New Cutter To Aid Lake Coast Guard

"ESCANABA" IS 165 FEET IN LENGTH, TO CARRY 6 OF-FICERS, 56 MEN

Holland Harbor Will Also See Much of New Coast Guard Cutter.

The coast guard cutter Escanaba, completed on Nov. 14, 1932, at the Defoe Boat & Motor Works, Bay City, Mich., is the latest addition to the coast guard system of rescue and assistance work on Lake Michigan and undoubtedly Holland Harbor as well as all harbors on "Big Lake" will receive several visits annually from this fine new craft.

This cutter was authorized by act of congress approved April 15, 1930, and an appropriation subsequently made in the sum of $550,000 for its construction and equipment. However, the actual cost is not expected to exceed $500,000.

The coast guard has, since 1878 been charged with the assistance to vessels in distress and the saving of life and property on the seacoast and on the Great Lakes of the United States. As shipping has increased in tonnage it has been necessary for the coast guard to build larger and more powerful cutters to assist these vessels when they are in distress.

The Escanaba is the latest addition to coast guard facilities now maintained on Lake Michigan for purposes of rescue and assistance to vessels in distress and the saving of life and property. This vessel will operate directly under the command, lakes division, and will add greatly to the protection the coast guard has afforded to shipping on Lake Michigan in the past.

Although an inland lake, the storms experienced on Lake Michigan are as severe as those on the ocean coasts, and the terrific toll taken by the storms in the fall of 1929 are still fresh in the public mind. At that time five ships were lost on Lake Michigan with a loss of more than 100 lives. The coast guard crews rendered valiant and courageous service, the lifeboats rushing through the storm and high seas on their errand of mercy. They did all that was humanly possible. To place at the disposal of the coast guard more adequate facilities for meeting the demands of commerce on Lake Michigan, and the peril met with on that great body of water, led congress to provide for this new cutter, which is especially designed for rescue operations and to assist snipping.

The Escanaba is 165 feet long, has a beam of 36 feet, and a maximum draft of 13 feet. Her turbine-gear engines develop about 1,500 shaft horsepower, one of the most powerful vessels of her type on the Great Lakes, and she has a speed of about 15 knots. Her steel hull is of unusually heavy plating, and her stem sheered so as to permit her to plow through the ice to meet calls for assistance in the winter time when ice would block the passage of the ordinary vessel. She carries four life boats, high intensity search lights, and every modern facility and equipment for rescue operations, and on her deck is mounted a powerful towing engine to take care of major casualties in which life or property may be in peril.

A continuous radio watch will be maintained on the distress frequency of 410 kilocycles on this vessel by radio operators who have full realization of the primary duties of the coast guard and who are ever on the alert for distress calls and communications indicating that assistance is required.

This vessel will be in constant communication with the office of the commander, lakes division at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., by commercial telegraph or telephone. She will also be in communication through the division traffic station, also located at Sault Ste. Marie, while cruising on Lake Michigan. In this manner a prompt and complete exchange of information will be possible at all times between the Escanaba and the office of the division commander in the event of disaster or emergency.

Radio-equipped vessels on Lake Michigan requiring assistance may obtain the services of the coast guard by transmitting a request on the distress frequency (410 kilocycles), to "any coast guard unit" (radio call NCU), or to any shore radio station addressed to "Coast Guard." Shore radio stations will forward to the proper coast guard authority all information regarding vessels requiring assistance unless such information is contained in a message addressed elsewhere.

The Escanaba is equipped with the very latest types of radio transmitters and receivers. Three transmitters ranging from 200 watts downward in power and four radio receivers, a radio direction finder and a fathometer comprise the complete radio installation. Provisions for three radio operators on duty at one time are made to facilitate efficient operation in emergencies. The radio direction finder is used to accurately determine the direction of a vessel in distress by means of radio signals received from the vessel and experience with installations of this type have demonstrated their value in rendering assistance, particularly in those cases where vessels in distress are not sure of their positions.

Sounding of the NCU or SOS call by ships results in immediate mobilization of a coast guard cutter's crew and in every case assistance is rendered just as systematically as clock work. The rendering of assistance and the saving of life and property at sea and on the lakes has been developed by the coast guard into a science in itself and the coast guard is justly proud of its record.

The Escanaba will carry a complement of 6 officers and 56 men.

BLOSSOMS, IF PLACED IN LINE, WOULD EXTEND 26 MILES

Holland's "Tulip Time" is already bringing outside publicity for next season. The Detroit Free Press devotes a half column to the program gives the committees, etc. The paper says there will be "26 miles of tulips in one lane, including 67 blocks in different parts of the city. Besides, thousands of plants will be massed in beds at street intersections, in city parks and private yards. Figures on the quantity of tulips were presented as planting of the recent shipment of 75,000 bulbs from The Netherlands was completed.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN ALL HOLLAND CHURCHES THANKSGIVING DAY

Holland will observe Thanksgiving Day with special services in the churches and general suspension of business. Western semi-nary, Hope college, public and Christian schools will close. Collections in churches will be devoted to denominational benevolences, charity and Christian schools. All services will be held at the usual hour in the morning, eastern standard time.

Old Holland Steamer Sold Again

After a year of idleness the steamer Puritan and Manitowish of the old Michigan Transit line again will be in service in 1933, according to the Duke Transportation Co. of Houghton, which has purchased the boats from bondholders.

The Duke company operates the International Ferry line from Houghton to Isle Royale, the Fort William line and a weekly service connecting Isle Royale with Chicago and other Lake Michigan ports.

The steamers will operate on Lake Michigan and may follow the old Michigan Transit line schedule, which would give Traverse City one boat weekly. The Puritan was built by Holland Capital years ago and run on the Holland and Chicago run until the beginning of the World War, when the United States government took her over for transport service. The steamer since the war has been in service nearly everywhere on the Great Lakes.

ANOTHER PULPWOOD CARGO BEING UNLOADED; STORED AT GRAND HAVEN

The steamer Livingston of the Canadian lines arrived in port Friday with 108 1/2 tons of pulpwood and the Vyn trucks are carrying the cargo to the warehouses on Seventh St. This is the second load to arrive there within a week. Grand Haven workmen are being employed taking the pulpwood from the boat. Two other large barges have unloaded there the last two weeks, one with iron, another with coke. It seems that Holland harbor could get a small part of this tonnage.

A Religious Inventory Is Taken at Haven

AT LEAST 1500 PERSONS HAVE NO CHURCH CONNECTIONS
AT "COUNTY SEAT"

At least 300 families within the city limits of Grand Haven have no church connections whatever, a religious survey conducted by Rev. Leonard Greenway and the consistency of the Second Reformed church shows. The canvassers have just completed the survey after visiting each family in the city during the past two months. Twelve teams of canvassers visited a total of 1950 families and a final compilation by Rev. Greenway shows that the Reformed church has the largest denominational percentage in the city. The Christian Reformed denomination ranks second, the Presbyterian third and the Roman Catholic fourth.

Methodist and Lutheran came next and the Episcopal, Evangelical, Gospel Hall, Christian Scientist, Salvation Army, Adventist and Baptist follow in order. The classification also includes Grand Haven Bible Class, Nazarene, Bahai, Berean, Quakers, Unitarians, Hebrew and Spiritualist. It is possible that the proportions in the last groups would be altered somewhat if the survey had been extended into the immediate rural districts. The families of the Second Reformed church were not visited but are included in the denominational percentages.

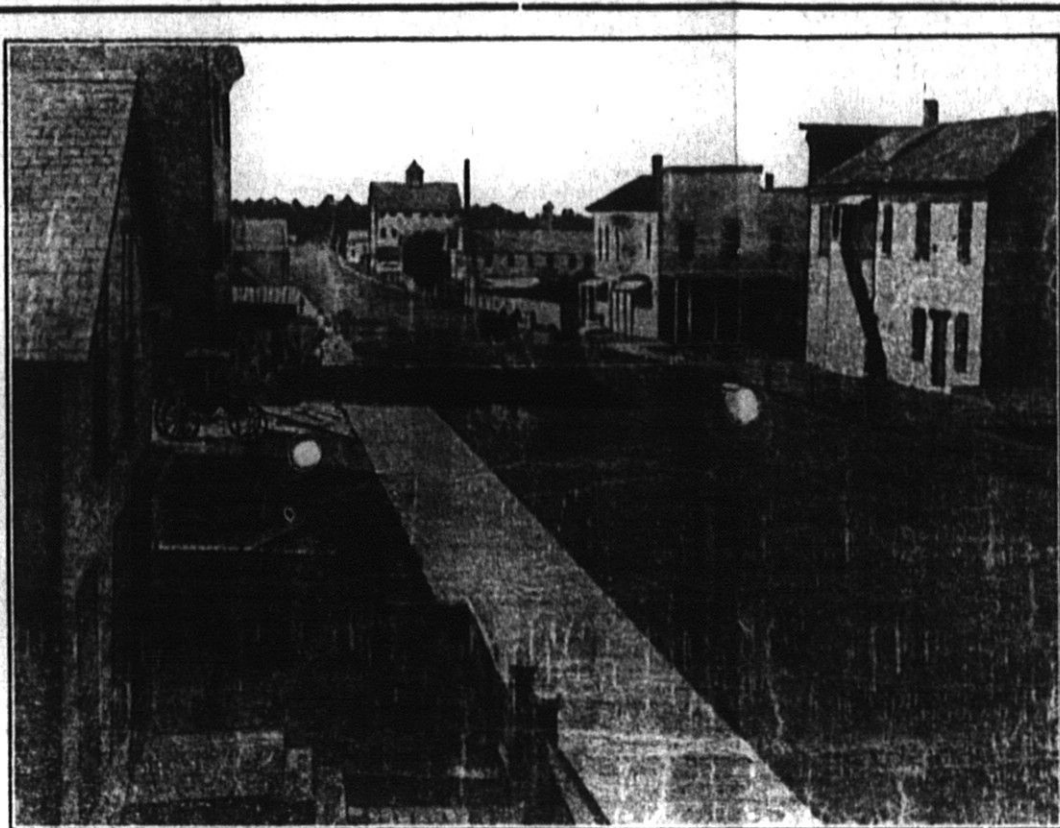

The statistics obtained by Rev. Greenway further reveal that of the 1950 families visited 477 are in need of personal religious work. Of this total there are 177 families that have some contact with a church as for example a child who is attending Sunday school. These particular families will be brought to the attention of the pastors of the churches concerned.

In addition to these 477 families there is an approximate percentage of 5 to 8 per cent in delinquency in attendance over all denominations mentioned. Subtracting 177 from 477 leaves about 300 families or approximately 1500 persons who have no church connections. Surely a large field for the divines and workers to enter for religious betterment.

Word has been received here of the birth of twin daughters to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wendell of Muskegon on Nov. 20. The new arrivals have been named Beverly Ann and Shirley Ann. Mrs. Wendell is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Zahart of Holland.

When Liberty Poles Were Used in Politics

Political campaigns today are conducted along far different lines than fifty years ago. Today the president of the United States or his opponents on the opposition tickets can personally speak to the entire nation with one radio hook-up. Before the advent of the radio armies of spellbinders went out from larger centers to smaller cities and towns and countryside to expound their party propaganda.

Today political speaking making in the country schools in Ottawa county and elsewhere is a thing of the past. Even ten years ago it was one of the first programs to be mapped out by the Republican and Democratic county committees everywhere. Folks won't come—for they can sit right at their own fireside in their slippers and hear the best political speakers the country affords.

It is a far cry from the torchlight processions of yesteryear and the radio campaigns of today. There is a little more zest about a torchlight procession and a whole lot more spectacular by comparison. Holland remembers the time when the first act in the campaign was to erect Liberty Poles with a flag at the mast head and the pennants of the nominated candidates underneath.

This old picture of Holland, shows the street intersection at River avenue and Eighth street looking north, shortly after the Civil war days. Indicated by two rings in the picture is shown where two Liberty Poles were erected, one by the Republicans and one by the Demo-Greenback party—for the Democrats at that time were playing with the Green-backers.

The late G. Van Schelven told us the relative positions of both Democratic and Republican poles, but this has slipped our memory, but the two poles were close enough together so it makes no material difference. The interesting part is both poles were guarded by workers of the respective parties in order that nothing might happen to them, for chopping down party Liberty Poles in the early days was quite common, for political battles then brought much "bad blood" and were more strenuously fought than today.

The building to the left of the picture was the old Pfanstiehl hotel on the McBride building site. The carriage was used to take guests to and from the depot. The porch was the "hang out" for the town politicians and Holland's center of gossip.

The Vander Veen Hardware store, a frame building, was where the Corner Hardware is now, and the H. D. Post frame building across the street also served as post office. The Holland City State bank corner was still vacant at that time.

North River avenue goes down hill. The slant was even more pronounced in those days, long before Holland's paving was put down. At the foot of the hill was a brewery and a flour mill. The street led to a crude wooden bridge across Black river through woods for, remember it was all forest then to the edge of the town.

The bridge cost $480 to build and the citizens then were more elated with this connecting up with a new artery of travel than they are with a $100,000 concrete structure of today. But we are wandering away from old time political campaigns.

After the Liberty Pole came the banners stretched across the street from building to building. There was always some difficulty about finding a proper place, for often a Republican owned one building and a Democrat the building opposite. We remember that during the Blaine-Cleveland campaign the Republican banner had been cut down repeatedly, supposedly by Democrats, and the Republicans "chipped" in and hired Charlie Odell, a railroad man and a deputy marshal, to guard the banner with a shot gun. No more banners were cut up after that and we say—"We Republicans never cut down any banners anyway," so all banners were safe.

Holland's last Liberty Pole, not a political one, was in the center of Centennial park, where the fountain stands. It was more than 100 feet high, composed of two poles and a "cross-stress" that served to float "Old Glory" on patriotic occasions just as the flag now appears on the staff on the City Hall.

On Fourth of July celebrations it was the center of congregation and the bands generally played around the flag pole. This pole stood for many years until an early spring thaw wind blew it down and it was never erected again.

Welfare Menu For Family of Five at $5.32

ECONOMIC DIVISION OF M.S.C.
MAKE STUDY OF WELL BAL-
ANCED RATIONS FOR POOR

It seems that some Michigan cities are thinking up and putting into effect menus for the needy of the community in order to save money for the already burdened taxpayer, who in the end will have to foot the bill of welfare outgo.

Food allowance furnished to families on welfare lists by one Michigan city have been declared adequate for the maintenance of health by home economics division of Michigan State College, after a study of the amounts and kinds of food given out by the welfare department of that city.

The food furnished by this city for a family of five cost $5.32 per week and contains meat, vegetables, eggs, whole and canned milk, cereals, tea, sugar, and flour. Vegetables, macaroni, and bread stuffs made from the flour furnished, form the foundation for this food allowance.

Four pounds of dried beans, three cans peas, three cans tomatoes, two pounds macaroni, two pecks potatoes, ten pounds root vegetables, and twenty-nine pounds of flour were furnished each week. Five pounds of meat was allowed each family. Corn meal, oat meal, and rice were also furnished. Seven quarts of whole milk and four cans of condensed milk was the weekly allowance.

While the home economics division says that this food allowance is adequate, they suggest some changes so that more palatable menus can be planned. The addition of some whole wheat flour to replace part of the white flour, and the addition of another pint of milk each day, they say, would improve the food allowance. The addition of raw fruits or vegetables or enough canned tomatoes so that they could be used daily is another suggestion.

Menus planned for each meal of the week can be obtained from the home economics division of M.S.C., East Lansing, Mich., by those writing and asking for the list.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

COURT WILL NOT OPEN UNTIL DEC. 5, JUDGE MILES STATED MONDAY

Judge Fred T. Miles was in Grand Haven yesterday disposing of several matters in circuit court and announced that the opening date of the fall term of court has been postponed from Nov. 28 to Monday, Dec. 5. Matters at Allegan will keep the judge busy for the next two weeks, it was reported.

Several Holland attorneys attended the preliminary opening of court, which is generally a week before court opens regularly. Besides a large number of divorce suits and 14 civil suits, the outstanding matters that are about to be heard will be the retrial of the Van Hartesveldt-Westrate suit. There are seven cases for divorce, but a few of them from Holland.

Liquor cases also are few at this term of court, but if criminal cases are few the court will be busy with several civil suits that will occupy plenty of time and is liable to carry the term until after the holidays.

ZEELAND C. OF C. TO HEAR AIR LINES OFFICIAL TALK

The Zeeland Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular fall meeting in the city hall Nov. 23. The speaker of the evening will be T. VanHaisma of the Boeing Air Lines of Los Angeles, who will give an illustrated talk on "Aviation and Business." Van Haisma is a former resident of Zeeland.

HOLLAND'S PRESENT MAYOR SETS RECORD FOR YEARS IN OFFICE

(Grand Rapids Press) Mayor Nicodemus Bosch has served Holland as chief executive for a longer time than any of his 26 predecessors.

Bosch served his first term 20 years ago, was elected for two years in 1914, two years in 1918 and two years in 1922. When he completes his present term in 1934 he will have served seven years.

MISSIONARY RESUMES WORK AFTER ACCIDENT

Rev. and Mrs. J. Engelsman of Holland have received word that their daughter, Miss Anna Mae Engelsman, teacher in the mission school at Gray Hawk, Ky., who sustained injuries in an automobile accident October 23, has again resumed her work. Miss Engelsman suffered severe cuts on her right hand when the car in which she and companions were riding was struck by another car. She was taken to a hospital.

During her absence Miss Lillian Bos of Holland, who is visiting Miss Ida Tanis, superintendent of the mission, taught her classes. Arie Decker and Arthur White returned Monday from a deer hunting trip to Newberry.

Chief of Police Peter A. Lievesse returned Saturday from a deer hunting trip without his deer. Failure to bring home a kill, however, cannot be ascribed to the chief. There was not a single buck among the 16 deer that crossed his path, Lievesse stated.

Relates Story of What He Saw In Netherlands

BUTTER 75c. — BUILD 100,000
HOUSES IN AMSTERDAM — NO
SIGNS OF HARD TIMES LIKE
IN OTHER COUNTRIES

Ben Zenderink, landscape gardener of Grand Haven, well known in Holland, recently returned from a trip to the Netherlands, where he spent the summer visiting his relatives and viewing world famed gardens and flower marts. The country he says, is very prosperous and nowhere did he see signs of hard times and depression. There are 100,000 new homes in Rotterdam, he stated, in an area where ten years ago there was not a single house.

Flowers are profuse from the lowliest cottage to the most magnificent estates, Dahlias and roses seem to be the favorites following the tulips, he said. The success of the gardens he attributes to the naturally moist soil.

The most impressive sight he witnessed, he said, was the flower mart at Aalsmeer. Here is erected a building costing $500,000 which was paid for in six months from a 10 per cent levy on the flower sales there. Each morning the place is filled with cut flowers. A large clock indicating the price is prominently displayed and by pressing a button the buyers indicate the purchase they will make when they believe the price is right. Each day airplanes from England, France and other nearby countries carry quantities of blooms to those countries. The magnificence of the roses is hardly to be described, continued Mr. Zenderink.

Prices are high in the Netherlands but people seem to have the money to spend. Coffee is 15 cents a cup. Coffee and a sandwich is 40 cents at the restaurants and beer is 25 cents per stein.

The trains are full everywhere. Travel to Paris is very heavy. The country is also full of bicycles and seemingly everyone from five year olds to men 80 years old ride. An uncle, well over 70, rides 15 or 20 miles a day, he said.

Mr. Zenderink also went to Germany. He states that taxes are ruining that nation. Some of the people can hardly eat and great manufacturing institutions are for sale for almost nothing but buyers dare not purchase on account of the terrific tax.

Mr. Zenderink left the Netherlands 21 years ago to seek his fortune in America. "If I had to work in a factory," he said, "I would go back there for the conditions for the working people in the Netherlands have been greatly improved and the country is more prosperous than it has been in many years."

Every house has flowers and many yards are filled with all types of evergreens cut into the most unusual shapes. Some of the formal gardens are planted to trees of this kind that are hardly recognizable as growing things.

The homes are very comfortable and he noted that almost every home held one or two bookcases. Fine roads abound. American cars are everywhere. He counted 11 American makes in just a short time. Trucks are numerous with bodies that far exceed in size the ones used in this country. Many fine schools and churches have been built since Mr. Zenderink lived in Holland and improvements of all kinds impressed him.

He says the government has done much to contribute to the welfare of the nation by stabilizing the prices of commodities. Butter, he cited, went down to 50 cents per pound. The government raised it to the normal value of 75 cents, where it remains now.

Shall Outsiders Manage Our City Mission

SHALL HOME FOLKS CON-TINUE IN CHARGE OF THIS LOCAL INSTITUTION?

For several months, in fact since shortly after the death of Miss Nellie Churchford, who has been in charge of City mission work in Holland for more than a quarter of a century, those closely allied with the City mission work and are looking after its finances have been debating whether the mission should be continued as it has been during the past year with certain changes and policies, or whether it is desirable of having the Salvation Army take it over.

The Exchange club has especially taken an interest in this matter and at noon today, Wednesday, the whole City mission problem will come up directly after the Wednesday noon luncheon, when the entire time will be devoted to the discussing and expressing by ballot after the discussion what will be the proper course to take.

Judging from previous meetings there is considerable division in the matter, many stating that Mr. Loman, who is now in charge, has been bending every effort to fill the place of Miss Churchford and if he has done that he has filled a commendable task.

Others claim that the Salvation Army would immediately put the mission in better financial condition than before, managed under the strict business policy inaugurated wherever the Salvation Army does City mission work.

Others feel that it would be deplorable to have this mission lose its local identity. It was conceived in Holland, fostered in Holland, financed in Holland and the building was built by carpenters and bricklayers, who gave their labor free, and naturally they, too, are vitally interested.

It is held by many that the mission should continue to function in the way that it always has—not as a church denomination, but they feel that the mission reaches a class of people not so easily reached by the denominational churches—folks who feel at home there and receive their spiritual guidance there.

There are a great many things that enter into the entire matter and undoubtedly finance is one of them. Former Mayor Earnest Brooks will be in charge of the Exchange club meeting and undoubtedly a great deal will be brought out that may throw new light on the whole City mission situation.

The News feels that whatever is done should not be done hastily. There are a great many people in Holland who have played a large part in starting and keeping the mission going and they also should be heard.

HUNTING ACCIDENTS MOSTLY SELF-INFLICTED

It is expected that there will be some accidents when 400,000 hunters, armed with death dealing weapons, take to the field during hunting season.

However, the annual loss of human life and the number of hunting accidents, short of death, now prevalent, seems to warrant popular concern.

During the hunting season of 1931 there were 15 hunters killed and at least 27 injured. Already this year, with the season but a few weeks old, there has been 10 hunting accident deaths and 19 seriously injured. By the time this is in print this list will in all probability have increased and the deer season will later add its toll.

It is significant that the bulk of all hunting accidents are self-inflicted. There is something about the excitement of hunting that causes otherwise sane individuals to perform irrationally. For instance, there is the recent incident of the two hunters who chased a rabbit into a culvert and then from either end of the pipe blazed away at each other. They met again in a hospital.

What does it avail the state to conserve its game resources if the recreational use of this resource is to result in an annual loss of human life of unnecessarily large proportions?

Here is one phase of conservation—and an important one—where the bulk of the burden rests squarely upon the shoulders of those who hunt. And where the penalty is immediate and not to be avoided.

The conservation department and other agencies can issue warnings, and do. But whether or not such warnings are heeded is up to the fellow with the gun.

MANY FROM HOLLAND ATTEND TRI-COUNTY C. E. CONVENTION

About 35 members of the Holland Christian Endeavor Union attended the eleventh annual Christian Endeavor convention of the central west district, which was held in Allegan Saturday and Sunday. This district is comprised of societies of Kent, Ottawa and Allegan counties.

About 150 attended the banquet Saturday evening. Rev. John R. Mulder of Western Theological seminary, spoke on "Meeting Life." Justin Vander Kolk, former president of the Golden Chain union, was toastmaster. Special music consisted of piano solos by John Cotts of Holland.

It was decided that the presidents of each of the five unions be responsible for an annual tri-county convention of which Marvin Schapp was chosen chairman for the coming year.

Rev. Winfield Burgegraf of Western Theological seminary addressed the group Sunday afternoon on "Meaning of Christian Discipleship." Marvin Schapp, president of the Holland union, presided. Endeavorers attended services at the Presbyterian church in the morning. Rev. Muller gave the convention sermon.

The session was closed Sunday evening with a Christian Endeavor meeting.

RUSSELL MARKS SUFFERS LACERATED ARM WHEN HE JUMPS THROUGH WINDOW

Russell Marks, aged 24, Grand Haven, suffered a badly lacerated right arm Sunday morning when he jumped from a window at his home at 1309 Penney avenue which was gutted by fire and damaged to the extent of about $600.

Mr. Marks was preparing to go to Ann Arbor when he noticed smoke coming from a hot air register. He went to the basement door to investigate and found the basement aflame, whereupon he went to awaken the family. He was unable to find the door to the outside because of the dense smoke so broke a window and in going through cut both his arms. His condition is reported favorable at the hospital.

The origin of the fire was undetermined but it was thought to be caused by an overheated furnace. The first department was called at 7 a. m. and when it arrived the fire had penetrated the partitions. The department got the flames under control after an hour of work.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS RETURNED TO HOLLAND

Cornelius Bontekoe and Walter Johnson of Holland, who were confined to Mercy hospital in Cadillac since Nov. 13 when they were injured in an automobile-train crash which took the life of Leonard Michelson, were returned to Holland today by ambulance.

The two will be brought here by ambulance. Bontekoe suffered a slight skull fracture and scalp wound and Johnson received a torn kidney and several broken ribs when the car in which they were riding crashed into a train in a crossing near Cadillac. Their conditions were said to be rapidly improving.

Julius Dietters, also in the accident, is recovering from cuts and bruises.

G. H. TEACHERS VOTE $70 TO AID NEEDY PUPILS

The Grand Haven Teachers club has appropriated $70 from its treasury for charitable purposes and President Glenn H. Olsen is to appoint a committee to supervise the expenditure. The plan is to use the money for items not usually covered, such as glasses for needy children who are backward in their studies because of eye defects. The club held a social session and had refreshments in the high school cafeteria after its business meeting.

MUST SERVE SENTENCE DURING VACATION

Judge Fred T. Miles sentenced an Indian at Wayland named Harry Peters to Iowa for six months to one year for violating the liquor law. He also sentenced Grover Coley, Allegan High school student—breaking and entering, to two years probation and 15 days in jail and $25 and costs. Sentence to be served in June after school is dismissed for long vacation.

FENNVILLE MEN INJURED AT CADILLAC

Harlan Cooper and Victor Savage, linemen of the Consumers' Power company of Grand Rapids, and Mike Wenzell of Fennville were injured late Sunday night at Cadillac when their automobile skidded off an icy road near here. The three spent the night in the Cadillac hospital. Cooper and Savage were on their way back to Grand Rapids today and Wenzell will be released from the hospital tomorrow. The men were reported to be on their way north to hunt when the accident occurred.

WILL TAKE THANKSGIVING FUNDS FOR SCHOOL, POOR

The churches of Zeeland will hold Thanksgiving services Thursday morning. The reformed church will take special offerings for the Western Theological seminary at Holland. Other gifts of the day will be distributed among the poor. In the evening the Choral society of First Christian reformed church will present its annual concert and program.

TWO STATE FERRIES RETURN 1,732 DEER ACROSS STRAITS

Two state ferries were busy over the week-end getting deer hunters back to Mackinac City to take lower peninsula highways home. A third boat is ready if needed. More than 1,100 bucks already have been transported south via this port. Nov. 16 saw 5 taken south, with more each day following, and 538 on Saturday. There were 361 Sunday up to 5 p. m., a total of 1,173.

Conditions are ideal in the woods for hunters, who report fewer deer than usual. There are lots of bear. Five have been carried south with as many coyotes among the trophies.

MICHIGAN SHOULD BE HARD ON THE DOCTORS

"An apple a day keeps the doctors away." The latest estimate places the Michigan apple crop this year at 1,019,000 barrels, as compared to 1,700,000 barrels last season. The apple crop for the United States is 23 million barrels as compared to 34 million last season. Michigan's potato crop is estimated at over 30 million of bushels as compared to nearly 24 millions last year. For the entire country potato crop is 359 million bushels while the 1931 crop was over 375 million bushels. This should be a poor place for doctors to locate if the above saying holds true.

WORSFOLD, OLDEST ACTIVE CITIZEN OF GRAND HAVEN, IS 91

John Worsfold, Grand Haven's oldest active citizen, is quietly observing his 91st birthday today. Mr. Worsfold resides at the corner of Fifth and Lafayette street. He was out and around as usual today although the honey business he conducts during the summer is in its usual fall slump. Mr. Worsfold was born in London in 1841 and came to Canada with his parents in 1843. He has had a varied life as laborer, real estate dealer, merchant, and bill collector. He is an active member of the Christian Science church of this city. He is cheerful and bright despite reverses during his life that would dishearten most men. Loss of his tools in a Chicago fire when they represented his only working capital and means of livelihood, loss of fortune and cattle in Manitoba, loss of his wife, and many minor misfortunes have only served to build a spirit which refuses to admit defeat.

Carthage was originally settled by Phoenicians from the city of Tyre. The Phoenicians were a branch of the Semitic race, the same to which the Hebrews belong. Although there was a large infusion of other races, Hannibal and the native Carthaginians who fought against Rome in the Punic wars may be regarded as of the Semitic race.

"If I gave you two rabbits in the morning and three rabbits in the afternoon how many rabbits would you have?" inquired the uncle.

"Six," cried little Betty. "Just as I thought. Two and three are six," answered the uncle. "But, uncle," said little Betty earnestly, "I already have one."

Pigs Are Turned Loose to Devour Rattle Snakes

AN ISLAND IN MICHIGAN IS ALIVE WITH RATTLESNAKES; TOURISTS FLEE

Rather an interesting story is written by Kendrick Kimball in the Detroit News coming from Bayport, Michigan, where there seems to be an island infested with snakes. Says Mr. Kendrick: "The rattlesnakes on Maisou Island in Wildfowl Bay are doomed. Bayport fishermen predict. Extinction of the snakes, which were so thick that canvas seldom visited the island, is expected from a drove of hogs turned loose for fattening. Fifty porkers were released on Maisou by a Bayport company which expects to find them sleek and heavy this winter from an acorn diet."

Recent visitors say the hogs have rooted over every foot of the island, particularly the beaches, where the rattlers frequently sunned themselves on vegetation cast up by the waves. When a hog and a snake meet the animal, immune to the poisonous fangs, stamps the reptile into a pulp with its sharp hoofs.

Many and blood curdling are the stories told of the Maisou rattlers, which had the unnerving habit of taking swims past boating parties on Saginaw Bay. A Sebawa resident described how he chopped some wood for a fire after skating to the island. Two torpid snakes were found coiled in the wood, where they had crawled for their winter hibernation. He has not visited the island since.

Several years ago a Grand Rapids canoeist, caught in a storm on Saginaw Bay, made a forced landing on Maisou. When he pulled his canoe on the beach he all but stepped on a rattler. A few yards away he saw another. When he discovered a third snake after walking a few rods he shoved off his canoe and paddled back into the storm.

Tim Lambert, operator of the Pigeon Club at Bayport, and a veteran guide for duck shooters, visited the island on a berry picking expedition. Something struck him on the leg and he saw a rattler hanging to his khaki trousers. Lambert stood still, with the snake squirming and twisting, its fangs caught in the fabric, until his companion brought a club.

The rattlers began to show a decrease last summer. A group of zoologists from the University of Michigan were able to catch only seven in a week. A few years ago this number could have been captured or killed in an hour.

Some Original Ideas of American Builders

While siding and shingle exterior coverings for homes did not strictly originate in this country, being largely modifications of existing methods brought over by the early settler-artisans, the availability of the materials and suitability to native architecture give houses sheathed in siding or shingles a distinctly American flavor.

Houses covered with rough hewn siding boards or clapboards, and crudely split shakes, or shingles, directly succeeded the first log cabins of the early colonists in this country. These materials have been refined by improved methods of manufacture into types which are in divinely appropriate to the variations of modern colonial architecture and to the architecture of other countries in American adaptations.

Cedar and pine and other durable native woods are used in modern manufacture of shingles and siding which are frequently stained to enhance their appearance and resistance to weather. Wood siding and shingles have integral insulating value in themselves, increasing comfort and fuel economy in the winter and keeping the house cool in summer.

MISS WITTEVEEN, 29, SUC- CUMBS AT CINCINNATI, O.

Miss Dorothy Witteveen, 29, a former resident of Holland, died Saturday noon in Good Samaritan hospital at Cincinnati, O., following an illness of about eight weeks. Miss Witteveen is a graduate of Holland High school and taught in the district school at Fillmore for some time. For the past five years she has been employed at the Better Business bureau in Cincinnati. Surviving are her grandmother, Mrs. Henry Oosting, of Holland; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Witteveen, of Fruitport; three brothers, Jack Witteveen of Holland and Peter and Eugene of Fruitport, and two sisters, Lillian and Amy Witteveen, both of Fruitport.

Funeral services were held this Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Nibelink-Notier funeral home. Rev. James Weyer, pastor of First reformed church, officiated. Burial took place in Harderwyk cemetery.

The Holland High football team lost its closing game when they were defeated Saturday at Muskegon Heights by Coach Okie Johnson's crew. The score was Muskegon Heights 7, Holland 0.

The seniors from Holland High who made their final appearance on the school team were Russ Van Tatenhove, Tom Selby, Jim Boter, Elton Cobb, Alvin Klomparsen, Don Slighter, Fred Japina, Merle Ver Schure and Laverne Scheerhorn.

Hillsdale college was hailed as football champions of the Michigan intercollegiate Athletic association Saturday after defeating Coach Bud Hinga's team of Hope college by a score of 7 to 0.

Although a victory over Hillsdale would have given Hope the conference championship for the first time in the school's history, the large delegation of Holland people who witnessed the game Saturday felt assured that the Dutch had finished a successful season in a blaze of glory.

Noted Organist Makes Second Appearance

PROGRAM IS VARIED, INTER- ESTING AND WELL ATTENDED

A very fine organ recital was presented last Thursday evening in Hope Memorial Chapel by Mr. Edward Eigenschink, organist of Second Presbyterian Church of Chicago. The program, interesting because of its many moods, held the audience at rapt attention.

The program opened with "Concert Overture" by Hollins, a famous blind organist of Edinburgh, Scotland. Widor's 5th Symphony—a familiar one to Holland audiences—followed in three movements: "Allegro vivace," "allegro cantabile," and "Toccata." For his Bach number, Mr. Eigenschink chose the interesting and melodic "Prelude in E minor." Then came two numbers by the Spanish composer de Falla—"Fisherman's Song" and "Pantomime." The next number was "Scarpie Chant" by Lily Wadhams Mo-line-Hollan, a prominent Chicago organist. After this came the delightful "Scherzetto" by Vierne. "Clouds" by Ceiga preceded the final number which was the very modern "Carillon de Westminster" by Vierne. To the instant applause which followed, Mr. Eigenschink responded with Clakey's "Canyon Walls."

Throughout the recital Mr. Eigenschink used interesting registrations and showed a technique capable of playing difficult passages accurately at a high tempo.

MARINE RAILWAY AT SPRING LAKE

A marine railway for speed boats, said to be the only one of its kind on the Great Lakes, is being erected on Spring Lake by Ed. Bauman, patron of motor boating in western Michigan. The railway consists of a hoist several feet out in the lake which takes the boats out of the water and places them on a cradle equipped with wheels which is pulled up the bank to a new boat house, 70 by 30 feet, which is being constructed at the present time. The boat house is equipped to house at least 35 speedboats.

ONLY 23,000 KILLED BY CARS
(Chicago American)

Only 23,000 persons have been killed by automobiles in the first ten months of this year.

Only 29,000 will have been killed by January 1, 1933.

This is nearly as many as the number of American soldiers killed in the World War.

But it is fewer than were killed by cars last year, and hence may be considered "progress."

To be exact, the total thus far is 15 per cent below the first ten months of 1931.

One reason is, of course, the safety campaigns waged in many cities and states.

Another may be "hard times," with the consequent reduction in the number of cars in use—though to the casual observer there seem to be as many gasoline buggies on the streets and highways as ever.

But whatever the cause, the improvement is gratifying. And with a few more years of intensive effort we may get the total down to the losses of the War of 1812, or the Mexican war, or some battle of the Civil War, like Gettysburg.

Work of Volta Bureau

Volta was a famous French electrician. The Volta prize, created by Napoleon, was conferred by France upon Dr. Alexander Graham Bell for the invention of the telephone. Doctor Bell took this money, 50,000 francs, added to it a large sum received from other electrical experiments, and founded the Volta bureau, "for the increase and diffusion of knowledge relating to the deaf." This bureau prints and distributes every year hundreds of leaflets containing helpful information for the hard of hearing or the parents of deaf children.

$70,000,000 OUTLAY POINTS TO BUSINESS RECOVERY

Some of America's biggest corporations are gambling $70,000,000 that the business depression has touched bottom and are oiling up their gears in the hope that the wheels of industry will be whirling at a normal clip. An imposing list of companies that will spend more than $70,000,000 along these lines was made public today by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the National Committee on Industrial Rehabilitation.

Battlefield Gives Up

Secrets of the Past

There are certain kinds of armor which we read about but have never seen because up till now no examples were to be found in museums. Recently, however, many specimens have been found in two great pits outside the old city of Visby in the island of Gotland.

In 1531 Gotland was invaded by King Valdemar at the head of a powerful Danish army, and a desperate battle was fought before Visby. The valiant defense of the Gotlanders was all in vain, and Valdemar marched into the capital leaving nearly 2,000 friends and foes dead on the field. They were buried hurriedly, with weapons still in the wounds, in two great graves which have not been disturbed for five and a half centuries.

Recently a Swedish archeologist has been excavating the pits, with their treasure of medieval armor and their poor bones marked by axes and arrows. The Swedish and Danish governments will erect a monument where so many men died gallantly because Valdemar wanted to plunder Gotland.

REFORMED CHURCH STARTS SIXTY-EIGHTH YEAR

Holland Folk at First Met in School

Sixty years ago a group of persons of the Christian Reformed faith met at the home of C. Vorst to organize the Central Avenue Christian Reformed Church. The worshippers felt the need for a church in Holland because members then were required to go to Graafschap for services.

Starting with a small congregation with no established church house, the organization has grown since its birth, Nov. 8, 1865, to one of 225 families, listing 1,350 members. In its infancy the congregation purchased a remodeled school building which had been improved for the purpose. The first service was held in this building January 29, 1866.

A number of years later the present church on Central Ave. was erected. It has been improved on different occasions and now boasts the largest auditorium of any church in Holland.

The Rev. J. De Beer was the first pastor. The Rev. Lambertus Veltkamp, present pastor, has served the church since 1925.

Others having charges in Holland were the Rev. F. Hulst, the Rev. J. Noordewier, the Rev. G. Hoeksema, the Rev. G. E. Boer, the Rev. J. A. De Bruyn, the Rev. Edward Vander Vries, the Rev. E. Van Hoogen, the Rev. R. L. Haan and the Rev. B. H. Einink.

Of the former pastors, the Rev. Mr. Noordewier, the Rev. Mr. Haan and the Rev. Mr. Einink are living. Mr. Noordewier, 92 years old, is the oldest living minister of the Christian Reformed denomination. Mr. Noordewier, a few Sundays ago, spoke over radio station W-O-O-D, Grand Rapids, his first effort.

Customs of Early Dutch Folks Unique

THESE WERE VERY MUCH THE SAME IN HOLLAND AND ZEELAND SETTLEMENTS

The editor of the Zeeland Record gives a vivid description of early day customs in the Zeeland colony after its founding and many years following. Holland could easily be included as adhering to these customs for your editor remembers even in his day that many of them were still in vogue in the Holland churches. Anyway the following from the Zeeland Record may be applied to any place in southern Ottawa and northern Allegan counties where Hollanders first colonized.

Zeeland Record—Let us consider briefly some of the quaint and interesting customs of the early pioneer colonists of Zeeland. Their religious fervor was especially prominent, and the entire family devoutly attended the church services each Sunday. It is interesting to picture them carrying roent bottles, peppermints and gezangboek with golden clasps as they march to church. Sermons lasted two or three hours, and their method of keeping people awake in these services was unique. A squirrel's tail was fastened to a long stick, and with this the janitor gently tickled all those who, perchance, fell asleep during the services. In order to avoid this, it was a general custom for anyone who began to feel sleepy to arise in his place, stretch his arms, remain standing for a while and then sit again and continue listening to the long sermon. Snuff boxes, passed along to one another, were a great aid to keep adults, as well as children, interested.

Black velvet bags with large and beautiful tassels at the end, fastened on a long pole, were passed by the deacons, who sat in one corner of the church, opposite the stately elders, to receive the offering which was made up chiefly of penny donations.

The foot warmer was commonly used. This was a sort of footstool in which a tray was placed. The janitor's job was to supply live coals for this tray and the feet of especially the older members were kept comfortably warm. Frequently, however, this caused smoke and unpleasant odor and it was necessary to see Eau de Cologne sprinkled upon handkerchiefs, which helped wonderfully.

Then also trays in the foot warmers were filled with marbles. Below this, a little kerosene or alcohol lamp burned, until these marbles were hot. The feet were placed on top of the foot stool and thus kept warm in the coldest section of the building.

Possibly some of the older residents of Zeeland remember the old Market Day, as it was observed in Zeeland. The farmers from far and near drove into town with loads of farm produce, including cattle, sheep, poultry, in fact, almost anything that the farmers desired to sell or show.

Numerous large wagons were arrayed along the streets, filled with farm products, each farmer trying to make the best display. This day's outing at the market was eagerly looked forward to by all the families and there was a good deal of buying and selling and trading carried on. Interesting sports were also part of the program for those not directly interested in the farm products, and children as well as the older people were deeply interested in the day and looked forward to its coming with happy anticipation.

Marriage promises were always announced in church two successive Sundays, and the marriage vows were said the third Sunday. The early colonists showed great interest in observing the festival of St. Nicholas on December 6th. Family reunions were the order of the day and the shops presented a festive appearance displaying the cakes and sweets in the shapes of birds, beasts and fish. Large rolls of cake decorated with strips of white frosting were attractive decorations. As the colonists became Americanized the feasting was more and more postponed until Christmas time.

No Food, No Bride

It is the custom in a Persian wedding that the groom first sees his bride in a mirror and then, having glanced at her face, returns to eat sweets and regale himself with his friends.

Mullah Nasr ed Din was married, beheld his bride in the mirror, returned to the guest chamber and discovered to his horror that the guests had eaten all the refreshments. He went out from the room in disgust and was caught as he was leaving the house by a back door.

Upon being asked why under heaven he was departing from his own wedding, he said: "Well, I'm going. The guests have eaten all the food. They may have the bride."—R. C. Hutchinson in Asia Magazine.

The Only Buried
Town In StateRAILROAD AND BOAT CENTER
NEAR GR. HAVEN COVERED BY WANDERING SAND DUNES

The Holland City News has often written about and pictured Singapore, near Saugatuck, the lumbering town as being buried beneath drifts of blow sand from neighboring dunes on Lake Michigan - which have a way of wandering about when not checked by artificial means.

We know the history of Singapore with its mills, stores, bank, postoffice, boarding houses - all sand covered - because this occurred within a few miles of Holland. However, a place once a railroad center just north of Grand Haven, suffered the same fate and it seems that there are still other places obliterated from the face of the earth in just that way.

Traveling sand dunes have conquered and almost completely obliterated trace of a number of towns along the eastern shore of Lake Michigan. Shifting sand has covered mills, camps, and lumber shipping ports and forced railways to move their terminals.

At Grand Haven a few rotting piles are left to mark the once extensive warehouses, docks and trestles of a railway and steamer terminal, abandoned to the sand more than half a century ago. Twenty years ago some of the roofs of buildings were still showing above the sand, but now these too have disappeared from sight, either torn away for salvage lumber or buried deep beneath the drift.

Railroad Followed Stream
Before the Civil War the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee Railway followed the winding course of the stream to a point directly opposite the present city of Grand Haven. There, the railway built a large depot, including a passenger station and transfer warehouses.

A small valley in the high hills to the rear of the terminal became the site of a village, which bore the name of Happy Hollow. Here were boarding houses where railway workers boarded and a number of dwellings for permanently located employees of the company. Happy Hollow evidently lived up to its name, according to the tales of Grand Haven's old timers who remember visiting the place. Like Pompeii, however, Nature has destroyed it.

The D. G. H. & M. Railway operated two passenger steamers between Grand Haven and Milwaukee and these boats docked at the terminal across the river from Grand Haven. Passengers for the town were carried across by ferry steamers.

"Black Boats" Fast
They were fast, capable craft, far ahead of their time in equipment and cabin luxuries. In fact, old-time marine men insist that none of the modern boats have equalled the speed of the old "black boats." Both of them have long since gone to Davy Jones' locker.

The "black boats" were running during the Civil War. Thousands of Union soldiers from Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota crossed Lake Michigan on them, going to the front, and thousands pushed westward and homeward on board the craft when the war was over. On both trips the women of Grand Haven turned the huge warehouses into a great cafeteria to feed the passing soldiers and many a wartime romance budded and faded with the passing on of the troops. During the war a reported plot of the Confederates to capture the big "black boats" caused the ships to be armed with cannon and strictest vigilance maintained by the officers and crews.

Following the Civil War, the railway company began to realize that its terminal was unsatisfactory. The sand dunes were pressing down on it, a giant hill of white sand, 250 feet high, towering just above the property. Grand Haven was growing rapidly on the opposite bank, and Grand Haven people began to take steps to persuade the railway to cross the river.

In 1868, or thereabouts, the railway officials and the city authorities struck an agreement. For a bonus of $60,000 the railroad agreed to cross to Grand Haven. A bond issue was floated and after some internal squabbling the money was paid. The D. G. H. & M. Railway built a bridge across Grand River, erected huge warehouses, a grain elevator, passenger station and offices, and laid out yards.

Mayor Safeguards City
Robert W. Duncan, pioneer lawyer, mayor of the City at the time, inserted a clause in the agreement which provides that if the D. G. H. & M. Railway, its successors or assigns, ever moves its terminal from Grand Haven to any other port on the east shore of Lake Michigan all of the terminal buildings, rails, rights of way, bridges, etc., will be forfeited to and become the property of the City of Grand Haven.

The D. G. H. & M. Railway now is a part of the Grand Trunk Western Lines of the Canadian National Railway System. The terminal is the western Michigan outlet for that company's stream of freight traffic in and out of the West. A car-ferry terminal has been added to dock properties and a fleet of four car-ferryes operates over the route, connecting Milwaukee with Detroit and the Atlantic seaboard.

Directly across the broad channel a few rows of twisted, rotted and charred piles, stand out as a stark monument to the railroad's pioneer attempt to fight the traveling dunes. The high dune, known as "Dewey Hill," which threatened the railway more than 60 years ago, has continued its relentless march until it now lies 20 feet over the soil which once held tracks and docks that served a busy commercial center.

WORLD

A crowd of bidders of such proportions that some of the bids were lost before they reached the auctioneer paid $6,460 cash for 39 head of horses and colts sold at a consignment sale which concluded a two-day plowing contest and horse fair sponsored by the Michigan Horse Breeders Association at Michigan State College.

The average price paid for registered horses was $256.25 and $164.05 for grades. Foals and yearlings brought an average price of $62.

The animal husbandry department of the college has been trying for the past few years to interest state farmers in raising horses for the local market, which has been obtaining replacements for aged animals from western states. Over one million dollars were paid out for horses brought in from other states by Michigan farmers last year.

Multiple horse hitching showing four, five, six, and eight-horse teams pulling plows were studied by 1,500 people who watched the plowing contest. Winners in the classes as listed were John Stoll, Lansing; A. L. Barnhart, Reading; Bernard Bosworth, Grand Ledge; and Sherman Road, Richland.

Winners in the horse pulling contest were owned by Ernest Williams, Lansing, first; R. F. Langley, Flint, second; and Fred Haves, Owosso, third. Owners of first place winners in the show horse classes are H. D. Woodworth, Potterville; Michigan State, Jackson; W. A. Small Grand Ledge; Sherman Road, Richville; and J. Ponath and Sons, Detroit.

BULL PEN WHERE THE BULL CANNOT BULL YOUSafety of Owners Assured If Safety Inclosure Plans are Followed

A new use for discarded boiler flues has been found by the agricultural engineering department at Michigan State College who advise the use of such material for the construction of safety bull pens. The two departments supervised the building of 52 pens in the state this year with the intention of showing how such an inclosure could be built at little cost and at the same time insure the owner of the bull against accidental death or injury from attacks by the animal.

The pens may be built of various sorts of material but it is recommended that the fencing be at least six feet high and that the pen be an oblong pen is built to give the bull the greatest possible space for approximately 30 x 50 feet in size, exercise with the least amount of fencing. The use of such pens permits the owners of good herd sires to retain the animals when they would be dangerous if it was necessary to enter an enclosure with the bull. The safety pen makes it unnecessary to ever be on the same side of the fence as the bull. Blue prints which give specifications for the pen may be obtained by writing to either of the College Departments at East Lansing.

WRECK SO SEVERE IN ALLEGAN COUNTY WOMAN
THROWN OUT OF SHOES

Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Gaubatz of Allegan had a narrow escape from serious injury election night. They were returning to Plainwell, had reached the Truman corners on the Otsego road, when with a warning their light coupe was struck from the rear by another car and catapulted through the air about 100 feet. Mr. Gaubatz was thrown out while Mrs. Gaubatz found herself atop the steering wheel with one leg through the broken windshield. When she managed to extricate herself she found her husband unconscious on the pavement. After repeated attempts she succeeded in rousing him. The car that struck them belonged to R. E. Myers of Allegan and had been stolen. Mrs. Gaubatz states that the Myers car whirled around the side of their car after the crash and that the driver, a stranger to them, then got out. She supposed he was coming to their assistance but instead he crossed the roadway and set off at a brisk walk across the field. The coupe was a complete wreck and the Myers car much the worse from the impact.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaubatz were miraculously saved from death, sustaining only some bruises. The lady also suffered minor cuts on one hip. The couple was picked up by Fred Moore who was returning from Kalamazoo.

Mr. Myers reported the theft of his car to the sheriff's office and soon after was notified of the wreck. Investigating, he learned that one of the cars figuring in the accident was his. A freak incident of the collision was the fact that Mrs. Gaubatz was thrown out of her shoes, which were not located until the following day.

Women's Home
Missions Observe
Golden JubileeREV. J. VANDERMEULEN
ADDRESSES GROUP ON
"AMERICA FOR CHRIST"

Tuesday, November 15, in Hope Memorial Chapel, delegates from missionary union of Holland, Muskegon, Grand Rapids, and Kalamazoo attended the Golden Jubilee marking the 50th anniversary of home mission work, conducted by the Women's Board of Domestic Missions for the Reformed Church of America. "America for Christ" was the theme topic of the jubilee.

Presenting Christianity's need for sacrificial living and giving, Rev. G. A. Watermuller, advisor for the Indian field, spoke on "Hardships and Triumphs of Indian Work." In keeping with the spirit of the meeting, Oswald Lampkins, negro, of Grand Rapids, sang several Negro spirituals, while Miss Setu Matsunobu, Hope Junior, sang one of her native Japanese songs. Sketches of the work in Japan, among immigrants, Mexico, Kentucky, and among Italians, were given by Miss Laura A. Boyd, Mrs. George E. Kollen, Rev. Seth Vander Werf, secretary of the board, Mrs. Abraham De Jonge, and Miss Julia Heines. Scripture and prayer were offered by Mrs. C. Span of Grand Rapids.

At the evening meeting, President Wynand Wichers conducted the devotion, and the chapel choir sang "List to the Lark," Schubert; and "O Praise Ye God," Tchaikovsky. Dr. John M. Vander Meulen, seminary at Louisville, Ky., spoke on "America for Christ," appealing to the women for help in overcoming atheism, nationalism, and materialism, which he stated, were the forces opposed to work of the Christian church, by an example of Christ-like living. In conclusion, Mrs. J. E. Telling sang "Open the Gates of the Temple."

Mrs. John A. Dykstra of Grand Rapids presided over both meetings. The chapel was filled to capacity on both occasions.

At the conclusion of the afternoon meeting, Mrs. W. Durfee, Dean of Women, entertained the delegates at tea at Voorhes Hall, where, in honor of the day, there appeared a huge cake for the "Missionary Birthday."

Under the tutelage of Professor Ritter, a group of fourteen students met last Friday night in the reading room of Graves Library to compare and criticize their attempts at creative writing. During the year they plan to study and practise the writing of verse, magazine articles, editorials, and short stories as well as some one-act plays. This group, known as the Writing club, is formed about the nucleus of six or seven students who during the past three years have fostered Pegasus Pony.

Eight members of this group, together with two members of the faculty who are especially interested in writing verse, have formed a local chapter of the national College Poetry Circle, an organization which published monthly a small booklet of verse written by college students from all parts of the United States.

The entire group plans to meet once a week, temporarily between 6:45 and 7:30 p. m. on Friday.

Mrs. Bess Streeter Aldrich, a woman writer of Elmwood, Neb., while fishing in one of the thousand lakes in Minnesota, caught a four-pound pickerel and a three-pound bass on the same line at the same time. The bass and pickerel struck the same trolling spoon-book simultaneously, as she felt but one strike. Both were successfully landed.

Favor Cut In Fishing Fees
In MichiganCOMMITTEE WILL REPORT TO
TOURIST GROUP ON CUTTING
RESIDENCE FEES

At a special meeting Tuesday at Grand Rapids a committee of the Western Michigan Tourist-Resort association appointed to look into the advisability of changing the state resident and non-resident fishing license fee went on record favoring the reduction of the present non-resident fee from $4 to $3, thus conforming with the price charged in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The committee also reported it favors a "short term" non-resident fishing license fee of one dollar for anglers who wish to spend the week-end in western Michigan but who do not care to pay the $3 or $4 full term fee.

W. L. Stribley of Grand Haven is chairman of the committee and other members are Ben East, Carl Saunders and Earl Weiss of Grand Rapids, H. A. Jackson of Saugatuck, Edward Heuneling of Newaygo and W. J. McDonald of Petoskey. Recommendation of the committee will be made to board of directors of the association.

The committee made the recommendation believing that anglers will be attracted to this area rather than go to Minnesota or Wisconsin. Mr. Stribley said that any sportsman who wishes to give his view on the proposal write to him at the chamber of commerce office.

HOOVER ON ADVERTISING

President Hoover made a contribution to the literature on advertising in his recent address to the Association of National Advertisers. He pointed out the effect of advertising to transform small industries into mass production. He effectively illustrated the idea, by saying that it probably took 1000 years to spread the knowledge of the wheeled cart, but modern advertising made the automobile the universal tool of man in 20 years. Advertising shows people the next step in their progress, and it stimulates their ambition to increase their usefulness and production, so they can take that next step.

Crows Like Grave
Yards, It AppearsTHOUSANDS LIVE THE YEAR
AROUND AMONG THE TOMBS

Thousands of crows are making their homes the year round in Mt. Evergreen Cemetery, Jackson, Mich., only a few blocks from the city's main business district, and the flock has so multiplied that virtually every tree in the large burying ground is an abode for one or more crow families.

Just at daybreak, whether it be the coldest day of the winter or the hottest day of the summer, raucous notes begin to arise from various quarters. A great rustling of feathers is heard, tree branches begin to sway and after a general pow-pow which resolves itself into a noisy din, the birds take the air. For several minutes they wheel and maneuver about the vicinity of the cemetery. Some appear to be engaged in a great game of tag, others perform difficult acrobatics, while other flocks appear to reconnoiter as if laying down the campaign for the day. The aerial din is terrific, but residents of the neighborhood say they are accustomed to the noise and declare the birds are excellent alarm clocks if one cares to arise at daybreak.

The maneuvers are carried on for nearly half an hour, when the flocks start out. Apparently commanded by leaders whose voice commands in the crow language, they swing into action and disappear in every direction. Those familiar with the flights of the Jackson crow colony say virtually the entire lower section of Michigan is covered by this flock. Some of the birds travel well down toward the Indiana line in their search for food. They seem to have a well-defined course, once they take the air, and true to tradition, travel as "the crow flies."

The cemetery is as quiet as any cemetery throughout the day, but just before sundown the departed birds begin to appear. The main flock, which seems to travel to the southward, takes several minutes to assemble. Much of the gathering together is done near the southwestern outskirts of the city. Apparently the birds meet by prearrangement, for they can be seen coming toward Jackson in small groups, each many hundred yards apart. It has been said by some that the home line is never out of touch with the extreme outposts, and when the general call to come in is sent out, every bird starts for headquarters.

One of the principal gathering places of the birds for several years was a rendering works just north of the city, where fat was salvaged from carcasses of animals and the residue turned into fertilizer. The birds hovered about this place from dawn to dusk, picking the carcasses of animals much like the buzzards of the South.

Now that the rendering plant is gone, the birds find rich picking in abattoir and slaughter-house yards, and butchers from all parts of this section of the state report the crow is one of their principal allies. Naturally, the birds take kindly to farmers who plant corn and beans in the spring, but when this food is not forthcoming they turn to carrion for their sustenance.

No particular protest ever has been raised by residents of Jackson over the presence of the crows, nor have grave owners protested their presence nor has war been declared against the black-winged host.

MORE FLOUR RECEIVED FOR NEEDY PERSONS

Another shipment of Red Cross flour was received Friday for needy persons of this city and the townships of Holland, Park, Olive and Port Sheldon, as announced by Miss La Verne Essenburg, who is in charge of the receipts of applications at the Visscher-Brooks building on East Eighth street.

The present shipment contains a total of 98,000 pounds of flour, the largest car load received here since the distribution began last summer.

In the shipment were 1,784 of the 25-pound sacks and 1,068 of the 50-pound sacks.

Needy persons may apply for flour at the Visscher-Brooks building each morning between 9 and 12 o'clock. Flour is issued from the warehouse at East Eighth street by Richard Brandt, who is in charge during the absence of Henry Barkema, who, with Henry Weller, is spending several days in Iowa.

HUNTING ACCIDENTS MOSTLY SELF-INFLICTED

It is expected that there will be some accidents when 400,000 hunters, armed with death dealing weapons, take to the field during hunting season.

However, the annual loss of human life and the number of hunting accidents, short of death, now prevalent, seems to warrant popular concern.

During the hunting season of 1931 there were 15 hunters killed and at least 27 injured. Already this year, with the season but a few weeks old, there has been 10 hunting accidents and 19 seriously injured. By the time this is in print this list will in all probability have increased and the deer season will later add its toll.

Bird's "Language"

A scientist who has been making a study of the songs and noises made by birds, says that the African bird seems to have a vocabulary of about 300 words, and apparently an alphabet of 25 letters or symbols. Instead of singing when it opens its beak, it really makes words. Often the bird will use a word one day and not use it again for many weeks.

It takes up at the same time every morning and usually makes the same morning speech of about 20 words that lasts 14 seconds. Its daily schedule varies less from day to day than that of human beings.

Business Address: Holland, Michigan.

Common Council

Holland, Mich., Nov. 16, 1932.

The Common Council met in regular session and was called to order by the mayor.

Present: Mayor Bosch, Aldermen Kleis, Prins, Brieve, Woltman, Hyma, Van Zoeren, Steffens, Habing, Huyser, Jonkman, Veltman and Van Lente and the clerk.

The minutes of the last meeting were considered read and approved.

Petitions and Accounts.

On motion of Alderman Kleis, seconded by Prins.

Regular order of business suspended and the request of Mr. Herman Van Munster for a hearing before the council on a matter of wages that he claimed due him for work done under direction of the unemployment committee, was taken up. Alderman Prins, chairman of the unemployment committee, reported that Mr. Van Munster and his family had been supported by the City of Holland for several years. Mr. Prins further reported that it was the contention of the unemployment committee and the welfare committee that some work should be given the city in return for this aid. It was further stated that reports had come to them from good authority that Mr. Van Munster had made the boast that the city would have to support him without his working. For these reasons, he had given instructions to have the check of Mr. Van Munster made payable to the welfare committee, which Mr. Van Munster had objected. The mayor called upon Mr. Van Munster, who was present, to give his side of the matter. Mr. Van Munster disclaimed having made the statement that the city would have to support him without his working, and said that he felt he should be given his check for working the same as others who were receiving their checks for working. After hearing from Mr. Van Munster further and also from Welfare Director Bosch who stated that Mr. Van Munster and his family had been supported by the city for about six years, it was moved by Alderman Kleis and the action of the unemployment committee and welfare committee be sustained. Carried.

Mayor Bosch then called for the time question to be taken up. Clerk presented a communication from the Merchants' association requesting the council to rescind their previous action and revert back to eastern standard or fast time.

Clerk also presented a communication from H. Vander Warf and a petition with 27 signatures requesting the Council to remain on central standard time during the winter months.

Mr. William Woldring spoke in favor of retaining the central standard or slow time during the winter months. The aldermen entered into very little discussion on the matter. The mayor also recommended that a committee of three citizens might be appointed to investigate how other cities handle this problem and that will be of value to our community.
