EYES

Differ greatly; some need glasses, others do not. To which class do your eyes belong? Most people cannot properly answer this question for themselves. A thorough examination of your eyes by us is the only prudent course. That will settle every doubt and settle it right. If your eyes happen to require glasses, you will thus prevent the certain injury of doing without them.

Here are a Few Facts

That Everybody who buys a watch should know. A MANUFACTURER MAY STAMP WHATEVER HE PLEASES ON A WATCH CASE. We have seen cases stamped "warranted U. S. Assay" when a slight rubbing showed the brass under a thin gold plating. We have seen filled cases marked "solid gold" and 8-karat cases marked "14-karat." In our store a case must be what it is stamped or we won't sell it. Our successful watch trade is due not alone to the size and variety of our stock but to the fact that our customers know what they are buying.

The Holland show will be the largest in the state next to the state exhibition.

The janitor of the court house of Allegan was up against a problem last week. One morning a plump partridge flew against one of the windows of the court house with such force as to break the window and kill itself. As the season has not yet opened, it was unlawful to have partridge in one's possession, and yet the bird looked too tempting a morsel to throw away. The question now is should he have eaten the bird, or not?

The Library board at a meeting held last Monday evening appointed D. O. Van Oort assistant librarian to take the place of John B. Steketee who resigned to take a position in one of the South Dakota schools. It was also decided by the board to extend the hours for issuing books on Saturdays, for the purpose of giving an opportunity to those who are employed daily until 6 o'clock and are unable to obtain books during the open hours. From November 5 to March 1 the hours on Saturday will be from 3 to 8 o'clock instead of 3 to 6 as at present. This will give those employed in factories and shops three hours, from 5 to 8, in which to visit the library and obtain books.

Memphis, Tenn., according to Mr. James Bos, who with his wife was there for a week visiting F. C. Dykema, brother of Mrs. Bos, is one of the most interesting points in the country, and among the most interesting things there is the national cemetery where are buried fourteen thousand of the nation's dead. The national cemetery was created by a special act of Congress and the construction of the place was perfected during the years of 1866 and 1867. Thirty-six acres are inclosed by brick walls, and nine acres are outside of this inclosure. The grounds are magnificent in appearance, and are kept in perfect condition the year round. The Superintendent is assisted by a foreman and a force of five men, all of whom work incessantly to keep the great enclosure in repairs. In addition to the many natural ornaments seen about the place, there are twelve gun monuments placed at different points of vantage, with innumerable stacks of cannon balls. The guns used as monuments are cannon which played important parts in celebrated battles, and prove a source of un-failing interest to the old soldiers who chance to visit the place.

Who Should Register

All who having reached the age of majority—and intend to cast their first vote next November.

All who took out their full naturalization papers the other day and intend to vote next November.

All who have moved from one ward or township to another since the last election.

With reference to re-registration it is well enough to remember that:

In townships there is NO re-registration.

In cities that come under the General law governing the incorporation of small cities in this state, it is required that every voter shall register if he expects to vote on Tuesday, November 8.

The City of Holland not being in this class there is no need to re-register. Every elector in this city whose name appeared on the register in April last, and who has not moved into another ward since, is all right.

Mrs. L. Mulder has granted to Bos & Bolhuis the contract for the erection of a new residence on Fourteenth street. The residence will cost $4,000, and will be completed January 1.

In Justice Van Duren's court Saturday Mrs. Minnie Bontekoe was bound over to circuit court charged with the larceny of a pocketbook containing $26 from Miss Bessie Blackman. Bail was furnished in the sum of $500 with Tiemen Slagh and Martin Beukema as sureties. Judge Lemma represented the respondent.

That Fred M. Warner, candidate for governor, was able to meet his Ottawa County engagements Tuesday was due largely to the G. R. H. & Chicago Interurban and Pere Marquette railway company. The Bauer meeting and the first visit to Holland were made possible because the Interurban company placed a special car at his disposal. This car in charge of Conductor Pettibone and Motorman Wagner took Mr. Warner and the party which accompanied him first to Jenison and then to Holland. Charles Floyd, freight and passenger agent, gave the matter his personal attention as did John Busby the superintendent, and the car never missed an engagement. One of the exciting incidents was a race with the Pere Marquette. On the run to Grand Rapids and back after supper the Pere Marquette special with Warner aboard and the Interurban with a crowd of Ottawa county republicans had a neck and neck contest, with honors even at the end of the race. The Interurban car made marvelously good time, cutting down the record between Grand Rapids and Holland to 49 minutes. The steamroad special with Engineer Geo. Fralick at the lever also scattered records to the winds. After clearing the yards at Grand Rapids the run to the Holland depot was made in 19 minutes. Fralick received many congratulations for his jerry run. The hack service to and from each depot added to the time of the Pere Marquette, giving the politicians on the Interurban a little advantage over those on the Pere Marquette on the time proposition.

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"YOUNG WOMEN:—I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods. I am most grateful."—NETTIE BLACKMORE, 28 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

If there is anything about your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She will hold your letter in strict confidence. She can surely help you, for no person in America can speak from a wider experience in treating female ills. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass.; her advice is free.

SUCCESSFUL TRIP OF BIG AIRSHIP

MAKES JOURNEY OF TEN MILES FROM WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS IN ST. LOUIS.

Easily Guided by Its Operator, It Crosses the Mississippi River, and Lands Near Cahokia, Ill.—Flight Made with Broken Motor.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—Propelled part of the way by its own power, and the remainder of the distance by the wind, which was blowing at the rate of about nine or ten miles an hour, the airship of Thomas S. Baldwin, of San Francisco, in charge of A. Roy Knabenshue, of Toledo, O., made an unannounced ascension from the aeronautic concourse at the world's fair Tuesday, and landed near Cahokia, Ill., a distance of nearly ten miles, after a flight that attracted the attention of thousands of persons, who cheered almost continuously as the big flying machine passed over the exposition grounds, left the residence section of St. Louis far beneath it, and soared high above the towering office buildings of the business district.

Easily Handled.

Clinging to the framework of the car, his precarious foothold an iron tube that forms one side of the base of the triangular network of supports and ribs of the airship's body, Knabenshue directed the movements of his flying machine and maneuvered in circles and against the wind high over the monster exhibit palaces of the exposition, before the accident to his motor which rendered the big fan-like propellers useless and curtailed his command of the airship. Notwithstanding the breaking of the motor, Knabenshue did not lose complete control of the machine, but with the momentum given by the wind, he was enabled to steer the machine in a course that varied several points in each direction from the trend of the wind and land at a point of his own selecting.

Crossed the River.

After he had landed, Knabenshue stated that when he found he could control the movements of the airship, even after the motor was useless, he determined to make the test a fair one, and decided to effect a landing on the east side of the Mississippi river. Steering his balloon so that he could gain the best speed from the wind, Knabenshue directed his course over the southwestern residence district of St. Louis. Passing rapidly eastward from the Missouri side he passed to the Illinois side of the Mississippi river, and having completed his self-imposed task, he headed toward Cahokia and brought his airship to the ground about half a mile from that little hamlet. When within about ten feet of the earth, Knabenshue threw out his grapple and one of the hooks caught in a large tree standing on the edge of a clearing and the large body settled slowly to the ground, resting lightly upon its framework uninjured, except for the minor breakage of the motor. The flight occupied just an hour.

The gas balloon is cigar shaped of Japanese silk, 54 feet in length and 17 feet in diameter, and requires 8,000 cubic feet of gas to inflate it. The frame attachment is 30 feet in length. It carries a double cylinder, seven horse power gasoline engine, making 2,000 revolutions a minute, to drive the propellers.

TRAGEDY IN IOWA.

Station Agent Kills Tramp in a Fight, and Is Slain Himself.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 26.—A special to the Register and Leader from Sidney, Ia., gives details of a fight between the agent at Nebraska City Junction, Ia., a lonely station on the Burlington line in southwestern Iowa, and three tramps, which resulted in the killing of the agent and one of the tramps. The agent, Frank Sells, ordered the tramps away from the depot, and a quarrel followed. The tramps advanced threateningly on the agent, who fired on the man nearest to him, killing him. Immediately afterward, one of the remaining tramps fired on Sells and fatally wounded him. The tramp who did the shooting was later caught at McPaul and lodged in jail at Sidney. He claims self-defense.

Bank Officials Robbed.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 26.—While members of the bank of Hamilton staff were returning from Plum Coulee to Winkler village masked robbers held them up about a mile and a half this side of Plum Coulee. The bank men were ordered at the point of revolvers to turn over to the robbers the satchel which contained $2,000 of the bank's funds. The robbers escaped.

Steamer Wrecked.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 26.—The captain of the Spanish steamship Ontaneda, which arrived Tuesday, reports the loss of the steamship Massachusetts. No mention is made of loss of life. The Massachusetts was a steamship bound from Cardiff, England, to New Orleans, and consigned to the Leyland line at the latter place.

Many Immigrants Arrive.

New York, Oct. 24.—On board the steamer Slavonia, which arrived Sunday from Trieste, Fiume and Palermo, were 2,063 Austro-Hungarian immigrants.

SECRETARY TAFT TO CALM PANAMA

PRESIDENT REQUESTS HIM TO VISIT REPUBLIC AND CONFERENCE WITH AUTHORITIES.

WILL INFORM THEM AS TO OUR INTENTIONS

No Advantage to Be Taken by Our Government of Rights Conferred by Treaty to Interfere with Welfare and Prosperity of Country.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The following letter has been sent by the president to the secretary of war after a conference with the secretary of state and the secretary of war in respect to the conditions in Panama:

"From White House, Washington, Oct. 18, 1904.

"Sir: By executive order of May 9, 1904, I placed under your immediate supervision the work of the isthmian canal commission both in the construction of the canal and in the exercise of such governmental powers as it seemed necessary for the United States to exercise under the treaty with the Republic of Panama in the canal strip.

Natives May Be Alarmed.

"There is ground for believing that in the execution of the rights conferred by the treaty the people of Panama have been unduly alarmed at the effect of the establishment of a government in the canal strip by the commission. Apparently they fear lest the effect be to create out of part of their territory a competing and independent community which shall injuriously affect their business, reduce their revenues and diminish their prestige as a nation. The United States is about to confer on the people of the state of Panama a very great benefit by the expenditure of millions of dollars in the construction of the canal.

Must Not Create Suspicion.

"But this fact must not blind us to the importance of so exercising the authority given us under the treaty with Panama as to avoid creating any suspicion, however unfounded, of our intentions as to the future. We have not the slightest intention of establishing an independent colony in the middle of the state of Panama, or of exercising any greater governmental functions than are necessary to enable us conveniently and safely to construct, maintain and operate the canal, under the rights given us by the treaty. Least of all do we desire to interfere with the business and prosperity of the people of Panama.

Our Intentions.

"However far a just construction of the treaty might enable us to go, did the exigencies of the case require it, in asserting the equivalent of sovereignty over the canal strip, it is our full intention that the rights which we exercise shall be exercised with all proper care for the honor and interests of the people of Panama. The exercise of such powers as are given us by the treaty within the geographical boundaries of the Republic of Panama may easily, if a real sympathy for both the present and future welfare of the people of Panama is not shown, create distrust of the American government. This would seriously interfere with the success of our great project in that country. It is of the utmost importance that those who are ultimately responsible for the policy pursued should have at first hand as trustworthy information as can be obtained in respect to the conditions existing in Panama and the attitude and real interest of the people of that state.

Asks Taft to Visit Country.

"After a conference with the secretary of state and yourself, I have concluded that it will be of great advantage if you can visit the Isthmus of Panama in person and hold a conference with the president and other governmental authorities of the Republic of Panama. You are authorized in doing this to take with you such persons as you desire familiar with the conditions in the Isthmus who may aid you with their counsel. The earlier you are able to make this visit the better.

"The secretary of state will instruct the United States minister at Panama to render you every assistance in his power, and the governor of the canal strip, Gen. Davis, will of course do the same thing. You will advise the president of the republic what the policy of this government is to be, and assure him that it is not the purpose of the United States to take advantage of the rights conferred upon it by the treaty to interfere with the welfare and prosperity of the state of Panama, or of the cities of Colon and Panama. You will make due report of the result of your visit on your return.

"Very truly yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

"To the Secretary of War."

Senor Obaldia, minister of Panama to the United States, held a conference with the secretary of state and secretary of war subsequent to the receipt of this letter, and the secretary of war invited the minister to accompany him on his trip to Panama. It is impossible to say exactly when the secretary of war can leave for Panama, but probably on November 14.

King to Entertain Americans.

London, Oct. 19.—King Edward Thursday will receive the officers of the American warships now at Gravesend and will entertain them at luncheon at Buckingham palace.

OLD AGE BROUGHT NO INFIRMITIES.

TO "THE AUTOCRAT OF THE BREAKFAST TABLE."

Oliver Wendell Holmes, after eighty years of life had roiled over his head, declared that he was "eighty years young." So may every man and woman in Holland, said Druggist Con De Pree. "If they will take proper care of themselves, keep built up and their bodily issues from wasting."

"I wish I could persuade every person in this vicinity who 'feels old' whether they are so in years or not, to take our splendid cod liver oil preparation, Vinol. It is by far the greatest tissue builder and invigorator in the world for old people. Vinol is not a patent medicine, but simply contains the body-building, strength-creating properties of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, and we guarantee that it will repair worn tissues, check the natural decline and replace weakness with strength.

"There are hundreds of old people in this vicinity who need just such a strength maker and tissue builder as Vinol. Their blood is thin and sluggish, but we guarantee that Vinol will enrich and quicken the blood and build up the system. It contains no whiskey or strong stimulants, which have a bad after effect and weaken and break down, and we therefore wish every person who 'feels old' in this vicinity would try Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if they are not satisfied." NEGRO PRISONER BRUTALLY SLAIN

VICTIM HAD WOUNDED A POLICEMAN IN A FIGHT AT BERKLEY, VA.

Is Taken from the Station by Four Masked Men—Shot and Clubbed to Death in Street—Town Under Martial Law.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 25.—George W. Blount, a negro proprietor of a fish and oyster shop in the suburbs of Berkley, was taken early Monday morning from the police station, where he was confined, by four masked men, who shot and clubbed him to death in the street. Blount had been arrested Saturday night for striking T. D. Holloman, a Berkeley policeman, in the face with a lighted lamp, badly burning him. The officer had gone to Blount's place to arrest another negro and Blount refused the officer permission to enter. The attack on the station was made when but one officer was on duty, and he was compelled to give up the keys at the point of a pistol. Blount had been for many years a negro republican leader and at one time held a position in the Norfolk navy yard.

W. W. Robertson, a lumber dealer and resident of Berkley, told Mayor Allen of that place that he witnessed the killing from his bedroom window and that Blount's screams awakened him. Four masked men, he said, had Blount in the middle of the street and were clubbing him. Three of the men became frightened at their victim's cries and fled, but the other, whom Robertson believes was white, drew a pistol and shot Blount through the back of his head.

As a result of the lynching a negro uprising is feared, and the mayor of Berkley has requested Gov. Montague to hold a sufficient force in readiness to meet it if necessary. Norfolk companies of the Seventy-first regiment were ordered to Berkley, and the town is under martial law.

DEATH IN PLACE OF TRYST.

Woman Goes to Meet Lover and Is Confronted by His Son—Fatal Fight Follows.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Nellie Thomason, wife of a formerly prominent real estate dealer in this city, died at Lacon Thursday night as the result of injuries received in a sensational encounter with Richard and Jennie Higgins, children of John G. Higgins, a prominent member of the board of supervisors of Peoria county. The Higgins children intercepted a letter written to their father by Mrs. Thomason. It is said, in which she is said to have asked him to meet her at the station of the Rock Island road in this city. Higgins was at St. Louis, and his son opened the letter. The missive asked Higgins to be in the waiting room. When Mrs. Thomason arrived she was confronted by young Higgins and his sister. Some time later the woman asked C. A. Brant, the ticket agent, to assist her to the train. He did so, and when she was gone he found the floor of the waiting room covered with blood. The woman lingered in great agony at her home in Lacon until Thursday night, when she died.

Higgins is under arrest on a state warrant charging him with murder. Mrs. Thomason had lain in a comatose condition since Wednesday night, rallying enough to speak a word or two at times. Her body presented a horrible appearance. Her lip was severed, both eyes were blackened, one shoulder was displaced and her back was covered with bruises, evidently inflicted with a boot or heavy instrument.

A Deliberate Act.

London, Oct. 26.—A dispatch from Hull to the Times says that the correspondent, as the result of his investigation, is of the opinion that the attack on the British trawlers by the Russian second Pacific squadron was a deliberate act, perpetrated with knowledge of its character.

BATTLE WITH BANDITS.

St. Louis Officers Attempt Capture—A Fight Follows—Five Men Are Killed.

St. Louis, Oct. 23.—Three city detectives are dead, one train robber suspect is at the morgue, another is not expected to live, while still another is badly wounded—this is the result of a desperate battle between five officers and three men whom they tried to arrest. The dead are: John J. Shea, detective, killed instantly; Thomas Dwyer, detective, died in hospital; James McCloskey, detective, died in hospital; Al Rose, suspect, killed instantly.

The fight occurred in the front room of a house on Pine street, and the men whom the detectives sought to arrest are suspected of being implicated in a train robbery at Centralia, Ill., a few weeks ago. Vaughn was arrested on the street and taken to the house by the detectives. Hardly had the detectives entered the room in which Rose and Blair were seated, when they were met with a volley of shots from a heavy caliber revolver. Shea sank to the floor on the first shot, and Dwyer followed almost instantly. By that time the detectives had drawn their revolvers and there was a deafening exchange of shots for several seconds, each man pulling the trigger of his weapon as rapidly as possible. During the excitement, Vaughn attempted to escape from his captors and assist Rose and Blair. Boyle and James, however, clubbed their revolvers and beat their prisoner over the head until he was unconscious, and then they went to the aid of Shea, Dwyer and McCloskey, the latter having in the meantime sunk to the floor with a critical wound in the stomach. One of the unwounded detectives summoned an ambulance, and the wounded officers and suspects were taken to the city hospital.

As soon as word of the shooting reached Chief of Detectives Desmond, he immediately pressed into service a buggy which happened to be standing in front of headquarters and drove at a gallop to the hospital. There, after a brief consultation with his wounded men, he confined himself to Blair, the wounded suspect. Blair made the statement that he, Rose and others had been seated in the room when the door was opened and the detectives entered. Blair, noting the fact that Detective Shea had his revolver drawn, pulled his own gun and emptied it into the faces of the invaders. He shot six times without a pause.

C. C. Blair, one of the suspects, died at the hospital to-night, making the fifth victim of the battle.

The gates will not be opened until noon, and all buildings except the fine arts and others of its class will remain closed. Religious services will be conducted in the afternoons in the auditorium.

WARNER GAINS FAVOR OF HOLLAND

Warner-Allen Meeting a Big One.

Judged from the viewpoint of results the Warner-Allen Republican Rally held in the big tent last Tuesday night was the best ever held in this city. People had a chance to see and to hear Fred M. Warner, candidate for governor, and the seeing and the hearing did worlds of good to the republican cause, for Warner wears well and an acquaintance with him is a guarantee that people will see him as he is—one of the squarest, ablest, most consistent and most loveable men in the state of Michigan. An acquaintance with him shows that the stories circulated derogatory to him are the most remarkable examples of untruthfulness in political history.

The Rally was a magnificent tribute to Warner. On account of the Fairbanks meeting in Grand Rapids it was not possible for him to reach here until 9:20 o'clock, but the crowd of 1600 that thronged the tent remained until he appeared and then gave him a right royal welcome.

Capt. E. P. Allen, member of the Michigan Soldiers Home board, who spoke first, was a very important factor on the crowd holding proposition, and so able and eloquent was his speech that the long wait for Warner was scarcely noticed. Hon. D. B. K. VanRaalte was chairman and his introduction of Capt. Allen was a glowing tribute to that gentleman, Mr. VanRaalte and Mr. Allen are old friends, tried and true, and are also colleagues on the Soldiers Home board.

Mr. Warner had a spectacular time of it Tuesday. He was billed in Bauer, Grand Rapids and Holland. He arrived in Grand Rapids at 12 o'clock, had dinner with a number of Ottawa county republicans, took a special interurban car for Jenison, took a drive of six miles to Bauer, made a speech there, drove back to Jenison, came to Holland on the special interurban, had supper at Hotel Holland at six, held an informal reception at the hotel, until ten minutes to seven, went to the Pere Marquette depot at seven o'clock and took a special train for Grand Rapids, made a half hour speech to an audience of six thousand at the auditorium finishing at 8:25 o'clock, boarded the special and came to Holland and made a speech lasting from 9:20 to ten o'clock. This certainly looks as if Mr. Warner is in great demand.

Mr. Warner's reception in Holland was certainly fine. He met a large number at the hotel before the meeting and a still larger number after the meeting, and to say that all were favorably impressed is putting it very lightly. The loyal, sound republicans as well as the wavering ones were convinced that a man of his calibre is worthy of their support and that they will extend this support enthusiastically is shown by the great growth of Warner sentiment since last Tuesday in this city.

Excellent music was furnished by the Diekema Club quartet. The Diekema Republican club, 75 strong, attended in a body, and gave Warner a hearty greeting. In the course of his remarks Mr. Warner said:

"My friend Mr. Ferris states that this year we have a campaign of principles and not men. I agree with him. It has always been so, but sometimes we differ on those principles. In 1892, I remember well, I was in favor of protection and Harrison, while he supported Cleveland and free trade. In 1896 and 1900 he was a warm supporter of Bryan and free silver, and at the same time I was strongly supporting William McKinley and sound money. This year as you all know, I am glad to support anywhere in Michigan on any platform my national candidate and stand on the national platform, and I am glad to hear national issues discussed, while Mr. Ferris states he will vote for Parker. Yet on account of his endeavor to get a few republican votes he is keeping national issues in the background. On state issues our platform is none the less explicit. It stands for a judicious expenditure of all public funds, it stands for a businesslike and economical administration of the affairs of this state, it stands for primary reform. It is true it does not stand for that extreme or radical kind that is indorsed this year Ohy, some, but it does stand for a system of primary reform that has been found by experience to work well in just such states, whether you are Republicans or Democrats, that you would care to have Michigan classed with this year.

"As I have been listening to and reading the views of many on this subject I have been thinking how safe it has always been in the past to trust the working out of all these great questions to the Republican party. (Applause.) It may have taken sometimes longer than we desired and some of us may have become impatient at the delay, but these great problems, whether of a national or state character, have always in the past been solved wisely from the days of Abraham Lincoln to the days of Theodore Roosevelt by the Republican party. (Applause.) I have great confidence, as in the past, that any future question that may arise will be solved in a like manner.

CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM ALDEN SMITH

Will Speak in Holland Saturday Evening November 5

Congressman William Alden Smith will speak at a Republican rally in Holland Saturday evening, November 5. The rally will be held in the Slagh & Zuidewind building on East Eighth street and Mr. Slagh says that he will have it fixed up so that 1500 people can obtain seats. The building is heated by steam and is a fine place for a meeting.

Mr. Smith will speak in Olive Center in the afternoon of Nov. 5.

Attention Republican Club!
Do not fail to attend the meeting of the Holland Republican club next Monday evening in the club headquarters in De Grondwet hall, for it will not do to miss the speech of Martin H. Carmody, the man who when a student of the U. of M. won all the inter-collegiate oratorical contests. Mr. Carmody is campaigning the state for the republican state central committee and it is indeed lucky that he has been secured for the Republican club.

The committee on excursion will report and action will be taken upon the matter of hiring a special train to go to Grand Haven to hear Hon. G. J. Diekema close the campaign.

Music by the Republican Glee Club.

General Items.

The attempt to hold up a Pere Marquette train last week Wednesday evening at Shafer's Gulley, two miles south of Hart has been cleared up and the guilty party is now lodged in the county jail at Hart under the safe keeping of Sheriff Giddings. Suspicion fell on the man Reed who flagged the train and he was placed in the sweatbox and acknowledged everything saying that he loosened the rails, stole the switch lantern, trampled around in the dirt near the loosened rails so as to give the impression that there was more than one concerned and afterwards waived the red lantern across the track and stopped the train. He gave as a reason for the act that he wanted a permit to ride a railroad velocipede on the Pere Marquette tracks around the country near Hart and thought that if he rendered the railroad such valuable service as stopping the train and saving many lives they would gladly reward him. He also intimated that he would accept an annual pass over the Pere Marquette system.

A year ago John Mackey of South Haven bought a mammoth squash that weighed over 100 pounds, and last spring planted some of the seed. As a result he has on exhibition the product of one vine, two squashes, one of which weighs 133 pounds, and the other 75 pounds.

"The night after my wife went to visit her sister over at Good Intent and took the children with her," said the man with the thin, wan hair and retiring chin, "the house was so still that, as I sat out on the back porch with my feet cocked up on the railing—something, by the way, that I had got out of the notion of doing—I could hear the portrait of my wife's first husband, that was hanging on the north wall of the parlor, chuckling in a self satisfied sort of way."

The annual unanswerable argument in favor of the extension of the piers of Holland harbor was furnished by the heavy seas of the last storm. The waves and current piled up the sand on the bar about a hundred feet west of the harbor entrance and reduced the depth of water to eleven feet. This will interfere with the Chicago steamers as it will be hard to clear the harbor excepting in favorable weather.

FIGHTING CANNOT LONG BE DEFERRED

PRESENT QUIET CONSIDERED TO BE ONLY THE CALM BEFORE A STORM.

KUROPATKIN GIVEN SUPREME COMMAND

Oyama Preparing to Meet the Enemy
South of Shakhe River by Erecting Fortifications—Correspondents Are Strangely Silent.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—The quiet now prevailing at the theater of war is considered to be only the calm before a storm. There is every indication of the imminence of the resumption of fighting on a large scale, as the proximity of the two armies makes it impossible for them to much longer defer a renewal of the battle. The correspondents at the front are strangely silent concerning the coming developments, but from the slight movements reported and the continual reconnoitering of the Japanese positions it is regarded as certain that Gen. Kuropatkin has a perfectly free hand accorded him by his elevation to the post of commander in chief and that he is about to undertake an offensive movement. Field Marshal Oyama is reported to be fortifying his whole line south of the Shakhe river, showing that he is preparing to meet the Russian onset. Not a ray of light as yet has been shed upon Kuropatkin's plans.

Kuropatkin Given Command.

Viceroy Alexieff's order of the day announcing Kuropatkin's appointment is in the same grandiose vein as Kuropatkin's order of October 5 and is regarded as having definitely established the authorship of that ill-starred document. While Alexieff takes particular pains in turning over the supreme command of the land forces to Kuropatkin to inform the soldiers and the world of the marks of imperial confidence reposed in him and to announce that he will remain as viceroy, the order is considered as virtually his farewell address and that it will soon be followed by his return to St. Petersburg. His elimination as a factor in the military situation has caused a sigh of relief. The papers all welcome the announcement of Kuropatkin's appointment to the chief command as a well-merited recompense for the manner in which he discharged the difficult role imposed upon him, and, reading between the lines, as a promise of better results now that Alexieff is eliminated and there is no longer a prospect of the elevation of a grand duke to the supreme command.

Artillery Fire Continued.

Gen. Kuropatkin telegraphs that there was no fighting of importance Tuesday. He adds: "A desultory artillery fire was maintained all day long upon the front of our right flank by both the enemy and ourselves. On the night of October 24 Russian volunteer sharpshooters ambushed advancing Japanese outposts and forced them to retire southward. Another detachment recovered a Russian gun-carriage. On the Russian center a detachment drove back the Japanese advance near the village of Yautchal, but upon the appearance of strong Japanese reinforcements the detachment returned to the village of Shakhe after burying the bodies of several Russians killed during previous fights and collecting large quantities of arms and ammunition."

Armies Watching Each Other.

Mukden, Oct. 26.—The situation is one of great tension for the troops on both sides. Gen. Kuropatkin and Field Marshal Oyama seem to be watching each other like hawks. It is impossible to tell which will make the first serious move. There are occasional exchanges of desultory firing at the outposts, but nothing of great importance has transpired. On Sunday night the Japanese made a feeble attempt upon Lone Tree Hill, but the attack was not pressed.

The Russians used several siege guns of great range on Monday, bombarding the Japanese positions near Shakhe. The Japanese replied with Shimose shells. The Chinese say the Russian fire destroyed three Japanese field pieces.

The Japanese have evacuated Shakhe railroad station, but it and the railroad bridge between the lines are in the field of fire of both sides.

Although it is reported that there is no activity on the Russian left flank, little is really known concerning the situation there. A Japanese movement from the west along the railroad is reported, but this has not been confirmed. The general state of uncertainty breeds many rumors. There is a rumor among the Chinese at Mukden that the Japanese are ready to attack.

Steamer Has Narrow Escape.

Chefoo, Oct. 26.—The steamer Kashling, which struck a floating mine north of Alceste island Tuesday night, had a narrow escape from total destruction. The explosion tore a great hole in the port bow, carrying away the forecastle deck and nine plates. The ship was saved forward by a collision bulkhead, which held secure and enabled her to reach Weihaiwei Wednesday, where she now lies.

Fear for Steamer's Safety.

Fort William, Ont., Oct. 26.—Grave fears are entertained for the safety of the steamer Rosemount, which left here for Montreal laden with wheat on the 17th inst., and is now many days overdue. Nothing has been seen or heard of her since sailing. She is owned by the Montreal Transportation company.

Notice!

To the Boys—Young and Old.
Hallow'een night is at hand. It is often made the occasion of hilariousness, thereby disturbing the peace and causing restlessness and anxiety. No one has a right to infringe upon the quiet of his neighbor. While a little fun may be permissible, it must not take the form of malicious injury to persons or property. There is a sane and safe yet happy way of celebrating, but when things are done that entail loss or expense or injury to others, that is downright meanness and will be punished according to law. I trust that the public, this year may be saved from venturesome and reckless pranks of those who mistake noise for fun.

A SONG FOR THE WEARY.

Life is but a world of battles;
You must fight them would you win;
With the idleness that prattles,
Victory has never been;
Then why should you be complaining
If in one attempt you fail?
Each endeavor gives you training,
Till at last you shall prevail.

Nuggets of success are lying
Underneath life's rugged road;
Dig and dig, and keep on trying
Till you strike the precious lode.
Skies above you will be bluer
As along the way you tread,
Friends around you will be truer,
So be brave and go ahead.

Time is fleeting, so be doing
Any task there is for you;
You are stronger, while accruing
Gain of good and wisdom, too.
Be not with the drones and shirkers,
As through life they idly stroll;
Victory belongs to workers,
Strive and you will reach the goal.

THE DOCTOR AND THE NURSE

BY FRANK H. SWEET

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

ONE day Dr. Cameron's horse came home riderless, with this note pinned to the bridle: "Please take care of the horse; he has earned the best attention. Send the inclosed list of my patients to Dr. Taylor at the junction. It describes their condition and the general course of treatment which I have pursued, so he will understand. He will have to take charge of them for the present. Gather up the papers and odds and ends in my office and put in my desk. In case I never return send them to my brother at Coalville. In the same possible contingency also send the little package in the secret drawer of my desk to Miss Ethel Wilgoss at address given."

"ARTHUR CAMERON.

"P. S.—I am at Lonesome Valley."

There was no need of explanation beyond the postscript. That told the whole story, and they followed out the instructions of the note with grave faces for during the four years he had been among them all, the people of the little farming village and surrounding mountainous country had grown to like young Dr. Cameron.

Lonesome Valley contained 20 or more families of the most shiftless and poverty-stricken sort. They only worked when work was absolutely necessary to keep them from starving, and the matter of raiment and shelter was of secondary and slight importance. When a man or boy was without ambition and too lazy to work he was advised to go to Lonesome Valley, for only to such as he did it hold forth inducements. There was nothing busy at Lonesome Valley, no order, no emulation, no occupation, not even any sanitary condition. And now the hour of its retribution had come, for a frightful epidemic of smallpox had broken out, from which report said not one house had escaped.

There were few doctors in the sparsely settled country, and the people were usually too poor to hire trained nurses for their own families. So all they felt they could do for themselves and the valley was to surround the infested district with a cordon of armed men under peremptory orders to prevent any one escaping, and to place provisions where those within the line could reach them. But no communication of any kind should pass between the valley and the world outside; no person must leave, and if one should slip in he must remain until the end. And the terror of the country was so great that these laws would be rigidly enforced.

The valley had always been isolated and shunned, an ulcer upon the country, and the plague has been raging a week before the lethargic inhabitants awoke to its nature and a rumor of it got outside. Dr. Cameron was away visiting some of his more distant mountain patients, and it was several days before he returned. When he did, he went promptly to investigate the condition of the valley, and was shocked at the real state of affairs. There was urgent need for nurses and physicians; but nurses could not be gotten from the neighborhood, and there was no money to hire trained ones; and he was the only physician available, for Dr. Taylor was too old. So he sent back his horse with the note and set to work. He was young and strong, with trained courage and muscles, and with almost inexhaustible vitality. He must be physician and nurse himself, for no others would come.

There were ten cases when he entered the valley, and 60 people whose wild, unreasoning terror was reducing them to the condition of easy future victims. He quickly organized the more capable of them into nurses and assistants, and set the others to helping establish such sanitary precautions as were still possible. They were all very pliable now in their terror, and clung about him with incoherent beseechings for medicine to save them from the dreaded disease. When they were made to understand that it was sanitary conditions and personal cleanliness more than drugs, and that they must try to control their terror and try to face the situation calmly, they sought to meet his instructions and wishes, so far as such natures as theirs were capable. In a week the ten patients were 20, and in another week nearly 20 more, and then some of them began to die, and some to convalesce. To his other duties Dr. Cameron had to add that of undertaker and help prepare the dead for burial, and to assist in digging the graves. Not even in this work could the shiftless inhabitants be trusted by themselves.

One day as he was showing a man about digging a drain, he heard the hoofbeats of a horse, and looked up to see a woman riding toward him. Thinking her a stranger to the vicinity and unaware of the danger, he threw up his arms in a peremptory motion for her to go back. But the woman, in turn, made a gesture of dissent and came straight on. As she dropped lightly from the horse his sharp reprimand was stifled in an amazed:

"Ethel—Miss Wilgoss!"

"Dr. Cameron!" in an equally amazed voice from the woman's lips.

"Yes. How came you to this place?" He drew himself together sharply. "But never mind that now. Mount your horse and get away from here, quick! I must not touch you, for this is a hole of pestilence, of death, and I am part of it. Hurry! for God's sake!"

Ethel Wilgoss smiled.

"I know about the valley, doctor," she cried lightly. "It is the cause of my being here. A report came to the hospital that there were no nurses in the valley, and but one country doctor, so I started at once. But I never dreamed the country doctor was you. I thought you were still studying somewhere in Europe."

"No," grimly, "the money loss of which I wrote you made me give up that, and I came here instead. It is strong, hard practice, and to my liking, though it is not remunerative. But I don't understand your allusion to a hospital. What has that to do with you being here?"

"I graduated as a trained nurse from there last spring, and have continued nursing in the hospital ever since."

An eager light flashed into his face, and he took a quick step toward her.

"What, did you lose your money, too?" he demanded, hoarsely.

But she was removing her saddlebags from the horse, and did not notice.

"No," she answered quietly. "But I grew tired of society and wanted to be doing something. Now if you will tell me where I am most needed I will commence work at once."

His face regained its calmness.

"It hardly matters," he said. "Every cabin has its need. You can go to any of them. I will look after the horse."

Dr. Cameron had not slept much during the long weeks of watching and working, and the strain was telling on even his stalwart frame. But his work was now beginning to show. The settlement was clean, for the first time in its history; water was not used from any of the polluted springs, but brought from farther up the mountain side; the inhabitants themselves were cleaner, with evidence of their clothing being washed, and the cabins were now thrown open for the entrance of air and sunshine.

Then one day, after all this was accomplished, Dr. Cameron sent hurriedly for one of his assistants. But the new nurse came instead. Her own face had grown white under the strain, and now in her eyes was a comprehension of this new terror. But there was no shrinking in them nor in her voice.

"You have it, doctor?" she asked.

"Yes, for some time. I have kept up as long as I could. I need not explain about the medicines. You know their uses. The people here will help you some, but it will be hard—hard. There are still a dozen patients who need your care. Great God! why must I give out just now?"

He drew a long, shuddering breath, then added simply: "There is nothing but for you to do what you can, Ethel. Neither of us may ever leave the valley. And—and I will say now what I never would under other circumstances. If I do not get over this, and you do, I—I want you to remember I loved you as a strong man can love but once in a lifetime."

"Why did you not say so before, Arthur?" almost sharply. "Sometimes I thought I saw it in your eyes, but you never said a word; and then you wrote that note about your money, and that was all."

"Yes, all—that an honest man could do. You were immensely rich, Ethel, and I with only a very small competence. When that went I did the only thing left me to do. It was hard—"

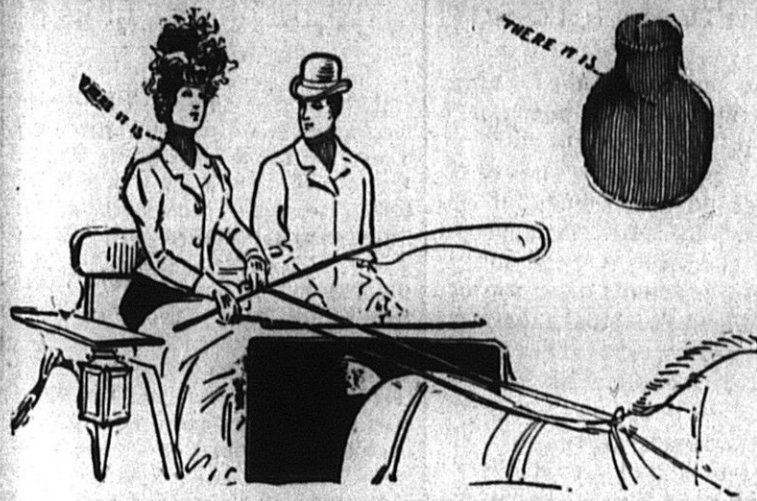

"And cowardly," she interrupted. "You did not consider me. Money is such a little matter. But never mind that now, dear," her voice suddenly softening as she saw his face. "We must not let you think any more. I will get you some medicine."

Two months later they were standing upon the hill which overlooked the settlement. There was no longer danger of infection, and Dr. Cameron had sent for his horse, and the nurse had hers. He was still very weak, but the old look of endurance and determination was coming back to his face.

"So now we part again, Ethel," he said slowly. "You to your hospital and I to my country practice."

"No," with a slight catch in her voice, "I shall go with you, Arthur, even without the asking. You need me more than the hospital."

VILIFIED M'KINLEY.
SOME NEWSPAPERS THAT ARE NOW ATTACKING FRED M.
WARNER.
Same Tactics Used Against Martyred
President Now Used Against Warner.

The Detroit Evening News said, EDITORIAL, June 19th, 1896: "Mr. McKinley will be a Willing Tool in the hands of Congress. He will be a piece of clay in the hands of the politicians, to be molded in accordance with their own sweet will."

The Detroit Evening News said, EDITORIAL, October 22d, 1896, under the heading "The Mortgaged Candidate and the Trusts": "In other words he remained McKinley. And yet his course was consistent. The man who is mortgaged for $18,000 to Mark Hanna" etc., etc., etc.

This was when the Evening News was trying to defeat McKinley, and it imagined that Mark Hanna was a Bad, Bad Man, so it coupled his name with that of McKinley in this sneering way.

In its crusade against Fred M. Warner this year the Detroit Evening News seems to be warming over its editorial utterances of eight years ago against the beloved McKinley. The Evening News tried to fool the people then and failed. The Evening News is trying to fool the people now and it will fail again.

Fred M. Warner, the Republican candidate for Governor, an upright Christian gentleman, a capable public official, a candidate of the people, a successful business man, a pure patriot, is no man's man. He has made no promises for office, is not tied up to any interest or combination of interests, and as Governor he will be controlled by pure motives and honest judgment in the interest of all the people. He is worthy of the support of all good citizens.

FRED M. WARNER'S RECORD AS A STATE SENATOR.

Fred M. Warner voted in favor of a bill for the taxation of sleeping cars in 1895.

Fred M. Warner was one of the twelve Senators who voted (May 27, 1897) to take the Michigan Central Charter repeal bill from the committee.

Fred M. Warner voted for the so-called Atkinson railroad taxation bill at the special session of 1898. Discussing the measure (Senate Journal, 1898, page 238) he said:

"I am in favor of the passage of this bill. While the bill is not, in every particular, as I would like to have seen it, still I think it is in the line of EQUAL AND JUST TAXATION and should be passed. The imperfections, if any, can be fixed later on."

Fred M. Warner was one of the nine Senators who voted against tabling the bill which provided for the reduction of railroad fares in the Upper Peninsula.

Fred M. Warner was one of the seventeen Senators who voted in favor of increasing the rate of taxation of express companies in the special session, called by Governor Pingree, in 1898.

Fred M. Warner's attitude relative to the taxation of railroads. Interview in Detroit Free Press, Feb. 23, 1904:

"I should give the roads fair treatment and nothing more. They are entitled to the same consideration as a private individual or corporation, but no more. If anybody thinks I shall give the railroads undue consideration, let him look up my record in the State Senate and he will find that my votes were always in favor of making the railroads bear their just share of the public burdens."

"The Fred Warner you have known and have befriended all these years will be the Fred Warner who is Governor of Michigan, if the people of this state see fit to elect me, and I promise to you and to all whose favor I seek and expect, that the power behind me as Governor of Michigan, which I will hold as most worthy of attention and respect, will be the good-will and esteem of not only my political friends, but of our political opponents as well, to be gained and held through honest, sincere service rendered in behalf of all the people of our state. I am proud of Michigan, proud of its history and proud of its present, and if elected Governor of Michigan, as I fully expect to be, will endeavor to see to it that no act of mine shall lessen that pride which exists in the minds of all our state's true sons and daughters."—Excerpt from speech delivered by Hon. Fred M. Warner at the State Fair.

ONE ARGUMENT ANSWERED.

Our Democratic critics are claiming that there has been great increase in the expense of conducting the institutions of the state, educational, benevolent and reformatory, arguing from this that the Republican administration has been wasteful and extravagant, if not corrupt. They compare present expenses with those under their administration in 1891-2, showing running expenses in that period increased from $1,578,000 to $3,718,000, which is a rate considerably greater than the rate of increase of population in the state. They do not note, however, that the expense per capita for the inmates, patients and students of those institutions was just the same in 1891-92 as in 1902-04, showing that the management is now as economical as it was then, and that the institutions are caring for a greater proportion of the people of the state now than then, and so more completely fulfilling the purposes of their establishment.

Results thus far obtained in Michigan with primary reform pretty thoroughly demonstrate that the plan advocated by Candidate Fred M. Warner, who stands squarely on the platform adopted by the Republican state convention is the safe one to pursue. Muskegon, Kent, and Wayne counties are having experiences that may possibly lead to the creation of a satisfactory substitute for present nominating methods, but these counties are simply experimenting now and have found that numerous shortcomings have yet to be rectified before the supposed reform method possesses the merit claimed by its champions.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press: are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

A Picturesque Wedding Procession.
Charming Evening Gowns.

A lady in brilliant dress who contemplates a professional church wedding, picturesquely effective—the bridesmaids are to be chosen from the beautiful children ten or twelve years old are to be chosen from the family or friends. They are to be dressed in Charles I. costumes. The color is left to the bride's selection. The skirts of the little gowns should barely show the ankles, the hose and low shoes to match the frocks. A short, loose, straight coat to the hips, matching the skirt, fastens at the waist line with two big satin rosettes, with a draped strap of the same between; a deep lace collar over the shoulders and deep lace turn-over cuffs flaring over a long, loose sleeve; hair in loose curls over the shoulders and falling a little on the cheeks at the sides of the face, while a straight bang hangs low over the brow. A quaint skullcap, showing the hair in front, has wired wing corners over the ears, which are bent so as to turn up and out gracefully on each side.

Of the evening gowns pictured one is in pure white brues lace, combined with white ring spot Brussels net, plain Brussels net and pink velvet ribbon over rose pink taffeta veiled with chiffon. The skirt is circular, with an accordion plaited flounce of the plain net, above which is a lace insertion extending in vine-like points. The waist is bloused over a girdle of velvet straps and has attached skirts. The bertha flounce has chiffon ruffles at the shoulders caught through the centers by velvet straps. Narrow velvet edges the bertha and trims the flounce. From the centers of the rings in the skirt small silver paillettes are pendant.

chiffon over pastel blue taffeta veiled with chiffon to form the second gown. The skirt is of the accordion plaited moire to the top of the graduated circular lace flounce, in which the flower and bud designs are embroidered with shaded blue paillettes. The pointed edge is also finished with a row of paillettes, and at the hem is a wider band above a fold of pale blue satin. The Marie Antoinette waist laces at the back and has butterfly bows of satin in graduated sizes at the front. The full lace bertha has paillette embroidery on the net band at the heading. Olive greens are to figure as revivals both for dress materials and hat trimmings the coming winter. It has been many years since this color has been in fashion. Its popularity was then of long standing. Both in cloth, silk and velvet are these olive greens rich in tone and becoming, while for street suits it is particularly well adapted.

Pieces of good news for those who expended largely upon long handsome plumes last winter is that they are to be again the smart dressy trimming upon hats.—Vogue.

A pint of corn cut, but not grated, from the cob is cooked slowly in three pints of boiling water until tender; rub through a sieve and return to the kettle. Rub three tablespoonfuls of butter smooth with two tablespoonfuls of flour and stir into the soup. Continue to stir until it thickens, then add a pint of boiling milk (part cream greatly improves it), and season with salt and pepper to taste. Fashion's Echoes.

Tulle is the latest elegance in dinner and ball toilets.

Wine colored and purple shades suit the dull finished cloths.

Gold and silver tinsel effects hold sway in elaborate evening gowns.

The Puritan and the Dutch collars made in swiss and valenciennes or the like are useful and pretty to wear with shirt waists.

Full skirts continue to gain favor.

The Russian blouse and the Norfolk jacket are standard styles for the small boy.

Rainbow silk fringe in graduated widths forms effective trimming for an evening gown. Laid in rows on a chiffon and silk foundation, it may form an entire skirt.

Gloves are to be worn bigger than ever this fall, so loose as to wrinkle and look very much too large for the hand. If not a pretty fashion, it is at least economical, as the gloves last longer than tight fitting ones.

Soft white felt yachting hats are trimmed with white ostrich pompons. Newer and very smart are the black patent leather hats with a white and gold braided silk band.

MOISTURE IN BUTTER.

Ways by Which It May Be Controlled by the Manufacturer.

The moisture in butter in many cases, especially in that not washed, holds within it a certain proportion of the casein, or curd, from the buttermilk, says W. R. Gilbert in American Agriculturist. It follows, therefore, that with a larger proportion of moisture there is more chance of the butter becoming cheesy or strong. Most cases of bad butter are due to the fact that substances other than fat have not been properly abstracted. There are several ways in which the intelligent buttermaker can control to a great extent the amount of moisture in butter when it is finished and ready for market. By far the most important of these is temperature, the influence of which is felt throughout the whole process of manufacture.

Cream which has been ripened at a high temperature usually gives butter which is soft when churned. It has a greater tendency to retain moisture, while that which has been slowly and thoroughly cooled before churning will give firmer butter, which drains more readily than when quickly cooled just before churning, even though the temperatures of churning may be exactly the same.

Butter churned at a high temperature retains much more moisture. In farmhouses where there is no deep well and ice is not procurable a good deal of difficulty is experienced. In such cases the cream should be thinner than usual when churned, so that the grains will not gather too quickly. The size of the grain, too, is an important factor. It should be sufficiently large to allow the buttermilk to drain quickly away. A very small grain holds a great deal more moisture.

The Open Cement Trough.

The average farmer is slack in the care of the interior of his stables, says C. S. Plumb in Rural New Yorker. Many really excellent devices are neglected that should be used simply because they are thought to be of too much trouble. The open cement trough presents the very least amount of objection from this point of view. Further, if the herd is a healthy one there will be no special danger from spreading disease through drinking in their open trough extending along in front of a row of cows. Such a trough, with no corners, flushed with water twice daily, I should consider a most feeding and drinking place from the sanitary point of view. In winter there might be some trouble from freezing when extremely cold weather was on, yet this should be dealt with as easily as any other form of watering, excepting where a tank heater is used in the water trough itself, as is so common in the west.

Salt For Cows.

On the model fifteen acre farm in Pennsylvania that raises all the roughage for thirty head of stock, seventeen of which are cows in milk, the cows are given four ounces of salt each daily mixed with their feed. They eat their food better, and the owner thinks they do better when given this amount than when the allowance is smaller. The cows are fed three times a day, and the salt is divided among the three feeds. Fine table salt is invariably used. The cows prefer it to coarse salt.—Department of Agriculture Year Book.

Not Dairy Farming.

A straw stack for feed, scrub cows for producing milk and a wire fence for shelter is not dairy farming, although some men seem to think that the above conditions fulfill all the law in that direction.—Hoard's Dairyman.

SILAGE AND THE SILO

Professor F. W. Taylor in an article prepared for the Connecticut board of agriculture concerning silos said: Taking forty pounds as the average weight of one cubic foot of corn silage, we find that one ton will occupy fifty cubic feet and a hundred tons 5,000 cubic feet. The quantities of silage required for different herds for a period of 180 days: For ten cows, 30 tons, or 2,400 cubic feet; for fifteen cows, 45 tons, or 3,600 cubic feet; for twenty cows, 60 tons, or 4,800 cubic feet; for twenty-five cows, 75 tons, or 6,000 cubic feet; for thirty cows, 90 tons, or 7,200 cubic feet; for thirty-five cows, 105 tons, or 8,400 cubic feet; for forty cows, 120 tons, or 9,600 cubic feet; for forty-five cows, 135 tons, or 10,800 cubic feet.

The dimensions of the silo can be easily figured from the number of cubic feet which it is required to contain.

Siloing Corn.

There is more to be gained by siloing corn than by siloing crops that have finer stems that can be more quickly dried. There is usually great loss in curing the fodder part of corn.—Farmer's Advocate.

Points in Silage Making.

The two important points in making silage are to have the crop mature enough to retain its own juices in the silo and to keep without developing strong odors. Immature corn will pretty surely make strong smelling silage.—American Agriculturist.

An Economical Feed.

We consider silage the most economical of all foodstuffs as well as the least trouble to feed. Bran we find the most expensive, and we wish for the day when a satisfactory substitute for it can be produced on our farms. But this far along anything to take the place of bran seems to be in the experimental stage in Indiana, and we find that to dispense with it, even when the cows are on pasture, generally results in a loss of butter of more value than the cost of the bran.—From First Prize Essay Before Indiana Dairy Association, by Mrs. Charles Lamont.

FIVE KILLED IN WABASH WRECK

A CIGARMAKER AND FOUR TRAMPS MEET DEATH AT SADORUS, ILL.

COMRADE OF VICTIMS ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Tries to Strangle Himself, But Is Discovered by Trainmen and Released—Electric Car Plunges Into River in Texas.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 26.—J. Francisco, a cigarmaker of this city, and four tramps were killed in the wreck of a Wabash freight train at Sadorus, Champaign county, after having been put off the train three times.

Martin Tracy, also a cigarmaker, of Boston, who was suspended four hours with his head hanging close to the dead bodies of his companions, tried to commit suicide by strangulation, but was discovered by the trainmen and released.

Car Plunges Into River.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 26.—An electric car on the line between this city and the El Paso smelting works in Towne, Tex., jumped the track Wednesday with 75 passengers and ran into the Rio Grande river. Several passengers were injured, but none was killed. The embankment was about 12 feet high and the car plunged into ten feet of water. The river had undermined the track.

EX-MAYOR ON TRIAL.

Case of Former Grand Rapids Official, Charged with Bribery, Is Begun.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 26.—The bribery trial of ex-Mayor George R. Perry began Wednesday with the opening statement of Prosecutor Ward and the statement of Attorney A. A. Ellis for the respondent. Prosecutor Ward repeated the story told by Lant K. Salsbury in his confessions, that Perry was given a bribe of $3,333 to aid the Lake Michigan water deal. Attorney Ellis denied that Perry received any money, and declared that at the time the $25,000 boodle fund was sent to Salsbury he was so heavily involved financially that he was contemplating suicide. He had the poison in his desk, so Mr. Ellis said, and was dissuaded by Judge Newnam from using it. Mr. Ellis declared that a man in such straits would not hand out any of the money if he received a $25,000 boodle fund, as Salsbury confessed he did. Salsbury was the first witness in the afternoon.

Earl Comes to Lay Corner Stone.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 26.—Dartmouth alumni and other friends of the college filled this town Wednesday, having come to attend the exercises in connection with the laying of the corner stone of the new Dartmouth hall, which will replace the old building of that name, destroyed by fire last winter. The earl of Dartmouth arrived here Tuesday night, having come from England to lay the corner stone.

Martial Law Continued.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 26.—Martial law continued Wednesday at Berkeley, where the negro politician Blount was taken from jail and murdered. Col. Higgins, commanding the troops there, says they will remain as long as Mayor Allen feels there is danger of an uprising. The murderers are still unknown, but there is a belief that they were familiar with the Berkeley jail.

Prominent Distiller Dead.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 26.—Henry Schwabacher, prominent for many years as a distiller and one of the wealthiest men in central Illinois, died Wednesday morning. He was born in Germany and engaged in the dry goods business in Keokuk, Ia., in 1853. He moved to Peoria in 1861. He had been retired for the past ten years. He was 75 years old.

MAY SPEAK IN THE WEST.

Trip of Judge Parker to Illinois, Indiana and West Virginia Possible.

New York, Oct. 26.—It is among the possibilities of the political situation that Judge Parker will make a trip to the west next week and make speeches in Illinois, Indiana and West Virginia, the cities being Chicago, Indianapolis and Wheeling. It is stated at democratic headquarters that nothing definite has yet been decided, but there was some general talk among those who were discussing the subject that this programme might be carried out. The whole matter is yet tentative and the report is not confirmed by anybody authorized to speak for the committee or for Judge Parker.

Discuss Irrigation.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—The second session of the trans-Mississippi commercial congress, held Wednesday in the hall of congresses, was marked by an even larger attendance than characterized the evening session. The meeting was largely devoted to irrigation and many papers were read treating the methods pursued in reclaiming arid lands.

WANTON ATTACK BY BALTIC FLEET

RUSSIAN WARSHIPS FIRE ON ENGLISH FISHING VESSELS IN THE NORTH SEA.

One Trawler Is Sunk and Shot Behinds Skipper and Mate—Others Are Damaged—Great Britain Demands Satisfaction for Outrage.

Hull, Eng., Oct. 24.—A. M. Jackson & Co., solicitors for the owners of 50 Hull fishing boats, have notified the foreign office and admiralty of an attack on the Hull fishing fleet by the Russian Pacific fleet (commonly designated as the Baltic squadron). The official information is that shortly after midnight Friday the Russian squadron fell in with the Hull fishing fleet in the North sea. The first portion of the fishing fleet turned their search-lights on the British vessels for some time and a little later opened fire. The steam trawler Crane was sunk, and the decapitated bodies of her skipper and mate have been brought to Hull. The steam trawlers Molmein and Mino have arrived at Hull seriously damaged by shots, the latter having 16 holes in her hull. It is feared that other damage was done to trawlers and that at least one more was lost with all hands.

Two Beheaded.

The Moulmein arrived with her flag at half mast. Her skipper states that the trawlers were fishing about 220 miles east by north of Spurn Head at one o'clock Saturday morning, the weather being hazy, when the outlines of several vessels, apparently warships sailing in a line, were dimly seen. Whilst the crew were watching the vessels search-lights were flashed upon them, in the glare of which the Moulmein's crew observed what they took to be torpedo boats approaching, apparently with the intention of boarding the Moulmein. They steamed away, however, and soon the fishermen were horrified to find they were being fired upon. First one and then another trawler was struck by flying shot. What seemed to be a round shot went through the Moulmein galley. The Mino, lying near by, also was struck with many shots, but fortunately the damage was above her waterline and none of her crew was struck.

The bombardment lasted about 20 minutes. When it had ceased the fleet sailed southward, and some of the trawlers sent up rockets. The Moulmein steered in the direction of the rockets. Soon cries were heard, and the Crane was found sinking with another trawler taking off some of her crew. Those seriously injured were removed to a mission ship and the bodies of Smith and Leggett were placed aboard the Moulmein. The other men with minor injuries were put aboard the trawler Sea Gull, which at a late hour had not arrived at Hull. No motive can be assigned for the extraordinary procedure of the Russian warships.

Eighteen Wounded.

From interviews with members of trawler crews it appears that the admiral of the fishing fleet burned green flares to show that they were harmless fishermen, but these signals were ignored. Eighteen injured men are here under treatment. One trawler, the Wren, is missing, and it is feared she has been sunk. There is a rumor that the "Great Northern Fishing Fleet" was also chased by the Russians. This report has not yet been confirmed.

Explanation Demanded.

London, Oct. 26.—Great Britain on Monday sent a long and urgent note to the Russian government, officially detailing the circumstances of the amazing and unexplained attack by the Russian Pacific squadron during the night of October 21, on British fishing boats in the North sea.

The government shows moderation in the note which Sir Charles Hardinge presented to Foreign Minister Lamsdorff Tuesday afternoon. While it awaits explanation for an act which is characterized in strong language as unjustifiable, deliberate and inhuman, it makes no threats, fixes no time limit for response, and contains no demands, the note specifically stating that Great Britain's demands are reserved pending receipt of an explanation.

Czar Sends Regrets.

London, Oct. 26.—The inevitable delays of diplomatic procedure appear to retard a complete and satisfactory settlement of the acute differences between Great Britain and Russia arising from the deplorable North sea affair. King Edward has received from Emperor Nicholas himself a cablegram expressing the deepest regret and a practical acknowledgement that Great Britain's peremptory note will meet with a reply conceding every demand for apology for the act of aggression against the British flag, compensation for sufferers and punishment of the officers responsible for what is everywhere conceded to have been a gigantic blunder.

These developments have allayed to some extent the deep resentment in the public mind. While Great Britain is stirred to its depths, there has not been the slightest evidence of a repetition of the rowdism of Monday night, which is condemned on all sides. The speeches of members of the cabinet and of the house of commons in different parts of the country voice the sentiment of Great Britain, and the spirit in which the utterances were met shows that for the moment party differences have been laid aside and that the country is solidly behind the government.

Display Impatience.

London, Oct. 26.—The morning papers display great impatience over the delay of the Russian government in according satisfaction for the Dogger bank affair. Editorial articles demand that the Baltic squadron must be stopped in its irresponsible career, for otherwise there is no safety for the shipping of any nationality.

Has Not Reported.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's reasons for firing into the British fishing fleet remain as great a mystery as ever. Again at midnight the admiralty announced that the admiral's report of the affair had not been received. The willingness of Great Britain to await the Russian explanation before formulating demands shows consideration for the position in which Russia had been placed by a deplorable blunder. At the same time this consideration has an ominous ring about it, only serving to emphasize the gravity of the situation, the language of the note admitting of no doubt that when the demands are ultimately presented Great Britain intends to insist upon full compliance with them. Whoever the author of the offense may be, it is regarded as certain that Great Britain will demand, among other things, his punishment. It is also considered certain that failure to promptly comply with the demands will be immediately followed by Ambassador Hardinge's recall.

An Unpleasant Incident.

London, Oct. 25.—Count Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador, returned to London Monday night from celebrating his silver wedding with his wife's relatives in Silesia, and barely escaped assault from a crowd at the Victoria station, which followed him almost into the embassy. Fortunately for the issue of peace or war, nothing resulted, yet, throughout the night a special force of police was compelled to guard the Russian embassy. There is no doubt that Count Benckendorff was deeply hurt by the demonstration. After escaping from the hostile crowd that met him at the station, he drove at a gallop to the embassy. Half a dozen rowdies followed, but the ambassador arrived unharmed. His noisy pursuers encountered a cordon of police that had been hurriedly dispatched to guard the embassy. After singing "Rule Britannia" the disturbers dispersed, no arrests being made.

ARMIES IN CLOSE TOUCH.

Outposts of Japs and Russians Along Shakhe River Within 700 Yards of Each Other.

London, Oct. 25.—There has been no resumption of fighting of a general character on the Shakhe river. Both Russians and Japanese are entrenching their positions. The outposts are within 700 yards of each other, and less than four miles separates the main armies. A scarcity of fuel is causing the soldiers to suffer greatly since cold weather set in. St. Petersburg has information that the Japanese army confronting Gen. Kuropatkin is receiving heavy reinforcements from the Port Arthur army and direct from Japan.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—Emperor Nicholas has received the following dispatch from Gen. Kuropatkin, dated October 23:

"The night of October 22-23 passed quietly. At nine o'clock this (Sunday) morning the whole of our volunteer sharpshooters harassed the enemy, while the Japanese tried to attack our outposts, but were everywhere repulsed by the Russian fire."

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—A Harbin dispatch states that Viceroy Alexieff on Monday published an imperial decree appointing Gen. Kuropatkin commander-in-chief of all the land forces in the east and retaining Alexieff in the post of viceroy.

Tokio, Oct. 26.—Field Marshal Oyama reports that the Japanese total casualties were 15,379 officers and men at the battle of Shakhe river.

London, Oct. 26.—No fighting of any consequence by the Russian and Japanese armies in the vicinity of Shakhe is reported.

Tokio, Oct. 24.—Manchurian headquarters, reporting by telegraph, says that the number of Russian dead found on the battlefield and interred up to October 22 makes a total of 10,500. Upon this total Russian casualties are estimated to exceed 60,000. The Japanese captured a total of 45 guns during the Shakhe operations.

Harbin, Oct. 24.—More than 20,000 wounded Russian soldiers have arrived here and are being tended with the greatest care. Every available hand has been set to work in the making of 40,000 shirts for the wounded.

New York's Postmaster Dead.

New York Oct. 26.—Cornelius Van Cott, postmaster of New York city, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon of heart failure, following a sharp attack of acute nervous indigestion. He was taken ill Monday afternoon at his office in the federal building and his condition was such that the attending physician deemed his removal unwise at that time. Tuesday noon Mr. Van Cott appeared much better and was taken to his home in West Eighty-sixth street. Shortly after, however, the patient had a sinking spell and died at 3:25 o'clock of heart failure.

Makes New Record.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 25.—Maj. Delmar, owned by E. E. Smathers, of New York, and driven by Alta McDonald, established a new world's mark for un-paced trotters at the Memphis Driving park Monday, when he circled the track in 2:01½. The previous mark was 2:01½, held jointly by Maj. Delmar and Lou Dillon.

BLOOD DISEASES CURED

Drs. K. & K. Established 25 Years.

He was surprised at how the sores healed—I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itching of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. If a single business place in Holland is left unvisited by the burglars who have been infesting the city of late it will not be because they do not want to make the visits, for they have manifested a desire to loot every store. Early Sunday night they broke into Slagh & Brink's store and helped themselves to a few books, purses and other articles from the stock of notions. The money drawer was broken open but the 41 pennies left there since Saturday were not big enough game for the raiders and they did not take them.

Steps have been taken by the Pere Marquette and the Michigan Central roads to comply with the ruling of the interstate commerce commission in the Michigan fruit case by obtaining a reduction in the rates charged for icing cars. Traffic officials of both roads have requested a meeting with the head of the Armour car lines and it is said that a conference will soon be held with a view on the part of the railroads, at least, of altering the conditions complained of by the Michigan Fruit growers and declared by the commission to be burdensome and unjust.

It is doubtful if any republican has been nominated for governor of this state in twenty-five years with less of an organization back of him than Mr. Warner had. His nomination came about easily and naturally simply because as a man and a public officer he had shown through years of prominence that he was the right sort of a man for the office. The plain people stood back of him and supported him cordially. The demand for his nomination became so general and earnest that powerful influences that much preferred other men for governor saw it was useless to oppose the Warner boom and joined in making him the candidate—Muskegon Chronicle.

More than $1,500,000 of primary school money will be distributed among the counties of the state by the semi-annual apportionment to be made on November 10. The rate will be $2.25 per child of school age. The rate of the apportionment made last May was 55 cents per capita, making a total of $3.10 for the year. This is the largest per capita rate in the history of the state, the increase being due to increased railroad taxes.

Fred A. Stewart, champion pool player of Grand Rapids, and Will Blom, champion of Holland, will play a match game of pool tonight at Will Blom's pool room on River street. The game will be 200 balls and an exciting contest is expected. Although his past record in pool stamps Stewart as a probable winner, Blom is credited with having a good chance, as the game will be played on a 4x8 table, which is strictly to Blom's liking, as he has been playing for years on this kind of a table. Stewart is used to the 5x10 table and this will handicap him a little. Should Blom win he will go after the best of them on a 4x8. Admission to the game is 25 cents.

An echo of the traffic conflict last summer between the Graham & Morton transportation company and the Pere Marquette railway company is the activity displayed in the promotion of electric roads through the counties lying tributary to Lake Michigan on the east shore. This activity grew out of a fight between the Pere Marquette railroad and the Graham & Morton Steamship company, the latter demanding of the former better service and continuation of prorating traffic. The railroad declined to prorate its freight with the steamboat line, and during the last season went out after the business independently. The result has been that the lake transportation interests have formed the companies which will operate the electric lines. Cheaper fares will be made to all points than those charged by the steam lines and the service is to be increased to its fullest capacity in order that passengers may be able to get over the lake almost any part of the day or night. Construction work has been begun on a road running from the latter point to Niles and Dowagiac, and the other will be built in a northeasterly direction from Benton Harbor to Paw Paw lake and Kalamazoo. Both roads, with all of their tributary lines, which will tap nearly all of the richest fruit belt in the state, are expected to be completed by July, 1905.

Ferry Case Goes to Supreme Court

The celebrated Ferry estate case, which was started before Probate Kirby in June 1903 by certain heirs of the late Rev. William M. Ferry, to secure an accounting from Edward P. Ferry, executor of his father's estate, has at last in one of its skirmish lines, reached the Michigan Supreme Court.

The case has become one of the most voluminous ever tried in Michigan courts and it isn't near completion yet by any means. The testimony already taken up makes a total of seventeen volumes, averaging 500 pages each, as recorded on typewriter by the official stenographer.

The particular branch of the case that reached the Supreme Court Tuesday is an application on the part of those representing E. P. Ferry for a mandamus directed to Judge Padgham, ordering him to vacate an order, heretofore entered by him, setting aside a certain appeal from an order made by Judge Kirby.

The decision to be rendered by the supreme court on the question submitted will have a very important bearing on the future proceedings. If the respondents win it will be almost a knock out of the case for the accounting. If the petitioners win there will probably be more developments and a vast amount more proceedings in the questions sure to arise.

The grand prize which both sides are working to get or to hold is an estate in Utah now belonging to Edward P. Ferry, and being administered by his two sons as his guardians, which estate is estimated to be worth from a million to two million dollars.

One of the first things done in the case, was the issuing by the probate judge, of an order requiring that the books and papers of E. P. Ferry be produced. Some of these books had been taken from Grand Haven. From this order appeals were taken, and these appeals were allowed by the circuit judge. Other motions followed and the attorneys for the respondents began proceeding for an application in the Supreme Court for a mandamus to set aside the order dismissing the appeal and ordering to proceed to the trial of the case in supreme court.

Looks Like New Interurban.

The committee on roads, drains and ferries of the board of supervisors reported the Riverside Electric railroad matter to the board of supervisors last week, the committee recommended that the franchise be granted to the railroad company as presented with the exception of clause providing for the plank and maintaining of the bridge by the county.

The supervisors, however, inserted the provision that such grants were given only as far as the board had jurisdiction. The matter of the time limit given to the company for completing the road also came up for discussion. The franchise as originally drafted, provided that the work be commenced within one year and completed in two years or as near as may be. The board however, decided that it would be wiser to place a more definite time for the completion of the road and changed the wording so as to provide for the completion within three years. Under these alterations the franchise was unanimously granted.

The supervisors were all apparently anxious to give the road a chance to come through this county and desired to give it a reasonable right to cross the county farm and to build a bridge across the river at Bass River.

R. L. Williams, one of the promoters of the new road was there when the franchise was first presented and talked to the committee. In the townships where the road has already asked for a franchise, it binds itself to complete the construction in one year. Mr. Williams announces that the capital has all been secured and the big construction company is ready to begin operations as soon as the right of way matters are all settled.

Must Be Vaccinated.

After a thorough discussion of the smallpox situation by the board of health at a meeting Monday evening Dr. H. Kremers, health officer, issued the following in regard to vaccination:

To the Citizens of Holland: Our city is threatened with an epidemic of smallpox, several cases having been reported to the health officer. The board of health is anxious to have every citizen cooperate with them in stamping out the disease.

History and experience have shown that the preventive is vaccination or revaccination. The board would therefore urge every citizen to be vaccinated and to have his children vaccinated.

The board of health would urge corporations to request their employees to be vaccinated at the earliest possible opportunity.

To facilitate and encourage vaccination, the Board of Health offers free vaccination to all those who are not able to pay. All these may call on the health officer and he will give an order on any physician whom they desire to perform the vaccination.

This is the time of year, winter coming on, when people are more closely confined to their homes and smallpox will spread more than in the summer. The Board of Health would further request of every citizen that he report at once all cases sick with an eruption, a breaking out, so that the case may be investigated at once. Furthermore, the board will consider it a favor of anyone to report any persons who, having been quarantined, break such quarantine.

H. KREMERS, Health Officer. Dated, Holland, Mich., Oct. 25, 1904

Supervisors Contest Over Sheriff's Bills.

The report of the committee on criminal bills was turned over to the board of supervisors and the sheriff's bills for attending the Berlin fair stirred up a pretty little contest. Mr. Veldman started the excitement by making a motion that bills 298, 300 and 301 of the sheriff's account be not allowed. These bills amounted to but two or three dollars each but some of the supervisors were of the opinion that the charge was not a proper one against the county.

Prosecuting Attorney McBride gave his opinion in regard to the matter and stated that he believed the sheriff had a perfect right to present his bill for attendance at the fair whether he had been asked to attend or not. Mr. McBride said that it was the sheriff's duty to look out for the county's interests at the Berlin fair and his services in such cases were proper charges against the county.

Secretary Smith of the Kent and North Ottawa Fair association was present and stated that he had employed special police and had not asked the sheriff to be present. Mr. McBride again stoutly argued that it was the sheriff's duty to be present whether he was sent for or not.

The matter went to a vote, however and the motion to reject the particular bills mentioned was carried by a vote of 12 to 10. All of the other criminal bills were allowed without contest or question.

The finance committee reported and gave the following as the list of salaries per annum fixed for the county officers: Probate Judge, $2000; probate clerk, $300; county treasurer $1200; county clerk, $1000; prosecuting attorney, $1000; school commissioner, $1000. The report was approved by a vote of 21 to 1, Supervisor Pruim voting no on roll call.

Mr. Ward made some recommendation in regard to the drainage of the poor farm and the board adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The Board has finished up its work for the October session and adjourned. In the present session the board has taken some very important steps in regard to the future medical bills against the county and the members hope to save trouble with the physicians at future sessions.

The committee on miscellaneous claims and accounts called a number of the persons against whom bills were rendered and who the doctors said were indigent. Many of these stated that no bills had ever been presented to them and J. Nyland, J. VanBemelen, J. Welling, Charles DeBoer and J. Peterson, C. Nyland, son of Mrs. A. J. Nyland, declared that they were not indigent and were willing to pay their bills.

After the testimony had been taken, the committee acted upon the testimony they presented in their report to the board. In it the bills were left practically as they were reported to the last session with the exception of two bills of Dr. VanderVeen. In the Outman case, a bill which had formerly been cut from $103.50 to $70.00 was reconsidered and $10.50 was added. In the matter of the Hietje bill, $5.50 was added to the amount allowed previously. The original bill in this case was for $27.50 and $22.50 was previously rejected.

Pending the approving of the report Mr. Pruim moved that the board allow the bills of Drs. Walkley and Brown, which motion was lost. The report was then passed.

A communication was accepted from Charles DeBoer in which he protested against further action of the board on bills against his mother. He stated that he believed it was the son's duty to pay the bills of a family and he was ready to pay the doctors' bill against his mother at any time they were presented.

The apportionment table for this year was submitted and approved and the tax for the city of Grand Haven is apportioned as follows:

State tax, $3811.38; county, $3610.03; county poor, $366.57; towns, $27780.00; school, $12,500; rejected and charged back, $252.75; milkweed, $42.56; total $48,363.29.
