What's more appealing than a picture of a happy mother with twins—particularly when the babies are as cute as these little girls. Here is Mrs. J. L. Tinhoft with Kristin Jo (left) and Robin Kay, who were born Nov. 6 in Holland hospital. The twins' father, a local dentist, is currently in the armed forces serving in a hospital at Fort Leroy Johnson at the port of embarkation at New Orleans, La. The mother and babies left the hospital Wednesday for their home at 89 East 30th St. to join the other Tinhofts, Mary Lou, 7½, and Nancy, 4. (Sentinel photo)

Fennville Plans Queen Contest

Fennville (Special)—Fennville, whose slogan is "the home of the big red apple," will have an active interest in the State Horticulture show in Grand Rapids Dec. 3 by sending a contestant for the title of state apple queen. The queen contest is being sponsored by the Lions club. Lions President Wayne Woodby has appointed Keith Landburg, chairman, to be assisted by Roger Webb and Jack Bale.

The idea grew out of opinions voiced by many local growers who attend each year's show at Grand Rapids. These growers raised the question of why Fennville has never been represented. Although the idea was late in getting started, all effort is being made to make it a big success.

Rules for the local contest are: Each contestant must be single, between the ages of 17 and 25 and in some way affiliated with the apple industry. This has been defined to include growers, handlers, buyers, truckers, wholesalers, retailers, exchanges, daughters, employees and employees' daughters are eligible.

The elimination contest is to be held at the Woman's club house Friday at 8 p.m. and is open to the public. Out-of-town judges will make the selection. Local cash prizes will be given to all contestants and the queen will have all expenses paid to Grand Rapids.

To date, there are five contestants, Norma Crane, Helen, Lucille and Clara Kluck and Beverly Stehle. The committee hopes to have more contestants by Friday. It is planned that next year's queen contest will be held in time for the winner to reign at the annual fruit and flower show here.

Kiwanis Speaker Aims Events Leading to War

Dr. James Dyke van Putten, former State department representative in Korea, now teaching at Hope college, spoke before the Kiwanis club Monday night at the Warm Friend Tavern. Van Putten told about events leading up to the conflict in Korea.

The reason Russia wants Korea, van Putten said, is because it is the key to the Pacific and therefore, our only hope in the Pacific is to keep Japan as our friend. Van Putten pointed out that "if the United States had not gone into Korea, Russia would be knocking at the door of Japan as well as fighting down in French Indo-China, the breadbasket of Asia, with the ultimate loss of the Philippines."

In touching upon the possibilities of a truce with Russia, van Putten emphasized "we will never win an argument with the Communists unless we are stronger than they are."

The speaker illustrated his talk with a large map of Asia.

Public Voices Ideas on Local Civic Building

Basketball Clearance And Size of Proposed Stage of Vital Concern

The public was given a chance to air its views—and criticisms—of the proposed new $500,000 municipal recreation center which Holland voters okayed at the Nov. 4 election, and about 25 persons took advantage of the opportunity at a public meeting Wednesday night.

Aside from some real concern on the size of the stage, basketball floor clearance and acoustics, many suggestions and criticisms were of a minor nature, but all were given consideration by the special committee and the architect consultant.

A. W. Hertel, chairman of the committee, presided. Most questions were answered by Alfred Bulthuis, architect for Louis C. Kingscott Associates of Kalamazoo, who have been retained for drafting plans. Other members of the local committee are James H. Klopman and Donn Lindeman. Tom Vander Kuy and Joe Moran both expressed concern over the five-foot clearance between the basketball court and the wall at one end of the building. They were informed a larger doorway could be provided under the basket in case exuberant players overestimate their speed, plus the fact that the playing floor of 50 by 90 feet is larger than most teams prefer.

Jantina Holleman of the Hope college music department and Harold J. Karsten, president of the American Legion band, questioned the size of the stage for orchestral work, pointing to the fact that each player should have 15 square feet and present dimensions would accommodate only about 75 players.

Chairman Hertel said the present estimates would hardly permit a larger stage but suggested arrangements might be made for extending the stage onto the main floor in a portable arrangement.

Acoustics also came in for consideration. Hertel explained that a basketball floor is hardly the best arrangement for programs of a musical or dramatic nature and the committee could only be "hopeful" that the acoustics would be good. He said the architects will give the problem full consideration in the final preliminary plans. He said certain corrective measures could be taken after the building is completed if acoustics are not satisfactory.

Whatever the suggestion, it had a direct bearing on costs and cost limitations. "The people of Holland have agreed to spend $500,000 and the committee has tried to provide facilities that offer the maximum use to the most people," Hertel explained.

He said the committee and architects had gone ahead on the basis of a list of things Holland wants most in the following order: (1) basketball, (2) locker rooms—two rooms with 35 lockers in each, (3) seating capacity of 2,500 plus more for basketball, (4) stage with dimensions of 25 to 28 feet and 60 to 70 feet, (5) movie projector, (6) adequate rest rooms open to the public, (7) kitchen facilities, (8) concession, (9) youth activities, (10) exhibit space if possible.

He said the going rate for construction of this type at present is $15 per square foot for general area. If bids are lower, it would be wise to have alternate bids for such items as additional stage space and kitchen area.

Stuart Padnos wanted a number of small rooms for athletic activities for small adult groups and Stuart Boyd plumped for plenty of playroom for the children. A DAV representative wanted a room for the veterans and Raymond Holwerda was anxious that ticket offices be as removed as possible from the main admittance doors to keep traffic moving.

Neal Houtman and Joe Moran asked whether any provision was made for the growing popular sport of archery in which already 180 persons are actively engaged in Holland. The architect figured roughly that an extra $17,000 would provide stairs and finishing touches to the undeveloped basement section on the Eighth St. side.

Charles Vander Ven said he preferred a big field house with plenty of room. Frank Schwarz asked several questions on excavation and construction.

Chairman Hertel thanked all persons for their interest and said their suggestions would be given consideration in the final preliminary plans.

Stingy Scotsmen Make Dutch Work For Narrow Win

A good deal of the Alma Scots' "scotch" rubbed off on Hope college's football team at Riverview park Friday night and the net result was two stingy teams battling it out for second place in the MIAA chase.

Hope won the defensive battle 6-0.

Alma is known in MIAA circles this season as a stingy team when it comes to giving up yardage, and the Scots were just that Friday evening. However, they didn't reckon that Hope could be more so. And that's where you have your ball game.

It was strictly a battle of two stubborn defenses and the Dutch were the better all the way around, but it was close all the way.

Hope scored the lone touchdown of the game in the first quarter. It took a 15-yard roughness penalty to set up the score. Hope had the ball on the Alma 26 with fourth down and eight to go. Fullback Dave Kemper threw a pass that fell incomplete. However, he was mobbed and roughed plenty just after letting the ball go. And the officials called it roughing the passer.

That infraction gave the Dutch the ball on Alma's 15. On the next play quarterback Don York pitched the ball out to his right to Don Piersma, who grabbed the ball and with the aid of a beautiful block by Frank Talarico went into the end zone for the score.

Bob Prins' boot for the extra point flaked and it was 6-0.

That slim margin held up through some rugged football for the next three and a half quarters and the Dutch emerged with the victory, which also means undisputed second place in the MIAA chase at this stage of the season.

But that doesn't mean the game was finished at that junction. Far from it. Both teams posed on the spot threats throughout, but just couldn't go to pay dirt.

Hope staged a sustained drive that carried down to the Alma 21 in the second quarter before it was stopped. Alma in turn drove to Hope's 29 before a pass interception turned the tables.

And early in the third quarter the Scots drove all the way to Hope's six before they finally gave up the ball on the Dutch 13. Early in the fourth period Hope slammed all the way to the Alma five and looked headed for a clincher TD when a fumble turned the ball over to Alma. Another time in the last quarter Hope drove to the Alma 17, but penalties, etc. showed the ball all the way back to the visitor's 44 before Hope was forced to kick.

Although overshadowed by defensive play on the part of both teams, the game did have quite a few offensive bright spots, such as the effective trap play through the center that Hope used so effectively time after time. Dave Kemper was the work horse on this play and repeatedly carried for yardage through the center.

And in this department, Alma's tricky cross-backs and triple reverses fooled the Dutch a couple of times and meant good yardage. Then there was Bob Naru's interception of a York pass early in the third quarter. The Scot fullback grabbed the lob pass on his own 38 and returned it all the way to the Hope 29 before he was tackled.

But the standout on offensive for the evening was the pass play from John Adams to Ken Bauman. Adams dropped back from Alma's 44 and he was rushed plenty. However, he got off a perfect strike. Bauman caught the ball on his fingertips with Scot safety man Thayne Talcott right on top of him. That gave Hope a golden opportunity on the Alma 12 but a fumble on the next play changed the picture.

Hope concludes its season against Adrian next Saturday afternoon at Riverview park.

Psychiatric Help Sought in Court In Arson Offense

Man Who Confessed Setting Hudsonville Fires Is Arraigned

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—Russell (Bud) Zwagerman, 41-year-old Hudsonville bachelor who confessed setting fire to the Farmers' Co-op Elevator Co. in Hudsonville Oct. 17, was arraigned before Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith on an arson charge today, but did not enter a plea.

Instead, his counsel told the court he believed Zwagerman was mentally incompetent to enter a plea and requested that the court allow medical help or assistance to determine whether the accused man is sane or insane.

Counsel for the defense will file a petition to be signed by the court ordering a sanity hearing which will probably be scheduled Dec. 18. At that time, testimony will be taken from medical authorities as well as a psychiatrist.

The original $5,000 bond was continued. It had not been furnished.

In other arraignments, Raymond Alsip, 20, of 454 West 18th St., Holland, waived the reading of the information and pleaded not guilty to a rape charge. The alleged offense involving a 13-year-old girl occurred in Park township. It was expected he would furnish $500 bond.

Anthony Harris, 32, Chicago, who was returned to Ottawa county Sunday to appear on a charge of larceny of $170 from Don's Standard station April 3, waived the reading of the information and stood mute. Trial will be held during the January term. Bond of $2,500 was not furnished.

John J. Lubberts, 46, Grand Rapids, who pleaded guilty July 17 to a charge of indecent exposure at Holland State park, was assessed $250 costs or must spend six months in the county jail. Lubberts had failed to appear on several previous occasions and was ordered to appear today.

Give It a Dutch Touch, And It Wins a Prize

Combining the "good ole Dutch touch" with a national contest has won a $25 prize for a local man, plus the chance that the entry may win further prizes.

It all came about when Henry Looman, electrical inspector for the Board of Public Works, decided to dress up a piggy bank in a Dutch costume and wooden shoes and have it ride in a wooden shoe wagon. The contest was staged at regional conventions of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors in Cleveland in October. The idea was to have each entrant save money in the piggy banks toward the big Silver Jubilee convention in Chicago next year.

As happens so often when a Dutch touch invades a new land, Looman's entry drew more attention than any of the other 20 entries at the Cleveland convention, and easily won first prize. Now he is supposed to enter with other first prize winners of other sections of the United States and Canada in the Chicago contest next year.

Looman had plenty of help in designing his entry. Chester Van Tongeren provided the size 19 shoe which he had brought home from a trip to the Netherlands last year. Sid Jarvis who works at the Netherlands Museum helped assemble the outfit and borrowed the team of horses from a museum display. Mrs. Lawrence Maxam made the miniature tulips in the little pots.

The Cleveland convention was one of several regional conventions. Three hundred inspectors attended, along with representatives from fire and safety associations.

School Board Considers Needs In New Facilities

Five-Point Resolution Now Under Advisement; Action Scheduled Later

After an administrative report on population trends and future school needs entailing a full month of study, the Board of Education Monday night took under advisement a resolution on an integrated school improvement program for Holland city involving land acquisition, building construction and cost estimates.

No formal action was taken, pending further study and a forthcoming conference Friday with Roland Strolle, in charge of the school facilities staff of the State Department of Public Instruction. The representative will be in Holland Friday to start a review of the City Planning Commission on local school needs.

Meanwhile, the board is considering a five-point development program and will probably take action two weeks hence. The need for a real study and immediate solution to some problems was introduced a month ago when the board spent close to four hours discussing overcrowded kindergartens and other classes.

The resolution under consideration includes the following points: 1. Lincoln school. Determine reasonable anticipated need for additional classroom space required to meet enrollment increases, employ architects to prepare plans and estimate costs.

2. Van Raalte school. Proceed with preparation of plans for new grade school at 24th St. site, to employ architects and secure cost estimates.

3. Junior and Senior high school. Add additional facilities at present location, acquire necessary additional land, employ architects and estimate costs.

4. Longfellow school. Prepare plans and specifications for additional classroom facilities as an addition to new school replacing old school, employ architects and estimate costs.

5. Washington school. Study acquisition of additional playground area, study modernization, conditioning and rearranging of facilities or making additions necessary for area requirements, employ architects and estimate costs.

The proposed resolution was drawn up by Trustee Vernon D. Ten Cate who said the complete five-point program was a long-range program and that it would take years before it could be completed. A sizeable bond issue would have to be approved first.

The resolution was introduced after Ed Donivan, administrative assistant to Supt. Walter W. Scott, submitted detailed reports and statistics on population trends in the city and in the Ottawa-Allegan area which sends students to high school. His detailed figures pointed to immediate relief in facilities for lower grades, in rural as well as city schools. On the basis of available figures, high school and junior high should have an enrollment of 3,255 in 1963, compared with 1,581 today, a.m. today.

Janet's condition is described as "fair" by hospital authorities. She received multiple bruises but no apparent fractures, the hospital said.

The mishap occurred on Maple Ave. between Ninth and 10th Sts. Driver of the car was Mrs. Helen H. Grossabayer, 24, of 71 River Ave., who was headed north on Maple Ave.

Mrs. Grossabayer told officers she saw the girl on the east curb, then looked to the left at some other children and stopped the car after she heard a bump on the auto. Janet apparently ran into the car at about the front door.

City police are investigating.

Children Today Will Be Leaders Of Tomorrow

Education Week Writer Says Schools Here Need Further Improvements

The following article on American Education Week was prepared by Leon Kleis, member of the lay committee making plans for the new Van Raalte school. He also taught school 14 years and served as principal one year. His subject was schools, in connection with the week's theme, "Children in Today's World."

By Leon Kleis

Our children in today's world are going to be tomorrow's leaders. This fact no one can deny, change, or dispute.

We, as parents, have certain obligations that must be fulfilled. One is the best education that we, as a group, can give them. In this democratic system of ours, we feel that they are getting a good education. However, if it can be improved, that also is our duty.

A worker does his best work in pleasant surroundings and under efficient and safe working conditions. Big business of today plans for this so that workers can produce more and better finished products. So it should be with our children in today's world. We as citizens of Holland have improved our school buildings which are the children's workshop. We have completely rebuilt Lincoln school, already too small, and we have added to the Longfellow building.

Several years ago we replaced our Junior high with the present building and we constructed a beautiful school at Washington and 11th, Washington school. I am positive that the work turned out by the pupils of these schools is better under such improved conditions.

We have not finished our building program. Plans are now being placed on the drawing board for a new Van Raalte school. When one sees the crowded conditions at Van Raalte with school rooms in the basement and music taught in a basement room, we are fully aware that this action is justified.

On a recent tour of Van Raalte school while students were in attendance, I was not only surprised but shocked to view conditions under which students and teachers work. The school, approximately 45 years old, is obsolete. According to North Central association, the building should house 225 students. At the present count there are 330 students. That is 42 per cent more than recommended. The heating facilities, storage, library and play room are too small.

Our school board is working toward the establishment of a new building for the Van Raalte area. We must urge promptness of action and support their efforts to improve our city's school building program. I am sure that school authorities will do all in their power to give pupils and teachers of Van Raalte school the same privileges and opportunities as those at Lincoln, Washington and Longfellow.

"Every man is the master of his soul and the captain of his destiny." Let us act and act soon as our schools are vital in producing good intelligent leaders of the future.

Attorney General Agrees With Allegan Prosecutor

ALLEGAN (Special) — Michigan's Attorney General Frank G. Millard has concurred with Allegan Prosecutor Dwight Cheever in his opinion that the county Board of Supervisors can't make a "dollar a year man" out of G. Ray Sturgis, county superintendent of schools.

Supervisors, who have carried on a running battle with Sturgis ever since their dragged-out fight to evict him from his office in the court house basement, last spring voted to pay Sturgis just $1 a year as the county's share of his $6,000 annual salary.

At the time, Cheever said it was his opinion that the board had no power to cut their share of the salary. The attorney general concurred in this opinion.

Holland Christian Schools Marking Education Week

Complete plans for the observance of American Education Week, beginning Nov. 10 the Holland Christian schools, were announced by Supt. Bert P. Bos and the special committee in charge.

Since the entire week has been planned to provide opportunities for parents and teachers to become better acquainted and to discuss mutual problems, much of the program has been arranged along this pattern.

Activity got underway in the junior high school Monday with parents meeting the teachers of grades seven and eight in their respective classrooms, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Arranged according to grades, the parents convened with teacher in charge of discussion. Purpose of the discussion was to meet parents and to discuss mutual problems. In some cases, Bos said, the parents may even organize a classroom mother or parent's club.

It was also suggested that room mothers be elected to be of special assistance to the teacher and also to meet with Mrs. Mary Weaver, consultant for the state department of mental health. Purpose of this meeting would be to discuss the advantages of organizing mothers' clubs with Mrs. Weaver.

Parents of children in the kindergarten and grade 1 convened from 7-8 p.m.; those in grades two and three from 8-9 p.m. and those from four, five and six from 9-10 p.m. Teachers convened the daily classroom schedule, the Bible study program and information regarding other subjects.

High school activity is scheduled every day throughout the week, climaxed by the meeting with parents on Thursday evening. Miss Jeanette Veltman, of the high school faculty, announced plans for the high school program.

Chapel exercises will follow the general theme of the week, "Children in Today's World," emphasizing the children's home, their heritage, their country, their schools, their opportunity. Holland Hospital Tours Attract Many Visitors

Holland residents were given a keen insight into the operations of Holland hospital at an open house program Tuesday afternoon and evening, sponsored by the Tuesday Service League, the Gray Ladies and the Literary club hostesses, all associated with the Holland City Hospital Auxiliary.

A total of 120 signed up for the tours which were done in groups of a dozen or so. Groups start out in the ground floor for visits to the kitchen, laundry and records room. There was a minimum of activity on the first and second floors where patients are housed. On the third floor, groups toured the laboratories, x-ray rooms, surgery and supply rooms. Several exhibits in the hospital board room gave an insight into cost of hospital operations. On display was a large architect's sketch of one of the plans under consideration for hospital expansion. Throughout the building were small signs, giving such information on patient load, costs, number of meals, stores and price tags on various equipment.

Because hospitals can never close down to turn its facilities over to an open house program, Tuesday night's visitors also shared some of the normal emergencies to which a hospital is always geared. There were three emergencies of a minor nature necessitating the use of an operating room and the x-ray facilities. Seven expectant mothers were admitted, and waiting fathers mingled sometimes with the visitors.

Explaining the operations of the various departments were Brian Athey and Henrietta Brower, blood bank and laboratory; Rena Boven, superintendent of nurses, and Robert Bosma, assistant surgical supervisor, who gave detailed talks on the surgery; Carolyn Edmonds, kitchen; Toni Sikkel, records; Jo Peerbolt, central supply; Gary Marsh, x-ray; Ruby Deising, laundry.

Coffee and cookies were served by the Tuesday Service League in the nurses' dining room after the tours. Hospital Director Fred Burd said hospital tours may become an annual attraction.

Students Whoop, Holler En Route On Special Train

"Let's have another trip again next year" was the most frequent comment heard following the return to Holland from Benton Harbor of a special seven-car football special Friday night.

Boarding the train in Holland was an enthusiastic crowd of well over 600 students, faculty members and parents who grew more lively as the train clicked over the tracks—Benton Harbor bound. The special arrived in Benton Harbor shortly before 7 p.m. where a police escort was waiting.

Disembarking, and led by the Holland high and Junior high school bands plus the police escort, the crowd marched through downtown Benton Harbor to the music of the bands and cheers of keyed up students.

En route to the game, students swarmed from car to car singing, starting cheers while others were already planning for next week's homecoming with Grand Haven.

By far the most popular place on the train was the cafeteria car, operated by the Athletic Sisters, which had the herculean task of providing food for the hungry group. Despite the odds of a fast trip to Benton Harbor and the large number of hungry students, everyone was fed. One student on the return trip totaling up his food costs, both ways, came out with a $7 bill.

Superintendent Walter W. Scott and Holland high Principal J. J. Riemersma were more than pleased with the turnout and reception accorded the trip, the first special train run by the school. In addition to Scott, Riemersma and 15 to 20 other faculty members on the train was Holland police officer Donald Oosterbaan. Oosterbaan said the group was the most well behaved, well mannered, and happiest he has ever worked with. Arriving back in Holland shortly before midnight, the train station was crowded with hundreds of parents waiting to pick up their children, happy, safe and a little tired.

During halftime, Holland high school band put on an exhibition which Benton Harbor fans a little grudgingly admitted was outstanding. The band performed several intricate maneuvers in a blacked out field illuminated only by tiny lights on the bandmen caps.

Reference to college fraternity antics in the United States brings a wide smile to a young visitor to Hope college's campus. Sahibzada Shah Sharafuddin Ahmad Faridi, or more simply, "Sharaf" laughs as he and student council president Guy Vander Jagt recall the previous night as a member of a fraternity on the Hope campus. Remarking at the singing and pranks that went on Thursday night outside the girls' dormitories he notes that while it was great fun, it just "wouldn't happen" in his own country. Sharaf's "own country" is Pakistan, the small territory that recently won its independence from the English and Indian rule. (Sentinel photo)

Pakistan Freedom Fight Leader Visits Holland

A recent visitor to the Hope college campus knows what it's like to be a political prisoner in Pakistan at the age of 15.

Sahibzada Shah Sharafuddin Ahmad Faridi, or more simply, "Sharaf" was an active youth leader in the memorable fight in 1947 that resulted in the establishment of a free and independent Pakistan.

While taking part in the independence movement, Sharaf was called to the local constable's office on the pretense of routine questioning, but when he appeared he was put under arrest. He was 15 years old.

After a month's internment, which included solitary confinement, he was released from prison in India and smuggled back to Pakistan to aid the movement.

After winning independence, Sharaf became active in the struggle to make the independence meaningful. This explains his trip to the United States.

Sharaf now represents the World Student Service Fund, an international organization of universities, which undertakes the much-needed work of helping students throughout the world to get an education. His travels have taken him through Europe and the United States where he has lectured to students on eastern campuses.

What was supposed to have been a quiet conference with student leaders at Hope turned into a strenuous day of discussion, including a chapel talk, a philosophy lecture, a radio broadcast and a news interview.

Sharaf's chapel talk pointed to the work of the WSSF in restoring educational facilities throughout the world. He pointed to Hope's contribution of more than $35 to last year's drive, and reviewed accomplishments of the organization.

"Key to its value is that it is not really charity," he said, "but rather a realization on the part of all students throughout the world that a strong core of university and college men and women is the best insurance for a peaceful future."

Noting that Pakistan had to absorb 7,000,000 immigrants in a short time, Sharaf said that Pakistan's reason for independence was even more basically religious than was that of America. "We had no economic or political reasons such as you had," says Sharaf, "in fact, it was a terrific hardship economically for people to come to my country."

Sharaf described the progress made in improving education. From 1947 to the present the number of universities jumped from two to five, medical schools from one to five, and engineering colleges from none to three.

"With the continued support of WSSF, the youth of Pakistan will prove to the world that they are eager and capable to take their place in the community of nations," Sharaf said.

While in Holland Sharaf was a guest of the Emersonian fraternity and the student council. He left Saturday for an engagement at the University of Michigan.

Zeeland Finishes Play With Perfect Record for Season

ZEELAND (Special) — Taking the opening game kickoff straight down the field for a touchdown, the Zeeland high school football squad started a victory parade that sunk Coopersville 27-6 Friday night and handed Coach Joe Newell's gridders an undefeated, untied season of seven straight wins.

The perfect season, which is the third for Coach Newell and Zeeland in the last four years, included wins over Grandville, Otsego, Comstock Park, Hudsonville, Wyoming Park, Sparta and Coopersville, and stamped Zeeland as one of the top class B grid teams in the state.

The Chix received the opening kickoff and marched 74 yards to pay dirt, covering the ground in consistent but unspectacular gains. John Vanden Bosch skirted end from the one for the score and John Walters ran for the point making the count 7-0 in the first quarter.

The stout Zeeland defense, which sparkled all night, was responsible for keeping the Chix' advantage up to the half. Coopersville threatened in the second period. With Garzalloni leading the way, the Bronco drive was halted on the seven and finally wound up on the Chix 19 after some impressive Zeeland line play.

In the third stanza, a pass interception by Dave Vander Meulen set up the second Chix score. Starting from their own 35, the Chix drove on the ground all the way with quarterback Dave Kuylers going over for the nine for the score. The kick for point was no good and Zeeland led 13-0.

After the ensuing kickoff, the Chix took over on downs at midfield, and started another touchdown drive. Vanden Bosch sparked the drive with both running and passing, and scored the touchdown by going through the middle from the 14 for the score. Ron Wetherbee carried for the point making the count 20-0.

Four 15-yard penalties in a row, plus some neat passing and end runs, gave Coopersville its only counter shortly thereafter. Garzalloni went over from the one for the marker but the point was missed.

After the kickoff, it took Zeeland just three plays to score its final touchdown of 1952. Kuylers took a screen pass from Vanden Bosch and went 40 yards to score, with Wetherbee kicking the point to make the final score 27-6.

Kuylers, Wetherbee and Vanden Bosch all stood out for their offensive backfield play, while the entire line looked excellent throughout the game. After the game, Dave Kuylers was elected honorary captain for the year.

The contest was the finale for nine Zeeland seniors. Graduation will take Walters, Vander Meulen, Kuylers, Ken Burns, Paul Volkers, Jason Redder, Allen Kraai, Del Komejan and Randy Baar. Al Meyers also played his last game as he will be ineligible next season.

A DUTCH-AMERICAN CENTENNIAL

News comes from Pella, Iowa, that Central College—of which Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers once was president—is to celebrate the centennial of its incorporation during the last week-end of this month. Some persons here have wondered how it came about that the Dutch community in Pella, founded about the same time this city was established, was more than a dozen years ahead of Holland in founding a college. Hope will not celebrate its centennial until 1966.

The reason is that Central College was not established by the Dutch community at Pella. The institution was established by Baptists soon after Dutch immigrants settled on the rich farmlands of Iowa. During those early years the people from the Netherlands who had made the Iowa community their home could hardly be expected to found a college; they had plenty of trouble getting roofs over their heads and raising enough food to stay alive. In the same way the immigrants who landed in Michigan had all they could do to get established, so that Hope college did not begin its career until 1866.

But in Iowa, as in Michigan, there was a deep and passionate interest in higher education among the Dutch immigrants. The leader of the Iowa group—his name was the Rev. H. P. Scholte—welcomed the establishment of a college in his community even though it was not founded by Hollanders. The founders were glad to get the support of an influential leader of immigrants and they showed their appreciation by promptly electing him as a member of the board of trustees.

Central College therefore was not of Dutch origin, and for many years it had no official affiliation with the church organizations of Hollanders and descendants of Hollanders. But the community in which it was located grew into a Holland-American community much in the same way in which this community in Michigan did. The constituency of the college became predominantly Dutch-American, as was the case with Hope College, and later in both cases it became simply American, such as both institutions are today. It was not until 1916 that Central College officially became what may be called a Holland-American institution; in that year it became the property of the Reformed Church in America, the denomination of which Hope College is also a part.

Such is the early history of Hope's slightly older institutional sister. And that history accounts for the fact that the Pella college is an older sister.

Jesus Commissions the Twelve
Matthew 10:1, 5-7, 24-27, 34-39

By Henry Geerlings

The preaching mission of the twelve apostles was one link in a chain of events which ran back to the days of Abraham and forward to our own, a span of almost forty centuries. Beyond our day is the portion of the messianic program toward which all the rest has pointed. From the viewpoint of the church in 1952, the future is more meaningful than the past.

Ours is the task of speeding the program of world evangelization to its consummation, a day heralded by a voice from heaven once heard to declare that the sovereignty of the world has passed into the possession of our Lord and His Christ.

We cannot say with certainty that the grand sweep of God's program for all mankind was clearly in the minds of twelve plain men who went out to preach and serve at the behest of Jesus. There is every evidence that at times they were overwhelmed with a nameless feeling that the destiny of the world was in their hands. They had seen Jesus, an obscure layman and an artisan of Galilee, emerge suddenly to notice as a Jewish teacher. They had watched Him rise to first place in the national revival led by John the Baptist, who was generally understood to be associated with the coming of the Jewish Messiah.

Before the Lord sent these men out He called them to Himself. It emphasizes the importance of first coming to Christ for salvation before going out as His witnesses. That was the mistake made by teachers and doctors who went out to the mission field to do their life's work as a philanthropic enterprise.

The Lord also equipped them and He did it before He sent them out. The equipment upon which we may depend is spiritual power and ability to present the message of salvation aright. We should not fail to note that the Lord called these men individually. He called them by name and to some He even gave new names. He called them with an audible voice which we need not to expect today but which the Lord wants us on the mission field He will have ways and means of making it a very definite conviction in our hearts.

We believe the one who is called to missionary service will not be truly happy in any other occupation. Jesus sent these men forth and he directed them as to the field in which they should work. It was a very limited field at that time for they were to confine their ministry entirely to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. The Great Commission to go into all the world is a very different matter. But God still retains the right to assign and to limit those whom He sends forth to the fields of His own choice.

Even the message of the twelve was limited. They were not given the gospel of grace to preach, but the gospel of the kingdom. This was only a temporary arrangement, but even today the message of the missionary is limited. He is not to spend his time in teaching human philosophies and man made theories but in giving forth the Word of life.

Christ uses two figures to express the relationship between Himself and those whom He sends. One is that of servant and Lord, the disciple is a learner and follower, and the servant is the one who carries out His lord's command. Normally the master and the lord are greater, but Christ comes much closer to those whom He sends out as His representatives. He identifies Himself with them fully, which also means that His experiences will likewise become theirs.

The age in which Jesus lived was an evil one, and so it is at the present time, and many of the things that applied then apply now just as well. Because the age is evil, it is a mistake to think that the preaching of Christ will bring peace to this world. World peace is coming, not by preaching but by power. As long as evil exists in the world there will always be the need of separation.

Naturally to follow the Lord requires separation from that which is evil, but the separation of which Jesus speaks here goes deeper than that. He has talked about the necessity of confessing him before men, and now He points out that whenever this is done one natural and human peace will be disrupted.

This is not the age of peace but of strife. And the fact that this is so is one of the many proofs of the Deity of our Lord. If the early Christians had been willing to have His name listed among the many recognized gods of the Romans, there would not have been any great opposition to Him. What aroused their ire was the fact that they claimed Him to be the only God and crowded out all the others.

Hunters Bound Over in Case Of Dead Heifer

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—

Two Grand Rapids hunters charged with shooting a heifer on a Tallmadge township farm Oct. 21 were bound over to Circuit Court upon examination Tuesday before Justice George Hoffer.

The two men, Daniel Garner, 25, of 1290 Bradford, N. E., and Harold Dunham, 36, of 8490 Division Ave., were specifically charged with grand larceny. Both furnished $1,000 bond for their appearance in Ottawa Circuit Court Jan. 12.

The two men allegedly shot and dressed a heifer belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmidt on the Schmidt farm during hunting season Oct. 21. The heifer was one of 11 cattle owned by the Schmidts. Mrs. Schmidt discovered the heifer was missing in the evening. Her husband discovered the intestines in some brush the following day, and later the hide of the cow with head attached lying in some brush in a ditch.

Witnesses at Tuesday's examination included the Schmidts; Stanley Kurek and Charles Dunham, neighbors of the Schmidts; Conservation Officer Harold W. Bowditch, Deputy Roelf Bronkema, Sheriff Gerald Vanderbeek and Undersheriff Harris Nieuwsma.

Kurek, a neighbor, testified he saw two men in a car near the Schmidt property but was unable to swear as to the identity of the occupants. He identified the car described by another witness as having been in control of the two during the day in question.

Dunham, another neighbor of the Schmidts and a brother of one of the two defendants, testified the pair came to his house in the morning and he used their panel truck to go to Grand Rapids to purchase some parts for a car he was repairing. He said the pair used his car during the interval.

Conservation Officer Bowditch said the hide and head of the animal answers the same description of the one missing from the Schmidt farm. Deputy Bronkema testified he found blood and hair in the trunk of Dunham's car, which had been used by the respondents. He added the hair matched that on the hide of the dead animal.

Sheriff Vanderbeek and Undersheriff Nieuwsma related conversations with each of the respondents after they had been taken into custody.

Johnson-Kuyers Rites Read

The home of Mrs. C. Hoeland, 208 Columbia Ave., was the scene of a lovely wedding Friday when her niece, Miss Norma Jean Kuyers, became the bride of Paul R. Johnson. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John C. Kuyers of route 3 and the groom is the son of Mrs. Carl Johnson, 274 East Ninth St.

A setting of palms, ferns, candelabra and bouquets of giant white mums formed a background for the double ring ceremony, performed by Dr. Bastian Kruit-hof. Appropriate music was played by Miss Geraldine Walvoord. Mrs. H. Young sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Shirley Kuyers, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor and Norman Johnson assisted his brother as best man.

The bride's gown was fashioned with a white slipper satin bodice with round silk lace yoke edged with a lace ruffle, long tapered sleeves and tiny buttons down the back, and a full skirt of silk net over tulle. Her fingertip veil of tulle was held by a satin headpiece trimmed with satin bows and she carried a white Bible with an orchid and white streamers. Her pearl necklace and matching earrings were a gift of the groom.

The maid of honor wore an aqua satin gown designed with fitted bodice, puff sleeves, a plaited ruffle around the neck and a hoop skirt trimmed with velvet rosebuds. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums and white pompons.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kuyers chose a black crepe dress. She had a rubrum lily corsage. The groom's mother was unable to attend the ceremony because of illness.

Fifty guests attended the reception in Mrs. Hoeland's home. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kuyers were master and mistress of ceremonies. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Diekema served at the punch bowl and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sparks arranged the gifts. The wedding cake, placed on a decorated table, was cut and served by Mrs. Hoeland. Misses Shirley De Vries, Marianne Kuyers and Doane Meyers assisted about the rooms.

For going away, the bride wore a white orlon dress, white coat, black accessories and an orchid corsage. After a southern wedding trip, the couple will be at home at route 3, the home of the bride's mother. Mr. Johnson is employed at Parke, Davis & Co.

Pre-nuptial showers for the bride were given by Mrs. Carl Johnson and daughters, Miss Shirley Kuyers, and Mrs. Chester Kamphuis, Mrs. Raymond Kuyers and Mrs. Marvin Caauwe.

State Police Take Keys To Ottawa Ballot Boxes

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—Shortly before noon Monday County Clerk Anna Van Horssen turned over keys to Ottawa county's voting machines to Corp. Clarence Beuerle and Trooper Wilson of the Grand Haven state police post in keeping with such a request from Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

The transfer of keys was made only after Clerk Van Horssen consulted Prosecutor Wendell A. Miles who said he could find no legal basis for complying with the governor's request. Miles said he understood that the state board of canvassers feels the governor is exceeding his authority in the request, but the board is not opposing it.

The governor's letter to state police said specifically: "No attempt should be made to take custody of any ballot boxes or assume responsibility for them. You are required only to report whether all public officials responsible for the care and protection of the ballot boxes are fully carrying out their responsibilities in order that a possible recount may reflect the accurate decision of the people."

Miles said the request was most unusual in view of the fact that no recount has been officially requested. He said the import of the letter assumes that county officials have not been properly discharging their duties.

The governor's request is the latest development in the close gubernatorial race in which Williams leads his Republican opponent, Fred Alger, Jr., by some 7,000 votes.

Holland High Students Observe Armistice Day

"Our Armistice Day is not alone to grieve for our dead, but to renew our pledge to make their sacrifices meaningful," said speaker Guy Vander Jagt at the traditional Armistice Day program held Tuesday in Holland high school.

Vander Jagt, who was Holland Community ambassador to Europe this past summer, told how his trip helped him to "understand and love" his country with a new depth. He pointed out that the majority of soldiers fight for "peace." He compared the duty of each American to that of the torch bearers for the Olympic games, who, although never with in the arena, were just as important as the bearer who carried before the crowds and received all the honor in lighting the flame.

"When the great George Gipp was dying, he asked that Knute Rockne some time ask a depressed, dejected Notre Dame football team to go out and 'win one for the Gipper,'" Vander Jagt said. "Now in this time of international crisis and despair, let's go on and win this fight for peace, for those men who died."

Opening the program was the Holland high school band with a salute to the services. Arthur C. Hills directed the band.

Following the call to colors and their presentation, the names of Holland high school students who gave their lives in the two world wars and the Korean conflict were read.

The choir directed by Willard Fast, made an entrance, and following a series of appropriate songs, joined with the band in presenting "The Nations' Creed." Band, choir and audience closed the program with the singing of "America the Beautiful." Mayor Dave Bos presided.

Leading Police on Chase Is Expensive for Youth

GRAND HAVEN (Special)—David C. Horton, 18, route 1, Spring Lake, has learned it's an expensive pastime to lead police on a chase about town.

Young Horton, who had been cited on three previous occasions for traffic violations, was sentenced to pay $50 fine, $5.45 costs and spend 15 days in jail when he appeared before Justice T. A. Husted Monday on a reckless driving charge. He was arrested Sunday night after a chase which started at Washington and Third Sts.

If fine and costs are not paid, the offender will serve an additional 30 days in jail. His operator's license also was suspended for 60 days.

Woodrow Smith, 28, Grand Haven, paid $20 fine and $6.95 costs in Justice Husted's court Monday on a charge of drunk and disorderly. He was arrested Saturday night on Jackson St. as he was preparing to enter his car.

Freedom Is Not Free; We Must Work for It

Dan Vander Werf

The following article on American Education Week was prepared by Dan Vander Werf, court reporter for the 20th judicial district (Allegan and Ottawa) and a former president of the Longfellow PTA. His topic is "Children in Today's World — Their Country."

By Dan Vander Werf
Last week we witnessed what will be recorded for posterity one of the greatest political campaigns in modern history. Yet, in spite of the tremendous importance of the issues confronting a free nation, only about two thirds of the entire voting population of our country participated by exercising their right and duty as American citizens to vote.

Today, in recognition of National Education Week's theme of "Children in Today's World," emphasis should be placed on the importance of our educational institutions to our country.

We must recognize that a government is the reflection of the caliber of its people. This great land of ours is great only because of its citizens. All our high ideals and cherished hopes for peace and a free world, with equal rights for all, will be in vain unless we believe in these ideals and will make an honest effort to carry out those hopes and endeavors as loyal, courageous Americans.

We are the trustees of freedom in our land and in our time, and upon us falls the duties, the responsibilities and the opportunities of preserving and maintaining our individual liberties and democratic institutions.

Our children of today will be our citizens of tomorrow. Therefore, the schools play a tremendously important role in determining what type citizens we shall have in the future.

Here's a view of an improperly constructed ditch. Why is it improper under P.M.A. rules? It doesn't have any side slope as required. This photo was taken in Blendon township.

This is a view of a ditch that is properly constructed under P.M.A. regulations. It is correct because it has the proper side slope. The photo was taken on the John Holstege farm in Blendon township.

Soil Service Technicians Check Tile and Open Drains in County

"Soil Conservation Service technicians now are checking tile and open drains for which the P.M.A. are making payments in Ottawa county," according to W. D. Miller, soil service technician.

"Both tile and open ditches must be installed according to specification before they will be certified for payment," Miller said.

These specifications for good drainage practices were set up by a state committee composed of soil service and P.M.A. drainage experts. Farmers who are in doubt should consult either their local P.M.A. committee or a soil service technician.

The maximum ditch that will be paid for is three feet deep. The banks must be 1.5 or 1 slope in mineral soils.

"This means that a three-foot ditch two feet in width must be 11-feet wide at the top," Miller said. "In sandy soils the side slope would be two to one inch."

A large percentage of ditches already inspected have failed to pass certification because of inadequate side slope. The spoil banks must be leveled.

Tile drains must be installed to planned grade and a good grade of tile used which meets the standards set up by the American Society of Testing Materials. The tile outlet must be made of a metal tube or bell tile cemented together. The outlet must be protected against the entrance of animals. The average cover cannot be less than two feet.

Tigers Combine Offense, Defense To Trip Prepsters

BENTON HARBOR (Special)

—A solid Benton Harbor high school football team handed Holland high its second loss of the season here Friday night by powering to a 21-0 victory in the 32nd meeting of the two schools.

The victorious Tigers, led by all-star Nate Clark, scored once in the first quarter, and twice in the fourth.

Holland simply was outclassed by an offensive that rolled up 272 yards, all on the ground, and held the visitors to a meager 79 total yardage—71 of that distance coming in the first half. The win was the seventh in eight starts for the Harborties this season.

Holland was unable to penetrate deeply into Tiger territory. In the second period, the Dutch drove to the Tigers 39 as time ran out. One other time Holland went to the Harbor 37 and in the second half could advance the ball only to the middle stripe.

First Tiger tally came in the first quarter with Clark running over left tackle for 11 yards and the score. A 15-yard penalty against the Dutch for unnecessary roughness had placed the ball on the 11.

The second period was scoreless. The Tiger defense seemed to sense each time Holland crossed over into its territory and immediately stiffened to repulse the invaders.

The third period saw the Tigers drive to the Holland 16, only to be stalled by two penalties, two incomplete passes and a determined Dutch defense.

In the final stanza, Holland attempted an ill-fated fake punt near midfield with fourth down and two yards to go. John Fendt was buried under a host of Tiger tacklers as the deception failed, and the home team took over on the 50. In eight plays, the Tigers scored again with Clark barreling over right tackle from the five, carrying three Dutchmen with him.

With just 30 seconds left to play in the game, Benton Harbor scored a third time. After taking a Holland punt on their own 36, the Tigers drove up to the 44 from where substitute back Vern Blakeman took a pitchout around right end, got past the line and cut to the left to go all the way and score standing up. Tackle Bob Byers kicked all three extra points.

In addition, the Tigers had two touchdowns called back. Both were in the second quarter. Julius McKee intercepted a Dutch pass and streaked 55 yards into the end zone only to be hauled back because of clipping. A few moments later, Clark went through right tackle and raced 78 yards to the Dutch goal, but this score also was nullified by a clipping offense.

Holland, on the other hand, never could get its offense rolling. The Dutchmen ran for 22 yards in the first quarter, rushed 17 in the second period and passed for 32 more for the deepest penetration of Tiger territory. In the third stanza, Holland had the ball for only seven plays and netted eight yards, while in the final stanza eight more plays produced exactly zero yards net.

Clark lived up to all advance billing as a hard-running and swift back, driving through the middle or following four interference men around end or tackle. But the Tiger defense all but stole the show, piling up Holland runners time after time.

For the Dutchmen, halfback Paul Mack was the only consistent offensive threat, picking up 49 yards net rushing and passing for 19 more. Linebackers Jerry Victor and Carl Visscher were top defensive Dutch performers. Quarterback Terry Burns was unable to suit up because of an injured neck.

The loss brings the Dutch record to five wins, two losses and one tie for the season. Holland winds up the year next week in a homecoming battle against traditional rival Grand Haven at home.

Tiger Cubs Claw Holland Reserves

BENTON HARBOR (Special) — An ineffective Holland attack was one reason for the Benton Harbor Reserve team's 24-0 victory over the Junior Dutchmen here Friday afternoon.

The Holland club could get inside the Tiger Cubs' 30-yard line only once, and failed to capitalize on that inroad. A 35-yard pass play from Henry Visscher to Lynn Kadwell was responsible for the one threat.

Benton Harbor meanwhile scored twice in the first half and added two more touchdowns in the second half to post its fifth win in seven games.

Coaches Carroll Norlin and Bob Connell will send their Holland charges against the Grand Haven reserves in the season's final next Friday afternoon at Holland.

In Paris, housewives used to bring their dough to be baked in public ovens.

These three Holland high school seniors will be among a group of 13 who will end their high school football careers Friday night in the annual Holland-Grand Haven contest. Roger Israels (left) has been used considerably as a defensive lineman this season in varsity competition.

Roger Kolean (center) has taken over at an offensive tackle position and likely will start there Friday night. Warren Kievit (right) is a reserve fullback who has not seen much varsity action but is a member of that indispensable reserve contingent that works hard all week long.

Zeeland Begins Basketball Drills For New Schedule

ZEELAND (Special)—With a perfect-record football season just out of the way, Coaches Joe Newell and Mel Bouma this week began practice for the Zeeland high school basketball season.

The Chix will be in the running for the Ken-New-Wa cage crown for the first time this season, and will be rated a strong contender for honors in their new circuit.

Coach Newell greeted 12 varsity candidates Monday while Coach Bouma expected between 35 and 40 aspirants for the reserve team to turn out today. Usually, ninth and 10th graders play with the reserves, with juniors and seniors making up the varsity squad.

Only one regular from last year's squad is on hand again this season. Forward Del Komejan will be the one returning regular, although four other varsity squad members are available. They are Dave Kuyers, Allen Kraai, Jason Redder and John Vanden Bosch.

Up from the reserve squad will be Ron Wetherbee, Jim Wyngarden, George Schipper and La Verne Paddling. Three other candidates are out for the first time—cousins Harvey and Bob Berens and Al Meyers.

Zeeland's first game is on Nov. 28 at home against Lee high school.

Coach Newell plans to spend the practice sessions leading up to the opening game in getting the boys into basketball condition and concentrating on fundamentals of the game.

Fennville Finishes Year With Defeat

BYRON CENTER (Special) — Barkenall league champion Byron Center ended the Fennville football season on a sour note for the Hawks here Friday night by drubbing the injury-riddled invaders 44-7.

Byron Center took the opening kickoff and marched down the field for its first score, adding one more in the opening stanza and two in the second quarter to lead 25-0 at halftime.

The winners carried over once more in the third stanza and piled up their last two markers in the final quarter.

Lone tally for Coach Sam Morehead's Hawks came in the third quarter with Co-Capt. Skip Bale racing 40 yards for the counter. Arthur Coxford kicked the extra point.

The loss was the fourth for Fennville against three wins.

Friday's game marked the end of the high school football road for six seniors—Co-Capt. Bale and Larry Morse, Charles Chambers, Norm Sanford, Rod Galbreath and John Parks.

Interior Designer Speaks to Hope Coeds

Miss Dorothy Washburn, interior designer from East Lansing, was guest on the Hope college campus Wednesday evening. A former home economics teacher at Michigan State college, Miss Washburn spoke at the women's dormitories on interior design and related subjects.

She was accompanied by Miss Peterson, a women's counselor at Michigan State. After speaking at Voorhes hall, Miss Washburn and Miss Peterson were guests of honor at a tea in Gilmore cottage. Later, Miss Washburn spoke at Durfee hall.

With fabric samples to illustrate her talk, Miss Washburn discussed room colors, modern and traditional furniture and fabrics. She pointed out that materials chosen reflect the personality of the homemaker. She recommended the orlon and glass cloth, especially for the busy homemaker who also works outside the home, and pointed out that heavy linens now replace the once popular wool.

In discussing furniture, Miss Washburn said it is now considered good taste to mix light and dark finishes as long as one predominates. In the line of accessories, she especially emphasized black wrought iron, which is popular both with the moderns and conservatives and can be fit into almost any setting.

The speaker's appearance here was a service project of the college Women's Activity league.

For All Changes, Home Still Same As in the Past

Child Still Finds Home His Universe Despite More Material Comforts

The following article on American Education Week was prepared by Ernest E. and Lois V. Ellert, parents of two small sons, one of whom has just entered Washington school. Dr. Ellert teaches German at Hope college. Their subject deals with homes in connection with the week's theme, "Children in Today's World."

By the Ellerts
When we think of the homes in which our children live today in contrast to those of the past, we are probably impressed first with the tremendous differences that exist.

The physical changes are, of course, most apparent; there is almost no excuse today for a home that is not clean and comfortable. Central heating, storm windows, and a host of other improvements have eliminated cold bedrooms and drafty corners. Running water and electricity have brought benefits too numerous to mention. Even in furniture, we have beds and chairs designed for the greatest possible comfort; radio and television bring entertainment and the outside world into the home at the touch of a knob.

But more than just these material differences, the child's home today reflects a change in attitudes and outlook on the part of his parents. Most adults today are far more involved in community affairs than they were in the past. Where a generation or two ago the mother worked outside the home was almost unheard of, now such a situation is very common. And even if mother does not leave the realm of kitchen and nursery to help with family finances, she nevertheless leaves it voluntarily to give some of her energy and talent to affairs of church, club, and community.

Home today, therefore, is no longer synonymous with mother in the child's mind. Perhaps even more startling in its effect upon our children has been the advent of "child psychology" into the home. This is not to say, of course, that our ancestors did not practice psychology and plenty of it on their children. The difference is mainly that they weren't conscious of it, and neither parent nor child was ever worried about what the "book" said should be done in any circumstance.

On the other hand, a little deeper reflection would indicate that in many respects the home today is the same as the home of the past. For all our modern gadgets and books, our children as they have for generations, want to find and do in their homes comfort and protection. For the very small child it is still the center of his universe, and even for many older children, it can be the primary source of his pleasure and entertainment, however changed the form of that entertainment may be.

The things the home has to teach the child have changed almost not at all. As in the past, the child today still develops at home his attitude toward people and things, his concepts of work and pleasure, his beliefs and his prejudices. His first contact with discipline and his reaction to controls imposed upon him still come in the home of today, and therein lies the foundation for his reaction to the controls the school and community will later impose upon him, and finally his ability to control himself. These are but a few of the many things a child finds in his home. The fact remains that no matter how much outward change occurs, the home as it represents the family is still the cornerstone of our democratic society.

Perhaps in thinking about our homes and their importance to our children, we can take a lesson from the Communist and totalitarian governments of the world. Recognizing the tremendous influence of the home upon the child, these governments prefer whenever possible to take the newborn infant from his home and raise him in an institution where he can be indoctrinated in any way they see fit. Fortunately indeed are our American boys and girls who still have the heritage of the American home behind them.

Don't Separate School, Church; Both Sacred Trust

Education Week Writer Says All Knowledge and Truth Stems From God

With American Education Week opening Sunday under the theme, "Children in Today's World," Dr. Lester J. Kuypers, member of the faculty of Western Theological seminary and member of the Board of Education, has prepared the following article on the week's theme in respect to the churches, the subject for Sunday.

By Lester J. Kuypers
In our city and community the church has an important place. Every child in our schools sees many church buildings; he observes many people attending church services; and the child himself has worshipped in the church of his parents. By these outward tokens the child comes into personal relationship with the church.

The school and the church are the main agencies apart from the home that make a profound impression on the child. There must be a spirit of mutual co-operation so that the child may develop properly at it was said of Jesus that he "increased in wisdom and in stature, and in favor with God and man" Luke 2:52.

Let us avoid separating the school from the church by assigning to the former secular education and to the latter sacred education. All education is a sacred trust and all knowledge comes to us from the source of all truth, God. Therefore the task of training our children must be carried on by a close co-operation of the school and the church.

How may the school help the child so that he may become a helpful member in and for the church? We can mention several such as training him to read and speak well, helping him to sing and appreciate hymns of the church. But more than this the child can be taught to have deep respect for the worship and service of the church. The inspired scriptures will be honored and read. Principles for good living will be taught. The idealism of the schoolroom is to develop the moral and spiritual life of the child, so that as the child attends his church he will proceed as if he has started in the growth of Christian character.

How may the church help the school in its training of the child? Pastors and teachers of the church will manifest personal interest in the work of the child at school. The abilities of the child can be used in the program and work of the church. Good discipline and reverence which the child is taught at school must be continued in his church. Ideals and goals encouraged by leaders in the school can be developed by leaders in the church. The result will be that the child senses a continuity in his training. He has prospects of becoming a Christian citizen who will be a credit to his community.

What greater opportunity can there be than to train our children for Christian living and service?

Maroon Schedule Opens Nov. 20 Against Muskegon

Full scale basketball drills get under way at Holland Christian high school this week with daily practices listed by Coach Art Tuls. The Maroon mentor has been working out with a large group of boys for the last week and a half in scattered drills, but he promised regular work this week.

Tuls has good reason for the heavy workouts, since the opener is scheduled with Muskegon Christian for Nov. 20, less than two weeks away. The game is being played a week earlier to allow use of the large Muskegon high school gymnasium.

Eight lettermen greeted Tuls the first workout assuring him of an experienced squad. In addition 10 other boys reported for the varsity. He has trimmed his squad to 14 men at present with two more boys scheduled to be cut within a short time.

Of the eight lettermen returning, three were regulars on last year's squad, with two others seeing a great deal of action throughout last season. The three, holding the inside track for the starting berths this year, are Earl Schipper, a forward, and Dave Schreier and Merle Van Dyke, both guards. Tuls makes no secret of the fact that he will be building his squad around these boys for the coming season.

The other forward and center slots are still wide open, with a promising group of candidates working out. Heading the list of center hopefuls are Ron Myrick and Ken Scholten. Scholten saw service last season while Myrick is up from the reserve squad. Both boys stand 6'4". Trying out for the forward post are Rich Sharda, Ron Nykamp and Carl Edewaards. Sharda was a utility man on Tuls' squad last season while Nykamp and Edewaards were regulars on the reserve team last year. Edewaards might be switched to center if necessary, Tuls said.

One thing is certain—the locals will have plenty of height this year. In addition to Scholten and Myrick, Schipper is 6'2", Schreier 6'3", Nykamp, 6'1", Edewaards, 6'3", Sharda, 6' and Van Dyke, about 5'11". The Dutch mentor could and probably will start a quintet which averages 6'2" or better. The smallest man on the squad is Paul Vander Leek who is 5'8".

Other lettermen working out for positions are guards Karl Essenburg, Paul Vander Leek and Ken Volkema. The new men are guards Harold Holtrout and Dick Lenters and forward Sylvan Disselkoen.

Tuls expects the strong points of his squad to be the height factor, several fast boys and some valuable experience. He says the boys haven't practiced enough to get a line on the scoring potential. In this connection he points out that he lost two high scorers in Tony Diekema and Jim Kok through graduation.

He says he will be weak in reserve strength in the back line particularly, with the front line faring some better. One thing that bears plenty of hard work is the defense, he comments.

"We are eager for the first game," says Tuls. "At least we'll know where some of our weak spots are." He noted that there is still a tremendous amount of work to be done before the first game.

The Christian schedule will be announced in a few days. So far Athletic Director Raymond Holwerda has arranged 17 games with one more expected to be added. The schedule is a formidable one with several strong clubs added this season, including Niles and North Muskegon.

Marriage Licenses

Gerald Gardner, 18, and Shirley Klogstad, 18, both of Grand Haven.

The plant from which castor oil is obtained is a native of tropical Africa.

A picture has been said to speak 10,000 words, but in this case even a picture falls short of capturing the spirit and enthusiasm of the more than 600 students, faculty members and parents who rode a seven-car special football train to Benton Harbor Friday night. The trip contained all the features needed for a good time by all. Starting with the fast train ride to Benton Harbor, the police-escorted march to Benton Harbor's football field and ending with an equally speedy return trip to Holland by tired but happy students, everyone judged the voyage an overwhelming success. In the top photo can be seen part of the students getting into the spirit of the trip by pouring a cup of cider for all. The bottom picture speaks for itself. (Sentinel photos)

Grandstanding...

It was mighty cold at Riverview park during the Hope-Alma football game Friday night. Nevertheless it didn't seem to phase the drum majorettes for the colorful Alma kiltie band. The girls with their short skirts strutted their stuff at halftime without a flaw. Alma's band put on a good show that included lights out in the park and band members had small blue lights as they went through their various songs. And the spotlight played on the feature attraction of each number.

Hope's two drum majorettes also must have felt the biting cold. But they too came through with flying colors as the Dutch band made a good accounting of itself.

The Hope players suffered from an assortment of bumps and bruises after Friday's game. Most serious was Ed Stajert, burly linebacker, who is injured a knee that has been pestering him most of the season. He'll probably be out of the last game of the season against Adrian next Saturday afternoon.

Bob Hoeksema was shake up as was Ken Bauman, but both are expected to be ready to go next Saturday.

With the right combination of certain circumstances, Hope could conceivably come up with an MIAA co-championship again this year.

Here's the deal: IF leading Albion should be tripped up by Kalamazoo next week, and IF Hope follows with a win over Adrian, then the Dutch and Albion would be tied. All Hope fans are hoping that Kazoo lives up to some of its pre-season eminence next Saturday.

As of today, here's how the MIAA shapes up: Albion leads with four wins, no losses and Kalamazoo left to play; Hope is second with a 3-1 mark and Adrian left on the schedule; Kalamazoo and Alma each has a 2-2 mark, while Adrian has a 1-3 record and Hillsdale an 0-4 mark. Third game next week pits Alma and Hillsdale.

Halfback Nate Clark, who also runs at fullback for Benton Harbor, undoubtedly is the best individual performer Holland high has faced all season. The Dutch can draw one consolation from last Friday's game—they won't have to face Clark again. The speedy star is graduating after playing four years of varsity football for the Tigers—truly a phenomenon for a class A high school.

And the Tigers forward wall compares favorably with the best the Dutch have seen this year.

The Harbor linemen continually outcharged, outblocked and out-tackled their Dutch opponents.

There were plenty of empty Holland uniforms Friday night. Quarterback Terry Burns, out with a carbuncle on his neck, did not dress, and neither did halfback Len Powell, recovering from a leg operation. Tackles Ward Pippel with a shoulder separation and Dave Rogers with an ankle injury also were out of uniform.

The win for Benton Harbor was its 21st out of 32 games with Holland. The Dutch have won seven and four ended in ties. Last Holland win came in 1950.

The Dutchmen were victims of two tough breaks right off the bat that conceivably may have had some effect on their performance. After choosing to kick-off to open the game, Holland had Benton Harbor on the Tiger 30 when Holland recovered a fumble. But the Dutch were off-side. A few moments later, still in Harbor territory, the Dutch intercepted a pass but again Holland was off-side. If either or both of these balls had gone to Holland early in the game, it may have been different.

A Holland player and a Benton Harbor man both were ejected from play for personal fouls late in the game. The altercation came on the Tigers' try for extra point after their last touchdown.

All Great Lakes Still Receding

Lt. Col. William N. Harris, district engineer of the U. S. Lake Survey, Corps of Engineers at Detroit, announced today that current elevations of the Great Lakes indicate that all lakes are continuing to recede from their seasonal peak elevations.

The rate of recession from September to October was approximately twice the average on all the lakes except Lake Superior which receded at about 12 times its average rate.

All current levels, except Lake Superior, are a few inches above the levels of the comparable period last year. Lake Superior being about seven inches lower.

It is expected that levels of all lakes will continue to recede during November. The rate of recession will depend upon several unpredictable factors including rainfall and evaporation.

Lake Michigan was 582.40 feet above mean tide at New York during the last half of September; 582.10 feet for the first half of October, and 581.80 for the last half of October.

Highest October record on file for Lake Michigan occurred in 1861 when 583.10 feet was recorded. The prior all-time high record was 583.68 feet which occurred in June, 1886.
