Schools Giving Emphasis to Needs Of Boys and Girls

Teachers Organized To Study Curriculum In Secondary Schools

Holland public schools this year are giving particular emphasis adapting the curriculum to the needs of boys and girls, according to Supt. Carroll C. Crawford.

All teachers in the secondary schools have been assigned to departmental committees for the purpose of studying the curriculum and determining whether current needs are being met.

These committees meet the third Monday of each month and the work of the departments is integrated through building meetings the second Wednesday of each month.

In elementary schools, building meetings are held at the same time and curriculum committees include spelling, arithmetic and English as well as visual education.

Probation Given Youth On Larceny Charge

Roger Voss, 17, of 350 River Ave., pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Raymond L. Smith today on a larceny charge involving theft of a radio from Gee's Electric shop about last May 7.

He was placed on probation for three years. Conditions of the probation are that he pay fine and costs of $103.90, make restitution to an insurance company of the radio value of $31.50, and pay $3 a month to the probation officer.

Voss allegedly sold the radio to a 15-year-old youth whose case is now in Probate Court.

Youth Confesses Auto Theft and Five Break-ins

Unable to provide $500 bond, Dale Lewis, 18, of 151 West 15th St., was held in city jail today after waiving examination on a breaking and entering charge, the aftermath of a lengthy questioning in which the youth confessed five break-ins, four attempted break-ins and theft of a car belonging to Phillips Brooks, which was found wrecked near Grand Rapids.

Association with the car theft came after Officer Dennis Eide noticed the youth was wearing tennis shoes, and a check revealed the pattern tallied with footprints left in the dust in the Brooks garage.

In his confession, Lewis admitted he had taken the car from the garage Saturday night and wrecked it between 4 and 5 a.m. Monday near the General Motors plant in Grand Rapids.

Further investigation linked the accident with a chase carried on by two Grand Rapids police cars during a rainstorm early Monday morning. Officers in Holland learned that the car, lodged in a deep ditch, was not seen by pursuing officers. The badly wrecked car was in a ditch so deep that sand covered the windshield. Lewis later admitted he was going about 75 miles an hour at the time of the accident. He received only a few bruises.

The confession also revealed break-ins at the Margo Dress shop on Washington square where $100 was taken, the Covered Wagon where $2 was missing, Bouman's Barber shop where $81 was missing and Keppel Coal office where $20 was taken. The aggregate amounted to $150.

The youth also confessed attempted break-ins at Reliable Coal Co., Draper's market, Huntley Coal Co., and Harrington Coal Co.

He was specifically charged with the nighttime break-in at the Margo shop. He waived examination when arraigned this morning before Municipal Judge Raymond L. Smith and was bound to Circuit Court to appear Nov. 8 at 10 a.m.

The youth was associated immediately with the dress shop break-in after a search revealed a large quantity of dollar bills and quarters. He was first taken into custody early Wednesday morning by Officer Henry Vanden Brink after the youth ran into a parking lot as the officer approached him. Officers De Kraker, Jerry Vanderbeek and Ende carried on the questioning.

Wigent was traveling east, and Poel, west. None was injured.

Edwin M. Hale, 49, Spring Lake, arrested early this morning on US-31 in Spring Lake township by state police, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned later before Justice V. Hoffer and posted a $200 bond for trial set for Nov. 8.

Rotary Holds Ladies Night

"Our school system of today is geared to a democracy of 40 or 50 years ago," political science Prof. Harold Dorr, of the University of Michigan, told Rotarians and their wives, at the annual Ladies Night held in the Warm Friend Tavern Thursday.

"We are spending billions of dollars on wars and rehabilitation of those socially maladjusted in Europe, but when our educators ask for a small part of these billions for educational improvements and higher salaries, they are denied these funds."

"New demands are being made on education in the United States, and we are not prepared to meet them," Dorr said. "We must re-evaluate our system of education and our democracy, or we must be ready to stand accountable for the unpleasant results; the main one being a spread of Communism through the western world."

Entertainment at dinner was provided by a string ensemble from Holland High school, and by Herb Ritsema, Phyllis Darrow and Tim Harrison, music students at Hope college.

President Andrew Sall presided at the meeting, at which all women received door prizes.

Occupants of the apartment, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Beach and infant son, Robert Gale, and Mrs. Robert Smith and two children, Gerald, 4, and Ronald, 3, were not injured although some were overcome by the smoke. Mrs. Beach and Mrs. Smith are sisters.

The fire, believed to have started from an oil burning water heater in one of the bathrooms, was discovered at 8:30 p.m. by occupants of the apartment who happened to be outdoors at the time.

The township fire department responded to the alarm. Amount of the loss has not been estimated.

Famed Artist To Visit Hope

Harry Gottlieb, well-known artist, will visit Hope college Nov. 17 and 18, according to Prof. Clarence Kleis, of the college faculty. On Monday, Nov. 17, he will be at a co-ordinators meeting where he will exhibit some of his works. On Monday afternoon he will meet with the Palette and Masque dramatic club and will give a lecture and demonstration in the evening.

On Tuesday, Nov. 18, he will deliver a lecture to the student body at 11 a.m., will meet from 2 to 4 p.m. with the art classes, and will give a repeat lecture, open to the public, at 8:15 p.m.

Gottlieb was born in Bucharest, Roumanie, in 1895, his family moved to Ireland when he was six years old, and came to the United States in 1907 when they settled in Minnesota. His formal art training was at the Minneapolis Institute of Art.

On coming to New York, Gottlieb worked in a factory and in a wall paper design studio. His "most interesting" job, however, was with the Provincetown theater at the time of Eugene O'Neill's rising fame. He designed scenery, was stage manager and part-time actor. Then for 12 years he supported himself by making picture frames for other artists. He carried on his own creative work in spare time.

A Guggenheim fellowship in 1931 made possible a year's study in Europe. He was awarded many other prizes including the gold medal in 1934 at the Pennsylvania Academy of Art, the Carnegie prize in 1935 and the purchase prize and Eyre medal at the Philadelphia Watercolor club for his silk screen print, "Winter on the Creek." He has held six one-man shows.

Gottlieb has given courses in silk screen printing as a fine arts medium at the University of Omaha and Nebraska and at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. He held the first one-man show of silk screen prints in New York. During the last years, he has concentrated on oil paintings.

His work is represented in the Springfield museum, Berkshire museum, New York Public library, the Metropolitan, Whitney and Brooklyn museums and the Universities of Arizona, Georgia and Nebraska.

Chicken Feather Wigs May Soon Be in Style

The United States Department of Agriculture scientists, who have been trying to find new uses for chicken feathers, have discovered that feathers make beautiful hair.

Louis B. Howard, chief of the bureau of agricultural and industrial chemistry says, "Feather fiber has given excellent results when used for wigs for show-window manikins. Its soft, silky appearance is very appealing."

It looks nice in theatrical wigs too, he says. So these beautiful models in the show windows of the smart shops, or those glamorous actresses on the stage may soon be wearing chicken feather wigs—from Rhode Island Reds if they're red heads and from White Leghorns if they're blondes.

Holland Sharpens Offensive Attack For Crucial Tilt

Locals Need Victory To Stay in Loop Race; Bob Malchow Is Out

Fully aware of the importance of their Saturday night tilt with the Maroons of Kalamazoo, Coach Bob Stupka's football warriors prepared for strenuous workouts this week. A hard scrimmage ironed out defensive and offensive flaws Tuesday with some more of the same scheduled for the remainder of the week. The locals held a skull practice in the gym Monday and studied Kalamazoo plays, Stupka said.

For the first time in many years, the locals are definitely in the running for the loop crown with only three games remaining on the schedule. Friday night all eyes in the Southwestern conference will be focused on Muskegon Heights where the Tigers will play host to second place Benton Harbor. If Benton Harbor could whip the unbeaten Heights aggregation, a two-way tie for first place would result. Then if the locals could extend Kalamazoo's losing streak to four in a row, the Hollanders would be firmly entrenched in second place. Besides they would be in a strategic position to upset Benton Harbor here the following Saturday.

If the locals win their remaining games with Kazoo, Benton Harbor and Grand Haven, the Heights would have to win both their encounters with Benton Harbor and Muskegon. Holland will be up against a strong Kalamazoo eleven, however, who have yet to taste defeat on their home field this season. All reports from the Kalamazoo camp indicate that they are a big, rugged aggregation, although a bit experienced in some positions. In addition the Celery City lads have been hampered considerably by injuries this season. They have lost twice in the conference race, once to Grand Haven and Muskegon Heights. Their only league victory was a win over potent Benton Harbor.

Holland survived the St. Joseph game with no major injuries, but Coach Stupka said that Bob Malchow, hard plunging fullback, was out this week with the flu, and would be a doubtful starter for the locals against the Maroons. Malchow turned in an exceptional performance against the Bears last Friday. Stupka said he was undecided who would start if Malchow remained out, but he hinted that Don Piersma might get the starting nod. He said, however, that anyone of his reserve backs might be groomed for the starting post.

Stupka was pleased with his squad's running attack Friday, which functioned effectively for the first time this season. Hopes are high that some more of the same will be in store for Kalamazoo, Stupka said.

Bill Bocks, Holland center, was named captain for the Kazoo contest, the local mentor said.

School authorities also announced that the Holland-Benton Harbor clash which was originally scheduled for Saturday afternoon Nov. 8 will be played Saturday night instead.

It contains pictures of various phases of kindergarten life such as "playing store," children art classes and supervised playground activity. Arrest in Muskegon Solves Vandalism Of Resort Homes Here

Sheriff's officers of Holland and Grand Haven said today that two men being held in Muskegon county jail confessed Wednesday to break-ins at three cottages in the local area.

Muskegon officers said the two men, Richard Luinstra, 27, and Gaylord Peterson, 23, both of Muskegon, also confessed break-ins at summer homes on Lake Michigan from North Muskegon to Holland.

In addition, Luinstra is suspected in a jewel robbery in North Muskegon.

Deputy Sheriff Edward Brouwer said the men confessed break-ins at the Thompson cottage near the Grand Rapids waterworks and at the Muehlenbrock cottage in Port Sheldon township.

From the Thompson cottage the men admitted taking a radio-phonograph combination which they sold in Muskegon for $50 and from the Muehlenbrock cottage a washing machine, a radio-phonograph combination and a valuable inlaid table.

These three items were sold Feb. 24 in a second hand store in Grand Rapids, the concern issuing a check for $65 to a person named Alger. This check was cashed in a Grand Rapids tavern without identification.

The pair also confessed robbing the R. A. Boersma cottage at Buchanan beach on Dec. 18, but officers seriously doubt this date since this summer home and four others in the locality were rifled Feb. 24 under conditions easy to establish the time because of a heavy snowfall.

From the Boersma cottage, the pair admitted taking an outboard motor, a tool box and tools and a small table radio which Luinstra admitted smashing near the highway when it slipped from his hands. This smashed radio was found by officers on Feb. 24 on top of the snow.

Loot from the Boersma cottage also was sold to the second hand store in Grand Rapids on Feb. 24. The men would not advance information on other robberies at Buchanan beach and officers plan to question them a second time. It was on Feb. 24 that cottages owned by Boersma, Larry Kolb, and Ben Stall of Holland, Pearl Hart of Chicago and a Mr. Lullof of Grand Rapids were entered.

When the break-ins were noticed, sheriff's officers said vandalism seemed to be the motive rather than robbery since doors were battered down, windows broken, furniture smashed and dishes and phonograph records broken. In nearly every home the telephone was torn from the installation and smashed. All places were ransacked.

Jerald Polinski, 17, of 95 West Eighth St., paid fine and costs of $5 in Municipal Court today on a Horton law violation involving hunting on property without written permission.

He was the 23rd person to pay such a fine on complaint of Henry Van Dyk, Holland township farmer, who signed 25 complaints against hunters on Oct. 15, the first day of the season. Two complaints were for juveniles.

Bert Van Dis of Douglas paid costs of $7.50 in Municipal Court today on a parking charge after Van Dis neglected to pay a $1 fine after a recent arraignment. A warrant was issued after he failed to answer a mailed reminder.

Herbert J. Schurman, 20, of 346 College Ave., paid fine and costs of $15 on a speeding charge.

Strong Holland Ground Attack Stops St. Joseph

Locals Overtake Bears To Notch Third Win; Malchow Runs 66 Yards

Displaying a vastly improved running attack, the Holland High gridders Friday night subdued a stubborn St. Joseph eleven, 19-6 on the St. Joe field. The locals scored all of their markers by way of a vicious ground attack, paced by a 66-yard run by Bob Malchow in the last stages of the game. Coach Bob Stupka's lads have now compiled a three win and three lost record, with three conference games remaining on the local card.

Holland again spotted their opponents a first quarter touchdown early in the game, but came right back to take a 7-6 lead by the end of the first period. After Holland failed to gain after the opening kickoff, Don Van Hekken booted a 55-yard kick to Bob Burandt on the St. Joseph 10. Burandt showed his ability by racing 70 yards to the Holland 10 before lateralling to teammate Dick Schalon for the first score. The try for extra point was missed and the locals trailed 6-0.

After taking the kickoff on their own 30-yard marker, the Hollanders revealed a potent ground attack, by reeling off five consecutive first downs in the 70-yard march. With Bob Malchow and Frank Wlodarczyk bearing the brunt of the attack, the locals marched to the eight, from where Wlodarczyk went over. Fuzz Bauman converted and Holland led 7-6.

A second quarter fumble by St. Joe on their own 36-yard line provided the Stupkamen with the first "break" of the game. Holland recovered and on the first play from scrimmage, Van Hekken faked an end run and passed diagonally across the field to Bauman who caught the ball and was bounced out on the four-yard stripe. Wlodarczyk carried the ball to the one, before Dave Kemper went over on a quarterback sneak. Bauman missed the conversion and the score stood 13-6 at the half.

The third quarter was uneventful although Holland did drive to the St. Joe 20-yard stripe before losing the ball on a fumble. Punts by both elevens occupied the remainder of the period.

In the final period, the Dutchmen started another drive which carried them to the Bears' nine yard line, when they fumbled, and St. Joe again recovered. Making a final last quarter drive, the fighting Bears moved the ball all the way to the Holland 17 before losing the ball on downs when the stalwart Holland forward wall held. Holland took over and made a first down on their own 28 before Malchow galloped 66 yards off his own right guard to the St. Joe six yard line. Then on the next play, Roger Prins went into the end zone for the final Holland tally. Bauman again missed the conversion and the final score stood 19-6. The contest ended soon after with Holland in possession on the St. Joseph 38.

Holland displayed a varied attack, and proved to local supporters that they could score on the ground as well as by the aerial route. Before the St. Joe game, the Hollanders had scored all of their scores, but one, through the air. Bob Malchow looked exceptionally good for the locals while Bob Burandt of St. Joe constantly broke loose for substantial gains.

Statistics show, however that the Stupkamen completely outplayed the Class B lads. Holland compiled 12 first downs with the Bears getting but four. The locals attempted only three passes and completed one, while the St. Joe gridders tried 12 aerial tosses and completed three.

Holland enters the final stages of its Southwest conference card next Saturday night when they travel to Kalamazoo to battle the Maroons under the lights.

Woman's Club Warned By Former Fire Chief

Fred P. Higgins, retired Grand Rapids fire chief, ironically told members of the Woman's Literary club Tuesday afternoon that if people are going to persist in permitting conditions conducive to fire, they may as well "have a good fire" and be done with it. Using amusing incidents drawn from his 49 years of service with the Grand Rapids fire department, the speaker emphasized the hazards common in most households.

Mrs. Higgins warned against careless use of flame and gasoline, of lighted cigarettes, hot ashes, rubbish, defective wiring and electric appliances. He also brought out, in his inimitable style, the proper method for summoning and assisting the fire department when the need arises.

The former chief also related incidents of the fire department's "extra-curricular" activities, in which cats, canaries and parrots have been removed from trees.

Mrs. Clyde Geerlings, first vice-president, conducted the meeting. Announcement was made that next Tuesday there will be a dessert tea at 1:30 p.m. honoring new members, followed by a program by Eleanor Sykes Peters, recreator of plays.

Preceding the club meeting, members of the Public Affairs group met for dessert in the tea room, and participated in a round table discussion on educational needs in the city.

Mrs. J. B. Brower served as moderator. Mrs. Ted Du Mez presented problems facing Holland schools and gave a detailed description of their needs. Mrs. Mildred Westrate showed how needs of the schools have a direct bearing on the health of the pupils, and Mrs. Bruce Mikula explained the plan which has been made to correct the problems now facing the public school system. Dr. Lester Kuyper, chairman of the Citizens school committee, told how the financial needs of the plan could be met through increased millage. A discussion followed.

Mrs. Vernon Ten Cate presided and Mrs. Stuart Padnos explained the Foster Parent plan by which 32,000 European children, victims of war conditions, have been assisted in the 10 years of its existence. Objectives of the Public Affairs committee, as outlined Tuesday, are "to study various problems and to accept some responsibility for their solution." Senator Ferguson Predicts Serious Special Session

By Senator Homer Ferguson

THE PRESIDENT'S announcement that he is calling a special session of Congress for Nov. 17 came as something of a surprise to those in Washington who were disturbed and aware that no concrete program of action had been formed to meet either of the critical questions of foreign aids or domestic prices.

No program of foreign aid is possible, of course, until returns are in from the various fact-finding groups that are now in the field, representing the Executive branch and the Congress. And the price situation at home rests to a large extent on the foreign relief program.

What the President did was to recognize the fears and ferment in the people of this country, and that the situation was getting out of hand. He sought to relieve the fears by a notice that the law-making body of the nation would be called and poised for action.

Beyond that he was not in a position to submit a specific course of action except to make clear he was aware of the fact that our people, who have been hearing so much about a crisis in Europe, are still deeply concerned about the price situation which is hitting them where they live.

IT APPARENTLY is the President's thought that the various foreign reports the Executive department has been collecting will be ready by Nov. 10. On that date the Senate and House Foreign Affairs Committees have been called to review their findings obtained in investigations and hearings held during the recess, as well as the reports from the President.

Those committees will recommend legislation authorizing this aid. After that legislation is passed the Appropriations committees will start work on the actual appropriation of funds to carry out the necessary aid.

But it is a double-barreled program the President will dump before Congress. He will ask Congress for what probably will amount to a billion dollars of stop-gap aid for Europe. At the same time he also will ask for some anti-inflationary measures at home. He has described these measures as "commodity allocations and controls" without describing further to us just what he believed they should include.

THE PROBLEM OF Congress will lie in trying to balance the two, for it is now clear to everyone that our program of foreign aids has exerted a tremendous inflationary pressure on our home markets. What we have to bear in mind is that we don't ship dollar bills abroad; we send food, and clothing, and equipment—all the items, in fact, that are so short here.

A simple way out of the inflationary spiral would be just to abandon all foreign relief. But to our American way of thinking, that cannot be done. Aside from the deflationary effect that undoubtedly would have, with untold suffering the consequence, I have heard no one in Congress say that we should leave Europe to its own devices. In the first place we, as a people, do not favor such a program in the light of Christian charity.

Americans, whatever their own troubles, do not like the thought of starvation anywhere. Secondly, the stop-gap aids the President will propose tie in closely with a long-range program which is known as the Marshall plan. Of course, as Secretary Marshall made clear last week, he has no plan in a literal sense. He merely has expressed an idea that we should help Europe reconstruct herself, with the aid of our resources, because an economically healthy Europe is the most likely way to preserve world peace.

That idea seems to make considerable sense. But I predict that Congress will examine all proposed aids very carefully. As long as we are footing the bill, not just in dollars but in terms of our own standard of living, I think Americans will want every assurance our aids will accomplish their intended purposes, that Europe does intend to help itself, and that we are not saddling ourselves with a permanent debt.

SUCH A CLOSE scrutiny may relieve the price pressure here. There will be suggested to Congress various control systems that may make it more easy to balance the foreign problem against the domestic problem.

Incidentally there seems no indication those controls would include price controls as we knew them during the war, first because it would take too long to put them into effect, second because of the widespread resentment, still felt, against OPA mismanagement, and finally because of the bad effect price controls would have on production. It must always be remembered that the real answer to inflation is the production of sufficient goods to meet all buying demands.

But the anti-inflation program is so broad and so serious there certainly will be many other suggestions for relief and innumerable related problems are bound to creep into the agenda. The President's proclamation simply reads "the public interest requires that Congress be convened" and sets no limit on its scope because it could not set such a limit.

Without doubt it will be the busiest special session of Congress in history. Certainly it will be one of the most serious.

Belgian Organist Thrills Music Lovers in Chapel

Flor Peeters, Belgian virtuoso and composer, gave residents of Holland and students at Hope college a real insight as to how the modern organ should be played, in a brilliant recital Wednesday night in Hope Memorial chapel.

Mr. Peeters, who is on a concert tour of the country, displayed an infallible technique, mixed with sensitive interpretations of the works he played, throughout the program.

Opening the recital with Handel's "Concerto in F Major," the organist evidenced an accurate, amazing technique on both manuals and pedals, accentuating through-out. This concerto, varied in moods, proved to be a striking opening for the concert.

Next on the program was the Bach "Fugue in G Minor," sometimes identified as "The Great Fugue." An excellent rendition was given of this difficult piece. A choral, "Wachet Auf," also by Bach, was next played. Here, sensitive interpretation mixed with beautiful registration was evidenced.

The third part of the program consisted of three works by the artist, "Lord Jesus Has a Little Garden," an choral with variations on an old Flemish song; "Morgenhymn," and "Symphonic Fantasy." The first two pieces in this group, were quiet and restful, while the third, a brilliant work with a melodious theme, was particularly striking in its eloquence.

This work, full of intricate rhythms, offered chance for much contrast and manifestation of a master technique. The finale of this piece was thrilling, with the full organ sounding a mighty fortissimo.

Contrasting this fiery work was Cesar Franck's "Pastoral," Vierne's, "Imprimptu," the registration of which was particularly outstanding, and another choral, "Es ist ein Ros' entsprungen," by Brahms.

The recital closed with the first part of the Widor fifth symphony. This is a tremendous organ work, calling for the utmost skill and sense of rhythm on the part of the player. Mr. Peeters gave a superb performance.

The toccata from the same symphony was played as the first encore. Mr. Peeters bringing out the powerful quality of the pedal organ in this part of the work. For his second encore the organist chose a brief prelude by Corelli, a piece in the style of many organ works considered popular today.

NAM Support of St. Lawrence Seaway Urged

Report Claims Project Would Raise Economic, Industrial Potential

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30 — Maintaining that completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway Project will be of economic benefit and desirable for national defense, a special committee of the National Association of Manufacturers will urge the NAM board to support the project when the board meets on October 29.

The Industrial Problems committee which was set up to study the St. Lawrence and similar projects pointed out that all major economic changes proposed in the past have had opponents at the time because of anticipated harmful effects.

"Ample experience has shown that anticipated dangers have been exaggerated and that sometimes initial handicaps to certain industries have been more than compensated by subsequent benefits," the committee's report said.

The committee prophesied that the project "would tend to increase the economic and industrial potential, just as the development of the Panama Canal had a significant and beneficial effect on the nation's industry and transportation."

The project would also be desirable for national defense, "even though the entire investment could not be liquidated in fifty years," the committee report said.

The report recommended that before construction begins, a survey should be made by the War Department to determine cost. The committee also believes that it should not be undertaken until labor and material are more available.

TEN PRINCIPLE CAUSES OF DEATH OTTAWA COUNTY 1946

NUMBER OF DEATHS	CAUSE	RATE PER 100,000
207	HEART DISEASES	324.0
101	CANCER	159.0
59	APPOXY	91.0
38	DISEASES OF EARLY INFANCY	59.7
37	ACCIDENTS	58.2
27	KIDNEY DISEASES (Nephritis)	42.4
22	HARDENING OF THE ARTERIES (Arteriosclerosis)	34.6
14	DIABETES	22.0
10	PNEUMONIA	16.7
6	SENILITY	12.5

This table, prepared by the Ottawa County Health department, shows principal causes of death during 1946. The statistics, compiled for presentation in the unit's annual report, were released by Dr. C. Dale Barrett, Jr., director. This is the first of several articles based on the report. Others will appear in The Sentinel from time to time.

Heart Diseases Account For Most Ottawa Deaths

The three leading causes of death—heart diseases, cancer and apoplexy—remained in their same relative positions as during 1945, according to the annual report of the Ottawa County Health unit. Diseases of early infancy moved up from 5th to 4th place, and pneumonia rose from 10th to 9th place. There were 37 fatal accidents of which 11 involved motor vehicles. It is significant to note that only one communicable disease, pneumonia, appears in the first 10 causes of death, the report shows. Tuberculosis, however, nearly made it this year with seven deaths recorded.

Cancer, the second principal cause of death, claimed 101 lives last year or was responsible for one out of each six deaths. Since there are available certain effective tools for fighting cancer, i.e., early diagnosis, surgery, X-ray and radium, it has become, in recent years, more and more of a public health problem. The Ottawa department is co-operating with all agencies, volunteer and official, in educating the public about the facts of cancer. Many cancers can be cured if discovered early.

Olive School Board Hands in Resignation

Grand Haven, Oct. 30 (Special) —The entire school board of Olive district No. 5 handed in resignations to Jennie M. Kaufman, superintendent of schools, this morning. The district, in view of the recent law, has established no funds with which to provide transportation for these children, most of whom attend Holland High school.

If they had been notified of the new law, arrangements could have been made to establish a revolving fund for the purpose of providing transportation, the board explained.

Sophomores Win Hope Tug-of-War

A grimy, hard working team of sweating, puffing Hope freshmen reluctantly went through Black river Friday afternoon, dragged by the victorious sophomores. The freshmen reached their opponents' river bank 29 minutes after Gordon Brewer, official, fired the starting shot. As a result of the pull, all freshmen will be required to "pot" to sophomores for one week. They previously were subject only to juniors and seniors.

The pull started at 4 p.m. when both teams were given five minutes to dig holes for footing. After a minute, they pulled from a sitting position for 15 minutes. After resting for one minute, they were on their feet until the finish.

The sophomore tuggers, coached by Con Vander Woude, Bob Van Zyl and Bob De Young never relented, and from the first, they inched the rope to their side until the first froth hit the water. The froth, coached by Jack Stegeman and Ernie Meusen, were persistent enough and worked just as hard, but could never regain the lead acquired by the sophs in the initial minutes.

Members of the victors' team were Sam Pickens, Warren Huyser, Jerry Naber, Jack Ryskamp, Merrill Noordhoff, Jim Douglas, Frank Sterk, Ken Leetsma, Gerald Muller, Ed Dunning, Rodney Kerr, Wayne Kinnemeier, Les Klaasen, Howard Bruggers, Norm Siderius, Ken Vander Broek, Harvey Moes and Leonard Wagner.

Losers were Bob Langenberg, Bob Mulder, Jim De Jonge, Gardner Wierenga, Bob Sundin, Florian Meulbroek, Niel Droppers, Bob De Jonge, Gene Davidson, George Reineke, Austin Van Dyke, William Holly, Everett Monk, Con Boeve, Bill Meyer, Craig Leslie, Preston Petroelje and John Breen.

In the early 1800's, no newspaper had a circulation of 1,000.

William A. Cobb, retired railroadman, hasn't lost his interest in sports, stock raising and railroading, all of which are in his background. Cobb, descended from forefathers who carried arms in the Revolutionary war, has friends of all ages. His reading, naturally, includes magazines devoted to American railroading.

Bill Cobb Quit Ranch For Railroad Career

In 1870, exactly one year five months and three days after Lealand Stanford, president of the Central Pacific railroad drove the last spike (of gold) into a laurel tree, using a silver hammer — William A. Cobb was born.

Half a continent away from this historic event in Utah, Bill Cobb was born Oct. 7, 1870 on a stock farm at Williamston, Mich. But the spell of railroading reached across mountain and desert and claimed Bill for its own. And he has no regrets. He's retired now, but he made railroad history before he finally surrendered to a life of retirement among friends and memories.

He was one of the best baseball players the Williamston High school ever had. After graduation Bill, enrolled at the Cleary Business college at Ypsilanti where he rounded out his education. Cleary college did not field football or basketball teams, so Bill didn't compete.

"What with school being tougher than it is now," said Bill, "I didn't have the time for baseball either."

Upon completing his course, he pushed on to Bowling Green, Ohio, and began work with Standard Oil company, working around oil wells. "Measuring gauges of the big storage tanks," he said, "was my job."

1892 found Bill turning cowboy and returned to Williamston, where he and a friend set up a business of buying horses and shipping them to Buffalo, N.Y., via express. The year 1892 will be remembered by older citizens as the year of the big financial crash. Bill said that "A good horse would sell for about $175 in those days. The hay-burner was chief source of power, both in the field and for trips to the county-seat," said Bill with his well known shy grin.

Came the year 1894 and Bill landed in Holland to begin what was to be his life's work with the railroad.

Bill was a yard clerk and yardmaster for 47 years. From 1894 to 1939 he watched box-cars of all types and shapes roll by his office and into their allotted yards, or waved a farewell to trains as they rolled by with cargo for all parts of the nation. Bill, realizing not everyone knows about yardmasters, yard clerks, link and chain coupling, and other terms so he explains, "A yard-clerk is just as the name implies, a clerk," he said. "Only he is clerk to the yardmaster. He went on to tell some of the duties that a yardmaster would do. The yardmaster is in charge of all the train crews and switchmen. He arranges trains so deliveries can be made without splitting the train in too many parts. To explain how the link-pin coupling worked he used for example the same old clevis used on a farm. It is simple to understand when he said it that way.

Few cars had air brakes then and those that did were placed behind the engine and tender so they could be connected with the air hose. "All of this was in 1894," said Bill. "In those days a brakeman, called a brakie, would carry a short cut to help him spin the large wheel on top of each car. The wheel controlled the hand brakes, and it took a fast man to stop a train in a short distance," he said.

As late as 1916 all the trains on the Pere Marquette were fired by hand. It kept one man busy all the time to keep the fire box full and the pressure up. But then after 1916 the engines began to come out with stokers and work was much easier for the fireman," said Bill.

During the early part of 1900 a brakeman would work eleven hours straight through and his pay would be $2.10. Bill added that of course $2.10 would buy an awful lot of food at that time too. Bill stayed in Holland until 1905, then was sent to Grand Rapids. He worked in the yardmaster's house until 1908. Benton Harbor was his home during 1913, then he moved on to Chicago during 1914. Since 1914 until 1939, he has been here in Holland as yardmaster.

The railroad used to ferry broken cargo from Ottawa Beach to Milwaukee during the early part of 1900. Broken cargo is unloading of the freight cars at the dock and loading the freight onto the ships. The docks were a little east of where the hotel did stand and the officials of the Chicago and Western Michigan railroad owned the hotel at that time.

The bulk of material hauled in 1890 was lumber from Michigan to be shipped across the lake by ship to Chicago and Milwaukee. A car ferry, used to haul freight cars, began in 1899 by the Chicago and Western Michigan. One of the biggest ships was the "City of Midland and Ludington" which held 32 loaded cars, made the trip from Muskegon to Milwaukee. The tracks ran from the dock on-board the ship, thus it was easy and fast to load and unload a string of cars.

Bill belong to the Blue Lodge Chapter the Masonic Order. He wouldn't tell much about this, except that in 1921 he was master of the lodge, that was when the new lodge was built.

He has two daughters and four sons living today. One of his boys is in the Merchant Marine and Bill is pretty proud of him. "He has been all over the world and is a steward's mate," said Bill.

Ever since he was old enough to vote he has voted a Republican ticket—with the exception of one time. That was when Theodore Roosevelt ran on the Bull Moose ticket.

Bill said he could remember a lot of famous men coming to Holland while he was yardmaster. "Not like today's speeded up campaign, the men who were running for governor or President during my time would have a special train to be used traveling about the country in, stopping at all the towns and making speeches from the back platform," said Bill.

The Ladies Aid met on Wednesday, Oct. 15. They answered roll call with the theme word, "King."

Miss Jerene Hulst, a bride-to-be, was honored with a surprise shower at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. Lezman. Her mother, Mrs. E. Hulst, and Mrs. Lezman were hostesses for the evening.

Caroline Berens was at the home of her parents the past week-end.

MILLIONS FOR

"POLITICAL EDUCATION"

The two big labor bodies, at their conventions at San Francisco and Boston, took steps to raise some millions of dollars for what they euphemistically called "political education." By that phrase, as everybody understands, they mean replacing those members of congress with new members who voted for the Taft-Hartley bill.

If the money is raised and spent in conformity with existing law, even if the objectives, to be attained by the expenditure of such vast sums are given fancy names, no true American can have a reasonable objection. The congressmen and senators who have to face political battles for their seats as a result of those labor maneuvers will be made uncomfortable of course, but even they can't raise a valid objection.
Anyone who goes into politics must be reconciled to having someone else try to get his seat.

And labor as a whole is merely doing what capital as a whole has been doing throughout our history. The present Republican congress was placed in power by methods of that kind. There is nothing wrong about a group of like-minded people taking steps to elect the kind of people who will reflect the political points of view those people favor. By the same token, there is nothing wrong on the part of labor to use all legitimate means at their command to elect the kind of congressmen who will reflect what the leaders of labor think is labor's point of view.

Some people at the moment in power talk as if it is somehow wrong for labor to spend money to achieve political action. In the same way a good many people in the camp of labor often talk as if it was wrong for the other side to spend money to arrive at its political goal. Each side is of course wrong if it uses money to buy elections or to engage in other illegal practices.

But that is not in question.
There is a disposition on the part of both camps to charge that money raised by the other side is shady money. But there is no reason, under the American system,
why labor should not do all it can
to defeat the present congress.
Nor is there any reason why the other side should not do all it can to continue that congress in office. That is merely the working out of the American "political education" other than the kind contemplated in the present situation.

Christian Standards of Conduct
James 3:1-6; 4:4-10
By Henry Geerlings

We live in an era of tests and measurements. Our educators have gone far beyond testing students merely on their grasp of information. The encyclopedia idea of education is gone. Modern tests involve the measure of attitudes and achievements in character. In directing the thought toward the characteristics of life and to traits of character a great advance has been made in the matter of a goal of life. Many years ago Jesus introduced the idea of attitudes and conducts as the test of life. In studying today about measuring life by the Christian standards we are returning to the teachings and practice of Jesus.

An ancient philosopher said that the unexamined life is no life at all. In several places Scripture urges us to examine our conduct and to test our lives by the standard of the pattern laid down by Jesus. Whether we can measure accurately our attainments in the moral and spiritual life is somewhat doubtful for the present, although the future may hold a great deal in store for us. At least we ought to be willing to examine our lives and see if there is anything good in us. Our communion preparatory services serves such a purpose, but its formal character may tend to remove the full significance from us. But if this service is thoroughly followed it can become a searching examination—a measurement by the Christian standard.

There should be a testing of life as well as of faith. There is an orthodoxy of conduct as well as the orthodoxy of belief. If Christ advocated a test for life we can well afford to follow His example and plan to apply a test
to our lives.

Christianity implies that the disciple has taken on new life and the old life is gone. Acceptance of the Christian faith and life should show signs of growth and development in the life of the Christian. Christians ought to be different from those who do not accept the Master and His way of life. Is the distinction between Christians and non-Christians in your community noticeable or is the difference so small that men
wonder what difference Christ-ianity makes? A modern school of thought and philosophy advocates the principle that if it makes no difference there is no difference. Whatever may be the weakness of this system of thought, there is something challenging in the idea. Christianity ought to make a difference in the lives of its adherents. We ought to stand out from the crowd and be marked by a different way of acting and living.
We are in the world but not of the world. If the Christian business man, teacher, professional man, or laborer does not differ from the non-Christian member of the same calling, Christianity has failed to take hold. Christians ought to be willing to be measured by their fellowmen and tested by Christian standards of life.

By their fruits ye shall know them, was the standard laid down by Jesus and is binding upon those of us who are followers
today. Our conduct, our behavior, our attitudes, and our general outlook upon life are subject to the testing by Christians ideals.
While no one has the right to raise a standard for others he does not raise for himself, non-church people have measuring rods for church members. Right or wrong, people judge our doctrine by our deeds.

Christian life should not be judged by its don'ts only. The Christian test of life should be positive and constructive, not negative. Christianity demands that we do the right thing as well as avoid doing the wrong thing.
Christianity demands that its adherents have positive virtues. We should be known through our consecrated service in doing the right and noble thing in the service of God and man.

There is only one way to walk
as a Christian and so fulfill the purpose of our creation. It cannot be done by moral resolution, by regulations imposed from without. It can be done only from within as the life is filled with the power of the Spirit. There is a walk, a manner of life and conversation which is truly Christian. It is not difficult to distinguish it from the way of the world. Its ideals are spiritual. The world's ideals are fleshly. This Christian walk is attained as the spirit of righteousness, love and holiness crowds the world out of our lives.

story appearing in the Wednes-

taking this step at the special

be the move made by the coun-

the council adopted a resolution

Why having a woman in the White House would be the same as having a dress goods cabinet.
She'd be dictated to by some Hollywood or Paris dress designer.

This same philosopher admits women have as good intelligence
as men and claims he knows a lot of women who are really 150-watt intellects, perfectly capable of showing up to advantage in any company. One particular woman he admired was a leader in her field. When she spoke everybody listened, because she knew what she was talking about. Well, that is, until she showed up in one of those throwbacks to World War I hobble-skirt days.

Our informant says it was a scandal to the jaybirds how fast
she became an intellectual wall

all, but just dazedly looked at her ensemble and finally she just shut up and faded away.

That's just the way it was.

What with high prices and all,
the Ambusher has been reading about how to save on food bills

appetizing manner.

The formula seemed to have been worked out by a guy who knew what he was talking about so the Ambusher just naturally started looking for those cheaper cuts of meat.

Believe it or not, the cheapest piece of meat in the counter was a suspicious looking piece of tissue billed at 58 cents a pound.
This then is the expert's way of buying the cheaper cut of meat!

Volleys From
Ambush

THIS IS THE time of year
when I discover that those brown leaves the trees are shedding are literally crawling with plant food.
If I just let them stay on the ground and rest, I am sure they will supply the soil with phosphates, nitrates, sulfates and maybe even eutrates. Who knows, those leaves that everybody is so busily burning might even have atomic energy nobody has even discovered yet?

Then too, there is the esthetic side. There is something satisfying in a thick brown carpet of leaves. They snap and crackle like breakfast food when you walk through them. Why even a cat couldn't cross my yard without warning every bird in the block.
And it just stands to reason that nature wouldn't have just let the leaves fall on the ground unless she had a purpose behind it all. And in the wild, the leaves just fall on the ground year after year and rot into rich humus that supports abundant plant life.

And besides, who would want to spoil the children's fun by taking away those leaves. See, they have made a fox and geese ring in the leaves.

All right, dear, just as soon as I find my old soccer sweater and my fishing hat. Yes, dear, I'll rake up every last one of them. But a lot of good it will do me. There is a very brisk wind blowing and there will be leaves there by nightfall. Yes, dear, I'm going.

In quite a roundabout fashion I discovered that Dr. William Schrier and the Ambusher have something in common. We frequently eat peanut butter sandwiches Saturday afternoons. Especially when there is a tea somewhere about the town.

I must confess that this item is not original, but the thought is so dandy, I wish I'd thought of it first.

Women, said this oracle, aren't ready for the really big jobs in this country—such as being President. The reason is evident—their slavish desire to be fashionable.
Take these long skirts, for instance. Can you imagine the President of the United States worrying about his, I mean, her hem-line with the world pulling apart
at the seams.

Preparation or National Death
Facing America

Preparedness or disaster are the alternatives facing America, Chester A. Ray, Allegan attorney, told the Holland Kiwanis club
Monday night.

"No nation on earth is impervious to the mailed fist of the god of war, if by chance that nation stands between an aggressor
and his designs of aggression.
Three wars in the last 50 years should have taught us that," he said.

Ray, who served 3½ years in the U.S. Navy, is prosecuting attorney of Allegan county.

The United States cannot afford to pay the cost of a professional army of sufficient size to be effective. Three wars have shown us that 90 per cent of the effective forces in the field are civilians. But each time we have had time to mobilize, train and equip our citizen army, the former naval officer said.

"The minor regimentation incident to universal military training must be balanced against the possibility of our total destruction
at the hands of a ruthless enemy.
Our ideology can live forever provided we will fight to defend it and provided we are willing, able and ready to resist at all times
the inroads that foreign ideologies
make against us," he said.

"Perfectly honest and sincere people oppose military preparedness because they feel war can be outlawed. This has been tried before, so has appeasement, and co-operation, and appeals to reason. None has worked. So until the United Nations has a police force capable of dealing with aggressor nations, is it too much to ask that we give one trial to semi-preparedness?" he concluded.
Ray was introduced by Program
Chairman Dan Vander Werf.

President Sir Borr conducted the meeting. Guests were Dave White, Verne Tuls and Herbert Bultuis,
all of Holland. Gerald Van Wyke was welcomed as a new member.

Washington PTA Hears
Challenging Address

One of education's most challenging problems is treating pupils as individuals, Dr. Carl Horn of Michigan state college told the Washington school PTA Tuesday night.

"Every youngster is different and we have discovered that the IQ is not the chief limiting factor in a child's development. We must find the talent in each child and develop it," Dr. Horn said.

Hunter's Policy 'Buck-Fever' Aid

The first symptoms of "buck-fever" are beginning to show in every community today as fishing poles are stored and the old deer rifle is unslinged.

This deer hunting malady reaches its peak Nov. 15th when patients quit their homes to flood hunting areas.

Northern Michigan is saturated with these temperamental inmates who crowd the highways to try their hand at the deer hunt. All could be contributors to the Michigan accident toll. Most people are careful but all could be more careful. This is the substance of the best cure for "buck-fever" victims. If that precaution is not heeded the Michigan Life Insurance Co. offers the hunter inexpensive insurance as a safeguard when accidents happen both on the road and in the woods.

The record run of the Pony Express to California was made in March, 1861, when the inaugural address of President Lincoln was carried through in seven days and 17 hours.

Scouting Offers Training In Character Building

The Ottawa-Allegan Council of Boy Scouts, for which $4,500 is earmarked in the Holland Community Chest campaign, extends the program of scouting to all boys, for Scouting recognizes no limitations as to race, creed or color.

Through its wholesome outdoor program, scouting provides training in citizenship and character building that lay a firm foundation for participating citizenship as the boy grows older.

Scouting for boys 12 years and older is carried on in Scout troops sponsored by churches or civic organizations. These groups select their own leaders known for their fine character and interest in boys. The local council carries on a program of leadership training designed to aid these leaders.

Sponsoring groups in Holland are First Reformed church, Third Reformed, St. Francis de Sales, Hope, First Methodist, Sixth Trinity, Beechwood, and Willard G. Leenhouts post 6, American Legion.

The program is built around camping and hiking skills. Scouts learn how to take care of themselves and others. Firebuilding, cooking, pioneering, swimming and the like develop in the boy natural self-preservation skills. In addition, first aid training and life saving prepare the scout to serve others in time of need, and nature study, forestry, and conservation give him a keen appreciation of the beauty and usefulness of wild life.

The troop program is supplemented by the summer training camp near Newaygo where Scouts practice camping skills guided by experienced counselors. Here they are offered courses in life saving, swimming, canoeing and rowing under instructors trained at National Water Safety schools.

The Boy Scouts of America maintains that no boy can grow into the best kind of a citizen without recognizing his obligation to God. No matter what the boy may be, Protestant, Catholic or Jew, this fundamental need of good citizenship should be kept before him. Because scouting is absolutely non-sectarian in its attitude towards religious training, its policy is that the organization with which the Boy Scout is connected shall give definite attention to his religious life.

Greater Consumption Of Apple Juice Seen

The old saying "an apple a day" still goes, but Mrs. Housewife is buying more of them in the form of apple juice today. And in doing so, she is solving one of the growers' problems.

According to Dr. Roy E. Marshall of the Department of Horticulture at Michigan State college, the quantity of apple juice packed in Michigan has jumped from 70,000 to 800,000 cases a year since 1937. And the orchardist is finding an outlet for those apples that are too small or lack sufficient color for sale on the fresh fruit market, although their quality is good.

The increased consumption of apple juice is caused in part by the use of a process called flash pasteurization which eliminates the "cooked" flavor resulting from old-time methods of processing.

State Ranks High in Electrification Survey

Only eight states in the United States rank higher than Michigan in electrification of farmsteads, a federal survey reaching Michigan State college revealed this week.

Eight per cent of Michigan's farms are not electrified. Connecticut, with only 1.5 per cent un-electrified, leads the nation. North Dakota, with 84.5 per cent shows the least improvement.

Only 14,029 Michigan farms are not equipped with electricity. Many new lines being installed by private and public utilities will cut the number below 10,000 within the next year.

Farmers' Week Revived On State College Campus

One thousand Michigan farmers will help plan the program for the revived Farmers' week to be held on the campus of Michigan State college, East Lansing, Jan. 26-30.

Dean Ernest L. Anthony of the school of agriculture has sent a letter to representative farmers who have attended previous sessions asking for suggestions for programs and arrangements. Letters went to farmers in every county in Michigan. For more than a quarter-century prior to 1945, Farmers' week attracted as many as 25,000 farm people at one time to MSC campus sessions.

When crowded campus conditions and travel restrictions made it impossible to hold the program in 1945, Farmers' week was dropped. It was announced last spring, however, that the program would be resumed.

Fraternal Society Wins College Parade Trophy

A clever float illustrating the phrase, "We'll kick the pants off Kazon," won the coveted float trophy for the Fraternal society in the homecoming parade Friday night. Outstanding feature was a live mule, symbolizing Hope, who had kicked the pants of a Kazon player over the goal posts. The player remained under the goal, rolled over a barrel.

The trophy was awarded by Don Walchenbach, parade marshal, at a pep rally at the Hope athletic field following the parade. Emersonians and the freshmen were given honorable mention.

The former's float consisted of a huge Hope football player sitting at a table, dunking a large "donut," labeled Kazon, into a coffee cup. The freshmen "scrubbed" Kazon in a huge tub of suds which poured from a giant soap box marked "Hope Duz Everything."

Each sorority and fraternity entered a float in the parade. All work was done by members without professional aid. A variety of ideas carried out the homecoming of alumni and the football game theme.

Judges were Mrs. Kenneth De Pree, Harold Klaasen and Dirk Gringhuis.

Miss Irene Heemstra was in charge of the pep rally following the parade. Team members were introduced and cheerleaders led school yells and songs. The Hope college band played accompaniments and other music.

Homecoming activities continued today with breakfasts, brunches and luncheons scheduled by the sororities and fraternities. An alumni banquet after the Hope-Kazon game and a concert in Hope Memorial chapel at 8 p.m. will conclude activities.

Hope, Kalamazoo Battle to 6-6 Tie In MIAA Contest

Locals Threaten in Final Stages of Tilt But Fail on Goal Line

A capacity crowd of 5,000 homecoming Hope collegians Saturday saw the Dutchmen tie favored Kalamazoo college 6-6 after 60 minutes of grueling football under a bright sun at Riverview park. The huge crowd saw the locals score first in the second quarter and hold a 6-0 lead until late in the third quarter when the Hornets came back to knot the count at 6-all and leave the field happy with a tie.

It was stellar passing and excellent receiving that brought the locals down deep into the Kazoo territory and eventually into the end zone for their touchdown. But the Hornets tried viciously to win the important tilt scored late in the third quarter on an unbalancing 64-yard touchdown drive.

Hope got a break early in the second quarter when Elliot fumbled on the Hope 45 yard line with Nick Yonker pouncing on the pigskin. Then with the ball resting on the mid-field stripe, Bob Emery booted the ball down into K-college territory and out of bounds on the 13-yard line. Kazoo make one first down and brought the ball to the K-35 yard line where Flowers punted to Yonker on the Dutch 19-yard line.

It was then that the Hollanders began picking up ground. Emery went through tackle for four yards to the 23. Yonker took off on a quarterback sneak and picked up six yards, sufficient for a first down. Diminutive Eddie Leverette then battled his way to the 33. Jim Pingstel powered his way to the 44-yard line and another first down for the Blue and Orange. With the 5,000 fan's excitement began to mount, Nick Yonker flipped a pass to Bill "Moose" Holwerda who caught the ball in his finger tips at midfield and took off toward the right side of the field where he sprinted at top speed for the end zone. But the one man that stood between Holwerda and the goal line spilled him on the five-yard marker. Every fan in the park rose to his feet as Bill Apple-dorn hit the line only to be stopped on the line of scrimmage. But on the next play, the Dutch again took to the air as Yonker leaped into the air and shot a quick pass to Clair De Mull who snatched it and downed the ball in the end zone. Dick Higgs then entered the game to attempt the point-after-touchdown but booted the ball just wide of the uprights to make the score 6-0.

With only three minutes remaining in the first half the Hornets took the Dutch kickoff and began what appeared to be a touchdown drive, when they drove to the one yard line, just when the half ended.

Late in the third period, Emery kicked to Stanski on the Kazoo 36 where the Hornets began their sustained 64-yard drive for a score. Cautionally the Hornets stepped off the yards toward the locals end zone, with no play netting more than 11 yards. Finally the K-college eleven gave Flowers the ball and he sprinted from the nine to the end zone and a tie score when Reed missed the conversion, a few seconds later.

Kazoo kicked off but on the first three plays of the final frame the locals passed their way to the Kazoo 26-yard line. Yonker went from the local 30 to the 32-yard line and then flipped a pass to Holwerda who was downed on the 43. Yonker again called a pass play again with Holwerda the intended receiver, and one of the most talked about plays of the game took place. Big "Moose" went deep to the Kazoo 35-yard line and Yonker let go with a long pass. But a Kazoo back had Holwerda covered and as the pass descended Holwerda picked it out of the air but juggled the ball. The alert Hornet back snatched it away from Holwerda only to lose the ball and have Holwerda receive it and go all the way to the Hornet 26.

Leverette went to the 23 and "Hoppy" Van Zoeren slashed his way to the 15 for a first down. Pingstel powered to the nine and Yonker flipped a flanker pass to Leverette who went to the 4-yard line. Leverette on the next play drove to the one foot line. On fourth down Yonker faked a quarterback sneak and jumped high in the air and tossed a pass which went through the waiting arms of Bill Holwerda and killed the Dutch hopes.

Kalamazoo punted out of danger and as the game ended Yonker's pass was intercepted, but he came back to intercept a Kazoo pass when the final gun sounded.

Following are statistics of the Hope-Kazoo encounter: Yards gained rushing: Hope 121, Kalamazoo 191; Yards gained passing: Hope 167, Kazoo 78; Passes completed: Hope 7 of 17; Kazoo 5 of 8; Penalties: Hope 20 yards, Kazoo 20 yards; First Downs: Hope 10, Kazoo 13.

Arnold Gives Tips To Poultrymen

The poultryman should take time out to consider how best to meet the future feed situation, according to L. R. Arnold, county agricultural agent. It is now conceded by all that much grain will be flown out of our country to other nations. There is little likelihood of feed prices going downward. The vital question is "Can prices be kept from climbing higher?"

Feed is so high at present that only the best birds can make a profit to the owner. One immediate way of cutting feed costs comes through a good culling of the flock. Every fowl which appears unlikely to produce well should be eliminated. A rather thorough culling should be made right now then close attention paid to the rest of the flock at all times. If a bird gets out of condition at any time, right then is the time to take action, get rid of her.

J. M. Moore, extension poultryman, says the all-pullet flock is the most profitable flock to have on the farm. In most instances a fowl will do its best laying during the first year. If yearling fowls are held over only the very best should be kept.

For good egg production egg mass must be fed. To cut down on grain one could feed cut potatoes if such were available. This will cut out from one-third to one-half of the grain usually needed.

MIAA STANDINGS
	W	L	T	Pct.
Hillsdale	3	0	0	1.000
Kalamazoo	2	0	1	1.000
Alma	2	1	0	.667
Hope	1	1	1	.500
Adrian	0	3	0	.000
Albion	0	3	0	.000

A bad break was handed to the Hope college Dutchmen this week when news that Bob Emery, high scoring fullback, may be sidelined for the Alma game Saturday. Emery, who has not recovered fully from leg bruises received earlier this year, was given a few extra wounds in the Kazoo game Saturday and now is in bad shape. In addition to Emery's possible absence for Saturday's tilt, Hoppy Van Zoeren, the second best fullback Vanderbush possesses, is sidelined with a heel injury, but will probably see action against Alma.

The locals are braving wet weather all week to prepare themselves for what appears to be the battle for third place in MIAA standings. Through mud and rain, Coach Al Vanderbush has been tutoring his Dutchmen for the important tilt which may mean a tie for second if things go the way the Dutchmen want them to.

While Hope is battling the Scots in Alma Saturday, another all-important contest will be in the fire on the same day when the Dales invade Angell Field in Kalamazoo in a battle for the 1947 crown. Should the Hornets take a lacing from the Dales and the Dutchmen whip the Scots, then the standings would find the Hollanders and the Kazooks tied for the runner-up spot.

The Scots hold conference victories over Adrian and Albion while their only defeat can be blamed to the Hornets from Kalamazoo. The Scotsmen also hold a pair of victories in non-conference tilts against Michigan Normal and Grand Rapids Junior College.

Vanderbush has given the no let-up signal in the Dutch practices and time has been spent on blocking and linework in the Holland camp. "The Alma game is far from a snap," said Vanderbush. "They're got one of the best backs in the league in Rex Roseman, but he may not get the support that other backs in the loop get."

SHOW NEW ROUTE

On the attached map the heavy line indicates the proposed relocation of US-31 north of Holland.

The state highway department has taken bids for two of the three bridges indicated in the lower right-hand section where the new location leaves M-21. One of these is for a railroad separation and the other for a county road. The bridge for the river has not been bid yet, neither has the bridge at the northern end of the relocation.

The department anticipates bids for the last two structures will be taken soon. On a job of this kind it is desirable to get the bridges under way first, because they take the greatest length of time. The grading and paving can be completed much quicker than the structures, it was reported. The relocation will be constructed at first only as far south as M-21. Later it is planned to extend it around the south side of the city to connect with US-31 south of the city. When this is done the new location not only will serve as a by-pass of Holland for US-31 traffic but also for traffic from US-31 east-bound on M-21 or vice-versa.

At present the department cannot say when bids will be taken for grading on the relocation.

Hurricanes Bow To Benton Harbor

Failure of the Holland Hurricanes to score when in scoring territory cost them a 6-0 decision to the Twin City Independents on House of David field Sunday night at Benton Harbor. The locals had whipped the All Stars in their opening contest at Holland.

Some 1,000 fans saw the Hollanders twice drive to the Benton Harbor five-yard line only to have their drive stopped by a determined Benton Harbor forward wall. On their first "break" the locals recovered an All Star fumble on the winner's 15-yard stripe.

A series of plays took the ball to the five yard marker before Coach Mal Elliott's boys lost the ball on downs. Again in the final quarter the Hurricanes moved to the five-yard stripe before they got the "touchdown jitters" and relinquished the ball to Benton Harbor.

The only score of the contest came in the final minute of the first half when the Benton Harbor quarterback tossed a perfect pass from his own 30 to Wink Gordon on the 15 who raced the remaining distance for the score. Their conversion attempt was blocked leaving the score 6-0.

Benton Harbor offered no other serious threats at any time in the contest, and played in their own territory most of the first quarter, due to 10-yard spiral boot by Dick Massuck early in the game.

Holland's ground attack was definitely "off", Fred Bocks said today. The locals managed to garner only one first down in the tilt while Benton Harbor got six. Holland completed two out of 12 passes. Another thing which seriously hampered the local attack was the fact that four regulars failed to make the trip.

In other contests throughout the league, powerhouse Grand Rapids humbled Detroit 65-0 and the league leading Jackson eleven tripped Flint, 33-0. Jackson will invade Riverview Park, Saturday night to meet the locals.

Sports Briefs

The Holland Hurricanes had an unusual pregame workout before their tilt last week with the Detroit Bluejackets. Traveling by chartered bus, the team was in doubt on the route to Melvindale field. They stopped a Detroitre and asked the way. He replied, "Just go about four miles down this road and you can't miss it."

Grateful for the assistance the squad started out again. After traveling three miles, the boys began to doubt the directions of the pedestrian. They didn't go much further, before they were sure, because the bus bogged down in a narrow path and became firmly entrenched in the mud.

William Vande Water who accompanied the team said, "It looked like no man's land." After everyone got out and pushed for about 20 minutes, the bus was again on its way in the right direction.

Those who saw Bob Stupka make a 100-yard dash across the middle of the field immediately following the final horn in the Muskegon game last week, didn't wonder that he was a stellar end for the University of Wisconsin, several years ago. In fact one of the spectators in the pressbox called him "offside" because he nearly "jumped" the final horn.

Sportswriters in the press box are in doubt who to thank for the new chairs in the press box. For a while the chairs were in such bad shape that most of the "gentlemen of the press" did little sitting for fear of going through the bottom. It certainly was a much appreciated courtesy, on the part of the donor.

But according to the old saying, "Give him a finger and he'll take your arm," the writers are after more. This time the complaint is registered against the yard line markers. They have become a bit the worse for wear and are nearly obliterated.

Most of the aging occupants of the press box were suffering from eye strain until one of the "dependables" brought along a pair of field glasses. Unfortunately one pair isn't enough to go around.

Owner-Manager Fred Bocks of the Holland Hurricanes announced this week that he has finally secured a suitable opponent for his "Turkey Day" classic. He said he had contracted the Port Huron Blue Devils, of the independent Blue Water league to battle the Hurricanes Thanksgiving Day afternoon. The game is scheduled for 3 p.m. Bocks said.

Bob Emery of Hope is just as dangerous on the practice field as he is in the game, a recent scrimmage proved. Jim Den Herder found out that you don't have to play against Emery in a game to feel the effects of his power. While watching a practice lately, Jim received a cleat wound on his leg when Emery broke loose on an end sweep. Jim wasn't seriously hurt, but he probably spent a sleepless night.

It is still undetermined why Ottawa county's troubles always have to "gang up" on Sheriff Boeve whenever he attends a Hurricane football game. On three occasions he has been called out while sitting in the stands at the local field.

There is little wonder that a local fan can't find a seat at the Hope college freshmen, spurred on by "morale girls" who offered water, refreshments and encouragement, strained to the utmost Friday but lacked the power to pull the sophs from their positions on the other side of the river. The frosh were pulled through the water after 29 minutes on the rope.
