Additional Local.

We call the attention of ladies to the advertisement in this paper of "Dr. Marchisi's Uterine Catholicon." We have in our possession indisputable evidence of its worth, and we recommend the afflicted to try it. This remedy differs from quack nostrums in the following respects: 1st. It is prepared by a regular physician; 2d. It is not recommended for all diseases, but only for a particular class, peculiar to females; 3d. It is recommended and used in practice by many physicians, one of whom at least is well known to the people of New Bedford. 47-ly.

A Good Foundation.

In American households the prevailing complaints are weakness of the stomach and its consequences, Indigestion, Nervousness, and Rheumatism. Such sufferers can lay a good foundation for health by using Parker's Ginger Tonic as it tones up the stomach and nerves, and keeps the kidneys active to carry off the foul matter. —N. O. Peayune.

DOLMANS, Cloaks and Ulsteretts of the finest quality and manufacture have been received at my Dry Goods Store, E. J. HARRINGTON.

Do not neglect a Cough or Cold until it is too late, try Eilert's Extract of Tar and Wild Cherry, we are sure you will be convinced of its merits, Chronic Coughs, and even Consumptives are cured by following the directions, every bottle is warranted to give satisfaction. 40-ly

DR. JACQUES' German Worm Cakes stand unrivaled as a worm medicine. Give them a trial. Sold by all Druggists. 40-ly

UNCLE SAM'S Nerve and Bone Liniment is most efficient in Rheumatism, Bruises, Burns, Scratches and many other ills incident to man and beast. Sold by all Druggists. 40-ly

WHEN horses and cattle are spiritless, scraggy and feeble they need treatment with Uncle Sam's Condition Powder. It purifies the blood, improves the appetite, cures Colds and Distempers, invigorates the system and keeps the animal in a Healthy, Handsome Condition. Sold by all Druggists. 40-ly

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says: "Both myself and wife owe our lives to Shiloh's Consumption Cure." Sold by D. R. Meengs.

Beware of Imitations.

The delicate odor of Floreston Cologne is entirely novel. Look for signature of Hiscox & Co. N. Y., on each bottle.

How to be Great.

I think, my boy, that just about at your age is the time for you to learn what you are good for. And when you have found what it is go at it, and stick to it. I want to see you at work.

"I have no secret," said Turner, the great painter, "but hard work."

"Nothing," said Mirabeau "is impossible to the man who can will. This is the only law of success."

"There is but one method," says Sydney Smith, "and that is hard work."

"The difference between one man and another," says Dr. Arnold, "is not so much in talent as in energy."

And do you direct energy in one channel. Don't be diffusive in your work. There is power in concentration. A handful of powder scattered on the ground makes a great smoke when it is fired, but nothing more. It is the few ounces compressed in the blast or gun-barrel that counts for something when it goes off. If you are a lawyer, a physician or a carpenter, and make up your mind that you will know as much about one particular line or branch or specialty of your profession or trade, you do well, because, if you know as much on any point as any other man, surely as the heavens are above us you will know as much more about it than thousands, and immeasurably more than millions of other men, and this makes you an authority.

Be ambitious as you will, but be ambitious in some direction. A good, honest earnest man can shovel sand with credit to himself and profit to his employer and honor to his country. Many a good blacksmith and harness-maker has been spoiled by schools of law and medical colleges; and let me tell you, Telemachus, right here, that society, your country, humanity, and God need good carpenters, and shoemakers, stone-cutters, and farmhands more than poor doctors, and poor preachers, and poor editors. If you have to choose between a poor lawyer and a good deck-hand, be a good deck-hand every time.

A few years ago I went into the Norton nail mill, at Ashland, Ky. I saw there a machine that could make nails. I looked at it and admired it. I thought and I still think, that machine ought to go to congress. All its talents and all its energies are directed to the point. It can make nails and it can't do one solitary other thing under the sun. It never talks politics. It can't carry a torch. It doesn't know what a caucus is. It even doesn't know enough to go out with a candidate and take a drink. It doesn't want, and it never did want, the government to issue 400,000,000 kegs of lathe nails, and loan them to citizens who want to build chicken-houses. It never once stopped work to sit down on a dry-goods box in a shady corner to declare this country would never be prosperous and happy until we had an incontrovertible currency of shingle nails, secured by a bound fund of non interest bearing railroad spikes. It never once got loose and ran wildly about the country, frantically calling upon the people to rally to its support as the only means of overthrowing the "machine." It just stayed in the mill and made nails and nails and nails. It knew how to make them, and just went ahead and made them. —Burlington Hawkeye.

The Garfield Monument Exhibition.

Last summer Congress gave the Society of the Army of the Cumberland permission to use the rotunda and adjacent halls of the United States Capitol from November 25 to December 3, for a bazaar and reception, for the purpose of raising funds to aid in the erection of a monument to Washington to the memory of the late President Garfield.

The propriety of making a show house of the national capitol may be questioned, but since it has been allowed, it is to be hoped the exhibition will be as commendable as its object, and worthy of its unparalleled housing.

The Board of Directors comprises representatives of the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of the Government, the army and navy, the Society of the Army of the Cumberland and the citizens of the District of Columbia, assisted by the State boards of commissioners. The exhibits will be shown in eight groups and sixty-four classes, and awards will be made according to the rules observed at the Centennial Exhibition of 1876. Applications for space for exhibits (loaned or donated) must be made before November 1; and the exhibits must be placed in the hands of the directors before November 11. Donated exhibits will be sold for the benefit of the monument fund.

The exceptional conditions under which the National Bazaar, Industrial and Art Exposition is to be held would seem to make especially inviting the opportunity offered to manufacturers and others, to exhibit their wares. The headquarters of the Board of Directors are at the Ebbitt House, Washington. —Scientific American.

A Growing Youth.

Jean Condoist has been brought to Paris as a medical curiosity from the Haute Caone. According to a medical contributor to a Parisian contemporary, this youth, aged 19, took a start on the 17th of May, 1881, being then six feet three inches high, and found one morning that he had grown an inch. Every week since then has he registered himself, and on the 14th of September this human beanstalk had gained nearly five inches; he grew five inches more before the 20th of January, 1882, and seven more before March 15, and he now stands 7 feet 10 inches. All this has been accompanied by great pains in the back, and he stoops considerably; but since last June, it is his legs only that have grown, and his feet are already twenty-four inches long. —London Pall Mall Gazette.

Blooming Prosperity.

A few days ago a drummer for one of our wholesale houses was traveling in a buggy along a country road in Arkansas, when he came upon a tall, roughly dressed man sitting upon a rail fence whittling. With a sociable "good moring" the traveler drew up his horse and asked:

"Is that your field of corn over there?"
"Wal, I calculate I'll freeze onto a right smart sheer of it. I'm working the piece on sheers."

"Looks like a fine crop."

"It does."

"I presume you are figuring on great prosperity in future, such immense crops indicating plenty for all."

"Prosperity? Stranger, that hain't no name fur the cyclone that's agoin' to hit this settlement atween the eyes this season. A tornado mout come jist now an' land every durned bit o' grain in the county over into Tennessee, and yit the smiles o' contentment 'd never shift off'n our faces!"

"Some unexpected good luck has befallen you," the tourist replied.

"That's the play to a t-y ty. We're gettin' our slice o' the millennium away ahead o' the advertised future. Fust, ol' Zack Bolton up an' died last month, an' thar' hasn't been ear o' corn or a side o' bacon missen in the community since we tumbled the dirt on top o' him. Then Wash Tompkins, the boss ol' sledge player, got sent to State prison fur horse stealin', thus given us poor players a show fur our pile, then Snaky, the saloon keeper up at the forks o' the road dropped down to ten cents a drink fur whisky

WEEKLY NEWS REVIEW.

THE EAST.

JUDGE WALDO COLBURN, of the Superior Court of Boston, has been appointed to the Supreme bench of Massachusetts, to succeed Judge Wm. C. Endicott, resigned. Judge Colburn is the third Democrat whom Gov. Long has appointed to the Supreme Court during his term of office. The expenses of the New York City Government for 1883 are estimated at $28,327,841.

DURING last spring a Frenchman named Goodenough left Greenville for the woods at the head of Moosehead lake, in Maine. Nothing was subsequently heard of him until a few days ago, when his skeleton was discovered with both hands in a bear-trap. Goodenough had in some way got his hands caught in the jaws of the trap and was unable to remove them, and, with no assistance near, died from starvation.

By a loaded coal car breaking loose and running with great speed down an inclined plane at a mine near Williamsport, Pa., three men who were on the car were killed and two seriously injured. Patrick Carey, a New York longshoreman, who was crippled for life by the fall of a coal tub into the hold of the steamer Batavia, sued the Cunard Steamship Company, claiming $30,000 damages. The jury awarded $15,000. Richardson, Boynton & Co., stove dealers, New York, made an assignment. Their liabilities to preferred creditors amount to $643,000. Leopold Gaff, manufacturer of boots and shoes at New York and Newark, N. J., has suspended. The liabilities are reported to be $200,000. Josiah Quincy, Sr., died at Wollaston, a Boston suburb, at the age of 81.

A PANIC was narrowly averted lately in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. The alarm was caused by the entrance of smoke through a window in the gallery, and several hundred women started for the doors, but were reassured by gentlemen whose presence of mind prevented a stampede. In the match race for $2,000 a side at Narragansett Park, Providence, Yellow Dock, with running mate, trotting the deciding heat in 2:11, the fastest mile on record under the conditions were similar. Counterfeit $10 Treasury notes of 1875 have been set afloat in considerable numbers in New York.

AN international half-mile running match between W. G. George, of England, and Lawrence E. Myers, of New York, which took place at the New York polo grounds, was won by the latter in 1 minute and 56.35 seconds. A great conflagration at Red Bank, N. J., destroyed several stores and structures, including the Western Union Telegraph office, the Central Express building and the Methodist Church. Ten dollar counterfeit notes are circulating in New York. They are printed from the same plates as those captured in the West in February, 1881. On that occasion one of the men engaged in the business escaped, and it is now supposed that he has resumed operations in New York. An explosion in the Chapman Metallic Cap Company's works at Suffield, Conn., injured eight men, one of more of whom must die.

THE WEST.

IN a public school at Leavenworth, Kansas, W. G. Ross, 9 years of age, acting as "monitor," reported a boy of 12 years, named Winter, for whispering. Before his intention could be fathomed, the latter rushed upon the smaller boy and plunged a knife into his side, inflicting a mortal wound. Bishop Talbot, of the Episcopal Diocese of Indiana, has decided, in view of his poor health, to resign his office. Isaac Newsbahr, residing near Wabash, Ind., died, at the age of 107 years.

REPORTS have been received at Kansas City from 125 counties in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa in regard to the yield of corn as compared with last year, of which number ninety-two report a larger yield and the balance about the same as last year. Of hogs to be marketed during November and December, thirty counties only report that the number will exceed last year. In regard to young hogs coming on, as compared with last year, forty-two counties report the supply larger. There are but seven counties which report disease among hogs. Judge Hayes, at Davenport, decided that the Iowa prohibition amendment has not yet been legally made a part of the State constitution, mainly on the ground that the records of the Legislature are incomplete.

DR. COLLINS, of Minneapolis, Minn., brother of the scientist in the Jeannette expedition, states that Capt. DeLong persecuted his brother (Jerome) in every conceivable way. He also makes the claim that jealousy existed between the officers. He charges Melville with drunkenness, with playing checkers and chess, instead of searching for DeLong and his party; holds Melville responsible for their deaths, and assails the truth of his reports. All of which the Doctor will publish in a pamphlet, which will be laid before Congress.

THE divorced wife of John L. Mitchell, of Milwaukee, died of heart disease. Scaffolding at the factory of the Elgin (Ill.) Watch Company fell, throwing five men thirty feet. Three, Bulked, Cornish and Carroll, were fatally injured, the others slightly. Land Commissioner McFarland is informed that fifty-five cases of fraudulent and entries in Northern Minnesota have been decided in favor of the Government. He expresses a determination to break up such fraudulent practices. Ex-Gov. Willard P. Hall, of Missouri, died at St. Joseph.

BELMONT and Simmerman, who committed the triple murder recently at Minden, Neb., were overtaken in Southwestern Kansas by Charles Fouts and Frank Martin, from whom they had stolen a horse, and Belmont was shot dead on refusing to surrender, while Simmerman was made prisoner, and lodged in jail at Lincoln.

THE wife of Daniel Glassett, a miner, at Virginia, Col., in a fit of insanity left her home at night, taking with her her babe and two small children. She returned the next day with the two elder children, having been in the mountains all the previous night in a heavy snow-storm, explaining that the babe had annoyed her by crying and she had cut its head off with a hatchet. The statement proved to be true. The officers found the body with the head severed. The woman was locked up. She is insane.

THE SOUTH.

A COLORED woman in Albemarle county, Va., attempted to kill her 2-year-old boy by hanging him up and down a stream with a rope attached to his neck.

Five children of different families living at Houston, Texas, picked and ate locust beans while rambling in the woods. All were taken violently sick, and died in a few hours.

A SOUTH CAROLINA County Judge has decided that whereas the constitution of the State provides that no negro shall be disfranchised for a crime committed while in slavery—ergo, a negro who, since emancipation has been convicted of any felony has for a citizen. Ex-Gov. Jam. S. Robinson, of Kentucky, died at his home in Scott county, aged 82.

SOUTHERN Texas railways issued a circular in St. Louis announcing that they will no longer recognize through bills of lading issued by the Gould roads.

LOCATIONS have been already secured at San Antonio, Tex., by astronomers of the United States and Belgium, for observation of the transit of Venus, the 6th of December. A Baltimore variety theater was burned, and in the ruins the body of a wealthy young stock-broker, named Pearson, was found.

A CURIOUS legal point was raised in a Baltimore court. A German boy of 13 refused to be sworn or to affirm, alleging therefor that in Germany no person under 16 is allowed to testify under oath or affirmation. The Judge held that the court could compel him to testify but could not compel him to be sworn. Five stores and buildings at Shreveport, La., together with numerous lodge rooms were consumed by fire, creating a loss of $102,000. The yellow fever in the Southern States is gradually disappearing.

WASHINGTON.

THE estimates of the various departments for the next appropriations, says a Washington telegram, are very much later in being made up than usual. So far the only Cabinet officer who has sent to the treasury complete estimates is Secretary Teller, of the Interior Department. The estimates for salaries for most of the departments will be larger than last year, owing to the increase in civil list force. The estimate for the pension roll is just the same as last year, being a round $100,000,000. There will also be a deficiency, but the amount is not yet determined. The increased appropriation considerably swells the expenses of Congress, estimates for which are made up.

FOREMAN DICKSON, of the star-route jury, was cited to appear before the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia for contempt in writing an improper communication to the Grand Jury of that court, his professed desire being to secure the indictment of certain associates of the Department of Justice who sought to corrupt him and his associates on the star-route jury, in order that he might be cleared of a persons cast upon him by newspapers and individuals. The letter in question reflected upon Judge Wyle's course in the matter. Dickson appeared and explained that he meant no disrespect to the court, and Judge Wyle discharged him.

COMMISSIONER McFARLAND, of the General Land Office, is in receipt of information that, in fifty-five cases of fraudulent pre-emption tried in Northern Minnesota, not one of the pre-emptors appeared in the hearing, and the cases declared in favor of the Government by default. This result is gratifying to the department, and McFarland thinks shows beyond question the existence of a conspiracy to defraud the Government.

THE revenue of the Postoffice Department for the year ending June 30, 1882, was $5,091,012 greater than for the previous year, while the expenditures were only $717,134 more. Sixteen of the thirty-eight States of the Union and the Territory of Alaska show an excess of receipts over expenditures, and of these only Delaware is a Southern State.

A. C. SOTELLO has been acquitted of the murder of his brother, A. M. Sotello, in the editorial rooms of the Washington Republican.

A RECENT telegram from Washington says: James E. Anderson, the former Louisiana statesman, who went to "a warm climate" by way of Eureka, Nev., but not as a Consul, is well remembered here, where he achieved considerable notoriety as a witness before the Potter investigating committee. Eight or ten years ago he was an employee in the Government printing office. He left here and became a politician in Louisiana. He was the chief election officer of East Feliciana parish, in that State, in 1876, and, after making one return favorable to Tilden, subsequently made another giving Hayes the parish. The election of the State turned upon Anderson and his return of the parish vote. The Returning Board counted his (Hayes) return, and Anderson afterward claimed the reward which he alleged had been promised him for making it. As a witness before the Potter Committee, he produced certain correspondence between himself and Hon. Stanley Matthews. Among the letters was one that attracted much notice, recommending that Anderson be appointed to a "Consulship in a warm climate." Anderson won a notorious but unenviable reputation as a witness. He went to Nevada, and for a time was connected with a paper at Gold Hill. Subsequently he went to Eureka, where he rounded up his eventful career by dying "with his boots on."

THE Government buildings and grounds in Washington and Georgetown are assessed at $70,000,000. The Capitol building is valued at $15,000,000; the Capitol grounds, $7,000,000; White House, $5,000,000; Treasury Department building and grounds, $7,000,000; State, War and Navy Department buildings, $6,211,161; National Museum, $25,000; Washington monument, $30,000; Patent Office building and grounds, $3,754,883; General Postoffice building, $2,154,000. The death by apoplexy of Rear Admiral Charles H. Poor is announced in a dispatch from Washington. He entered the navy in 1827.

GENERAL.

ADELINA PATTI, the famous cantatrice, arrived at New York in the steamship Servia, after a tempestuous voyage. She comes back in excellent health and voice, prepared to make her appearance in opera after a short rest. A construction train on the Ohio Central railway ran into a flat car near Charleston, W. Va., killing William Cope and James Smith, Andrew Snyder, and seriously injuring James Brown. A project is afoot in Montreal for the erection of a monument to Thomas D'Arcy McGee.

AN international challenge cup will be offered by Turf, Field and Farm, to be rowed for next August. The money to be added will, with the cup, prove an incentive for competition among the best rowers of the world. Mr. J. W. Simonton, well known from his recent connection with the Associated Press and with journalism in San Francisco, is dead.

ENGINEER MELVILLE and Lieut. Danenhower will have nothing to say at present regarding the charges of Dr. Collins that the officers of the Jeannette were embittered toward each other to such a degree as to destroy discipline on board the ship, and that Melville did not make proper exertions to rescue the parties with Capt. De Long and Lieut. Chipp. When the subject comes up for official investigation, they say it will be proper for them to speak. Washington butchers, dismayed at the success of the competition of the Chicago dealers in dressed beef, have instituted legal measures to test the right of the latter to sell meat in the markets of the national capital.

FOREIGN.

THE British Government has insisted on certain legal proceedings in Arab's trial but will not interfere with the composition of the court or other details of the trial proceeding. In the British House of Commons Mr. Trevelyan, Chief Secretary for Ireland, stated that 987 persons were arrested under the Irish Coercion act, recently expired. Cocapelli, elected to the Italian Chamber, was recently a circus rider, and has just been released from prison for committing a deadly assault. The Roman press generally looks with distrust on his election. Negro colonies in Liberia are given, not forty acres of land and a mule, but twenty-five acres of land and a mule, and provisions for six months. Seven Anarchists have been arrested at Lyons upon charges of murder. Two are also charged with clandestine manufacture of dynamite. Special measures are being adopted by the German Government to prevent the Socialists from organizing anarchy, as was attempted by their ilk in France. It is rumored that a Nihilist outbreak at St. Petersburg is considered imminent. Preparations for the security and safety of the Czar have been redoubled.

EARL GRANVILLE presided at the first meeting of the Longfellow Memorial Committee at London, and eulogized America's poet as a writer of moral and healthy verses, who deserved representation among the tributes to many famous men in Westminster Abbey. Resolutions were adopted looking to the speedy completion of the contemplated bust, and letters were received from several prominent persons regretting their inability to be present. Great activity is manifested by Russia in its warlike preparations. Formidable fortifications are being constructed near Grodno, and a well-equipped camp has been established on the right bank of the Bug. Great uneasiness prevails at the German and Austrian consulates. At Gols, Hungary, the houses of Hebrews were plundered by mobs, and one woman killed.

In the British Parliament the amendment offered by Mr. Gibbon, Conservative, providing that two-thirds majority should be required to close debate, was voted down, the Irish party acting with the Liberals, a coalition had been decided upon by a majority of one, the deciding vote being cast by Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell. As it now stands, a majority of the House of Commons may order the closure, shutting off debate. In the German Parliament there has been introduced the draft of a law prohibiting the importation of American swine, pork and sausage meat. Louise Michel was prevented from delivering one of her socialist diatribes at Ghent, in Belgium, by a riotous crowd that had taken possession of the hall where she was to have spoken.

THE revolutionary manifestoes posted at Paris the other night were of Communist origin. Explosive materials were discovered in the coal depot and telegraph office of St. Porcennin. The Geneva authorities have granted the request of the French Government to institute a searching investigation of the recent acts and utterances of so-called Anarchists in Switzerland. It is reported that ex-Empress Eugenie has made a will, in which she leaves all her property to Prince Victor Napoleon, to whom may fall the inheritance of the Napoleonic succession in France. The estates of the Empress are of immense value. A convention recognizing the suzerainty of France over Madagascar has been submitted to Madagascar.

ADDITIONAL NEWS.

A DISPATCH from Hampton Court House, S. C., says that a negro named Jake Gantt collected about twenty colored men to prevent Policeman Reid from taking away his (Gantt's) pistol. When the difficulty recommenced, Reid was killed by the negroes, and three white citizens were cut or beaten. A white man who started for help was stabbed in the thigh and left on the road.

A GREAT checker match was played at Boston between Wylie, the great Scotch player and Baker, the American expert. Fifty games were played, each contestant winning one, while forty-eight were drawn.

ALEXANDER MITCHELL predicted that the gross earnings of the St. Paul road for the current year would reach $21,000,000. The annual report shows them to be $19,443,800, and the operating expenses were $10,151,735. The company has 4,249 miles of track, and has issued stock and bonds to the amount of $129,746,300. The puddlers at the Leve Haute (Ind.) Iron and Nail Works and the Wash Iron Company went on a strike last week, demanding $6 per ton until June 1.

DISTRESS prevails to a great extent at Alexandria among the sufferers by incandiarism, and while waiting for the indemnity they are compelled to appeal to private charity. The Prince of Wales will serve as Chairman of the Longfellow Memorial Committee, and expresses pleasure at being able to show the high esteem in which he holds the verses of the dead poet. The committee for the prosecution of the rebels, which is holding daily sessions at Cairo, has tried 380 prisoners, of whom fifty have been found guilty. These will have trial by court martial as soon as it can be convened. Peace negotiations between Chili and Peru have fallen through, and Calderon has been imprisoned at Angel. The mission of Moody and Sankey at Cambridge, England, has been suspended on account of the former's illness. Queen Victoria has made Admiral Seymour a peer, with the title of Baron Alcester. Bismarck contemplates no change of importance in his foreign policy. The river Neva, in Russia, is blocked with ice, and navigation has closed.

MRS. LANGTRY'S first theatrical appearance in America, at Wallack's, New York, was witnessed by a critical and fashionable audience, who repeatedly called her before the curtain, and bestowed upon her floral tributes and deafening applause. Her acting in "An Unequal Match" is praised by the critics. William A. Leavitt, a glass manufacturer of Philadelphia, has made an assignment to Nelson F. Evans, to cover heavy liabilities. Barnett, Bach & Hart, of New York, wholesale dealers in notions and auction goods, have made an assignment. A fire on the water front at Portland, Maine, swept away establishments valued at nearly $251,000. Flames swept away over $200,000 worth of business property at Red Bank, N. J.

ALL the prisoners in the jail of Prince George county, Md., escaped by burning a lock from the door.

THE Mexican Government has received a report that the Governor and Secretary of State of Tabasco had been murdered.

LACERATED LYNCHERS.

Dreadful Affair at Ashland, Ky., Over Possession of Two Murderers.

The Troops Open Fire on the Mob with Fatal Effect.

(Telegram from Ashland, Ky.)

Wm. Neal and Ellis Craft were convicted some months ago at the Catlettsburg (Boyd county, Ky.) Circuit Court of the murder of Robert and Fannie Gibbons and Emma Carrier. They were granted a new trial by the Supreme Court. George Ellis, an accomplice, who confessed and was sentenced to imprisonment for life, was hanged by a mob at Ashland, last summer.

On Monday last Neal and Craft, guarded by 230 State troops, with one section of artillery, arrived at Catlettsburg from Lexington, where they have been held for safekeeping, to stand trial. Yesterday Judge Brown granted a change of venue to Carter county. Last night a mob at Ashland stopped a train on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, and searched it for the prisoners. This afternoon at 2:30 Sheriff Kountz, with the State troops and prisoners, boarded the steamboat Granite State for Maysville, intending to go thence by rail to Lexington to the jail to confine the prisoners until trial. The mob at Ashland, which is five miles down the river to Catlettsburg, seized a ferryboat and stood out to intercept them. The Granite State, under full headway, steamed around the ferryboat, when, seeing they were about to lose their prey, the mob opened fire, which was returned by the troops with fatal effect. The ferryboat at party, finding the troops were in earnest, withdrew, with one killed and several wounded. The battle was for several minutes pretty hot, but the steamboat rapidly got away and out of range of the shore in front of the Aldine Hotel. The fire of the troops was severe, the shots passing over the ferryboat and killing five spectators and wounding twenty-one others. Among those killed was a woman and an infant in her arms, whose brains were dashed out by a stray shot.

In the midst of the excitement a runaway team and wagon dashed into the struggling mass of citizens as they fled from the murderous bullets, altogether making a frightful scene.

The community is very much excited and threats are made to go to Lexington in force and execute vengeance upon the prisoners. None of the passengers were hurt by the fire of the mob.

The following is a partial list of the killed and wounded:

Killed—O. Rippart, George Kener, a child of Henry Dunlap, James McDonald, John Baugh.

Seriously wounded—Charles Bolinger, Will Charles Bolinger, Wilkes Serrey, Will Springer, Moses Serrey, Gerhard Randall and Robert R. Richard.

Slightly wounded—Mart Dunlap, Alex. Harris, John Gallagher, Julius Sommers, Thomas Brd, Mrs. B. Butler, A. H. Dickson, Thomas Demerera, N. E. Bl. Dr. Gills, Martin Geor, Robert Lowther and J. W. House.

Col. Rippart, numbered mortal wound, was an old and highly respected citizen of 70-odd years, an universally loved and favorite of both old and young. He was father-in-law of Col. Douglas's Putnam, Jr., Superintendent of the Ashland Coal and Iron Railway Company, and well-known in Marietta circles.

Mrs. Butler, numbered among the wounded, was attending a meeting held by the ladies of the town for the purpose of organizing a public reading-room in a room donated for the purpose in the Union depot, which is situated on the river front at least a quarter of a mile below the scene of the shooting. Mrs. Butler is the wife of the Auditor of the Chattahoochee railway.

Other bullets striking the depot and penetrating the walls caused its occupants to seek healthier quarters.

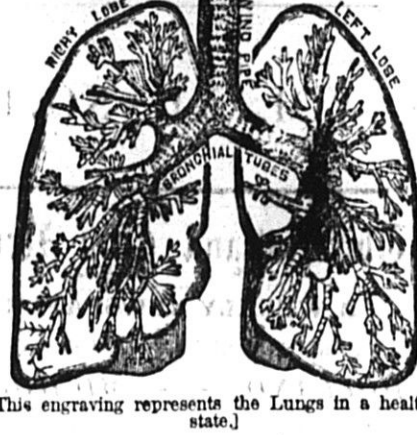

The list of wounded includes all ages and both sexes, and amputations in several cases will be necessary.

"How now!" said the Judge to the prisoner, "do you pretend that the witness lies in saying that he knows you intimately?" "Yes, I am not acquainted with him." "Not acquainted with him?" exclaimed the Judge. "No, I am willing to swear to it. Just ask me his name and see if I am."

ALLEN'S LUNG BALM

A GOOD FAMILY REMEDY! STRICTLY PURE.

Harmless to the Most Delicate!

By its faithful use CONSUMPTION has been CURED when other remedies and Physicians have failed to effect a cure.

WILLIAM C. DODGE, merchant of Bowling Green, Va., writes April 4, 1881, that he wants us to know that the LUNG BALM cured his mother of Consumption, after the physician had given her up as incurable. He says, others knowing her case have taken the Balm and been cured; he thinks all so afflicted should give it a trial.

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM & Co., wholesale druggists, Zanesville, Ohio, write us of the case of Mrs. J. FREEMAN, a well-known citizen, who had been afflicted with Bronchitis in its worst form for twelve years. The LUNG BALM cured him, as it has many others, of Bronchitis.

As an Expectorant it has No Equal.

THEEVES AND THE DETECTIVES.

JOTTINGS.

"Old Jan" is our State Senator.
Don't forget the "Social Gathering" next Friday evening.
The weather is rather foggy—a good deal like the minds of some Republicans.
The last issue of De Hollander was dated Nov. 5, (Sunday). How is this neighbor?

Don't fail to see the Siberian Bloodhounds with the Uncle Tom party, next Wednesday evening.

Miss Jennie Verbeek, the daughter of our postmaster has been appointed as her father's assistant in the Post Office.

The Captain of the schr. R. Kanters expects to make a couple more trips before coming into this port for winter quarters.

The Democrats of this city had a "blow out" last night (Friday). Speeches were made, and a general jubilee was enjoyed by a motley crowd.

Dr. R. A. Schouten's new residence on the corner of Fish and Ninth streets, adds considerably to the appearance of that part of our city. The doctor contemplates erecting another new building in the First Ward.

Mr. D. N. Bennett, an employee of the firm of E. P. Allis & Co., of Milwaukee, arrived in this city last Saturday. Mr. Bennett is a practical engineer and was sent here to "set up" the engine of the Standard Roller Mills.

If you need an overcoat, go to the Clothing Emporium of E. J. Harrington, who is amply prepared to suit you. Mr. Harrington has also received a large and complete stock of Gent's Furnishing Goods, which he will sell at "bottom figures."

Last Monday the youngest child of Mr. M. J. Schulling, fell into a pail of boiling water, burning the right hand and almost the whole arm, quite severely. Dr. H. Kremers, attended and done all he could to relieve the poor little sufferer, and at this hour reports the patient as "doing nicely."

It will be seen on looking over the Council proceedings, that this city has received its just proportion of the money received from the recent sale of "Harbor lands" by the Harbor Board. The amount of money received was $654.63, being 10-23ds of the amount received from the sale of the lands.

Our young men have organized a club, which is known as the "P. D. Q. Club," of the City of Holland. The first "Social Gathering" will be in Lyceum Hall on Friday evening, November 17. They have secured Hull & Arnold's Band, of Constantine, who will discourse the music for the occasion. This band is the oldest and best string band in Michigan. The public are cordially invited to be present at this their first gathering. Bill, $1.00.

MINNIE Foster's Uncle Tom's Cabin combination will appear in that decidedly new and scarcely heard of drama, entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin." This combination is very highly spoken of by the press wherever they have exhibited, and we hope that there are enough people in this city who have never heard Uncle Tom, to fill the hall to overflowing. Tickets, 25, 35 and 50 cents. Reserved seats for sale at Breyman's.—See advertisement.

We are pleased to be able to mention this week, another addition to our industrial interests. Mr. J. Huntley has leased the old planing mill and sash and blind factory of the late R. K. Heald, and will hereafter run the factory to its full capacity. Mr. Huntley will make a specialty of furnishing promptly, all kinds of building material at the lowest cash figures. As Mr. Huntley is an experienced man in this line of trade, we anticipate that he will make a complete success of the business.

Last Saturday morning quite an excitement was created by a "runaway." A team belonging to a farmer from Overisel, took fright at a train of cars, and dashed down Eighth street until they arrived opposite E. J. Harrington's store, when they collided with another team. The runaway team were knocked down, and after turning several revolutions on the ground, lay still until they were released from their rather perilous position by the excited by-standers. The damage done to the wagon was nominally nothing, while the horses escaped with but comparatively few bruises.

Last Wednesday evening Gee's Musical Class tendered the Hon. John Roost a serenade. Quite a large crowd had gathered in front of Mr. Roost's residence on Ninth street, and the "boys" had soon gathered a sufficient quantity of dry goods boxes and barrels to make a bon-fire of considerable importance. Mr. Roost thanked them very kindly for "their outburst of patriotic enthusiasm over his election and thought they would have plenty of opportunity to rejoice when the full returns came in." On the whole the speech was good, as it lacked in that "unnameable quality" which generally characterizes Mr. Roost's speeches. We wish our fellow townsman well with his hard and honorably earned honors.

The day was rather quiet considering the result.

LAKE freights are advancing and sailors wages are constantly being increased.

UNCLE TOM at Lyceum Hall next Wednesday evening. Don't fail to go.

For cheap clothing go to the Chicago Clothing Store, corner of Eighth and River streets.

DIED.—On Nov. 4, Elizabeth G., daughter of C. J. and Sarah De Roo, aged 8 months and 3 days.

Mr. H. D. Hunt, Road Master of the Chicago and West Michigan Railway, on the Allegan division, will hereafter reside in this city.

List of letters remaining in the post-office at Holland, Mich., Nov. 9, 1882: Jacob Harris, Miss Lence Jabaar.

WM. VERBEEK, P. M.

MARKET day last Wednesday. Lots of people but very little business. What a humbug these market days are. Can't our merchants devise some other means of "drawing a crowd" beside this rather antiquated method?

We noticed several Grand Haven gentlemen in town last Wednesday (market-day), among them were Capt. J. Niemeyer and our pleasant and affable Register of Deeds, Mr. Jacob Baar. "Jake" feels proud of his election, as well he may.

THE Western Michigan Bee Keeper's Association will hold its Second Annual Meeting in Supervisor's Hall, in the city of Grand Rapids, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 29 and 30, 1882. All interested are cordially invited, ladies especially.

WM. M. S. DODGE, Sec.

FROM a personal inspection of the fruit trees, vines and shrubs delivered at this place last Wednesday, by Mr. Geo. Souter, we would pronounce them equal in all respects, if not better, than any of the stock delivered by him heretofore. Mr. Souter has deservedly gained the reputation of being an "honest fruit tree dealer."

"ENCLOSED find two dollars for subscription to the NEWS. Please send your welcome visitor to me regularly as I am too much interested in the prosperity of Holland to be without it." ZEELAND ITEMS.

UNITY Mills are still shut down, and a force of men are busy putting in new machinery which will materially increase their capacity.

Rev. P. De Pree will occupy the pulpit of Rev. Steffens, next Sunday. Next week Rev. De Pree will leave for his new home in Grand Rapids.

The campaign is over, election is past, and the Republicans of our town feel proud that their township has again given all their candidates straight Republican majorities.

To give "more light" to the enterprise of our town, our "village dads" have had naphtha lamps placed at every corner and in the center of each block of three of the most travelled streets. That they should have put in naphtha lamps instead of the electric light, is a surprise and a disappointment to us, but we gracefully submit.

THE ELECTION.

THE election in this city passed off very quietly. The following shows the vote cast in the several wards of the city for the candidates mentioned. The number of votes cast, is in the neighborhood of 450. Four tickets were in the field. The vote as it is given below is on the candidates of the Republican and Fusion tickets:

	1st.	2nd.	3rd	4th	Total.

Angell.....	62	40	64	24	190

The Township of Holland gave the following majorities: Jerome, 82; Webster, 75; Roost, 9; Perham, 40; Vaupell, 135; Turner, 85; Hyma, 35; Christmas, 56; McBride, 85; Soule, 82; Visscher, 82. An average Republican majority of 82.

In this city and in the township, the Prohibition and the American vote was rather smaller than was expected, there being only about 20 Prohibition and 25 American votes cast in the city.

The Republicans of this county have elected the following County officers: John Vaupell, as Sheriff, with 1,336 majority; Geo. W. McBride, as Prosecuting Attorney by 450 majority; George D. Turner, as County Clerk 720 majority; Charles Soule and Arend Visscher, Circuit Court Commissioners by 396 majority, the Surveyor and the Coroners have about 396 majority each. The Democrats have elected Jacob Baar, Register of Deeds, by 376 majority, and Rense A. Hyma, as County Treasurer, by 17 majority.

In the legislative district of the county, John B. Perham is elected in the first by 147 majority; and C. Van Loos in second by 73 majority.

The Workingman's vote in Muskegon county elected John Roost, as State Senator for this district, by about 100 majority. This is the first time in twenty-two years that any other than a Republican has been elected as State Senator from this district.

In this, the Fifth Congressional District, Julius Houseman, is elected by about 200 majority.

Jerome, the Republican candidate for Governor of this State, is defeated by about 10,000 majority, but the rest of the Republican ticket is elected. The Legislature is Republican on joint ballot. The congressional delegation of the State stands 6 Democrats and 5 Republicans.

The result of the elections in other states have caused as much surprise to Republicans, as the election has in this state. The following is a brief glance at the results as they are returned up to this hour of writing: In New York Grover Cleveland, the Democratic candidate for Governor, has received a majority of nearly 200,000 and at a mass-meeting held in Buffalo last Wednesday evening his name was freely used in connection with the Presidency. The state will have 21 Democrats and 13 Republicans in the next congress. In Pennsylvania the plurality of Pattison, Democrat, for Governor, is over 32,000, and the Democrats have gained five congressmen. Ben Butler's majority in Massachusetts is 13,392, while all the other state officers are Republican by about 16,000. John S. Wise, Mahone's candidate for Congressman-at-large from Virginia, has carried the state by 8,000. Hale, the Republican candidate for Governor of New Hampshire, is now believed to have triumphed by 250. The Democrats of Delaware elected Stockley, Governor by 1,535 majority. Waller, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Connecticut, has a majority of 4,400, and three congressmen have been elected by the Democrats. Indiana gave the Democrats candidates for state offices an average majority of 6,000. Illinois has elected the Republican ticket by about 14,000 majority. Four Republican Congressmen were defeated in Iowa. The majority of General Stoneman, Democratic candidate for Governor of California, is 13,000.

It appears that Lambert Tree was only defeated in the Fourth Illinois congressional district by 154. General Singleton carried Adams county by 3,100, but was beaten by J. M. Riggs by 700. General Chalmers is elected as an independent from the Second district of Mississippi. The First district of Wisconsin is conceded to John Winans, Democrat.

THE "AGER."

Once upon an evening bleary,
While I sat me, dreamy, dreary,
In the sunshine, thinking o'er
Passing things in days of yore;
While I nodded, nearly sleeping,
Gently came a something creeping
Up my back, like water seeping—
Seeping upward from the floor.
"Tis a cooling breeze," I muttered,
"From the regions 'neath the floor—
Only this and nothing more."

And distinctly I remember
It was in one wet September,
When the earth, and every member
Of creation that it bore,
Had for weeks and weeks been soaking
In the meanest, most provoking
Foggy rains that (without joking)
We had ever seen before;
So I knew it must be very
Cool and damp beneath the floor—
Very cold beneath the floor.

So I sat me, half-way napping,
In the sunshine, stretching, gapping,
Craving water, but delighted
With the breeze from 'neath the floor,
Till I found me growing colder,
And the stretching waxing bolder,
And myself a feeling older—
Older than I'd felt before;
Feeling that my joints were stiffer
Than they were in days of yore—
Stiffer than they'd been before.

All along my back the creeping
Coolness came, now rushing, leaping,
As if countless frozen demons
Were attempting to explore
All the cavities (the varmints)
Twixt me and my nether garments.
Up into my hair and downward
Through my boots into the floor:
Then I found myself a-shaking.
Slight at first, but more and more—
Every moment more and more!

Soon I knew what 'twas that shook me;
'Twas the ager, and it took me
Into heavy clothes—to every
Place where there was warmth in store;
Shook me till my teeth were chattering,
Till the tea they brought went spattering
From the cup, while all my warming
Made me colder than before;
Shook me till I had exhausted
All its powers to shake me more—
Had no strength to shake me more—

Then it rested till the morrow,
When it came with all the horror
That it owned, or e'en could borrow—
Shaking harder than before;
And from that day, damp and dreary,
When I sat, all dreamy, bleary,
It has made diurnal visits,
Shaking, shaking, oh, so sore!
Shaking off my boots, and shaking
Me to bed, if nothing more—
Fully this, if nothing more.

And to-day the swallows flitting
Round my cottage see me sitting
Modestly within the sunshine,
Just inside my silent door,
Waiting for the ager, seeming
Like a man forever dreaming,
And the sunlight on me streaming
Throws no shadow on the floor;
For I'm now too thin from ager
To make shadows on the floor—
Nary shadow—any more!

NO FICTION.

[The editor is in possession of the name of the author of the following singular narrative, and of the place at which it happened, and has every reason to be satisfied of the entire bona fides of the writer, a clergyman of the Church of England.]

Early in January, 1879, clerical duty called me into the Northwest of England. In the midst of a heavy fall of snow my family took possession of the official residence provided for us.

It was an old stonehouse of one story, roofed in part with ancient stone slabs, in part with modern slates, and standing in a garden bare of trees. A wide passage ran back from the entrance toward the kitchen, where there were two doors, the one leading into the yard, the other into the larder, which was in fact a roomy cellar at the foot of a flight of very old steps. The five bedrooms all opened on a square landing.

"How about the roof?" I asked of the man in charge.

"All right, sir. Everything has been carefully seen to, and when the thaw comes I'll warrant you'll not be troubled anything to matter."

In a few days we had shaken down; and the verdict on our new home was: "Not grand, but decidedly cozy."

A tall, solid, freeny, rosy young woman had undertaken to be our one servant. Sparing of words was she, but not sparing of work.

"The incarnation of stupidity and stolidity," said my son Primus. "The very thing for us," said his mother.

The girl's name, being Stillwell, soon became corrupted into Stillwater; or, for short, Still.

It was splendid skating weather. The low-lying meadows were covered to the depth of a foot or more, and one glided along over acres of smooth, green, transparent ice. Every day we sallied forth, my three boys, their sister and I, to take our fill of enjoyment in this icy paradise; coming back to bask all the evening before the bright golden sunshine and the silvery ashes of a North Country coal fire.

My wife has the weak habit of going to "tuck up" her boys after they are in bed. One night their voices sounded so angry that she ran up in haste to see what was wrong. On entering their room she found the two elder boys sitting up in bed, hurling injurious and derisive epithets at some person or persons unknown.

"Let me just find out who you are and you'll get such a jolly good licking as you'll remember," announced Primus, gazing wrathfully at the ceiling.

"Oh, you blooming idiot! I wish I'd your boots, I'd throw them at your head. Be off! I'm taking a sight at you," shouted Secundus, nose and fingers upturned in the same direction.

"Are you both mad?" inquired the stern, maternal voice.

"It's that fellow, mother, that I told you about. He's on the roof again. Just listen to the row he makes."

"Nonsense," said his mother; but she stood listening for some time.

"Oh, you coward!"

"Ah, you tank!" proceeded from the two beds. Not a sound above.

"I have heard no row on the roof," remarked mother, with dignified emphasis; and, having performed the usual ceremony, she departed, and came and told me of the whole affair, concluding with, "I wonder if it can be rats?"

"Not a doubt of it."

Next morning the boys were full of their nocturnal visitor, and declared that no sooner had the drawing-room door shut than the scrambling and tramping began again.

"History tells of a certain cat who wore top boots; but I never heard of rats adopting the fashion," I remarked.

"Rats, father! Why, we know the sound of them well enough. And they run between the ceiling and the roof. But this is unmistakable boots, with plenty of hobnails in them, too, on the outside of the roof. We expected every moment to see the fellow's legs come through plaster and all. I think I may be permitted to speak with authority on the subject of boots and roofs in connection."

He certainly might, for he had perambulated the roofs of all the outhouses at S., to the great detriment of tiles and slates.

"Well, then," continued Primus, with the air of an adept, "I am so sure it was a boy of my size in hobnailed boots that I feel as if I had seen them. I could swear to them."

"Come out and have a look," was my reply.

There lay the white mantle, smooth and glistening in the sunshine, and untrodden by so much as the foot of a tom-cat.

The boys looked at each other in amazement. "I don't care," said Secundus, defiantly, "I shall always believe it was a boy."

"It's the rummest thing I ever knew," slowly remarked Primus.

"If Boots comes again, the only thing you have to do is to wish him a good night, and to cover up your ears," was my recommendation.

That evening, just as we were about to begin prayers, we were all startled by some tremendous blows on the cellar door. My wife, thinking there must be some one at the back door, told Stillwater to go and see who could be knocking in that outrageous way.

The girl did not stir. After a moment she said: "It's the cellar door."

"Impossible!" said her mistress, "go quickly and see what it is."

We heard the unlocking and relocking of the yard door. When the girl came back she said there was no one there. Presently, while I was reading, there came more loud blows, as if struck by a heavy fist, and unmistakably against the cellar door.

When prayers were ended we went to make acquaintance with our mysterious captive. On opening the door there was nothing to be seen but the flight of steps.

My wife and I exchanged glances which said very plainly, "A sweetheart." So, as the youth appeared shy, I gave him an encouraging invitation to come forth and show himself. No reply.

"I am determined to know who you are," said I, nobly plunging into the abyss, the boys at my heels. Nothing whatever to be seen, and not a corner in which anything bigger than a mouse could hide. The window? It was tightly closed up for the winter, and was, beside, blocked with snow. I was certainly mystified, but I sent the young ones off to bed with an assurance that wind in an old house was capable of making the most extraordinary noises, and in illustration we all in turn shook the door—not, however, producing anything like the previous effect.

"It must have been at the back door," said my wife, with a searching look at Stillwater.

"No, it's the cellar door that does it," quietly replied the girl.

"How can it make that noise of itself?"

"I don't know."

"Did you ever hear it before?"

"Yes, this evening, when Miss was at the piano."

We decided that we must watch Stillwater.

In the course of the night we were awakened by the agreeable sound of "drip, drip, drip," in one corner of the room. My wife put a basin beneath with a towel in it to deaden the sound. Presently, "drip, drip," again, but outside the door, which we always kept open.

"There's a sudden thaw, and we're in for it," said L. "Let's go to sleep. It won't hurt the floor cloth."

But there was no going to sleep; for the drip came faster than ever, until it increased to a little stream. There were no matches in the room; but I managed to find my bath, and to set it, with a blanket inside it, under the spot whence the sound came.

When, at breakfast, I announced the sad news of the sudden thaw, there was a chorus of exclamation, "Why, everything is as hard as iron," etc.

The mother, meanwhile, was directing her handmaid to dry up the water which had come in during the night. The girl stared. When she came into the room again, her mistress asked her what she had done with the wet blanket. She stared more expressively, and was mute.

"Don't you understand?"

"Yes, ma'am, but there is no wet blanket, and no water to wipe up."

Up stairs went mistress and servant, and in two minutes back came my wife, looking quite bewildered.

"There's not a trace of water anywhere," said she; "and yet, after you were asleep I heard it drip fast upon the counterpane, just at my feet."

Our delighted offspring settled it that mother had been dreaming, and Primus irreverently hinted that I had generously lent my bath in order to escape my morning's shudder.

When Tertius was being tucked up that night he asked, "Who was that person who came and looked at me after I was in bed?"

"Stillwater, I suppose."

"Oh, no; it was an old woman, and she had a funny cap on!"

"You dreamed her, dear."

"But I hadn't been to sleep; and I turned my head to the wall, and when I looked for her again she had gone away."

"You must have been half-asleep. Now go to sleep quite, and finish the dream."

The next night Primus began:

"Mother, I wish you would tell that old party not to come into my room without knocking. I had just got into bed, happened to glance across to the drawers, and there she stood, coolly looking at me. I was disgusted, and turned my back upon her. Presently I looked out of the tail of my eye, to see what she was doing, but she'd cut."

"You don't know who it was?"

"No. She looked like one of the charwomen—Boots' mother, I dare say. These people are cool enough for anything."

My wife called to Stillwater, to ask if Mrs. Brown or Mrs. Jones had been in that evening. She was answered that no one had been.

"Then you must have been half-asleep, although you did not know it, and have dreamed."

"Yes, I suppose so. But it seemed very real. At any rate, I'm half asleep now," murmured Primus.

Night after night we were aroused by the voice of this or that child. Their mother always went to them, and always found them sleeping peacefully, though, a minute before, there had been sobbing and moaning. It was bitterly cold, and I persuaded her not to go at the first call. Then there was whispering on the stairs.

One night we had both been laying awake for some time, listening to what seemed like cautious steps, first on the landing and then in our room itself. We had tried to persuade ourselves that it might be mice. But no; there were distinct steps as of a person walking. Yet, though we followed the sound with our eyes, we saw nothing. Suddenly there was a howl of anguish, like the cry of a large animal in pain. It thrilled us with horror, for it came from our daughters' room, though it was not possible for it to be their voices. When we reached their bed-sides they were calmly sleeping, and were not even aroused by our entrance with the light. I made quiet observations next day, both inside and outside of the house.

"If you please, ma'am, may I have my sister to sleep with me?" said Stillwater to her mistress.

"Are you afraid to sleep alone?"

"No, I'm not afraid."

"Then why do you wish it?"

No answer; only a very earnest look.

"Why, Stillwater, you look as if you had seen a ghost," said her mistress, laughingly.

"Yes, ma'am, I have," she replied, very quietly.

"And what did it look like?"

"Like Mrs. N., just as she was of afternoons."

"Come, come! she ought to have been all in white, you know."

"No, she was not in white. She had on the same sort of cap she always wore, and the same dress and white apron."

"I hope you asked her what she wanted."

"No, ma'am; I lay still and looked at her, and then I sat up and looked at her hard, and presently I could not see her."

"It was no doubt a dream, and you will probably never have such another."

"No, I am sure it was not a dream. Beside I have seen her twice before, when I was walking about."

"Out of doors?"

"No, ma'am; in the house. One afternoon, toward dusk, she came and looked at me through the window. I wondered how she could be there, and I looked at her for a good little time."

"And then?"

"And then she was not there. And I went to the window and looked out, but she was gone."

"What was the use of going to the window, when you knew she was dead?"

"I don't know; she looked just as if she was alive. The other time I was kneeling down on the rug, making your fire burn up. She passed straight before me."

"Oh! nonsense! She would have set fire to her clothes."

Still looked injured, but quietly persisted:

"She did, ma'am. She passed straight between me and the fire."

"How could she do that? Really, Still, for a sensible young woman, you are very full of fancies."

"It was not fancy, either of the times, ma'am. I did see her, I did, indeed. I hope you will believe me."

"Yes; I quite believe that you think you saw Mrs. N. You may have your sister to sleep with you."

Now it is not a pleasant thing for any man, still less for one of my profession, to confess that he has felt "creepy" on account of certain inexplicable sounds. But, as this is a perfectly true account, I am compelled to acknowledge that it happened to me again and again, during the time of my dwelling in the Old Lodge. And I also declare that my wife and I were perfectly well in health; and that we had never before been the victims of similar terrors. Furthermore, though we spoke of the noises, we at first abstained from mentioning our sensations to each other.

After an hour's sleep I would be aroused, as if at the command of some person, unseen indeed, but certainly in the room. Then a small something, say a marble, would be gently dropped, more than once, on the carpet close at my bedside; sometimes on the floor-cloth, just outside the open door. Then the marble would be gently rolled on the boards of the room, and up against the skirting board.

It was an immense relief when one night we encountered each other's eyes as we lay listening, and both made a clean breast of our terrors. Yes, nothing short of that word will do. We agreed that the first sufferer should wake the other. But my wife found it not always possible to carry out this determination. "What did you hear?" I asked her once.

"The chest of drawers was dragged over the floor," she replied. "I am thankful you spoke to me, for I have for some time been trying to wake you, but was not allowed. In fact, I have been kept perfectly motionless."

I had heard precisely the same sound, yet the drawers did not appear to have been actually moved. The sounds were so distinct that we always connected them with some special article. Now, it was a chair, or the towel-horse, that was moved. Now it was the loud snapping of a thick stick in the hall. Now, it was a violent blow on the hall table, struck as if with my own walking stick, which I remembered to have left there and which I found there in the morning. Once, the heaviest book on my writing table appeared to be dropped, as if from the height of a man, on the floor-cloth in the hall. Then a smaller one. I always myself shut the doors of the rooms leading into the hall.

Of course, I tried in every way to account for the mystery; but, after a time, I could only resign myself to lie awake and wonder. The nights were bitterly cold. On one occasion, when there had been a persistent dropping of nuts in a corner of a room, I jumped up in desperation, and held the light close to the spot. In a second the sound was behind me. I whisked around, but—tapping to right of me, tapping to left of me, tapping in every direction, without a second's intermission. No sooner did I look toward one spot than the dropping of nuts was at the other end of the room. It was as if some mischievous elf were amusing himself at my expense.

Our boys had gone to spend a day or two with some friends; and their mother, not liking the look of the empty room, had closed the door in passing, giving it a push, to make sure that it was fast. That night we heard the door shut with a tremendous bang. Even had it been left open, there was no wind to move it. Another night, when we had been awakened in the usual way, there was an agreeable variety in the entertainment. A delicate, flute-like sound proceeded from the closed dining-room. Again and again, a distinct and long-sustained musical note, as of some small pipe. Then the fifth of that note, then the octave, repeated many times; then the seventh and octave, over and over again. We were greatly puzzled. The piano was not in that room. And the sound certainly suggested a wind instrument of sweet tone.

I went down early next morning, and found to my surprise a concertina lying on a table. I lifted the handle and there came forth a long-drawn note, the very note I had heard in the night. My wife called out to me from upstairs, "That's it! that's it! What is it?"

Without attempting to disentangle her speech, I held up the concertina.

"Oh, that is Phil's. He must have left it behind. But it was the very note; there is no doubt of it."

We locked the thing up in its box, and put it inside a bookcase; and the next night we were treated to a repetition of the musical notes, only muffled. It was not only during the night that the noise was heard. For instance: I was reading by the fading afternoon light, when a chair on the other side of the room seemed to be moved from its place; so that I instinctively turned my head to see who had entered the room. Again, I was about to go down the cellar steps, in the afternoon, when I heard a heavy pickling-pan dragged along the stone-floor below. I quite thought some one was down there; but, as usual, there was no one to be seen, and the pan was in its place.

At 11 o'clock a. m. my wife and Still were on the landing. The girl was telling her mistress that she had heard Mrs. N.'s voice the evening before. Her mistress told her she was giving way to fancies.

"But Mary Jones heard it too. She had just brought in the eggs, and stood listening to the singing in the drawing-room. Then I heard Mrs. N.'s angry voice again on the stair, and Mary said, 'Who's shouting?' I said I didn't know, and she said, 'It must be the missis. Lor! how angry she is to holler like that! Doesn't she like 'em to sing?'"

"In an old house like this," began my wife, "there may be many noises caused by—"

Suddenly a noise, as if a shower of small pieces of the ceiling came down sharply on the floor-cloth, caused mistress and maid to start back in affright, and involuntarily to look up. There was not a crack to be seen. Then the two pairs of eyes searched the floor in every direction, their owners cautiously standing within the shelter of two doorways. Not a morsel of any kind could they discover.

"What was that, ma'am?" inquired Stillwater, fixing her sleepy gaze on her mistress.

"I cannot tell," was the only reply that occurred to that intelligent lady.

One morning the post brought me orders to "move on." Instead of grumbling, I hailed them with delight. For we seldom got a decent night's rest, and my wife's nerves were beginning to be weakened by the constant strain upon them.

The Old Lodge had been for years in the charge of Mrs. N., who had borne the character of a highly respectable old lady, with the drawbacks of being somewhat misanthropical and very avaricious.

I am perfectly aware of the ridicule with which stories of this nature are generally received. I can only repeat that I have related an absolutely true experience, for which I am utterly unable to account. I have no theory on the subject. I have always felt a strong distaste for so-called Spiritualism. I perceive the inconsequence and even childishness of my story; and yet it will always remain, to the story-tellers, a serious fact.—Macmillan's Magazine.

MURDEROUS MADNESS.

The Insane Deed of the Wife of a Celebrated Insanity Expert.

Mrs. Dr. Edward C. Seguin Kills Herself and Her Three Children.

An awful tragedy occurred in the family of Dr. Edward C. Seguin, the famous specialist in insanity cases, at his residence in New York city. The wife of Dr. Seguin, aged 36, took her three children to a room at the top of the house, blindfolded them, tied their hands behind their backs, and then shot each one in turn through the head. The insane woman immediately dealt herself the same death. The sickening details of the unnatural crime are embraced in the following telegraphic report of the affair:

The children were Edward D., aged 6 years; Joan Van Duye, aged 5 years, and Jeanette, 4 years. They were all shot through the head and instantly killed. The mother's death was as sudden as theirs. The trifling nature of the tragedy, as the manner of the murder. Mrs. Seguin took the children to an empty spare room at the top of a five-story house in the absence of her husband, and while the servants were engaged in the basement, and locked herself in with them. The servants believed they had gone out for a walk. What happened in the room will never be known, but when Dr. Amidon, Mrs. Seguin's brother, called, at 5 o'clock, and, with his suspicions aroused by the long absence of the family, made a search of the house, the mother and children were found dead, all shot through the head.

The children's hands were tied behind their backs with whiptail. They were blindfolded with handkerchiefs, and, from all appearances, they must have been shot while playing at blindman's buff with their executioner. They had been dead for at least an hour and a half, and were quite cold when discovered.

Three pistols were found in the room, all of heavy caliber, and all had been used. Mrs. Seguin had been despondent from physical causes for some time, but she has shown no evidence of insanity. She was a small, slim woman of nervous temperament. Her domestic life was very happy, and there was no family trouble.

Dr. Seguin is a noted specialist in cases of insanity. His father was equally so. His wife was the daughter of a Massachusetts tanner. The couple moved in the best society. The family lived in a five-story brownstone front English basement house, elegantly furnished. The room in which the tragedy took place is on the fifth floor, and is scarcely ever used by the family. The three servants in the house noticed during the day that Mrs. Seguin was in the moody condition she had been in for several weeks, and which her brother, Dr. Amidon, termed "the blues." About 11 o'clock he called upon her, and she said she did not feel well, and had written to Dr. Henry Draper, who had been invited to dine with the family, to defer his visit. This note she asked her brother to send. He took it, jokingly, and told her they would all enjoy themselves. Dr. Amidon called on his sister at 3 o'clock, and was told she had gone out for a walk. He returned at 5 o'clock, but Mrs. Seguin had not yet returned. The hall-boy incidentally mentioned that the door of the spare room was locked, and the key gone. A sudden suspicion seized the doctor that Mrs. Seguin had gone to the Central Park and drowned herself and the children. He could not explain why he thought this. He immediately went up stairs and burst the door of the room open. The horrible sight met his eyes. Almost in the middle of the floor lay the dead body of the eldest boy, Edward, a pool of blood. Partly in a closet lay Mrs. Seguin, grasping in her right hand a big pearl-handle revolver.

Inside the closet lay the boy John and the girl Jeanette. There could be no doubt the mother had taken the children into the room on the pretense of playing blindman's buff. She had led the two youngsters into the closet, and locked them in while she murdered the oldest boy. The pistol with which he was shot was a target-practice weapon, with a barrel eleven inches long. It lay beside him, and the bullet lay on the floor. It had passed through his head. The maniac mother then proceeded to the closet, and with a heavy thirty-two-caliber revolver, with which she afterward blew out her own brains, shot the other two children.

Dr. Amidon cut the strings that bound the children's hands and laid them on the bed. The police and Coroner were notified at once. Nothing was found in the room to explain the motive for the terrible crime. The maniac had held the weapon close to her victim's heads, for the handkerchiefs on their faces had been burned. The face of the little girl wore a look of innocent surprise that cut more deeply than any other feature of the dreadful deed. On the table lay a box of cartridges and a third pistol.

Sudden insanity is the only motive known for the deed. Mrs. Seguin was neatly dressed. The children were lovely little things, and all the family she had.

"Why do women so often wander aimlessly in the murky solitude of the dead past, brooding over days forever gone?" asked a young lady of a marrying widower. "They don't, I think," he said. "Rather they wander, especially at this season, in the dry goods stores of the present, often fixing articles which they have not the remotest intention of buying."

The Most Flagrant of Robberies.

Of all the robberies that is the most flagrant, the most to be dreaded, which robs man of his manhood, his self respect, which robs children of their parents, making them orphans and worse than orphans, while a bloated, degraded, and demented father still survives rob the family of support and sends them to the almshouse, robs the day school of their pupils, the Sabbath-schools of theirs, rob society of some of its laborers, the professions of some of their most brilliant ornaments, the world of hope, and the individual of his soul! Who is this robber? Strong drink. Just to the extent that it is employed as a beverage or as a medicine, since the change in name does not effect its nature—changing what is justly styled in the one case, "the foe to the system a foreign element ever at war with the vital process," into a harmless medicine—just to that extent this robbery is perpetrated, these evils exist, as vice prevails virtue must yield.—Dr. Hannaford.

What Have They To Show For It!

A young man commences at the age of 20 years to drink, and from 20 to 23 drinks but one glass of beer a day worth 5 cents a glass; at 23 he will have spent $54.75; from 23 to 25 two glasses a day, he will have spent $73; from 25 to 30, three glasses a day, $273.72; from 30 to 35, four glasses a day, $365; from 35 to 40, five glasses a day, $556.25. By this time he will have spent in all the sum of $1,222.75.

Now if another young man commences at 20, and instead of spending the money named for beer each year, puts it out at 7 per cent. interest, without any savings but this beer money, he would be worth at the age of 40 years, $2,330, having saved his money, his character, his health, and perhaps his soul.—Rear Series. No. 6.

Thunder it Down the Ages.

That for lameness, for rheumatism, for aches, for pains, and sprains Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a positive and reliable remedy. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil can be purchased of any druggist.

Can't Say Enough.

"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters; they have been a great blessing to me. Cured me of biliousness and dyspepsia from which I had suffered for years." Mr. J. Marsh, Bank of Toronto, Ont.

A Word of Caution.

Railroad men, mechanics, commercial travelers, base ballists, farmers, and others who labor out of doors, are peculiarly liable to accident and injury. Thomas' Electric Oil for bruises, burns, bites and sprains, is one of the finest applications yet devised.

Honesty the Best Policy.

In advertising a medicine it is best to be honest; deception will never do; the people won't stand it. Let the truth be known that Burdock Blood Bitters cure scrofula, and all eruptions of the skin. This medicine is sold everywhere by druggists.

An Impossibility.

Deserving articles are always appreciated. The exceptional cleanliness of Parker's Hair Balsam makes it popular. Gray hairs are impossible with it's occasional use.

How it was Done.

"How do manage," said a lady to her friend, "to appear so happy and good natured all the time?" "I always have Parker's Ginger Tonic handy," was the reply, "and thus easily keep myself and family in good health. When I am well I always feel good natured."

A Good Offer.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company has just issued an illustrated treatise. "The Heart of the Continent," describing the wonderful growth of the Six Great States. The book is beautifully printed, and numerous engravings of high merit adorn its pages. Any one sending their name and address with two three-cent stamps will receive a copy by return mail, by applying to Perceval Lowell, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Illinois.

Marvellous Cure of Stone in the Bladder—Large Stones Removed by Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.
From the Pittsfield (Mass.) Eagle.
Stone in the Bladder is a very dangerous ailment; but many most remarkable cures have of late been wrought by "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy"—the invention of Dr. Kennedy of Houdou, N. Y. Another striking case is now added to the list. Mr. Peter Lawler, of Dalton, Mass., states in a letter to Dr. Kennedy that he had been troubled with bladder complaint for 14 years, and had consulted at different times seven physicians; but nothing beyond temporary allayment of the pain had been worked. Towards the end of last January Mr. Lawler called on Dr. Kennedy. Sounding him the doctor "struck stone." He decided that Mr. Lawler should first try the "Favorite Remedy," so as, if possible, to avoid an operation. And here is the remarkable result: "Dear Doctor Kennedy—The day after I came home I passed two gravel stones, and am doing nicely now. If you would like to see the stones I will send them to you." This letter bears date, "Dalton, Mass., Feb. 6th," and is signed "Peter Lawler." The stones, which are so large as to warrant for "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" the claim that it is the most successful specific for Stone yet discovered, are now in Dr. Kennedy's possession. Incidentally Mr. Lawler also states that the "Favorite Remedy" at the same time cured him of a stubborn case of Rheumatism; and it is a fact that in all effusions arising out of disorder of the liver or urinary organs it is a searching remedy and works marvellous benefits. It is in itself almost a medicine chest. Order it of your druggist. Price $1.00 a bottle.
