Gasoline Tax Is Tabled by Board

Grand Haven, Oct. 17 (Special)—The Board of Supervisors at its meeting Wednesday afternoon tabled until January a resolution presented by the County Road Commission requesting the state legislature to provide additional funds for road construction and improvements by increasing gasoline tax two cents a gallon.

The resolution provides that the state should return at least $10,000,000 to county road systems, providing the liquor tax return is continued on the present method of distribution.

Supervisors Charles A. Loring of Georgetown and Dick Nieuwsma of Park townships favored the resolution and Vernon D. Ten Cate of Holland said he was definitely opposed to adding another two cents in tax. Henry Slaughter of Tallmadge township said he felt the money should come from some other fund and not through extra gas tax.

Appointment of a commissioner to the road commission will be the first business Monday afternoon. The six-year term of Albert Hyma of Holland township expires.

The board also approved plans for construction of a bridge across Hammon bayou in Spring Lake township northeast of the village. The commission's 1947 budget for $533,669.63 also was adopted.

The Grand Haven Veterans' Counseling center's request for $2,500 to continue its work another year was referred to the ways and means committee.

Holland Earns Tie with Central In Close Contest

Dutchmen Get Points In First Half, But Fail to Halt Rally

Holland High's football squad managed a 12-12 tie with Grand two first down to their opponents 11 at Riverview park Friday night. Holland looked strong in the first half when they piled up their 12 points but Central came back strong in the second half and nearly toppled the Dutchmen.

Holland, clad in new red and silver togs, looked remarkably well in the early stages of the game as they began their first scoring drive half way through the first quarter on the Central 45.

Leverette and Kuipers advanced the ball several yards and Vande Wege booted to the Central 15 yard line. Central took over only to fumble and have a Hollander pounce on the ball on the Hilltoppers 14-yard line. After Kuipers carried the ball to the 6, Hinga tossed a swift pass to lanky Van der Kuy who reached high and grabbed it in the end zone. Vande Kuy's attempt for the extra point was blocked and the Dutch led 6-0.

Then as the second quarter opened, Leverette took off on the first play and romped 57 yards from his own 43 yard line to make the score 12-0. Leverette's run was by far the most colorful play of the contest as he sped through right tackle into the clear pulling away from half a dozen Central tacklers to score. Vande Kuy again attempted the conversion but failed again on a low boot.

Nordstrom and Steele of the Central backfield then took over as they began putting on a show for chilled fans racing for 20 and 25 yard gains respectively. Steele was finally swamped by a host of Dutch tacklers, but not until he was on the 2 yard line. Patterson punted the piskin over for a Grand Rapids tally. Wallenga's placekick was not good and the Hilltoppers looked as if they were coming into form as they made the score, 12-6.

A pair of punts were exchanged and the first half ended with Central having possession of the ball on the Holland 37.

The third quarter saw Vande Wege, local punting star, stage a kicking duel against the Centralites. He kicked one out of bounds on the 15 yard line and another down to the Central 3. Holland had possession of the ball on their own 48 yard line as the quarter ended, but lost the ball on the mid-field stripe after failing to make their yardage.

Wallenga, Van Dam and Steele of the Centralites then began practically at will, toward Holland's goal. After four first downs in succession they brought the ball to rest on the Holland 1 yard line, where Steele crashed over into the end zone standing up to make the score 12-12. Van Dam, Central quarterback, then chose to run the ball, crashing the left side of the line but failed to make the point that could have decided the ball game.

The game ended four minutes later with the ball resting medium deep in Holland's territory and the Dutch in possession.

Leverette turned in another impressive game on offense along with Kuipers while Slager and Barendse paced the defensive attack from the line. Steele, Wallenga and Van Dam looked outstanding for the Hilltoppers.

Committee Will Study Procedure on Re-Zoning

Procedure on re-zoning of River Ave. from 12th to 17th Sts., from class B residential to class C commercial, advocated two weeks ago by the Board of Appeals, today rested with the Committee on Streets of Common Council, the city attorney and the city engineer.

The matter was referred to this group by Mayor Ben Steffens Wednesday night by Common Council. The group was instructed to study set-backs and alley lines and report at the next council meeting.

The subject was introduced by Harold Beernink from the floor after Mayor Steffens had considered adjournment. Beernink, who is interested in building a photo studio on his property on River Ave., and Henry Mass who is interested in other buildings, both protested when tabling the subject was suggested. Both have been attending council meetings for six months.

It was first suggested to refer the subject back to the original committee appointed for River Ave. re-zoning, but Chairman Harry Harrington said it had been

Hope's B Team Drops Decision To Percy Jones

In an afternoon game at Fort Custer Wednesday, the Hope college B team was overpowered by Percy Jones eleven 28-6. It was the first game for the Hopeites and the second for the soldiers as the GI's piled up first down after first down on deceptive pass plays.

It was Bob Fowler and Johnny Green who spelled out defeat for the locals as they showed their collegiate and professional skills. Fowler, former University of California Negro halfback, scored three touchdowns and punted over for one extra point. Green on the other hand is a pro grinder each week-end and holds rank of private at Percy Jones the rest of the week. Passes from Fowler to Green, who played end, accounted for and set up the stage for several tallies.

Early in the game a Hope punt was blocked in the endzone and a soldier fell on it for a safety. The Hollanders threatened at least three times more when they were stopped on the 2 or 3 yard line.

Although it was Hope's first game, the line played well and Percy Jones made very little ground through the Dutch forward wall.

The locals used both the T formation and the single wing formation shifting from the T. The fact that there were only 15 yards penalized against the soldiers, indicates a clean contest.

Nyenhuus played a smart game at tackle on Hope's line as he matched resources against Green, the pro boy, who according to Nyenhuus, "hits like a ton of bricks." De Witt was also outstanding on the line while Zwemer took the bulk of the backfield, offensively for Hope.

The stands were packed with wounded war veterans. Approximately 3,000 persons viewed the game with music being furnished by the South High Band of Grand Rapids under the direction of Glenn B. Lighten.

If He Mentions Chief's Name, Suspect Him

Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff today warned all persons to watch out for a magazine salesman who showed the chief's signature as endorsement in canvassing on route 4 a few days ago.

Chief Van Hoff said he has not provided any signature or endorsement for anything of the kind, and urged persons encountering such a salesman to call the police or the Chamber of Commerce.

In fact, the chief said he'd like to see the endorsement. He wonders if it's a good forgery.

Township Zoning Outlined to Board

Grand Haven, Oct. 17 (Special)—L. A. Wolfanger, authority on township zoning at Michigan State college, outlined procedure on such zoning for Ottawa county at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors Wednesday afternoon.

He said zoning is becoming increasingly more important with the shifting of city residents to rural and suburban areas and already 70 townships in Michigan have adopted zoning ordinances. Michigan has an average of 90 persons to the square mile and Ottawa county has well over 100, he explained.

The four steps in zoning follow: 1. Division of county or township into zoning districts, any number, shape or size. 2. New uses of land, which may be encouraged, regulated or prohibited. 3. New and altered dwellings, buildings and structures. (Provisions may be adopted designating or limiting location, site, use, minimum open spaces; sanitary, safety and protective measures. 4. Maximum number of families.

He said the seven steps necessary involve a resolution to the township board declaring intent to come under the enabling act, the appointment of a four-man zoning board by probate court, preparation of zoning plan by board, public hearing of zoning plan, approval of plan by county zoning commission, adoption of plan, approval of plan, by county legislation of ordinance within 30 days. A referendum on the ordinance may be petitioned within days.

Council Tables Renumbering of Houses in City

Following a discussion, Common Council Wednesday night tabled until the next meeting Nov. 6 the subject of renumbering houses in the city, 100 to the block.

Ald. William J. Meengs, chairman of a committee appointed two weeks ago by Mayor Ben Steffens, reviewed developments at a meeting last week called by the Chamber of Commerce for a general discussion on numbering in the city and county.

"We must look to the future—Holland is growing. If we set up a standardized numbering system now, it will be of benefit for many years," Meengs said.

He added that Bell Telephone Co. anticipates population in this area may reach 50,000. He also explained the proposed method of establishing a Holland area, five by seven miles, in which house numbers would conform to the present system.

He said the Holland post office would be inconvenienced more than any other department of business in the city if houses here should be renumbered, but that officials there advocate the change.

"If Holland is ever to change its numbering system, we should do it now," he said.

Ald. L. C. Dalman, another member of the committee, presented-opposite views. He said he had consulted Board of Public Works officials, and the changes in that department alone would be so extensive that a new system would not be feasible. Every electrical drop, every water connection and every sewer connection is recorded by addresses, he said.

He explained that the BPW had numbered houses in the rural area on the basis of Holland's numbers, 22 feet to the number. "I can't see the advantages a new system would offer for the money it would require and the confusion it would cause," he said.

Ald. Henry Te Roller, third member of the committee, said Holland's present system is not perfect but it works. He said he understood the present system offered no real troubles at the post office.

William H. Vande Water, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, explained some of the background. He said roads in Ottawa county were named and houses numbered in a special project by Consumers Power Co. The Board of Supervisors has allocated $18,000 for sign posts.

Supervisor James Boyce of Lakeland township, Allegan county, 13, part of which territory would be affected if the Holland area system is adopted, urged numbering, 100 to the block, in places where new subdivisions are established.

Mayor Ben Steffens today urged 100 per cent participation in the annual Community Chest drive opening Monday. "May all of our citizens contribute as much as possible to put Holland over the top," he said. "There are 15 agencies which will share in the funds and all are worthy of support. Let everyone respond promptly so we may reach the required goal, and may it again be said, 'Holland never fails.'"

Brothers Get Eagle Badges

Two brothers, Donald and Roger Northuis, received Eagle badges at special ceremonies in connection with a central district Boy Scout court of honor Monday night in First Reformed church.

Award of the honors undoubtedly makes the Elmer Northuis family the most scout-minded family group in the area. An older son, Kenneth, received his Eagle badge two years ago, and he was given a Silver Palm for his Eagle badge in another ceremony Monday night.

Elmer Northuis, the father, is a committeeman of troop 6, sponsored by First church, besides being a Den Dad. Mrs. Northuis is a Den Mother. Nine-year-old Paul Northuis is a Cub scout.

Ben Mulder, assistant scoutmaster of troop 6, presented the Eagle awards. Mrs. Northuis pinned on the badges for her two sons and they, in turn, presented her with mother's pins.

Other awards were made by Stanley Curtis, Prof. Clarence Kleis, Peter Kromann and Lester Wassenaar. Wassenaar presided and Ken Northuis took charge of the opening ceremonies.

Music was provided by the troop 6 chorus and a quartet consisting of the three Northuis brothers and Bill Vander Yacht. The latter also sang a solo. A color film on Philmont Scout ranch in Arizona was shown.

Two Minor Accidents Reported to State Police

Grand Haven, Oct. 17 (Special)—Two minor accidents were reported to state police Monday. Both were going east on the main street of Coopersville. The front of the Gillespie's car was damaged and the rear of Vaughn's car.

At 10:30 a.m. Monday, a car driven by Leonard W. Cummings, 44, of Muskegon, in attempting to pass a truck on the right, driven by John R. Vander Wall, 63, route 2, Spring Lake, which had slowed down to make a wide right-hand turn struck the truck.

MIAA Games this Week

Hope at Kalamazoo.
Albion at Alma.
Hillsdale at Adrian.

The Hope college football eleven will play an important part in the dedication of new Angell field, pride of Kalamazoo college, when the Dutchmen journey to Kazoo to battle the Hornets in a gridiron battle on Saturday. Angell field is the first major war memorial in the United States for World War II to be completed and used. The game to be played Saturday.

HINGA TO SPEAK

M. L. Hinga, dean of men at Hope college, will be featured speaker at the K club luncheon Saturday in Kalamazoo as another homecoming event. Hinga was an outstanding athlete in his college days, winning seven letters in basketball and baseball at Kazoo college.

will serve as a Homecoming event for Kalamazoo college, the first since 1942.

A pair of wooden shoes will be at stake this week as well as the chance at the MIAA crown. Kalamazoo let down last week as an underdog Hillsdale outfit trounced them 20-0. According to Coaches Al Vanderbush and Russ Waters of Hope, Kalamazoo will be the strongest outfit they have met so far this season. Waters said Monday that Kazoo looked bad at Hillsdale but he knows for a fact that they have much more power than they showed then.

Kalamazoo as well as Hope will work from the terrifying "T" formation, the set up that has given the Hollanders so much success and glory thus far. Vanderbush will work hard on an effective pass defense because of Kazoo's vaunted aerial attack.

Kalamazoo has two games under its belt already, one against Adrian and the other Detroit Tech. The Kazooks are still trying to live down the game they lost to Hillsdale last week by such an overwhelming score. The Hollanders on the other hand have won all four of their first games by comfortable margins and according to statistics have a better than 50-50 chance of making it five straight.

The MIAA has been full of upsets and surprises this season as Hope crushed Albion decisively earlier in the season and Albion went on to beat Hillsdale 13-6. The Dales then took it out on Kalamazoo 20-0, in a drizzling rain. Therefore according to figures, if figures can be reliable, Alma and Adrian remain to bother Hope in the future and these can be eliminated by Michigan Normal's defeat of Alma 6-0 and Alma's defeat of Adrian 25-0.

Nevertheless Coach Bob Nulf of the Hornets will be working hard this week to stay in the limelight in Kalamazoo and to get Angell field off to a winning start. Nulf has been known to say that Kazoo had a tough one with Hillsdale but that one wasn't half as tough as Hope's going to be. Vanderbush of Hope is silent on the subject of winning or losing.

The Kazooks and the Dutch have a pair of wooden shoes which will go to the winner Saturday. Coach Milton Hinga of Holland had the shoes made in 1931. Since that time Kalamazoo has had the trophy most of the time, and that's where it is now, in the halls of Kazoo college. Coach Vanderbush's assignment will be to go, see and conquer the little pair of shoes and take them with him to the corridors of Hope.

Hope is hurriedly getting into shape for the Kalamazoo boys and injuries are leaving the Hopeites with only Draper and Collins, Vanderbush's two regular tackles, left on the casualty list. In the event that neither of these boys will be ready; Koop, 270 pound Holland end and Timmerman, 20 year old Grand Rapids threat, will answer the starting call.

Coach Nulf and his two assistants, Dob Grow and Pinky Warren, boast a 206 pound line against Hope's medium but scrappy 190 pound forward wall which has yielded only one touchdown this year. From a glance, Hope's backfield looks better than that of Kazoo with a combination of Yonker, Higgs, Timmer and Post hard to beat.

The Hornets are gaining the reputation of being a floundering outfit and the Hope gridders are sharpening their eye for loose balls. Kalamazoo claims Charles Stanaki, one of the highest scoring backfield in the business along with Hope's quarterback Nick Yonker and Art Timmer, local halfbacks.

Already 500 tickets have been sent to Holland for Hope students and faculty and a capacity crowd is assured.

Government by Imbeciles Must End

The above is the caption of an editorial by a former supporter of the New Deal.

Unfortunately while over the years, as your Congressman I was exposing and opposing the New Deal fallacies and the Communists' program, too many, swayed by their emotion, supported the New Deal and, with apurs and quilt, when their help was needed, rode me rather consistently, leaving some scars on my tough old hide. But that was all right. I knew they meant well.

Now, ALL in the Administration are NOT "imbeciles." Some are incompetent. Some are foolish. Some are ambitious. Some are crooks. Some are loyal and doing a good job. Others are "dogooders" who think a law will cure every evil. They never count the cost.

But back of it all are the Communists, raising hell; seeking to destroy free enterprise, overthrow our form of government—the best in the world for the common man.

As the editorial points out, we have —

"Meat markets without meat. Groceries without soap.

Auto dealers without autos. Clothing stores without clothing. Contractors without building materials.

This is the spectacle of the U.S.A. today. It is the logical result of a country trying to get along on a half free and half communistic economy."

Thank the good Lord many who supported the Administration have seen the light.

Now let's all get together and put an end to the New Deal; clean up on the Communists and all the long-haired, woolly-eyed, crazy, dreaming left-wingers in authority; get back to work and thrift and common sense.

You can personally help do this by giving me an overwhelming majority on November 5. That kind of a majority will encourage other Congressmen to aid me.

You know I will vote right and so will an overwhelming majority of Congress IF they think that is what the people want.

Sincerely,
CLARE E. HOFFMAN,
Your Representative.

Hope Tips Jaycee To Keep Record Clear of Losses

Aerial Attack Brings Dutchmen Victory In Fourth Encounter

Hope college took the measure of Grand Rapids Junior college last night, 20-0, as the locals sent three passes into the air over windswept Houseman field for touchdowns. The Hollanders scored one touchdown pass in the first quarter and two more in the final frame.

It took Hope a long time to get in the mood for last night's tilt but when they did it was "gangway Jaycees" as Hope piled up 12 first downs to five for the Raiders.

The contest moved slowly at first as the two teams exchanged punts and finally a Jaycee fumble was recovered by Davidson on the Grand Rapids 31. Ernie Post bucked his way to the 29 and on the next play Timmer dodged to the 12. Several plays later Nick Yonker passed complete to Schriemer in the end zone. Higgs' attempt for the extra point was wide and the Dutch kicked off to the Raiders sporting a 6-0 lead.

Hope started another touchdown drive near the end of the first half from their own 31. A flashy pass from Yonker to Higgs and a lateral to Koop netted the Dutch 11 yards and a first down. Dick Higgs then rifled a pass to Schriemer all the way to the Jaycee 30 yard line for a gain of 29 yards.

Several plays later Yonker passed to Higgs who was spilled on the 3, as the first half ended.

Grand Rapids Junior college came back after halftime and stalled off Holland threats until the fourth quarter. Zwemer and Emery then took turns making first downs and bringing the ball deep into the Raiders' territory. Yonker faded back to his 30 and passed to Kraai who was sprinting into the end zone as he caught the ball. Higgs converted the extra point making the score, 13-0.

Soon after Hope kicked off to the Jaycees, Boersma intercepted a pass and Hope began marching for another touchdown, this one starting from the Raider 35 yard line. Zwemer, stepping high, drove to the 21 for a first down, and one play later plunged to the 7 for another first down. De Vette rared back and laid a pass into the end zone, this time with Butler on the receiving end. Higgs again place-kicked the extra point and the Hollanders felt safe with a 20-0 lead.

The ball game ended after two punts were exchanged and Hope took possession as Appleborn intercepted a Jaycee pass on the Raider 35.

Art Timmer saw little action last night due to a broken nose he received early in the game. Timmer lost a front tooth last week and Rusty De Vette got his two front teeth knocked out last night.

The return of Bob Emery to the Hope lineup was especially noticeable as his plunges netted big gains every time. Roy Zwemer, freshman halfback, turned in a sparkling performance and he plowed his way to several local first downs.

Exhibit of Tapestries Now in Grand Rapids

During the month of October a great exhibition—"Four Centuries of Tapestry Weaving" is being presented in the Grand Rapids Art gallery. This is the most important exhibition of its kind ever to be shown in Grand Rapids and affords the public the chance to see 50 examples of the ultimate masterpieces of this great craft.

The tapestries which form this exhibit were selected after many months of research and come from outstanding private collections, cathedrals and castles in Europe. They were lent to the Grand Rapids gallery through the courtesy of French and Co. and Duveen Brothers, New York, and illustrate the best of this great art from about 1430 to 1780.

Some of the most important of these tapestries are religious in character and depict scenes from the life of Christ, the crucifixion, Old Testament stories and the life of John the Baptist. Others are historical in character or illustrations of classical stories.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m. Because of the large numbers wishing to see this exhibition the gallery is also open Monday and Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Arrangements can be made for a lecture tour for groups of 25 or more.

An annual production of nearly $500 million worth of paper and paperboard boxes and containers is required each year to package U.S. merchandise.

Miss Leona Steketee and Grand Rapids Man Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Texer

The candle-lit auditorium of Trinity Reformed church was the scene Tuesday Oct. 8 of the wedding of Miss Leona Steketee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Steketee of 69 East 21st St. and Egbert Texer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Texer of Grand Rapids.

POLITICAL MEAT

Chester Bowles (remember him?) got in his thirty cents' worth the other day when he predicted that there would be plenty of meat after election. He had evolved the nifty theory that this whole meat shortage was a political plot and nothing but a political plot. The Republicans of the nation, if Bowles is to be believed, have entered into a national conspiracy to discredit the present Democratic administration. They have clubbed together to starve the American voters into casting their votes for Republicans.

Politicians can usually make themselves believe pretty well what serves their purpose best, and apparently Chester Bowles has convinced himself that the meat shortage is wholly political. And not only that it's political but that it has been engineered by the administration's rivals.

If Chester Bowles is to be believed all the big cattle raisers on the plains of the West and the South are Republicans and that they are eager for Republican victory in November. And not the great cattle raisers only but the millions of little fellows as well, the farmers all over the nation who yearly raise a few beef cattle for the market. The meat supply produced by those little fellows is very large in the aggregate even though each farmer produces only a few hundred or at most a few thousand pounds; there are millions of such farmers.

And we are being asked to subscribe to the doctrine that all those fellows, or the preponderant majority of them, are hostile to the administration and are working for its defeat. We are supposed to assume that they have entered a national conspiracy to withhold meat from the American table until election day and that in that way they are encouraging the American voter and his wife to vote the opposition ticket.

The explanation is so pat that only a politician would be impressed by it. Chester Bowles and all sorts of other government officials have been playing political dice with the American meat supply so long that they can't see the problem as anything else than political. Meat has in fact been a political issue right along; it has never been honestly handled as an economic problem. The Washington politicians have insisted on "solving" it in terms of how it would help or harm the party. Now when they are reaping the whirlwind of the wind they have sown, the only thing they can think of is blame the opposite party. Politicians are like that.

Paul Trains for His Life Work

Acts 9:19-22; Acts 11:25-26

By Henry Geerlings

We are constantly amazed at the spirit and labor of Paul. He seems to stand head and shoulders above the other leaders in the early church. It is probably true that he left a deeper impression on the human family than any other man known to the world. There did not seem to be anything about his birth or youth that was destined to set him apart from others of his time. But in the course of events he was seen to possess such a measure of industry and talents as to chart the way to greatness. If he had chosen law or medicine, or any other of the professions he would not have been satisfied until he had reached the top.

The fellowship Paul now sought was very different from the company he had been keeping. He had been the ringleader of the avowed enemies of Jesus. Instead of being ashamed he was very proud of it. Of course he had such a forceful personality that he always stood at the head of the group with which he was identified, and when he joined the little band of disciples it was not long before he became the leader there. But for the time being he was the humble learner, the diligent student. He could not learn the first principles of the religion of Jesus and become proficient in them without getting into contact with its leaders. The disciples in Damascus were able to guide him into larger light.

The few days that Paul was with the disciples were sufficient to convince them that this was no make-believe profession of the former arch-enemy of the religion that was just taking root in the land. He was ready and willing to bear witness to the undisputed fact that this Jesus was the Messiah who was to come. It is true that a conversion like his had hardly been known up to that time. The manner of his testimony was quite enough to prove that Judaism had lost its most distinguished and capable representative.

That their bitter and capable opponent should so suddenly become their companion in the gospel was almost too much for them to believe. The evidence of the havoc he had wrought among the friends of Jesus in the holy city was so recent and bloody that they could scarcely believe their own ears and eyes. When they recalled his horrible deeds of violence they were reluctant to admit him to make him a faithful messenger of Paul's professed conversion was anything but temporary and half-hearted. It was genuine and thoroughgoing. It had been made with his eyes open and his mind alert. He discovered that the old way did not give him the reward he was looking for. He had been on the wrong track. His was a repentance that did not need to be repeated. He gave evidence of a satisfied state of mind. He had rest and peace in Christ.

But this condition only served to make him a faithful messenger of the Christ whom he had come to know. As he worked he grew, and as he grew he worked. He sought out the centers of Judaism, and with the skill of an accomplished logician and a thoroughgoing Christian, he won converts for his Lord.

Christianity never won a stronger defender of the faith than Paul. The transition from Judaism to Christianity was not easy. It is true that the Jews were looking for His advent and the methods of His establishment of His kingdom were contrary to their expectation. He came as a little child, without being attended with power and great glory, and that was a disappointment to the nation that had been in training to receive Him. They had become accustomed to the display of mighty outward secular power on the part of Rome, and they were on the lookout for something that would rival all that they had known. But as they became acquainted with the manner and method of Christ's mission, they received Him and gave Him the fullest measure of their loyalty.

It could not have been easy for a man like Paul, to join himself to the early disciples, when he discovered that they were right and he was wrong. But it must be said that when he was wrong he was honest, and when he was right he was honest. He gives us to understand that when he persecuted the Christians and dragged them to their death, he did it out of good conscience; and then when he joined their number and took his place at the head of their marching columns he was also moved with a good conscience. There is nothing particularly out of the ordinary about that. As the light dawned he moved with it. There was not at this time any doubt as to where he stood, and he stood on that same line when he faced death.

People learned to trust the gospel because they trusted its preacher. He was so earnest and unafraid. And that is the way the gospel spreads through its practitioners. Paul seemed to be the last man to realize it when he was in dire peril. It was fortunate that he had friends who looked after his interests. About the only thing they could do was to get him out of the place where danger threatened. All of this is only an indication of his zeal for the cause he espoused. His love for Jesus made him forget his own safety.

Volleys From Ambush - -

ALWAYS AN easy mark where the out-of-doors is concerned, the Ambusher loaded his family into ancient Odellia and set out on the color tour. Driving at a leisurely pace, we took in the beauty of Western Michigan between here and Traverse City, going one way and returning another. The depth and profusion of color defies description, so said description is overlooked.

Only untoward event on the whole trip was Odellia's breaking a couple of valve springs. So the trip back was accomplished at an even more leisurely rate, and with sound!

The new bleachers at Riverview park Friday night were a welcome addition for the record-breaking football crowds this season. And they were unexpectedly initiated by big Dell Koop, 270-pound Hope college tackle, who cracked one of the two-by-eight foot boards when he rose to his feet to cheer Holland high gridders in their battle against Grand Rapids Central.

Inadvertently, the Sentinel used a picture of Tony Last that has been around here much too long. In fact the files contain a better likeness of the genial head of the Retail Merchants association. But some thrifty soul saved the old one anyway. So the older likeness was used. Since every misadventure should be turned to usefulness, Ambusher passed along this request from the girl at the files—

If we have a likeness in our files that isn't flattering or up-to-date, come in and let's talk about it. Some of our files are getting out of date and the collection is a source of pride around the Sentinel.

When Paul Bagwell, Michigan State college speech professor, spoke here at the Boss and Father night staged by Holland Junior Chamber of Commerce, he made quite a hit. So in thanking him, President Willis Welling remarked it was customary for the Jaycees to give their guest speakers a pair of wooden shoes, but since Prof. Bagwell had spoken here several times he probably had enough wooden shoes and a substitute present was in order.

Bagwell came right back with the crack that he'd just as soon accept a pair of street shoes manufactured here in Holland. That brought quite a laugh.

The Ambusher noticed that A.C. Prigge and C. C. Andreassen made notes about that time and then the Ambusher heard W. A. Butler remark "I wouldn't be surprised if he gets the shoes."

Well, we put the question to A.C. the other day. Bagwell got the shoes. After the meeting broke up, shoe company dignitaries escorted the speaker to an outlet and he was fitted out with a pair of street shoes.

Bagwell, to put it conservatively, was delighted. It was a nice bit of advertising for Holland, the Jaycees and the shoe company, because the professor gets around quite a little as a speaker. Incidentally, we hear by the grapevine that several clubs are angling for another Bagwell speech. If he comes back take our advice and hear him. It's an experience you won't soon forget.

Adults are often just as tickled with gifts as children are. This was evidenced last week when the Lions club presented a car to the school system to be used in instructing ninth graders how to drive. After posing for pictures the school officials wanted a ride around the block. Neal Wiersema, Lions club president, drove.

He had just commented that he wasn't very familiar with this particular make of car. Imagine his chagrin when the car "balked" and stopped midway in the block. It was only Malcolm Mackay, driving instructor, testing the dual controls.

"Yep, they work all right," Mackay said.

It seems the teacher was discussing healthful drinks before her class of the youngest generation. Milk, it was agreed, was healthful and several small fry told about

School Head Outlines 3 Ways for Raising Money

Supt. Carroll C. Crawford outlined three possible ways for raising additional money to meet rising school costs at the monthly meeting of the Board of Education Monday night.

He listed proposed amendment No. 2 to be voted at the Nov. 5 election as the first method. This amendment is and setting up a bringing an additional $104,191.50 annually to the Holland school system, he said.

Crawford added that the Holland Teacher's club already has gone on record as favoring the amendment and is setting up a campaign to support it actively. As the second possibility, he said the legislature is considering boosting the school aid appropriation to $75,000,000, if amendment No. 2 is defeated. This action would bring to Holland an additional $39,000.

As the third possibility, he said the needed funds could be raised locally by increased assessed valuation. He said millage should be raised under all three possibilities, although if the amendment passes, the millage required to establish a building fund could be considerably lower.

Should the amendment pass, Holland would receive about $33,000 on the present school year, Crawford said.

No action was taken by the board Monday night. Trustee Albert E. Van Lente objected to the procedure which puts the issue into a constitutional amendment.

Mrs. Kenneth De Pree said there were too many conflicting opinions on the subject for decisive action by the board.

Crawford emphasized that additional funds must be procured through one of the three ways to insure retaining teachers of present high caliber in the Holland school system.

Leading turkey-raising states are Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio, Minnesota, and Texas.

Sons of Revolution Open Current Season

Leon N. Moody, in a timely paper on "Michigan Hi-Y Thinking on State Legislation," Monday night in the home of C. C. Wood at Waukazoo, told Holland chapter, Sons of the Revolution, that the youth from 16 to 18 years of age are doing some constructive thinking about problems of the present age in regard to labor and industry, taxation, school appropriations, conservation and public health.

The meeting was the first of the season for the chapter. In the absence of Regent E. P. McLean who was out of the city, Clifford B. Hopkins, newly elected vice-regent, presided.

During the business session a report by the prize essay committee was heard, and Simeon L. Henkle, membership chairman, presented application papers of several new members which were approved by the society. A full and interesting report of the General society triennial meeting in June at St. Louis, Mo., was presented by the general delegate, Dr. A. C. V. R. Gilmore, secretary.

Mr. Wood, in the feature, "My Impressions," gave support to the report on Michigan's youth activities. A discussion followed.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wood.

Georgetown Man Says Aviation Aid to Farms

Charles S. Lowing
Has Spent Whole Life
In Ottawa County

Charles S. Lowing can be classed as a farmer's farmer. The 230 acres he operates is across from where his father was born in 1844 and that is a long time ago. Mr. Lowing himself was born across the road from his present farm and he has spent his entire life in the Georgetown township area.

The Lowing farm is a model of what good husbandry can make of the soil. With Mrs. Lowing, the former Nellie Berger, he lives in a comfortable home, charmingly furnished and as modern as any urban home.

Charles S. Lowing

They care for a herd of 30 guernseys. On the farm they attempt to raise enough feed for their herd, buying only "concentrates." The farm crops are oats, alfalfa and corn. There is also a 2-acre orchard.

Mr. Lowing has served several terms as chairman of the Ottawa county board of supervisors, although politics is definitely a sideline with him.

Some 13 years ago he entered politics at the insistence of "friends."

"Of course every politician says that," Mr. Lowing grinned, "but it's the truth. Some of my friends insisted I enter the race and so I did. And I haven't regretted my decision. I have had fine treatment, met a lot of sincere people and made many good friends."

"The Lowing formula for success in dairy cattle is to have a blooded sire to gradually improve the herd, but Mr. Lowing found from experience that blooded cattle didn't necessarily give more or better milk than his regular stock."

And, though he definitely keeps his feet on the ground in farming, he still has his eyes in the clouds. He feels there is a great future in aviation—and for farmers.

Flying crops to market in their own planes might be one answer to heavy freight costs. He says too much of the growers' income goes to trucking costs.

Air minded for several years, Lowing was chairman of a special supervisors' committee which was instrumental in building the $10,000 hangar at Park township airport three years ago. He was given special recognition for his efforts at the time by Charles R. Sligh, Jr., who served as master of ceremonies at an air show when the hangar was dedicated.

Right now he is a little worried over the price of celery. There has been a wonderful crop of celery in Georgetown township, but many growers aren't harvesting their crop because of low prevailing prices.

But, flying or not, Mr. Lowing thinks there is no occupation that compares with farming for giving a full life.

Civic Theatre Play to Be Presented Locally

Patrick Hamilton's famous melodrama, "Angel Street," the play which opened in London under the title of "Gaslight," and became an overnight success on Broadway, thrilling capacity audiences for more than two years, will be presented in Holland on Thursday, Nov. 7, by the Grand Rapids Civic theatre.

The production, to be staged in the Woman's Literary club, will be sponsored locally by Holland branch, American Association of University Women.

Committees for the Holland performance will be announced at the next meeting of the branch, to be held Thursday, Oct. 17, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. J. W. McKenna at Waukazoo.

Chamber Pushes Aviation Measure

Extensive plans for complete distribution of informational data for the constitutional amendment on aviation in each part of Ottawa county are now underway, according to Mr. Willis A. Diekema, president of the Holland Chamber of Commerce and former chairman of the airport committee.

Mr. Diekema said further that reasons for the intensive campaign were to acquaint each voter in the county with the constitutional amendment proposal No. 1, which will be on the ballot Nov. 5. This amendment, if adopted, will authorize the state of Michigan to participate in the establishment of public airports.

"According to polls made in the past, the average voter has had a tendency to vote a cautious 'no' on constitutional amendments when he was not familiar with them and," Mr. Diekema said "this is an Amendment which must be voted on favorably this fall, because the future development of aviation in Michigan hinges upon its passage."

Adventists Study Material Needs Of World Church

Autumn Conference Opens With Address By World Leader

Grand Rapids, Oct. 17.—"The finishing of the work of the gospel in the earth does not depend on huge budgets or vast appropriations," declared Elder J. L. McElhany, in opening the annual autumn council of Seventh-day Adventists at the civic auditorium here last night.

Addressing more than 600 delegates assembled from all parts of North America and a number of overseas divisions, Elder McElhany, president of the Adventist world organization, urged a universal revival of prayer and a renewed consecration to Christian service.

While expecting that the council will vote the largest budget in the history of the church for its world missionary operations, the president urged that confidence be placed not in material things, but in the power of God "for the finishing of His work in the earth."

Among Michigan delegates to the council is Elder E. R. Reynolds, district pastor, Holland. Presidents of 14 Adventist colleges in North America, representing more than 8,000 students, among them many veterans preparing for foreign mission service, at an educational meeting yesterday pledged their loyalty to the principles of Christian education on which their schools were founded.

The daily program of the council will begin with a devotional period at 8:30 in the morning and a business session from 9:45 to 12:30. Council and committee work will fill the afternoon and evening.

This white pillared church, erected in 1856 hardly 10 years after the arrival of the Dutch colonists, was one of the few structures that escaped destruction in the $900,000 fire which swept Holland on the early morning of Oct. 9, 1871. Van Vleck hall on Hope college campus is another building which was spared and still stands. The church, now known as Ninth Street Christian Reformed church, was First Reformed church at the time of the fire. From 1847 to 1850 it existed independently. In 1850, the church affiliated with the Reformed Church in America which relation was severed in 1882. From 1882 to 1884, it was again independent, and in 1884 it joined the Christian Reformed denomination.

Holland Almost Totally Destroyed By Big Fire Seventy-Five Years Ago

Wednesday marked the 75th anniversary of the big Holland fire. It was on a Monday morning from 1 to 3 a.m. that fire swept from smoldering forests southwest of the city leaving in its wake destruction estimated at $900,000.

Loss of human life was limited to one aged widow, Mrs. J. Tolik, who lived in a house on Ninth St. Property loss included more than 353 buildings, 250 head of livestock and left 300 families without shelter.

According to an account of the fire written by Gerrit Van Schelven in 1893 in the "Historical and Business Compendium of Ottawa County," the city had experienced an uninterupted drought for many weeks preceding the fire.

Woods and muckland had been on fire for many weeks and by hard labor, the southeastern part of the city was saved from these forest fires the week before the conflagration.

On Sunday afternoon, Oct. 8, the atmosphere was very oppressive and sultry and at intervals fine ashes showered over the city. These ashes were subsequently explained as the first messengers of the great fire that swept Chicago that Sunday afternoon.

At 2 p.m. the wind turned southwesterly and the fire alarm was rung from the Third church bell. As night advanced the wind increased in force until it hit hurricane proportions at midnight sweeping fire from the woods with alarming velocity toward the city.

Huge bark piles at the Cappon and Bertsch tannery in the western and Third Reformed church in the then southern part of the city were among the first points attacked.

Then the wind turned west, forcing the fire toward the center and eastern part of the town, and within two hours the entire devastation was accomplished. The grounds of Hope college, somewhat isolated as they were, seemed to be the only spot where one could escape with his life. Many took to the waters of Black lake, escaping in small boats. Population of Holland at the time was 2,400.

The number of buildings destroyed follows: Dwellings, 210; stores, shops and offices, 75; manufacturing, 15; churches, 5; hotels, 3; miscellaneous buildings, 45; docks and warehouses, 5; one tug and several boats.

Over 250 dead horses, cattle and swine were found in the burned district. A canceled bank check, partly burned, drawn by the firm of De Jonge, Van Schelven and Ogel, upon Nathan Kenyon, banker, was picked up the next day on a farm in Tallmadge township 25 miles away.

The fire swept the heart of the city, the business portion, etc. What was left was a strip of houses along the extreme western and southern parts of the city all south of 10th and east of Market Sts., and nearly the entire first ward; also Hope college, Plummer Mill, Heald's Planing Mill, Union school, First Reformed church, Holland Christian Reformed church on Market St., the railroad depots and the old town house.

Only about $100,000 of the $900,000 loss was covered by insurance and only a part was recovered inasmuch as many insurance companies were rendered insolvent by the great Chicago fire.

Nor was the calamity limited to the city. Damage also was great in Holland township as well as Fillmore and Laketown townships in Allegan county.

No trains could enter the city since the bridge on the line of the then Michigan Lake Shore Railroad had been destroyed. Grand Haven friends unloaded provisions and other stores on the northern banks of Black river to be distributed among Holland's hungry people.

The provisions were not only what grocery and bakery could instantly supply, but the kitchen and pantry also were emptied. A loaf of bread partly cut, a solitary biscuit, doughnuts, part of a roast were among the supplies.

The general conflagration of Oct. 8 and 9, 1871, embraced not only Holland and Chicago, but also Pestigo, Wis., Manistee and Port Sheldon, and other locations in Michigan.

As news of destruction here became generally known, aid and relief were liberally forwarded. The Board of Supervisors made ample provision for a destitution feared during the approaching winter, but thanks to a generous public, it was never needed. A new assessment roll of Holland city was ordered.

Gov. Baldwin visited Holland and other burned districts in the state to determine whether state aid would be needed. Abundance of voluntary relief, however, rendered this also unnecessary.

A local relief committee consisted of Dr. B. Ledebor, chairman; H. D. Post, secretary; K. Schadelee, treasurer; Dr. A. C. Van Raalte, Philip Phelps, C. Scott, A. T. Stewart, R. K. Heald, Dr. S. L. Morris, H. Meengs, J. O.

Doessburg, G. Wakker, E. Heald and G. Van Schelven.

Holland township appointed W. Diekema, J. H. Boone and D. Medema. At Grand Rapids a general relief committee was appointed by Gov. Baldwin to distribute aid through the western part of the state.

Laborers connected with the receiving and distributing of supplies were kept up during the greater part of the winter with the town house as headquarters. Lumber and building material, hardware, provisions, clothing household goods and furniture were sent in large quantities. Liberality of the railroad companies in furnishing free transportation was an important item.

Through Dr. John L. See of New York, treasurer of the board of education of the Reformed church, a cash fund of about $10,000 was collected from friends in the east and the sister colony at Pella, Ia. Kin across the sea also responded.

Work of rebuilding Holland kept up uninterruptedly although rebuilding in Chicago created a large demand for all kinds of building material and a corresponding increase in prices. Close upon this period came the general shrinkage in values caused by the panic of 1873, reducing the assets and valuation of the rebuilt city fully 50 per cent without lessening liabilities and incumbrances incurred, all drawing interest at the then prevailing rate of 10 per cent.

Holland Club Stages Successful Field Trial With Ideal Weather

Ideal fall weather marked the setting for the annual field trial held Saturday and Sunday under the auspices of the Holland Pointer and Setter club with autumn decked woods outlining one running course and stocked corn and bean grass the others. Nearly 50 bird dogs were entered in the event.

Although cool weather and threatening skies tended to keep the public at home, it provided the best conditions for running the various stakes. It is estimated that 500 dog lovers witnessed the two day event.

The novice all age (for club members only) started the meet Saturday with Marv Den Herder's pointer, Village Comanche, winning first place. Art White's ranging pointer, Village Boy King, took second and Ted's Lady View, a pointer owned by Ted Kohn, was judged third.

The puppy stake followed immediately and provided the gallery with amusements with their playful antics and frequent seemingly clumsy tumbles. Tony Boumans punt sizek English Setter, Mo-Bee Ducks (Nicola), topped first honors. Bernie Waterway's pointer, Fighting Lady, placed second and Chet Nykerk's pointer, Freeklies ran third.

Saturday afternoon's running was devoted to the derby stake with a maximum limit of 22 months allowance on these entries.

All derby prizes went to out-of-town entries with L. Van Wagoner's classy English setter, Sir Michael Essig, of Flint being judged first and with this won an attractive trophy. Seaview Lexy Giner, a smooth running pointer owned by W. Presley of Grand Haven ran a close second and Ed Engle also of Grand Haven with his pointer, Egyptian Seaview Patsy took third place.

Sunday's event, the open all age, got off to a good start with the first brace being let off the leashes at 9 a.m. With many dogs entered and a lot of things to keep account of the judges were quick to spot any false pointings, breaking of points and other demerits which were all marked down against the offending entry.

However when the final brace had been run and the judges handed in their decisions it was Art White's staunch and well-mannered orange and white male pointer, Village Boy Ace, who got their nod for first place honors. He received a fitting dog statue mounted on a trophy along with his first place ribbon.

Pushing White's entry but receiving second place was a black ticked English setter of Muskegon, Danny's Mohawk Chief owned by W. Jansiewicz. Jack Renninga with his liver and white-pointing or, Kilcare Belle, received third place.

Furniture Strike Set for Monday

A strike by CIO workers at the Holland Furniture Co., originally scheduled for Thursday, was postponed today until next Monday to allow further negotiations between union and management.

Notice of the strike has been filed with the state mediation board in Lansing. State Labor Conciliator P. J. Malarney has been assigned to the case, according to United Press.

Frank G. Aman, president of United Furniture Workers, local 426, said today that the dispute is over wages and alleged company failure to recognize union rights. He said the union is asking a 25-cent-an-hour increase in wages.

Aman indicated the strike was postponed on request of management to allow further negotiations. The state mediator is expected here the latter part of the week, Aman said. Management made no comment today.

The almost legendary Columbus adventure has supplied artistic intuition for generations of painters. In this painting, Columbus, looking just a little too prissy for a crusty sea adventurer, endures the mutiny alleged to have occurred shortly before his tiny fleet raised land. The fingers of his right hand appear to be crossed. This of course isn't much of a defense against the grasping gentleman at his left who has set aside his iron hat to deliver a 10-count blow.

Columbus Started It All 454 Years Ago

Just 454 years ago, Christopher Columbus (Cristoforo Colombo) "discovered" America when he sighted an island (Guanahani) in the Bahamas supposed to have been San Salvador.

But according to Prof. Luis Ulloa, director of the Peruvian National library in Lima, Columbus first visited America on a voyage with Danish corsairs who sailed from Iceland to Greenland, Labrador, Newfoundland, and the American continent.

Columbus is believed to be the son of a wool weaver of Genoa, Italy, belonging to a family of converted Jews which had settled about 1391 in Genoa, having come from Catalonia, Spain, where the name was Colon.

The family also had dwelt in Castile, under the name of Colon, and Cristoforo became Cristobal. Columbus was a Catholic. On his first West Indian voyage, he left 40 of his men to found the colony of Navidad, probably on the north coast of Haiti. When he returned in December, 1493, there was no sign of the colony and all the Spaniards were gone.

But whatever differences scholars may have about the story of Columbus, it is pretty well established that his courageous voyages pointed the way westward. Men of equal courage also turned their eyes on the western hemisphere, which ultimately offered sanctuary for the oppressed, crowded, hopeless of Europe.

This refuge was not created overnight, but was the gradually and sometimes stormy evolution of reason and politics. Still, no matter what her shortcomings, America stands as the light and hope of common people the world over.

She's still Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean!
