And it is perfectly true that the million-peopled masses of voters understand that language and employ it. They want and expect it from the announcer describing a prize fight, but those of the millions who attend such things as church services—and they are numerous—would resent it and revolt if that language were spoken from the pulpit in the mistaken notion that that is the only language the people understand.

A public man must indeed use language that people can understand but it is perfectly possible to use language that is both simple and dignified. And unless the American people have greatly changed in the past two or three years, that is the language they expect from their president. Lincoln used such simple language that the most unlettered could understand him, but no one ever spoke with greater dignity than he. You cannot "give 'em b-l-l." Franklin Roosevelt never underestimated the common people's sense of dignity coupled with simplicity in their speech.

Mr. Truman tries to sound folksy and democratic; actually he merely sounds shrill.

Biography in the Bible

Genesis 11:27; 25:11

By Henry Geertlings

It is generally agreed that Abram is one of the great figures of all time. He appears to take the place in the Old Testament that Paul assumes in the New. To be sure, he stands so far back toward the beginning of recorded history that at times he appears to be little more than a shadow.
But in the Bible he figures very largely. He was a man of great faith, great courage and of deep conviction. His name appears at many places throughout the Bible.
He is held before us as an example, and well he might be.
He appears to gather up in himself practically all of the virtues that we regard as outstanding at the present time. He will never cease to be our teacher because he lived very close to God and also very close to man.

If we were to take the time to pick up any history of the world and turn its pages we would find that the space given to the consideration of the person and labors of Abram would be altogether striking. How God spoke to him we are not told. That he heard a voice from heaven summoning him to leave his native land and to go elsewhere was one of his greatest convictions. Experiences like his own have been happening across the centuries.
We might think of the Pilgrims and Puritans, and Salzbergers, and many more. When a religious group was not in a position to enjoy its freedom abroad it seemed disposed to migrate to this country. In most cases migration was the result of religious convictions.
Men and women have always sought freedom for the expression of their opinions and beliefs.
Religion flourishes best in a land where believers are granted a large measure of freedom. So large is the religious liberty we enjoy in this country that it is almost impossible for us to appreciate any other condition under which faith may prosper. It is not strange that the guarantee of religious liberty is one of the principles that underlie the written declarations in many of our own immortal documents.

We know very little of the background of Abram and his family. It is apparent, however, that his separation from them was necessary in order that he might become the father of the faithful.
It would seem that there was something in his original environment that would obstruct his vision of God and his absolute obedience to the divine will. That situation is not at all strange. It has applied to practically all generations. It is pertinent to the highest and best living today. What we daily see and hear and experience becomes so much a part of us that unless it is conducive to the purpose of God for our lives we shall definitely have to make a choice between the noble and the ignoble. This daring to follow the Lord is not to be a secondary principle in our lives. Jesus expressed it when he said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God." Our growth in spiritual experience is not to be handicapped by the obstructions the world places in our pathway.

The question has often been raised, Can one's religion be transplanted? Must it become a part of a particular environment?
Are we able to separate ourselves from congenial surroundings, where everything is friendly to ward the exercise of faith, and establish ourselves in an environment that is wholly uncongenial to this type of life? In short, does religion flourish away from home? Does it need that measure of protection to which we have been accustomed? Are we able to let our light shine in the dark places? Are we able to settle down in a strange community and live the faith that we expressed in surroundings that were wholly different? These were questions that beat upon the heart of Abram, and they are like wise questions that each of us must face.

If Abram had had his own way he probably would have remained where he grew up, but God set his eyes upon a different goal. Evidently this man, first of all, must have believed it was God who was speaking to him. It is doubtful if any other voice could have caused him to change the stream of his life. It may be impossible for us, living so far away from him, to determine what elements entered into the choice he made. However, that question is not so difficult for us to answer when our own future is involved. There are certain guideposts along the way which mark out God's path for us.
These, in some instances, may mean little change in the tenor of our lives. In other cases, they may mean the complete revision of our life's program.

The excessive rain of the sum-fruit split open but it blackened much of it.

Property Tax Up In State, Survey Of Counties Shows

School, County Units Raise Cost to Owner Of Taxable Holdings

The average Michigan citizen wanting to complain about his mounting property tax burden should see his school, county, and village authorities.

The other two units of local government, cities and townships, actually reduced total property tax levies during 1947, according to a study issued by the Michigan Survey, a state taxpayer association.

Adding levies of all five classifications (cities, schools, counties, villages and townships) however, the average taxpayer suffered a 6.45 per cent net increase in 1947 over the previous year, a jump from $232 million in 1946 to $247 million in 1947. (The disbursement of 1947 property tax collections effects 1948 operation.)

The survey analysis shows that the average Michigan taxpayer paid $71.90 in property taxes in 1947. This compares with the $67.54 he paid in 1946.

In 1947 he paid an average of $29.79 in city taxes, $26.36 in school taxes, $13.43 in county taxes, $1.57 in village taxes and $7.74 in township taxes, the Survey reports.

Looking at the whole picture, the report shows local units, in Twenty-two of Michigan's larger counties paid $223.3 million or 90 per cent of total taxes, according to the Survey report. These were levied against 88 per cent of the total equalized valuation. The remaining 67 counties levied only $23.9 million or 10 per cent of total Michigan property taxes against 12 per cent of the total equalized valuation.

Ottawa county had an equalized valuation of $108,898,000, according to the report. Taxes levied totaled $1,429,000. Making up this total were $249,000 in county taxes, $60,000 in township taxes, $353,000 in city taxes, $32,000 in village taxes, and $736,000 in the school taxes.

Local Firm Works Against Nuisances

Officials of Crampton Manufacturing company announced recently that several changes are being made at the local plant. They are improvements to the operation and are designed to relieve complaints of neighbors in the vicinity.

A new process is being installed at the plant whereby smoke and other gaseous nuisances are eliminated. A melting pot is being added which will settle out the silos used in their manufacturing processes. At the same time, smoke from this process will be blown skyward by a huge fan to prevent it from settling in the vicinity.

This new melting pot is the result of an engineering study by a Grand Rapids company. They have also provided for a different type of smoke outlet.

Company officials explained they have changed the type of flux used at their plant and thereby hope to eliminate a considerable amount of the smoke both inside the factory and in the immediate neighborhood.

In answer to the complaint of noise at night, a curfew has been placed on the tumbling barrel. Not long ago, neighbors appealed to Common Council on this and the other matters. Crampton officials have banned running the barrel after 8 p.m.

Fire Prevention Week Recalls Chicago's Fire in 1871

I Want to Live!

Fire fighting's dangerous business. And despite rigorous training, many firemen's lives are lost each year: lives which are our responsibility — because if our carelessness didn't result in fires, these men would be spared. Do all you can to stamp out fires. You'll protect your own life and property at the same time.

10,000 Persons Lose Their Lives In Fires Annually

Millions in Damages Reduces Wealth of American Nation

(An Editorial)
Some may wonder why each year a week should be set aside as Fire Prevention Week. Since the week designated is always that in which Oct. 9 the anniversary of the great Chicago Fire in 1871 falls, you may be inclined to pass it over as a fitting memorial of that terrible conflagration, which was one of the most destructive and costly in both lives and property in all history.

Or perhaps if you are inclined to be cynical you may regard it as just another promotional stunt—like so many of the "special days" and "weeks" that have increasingly cluttered up our calendars in recent years. In either case, you may well be asking why, if fire prevention is so vitally important, devote just a week to it instead of making it a year-round activity.

Let us try to resolve these questions by looking at the facts. First, we turn to the statistics. These figures are cold and informal until we translate them into the human and economic values which they merely represent. We find that on an average, 10,000 persons lose their lives each year in fires. And many times that number suffer incapacitating or painful burns and injuries.

Seven thousand of these deaths occur in homes where more than 400,000 fires were in one year. The victims of these home fires are largely women and children. In one year we buried $423,538,000 worth of property—the highest fire loss in 12 years. We wasted this huge accumulation of irreplaceable buildings and goods—in the midst of the greatest war in which we have ever been engaged.

While we were striving to conserve manpower and resources to produce and supply the material which we and our allies needed for victory, nearly half a billion dollars in property was consumed by flames and smoke.

These figures indicate the magnitude of the problem which fires present. They measure its destructive force in lives and dollars. They supply the answer to the question as to why we should have a "Fire Prevention Week." While the season of the anniversary of the great Chicago Fire is certainly an appropriate time to focus attention on fire prevention, the extent of the annual loss of life and destruction of property conclusively proves that Fire Prevention Week is far more than a memorial occasion.

The most cynical will find in these figures proof that Fire Prevention Week is designed to crystallize public attention upon a great and ever-present social and economic problem—not a commercialized or promotional campaign. The answer to those who question why confine fire prevention to a week's campaign is that there is no intention of doing so. The perils of fire are present 365 days in the year, and the only purpose of designating a particular week out of the 52 weeks in the year as Fire Prevention Week is to signalize and emphasize the importance of this problem to every man, woman and child in the country.

It affords an opportunity right at the beginning of the season of the year when fire losses usually turn upward to give new impetus to a program which is continuous and which should not be forgotten even for a moment. When faced with figures of losses so staggering in their proportion and the destruction of life so extensive in its impact, you and I as individuals are prone to wonder: what we can do about this situation.

We are apt to forget that the deaths of thousands of our fellow citizens, the injuries to tens of thousands more and the great loss in property resulted from scores of thousands of individual small fires. While there are each year a relatively small number of big fires or conflagrations which result in great losses of life and property, these are responsible for but a small part of the total loss. Let us look at some of the principal causes of these fires.

Careless smoking and use of matches is probably the most prolific cause of fires. How frequently are we guilty of this form of carelessness. Risks of electrical equipment rank second as a cause of fires, while the accumulation of rubbish, use of inflammable liquids for cleaning and defective chimneys contribute to a vast majority of home fires. I think you will agree that each of us has an opportunity to exercise considerable control over these conditions.

One of the principle reasons for holding Fire Prevention Week each year is to have an opportunity to concentrate and focus public attention on these simple causes of fire which we so fre-

Catholic Diocesan Congress Planned

Grand Rapids—Msgr. Edmund F. Falicki has been named executive director of the Catholic Diocesan congress to be held in the Civic auditorium in Grand Rapids Oct. 15-17. The Congress is an outgrowth of the Catholic Tri-State congress held here in September, 1947. The sessions in October will have for their theme, "For Informed Lay Action."

The Congress will open with a solemn high mass, Friday, Oct. 15, at 9:30 at St. Andrew's Cathedral. Sessions will open at 2 p.m. Speakers will address youth delegates on "Education for Right Living," with women delegates hearing addresses on "New Horizons for Volunteer Services."

Saturday sessions will be devoted for the most part to the discussion of industrial and rural life. In the evening will be panel meetings for the married and unmarried.

Bishop Haas will be celebrant of a pontifical high mass in the Civic auditorium Sunday morning, Oct. 17. The sermon will be delivered by Auxiliary Bishop Allen J. Babcock of Detroit. The Congress will close with a mass meeting in the auditorium with nationally known speakers addressing the delegates.

Connie Goes Home

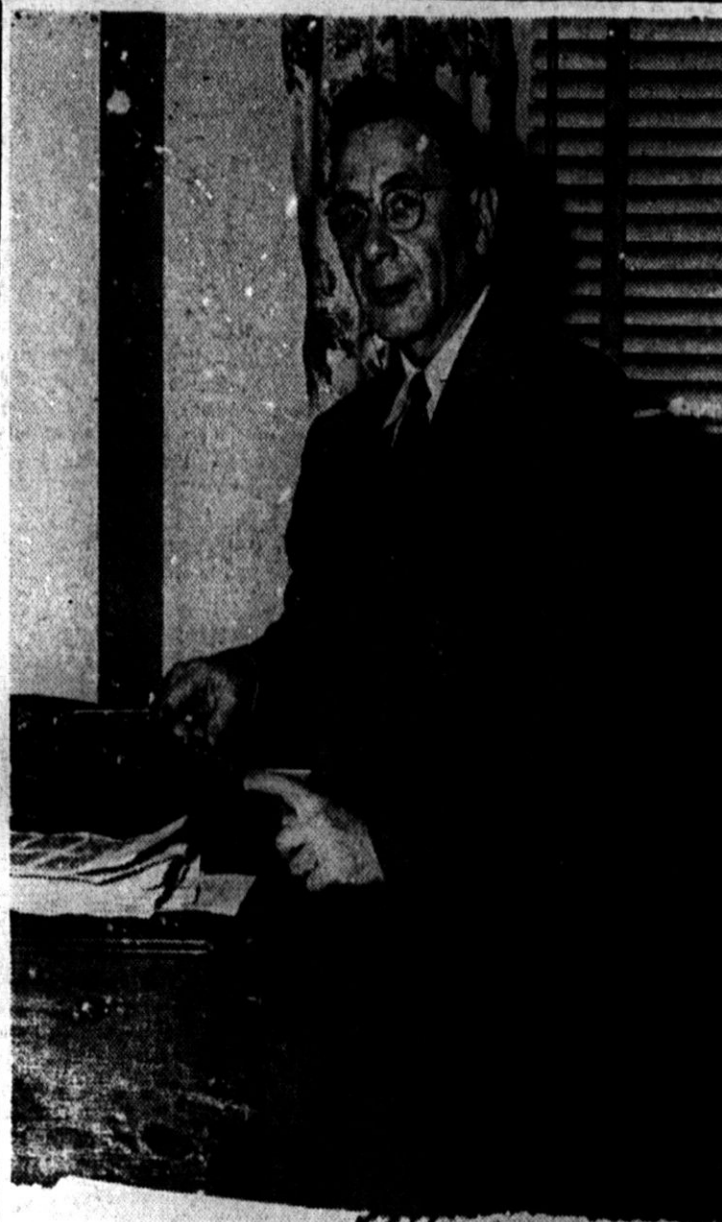

Connie Kuipers, 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kuipers, who fractured her skull in a fall Monday morning, returned to her home on South Shore drive Friday morning from Holland hospital. The child showed considerable improvement and recovered consciousness fully since Thursday. She will remain in bed and "very quiet" for a time.

quently overlook. A spectacular fire like the gas explosion in Cleveland last fall attracts world-wide attention because of its unusual character. Yet day after day in thousands of small fires, resulting from careless use of matches, pouring of kerosene into a stove to facilitate starting a fire, permitting rubbish to accumulate in the basement or attic, and other equally non-spectacular causes, just as many lives and just as great property values are destroyed as resulted from this unique conflagration.

Even in peacetime, no nation regardless how prosperous, can afford to squander its human and economic resources as we are each year in permitting fires to destroy so many lives and such great property values. In wartime such destruction becomes positively criminal and involuntary sabotage of the war effort.

In the days ahead continued full employment will be the primary objective of the American people. We shall be striving in every way to maintain jobs. Let us remember that a substantial number of industrial plants or commercial enterprises destroyed by fire never resume business.

Workers are deprived of their jobs and opportunities for re-employment. We can well afford to take a few minutes out of our busy lives during this Fire Prevention Week not only to think about some of these problems, but to take active steps to eliminate the hazards which may exist in our own homes and in our places of work or recreation before it is too late.

Using the "hunt and peck" method, the Rev. Herman B. Centz of Chicago prepares a report for the 32nd national conference of the Hebrew Christian Alliance of America which opens here Sunday. Rev. Centz, general secretary of the Alliance, was born in Russia and recently returned from a tour of Europe in which he visited Russian-dominated Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Local Visitor Penetrated Europe's Iron Curtain

The Rev. Herman B. Centz of Chicago, in Holland last week is one of the few persons who penetrated the "Iron Curtain" in Europe.

In his recent tour of Europe, he was permitted to spend a week in Czechoslovakia and a week in Hungary, both Russian dominated. While in Hungary, he dedicated an orphanage for children of Christian Jews who lost their lives during the Nazi occupation of the country.

Rev. Centz, general secretary of the Hebrew Christian Alliance of America which is holding its 32nd national conference here Oct. 3 to 8, was born in Russia. He immigrated to the United States in 1913 and became a minister in the Presbyterian church. For years he served the Presbyterian board of missions and traveled extensively in Europe.

Through the years, he has watched the growth of Russian Communism and studied the philosophies which motivate the movement. In the early 20's he served as a member of the American Relief commission during the Great Russian Famine.

In Hungary, the Hebrew Christian Alliance co-operates with the national Reformed church in the Netherlands. One of the Dutch bishops serves as chairman of the committee managing the orphanage. Rev. Centz said Hungary has a large element of Christian Jews who came to the faith during the war years. He said one church in Budapest alone received 2,000 Jews into membership.

Besides his work on the food commission during the Russian famine, Rev. Centz spent a considerable time in Europe between the wars, both studying and preaching. This included a year in Prague, a year in Germany and two years in Russia. An accomplished linguist, Rev. Centz speaks German and all the Slavic languages which include Russian, Polish, Bohemian, Slovak, Bulgarian and Siberian.

Further Data On Pier Cove

A letter from Mrs. Eva J. Phillips of Danville, Ill., reveals further data on the history of Pier Cove park near Ganges, a memorial to a thriving town of yesterday. The Sentinel carried a detailed story Aug. 21.

Mrs. Phillips said the mill was erected by her father, Joseph Edridge and was completed and in operation by the fall of 1873. She said a saw mill was in operation in Fennville when the family traveled en route to Pier Cove May 4, 1871.

According to Mrs. Phillips, the mill was run by steam three years after the dam went out in 1882. Because her father's health was poor, the engine was sold to Sherman Brothers of Fennville. She added the pier was built in 1875 on the mill property west of the road.

The Alliber was the last boat to carry a cargo from the pier. In those days the basket factory was operated by Fred Hall and supplies were shipped in from Ingraham and Lessee of Benton Harbor.

Mrs. Phillips said she worked three years for Mr. Hall at Pier Cove and one in Fennville where she made the last 500 apple boxes for S. J. B. Hutchinson of Ganges. The basket factory specialized in berry boxes, apple boxes, peach baskets and flats.

"I haven't been in the town for five years and am glad to hear the public may enjoy the park. My maiden name was Eva Edridge. I was married in the big house in 1885 and my father died there in 1887. My sister was Mrs. James Chase. My mother and father and the Chases are buried in Taylor cemetery. I am 85 years old and live with my daughter in Danville," Mrs. Phillips concluded.

Circuit Judge Refuses To Dissolve Injunction

Grand Haven, Oct. 7 (Special)—Judge Raymond L. Smith Saturday noon denied a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction issued out of the Ottawa Circuit Court Sept. 14, in the case of the Peerless Novelty Co. of Grand Haven vs. Local 731 UAW-AFL. The injunction restrains the union from interfering with entering or leaving the plant, and also from delivering goods or tampering with private property, such as trucks, etc.

The court recognized this is not a vicious matter and stated that it felt it is because the injunction exists that they are having peaceful and lawful picketing instead of unlawful picketing.

The strike was called July 28.

Christian Class Elects Officers

Howard Slenk of Holland was chosen to head the Holland Christian High senior class at its election held this week. Other officers elected are: Charles Aardema, vice president; Ruth Verduin, secretary and Eleanor De Vries, treasurer. Class sponsors are: Hero Bratt, James Hietbrink and John De Vries.

In another senior class action, Donald Kiel was elected business manager of the annual Senior class Christmas card campaign. Captains for canvassing territories will be announced later. There are 89 seniors in the class.

The high school capella choir also named officers at its business meeting Friday. In addition, tentative plans for the coming season were announced by Director Marvin Baas. Officers elected are: Herb Otten, president; Howard Slenk, vice president and Marjorie Pott, secretary.

Baas said the choir approved tentative plans to again render Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah", during the Christmas season. In addition the group plans to participate in the Calvin college music festival in the spring, the state music contests and their own annual spring concert. Announcement of other programs will be made later, Baas reported.

Hire the Handicapped Week Observed Here

It's "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" throughout the country this week.

There are five groups of handicapped persons for whom employment is needed. These groups are: (1) disabled veterans of the World Wars, (2) persons injured in industry, (3) persons injured in home, traffic, farm and other kinds of accidents, (4) persons disabled by illness, (5) persons born with afflictions.

Objectives of the week are to promote employer acceptance of qualified handicapped workers, to find jobs for handicapped workers who are unemployed, to safeguard the jobs of employed handicapped workers and to effect job adjustment to insure proper placement on the job, to promote rehabilitation and training for jobs for handicapped persons not now in the labor force, but who can be prepared for employment.

Another objective is to inform all handicapped persons of services available to them. Such services come through the local office of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation commission with offices at 246 River Ave.; the state divisions of vocational rehabilitation, and through Veterans Administration.

Ranks of the handicapped were swollen in recent years not only by disabilities incurred on the battlefields, but by accidents in factories, in homes, on the streets and highways, on farms, and by illness and disease.

The necessity for promoting job opportunities for the handicapped was recognized by Congress in August, 1945, when it passed Public Law 176 calling for national observance the first week in October each year as National Employ-the-Physically-Handicapped Week. The purpose was to enlist public support for and interest in the employment of otherwise qualified but physically handicapped workers.

Evidence is overwhelming that handicapped workers, when properly prepared for and placed in jobs, are as good or better than nondisabled workers on identical jobs.

Farmers Urged to Watch Hogs for Cholera Signs

Some cases of hog cholera have been reported in Allegan county. When any hogs go off feed, producers should call a veterinary at once. If there are any sick hogs in the neighborhood have the herd inoculated. Vaccination against hog cholera is 100 per cent if given at the proper time.

If hogs have a fever and are off feed, chances are they already have contracted the disease. The best and cheapest time to vaccinate is right after weaning time as the vaccine is administered according to the weight of the hog.

Truman Officially Launches National Community Chest

Local Chairman Urges Return to Fundamentals in Humanitarian Drive

Plans for the Community Chest campaign in Holland Oct. 25 to 29 went full speed ahead today after President Truman officially launched a national drive in a speech Thursday night.

The President paused in his coast-to-coast political tour to make a non-partisan plea for welfare agencies in 1,200 communities whose campaigns start in October.

He said the nation goal of the Community Chest campaigns is $184,000,000. "The Community Chests of America are a practical demonstration of the democratic faith we profess. They both serve and are served by the people from all ranks," he said.

Peter Kromann, local campaign chairman, again emphasized the aims this year in helping the deserving needy—particularly the youth. "It's not for drunken derelicts that our funds are given, but for their children. It would be a terrific liability later if these children do not become good citizens," he explained.

He said attempts are being made this year to emphasize the personal aspects of the humanitarian program. "People contribute not TO the Community Chest but THROUGH the Community Chest to other people," he said. He explained the humble origin of the Community Chest when one person in an effort to help a deserving neighbor contacted other neighbors, and the plan grew to large proportions.

"We often forget the real purpose of the Community Chest in the maze of administration and agencies, but the fundamental purpose still remains—that of helping people. Let us never forget that," Kromann pleaded.

Parking Banned On Local Street

At a Public Safety commission meeting Monday night, petitions complaining of parking on East 24th St. were read. The commission voted to ban parking on the north side of the street on the Prospect Park side and will limit parking on the south side to two hours.

In other action the group okayed a dead end sign on East 15th St. just beyond the Lincoln Ave. intersection.

The commission had an eye for speeding up police cars. They approved "oceanators" for all police cars. This installation is expected to give the vehicles more pep, speed, pick-up, and better gas mileage.

The commission will study maintenance costs and estimates of a private radio line from the police station to the stack. The present line is owned by Bell Telephone Co. A recent hike in Bell Co. rates prompted the commission to study the idea of a BPW installed separate line for the purpose.

It was reported at the meeting that Officer Dennis Ende has returned to duty. The officer received a back injury July 17 in a motorcycle mishap while on duty and has not worked since that time.

Ald. William J. Meengs, chairman of the commission, presided at the session.

Flames Also Swept Michigan at Time Of Chicago Fire

Forest Areas and Cities, Including Holland, Were In Path of Destruction

Ann Arbor, Oct. 7 — Flames cut a 250-mile path of destruction across Michigan in 1871 at the same time the great Chicago fire occurred.

That's according to the Michigan historical collections at the University of Michigan which have information on the Michigan disaster as well as personal letters describing the Chicago holocaust.

The Michigan fire flared into life at Manistee, Oct. 8. In two days, flames swept from Lake Michigan to Lake Huron, cutting through some of the state's finest pine stands, destroying 12 communities and making about 18,000 persons homeless. The only fatality, however, occurred in a separate fire which destroyed Holland.

From Manistee, a zone of fire extended south and east through Lake, Osceola, Isabella, Midland, Saginaw, Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties. Destroyed were the towns of Manistee, Glen Haven, White Rock, Forestville, Sand Beach, Port Hope, Elm Creek, Huron City, Forest Bay, Center Harbor, Rock Falls and Verona Mills. The Holland fire burned out the town except for a few buildings, within two hours on Oct. 9, and an aged widow was killed. Fires started on the southern and western part of the city first. Flaming bits of wood from these were blown to other sides of Holland, virtually ringing the town with a wall of flame and sealing its doom.

Weeks of drought preceded the Michigan fires. Streams and swamps dried out and the woods became as dry as tinder. Thousands of pine logs and slashings lying in the woods contributed to the fire's fury. The logs were evidence of the state's most prosperous pine lumbering era.

Thousands of persons fought the fires. But lashed on by a gale, the flames swiftly consumed the forests. Hundreds of farm animals were killed and thousands of dollars worth of crops burned. Persons near the Great Lakes were driven into the water to their necks to escape.

Relief parties quickly were organized under the direction of Gov. Henry P. Baldwin. Food, money, and clothing soon flowed into the stricken areas. Rebuilding was begun. But hereafter effects of the Chicago fire stepped in to pile on hardships.

Many insurance companies in the Windy City were rendered inoperative by the big fire there. This made worthless what little insurance was held by Michigan residents in the burned over areas. So they had no money with which to buy materials.

The cost of building materials climbed, too, as the tremendous job of rebuilding Chicago was undertaken. The combined effects of the fire, lack of insurance and high prices caused many persons to assume large obligations they later had trouble meeting when the panic of 1873 occurred.

Some of the towns never again were rebuilt. But places like Manistee and Holland soon were back on their feet.

Ketema Yifru (left) and Yohannes Menkir, two Ethiopian youths who entered Hope college this week, are welcomed by Max Frego, editor of the Hope College Milestone. The two youths were honor students at the Haile Selassie high school at Addis Ababa. Both speak English fluently. Menkir plans to major in education and Yifru will study medicine.

Two Ethiopian Students Attending Hope College

Two students of Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, are finding life at Hope college just a bit different from their native land.

The two young men, Yohannes Menkir and Ketema Yifru, entered college Monday, exactly two weeks after leaving Ethiopia by plane. Both are graduates of Haile Selassie high school in Addis Ababa where they were honor students. They are attending Hope through the efforts of the Ethiopian government and the American Association of Colleges.

En route to this country, the pair spent five days in Cairo and three in Paris. They arrived in New York Sept. 22 and spent a day sightseeing there before boarding a train for Holland. They traveled via Chicago, arriving here Saturday. This was Menkir's first trip of any distance.

Yifru said he was much impressed by the Empire State building in New York, but he doesn't like the big city—"too much heavy traffic!"

Menkir said Ethiopian food is quite similar to that in this country. He didn't know what an American hotdog was, but when it was described he said it compares with kulkima in Ethiopia. The native dish he misses is injera, a type of bread made of tef, a cereal grown only in Ethiopia. Tef is wholly different from any American grain. When eaten it is rolled and dipped in a highly seasoned gravy called watt.

Neither student has ever seen snow, consequently both are looking forward to the winter months. Menkir said the coldest weather in Ethiopia is in January and February, their rainy months. June and July are similar to October here with warm days and cold nights.

Menkir, whose father is a lawyer in Addis Ababa, is one of six children. He studied English for five years while in grade school and high school. He plans to major in education with emphasis on mathematics and administration. In high school he was interested in sports, actively participating in volleyball and horseback riding.

Yifru, who comes from Girewa, Ethiopia, studied English six years. During the occupation of Ethiopia by the Italians, he was a refugee in British Somaliland. While a senior, he served as student governor of the high school. He plans to specialize in medicine.

Both young men are members of the Coptic Christian church, which is similar to the Greek Orthodox church.

High Scoring Contest Predicted When Hope-Adrian Tangle Friday

The Albion Bulldogs will come to Riverview park Friday night boasting two victories and no defeats against non-conference teams so far this season. They defeated Port Huron JC by a one-sided 53-0 score in the opener and edged Defiance 20-14 last Saturday.

The Bulldogs strut a talented array of backs including Bob Gillis and Jim Jackson. Gillis is a 190-pound halfback and is reported to be one of the shiftest runners the Bulldogs have. His teammate, Jim Jackson is a holdover from the Bulldogs' 1946 championship team. The former Detroit Couleer player fills the left half slot for the Adrian team.

John Carter, quarterback, will be captain for the Hope game. He is also a third year man on the Bulldogs' team. Carter runs the 440-yard dash for the Adrian track team.

Meanwhile, Coach Al Vanderbush of Hope college announced that Abe Moerland will be captain for the Dutchmen at the Adrian game.

Moerland is one of the stalwarts of the Hope forward wall. He was all-MIAA guard last season. Practice at the local campus was confined to passing, punting and blocking drills. Several backs received bruises in last week's game and are not in uniform.

Jim Pfingst has a charley-horse and has not been working out with the team. Tom Van Wingen, defensive halfback, has a bad leg and is listed as a doubtful starter for Friday's game. Don Van Ingen is also nursing a bad knee but will be ready by game time.

Hope coaches are giving considerable time to defensive play this week in an effort to halt the high scoring Bulldog backs.

'Canes Will Face Lightning Team Thursday Night

According to advance notices, the Holland Hurricanes have selected a tough opponent for their game Thursday. The Twin-City Independents have a lightning offense.

The visitors scored three touchdowns in the final quarter of their game last week to whip the Chicago Trojans 27-7. The Twin-City eleven again has those two backfield aces, Jack Weatherly and John McKipe. Weatherly scored two of the Independents' touchdowns in the Chicago game and piled up several sizeable gains with his speed and drive.

The Independents throw a lot of passes with Al Boettcher doing the pitching. Boettcher connected to Bob Crossman who lateraled to McKipe for one of the Twin-City scores against Chicago.

The Chicago game was the only start for the Independents this season. On the other hand, the Hurricanes have played four games, winning two, losing one and playing to a deadlock in the other.

Hurricane mentors worked the squad of offense again Tuesday night. Coaches believe they can open up with some laterals off their pass plays this week. At any rate, they promise a wide-open offense with plenty of passes.

The game is Thursday at Riverview park beginning at 8 p.m. Proceeds, after expenses, will go to Mel Klinge, who is recovering from a fractured leg received in last week's Hurricane-Flint game.

Six MIAA Teams Will Play Friday

The MIAA football league swings into action on three fronts this week-end.

Heading the list is the Adrian-Hope contest at Riverview park Friday night. Each team boasts two victories over non-conference foes so far in the season. The kickoff is at 8 p.m. This is the MIAA opener for both teams.

Kalamazoo, co-title holder of 1947 with Hillsdale, takes on the Britons from Albion at Kalamazoo Friday night. This will be the opening MIAA game for both teams. The Hornets have a three loss record against non-conference teams while Albion has three victories against other teams.

Alma entertains Hillsdale at Alma Friday night. Hillsdale swamped Grand Rapids JC 61-0 last week to run their unbeaten streak to 17 straight games. Alma played heads-up football last Friday night to take a 15-6 victory from Ferris Institute.

In another game of sectional interest, Central Michigan's Bearcats will meet the Broncos of Western Michigan at Kalamazoo Saturday afternoon.

Bird Hunters Asked To Get Stamps Now

Postmaster Harry Kramer appealed to migratory bird hunters to get their stamps now. The season opens at noon Oct. 15.

The plea came to avoid any last minute rush. The post office has only a limited supply of the one dollar stamps on hand. If the usual last minute rush comes, the supply would soon be exhausted, Kramer said.

However, if hunters get their stamps now, before the season opens, and the supply is gone, more can be ordered before Oct. 15. The stamps are sent to Holland from Detroit.

Seventy-five-year-old Herman Damson cranks the engine of his antique 1925 truck in carrying on a draying business begun by his father many years ago. Damson boasts the truck has been on the road almost every day during the last 23 years.

Ancient Vehicle Still On the Job Every Day

One of Holland's landmarks for more than half a century, has been the draying business established by William Damson, father of Herman Damson, who at the age of 75, is still "going strong."

Undoubtedly, sometime during your travels in and about Holland, you have seen the old stake truck, of 1925 vintage.

William Damson began draying when he started working and continued in this job until his death in 1903. At this time, his son, Herman, who had been working in the Cappon-Bertsch Leather Co., which was located on Eighth street and Maple avenue, succeeded him in the family business.

As his father, Damson used horses for draying until 1925, at which time he bought the truck, which, for the last 23 years, has been rolling in and about Holland. "It's been on the road every day," its owner proudly says.

Dray work most often done by Damson, involves moving freight from boats and trains, trunks and whatnot for Hollanders, and in general, doing any kind of moving work.

In 1903, Herman Damson married Jennie Bishop, and built a home located at 187 West Ninth street. The couple have lived there ever since, rearing three sons, George, Carl and Edward, and two daughters, Marie and Edith, all of whom are married.

Today, the Damsons have 11 grandchildren. Their children live in Holland, with the exception of Marie, who lives in Kalamazoo, and Carl, who is living in Hastings.

Next time you see the old stake truck with silver letters on the side of the cab, "H. Damson, Dray Line," you will be gazing upon one of Holland's successful institutions, in its second generation of business.

Resort Owners Told To Repair in Fall

Michigan resorts should undertake their necessary major repairs or alterations this fall in order to insure completion in time to qualify for "Sanitation Approved" signs before the season opens next year, the Michigan Department of Health advised today.

Such work in many cases can be started now, while the season is slack, but the resorts still open. A delay until spring may bring problems of labor shortages, unavailability of materials, and lack of time before the season starts, according to Department engineers.

Local health departments or the Bureau of Engineering, Michigan Department of Health, Lansing 4, will provide information on sanitation problems and the requirements for approval.

Ottawa County Growers Save Soil by Cover Plantings

Ottawa Farmers Carrying Out Use Of Cover Crops

Many Types of Seed Available for Soil Conservation Practice

L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent, today said that the establishment of cover crops is becoming a common practice in Ottawa county. This practice has been promoted by the West Ottawa Soil Conservation district and extension service for the last 10 years.

Olin Clay, Soil Conservation Service farm planner for the West Ottawa Soil Conservation district, says that 21 times more plant food is lost by erosion than is removed by crops, and that farmers can reduce this loss by the use of cover crops.

Putting in a cover crop is merely the seeding of some grain or grass on unprotected or bare soil. The green growth will:

1. Reduce run-off of rain and thus conserve soil.
2. Prevent excessive erosion of soil by wind and water.
3. Add organic matter to the soil.
4. Prevent the leaching of available plant food.

5. When plowed under, improve the structure of both heavy and light soils and increase the water absorbing capacity and the infiltration of water into the soil.

Farmers and fruit growers may choose between several different types of cover crops depending upon the site. Rye alone at one and one-half bushels per acre may be used on sandy type soils. On fertile soils domestic ryegrass, 10 pounds per acre, makes an excellent cover. In blueberries one and one-half to two bushels of oats makes a very good cover.

In any case, the cover crop should be fertilized with 200-250 pounds of commercial fertilizer such as 3-12-12.

Arnold advises that the ideal time for seeding cover crops is at the last cultivation of corn, or from August 15 to September 15, in fruit orchards. Since this period is past for this year, he wishes to remind farmers that it is still not too late. Cover crops will still give effective control if drilled in just as soon as the corn or peaches come off this fall.

Starch on Iron Easily Removed

Starched clothes are indirectly to blame for scars on many a hand iron. When starch sticks and scorches on the hot iron we're tempted to scratch it off.

Permanent scratches may catch on fabrics and pull threads—and there are several simple ways to remove starch without scratching.

If the iron is hot, Mary E. Bullis, home demonstration agent, recommends shaking salt on a piece of paper and rubbing the iron over it. From a cool iron starch may be removed by scouring with very fine steel wool or with a moist cloth dipped in fine scouring powder, such as whiting. Sometimes just rubbing with a moist cloth will do the job.

To prevent sticking starch, rub a little beeswax or paraffin frequently over the hot iron. Well-cooked starch is less likely to stick than starch which is not thoroughly cooked, so it pays to prepare it carefully. A wax preparation to add when making up starch is on the market and helps prevent sticking.

Allegan Group Attends Conservation Luncheon

Donald Barden, chairman of the Allegan Soil Conservation service board of directors has reported that James Boyce, Albert Crane and Varnum Dille, directors of the district; Charles Mann, Soil Conservation service technician with the district, and Clarence Brooks, Walter Wightman, and Earl Osman flew to Saginaw on Sept. 28 for a Soil Conservation awards luncheon. The luncheon was held to honor farmers and directors for outstanding work in soil conservation.

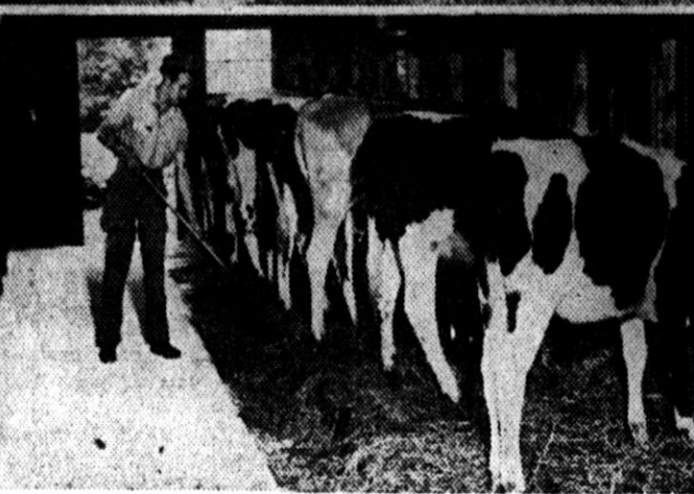

Brooks, Wightman, and Osman were selected as the three farmers in the district doing the best soil conservation job on their farms. Stanley Johnston, Keith Landsburg, and Cornelius Bus made up the committee appointed by the district directors to select the three.

Citizens Urged To Heed Poster

Detroit—All pedestrians should heed the October AAA safety poster being distributed to all Michigan elementary schools now by Automobile Club of Michigan. Almost 9,000 copies of the poster will be used in Michigan along with 25,000 AAA traffic safety lessons for elementary grades.

Drawn by Ralph Bleyaert, Detroit Cass Tech high school student, the poster won national first prize in its class in the 1947-48 school traffic safety poster contest, and will be used in schools throughout the nation also.

Five reasons why the rule "Keep from Between Parked Cars" should be observed are given by Ernest P. Davis, Auto Club safety and traffic director. They are:

Ignoring it violates traffic laws. Pedestrians may not see approaching cars. Pedestrians are crossing without aid of traffic signals or policemen.

Motorists do not expect pedestrians to appear from between parked cars.

Motorists drive more rapidly in mid-block and may not be able to stop quickly.

Free Potatoes Not Much Help

How much would free potatoes delivered to the door cut the average consumer's weekly food bill?

From 15 to 25 cents, says Arthur Mauch, agricultural economist at Michigan State college. Yet, Mauch contends, support prices on potatoes and other farm products are being blamed for today's high food costs.

"If the farmer gave his potatoes away, the consumers wouldn't save more than 'two-bits' a week on the average food budget. Yet potatoes have been the most mentioned 'whipping boy' in the attack on price supports," Mauch points out.

The fact is, Mauch says, few farm products are being subsidized. The real high cost items in the family food budget are meat and dairy products. Prices of these will have to drop one-third to one-half before they will be supported by the government, the MSC economist relates.

"It's true that support prices do put a floor under farm prices. And there are plenty of bad features about the current parity program. But the real facts show that the effect of the farm program on the pocketbook of Mrs. Consumer has so far been negligible," Mauch said.

He pointed out that if wheat prices were cut in half by the farmer, the average food budget would not be cut more than 10 to 15 cents a week. The farmer gets only one-fourth of the money the consumer spends for a loaf of bread.

Mauch concluded: "City folks also should bear in mind that the level of parity guaranteed depends on the prices the farmer has to pay—mostly on things bought from city folks. The farmer doesn't set city prices either. When the prices on things the farmer buys come down, farm supports will be lower, too."

Begin Spraying Weeds After Fall Rains Start

After the fall rains start is an excellent time to control fall germinating weeds with sprays. 2-4-D is one of the best sprays to use on lawns, fence rows and in pastures to kill broad leaved weeds. So far according to the state chemist, 2-4-D has not been found injurious to livestock, however, some weed sprays contain sodium arsenite and are very poisonous to domestic animals.

When purchasing weed spray chemicals check the label and if arsenic is present do not use on foliage liable to be eaten by humans or animals. Follow manufacturer's recommendation in making up and applying weed killing solutions.

Allegan 4-H, FFA Exhibits Best Ever Displayed at Fair

Allegan county 4-H and FFA members made the largest and best exhibit ever shown at the Allegan County fair this year, according to F. Earl Haas, county club agent. Over 800 different members had .665 different exhibits on display.

Cash awards totaling $3,359.25 are being sent out for the youth division exhibitors. This does not include several hundred dollars won by youth exhibitors in the open classes. In addition special awards of livestock such as registered calves, pigs and three scramble steers raised the value of awards another $600.

The largest number of exhibits was in the clothing class with 210 members displaying their work. The display covered such items as aprons, school dresses, children garments, remodeled garments, complete costumes with accessories, formal, lounging outfits etc. Knitting exhibits included socks, scarves, beanies, sweaters, etc.

The handicraft and electrical classes attracted 161 exhibitors who had small articles such as bread boards, feed scoops, etc., and also many larger articles including lawn chairs, end tables, tool chests, step ladders and others.

One hundred and fifty-four head of dairy cattle were shown by the youth division members. This was the largest and highest quality display ever made at this fair. Hogs were also much improved with 33 head shown.

Other classes attracting large entries were food preparation with 135 exhibits, canning with 71, flower with 84, garden baskets with 87, wild flower with 63 and potatoes with 45 exhibits. A total of 37 different projects were represented with displays. Those not mentioned above include archery, photography, bird study, wildlife, personal accounts, all exhibited for the first year, and beef, home furnishings, home management, coin, commercial garden, pickles, corn, poultry, rabbits, eggs, outdoor cooking, baking, 4-H girl entertainers, the 4-H girl, wheat, oats, barley, fruit, Jr. leadership, school lunch and sheep.

Hatching Flocks Needed in State

East Lansing — More hatching flocks in Michigan must be promoted by state hatchermen. This subject was the recurring theme in sessions of the Michigan Hatchery conference held on the Michigan State college campus.

H. C. Zindel, MSC poultry specialist, believes it is the "big job" of Michigan's hatchery owners right now. George Scott, Zeeland, field manager of both the Michigan Poultry Improvement association and the Michigan Turkey Improvement association, says state hatchermen "should try to get more eggs in their own state."

According to Scott, hatcheries here this year imported 239,232 dozen chicken hatching eggs from approved sources in other states. They also imported 170,403 chicks from approved sources. Turkey hatchermen were also big importers — 518,415 hatching eggs and 19,963 poults.

There are benefits to hatcherymen when they can get hatching eggs to fill their incubators from flock owners in their own state. It aids greatly in the development of co-operative efforts to incubate better chicks from eggs with higher fertility and hatchability. It keeps hatchery costs down by reducing the rate of flock owner turnover each year. Chicks are more likely to stand Michigan weather if hatched from eggs produced by Michigan hens. (Of course many Michigan hatcherymen sell chicks to farmers outside Michigan also.)

If all hatching eggs and chicks and poults now imported into Michigan could and were purchased from within the state it would add almost three-quarters of a million dollars to the state's agricultural income, based on current prices.

PASTURES VALUABLE. Pastures should be considered as a valuable part of the crop program on Michigan farms. Pastures must be planned in advance as to amount, type, and acreage.

WOOD CROP TOO. Winter plans on the farm should include some woods work. Handling the farm woodlot as a crop and cutting it correctly will pay off in income and better management.

Hope college students will elect their first Homecoming Queen, it was announced today by Tim Harrison, president of the student council. In past years Hope has elected an annual campus queen in May. This procedure was discontinued in 1948 when a May Queen was elected "Queen for a Day" to rule over the May Day festivities.

According to Harrison, each of the four classes will elect two girls to serve as members of the queen's court. From these eight one will be selected by a committee composed of students and faculty members to preside as Homecoming Queen the week of Oct. 30.

She will be selected on the basis of appearance and poise.

Cornerstone Laid For Club House At Kiwanis Kamp

Kiwanis leaders assisted Monday in laying a cornerstone for the new club house at Kiwanis Kamp, a 39-acre plot on Lake Shore drive just north of Lakewood Blvd.

The club house will be similar in design to buildings at Camp Geneva, the Reformed church youth camp on Lake Michigan a few miles north of Kiwanis Kamp. The building will be of cinder-block construction with blue asphalt roof. Dimensions are 24 by 50 feet with a 10-by-50-foot porch and terrace.

The building will face northwest. Plans call for completion of the "shell" so that the building may be used as a shelter. Plumbing installations, a fireplace and interior equipment are part of a long-range plan, with much of the work to be done by Kiwanians.

Into the cornerstone went a small tin tobacco box containing a last week's Kiwanis bulletin on which was written names of Kiwanians present for the ceremony. On hand for the event were President Tony Last, Jacob Grassmeyer, Wilbur Cobb, Simon Borr, Jack Plewes and A. E. Hildebrandt.

The temporary building on the premises is expected to be moved later to the tulip farms.

The camp was used extensively by Camp Fire girls of Holland during the summer.
