Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physician or medicine did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, in Providence, R. I.

A Wish.

I wish I was a foreigner, Hottentot or Heathen Turk,
Or else I lived in China, where they use
no knife or fork,
For my health is really horrid, I'm feeling
very sad,
And I have got Dyspepsia, and got it very bad.
Poor fellow, instead of grunting, moaning
and crying,
You'd better by far Spring Blossom be trying.
Prices: 50c., trial bottles 10c.

No. 99.

An Ordinance. Relative to Licenses.

The City of Holland Ordains:

SECTION 1. That it shall not be lawful for any person or persons, firm, corporation, or company, to engage in or carry on, within the limits of the City of Holland, the business of an auctioneer, pawnbroker, hawk, peddler, or one peddling in the streets, or from door to door, or to engage in any auction sale, or gift enterprise, or to make or exhibit any circus, menagerie, play or theatrical exhibition, or representation, or any painting, or to exhibit any animal or animals, or other natural or artificial curiosities, or any puppet-show, wire or rope-dance or walk, or any other acts or feats usually performed by common showmen or jugglers, or give any public entertainment or amusement of any kind for which pay is demanded or received, or to bring into said city, or store therein, any gunpowder, or to keep a bowling alley, billiard table, pigeon hole table, or pool table, for charge, hire, or reward, without first having obtained a license therefor from the Common Council of said city as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 2. Every person or persons, desiring to obtain a license to carry on any business, or occupation, or do any act or thing for which a license is required or established by the provisions of this ordinance, shall make application therefor in writing, to the clerk, marshal or treasurer, of said City of Holland, said application shall set forth the name and residence of the person or persons, firm, corporation or company applying for said license, the purpose for which it is desired, the length of time to be issued, and the place or places in said city where said license is to be used, and shall be signed by the applicant or applicant, which said applicant shall be filed with the city clerk, and shall also be before receiving any license pay to the said clerk, marshal or treasurer, the sum in full for said license, as shall be hereinafter provided, and shall take a receipt therefor, upon the filing of such application and presentation of sum in receipt, (of payment in full) it shall be the duty of the city clerk to issue the necessary license as herein directed, under the seal of the city. Each license shall be signed by the Mayor, or acting Mayor, and countersigned by the city clerk, and shall set forth the matter as stated in the application. The city clerk shall keep a copy or record of all licenses issued.

Sec. 3. The licenses required and established by section one of this ordinance shall be as follows: Auctioneers, residents of the City of Holland, shall pay for each license, for one year, the sum of ninety dollars; for six months, seventy dollars; for three months, forty-five dollars; for one month, twenty-five dollars; for one week, ten dollars; for one day, five dollars. Auctioneers, non-residents of the City of Holland, shall pay for each license, for one year, the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars; for six months, eighty dollars; for three months, fifty dollars; for one month, twenty-five dollars; for one day, or less, ten dollars. Pawnbrokers shall pay for each license, for one year, the sum of twenty-five dollars;
for six months, or less, fifteen dollars. Peddlers or persons, non-resident, going about on foot from place to place in said city, carrying with them any goods, wares, or merchandise, and selling or offering the same for sale, shall pay for each license, for one year the sum of ten dollars; for six months, five dollars; for one week, three dollars; for one day, or less, one dollar. Peddlers or persons, non-resident, going about in said city with any wagon or vehicle drawn by any team, horse, mule or animal, carrying goods, wares, or property, from place to place, and selling or offering the same for sale, shall pay for each license, for one year, the sum of twenty dollars; for six months, ten dollars;
for one week, five dollars; for one day or less, two dollars. Any person selling or exposing for sale, any goods, wares, jewelry or property from any hand cart, show case, or show stand, in any public street, lane, or alley, or public square, or at any open space or place in said city, shall pay for each license, for one year, the sum of ten dollars; for six months, five dollars; for one week three dollars; for one day or less, one dollar. This section shall not apply to persons selling fruits, vegetables, dairy or farm products, nor to butchers, or bakers,
who deliver meat, bread and pastry to their customers at their dwellings in said city. Any circus, menagerie or caravan of animals, shall pay for each license, for one day or less, the sum of fifteen dollars. For a side show, so called, or for any exhibition or performance attending or traveling with, or following any circus, menagerie or caravan,
where a separate price of admission is required, each license shall be for one day five dollars. For theatrical or operatic exhibitions or entertainments, each license shall be for one day three dollars; for two days, five dollars, and for each additional day one dollar. For the exhibition of any animal or animals, paintings, or natural or artificial curiosities, each license shall be for one day one dollar. For the exhibition of any puppet show, wire or rope dance, or walk, or any other acts or feats usually performed by common showmen or jugglers, or any public entertainment of any kind for which pay is demanded or received, each license shall be, for one day, one dollar. For bringing into said city, or storing therein, any gunpowder, each license, for one year, shall be
For keeping a bowling alley, billiard table, pigeon hole table, or pool table, for charge, hire, or reward for each license, for one year, the sum of dollars; for six months, dollars; for three months, or less, dollars;

Sec. 4. The term auctioneer, within the provisions of this ordinance, shall mean and include any person who shall sell, offer or expose for sale, any goods, chattels, or merchandise, after the manner of sales by auction or vendue, or the highest bidder, or after the manner of Dutch auctions, so called, by selling, offering or exposing for sale any goods, chattels, wares or merchandise, at a price beyond the true value and then gradually lowering such price till some one bids in the article so offered, or accept it as a purchaser. Each license issued to an auctioneer shall only entitle the person named therein to carry on such business in person and not by proxy. Persons selling property by virtue of legal process, or selling agricultural implements or products, live stock or fish, and bakers or butchers, residents of this city, delivering their wares to their customers, and any concert or musical entertainment or play given by a home company, so called, or by the pupils of any public or private school in said city, or by a music teacher residing in this city, or any concert or entertainment given for the benefit of any religious, educational or charitable object, shall be exempt from the provisions of this ordinance.

Sec. 5. All annual licenses issued under the provisions of this ordinance shall expire on the first Monday in June, in each year, and in case less time than one year shall intervene between the date of its issue and the first Monday in June thereafter, such license shall be paid for at the yearly rate, in this ordinance specified, in proportion to the time thus intervening.

Sec. 6. No person or persons, firm, corporation, company or co-partnership, shall be engaged in or carry on any business requiring a license under the provisions of this ordinance at any place or locality, other than that designated and set forth in the application and license, and a separate license shall be taken out for and in respect to each place, within said city, where such business shall be engaged in, or carried on. Licenses shall not be transfer-able, and all assignments thereof to any person or persons, firm, corporation, company, or co-partnership, not named in the application, shall be void. All licenses issued under the provisions of this ordinance, shall be, and the same are hereby limited, so as to enable only one person, firm, corporation, company or co-partnership, at the same time to carry on such business, within the limits of said city, by virtue of such license.

Sec. 7. The Common Council of the City of Holland may at any time revoke and annul any license granted under the provisions of this ordinance, whenever in their opinion, it shall be expedient to do so, in which case, the city Clerk shall give notice in writing, to the party to whom such license was granted, or to his or their agent or employee, and any sum of money paid for a license, if revoked or forfeited by the Common Council, shall be refunded to the city.

THE EAST.

THE trial of Philip, charged with forging the Morey letter, was resumed at New York on the 4th inst., and Hart, the publisher of Truth, testified that the letter came to him through the mail, and that Philip never saw it until it appeared in fac-simile. Hart had doubts at first about its genuineness, but after subjecting it to a microscopic examination and consulting with Chairman Barnum he concluded to publish it.

At a public meeting in Pittsburgh it was resolved that the colored children should attend a separate school in Robinson Hall.

At Sebastopol, near Pittsburg, Pa., the ground over a coal mine caved some six feet, and several houses in the district have been abandoned by the inhabitants. Several thousand dollars' worth of property has been destroyed, and mining in the vicinity has been suspended. A misplaced switch on the line of the Erie railway in New Jersey caused a collision, which killed a conductor, engineer, and fireman.

PITTSBURGH reports great activity in the iron business. The Parnell League, of New York, has adopted resolutions severely arraigning the English Government for its attitude toward and threatened prosecution of Parnell, and strongly condemning the mobilization of troops on Irish territory for the purpose of terrorizing the people and perpetuating the present system. Speaking as American citizens, the members here extend most cordial sympathy to Parnell, and promise all moral, material, and financial support.

The steamer Rhode Island, of the Providence line, went ashore at Beaver point, Narragansett bay, early yesterday morning. The steamer was so badly damaged it is believed it will be a total loss. None of the passengers were lost. The steamer was valued at $500,000.

SARAH BERNHARDT upon her first appearance before an American audience, at New York, was enthusiastically received. There were about 4,000 persons in the audience. The great tragedienne was the recipient of hearty applause and many floral offerings.

THE testimony in the case of Philip, charged with forging the Garfield-Morey letter, closed at New York on the 9th, when Gen. Pryor asked the discharge of the prisoner. Judge Davis said he would render a decision on Saturday, the 13th. George Bliss then caused the arrest of S. S. Morey and Robert Lindsey for perjury, and they were committed for examination. Lindsey testified that for ten years he had not slept twice in the same place.

ROBERT GREEN, a laundryman, is the first negro to serve as a jurymen in the criminal courts of New York. Col. E. L. Drake, who drilled the first oil-well at Titusville, and who thus became the founder of the petroleum interest of Pennsylvania, has just died, at New Bethlehem, Pa.

THE WEST.

TWO BRICK buildings comprising the Construction Department and containing the machinery and bullet presses of the United States Arsenal at Benicia, Cal., have been destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

A PIG, won on an election bet at South Bend, Ind., was turned over to the Republican Central Committee, and sold at auction for the benefit of the poor, realizing $246.

N. B. HARWOOD, a wholesale dry-goods merchant of Minneapolis, has suspended payment, with liabilities of $500,000. Four hundred persons are thrown out of employment. The Grand Jury at San Francisco has indicted Louis Kaplan, late Registrar of Election, for grand larceny and misdemeanor in office, and Sheriff Desmond for felony in permitting the escape of prisoners. Two freight trains ran into each other on the Marietta and Cincinnati road, near Moonville, Ohio, and Frank Lawhead, an engineer, and Charles Krick, a fireman, were killed. George Glass, of Madison, Ind., was shot dead in an affray which began by his hurrahing for Jeff Davis. Seventeen cases of small-pox developed in San Francisco in one day last week.

A FREIGHT train and a gravel train ran into each other between St. Paul and Minneapolis on the Milwaukee and St. Paul road. The collision resulted in the death of three men and the bruising and scalding of two others. The accident is said to be the result of malice on the part of Conductor McClintock, of the gravel train. Mayor Kallach, of San Francisco, has been arrested on an indictment found against him by the Grand Jury charging him with a violation of the law in hiring men to do work on the new City Hall by the day instead of by contract, as the statutes provide. The Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company have purchased from the Spotted Tail and Red Cloud Indians the right-of-way through their territories a distance of 180 miles. The way will be 200 feet wide, and the company pays $110 per mile, and $4 per acre for station ground, and $5 per acre for a town site on the west side of the Missouri river.

THE town of Batesville, Ohio, has been the scene of a most horrible tragedy. It seems that Frank M. Biedenbaugh, a wealthy young German, who three years ago married the daughter of a neighboring farmer, came home late at night intoxicated, and entering the room where his wife and child slept, assaulted them with an ax. His wife's skull was crushed by a single blow, and then his son's throat cut by the edge of the ax. He then went to a room where Mrs. Stephens, a visitor, and her child and servant-girl were sleeping, and killed Mrs. Stephens and child. The servant-girl, awakened, sprang toward the door, but was knocked senseless and left for dead. Upon recovering consciousness she gave the alarm, and the neighbors came. It was not until morning that the murderer was found hidden in a tobacco-house, with his throat cut, not fatally. Jealousy, insanity and drunkenness are the theories advanced to account for the horrible crime.

J. C. ADEN, a German farmer living near Woodford, Woodford county, Ill., his wife and his niece, were killed by a train of the Illinois Central while crossing the track in a wagon.

E. F. BERTRAND, a leading citizen of Rockford, Ill., has become grandfather to his children by marrying his mother-in-law, Mrs. Crandall. Five lives were lost by a fire in the Goodshaw hoisting-works, at Bodie, Cal.

THE SOUTH.

EIGHT tramps attacked J. P. Brown and a friend in a tunnel near Gallatin, Tenn. Brown killed two of his assailants, when the others rallied and beat him nearly to death, robbing him of $1,200. At Johnson's, in South Carolina, on election day, some negroes tried to seize a ballot box, and one colored man was killed and three wounded in the riot which followed.

THE Mississippi river steamer Robert Mitchell was sunk, at Fox Island, with a cargo of cotton and breadstuffs. The Arkansas river packet Onachita Belle sunk near Austin, Miss., with cotton and general freight.

ALBERT MITCHELL, colored, has been executed at Louisa Court House, Va., for the murder of Charles R. Walton.

LOUDON county, Va., has been the scene of a tragedy of unusual horror. A farmer named Nott, becoming enraged at his wife's sister, seized a large knife used for cutting corn and assaulted her with it, stabbing the unfortunate woman until he thought she was dead. He then went into the house, and, taking his gun, returned to the spot where his sister-in-law lay. Putting the muzzle of the weapon under his chin, he fired, the whole load passing through his mouth, tearing out the tongue and lodging in his head. He fell to the ground, but while in the throes of death he saw some sign of returning life in the woman. Dragging himself to where she lay, and reaching forward, he seized a big stone and dealt her a blow in the face. As he was raising himself to repeat the blow his wife entered the yard, and taking in the situation at a glance, she herself seized another large stone, and, standing over the prostrate form of her husband, put an end to his struggles. Her sister died in a few minutes after. A passenger train on the Texas Pacific railway was wrecked near Lake Fork, Tex., and Fred Kirk, a stock agent, was killed, three men were seriously injured, and fifteen slightly. The wreck was caused by a broken rail.

EDWARD KENNEDY, who shot Sheriff McCorkle, at Shelbyville, Ind., on the eve of the State election, has been seen near Shreveport, La. Fayette McMullen, of Virginia, who served in the Federal and Confederate Congresses, and in the United States Senate before the war, has been killed by the cars at Wytheville, Va.

POLITICAL.

THE vote cast in Philadelphia was something enormous: For Garfield, 96,794; for Hancock, 76,067; total, 172,861. Nebraska Republicans have already mentioned ex-Senator Hitchcock for the Secretaryship of the Interior. He was a classmate of the new President at Williams College.

THE increase of the Republican vote of New York city this year over 1876 is 23,165, while the increase in the Democratic vote is only 10,571, making a gain of 12,594 for the Republicans. A recent telegram from New Orleans says: "Under a contract with the Republican Campaign Committee, Capt. Sambola's company of the New Orleans Artillery, a veteran Southern organization, fired 100 guns to celebrate the election of Garfield and Arthur. Immediately after the salute a meeting of the company was held, at which Lieut. Bowler moved that Gen. Garfield be elected an honorary member, and notified of the fact. The motion was seconded by Sergeant Devere, put by Capt. Sambola, and carried by acclamation."

CONGRESSMAN FRYE, of Maine, is a candidate for Speaker of the House. Judge Key voted the Republican ticket at Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. John C. New, Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee of Indiana, has announced that he will be a candidate for the United States Senatorship. The other candidates who have already begun a canvass for the place are Gen. Ben Harrison, Congressman Orth, the Hon. Will Cumbuck, and Judge Gresham. Ex-Senator Howe, Hon. Philetus Sawyer, Horace Rublee and E. W. Kyles are candidates for the Senatorship from Wisconsin.

At a meeting of the Tammany Hall general committee, in New York, an address to the Democracy of the country was read, claiming Hancock's defeat was due to fraud, intimidation and the use of enormous sums of money by the Republicans. Mr. Van Wyck moved an amendment that Hancock's defeat was due to the mismanagement and bickering of the Democratic leaders in Kings county and New York city. Thomas F. Grady, Col. Roberts and others opposed the amendment. Henry Steinert advocated the amendment, and said people no longer wanted Boss Kelly, and he should resign. Some hot discussion was followed by rejection of the amendment and adoption of a resolution endorsing the leadership of Kelly.

THE following are the revised footings of the Republican majorities for President and Congress in Minnesota: Garfield, 36,848; Duml (First district), 8,531; Strait (Second district), 5,505; Washburn (Third district), 9,635. Returns from all but three precincts in New Hampshire show a total Presidential vote of 86,177, as follows: Garfield, 44,787; Hancock, 40,707; scattering, 633.

ROBERT McKENNA, elected by the Republicans as a member of the Tennessee Legislature, is ineligible through a conviction of incest in marrying the grand-daughter of his wife. The complexion of the United States Senate may be affected by this discovery. Secretary Sherman definitely announces himself a candidate for the Ohio Senatorship. Gov. Foster, of Ohio, says no Southerner will be appointed to a position in Garfield's Cabinet.

With one county estimated, Garfield's plurality in Indiana is 6,520. Returns from all the counties in New York official and reported, give Garfield 21,536 majority. Returns from all the counties of Oregon except two show that Garfield has a majority of 547. The full returns will increase the majority to 600. The result of the California election is so close that it is now probable that some of the Garfield and some of the Hancock electors will be elected. David S. Terry, one of the Democratic electors, has been so badly cut that he is certainly beaten. Terry is the man who shot Senator Broderick, of California, in a duel, and hence runs behind his ticket.

THERE are an even dozen candidates for United States Senator in Indiana, namely: B. F. Claypool, of Connersville; Congressman Browne; President Burgess, of Butler University; John M. Butler, of Indianapolis; John M. Coburn, of the same place; Will Cumbuck, Judge Gresham, Gen. Ben Harrison, Editor John C. New, Congressman Orth, James M. Shackelford and Gen. A. D. Streight. Besides, there are any number of dark horses. All the returns of the election in Maine, with the exception of six small precincts, which will not materially change the result, foot up as follows: Garfield, 74,005; Hancock-Weaver electors, 64,832; Weaver straight Greenback electors, 4,076; Dow, 66; scattering, 12. Total, 147,991; majority for Garfield, 5,019. A San Francisco dispatch says that the official returns are not yet all in, but enough received to determine that the Hancock electors, except Judge Terry, have carried California by a majority of 200 to 300, while the Republicans have elected forty-one Assemblymen, giving a majority of two in the Assembly, and twelve on joint ballot.

RETURNS from all of the 102 counties in Illinois show the following result for President: Garfield and Arthur, 318,205; Hancock and English, 277,454; Weaver and Chambers, 25,821; Dow and others (about), 500; total vote, 621,980. Garfield over Hancock, 40,751; Hancock over all, 14,439. Secretary Sherman disclaims any understanding with Gen. Garfield about the future, and declares that he would not be unwilling to retire to private life for the next four years.

WASHINGTON.

SECRETARY SHERMAN, it is said, will strongly urge upon Congress legislation of some sort to relieve the treasury vaults of the pressure of accumulating silver dollars.

SECRETARY SHERMAN's recommendations to Congress, it is said, will probably include a law for the issue of thirty-three-year bonds, bearing 3½ to 4 per cent. interest, with which to refund $772,000,000 in 5 and 6 per cents, maturing before July. He also favors the issue of $10 certificates, stripping the greenback of its legal-tender quality, and leaving the coinage of silver dollars to the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury.

THE issue of stamps and postal-cards for October was the largest in the history of the Government, amounting to $4,312,694. The cost of the postal service to the general treasury for the fiscal year was $2,786,341.

FOREIGN.

PARNELL and Dillon and thirteen other Land-Leaguers have been indicted in Dublin, and will be tried in that city about Christmas.

THE English coasting steamer Elemore, with all hands (fifteen persons), was lost in the recent gale off the eastern coast of England. Now comes the Duchess of Montrose with a winning of $16,000 on a recent horse-race. Nally, one of the indicted Land-Leaguers, in a recent speech, advocated the use of dynamite and gun-cotton against landlords. Both the harvest and the fishery have failed in the lower portion of Quebec, and the sufferers have appealed to the Government for aid.

THIRTEEN men were killed near Brussels, Belgium, by falling through a coal shaft. The accident was caused by the breakage of the hoisting apparatus. Menotti Garibaldi addressed a very large universal suffrage meeting at Milan, Italy. Eighty citizens of Hamburg and twenty families in Altona have been ejected under the German Socialist law. Notices have also been freely served in Schleswig-Holstein. More agrarian outrages are reported from Ireland. A magistrate of Limerick was fired at from behind a hedge. A man in County Clare who bid for a farm from which the tenants had been evicted suffered the loss of his ears at the hands of a mob. The Turks recently compelled Admiral Smith, on reaching the Dardanelles with the British war-ship Pandora, to await a permit to pass.

FELIX PYATT, of Paris, who is under sentence of two years' imprisonment for justifying assassination, announces that his journal, the Commune, is defunct. Parnell is being burned in effigy in almost every town in England. If the English Government expected that the prosecution of the Land-League leaders would put an end to the land agitation in Ireland, they have already discovered their mistake. Far from being cowed by the threatened prosecution of their leaders, the farmers seem much more determined than ever. Meetings are being held throughout the country daily, and speeches of the most defiant character are made. A party consisting of 100 men went through the country in the neighborhood of Tralee, Ireland, and made the farmers residing there take oath that they would pay no rent greater than the Government valuation. Count Henry Von Arnim, who had the misfortune to incur the displeasure of Bismarck some years ago, and whose loyalty has been impeached, wants to be tried on a charge of high treason that he may establish his innocence of the charges preferred against him. His request has been refused.

GOV. JOHN POPE HENNESSY is making determined efforts to suppress domestic slavery in Hong Kong, China. A general uprising of the South African natives is threatened, and British reinforcements are being sent to all important points. Edwin Booth made his first appearance in London before a large, fashionable and severely critical audience in the Princess Theater as Hamlet, and was enthusiastically received. He received several calls before the curtain, and was loudly applauded. James Russell Lowell, the American Minister, delivered the evening address of the winter session of the Edinburgh Philosophical Institute. His subject was "Shakspere." A typhoon at Tokio demolished 1,000 houses and sent hundreds of fishermen to watery graves. The religious decrees have been executed in all portions of French territory except Algeria and Corsica. Lord Colin Campbell is soon to wed Miss Blood, a beautiful Irish girl of distinguished family. Laycock, the Australian carman, defeated Riley, the American, in a contest on the Thames. Rowell won the Astley belt at London, making 566 miles in six days, beating by one mile the record of Hart, the Boston colored boy. Littlewood made 470 miles, and Dobler, the American contestant, 450.

THE excitement in Ireland growing out of the Land League prosecutions is becoming intense. A Land League meeting at Athlone on Sunday, the 7th inst., was attended by 20,000 of the Irish peasantry, some of whom walked fifty miles to be present. Parnell bitterly condemned the billeting of police upon districts where semi-starvation prevails, and urged his countrymen to agitate unceasingly until they become the owners of the soil. Timothy O'Sullivan hurled among the people a copy of his indictment, and it was torn into fragments. A meeting in the County Cork was interrupted by an ex-leader, who, with an organized party, stormed the platform and denounced the agitation as a humbug. The dispatching of the channel fleet to the Irish coast caused indescribable excitement in Dublin.

THE expelled French monks are flocking to Spain. Nobles are offering them their palaces, Town Councils are giving them old convents and vacant buildings, the King is granting them interviews, and the Ministry is authorizing Jesuits and other orders to establish themselves in Madrid and all over the kingdom. The priests belonging to one of the obnoxious orders occupying a monastery at Marseilles have barricaded their retreat, provisioned themselves, and, in fact, have turned the monastery into a fortress. It is surrounded by a body of troops who expect the siege to last a month.

IN France, the Jules Ferry Ministry, after an existence of but a few weeks, has come to an end. Its fall is due to the vote of the Chambers, which, by a majority of 200 against 133, contrary to the proposal of the President of the Council, decided that the law on the reform of the Magistrature should be placed at the head of the order of the day. The Ministers thereupon tendered their resignations in a body. The Nihilist trials resulted in sentences of exile for three of the accused, and imprisonment for the other four. The siege of the Premontre Abbey at Marseilles was a brief one, as the fathers neglected to guard the door at which friends were admitted. A London dispatch says the excitement in Ireland centered in Ballinrobe, where troops are being concentrated to protect the laborers engaged in harvesting crops for an agent of Lord Erne, and where the excited peasantry are also flocking in large bodies. The early approach of winter in Russia has stopped the sowing of wheat, and numerous grain-laden vessels have been frozen up in the Volga river. An earthquake was felt throughout Southern Austria, on the 10th inst. At Agram, in Croatia, the shock was so violent that every house in town was injured. Several persons were killed and thirty injured. Many buildings will have to be pulled down. A large number of inhabitants fled to the fields.

GENERAL.

THE Captain of the American steam launch Isabel reports being subjected to gross outrages by Chilian sailors at the port of Payta, the American flag being pulled down and trampled on. American breadstuffs have advanced about 100 per cent. at St. Petersburg, and the supply fails to meet the demand. Several new signal stations are to be established on the lakes.

STOCK in the Edison Electric Light Company has been assessed $60 per share, to meet the cost of recent experiments.

LAKE Erie, Ontario and Huron were visited by a furious gale on the night of the 6th inst., causing many shipwrecks.

A JAPANESE steamer which returned from the Arctic seas reports a whaler recently arrived at Petropavlovsk, a Russian port, which announces that the Jeannette and several whalers, with all hands, are lost, having been crushed to pieces by the floating ice.

THE Schooner Belle Sheridan, of Toronto, laden on her return trip from Charlotte, N. Y., with coal, was driven on the shore near Weller's beach, Ontario, and completely wrecked. All on board but one man were lost.

THE General Missionary Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in session at New York, have appropriated the following sums: Blue Ridge Conference, $3,500; Central Tennessee, $3,400; East Tennessee, $2,000; Florida, $3,700; Georgia, $4,300; Holston, $8,500; Kentucky, $5,000; Lexington, $3,000; Little Rock, $2,500; Louisiana, $7,000; Central Alabama, $2,800; Delaware, $1,200; Detroit, $3,500; Michigan, $3,200; Nevada, $3,000; Mississippi, $6,500; North Carolina, $3,500; Savannah, $3,500; South Carolina, $7,000; Tennessee, $3,000; Texas, $4,000; Virginia, $5,500; West Virginia, $3,000; Washington, $2,500; Oregon, $2,500; South Carolina, $3,500; Vermont, $900; East Maine, $1,000; West Wisconsin, $2,500; Wisconsin, $2,000. The appropriation for Minnesota was increased from $800 to $900.

Gen. Hancock Interviewed.

Gen Hancock was asked by a New York reporter what he thought of the result of the election.

"It would," he replied, "require too much space to print all my thoughts. Therefore, I will content myself with saying that personally I do not feel badly because I am not elected. Of course, I regret that the Democratic party, of which I am proud to be a member, has been defeated. It is a great disappointment to all of us when we fail to gain a victory in behalf of the faith and principles which we advocate. It is my wish that it be understood that I have no grief on my own account. The man who assumes the duties pertaining to the Presidency of the United States has a momentous task to perform."

"Whom do you blame for your defeat?" "Certainly not my friends, and it was perfectly natural that my political opponents should work for their own interests."

"But, General, some of your friends have said that—"

"Oh, never mind," interrupted Gen. Hancock, "the campaign is over, and the true Christian spirit is to forgive and forget."

"It is claimed on your behalf, General, that, although you will not have sufficient votes in the Electoral College to make you President, you have received a majority of the popular vote of the country."

"That may be so. We shall know when the exact election returns are in from all the rural districts in the different States. But, be that as it may, I have the pleasure of knowing that I have hundreds of thousands of true friends, who tendered me the compliment of their votes. To merit the esteem and kind wishes of these people is the desire nearest my heart. I have always tried to faithfully serve my country in the past, and it is my earnest intention to pursue the same policy in the future, whatever may be my station in life."

LATER ELECTION RETURNS.

Garfield's majority in Illinois is estimated at 35,000. The delegation in Congress stands 13 Republicans to 6 Democrats. The Republicans have a majority in the Legislature of 24 on joint ballot.

The next Wisconsin Legislature will stand as follows: Senate, 24 Republicans, 9 Democrats; Assembly, 78 Republicans, 21 Democrats, and 1 Independent.

Complete returns from Connecticut show a plurality for Garfield of 2,570.

It is thought that Hancock's majority in North Carolina will reach 10,000; that the Congressional delegation will include one Republican, and the Legislature will be Democratic.

San Francisco dispatches state that later returns settle it beyond doubt that Garfield has carried California by a plurality over Hancock of between 2,000 and 3,000, and that the Legislature is Republican. The Congressional delegation stands: Page and Pacheco, Republicans, and Rosecrans and Berry, Democrats.

Oregon's vote is very close, but the returns indicate that Garfield will have a majority of about 300.

Garfield's plurality in Kansas is between 50,000 and 60,000, and the Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican.

Garfield's plurality in Massachusetts is 53,000. Morse, Democrat, is re-elected to Congress from Boston.

In Pennsylvania the plurality for Garfield is 36,000.

Ludlow's majority over Potts, for Governor of New Jersey, is about 600. The majority for the Democratic electoral ticket is about 2,000.

In Dakota, Pettigrew, Republican, is elected to Congress by 5,000 majority.

Returns complete and partial from 66 counties cut of 94 in Tennessee give Hawkins, for Governor, 76,166; Wright, 64,787; Wilson, 49,316. Owing to dissensions among the Democrats on account of the State debt issue, the Republicans came within four votes of securing the Legislature.

In Nevada, the returns come in slowly. The State is close on Electors and Congress. The Legislature is probably Democratic on joint ballot. The Senate is Republican.

The entire Republican State ticket is elected in Michigan by a large majority; the Congressional delegation is unanimously Republican, and Garfield carried the State by about 35,000 or 40,000 majority.

Hancock's plurality in West Virginia is about 12,000.

The Territorial election in Arizona resulted as follows: G. H. Oury, Democrat, delegate to Congress; M. H. Sherman, Republican, Superintendent of Public Instruction. The Legislature is Republican by a large majority.

The majority for Hancock in Nevada is 600. A San Francisco dispatch of the 6th says that returns from all the counties in California except Del Norte, which is estimated the same as the last Presidential election, give Hancock 96 plurality. A few small precincts yet to hear from are not expected to alter the result much. It is quite certain that the Republicans will get one elector, as Judge Terry, on the Democratic ticket, is known to be scratched several hundred.

A New York dispatch says the latest returns from the counties in New York State make the majority for Garfield and Arthur 23,069. These figures may be slightly changed by official reports, but the result will not be affected materially.

Official vote of Delaware: Hancock, 15,183; Garfield, 14,150.

An Indianapolis dispatch says that returns from seventy-three counties in Indiana show a net Democratic gain of 307, or, to speak more properly, a falling off from Porter's vote of 307. The remaining twenty counties to be heard from will add still slightly to these figures, thus reducing Garfield's plurality a little below that of Porter.

The majority of Garfield in Iowa over Hancock will exceed 80,000, and probably go 85,000. Official returns from forty-eight of the sixty-seven counties of Pennsylvania, and careful estimates from each of the other counties, make Garfield's plurality 37,341.

White, Republican, is elected to Congress in the Ninth (Kentucky) district over Turner, Democrat, by a majority of 1,500.

The Kansas Legislature is almost unanimously Republican.

A St. Louis dispatch says that the returns from the Sixth Congressional district of Missouri elect Hazeltine, Greenback-Republican, over Waddle, Democrat, by about 500 majority. This is the fourth Democratic loss in the State. The Greenbackers have gained two and the Republicans one.

Holland City News.

HOLLAND CITY, MICHIGAN.

ABOUT 1,500,000 barrels of flour have been shipped from Minneapolis from Jan. 1 up to November, 1880.

THE great Brooklyn bridge, which is not yet finished, has already cost $12,385,178.77, and there are $87,569.48 liabilities.

A FOREIGN milling paper says that a barrel of flour can be shipped from Milwaukee to Liverpool cheaper than from Buda-Pesth to Vienna.

THE ex-Governors of New York now alive are Hamilton Fish, Horatio Seymour, Myron H. Clark, Edwin D. Morgan, Reuben E. Fenton, John T. Hoffman, Samuel J. Tilden and Lucius Robinson.

WHILE a little girl in Norwich, Ct., was combing her hair with a celluloid-band comb, near an open gas-jet, she accidentally brought her head too near the flame, and the comb took fire. The frightened girl had presence of mind enough to throw it from her head, and escaped with her hair considerably singed. The comb burned on the floor until it was entirely consumed.

SWIMMING is advocated in San Francisco as a cure for the opium habit. A physician gives the history of a lady who, from taking morphine to alleviate the pains of a long-protracted disease, had become a confirmed opium-eater, and was suffering all the distressing symptoms of this terrible habit. The doctor ordered her to cross the bay every day and take a swim in the Alameda baths, which she did, and in a few months was completely cured.

JACK RAFFERTY made a wager that he could drink without paying in every saloon on Spring street, Jeffersonville, Ind. He got safely into and out of seven places, but in the eighth, when he said "Hang it up," the bartender gave him a dreadful whipping. There were six more bars to cover, and he struggled on; but his appearance was now against him, and at the eleventh his skull was fractured with a club; so he lost the bet.

THE saw-dust, which has become such a nuisance at Minneapolis and along the river below that growing city, offers a promising field of enterprise for whoever will utilize it. Several applications have already been made of it, and now arrangements are being made by a French manufacturing chemist for the establishment, at Minneapolis, of a laboratory to make from the saw-dust an acid, now imported from France, and largely used by dyers, chemists and druggists. It is to be hoped that the enterprise will be successful.

THERE is a manifest economic absurdity in making the Patent Office of any country a source of revenue. The fees paid to the Government should be so regulated that they will, as nearly as may be, just meet the expenses of the Patent Office. In Great Britain, as appears from a treasury return published a short time ago, the receipts of the Patent Office during the twelve years 1868 to 1879 were £1,779,892, and the expenditure only £504,322, leaving a net gain to the public exchequer of £1,275,570. Our own Patent Office management is far from free of blame in this respect also.

THE Southern Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe roads are each not more than 100 miles from their point of intersection at Florida Pass, N. M., about thirty miles west of the Rio Grande, and the gap is steadily being narrowed, and will be closed about Christmas. The Southern Pacific portion of this great line will be 1,244 miles long, and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe end will be about 1,147 miles long, making the distance from the Missouri to San Francisco about 2,390 miles. By the Union and Central Pacific roads the distance is 1,916 miles, an advantage of about 474 miles in favor of the present route for business between these points.

THERE are frequent references in Shakespeare and contemporary writings to "sea-coal fires," the term "sea coal" being applied to the soft coal brought by sea to London from Newcastle. Early in the thirteenth century its use was prohibited in London on account of its unhealthfulness; but the prohibition was not long observed, and it soon became the only fuel. Combined with the thick and constant fogs which hang over or enwrap the city, the smoke and soot is increasing the death-rate every year, and has even caused some fear of a catastrophe which shall end in suffocating the whole city, and the calamity of Pompeii in a different form be repeated. One of the remedies proposed is the importation of anthracite from this country, so that the old term of "sea coal" may come into use again.

A MAN is about to be tried at Saginaw City on a charge that he stole a wagon loaded with hay and drew it off with a span of horses that he had borrowed, and left it behind a barn some four miles from the starting place because it was near daylight. The case will undoubtedly develop some amusing facts.

DRAWING-ROOM DRINKING.

The Love of Strong Drink Increasing Among Englishwomen.
[London Truth.]

Not long ago a strange scene took place in a pretty garden not a hundred miles from London. The tree-shaded lawn was scattered over with seats, while here and there a bright-colored Persian rug for the special behoof of any guests who object to open-air amusements on account of the "damp grass." To some minds grass is always damp. It was early in the afternoon, and the only tenants of the garden were the servants, who were arranging refreshments upon some tables under the trees. They seemed full of nods and becks, and whippers of apparently mysterious import passed among them. A carriage drives up to the gate, and two ladies, entering, look around for their hostess. The servant who has admitted them goes in search of his mistress, and a few moments afterward a young and beautifully dressed woman issues from the house, her face deeply flushed, her eyes half closed, and her gait uncertain. Just at this moment another carriage drives up, a gentleman and lady being the occupants. They, too, enter the garden gate and advance toward the house across the lawn. As they approach the uncertain, swaying figure of their hostess they look at each other significantly, and the lady says, in a low voice: "I was afraid of this. Where can Mr. X. be to allow her to be seen in this state?" The interpretation of those wild looks, that disordered hair, and these meaningless words, is that Mrs. X is intoxicated, though not sufficiently so to be quite helpless. She wanders about among her guests, her condition, however, being so palpable, so unmistakable, that the majority laugh and titter, while the friendly few pity, though they condemn. The painful scene was ended by the arrival of her husband, whose look of misery, as he led his wife on his arm through the groups of gaily-dressed people into the house, touched even the laughers with pity.

This is no exaggeration of facts. It is, unfortunately, a scene from real life, and, I fear, not an uncommon one. The love of strong drinks appears to be increasing among the educated women of our day. During the season just past, instances of this were so frequent as to lead to the conjecture that a kind of epidemic of drink was pervading those classes of society in which culture, position, and possession of every comfort in life would appear to be a sufficient guarantee against so degrading a vice. "Society" ladies, in fact, live too much upon excitement not to suffer from the inevitable reaction. For a few months in the year they endure continued fatigue in treading the social mill and for the remainder they are a prey to ennui. They try the first dose of chloral as an experiment. "My eyes look so dull and heavy this morning. So-and-so says chloral is such a capital thing; I think I'll try it." In this case, as in that of rouge, it is not "the first step that costs." It is easy enough. But, from an experiment it becomes a practice, and from a practice it develops into a necessity. It is no longer servant, but master. My lady has her half pint of champagne about an hour after breakfast, another at luncheon, a glass of liquor instead of afternoon tea, a regular sequence of wines at dinner, and brandy in her post-prandial coffee. Her chloral in her dressing-room is as permanent and indispensable an arrangement as her bath, and much sooner missed from its usual position than her bible.

If you place a few drops of strong tea upon a piece of iron, a knife blade, for instance, the tannate of iron is formed, which is black. If you mix tea with iron filings, or pulverized iron, you can make a fair article of ink. If you mix it with fresh human blood, it forms with the iron of the blood the tannate of iron. Take human skin and let it soak for a time in strong tea, and it will become leather. Now, when we remember that the liquids which enter the stomach are rapidly absorbed by the venous absorbents of the stomach, and enter into the circulation and are thrown out of the system by the skin, lungs, and kidneys, it is probable that a drink so common as tea, and so abundantly used, will have some effect. Can it be possible that tannin, introduced with so much liquid-producing respiration, will have no effect upon the skin? Look at the tea-drinkers of Russia, the Chinese, and the old women of America, who have so long continued the habit of drinking strong tea. Are they not dark-colored and leather-skinned?

Lion and Dog.

Lions, when confined in cages, do not object to the presence of rats. These are often seen gnawing the bones off which the lions have dined. In illness the case is different, for the ungrateful rats begin to nibble the toes of the lord of the forest before his death, and considerably to his discomfort. "To save our lioness from this annoyance," said a London showman, "we placed in her cage a fine little rat tan-terrier, who was at first received with a surly growl, but when the first rat appeared and the lioness saw the little terrier toss him in the air, catching him with professional skill across the loins with a snap as he came down, she began to understand what the terrier was for; she coaxed him to her side, folded her paw around him, and each night the little terrier slept at the breast of the lioness, enfolded by her paws, and watching that his natural enemies did not disturb the natural rest of his mistress. The rats had a bad time during those six weeks."

Solar Force.

Several years ago Ericsson predicted that the Nile and the Ganges would be lined with cotton and other factories driven by solar heat. A French engineer in Algiers is already contributing to its fulfillment by pumping water and making it boil by solar force alone. He will probably soon be raising, roasting and boiling coffee at one operation.

What Voices Indicate.

There are light, quick, surface voices that involuntarily seem to utter the slang, "I won't do to tie to." The man's words may assure you of his strength of purpose and reliability, yet his tone contradicts his speech.

Then there are low, deep, strong voices, where the words seem ground out, as if the man owed humanity a grudge, and meant to pay it some day. That man's opponents may well tremble, and his friends may trust his strength of purpose and ability to act.

There is the coarse, boisterous, dictatorial tone, invariably adopted by vulgar persons, who have not sufficient cultivation to understand their own insignificance.

There is the incredulous tone, that is full of a covert sneer, or a secret "You-can't-dup-me-sir" intonation.

Then there is the whining, beseeching voice, that says "sympathant" as plainly as if it uttered the word. It cajoles and flatters you; its words, say, "I love you, I admire you; you are everything that you should be."

Then there is the tender, musical, compassionate voice, that sometimes goes with sharp features (as they indicate merely intensity of feeling) and sometimes blunt features, but always with a genuine benevolence.

If you are full of affection and pretense, your voice proclaims it.

If you are full of honesty, strength and purpose, your voice proclaims it.

If you are cold and calm and firm and consistent, or fickle and foolish and deceptive, your voice will be equally truth-telling.

You can not change your voice from a natural to an unnatural tone, without its being known that you are doing so.

Daniel Webster's Humor.

Daniel Webster was a grim humorist. On one occasion, when a Senator who was jeering another for some pedantry said, "The honorable gentleman may proceed to quote from 'Crabbe's Synonyms,' from Walker and Webster—" "Not from Walker and Webster," exclaimed the Senator from Massachusetts, "for the authorities may disagree!" At another time, when he was speaking on the New York Fire bill, the Senate clock began suddenly to strike, and, after it had struck continuously for about fourteen or fifteen times, Mr. Webster stopped and said to the presiding officer, "That clock is out of order, sir—I have the floor." The occupant of the chair looked rebukingly at the refractory time-piece, but in defiance of the officers and rules of the house it struck about forty before the Sergeant-at-Arms could stop it; Mr. Webster standing silent, while every one else was laughing.

On another occasion, while Mr. Webster was addressing the Senate in presenting a memorial, a clerical-looking person in one of the galleries arose and shouted, "My friends, the country is on the brink of destruction! Be sure that you act on correct principles. I warn you to act as your conscience may approve. God is looking down upon you, and if you act on correct principles you will get safely through." He then deliberately stepped back, and retired from the gallery before officers of the Senate could reach him. Mr. Webster was, of course, surprised at this extraordinary interruption; but, when the shrill voice of the enthusiast had ceased, he coolly resumed his remarks, saying, "As the gentleman in the gallery has concluded I will proceed."

A Useful Instrument.

Undoubtedly, to every well-regulated woman, the hairpin is an invaluable acquisition. She can use it in a variety of ways—as a glove-hook, button-hook, even a gimlet on occasion. It makes an excellent clasp in lieu of a missing buckle. Its most obvious use is to fasten the hair to the head of the wearer. The back hair is always spiked on with from six to twelve hairpins, which hold it so firmly that it cannot be detached until all the hairpins are withdrawn. In like manner the bonnet is pinned to the hair with hairpins. Unlearned men have often wondered how it was possible for a light straw hat to keep its place on the very summit of a pyramid of hair from which the slightest breeze ought, apparently, to be able to blow it. The hairpin is the solution of this mystery. Being made of the finest quality of wrought iron, and strengthened by paint with as much care as the elevated railroad piers, it can defy anything but a cyclone; and a bonnet fastened with half a dozen hairpins becomes as much a part of the wearer as her back hair. In every sense it is an instrument of wondrous power.

Three Dog Stories.

A Columbus (Ind.) dog caught the tie strap of a running horse, and brought him to a standstill, holding him until the driver came up.

As a Canandaigua, N. Y., mother was about to strike her little daughter, who she thought merited a whipping, the Newfoundland dog of the family caught the menacing arm in his mouth, but did not bite. The father, coming in at the moment, made a pretence of punishing the child, when his arm was arrested the same way.

A dog of Eddyville, Ky., entered a burrow a long distance after a rabbit, and in enlarging the hole threw the dirt behind him, and closed up his retreat. Eighteen days afterward a son of its owner thought he heard a dog bark or howl underground, and, after digging down several feet, the animal was discovered. He suffered no serious injury from his long confinement and fast.

SOUTHERN OPINION.

How the Election of Garfield Is Viewed in the South.

The Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier concludes an editorial on the result of the Presidential election as follows:

"We do not for a moment imagine that the American people wish that any State should again be ruled by a Scott, a Moses, or a Bullock. The truth was that the control that was necessary, and even indispensable, in local affairs carried with it considerable influence in national affairs. With the help of two Northern States, the South could elect the President, and be master of the Government. We know, or think we know, that the power would have been exercised wisely. But the conquerors were not ready to be ruled, even to their own advantage, by the conquered. Nor would the South have been, if Grant, instead of Lee, had surrendered his army fifteen years since. Beside this latent war feeling, there was the mighty influence of the bankers, merchants and shopkeepers, who had no particular objection to the Democracy coming into place except that it involved a change of some sort, and they wished no change of any sort. Why should they? Business is good, money is cheap, every department of trade is flourishing. It is true that the currency is in an unstable condition; but a cool-headed citizen not in debt would not expect from a party which prostituted itself to the Plasters and De La Matyrs a better dollar than would be furnished by Chittenden, Morton and Sherman, and we may add that, with eyes wide open to all its faults, the white people north of the Potomac had come to the conclusion that there was a better prospect of good government from the Republican party than from the Democracy. Whatever the exact way in which it came about, it is a hard fact that the Government of the United States for the next four years will be Republican in speech, purpose and action. The Republican President will apparently have at his back a Republican Congress. What they will they can do with the Southern States and their people. We hope and believe, however, that the business interests, which were the mainspring of Tuesday's work, will be opposed utterly to any legislation that would in any way embarrass the agriculture and manufactures, the trade and commerce of the South. It is to the interest of the North and West to take this position. They will do it whenever and as soon as the people of the Southern States cease to be posed by politicians as the would-be autocrats of the Union that they did their utmost to destroy. When this species of Southern supremacy is laid, the Northern people will be free to exhibit their kindly feelings, and one of the first questions the Southern whites will have to ask themselves is, whether the welfare of the South has and is likely to be hindered or advanced by alliance with the Democrats of the North. It does not hurt those gentry to be beaten. They are sure to have just and equal Governments in their States in any event. Not so with the South. In losing politically the South loses in pocket and in peace of mind. Will the South remain on the losing side, and if so on what terms and for what purpose? The Southern people, we fancy, will make themselves heard on this subject before the winter is past."

The Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times editorially says:

"Hancock has been beaten by John Kelly's crowd in New York. He gave the State to Cornell, Conkling & Company last year simply because a friend of Tilden was the nominee. He kept up a constant row and turmoil in the State and city from the time Hancock was nominated until the day of the election. He nominated a municipal ticket which was a fearful load on the electoral ticket, and lost the party fully 20,000 votes. His horrible, brutal, libelous war on the proprietor of the Herald has cost another 10,000. He was charged with the conduct of the city canvass, and promised a full vote of the party. His pet for Mayor goes in by a few hundred, where a popular man could have had 60,000 majority. New York would have elected Hancock. Mr. Kelly threw it away to gratify his evil temper, and because he thought he could by no less violent means grab the city patronage. It is foolish to talk about the bloody-shirt and hounding business issues so long as we tolerate such a magazine of political nitro-glycerine in the middle of the party. Kelly must be unloaded. We cannot succeed with him. We can organize a decent and honorable defeat without him. As for the solid South and kindred issues, they have not beaten the Democrats. The North understands that the South is solid from the most natural motives. New Jersey, California, Nevada, and probably Oregon, as States, were not afraid of the solid South. Three million Northern voters cast their votes with the South. That war-cry kept the old-timers in line. Internal quarrels among the Democrats, and stupid blunders, did more for the Republicans than they did for themselves to secure the victory."

The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and Constitutionalist says:

"The South at least has the satisfaction of knowing that she kept her part of the bargain, and if the 'hero of Gettysburg' is not President it is not our fault. We think, too, that she has for the last time been led, lamb-like, to the slaughter. Her experiments with loyal civilians and military heroes have not been propitious in the past, and the future holds out no hopes in that direction. What she will do in the future time must disclose. Much depends upon how great a gain the Republicans have made in the Senate and House, and what their policy will be toward this section. The South will be kept reasonably solid for her own protection and for the purpose of preserving the balance of power after the next apportionment, when the political domain shifts from East to West. The tremendous problem now confronting the two parties and all sections is, Will the administration of Garfield be, in case of the control of Congress, modeled upon that of Hayes or dictated by Grant and Conkling, with Zachariah Chandler's spirit as the inspiring goblin? Until we know the exact nature of that administration we remain in abeyance. Meanwhile we may as well prepare for the worst, and hope for the best."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution comments as follows:

"It is the culmination of a series of blunders, beginning with the Potter Committee and ending with the surrender of the party to the selfish whims of an element which had John Kelly for its commanding General. It would appear that the line of sectionalism has been sharply drawn by the voters of the North; but there is nothing depressing in this fact. We are willing that the North should draw a sectional line in politics, if the South be permitted to draw a line with respect to progress and improvement of those conditions and forces which make a people happy in their fields, their workshops and their homes. We have a prosperous future before us, and to this end we should look intently. We have the cause of public education to promote and the welfare of a great and growing section to foster. The South expected little more from Gen. Hancock's administration than it will ask from Gen. Garfield. We want nothing more than simple, exact, absolute justice. If the new President owes nothing to the South he at least owes something to the country, and we shall be glad to see him cancel this debt by giving us an administration as fair, just and as clean as that of Mr. Hayes."

A young lady ate half a wedding cake, and then tried to dream of her future husband. Now she says she would rather die than marry the man that she saw in that dream.

HOLLAND CITY NEWS.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, '80.

GROUNDS FOR GLADNESS.

We are glad that the election and its work is ended, for a variety of good reasons.

We are glad because the canvass has absorbed a great deal of attention, necessarily withdrawn from other subjects. Taking into account the discussions which preceded the nominations and those which followed them there have been say ten weeks of lively activity. This is nearly one-fifth of a year, or one-twentieth of the four years, included in a Presidential term. Assuming every quadrennial campaign to be as busy, one-twentieth of their whole time is given by the people to the mere matter of choosing a President. The proportion will be more startling when it is said that it is equal to one hour of every working day of ten hours. If we include all the other elections, local, state, and national, to say nothing of the time and energy consumed in watching our officers and finding fault with them after they are chosen, it will be admitted that we have quite enough of politics.

We are glad because the end of the canvass will introduce new subjects for consideration, or old subjects so long put aside, that they will bring with them the pleasant flavor of novelty. We shall find the pages of our esteemed contemporaries open to something other than politics. The HOLLAND CITY NEWS has endeavored to oppose safeguards against the flood so far as possible and to keep other human interests in view; but it must be admitted that for certain classes of readers by no means small the newspapers have grown rather tiresome of late. Perhaps there is no better argument for woman suffrage than that the introduction of women in politics, or the introduction of politics to women, would enable one-half of the population to regard the daily journals during a political canvass, as something beside a bore.

We are glad because the absolute safety of our regularly imperilled country will be guaranteed once more, and all of us will be able to sleep quietly in our beds for another four years.

We are glad because the Sun, and other esteemed contemporaries can replenish their "cases," by "distributing" a great deal of "standing matter" about "fraud," which is now as useless as the show-bills of candidates, and the banners of clubs.

We are glad because we can now tell very nearly, by actual count, how many men in the city of New York, are willing to submit to the yoke of Mr. John Kelley.

We are glad because respectable men will no longer feel constrained to do and to say things in behalf of "the party" which they would not dream of doing and saying in business, or in their social relations.

We are glad, because there may be a reduction in the price of printing paper in consequence of the vast supply of material which will now be furnished in the shape of obsolete, and we are afraid, not always truthful and impartial "campaign documents."

We are glad, because we shall again dis-appoint all the disbelievers in the stability of a democratic republican form of government by going through another general election without revolution, or violence, or disorder.

We are glad because Chairman Barnum will not find it necessary to circulate any more forgeries and falsehoods, and may return to that kindly obscurity from which two millions of democrats wish that he never had emerged.

We are glad because Chairman Jewell cannot be tempted by Mr. Dittenhoefer and his "friends" to write another letter.

We are glad because Mr. John Kelley may retire from journalism—which he has tried to disgrace by dabbling in it—or at least may be induced to make his newspapers fit to go into a respectable family.

We are glad because our party leaders will now have an opportunity to review their work, to measure the emptiness of certain questions, to see the futility of certain instrumentalities, to estimate the real forces which alone are influential with the people, and, let us hope, gathering wisdom from the past, to give us more decent, dignified and manly political canvasses in the future.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost, I know it. A Workingman."

Hottings.

BLEAK winter is upon us.

MANY vessels are "laying up" around the lakes.

THE democratic party is smashed, and it isn't worth while to save the pieces.

ONE parlor and two box stoves to sell, with drums and pipes, at the Methodist E. Church.

WE are sorry to learn that Mr. W. H. Joslin will leave us and start up in business in the city of Grand Rapids.

ABOUT all the members of the Michigan Society for the Preservation of Fish and Game are now up in the north woods slaughtering the deer.

WE hear continual complaint from the people who reside near the new school house, of the dismal howling noise the wind creates in the belfry. Can't this be helped?

ACCORDING to the "yarns" circulated by part of the crew of the schr. Josies, that vessel must be very unseaworthy. Part of her crew suddenly left her in Chicago, and came home by rail.

A HAPPY party gathered at the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobus Koning, on Monday evening last, November 8th. Although the invitations were limited, the presents were many and handsome.

MR. WM. Smith, our famous stallion man, must have considerable faith in the blood of his stallion—the Black Leopard—for he has purchased several colts sired by this beautiful stallion. And the colts are really beautiful.

ANOTHER couple will be married in a few days, but we may not give their names. Both are remarkable for their height, and must measure somewhere near 12 feet, if both their lengths are added together. Can you guess?

IT having been very stormy and bad weather on Wednesday, market-day, it is decided to try it again on Wednesday next Nov. 17. So you can tell your neighbor that Holland will have a market-day on Wednesday next, "weather-or-no."

TUESDAY we had beautiful weather, and our business men, who were in hopes of fine weather for the next day—Wednesday, market day—were sadly disappointed, for it was rainy and nasty. On Wednesday evening the wind shifted from the southeast to southwest and blew a gale.

MR. M. Jonkman is building a large addition to his store, on the cor. of River and Tenth streets. When finished it will give him almost double the room he has at present. This is the second time Mr. Jonkman is enlarging, and it seems to us, that he could not do it, unless prosperity aided him.

ANOTHER body, supposed to be from the Alpena, was found near Port Sheldon, on Saturday last, but could not be identified. A dispatch from South Haven, dated Nov. 9th (last Tuesday), states that the body of a sailor supposed to be from the Alpena, came ashore yesterday, (Monday), seven miles north of here, near Glenn post-office, Allegan County. He was apparently about 23 years of age, about five feet eight inches high, short reddish brown hair, dressed in a laborer's suit, with No. 10 stoga shoes, one front tooth out, smooth face, figure of a ballet girl dancing on a globe, tattooed in blue on the right fore-arm, but no clue to his identity.

WE hear of several deaths lately of well-known people, or formerly resident here. Mr. F. Kamferbeek, one of our oldest settlers, died at the age of 72. Mr. A. Geerlings, well-known here as hardware merchant, miller in this city and at Hamilton, died at Hamilton a few days ago, at the age of 59 years. And just as we go to press we heard of the death of Mr. J. Van de Roovert, of Chicago, formerly resident of this city. Also, Mr. N. Downie, only a few years ago, principal of our public schools. He was one of the best teachers we have ever had in our schools. We also heard of the death of Mr. B. Lasman, formerly residing and doing business near Metz tannery.

Not Exactly.

Have you been much at sea? No, not exactly, but my brother married an admiral's daughter.

Were you ever in France? No, not exactly, but my mother's name was French.

Did you ever have the Rheumatism? No, not exactly, but my father has and he cured it with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil.

Sold by D. R. Meengs, Holland, Mich.

If you are troubled with fever and ague, dumb ague, bilious fever, jaundice, dyspepsia, or any disease of the liver, blood or stomach, and wish to get well, try the new remedy, Prof. Guilmotte's French Liver Pad. Ask your druggist for it, and take no other, and if he has not got it send $1.50 in a letter to the French Pad Co., Toledo, O., and receive one by return mail.

THE last blow has stripped our shade trees of nearly all their foliage.

THE original Grant men claim it all as their work, and have already written on their banners: "Grant in 1884."

NOT a greenbacker in the next Legislature of Michigan, and only two democratic senators. The caucus business will be very monotonous.

MARRIED on Thursday last, Nov. 11th, at Grand Rapids, by Rev. P. Moerdijk, Mr. John C. Melis to Miss Maggie Boub, both of Grand Rapids.

THE Northern Pacific track-layers will cross the line from Dakota into Montana within a few days, but will then be nearly four hundred miles from the capitol of the territory.

A paper published at Windsor, Canada, announces the marriage of Dr. E. C. Palmer, of Salem, Allegan Co., to Miss Lilla E. Fleming, of Windsor, on the 26th day of October.

FOUR republican candidates for congress in southern states are graduates of Ann Arbor, and two are elected—viz: John D. White, in Kentucky, and Augustus H. Pettibone, in Tennessee.

LIST of letters remaining in the post-office at Holland, Mich., Nov. 11, 1880: Frank Smith, Richard Gill, James Cummings.

WM. VERBECK, P. M.

MESSRS. C. Blom & R. Kleyn have opened a place of amusement in the store formerly occupied by Mr. J. W. Bosman. The amusement consists in target shooting, is quite innocent and cheap—3 balls for 5 cents. Go and see them this evening.

OUR readers will notice the advertisement of Mr. G. A. Koning, formerly with Mr. E. J. Harrington, and lately with E. S. Pierce & Co., of Grand Rapids, who has engaged in business for himself. He has leased the restaurant known as "Oyster Ocean", refitted it, freshly painted, carpeted, etc., and is now ready to receive all his old Colony friends in royal style, at Nos. 25 & 27 Monroe street. Give him a call when you go to Grand Rapids.—See advertisement in another column.

GANGES, MICH., NOV. 2nd, 1880.

MR. EDITOR: will you please publish the following in your paper, in the cause of humanity:

Found washed ashore, in Ganges, Allegan Co., the dead body of a colored man, on October 23rd, age apparently from 18 to 22 years; height 5 feet 7 inches. All the clothing found on the body, was an old blue blouse, with cork life-preserver strapped over it, marked Stm'r Alpena. The body was taken in charge by me, and buried on the 24th ult., in Plumerville Cemetery, in this town, in a decent and respectable manner. Respectfully,

L. FLETCHER, Justice of the Peace.

WE have always deemed brother Bilz of the Spring Lake Republican a pretty fair man, especially in his paper, but in his last issue, he comes very near "flying off the handle." He feels so sore about his defeat, that he lays a blame on our people which he can not substantiate. To simmer his whole article down to a small thing, he says: that our people are guilty of national clannishness. Now, although there may be more "truth than poetry" in the appearance of the surface, we want to site a few instances, why it should not appear so. We despise Dutch clannishness! Put that down. The running of an American-born citizen, against a German-born citizen win or not, cannot be called Dutch clannishness. The running ahead of Harper, the American, in this city, against Van Loo, the Hollander, is not Dutch clannishness. The running ahead of Mr. Cross, against Tate, in this city, is not Dutch clannishness. That the irresistible popularity of Mr. Vaupell and Mr. Kanter made them run far ahead of their ticket in this colony, is not Dutch clannishness—but simply personal favor. McBride always runs ahead here; which can only be accounted for on the same principle; or, do you claim that he is Dutch too. Take another look at him, brother Bilz! and "don't cry over spilled milk." This is our plea, we leave the rest to our readers—our jury.

Economical Advice.

If I were going to buy a violin what method should I take to get it cheap? Why wait till father or mother had the Rheumatism and then buy a bottle of Electric Oil. For I should not only get them cured but a phial in (Violin.) Sold by D. R. Meengs, Holland, Mich.

THE traffic on the Detroit & Milwaukee R. R. is increasing so that the two boats—Menominee and De Pere—have been unable to carry the freight across from Milwaukee fast enough, and the company has been compelled to put the Truesdell on the line besides sailing vessels. The bark Myasotis came in last Sunday with a load of pork and flour, it is said that more vessels will follow, as there are over one hundred cars standing in Milwaukee waiting to have their loads transferred.

A SAD accident occurred last Monday afternoon. The schooner Rosabelle coming down the river was going to land at the lower dock. A sailor, Dan Saunders, from St. Johns, New Brunswick, was in the yawlboat to fasten a line, when the tug backed the Rosabelle up against the dock catching Saunders between the cap timber of the dock and schooner, rolling him over several times, thereby entirely crushing the pelvic bones and tearing the perineum open so far that the intestines were exposed and a man's hand might have been inserted. Notwithstanding his fearful injuries, Saunders lived until 7 o'clock p. m., when death relieved his sufferings.

WHERE LIES PEACE?

BY DR. ROBERT F. DOTT, D. P. L.

Like the flower in an oasis of some arid desert,
Far away from all the haunts of busy man,
She came, with the bloom of youth upon her,
And her charms were like the diamond's light
Which glimmers in the moonbeams of our night.

But there are many predestined curses hanging o'er
This Adamic race, which keeps pace with Father Time.

Step by step, through the dark but visible years
That are seen imaginatively by the eyes of man—
Which come to us as day-dreams; time and again!

Where are thy charms, oh life? Thy desolation is
But the waiting breeze of the forthcoming era
That gallops o'er the morlands of old time,
Riding with the waves of disquietude and scorn
And carrying with it desolation of the vap'ry morn!

Where is thy peace, oh life? Behold
The granite imbedded deep in mother earth,
Or in the fathom, a jewel of much worth.
There, as the precious ore, without man's art,
Lies peace, the jewel, imbedded in the heart!
BOSTON, ILL.

THE CREMONESE VIOLIN.

It was on a magnificent August evening, in the year 1843, if I remember rightly, when, returning from a tour to the Tannus, I found myself on the Castle Hill of Homburg, under the Heights.

The sun was just sinking behind the foot hills of the "Old King," when,
turning my eyes from its fading glories to the Wetterau, my ears were struck by a sound of silver tones.

I was lying in the grass, behind a jasmine bush, and was, therefore, concealed from the view of two interesting young girls, of about 14 and 11 years, elegantly and tastefully attired, who sat themselves down just below me.

"Is this not entrancing, Maria?"
spoke the oldest, a tall, black-eyed beauty, to her younger sister, a slender, pale child, who reminded me of Murillo's angel faces. "Oh! how I would like to remain here in Homburg! Neither in England, France, nor Spain did we find it so beautiful."

"You are right, Theresa," answered the little angel; "it is beautiful, and, during the last eight days, I have felt so much better. The pure air on the Rhine hills and the magnificent scenery have done me good; but I am homesick—I long for our beloved Savigniana."

A storm of tears followed these words, spoken in a sobbing and painfully-agitated manner.

"There, you are crying again, Marietta!" exclaimed the older sister, half reprovingly, and pressing her to her side. "In six or eight weeks you will be at home. For two long years we have endured the separation, have longed for home, and never believed that we could live to see it again, and now, almost on the eve of departure, you lament."

"I am very much afraid, Theresa
dear; I believe homesickness will consume me," sobbed the little one.

"You are a dear child, Marietta," answered the older sister. "You will,
for my sake, conceal your sorrow. See!
would it not grieve me deeply if the Public—"

"Um Gottes willen, be quiet, Theressa!" exclaimed the little one, with all the signs of fear, and suddenly ceasing her sobbing. "No; I will subdue my feelings; the Public shall never have cause to complain."

For a time the sisters were silent.
The sun had sunk behind the hills, and a rising fog was slowly darkening the landscape.

"Come, Marietta," said the oldest,
"the evening air will hurt you."

Silently the two went, arm in arm, down the Castle Hill, not perceiving that some one was following them, who had been listening to their conversation, and who, touched to the heart, was anxious to discover how that spectre, the Public, influenced their lives.

We soon reached the streets of the city. The first conjectures, that the two girls were perhaps attached to the circus at that time performing in Frankfurt, or were members of the ballet of the Court Opera of Wiesbaden, appeared doubtful. Their artless and elegant costume bore witness against it. If the little one had not mentioned Savigniana, but, perhaps, Birmingham or Roubaix as their home, and if that word, the public, had not fallen from their lips in such a peculiar "pregnant-with-fate" manner, I would have found nothing remarkable about them. But Italians of distinction are a rarity on the Rhine. I had a conundrum before me.

"Look, Theresa!" said the little angel,
"there in the window hangs a harp."
I had approached the sisters when we reached the city so near that no word was lost to me.

"There is, indeed," answered the older; "but see! there are also violins!
Let us go nearer."

It was a small shop that I knew well,
in whose two dirty show-windows cotton goods, stationery, toys, and musical instruments were displayed in artistic disorder.

Ephraim and Isidor Hirsch were the firm. Ephraim, the older brother, had inherited from his paternal sire the talent to buy and sell, and cultivated the same in a moderate way. Isidor, on the other hand, became a disciple of art, and had in the course of years advanced to the position of a member of the orchestra in the Frankfurt Theater.

He was a musician—second violin—always an unappreciated genius, and had remained assistant to the first violin desk until one evening his patience gave out. On the following morning he bade adieu to the leader of the orchestra and his artistic career.

"What for shall I let myself be abused?" said Isidor Hirsch to his companions; "can I not have it easier and better? I will go to Ephraim." And he went. His brother received him with open arms, and delivered to him
the "Portfolio of Interior," the "Books," while he himself attended to the outside,
the "Business."

"Ephraim, this I will tell you," began Isidor, on the first day of his entrance into the business; "I cannot be entirely untrue to art. From to-day the business must carry musical instruments."

"What shall I say to that?" answered Ephraim, in the first ecstasy of brotherly feelings. "For your sake I will make the acquisition, but I shall have nothing further to do with it. I have no knowledge of the article."

As I passed the two sisters, the younger said, enthusiastically: "It is surely a Cremonese, Theresa. Just look at the high cover. Let us enter."

I slipped into the shop; gave the advancing Ephraim a confidential wink, and stood aside to make room for the sisters.

"What will it please you?" asked Ephraim, with business zeal, and reaching for the box containing buttons and pins. Tourists always need buttons and pins.

"We would like to look at the violin that hangs there in the window," answered the oldest, "and, perhaps, buy it."

"You shall have one little brother, who shall on the violin learn to play?"
said Ephraim, as he passed the button-box back to its place. "Then can you have one very cheap, for $5?"

"No, No," said Marietta, eagerly,
"we want to see that particular one that hangs there in the corner."

"You will find that too dear, little lady," answered Ephraim, in a fatherly way. "Do you know that that is a treasure? What do I say—a treasure?
A crime it is, by Isidor, that he paid so much for an old violin. The others are much better. Shall I show you one?
Five dollars apiece, all new and painted a pretty red color! They are very pretty."

"Come, Marietta!" said Theresa, impatiently, "let us go—"

"Gott, du gerechter! stay! stay!"
exclaimed Ephraim, perplexed. "Why will you go? I will show it to you.
No; I will not show it. Isidor shall show it to you. 'Isidor!' he called,
through a small window in the rear door—'Isidor, the Cremonese!' and,
turning toward us, he said, in a mixed tone of vexation and rejoicing, and still eying the sisters suspiciously: 'I did not think that Isidor would win. When he brought it and said to me: 'Ephraim,
I have bought it, and the man will come for the money this afternoon—it costs $150! No, wait a moment, I mistake, it cost $250—what do I say? Three hundred and fifty dollars I believe it cost.
Then I said:

"Isidor, what a fool you are? Who will buy it? Where lies the value?
You are impractical for the business!
You have been cheated!"

"Then he swore, high and low, that only an artist like himself could judge.
And when I said again, 'No one will inquire for it, no one will buy it,' then he bet me $5 that he would sell it in a short time."

"If you buy it, then Isidor has won.
Shall I not show you the Oberlander,
the pretty red ones, only $5 apiece?"

In the meantime Isidor had entered the shop, and comprehended the situation at a glance. He pushed his talka-tive brother aside, and, bowing to me in passing, he gravely made the sisters a stiff bow.

"You wish to see the violin?" he asked, and, without waiting the answer, he moved toward the show window in visible excitement. "It is dear, very dear, but just hear the tone!" said he,
tuning the violin, and drawing the bow
in long strokes across the single strings.
Does it not sound like an organ?"

Isidor was now the artist again. In calm moments he had often regretted having given up his career, and if now and then he played, even hours at a time, what satisfaction was that to him?
He had not the public before him.

But now? The boldest and most daring evolutions were child's play to him.
One cadence followed another wilder and wilder, certainly also more incorrectly than the previous one, and, when he had finished the introduction, he broke into a perfect flood of operatic melodies, till at last he finished with the
at the time new piece of Meyerbeer,
"Yes, Gold is Only a Chimera."

With an applause-thirsty gesture, he laid down the violin.

Poor Isidor! The public remained quiet and unmoved. Theresa had smiled and Marietta laughed aloud at the mechanical strokes and unlucky passages, which, however, Isidor had taken as signs of approval.

"I have not been able to form an opinion on the quality of the tone," said Theresa. "Will you try the instrument once, Marietta? I will be able to judge of the tone much better."

"How? What?" asked Ephraim, astonished; "you are making fun. The little lady already plays the violin?"

"Yes," answered Theresa, smiling;
"we both play a little."

"That is right," said Isidor, handing the violin to the little one with friendly nod and encouraging look; "don't be bashful, and play us a piece."

Marietta silently took the instrument, and, placing herself in position, began likewise with long strokes on the open strings.

"The stroking is excellent," remarked Isidor, "you will make a good player; you have a good begin—"

There—what was that? Astonishment forced the words down Isidor's throat.

With the quickness of lightning, a succession of the most brilliant, bell-
like tones, in chromatic order, staccato, flew up into the fifth position, and ended there with a brilliant trill fully a minute long, which, first swelling, sounded like the song of the nightingale, and then, gradually decreasing, ended in fairy-like flageolet tones.

Isidor stood there, eyes and mouth wide open.

"The register is excellent, Marietta," said Theresa, joyfully, "but how is it with the Cantilene, in the middle register?"

Marietta again raised the bow, and an extremely melancholy Gondoliera sounded forth from the strings of the old violin, in longing, sorrowful tones.

I leaned against the wall, shut my eyes, and forgot time, place and surroundings. I had heard Paganini several times; he astonished me—his art dazzled me, but Marietta moved me—touched my heart.

The intensity of my feelings brought tears to my eyes.

Ephraim and Isidor Hirsch were turned into statues.

"The Cantilene is good also," said the unmoved young lady. "But now it remains to try the strength and intensity of the tone. There, I will come to your aid, my dear."

She took the violin, and what Isidor had before remarked: "Does it not sound like an organ?" became verified.
Not in single tones; no, in full chords flew the sounds from the strings. Not sweet melodies was it the bow enticed from the instrument—wilder, much wilder than Isidor had ever conceived, streamed the tone from the tyrannized instrument. It was like the prelude to a storm; and, as whipped by the furies, in gigantic, powerful tones, the strings again sounded forth Joseph Panny's
"Storm," Paganini's celebrated concert piece.

I was overcome.
Theresa laid down the violin. "The instrument is good, very good," said she,
"and worth a much higher price than you mentioned before. The tone is uncommonly sweet, as with all Guarneri violins, but it does not possess the magnificence which the Stradivari, particularly the great Antonio, understood so well to give to their instruments. I am looking for a violin of the first rank, and to that class this one cannot lay claim, notwithstanding its many merits."

The sisters prepared to depart.
"You wish an Oberlander?" The pretty, red one, for only $5?" asked Ephraim, approaching. Isidor now came to his senses again. He pushed his brother aside. "Fraulein," he began, "what shall I say? Now, for the first time I perceive that I did right when I gave up art for the shop, and I do not now feel the necessity for re-proaching myself in my heart for the act; when I again touch the violin, it will only be for the purpose of cleaning it and removing the dust. But now you must tell me your honored names, that I may know to whom I owe it that my conscience is at rest."

The young lady smilingly pulled a card from her pocket, wrote a few words thereon and laid it on the table.

I knew already who these geni were,
and, in an elevated frame of mind, walked forth into the pure air, where I could nourish these impressions uninfluenced by oppressive surroundings.

As I was passing out, I heard Isidor read off the names of Theresa and Maria Milanello."

The two celebrated violinists, the subject of the above sketch, were the daughters of the painter Josef Milanello, of Savigniana, near Turin. Theresa, born in 1829, married, in 1857, a Capt. Parmentier.
Maria, born in 1832, died in Paris in 1848. It was in the years 1842-43 that the sisters made a professional tour through Germany.

Watch the Children's Feet.

Life-long discomfort and sudden death often come to children through the in-attention or carelessness of the parents.
A child should never be allowed to go to sleep with cold feet; the thing to be last attended to is to see that the feet are dry and warm. Neglect of this has often resulted in a dangerous attack of the croup, diphtheria or a fatal throat. Always on coming from school or entering the house from a visit or errand in rainy, muddy or thawing weather, the child should remove its shoes, and the mother herself ascertain whether the stockings are the least damp. If they are, they should be taken off, the feet held before the fire and rubbed with the hands till perfectly dry, and another pair of stockings and another pair of shoes put on. The reserve shoes and stocking should be kept where they are good and dry, so as to be ready at a minute's notice.

On Dangerous Ground.

Miss Younglady owned to twenty-four,
but not a year more. The city's celebration last week awoke her to unwonted enthusiasm as to things military. She naturally began to reminisce. She spoke of the Bunker Hill celebration in 1875;
she spoke of the soldiers' return from the war; she spoke of the scenes of military grandeur during the great struggle; she spoke of the rush to arms when the gun at Charleston awoke the nation to its danger. She was going even back of that, when a gentleman remarked, "Let's see, it is nineteen years and over since that gun was fired." That was all he said, but it was sufficient. She was heard to gasp, "How time flies!" and then she fainted dead away. Some men are so wanting in politeness!—*Boston

The Tables Turned.

A Galveston parent has noticed the for-some time his eldest son sneaked off before breakfast and came back looking very happy, so he asked him yesterday
morning:

"James, do you take a cocktail in the morning?"

"Don't care if I do take another; but,
dad, who would have suspected you of keeping the materials in the house all this time without inviting me to join?
I'll be blamed if parents won't do to watch now a days."—Galveston News.

The Telegraph.

Some colored philosopher in the crowd remarked that the telegraph could travel fast. Old Uncle Mose spoke up:
"Mebbe so, but you can't prove it by his cullud witness." Jim Webster replied: "You do sumfin, and light out for de interior of de State, and you'll fine out de telegraf don't outtrable
yer. Ise had some 'perience in dat ar telegraf line." "Mebbe so," said Old Mose, "but I paid $2 for a message to my boy Jake up in Austin to send $20.

Dat's foah yeahs ago, and de money hasn't got heah yet. Does yer call dat ar quickness?"—Galveston News.

BRITISH OPINION.

Comments of the London Press on Our Presidential Election.

The London papers comment freely upon our great national political contest. The Times says:

"There are good reasons for believing that Gen. Garfield's administration will be like the present—moderate in policy. Though we must regret that civil-service reform and free trade have been equally thrust into the background during the campaign, and are evidently not for the moment eagerly desired by any considerable proportion of the American people, the abatement of the antimosities on both sides which were kindled even so recently as the contest of 1876 by the Southern question permits us to hope that very soon the sectional divisions of the republic will be obliterated, and be supplanted by a division of parties unconnected with the slave system and the civil war. The foreign policy of the Republican party, in spite of the friction caused by the war and the Alabama claims, has been on the whole friendly to this country and to peace all over the world."

The Post remarks: "With the result, so far as European powers are interested in American politics, we on this side of the Atlantic have reason to be satisfied. Whether a Republican or a Democrat rules at Washington is a matter which now exclusively interests the citizens of the republic; nor is it probable even if the twenty years of uninterrupted reign of the Republican party had been now broken that the relations subsisting between the United States and ourselves would have undergone any perceptible change.
We have had our differences of late years with the American Government, but these differences have been happily terminated. We therefore have every reason to conclude that during the next four years of Republican supremacy the relations between the United States and Great Britain will not only be undisturbed but be thoroughly cordial."

The Advertiser says: "We cannot but regret the result. In the first place there is no comparison between the merits of two men.
Garfield is third-rate Republican party politician, belonging not perhaps to the school of the Blaines, Conklings and Camerons, but quite a little to that of the reformers like Adams or administrators like Sherman. He is the nominee of the wire-pulling interest. Hancock is,
with few exceptions, the most distinguished,
and, without a single exception, we believe, the most loyal, honest, and high-minded soldier still in the active service of the Union."

The Standard says: "The administration of Gen. Garfield is not likely to differ materially in policy from that of Mr. Hayes. It is, indeed, probable enough that the old Senatorial ring
which was master of the situation during Gen.
Grant's second Presidency, and which strove hard to carry the third-term movement to a successful issue, will become more powerful than it has been of late, and will once more monopolize and employ for its own purposes
the patronage of the Government and its Executive influences."

The Pull Mail Gazette says: "It would be a mistake to regard Gen. Garfield's election as a triumph of the politicians who brought discredit on Gen. Grant. The strong feeling in the United States in favor of the honest and patriotic policy of the present Cabinet would teach far less shrewd men than Gen. Garfield to follow the lines laid down by Mr. Hayes.
For England the situation is satisfactory, as it resulted in a victory for the party which is most inclined to encourage satisfactory relations between England and America."

The Daily News says: "The chances seem to be that during the next four years, contrary to the expectations of some politicians, the South will become more reconciled to the Union, and the North will not be divided against itself. The result is one of more importance than foreign observers fully recognize."

A SKETCH of the life of the late Mrs.
Lydia Maria Child furnishes this incident: "After the capture of John Brown and his accomplices in 1859, Mrs. Child wrote to Brown offering to visit Charlestown, where he was confined, and nurse him in his sickness. He replied, informing her that he needed no attention, but entreats her instead to bestow her kind offices upon his family, which she did faithfully. This letter involved her in a controversy with Gov. Henry A.
Wise and J. C. Mason, of Virginia. This correspondence was published in pamphlet form, and more than 300,000 copies were printed and disposed of throughout the country."

creases every year.

VEGETINE WILL CURE RHEUMATISM.

Rheumatism is a Disease of the Blood;
to Cure Rheumatism it must be treated as a Blood Disease.

REV. WM. T. WORTH

Recommends VEGETINE for Rheumatism and Sciatica.

FALL RIVER, Mass., May 13, 1879.
MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—For some years I have been, at times, much troubled with acute attacks of Rheumatism. I especially suffered tortures from Sciatica. By the advice of friends, who knew the benefits conferred by VEGETINE, I began its use, and since that time I have had no attack like those I previously suffered. For some time past I have had no return of the trouble, except occasionally a faint intimation, which disappeared upon taking a few doses of the VEGETINE. I also take pleasure in recording my testimony in favor of its excellent effect in abating an incurable Sciatic Rheum, and I count it no small pleasure to have been thus made free.
Respectfully,
WM. T. WORTH,
Pastor First M. E. Church.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—

PITH AND POINT.

A CHINESE adage—Love 'oo little, love oolong.

"ANTY, vat makes the little baby cry so? Do it want its mudder?" "Yes, dear, and its fodder, too."

"WHAT does a woman want to put on gloves in hot weather for?" asks a male subscriber. Why, to keep her hand in, stupid.

"LOVE is an internal transport!" exclaimed an enthusiastic poet. "So is a canal-boat," said a practical old forward merchant.

"HOW FAR is it to Butler if I keep right straight on?" "Well, about 25,000 miles, but if you turn the other way it's about half a mile."

"MARY JANE, have you given the gold-fish fresh water?" "No, ma'am. What's the use? They haven't drank up what's in there yet."

It is said that sharks will not bite a swimmer who keeps his legs in motion. If you can keep kicking longer than a shark can keep waiting, you'll be all right.

EVEN the wisest is sometimes a fool. For example, the philosopher who wore his spectacles when asleep that he might recognize the friends he might see in his dreams.

A FRENCH artist gave his last work to a porter to convey to a saloon. "Be careful, be careful!" said he; "the picture is scarcely dry." "Oh, never mind!" said the porter; "my clothes are old."

"MA," said a little boy, looking up from an illustrated paper, "I wish I was a little South Africa boy." "Why, Georgie?" asked his ma. "Why, 'cause their mothers don't wear slippers," he feelingly replied.

"GIVE Me My Heart," is the title of a poem sent in by "Penelope." Certainly, we will send it by return mail. If any more of your anatomy is missing notify us by telegraph.—New York Graphic.

SHE asked the clerk if he was positive—thoroughly convinced the eggs were fresh. "Oh, yes," said the young philosopher, "I know they are; why, the farmer said none of his hens were more than a year old." She bought a basketful on the spot.

"OLD age," says the Phrenological Journal, "is almost invariably accompanied by a prominent chin." The lady who does not put up her hand to her chin upon reading this paragraph may conclude that she is still a daisy, if not a dumpling.—New York Commercial.

"I CAN'T go to the party to-night," said Jones; "the truth is my shirt is in the wash." "Shirt in the wash!" shrieked Smith. "Why, man alive, have you but one shirt?" "One shirt!" exclaimed Jones in his turn; "you wouldn't want a man to have a million shirts, would you?"—Boston Transcript.

"ANY good shooting on your farm?" asked the hunter of the farmer. "Splendid," replied the agriculturist; "there's a lightning-rod man down in the clover meadow, a cloth peddler at the house, a book agent out in the barn and two traps down in the stock-yard. Climb right over the fence, young man, load both barrels and sail in."—Hawk-Eye.

A NEW YORKER advertised that for $1 he would send directions how to cure a turn-up nose. A young lady who forwarded a dollar received the directions next day. She was advised to employ a blacksmith to strike her a heavy blow on the end of the nose with a sledge-hammer until a cure was effected. A very striking remedy, but she didn't follow the directions.

THE Galveston people are the most polite in the world. A few evenings ago, at a little social gathering, a fashionable young Galvestonian could not find his hat. He had not had a drink for more than half an hour, so he had to retire for that purpose. Finally he discovered that a lady weighing 200 pounds was sitting on his hat. He approached her very politely and said: "Madam, will you be kind enough to let me have my hat for a few moments? As soon as I return I will put it right back where I got it from."—Galveston News.

THE Oil City Derick prints the following "Baby Lullaby," as sung by a father while mamma is visiting the neighbors:

Rock-a-bye baby upon the tree top;
When the wind blows—confound it, do stop.
When the wind blows the cradle will rock,
When the bough breaks the cradle will fall,
By thunder, you young 'un do nothing but squall.
Now, baby go-by, go hush-i-ty—hush;
Soo-shoo, shoo-ty, shoo, hush-i-ty—hush;
Go to sleep, my baby, my sweet little pet;
Go to sleep, don't you hear me, I'll spank you, I'll bet.
If you ain't 'sleep this mornin', now, now, rock-a-bye.
Well, hang such a young one that does nothing but cry.

ARE you wearing out from excessive labor, care, grief or old age? If so, then no food or medicine can restore your strength, your sleep, and your spirits like Malt Bitters, made of Unfermented Malt, Hops, Calisaya and Iron.

It Can't Keep a Secret.

The Boston Journal of Commerce complains of the publicity of one end of the telephone. The replies come secretly enough, but the questions have to be shouted so loudly—or at least are shouted—so that there can be no secret communication. What is wanted, therefore, is a telephone that can be whispered to. Meanwhile it might not be a bad idea to inclose the telephone in a suitable box where a person could insert his head, as in a diver's helmet, and thus talk without being heard by everybody in the next block.

THE Standard Oil Company proposes to change its large wooden-barrel manufactory at Pittsburgh into a manufactory of paper barrels.

THE greatest anxiety is experienced lest there should be a flaw in the title to property; yet a flaw in the title of health—a Cough or Cold—is disregarded. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup removes all such at once.

OHIO AT WORK.

[From the Marietta Register.]

Our State having secured the highest honor of the late convention—the nominee for President—we must begin the work of electing the native to the Presidency. Let this prove too much for those engaged in it, the following from Mr. T. Triem, our popular druggist, will afford a suggestion of relief; I take pleasure adding to the numerous testimonials regarding the efficacy of Hamburg Drops. I sell largely of the remedy; it gives better satisfaction than any other medicine. So many remarkable cures by its use have come to my notice, that I deem it a duty to testify in its behalf.

A Phenomenal Whistler.

William Gumby, a colored man living in Philadelphia, is a very remarkable whistler. His notes are indescribably sweet, and yet withal powerful enough to fill a large-sized hall. Gumby can whistle in two distinct octaves at the same time, and when asked to give an exhibition of his skill he whistled the "Mocking Bird" and several other tunes in a manner in which not two but three tones were distinctly audible. The tones seem to be something between a flute and a fife, possessing the sweetness of the one combined with the shrillness of the other, and yet possessing something that belonged to neither. He intends to perfect himself, and then appear on the stage.

Arousing Its Readers.

An alarm of fire at midnight is a startling thing, but not half so startling to many who hear it as would be the sudden knowledge of their own dangerous physical condition. Thousands of thousands are hurrying to their graves because they are carelessly indifferent to the insidious inroads of disease and the means of cure. It is the mission of H. H. Warner & Co., with their Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, to arouse men to a sense of their danger and then cure them.—Memphis Appeal.

Japanese Paper.

The English paper-makers begin to fear that they will be ruined by Japanese cheap labor. The skill of the Japs in the paper business is well known. The Imperial Japanese Government has paper mills at Tokio, and an agency has been established right in the heart of London, where the royal paper-makers threaten to undersell the home manufacturers. Deeply as we would regret to interfere with the accumulation of wealth by our worthy paper-makers here, we still hope that when this item meets the eye of the High Mikado Kokkolorum in Japan, he will at once establish a paper-selling agency in this country. The Imperial paper-maker can hear of something to his advantage by calling up at this office the first time he is in Detroit.—Detroit Free Press.

Boston Police Memoranda.

[From the Boston Weekly Globe.]

Geo. E. Savory, Esq., Asst. Police Clerk, refers to a case of agonizing sciatic suffering of frequent occurrence, and which was cured by St. Jacobs Oil in less than half an hour.

MENDICANCY is forbidden in Paris and the neighboring villages. But under various pretences it seems to be more prevalent than it has been known for a long time. Some of the persons who beg in Paris have known better days, and are dainty in their language. A gentleman said to an outstretched palm: "I have not a son about me." "Sir," exclaimed the worthy mendicant with a sneer, "I have not specified the species of coin."

THE Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Mich., will send their Electro-Voltaic Belts to the afflicted upon thirty days' trial. See their advertisement in this paper, headed, "On Thirty Days' Trial."

RHEUMATISM.—Rheumatism is a disease of the blood. The blood in this disease is found to contain an excess of fibrin. Vegetine acts by converting the blood from its diseased condition to a healthy circulation. One bottle of Vegetine will give relief; but, to effect a permanent cure, it must be taken regularly, and may take several bottles, especially in cases of long standing. Try it, and your verdict will be the same as that of thousands before you, who say: "I never found so much relief as from the use of Vegetine," which is compounded exclusively of barks, roots and herbs.

DR. C. E. SHOEMAKER, the well-known nasal surgeon of Reading, Pa., offers to send by mail, free of charge, a valuable little book on deafness and diseases of the ear—especially on running ear and catarrh, and their proper treatment—giving references and testimonials that will satisfy the most skeptical. Address as above.

THE Tomb of Themistocles. As if to have stood on the Plain of Marathon was not enough for one day's delight, we must needs start off after dinner (and by train, too, on the only railway in Greece!) to the Piræus, to pay our homage to the last resting place of the man who, whatever his faults, was the first to see what Athens had it in her to accomplish, and to open her eyes and guide her hands to the fulfillment of her destiny.

Making our way as best we could in the darkness past the shipping and the dock-yards, then through the straggling houses which lie above the harbor to the seaward, and where, each house being provided with a fierce and obstreperous dog, we had some difficulty in escaping with a whole skin, we at length came out upon a narrow footpath leading through waste moorland along the sea shore.

A scramble of five minutes or so through the rough boulders brought us to a point where the coast line turned slightly southward, and left us looking across southwest to the Island of Salamis and the mountains of the Morea. Hard by lies the Athenian. His tomb commands the scene of the battle, which rivals the fame of Marathon, and which would hardly have been fought at all save for him. Hitherto the night had been dark, and the moon chary of her light; but now, as we looked, she shone forth triumphantly, and amid flocks of white cloudlets, which here and there relieved the blue-blackness of the heavens. At our feet gleamed the dark waters of the gulf, just trembling in the breeze, and beyond the gleam the cone of Ægina, the "eye-sore of the Piræus."

Behind Ægina, and sweeping round to right, loomed the Argolis and Achaia. Nearer at hand lay Salamis, her jagged outline well defined against the sky. Between her and the shore little Payttaleia, whose name lives in the record of the battle, asserted its existence by the steady ray from its light-house shining across the mouth of the harbor. Looking inland, the lights of the Piræus added to the scene fresh interest, both of picturesque and of association, as showing that, not less now than in old days, the place was full of the stir and hum of men.—Blackwood's Magazine.
