Asks $200,000
In County BudgetSupervisors Table Road Requests Until Budget Time Next Week

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — The Ottawa County Road commission Tuesday afternoon submitted its 1956 budget to the Board of Supervisors, asking for a county appropriation of $200,000.

Representing the commission were Neal Van Leeuwen, commission chairman, Richard Osseward, and Henrik E. Stafseth, new county engineer and manager who succeeds Carl T. Bowen who will retire Jan. 1.

There was considerable discussion over the request, particularly in view of the fact that residents voted down a one-mill appropriation in a special election Sept. 27. This would have raised $162,000, and the question arose that the request to the board is greater than what would have been raised under special milage.

The county road budget lists total proposed disbursements of $1,026,000. Of this sum, some $750,000 is expected from the State Motor Vehicle Fund.

Proposed improvements for 1956 list grade and graveling on one project, widening on six projects and two new bridges for a total of $200,000. There will be further consideration at the time the county budget is adopted next week.

Another request from the road commission to have certain property now in title of the county transferred to the road commission was referred to Prosecutor James W. Bussard to report to the board. The commission pointed out that uniformity would be desirable, and this arrangement would allow the road commission to negotiate with the state more easily.

A resolution from the agricultural committee asking that the extension department of the county be moved to Allendale was tabled for further consideration. The recommendation was signed by four members of the committee, but a fifth, John Hassold, dissented on the grounds he believed such services should remain at the county seat. The resolution asked that $1,500 be included in the budget to provide rent, utilities and other expenses.

Also appearing before the board were Mrs. Catherine Wood of the Michigan Children's Aid Society for which the county appropriates $250 yearly, and Chester Wells, manager of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association.

The board adjourned until 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Trio Jailed After Hunting Spree

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Three youths started serving five-day sentences in the county jail today, following a series of events involving hunting violations and a drinking spree. A 16-year-old juvenile, currently on probation out of Ottawa County Juvenile Court, also was involved.

The youths were first picked up Tuesday morning by Conservation Officer Harold Bowditch while hunting wild waterfowl in a sanctuary on Grand River. When he discovered beer in their possession, he took them to the state police post for questioning and two youths admitted breaking into a beer truck and taking nearly a case of beer.

James Sandman, 17, Muskegon, and Francis (Mike) Rance, 17, of 509 Fulton St., Grand Haven, pleaded guilty in Justice F. J. Workman's court to charges of hunting waterfowl in a protected sanctuary and each was sentenced to pay $25 fine, $8.40 costs and serve five days in jail. If fine and costs are not paid, they must serve an additional 10 days.

Stuart Vellema, 18, route 3, Muskegon, said he had stayed in the car while the boys went hunting but admitted he had shot a rabbit in the morning. He was charged with shooting protected game without a small game hunting license and was assessed $10 fine, $8.40 costs and five days in jail.

The group also admitted that after drinking the beer they drove onto Pontaluna Rd. where a 1952 hardtop car had been left on the road temporarily. They admitted caving in the hood and top, breaking both windshields, a door and fender, resulting in $300 damage.

Kenneth Koehnke, an upstairs tenant, noticed the rear window open when he came down to feed his dog at 7 a.m. and notified the owner, John Niemaszky.

He was born in Holland Aug. 19, 1882, the son of the late John and Harriet Vandenberg, both children of pioneer families of this community. Vandenberg and Van Lente.

In 1909 he was married to Miss Lela Reynolds and for several years they made their home in Dallas, Tex.

Wife Identifies
Pieces of Boat;
Missing a MonthLocal Coast Guards
Continue Patrols
After Finding Fender

Coast Guard officials in Grand Haven said Wednesday pieces of boat wreckage washed ashore on Lake Michigan near Holland and at other points along the coast between Muskegon and South Haven definitely are parts of a 46-foot luxury yacht that disappeared Sept. 12 with a Chicago industrialist aboard.

Chief A. H. Cushing said Mrs. Philip Atwood, wife of the missing Chicago manufacturer, and her brother, Dr. Robert Beebe, both of Winnetka, Ill., identified the bits of wreckage Tuesday as being from her husband's boat, the "Tyree."

Cushing said Mrs. Atwood and her brother identified a flying bridge seat that washed ashore as belonging to her husband's boat. Cushing said the seat had been torn loose and had a rip on top.

The Holland station was notified Tuesday to be on the lookout for bits of wreckage. Ronald Muckway, BM 2, of the local station, found a boat fender marked "Panama" and hauled it onto the beach one and a half miles north of Saugatuck about 4 p.m. Tuesday. He didn't bring it back to Holland because it was quite heavy and at the time the local station didn't know the Tyree formerly was named Panama.

Four men from the local station started to patrol the beach on foot from different points between Holland and Saugatuck and Saugatuck and South Haven. They found the fender and returned it to the local station.

Atwood's boat was subject of an intensive air-sea search after his wife reported him missing. He started from Burnham Yacht Club in Chicago on Sept. 12 to put the boat in winter storage in or near Holland. He was alone.

Cushing said he didn't have the "slightest idea" what happened to the Atwood twin-engine cruiser. He said the boat may have sunk following an explosion or some other cause but that no one probably will ever know exactly what happened.

When the intensive search failed to turn up a single clue, Mrs. Atwood said she believed her husband may have been the victim of Lake Michigan "pirates."

Bristol Special
Tells Flood Story

Future storytellers in Bristol, Conn., won't have to rely on vague memories for their tales on the Aug. 19, 1955, flood which divided the city in half and cut it from the rest of the world.

All dramatic events of that gruesome morning, when the Pequabuck River and its tributaries overflowed their banks and sought a new course through the streets of the lovely New England town, have now been retold in a souvenir edition of the Bristol Press. It's a fine job, too!

There's no melodrama in these 24 pages. Just plain words expressing such plain feelings as grief over all the beloved things that were destroyed; admiration for those who risked their own lives to save others; gratitude towards known and unknown friends who gave, gave, gave...

Typical of the delicacy with which our friends of the Bristol Press have described their observations is a little story about a Mrs. Houle and her two young daughters. They almost drowned in their own backyard with Mr. Houle watching helplessly on the opposite bank of the river, separated from his family by the raging water.

Finally evacuated from the dangerous spot, Mrs. Houle spoke words that expressed the feelings of hundreds of others towards their rescuers: "Thank God for you men. I'll always pray for you."

Over 70 pictures illustrate these pages of sorrow and they, too, have the beauty of simplicity. There's a very pathetic one of the Lions club road sign at the city's entrance, flooded but still readable: "Bristol welcomes You!"

Bristol's recovery, an editorial in the souvenir edition says, will be rapid if only the townspeople look to the future with hope and confidence.

"If we do this..." the article continues. "It won't be too long before the Big Flood of Aug. 19, 1955 will be just an unpleasant memory — something the community endured, defeated, and forgot."

Forget? We doubt whether that is possible with the Bristol Press having perpetuated the fleeting moments of disaster in that fine example of American newspapering: "Bristol in the Flood of 1955."

The association has been organized for 10 years. Members come from all cities west of Lansing, between the straits and the Indiana border.

Guests at a luncheon at the hotel at noon included Mayor Robert Visser and City Manager Herb Holt.

Safety Council
Holds Meeting

The executive committee of the Ottawa County Safety Council held their initial organization meeting in Grand Haven Tuesday night.

On hand for the first meeting were chairmen of the various sub-committees and members of the Board of Supervisors.

A need for a maximum speed limit on highways, use of the uniform violation ticket, school bus controls, and an increase of costs in traffic violations were among the topics discussed.

William Kennedy, a supervisor from Allendale, was elected chairman of the executive group.

Director Avery Baker said the program for the remainder of the year would emphasize "Pedestrian Safety" in October, "Winter Driving Hazards" in November and "Safe Driving Month" in December.

Baker said this was in keeping with nation-wide programs set for each month. Dec. 1, Safe Driving Day, was endorsed by the group as proposed throughout the country by President Eisenhower.

Baker said the Board of Supervisors is scheduled to act this Friday on a request for a $3,000 appropriation to promote the safety program during 1956.

A dinner meeting in Zeeland sometime in November is planned for further discussions on several items.

Attending the meeting were Nick Cook, Gerritt Bottema, Judge Frederick Miles, Sheriff Jerry Vanderbeek, Henrik Stafseth, Walter Scott, Robert Wolbrink, Mrs. Thomas Kraai, Art Stang, Tony Last, Kennedy and Baker.

School Bus Protection
Need Cited by Council

The governmental division of the Ottawa County Safety Council Wednesday night endorsed a resolution asking the legislature to enact laws to protect school buses when they stop to discharge students.

The group said there is a present danger from motorists approaching a bus both from the opposite direction and the rear when the school bus comes to a stop.

In other action the members backed Dec. 1 as Safe Driving Day and a safety program for the remainder of the year part of which would emphasize pedestrian safety this month.

Attending the meeting in Allendale were Chairman Peter Staal, Jr., Roy Lowing, William Vanderlaan, Hilbert De Kleine, Henry Slaughter, Don Gaiter, Erving Heckel, Donald Ossebaan, Avery Baker, Arthur Stang and George Swift.

Box Elder Bugs
Big Nuisance
In Holland CityRemoving Trees May Be Solution But That Poses Complications

Yes, those box elder beetles are more pesky this year than ever before, but there isn't much you can do about it.

The nasty red and black bugs which measure a half-inch long and sometimes an inch long have been swarming in large numbers in Holland as well as in Grand Rapids and other places.

They come from box elder trees...that's the place they breed. They may go into other trees for a time, but the box elder tree seems to be their native habitat.

City Park Supt. Dick Smallenburg says the bugs are a nuisance rather than a menace. "They don't bite or sting and so far as we know they don't damage any property, but they're an awful nuisance, particularly if they come into the house, and that's where they head for whenever possible," Smallenburg said.

Once inside a house, they like to swarm to the warm side and that indicates movement from one section of the house to another. They like to get into bedding too, Smallenburg added.

The only real solution may be getting rid of the box elder trees, but that poses several problems. The park superintendent is planning to remove the last remaining box elder trees at city curbs during the coming year, but that does not solve the problem on private property. And many a local resident whose only shade tree is a box elder is reluctant to part with it.

Smallenburg said DDT won't kill the bugs—in fact they seem to thrive on it. He did experiment with spraying kerosene in one bug-infested house, and this proved to be quite effective when he sprayed the entire foundation. But he is reluctant to recommend such treatment generally.

Even the thought of a killing frost isn't the final answer. Smallenburg says he has seen box elder bugs at Christmas time.

The city manager's office has received a lot of complaints on box elder beetles. Manager Herb Holt is conferring with state entomologists and hopes to have further information by next Council meeting Oct. 19. Holt also is conferring with the city attorney on the legality of banning box elder trees in Holland.

Squirrel Doesn't Want to Be Saved

"There's a squirrel caught in a tree. It's been there since 7:30 this morning."

A Bell Telephone Co. operator called in the information to the Holland Police department shortly before noon.

An officer made an investigation. Sure enough, a small gray squirrel was perched in the crotch of a tree in front of the telephone office about 30 feet above the ground. All efforts to dislodge it proved futile. The fire department was called. A few minutes later the aerial truck rounded the corner and several firemen surveyed the situation.

The squirrel was still high in the tree basking in the warm sun. The ladder was locked into position and started to rise toward the "trapped" squirrel.

Just as the ladder neared the squirrel it appeared to stretch, take a look at the commotion and moved out onto a bare branch.

The ladder came down. The fire truck left. The policeman left. The squirrel went back to its sunny position probably wondering if some of the humans weren't getting squirrely.

More Wreckage From Missing Yacht Found

Another piece of wreckage from the 46-foot luxury yacht which disappeared in Lake Michigan Sept. 12 was found near the Grand Haven oval.

Grand Haven Coast Guard officials said the chunk of wood is from a life raft support. The other supporting wooden brace was found earlier.

Lawyers representing insurance companies who covered the boat and its owner, Philip Atwood, a Chicago industrialist, are in Grand Haven today making an investigation.

So far none of the wreckage bears evidence of an explosion or possible collision. Coast Guard authorities are still in the dark as to what caused the vessel to break up.

Additional Coast Guardsmen are again out on beach patrols today along the shoreline from Muskegon to South Haven searching for more wreckage.

His license had been revoked when he pleaded guilty to a drunk driving charge in Justice Fred De Haan's court in Hudsonville Sept. 26 and paid $100 fine, $430 costs and was put on probation three months. He may use his car in driving to and from work at Crampton Manufacturing Co. in Holland, and may drive on company business.

Hornets Make Use Of Breaks; Hope Tops in Yardage

Hope College's 1955 MIAA debut was ruined here Saturday afternoon by an alert Kalamazoo College team that took advantage of every opportunity and came out with a 20-7 win at Riverview Park.

The Hornets scored twice in the second quarter on a 10-yard pass play and an intercepted pass and tallied again in the fourth period on a fake field goal attempt.

Hope picked up its lone score late in the fourth quarter on a four-yard off tackle smash by Mert Vander Lind.

Little 5' 7" quarterback Bob Urschaltz was the bad boy as far as the Dutch were concerned, especially in the first half. He passed for 10 yards to end Victor Landeryou for the first touchdown with three minutes gone in the second quarter.

The score came after an 85-yard drive in nine plays with Urschaltz either passing or handing off. The big play in the drive was a 33-yard gain on another Urschaltz pass to co-captain Landeryou that the big end took all alone on the Hope 20 and scampered to the Dutch 13. The tally came two plays later.

Jim Smith, a 5' 8" sophomore halfback, straddled the Hope 35 yard stripe to intercept a John Holmlund pass and make the second TD. He was near the north sidelines when he caught the ball, picked up a couple of good blocks and ran about 25 yards all by himself. The score came with 1:50 remaining in the half.

Rudy Wolchyna, burly 235-pound tackle booted the first two place-kicks.

Urschaltz, who didn't play against Alma, started at quarterback and picked up 50 yards on 12 plays and passed off to teammates who accounted 109 yards rushing in the first two periods.

The Hornets pushed across the final score with 9:50 left in the game. Joe Fowler, on his haunches ready to catch the pass from center, leaped up as the throw came back and quickly threw to Landeryou on the two and he stepped into the end zone.

Ron Low's extra point attempt was good.

The touchdown was set up by another intercepted pass by Smith, this one a Holmlund toss on the Kalamazoo 40 and he skinned the sidelines to the Dutch 21 before being stopped.

The pass had bounced off halfback John Adams' shoulder and Smith grabbed the ball about a foot off the ground.

It took two plays to move to the 15.

Vander Lind touchdown was scored with 6:30 left in the contest. The touchdown was set up on 21 yard pass play from Holmlund to freshman end Gerry Hendrickson.

Hendrickson grabbed the ball on the four and was pushed out of bounds. Vander Lind knifed tackle on the next play.

Center Earl De Witt had recovered a Kalamazoo fumble on the Hornet 35 for the break. Fullback Dave Woodcock hit center for five prior to the pass.

It was the same story heard several times in 1954.

Hope walked away with the statistics but couldn't make the touchdowns.

The Dutch piled up 126 yards rushing and 174 passing for 300 yards gained. The Hornets picked up 139 yards on the ground, only 30 in the second half, and 90 through the air for a total of 229 yards.

Hope made 18 first downs and the Hornets 12.

The Dutch completed 13 out of 31 passes and Kalamazoo five out of 11.

Both teams were tackling the ball, and the Hornets fumbled and recovered eight times while Hope did the same with six bobbles.

Hope in picking up the rushing yardage in the second half moved to the Kalamazoo 29 early in the period. But three fumbles in four plays pretty well boxed up the works.

Holmlund's fumble was recovered by guard John Swett on the 29. Herb Lipschitz fumbled on the next play on the 27 and Co-captain Lynn Post recovered. On the next play quarterback Del Grissen fumbled and Tom Conlin recovered on the Hornet 17.

Hope received a punt on the Kalamazoo 46 in the third period and Adams pushed the ball out of bounds on the Kazoo 32.

Aided by a 19-yard pass play from Grissen to Post, Hope got to the Kalamazoo 10 but lost the ball on downs.

Dave Woodcock, who was in and out of the game with assorted bumps, picked up 60 yards in nine tries for top ground gaining honors.

Hope started the 1954 MIAA the same way. The Dutch lost the opener to Olivet 20-6 and managed to bounce back and win three games.

The Dutch will be playing conference competition the rest of the season. Next Saturday afternoon, Hope will be at Adrian. The game will be the Bulldogs' homecoming and dedication of a new stadium.

NOTES ON HOPE MIAA OPEN-ER

Overheard in coaches' chatter following the game. Kalamazoo Coach Rolla Anderson was talking about the fake field goal that gave the Hornets their third touchdown.

"The boys wanted to do it, I was reluctant but it worked and I looked good." Big Rudy Wolchyna came awfully close to giving fans a little unexpected noise. The big fellow booted two extra points, both at the east end of the field. The first went flying high and fast. The ball slammed a gainst the framework, missing a large front window by about a foot. Wolchyna's second kick was also good but angled to the right of the house.

The small crowd at the Hope game, about 1,800, did enjoy a top Saturday afternoon, weatherwise. The sun was out the entire game and temperatures were in the high 60's. Included in the crowd were 250 Holland area safety patrolmen in charge of Safety Officer Don Oosterbaan and several school patrol sponsors. Bob Urschaltz, Hornet quarterback, led Jackson St. Mary's to two straight perfect football seasons in 1953 and 1954. He was a Class C all-state selection last year. Vic Landeryou made his bid for all-MIAA honors with his defensive and offensive play at end. The 6' Saginaw junior failed the Hope defense and was alone on each of his three pass catches.

The Hornets pull out three line-men, a guard and two tackles, who stand next to each other about four yards in front of the punter. The defensive measure, first used by Stu Holcomb at Purdue, cuts down on blocked punts. Backs move into the vacated line posts. The hefty trio combined on one play to crack crashing Hope tackle Don Van Hoeven and lifted the 215-pound Dutchman off balance and about a foot off the ground. He toppled. Mike Barrett, Hornet end, was injured in the second half and carried off the field on a stretcher. Post game reports listed Barrett with a "badly bruised ankle."

Final Period Pass Gives Dutch 6-0 Win in Rainstorm

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — An unexpected Holland High screen pass, thrown early in the fourth quarter during a driving rainstorm here Friday night, caught Grand Haven webfooted and gave the Dutch a 6-0 victory for the locals' first win of the season.

Quarterback Tom Stael, noting that the end was crashing in, waited until the Buc defender had moved across the line and fired a pass to halfback Ron Van Dyke, out about five yards, and the Dutch co-captain galloped into the corner of the end zone to score.

Van Dyke was snowed under trying to run the extra point.

The touchdown came with 10 minutes to go in the fourth period and had been set up by right half Dick Den Uyl's 32-yard off tackle smash two plays before. Den Uyl's run was the game's longest.

Holland's tally came about three minutes after the Dutch had driven to the Buc five and lost the ball. Van Dyke, carrying around the end, had let the pigskin slip from his arm and Grand Haven's Gene De Koeyer recovered.

It was the only other deep penetration made in the game, hindered continually by the off-on-on wind and rain. On a couple occasions it was almost impossible to see the field.

It was Holland all the way in the contest. Not once did the Dutch line let Grand Haven move beyond the 50 yard line. Only in the final down series did the Bucs succeed in moving to their own 48. Prior to that, play had been kept inside their own 40.

Van Dyke had a large part in keeping the Bucs in their own backyard. He punted five times for a total of 168 yards or better than 33 yards a kick.

Grand Haven's Bill Bucy, who had never punted in a game before, booted nine times for 275 yards or slightly better than 30 yards on each kick.

Holland's second half offensive hosing was the game's highlight. The Dutch, aided by Den Uyl's gallop and a 21-yard Van Dyke end run on the first third period scrimmage play, ground out 101 yards in the second half. Holland totaled 135 yards while losing 30 rushing. Defensively, the Dutch held Grand Haven to a net 39 yards. The Bucs managed to get one first down in each half and picked up 61 yards, 29 in the second half.

Holland was able to get three first downs in each half, but neither team made a first down in the opening period.

The Dutch did make their initial first down on the second play of the second quarter. Fullback Tom Klomparens drove through the middle for 11 yards to the Grand Haven 27. He injured two fingers on the next play but did see action later.

Holland got to the Grand Haven 23 on the next play but a fourth down pass was incomplete.

There wasn't a fumble in the first half as both teams used straight handoffs from the T-formation.

But as the field got more and more messy, Holland fumbled three times in the second half and Grand Haven, twice.

Van Dyke's third quarter fumble was recovered by De Koeyer. It was one of the few spots where the Buc all-state fullback shone.

Hampered by injuries, De Koeyer played most of the time on defense and was spelled by Don Bigler, a sophomore brought up from the reserves last week.

Stael recovered his own fumble on the play before the touchdown but lost four yards on it. Van Dyke relinquished the ball for the third Dutch fumble on the Grand Haven 17 in the final two and a half minutes, one play after Ron Bronson had recovered quarterback Hank Swiftney's fumble on the Buc 27.

It was Holland's first gridiron win since the Dutch turned back Dowagiac for last year's only win. After that win, Holland lost consecutive games to Battle Creek St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, and Grand Haven. Holland hosts Dowagiac here next Friday in the annual homecoming game.

So far this year, Holland had come close on two occasions. After losing to Grand Rapids Creston, Holland tied Niles and lost a one-point 7-6 game to Muskegon Heights last week.

It was the first time since 1950 a Holland team has defeated a Buc eleven.

With the win, the Dutch receive a pair of wooden shoes that will be kept in the Holland High trophy case. The shoes were inaugurated in 1947.

Grandstanding...

By Randy Vande Water

It was a muddy, sloppy looking bunch of Holland High gridders who slapped each other around in the locker room following the victory over Grand Haven Friday night.

The mud, that had been forgotten in the game's pressure, was starting to ooze out of pads and jerseys. But mud never is as dirty after a win and the fellows continued making the rounds oblivious to the sights they were.

Those who were muddiest had played the longest, and their smiles were the broadest. They accepted congratulations from equally happy teammates, some of whom carried the most unwanted thing in the dressing room — a clean uniform.

Many of the Dutch players cast quick glances through a few office windows, the only room that separated the two locker rooms, to the group of undressing Grand Haven gridders, who found the mud, cloaked in uniforms, unbearable.

For every cheer that came out of the Holland corridor, you could hear a pin drop in the other.

Tom Stael, who surprised a lot of people when he threw the winning pass, gets better every game.

The happy junior said "everyone was coming in so we threw a pass over them." The entire team was in agreement with the call at the time.

Tom Klomparens, who picked up 11 yards in the second quarter for the longest scrimmage gain in the first half, injured his index and middle fingers on the next play.

Klomparens said the fingers were dislocated when he was taken out of the game. They were taped and he returned.

A Grand Haven homecoming crowd and a large number of Holland people witnessed the game. The estimate was listed at 4,000.

This figure depleted early in the second half when a "cloudburst" sent many to their cars. All of the fans were drenched.

Officials changed footballs after every play. The ball was used, then tossed off to a field official, dried and returned following the ensuing play.

Homecoming queen Sibyl Piersma, having one of her "finest hours" in spite of the weather, rode in an open convertible between two parallel lines of Grand Haven band members. She waved to the crowd as part of the half-time festivities.

Holland High's band did the same sequence on TV that was presented here last week. And the show was well received by the Grand Haven audience.

The Grand Haven and Holland bands joined prior to the game for the National Emblem march and the National Anthem.

The Bucs band is participating in the Michigan State band day today at East Lansing.

A lute at halftime allowed the bands to perform.

The Grand Haven band did a "history of romance" sequence. The band made a large cup and a cradle and played "Drink to me Only With Thine Eyes," "The Wedding March" and "Rock-a-Bye Baby."

The Rev. Theodore Byland preached on the following subjects on Sunday, Oct. 2: "Crucify Him Today?" and "Our Divine Christ."

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated at both services. Barbara and Linda Ver Meer of Forest Grove furnished the special music at the evening service accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Henry Ver Meer.

THE UTOPIA DREAM

The announcement by Chairman Strauss, America's atomic energy boss, that mankind's dream of Utopia may come true in the foreseeable future is breathtaking. If based on practical facts, it may turn out to be the most dramatic announcement of this or any other century.

Unfortunately (or perhaps it is fortunate), the Strauss concept is so deeply buried under technical phraseology and concepts that most of us feel no other emotion than that of being dizzy. We continue to think of such things as the Dodgers winning the World Series, or the French facing disaster in North Africa, or England's economic crisis, or America's coming presidential struggle as important. If the Strauss announcement means what it seems to mean, all those things and most others will flatten out and become meaningless.

For if the energy in ocean water can be harnessed and converted into a source of power that will supply a thousand times the energy now obtained from all sources, and do so for a billion years to come, it is hard to see how the Utopia that mankind has dreamed of for ages can long be delayed.

It would mean, among other things, that the desert wastes of the earth, like the Sahara, could be turned into garden spots. It would also mean that the two and a half billion inhabitants of this planet would all have enough to eat and to wear for the first time in history. As another result, even if the planet's population should be doubled, there would still be enough for all.

When everybody had enough to eat and to wear, it is hard to see how they could dream of engaging in war for more. It would turn the American Four-Point program into an unimportant detail.

Poets for centuries have visualized some sort of a Utopia. Now science has taken hold of the dream and is proposing to translate it into tangible reality. Maybe it can be done; science has done many other wonderful things. But don't look for it tomorrow or next year.

And in spite of a fantastic hope, a doubt obtrudes itself. How will mankind keep busy if the necessity of struggling for a living is removed? In sober reality Utopia will probably be far less interesting than the poets have always assumed.

We sometimes wonder. People live longer. Social security and pensions allow them to exist without work. There are plans for preventing a number of our problems almost every day in the year. This week is no exception. National Fire Prevention week is October 9-15. Play Safe.

The Baptism of Jesus
Luke 2:3-8, 15-22

By Henry Geerlings

John the Baptist belongs to the great preachers of the ages. He was a great and unique man. He had a great message and his message came red hot from the soul which was on fire for righteousness. He had a profound sense of sin and unlike many other preachers he was able to stir up a sense of sin in the soul of others. He made them feel that sin was a terrible thing and that a man should be sorry for it and delivered from its guilt.

There are times when people do not want to be told of their sins. They resent a message that is startling and revealing and condemning. They would rather be complimented than censured, honored than hurt and yet crowds flocked to hear this strange preacher.

They heard him with vast interest and they knew, therefore, in a terrific way that they were sinners. They experienced a great upheaval of soul. They felt the presence of God who was displeased because of their sinful way of life. They repented and were baptized, just as the earnest and sincere preacher urged them to do. They took a path he pointed out to them.

But now while all this was going on there came a mysterious stranger into the midst of the thrilling events seeking baptism too. The preacher recognized Him as the One for whom he was preparing the spiritual way. But while John gladly and fittingly baptized all other seekers after the rite, he shrank from the task of baptizing Jesus. He was a sinner himself and he felt he could not with propriety baptize the sinless One.

His reaction was altogether natural. The sense of unworthiness forbids certain things in the presence of worthiness. The Baptist vigorously protests against baptizing Jesus. He felt that he, the sinful one needed to be baptized by the sinless One. That would seem to him to be the right and fitting order. The true greatness of the preacher appears here.

The unique and remarkable relation to Jesus and the honor that Jesus heaped upon him never turned John's head. He had such an overmastering conception of who Jesus was and of what He was that he therefore always kept his own place.

However, Jesus had come for baptism and He urged John to baptize Him. He silenced his objections by saying that it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness. Now it does seem strange to us that Jesus should have come for baptism. Baptism was intended for sinners. It was intended for those who were made sensible of their unholiness and who repented, not for Him who could look up serenely into the face of God and never need to make confession.

But He who urged baptism upon others set the example by submitting to it Himself. He led the way. The inspirer of the program for the redemption of humanity made that program the program of His own earthly life.

He never said deny yourselves and then sought to escape. He did not ask men to stand the test of temptation in a world of testing and then sought to escape. He said be baptized and He was baptized. He said do this and do that and He did this and that. And furthermore, while John was endorsing Jesus, Jesus now endorsed John.

He thus proved valid the preaching and acts of the Baptist. And this very submitting to baptism by Jesus would give Him standing among the people. In one sense of the word it put Jesus on their level. It furnished a common standing ground. It made His life touch their lives. It established a fellowship. It indicated a common starting point from which they would move together into the great kingdom of God and into the power of the everlasting values.

Heaven's testimony to Jesus on this occasion was most remarkable. That in itself set Him apart as unique and extraordinary. That indicated that He was more than John, more than any other subject for baptism. He was thus a solitary place and was filled with extraordinary power and was crowned with a thrilling commendation. We inaugurate presidents and crown kings—what an inauguration and crowning of this peasant from Galilee! On the other side of a few years stood the cross waiting for this servant of the Most High and the black of this instrument of death fell across the baptismal waters that day—how heartening the voice from heaven.

Driver Pays $105 Fine

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—Louis Battle, 19, Grand Rapids, today paid fine and costs of $105.50 in Municipal Court after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants. He was arrested Thursday morning by Ottawa County deputies after his car rolled over on US-16 a half mile east of Marne.

Holland started its annual observance of National Fire Prevention Week Monday.

Actually here, fire prevention is a daily thought. But setting aside the second week in October, for special observance in the United States and Canada, is designed to make people more conscious of it. The specific week in October was chosen originally because of the Chicago fire, Oct. 8, 1871.

It's a good idea locally, too, since the disaster that almost wiped out Holland occurred the following day, Oct. 9, 1871.

Fire Chief Andrew Klomparsen reported Holland firemen have gone out on 93 calls so far this year.

A breakdown shows that 12 calls have been for false alarms and Klomparsen warned of the stiff punishment given anyone caught pulling a fire alarm box. Local firemen went out on 25 house fires with damages of varying degree. A total of 10 car fires were handled, seven rubbish and one school blaze.

Twelve commercial fires were put out, nine in factories and three in stores. This summer firemen went out on 16 grass fires.

Holland firemen put out a fire late Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Essegager, 326 West 13th St.

"The fire started under the roof above the kitchen probably from defective wiring," Klomparsen said.

He estimated damage at $800 and said firemen were at the house about a half hour. Two inch-and-a-half hoses were used to put out the blaze.

Divorces Granted

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—Marcella Hippler of Grand Haven was granted a divorce decree in Circuit Court Monday from Floyd Hippler, route 1, West Olive. Her maiden name of Marcella Lee was restored. There are no children. Beatrice M. Thornton of Coopersville received a divorce from Ernest Thornton, present whereabouts unknown. Custody of the five children, was awarded to the mother.

Scout Camporee Dates Announced

Physical fitness and fun will highlight the annual fall Camporee of the Chippewa Boy Scout District on Oct. 21 and 22, according to Bernard Shashagway, camping chairman.

The encampment of Boy Scouts and leaders will be held at Spring Grove Park in Jamestown, where Troop 46, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Walter Struik will serve as host.

An obstacle course and demonstrations of worth-while outdoor sports will be major events in the "physical fitness" program, which is one of the foremost objectives of the scouting program. Sgt. Coykendall of the Michigan State Police Rockford post, will demonstrate marksmanship, and the boys will also learn proper techniques of using the bow and arrow in an archery demonstration.

"Fun" activities will include a match striking contest, compass relay game, brick test course, knot tying relay. Ribbon awards will be presented to patrols for the contests and for inspection of the camping areas.

Program for Friday evening will include a traditional campfire and ceremonial program under the leadership of Richard Wilson, district scout executive.

$100,000 Fire Sweeps Downtown Grand Haven

Four Apartments, Two Stores Badly Damaged in Blaze

Elderly Woman Rescued From Room; 25 Firemen Fight for Six Hours

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — A stubborn fire caused damage estimated at upwards of $100,000 to a 70-year-old building in the heart of downtown Grand Haven early Friday.

The Floto Curio Shop at 123 Washington St., four apartments upstairs, and the Knoll surplus store next door, owned by Joe Knoll of Holland, were badly damaged.

The first alarm was turned in at 11:30 p.m. Thursday when a passerby noticed smoke and flames in the curio shop.

Twenty Grand Haven firemen, assisted for several hours by five Muskegon firemen, fought the blaze for more than six hours.

Grand Haven Fire Chief Henry Hoebeke said he called for assistance when it appeared that strong winds might carry the fire to nearby buildings.

Hoebeke said the fire had a "pretty good start" by the time his men arrived at the scene and that flames had already worked their way into the attic of the two-story brick building.

Mrs. Mary Fanning, about 70, living in one of the apartments, was carried from her smoke-filled room by firemen.

The fire apparently started as early as 9:20 p.m. Mrs. Reka Marie De Heer, 67, who lives in her upstairs apartment around that time, but thought it was from a cigarette.

Mrs. De Heer's apartment furnishings suffered considerable damage from fire, smoke and water. The contents were not insured.

Firemen were hampered because of the metal roof on the building. Part of the roof at the rear finally caved in.

Some water damage was sustained at the Maytag Appliance Store two doors away.

Hoebeke said the fire started in the northeast corner of the Floto building. The cause was not immediately determined.

It was Grand Haven's second major fire in a month. Just a month ago a flash fire swept through a section of the Camfield Manufacturing Co. plant causing damage estimated at $500,000.

Accident Snarls Traffic on River

A spilled truckload of apples and a two-car collision snarled traffic on North River Ave. near Pine Ave. during the 5 p.m. rush period Friday similar to Tulip Time tieups.

The chain of events started at 4:45 p.m. when most of 230 crates of apples toppled from a truck driven by Roy Van Dragt of Douglas as he turned off River onto Pine.

The mess effectively blocked traffic on Pine Ave. alongside Windmill Park. A few minutes later cars driven by Joe Bolte, 46, of 117 132nd Ave. and Earl Mortensen, 59, route 4, collided at the same point.

The two cars, which could not be driven away, blocked all four lanes of traffic on River Ave., bringing all vehicles to a standstill. By the time wreckers arrived cars were backed up bumper-to-bumper for blocks north and south on River Ave.

No tickets were issued pending an investigation by city police under less confusing circumstances.

Usable Materials Come From Scrap

"You never know where a piece of material will end up when it leaves our 'usable metal' yard," says Seymour Padnos of Louis Padnos Iron and Metal Co. "It may become a drain, a minnow tank or a dock pile. But the chances are that it will both show the buyer's ingenuity and save him some money."

Your reporter has seen tons of metal come and go from the local scrap yard, trucks reaching far to the East, West, South making this one of the busiest scrap yards in the Middle West. But many people are unaware that there is a division of the business set aside for the convenience of local people who need odd articles of metal in their building and everyday activities. We stayed awhile in this section of the yard and talked with Mary Ver Hoff, who has charge of this part of the business.

"You never know how it will end up," says Mary. "A man comes in for some pipe. He asks for some 1 1/2 inch galvanized. We show him what we have at the moment. He looks at the 1 1/2 inch pipe that we just got in and decides to take that because it looks so good to him. And then before he leaves he buys a 10 foot piece of corrugated pipe to put under his road for a drain, and he may very well take along something for fence posts, angle to support a bridge, or a short section of pipe to set his bird house on. He may want channel or 'I' beam to span his basement, or rods for surveying stakes, or tent stakes. He may want an anchor for his boat, mesh wire for a fence, or framing for a shop table."

And most likely he will not leave without spotting something else he can use, whether it's swivel wheels for a dolly, a sturdy pair of andirons that are easy to clean up for his new fireplace, or something else no one on earth knew was there till he picked it out.

About the only word that can describe the articles one can find in the "usable" stock is miscellaneous. No one knows what will be there tomorrow. You can depend on several sizes of pipe and tubing, wire, and numerous tanks. There'll probably be barrels, stanchions, used metal windows, channel, I beam, angle and a variety of structural materials. If you need to erect a backstop on a playground or a big sign, most likely you can walk right up to the ingredients.

Used electric motors are stored inside, along with wire and other electrical tools and machines. And if you are a "do-it-yourself" fan you'll find that thing you've been wondering about for a month or two, lying forsaken, waiting for "the man who needs one." As a matter of fact, your reporter took home some straight brass tubing that he can see already in a modern lamp he's been thinking about lately.

With Holland having the dubious distinction of being the only city in the state that has been placed on the sugar card system, the custom is in order of taking a lump of sugar along with you to an afternoon tea or to an evening function where coffee is to be served. This custom, which will without doubt become general in Holland if the local sugar famine continues, has actually been introduced here and some women the past few days have been taking lumps of sugar along when they went to visit their friends.

The new fire truck again showed its superiority over the old method, when both companies responded to the Dick Van Lente fire on Central Ave. Although a stream was played upon the fire in the room the men were informed that the attic was all ablaze. Chief Blom directed his men to use the large chemical hose on the new truck and the interior fire was out in a twinkling.

The tags on the face, bear this wording: "Save that shovel of coal a day for Uncle Sam." On the reverse are several hints on saving coal.

Holland In 1917

(Following includes news items which appeared in the Holland Daily Sentinel published more than 35 years ago.)

It is truly a case of the "return of the native" with Peter Den Uyl of the United States of America who is in the city now to fill an engagement with his trained dog "Spike" at the Knickerbocker Theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, according to a story appearing in the Saturday, Dec. 28, issue of the Holland Daily Sentinel published in 1917. Den Uyl left Holland as a boy 18 years ago.

As in the well known case of Flannigan, "It's off again, on again," as far as sugar goes in Holland. Now comes the report that Holland is once more going on the one pound a week for each person basis.

The two fire departments had their hands full when four alarms for fire were responded to, which according to the fire ladders, is a record breaker, as never before have so many fires occurred in a single day. The first fire was in the James A. Brouwer garage on East Ninth St., the second in the home of Dick Van Lente on Central Ave. The third was a chimney fire, while the fourth was the explosion of an oil stove on the home of Mr. Dutz on 14th St. near the P.M. track.

With Holland having the dubious distinction of being the only city in the state that has been placed on the sugar card system, the custom is in order of taking a lump of sugar along with you to an afternoon tea or to an evening function where coffee is to be served. This custom, which will without doubt become general in Holland if the local sugar famine continues, has actually been introduced here and some women the past few days have been taking lumps of sugar along when they went to visit their friends.

Music, Drama Provide Entertaining Program

Drama and lecture mixed with music provided an entertaining program for the weekly meeting of the Woman's Literary Club Tuesday afternoon in the clubrooms.

Scott Morrison in his 1955 version of "Stop, Look and Listen" presented a conversation concert in which he invited his listeners into his screened dressing room and told interesting bits about the world's composers as he put on makeup and costumes.

For his appearance in Holland, Morrison appeared as Franz Josef Haydn, the father of the string quartet rather than the symphony; Edvard Grieg, the Norwegian composer who provided a wealth of short lyrical compositions, some with a strong nationalistic theme, and Franz Liszt, the great pianist-composer.

Morrison prefaced his dressing room visits by playing a Scarlatti sonata, one of 545 sonatas by that composer. He played Scarlatti sonatas both on the piano and on the virginal, a small-sized harpsichord.

Later appearing as Haydn, he played "The Seasons," "The Creation" and "Gypsy Rhondo." As Grieg, he played "The Butterfly," "The Dance of the Clown" and the first movement of "Concerto in A Minor." As Liszt, he played "Liebestraum" and "The Chimes" on a Paganini theme.

Appearing as himself, Morrison said he felt every concert should include one well known composition, preferably the closing one; one selection by an American composer, and one by Chopin or a selection of Chopinesque in character. He then proceeded to do all three at once by playing an Edward Ballantine composition in which "Mary Had a Little Lamb" was arranged as a Chopin nocturne. He also played Chopin's "Waltz in E Minor" and for encore a Spanish composition.

Mrs. Alvin Bos, club president, presided.

DR. KARL GRUBER

Dr. Karl Gruber, Austrian Official, To Lecture Here

Dr. Karl Gruber, Austrian Ambassador to the United States, Nazi and Communist resistance leader, will deliver the second Hawkinson Memorial Lecture at the Civic Center on Oct. 24.

The Hawkinson Memorial Lectures are a tribute to the late Dr. Ella A. Hawkinson, head of the Hope College department of history and political science from 1948-52. In her four years in the community and Hope College she made an unforgettable impact upon both by her efforts in the cause of peace. Dr. Trygve Lie was first lecturer on international relations brought to the community as a tribute to her memory.

Dr. Gruber, foreign minister of Austria for eight years, is the man who worked tirelessly for the Austrian independence treaty, signed last May, which saw the evacuation of Soviet troops from Austria last month.

As first foreign minister of post-war Austria, Dr. Gruber had to rebuild Austria's foreign relations.

He first visited the United States in the fall of 1946 when he was invited to address the New York Herald Tribune Forum. In 1950 he came to Washington to talk with the United States government. During his term of office he traveled to re-establish and strengthen Austria's international relations. His official visits, besides Washington, took him to London, Paris, Rome, Bonn, Bern, Belgrade and Rio de Janeiro.

A native of Innsbruck in the province of Tyrol, Austria, his early education was obtained in Innsbruck, where he eventually was graduated as an electrical engineer. By then, however, his interests had changed and he attended the University of Vienna as a law student, receiving his doctorate in 1937.

During 1938, the year of the annexation of Austria by Germany, Gruber was employed by the Austrian Postal Department, where his anti-Nazi opinions soon led to his dismissal. Whereupon the young engineer-lawyer, turned his talents to the anti-Nazi underground movement. Just after the war broke out, Gruber married a lovely Tyrolean, and together they plotted and executed the resistance that ultimately ousted the Germans from Western Austria.

In like manner his anti-Communist stand precipitated his resignation as Foreign Minister in December 1953. He has written several books on the subject of anti-Communism.

An enthusiastic hiker and swimmer, Gruber, now 46, has been described as a "man of action—simple, straightforward, practical—tall, handsome, athletic...he looks like a Tyrolean skiing champion, rather than a politician or diplomat."

The Ottawa County Bankers Association has awarded five short course scholarships this year for outstanding farm boys and girls. Three boys will be starting their course at Michigan State University on Oct. 24. They are Robert Essenberg of Zeeland, Edward Koope, Jr., of Holland and David Den Bleyker of Holland. Why not ask your local ASC committee to take soil samples for you before the freeze. That will give ample time for an unhurried soil test and you will have your fertilizer recommendations when you get ready to order fertilizer.

More wheat weevils have been reported this past week. Check your bins to see if you have them and then act, using a fumigant made up of a mixture of ethylene dichloride and carbon tetrachloride. Be cautious in using this mixture. It can be harmful to humans.

Some time ago we mentioned that the Department of Agricultural Economics of Michigan State University was anxious to have a number of poultry flock owners and now have 20 enrolled from this county. Over the state there are a total of 200. Seems we have our share. Information on the poultry enterprise will be available from time to time.

With the hunting season already here there may be some interest in two bulletins available at the Extension office. They are "Good Eating from Woods and Fields" and "Venison - From the Forest to the Table." The first deals with preparation and cooking of pheasant, woodchuck, goose, rabbit, grouse, beaver, opossum, racoon, squirrel, muskrat, duck, and woodcock. The second is on venison only. Write for your copy.

Ward Keppel of Zeeland has five daughters out of "Harwood Rainbow Sir Bess Rose" which excelled their dams in milk production, butterfat production and butterfat test. These five daughters average 14,009 pounds of milk with 3.7 test and 519 pounds of butterfat. They excelled their dams with 1,550 pounds of milk and 87 pounds of butterfat. This is certainly an enviable record.

Watch out for bloating when you turn your cattle on late fall legume pastures.

Cattle can bloat on the young juicy growth of fall legume pastures just as easily as earlier in the season. There's no prevention for bloat and dairymen should keep a watchful eye on cattle when they are turned in on any new growth. Check the herd several times a day.

Today's Problems Promote Yearning For Active Faith

In the face of today's monumental problems, there is a widespread reaching out toward spiritual values and a yearning for the power of an active faith, John D. Pickett of Chicago, told an audience here Sunday.

"Thinkers in the field of military science, politics, diplomacy, materia medica and physics are today seeking something beyond ordinary material means to solve the world's problems," Pickett declared. "The age," he said, "seems ready to lift its faith in matter to faith in the power and supremacy of Spirit."

Currently on an extended tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship Pickett spoke in the Holland Theater under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist of Holland.

Speaking on the subject "Christian Science: The Power of an Active Faith," Pickett emphasized that mankind's great need is a practical, usable understanding of the power of God.

Human ingenuity, working through improved techniques, will not of itself enable men to surmount their difficulties, he maintained. Trust in materialism, he said, is just as barren and just as powerless today as it was in Christ Jesus' time.

Faith in Spirit, God, he said, is a two-way channel of activity. "If lifted to God our faith unfolds into spiritual understanding. Then we reflect the power of God," he explained.

According to the lecturer, God is understood in Christian Science to be the source of all true activity, power, and progress. He held that all real beauty, health, perfection, joy, and love are supplied by God, infinite Life, Truth, and Love.

The fruits of faith are available to all, Pickett said. "As our faith is advanced to the spiritual understanding of God we increasingly express the desirable qualities that constitute God's nature," he said emphasizing that divine qualities such as intelligence, joy and health constitute the real nature of man.

To illustrate how such spiritual understanding heals the lecturer cited the case of a man who shattered his kneecap in a fall at work and called a Christian Science practitioner for help.

"Man's perfection as God's expression was realized by both the practitioner and his friend," he said. "It was seen that such an incident could not have occurred in the reality of God's spiritual creation," he explained, adding that the "pain ceased and the swelling disappeared."

The next morning the man was healed and went to work as usual, he went on. The X-ray and medical examination, insisted upon by the company insuring the employees of the firm he worked for, revealed that his kneecap had been shattered in fragments but had been perfectly brought together, the lecturer said.

Commenting on another misconception about the healing power of spiritual understanding, he said that some unacquainted with Christian Science think it attempts to heal with Spirit a material which it says is unreal.

"What Christian Science heals is the false belief that the insubstantial material body is man's true individuality," he said.

"Christian Science teaches that salvation is not to be obtained in a future existence after death, but that today, right now, is the time to work out our salvation."

Psychology Professor Speaks to Rotarians

Dr. Roger W. Heyns, professor of psychology at the University of Michigan, was guest speaker at Rotary Club Thursday at the Warm Friend Tavern.

Speaking on "The Idea of a University," Dr. Heyns presented the problems in higher education and the issues to be faced in the coming years. Differentiating technical schools and the University, Dr. Heyns stated that more buildings are not the only answer to the large increase in enrollment. Adequate staffing is essential as quality education can be achieved only with small classes of students per teacher, he said.

According to Dr. Heyns, the chief function of the University is to teach youth to seek the truth, and to think soundly on what is true and reasonable in all situations.

Dr. Heyns received his early education in Holland and is the son of Dr. Garrett Heyns. He was introduced by Rotarian Peter Van Domelen.

As has been mentioned before, conservation pamphlets are ready to be sent to all teachers in the rural schools in Ottawa County. The conservation project this year is wildlife. This is the second year conservation is being offered to the schools through the 4-H club office. An outline for each 4-H club member will be provided upon request from the 4-H Club office in Grand Haven.

Letters have been sent out to all leaders in last year's projects in connection with starting winter clubs. A district training meeting has been set for Oct. 18 and certain leaders will be trained who in turn will train leaders on a local basis in the county. We are again planning to have three local leader training sessions in the following areas: Holland, Hudsonville and Coopersville.

Requests for information and material have come to us from several communities who have not had 4-H club work. They are: Hudsonville Unity Christian School; Worley School; Tuttle School and East Holland School. In order to provide a good program in 4-H, the club agent plans to call upon experienced leaders to help out whenever possible.

Nov. 19 is a date to remember. Michigan State University is offering tickets at a reduced rate to all 4-H club members for the Marquette game which will be held at their stadium. If you are interested in going, make your own arrangements for transportation and food and make your ticket reservations through the 4-H club office at Grand Haven.

The turkey date has been changed and has been set permanently for Wednesday, Nov. 9. This one-day event will be held at Holland Civic Center. Letters of instruction will be sent from our office at a later date.

Just a note on safety. With hunting season just a week from now we want to emphasize that you as 4-H club members should be aware of the courtesies in hunting and practice safety in handling guns during the hunting season. Also remember our county safety campaign for automobiles. Just remind the whole family to take it easy and also watch out for the other drivers on the highway.

Library Activities Point Up Need for New Building

Holland Public Library has only begun to grow, as evidenced by the second annual report which Librarian Hazel Hayes presented to City Council last week.

Use of library books and other service has progressed at the same rapid pace established earlier, and during the past year the total circulation amounted to 138,855, compared with 104,001 the previous year and 76,860 two years ago.

Total number of volumes by actual count of shelf list cards amounts to 29,126, compared with 24,937 last year. During the year, 3,204 volumes were added including 831 by gift, and 1,335 volumes were withdrawn.

A significant upswing has been shown in the children's department which now has 6,673 volumes on the shelf. Total circulation for fiction amounted to 63,094 and for oil painting on dunes which was non fiction, 13,916. Average circulation per day for children is 353 and for adults 448. Largest daily circulation was 90 for adults.

During the past year a Friends of the Library group has been organized to aid the library in any way possible. This group serves the library much as the PTA serves a school. The library board and others have been looking forward to a new library, and there has been considerable publicity to aid the cause.

"We feel that if a library is to take active part in the education of our citizenry of today, it cannot wait until people come through its doors for services. It must be aggressive in stimulating interest on the part of potential users. The library is best able to explain the forces in its community when it understands and has a working relationship with all those forces," Mrs. Hayes wrote in her report.

"We know now that great progress can be made if we have the support of the Council, Library Board and the general public that we have had in the past. There are s. many plans for the future. We have barely scratched the surface. But we do know now we can go forward just as much as we are allowed to," she said.

During the past year, the library has instituted a service for tourists, and their use of library facilities has proved most gratifying. The number of non-resident book borrowers for the year amounted to 2,582.

There have been several gifts and a lot of free service for the library during the year. Significant among gifts was a microfilm reader and Sentinel microfilms since 1920 valued at over $1,200; a $450 presented through the will of the late Mrs. O. S. Cross who was president of the Library Board; a gift of $300 from the Junior Welfare League for pre-school books, and many separate gifts of books, films, records and the like.

A book deposit box has been placed outside at the north entrance to City Hall for the convenience of library patrons. A phonograph with earphones and $100 worth of records also have been added, as well as two new desks, one posture chair, and some new double shelving.

The library staff has conducted three story hours every week and a summer reading program with 523 children participating. A total of 315 earned diplomas by reading at least 10 books within their own grade level. After they finish the 10 books, they could read for fun on any grade level they chose.

Library Adventures

Arnold Mulder

How haphazard the success of a writer may sometimes be is reflected in a new book, "My Several Worlds," by Pearl Buck, who won the Nobel prize in 1938. Pearl Buck almost did not become a writer at all.

It happened about a decade before she won the big prize. At the time she was living in central China, the daughter of a missionary. Largely out of sheer boredom she had written a short novel that she called "East Wind: West Wind." For a long time she did not know what to do with it. Not acquainted with any publisher or with anybody in the book world, she almost came to the conclusion that the novel was mere waste paper.

Then at a venture she sent it to David Lloyd, in New York. All she knew about him was that he was a publisher's agent; she did not even know whether he was reliable or not. (Not a few "literary agents" are actually "literary quacks.") Another agent had turned her down with the assertion that nobody was interested in stories about the Chinese.

Months passed without a word from David Lloyd. The young author had almost forgotten her manuscript; she had traveled to her American home for personal family reasons.

One morning she received a cable from David Lloyd that had been forwarded to her from central China, since Lloyd did not know this unknown author was back in America. The book had been tentatively accepted by one of the less well known publishers.

With her agent, Pearl Buck called at the office of the publisher, and it was only then that she learned on how slender a thread the acceptance had hung.

When the manuscript of a novel reaches a publishing house it is normally channeled to persons known as "Readers." They make independent written reports to the publishing board, and on the basis of those reports the board decides either to reject or to publish — usually former.

The agent had given Miss Buck the disconcerting information that he had submitted the manuscript to every publishing house in New York and that it had been rejected by all of them, with the single exception of the last one he had approached. If that last try had also been a rejection, he would have withdrawn the book and sent it back to the author in China.

If that had happened, we would probably never have heard of Pearl Buck, and the Nobel committee would not have had the chance a decade later to award the biggest literary prize to her that it is possible to confer.

But even these facts did not completely show how slender the thread was on which hung a future great reputation. For the editorial board of this last hope had been exactly evenly divided on whether to publish or reject. Half of them had turned thumbs down, the other half had voted somewhat reluctantly on taking a chance. But it was clear that they did not expect a big success.

At this juncture the president of the company cut the Gordian Knot by casting his vote for acceptance. Normally his vote would have been exactly the reverse in breaking a tie, but for some reason he had decided to take a chance on a book that even he considered somewhat mediocre.

That is the story of the making of one of America's most popular writers. It does not by any means stand alone. Breaking into print is one of the world's greatest gambles.

Miss Claire Helen Tuls Wed to Kenneth Kragt

Before an altar of palms, ferns, bouquets of white gladioli, mums and candelabra, Miss Claire Helen Tuls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tuls of Paw Paw Dr., and Pfc. Kenneth D. Kragt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kragt of route 3, spoke their marriage vows Tuesday evening in Holland Heights Christian Reformed Church.

The Rev. Harry Vander Ark read the double ring rites at 7:45 p.m. in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

Before the ceremony, Marvin Steketee sang "Because," accompanied by Mrs. Warren Veruik who also played traditional wedding selections. Mr. Steketee also sang "Whither Thou Goest I Will Go" as the bride approached the altar and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt.

The bride was attired in a traditional white satin gown with fitted bodice topped by a lace trimmed filmy nylon yoke. Her full skirt extended into a chapel train.

A sheer nylon net fingertip veil, trimmed with chantilly lace, was held by a halo-type tiara set with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a colonial shower bouquet of white pompons centered with an orchid. Her triple strand of pearls and matching earrings were gifts from the groom.

Bridesmaids, Miss Mary Alice Borr and Miss Marcia Tuls, cousins of the bride, wore identical gowns of soft green and maize taffeta featuring shirred off-the-shoulder necklines, fitted bodices and circular skirts. They carried colonial bouquets.

At the reception in the church basement, a wedding supper was served to 125 guests by the Christian School Auxiliary. Dinner music was played and a short program included singing led by Harold Banger, solos by Mr. Steketee and Mr. Banger and remarks by Rev. Vander Ark.

Assisting at the reception were Miss Gladys Gruppen and Carl Van Dyke, in charge of the gift room; Mr. and Mrs. Don Michmerhuizen, in charge of the guest book, and Mrs. Leo Riemersma and Francis Riemersma, who served punch.

For going away, the new Mrs. Kragt wore a beige wool and cashmere suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. The newlyweds are flying to Europe to spend their honeymoon in Paris, France and Germany. After Nov. 1, they will reside in Bad Kreuznach, Germany, where the groom is stationed with the U. S. armed forces.

A fall setting was the background for the afternoon wedding Saturday Oct. 8, of Miss Ellen Little and Dr. Dale W. Vanden Brink of Sullivan, Ill., in the First Christian Church of Sullivan. The Rev. James L. Van Lear officiated in the presence of 300 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy S. Little of Sullivan. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Vanden Brink of Holland.

Banked huckleberry, chrysanthemums and fall leaves decorated the church chancel and tall candelabra entwined with huckleberry and autumn leaves held lighted yellow tapers. Chrysanthemums decorated the church pews. The bride's brother, Guy Little, Jr., was soloist and Mrs. L. J. Hollenbeck was organist.

In the Zeeland organization, the budget and admissions committee makes policy recommendations in regard to agencies to be included in the drive and allotments for each. The Zeeland drive will also open on Monday, Oct. 17.

Venhuizen, chairman of the business and professional division; Robert Visscher, out-of-town businesses; Mrs. Paul Jones, co-chairman of individual gifts; Ray Reidsma, public employees, and Edward Donovan, schools and colleges.

Now Is The Time To Give All You Can

Community Chest Does All This...And More!

THE MENTALLY HANDICAPPED RECEIVE AID

For the majority of local people, Holland's Community Chest drive will begin on Oct. 17. For members of the committee organizing and running the campaign, however, the drive has been an ever-present concern all during the year.

This year, more work than ever before is going into the campaign. With the Red Cross merging with Community Chest in the fall drive for funds, campaign leaders are emphasizing the need to boost contributions to an all-time high.

Holland's goal this year is $52,143. That goal is $12,806 more than last year's aim for $39,336.59.

Because of the larger goal, all firms in the Single Solicitation Plan are urging their employees to double contributions this year. This means that management will up its contributions also, as under the SSP plan, the employer matches what the employee gives. Funds given in this way cover Community Chest, Red Cross, polio and other drives, all at the same time.

Persons who have regularly contributed to both Community Chest and Red Cross drives will be asked to boost their contributions proportionately.

The merger between Community Chest and Red Cross in this campaign has been made in an attempt to conserve campaign energy, manpower and fund raising costs by eliminating duplication of effort.

Funds raised in the Community Chest drive are given to various organizations and agencies contributing aid to members of the community. Many of these agencies are almost completely supported by Community Chest funds, the gifts of Holland area residents.

This year's quota of $52,143 has been broken down for distribution as follows: Visiting Nurse, $3,600; Salvation Army, $5,500; Camp Fire Girls, $7,691; Muskegon clinic, $2,675; Boy Scouts, $8,500; Goodfellows (Exchange Club) $1,000; Council of Social Agencies, $650; United Health and Welfare, $9,600; Red Cross, $12,277; Mentally Handicapped Children, $650.

A kickoff luncheon for the Community Chest drive will be held Friday, Oct. 14 at the Warm Friend Tavern. The big red quota feather will go up on Eighth St. that same day. Campaign will begin on the following Monday, and continue through Oct. 31.

Persons volunteering to help in the drive are asked to call the Community Chest secretary, Mrs. John Vander Werf, at chest headquarters on the second floor of the Model-Drug building, phone 7746. Volunteers are welcome from any part of the Holland area.
