FIFTY YEARS AGO

When glasses were simply worn to assist reading, any glass you could read with was thought good enough to wear, but now-a-days, when optics is a science, and lenses are worn to keep in check the involuntary muscles of the eyes so that the nerves would not be exhausted faster than the brain can supply, it is wrong to wear glasses not fitted by a graduate optician.

In the Michigan crop report issued last Monday night, Secretary of State Warner says that the condition of wheat as compared with the average is 83 in the state. A large part of the wheat crop was sown very late this year. This was due principally to the fact that it rained almost continually at a time when a large amount of wheat would naturally be sown. All wheat sown prior to this rainy period has made good growth, although some correspondents report that this early sown wheat is affected with the Hessian fly. The wheat sown late is small but healthy. The estimated average yield of corn in bushels is twenty-five in the state. The acreage of clover seed harvested as compared with average years is 54 per cent of the state. This year's potato crop is below the average. Continued rain early in the summer rotted the seed badly where planted on low ground. Insects have also done much damage. The estimated average yield per acre is sixty-eight bushels for the state.

Holland City News.

FRIDAY, Nov. 14.

Lake and Marine.

An article is being printed in the papers quite extensively relating to the dangers of South Manitou Island becoming submerged. The report is a ridiculous one and no such report was ever given out by Captain Lofberg as reported. The report originated from the fact that the government built a small dock to place a boat house on. The piles were driven in a steep bank upon which the water deepened rapidly, and the result was the dock piles and all were shoved out into the lake.

Work on the new passenger steamer now being built at Port Huron for the Peru syndicate of South Haven is progressing rapidly, and it is understood that the Nye Shipbuilding company, which has the construction work in hand, has made preparations to turn the boat out on time. The new boat will be almost a duplicate of the twin-screw steamer Virginia of the Goodrich line, but 6 feet shorter. In order to demonstrate their confidence in the vessel the shipbuilding company is understood to have taken $75,000 stock of the $225,000 which the steamer will cost. The remaining stockholders are said to be John C. and Joseph Peru, $50,000; Noud, the lumberman of Muskegon, $50,000; several small South Haven stockholders, $30,000; and a Manitowish stockholder, $20,000. The boat will be equipped with a double tier of staterooms, and like the Virginia have twin screws.

Consumption

Salt pork is a famous old-fashioned remedy for consumption. "Eat plenty of pork," was the advice to the consumptive 50 and 100 years ago.

Salt pork is good if a man can stomach it. The idea behind it is that fat is the food the consumptive needs most.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern method of feeding fat to the consumptive. Pork is too rough for sensitive stomachs. Scott's Emulsion is the most refined of fats, especially prepared for easy digestion.

Feeding him fat in this way, which is often the only way, is half the battle, but Scott's Emulsion does more than that. There is something about the combination of cod liver oil and hypophosphites in Scott's Emulsion that puts new life into the weak parts and has a special action on the diseased lungs.

A sample will be sent free upon request.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

The Best Poultry Show In Western Michigan.

The third annual exhibition of the Holland Poultry and Pet stock association to be held at the Lyceum opera house December 16, 17, 18 and 19 will undoubtedly be the largest show in Western Michigan. In response to notices sent out by L. S. Sprletama, the secretary, and as a result of the issuing of the premium list, assurances have been received from the best poultry fanciers of the county signifying their intention to enter birds. In its premium list the association has the following greeting signed by James L. Conkey, president and L. S. Sprletama, secretary: "The Holland Poultry and Pet Stock Association takes pleasure in presenting to the public and fanciers this our third annual catalogue for the winter exhibition to be given in the Lyceum opera house, Holland, Mich., Dec. 16 to 19 inclusive.

Our object is to encourage the breeding of a better class of poultry in this section. Our shows of 1900 and 1901 have proved of great value to breeders of land and water fowl, and a source of pleasure and profit to the fancier, the farmer, the mechanic, and a great number of visitors, stimulating a love in the enterprise and giving those who are interested in these pursuits an opportunity to see the various varieties of pure bred poultry.

The management and members of our association have spared no labor in making preparations to make this show outdo our previous exhibitions. We have secured the services of an able judge, O. P. Greer, of Bourbon, Ind. He has done satisfactory work in many of the large shows. His presence alone will insure success.

We would especially extend our thanks to all who have subscribed to our premium list and advertising columns, and to the several poultry journals throughout our country who have given notice of our show, from time to time, not forgetting to thank our local papers for their efforts in our behalf.

Send your birds to our show. They will be comfortably quartered, and properly handled."

Circuit Court. Nichols Case is On.

Monday afternoon circuit court, Judge Padgham presiding, convened and the case of the People vs. Geo. E. Nichols, charged with subornation of perjury was on.

This case will undoubtedly consume the greater part of five weeks and promises to be the hardest fought legal battle in the history of Ottawa county criminal trials.

Ex-Senator Nichols arrived on the 2:20 train accompanied by his attorneys, Messrs Hawley and Ellis, and his brother. The case proceeded as soon as the Iowa party arrived.

Besides the attorneys named, Geo. A. Farr and W. I. Little of Grand Haven will assist in the defense.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Ward of Kent county and Wesley W. Hyde will lead in the prosecution of Nichols. They were assisted in securing a jury by Ex-Prosecuting Attorney Arend Vischer.

As will be seen, the array of attorneys on both sides is formidable and comprises some of the leading members of the west Michigan bar. When these giants meet in the great legal conflict of the next five weeks it will be a case of Greek meeting Greek.

Prior to the commencement of the Nichols case, a motion was made by Prosecuting Attorney McBride to nolle pro the case against McCanney, the alleged Berlin burglar. It was granted.

The jurors in the Nichols case are kept under lock and key and under the surveillance of two deputies night and day.

C. Vander Noot and Hans Dykhuil will be court officers during the trial.

The charge against Senator Nichols is that he attempted to bribe Frederick H. Garman, one of the principal witnesses against Salisbury. It is alleged by the prosecution that Nichols sent a package containing $1,250 to the room of witness Garman, who was stopping at the Livingston hotel in Grand Rapids. The messenger who delivered the same was a man named Leonard.

In the trial now fairly commenced, the entire water works scandal in Grand Rapids will very likely be thrashed over entirely.

The jury chosen is as follows: Wm. C. Bond—Crockery. John VanderPoel—Holland town. Chester Lawton—Tallmadge. Sidney Clark—Robinson. Fred Van Aalsburg—Polkton. Geo. W. Lowing—Georgetown. John Terbeek—Holland city. Reiger Beekman—Grand Haven. Arthur Hale—Crockery. Wm. Emory—Grand Haven town. John Pisco—Polkton. Orren D. White—Spring Lake.

Prof. Clarke of the University of Chicago will read "Ulysses," Stephen Phillips latest play at Winants chapel next Wednesday evening, November 19.

First Cost of Pavement Not the Only Consideration.

How beautiful will Holland be when paved streets become a certainty. And within a few months they will be a certainty, for the mayor and common council, in accordance with the urgent wishes of the people, are going about the work in an earnest, matter-of-fact manner that presages early fruition of the enterprise. And while they are about it they should remember that but once in a life time does a proposition of this kind come up for consideration. This makes it important that the best attention and the soundest judgment should be brought in play in order that the future interests of the city shall be protected and advanced. Too much stress should not be laid on the first cost of pavement. A few cents per foot saved on the first cost might mean the loss of many cents in future maintenance of condition. The main points to be considered are durability, good service and manner of making repairs. Pavement that will stand the wear and tear, will give good service, will be easy to repair, will in the end be cheaper than pavement that lacks these essentials though the first cost of the right kind may be double that of the wrong kind.

People living on rural postal routes may call at the postoffice and obtain their mail during the regular hours of public business. This is the decision of the acting general superintendent of the free mail delivery system on the question brought up from a rural route of an Illinois city, where the postmaster contended that it was not a part of his duty to deliver rural route mail from the postoffice windows. The ruling of the general department, which is a notification to all postmasters, is as follows: "When patrons of rural routes call at their postoffices for their mail during the hours the postoffices are regularly open to the public for the transaction of business it should be delivered to them. Patrons are not required to rent boxes in order to obtain this service."

Children and the Bible.

Such was the topic of the lecture delivered by Prof. J. T. Bergen last Friday evening at the Semelink Hall chapel. A goodly number of friends were present and the audience were in full harmony with the well-chosen words of the Dean of the Seminary expressive of gratitude to the lecturer. The professor began by narrating the advice of his uncle—never to go to Europe nor to enter upon the rostrum as a lecturer while a student and claimed he had little predilection, for either of these yet. However that may be he launched right out by saying: "We shall study our subject objectively."

The speaker said there was no trouble to interest the regenerated child in the Bible, for the Holy Spirit takes care of them; but to lead the unregenerated child to have a real liking for Scripture is no small task. The objections and contentions of certain schools of pedagogues that one must wait with religious instruction of a child until it has a desire for it was declared fallacious. The word of God is for all and for old and young. For, if the Bible is a book of the Kingdom of heaven and if the characteristics of its citizens are to be found in children then surely the Bible is also for children. To substantiate this he cited the command of God in Deuteronomy that Israel was to teach the Word unto the little children. The whole aim of the Jewish education was to make them a people of law. To that end the Sanhedrine centuries ago provided a graded course of study according to the age of the child, advocating that twenty-five children were entitled to a teacher. From five to ten years of age the child studied only the Bible text, never once entering the mazes of catechisms, commentaries or lesson helps. At the age of ten he left this memorizing stage and studied the rabbinical instructions. There was a library in connection with each Jewish school. The law of offerings, the promises, and the great Hallel were the portions first learned.

The Bible is concrete in its teachings, formed another division of the lecture. The child loves that whereof it knows most, if it is good for anything. Even as many preachers preach abstract sermons over the heads of a concrete congregation, so Bible teachers often leave the concrete Bible language and use the abstract—to the confusion of the little folks. The Bible declares first principles, and then illustrates same with many incidents which the child mind readily grasps.

The speaker declared there was a lamentable lack of knowledge of the Scripture among the children of the West. They know the doctrine of the Bible, but not the Bible itself. He urged the duty of teaching parents to instruct the young and advocated that the child have its own Bible, a gift of God to it personally, that the parent set a time daily to read to the child from the Bible, and thus form the habit which will lead the child later on to read for itself, and that the instruction be after the Jewish fashion—first memorizing that which is of most concern to them. With the Jew it was the laws of offering, with us it is the story of the Lamb who offered himself for us, namely Jesus. Teach the child the story of Jesus' life and death and other Bible stories and tell it that the Bible is the book of Jesus' kingdom, then you may safely enter with the child into the history, poetry and prophecy of the Bible and even with a course about the origin of the Bible. Upon the fact that the child is apt to believe what is read, the lecturer made a strong plea to surround the child with good literature, to watch what it reads, to cultivate a taste for good reading that shall bar the vitiating tendency of many novels to overthrow the old moorings.

William H. Beach of Holland, a director of the Grand Rapids, Holland & Lake Michigan Railway company, and formerly manager of the Holland & Lake Michigan Transportation company, was in the city yesterday (Tuesday.) Mr. Beach says that Holland is moving ahead. "We have more manufacturing than most people are aware of," he says, "and the amount of building done there during the past year beats all past records. Our harbor needs improving and the work has been at a standstill this year, but I understand that the entire appropriation will be spent next year, in helping our waterway."—G. R. Herald.

In the United States district court at Grand Rapids Tuesday William and Lizzie Coffee, husband and wife, who have been in jail in Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids for the past six months under a charge of violating the postal laws by conducting a marriage bureau at Burnips Corners, Allegan county, were discharged, the evidence notwithstanding strong enough to hold them to trial. Mrs. Coffee had a scheme of advertising for a husband and representing herself to be a very young, wealthy, handsome and in all ways an agreeable widow. Her husband was under suspicion of playing a prominent part in her scheme to obtain money under such pretenses.

The Graham & Morton Line and the People's Transit Company have arranged to put two steamers on the east shore of Lake Michigan next summer. The steamers will be the Frontenac of the People's Line and a fifteen mile per hour steamer from the Graham & Morton fleet. The boats will alternate in giving a regular daily service six nights in the week to Whitehall, Montague and Ludington and will run twice each week to Manistee, leaving Chicago Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Connections will be made at Manistee with the Manistee and Northeastern trains for Traverse City and beyond and joint traffic arrangements with the northern Michigan rail lines have already been effected. The boats will be operated independently, but will cover a combined schedule and work together in the handling of passengers and freight.

William R. Cox, western representative of the allied interests of the Standard Oil company and the Vacuum Oil company, arrived here the first of the week from a business trip in the northern part of the state. He landed some very desirable contracts for his firm and considers it the most successful trip he has taken since he went on the road. While at Saint Ste Marie he was the guest of M. Yalomstein, formerly proprietor of the Boston store in this city. Mr. Yalomstein is conducting a store called "The Hub" and is doing the leading business at the "Soo." He carries the biggest stock in town and besides himself it takes a force of six clerks to take care of his trade. Also, with his faithful dog Rusty, still sticks to the hunting game. He killed two deer this season and as Mr. Cox had a hand in the deal and has taken out a hunter's license it is expected that the friends of these young men in Holland will soon enjoy a venison roast.

Prof. S. H. Clark has a remarkably fine voice—strong, flexible, various, perfectly distinct in enunciation, beautifully modulated, and of a manly and musical quality. He exhibits a combination of unusual natural endowments, with a training in elocution of the highest order. His intelligence is always equal to his task, and his grace, ease and naturalness could scarcely be surpassed.—Boston Post.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Colby will leave next Sunday afternoon for their winter home on their plantation at Eue Gallie, Fla. They would have gone some weeks ago but the extensive improvements under way at Macatawa Park demanded Mr. Colby's presence and he could not leave. The Eue Gallie plantation is an ideal winter home and is the haven of rest for residents of Holland who make southern trips.

Antrim county farmers who raised sugar beets for the Charlevoix factory are raising something else now because the sugar company refuses to pay them at the rates promised. The contracts provided for a rate of $4.50 per ton for 12 per cent beets, and 33 1-3 cents additional per ton for each per cent of sugar above 12. The beets raised run about 16 to 17 per cent of sugar, and yet the company, the farmers claim, refuses to pay more than $5 per ton.

The main event of the week in Holland will be the musical and literary entertainment to be given this evening by the young people of the Third Reformed church assisted by Mrs. George E. Kollen and Wm. E. Van der Hart, readers. Besides a fine program of musical selections by some of the best known vocalists in the city there will be singing by a chorus of fifty voices under the direction of John Vandersluis. The pianist is Miss Minnie Sprletama.

The Bennett wrecking crew of Muskegon, assisted by Capt. David Wilson and his steamer Carrie Ryerson, have completed the work of taking the machinery from the wrecked steamer Hattie B. Perue which went ashore north of the north pier at Holland harbor a few weeks ago. The shaft and wheel still remain with the bones of the old boat and it is the intention to abandon them until some time next summer when an attempt to raise them will be made. All that is left of the Perue is the keel, a few ribs and some of the bulwarks. The machinery has been loaded on two cars and will be shipped to Manistee.

A. J. Ward, of the firm of A. J. Ward & Son, brick manufacturers of Flint, Mich., who when he was here was alderman from the first ward, in a letter to a friend in this city makes suggestions regarding the introduction of a bill into the next legislature providing for the taxing of bachelors. He says in part: "There is one law that I would like to see passed by the next legislature and that is to pay a heavy tax upon all old bachelors. This will increase the salary of the county clerk and make a demand for more houses, thus bettering the condition of contractors and save many a good woman from becoming an old maid. I would make the tax so large that in case any old bachelor refused to marry that he should be sold at auction, thus giving all old maids a chance to bid."

A NIGHT OFF LEWIS.

It was autumn, and the day had fallen early in the afternoon. The plunging gray waves of the Atlantic were dimly seen from the windows through deluges of rain. Dinner was just over, and two men drew their chairs near the peat-fire, lit their pipes, and began that endless fishing chat which is so dear to all anglers.

"Never was such a rainy climate," observed one of the fishers. "I had not a dry rag on me when I reached the farm here. You, who have been fishing all the morning, must have felt the same." He laughed at a huge pea-jacket in which he was enveloped, and at the legs of his trousers (borrowed like the coat from the good wife, whose husband was among the sheep), turned up at least half a yard, as the speaker was a very little man and the farmer a colossus.

"I also got a jolly ducking," replied the other man; "but I am used to the Lewis. It is not a district to be trifled with. I will tell you a story in point."

"When I was last here, more than 20 years ago, I nearly lost my life. I had been out several days fishing with a gillie—out there where you see at present those sheets of foam. One day, however, the gillie had to attend a funeral at Stornoway, so I went out alone. The farm people could easily see me from the house here, and it was a lovely September day. Soon getting dissatisfied with fishing there, I rambled round to the back of the house, where the ground rises a little and hides the sea. There I found a creek with sea-trout passing upwards and rising in very tempting fashion. I could not throw close to them; but in an evil hour I spied a small boat fastened to a rock, which I gladly undid, jumped in, and began fishing. Soon I rowed out to the opposite rocks—some 30 yards across but a quarter of a mile nearer the sea—lauded, dragged the boat up the shingle, but neglected to fasten her with the painter, and went on eagerly fishing towards the sea. Presently, hearing a grating sound, I looked back and saw the boat slipping off the rocks as the tide rose. I instantly understood the situation, and rushed back; but it was too late. The boat was floating down, and the tide was beginning to ruffle and flow out of the creek with great swiftness every moment. I must rush in, I saw, as the boat passed. This I did, but it was just out of my reach. Quick as thought I realized that I must capture the boat, or I might be swept off the island on which I stood, or otherwise I was liable to be starved to death, as the farm probably possessed but one boat; therefore I dashed in and at once felt the power of the current running out with great velocity. I soon reached the boat and crawled in, when, to my horror, I found but one oar, the other one being left on the beach. One oar was useless in that fierce current."

"I sat down, squeezed the sea water out of my things, and reviewed the situation. It was decidedly black. I was at the mercy of the sea. It was extremely unlikely that I should be picked up. I should probably drift out with the tide; and in another six hours I might, or I might not, drift back, but whether to the rocks I had just left or to another equally inhospitable island who could tell? I remember thinking even then how young salmon go down to the sea from the river in which they have bred; but who knows whether they return to it?"

"It was now verging toward sunset, and dark fringes gathered in the east lit up one by one by the dying luminary. I hoisted my shirt on the oar, but not a sail specked the sea around me. I might as well have been a castaway in the tropics hundreds of miles from land; yet I was in sight of the long, shadowy reefs of my native land, and was even now suffering acutely from hunger and thirst. I had left my rod and tackle on the beach; but there were several trout in the stern of the boat, which, however, I had no means of cooking, and determined not to eat raw until the worst extremity. Solemnly fell night, and I was thankful to resume my shirt for its proper purpose. The waves were not high, and there was no wind; so I made up my mind to wait as patiently as I could till I found the boat moving homewards, when I resolved to aid its course to any land it neared by means of my one oar. Then the stars came out and looked down on me pitilessly."

"Cold as the night air was, I dozed fitfully; but suddenly woke with the sensation that I was being run down. Sure enough, some hundred yards off I saw the revenue cutter, which so frequently comes to guard these waters, crowded with sail and actually bearing down towards me. I was saved! I waved my shirt and shouted out and splashed the water with the oar, but to no purpose. The watch was lax, the sails hid me, and the cutter swept on. I watched its retreating form and then flung myself on the bottom of the boat in utter despair. All the night through I had heard the screams of sea-gulls, the lapping of the waves against the boat, even the wash of breakers on the rocks. I did not trouble about any of them now, such was my miserable condition."

"When the risen sun came the love of life, and I once more considered what could be done. I determined to work the boat with its one oar to the rocks, and then in all probability I could let her drift upon the breakers and at least have a swim for dear life. While thus engaged I felt the tide beginning to run very strongly towards land, and I kept her where it set in most strongly, aiding the current with the oar. My delight was extreme when I found at length that I was not 200 yards from the reefs. On we floated, and now made a narrow passage or 'voe' running up into the land. I began now to see safety, and suffered the tide to run me in farther and farther. At length, to my joy, I saw the chimneys of the old farm; but my troubles were not yet over. Some of the long reefs were mere gray rocks with no vegetation, others were green with heather and bog-plants. I drove the boat on one of these latter, rightly conjecturing that they were mostly connected with the land. I dashed across it and found it was only an island at high water (which it then was), and the tide was beginning to run out again. I could not venture on another night at sea. At once I plunged in again, and swam as strongly as I could; but only just landed at the end of the reef, where a mass of ten yards would have carried me out to sea without a boat, and I should speedily have perished. The rest was easy. Wet, cold, famished with hunger and thirst, I made my way here to find the good folk had quite given me up; and, whereas I had left the house in front, they never deemed it necessary to see whether the boat at the back was missing."

"You may imagine that I am careful to play no more tricks when I am here; these hyperborean islands do not permit trifling with them."—Chambers' Journal.

Y. P. S. of First Reformed Church. Farewell Meeting.

The meeting of the Young People's Society of the First Reformed church last Tuesday evening was made a farewell meeting for one of the members of the society, Mr. Peter J. Marsilje.

Rev. S. Van der Werf, the pastor, conducted the meeting and spoke on the topic, "Present opportunities for Reformed missions." Further remarks were made by the president, J. B. Steketee and by Mr. Marsilje, both touching on the work in Oklahoma.

Rev. Marsilje was recently appointed a missionary to Oklahoma by the Woman's Executive Board of the Reformed church. He was examined on Wednesday by the classes of Holland and was ordained the same evening. He expects to leave for his new field on Monday next and the point of his destination is Fort Sill.

At this same meeting of the society it was decided to raise $35 for the support of a bed, for one year in the new Mason Memorial Hospital in the Arabian mission at Bahrein; and also to purchase a missionary map of the world.

Prof. S. H. Clark at Winants Chapel.

The second number of the Hope college lecture course will be given at Winants chapel Wednesday evening, Nov. 19. Prof. S. H. Clark will give a dramatic impersonation of Stephan Phillips masterpiece "Ulysses" the greatest play of modern times. It will be a rare treat to hear this famous play rendered by one who is unquestionably America's leading dramatic reader.

Prof. Clark is at the head of the department of Expression in the University of Chicago; principal of the school of Expression at Chautauqua, N. Y., and his scholarly contributions to the literature of his art have been embodied in standard text books and have appeared in many magazines. Prof. Clark's position in the world of expression together with the strong commendations both of eminent men and the press, promises this number to be an event in the life of the patrons of the course.

There are no reservations contained in James A. Brouwer's manner of treating of his mattresses in his advertisement this week. His declaration regarding their value is direct and unqualified. But he is safe in giving the guarantee of satisfaction that he does for the experience of scores of buyers testify that the mattresses mentioned are positively the best in the market. To spend at least one third of your life pleasantly, namely the time spent in bed, is a problem that can be solved by calling at James A. Brouwer's furniture store on River street and talking mattresses.

Most Beyond Belief

IF IT WERE NOT FOR HOLLAND INDORSEMENT PEOPLE MIGHT BE SKEPTICAL.

Holland people want local proof. That's what we have here. It's not beyond belief, because it can be proven. Read a local citizen's testimony. Mr. Garret Kopenga, living five miles southeast of Holland, farmer, says: "I have been subject more or less all my life to attacks of kidney pain and backache. If I caught cold or strained myself from doing any unusually heavy work I was sure to be laid up for a time. The attacks came on at intervals and were very severe, so that it was almost impossible for me to bend over and if in a stooped position I could scarcely straighten again. I tried a great many different remedies and wore plasters but could get nothing to remove the trouble until I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and went to J. O. Doesburg's drug store in Holland and procured them. My back was hurting me severely at the time but it required only a few days treatment to relieve me and in a short time the aches and pains were entirely removed."

WHAT THE NEW YORK WORLD OF SUNDAY, SEPT. 7, SAYS ABOUT "MALTA-PURA."

MALTA-PURA.

The recent output of the Battle Creek Health Beverage company is expected to attract general attention throughout this country. The medical department has prepared from the formula furnished by the celebrated German chemist, Prof. Kurtz, a tonic with malt as the basic stimulant. It is in liquid form, is sold for medicinal as well as family purposes and besides being exceedingly agreeable to the taste, affords an invigorating tonic to the system. As a medicinal tonic equally as a pleasant drink it is sure to become very popular. It has been found to be successful in all pulmonary troubles, as an aid to digestion and in cases of consumption, la grippe and pneumonia. A great point in favor of this tonic is that it possesses none of the deleterious effects usually found in stimulants. Malta-Pura has only been on the market a few months, but it has entered at once into wide popularity, making an enlarging of the plant necessary. As it is absolutely unique as a tonic, it is sure to occupy a place all its own and has already found great favor upon the social buffet as well as the sick room. The city of health foods is a fitting place for the manufacture of this unusual health drink. The company is now prepared to fill orders throughout the entire country. It is unusual for any tonic to receive such unflinching indorsement from medical as well as social circles as has Malta-Pura. For sale by druggists. 37-tf.

MOLINEUX IS ACQUITTED.

The Jury, in the Famous Murder Trial in New York, Quickly Reaches a Verdict.

DECISION MADE IN THIRTEEN MINUTES.

Defendant Has Spent Four Years in Prison and Once Been Condemned to Death—Leaves the Courtroom with His Father—Cost of Trial Immense.

New York, Nov. 12.—Roland B. Molineux was set at liberty Tuesday after spending nearly four years in prison and being once condemned to death and twice placed on trial for his life for the murder of Mrs. Katharine J. Adams. But 13 minutes sufficed for the jury to reach a verdict of acquittal at the close of a trial that has lasted four weeks, the first trial, which resulted in Molineux's conviction and sentence having been prolonged for about three months. The verdict, which was confidently anticipated, was greeted with an instantly suppressed outbreak of applause, Justice Lambert having delivered a stern admonition that no demonstration would be permitted.

Given His Freedom. Molineux, who was brought into court as soon as it was known that Prince Kalaniana'ola Is Elected Delegate to Congress, Defeating Wilcox, Democrat, by 2,000.

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—The steamer Alameda, from Honolulu, brings the news that the recent election in the territory of Hawaii resulted in a sweeping republican victory. Prince Kalaniana'ola, popularly known as "Prince Cupid," was elected delegate to congress over Robert W. Wilcox, the incumbent and democratic candidate, by a majority of over 2,000.

When the Alameda left the island port the full election returns had not been received.

The legislature will be almost entirely republican, however, as 15 republican representatives and five senators are known to have been elected.

FIX THE SLATE.

Promotion to Major Generals, Caused by Retirements Next Year, Has Been Arranged.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The slate for promotion to major generals to fill vacancies caused by retirements which will take place next year, has been arranged. There will be three vacancies, Gen. Hughes retiring April 11, Gen. Davis, July 26, and Gen. Miles August 8. The latter is lieutenant general, and will be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Young. The brigadiers to be promoted to be major generals are James F. Wade, Samuel S. Sumner and Leonard Wood. These men are

PRESIDENT IS FOR PEACE.

Mr. Roosevelt Outlines a Policy of Conciliation Toward Other Nations of the World.

BELIEVES IN AIDING WEAKER POWERS.

Speaks at the New York Chamber of Commerce Dedication Banquet—Strength of Nation Lies in Virility and Rectitude—Ex-President Cleveland Speaks.

New York, Nov. 12.—The day's ceremonies in connection with the dedication of the new home of the chamber of commerce were brought to a close Tuesday night by a banquet given by the chamber in honor of the guests of the occasion.

The President Speaks.

After congratulatory cablegrams had been read by Morris K. Jesup, the president of the chamber, President Roosevelt delivered the principal address of the evening. He said:

"This body stands for the triumphs of peace both abroad and at home. We have passed that stage of national development when depreciation of other peoples is felt as a tribute to our own. We watch the growth and prosperity of other nations, not with hatred or jealousy, but with sincere and friendly good will. I think I can say safely that we have shown by our attitude toward Cuba, by our attitude toward China, that as regards weaker powers our desire is that they may be able to stand alone, and that if they will only show themselves willing to deal honestly and fairly with the rest of mankind we on our side will do all we can to help, not to hinder, them. With the great powers of the world we desire no rivalry that is not honorable to both parties. We wish them well. On Good Terms with All.

"We are glad, indeed, that we were on good terms with all the other peoples of mankind, and no effort on our part shall be spared to secure a continuance of these relations. And remember, gentlemen, that we shall be a potent factor for peace largely in proportion to the way in which we make it evident that our attitude is due not to weakness, not to inability to defend ourselves, but to a genuine repugnance to wrongdoing, a genuine desire for self respecting friendship with our neighbors. The voice of the weakling or the craven counts for nothing when he clamors for peace; but the voice of the just man armed is potent. We need to keep in a condition of preparedness, especially as regards our navy, not because we want war, but because we desire to stand with those whose plea for peace is listened to with respectful attention.

Must Have Peace at Home.

"Important though it is that we should have peace abroad, it is even more important we should have peace at home. You, men of the chamber of commerce, to whose efforts we owe so much of our industrial well-being, can, and I believe surely will, be influential in helping toward that industrial peace which can obtain in society only when in their various relations employer and employed alike show not merely insistence each upon his own rights, but also regard for the rights of others, and a full acknowledgment of the interests of the third party—the public. It is no easy matter to work out a system or rule of conduct, whether with or without the help of the law giver, which shall minimize that jarring and clashing of interests in the industrial world which causes so much individual irritation and suffering at the present day, and which at times threatens baleful consequences to large portions of the body politic. But the importance of the problem cannot be overestimated, and it deserves to receive the careful thought of all men, such as those whom I am addressing to-night. There should be no yielding to wrong, but there should most certainly be not only desire to do right, but a willingness each to try to understand the viewpoint of his fellow, with whom, for weal or for woe, his own fortunes are indissolubly bound.

Only Way of Solution.

"No patent remedy can be devised for the solution of these grave problems in the industrial world. But we may rest assured that they can be solved at all only if we bring to the solution certain old-time virtues, and if we strive to keep out of the solution some of the most familiar and most undesirable of the traits to which mankind has owed untold degradation and suffering throughout the ages. Arrogance, suspicion, brutal envy of the well-to-do, brutal indifference toward those who are not well-to-do, the hard refusal to consider the rights of others, the foolish refusal to consider the limits of beneficent action, the base appeal to the spirit of selfish greed, whether it take the form of plunder of the fortunate or of oppression of the unfortunate—these and from all kindred vices this nation must be kept free if it is to remain in its present position in the forefront of the peoples of mankind. On the other hand, good will come, even out of the present evils, if we face them armed with the old homely virtues; if we show that we are fearless of soul, cool of head, and kindly of heart; if, without betraying the weakness that cringes before wrongdoing, we yet show by deeds and words our knowledge that in such a government as ours each of us must be in very truth his brother's keeper."

Key That Fits

"Half my patients need more iron," said "our doctor." Iron makes rich, red blood. Yet it is very hard to give iron so it will do any good.

There are thousands of keys in the world—only one or two unlock your door. So we know of only one or two combinations of iron that seem to do the work.

By far the most generally useful prescription we know of is Vinol.

It has helped a great many cases in this town.

It contains the medicinal qualities of cod liver oil, iron—that-can-be-digested, and a little table wine.

It works wonders in weak women, pale children, old people, and any run-down condition. Money back if you want it.

Kentucky Negro Believed to Have Been 133 Years of Age Passed Away at Harrodsburg.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Nov. 12.—Uncle 'Lige Bledsoe, believed by those who knew him to have been the oldest man in the world, died here. Uncle 'Lige was a colored man, and claimed to have attained the remarkable age of 133 years.

He often recounted incidents taking place during the war of 1812, which could only be known to him from personal observation, and told many interesting stories about famous men he had known and served. He acted as a servant for Lafayette when he visited this place in 1824, and also served Aaron Burr after he came to Harrodsburg from Blennerhassett.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12.—The two upper floors of the six-story building at 713 and 715 Spring Garden street, occupied by the Philadelphia Baby Carriage company, were destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The lower floors were badly damaged by water. The members of the firm, F. Bloch and H. Levi, estimate their loss between $50,000 and $75,000, on which there is a full insurance. The building is owned by Isaac M. Miller. The damage to the structure is estimated at about $10,000.

Dropped Dead.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 12.—Lester R. Brooks, a millionaire grain and lumber magnate, dropped dead Tuesday evening while engaged in a chess game with his physician, Dr. Lester W. Day, at the West hotel. Mr. Brooks was 55 years old and a native of Oswego county, New York. He was afflicted with sciatica and for the past few days, though attending to business, had one leg set in a plaster cast. The mental strain of the chess game is believed to have superinduced apoplexy.

the jury had agreed, was apparently as unconcerned as he has been throughout the trial, and gave no evidence of emotion when the words that established his innocence were pronounced. His aged father, Gen. Molineux, was deeply affected, and could with difficulty respond to the greetings of friends who pressed now the three ranking brigadier generals in the order named. Gen. Wade has been a brigadier general since May, 1897, and has been many men advanced to the higher grade while he remained stationary. It is presumed that he will succeed Gen. Davis in command of the Philippines when the latter retires next July.

Prospects Are Good.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—Prof. Samuel M. Lindsay, commissioner of education in Porto Rico, and formerly of the University of Pennsylvania faculty, has reached his home in this city from Ponce. He comes to submit his report to President Roosevelt and to take his family back with him to Porto Rico. He spoke with enthusiasm of the educational prospect of the island.

Less Taxes for Railroads.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 12.—The aggregate assessment of the railroad committee of the state board of equalization for the rolling stock of the state's railroads is approximately $11,000,000, against $15,000,000 last year. Members of the committee say they have placed too high a valuation on this class of property in former years.

Nailed Heads to Gates.

London, Nov. 12.—Regarding the recent uprising in Morocco in which a soldier, who claimed to be an elder brother of the sultan, placed himself at the head of a following and claimed the throne, being afterward defeated, the Times correspondent at Fez says the heads of 20 of the pretender's followers have been nailed to the city gates.

It Was Loaded.

Carrollton, Mo., Nov. 12.—The 15-year-old daughter of Z. J. Simmons, living three miles north of Carrollton, accidentally shot her sister, aged ten years, and brother, aged seven years. The girl picked up an old gun and pulled the trigger, thinking that the gun was not loaded.

forward to offer their congratulations. Immediately after the rendering of the verdict the prisoner was formally discharged from custody, and left the court room with his father and counsel. In passing out of the building the three were cheered by a great crowd that gathered in anticipation of the acquittal.

Cost of the Trial.

It has been estimated the trial of Roland B. Molineux has cost more than any other for a capital offense in any country where the English system of jurisprudence is in vogue. The cost to the county of New York in the first trial amounted to $250,000. This was expended in various directions, largely in fees for handwriting experts who were brought from distant states and for detectives who endeavored to trace Molineux's movements from his fifteenth birthday to the time of his arrest.

The defense expended about $75,000 in the first trial and it is estimated that the total on both sides for the two hearings will foot up nearly $500,000.

Shaft on Fire.

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 12.—The Burnside shaft, which employs 700 men and boys, was discovered on fire Wednesday. A large force of men are working desperately to extinguish the flames. All of the miners got out in safety. The mine is owned by the Philadelphia & Reading coal and iron company.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Prominent Kansas City Occultist Murdered by Former Patient Who Commits Suicide.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 12.—Dr. W. H. Kimberlin, a pioneer citizen and a prominent occultist, was shot and killed in his office in this city Tuesday afternoon by John Scanlon, formerly a policeman, who then shot and killed himself. The bodies of both men were found in the doctor's office. Dr. Kimberlin was shot three times, and both must have died almost instantly. Scanlon, who is the brother of a prominent local politician, asserted, it is said, that Kimberlin had caused him to lose his eyesight.

Dr. Kimberlin was 58 years old, and had practiced in Kansas City for the past 30 years. Scanlon was 37 years old and single. He lived formerly at Breckinridge, Mo. He had worked as fireman on the Burlington railroad and later as patrolman on the Kansas City police force.

Pardon Refused.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 12.—The state pardon board denied the application for a pardon made by Frank H. Hamilton. Hamilton is the young newspaper man convicted of the murder of Leonard Day at the West hotel, Minneapolis, about two years ago. He is serving a seven years' sentence.

Hominy Mills Burned.

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 12.—The Hudson hominy mills, one of the largest concerns of its kind in this section of the country, have been totally destroyed by fire. Estimated loss, $100,000. Insurance unknown. The origin of the fire is not known.

Missionary Conference.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The general missionary conference of the Methodist Episcopal church has begun in this city, and will continue for one week. During that time the various appropriations for missionary purposes will be decided on.

Not Good Law.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 12.—Judge Sherwood, in an opinion in the supreme court, sitting en banc, declared unconstitutional the state whisky tax law.

LIVE STOCK MATTERS.

Up to Date Methods of Successful Ohio Feeders.

The Ohio Farmer presents seasonal information on the animal industries of the farmer. Hog feeding time is here again, and excerpts of it H. E. Hearn of Indiana writes as follows:

In feeding the pigs for market to be profitable they should gain not less than one pound a day from time of birth until marketed. But this cannot be accomplished without good, rapid growing stock, with proper care and feed. So I would have for the first item the selection of good ancestry. By this we mean not only good pedigree stock, but loose, growthy, large boned animals that will respond to care and feed and will increase the greatest number of pounds in the least possible time. I gradually change the sow's feed from corn to skim milk and mill feed from six to eight weeks before the birth of her pigs. After birth of pigs feed light of skim milk and mill feed until pigs show signs of eating, then gradually increase feed with their appetites. At six to eight weeks old wean them from their mother, and in from four to four and a half months I commence feeding corn in small quantity, with a gradual increase up to seven to seven and a half months, decreasing slops at same time. At this age they should be ready for market and weigh from 210 to 225 pounds.

Feed regularly from three to five times a day. Feed only good, wholesome food. Feed no slop which has been left to sour. Furnish plenty of good, fresh water. Allow no pond or puddles of stagnant water to be in the lots or pastures. Keep the lots and beds tidy and clean. Feed plenty of charcoal and with a pinch of salt every day or so. Keep clear of lice. Sprinkle the beds, feeding troughs and feeding places with crude carbolic acid regularly once a week. A little turpentine in slop occasionally will keep the pigs free from worms. A pint of oilmeal in slop three times a day to ten pigs will make them look as if they were grown up. Good, old fashioned lye soap in slop occasionally is a cheap and good preventive of cholera.

Lamb Fattening.

I am glad to be able to present the methods of fattening lambs practiced by Mr. Robert Cunningham of Knox county, O., says H. P. Miller.

Mr. Cunningham names as the first essential for success freeing the lambs of parasites, both external and internal. Dipping does the one and gasolene has been relied on for the other. The lambs are then assorted according to size and never more than 100 placed together. Grain feed is given very cautiously at first, bran and oats being employed. He considers bran the safest feed for the first week. The amount of oats is gradually increased and later corn very cautiously added. All changes in feed are made slowly. It is very important that the lambs be not overfed at any time. Corn is the grain for fattening as soon as they can be got to eating it with safety, and during the latter part of the feeding period it is fed alone.

In later years he has not housed as closely as formerly. Lambs are fed corn fodder in an open yard in the morning, if not storming, and allowed to remain out during the day. Clover hay is fed in the barn at night. Salt and fresh water are kept before them all the time. Attention to these he considers as important as regularity in feeding. The length of time they are fed depends upon the size of the lambs at the beginning of the period, and the kind. It will pay to feed some flocks through the winter and shear before selling. This is true of Merinos, but the mutton breeds grow more rapidly and may be brought to desirable weights more cheaply when less time is taken for it. A mutton lamb that cannot be fitted for market in eight or at most ten months will not be a profitable lamb to feed longer.

One Thing and Another.

Agronomy, the theory and practice of corn production, is a new department instituted in the Iowa Agricultural college.

A Kansas man is now trying to devise a method of plowing by power by the use of two engines, one at either end of the field, propelling a cable between them, to which the plows may be attached.

Sugar is not made in the factory, but out in the field. No other crop is so dependent on good seed as the sugar beet.

Battle Creek housewives helped out, to the extent of quite a number of dollars, a man who "needed the money" and who, to get it, bought whitening at two cents a pound and sold it at ten cents an ounce as insect powder.

Owosso will spend $30,000 for paving, the proposition to bond for that amount having been carried.

Johannesburg, in Otsego county is only a new town, but it is to have a $10,000 hotel. The building is already in course of construction.

The squirrel season is open, but the light kill proves that the nimble little tree dwellers are rapidly disappearing. The felling of the forests in sections where squirrels were once abundant has deprived them of their favorite nesting places and they have sought other localities to become the easy victims of the shotgun.

As a sample of how election day was observed this year the following will do. A farmer from over in Elmer township came to town with a load of grain, sold it at the elevator and came up town for his dinner. Before eating he thought a glass of beer would about suit his taste and started for the bar to get one. The closed doors were a surprise to him and of course he wanted to know the why of it. On being told that the law demanded a close down on election day, he was completely dumfounded. Said he forgot all about election and he really meant to go and vote for his nephew, who was running for clerk on the Democratic ticket.—Mariette Leader.

A typewriter for the pocket is one of the latest bits of American ingenuity, specially designed to meet the requirements of journalism and authors who need to take notes under conditions where a pencil and paper would not be convenient. It may be worked without moving the hands from the pocket. It is four inches long by three inches wide.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A well known farmer in Sanilac county who possessed two big calves says the Lexington News sage, sent one to the butcher and the other to college.

A Leslie man whose wife began to jaw him because there was no coal or wood in the house to cook the dinner with got back at her by telling her: "There is a $10 bill on the clock shelf; you can burn it or buy yourself a new hat with it." He hasn't heard any thing since denunciatory of the coal barons for holding up the coal supply.

A new night clerk flashes the diamonds at a leading Lansing hotel. When he came to town he beamed on all the waitresses, each of whom thought she was a monopolist of his glow. But when he smiled on all of them together they combined their desires for vengeance, and at midnight enticed him to the river bank. He swam ashore and left town.

In the absence of Mrs. Roxy Stauffer of Chester township at church Sunday forenoon her home was entered and $200 in cash stolen. Fred Smith, a young man who had been working on a farm for a month and who is suspected of the theft, has disappeared. Sheriff Dykhuys was notified. Smith is described as being 25 years old, weight 160, fat and of dark complexion. He wore a brown shabby coat and a Scotch cap.

Sporting News.

It's a very cold day when Holland fails to be without good representatives in the sporting line. Now the city has come to the front with another crack foot ball team. Veterans of the game like Schouten, McKay, Dameson and Olsen have rounded an eleven into shape that rivals the swift team of last year. Saturday afternoon the Union High school team of Grand Rapids found this out. Eleven of the finest came here and were conquered. They were simply wooden men in the face of Holland's offensive plays and were defeated by a score of 36 to 9. The features of the game were McKay's end run for touch down and Schouten's interference.

There are a number of good singers among the San Francisco Minstrels and this important fact makes the regular minstrel first part particularly enjoyable. The end men know how to dexterously rattle bones and tambores, and the jokes are not all old ones. A nice line of specialties make up the second part, the features being dancing by Joe Latoy, comedy skit by Arthur Crawford, musical comedy juggling by John and Alex Pauli, aerial ring and contortion performance by Albert Sylvester, choice vocal games by the Frisco Quartette, burlesque manipulation by John Goss, back dancing in wooden shoes by McGiverny and Douglas, club juggling by Master Joe Gunshannon, acrobatic comedy by Joe Latoy. The bill concludes with a melange entitled "Pastimes in Dixey," in which the entire company participates. At the Lyceum opera house Saturday evening, November 15.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Secretary Seward's Purchase of Alaska Has Proved to Be Very Profitable.

When Secretary of State Seward negotiated the purchase of Alaska from the Russian government many Americans regarded it as a shameful waste of money, and some newspapers referred to it as an investment of $7,500,000 in icebergs. That the transaction has been a profitable one is shown by a monograph prepared by the treasury bureau of statistics for publication in the forthcoming issue of the monthly summary. In general terms it may be said that Alaska, for which the United States paid Russia $7,200,000 in 1867, has supplied furs, fish and gold amounting to about $15,000,000 in value, about equally divided between these three items; that the investments of capital from the United States in Alaska are probably $25,000,000, with a large additional sum invested in transportation to that territory; and that the annual shipments of merchandise to Alaska now aggregate more than $12,000,000 and have aggregated since the purchase nearly or quite $100,000,000. Meantime the population has grown from an estimated 30,000 at the date of purchase to 32,052 in 1890, 63,592 in 1900 and an estimated 75,000 at the present time.

Public Auction

One year credit will be given on sums above $5, 6 per cent for cash. GEO. H. SOUTER, Auctioneer

MAKE BEGGING A BUSINESS.

Two Young Men Who Raise Money for Charitable Institutions for a Percentage.

Two of the most energetic and successful young men of Philadelphia follow the odd business of petitioning money for charities, says the Record of that city.

You, for instance, are interested in an orphan asylum that has a deficit this year of $8,000. You go to the young men and tell them you want the money.

"Leave us," they make answer, "all your literature—your catalogues, reports, announcements—everything you have ever published."

And they master that literature and then they visit the asylum and inspect it thoroughly. By this time they acquaint themselves with the character of the institution in question, learning whether or not the benevolent rich would be likely to help it if its case were laid before them. According to that likelihood they set their price, saying they will "beg" for the place if they are given ten, twenty, or thirty per cent. of all the money they solicit.

They make, it is estimated, $3,500 a year a piece.

NEW SUGAR BEET REGION.

Experience in Kansas—The Beet Came to Stay.

The center of the sugar beet industry in Kansas this year is Lakin, Kearny county. Last year the big end of the crop came from around Garden City, Finney county. The soil of Finney county is no less productive of the sugar beet than its neighboring county west, but last year the farmers of Finney county were helped by bankers, merchants, lawyers, doctors and others who had money, while in Kearny only men who farm for a living planted beets. The Garden City men paid for planting small lots of ten or twenty acres, and their object was to show to the world that the soil of that region is adapted to the growth of the beet. One season's experiment proved this, and now only farmers who are in the business for a livelihood are engaged in the industry. F. D. Coburn, secretary of the state board of agriculture, has received from Garden City some specimen beets grown this year, and he says they are only additional proof that the upper Arkansas valley in Kansas is a sugar beet district. "The sugar beet has come to stay in Kansas," he says, "and in a few years it will be grown in all the counties of the southwest where the water can be turned on. This year the acreage is not so large as last year owing to the failure of the Garden City business men to repeat their experiment, but the same farmers who planted last year and more have planted this year, and if these half grown beets I have here are any sign the prospect must be encouraging."—Kansas Farmer.
