Dickie Gold Dies In Crash West Of Hudsonville

Body Found Two Hours After Station Wagon Leaves Road, Upsets

Samuel "Dickie" Gold, about 39, well known in Holland, Grand Rapids, Chicago and Florida, was found dead about 6:30 a.m. Tuesday near the wreckage of his station wagon on M-21 a mile and a half on this side of Hudsonville.

Coroner Gilbert Vande Water, who announced a verdict of accidental death, said following an investigation with sheriff's officers that the accident occurred two or three hours previously. The station wagon left the road near the Zutphen road intersection, overturned several times and came to rest about 450 feet away.

The body was found near a guy wire of a telephone pole near the wrecked car.

The coroner said Gold suffered a badly crushed head and internal injuries. He was traveling alone and was apparently en route to Grand Rapids to join his wife and daughter. The family had moved there Nov. 1 from Eagle Crest where they had been spending the summer.

Besides the widow, the former Beatrice Loomis of Grand Rapids, and the daughter, Victoria, 3, Gold is survived by his mother, Mrs. Michel Thorpe of Waukegan, a sister, Miss Mary Jayne Gold, and a brother, 2nd Lt. Egbert Gold, Jr., of Camp Gordon Johnston, Fla. Mrs. Thorpe is at present with her daughter in New York.

Gold's father, Egbert H. Gold of Chicago, died 16 years ago. The family had summered at Marigold lodge on Superior point, Lake Macatawa, for many years. Following the elder Gold's death, the family made Marigold lodge their permanent home although they went south for the winters. The family maintained a winter home in Florida. The late Mr. Gold was the inventor of the vapor heating systems for railway cars.

Funeral services for Samuel "Dickie" Gold, 39, who was killed in a station wagon crash near Hudsonville Monday night, were to be held at 2:30 p.m. today from Grace Episcopal church with Rev. William C. Warner officiating.

West Indies Exhibit Is Given to Local Museum

Through the courtesy of A. C. A. Neytzel de Wilde of Pleasant Ridge, the Netherlands museum has been enabled to broaden the scope of its exhibits of the Netherlands possessions. These exhibits, only recently added to the museum's collections, come from the Netherlands West Indies, which consists of Surinam, located on the northeastern coast of South America and the nearby Windward and Leeward islands.

The exhibits, which Mr. de Wilde has presented to the museum, have mainly come from Paramaribo, chief city of Surinam, and the surrounding territory. They consist of Indian pottery, made of poor clay dried in the sun and baked by straw fire; carved wooden tools and canoe paddles; dishes and spoons made from the Kalebar, a green uneatable fruit; bows and arrows; hair combs; a Djuka drum, the largest of a series of five used and called "grandpa" by the natives; a musical ball made from the Kalebar with stones inside and used to beat time for the dance; a display of beautifully colored butterflies, insects and snakes of the region.

The exhibit which possibly attracts most attention is the door lock. This is carved out of wood and hung on the outside of the door. It has two pegs, one placed above the other. When the owner leaves the house, he takes with him the upper peg and by this the natives understand that the door is locked and the ghost is in the house. Upon his return he inserts the top peg and pulls out the lower one, signifying that the owner has returned and the ghost has departed.

Moore, pastor of First Methodist church who Wednesday, Nov. 1, was appointed superintendent of the Grand Rapids district, has announced that he had accepted the invitation of Central Methodist church of Muskegon to become its pastor. Public Invited to Red Cross Meet

With the national election over, Mrs. J. E. Telling, chairman of the Ottawa county chapter of American Red Cross, today said she was offering local citizens opportunity to exercise another right in American democracy—that of aiding in the administration of the county Red Cross chapter by attending the annual meeting Friday at 6:30 p.m. in Hope Reformed church.

To those who have sons serving overseas, the special speaker will be of great interest. He is G. Ott Romney who has been head of the Red Cross Recreational and Service clubs in England. Those planning to attend should make dinner reservations by calling the local office, 6 East Eighth St.

At that time he made numerous trips from the exposed machine gun positions across the sniper and artillery swept area to obtain water and vegetables to fill out the meager rations.

On the third day of isolation for the "lost" battalion one doughboy, believed to be Ten Cate, went for water for a wounded friend. He walked to the well, pumped water, bullets whizzed around him, and returned without a scratch.

It was there that he received a blue insignia star given to those in the top 10 per cent of their class and was also commended for military efficiency. He was transferred to the infantry in April and went overseas early in September. He had been in France about a month and his last letter was dated Oct. 18.

Marine Returns Home First Time in 34 Months

Although his parents had been meeting nearly all the trains that arrived here for the past week, Marine Pfc. Harold L. Dalman, 21, veteran of five major campaigns in the Pacific area, surprised them Thursday afternoon, walking in on the family for his first visit home in 34 months to the day since he left Holland to enter training.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Dalman, 265 East 13th St., the marine who wears the Purple Heart ribbon for wounds suffered in Cape Gloucester, New Britain, is spending a 30-day convalescent leave in Holland which he said "looks pretty darn good."

In all the 34 months he spent in service, 31 of them overseas, Dalman never saw a Holland person until he boarded a Holland-bound train in Chicago Thursday morning, although he learned "too late" that at least three local marines were within a half mile of him when he took part in the hand-fought Guadalcanal campaign for which his division, the first marine division, received the Presidential citation. Besides the Purple Heart and Presidential citation, he wears the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with one silver star denoting five campaigns and the American defense ribbon.

Luke many marines, Dalman was reticent in discussing anything concerning his experiences during his many months overseas. He said it was something he would like to forget. However, he was given little opportunity to forget Thursday night since relatives, neighbors and friends streamed into the Dalman home by the dozens.

Dalman, a machine gunner, was hit by a sniper's bullet Dec. 29, 1913, in the first landings at Cape Gloucester. The bullet going through his right leg just above the ankle. Two friends carried him back about 500 yards and within 45 minutes doctors had administered blood plasma and he was on a stretcher en route to the beach. He spent four months at a naval base hospital before returning to action. He later returned for further hospitalization. When he sent home his Purple Heart medal he also sent a Japanese watch.

Dalman entered service Jan. 2, 1942, and trained at Parris Island, S. C., Quantico, Va., and New River, N. C., before leaving for overseas the following April 9. After his overseas service, he returned to Oakland, Calif., Oct. 13 and was sent to Great Lakes naval hospital for a rest before being granted his convalescent leave.

Tells Rotary of Returning Vets

At the Thursday noon Rotary luncheon the question of the returning servicemen and their bill of rights was discussed by Rotarian N. Harkness of Grand Rapids. He spoke from his experience in the special organization in Grand Rapids which has been set up to study problems of the returning veterans.

Despite all that federal and state governments have done and may do, he said, it is the local community which must receive these servicemen and give them that opportunity needed to return to civilian activities.

Much has been done to help the boys under the legislation of 1933, through the army and navy discharge centers, through the provisions of the selective service act and by the GI bill of rights, he added.

All this is a marked improvement over the conditions under which veterans were discharged after the last war, he said, but in the final analysis the closely coordinated efforts of each community will be of most significance.

Charles Faber, 22 East 16th St., after studying them for the past 14 years, says he can. Caterpillars, he asserts, are entirely dependable as winter predictors. I took him two years to get the hang of their system, but after that it was easy. They haven't crossed him up in the past 12 years.

You merely look at a caterpillar in the fall. The more yellow one shows, the more snow and cold lie ahead. When a caterpillar is all yellow, look out! But when not even a speck of yellow shows, like this year, you can throw away the snow shovel. Snow flurries, of course, don't count.

Each fall after Oct. 16, Mr. Faber explains, he starts watching caterpillars. Last year, he says, they displayed a small band of yellow and, sure enough, Holland had only about two weeks of snow, and that near the end of the winter. Back in 1935-36 when 91.5 inches of snow fell here, the caterpillars were all yellow in the fall. That was the year the piles of snow were six feet high or more around the city. Two years ago the caterpillars came out in a new shade—a brownish yellow, and that winter Holland had more than 100 inches of snow. But the storms were so spaced that the snow kept melting and wasn't noticeable like it was in 1935-36. It might be that the brownish tint meant lots of snow but nothing to get excited about.

Mr. Faber is an observer of nature. It was while doing some observing that the thought struck him that a caterpillar might be a good weather prophet.

Sixteen Called in Allegan Draft; To Tighten Releases

Allegan, Nov. 9.—The Allegan county draft board has released the names of 16 men scheduled for army induction Nov. 13, including two from the Holland area, Howard Zoerhof and Alfred Edward Arendsen.

The board also disclosed some new instructions from Lansing which directed the board to be less liberal in granting temporary releases to class II-C registrants who seek non-farm jobs during the winter.

According to Chairman Sib Rummery, it is believed that selective service was too liberal in granting temporary releases of farm-deferred registrants during the past winter with the result that farm work was neglected and current production, in many instances, sacrificed. Registrants are deferred in class II-C solely for their contribution to essential agriculture. Many farm jobs can be performed during the winter which will lighten the summer work load.

Temporary releases of class II-C registrants under 26 years of age are not approved for any purpose whatsoever while temporary release of II-C registrants over 26 years of age may be granted, at the discretion of the local board, provided:

1. The registrant's services cannot be economically utilized in his current position because of the seasonal nature of the farming activity.

2. The registrant's services are not needed on other farms in the community.

3. Essential farm services and essential activities associated with agriculture shall have prior right to the services of release II-C registrants.

Class II-C registrants requesting temporary releases should make their request in writing to the local board. The written request will state definitely the period of time involved, together with the name and business activity of the employer with whom the registrant will be engaged. After making its determination, the local board shall advise the registrant thereof in writing.

Registrants to be inducted Nov. 13 include Harry Hayman, Russell Vincent Anderson and Dean Allen Brundley of Allegan; Orville J. Hazen and Harold Lee Decker of Hopkins; John Edward Conard and Samuel Clinton Layverack of Plainwell; Leslie Raymond DeHaan of Wayland; Charles Hubert Wilson of Middleville; Lesly Schipper of Dorra; Albert Lee Schut of Byron Center; Donald Erwin Spencer of South Haven; Gordon Davies Olson of Bloomingdale and Richard Eugene Cole of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Kollen Entertains Club with Play Reading

Mrs. George E. Kollen, whose programs have long been favorites charmed the group with an artistic with her fellow members of the Woman's Literary club, again reading of the play "Harriet," by Florence Ryerson and Constant Clemens, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Kollen's presentation of the play, given entirely from memory, brought to life the characters and situations of another generation.

Based on the life of Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the play set the stage for the events leading to the civil war and the abolition of slavery in the United States. Mrs. Stowe and members of her family and others who were keenly affected by the evils of slavery were made very real to her listeners by Mrs. Kollen.

In introducing Mrs. Kollen, Mrs. John R. Dethmers, club president, paid tribute to the extensive service she has rendered the club, mentioning especially her outstanding leadership as president for many years and her interest in the education committee and its scholarship fund. Mrs. Dethmers thanked Mrs. Kollen for "sharing her talents" with club members as she commented on her sphere of influence which extends into educational, social, cultural, civic and religious circles. Mrs. Kollen expressed her pleasure in seeing the club "grow through the years not only in numbers but in usefulness."

The program followed an attractively appointed dessert tea in the club house tearoom which was arranged to honor the 53 new members of the organization. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. John K. Wintell, second vice-president, assisted by Mrs. Onie A. Bishop and members of divisions 1, 2 and 3. A large bouquet of baby chrysanthemums in shades of yellow, white and bronze, flanked by deep bronze candles and autumn leaves formed the decoration on the large tea table and smaller bouquets of the same flowers were used on group tables.

The program for next week will feature a book review by Davis Edwards, dramatic reader. Contributions will be received for the annual project of the philanthropy committee, the sending of personal Christmas gifts to inmates of the county infirmary at Eastmanville.

THE END OF THE CAMPAIGN

In the political campaign just ended feeling ran deeper than it has done at any time since the Civil war. There was hardly an American citizen anywhere who could be philosophical about the campaign; usually a voter was either passionately for Roosevelt or passionately for Dewey. There was not the slightest disposition to shrug the shoulders and say, "Oh well, it will all come out in the wash and it does not make too much difference who wins." That has been the attitude in American politics for many generations, at least on the part of many voters. This time a voter with that attitude could hardly be found.

The average voter felt passionately that it mattered tremendously who was the winner. There was a time when a husband could belong to one party and his wife to another without in the least interfering with their normal family life. This year stories began to appear of divorces caused by difference in political allegiance on the part of husband and wife.
And even when those differences did not result in divorce, they caused much more than mere wrenches in most instances. A wife who was passionately for Roosevelt couldn't help feeling that her husband must be a fool or a crook if he was for Dewey, and the other way round. It seems likely that most Americans this year voted their fundamental beliefs.

This resulted in a campaign that, verbally at least, was one of the bitterest on record. Name calling was the outstanding characteristic of the campaign. The candidates began somewhat gin-gerly, but before the last speeches had been delivered, nearly every one of speakers had either called his opponent a liar and a crook without resorting to euphemisms or else he had implied it so broadly that it might have been more honest to say so outright.

Nor was that confined to any one party or any kind of candidate. President Roosevelt and Governor Dewey either called each other liars and crooks or else they implied as much. Each protested that his heart was set on a "clean" campaign, but each asserted that he was driven to it in sheer self-defense. As for some of the minor figures, they found the English language too limited adequately to express their utter contempt for their opponents. For once the name calling was not merely for public consumption but was an expression of real feelings.

Passions ran deep because the American people felt that the issues were vital. They felt that the election was determining the course of American life for generations. No wonder the candidates found it impossible to remain polite.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

Pitrim A. Sorokin, born in Russia, now professor in Harvard University, declares that the wisest way for us to meet the calamities of our times is for us individually to reorganize our values by rooting them in the moral truths of the kingdom of God. We must find values greater than the sensory world can give, and we discover those values in the spiritual ideals of the Christian philosophy. People who are linked with these values have a sense of self-respect and human dignity; they are equipped to meet catastrophe with courage. Scientific progress, technological devices, political and economic change—none of these can bring permanent relief until individuals and groups of men possess such moral values. Religion is the basis for all moral values. The church is the institution of religion. Why not accept the invitation and go to church next Sunday?

The Church During War and Peace—Matthew 5:43-48; Romans 13:1-7

By Henry Geerlings

The church does not exist for itself. It has been placed here in a manner similar to the Christian, which means it is to be a servant. The church has values which can be communicated to the social order, for the social order is capable of improvement and the church has not done its full duty until it has acted as a leaven upon society.

The church has inherent value.
It is doubtful if any one can be found who would deny the claim that the church has something the social order needs. The church could not be removed from our midst without leaving the world in a darkened and almost hopeless state. People might be able to carry on their common everyday enterprises, but so far as religion and the needs of the human spirit are concerned they would be in darkness.

The social order desperately needs the church, and the church will never fulfill its mission until it ministers to the social order.
There are times when perhaps the church thinks too much of the individual, if that is possible, and again too much of the social order. The two belong together and dare not from our point of view be separated.

The church has a clear responsibility in every situation. It does not live unto itself. It has a mission to perform, a message to deliver, and a world to redeem. How shortsighted it is for us to imagine that all is well with the church if we take care of our own and make ends meet. Our Lord aimed to give the church an outward look. Among his last utterances was the one that commissioned his disciples and their successors to regard the entire world as their field.

If the church is here for any specific purpose it is to serve. That service is not to be rendered to itself primarily but to others. It is to do something more than to keep the home fires burning. It is to carry the light and the truth wherever human minds and human hearts aspire toward better and nobler things. It is well for us now and then to pause to inquire as to what the church is doing to make the impact of its influence upon the world that Christ expects. Unless we pause now and then long enough to see very clearly what the church's responsibility is we will not fulfill our entire mission. We are to remind ourselves on occasions that whenever it is conscious of it or not the communities and the world must be looking to the church for the light and the truth which are to redeem it.

The church is to continue to function during the war. It should not in any manner lessen its activities. Its efforts and its achievements are needed very badly at this very moment. Many of its men and women alike in the some branch of the service. They are needing the support of our prayers and our good will. They will be strengthened mightily if they can but know that we are back of them. If the church can give a good account of herself right now, those who have gone out from us into some phase of this struggle will join us when they come home, because they know that we have not failed them in a crucial hour. It is not easy for all of us to appreciate the full meaning of that statement, but what we cannot appreciate now will be made clear when the conflict is ended.

Every last one of us knows that if the church is swift to encourage frequent contacts she will be abundantly rewarded when the strife is over. It does not require much imagination to understand what cards and letters and photographs mean to those in the service. It seems that almost every broadcast we hear makes some appeal of this kind. It is not enough for them to know that we are comfortable and well. They crave messages from us in one form or another. The church cannot afford to be inactive right now.
There is too much at stake. In war we prepare for peace. And peace must begin in the hearts of those now at war.

There is one thing we can all do. We can pray for peace, and that is a part of the obligation resting on every one of us. And there is no doubt that we can work for peace. We cannot do much as individuals, but we can cooperate with movements that have this as their objective.

But It's True

Holland
In 1913

Following is the 177th in the series of weekly articles taken from news of the Holland Daily Sentinel published more than 30 years ago.

The Athletics once more came across with a victory over the Giants, 6-3, according to a story appearing in the Friday, Oct. 10, issue of the Holland Daily Sentinel published in 1913. This third victory of Philadelphia practically means that they will win the pennant. They need only one more game to make it absolutely sure, while the Giants, badly crippled as they are, will have to win all the remaining games of the series in order to win the necessary four games.

Work on the new Woman's Literary club building is progressing satisfactorily. The outer frame of the building is nearly completed and before cold weather comes work will be so far advanced that only inside labor will be left which can be done regardless of weather conditions.

Although the city of Holland has not done as much paving this year as was contemplated at first last spring, yet it is believed that the paving that has been done will be a credit to the city. Last spring there were numerous meetings in regard to paving College Ave., Graves place, the ends of River Ave. and Central Ave., State St. and other streets. Because of the strenuous opposition of many property owners all these plans fell through and no more paving has been done than had already been provided for the year before, namely the ends of 12th St. from Columbia Ave. to Lincoln Ave., on West 12th St. to the lake and the stretch on Eighth St. east of the Pere Marquette bridge.

Hunt Plane On Which Local Man Apparently Died

An expedition which is believed to be one of the most difficult ever attempted in Alaska is going forward in the mountain ranges of Mt. McKinley in an attempt to recover the bodies of 19 persons presumed killed when their C-47 transport plane crashed into the peak of Mt. Brooks at an altitude of 9,700 feet, according to an Alaskan newspaper.

Corp. Charles N. Dykema, 48 East 18th St., was believed to be on the plane.

The plane crashed Sept. 18 while flying on instruments in a place which has never been accurately charted and it is believed that no person has ever climbed the mountain.

Forty-four men, many especially qualified soldier volunteers are making the mission. Maj. J. G. Hill of Denver, Colo., organized the mission and Capt. America R. Peracca, Corps of Engineers, of Crockett, Calif., 11 Air Force land rescue expert is in charge.

An advance party headed by Grant Pearson, a ranger of the McKinley Park service and who has once climbed Mt. McKinley is believed to be the most advanced although they have been slowed down considerably by the lack of special equipment.

The party has established a base camp at Wonder Lake, near Mt. McKinley and supplies are brought into the base camp by truck although transport planes have been required to drop equipment and food to those advancing far up towards the wrecked plane.

It is believed that it will take considerable time to ascend to the plane because of the most rugged terrain in the world, even though the most expert climbers have been secured to head the mission.

Dykema was coming home on his first furlough in 21 years.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Dykema, received a telegram that he was missing Sunday, Sept. 23, and they are almost positive that he was on the ship because he had written them telling how he planned to take the plane saying that it came through only once a week.

The modern shop, located on M21 just outside the city limits, is working at 100 per cent capacity as a service to farmers and motor carriers in this area with their machines at their benches and the electrical welders working on steel. They are planning post-war service for the community with their new machinery.

The products that are sold to the farm trade include tractors, farm machinery of all types, implement parts, twine, bale ties, oils, greases and also dairy equipment such as milkers, cream separators, milk coolers, and all types of refrigeration for the farm. Tells Club About Oriental Music

Miss Jennie Pieters who was a teacher of music at Shimposoko, Japan, from 1914 to 1938, was chairman of a program on "Oriental Music" presented before members of Holland Music club Wednesday afternoon in the Pieters home, 44 East 15th St.

Miss Pieters gave an interesting and comprehensive talk based on her observations of music in the everyday life of the people in the southern part of Japan and described in detail the four leading musical instruments used.

The largest of the Koto, a string instrument played always by a woman and used as accompaniment for voice. Others are the Samisen with three strings, similar to a guitar and used for accompanying dancers, the Shaku-hachi, made of bamboo with simple valves, usually played by men; and Drums, a small instrument similar to snare drums, and which are slapped with the hand occasionally for accent. They are played by women.

Oriental music is based on the pentatonic or five-tone scale, Miss Pieters explained. It is plaintive and sad, perhaps due to the influence of Buddhism, the religion of negation, of nothingness and lack of hope as contrasted with the Chinese idea and its more joyous music.

Miss Pieters quoted Isabelle Bird, author, who said "Oriental music is an agonizing mystery to me, a gulf not to be spanned divides the harmonies of the East from the West." Dr. Mueller, an authority on Japanese music said "If I am asked what impression our music makes upon the Jap. I am sure I shall not be far wrong in saying they find it more delectable than we do theirs."

"There was no known notation in the earlier music history of Japan," Miss Pieters said. All was taught orally and passed on from teacher to pupil. More recently since Western music came to Japan, old tunes were written in Western style. Yamada, musically educated in Europe, has recorded many folk songs. Melodies are simple, pure, Japanese music is written in unison, and does not lend itself well to harmonization.

Mrs. Harry Young sang three Japanese songs, "The National Anthem," "A Lullaby," and "The Cherry Blossom Song," arranged by Yamada. She was dressed in authentic Japanese costume. Mrs. Martha Robbins accompanied at the piano.

Miss Pieters has a fine collection of articles brought from Japan, China and Korea, including native costumes, fans, pictures, lacquered boxes, pottery, screens, tables and trays and a Korean chest.

Miss Jennie Karsten presided at the business meeting and reports were given by Mrs. Nella Diekmans, secretary, and Miss Kittie Doesburg, treasurer. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Albertus Pieters, with Mrs. Dickema pouring.

Dutchmen Get Set For B.H. Contest With Pass Work

Working the first part of the week on a more effective passing offense and bringing their plays nearer perfection, the Holland High school football team this afternoon prepared for the game with Benton Harbor at Filstrup field Friday at 8 p.m.

Bob Kuipers will not play due to a knee injury and Jerry Groeters, center, probably will be out again this week after a bruised hip kept him out of last week's game with Kalamazoo Central.

About 22 boys will make the trip to Benton Harbor.

The Tigers use the ever popular "T" formation and in their last game were handed a 25-6 setback by Muskegon Heights and the Heights has defeated Holland 27-0.

The loss of Kuipers will seriously affect Holland's chances but Roy Zwemer has been doing a lot of work on passing and Holland would have scored several more touchdowns in recent games had their passes clicked. The only dependable receiver Holland has developed is Louie Van Dyke while Red Hulst has snagged several. If the Dutch passes start to click it may run into a high scoring game for both sides.

Fund for Aid to Vets Is Question

Lansing, Nov. 9 (AP) — Governor Kelly today said he would ask the next legislature, scheduled to meet in January, to pass legislation permitting county boards of supervisors to create county offices of veterans' affairs and hire full-time directors at county expense if further investigation by the attorney general's department proves they are now definitely without such authority.

The governor's statement followed a request for legislative action by Lt. Col. Philip C. Pack, acting director of the state office of veterans' affairs, shortly after issuance of an attorney general's ruling that county boards are without the necessary authority.

The governor, however, said he believed the opinion "is not final" and announced he will press for further investigation by the department.

Holland city which earmarked $2,000 for a local counseling bureau in the Community Chest campaign has requested an allotment of $3,000 from the board of supervisors. This application was tabled at the last session of the supervisors but is scheduled to be taken up when the board reconvenes next week. Grand Haven which has been operating a veterans' bureau for several months has requested $2,000 from the county board.

Of the 108 county and local offices of veterans' affairs already organized in Michigan, only about 25 are financed by county boards of supervisors.

Seven Americans Held As Gangsters in Rome

Rome, Nov. 9 (AP) — Seven Americans, named as members of an outlaw band which has terrorized Rome for two months, were under arrest today and armed military patrols searched the city for a former Chicago gunman accused of leading a second criminal gang.

Thirteen members of the Chicago mobster's band, many of them Italian and Spanish deserters from the French Foreign legion, also were arrested by military police in a city-wide roundup which Allied authorities said had smashed both gangs.

The capture of the soldier gang, led by a 23-year-old deserter from Pennsylvania who used the assumed name of Robert Lane, followed a routine arrest of two of its members who were caught posing as officers. Both men were found to be suffering of a venereal disease and were placed under guard in a hospital. The rest of the gang, armed with sub-machine guns, attempted to rescue the pair but were seized after a brief gunfight with the MPs.

Suppose every man, woman and child in this town should be KILLED!

This is a typical American small town, with a population of about 3000.

If every living soul in it should suddenly be struck dead, what a fearful shock it would be to America!

Well, 3283 Americans were struck dead in a single day not so long ago—on just one of the many battlefronts on which we're fighting. But the papers didn't scream with horror. On the contrary—they blazoned forth the good news: "LOSSES LIGHT!"

Maybe the fact that it's good news when only a townful of Americans are wiped out will give you an idea of the gigantic war we're fighting today. Maybe it will help drive home to us the fact that now—right now—we're making the supreme military effort of this whole conflict.

That effort must be matched by the supreme financial effort of the war—at home!

Right now, it's up to us to buy War Bonds as we've never bought them before—and to keep on buying War Bonds until the last vestige of a will to fight has been thoroughly knocked out of every Jap and Nazi!

It will mean sacrifice—certainly. But when American youngsters are dying bloodily by thousands, "sacrifice" is not a word that's ours to use.

And here are 5 more reasons for buying Extra War Bonds!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the War.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

Buy your invasion bonds today!
