Brooks To Meet Brucker With Other Mayors

$75,000 WILL BE SPENT ON THE ROADS IN OTTAWA COUNTY
AS RELIEF MEASURE

Supervisors and County Court House Staff Buy Gifts for the Infirmaries

The road budget of $75,000 was passed by the board of supervisors yesterday morning with but one dissenting vote following a partial rehearsal of the plans for the coming year by William M. Connelly, a member of the Ottawa County road commission.

Mr. Connelly closed his talk, outlining the request, by saying that the commission realized fully the economic conditions which guided the board at this time. "It was with hesitancy that the commissioners and good roads committee placed the amount the same as last year," he said, "but if we cut on public improvements, which are keeping the wheels turning over the country to a large extent, what measures are we to look to until once again the economic cycle is revolved, unless it be expenditures that will aid the unemployment situation?"

"By utilizing men instead of machinery, by confining the improvements to road work that does not call for expensive outlays of materials, it is estimated that two thirds of the appropriation will go into labor," he stated in reply to a question asked by Henry Luidens of Holland.

The purchase of materials, he pointed out, while not directly beneficial to the unemployed, goes into channels that sift through avenues of business and in turn help the general situation.

He stated that while most of the labor would be recruited through the welfare organizations, many of the regular employees must be kept to direct the work with which they are entirely familiar.

The Lakewood road improvement will be put into effect immediately, he continued, but must necessarily wait for action of this board. D. M. Cline, member of the good roads committee, offered a substitute motion for the one made referring the matter to the good roads committee saying that the two boards had concurred on all the items, devoting many hours of careful thought and study to the budget and were heartily in accord with every project and the passage of the budget.

In response to a telegram from Governor Brucker a committee was appointed by the chair to attend employment and relief committee meeting to be held in Lansing on Friday, Oct. 16. The members are: Mayor William Verduin, Mayor E. C. Brooks, Holland; Roy Loring, Georgetown; William J. Stater, Crookston; Max Fred Klumper, of Zeeland; and William Connelly. Due to a slight indisposition Mr. Van Anrooy did not feel able to attend himself.

Another important committee was appointed by the chairman to investigate the request of the Holland city council as to support the acquisition of the Getz Farm as a state park. The members are Peter Damstra, Holland, chairman; Philip Rosback, Grand Haven and Floyd Harrison of Chester. It is understood that the property, valued at over $10,000, is available to the state for a very negligible sum in comparison to the value.

The revenue brought to western Michigan from the state is of great value. The interest of many cities in Western Michigan is being enlisted in this project, which is directly or indirectly of benefit to this section and the state in general and a splendid opportunity to acquire a zoo, nationally known, as containing some rare and unique specimens. It is expected this committee will confer with Governor Brucker in regard to the feasibility of urging such a plan.

Judge James J. Danhof, in his report on the insane cases of Ottawa county recommended that $11,000 be appropriated for the coming year. There are at present 24 cases at Kalamazoo. There have been 21 cases, 13 males and eight females, sent to that institution this year, with the remaining cases, bringing the number to 24. The rate per person per day is $1.05. The rate at the Psychopathic Hospital at Ann Arbor is $30 per week.

Requests for appropriations were read by the clerk from the Starr Commonwealth for Boys at Albion; the Salvation Army at Grand Rapids; Michigan Tourist and Resort association and Michigan Real Estate association, an affiliated organization of the resort organization.

A letter announcing the state supervisors meeting January 26-28 was read. Action as to appointing delegate will be deferred to the January session.

The board spent Thursday at the County Infirmary. A sum of about $40 was collected from the board and court house officers and employees which was used to buy gifts for the inmates.

POPULAR QUARTET COMING TO HOLLAND

The Wolverine Quartet of Grand Rapids is to be in Holland on Tuesday evening, October 20, and is to give an extraordinary program at Third Reformed church at 8 o'clock. The Wolverine Quartet have an unusually fine repertoire and are popularly known not only in Holland but abroad.

The entertainment is free to the public, however, a silver collection will be taken up during the intermission in the program.

George Peters of Overisel and John Lipping, Sr. of Fillmore are the two jurors who have been drawn to appear for service on October 19, when the October term of circuit court of Allegan county opens.

ZEELAND CLAIMS WICHERS

Zeeland Record—Interest in the inauguration of Dr. Wynand Wichers, as president of Hope College, drew many Zeeland people on Monday evening, to Holland to witness the impressive exercises. Dr. Wichers is the son of the late William Wichers, prominent business man of the city, and he spent the greater part of his life in this city. Local people are highly pleased with the high honor conferred upon one of its sons and extend their best wishes for success. Mrs. Wichers is also a former Zeeland resident, being a daughter of the late Wm. De Pree.

THREE HOLLAND BANKS HAVE NEARLY TEN MILLION DOLLARS RESOURCES

On page four, Section one of this issue will be found the sworn to quarterly financial statement of the three Holland banks.

As usual there is an excellent showing as the figures in these statements reflect.

Holland's three banks have combined resources of $9,730,440.97. Combined savings deposits total $5,893,044.66.

The First State bank has resources of $3,706,605.18 and savings deposits totaling $2,409,377.21. The Holland City State Bank has resources of $3,222,865.35 and savings deposits of $1,922,911.22. The Peoples State bank has resources of $2,800,970.44 and savings of $1,560,756.23.

NOW A COUNTRY TRIP IS DELIGHTFUL

A trip through the country at this time is well repaid by the beautiful autumn tints that have been taken on by sumac and sassafras. A little later, with the early frosts, the oaks and maples will be resplendent in their gorgeous tints and no painting could be more delightful. While these changes are a premonition of the winter of rest, yet we look forward to the coming of spring with all its life and hope.

OVERISEL BOY IS SIGNALLY HONORED

J. Russel Brink of Overisel, a graduate in the class of 1928 and now a student at Rush Medical school, has been granted the Billings post-graduate scholarship in Pathology and General Medicine. This valuable fellowship is granted to only one student in two years. After completing his regular course next March, he will be given the opportunity to study for six months at either Hamburg, Germany or Vienna, Austria. He is planning to study at Hamburg under the three best German Pathologists. He will then return to the University of Chicago to continue his study and research for one year. He will at the same time teach Pathology for two hours a day. J. Russel Brink is an Overisel boy and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brink.

OLDEST REFORMED CHURCH MEMBER IS 102

The Reformed Church in America, it is believed, has found its oldest member in Mrs. Elizabeth Link Rhoda, who has been a member of the church at East Greenbush, N. Y., for 75 years, and hopes to celebrate her one hundred second birthday anniversary Nov. 22. Mrs. Rhoda has lived in her present home 78 years. Her husband served as officer of the church more than 50 years. Her uncle built the church of which she is a member. Her great-grandfather was an aide-camp to Gen. Washington and her father served in the War of 1812.

DRIVERS' LICENSES ARE GOING SLOWLY

Applications for drivers' licenses under the 1931 act are being received at the rate of 7,000 a day. The Department of State is able to handle over twice this number of applications. All persons whose original driver's license was issued prior to January 1, 1925, must re-register and secure a new license before Nov. 1.

Dissatisfied in some quarters with the council's action in favoring return to central standard time Nov. 1, the Holland Chamber of Commerce, on behalf of several members favoring continuation of eastern standard time, will hold a meeting Friday evening in Warm Friend tavern to consider the time question. If the present time finds enough supporters a resolution will be sent to the council asking a reconsideration.

NETHERLANDS UNCOVERS NEW SPEED MERMAID

Netherlands has discovered a new mermaid. She is Willy van Ouden of Rotterdam, who recently did the 100 meters free-style in 1:10.4. This time constitutes a new Dutch national record and is a remarkable performance if one considers that Willy will be 14 years old Nov. 1.

Willy's new record is not just a chance performance. She has been good for times close to the 1:11 mark pretty regularly throughout the 1931 season. She attained her prowess through careful coaching by her mother.

This "mother-coach" she has in common with the girl she dethroned in Holland, Zus Braun, the Olympic champion for the back-stroke and runner-up to Marthe Norelius in the 400 meters free-style at Amsterdam in 1928.

Zus Braun is still good. Her time are close to 1:11 for the 100 meters.

The new south channel bridge at Grand Haven, will be dedicated on Armistice day. Trees are to be planted along the highway between the two bridges with the name, age and date of death of a local soldier on each tree on a plate. A parade is planned, headed by the American Legion band.

Finance Of Our Nation Sound Says Dimment

FORMER PRESIDENT OF HOPE COLLEGE GIVES MORE OP-TIMISTIC VIEWPOINT

Dr. E. D. Dimment, former president of Hope College, was the speaker at the noon luncheon yesterday of the Holland Exchange Club. He gave a very encouraging message showing why we should still be optimistic. He announced this as a funeral sermon on depression and gave statistics showing that the wealth per capita of our country now is nearly $3,000, more than double as much as in 1921. Bank deposits are showing a steady increase and the nation is financially sound.

The doctor showed how many stocks as that of Sears Roebuck and the Holland Furnace Company are much higher than in 1921. Failures have occurred, it is true, in some lines of industry, but these are largely due, he claimed, to our total disregard of the law of supply and demand. The same basic principles and laws which have always operated and controlled industry and business are still in existence and if properly observed will help us again to get out of this depression.

The late Great War, according to the speaker, caused a total loss in wealth of fully one-fourth in our country and one-third in the other nations participating. We have now much more than recovered this loss, but war is always war and now impending in the Far East. Certainly for its own preservation, civilization must strive to prevent further wars entailing as they do such irreparable losses.

Dr. A. Leenhouts addressed the club briefly explaining the coming drive for the Community Chest on Oct. 28-29. The Exchange Club will again this year back this move and co-operate both in giving and in furnishing men to help put the drive over. Dr. Leenhouts gave a report on the use and disposition of the fund during the past year. About $7,000 to $8,000 will be collected this year as compared to the larger amount last year.

Secretary Lampen announced that Isaac Kouw and John Orlt had been accepted as new members of the club and read for the first reading the name of John G. Eaton. Major Purdue of the Salvation Army was a guest of the club.

300 DELEGATES ATTEND THE CHICAGO SYNOD HELD IN HOLLAND

Nearly 300 delegates attended the tenth annual convention of the Chicago Synod of the Reformed Church, held in Holland for two days, which closed its sessions last night.

Sessions were held in both the First Reformed church, headquarters for the convention, and at the Hope Memorial Chapel.

Rev. B. M. Flikkema of Greenleaf, Minn., chairman of the conference, gave an address at the opening session on the general topic, "My God-Given Place in the Home, the State and the Church."

The Rev. James Stegeman, pastor of the Covenant Reformed in Muskegon Heights, was one of the speakers at the afternoon meeting for Tuesday. He gave an address, "Parents and Children."

This session was devoted to a consideration of the home. Other speakers were the Rev. Nicholas Beer of Grand Rapids, speaking on "Husband and Wife," and the Rev. A. T. Laman of Kalamazoo whose topic was "Brothers and Sisters."

The Tuesday morning session at 9, opened with registering delegates and a short religious service. The Rev. H. C. Swearingen of Minneapolis conducted the devotions and scripture meditation, and the Rev. B. M. Flikkema, of Greenleaf, Wis., chairman of the conference spoke on "God-Given Place of the Christian in the Home, the State, and the Church."

Rev. Mr. Swearingen also was the speaker at the evening service in Memorial chapel, and conducted the devotions at the Wednesday morning opening service at 9, at the First Reformed church.

General subject for the morning was "The Church: the Institute of Redemption." Discussing sub-topics were the following: Rev. R. D. Meens of Detroit, "How Do I Receive?"; the Rev. H. Harmeling of Chicago, "How Do I Appropriation?"; and the Rev. James Weyer of Holland, "How Do I Share?"

The service in the afternoon at First Reformed church dealt with the state as the institute of civil government.

Dr. Paul H. Wezeman of Oak Park, Ill., discussed "Do I Respect the State as Ordained of God?" and Ate Dykstra of Grand Rapids, chairman of the committee on religious and benevolent societies in the state legislature spoke on "Do I Help Enforce the Laws of State?" George Veldman, city commissioner of Grand Rapids, spoke on "Do I Promise the Cause of Christ in the State?"

Rev. Mr. Swearingen was speaker at the final session of the conference at 7:30 P. M. He made five speeches during the conference. At a business meeting Tuesday afternoon it was decided to have a synodical conference next year, the time and place of which will be determined by the committee of arrangements which consists of Rev. S. Vander Werf and Prof. T. E. Welmers and one representative from each one of the seven classes in the Synod of Chicago.

The Chicago synod has a constituency of 138 churches in the classes of Chicago, Grand Rapids, Holland, Muskegon, Kalamazoo, Illinois and Wisconsin. About 250 delegates expected to attend the conference. They were also invited to attend the inauguration ceremonies of Dr. Wynand Wichers as president of Hope college, which took place Monday evening.

News Items Taken From the Files of Holland City News Fifty, Twenty-five and Fifteen Years Ago Today

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

We hear some talk of a course of lectures in Holland the coming winter. This is a new idea and seems good. It is hoped it may be made to succeed. Note: The first real successful course that came to stay was launched by Dr. J. B. Nykerk nearly 40 years ago. Some time a financial success, sometimes a failure, but success or failure, Hope College never lost. When success crowned the season the college got the proceeds and when a season proved a failure financially Dr. Nykerk stood the loss.

The job of building the new bridge across Black River on the Grand Haven road has been awarded to Mr. R. Hunt, a professional bridge builder, residing in this city. The price to be paid seems rather reasonable, it being $490, including plans, etc. We cannot help but feel proud over the virtual accomplishment of an undertaking which must benefit permanently the business interests of this city. Note: How this Otto J. Doesburg, goes into rhapsodies over this wonderful $400 project while we hardly bat an eye when a $200,000 bridge building is becoming a fact right now, at the same site. We take things as a matter of course these days. We wonder sometimes if we count the cost and are really as happy and satisfied as those thrugal people of 50 years ago?

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Casper Belt's game little mare, Sadie Brooks, won second money at the Benton Harbor fair in the 2:28 trot. Johnny Boone of Holland drove Sadie. Johnny also drove Nell Ball to second money in the 2:20 pace.

Mrs. C. J. Dregman and Mrs. W. J. Garrod have been chosen as delegates to the annual meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, to be held in Benton Harbor for three days next week.

Jurors from Holland chosen to serve at Grand Haven in circuit court are J. W. Visscher, Jacob Hoek from Zeeland, Geo. De Jonge; taxes, $209,769.91; T. B. patient fund, $17,786.13; county road redemption fund, $22,226.12; city and village fund, $24,543.53; township fund, $27,528.72 delinquent tax fund.

Disbursements in the register of deeds office were $5,951.41 including salaries and items incidental to running the office; school commissioner, $4,412.04; drain commissioner, $2,752.04; upkeep of court house and grounds, $5,399.48; bounty for sparrows, $420.48; county agricultural agent, $4,509; county road commissioners, $2,650; superintendents of the poor, $30,250.41; sheriff's department, $21,123.02; prosecuting attorney, $4,000.75; county clerk, $6,152.49; county treasurer, $7,950.45; state institutions, $15,812.45; miscellaneous, including widows' pension, $54,255.78; probate court, $10,741.33; board of supervisors salaries and office supplies, $6,998.72; justice court, $6,466.17; home demonstration agent, $1,901.89; county health unit, $8,107.80; cost of election, $2,087.70.

The soldiers relief committee request that the state law be put into effect which allows 20 cents per $1,000 valuation to be raised for the relief of veteran soldiers and their families who served in the several wars. Due to the great demand being made at the present time, the report shows an overdraft of $513.36. The total amount spent was $1,249.98.

The jail inspectors report showed that institution to be in fine condition, the present officers meeting with every requirement. There were 227 prisoners held in the county jail last year on virtually every charge except murder.

A communication from state highway department shows that a total of 1,139.9 miles of Ottawa county township road will be absorbed under the county system at the rate of 20 cent per year. The total for the state is 60,317.5 miles.

The board read again Tuesday, Cornelis Rosenraad, of Zeeland, suggested that every means of economy be employed in conducting the meetings this fall and suggested the board convene during the afternoon, which motion failed, as it was pointed out that committee work was being done during the time when the board was not in actual session.

Petitions for and against the continuance of the Ottawa county health unit, the county agricultural agency and the home demonstration department were received at the board of supervisors meeting Tuesday, indicating there is a divided sentiment on this matter which will probably be one of the important issues before the board passes the annual budget.

Jamesstown was represented by two petitions each with about 60 names, both favoring and disfavoring the projects. Georgetown and Blenden townships requested the departments be done away with solely in the interests of economy and the reduction of taxes.

Claiming that the few signers were but a poor representation of the townships, Charles E. Mincer suggested a hearing be held that the petitioners might state their claims and supporters could present counter claims. Mr. Mincer stated he personally knew that $400 could have been saved in one township, if the co-operation of the officers and citizens with the health

Friend of City Gives Trees for Public Grounds

THE CITY SUPERINTENDENT WILL SUPERVISE PLANTING WITH AID OF UNEMPLOYED

Zeeland Record—Zeeland city has occasion to feel grateful to one of its old friends, and lifelong residents of this community, for the splendid donation of some two hundred young shade trees of several varieties for planting in Zeeland parks and streets or private grounds as the city superintendent may designate.

For obvious reasons we are not divulging the donor, which will be done in an appropriate manner at a future date.

The work has been placed in charge of Mr. Gerrit P. Rooks, city superintendent, who will supervise the work of digging and planting the trees, and the work will be done by the unemployed of this city who may apply to him, thus providing them with several days employment. Only workmen who have no employment and who are in need of support will be considered.

Individual citizens desiring trees for their grounds may secure them free of cost, except that they furnish a man or the wages of such man as comes under the above designation.

The trees are all beautiful trees, maple, elm, and others ranging in sizes from the smallest up to three inches in diameter at the base so that there is a variety of choice. Only when the work is completed can the value and beauty of the gift be appreciated.

RE-REGISTRATION NEXT SPRING

Starting next spring, there will be a general re-registration all over the state. Following that, it will not be necessary for voters to register again unless they move or unless they fail to vote for two years.

LANTERNS, TORCHES STOLEN; COMMISSION OFFERS $25 REWARD

A reward of $25 is being offered by the Ottawa county road commission for the apprehension and conviction of parties who have been stealing lanterns and torches from the extension work being done on US-81. Carl Bowen, county road engineer, reported the loss of $5 worth of lights today and he says this has been going on for some time.

William Connelly, a member of the board of commissioners, calls attention to the fact there is a state law that imposes a fine of $50 or 90 days imprisonment or both for disturbing any equipment placed along roads while under construction.

HOPE ON ITS TOES FOR ALMA SATURDAY

Hope and Alma colleges will clash Saturday afternoon at Alma for the lead in the Michigan conference. With two victories over Ferris and Albion, Coach Bud Hinga is working his squad intensively for a third victory.

Coach Campbell of Alma has a strong team with 16 veterans, but lost a real star in Carl Gussin. Hinga hopes to have Dalman back on the squad for the Alma game. Dalman recently was ruled ineligible but representatives of Hope were in Lansing Tuesday to consider his case at a special conference session.

STILL GOING OVER BANK ROBBERY REWARD TANGLE

Seventeen witnesses were questioned by the special committee of the Michigan Bankers' association, group 4, for information to determine the awards for solution of the Hudsonville bank robbery, meeting in the city hall here Wednesday. Members of the committee are: A. R. Westling of Ludington, Cornelius G. Fries of Holland and James V. Stuart of Grand Rapids.

Witnesses included former Acting Chief Henry Vanderschel, Chief Peter A. Lijevense and members of the police board and patrolmen. The reward is $2,500.

The committee will report to the executive committee and it may take a week or ten days before the rewards are placed, according to Henry Winter, cashier of the Peoples State Bank, who is president of the association. Mr. Winter had Miss Mabel Bauhaan of the local bank take the dictation of the witnesses. It is hoped and expected that not a few Holland officers will be in on the awards.

BOY SCOUTS TO ATTEND NOTRE DAME GAME

About twenty Boy Scouts from Zeeland plan to attend the football game at Notre Dame Saturday. The group will attend in a body with about fifteen or twenty from Hudsonville and a dozen from Forest Grove. The scouts are to be guests of the college for the day.

The boys are at present in need of automobiles for transportation. Those willing to take some of the boys to South Bend are asked to call the Scoutmaster, Wm. Vande Water. Individuals permitting the use of their cars for the day will be admitted to the game gratis.

GOOD CROP KIEFFER PEARS IN ALLEGAN

Kieffer pears are being harvested here. The crop is good. It will be sold almost entirely to the Fennville plant of Michigan Fruit Canners, Inc. The Fennville Fruit exchange now is packing the earlier varieties of winter apples.

Alfred Thomas Joldersma, who underwent an operation at Holland Hospital three weeks ago, returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Joldersma, 70 East Thirteenth street.

GRAPEVINE LEAFS AND BLOOMS AGAIN

Another evidence of this unusual season is the second blossoming this year of a Concord grapevine in the garden of Rev. G. W. Sowler, of Allegan. The vine bore a few small bunches of fruit and then the leaves dried and disappeared. It is now in full frillness of foliage and plenty of buds almost ready for blooming.

RABBIT SEASON OPENS TODAY, THURSDAY

The rabbit, fox squirrel, and woodcock seasons in the lower peninsula will not open until Thursday, Oct. 15, when hunting for pheasants, ruffed grouse (miscalled partridge), and prairie chickens will be permitted.

CATCHES A BIG BASS

Allegan Gazette: Last week Geo. Wise caught in Littlejohn lake a smallmouth black bass weighing 5 pounds and 12 ounces. That's a whopper of its kind. The smallmouth bass is seldom found in lakes. The editor has caught many black bass in that lake but never one of this species.

ZEELAND DRUGGIST SHOWS DRUG OUTFIT OF YESTER- YEAR; SOME BOUGHT BY FORD

As a special feature celebrating National Pharmacy Week, October 12 to 17, Dr. Krul's Drug Store at Zeeland is displaying a number of articles used by the founder, Anthony De Krul, fifty-three years ago.

The original drug store was established in 1878 diagonally across the street from the present location. Here it was, after a thorough instruction in the various branches of pharmacy learned in a Grand Rapids drug store, that the late Tony De Krul set up his place of business. The early drug store was plainly distinguished by the usual colored glass globes pyramided one upon the other from large glass globes at the foot to small at the top. These were found as a rule in the window and added to the drug store effect was a huge mortar and pestle mounted upon a post near the curb in the street. These were purchased from the De Krul estate some years ago by Henry Ford for his museum at Dearborn and are now on display there. Several of the other instruments, much more necessary to the druggist of those days, form the center of this week's display.

A drug mixer and powder mill call to mind the day when the pioneer druggist mixed his own powders and rolled his own pills. The modern ready-made mixtures were unknown in those days. Two ancient volumes filled with prescriptions are reminiscent of the days when the sick asked the physician what ailed them instead of reading the labels on bottles to find whether the remedy would cure their sickness, too.

A few age-mellowed labels for muscadine wine, port and other liquors give the most striking reminder of the past.

"SAND SKIING" PROVES POPULAR ON DUNES NEAR GRAND HAVEN

The new sport of skiing down sand hills has proved a success at Grand Haven and yesterday afternoon a dozen junior high school and high school boys from 10 to 17 years old under the direction of Glenn H. Olsen, Stephen Mead and William L. Stribley, chamber of commerce secretary, competed.

So enthusiastically did the boys take to the sport that Stribley and Mead, both pretty good skiers on the snow trails, took a chance. They reported that a real thrill was present with just as much speed as the winter sport but that stopping gave the skier more of a jar.

Through the efforts of the chamber of commerce, Universal Pictures will send a news reel man Saturday to take views of the new sport and news of it. Mr. Stribley expects to feature it as a summer sport. He has several ideas for improving the layout of "Five Mile" hill where the first sand hill skiing has been done.

ZEELAND RURAL MAIL CARRIER IS ENTERING HIS 23RD YEAR IN SERVICE

Albert B. Johnson, veteran rural mail carrier of Zeeland, this week started the twenty-third year of service on Rural Route 2, and during these years he has made a host of friends. Since he started in October, 1909, many of the earlier patrons have passed on but the larger number are still on his route while many others have come and gone and his list of patrons are ever changing.

Several changes have been made in his route from time to time, but his service has been ever faithful. Rural carriers are consistent workers, four out of Zeeland's total of five being veterans in the local service, having been on the job nearly as long as the Zeeland routes have been established.

A legislative tangle may deprive the state of authority to regulate traffic lights in cities and villages, according to Emerson E. Boyles, deputy attorney general.

The 1931 legislature enacted a new law giving the highway commissioner and the commissioner of public safety supervision over traffic lights in cities and villages. A 1929 act providing such supervision but failing to carry penalties for failure to carry out the act, after the new law conferring actual authority upon the state officials had been adopted, however, a code was passed and it re-enacted the old law which carried no penalties.

Whether the old code or the new separate act governs is the question Boyles has been asked to decide.

Commerce On Lakes Might Be Much Greater

BELIEVE LAKE PORT FOLKS
ARE TO BLOW ON THE JOB TO GET HARBOR AP-PROPRIATION

The Michigan section of the Great Lakes association met at Muskegon yesterday morning and strong "to set the pace for the future development of commerce and individual ports on the greatest inland waterway of the United States."

These were the words with which the first of a series of state conferences planned by the association was opened by Mayor Daniel Webster Hoan, of Milwaukee, new president.

"Our association originally was organized to fight the Chicago water steal, so-called, and to promote the completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway," said Mayor Hoan. "Today these battles have been won and we must look to a new and greater aim."

Preservation of Great Lakes water levels and promotion of commerce through the removal of existing handicaps and development of better ports should be our new objective," he said.

"This movement was started in Michigan more than a year ago and we are depending upon Michigan cities to lead the way to greater things for all of the Great Lakes states," he continued.

"Our greatest need is a wide-awake people, quick to see the advantages of waterway development and ready to support with money as well as time efforts of our association along this line. (We are in a great work for the welfare of all the people of the Great Lakes region and we are depending upon Michigan to be loyal)," he said.

Richard F. Mallie, secretary of the association, outlined the plans adopted at the recent Cleveland conference to bring about the desired unprecedented development of the Great Lakes in the years directly ahead.

"We of the Great Lakes port cities have been suffering because of our own lethargy," he said. "It is our task to initiate proposed harbor and water-way developments, to present them in a proper way to the Army engineers and to push them through to a successful conclusion."

He compared the amount of government money which is spent on the Great Lakes with the amount which is being "poured into" Mississippi valley developments and condemned the Mississippi ports on the ability to get as much of the government appropriations.

"It is our own fault that we are not getting more of this money," he said. "We have been asleep at the switch. The Great Lakes have not been developed to within ten percent of their possibilities for water commerce, and we are to blame."

Congressman James C. McLaughlin spoke on "Commerce of the Great Lakes" pointing out that tonnage annually passing through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie is greater than that of any other canal, including the Panama canal.

Those from Holland attending were Capt. Austin Harrington, Charles French and Andrew Klompars.

SHIPLOAD OF PULPWOOD FROM SWEDEN GOES TO SOUTH HAVEN

Local News

Albert Neitring of Grand Haven, is building a large new coal dock at the Grand Trunk yards and Carl Lindgren of the Nutrilite Ice Company who plans to go into the coal business this year, is adding extensively to the dock that he built earlier.

Friday morning brought the coldest weather of the present autumn season in Ottawa county with a drop to 40 degrees at 7:30 a. m. after a high of 56 degrees which remained fairly constant yesterday. The night was cold and the first traces of frost in this vicinity were reported from residents in the low land sections.

Zeeland must wait two weeks to learn the local decision on the time situation. The council two weeks ago decided to what Grand Rapids and Holland did, figuring both would decide the same. As Holland changes to slow time Nov. 1 and Grand Rapids remains on fast time, the city fathers here will have some time agreeing on the time for Zeeland—Grand Rapids Press.

Mrs. Isabel V. Lilly, 44, wife of Lyman Lilly, prominent resident of Allegan, was found dead Saturday at the foot of a flight of stairs in their home, possibly as the result of a fall in her sleep. Road Commission Dining the Supervisors

The board of supervisors were entertained at the Hotel Wm. M. Ferry Tuesday noon by the Ottawa county road commission at which time the budget, as prepared by the commission, was outlined by William M. Connelly, the spokesman, and the purpose of the emergency relief work was discussed by both Mr. Connelly and Carl Bowen, county engineer.

It is proposed to spend $10,000 through the fall and winter on substantial and needed improvement of county roads, most of the money which will go into labor, with very little expended for materials, said Mr. Bowen.

The labor will be recruited through the welfare departments of the townships and cities and most organizations have indicated they would rather have the pay checks made out to the organizations rather than the man.

The average pay per hour has been 34 cents. Recommendations have been made to cut this to 29 cents but the county proposes to pay 30 cents. The average cost of teams has been 60 cents per hour, which will be reduced to 50 cents, as per recommendation.

COMMUNICATION

The following Public Pulse article is sent in from Chicago, giving views on the retention of the present US-31 and the relocation of it. The Holland City News is pleased to publish any constructive article whether for or against this road proposal. Folks no doubt have an honest difference of opinion on a question of this kind and the News is always ready to publish these different viewpoints.

Holland City News, Holland, Michigan.

Gentlemen: I have read with much interest the discussion in your paper in regard to the new proposed US-31 route location. Being a taxpayer of Lakeland and having the interest of the township and county at heart, I feel that I should express my views in regard to this subject through your newspaper. There are several major points which I wish to bring out in favor of keeping the US-31 in its present location and if it should be moved—move it nearer to the lake shore rather than the inland. Lakeland Township has more of the finest natural beauties along her lake front than can be found in very many townships bordering the entire shore of Lake Michigan.

Why not improve the present US-31 and all lateral roads leading to the Lake and thereby advertise our otherwise worthless lands, as far as agriculture purposes are concerned, and bring in a handsome revenue to the township, county and state in the way of taxes, etc.

We have only to look about us and see what has been done along our lake shore by big business men who have become infatuated with the natural beauties our lake shore has to offer. Should we discourage such improvements which men have made, or should we help to encourage others to do likewise.

For the past ten years I have traveled regularly between Chicago and Holland and I have noticed through personal observation that it is the aim of all communities to bring the highway as near the lake as possible and develop this worthless ground into valuable resort property. With such a large part of our township made up of this land, why not develop this property into a valuable asset?

The only one thing necessary for us to do, is to have good roads leading into this property and the outside world will do the rest.

If we were to move the present US-31 inland and run it through the back part of our good farm lands, would it help the farmers who have hard times raising better crops? ABSOLUTELY NOT! It would only serve to rush the tourists through our township and let them spend their money with our neighbors to the north and south of us, who have time to welcome them.

If we were to build a new US-31 route near Lake Michigan, which can easily be done, we would have one of the finest scenic routes in the country and we would also enjoy the fine publicity which Muskegon has enjoyed since the completion of her scenic route, north of the city.

Why not join with Michigan in making our state the "Harvard of the Nation" and help push the good work along? I feel sure that if the intelligent business men of Holland and Zeeland, and state officials who have this route under their jurisdiction can realize the importance in the development of our lake shore property there will be no question as to where the US-31 route should be.

Very truly yours,
CHAS. H. BERLIE.

AMEN TO TRIBUNE EDITORIAL

A few petitions from outlying townships have come in to the Board of Supervisors asking for the abolition of the Farm Bureau—the Health Unit and the Home Demonstration department.

The Holland City News has given full publicity in a series of articles during the summer, showing the benefits of these departments to the rural districts. The tax burden to the farmer is so insignificant compared to the benefits he receives almost laughable. The County Health Unit gets from the outside more than a dollar for dollar for every dollar Ottawa County spends. These funds come from the state, from the Rockefeller Foundation fund and from other sources. What an unwise move it would be, not considering the health benefits to our children in the schools but purely from a financial standpoint, to kick over a proposition that brings from $6,000 to $8,000 in actual cash annually into our county and is spent here.

Anyway the News has pointed this out several times before and this paper wishes to say Amen to an editorial appearing in the Grand Haven Tribune that completely covers this subject. Here it is: The Menace of a Costly County Economy

Many who have read the accounts telling of demands by a few citizens in some of the townships that the Board of Supervisors discontinue three prominent Ottawa county departments, do not take these economy gestures very seriously. It hardly seems possible that services hitherto regarded as virtually indispensable should, in so short a time, become unbearable burdens in the least, appear to look upon petitions from a majority of taxpayers. Nevertheless the supervisors, at asking for the abandonment of the farm agent, home demonstration agent and health unit offices as requests that cannot be ignored. Not that they are necessarily alarmed; but being students of politics, they recognize in these expressions of sentiment a bed of coals which may rapidly spread into flame. Taxpayers are touchy these days. Cross them the wrong way and out in one stroke, the progress of decades. No institution of government is so secure as to withstand the fire of a suffering and angry mass of voters. It is apparent that the people's complaints should be heard, no matter how small the minority, no matter how mistaken they are in their views.

The fact that democracy is sometimes prey to the mob spirit is to be deplored. While it is not characteristic of the voters in this county to lose their sanity and judgment by heeding the howls for unsound economies, we should not forget that people of equal intelligence have been swayed by means similarly absurd. The supervisors will show a measure of tact by encouraging an expression of opinion on the value of the three departments. And in so doing they will invite prejudice to compete with logic. Thus will they avoid, perhaps, a catastrophe which might develop if the minority sentiment were squelched.

There is little necessity for arguing in favor of maintaining the departments; their good services have been so numerous, their value so apparent, that little needs to be said. The farm agent is the contact man between advances in scientific farming and the farmer. He has saved more than one orchard or crop from destruction by pests; he has many times over repaid the farmer for the small sum which the farmer gives up to support him. Home demonstration, too, has given the farmer's wife many conveniences and ideas which are worth much more than what her husband pays in taxes. As for health, it is far too vital to have to submit to petty controversy. The new health unit, even if it saves no more than twenty lives a year, has served its purpose and paid its keep. Moreover, the county at present is receiving financial aid to maintain this institution; government and private interests would not be so willing to pay toward this organization were it not worth while. And incidentally, the Ottawa county doctors have gone on record as unanimously in support of the unit.

No, it isn't that people are dissatisfied with these departments, it is that they want to cut expenses. All right. But what are the costs of these departments? The home demonstration division costs the taxpayers 3 1/2 cents on a thousand valuation. The farm agent, 6 3/10 cents a thousand. The health unit, 10 cents a thousand. The total expense of the three departments is approximately 20 cents a thousand—and the county tax for last year was $6.30 per thousand, which shows how insignificant these items are as compared to the whole.

Anyone unable to pay 20 cents per thousand valuation to keep these three departments in operation is apparently in no position to pay any of his taxes.

Thus we find that a national study of the demand to discontinue the departments brings one to the same conclusion that the sentimental study of the departments' value does—it would be folly to listen to this false conception of economy.

Yet we realize full well that another factor, a disturbing factor, enters into consideration of the matter. Members of the board consider themselves pledged to the wishes of the people. If, when they have sounded out sentiment, they find that the people to whom they owe office are determined to do away with the departments, they may waver.

The Tribune urges the supervisors, however, in this one case, to place public duty ahead of all political fears. A unanimous action to maintain the departments is likely to appeal to those with sober judgment. And preliminary explanation will probably be enough to convince most taxpayers of the fact that these departments are vital. This course of action will not interfere with other economy meas-units could have been gained. Peter Damstra of Holland agreed with the Grand Haven man that the board should hear first hand as much as possible on the question that the majority sentiment could be ascertained before the matter was decided. No official action was taken beyond referring the petitions to respective committees, but there is a possibility that the suggestions of a public hearing on the matter may be followed.

The approximate cost of maintaining the three departments, according to the report to the county clerk, is $14,519.50 per year. Miss Esther Lott, home demonstration agent, at the close of her report said "I do not believe the people of Ottawa county are unprogressive enough to abolish a state and national project." She stated that over 10,000 persons have attended the meetings in her department and that the women in many parts of the county were preparing petitions just as vigorous for the continuance of the work as had been read against it.

Although the health unit has been in force but six months the report of Dr. Ralph Ten Have has shown conclusively that township money can be saved and more efficient methods can be used by centralizing the work under one head, declared Mr. Mismar in his defense of that project.

The petitions are usually written to cover all three departments. Mr. Mismar said he did not believe this was a fair proposition, as many times a signer was not opposed to all three. The question as to which committee the petitions should be referred arose and it was decided the agricultural committee should act on the ones relative to that department, and the health unit matters to the health department rather than to the finance committee as was first proposed.

John J. Bolt presented the annual poor report, which included the request for an appropriation of $11,500 for the work of the coming year. The board also accepted his invitation to spend the day at the county infirmary.

William O. Van Eyck, of Holland, presented his report on the progress of listing all the soldiers that participated in the Civil war from Ottawa county. The report says there were about 1,700 Ottawa county men enlisted. The full report is divided into four parts and is contained in a 400 page book in which the soldiers are listed, their burial places recorded, and a few words regarding their history, those who died in the war and how they met their deaths.

The book is a valuable asset to the historical data and has been compiled at a tremendous amount of work, said Mr. Van Eyck when reading the informal report. Mr. Van Eyck was authorized to continue with the work as outlined at a recent meeting.

J. Cowing requested $250 for the maintenance of the apary work in the county. He pointed out this amount was a reduction of $25 from last year's appropriation. Any substantiated his statement as to the economic value of the department. There are 20 more keepers in the county than a year ago, he reported.

Reports from the probate Judge James J. Danhof were read covering the tuberculous costs and the widows' pension lists.

The total amount spent at the Muskegon sanatorium for tuberculous patients was $17,780.50. Re-bate of $6700 for Muskegon patients and $187 for University hospital patients will be made by the state according to the state law which allows $1.00 per day per patient.

In the second report, accounts were given of the care of 177 individuals in this county showing an expenditure of $3,477.30 every four weeks, or an average of $7.46 per individual every four weeks. Recommendations for $46,000 for this fund was made, a slight increase of last year.

HAMILTON, MICHIGANAllegan Paper Tells of Changes in Fish
Propagation

Allegan Gazette: The small pond of the Allegan Rod and Gun club which is supplying each year great numbers of young black bass to neighboring lakes is only one of such ponds in this part of Michigan doing the same thing. A planting of this year's product will presently be made and the club hopes to have next year a pond for rearing bluegills which are one of the most popular of the "pan fish."

This vicinity will this fall be supplied with bluegills from Barry and Berrien county ponds.

One of the largest ventures of this kind is at Holland. The bluegill pond there is so packed that it will be difficult to handle them. Last year they put out 400,000 but this year that number will be increased twenty-five per cent.

It used to be that planted fish were no larger than the "wigglers" in the rainwater barrels. Consequently great number of the tiny fish perished; yet all the trout in Allegan county streams were planted in this size until within the past two years. Now all the planted fish are two to three inches long and so there is very little loss if any.

Not only are the inland waters being supplied extensively in this way but trout and white fish by the million are each year put into the great lakes and the practice has greatly increased the annual catch of these wonderfully fine fish.

OTTAWA'S SUNDAY SCHOOL
GROUP LIKES ITS LEADERS

Grand Rapids Press—George Schulling and Anthony A. Nienhuis, Holland postoffice clerks, have been re-elected president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the Ottawa County Sunday School association for their eighth consecutive year.

Nienhuis' report for the last year records 92 schools, 1,438 teachers and officers, 16,863 pupils, and 13,908 average attendance, five schools reported increases of 75 teachers and officers, 725 pupils and 805 in average attendance.

First Reformed church, Holland, with which Schulling and Nienhuis are connected, heads the list as the largest Sunday school in the county, with an enrollment exceeding 1,000.

Holland has been designated as the city for the 1932 convention.

Dorothy Wichers was leader at the Junior Endeavor meeting at Third Reformed church Sunday afternoon. The topic for discussion was "We've a Story to Tell to The Nation."

During the Life of the Holland Institution

Beautiful Hope Memorial Chapel was filled to capacity by interested folks from home and abroad to witness the formal inauguration of Dr. Wynand Wichers, who is the sixth president to head the institution since its inception in 1866. The other presidents were Dr. Philip Phelps, Dr. Charles Scott, Dr. G. J. Kollen, Dr. A. M. Vennema and Dr. Edward D. Dimment and now Dr. Wynand Wichers.

The services were simple and impressive. Students, members of the faculty and board of trustees, Hope alumni, representatives of sister institutions and citizens of Holland and other Michigan cities were present at the ceremonies.

Prof. W. Curtis Snow, president at the grand Skinner pipe organ, while the large concourse of official delegates including members of the General Synod, presidents of sister colleges, men of letters and members of the faculty in cap and gown, marched with steady step, led by the large Chapel choir, singing the processional "God of Our Fathers." After this long procession had filed in to places assigned to them the program was opened by the president of Hope College.

Rev. Nicholas Boer, pastor of the Fifth Reformed Church of Grand Rapids, and President of the Board of Trustees, presided. Professor W. Curtis Snow, the college organizer, first played an organ selection entitled "Symphony VI, First Movement" by Widor.

The procession consisted of academic bodies including those persons on the program; namely, President Wynand Wichers, President Alexander G. Ruthven of the University of Michigan, Rev. Nicholas Boer, the President of the Board of Trustees, Rev. Gerrit J. Hekhuis, the Vice President of General Synod of the Reformed Church in America, Rev. Willard Dayton Brown, the Secretary of the Board of Education of the Reformed Church in America, Dr. Dimment, the former President of Hope College, members of the Board of Trustees of the college, the faculty of the college, the President and faculty of Western Theological Seminary, and approximately forty delegates from various colleges and universities. The first address of the evening was given by Rev. Hekhuis of Grandville, who spoke on "Greeting from the General Synod."

Rev. Boer then rendered the induction of the President.

Following this, President W. Wichers delivered his inaugural address. He gave little consideration to anyone but you. The president should be a man who is broad-minded. Books are not sufficient. Financial experience is needed. Our fond expectations are that you will cause Hope College to fill even a large place in the field of Christian Education. You are beginning a new service at a time when you are most needed." He said that there is room everywhere for truly Christian Colleges. Continuing he said, "You were born and trained in the atmosphere of the Reformed Church. This field which you have chosen gives you an ever-expanding field of opportunity."

Presenting President Wichers with the Seal of Hope College as a symbol of authority, he said: "May God's blessings ever attend your labors."

The official delegates at the inauguration besides those already mentioned were Rev. W. J. Van Kersen, Rev. James Weaver, Hon. H. E. Langeland, Pres. J. Wesseling of Central College, Pres. S. C. Nettings of Western Theological Seminary, Rev. Milton J. Hoffman, Dr. John E. Kuizenga, of Princeton, Congressman Carl E. Mapes, E. T. Cameron, Pres. H. M. Crooks, of Alma College, John P. Everett, Rev. Edward Montgomery, Pres. J. L. Seaton of Albion College, Sam Street Hughes, Pres. R. B. Kuiper of Calvin College, Alexander C. Glennie, Rev. C. M. Steffens, Pres. Lynn H. Waldo of Western State Teachers College, Charles C. Edmonds, J. Harvey Kleinhekel, E. E. Fell and Garret Heys.

Dr. E. D. Dimment, retiring president of Hope College, was called upon to read the scripture, choosing for his passage: Ephesians 1.

Rev. G. J. Hekhuis extended greeting from the General Synod, R. C. A. He said that Hope College was one of the Reformed Church's most precious possessions. He mentioned that of the 1600 graduates of Hope College, 575 are ministers, and 600 are teachers. He also said that 77 per cent of the pastors in the Reformed Church are graduates of either Hope or Central College. He attributed the reason for the large number of ministers coming from our colleges to the fine background in Christian homes. He said that Hope College has a splendid heritage which must be continued and conserved. He congratulated the college on its earnest purpose. The problem of students without purpose is largely eliminated today by the financial depression.

The purpose of education today is to train the student to think for himself, and to think straight, and to encourage righteous and Christian living. The graduate should have an open mind and a receptive spirit. In conclusion he said, "This institution we commit to you; God grant you wisdom more than human and strength more than man's."

HOPE'S SIXTH PRESIDENT

WYNAND WICHERS, A. B., A. M., LL. D.

In coming to Hope College as president, Dr. Wichers is returning to an institution which has claimed the greater part of his life. He did his high school work in Hope's preparatory school, as his home town, Zeeland, at that time had no high school, and continuing in the college took his A. B. degree in 1909 as valedictorian of his class. From that time until 1925 he taught at Hope, except for the year 1917-18, when he taught history at the University of Michigan and received his master's degree.

During these years he attended summer school in the University of Chicago, the University of Illinois and in Wisconsin university, and he taught one summer at Western State Teachers' college.

In 1925 Dr. Wichers gave up teaching for banking, and for six years was cashier and executive vice-president of the First State bank here. He will retain his office of vice-president, though devoting all his time to Hope.

"I shall do no teaching this year," Dr. Wichers said tonight, "but will devote all my time to picking up the work that falls to a president's lot. I anticipate no great changes this year. We have already made one which has shown gratifying results in rousing student spirit, and that is the appointment of an athletic director, as well as a director of physical education."

Mr. Wichers is married, Mrs. Wichers also being a graduate of Hope. They have two children, William, a junior in high school, and Dorothy, in the fourth grade.

Hope College, which was chartered in 1866 and graduated its first class that year, is an outgrowth of the first school started by the colony of 1847. A Latin class was first started in the village of Holland, followed by the "pioneer school" established in 1851 and that class and school were the nucleus that grew into what is now Hope College.

Board of Trustees, officiated in the induction of the President.

He said to President Wichers: "We gave little consideration to anyone but you. The president should be a man who is broad-minded. Books are not sufficient. Financial experience is needed. Our fond expectations are that you will cause Hope College to fill even a large place in the field of Christian Education. You are beginning a new service at a time when you are most needed."

Presenting President Wichers with the Seal of Hope College as a symbol of authority, he said: "May God's blessings ever attend your labors."

The official delegates at the inauguration besides those already mentioned were Rev. W. J. Van Kersen, Rev. James Weaver, Hon. H. E. Langeland, Pres. J. Wesseling of Central College, Pres. S. C. Nettings of Western Theological Seminary, Rev. Milton J. Hoffman, Dr. John E. Kuizenga, of Princeton, Congressman Carl E. Mapes, E. T. Cameron, Pres. H. M. Crooks, of Alma College, John P. Everett, Rev. Edward Montgomery, Pres. J. L. Seaton of Albion College, Sam Street Hughes, Pres. R. B. Kuiper of Calvin College, Alexander C. Glennie, Rev. C. M. Steffens, Pres. Lynn H. Wood of Emmanuel Missionary College, R. B. Champion, Arnold Mulder, B. W. Peet, Mrs. E. J. Bleckink, Elaine Alma Meyer, Pres. James King of Olivet College, Rev. James Martin, Pres. Dwight B. Waldo of Western State Teachers College, Charles C. Edmonds, J. Harvey Kleinhekel, E. E. Fell and Garret Heys.

Dr. E. D. Dimment, retiring president of Hope College, was called upon to read the scripture, choosing for his passage: Ephesians 1.

Rev. G. J. Hekhuis extended greeting from the General Synod, R. C. A. He said that Hope College was one of the Reformed Church's most precious possessions. He mentioned that of the 1600 graduates of Hope College, 575 are ministers, and 600 are teachers. He also said that 77 per cent of the pastors in the Reformed Church are graduates of either Hope or Central College. He attributed the reason for the large number of ministers coming from our colleges to the fine background in Christian homes. He said that Hope College has a splendid heritage which must be continued and conserved. He congratulated the college on its earnest purpose. The problem of students without purpose is largely eliminated today by the financial depression.

The purpose of education today is to train the student to think for himself, and to think straight, and to encourage righteous and Christian living. The graduate should have an open mind and a receptive spirit. In conclusion he said, "This institution we commit to you; God grant you wisdom more than human and strength more than man's."

HOLLAND HELPS GRAND HAVEN
PLANT OVER 50,000
FINGERLING BLUE-GILLS
IN NEAR-BY BAYOUS

Grand Haven Tribune—Quantities of fingerling blue-gills, estimated between 50,000 and 75,000 were planted in ponds and bayous about this city and Spring Lake this week, which were taken from the Holland Game and Fish protection association rearing ponds at Holland. The fish, from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 inches long, were seined from the pond, dumped into tubs and then transferred into large cans.

Trucks furnished by Peter Van Zyl, Eagle Ottawa Leather Co., and Nathaniel Robbins, shipped the cans to the various planting grounds at Stearns bayou, Pottawatomie, Lloyds, Milhouse and Pettes bayous.

The largest planting done was at Stearns, Pottawatomie and Lloyds, which have almost been fished out, as large numbers have been caught each year for some time. Some of them were also planted in Spring Lake, the Sag and in Grand river.

Each year small mouth black bass, yellow perch and blue gills and wall-eyed pike, when they can be secured, are planted on these grounds. It is the systematic planting that has revived fishing around here and brought many outsiders to the haunts that years ago teemed with fine fish, but which became depleted before the planting system was in effect.

There were several members of the Holland association that arose early in the morning to assist the local men, and highest praise for their co-operation was expressed to them for their interest and sportsmanship in the matter of securing better fishing for all sections.

The drivers of the trucks were Sam Van Zanten, James McKinney, L. Depagter and A. Enoy. Several other local men assisted in the actual planting. They recommend that local sportsmen not affiliated with the Holland organization, do so as it is of benefit to the entire county.

Next week another large shipment is expected.

TRIO TO GIVE REPEAT CON-CERT THIS FRIDAY NIGHT

Because of the capacity audience which gathered at Trinity Reformed church last Friday evening to hear the Ambassador Trio of Grand Rapids, and the fact that many were turned away, the Trio has consented to give a repeat concert in First Reformed church, on Friday evening, Oct. 16, at 8 P. M.

This will be the Trio's second appearance in Holland. They come very highly recommended and have the fine record of having been invited for a return engagement wherever they have appeared. Miss Marian Luideis, secretary of H. C. E. Union will feature at the organ.

Another feature of their entirely new program this week will be the playing of the 42nd psalm on the vibratory by Jack Van Nus. Holland folks no doubt, will be delighted to hear this number.

A number of Allegan postoffice clerks and letter carriers have joined with other cities and towns in importing tulip bulbs from Holland. The initial local order is for 3,000 bulbs.

Hunter—What to and
What Not to do
When Lost

Six helpful rules for those who get lost in a forest have been compiled by the Pennsylvania Forestry Service:

One. Sit down and rest. Study the lay of the land; try to find out where you are.

Two. Don't yell for help, and don't wear yourself out trying to run through undergrowth or pushing through drifted snow.

Three. Don't walk aimlessly. Travel only downhill. Follow a stream downwards, if possible. They usually lead to a habitation.

Four. Don't try to seek a way out during the night or in a storm or fog. Find a sheltered place and make camp. Gather plenty of dry wood and build a fire in a safe place. Be careful not to set the woods on fire and extinguish your camp fire before leaving.

Five. If you are injured, build a smoke signal fire, if possible, in an open spot on a knob or ridge top.

Six. Don't lose your head and don't give up.

"WHAT IS WRONG WITH FARMING" TO BE DISCUSSED
AT TWO MEETINGS
NEAR HOLLAND

The third week's series of meetings in the fall schedule of agricultural Agent Milham will be held as follows: October 19, Holland township hall at 8 P. M. first time; October 21, Harrington Grange Hall, at 8 P. M. first time. Many farmers have asked questions at previous meetings making them highly interesting and valuable. The same subjects "What is wrong with agriculture in Ottawa county and its remedy and methods of raising farm income and lowering of farm expenses" will be discussed.

Feeding fewer cows is proving to be a better practice than to feed a large number of cows poorly. Michigan dairymen in herd improvement associations have found through their records that keeping a cow full of feed is one of the cardinal principles of managing a dairy herd well. A study of feeding practices, feed prices and comparisons with dairy prices will be made in a series of feeding meetings occurring in the following locations on fast time:

October 20, Alendale town hall, 2 P. M.

October 22, Holland Township hall, 2 P. M.

October 23, Smallegan's Hall, Forest Grove, 2 P. M.

James Hayes, extension dairyman, Michigan State College, and C. P. Milham, agricultural agent, are conducting this series of dairy feeding meetings. Losses resulting from improper feeding, cull cows, and poor bulls are some of the problems the dairymen face constantly in their herds.

CAMERON McLEAN, CREATIVE GENIUS OF SONG

What the public really wants, although it cannot put it in so many words, is singing which is genuine, CREATIVE, no smug conformity to tradition or the precepts of some teacher will ever interest the public. One must be an independent being to be truly creative.

We hear very little singing which is genuinely CREATIVE, but in Cameron McLean we shall hear one of the greatest creative artists of our day. He has again and again been called the "DAVID BISPHAM" of today and again others call him the "CELTIC CHALAPIN."

It is said Cameron McLean has studied with the great masters of Europe, later creating a great name in the British Isles for his marvelous interpretative gifts. One reporter says of him that he has been here several years, another says he has been here only a short time. He seems a "MAN OF MYSTERY," one thing is sure, he challenges his listeners every moment he is on the platform by his dramatic intensity and his complete mastery of every phase of the singers' art. He turns with the easiest facility from a ballad of enchanting beauty to the harsh biting irony of some epic of life in song.

He can delicately seize the shadowy essence of the soul and weave it into a network of pathos, tears and exaltation. His points of difference from others, are points of excellence. He appears at Carnegie Auditorium at 8 P. M., Thursday evening, October 22, under the auspices of Hope College Lyceum Course.

Rev. Cornelius R. Wierenga and family, Reformed missionaries in India, have returned to the Orient. Wierenga, Hope graduate, recently was promoted by the general synod to the position of principal of Arcot Theological seminary at Vellore.

Want the Help
of Pheasant
Hunters NowSEASON OPENS TODAY AND
STATE WANTS CROPS
OF BIRDS SHOT

For the next ten days hunters are privileged to bag pheasants in lower Michigan and Pheasant hunters this year will have an opportunity to assist the state in obtaining desirable information about this game bird, by sending in crop band numbers of any birds shot.

All of the cock birds released from the State Game Farm have been marked with a small aluminum band attached to the leg of each bird. Birds released on private shooting preserves have also been tagged with private bands. If hunters who kill birds having any of these bands, will send the band together with information as to where and when the bird was killed to the game Division, Department of Conservation, Lansing, much information as to the migratory habits and movements of the birds may be obtained.

It is suggested that if hunters will save the crops and sent them by first class mail as soon as possible it will not be necessary to use preservatives or glass jars. The crop should be placed in a tin can or carefully wrapped in paper. The note giving the date and hour of the day the bird was shot and the name of the county and township, or the distance and direction from the nearest town.

It is hoped that several hundred crops will be sent in so that additional information may be available to persons interested in providing the right kinds of natural food in the wild crop. Much valuable and new information has been found out already, principally through direct observation of the birds, when they were feeding.

It has been found that the birds vary their diet considerably in the different seasons of the year. Just now they are living principally on waste grains left in the fields after the harvest. Before harvest they were making grasshoppers their principal item of food. In the spring they eat after cut worms and other insect larvae found in the crop fields. Last winter pheasants in Williamson Township took a considerable amount of rag weed seeds, which grows extensively in wheat stubble. They are naturally seed eating birds, taking ripe seeds whenever they can find them, and ordinarily they seem to prefer them to wild fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Brouwer celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Monday with a family reunion in the evening and open house to their friends from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Their children are: Mrs. Gertrude Boer Stuart, Mrs. Lucy Oom, Mrs. Jennie Meeter, all of Grand Rapids; William J. Brouwer of Holland; and Herman J. Brouwer of St. Paul, Minn. There are 13 grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Brouwer, nee Sena Nordhouse, were married in Grand Haven in 1881 and since have lived in Holland. Mr. Brouwer was born in this city and for three-quarters of a century has made his home in Holland. He is Holland's oldest merchant, having been connected with the retail furniture business 59 years. He learned the cabinet maker's trade at the age of 18 and six months later entered the employ of Meyer & Dykhus, later becoming a partner of H. Meyer & Co., continuing under the firm names of Meyer, Brouwer & Co., and James A. Brouwer & Co., until the present day. Associated with him now are his son, William J. Brouwer, and Fred Beuwickes, each holding a one-third interest in the business. Mr. Brouwer has taken a prominent part in Holland's civic, religious, commercial, educational and business life. He has been a director in the Holland City State Bank and a member of the board of education many years. He has been an officer in Christian Reformed churches 36 years.—Grand Rapids Press.

WEEKLY NOTES FROM ALLE-
GAN COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AGENT'S OFFICE

Michigan dairymen believe that money will be made from dairy cows this fall and winter providing good feeding methods are followed. Members of dairy herd improvement associations have noticed that record-keeping helps plug up the leak holes through which dairy profits leak out on dairy farms.

Then, too, grade bulls are reducing profits in dairy herds. These and other factors affecting dairy profits will be discussed in a series of feeding schools to be conducted in Allegan county beginning October 19 at 2 P. M.

Jim Hays, Extension Dairyman, Michigan State College, is assisting A. D. Morley, County Agent, in the conduct of this series of dairy cattle feeding meetings. Mr. Jim Hays, Extension Dairyman will conduct the feed talk for the first day. Similar talks will be made by the County Agent later.

These meetings will be held as follows: Oct. 19, 8 P. M., at Pennville high school; Oct. 20, 8 P. M., at Hamilton Co-op garage.

Inaugural Address of Dr. Wynand Wichers, New and Sixth President of Hope College

Mr. President.—With a deep sense of the honor conferred and the responsibilities involved, I accept from you these symbols of authority as President of Hope College. In the presence of this assembly, I solemnly promise to serve my Alma Mater to the best of my ability, endeavoring in every way to honor her splendid traditions and to be true to her sacred history. Conscious of my inability for so great and noble a task, I humbly pray that He who has always been the Anchor of our hope, may guide us and keep us safe in seas that otherwise might be dangerous. We appreciate the presence of those who hold high office in Church and School. We are grateful to the Presidents and delegates from sister colleges who are honoring us tonight. We are especially grateful to the distinguished President of our great University for his presence here with us. All these are a cloud of witnesses whose service in the realm of education we admire, and whose high idealism and intense devotion may well be the source of comfort and inspiration to one who is but a child among College Presidents.

Hope College is one of a large body of Liberal Arts Colleges which are sometimes called Christian Colleges. To be sure, we are controlled by a particular denomination and faithful in every degree to her, but we glory rather in the fact that we are a Christian Liberal Arts College. It will be our object tonight to reassert that value of such an institution and to attempt to rededicate to you all to this cause. Of all the issues which confront educational leadership today, none is more important than the maintenance and progress of the Christian College. We are inclined to believe that Dr. Robert Riley spoke truly when he said that "making has not yet discovered a more worthy instrument of progress than a thoroughly Christian College." In colonial days, we saw men and women of great faith and daring leaving old European shores to begin wearisome journeys across wild seas not only to build new homes in a virgin continent but also to erect meeting houses and schools, and so to lay the foundations for the great Colleges of our day. Harvard, Yale, Kings, Brown, Dartmouth were all dedicated by their founders to the task of developing spiritual life and moral vigor through the educational process. Nor was the westward march of a virile and energetic people a mere desire to appropriate and develop the resources of a limitless continent but rather to realize in the great open spaces, ideals of liberty and government of education and religion. The story of the beginnings of the Christian college, which closely followed the westward movement, is an intensely fascinating one. There is in it much of labor and sorrow, much of romance and poetry, but above all there is in it the story of the discovery of great springs of life and moral energy which are still the moving forces in our civic and religious life. Mayflower Pilgrims and western pioneers looked upon education and religion as one and inseparable. Education that was not shot through with religion was considered dangerous to both Church and State. Religion that was not fostered and cultivated through education must needs die. Perhaps even the best of our leadership could not have foreseen the fact, that, even as the Christian Church was the one great bond of union amidst the chaos of feudalism in the Middle Ages in Europe, that even so the School and College were to be the great bond of union amidst the confusion of our religious and civic life. Next to the Church, the College is our best American institution and the Christian College among the Colleges has done most to determine the dominant type of our Christian civilization.

Now, in the nature of the case, education must needs always be in a sort of flux and ferment which will at times try the temper of our educational institutions and even the Colleges in jeopardy. All the smaller Liberal Arts Colleges are under fire today. And this is due not alone to the fact that with limited endowments and meager equipment, they find it difficult to justify their place in the educational arena, but it is also due to the fact that cultural education is in the balance in an age when "things are in the saddle and ride mankind." But it is extremely fortunate that in the main, the Liberal Arts Colleges in America have remained loyal to intellect and culture and character as the essential things in the curriculum. Dr. Ward of Western Maryland College wrote in the first number of the Liberal Arts College Bulletin that "cultural education for the American people is in the balance and waits for the turn that will swing the things of the spirit into the ascendancy among those who are called to leadership. The things of the spirit are the things out of which nations and individuals are made. Nations as well as individuals are redeemed out of the precincts of things of the spirit. The College of Liberal Arts, in its essence stands for the redemption of the human intellect and character." But even in spite of these attacks upon them five hundred of the smaller colleges in America are still caring for one-half of the million students enrolled in our colleges and universities. It would appear, therefore, that the smaller college is still the backbone of our higher educational system. President Harper once said "that the smaller colleges are the natural and inevitable expression of the American spirit in the realm of higher education."

But it is the Christian College that is facing the greatest onslaught today not alone because it is small and poor but chiefly because it is denominational. For example, the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching will not extend the benefits of its grants to institutions under denominational control no matter how high the scholarly standing of the College may be. It has been explained, that in making this condition, "Mr. Carnegie did not seek to show his hostility to denominations, nor did he seek to hamper in any way the cause of religion. His purpose was to serve primarily the cause of education, and as a matter of education, and as a matter of educational policy it seemed to him unwise to place a college under the control of another organization of whatever character, nor was he able to convince himself that the imposition upon a college of a condition which limited the choice of trustees, officers, or teachers, to a stated denomination, was calculated to advance the larger interests of education." In the nature of the case, therefore, the denominational college can secure its support alone from the organization which controls it. Now it frequently happens that the membership of such an organization has no wise or sacrificial plan which will enable it to face the situation squarely and in full view of its obligation to the child it has brought into the world of education. The denomination as a result often leaves the college between Scylla and Charybdis. It must remain loyal to the denomination which gave it birth and it must at the same time cater constantly to the accrediting agencies which set the scholastic standards. All of you who are at all acquainted with the problem know that it is no easy task to put the Christian College in its proper place in the scheme of education, so as to make it conform to the best standards and articulate it with all other Colleges and at the same time make it an intelligent and cultured defender of the Christian religion. And yet this must be done and I believe it can be done. Did I not think so, I should never have consented to take over the administration of Hope College. And only when it is done, can the Christian College justify its existence. Only then can it properly make its appeal to the whole denomination for support.

I am not in doubt about the place of the Christian College. The record of the years is abundant testimony to the value of a work conceived in faith and executed with courage and trust and heroism. It cannot be that the future offers less of promise in this field than did the past. Religion is still the most important field of human experience, and the men and women who are trained in the Christian College will serve it best and become its most intelligent and consecrated defenders. The Christian College must continue and prosper or the Church will find it impossible to cultivate the Kingdom of God. It was interesting to read an Editorial in the Grand Rapids Press of January 15 commenting on the Church Colleges. After enumerating such colleges in the State of Michigan it said "A great host of Michigan men and women, teachers, preachers, scholars and leaders in the State's life have proceeded from the Church founded institutions. It is an irony that the University of Michigan, whose President Tappan once fought smaller schools with all his might, is now only too happy that these institutions relieve it of part of its burden. There is probably no more remarkable single contribution of religion to this State than its church-founded Colleges; and it is well to remember that, for the stimulus of religion, the country at large would not have had such institutions such as Yale, Harvard, Brown, Dartmouth and Princeton—all founded with similar motives. The call for educated pastors and church laymen was the first great spur to American higher education and it had its important part in Michigan too."

I am well aware that there may be a distinction between the terms denominational college and Christian College. Dr. Pritchett of Carnegie Foundation once argued in an address that this distinction arises out of failure to discriminate between religion and church membership. He reasoned as follows: "The essentials of religion are the same whether men belong to one religious organization or another. Religion is a life springing up in the soul which blossoms into forgetfulness of self and into service of God and man. This life exists without any reference to the denominational or ecclesiastical definition of it. It has in fact, in this formal expression much the same relation that the stars have to the science of astronomy, or that the flower has to Botany. Now shall Christian education mean the effort to bring into the minds and into the lives of students the conception of religion as life, or shall it mean the presentation of forms of worship of a particular denomination and the claims of a particular view of truth?" But in spite of what Dr. Pritchett has said, it is a matter of common observation that the Colleges which have severed their denominational ties have done so not because of a sincere desire to serve Christ better but rather to drink more deeply from the financial fountains that flow from the large Foundations. There may be some question as to the wisdom of making Colleges sectarian or parochial, but there can hardly be any question about the fact that the really Christian colleges are the denominational colleges. Certainly as far as Hope College is concerned, it is proud of its denominational relationship, at the same time that it boasts of its Christian outlook and purpose, attempting through men, curriculum and worship to saturate intellect and culture with morality and christianity, and to introduce young men and women not only to science, literature and the arts, but through these to introduce them to Christ and His service. And so while the denominational colleges of the Reformed Church in America relate themselves in every way to the general problems of education without reserve, and according to the best traditions and standards they do not shrink from the duty and obligation to help the Church redeem the World to Christ.

Let us now consider more specifically the functions of the Christian College. I am going to suggest that the first function is to introduce the student to the whole field of culture so that he may work and fight effectively in the arena of life. We lay claim to the whole realm of culture. We have no notion that any part of it is forbidden ground to the Christian student. The field of Natural Science awaits his exploration. The field of our institutions of life is his to possess and occupy. Literature and the Arts invite him to drink at the aesthetic springs. The world of ethics and moral is supremely his to conquer and command. History and biography were written for him. And all the accomplishments of the world are his to equip him to meet the problems that will come. Now I take it that our young men and women must be adequately equipped for their task. Today they are thrust into an age that is intensely complex as a result of a century of scientific discovery. The multiplicity of life bewilders us all. Read once again "The Education of Henry Adams" one of the great books of this generation. Here was a name to conjure with. Two of his ancestors had been President of the United States. His father was Charles Francis Adams who served the nation so brilliantly during the dark days of the Civil War. No man had a more commanding inheritance. And yet when he is seventy years old, he merely looks upon the arena of life with paths and irony and cynicism. He confesses that he is a child totally unprepared for twentieth century life. It is the sad story of a great man without religious faith, spending the greater part of his life in pursuit of a career which he found not, and then spending the declining years trying to find unity in multiplicity, order in chaos, peace of mind in a world of riot and tumult. But the book is a very good picture of the complexity of our modern life in which we can move forward only under the leadership of men of knowledge and religion, thoroughly furnished, those who hear in their ears the sound of the trumpet and those who can stand on their feet not as a dead weight but as a vital force.

Now if the college is to educate men thoroughly equipped for the work of life it must make them men who can stamp their individuality as a force into touch with other personalities. And to do this, the college must come to them first of all with inspiration enough to fire them with enthusiasm—an inspiration which will not be a feeble breath but a sustaining power all through life. This is not always an easy task. Youth easily surrenders himself with impetuous fortifications—quite immune to any kind of attack. Only once in a while do we find a student whose mind is defenseless against the truth. And yet a good College must find a way to break down these defenses—to point the student to the trail—a trail which may seem perilous to timid souls afraid to climb—but trails which will capture with delight those who attempt to make the ascent. A college will teach the educated man that a book is more than a book, that it is a ship laden with spoils from other shores sailing into mental ports. It must teach him that art is more than paint and canvas, music more than melody and rhythm, science more than ritual and ceremonial. The inspiration that comes from all must be at the beginning of an enlarging education.

The College must touch the student with the touch of knowledge. We are not so much concerned with the amount of material the student collects as we are with the way he deals with the material he has acquired. The age into which he is going calls for intellectual honesty. The ability to sift the false from the true, the capacity for keen and alert criticism of things as they are, the equipment to enter into the world of judgments and relationships, and the capacity for continuous mental growth—these are the important things in education. Much of modern training does not even break the surface. Is it any wonder that we live in a riot of loose thinking and shifty opinion? Our religious life is suffering from it. Our social and political life is bewildering on account of it. In a situation like this, the world needs leadership—the leadership of those who have been taught to think deeply about the problems of life—the leadership of those who can think their way out of the dead end into situations. And this leadership the Colleges must furnish.

Again we believe that the Christian College must come to the student with the stamp of refinement, art and culture. God works that way. He does not merely allow the sun to set but he paints the sunset in glorious beauty.

"God is at his anvil, beating on the sun;
Where molten metal spills,
At his forge among the hills,
He has hammered out the beauty of a day that's done."

God is at his anvil, welding golden bars
In the scarlet-streaming flame,
He is fashioning a frame
For the shimmering silver beauty of the evening stars.

Will Durant has told us that our culture is superficial today because we are rich in mechanics and poor in the finer things of life. And because it is poor in these, it is poor in the real rewards and satisfactions of living. Some one has said that there are two great talents of the intellect, reason and imagination. The first makes the philosopher, the second the poet, but both together make the great artist, scientist, statesman, teacher, preacher. Poetry, refinement, culture are extremely valuable parts of the equipment of leadership. The Liberal Arts College must help to produce men and women of fine taste and appreciation, of vivid imagination and kindly sympathy, of scholarship and culture, of prose and poetry.

But all these things might conceivably be accomplished by any first class Liberal Arts College, even though it were not Christian. One thing in which the Christian College must always be supreme is in the compulsion to carry to the student the torch of real religion and Christianity. If this is going to be done at all, it will have to be done by the Christian Colleges. Only one question remains to be answered and that is, Should it be done? Regardless of any answer that might be given by others, devout and sincere members of the Christian Church will insist that this is a primary function of higher education. The College is the instrument which the Church will largely use to help it in its educational task. Now we believe that the educational task of the Christian Church is to lead men and women to Christ and to have them in the spirit of the Master offer themselves for the largest usefulness in the extension of his Kingdom. There is no other justification for our religious institutions. Foreign and domestic missions, evangelism, religious education, Church Schools, all these would cease to be without the Gospel motive. This job is begun in the Church School and must be continued by other institutions when youth moves from one period of life to another. And at last when the young man or woman is committed to the care of the College, it must carry out its solemn obligation to offer that view of life and philosophy which will introduce them at an advantage into the circle of activity, and send them out into the world with the meaning of Christ in their mind and heart. If intuitions of right are the surest foundations of righteousness, and if the religion of Jesus is the great need of the world, then it becomes the duty of the Christian College to be faithful to its trust and to assume large responsibility for the Christian nurture and development of growing young men and women, teaching them and guiding them to unfold the potentialities of youth and character into glorious actuality.

We have now considered the first function of the Christian College, namely, to introduce the student to the whole of life so that he may work and fight effectively in the sphere in which his lot will be cast. The second function of the Christian College is to help the Christian fulfill his mission in the world. The first might be considered as an attempt to assist the student to make the most of himself and to realize himself fully. The second looks at the problem from the standpoint of the Church. It is now an attempt to prepare the student fully so that he may give himself most fully to the cause of the Church. Without any doubt there will be those who maintain that the Church has no right to enter the domain of education for that specific purpose. But we Christians must feel that we must be propagandists. The marching order of the Church are to bring the gospel to the ends of the earth and to these we must be faithful and use every agency to that end. And for this the Church must have efficient leadership—men and women whose education is there, broad, sincere, and Christian. Even as the earliest American colleges were founded for the training of Christian leaders, so the Church today must produce those who are trained for the service of the Church. We are ready to admit that Christianity cannot be defined in terms of denominationalism and can never be claimed in Fee Simple by any sect to the exclusion of another. But the finest expression of Christianity is the desire of each denomination to appropriate the essence of the Gospel not for itself and its exclusive use, but in order that it may, through the great cooperative enterprise of all, offer it to the whole world. Certainly there is nothing sectarian in the way in which the Reformed Church in America has used its higher educational facilities. We believe that its motives are unsullied and that they must receive the sympathy and support of all those who have the welfare of the Kingdom at heart.

Let us briefly consider the matter of training for professional leadership. In the past the curriculum of the Christian Colleges has made provision for this specific training. But it is entirely possible that the changing age has made obsolete at least a part of the curriculum and makes demands for the introduction and enlargement of courses designed to fit men to meet the problems of the new age. Not that I am unduly impressed with the idea that this is a new age. Problems are never new, they are eternal. Surely there is nothing in our history today so indicative of great changes as marked some earlier crisis in history. And yet there is always a need of adaption to the present problem. Dr. Hite in his book "The Effective Christian College" suggests that certain forces are operative in the field of religion that the College must take note of in setting up its curriculum for professional leadership. He notes the fact that the age is not strongly ecclesiastical nor dogmatic, that it is not primarily a preaching age but a teaching age. In line with that, he suggests that Community Problems, Organization Problems, Christian Sociology, Religious Education must more and more find their way into the program. Also that these courses should be fairly complete because of the fact that the great majority of ministers find it impossible to attend Graduate Schools. The thought that officers and administrators in the field of Christian Education can at least get out of this is that the Colleges must be thoroughly alive to these changes and must make an honest and intelligent effort to build the foundations for professional leadership very carefully, just as thoroughly as we make our preparation for training in science and medicine and the other professions. The Reformed Church has throughout its entire history stood for a learned ministry. Its pulpits are occupied by preachers of learning and power. Its missionary enterprise is in the hands of leaders who are statesmen in their field. If the work of our Church is to continue and prosper in a field which is often barren, in an age which is not essentially spiritual, it must be in the hands of men who are peers in the world of scholarship, and real prophets of righteousness in the age in which they are to move.

But what about the lay leadership of the Church? The professional leadership can hardly lift the level of the denominational life higher than the level of the various churches. In these churches, we must depend almost entirely upon lay leadership to lift the level of information, enthusiasm and zeal to the pitch required for progressive work and growing spiritual strength. Here the Christian College must reevaluate its opportunity to be of real service. It is a tremendous indictment of our Colleges that they so seldom conserve to the Church the young people of College age. They come to the College out of fine homes and out of active service in the Church. The College should send them back not less interested and enthusiastic, but more prepared and more willing to take their proper place in the Church's life. It is, of course, not possible for the College to conserve them all to the Church. But the proportion of those conserved is sometimes altogether too small and certainly is a dangerous and serious factor as far as the welfare of the Church is concerned. The College must be seriously concerned with the problem and by the use of every legitimate means attempt to hold young men true to their faith and loyal to the Church of their fathers. There is no question but that in the space of a few years, the level of life in the local Church could be lifted a great deal by a lay leadership alive to its duty and privilege. But in many cases the initial impulse, the intellectual equipment, and the spiritual urge will have to come out of the Christian Colleges of the land.

I have suggested that there are two functions of the Christian College, first to equip young people thoroughly for every walk of life, second to equip them in order that they may help the Church in very definite ways to fulfill its mission. It is not within the province of this paper to analyze carefully just how this should be done. I should like to suggest, however, that three things are absolutely necessary to do it. First the atmosphere of the College must be Christian. Musicians are not trained in scientific schools. Doctors are not educated in machine shops. Lawyers do not go to school in the chemical laboratories. Religious leadership, the young men and women will not flourish in the atmosphere of calculating chance and materialistic philosophy. But where Christ is actually King of the Campus and slips everywhere into Dormitory Room and Classroom Halls, there Christian men and women will begin to climb the slope that leads to God. In the second place the curriculum must be designed so that it will satisfy in every way the demands of accrediting agencies and good College standards, and at the same time offer that particular type of training necessary to the equipment of the professional and lay leadership of the Church. But there is one thing more important than all and that is that the teachers in our Colleges shall not be neutral in the great questions of life. They must also be sincere in life and conduct and must be thoroughly Christian in their convictions and philosophy. Only leaders of that type will be able to stamp themselves into touch with the characters of those whom they teach and seek to lead.

May I suggest a few things in conclusion. If we have established our case that the Church needs the denominational college, then it is clear that it is no part of wisdom for the denomination to continue to keep its control and allow it to starve. Personally I feel very strongly that if the Church wishes to keep the Christian College it must be ready to maintain it with honor, so that the College can hold its head high in intellectual circles and at the same time be not ashamed of the part that it plays in the redemption of the world. When the Church first entered into this relationship and undertook to found colleges, this support involved no serious draft on the energy of the denomination. Subjects taught were of such a character that they required little expenditure beyond the stipend paid the kindly and good-natured gentlemen who taught the course. Expensive outlays for libraries and laboratories were not thought of. Now all this is different. The running of a college is a heavy draft on the energies of the denomination. But let us remember that the authority to control will be more and more held to carry with it the obligation of proper support. I am appealing to the leadership of our Church life tonight. Will you not resolve once again to enter into this relationship so purposefully and play your part so royally and loyally that we of the college may be conscious of the fact that the whole Reformed Church is back of us? If the Church will do that, then I am convinced that we on our part, shall give ample assurance of a trust well-carried out and a service well-planned and executed. Help us to make Hope College great—in the things of the mind and the spirit—great in the world of knowledge and service.

Hope College News

WIN FIRST M. I. A. A. MATCH AGAINST STRONG RIVALS

Hope opened its conference season last Friday by defeating a powerful Albion eleven, 7 to 0, in a contest which was packed with thrills, hard tackling, and fine blocking. By means of this victory, the Hingamen served notice on the remaining M. I. A. A. schools that hereafter there will be six teams contending for the conference championship instead of five. An exchanging of punts marked the first quarter, but near the end of the period Albion started a march down the field that was only stopped when the Hope forward wall was within the shadow of its own goal posts. This was the only effective drive put on by the Methodists and for the remainder of the game the Butchemen completely outplayed the down-state boys. Although Hope threatened several times in the third period, they always lacked the final punch to put to pigskin across. However, following the opening of the final quarter, Japunga took one of Watt's punts on his own 45 yard line. Twisting and dodging he managed to elude most of the Albion tacklers before he was finally brought down on their 15 yard marker. This sensational run put Hope once more in a scoring position, but on two successive line plays, our backs were stopped on the line of scrimmage. A forward pass was incomplete for the third down, and on the last play, Slighter went across for the only touchdown of the day when Nettinga tossed him a pass in the flat zone. On the next play, Japunga kicked goal for the extra point.

In Watt, Albion presented a great ball carrier, passer, and kicker. This curly-headed right halfback led the Methodist offense in 2 out of every 3 plays. For Hope, Louie Japunga with his beautiful exhibition of broken field running, was outstanding. However, Zwemer and Norlin of Gold Dust fame, performed well on the line. The lineups and summary:

AFTER 40

bowel trouble

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headachy, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

FREEZING FRUIT SHOULD HELP FRUIT BUSINESS

Frozen fruit business is in its infancy. The first commercial use of this method of marketing fruit started with cherries in Michigan. Improvements are coming. Federal chemists have found that by pulping pitted fruit, adding a sugar syrup, mixing and freezing to very low temperatures, a product of remarkably smooth texture and with all the original fruit flavor results. Nearly the whole list of staple fruit can be thus handled, these experts advise. This should and will increase the use of fruit and make it possible to so plan our winter eating that spring tonics will be unnecessary and spring fever avoided.

Corn Borer Never Reached Ottawa County

Ottawa county farmers no doubt are pleased that the corn borer has not been added to the plenty of other troubles that beset them.

The borer made a steady march from the southern tier of counties until last year it had reached Allegan county and it would appear that Ottawa county was next in line. However county farm agent Morley of Allegan county states that this year the borer has entirely disappeared and county agent Milham has reported none in Ottawa county thus far.

Both county agents had taken all the precautions necessary and had instructed the farmers what to do should the corn borer put in its appearance. The state and nation for more than six years has appropriated much money to kill off the borer and inspections were constantly made on the main highways of the state and automobiles were stopped by deputies looking for corn taken from infested districts. But the borer appropriation is used up—there is no more money and we are glad to say the borers have disappeared also.

MORE LABOR ON ROADS IN ALLEGAN COUNTY

The 10-mile unimproved stretch of the Allegan-Otsego road will be paved and work is to start at once, it was announced here today by Road Commissioner Fred McOmber. Bids are being advertised for opening Oct. 27 by the state administrative board. This will put at least one hundred more men to work in that locality.

HOLLAND HIGH DROWNS OUT CRESTON TEAM WITH SCORE 19-0

The Creston Heights were simply smothered with scores by Coach Breen's men of Holland High at Riverview Park Saturday.

Amid an incessant driving down-pour of rain, Holland high school's Maroons carried off all the laurels in a water carnival staged at the local park. When the splashing and mud-slinging was finished the alert Holland players had administered a resounding 19-0 beating to the Polar Bears.

Reserve teams of the two institutions battled to a scoreless tie in the preliminary game, with the Holland seconds having numerous scoring chances in the closing minutes which they were unable to turn into the points that would have meant victory.

SAUGATUCK, DOUGLAS, FENNVILLE AND VICINITY

Dr. J. A. Sheets, dentist who has been practicing at Fennville the last three years will move to Traverse City the last of this week. There is no successor for the office here as yet.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church of Saugatuck elected the following officers: President, Mrs. D. A. Heath; first vice president, Mrs. Sarah Sheridan; second vice president, Mrs. Mary Koning; secretary, Mrs. R. L. Kortkamp; treasurer, Miss Cornelia Koning.

Mrs. Donald Dickinson and little son Charles Leonard of Fennville are home from the Holland hospital.

The welcome to Fennville sign at the eastern limits of town has been newly painted, giving it a more attractive appearance. Fennville Herald: A sign need not tell visitors that they are welcome. The smiles on the face of the folks living there tell the story.

Marc C. Hutchinson of Fennville and family moved Tuesday into their beautiful new home in the west end of town. Carn Tucker, who has purchased the former Hutchinson residence has taken possession, and the house on the Tucker farm is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henning and family.

The family of D. W. Robinson who recently came to Fennville from White Pigeon, are living in the John Van Blois apartment on First street. Mr. Robinson is night operator at the Pere Marquette station.

One of the booths at the Hartford fair contained a few well-dressed women, who displayed signs advocating the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, in order to "save the children." Just how the freer use of wines and beer is to save anyone is hard to understand. We will gamble an apple that these women did not have a child to "save."

Announcement has been made of the approaching wedding of Miss Margaret Edgecombe of Saugatuck and George Ellis Bale of Fennville.

Mrs. Minnie Flagg, of Ganges, was brought home from Blodgett hospital to the home of her sister, Mrs. Barbara Truax of Fennville where she is being cared for by Mrs. Truax and Mrs. Bertha Howland.

Frank Stevens, of Fennville, is renovating hotel Stevens and as soon as they can dispose of the farm Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will take charge. In place of serving regular meals they plan to have a lunch service with short orders. Stevens always did conduct a fine hotel where the eats were par excellence and that "new baked bread" with a hungry smell there was nothing like it.

Among the many fine orchards in this part of the county none shows to better advantage than that of William Shannon, of Fennville, who is just now harvesting the best crop of apples that it has been our privilege to examine. The fruit is large, smooth, and free from insect injuries, which is quite unusual this fall. His 150 Jonathan trees, which are fifteen years of age and have fruited since they were seven, have a crop of fruit that would be hard to equal, but that is the kind of crops Mr. Shannon is in the habit of raising. No wonder that he has sold the apples at what may be termed a fancy price for this season. A block of Hubbardston is also very attractive for size, color, and perfection.

William Takken, of Saugatuck, chairman of the proposed Douglas hospital committee, has appointed the following financial committee: Ganges, Mrs. Peter Broe; Douglas, Mrs. Harold VanSyckle; Fennville, C. E. Bassett; Saugatuck, Mrs. Jack Foto or Mrs. Chas. Rodebaugh. These heads are to appoint assistants and make a campaign to solicit donations in their territory. This work is to be done by October 17 and then it will be known just what to expect. If all do their parts, the committee will feel warranted in going ahead and having a hospital ready to use in a few weeks.

The Bank Puts Money To Work

THE average Holland citizen is proud of the development of this community—both from the standpoint of agriculture in the country and business in the town. Improved farms, good stores and productive factories didn't just happen. These are frequently taken as a matter of course without any thought of how they came to be.

Q Were it not for the banks, very little of the development as we now see it could have been possible in this city or elsewhere.

Q The bank receives the surplus money of the members of the community and make it available at reasonable cost, upon good security, to others who need funds for development purposes.

Q Check over the private improvements which have been made in this community during the past few years and make a list of those which could have become a fact without the assistance of a bank. You'll be surprised how few they are.

Q This service must be of mutual benefit to bank and community alike. The bank's profit is made on the funds that it can put to work, or lend at interest after the best of securities are given for the loan.

Q It would be surprising to every one living in Holland to know at what reasonable cost a bank in this or any other community gives this service to the community. A bank is the strong connecting link between labor and capital in every business center for it keeps labor and capital at work producing and that today is a very necessary and essential contribution for the common good.
