Ottawa Welfare Director Okayed By Supervisors

Board Sets Jan. 1 as
Date Van Volkenburgh
Takes Over Position

Grand Haven, Oct. 27 (Special)—Supervisors Monday approved appointment of James Van Volkenburgh of Holland as director of the Social Welfare commission, effective Jan. 1, 1950.

This action was the result of a heated discussion last Friday when announcement of Van Volkenburgh's appointment was announced, effective Dec. 1. The earlier appointment would credit Van Volkenburgh with prior service on the retirement program.

Van Volkenburgh appeared before the board and said any date was agreeable to him and the other two members of the welfare board. He added he did not know the earlier date would entitle him to past service on pensions.

The board also approved salary increases for welfare employees as follows: Van Volkenburgh, $3,600 instead of the $2,600 paid the present director, Gerrit Zaagman; A. R. Van Raalte, $2,800 to $3,000; case supervisor Nelia De Groot, $2,640 to $2,730; the stenographer, clerk Isla Teusink, $1,580 to $1,670. These increases were not listed in the budget as presented last week.

Casting dissenting votes on salary approval were Supervisors John Galien, Simon De Boer and Orlan S. Cross of Holland and Albert Stegenga of Olive township.

Supervisor Charles E. Misner of Grand Haven introduced Jacob Ponstein of the law firm of Misner and Ponstein as the new state member of the Social Welfare commission, appointed by the state last Friday.

The board adjourned, subject to call of the chair.

Man Bound Over On Break-in Count

Grand Haven, Oct. 27 (Special)—Donald Matzen, 21, Grand Rapids, charged with breaking and entering in the night time, was bound over to the Ottawa Circuit Court, upon examination before Justice George V. Hoffer Monday afternoon and is scheduled to appear the opening day of the November term of Court, Nov. 21.

Bond was reduced from $1,000 to $500.

Matzen, in company with Melvin Bulk and James Huffman, both of Grand Rapids, is alleged to have broken into the Ford Garage at Coopersville June 5, and allegedly took automobile accessories, such as foglights, spotlights, tires, tubes and seat covers.

James Huffman, 18, Grand Rapids, at present confined in the Kent county jail charged with several burglary jobs, was the main witness for the prosecution Monday afternoon.

Luther Mulder, co-owner and manager of the Coopersville garage, also testified.

Grand Haven, Oct. 27 (Special)—Mrs. John Pierson, 78, died at her home, 420 Adams St., Monday night, after a long illness. She was baptized and confirmed in the Swedish Lutheran church.

Parking Lot Lighted

A floodlight has been installed at the municipal parking lot on West Seventh St., behind the police station. Purpose of the illumination is to encourage motorists to park in the lot after dark. A similar light is planned at the other municipal lot on West Ninth St.

Meet the newlyweds! Here are bewhiskered 92-year-old Leroy Irwin of Watson township and his 62-year-old bride, the former Mary Mathews Sage. Scheduled to be married this afternoon, they stole a march on reporters and said their "I do's" Thursday afternoon before the Rev. H. A. Cole, of East Allegan Wesleyan Methodist church. Last year, Irwin figured he'd die in 1950 and carved his tombstone accordingly. Now he's taken on a new lease on life and doesn't care if the date is wrong.

Farmer Starts Life Anew At 92; His Bride Is 62

Allegan, Oct. 27 (Special)—Leroy Irwin thinks he was a little premature about setting up his tombstone.

He's the 92-year-old Watson township farmer who last year erected his own gravestone engraved: Born 1856—Died 1950. He was afraid no one would attend to having the final date inscribed.

But the bewhiskered farmer has begun life anew. He was scheduled to wed Mary Mathews Sage, 62, this Monday, but the couple stole a march and had the knot tied last Thursday by the Rev. H. A. Cole of East Allegan Wesleyan Methodist church. Mrs. Cole and her daughter, Ellen, were the witnesses. A short wedding trip Saturday to Battle Creek was the couple's honeymoon.

"A motion for the chairman to appoint a special committee to contact several other counties on what they are doing on roadwork with townships and to investigate the inefficiency of our road system and report back to the board in January."

It was supported by Watson's Carl Strand and Cheshire's James Hoyt.

Hoyt told the board he had been informed that a citizens action committee was forming to make such an investigation if the board did not.

"They have facts and figures they intend to publish, I was told and they seem to be pretty well organized."

"I've got to go back to my people and make a painful apology if I can't bring back anything definite on the road situation."

Several supervisors suggested he bring the unidentified person before the board. The following vote ended with 13 "no" votes and 12 "yes." Some members were absent.

The first motion was offered early in the session by Strand, but was never supported.

The board meets again at 10 a.m. Monday.

Earlier in the week, the roads and bridges committee made an oral report to the board indicating its satisfaction with county road affairs.

Local Club Hears Dr. R. Oudersluys

American education will largely determine the fate of the world in the coming few decades, Dr. Richard C. Oudersluys told the Social Progress club Tuesday night.

"Whether for better or for worse, we must face the fact that as America goes, so goes the world. We have wealth, resources, scientific knowledge and technical skill which can be employed for the good or ill of the world. This should compel Americans to cease trifling with the whole matter of public education, lower and higher," he said.

Dr. Oudersluys analyzed a report on American education prepared at request of President Truman. Three controversial factors were then presented and discussed: (1) Theory of education for every citizen to 14th grade through community colleges, (2) inadequacy of present educational philosophy and system, and (3) hostility of American education to Protestantism and significant growth of parochial education.

The speaker said that failure of responsible citizens to face these and other educational problems could lead to tragic consequences, not only for Americans, but for the world.

The meeting was conducted by C. E. Drew. It was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Randall C. Bosch, 196 West 10th. Guests were Dr. Gerrit T. Vander Lugt, president of Central college, Pella, Iowa; State Senator John B. Martin, Jr., Grand Rapids; and Kenneth De Free, Holland.

Supervisors Hear Answers to TB Clinic Charges

Sanatorium Chairman
Defends Criticisms
Hurled Last Week

Grand Haven, Oct. 27 (Special)—Ottawa supervisors received answers to a lot of questions about the Muskegon TB sanatorium Friday afternoon when Fred Winter, chairman of the sanatorium's board of trustees, appeared in defense of criticism recently made by patients against existing practices.

"We don't claim to have the best sanatorium in the state but we're trying to do the best we can under a curtailed budget. Possibly our medical director has been too conscientious in adhering to the budget and sometimes it was necessary to urge him to exceed the budget to give better service," Winter said.

He said the board was aware of the situation before it became an issue in newspapers last week. He pointed out standards require one doctor to 50 patients and Muskegon has one to 70 or 75 patients. Attempts have been made to obtain an assistant with no results.

He said the building was in good shape and was fireproof although not the type that would be built today.

"Conditions in the sanatorium are possibly as good as they could be under all the circumstances connected with it. It is being improved and will continue to be improved at every opportunity."

Answering Supervisor Henry Slaughter's question in regard to rudeness on the part of a doctor and nurse, Winter said Dr. E. W. Gaikema is a competent TB man, one of the best in the state. "Like most of us, he isn't perfect. He has a little tendency sometimes to be abrupt and we have cautioned him about it and asked him to encourage an air of friendliness. We have also asked him to caution the help."

Winter said he has on file a statement signed by more than half of the patients saying they are satisfied with conditions. Answering O. S. Cross, he said he had not seen the letter signed by 14 patients which was sent to the board.

"Dr. Ralph Ten Have, director of the Ottawa health department, told the board Dr. Gaikema comes to Grand Haven and Holland once a month and 'his services have been excellent so far as TB is concerned.'"

Why School Improvements? Here Are Some Answers

Runquist and Arthur C. Hill also teach instrumental lessons. Here the speech correctionist also holds classes on certain days. When used for these purposes, the room is not available for physical education purposes.

WITH 50 children in kindergarten necessitating two first grades next year, and with only one sixth grade leaving the building, it is logical to assume this small gym may be used for another school room. This would put three classrooms in the basement, and while basement rooms have been considerably improved the last year or two, the situation is far from ideal.

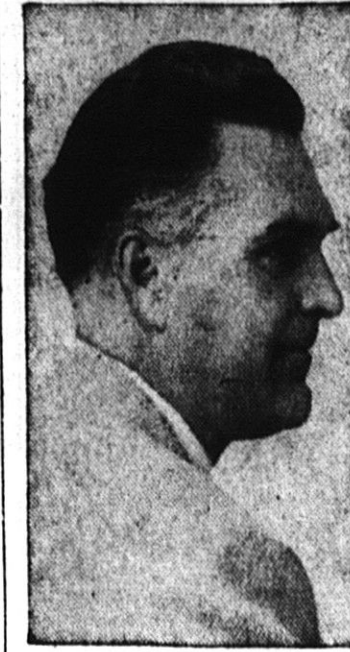

In Longfellow school, teachers have sacrificed their rest room a long time ago to make room for a school office. And this tiny room also is used for private conferences with parents and other business, leaving the school secretary to a pillar-to-post-to-hall existence.

Perhaps a lack felt most keenly is the absence of room for a school library which would give pupils experience in book procedures. Each room has its own shelves of books, but the child misses the "fun" of having access to books in the masses.

"Parents want their children to have more advantages than they had when they went to school," Miss Kooyers said. "They want their children to have music lessons. They want them to develop a love for good books. To accomplish this we need the facilities."

SHE SAID several sixth graders had been transferred to other schools because of an overflow

Miss All Those Prison Turmoils? Thank Brooks

Ernest C. Brooks

A Holland man has apparently brought peace to the Michigan Penal system after years of turmoil and periodic investigations.

Ernest C. Brooks, commissioner of corrections, and other corrections officials met Thursday in Lansing with wardens and chief clerks and drafted more liberal regulations governing prisoners.

Absent from the meeting was the bickering which has marked such conferences. Otherwise some body was always investigating something.

Commissioner Brooks said inmates now will be allowed to drive trucks for short hauls by themselves. He said an expanded camp program had cut the number of guards. Formerly a guard had to ride with each truck driver.

Rewards for capture of escapees also were standardized. Rewards for capture of walk-aways were pegged at $50. Prisoners escaping from officers going over the walls will have $100 placed on their heads.

Powers to raise rewards to $500 in special cases was granted the commissioner.

In addition prisoners getting out at the end of their maximum sentence through good time will be considered by the commissioner instead of parole board action.

Commissioner Brooks also said the attorney general will no longer provide free services for inmates.

Handcuffs and chains on trustees being transported to another institution will be banned in the future Brooks said.

In another step to standardize operations, wardens will have to keep a daily log of their activities, the officials decided.

Purchase of an ambulance also was approved. Brooks said that all surgical cases now are being treated at Jackson prison and the ambulance was needed for their safe transportation.

The charter revision commission concerned itself with net profits from operation of the electric utility at a meeting Thursday night.

After a lengthy discussion, the commissioners went on record in favor of "setting up a reserve account for depreciation reserves, plus part of the net profits."

This money could be spent by the Board of Public Service, if council approves.

It was suggested that the amount of net profits from the utility be determined by a committee composed of the city manager, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, mayor, two or three BPS members and one outsider.

However, no definite action was taken on the committee make-up. All net profits realized from operation of the utility would go back to council and the city fathers would set up the reserve fund under the centralized auditing system approved earlier for the proposed new city law.

And it was suggested that the BPS determine electric rates for approval by council.

George Sidwell, charter consultant, will write the ideas into chapters for incorporation into the proposed new charter. After they are written, they will be studied again by the commission.

In other action passed at Thursday's meeting, the commission voted to continue the requirement that the BPS submit an annual budget to the manager for submission to, and approval by council.

This is identical with the present procedure, except the commission added a payroll schedule must be included with the budget.

It was suggested that net electric utilities profits be poured back into the general fund, and then council would put half the amount into the reserve fund.

Benny Tumbarello, 21, of Akron, O., paid a $20 fine in municipal court Monday for failing to yield the right of way.

The fine dates back to Aug. 26 when he was involved in an accident at the intersection of 13th St. and Van Raalte Ave.

Casmer Pisula, 38, of Pell Lake, Wis., paid $10 for not yielding the right of way to a pedestrian. Jack Hobeck, 18, of 1899 South Shore Dr., and John A. DeVries, 22, of 24 East 17th St., each paid $6 for not yielding the right of way.

Theodore Elzinga, 18, of 578 West 18th St., paid $8 for not keeping an assured clear distance and for not having a muffler. Riding two on a bicycle cost Don Culver, 19, of 166 East Seventh St., $5.

Dales Edge Hope In Close Contest By 13-9 Margin

Dutchmen Fall Short
Of Hillsdale Goal
On Three Occasions

Hillsdale's title-bound Bearcats spoiled Hope's homecoming by bouncing the Dutchmen from the undefeated collegiate ranks 13-9 Saturday afternoon at Riverview park.

The out-of-town experts who write, but rarely see a game, had billed the game as a duel between Runner Bill Young and Passer Nick Yonker. And the story of the game could be written that way if one wanted to ignore the wind and 20 other players.

Yonker passed for Hope's lone touchdown, while Young raced a neat 37 yards for one of Hillsdale's vital markers, from which must be subtracted two points handed Hope when alert End Claire De Muck tackled Young behind his own goal line.

But the game was lost when Hope failed to develop a running attack. The passing accounted for 104 yards and put Hope in scoring position several times, but the backs couldn't capitalize through the bulky Dale defensive line.

Young carried the ball just five times from scrimmage. He made 55 yards on five tries, but one was for 37 yards and a score when he broke through Hope's left end and raced goalward on a naked reverse. Nobody came close to him.

23 New Voters Sign Up in City

Twenty-three new voters registered to cast ballots in the Nov. 1 special school election. Deadline for new registrations was Saturday at 8 p.m. The city clerk's office was open until that time.

In the election, the board of education asks voters to increase the millage enough to raise $650,000. The money would be used to erect a new Lincoln grade school and to build additions onto Van Raalte and Longfellow schools.

A "yes" vote favors the question and a "no" vote means disfavor.

The clerk's office also reports that 30 persons changed addresses before the election.

Budget Is Higher

Grand Haven, Oct. 27 (Special)—The Ottawa county Board of Supervisors re-adopted the 1950 budget Friday because of an error in the reported budget of the County Board of Education which was originally presented at $18,700 instead of $25,400. The $18,700 included only salaries and mileage. The change will not affect the millage to be spread but will reduce the surplus by $6,700. The addition boosts the total budget to $430,339.17.

Morley Suggests Passersby Buy Apples at Farms

Oversupply Is Problem In Allegan Fruit Belt; Storage Not Available

Allegan, Oct. 27 (Special) — If some of the thousands of people who drive through Allegan county's fruit belt every day would stop at a farmhouse and buy a few apples, the serious problem of over-supply could be greatly alleviated.

This was the suggestion today of County Agent A. D. Morley. He said with storage facilities not able to take half of the good quality apples of the county, farmers are taking disastrous losses.

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away" is a slogan we should keep in mind right now," the agent remarked. "As a remedy or just good food, it's at bargain prices right now."

Travelers through the area will find apples available for sale at from 50 cents a bushel for windfalls up to $1.25 for the best varieties.

The windfalls are not to be ignored for family use, Morley said. A serious windstorm last week put hundreds of bushels of good sound apples on the ground. A passerby with a basket and a few minutes to pick them up can get them for almost nothing.

The plight of local growers was demonstrated when one farmer told the agent he made up a truckload of apples, sold them for $40. By the time he considered the labor involved plus the cost of materials to produce the fruit, he couldn't figure any profit at all.

While city visitors can't be expected to raise the market price, they can get a supply for themselves and cut the waste of the rotting fruit, Morley said. Citrus fruits and bananas will be in short supply this year and apples can take their places, he added.

Hope Dramatic Society Gives Hit Performance

A brilliant performance by all cast members, an authentic setting and excellent costuming marked opening night Thursday of "The Show Off," produced by Pallette and Masque, Hope college dramatic society. An appreciative audience filled the Little Theater in the Science building for the initial presentation at 8:30 p.m.

Convincing characterizations were presented by all members of the cast. Stars, however, were Marvin Meyyans, as Aubrey Piper, the "show off," and Barbara Woods, as Mrs. Fisher, the loquacious mother.

Meyyans succeeded in making the audience cringe at his audacity and laugh at his exaggerated antics. Miss Woods, who had to chatter continually throughout each scene, had mastered all the mannerisms of an aged woman.

Both were well made-up for the roles. Miss Woods with graying hair and spectacles and matronly clothes, and Meyyans with hair parted down the middle, and dapper clothes of the late 1920's. Both remained in character throughout the entire performance.

Amy Silcox, as Amy, Aubrey Piper's wife and the Fishers' daughter, plays the romantic lead. Her persistence in defending the "show off" and her rebellion against the family members are well conveyed. Clara, the Fishers' other married daughter, is played by Phyllis Leach. Their shapeliness, long-waisted dresses, which were stylish in their day, made a big hit with the audience.

David Karsten plays the role of the inventive Joe Fisher, and Bernard Yurash appears as the harrassed father, Mr. Fisher. Other supporting roles are played by Henry Parsons, as Mr. Gill, and Roger Gunn, as Mr. Rogers.

All action takes place in the Fisher home.

Prof. Edward Avison, director of Hope dramas, directs the play and James Bennett is stage manager.

The play will be repeated to-night and Saturday night. Curtain time is 8:30. Palette and Masque is giving the production as part of the college homecoming festivities this week-end.

Safety Program Drafted for New Allegan School

Allegan, Oct. 27 (Special) — Parents of the fourth grade pupils attending school in the Legion hall were asked today to co-operate in a special noon-hour safety program in a letter issued by Arthur A. Kaechele, superintendent of schools.

Pointing out that the emergency school room is located downtown, Kaechele reminded parents of the traffic dangers if children are allowed to roam downtown during their lunch period.

The small play yard fenced off in the municipal parking lot is far too small for active play, he said, which tends to set the youngsters to wandering the streets.

Parents were given the choice of three plans. As many children as possible are urged to go home for lunch and to be kept there until 10 minutes to 1; others may take their lunch or buy their lunch at the Dawson school, going in a group accompanied by their teachers; or, if designated by the parents, remain at the Legion home unsupervised during the hour.

Kaechele said students who could not go home at noon could get a complete hot lunch at the Dawson for $1 per week. Those who carry their lunch can purchase milk at two cents per bottle. In addition, the walk to the school would give the youngsters their necessary outdoor exercise and take up most of the troublesome noon-hour period.

High School Beats St. Joseph Bears, Second-Half Rain

Substitutes Account For Three Markers; Pigskin Is Slippery

Holland high's football team thundered five loud times before a halftime deluge made a soggy mess of Wells field in St. Joseph. Those five bursts plus two follow-ups gave the Dutch a 32-0 victory over the St. Joe Bears Friday night.

After the showers during the half had made the field a messy quagmire, both teams ran the slippery ball up and down the field with neither being able to score.

The ball oozed out of ball carrier's hands eight times during that second half and uniforms were coated with mud, until reserves with clean uniforms looked out of place.

The Stupkamen now have a season record of four victories and two defeats.

Holland boomed from the start and had St. Joe behind the eight ball after five plays from scrimmage.

Bob Tasma kicked off to open the game, Dave Clark caught the pigskin on the Bear six and ran to the 21. There, he fumbled and Joe Fendt and Roger Hill recovered.

Five plays and one first down later, Tasma crashed over left tackle for a score. Fendt smacked left guard for the conversion.

St. Joe took the kickoff and marched right down the field to Holland's 41 where a 15-yard penalty set the home team back on its own 45.

With fourth down, Clark went back and punted to Holland's Tom Carey, standing on his own 20. Carey juggled the ball and it hit the ground.

However, with St. Joe players bearing down for the tackle, Carey got underway and cut through a maze of players, headed for the sidelines and raced 80 yards for a touchdown. The speedy sophomore back outran the entire St. Joe team.

Tasma plunged for the point but Holland was penalized back to the 17. A pass failed and the score stood at Holland 13, St. Joe 0.

Three plays after the Holland kickoff, Tasma swooped in and intercepted Leroy Dorow's pass on the St. Joe 45 and ran to the 34. Carey, Ron Dalman and Tasma took the ball to the St. Joe one from where Dalman scored on a buck through left guard Carey made the conversion on a play through guard.

Midway in the second period, Holland had the ball on its own 42. Dick Draper faded on a pass play and with the St. Joe line almost on top of him, heaved a long pass down the field. Second string end Roger Eggers, who came into the game one play previous caught the ball on a dead run on the St. Joe 36. Eggers galloped goalward with a St. Joe man right behind.

Eggers galloped to the three-yard line where he was tackled and stretched over for the score. The plunge for point was short.

A few plays before the end of the first half, Clark went back in punt formation for St. Joe on his own 25. The center was wide and before he could get the kick off, he was downed and the ball went over to Holland. One pass failed.

On the next play, Draper faded and lobbed a pass to Dalman who was standing all alone on the St. Joe 13. He ran the rest of the way untouched. Again the plunge was no good. The half ended with the score 32-0.

St. Joe didn't penetrate past Holland's 39-yard line in that first half.

On the mud-smeared field in the second half, both teams go drives underway but costly fumbles halted each threat in turn. The Bears slid their way to Holland's 13 and 15 on two occasions in that second half, but fumbles wiped out the threats.

Jack Hobeck, Jack Kuipers, Roger Hill, Joe Fendt, Dick Draper and Tom Carey were Holland's standouts. Ron Bekius, doing most of the signal calling and ball handling, was good.

Coach Bob Stupka emptied his bench in the second half. He used 34 men.

For St. Joe, Dave Clark was the best man on the field as he carried the mail two out of each three plays. Other St. Joe standouts were Fred Beckman and Dick Klapp.

Statistics:

H	St. Joe
First downs	6 10
Passes attempted	4 9
Passes completed	2 2
Passes intercepted	0 2
Fumbles	5 6
Fumbles recovered	8 3
Yards rushing	159 162

Allegan Budget Is $7,800 Under Previous Year

Allegan, Oct. 27 (Special)—A savings of more than $7,800 was effected by county supervisors Oct. 20 when they set up the 1950 budget at $322,914.06. Last year's budget was $330,759.42.

But since the county must pay off $63,000 in indebtedness early in the year, it was apparent more borrowing would be necessary sometime in 1950.

Biggest cuts were made as follows: No appropriation for county roads; the county jail received less because major repairs are completed; social welfare department received $100,000 instead of its requested $140,000; county board of education got $5,400 instead of $8,925 as last year or the $6,600 it requested; county health department $25,000 instead of last year's $28,400 due to a merger plan on director's services.

Departmental revenues are estimated at $36,500 next year from fees to county offices. The delinquent tax is expected to be $8,000. The remainder will come from the increased seven-mill tax on a 46 million valuation.

Most departments will receive their allotments quarterly.

The supervisors heard a health committee's report that the county jail was in excellent condition from health and safety standpoint and a compliment to Sheriff Louis Johnson for the improvements made. The board allowed a $2,498 bill for recent repairs to plumbing and heating equipment.

Couple Married In Local Church

She also accompanied Mr. De Kruyter who sang, "O Lovely Night" and "O Promise Me," preceding the ceremony, and "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us" as the couple knelt at the altar.

Her fingertip veil was held in place by a satin braid with a pearl inset. She carried a bouquet of white pompons centered with white roses. ## Football Captain Crowns Hope Homecoming Queen

Miss Dolores Freyling of Grand Rapids was crowned queen of the Hope college homecoming at ceremonies Friday night in Carnegie gymnasium. Abe Moerland, captain of the Hope football team, placed the regal robe and crown after Corwin Otte, master of ceremonies, announced the winner of the queen election. Moerland also presented to Queen Dolores a gold football on a gold chain.

Miss Freyling, a junior, was to reign over homecoming ceremonies today, featuring the Hope-Hillsdale football game this afternoon. She also occupied a place of honor in the homecoming parade this morning. She and her court are guests of honor for all festivities.

Members of the court are Miss Marguerite Aardema of Central Lake; Miss Dorothy Contant, Hasbrouck Heights, N.J.; Miss Joyce Post, Miss Doris Haring, Miss Yvonne De Loof and Miss Connie Boersma, all of Holland, and Miss Nella Pyle of Zeeland.

Coronation ceremonies began following a pep rally in the gym, with the singing of school songs led by Ken Leestma and cheer leaders directing the yell. Coach Al Vanderbush spoke briefly on today's game.

Each candidate for the title of queen was escorted to a place of honor by a member of the football team.

On the athletic field, Queen Dolores lit a torch, illuminating the giant letters HOPE.

Homecoming festivities continued throughout today with sorority and fraternity parties. This noon, former Hope college letter winners were to be honored at the annual "H" winners luncheon. More than 100 former lettermen were expected. At 8:30 p.m., "The Show Off" will be repeated by Palette and Masque.

A vesper service Sunday at 4 p.m. in Hope Memorial chapel will conclude a week-end of activities.

"MEANINGLESS CENSUS"

The term "meaningless census"
has been applied by Warren Austin, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, to the Soviet proposal for a count of existing atom bombs. Behind the Iron Curtain, doubtless, this renowned refusal on America's part to take the Russian proposal seriously can be,
and already has been, portrayed
as another effort to block peace,
and to its own peoples the Moscow government is persistently portrayed as the lover of peace, and the democracies are at the same time cast in the role of war-mongers.

That just can't be helped. On this side of the Iron Curtain the roles of the two opposing power groups are quite different. We have as much right to name our role as has any other nation. And in coining the phrase "meaningless census" the U. S. delegate is not admitting that he is for war;
he merely wants the prevention of war put on a solid foundation.
As Moscow has planned it, each nation would hand in a sheet of its weapons that can be used for war, including the atomic bomb.
The United States, for instance,
would turn in a full and complete balance sheet to the United Nations; Russia would do the same; also England, and France,
and all the others.

But what would prevent the United States from so completely decorating its balance sheet that only a tenth of the stockpile of A-bombs would be reported. Not that we would be likely to do so
but, from Russia's point of view, we could. If Russia depended on such a weapons census and should destroy its own weapons, she would be immediately vulnerable to the nation with unreported weapons.

If that could happen on the part of this country, it could also happen on the part of Russia.
How would we know whether the Russian census was accurate or not? We would be unrealistic if we took any nation's word for such a thing. By the same token we should not expect any other nation to take our word. Such a piecemeal census would indeed be meaningless.

If the United Nations could be given free and unrestricted access to the sources of these census figures in all countries, in Russia as well as in America, there would be some sense in holding a weapons census. If not, it would not only be meaningless, it would be plain insanity on our part.

Horizon Leaders Attend
Self-Training Course

Mrs. Malcolm Mackay, Horizon
chairman of the Camp Fire Extension committee, and Mrs.
Francis Drake, Horizon council treasurer and member of the Camp Fire board, were co-tessesses Wednesday night for a supper and self-training course for Horizon leaders in the Mackay home, 203 West 21st St.

Following the meal an informal discussion and workshop brought out various ideas and aims for the Horizon club program. Participating were Mrs. Albert Timmer, local Camp Fire executive, and active advisers of Horizon chapter. Mrs. Orlie Bishop, president of the Holland Camp Fire council, explained that organization's functions as well as its relation to the National Camp Fire council.

The group planned to hold a similar discussion for exchange of ideas early next year.

Attending the affair were the Mesdames William Venhuizen, Benjamin Bowmaster, Fred Mep-
peliuk, Audrey Williams, Casey
Vander Kuy, L. W. Lamb, Jr.,
Peter Van Dornen, Jr., Orlie
Bishop, Albert Timmer, Francis Drake, Malcolm Mackay and the Mesdames Fritz Jonkmak and Virginia Koolker.

The Prophets Preach Social

Righteousness

Isaiah 5:22; 58:1-9

By Henry Geerlings

Is drunkenness a modern evil?
Is there any honor in getting drunk? Is it necessary in order to stand well in the community,
to drink alcoholic beverages?
There has been much said and written about the liquor problem in our times. There have been laws of various kinds for the regulation of strong drink, but the curse of over-indulgence remains with us.

The results are just the same as Isaiah found in Jerusalem centuries ago. The words he spoke then are as applicable to our day
as they were in his. Unquestion-ably he was uttering his woes in harmony with the wish and will of God, and it is not claiming too much to say that God has not given us any reason to suppose that He has changed His attitude. The curses He declared then have not been recalled. The sin He denounced through the words of the prophets are as much despised and as dangerous as ever.

But drunkenness was not the only evil the prophet Isaiah denounced. Far from it. He was well acquainted with the wicked ways of the rich in Jerusalem. Not that being rich is a sure path to iniquity, but it was patent to the prophet that some who were rich were covetous, grafting, dishonest schemers, not caring what unfair advantages they took or what principles of decency they ignored
in order to gather in more wealth.

His picture of the corrupt practices of certain people in their greed is rather shocking, but it was a true picture. Today we have it reproduced in fact. For all of us there has been displayed plenty of evidence that not all persons with wealth have gained it legally, or are ashamed at the thought of laying fraudulent plans for robbing others, even the poor.
But for some reason Isaiah followed his picture of the unjust
rich with a picture of the dreadful ways of those who give themselves over to drinking strong wine. From early morning to late night they slavishly pursued their intoxicating drinks. The result was terrible, even to the deliberate desecration of the things of God.

God himself was ignored and
His claims on them discredited.
No corruption was beneath their practices. They would allow themselves to be dragged down into the depths of evil conduct. All such conduct was severely condemned, as it deserved to be, for those people knew better, but they failed to live up to the standards of righteousness which had been authoritatively given them.

These woes make us shudder.
Deliberately they allow sin to ensnare them. They pretended to enjoy being tied as with strong ropes to their iniquitous ways.
With it all were the defiant slurs
they hurled at God. They defied His counsel. They loved their sins and refused to listen to God's pleas or warnings. Such is the way with sin. It makes them victims of most deadly vices.

Then there is the sad fact that some were trying to make themselves comfortable in their sin by saying that, after all, this and that was not as bad as God said it was. They took delight in saying that the good as God defined it was bad and the bad as God pointed it out was good. They put their judgment above God's. They began to boast of themselves.
They praised their own words and lauded their own opinions.

In reality they made themselves
most ridiculous, but were pretending to be on the right side. It was in their skill as drinkers that Isaiah found them much at fault.
They took pride in their ability to mix strange drinks and to drink them in large quantities. They were ready to accept bribes and blind their eyes to justice. They would sell out the rights and privileges of others in order to add to their own gain. It was against such wrongs that the woes were pronounced.

But we wonder whether these old-fashioned words of the prophet do not fit into life now. It may be that we need another Isaiah to come with thundering tones to proclaim the woes of God against certain ways of wickedness which are being followed by some people in our day.

All kinds of sins are equally under the curse of God. Drunkenness is no more or no less under the curse than are dishonesty, theft, lying or murder. The woes that came from the pen of Isaiah were as severe against one type of wickedness as another. He made no gradation, suggesting that a man could be wicked in one way and retain a better standing with God than he could if he was wicked in some other way. This is a hard truth for us to grasp, for we are apt to have a rating sheet for sins, on which we list them as bad, worse and worst.

A rating of all sins are given in terms of the sure results they bring. It is a strong figure the prophet uses but it does not drive home the truth any too far or any too severely. The sad fate is set forth with shocking vividness.
And all because the laws of God
have been rejected. If anyone imagines that the laws of God can be ignored at will without harm—
here is his warning.

Popular 'Clipper Girls'
Entertain Local AAUW

Delightful waves of bubbling
laughter Thursday night in Washington school gym left no doubt as to the popularity of the program presented for members of the local branch of the American Association of University Women
by the Mesdames Grace Hamilton
and Nina Babcock, Cedar Springs
"Clipper Girls."

Combining wit and good humor with bits of the homey philosophy of their "salt-of-the-earth"
community, the personable editors of the "Clipper" described their struggles and rewards in publishing a country weekly and traced the origin of the town's red flannel trademark which has won for them and Cedar Springs international acclaim.

Miss Hamilton outlining the business phases of their newspaper venture, told of advertising and promotional techniques, their job printing experiences, and many discouraging Wednesday nights when final stages of getting out "The Clipper" were "like the darkness preceding dawn." She spoke of their genuine thrill in feeling that they were part of their community where a friendly
"Hi Grace" from the man on the street meant much more than all New York City's sophistication could hope to offer. A boost in the "Clipper's" circulation from 405 to 2,300 since their start in 1936, a thriving civic-minded town and a feeling of "belonging"
and promoting community welfare have more than compensated, she said, for the hard work and disappointments.

Qualities necessary for anyone contemplating the editing of a country weekly were listed by Miss Babcock who handles the bulk of the "Clippers" writing assignments. Beginning by saying they were living examples of the statement, "Anyone can run a newspaper" and that a pad and well-worn pencil were the only essential equipment, she went on to point out other necessary attributes which make for good
"newspapering."

A note for news to enable one to satisfy the public's curiosity about incidents, a lack of prejudice with just enough skepticism and investigation to insure accurate reporting, fortitude, a sense of humor, and the ability to collect money were important, she said.

Humorous anecdotes of their Cedar Springs experiences kept the audience chuckling as she described the origin of the "Red Flannel Festival" from a New York news story depicting the passing of red flannels in the cold winter of '36. Availability of the brilliant uniforms in Cedar Springs skyrocketed from a humorous comeback to a shivering frenzy, till orders poured in from far corners and the red flannel business was back on the map to stay. Samples of the various styles of red woollies
which are "guaranteed not to rip or ravel, but to itch," according to Miss Babcock, were displayed
as a climax to the entertaining program.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Kenneth Allen, vice president and program chairman. Miss Laura Boyd, president, conducted the meeting. Miss Cynthia Fikse, Hope college senior, thanked the group for the scholarship which has enabled her to continue her studies in education in preparation for the teaching profession.

During a social period which followed the meeting refreshments were served to about 60
guests.

In 1916

The hook and ladder truck this morning got into some unlooked
for difficulties while on practice with two of the new men. Near the Holland interurban freight house on Pine St. where considerable sewer digging had been going on the driver as he turned into Pine at the foot of the hill, struck some recently excavated ground and instantly the wheels on one side of the truck sank into the earth to the hubs, keeling the truck over to an angle of 40 degrees. The driver, however, put on a little extra gas, walked right out of the soft earth, righted itself on the hard gravel road and continued up the steep hill on Pine Ave.

Hunters Urged To Use Caution

Sheriff's officers of Holland today cautioned hunters not to shoot in rural school areas.

Deputy Clayton Forry reports he has received many calls lately complaining that shot lands in school yards while children are outside playing. This practice can prove dangerous, Forry emphasized.

He cited the area known as Dutton's woods, near Beechwood school. A teacher at that school said shot has fallen in the school yard and against the building itself.

Hope Grid Team Travels Saturday For Game Against Michigan Normal

The shadow of defeat and dejection was beginning to lift from Hope college campus today as the Dutch gridgers began getting ready for their next customer.

Hope buses to Michigan Normal Saturday for an afternoon game against the Hurons on W. O. Briggs field at Ypsilanti.

Monday morning quarterbacks were getting in their licks during the week-end and pointed to all the "ifs" that would have meant a Hope victory. It's hard to go over statistics and the play by play and find that Hope lost the game.

However, everyone is agreed that the old grads and other fans got their money's worth—and then some—Saturday afternoon at Riverview park.

Coach Al Vanderbush had his team look at movies of the Hillsdale game Monday afternoon and pointed out a few mistakes here and there. But the Dutch mentor was satisfied that his team played its best ball.

"I would say that Hillsdale has perhaps one of the best small college football teams in the country," Vanderbush said.

He pointed to the beefy line, seat backs and all around material that a good football team needs.

Meanwhile, the sands of time sift on and the Hillsdale game slowly goes into history.

Michigan Normal, although at the bottom of the Michigan collegian heap, isn't being figured as a soft touch. According to scouting reports, the Ypsi lads are big, experienced and always tough for Hope.

The record isn't impressive. Michigan Normal hasn't won a game this season. However, considering the caliber of the opposition, they'll not be a pushover for the Dutch.

Northern Michigan, one of the three undefeated teams in the state until last Saturday, defeated the Hurons by a scant 6-0 score in the opener. On following week-ends, the Ypsi team lost to Akron university 20-6, Northern Illinois 39-14, Ball State 33-2 and East Kentucky last week-end.

Hope came through the rugged Hillsdale game without any apparently serious injuries. Ron Appleborn was taken out of the game in the second half after he was hurt but is expected to be ready Saturday, Vanderbush said.

Fundamentals and offensive work will occupy the Dutch in practices this week.

In other MIAA games coming this week, Alma plays at Alma Kalamazoo goes to Adrian. Both are Saturday games. Hillsdale goes to Central Michigan Saturday.

Standings of MIAA teams:

	W	L	T	Pct.
Hillsdale	5	0	0	1.000
Hope	4	1	0	.800
Alma	3	2	0	.600
Kalamazoo	2	2	0	.500
Albion	2	3	0	.400

Are there any old toys laying around the house or garage?

The Henry Walters VFW post wishes to get its toy renovation program started early this year because of the anticipated deluge. Last year, more than 120 underprivileged children received toys from the vets at Christmas time.

Any persons having toys or other playthings to contribute may telephone the VFW post and the articles will be collected.

In the production of rice, Louisiana leads all other states, with nearly one-half the total raised in the U. S.

This "before and after" display, arranged by the citizenship department of Junior high school, shows how valuable property can become a blackened waste in a few hours, because of carelessness. Other phases of conservation such as preserving food, appreciation of wildlife, and use of evergreens as Christmas decorations were illustrated.

Conservation Program Staged in Junior High

Advantages of a good conservation program were brought forcibly to the attention of Junior high school students this month when school departments united to stage displays in keeping with Fire Prevention week.

Various phases of conservation emphasizing the wise use of natural resources were portrayed in displays in the lower halls of the school.

The citizenship department arranged two model scenes showing how timberland, a source of recreation and profit, can in a few hours become a blackened waste through carelessness.

Conservation of food—save to eat and can to save—was demonstrated in a display of canned fruits by the home economics department.

Song bird and game bird pictures, model bird houses and displays of magazines and books showed interest in Michigan wildlife. Use of evergreen materials, trimmings from forestry or Christmas tree pruning was illustrated for Christmas decorations.

All home rooms observed the week with displays and programs. Winter feeding of birds, how to make feeding stations, should hunters be allowed to kill more deer, what would the world be like without a tree, wild flowers and how to enjoy them, and other topics were discussed. A conservation film was shown Tuesday, explained by L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent.

Area Study Committee To Be Named to Probe Rural, City Problems

Plans for establishing an area study committee to investigate possibilities of a community high school in an enlarged Holland high school program were made at a meeting of school representatives Tuesday night.

About 75 persons attended the meeting in Junior high school. Present were the Board of Education of Holland and representatives of boards of 42 school districts in the Holland area which send students to Holland high school. Nineteen districts are in Allegan county and 23 in Ottawa county.

The new committee will consist of two representatives of each township involved and two members of the Holland Board of Education. Members will be appointed by Walter Vander Haar, member of the Van Raalte district 4 school board, who presided.

The meeting was called to discuss problems confronting all school boards. Since state law requires children must attend school until they are 16 and since most rural schools are geared only to an eight-grade program, some provision must be made for higher education. To date, all rural students in the area have been accepted in Holland high school, but crowded conditions present certain problems which must be solved. Of the 1,131 students in the upper four grades in Holland, about 600 are rural or suburban students. Seven years hence will come increased numbers now flooding lower classes in all schools.

Supt. C. C. Crawford of Holland suggested an extra charge of $50 in tuition for each non-resident student, a similar amount to be appropriated for each city student, to be put into a special building fund for a new addition a few years hence. This, however, cannot readily be accomplished under current laws.

Rural representatives pointed out it would not be feasible to build a township high school since rural students could be much better served in an enlarged Holland program. Crawford said with added facilities, the curriculum would include more courses in agriculture and trades.

Wilford Clapp of Lansing, assistant superintendent in charge of school plant for the State Department of Public Instruction, answered many questions on school problems confronting other cities. He said it is possible to enlarge a school district without changing city boundaries, but such action would affect the entire school program, not just high school. In such a case, a single board of education would operate all schools, eliminating the district boards.

Clapp said the automobile and good roads account for the spread of population into rural and suburban areas. "This is a great American phenomenon, and the government machinery just hasn't kept up," he said. He said township high schools generally have not proved ideal. Annexation has been the answer in other places, but 42 districts would be too much. Jennie Kaufman, county school superintendent, said plans already have been made for a county rural committee to study needs of rural schools.

Permanent Cribs For Corn Storage Needed on Farms

Ag Engineer Believes Large Harvest Poses Problem on Farms

Corn storage must be flexible, says James Boyd, agricultural engineer at Michigan State college. The size of the crop varies each year depending on weather and acreage and farmers must decide whether to store, sell, or feed their corn.

This year's problem is largely that of a big harvest. Temporary storage will be needed on almost every farm. While it is too late in most cases to build permanent structures, plans can be made for future storage facilities.

Most economical and satisfactory storage is a well constructed permanent crib that can be easily maintained and will add to the appearance of the farmstead.

Before constructing these cribs it is important that a site be chosen which is well drained and accessible from all sides without having to open a series of gates.

Careful planning is necessary because corn is heavy and can cause failures after the crib is filled. Most of the failures which occur are a result of inadequate foundations, insufficient tying and bracing and overloading joists and girders.

Boyd advises that a good foundation be provided for all types of permanent cribs. Due to the weight of corn, poor footings can crack and settle, wrecking the entire structure out of shape. The crib itself may be made of masonry, wood, or metal.

When planning a corn crib of any kind, ventilation should be considered. If natural ventilation is to be used, the crib should be six feet wide or less. With mechanical ventilation, the bin must be adapted to the type of system used and the directions of the fan company followed in installation.

For the farmer who does not have a regular corn crop, or for surplus corn, temporary corn cribs can be made from ordinary snow fence and posts or wire fence. Temporary cribs have an advantage in their low first cost and in ease of moving to corn feeding locations.

Plans for all types of corn cribs are available from county agricultural agents and lumber dealers.

FARM BUYING

Buying a farm is one of the biggest business transactions of a lifetime. Michigan State college agricultural specialists suggest that farm buyers talk to the county agricultural agent for information about farming in the region where they intend to buy.

Mineral Feeding Does Not Prevent Bang's Disease

Many claims are made for mineral feeding of cattle according to Agricultural Agent L. R. Arnold. C. F. Huffman can refute some of these claims, particularly the one that advocates minerals for prevention of Bang's disease. Huffman remarks "There is no worthwhile evidence that the feeding of minerals prevents or cures Bang's disease. So far as I know, authentic controlled experiments have never been carried on with minerals from the standpoint of preventing and curing Bang's disease. Mineral supplementation has failed to prevent the occurrence of Bang's disease in many herds in Michigan."

"Herds suffering from extreme copper deficiency are affected adversely from the standpoint of reproduction. Up to the present time we have not found dairy cattle which show a copper deficiency in Michigan. There are a lot of statements by writers that mineral supplements play a big role in the prevention of breeding troubles, but they certainly do not present any substantiating evidence."

"We have been studying mineral requirements of dairy cattle for a long time, and it is our conclusion that breeding troubles occurring among dairy cattle in Michigan, other than for iodine in the ration results in the birth of a calf with goiter of 'big neck'."

Arnold reports that the present Bangs disease control program now in progress in the county seems to be moving along well. He has had only one complaint. This program is a well worked out program between state and federal governments, which should eradicate this disease in the state soon.

Several townships now are being covered by workers. All townships will eventually be covered. It may take several months, but this persistent program should bring about control in Ottawa county.

Holland Beagle Places at Trial

The Holland Beagle club was represented at the recent AKC field trial at the Wolverine Beagle club grounds in Hastings.

The fourth annual event attracted entries from five states including Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

With ideal field trial weather conditions, the dogs displayed expert co-operation and field marshalling.

George De Weert, George Schroeder and Orrie Jubb were outstanding. Earl "Blackie" Erwin of Peninsula, O., and Jesse E. Wilson of Grass lake were judges.

Wives of club members served the noon meal.

Peter Raffenaud came home with a fifth-place ribbon for 13-inch dog class. His entry was Roger's Contented Sparky.

The local beagle club has generated enough interest among dog owners to increase the club roster from five original members to 40. The club was initiated five years ago and members run their dogs at Coppertown. The land was leased from the state for a running ground.

PLANT NUTS IN SPRING

Most Purebred Calves Kept in Herd for Use

What becomes of calves born in purebred dairy herds?

A study of the records of the Michigan State college purebred herds for a 20 year period may bring some light on this oft-asked and hard-to-answer question.

A recent Michigan Agricultural Experiment station bulletin article by Dr. Earl Weaver, head of the MSC dairy department, and Russell E. Horwood, now supervisor of the Chatham Experiment station, shows that a large percentage of the heifers became a part of the college dairy herd. About half of the bull calves were either retained or sold for breeding purposes.

Of 598 heifer calves born to cows of the five leading dairy breeds in the college herd, only 8.5 per cent died. Of the remainder 78 per cent entered the milking herd, 11 per cent were sold for dairy purposes and less than 3 per cent were vealed or slaughtered.

During the period, 610 bull calves were born and 53 per cent were retained in the college herd or sold for breeding purposes. A total of 38 per cent were vealed or slaughtered and 8.2 per cent died.

The study showed that about 95 per cent of the heifer Brown Swiss calves entered milking in the college herd or were sold for dairy purposes. About 90 per cent of the Ayrshires and Holstein heifers and nearly 85 per cent of the Guernsey and Jersey heifers were either milked or sold for dairy purposes.

The big demand for Holstein bulls in Michigan shows up in the fact that nearly 70 per cent of the bull calves were used for breeding purposes as compared with an average of 53 per cent for all breeds.

Andrew Lohman, manager of the Hamilton Farm bureau, demonstrates to C. G. Card, poultry specialist of Michigan State college, and Jim Curtis, of the Allegan county farm bureau, how the co-op's new bulk feed delivery truck operates. It's believed to be the only one in the state.

Hamilton Develops New Bulk Feed Delivery

Allegan, Oct. 27 (Special)—Cash savings and elimination of some disease hazards are seen as the immediate benefits of the Hamilton Farm bureau's new system of feed distribution.

Andrew Lohman, manager, and his board of directors, have just put into operation a bulk feed delivery truck, thought to be the only one of its kind in the state. Engineering was assisted by Michigan State college specialists, who frequently work with the Hamilton co-op as they pioneer a new idea in farm methods.

The feed distributor is a four-compartment truck, which can carry more than a couple tons of feed, either an assortment for poultry, dairy, or hogs, or a complete load of one type. Making delivery right to the farm, the truck is equipped with an elevator which may be lifted or lowered, or set from side to side, so that the feed may be dumped into the holding bin or self-feeders.

Prime benefit is the elimination of feed bags, which, besides being expensive, frequently carry disease, according to County Agent A. D. Morley. It is also a time-saver, since farmers may telephone their feed orders to the co-op instead of waiting at the mill for their bags of feed.

In service less than a month, the feed delivery truck is expected to be put into heavier use as farmers construct bins for the bulk supply.
