Veltmans Find Life Interesting In Netherlands

Family Intrigued by New Mode of Living, Flowers and Bicycles

The following article was written by Peter Veltman, former Holland high teacher now in the Netherlands studying under the Fulbright plan. Veltman received a leave of absence from Wheaton college where he has been teaching the last year to take advantage of the nine-month scholarship for study at Free university. With him are his wife the former Marian Waalkes, and their two adopted children.

By Peter Veltman
"Nederland is herrezen." "The Netherlands has been resurrected." This is the revised version here of the cry popular during the war, "Nederland zal herrijzen"—"The Netherlands shall be resurrected (shall arise)."

We arrived in Rotterdam Saturday, Nov. 5, about 7 a.m. aboard the Nieuw Amsterdam, flagship of the Holland-America line, following an uneventful, calm trip which started in New York Oct. 28 at 4 p.m.

Rationing here ceased the day after we arrived. The only items still rationed are coffee and coal.

We are the "guinea pigs" of the Fulbright plan as far as the Netherlands is concerned. There were seven or eight of us aboard the New Amsterdam.

We are impressed with the differences between the Netherlands and the U. S. The box cars are small, the street cars are small. Everything is done by hand—farming, moving, etc. If the economy here were replaced with life as we know it in America, the Netherlands would face economic disaster.

Bicycles are used constantly, although we are told bicycles are expensive and that perhaps 50 per cent of those who would like to own bicycles do so. It is easy to see why Netherlands cannot maintain bicycles if their average income is some $12 per week, and it is easily recognizable why people do not write more letters from here when it costs 50 cents to send one average letter air mail.

It seems to be customary for rain to fall here sometime during the day. If the morning is clear, it usually rains in the afternoon. If it rains in the morning, it is perhaps clear in the afternoon. One is impressed with the sturdy shoes one sees, fairly inexpensive, which seems to wear well in spite of all the wet weather. Marian wears open toe and open heel shoes, and the burgers here stare, as they do at American rubbers.

Someone told me the other day that one can always tell the American here by his loud ties. Vivid colors as we have in America seem to be scarce as does that typical American trademark—the saddle shoe.

The International Students service had arranged for the American group at Amsterdam to stay at the Wiechmann hotel, Prinsengracht 328. People at the hotel were generous and genial, as are Dutch people generally. They go out of their way to show directions, etc. But the Americans find it difficult so far to accustom themselves to no showers, unheated rooms, and bread as the main dish for two meals per day as well as typical Dutch foods, such as kale and potatoes mixed, sauerkraut mixed with potatoes, cabbage and potatoes, etc.

The State department in Washington kept our birth certificates as well as those of the girls. We find this very awkward because we have some difficulty proving that we actually were born. We also had difficulty in proving at the Netherlands registration office that Virginia and Donna actually have our last name. The custom in the Netherlands, I was given to understand, is that children retain their own name, even if adopted, and the original parents have to give the children permission to marry and have supervision over their affairs until the children are 30 or so.

Many are the occasions which remind us of Holland, Mich. There is a J. A. Brouwer Co. here; there are those here who remember the visit of Willard Wichers here, as well as of Dr. Clarence De Graaf and the American students. The fact that Amsterdam gave Holland, Mich., a street organ seems well established. Amsterdam, incidentally, is the only city in the Netherlands which has street organs, we are told.

The Fulbright plan, concluded as far as the Netherlands is concerned on May 17, 1949, makes available $5,000,000 in guilders in the form of scholarships to American students from the Netherlands government in return for lend-lease material, etc., in the next 20 years. The amount allotted each student is in keeping with what the Netherlands student needs so that the American student will appreciate the way of life of the Netherlands student. Slippery Road Causes Mishap

Three persons were hurt in an accident at 12:30 p.m. Monday on US-31, in front of the Tulip City Duck Farms.

A car driven by Margaret Ewing, 63, of route 1, was going north on US-31 and a car coming south on the same highway was driven by Theodore Williamson of Chicago.

Because of trees along the road, the highway was shaded and "very slippery." The Williamson car started to skid and went sideways into the path of the oncoming Ewing car.

Fred D. Williams of Chicago who was riding on the right side of the Williamson car at the point of impact, was taken to Holland hospital with face lacerations, a possible fractured pelvis and possible fractured ribs. Williamson was believed to have a couple of broken ribs.

Margaret Ewing received a cut knee and facial cuts and was suffering from shock.

been fortunate enough to procure two rooms and a small kitchen at Raadhuisstraat 43, Amsterdam, where Marian does her own cooking. One room is heated. There is a serious housing shortage here and, as in America, so here children are not considered desirable tenants.

We have spent practically this whole first week checking with the police, the U. S. Educational Foundation in The Hague, the consulate, the University, etc. We still must go to the rationing bureau and I must get my physical examination to go to the University.

German bunkers still stand opposite the Russian and American consulates on the Museumplein; railroad cars, scorched and with broken windows, still stand on the sidings; and ruins are still evident here and there—mute evidence of the German invasion, and mute but glowing tribute to a people which would rather eat mud soup from the bulb fields than surrender and perish.

The flowers here are beautiful. It seems that every Netherlands, even the poorest, can afford a bunch of flowers or a plant in his home.

Prices are scheduled to go up here, as far as unofficial speculation is concerned. A hair cut for instance, here costs about 60 cents, plus tip, total about 75 cents. I bought a cyclamen last evening for $1.25. It has seven flowers and several buds. Oranges, catsup, pineapple are expensive. A package of 10 razor blades costs $1.75.

Amsterdam has had 9,000 accidents since Jan. 1. Little wonder with the narrow streets, bicycles, motorcycles, cars, trucks. Present population is about one million. One sees a few American cars.

Purchases at stores are wrapped in newspapers; such things as bread have a wrapper about them which covers about half the loaf, toilet tissue and facial tissues are scarce and coarse, and nothing is tied with cord, as in American stores.

Armistice Day, Nov. 11, passed without incident. The American consulate was closed. Marssepein appears in the bake shops everywhere. It becomes evident that we are approaching Sinter Klaas day, Dec. 6.

Evelyn Van Dam, Hope college senior from Hudsonville, has been appointed to serve on Gov. Williams' Michigan Youth commission, it was announced today by Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, college president.

In making this appointment, in a letter to Miss Van Dam, the governor said that President Truman has appointed a committee of representative citizens to give general direction to the Mid-Century White House conference on children and youth which will convene later in 1950. Gov. Williams said, "I am appointing a committee to co-operate with the Mid-Century conference and it is my sincere desire the Michigan Youth commission shall lead the nation in this field of endeavor. Our children are Michigan's greatest wealth."

Mrs. Margaret Price of Ann Arbor has accepted the chairmanship of the commission. Gov. Williams further said that all state agencies dealing with children and youth will be requested to furnish every possible assistance to the Michigan commission. Miss Van Dam is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Van Dam, route 2, Hudsonville. She is majoring in English and is at present practicing teaching afternoons in Zeeland high school under direction of Cornelius Lampen. Active in college affairs, Miss Van Dam is serving the YWCA as president and the Student Council as vice president.

She is a member of Sigma Sigma sorority, the Musical Arts club, the Women's Glee club, the English Majors club and the College choir. Last year she served the Milestone staff as associate editor.

Scarcity of sheep in all producing areas this year makes it profitable to fatten lambs to 90 pounds before marketing, advises L. H. Blakeslee, Michigan State college animal husbandry specialist.

With lambs consuming 400 pounds of corn and 450 pounds of legume hay, feed costs should not exceed $15 per 100 pounds of gain, leaving an unusually wide margin between feed costs and fat lamb prices, Blakeslee thinks. Careful hand feeding or self-feeding of corn and good quality legume hay should make the lamb gain one-third pound or more daily.

Slowly increasing the daily corn ration from one-tenth to one pound during a two-week period is desirable when hand feeding a flock of lambs with corn and hay. Mixing cracked corn and ground or cut hay when self-feeding may prevent overfeeding troubles and death losses. Vaccination also helps prevent overfeeding losses. When mixing cracked corn and cut hay, start with a mixture of 30 per cent corn the first two weeks, change to 40 per cent cracked corn. After this, 50 per cent cracked corn or more, up to 80 per cent, can be used if desirable to make lambs gain faster and reach market early.

Drenching unthrifty and wormy lambs with phenothiazine will save feed and hasten the lambs to market, the specialist concludes.

Saugatuck Death Is Probed After Alleged Skirmish

An autopsy was to be performed in Holland at 12:30 p.m. today to determine if Village Marshal J. W. Schreckengust, 63, of Saugatuck died of a heart attack or as the result of injuries received in a scuffle.

Schreckengust died Tuesday in Douglas hospital where he had been admitted just a week ago on Nov. 16. Three days earlier he was said to have scuffled with a group of Detroit youths while making an arrest in Douglas.

Arrest of five Detroit youths followed a chain of events which started at 1 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 13, when a car driven by Norman Van Syckel of Douglas hit a light pole in Douglas causing high tension wires to lay across the street with resultant shorting out of many Douglas electrical circuits.

Schreckengust reported to the scene to maintain order and public protection, and while there he apprehended five youths driving repeatedly past the scene. This car was suspected of forcing Van Syckel from the road causing the initial accident.

The five youths were taken to Saugatuck jail where a skirmish is said to have taken place. Schreckengust who became ill turned the quintet over to Town Marshal Dempski who later took the group to Allegan county jail. The quintet was released later.

Schreckengust was born in Jamestown. He served as town marshal in Saugatuck for many years.

Surviving are the wife; two daughters, Mrs. Ann King of Grandville and Mrs. Lucille Fisher of Saugatuck; two sons, Noland C. of Douglas and Arthur Ray of Grand Rapids; seven grandchildren and five great grandchildren, and a brother, Ray of Battle Creek.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. from Congregational church in Saugatuck with the Rev. H. E. Maycroft officiating. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery. Friend may call at the Dykstra chapel in Saugatuck Thursday.

Dr. Edward F. Ducey, pathologist at St. Mary's hospital in Grand Rapids, was scheduled to perform the autopsy. Allegan county Coroner William Ten Brink of Hamilton and Deputy Forrest Richenbach of Allegan also were to be present.

Klan Subverts U.S. Tradition

Continued outrages by the Ku Klux Klan are symptoms of a sick Southern economy, Kenneth Allen told the Social Progress club at its meeting Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peigrim, 1425 South Shore Dr.

"The klansman has taken your flag, your Bible and your Constitution and subverted them to the task of maintaining white supremacy and wage slavery. And the most effective ways of drying up this well-spring of hatred is the publicity and ridicule poured on the Klan by newspapers and pulpits," he said.

Allen traced the development of the Klan from 1865 to the present, showing its changes of policy in relation to general economic history of the South. Best bulwarks against the Klan are the newspapers, schools and churches, he said.

The meeting was conducted by C. E. Drew, acting president. A tray luncheon was served by the hosts. Larry Towse was a guest of the club.

Red Cross Story Told in Song And Narrative

Through narration, song and drama, the story of the Red Cross in review for 1949 was told to Red Cross leaders at the annual meeting in the Woman's Literary club Monday night. About 100 attended.

George Lumsden, speech teacher at Holland high school, in a narrative related the accomplishments of the Red Cross on a local and national basis. His script was interspersed with hit tunes of the day, emphasizing the timely and eventful work of the year.

The narrative covered statistics, accomplishments, home service, water safety and the blood program of the Red Cross. A group of Washington school pupils taught by Jeanette Veltman gave a Red Cross play which traced the destination of the many Junior Red Cross gift boxes filled by children all over the country. The outer room, a part of the auditorium, is done in gold, with white swag curtains, trimmed in plush fringe. On either side black and gold wall brackets hold black plaster lamps, which help set the pattern for the gunmetal walls of the main auditorium. Cheboygan Justice Tries to Censor News

Cheboygan, Nov. 24—The Cheboygan Daily Tribune last week lashed out at a justice of the peace who refused to give any more news from his court because the paper published news of a case in which a six-man jury brought in a not guilty verdict after deliberating five minutes in a reckless driving trial.

Justice Ward Hagdon considered the verdict a travesty on justice and refused to authorize the item for publication because he believed Cheboygan justice court juries have a reputation of leaning toward the defendant, and that the idea has become established that a good way to get off is to plead not guilty and ask a jury trial.

The Tribune, in its lengthy story, made clear it is not passing judgment on the merits of the verdict, but as an American newspaper with the tradition of a free press as guaranteed by the Constitution, it "cannot accept dictation from a justice on what it may print and what it must not print."

Boats In and Out

Boats continue to navigate into and out of Holland harbor despite adverse weather conditions ashore. The cement boat Daniel McCool left Holland harbor at 5:20 a.m. Tuesday and the tanker Michigan came through the breakwaters at 8:10 a.m. Tuesday. The boats must slow down during this type of weather, according to Coast Guardsmen, but most of them have radar aboard and are able to steer through snow storms.

Revision of the local constitution was adopted. It was announced that the annual JCC Christmas

Star Mail Delivery Contract Switched

Leonard Vander Jagt of Grand Rapids, found that the star truck route to deliver mail between Holland and Grand Rapids, was too much for him. He began the job Monday and quit after the first day.

Bob Bareman of Holland, next lowest bidder for the postal route, was given the job Tuesday. Mail off the early train from Chicago, was delayed more than five hours until Bareman could be hired.

The net result is that deliveries out of Holland to Zeeland, Hudsonville, Grandville and Grand Rapids, were delayed from the morning to afternoon deliveries.

The star truck route was started Monday to replace two discontinued daytime Chesapeake and Ohio railroad streamliners between Grand Rapids and Chicago.

Another $700 Turns Up In Leroy Irwin Estate

In another negligent homicide case, Robert Pree, 20, of 61 West Cherry St., Zeeland, waived the reading of the information and pleaded guilty. The three are Harvey Volkert, 18, Ronnie Jousma, 20, and Gordon Drooger, 18, all of Holland. They were caught Saturday by police after fleeing from a car which they said they believed to contain gangsters.

They were held Saturday for questioning. Police said Volkert was booked on charges of reckless driving, possession of a gun, and disorderly conduct, and bond was set at $175. Allegan County Fair Plans Now For Centennial

1949 Attendance Tops Previous Year, Fair Stockholders Told

Allegan, Nov. 25 (Special) — Allegan's 1949 county fair made more money and topped last year's attendance, stockholders of the Allegan County Agricultural association were told by President E. W. DeLano.

Receipts totalled $80,507, with a profit of $5,902. Total attendance was 56,328, compared to 1948's 54,000.

Four directors, Elmer Bargwell, George Horan, T. R. Ward and Pearl Cochran were re-elected to three year terms. Dec. 9 was set for a director's meeting when officers will be elected.

First plans for the fair's centennial in 1951 were made when Secretary James Snow was authorized to get drawings and estimates on a new concrete grandstand for the fairgrounds. Directors hope to make the structure the big feature of their 100-year-old birthday show.

A fire marshal's report was read, which obligates the fair board to remove food concessions from beneath the grandstand, prohibits crepe paper and other inflammable decorations in all halls, and prohibit smoking in certain halls. It was agreed to paint the inside of the agricultural hall booths to remove the necessity for trimming them with paper materials.

Building of a tunnel under the race track to remove the traffic jam during afternoon harness racing was discussed. The cars frequently line up to the front gate waiting to park on the inside of the track.

The financial report showed a balance of $15,054 before the fair, with $43,000 collected in admission fees; $14,999 for privilege fees; $2,380 in speed fees; $10,052 from the state, and smaller amounts for rentals and miscellaneous items.

Expenditures included $11,449 for special attractions, $13,477 for labor; $10,132 for premiums; $12,487 for speed purses; $4,360, repairs and improvements; plus other amounts for advertising and supplies.

A cash balance of $18,787 was reported.

A four-act Biblical drama, "Follow Thou Me," by Mary S. Hitchcock, will be presented by the Senior Christian Endeavor, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 23 and 24, at 7:45 p.m. in the auditorium of First Reformed church, Zeeland.

Play cast members include Gordon De Pree, Kathy Schrottenboer, Arlene Walters, Henry Pyle, Joan Pyle, Gary Dykstra, Shirley Walters, Jerene Beltman, Eugene Kuyers, Henry Redder, Wanda Wiersma, Betty Zwijghuizen and Howard Gebben.

The play takes place in the living room of Pontius Pilate in Jerusalem, 33 A. D. It is a human drama, dealing with the adventures of Daniel, a young scribe of the Nazarene, in his efforts to remain true to his faith.

Although he has the friendship of Pilate's gentle wife and has converted her niece, Beatrice, to Christianity and is betrothed to one of her gentlewomen, no one in the household of the Roman governor can save the young man from the fury of Caiaphas, the high priest. He is torn from the arms of his betrothed and dragged away. Finally he is rescued by Lucius, the Roman centurion, who himself is a secret convert to Christianity.

In the background lurks the shadow of the crucifixion, soon to yield the bright dawn of the resurrection, against which the figure of the harassed Pilate, half-mad with remorse, stands out strikingly.

Miss Cecilia Ver Hage is directing the play.

Hillsdale Places Six Men on Hope Opponent Team

Hillsdale's mighty undefeated football team, that barely squeezed past Hope in a 13-9 game this football season, landed six berths on Hope's 1949 all-opponent team.

Members of the Dutch squad selected four Dale linemen and two backs for the 12-man team, that included three guards.

Alma placed three men on the team and Adrian, Albion and Kalamazoo each were given one position.

Fred Hayes of Alma and Milt Christen of Kalamazoo were named the best ends that played against the Dutch this season. Both were flankers that spent a lot of time in the Hope backfield in games with the second-place Dutch this season.

It took a lot of beef to make the Dutch opponent team at tackles. Big George Smallbone of Hillsdale and Dick Derby of Alma were the choicest. Smallbone tips the scales at 260 pounds and stands six-feet, five. Derby is a mere 226 pounds and six-feet two.

Guards were a toss up, so the Dutch picked three. They are Bud Shook and Don Mossey of Hillsdale and Ed Majeski of Albion. And Shook is only a freshman. He weighs 230 pounds and is six-feet, one.

In the middle is Alex Clelland of Hillsdale, who, although he weighs only 160 pounds, is a bearcat backing the line and a deft blocker when the Dales have the ball.

There's the line that combines brawn, power and general football know-how.

Switching to the backfield is a different story. The all-opponent backfield is fast and combines some of the best running talent in the MAA.

Bill Young of Hillsdale, leads the pack. He was top ground-gainer in Michigan this season and rated about on a par with a second Hope choice, Forrest Schultz. You've heard a lot about both runners, and the Dutch grid team saw a lot of them this fall.

At the fullback slot is none other than pile-driving Spud Huston of Hillsdale. Dick Catarino, Alma's sophomore is the other back.

That's enough for any team to handle.

Dutch Football Marks Revised

After huddling with Charles "Cubby" drew, former football coach at Holland high school, The Sentinel sports department gladly revised its past records against the Grand Haven Buccaneers.

The revision is in Holland's favor. Cubby says there were two games played between the two Ottawa county rivals in 1912, instead of one.

It was Cubby's first year as football coach at the local school, he remembers.

Grand Haven won the first game that year 6-0, but later the same season, Holland defeated the Bucs 13-6.

With that revised figure, and last week's 25-13 Holland win, the locals have a 24-23 edge in games won during the series that dates back to 1903.

In total points through the years, the revised figures are 634 to 355, in favor of Holland.

The Maroon mentor reports that he has two tall boys, but they are still inexperienced and will need plenty of work before the opener with Zeeland next Friday night. The contest will be played on the Armory court to accommodate more fans.

"We'll have to try to make up for this lack of height, by using speed tactics. We have several boys with speed, but the problem now is to see if we can put this to good advantage," Tuls mentioned. The Dutchmen have been working hard in this department for the last two weeks, along with offensive and defensive formations.

Fighting for starting guard posts are Ken Mast, Joe Kramer, Ralph Bouwman, Ben Bouwman, Dave Holkeboer and Bruce Bouwman. Working out in the forward slots are Henry Holstege, Ed Altana, Sherwood Kok and Don Schipper. Ken Marlink, Norm Unema and Ken Knott are trying for the center position.

On the basis of experience, and last year's play, Mast, Holstege and Unema hold the inside track for starting berths. However Tuls is still undecided for most of the starting roles. "I am about as undecided as to the first five now as I was after the first practice session," Tuls said. Both Unema and Schipper are first semester students and will not be able to play after Feb. 1.

Potluck Supper Plans Made by Mothers Club

Plans for a planned potluck supper on Dec. 7 were made at a regular meeting of the Mothers club of World War II Wednesday night in the GAR room, city hall. Mrs. Dawn Wilbur of Bronson, state president, and the Grand Rapids unit No. 7, will be guests at the supper.

Election of officers will feature the business meeting following the event. The supper will be held in the GAR room.

Plans also were made to sell poinsettias in Holland on Dec. 10, and to send Christmas gifts to the Grand Rapids Veterans Facility and the Sunshine sanitarium in Grand Rapids.

It was announced that a few of the local members plan to attend the meeting of the Grand Rapids unit tonight.

Several visitors attended the local meeting. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Margaret Bocks, Mrs. Ruth Bocks and Mrs. Clara Decker.

Mrs. William Norlin is local club president.

Mrs. Kuylers, the former Annie Terpstra, is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gerben Terpstra and will be 72 years old on the anniversary date. Mr. Kuylers, 77, is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs.

Appreciative Audience Grets 'Almost Eighteen'

An appreciative audience gathered in Holland high auditorium Thursday night for the opening performance of "Almost Eighteen," a three-act comedy drama by Dana Thomas, presented by ninth graders of junior high school.

The play, which revolved about the problems of a 17-year-old youth, was well suited to the talents of the 12 ninth graders who formed the cast. It revolved about young Eddie Barry and his ambitions to be a "crooner," his entering an essay contest to win $250 so he could study in New York and of the resulting complications when he was accused of plagiarism—all because a philosophical uncle had mailed in an extra essay. Eddie was played by James Pollock.

Some of the best scenes were Eddie's practice sessions as a radio announcer, first using a dismantled lamp as a microphone and later a tea strainer, while his parents shouted from off stage to "turn that radio off."

Another quip which brought down the house occurred during the turmoil created by Eddie's teacher and club women who seemed bound to send the boy to reform school on the essay deal. One of Eddie's teen-age friends remarked, "Older people have such a lack of humor. That's why I'm going to die when I'm about 29."

Kenneth Brummel and Sara Jo Kleinnekel appeared as Eddie's parents, at times understanding and at times critical and tearful. Eddie's sister was played by Connie Tuinsma, an older sister about to be married. Cynthia Schaap was Eddie's girl, a lively little spitfire who runs hot and cold in her affections. Other friends of Eddie were played by Merwin Van Doornik and Lonna Piers.

The haughty representative of the women's club was played by Marilyn Poest, the music teacher by Norma Nynas, the intellectual teacher by Sally Damson and another clubwoman by Carolyn Alexander. The philosophical uncle who didn't seem to worry about who had a good time fishing was portrayed by Alton Kooyers.

The play was directed by Maurice N. Ness of the Junior high faculty.

Volleyballs From Ambush

Have you been watching the tin hat brigade working downtown lately?

This group of energetic workmen have been around a long time fixing cement work on the parapets of buildings.

What undermines the cement? A fair question.

One worker wearing a sporty red, blue and silver tin hat said it's mostly because of seepage. A tiny crack appears in the cement or mortar and water seeps in. In freezing weather, the real damage is done. Water freezes in a tiny pocket and makes a bigger hole. And so it goes.

Holland has been lucky. All the same, it probably will be a bit safer to walk downtown after the tin hat boys complete their work.

You going deer hunting? George Zarry, fun loving manager of the United Press branch at Grand Rapids, has this philosophy to offer:

"When they arm the deer and it's a fair fight, then I'll go!"

The Armistice day banquet at Legion Memorial club stirred a lot of memories among the crowd that attended national conventions many years running. Attending national conventions in Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Los Angeles, New York City and Miami were C. V. Miller, the Chet Van Tongerens, A. C. Joldersma, Henry Geerdse and the Doc Westraes.

tages at Macatawa; one on April 18, 1925, which destroyed 54 cottages and Grand hotel; one on April 14, 1927, which destroyed 25 cottages, and the last big fire July 16, 1927, which destroyed 39 cottages along the lakefront.

She said the 1927 blaze was arson and the culprit probably is still serving time.

Rep. Jerry Ford in Washington liked this letter he received from a Grand Rapids citizen: "Dear Jerry: I am very glad we have such people as you in Washington. I hope we have more like you. I am writing you about the Control. Control in our country has no place. It does not look good because they had Control in Russia and Germany. There was nothing good over there. What did Control do in China? Terrible things. They start a small Control, and then after a while they want everything. I hope you will understand this letter, and do all you can to avoid Control. I wish you the best of luck."

Jerry's comment: "Yes, I understand what the writer means by Control. Capitalizing the first letter in the word Control makes his feelings more direct and forceful than a dozen essays on the subject."

Ford also comments on Julius Krug's resignation as secretary of the interior—a surprise move. "I sometimes feel that even the most ardent exponents of Mr. Truman's 'program' sometimes find it hard to swallow the bait, hook, line and sinker. Krug, at least pulled the cork before the bottle blew up. Several weeks ago Admirel Denfeld didn't know he was fired until he learned it from the press. In this case Mr. Truman didn't know his Secretary of Interior had quit until he read the papers."

When The Sentinel news editor (Oregon State college '34) looks a little amug as he fixes a superior smile on the sports editor (Michigan State college '48) it is all because of an upset on in Portland, Oregon, last week-end. The score: Oregon State 25, Michigan State 20. And the news editor hastens to point out that this isn't the first time, either.

But they finally got together on one point. Both are nominating Lloyd Heneveld (Michigan '50) for the United Press All-American football team.

Wonder what they'll talk about until the basketball season gets up a full head of steam?

Chuck Bertsch, now a patient at Veterans hospital at Fort Custer, writes a cheerful letter in answer to one from a Sentinel staffer. He misses the "Ambush column when it doesn't appear regularly (hope you read this one, Chuck) and avidly reads the home town paper. As for mail, letters are the high point in an otherwise drab routine of bed rest. He says humor is the world's best medicine. His address is Charles D. Bertsch, V. A. hospital, Fort Custer, Mich.

This was a note at the end of a story sent in by one of our many correspondents: "To the editor: I went, I saw, I heard, I wrote. Help yourself."

Here's a little story for the ladies the next time Hubby criticizes them for prepping themselves: At a large banquet Lady Astor once remarked that men were valier than women and, meeting with stormy opposition, declared herself ready to substantiate her statement. Steering the conversation to men's fashions, she suddenly said in a loud voice:

"It's a pity that the most intelligent and learned men attach least importance to the way they dress. Why, right at this table the most cultivated man is wearing the most clumsily knotted tie!"

As if on a given signal, every man in the room immediately put his hand to his tie to straighten it.

RED CROSS POLICY

Perhaps the policy pilots of the American Red Cross know what they are doing. But the renewed decision to keep that organization clear of all united fund-raising drives once more makes many friends of the Red Cross wonder.

In at least one community in Michigan according to a reliable report, a citizen last year answered
a request for a donation with the polite reply that he was supporting the community's united drive for funds and that his conscience would not let him make any exceptions.

Perhaps an isolated case. Perhaps it does not mean anything.
But it is at least possible that it was a symptomatic of a trend
that will set in when the sentiment for united fund drives gain in strength. If it is a trend, will the Red Cross be able to retreat from its present position when the trend becomes too strong?

Its present policy, reemphasized
in the now famous Detroit
case, is the "requirement that all chapters hold fund-raising campaigns separate from other community drives." In the Detroit case the decision was made that the Red Cross chapter of the automobile city "shall not accept any funds allocated to it from the common funds collected by the Torch fund campaign in Detroit."

In other words local chapters may not accept money offered it by community organizations.

As of today, the chances are that the national organization of the Red Cross is correct in its calculation that the Red Cross,
in the overall charity picture in America,
will get more money by going it alone than it would derive from united-fund drives, or
from a combination of methods.

The Red Cross has enjoyed the interests of the American people
for many years and it may be able to depend on support regardless of fund drives. For the present its policy may be workable.

But the united fund idea is only just getting started. It represents a conception of public charity that, potentially at least, may become bigger than any single charity movement, including the Red Cross. Are the policy makers of the National Red Cross sufficiently aware of the strength of the new movement? Some of the best friends of the Red Cross
are wondering.

The local chapters cannot do anything about it, of course. Policy is ready-made for them. Are they in for a harder time later
because of the policy imposed from above? March will tell. We still are of the opinion that organizational expenses must be watched.

Allegan Eyes Full Time Recreation Program

Allegan, Nov. 24 (Special)—
With a successful summer playground program and youth canteen in operation, Allegan residents may expand to a full-time recreation program, depending on results from a survey next week.

About 1,000 homes will receive questionnaires asking their wishes
and needs for recreation, especially winter time activities. Attitudes on more use of Griswold auditorium as a recreation center
and hiring of a full-time director will be asked.

Community Council, sponsors
of the program, hope the questionnaire answers will reflect the family's opinion in each case so that a cross-section of the city may be had. Dick Gilpin is chairman in charge of the survey.

Jeremiah-Spokeman for God

Jeremiah 1:9,10,18,19; 22:1-3, 13, 14; 37: 15-17.

By Henry Geertlings
Jeremiah lived in the time when the nation of Judah was taken captive and moved to Babylon. He himself remained in the land ministering to the few who were left and eventually went to Egypt,
where he died. He lived in troublesome times and is often called the weeping prophet because he wept
over the sins and sorrows of his people.

Evidently he was quite young when the Lord called him into his service. He was so young that he feared people would consider him only a child and incapable of delivering the message of God. It is quite like human nature to find fault with such a messenger,
and for this reason God gave him
special equipment.

The speech of Jeremiah was God-given. His hand touched the prophet's mouth and symbolically put words there. This was to prove to him that the words he spoke were really the words of God. We do not mean to say that from that time forth the prophet never uttered anything but that which was the authoritative word of God. It is an illustration of the operation of divine inspiration. The Spirit of God gave to men the message that was to be recorded, and that message was on this account authoritative. On other occasions
they spoke like the rest of men.

God equipped Jeremiah for service. Inspiration made his message authoritative. Although the prophet held no political position, the Lord set him over nations and kingdoms, not as the actual ruler,
but as the one who brought the messages of God to the ruler. It was a very responsible position,
for it is very important that the message should be transmitted with great accuracy to men of position and power. And the prophet's message was very largely one of judgement, for the days of grace were rapidly coming to an end. Yet there was room for repentance.

Jeremiah like Isaiah rebuked
social injustice. He pronounced woes on men who built houses by unrighteousness and who denied
just wages to the laborer.

The church is to be the social conscience. It is no easy task, but ought not to be avoided. The superfluous prophets of Jeremiah's
day were serving money and special privilege. The prophet called to serve God and right. His preaching met a deep need, but it was irritating to those who needed it most. He stirred up many a hornet's nest and was not able to get away without getting stung.

The church has a ministry to the social order. However, we should beware of the false optimism of the men with blueprints for a new order. We show a great fondness for drawing our economic phrases from the cardtable.
We should not make too much of this. But there is a deadly fallacy that is deeply ingrained in us. It is to the effect that there is not much wrong with society that cannot be changed. The plain truth is we lack some things we desperately need. We need honesty, vision, and above all, faith in God.

Jeremiah did not propose to improve society by a reshuffle of existing elements. He proposed to bring in new reserves of faith and righteousness.

Not only did Jeremiah convey a verbal message to the king. He also wrote one which was sent to the king, but the king cut it up and burned it, but that did not alter the purpose of God.

But let us put ourselves in the place of the Jewish people of that day. Would we have liked to hear someone predict the destruction of our country? Would we be pleased if someone went up and down in our country and warned us that America would soon be crushed by a powerful enemy? Would it not rather stir up the spirit of patriotism within us? Would we not feel like silencing the man with the evil message? That is the way the Jews felt. They felt that none could overcome God's chosen people. They forgot that they were out of touch with God and that His strength would not be imported to them. It is not enough to be named with the name of the Lord. We must also be in fellowship with Him if His promises are to be fulfilled in us.

Such a message will always stir up ill feeling. It did so among the princes of Judah. They took Jeremiah and put him in a dungeon. That is also common to men.
If a man's argument is so true
that none can gainsay it, then they use forcible measures, if possible, to silence the speaker.
But think of what all of this must have meant to the prophet.
He was so sure that God called him, and yet after he had faithfully delivered God's message he was put in prison.

Undoubtedly he could not understand why God should allow such experiences to one who has been so faithful. We, too, are often puzzled by what the Lord permits in our lives. Hardships are sometimes punishment for sin, but more often they have a different purpose. God's desire is to show us what He can do for us in the hardest trials in life.

Holland In 1916

Old time enthusiasm marked
the opening of the Republican county convention at the court house Tuesday afternoon, began a story in the Wednesday, April 19,
issue of the Holland Daily Sentinel published in 1916. Gerrit J.
Van Schelven was selected by the county committee previous to the calling of the big session as the man to make the keynote speech
and to serve as temporary chairman.

Irwin J. Lubbers, president of the Hope College YMCA, has chosen the following cabinet to assist him in his duties: Religious meeting, William Ten Haken; hand book, Bernie Mulder; personal work, Willis Potts; social, J. S.
Moore; mission work, Ralph Korteling; Sunday school superintendent, James Mulenburg; membership, Peter Cooper; finance, Cornelius Wierenga; conference, Jay Kosker.

The Delphi society of Hope College has elected: President, Miss Catherine G. Hekhuis of Overisel;
vice president, Miss Bernice L.
Jones of Holland; secretary, Miss Florence V. Voorhorst of Overisel;
treasurer, Miss Marion E.
Struik of Hudsonville, keeper of archives, Miss Ruth Veldhuis of Overisel.

Harry G. McGain, university
secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition association, appeared Tuesday evening in Winants chapel
before a joint meeting of the YM and YWCA under the auspices of the Michigan Dry federation, and the state and national Intercollegiate Prohibition association. His purpose is to get 1,000 men and women from the college of Michigan who will do something to aid in the big fight to make Michigan a dry state next November.

At the Woman's Literary club meeting Tuesday it was decided by a rising vote that each member should pay 50 cents to any member of the conservation committee for the beautification of the grounds about the building.
It is proposed to buy shrubs to plant near the building and also to have a new cement walk to the curstione.

All streets led to the council chamber in the City hall last evening, according to a story in the Thursday, April 20, issue. At 7:30 p.m. a crowd that filled the council chamber and the adjacent corridor and committee room had assembled to witness the inauguration of the mayor-elect and the seven newly-elected aldermen.

The midnight electric storm
that passed over the city struck
two homes at almost the same instant. A vacant house on Sixth St. east of Fairbanks Ave., just outside of the city, was found with flames shooting from the walls. A brief application of water was sufficient. Before the water had reached the first fire, however, a second alarm was turned in and it was fully 15 minutes before the truck reached the home of George Rutgers, 230 W. 11th St.

William Baker, Henry V. Bolt,
George De Young and C. N. Addison, a committee representing the congregation of the Second Reformed church went to Holland
today to formally extend a call to the pastorate of the Grand Haven church to the Rev. John Van Peurssem, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church in Holland. The Grand Haven church has been without a pastor since the resignation of the Rev. James Verburg.

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness" and the month of May will show how near we can come to the much used adage. Holland is noted for its beautiful lawns, little gardens and freshly painted houses. Therefore, it will not take much urging to get our citizens
to do the spring cleaning inside and outside of their homes. This news story appeared in the Fri-

This historic building, the Church of Ebenezer, was built in 1883, just 17 years after the Ebenezer church was organized. The present structure rose from the ruins of a destructive fire which leveled the church, parsonage, chapel and horse barn. The present belfry was built 20 years ago after lightning struck the old tall spire, setting the building afire. The building was saved by an ambitious bucket brigade.

Four Pay Fines

Four persons paid municipal court fines Saturday and Monday. John D. Geig, 24, of Clare, paid $10 for speeding. Running a stop street coast Herman Wagner, 31, of 2991 West 14th
St., $5, and running a red light cock Dick Van Leeuwen, 23, of Saugatuck, $5. John Jurries of 593 South Shore Dr., paid a $1
parking fine.

One of the oldest churches in the Holland area lies a few miles east of the city on 32nd St.

It is the Church of Ebenezer, or more commonly the Ebenezer Reformed church. It was organized in 1866 and its first minister was the Rev. A. C. Kuyper, great grandfather of Dr. Lester Kuyper of Western Theological seminary. He was the first of 17 ministers to serve the congregation.

Seventeen years later on a Saturday morning, a maid emptied the ash pan of a kitchen stove east of the church horse barn. The resulting blaze destroyed the barn, the church, the chapel and the parsonage. Out of the ruins followed the present building. The contract was let for $1,000.

The church originally had a tall
spire which was hit by lightning 20 years ago. A doughty bucket brigade soon brought the fire under control and the present belfry
was built in its place.

In 1885, First Reformed church
at Ninth and Central asked the Ebenezer congregation for stones for its new foundation. These were cheerfully provided and these stones may still be seen in the foundation up to the brick work of the first floor.

A few years ago oil was discovered in the vicinity and a well was drilled on the church property. For three years the well produced a royalty of about $25 per month,
proceeds of which were entirely
devoted to mission work.

Just seven years ago this month,
the Rev. and Mrs. John Vanderbeek came to Ebenezer from Sixth Reformed church in Holland where they had been 14 years. During his seven-year period, the congregation has grown from 38 families to nearly 60. Many improvements have been made in both church and parsonage.

tery, $174; municipal court, $75;

lunch place for club members and their guests at lodge clubrooms, 76 East Eighth St.; was given the

was okayed with the provision that bondsmen be signed that live

What's Your Share Of Social Security? Better Ask Soon

By Esther Van Wagoner Tutty
Washington, Nov. 24 — It's a safe guess few workers in Holland "covered" by Social Security know how big their check from Uncle Sam will be when they reach the age of 65 years.

Some hazard $42.50 and others dream about $60. But most don't have a glimmer of an idea. Yet every pay day their check is lessened by the deduction of 1 per cent for Social Security against that rainy day of old age. On Jan. 1, it will become 1 1/2 per cent.

Some 113,000 Michigan workers have already benefited to the tune of $21 million since the program started.

At the Washington headquarters of Social Security, the experts are aware the American public is unknown. Also they realize the "ifs" and "ands" in the fine print of their explanatory booklets are confusing.

To simplify, we asked these key questions:
What is the maximum a person can get who becomes 65 this year?

The answer: $42.50. He must have worked the equivalent of six years on jobs covered by social security and earned at least $3,000 a year.

If the Social Security bill that passed the House and is expected to receive Senate approval in the next session of Congress becomes law, will this same person receive more than $42.50?

Answer: Yes, he will get $64.

Dutch Mill Praised For Food, Service

Paul Van Raalte, owner and operator of the Dutch Mill restaurant, popular eating place in Holland, recently received a letter from a patron who compliments the owner and restaurant employees for the food and service he received at the restaurant. Commenting on the letter, Van Raalte said, "This letter expresses the things I want to do."

The letter reads: "Having just returned from a two-year stint out of the country, I've just motored from Texas through the Midwest and to New York. Food has been a most important thing to me along the way and I feel compelled to write you to say that my most pleasant gastronomic experience en route was to have partaken of your very wonderful food and exceptionally pleasant service."

"It seemed to me that not only did your guests so much enjoy being there with you but—and likewise—your gracious employees seemed to enjoy their work there."

"Thanks and congratulations to all of you — from the kitchen to the front door! Yours was the only really 'regional food' that I found was offered on this long trek—and what a wonderful idea it is to present the same—and under such pleasant circumstances. I only wish those in other parts of the country would do the same!"

The gracious letter was signed by a man from Antigua, Guatemala.

Mrs. Claxton Helms, whose hobby is making jewelry, demonstrates the starting point of a new sterling silver ornament as she cuts the pieces from a silver sheet. She won Allegan's hobby show recently.

Silver Jewelry Is Only Part of Helms Hobbies

Allegan, Nov. 24 (Special) — The story started out to be about Mrs. Claxton Helms and her unusual hobby of making sterling silver jewelry.

She won the recent hobby show here by demonstrating her skill with silver and semi-precious stones. Her jewelry attracted considerable attention.

But in discovering how it all came about it's immediately apparent that creating artistic and useful things is as natural as breathing in the Helms household. They are people who ride several hobbies simultaneously and successfully.

Helms, for instance, who majored in music at college and is a librarian by profession, built every bit of furniture in their home including upholstered chairs and sofa. He is at present remodeling the kitchen with cabinets, including many a trick labor-saving device in the matter of storage and usefulness.

With Christmas coming up, they'll send many gifts—practically all made at home in their leisure hours. Many of them will be the rings, pins, bracelets and earrings which Mrs. Helms has made her No. 1 hobby.

She learned the techniques at State Teachers college, Cape Girardeau, Mo., where she majored in art to prepare for a kindergarten teaching career. At 15, she was teaching a rural school during the regular term and attending college in the summer.

Influence of a favorite art teacher led her into the handicraft field, and particularly jewelry. Soon, the jewelry was helping pay college expenses.

The style jewelry she makes today is well-known in the Southwest, but is rarely found as a bobby in this locality.

She begins with sterling silver in sheets, round and flat wire, onyx, turquoise, cat's eye or carnelians for decoration. After drawing the design of a ring, for example, she cuts and solders together the shank which fits the finger, the top for the stone to rest upon, and the bezel, which holds the stone. Twisted silver wire forms the trim.

The finished product receives a "pickling" of sulphuric acid to remove discolorations, a dipping in liver of sulphur solution for toning, and then polished with a motor-driven wheel.

Her favorite pieces are a large black onyx ring, and a set of Indian wedding ring and bracelet made with turquoise sets. They'll wear a lifetime.

Enjoying her own hobby immensely, Mrs. Helms is still somewhat astonished the way her husband has joined in.

"Why, with no art training at all, his water colors are better than mine!" she exclaims.

But she's still champion jewelry maker of the family.

Charter Group Steps Up Pace

The charter revision commission stepped up its pace Thursday night when it approved a plan to add 45 minutes to its weekly meetings.

In previous weeks, the nine-member group was called to order at 7:30 p.m. and adjourned at 9:45 p.m. The extension will be until 10:30 p.m.

At the Thursday meeting, the group completed preliminary study of two chapters, titled "general finances" and "general taxation" respectively.

Following this action, the group launched study of chapter 11, dealing with public improvements.

The general taxation chapter centered around the Board of Review, its makeup, place and time of meetings, and city taxation procedures. The revision group had voted at an earlier meeting to keep the present scale of fines on all unpaid tax bills after specified deadlines.

That amounts to two per cent for annual summer tax bills not paid before Aug. 15; an additional four per cent for bills unpaid before Sept. 10; and three more per cent for unpaid bills at the Jan. 10 final deadline.

Bruce Raymond, charter commissioner, suggested a clause in the chapter that would require the city assessor to send notices to property owners when their assessment is hiked so as to enable the taxpayer to appear before the Board of Review at its annual meeting.

Mrs. Edward Donivan, Alfred Joldersma and Isaac Kouw were absent. Chairman Vernon D. Ten Cate presided. City Engineer Jacob Zuidema, City Assessor Bill Koop and City Treasurer Henry Becksfort attended the session to aid the commission with its work on city finances and public improvements.

Know What You're Buying in Poultry

Mrs. Housewife, know what you're buying when you get that Thanksgiving turkey or chicken!

Advertising and selling regulations were clarified today by Robert Blackburn of the state Bureau of Marketing and Enforcement and Ben Wiersma, Holland city health inspector, who said all poultry must be sold according to the method in which it is advertised. It involves mainly the feather dressed and oven dressed methods.

Poultry must be sold according to the way it is advertised. If a merchant advertises chickens at 40 cents per pound then he must deliver to the customer five pounds of actual chicken for $2. This applies to all sales made on telephone orders and on oven dressed poultry sales within the store.

On the feather-dressed basis, a retailer may expose for sale poultry at a given price (say 40 cents), place the bird on the scale in the presence of the customer and determine the price. Then if the customer chooses, he may draw the bird and prepare it as requested and give to the customer at a price determined by the original weight.

However, if such an operation is not made in the presence of the customer, the ultimate price must be quoted according to the actual weight as received. Hence, a five-pound feather-dressed chicken costing $2 weighing perhaps four pounds after being drawn should be quoted at 50 cents a pound instead of 40 cents.

Animals with long legs also have long necks in order to reach their food without bending their knees.

George Good, president of the merchant's association, is in charge. Because of the new overhead traffic lights, there won't be festoons hanging above the intersections.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Grand Rapids spoke Thursday evening at a regular meeting of the Holland branch, American Association of University Women. The meeting was held at the William Westveer home with Mrs. Henry Steffens as hostess. Miss Laura Boyd presided.

Rep. Ford presented a practical and lucid idea of the works of a congressman and told of the difficulties which beset a member of the minority party. In his talk he emphasized the importance of each citizen and the duty which he owes to his government. This is of the utmost importance on the local level, he said.

He also discussed the current "American way" comparing it with the plans of Great Britain. He explained that at present we have a few laws actually in effect which could be called statist or socialist. There are many people of influence in Washington who feel that the trend toward the "British way" should be furthered. Although Great Britain is in a dire financial position and needs our assistance, these measures are being furthered as an improvement of our way of life, he said.

As a "prognosticator," he said that he believed a stormy campaign will be waged in the 1950 and 1952 elections on the public health insurance plan. He predicted that voters would have to take sides on this issue.

On completion of his talk, Rep. Ford answered questions on current subjects which were interesting and instructive.

A social time followed the program. The next AAUW meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Irwin J. Lubbers. A musical program will be featured with Mrs. Morette L. Rider in charge.

College Enrollment Shows New Gains

Washington, Nov. 24—Despite a drop this September of more than 8,000 in the number of veterans attending colleges and universities throughout the country, Michigan's total college enrollment of 101,390 is a slight increase over last year's figures.

But veterans in Michigan still account for more than a third of the college "population," with 35,425 former GI's attending college, according to figures released this week by the Office of Education.

As for a girl "finding her man" by going to college, prospects are "excellent." The men outnumber the women on college campuses this fall a little over 2 to 1.

Nation-wide, enrollment in colleges continue to increase in the face of a declining number of veteran students, with 1949 enrollment totalling 2,456,000 students as compared with 2,408,000 a year ago.

He was married last summer to the former Frances Dykema of Holland and they live in Grand Rapids.

DeVette Scissors Hope Cage Squad As Rugged Workouts Get Underway

Coach Russ DeVette of Hope college has knifed his first-team squad down to a workable 12 men as he moves into the final two weeks practice before the opening game.

The Dutch cage mentor announced his selections Monday afternoon and sent the remainder of his fresh candidates back to Jack Schouten's "B" squad.

Included on the list of members DeVette chose to keep are Bob Dennison, Bill Hinga, Nick Yonker, Paul Muijskens, Jack Marema, Jerry Jacobson, Bill Holwerda, Duane Peekstok, Don Piersma, Edwin VanDeWege, Bob Wagner and Ken Van Regenmorter.

All except Jacobson, Piersma and Van Regenmorter are hold-overs from the 1948-49 squad. Jacobson is a freshman from Muskegon Heights, Piersma and Van Regenmorter are local products and played city league and Holland Hurricane basketball respectively last season.

DeVette has four out of his five starters back from last season. The lone member absent this year

Hope college, the team that came the closest to Hillsdale college this fall, dominated the 1949 all-MIAA football team. It was a brilliant climax for five of nine seniors on the Dutch team. The nine seniors have played four years together on Hope grid teams. For Quarterback Nick Yonker and End Clair DeMull it was a history-making first. The two were the first men to ever make the all-MIAA team for four consecutive years. Guard and team captain Abe Moerland is on the honor team for the third consecutive year. The other two selections from the second-place Dutch team are first-timers Bill "Moose" Holwerda and Bob "Ripper" Collins. The outstanding Dutch showing this fall is also proven by the fact that Hope outplaced chamption Hillsdale on the conference team. Hope's lone defeat in eight games this fall was that close 13-9 loss to Hillsdale in the local's homecoming highlight. Guard Gordon Timmerman, also a senior, received second-team recognition. The Hope selections from left to right are: Nick Yonker, Rip Collins, Moose Holwerda, Abe Moerland and Clair DeMull.

Hope College Football Team Places Five Men on 1949 All-MIAA Team

Runner-up Hope college turned the tables on champion Hillsdale today by landing five berths on the MIAA all-star first team, while the unbeaten Dales received only two.

Hope's domination of the mythical eleven, picked by MIAA coaches, came as a surprise, for undefeated Hillsdale swept to its conference championship by beating the Hope gridders.

Only last year's champion Alma crew failed to gain representation on the honor roll released by MIAA Judge advocate Dr. Gay Ernst.

Leading the top-heavy Hope contingent was Quarterback Nick Yonker, who gained first team recognition for the fourth straight year. Yonker was one of the finest MIAA passers in more than a decade. Adrian Halfback Forrest Schultz, the conference's ground gaining king, and Fullback Spud Huston of Hillsdale, were the only unanimous choices.

Bill Young, apparently blackballed by the coach of one of the teams he helped maul, also made the first team. Not only did he win the Michigan individual college scoring crown for the third straight year, but also has a good chance of winding up as the nation's top point-maker.

Four of Hope's linemen were conspicuous on the first team. Bill Holwerda and Clair DeMull, a repeat performer, landed the flank posts, with Rip Collins at tackle and Abe Moerland at guard. All of the Hope linemen are from Grand Rapids.

Rounding out the line were Guard Ed Madjeski of Albion, Center Gus Southworth of Kalamazoo and Kalamazoo's Earl King at tackle.

Schultz, Huston and King are juniors, Madjeski a sophomore and the others seniors.

Balloting was so close for second team honors that 15 players were listed.

The first team: LE Holwerda—Hope. LT Collins—Hope. LG Moerland—Hope. C Southworth—Kalamazoo. RT Madjeski—Albion. RG King—Kalamazoo. RE DeMull—Hope. Q Yonker—Hope. B Schultz—Adrian. B Young—Hillsdale.

F Huston—Hillsdale. Second team: Ends: Milt Christen, Kalamazoo, and Buddy Ride, Adrian. Tackles: Jim Stout, Adrian, Jack Masterson, Hillsdale, and Dick Pifer, Hillsdale.

Guards: Chuck Bohr, Hillsdale, Bob Walcott, Alma, Gordon Timmerman, Hope, and Charles Van Wagner, Adrian.

Center: Al Checkler, Adrian. Quarterback: Frank Joranko, Albion. Backs: Jim Nawrot, Kalamazoo, Don Carey, Alma, Merle Cosgrove, Alma, and Ike Gullford, Albion.

Honorable mention—Center: Clelland, Hillsdale. Guard: Maley, Adrian and Dasher, Hillsdale. Ends: Hayes, Alma, Thibedeau, Alma, and Knack, Hillsdale. Back: Budent, Hillsdale.

Zeeland high school's 1949 football team went through its eight-game schedule without tasting defeat for the best record in the history of the school. The Chix, by winning all their games, also captured the Tri-County league championship. Coach Joe Newell was at the Ze-land helm this year after an absence of four years during which he served as grid mentor at Ionia high school. The team, first row, left to right: Martin Van Harn, Jay Timmer, Sherwin "Tuke" Kroll, Glenn Schrotenboer, James Mast, Raymond Schaap, Herman "Herm" Nienhuis, Paul Van Koe-

ering and Bert Bossardet. Second row, left to right: John Myaard, Barry Van Koeveling, Milton Myaard, Frank Swift, Jack Miller, James Boonstra, Robert Winchester, Phillip Smallegan, Mitchell "Mick" Zuverink, Vernon Gebben, and Jack De Pree, student manager. Top row, left to right, Melvin

"Mel" Bouma, assistant coach, Elwood Wyngarden, Don Bouwman, Wayne Wiersma, Dennis DeHaan, John De Pree, Jerald Kiekover, Henry Mast, Bernard Raterink, Gilbert De Jonge, Ward Ver Hage and Coach Newell. Raterink and Nienhuis were co-captains of the team. (Zeeland Record Photo)

Jackson All-Stars Beat Hurricanes With Pass Attack

By Staff Writer

Jackson, Nov. 21.—The Jackson Metro All-Stars loosed an aerial blitz Saturday night at Jackson that netted four touchdowns and gave the Stars a 25-0 win over the Holland Hurricanes.

It gives the potent Jackson club two Michigan Football league victories against the Canes this season. Jackson had beaten Holland 13-0 earlier this season at Riverview park.

Coaches Jay Van Hoven and Ed Damson invaded Jackson with a 17-man squad that was lacking one key first-string back and many defensive linemen. However, the men that played in the game did a good job of stopping the famous jaunts of Jackson's ace ball carrier Elwin Rider.

Holland appeared headed toward touchdowns on three occasions during the game but the goalward drives would fizzle out or fumbles would give the ball over to the home team.

Thanks to a Holland fumble sixth play of the game, Jackson had six points racked up on the scoreboard before the game was four minutes old. Quarterback Ron Klamp let the ball go on an attempt handoff. Chuck Jones recovered for the Stars on Holland's 16. Three plays netted a first down on the three and a half yard line and on the next play, Roy Urihi hit Wayne Wilton in the end zone with a short pass over center.

Another break led to the second Jackson touchdown in the second quarter. Lloyd Boeve was back in punt formation. The center was low and he had to run with the ball instead of kicking and went to the Holland 20 where he was downed.

Four plays later Elwin Rider flipped a neat pass over center from the four to Gayle Hinkle for a touchdown. Rider booted the point.

On fourth down after the kickoff, Boeve punted and Rider returned from his own 40 to the Canes 45. On first down, the ball was centered to Urihi who threw a lateral to Rider near the sidelines. Rider heaved a long pass down the field into the waiting arms of End Ken Shafley who was behind the Holland secondary. All Shafley had to do was run the final 20 yards for a touchdown. The lateral-pass play covered 45 yards. Shafley's kick for the point was good.

The second half ended a short time later with Jackson ahead 19-0.

Just before the intermission Holland started to roll from its own 32 to the Jackson 38-yard line. Klamp was mixing running and pass plays along the route but a third-down aerial at the 38 fell incomplete and the locals had to punt.

Both teams resorted to passing attacks in the third period and the game was a thrilling spectacle of passes, interceptions and a few good runs. Holland had the best of the deal on the ground but couldn't punch the goal.

On the first play of the fourth period, Jones intercepted a Lorne Cook pass and returned it to the Jackson 32. The Stars started to move and with a mixed running and passing attack Urihi passed to Ted Gosciewski for the fourth touchdown on a pass play. The kick for the point was blocked and the game ended without any more scoring.

The under-manned Holland team played good football, repeatedly bottling up the Jackson running attack and forced the Stars into the air.

All in all, there were 52 passes in the game. Fifteen were completed and six were intercepted.

Ed Boeve, George Botis, Don Leeuw and Rudy Belik were the standouts for Holland. Belik returned recently from Colorado and it was his first appearance this season in a Canes uniform.

Urihi, Howie Adams, Rider and Shafley were the best for Jackson.

The Canes conclude their season Thursday afternoon at Riverview park against Ypsilanti.

Small Size Kieffer Pears Caused by Faulty Graft Union

Several Tests Made To Solve Problems In State Orchards

Small-size Kieffer pears have been a problem in Michigan pear orchards and in other parts of the country for many years.

Since most of the Kieffer crop is used for processing, small size means greater wastage and higher cost of factory operation. Commonly used orchard practices to secure larger size fruit consist of severe pruning, fruit thinning, mulching, fertilizer applications and supplemental irrigation. Of these practices Michigan State college horticulturists find mulching to be the most generally helpful.

Occasionally, however, under the best of management practices there are trees in the orchard which show premature autumn leaf coloration and which characteristically produce small size fruit. Collaborative studies of this problem by H. B. Tukey of Michigan, G. S. Handhawa of India, and W. H. Upshall of Canada, show that the trouble may be due to uncongential graft unions with the rootstock upon which the variety is growing.

Several tests were made to determine faulty unions. Uncongentiality was evident by lower nitrogen in the leaves, swelling and weakness at the union, an accumulation of starch above that point, and poor movement of water through the union.

It is suggested that the Kieffer trees that show premature fall coloration in the nursery be eliminated there. The excellent performance of Kieffer when propagated on its own roots from cuttings suggests that this method might be used for producing Kieffer trees of superior growth and fruiting.

Dwarf Fruit Trees Favored for Home

Gardeners with limited space are giving increasing approval to dwarf fruit trees, say horticulturists at Michigan State college.

To present some of the facts about these trees, a new folder, "Dwarf Fruit Trees," has been issued by the MSC Co-operative Extension service.

While not recommended for commercial orchard production, the trees have many advantages for gardens. Tests have shown them to bear early, yield good quality fruits, and permit easy spraying and pruning.

A copy of the publication, presenting details of planting and care and lists of varieties, may be obtained at county extension offices or by writing to the bulletin office, department of public relations, Michigan State college.

Bride Parade Featured At Women's League Tea

A parade of brides, featuring wedding gowns from 1874 to 1949 was the highlight of a tea given Saturday afternoon by the Hope college Women's League. More than 250 women attended the affair at the home of Mrs. Earnest C. Brooks, 659 State St.

The rooms were gaily decorated with a profusion of yellow and white mums. The attractive tea table featured a centerpiece bride and flower girl and white mums.

The parade of brides, with Miss Ethelyn Metz as narrator, was presented twice during the afternoon. At the close of the program, models gathered at the foot of the open staircase and Mrs. Russell De Vette, bride of 1949, threw her bouquet. Mrs. Earle Teilman was pianist.

Several women modeled their own bridal gowns. They were Mrs. F. E. De Weese, Mrs. Harold Klaasen, Mrs. Clarence Becker, Mrs. Russell De Vette, Mrs. Russell Klaasen and Mrs. James White, whose daughter, Pamela, was her train bearer. Mrs. White also modeled a Netherlands wedding gown belonging to Mrs. Jette Talsma.

Other gowns were loaned by Mrs. James Zwemer, Mrs. Anna Van Zanten, Mrs. Fannie Hulsman, Mrs. Marius Mulder, Mrs. Marinus De Fouw, Mrs. C. J. McLean, Mrs. Fred Beuwkes and Mrs. Lester Klaasen. These gowns were modeled by Hope college students.

Mrs. John F. Bouman made the brides' bouquets.

Mrs. Garrett Vander Borgh was chairman of the bride's committee, assisted by Mrs. Irwin J. Lubbers and Mrs. George Pelgrim. Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Fred Beuwkes were in charge of the tea table. Ticket chairman was Mrs. George Albers, assisted by Mrs. Ben Lemmen.

Proceeds of the tea were to be used by the league for the purchase of furnishings for the new Hope college women's dormitory.

KEEP CLEAN

During winter months when cows spend more time indoors, it's wise to keep their bodies free from caked mud, chaff, manure, dust and loose hairs. Michigan State college dairymen say this is important in keeping down the bacteria count of the milk.

Dairy Records Aid In Comparison of Costs and Returns

Have you ever wondered how your "best cow" or lowest producer compared with cows on other Michigan dairy farms?

Records of the income and costs of milk production on other farms will help you with the comparison, says Timothy Hodge, Michigan college agricultural economist.

Hodge summarized cost and income records from the Detroit milk shed in an agricultural economics department monthly publication. Records were supplied monthly during 1948 by 83 farmers.

To keep a cow one year, it took about two tons of hay, 2 1/3 tons of concentrates, 21 tons of silage and 160 days of pasture. Cost of these feeds was $169. Labor, $107, and other costs, $74, brought the cost per cow to $350 for one year. Income per cow for one year was $391. Thus each cow made a net return of $41.

Feed accounted for about one-half the total cost per cow and labor for about one-third of the total cost. Other costs include items such as electricity, bedding, and veterinary expense.

Hodge suggests watching these factors which determine returns per hour of labor: production per cow, price received for milk, reducing labor costs with improved chore routines and efficient barn layout, and size of herd.

Farmers with herds of 20 or more cows can spread costs of labor saving machinery over more animals, Hodge explained. And the average price received for milk can be increased by producing more of the milk in the fall, during seasonally higher prices.

Disease Cures Often Kill Trees

Some newly-developed cures for insects and disease in trees may do the job, but Ray Hutson, Michigan State college entomologist, warns that some have been known to kill the trees too.

He points out that we often spray vegetation and trees with lead arsenate to kill insects. But another form of arsenic, sodium arsenite, will kill the insects and at the same time the vegetation. In fact its widest use is in weed and vegetation killing.

Hutson pointed out that a Roman writer at the beginning of the Christian era reported that fragments of iron, placed in a hole in a tree, afforded protection against the arboreal equivalent of "cough, colds and chills." During the 2,000 intervening years, Hutson reports, "many variations of this basic idea have been tried with an unbroken record of failure."

He points out that a few years ago, in fighting the Dutch Elm disease, many trees were killed by putting copper salts into a girdled area on diseased elm trees.

It takes years to replace valuable trees or shade trees, the entomologist suggests, cautioning extreme care in adopting some new "cure all" practices.

Strawberry Hints Given to Growers

Strawberry growers often suffer from heavy infestation of chuk weed, states L. R. Arnold.

Bob Carlson, Michigan State college, advises using a new compound—IPC. It has given good results for two years at the college station.

He recommends an application of 15 pounds of IPC, 50 per cent wettable powder in 75 to 100 gallons of water to the acre. This material should be applied anytime in September, October or November.

Mulching of strawberries is advised by horticulturists of Michigan State college, Arnold says.

Some growers in Ottawa county have reported poor success in mulching. The difficulty may have been in putting the mulch on too late.

Professor Moulton, Michigan State college, advises putting on this mulch after the first hard frost but before temperatures drop below 20 degrees. Mulching after real cold weather comes may result in root and crown injury.

Another problem facing the grower who applies mulch is the timing of removal of the mulch.

Moulton suggests wheat straw, rye straw, marsh hay or even second grade alfalfa hay for mulching material. He advises covering to a depth of three inches. This requires about two and one-half to three tons of material per acre.

Material should be removed when growth starts in the spring.

Ag Department To Start Survey Of Butter Quality

The Michigan Department of Agriculture will make a detailed study of quality and grades of butter sold in some of the larger markets of Michigan. F. M. Skiver, chief of the Bureau of Dairying said, "This dairy marketing service work will be carried on with the aid of Federal matched funds furnished from the Hope-Flannigan appropriations." The Michigan legislature at its last session appropriated money for the Michigan Department of Agriculture to initiate this much needed research.

The project has been approved by the United States Department of Agriculture, and work will start with a general survey to determine the score of butter offered consumers in retail stores and restaurants. A large number of samples will be obtained from several of the larger markets. The dairy department of the Michigan State college is co-operating in the service work and will assist in scoring and analyzing the samples.

The purpose of the project is to assist retailers and distributors in determining the actual quality of butter they are handling and assist them in obtaining the quality and grades they desire. Information also will be obtained on the effects storing and handling has on butter.

This information will be of great value to the butter industry by enabling them to eliminate the causes of low score butter both at the creameries and at all handling points before it reaches the consumer.

Skiver said he had appointed Charles Mortimer of Bad Axe, one of his experienced dairy inspectors, to carry on the service work and that sampling of butter will begin in the Flint market immediately.

Hens Lay Better When Rid of Lice

Hens can spend more time laying when they can stop scratching lice and mites, says Dr. C. H. Cunningham, Michigan State college poultry disease specialist.

To avoid trouble this winter, he advises control of the pests. Lice and mites usually multiply rapidly during cold weather and quickly infest the poultry and laying house.

Control of body lice can be done by dusting chickens with sodium flouride or a five per cent DDT powder. If you use sodium flouride, be sure to wear a respirator or a piece of damp cloth over your mouth and nose. Release the birds into the open air as soon as they have been treated.

If you use a DDT treatment for lice, it may be repeated in three or four weeks if the first dusting does not kill all of them.

The other pest, the red or roost mite, is too small to be seen easily, but large numbers of them can cause a bird to be unthrifty, weak from loss of blood, and restless on the roost.

For red mites, painting the roosts and nests with nicotine sulfate is very effective. You can also help control them by spraying the litter, roosts, and nests with a 10 per cent solution of cresol.
