Plan Okayed In Holland By Majority

Every Township Turns Down Proposal; Nearly
12,000 Votes Cast

Holland's annexation program went down to a resounding defeat in a special election Tuesday which attracted close to 12,000 votes in Holland city and in the four townships affected by the proposed program.

Although Holland city approved the plan almost 2 to 1, the voters in the area proposed for annexation rejected the move almost 3 to 1, and the outlying townships not included in the plan rejected it almost 20 to 1.

Response in Holland city was regarded as only fair by 4,509 persons going to the polls out of a possible 8,161 or a 55 per cent vote. Response in the townships was much better with approximately 7,000 turning out in biting winds to cast their ballots.

In Holland township, 3,325 voters cast ballots out of approximately 5,000 registered. In Fillmore, 1,455 out of approximately 1,800 went to the polls. Park township attracted close to 2,000 voters and Laketown township about 550. No estimates on total registered voters in these two townships were available.

Holland city's vote of 4,509 was broken down as follows: first ward, 354; second ward, 613; third ward, 513; fourth ward (1), 382; fourth ward (2), 580; fifth ward (1), 431; fifth ward (2), 664; sixth ward (1), 384; sixth ward (2), 588. Statements from Mayor Robert Visscher and A. J. Cook, president of the Board of Education, today reaffirmed policies set forth in the annexation program.

Mayor Visscher said: "The people of the city outlined a good program to help solve community problems because it was felt they had a moral obligation to the community as a whole. Since the people in the outlying areas have rejected it the burden is now upon them to come up with a program to fulfill the educational and service needs of the outlying areas."

President Cook said: "Representatives of the 12 school districts and the city school district presented a fair and equitable plan to meet the school needs of the area. People of the city of Holland gave the Council and the School Board a vote of confidence. People of the townships saw fit to turn down the proposal. This means that the people outside the city must be willing to provide the school facilities and their operation costs."

"The announcement policy of the Board of Education remains the same. The board will allow present high school students to continue until graduation. Pupils now in the eighth grade in the three schools will have to be provided education in the schools outside the city. No freshman from the 12 districts proposed for annexation will be admitted, until such districts become annexed to the city of Holland."

School boards of the 12 districts involved in the program were generally considering meetings to plan for the future. The Beechwood board, representing the largest district in Ottawa county, will meet Friday night to select the most promising way of providing education for the children.

Don Buitendorp, information chairman for the newly formed Citizens Townships Committee, said today they are in the process of forming a school consolidation and building committee.

"The intent is to create a study and action group independent and separate from the Citizens Committee which operated prior to Tuesday's election."

"The demonstration of township unity and desire to solve their own problems will be very important to the future success of a proposed school program," Buitendorp said.

"We are sure that the faith the townships have demonstrated they have in themselves will be of great significance in solving any future problems," he said.

Funds for the group were set aside from contribution to the committee during the campaign, Buitendorp said.

Council Asks Resurvey of Harbor Bend

City Council Wednesday night adopted a resolution requesting the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to make a resurvey of widening the bend in the revetted entrance channel into Lake Macatawa from Lake Michigan.

This project was known as section A in proposed improvements for Holland Harbor. Section B which involved deepening the channel and extending the turning basin already has been completed with the aid of city funds.

Proposed new plans involve construction on the existing north revetment of 1,000 feet of new revetment widening the bend from 130 to 235 feet abreast the angle, and removing the old revetment as well as maintaining the channel to a 21-foot depth.

Previous plans had called for altering the sharp angle on the south revetment, but this would involve the transfer of considerable private property to accomplish this program. Land on the north side is publicly owned.

Council also adopted a resolution seeking a refund of $24,295.37 for work in completing section B of the harbor improvements. Final accounting indicates a fund status as follows: BPW contributions, $60,000; total costs (contract and government costs), $142,818.54; BPW share 25 percent, $35,704.63; refund due BPW, $24,295.37. This amount will be returned to the BPW capital expenditures fund.

In other business, Council okayed a permit for a commercial building for Edward Vos at 256 River Ave. after no objections were filed. The upper south wall of the present structure is not a fire wall, but reports by the building inspector and fire chief indicated the proposed structure will conform with fire regulations and will not in itself increase the fire problem.

Council also approved a Hospital Board recommendation on an arrangement to accept the sum of $2,000 in full settlement of the Henrietta Michelsen case.

A report pertaining to preliminary planning for public library facilities prepared by the firm of Kammeraad and Stroop was tabled until next meeting of Council Dec. 4. Council must adopt a resolution for final qualification of a government loan in drafting the plans.

Council okayed payment of $1,000.00 for professional services by Kammeraad and Stroop on part 1 of their contract in connection with the band shell.

City Clerk Clarence Greengood presented a report indicating appointments to be made by Council and the mayor at the first meeting in January.

Wednesday's meeting lasted only 28 minutes. There were no written communications at the meeting and Mayor Robert Visscher commented that it was the first time he recalls in his years on Council that there were no communications. Rapidly following this section of the agenda were reports by standing committee — all with no reports.

All Councilmen were present with the exception of Ernest Phillips who was deer hunting. Councilman William Heeringa gave the invocation.

Township Board Takes Big Steps

Holland Township Group
Invites Other Boards
To Study School Plans

The Holland Township board in its first meeting after the annexation defeat passed a resolution Wednesday night to invite boards of the other three townships involved in the annexation program to a joint meeting to appoint a special school committee to study consolidation and general school planning. The meeting was tentatively scheduled Monday, Nov. 25.

School districts lying outside those in the four townships also were discussed and general feeling was that they would be contacted at a later date to discuss possibilities of entering the proposed new school district.

The school situation occupied most of the discussion, although other phases also were introduced. In discussing the water problem, Sherrill Nelson of Williams and Works, Grand Rapids water engineers, presented possible ways of getting water. The board passed another resolution that this firm bring a complete water cost up to date and submit it to the board as soon as possible.

The board generally regarded these steps as some of the biggest ever taken at the meeting. Attending were John L. Van Appleton, supervisor; Maurice Vander Haar, clerk; John H. Maat, treasurer; Harold Kragt, Gerrit M. Van Kampen and Oliver Schaap, trustees; J. Russel Bouws, another trustee, was deer hunting.

We're Still a Community, Mayor Says

Feels Time Will Come
When Need Arises
For Urban Services

In contrast to critical remarks exchanged throughout the day on Holland's annexation election, Mayor Robert Visscher Wednesday night told City Council that the people in the city and townships forming Greater Holland are more important than any area boundary.

He said whether Holland people live under one or several political roofs is inconsequential and all should have a better understanding of each others needs, desires and aims in living.

Text of his message follows:

"Some comment is in order at this time on Tuesday's election. The people have spoken positively and vehemently. They have left no room for second guessing.

"There are those who will say, 'the issue is closed for all time to come. From here on we go our separate ways.' Nothing could be farther from the truth. We have contended, and truthfully, that we are one community, that the people of Holland and the people of the adjacent townships comprise the greater Holland. It is not area with which we have been concerned. It is people.

"We have been living under different types of government, one urban in which city-dwellers asked and received municipal services; the other rural or semi-rural in which the residents felt many of such services are not required. In fact, it may be fair to say that this latter group sought their present location in order to get away from the expense of such services.

"We have thought that the time had come, due to the tremendous growth in the townships, when a large majority of this group would feel the need of these services. In that we were mistaken. We misread, or misinterpreted the signs. Yet the time will come, must come, for the growth which we speak of as tremendous will continue by leaps and bounds. We are not a static people, as we grow bigger we are determined that we will grow better.

"Whether we live under one political roof is for the moment inconsequential. In so many places we work together. At so many times we play together. There are so many things we do together. Who knows, as we pass on the highway or meet on the street, that our homes are in the town or the township? There is no distinction. There never will be.

"Are we then back where we started? Not in my opinion. Not by any means. Through the vigor with which this campaign has been conducted we know each other better. We have a better understanding of each others needs, desires and aims in living. We have a keener appreciation of the high principles for which each is striving, those things which make living in our kind of a community so enviable. The campaign has moved us many strides forward. Stride for stride, side by side, we will continue into the future.

"For when the time does come, as surely it must, when these same issues are reappraised, or new issues created by ever changing conditions are to be studied and understood, again we will undertake to determine which course the majority would take, and again we will accept their determination.

"We are not Indian Givers. We are Dutch Hospitality Dispensers. Our offer will not be withdrawn. Our invitation still stands."

Youth Saves Treed Hunters

Jerry Kempker, 21, of route 2, Hamilton, went deer hunting Tuesday after work, and ended up something of a hero when he rescued two other deer hunters who had been treed by a "wild" bull, according to Jerry's co-workers at the Dutch Boy Bakery.

The story started last Saturday, when Fred Billett, of the Hamilton Poultry Farm, received a shipment of cattle. One bull, who had recently undergone an operation, escaped into the woods.

Billett and others tried to track him down, without success, and subsequently had a report from a bow-and-arrow hunter who was chased by the bull. That was the last heard from him until he treed the hunters Tuesday, and Kempker came along.

Kempker fought the bull barehanded for more than an hour, co-workers said, and after being knocked down several times and nearly gored managed to get the brute to the edge of the woods and tied him to a tree.

Then he called Billett, who recovered the animal after another fight.

Many Civil Cases Up in County Court

Temporary Injunction
Issued in Tallmadge
Township School Case

GRAND HAVEN (Special) —

Several suits have been filed in the Ottawa County Circuit Court. The Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co., subrogee of Leonard Platt, and Leonard Platt, are seeking judgement of $123.29 from Marcus A. Aurich and James Van Valkenburg, as the result of an accident which occurred on US-16 in Crocker township April 24, 1955. Cars involved were driven by Platt's son, Dale, and by Aurich and Van Valkenburg. It is alleged that both defendants' cars ran into the rear of the Platt car, causing damage.

Robert A. Miller and Ruch C. Miller, doing business as Miller Industries, Grand Haven, is seeking $4,650 from the Michigan Express Co., for the loss of two cartons of pottery which the latter company was to have delivered to the Foote Merchut Co., at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, at Atlantic City, N. J., and which allegedly became lost.

The Spring Lake Credit Union is seeking a judgement of $1,631.13 from Mrs. Joyce Kluntworth, representing the balance due on a promissory note dated Dec. 7, 1955, for $1,400.22, payable in 30 days. Richard Watkins of Bangord has filed a suit against Bruce and Jean Brown of Illinois, seeking judgement of $8,000, as the result of an accident which occurred on US-31 in Holland township approximately a half mile from the north city limits of Holland involving cars owned by Watkins and Brown. Watkins claims he incurred medical expenses for his wife, Irene, who was injured in the accident, also requiring to secure services of others to care for their two minor children.

Suit has also been commenced by the Grand Haven township against Van R. and Herman Heardon, seeking a permanent injunction prohibiting defendants from selling, renting, using or disposing of certain property owned by them in the township, and ordering them to remove two house trailers which are being used by defendants as residences. It is alleged that June 1, 1957 Mr. Heardon was issued a permit to build a one family basement house, according to the zoning ordinance in the township, but since the issuance he has built a two car garage with the two house trailers placed on each side of the garage.

Suit has also been commenced by School District No. 35, Tallmadge township, against Terpra J. and Helen Terpra, of Tallmadge township. Terpra is a Trustee of the Board of Education for the school district and for approximately a year and a half the Board of Education of the School District has on many occasions discussed the desirability and intent to acquire a parcel of land adjacent to the school property in the Village of Lamont; that about 1 1/2 years ago Terpra was delegated as agent for the board to inquire concerning the purchase of the property and, if possible, to obtain ownership for playground purposes for the school district. The property being owned by Earl Brower and Pauline Julien.

Plaintiff claims that on several occasions they have inquired as to the success or failure of Terpra in his venture in acquiring the property on behalf of the School District, and that Terpra has reported he has failed so to do. It is also claimed that Oct. 29, 1957, the Board of Education learned that Terpra had acquired title to the property in his own name and was using the property for his own purposes in constructing a home thereon, which has been admitted by Terpra.

Plaintiff claims that the acquisition of the property in the name of Terpra was done so with intent to cheat, wrong and defraud plaintiff, and that by using information secured from plaintiff, defendant, without the knowledge or consent of plaintiff, successfully negotiated with the owners for the purchase of the property, and that the deed of conveyance has not been recorded with the Ottawa County Register of Deeds.

Where two or more are gathered over the coffee cups these days, it's certain they're talking about annexation. And no matter what other subjects are brought up, the conversation always drifts back to the No. 1 subject.

No many annexation meetings, formal and informal, have been held in recent weeks that it becomes increasingly hard to assess the effectiveness of methods used. We liked this comment against long meetings: "The mind can absorb no more than the seat can endure."

George Klingenberg, of 32 Cherry, Holland, dug up an old clipping of a poem which is claimed to be over 500 years old. It was written by Mother Shipton, "a very keen and discerning student of the prophecies of the Bible who died in England in 1449."

The old poem predicted that women would adopt a craze to dress like men and cut off their hair, that they would ride astride like witches on broomsticks, that wives would fondle cats and dogs, that the world would have carriages without horses, that men's thoughts would fly around the world, that men would walk beneath the water and would ride and sleep and even talk, that pictures would seem alive with free movements, that boats would swim like fish beneath the sea, and men would fly like birds in the sky.

The last lines carry an extra prophetic punch: "When men like birds shall scour the sky; Then half this world, deep drenched in blood, shall die."

When 150 little Bluebirds took a hobo hike a couple of weeks ago they made quite a picture marching over two by two with hobo sticks over their shoulders, and police escort too.

It was too much for little Tommy Page on East Eighth St. He ran to his mother and said, "Look at all the little girls running away from hove, and the police are chasing them!"

"Water is our most valuable resource, but people don't see how little it costs," the American Water Works Association was told at a convention in Milwaukee, Wis., some time ago. The speaker, Raymond J. Faust of New York City, secretary of the association, suggested water bills be issued monthly instead of quarterly to show users how ridiculously low the rates are in comparison to other services.

He proposed that water meters be read every six months instead of quarterly, and that the user be billed in six equal payments for the half year, and adjustments on future bills if necessary. Clerical work on issuing six identical bills could be reduced through automatic machines.

Mission Drive At Seminary Up to $2,500

The annual Mission Drive at Western Theological Seminary was held Tuesday in the Commons room. The project this year is church extension in Canada. The students and faculty responded to this challenge by pledging $2,500 to date, with more pledges yet to be counted.

The day began with an all-school breakfast at 7 a.m. Jan Van Oostveen gave the opening prayer and introduced the speaker. The Rev. Harry Zegarius, the pioneer director of the work in Canada, gave the inspirational speech.

The morning chapel program began with devotions led by John Moerman. There was a verbal and visual presentation of the Canadian challenge. A slide story prepared by the Rev. Jacob Blaauw, director of the Canadian work, was presented. A Canadian layman, Mr. Vermeulen, who is the Field Representative working with the incoming Dutch immigrants, gave the challenge. He said that we might assume responsibility for some 5,000 immigrants this coming year.

The evening program began with a potluck supper at 6 p.m. Dr. John R. Mulder, president of the Seminary, gave the invocation. The meal included Dutch pea soup, prepared by Mrs. John Moerman. Jan Van Oostveen sang the Canadian National anthem and the Canadian Klein led the devotions.

The Rev. Henry Fiske, minister of the new church in London, Ontario, presented the challenge. He was dramatically interrupted by a long distance phone call from the Director of the Canadian work, Rev. Jacob Blaauw. He called from Canada, presenting an up-to-the-minute report. Rev. Harry Zegarius was in charge of the pledging. A vocal duet was sung by Gordon Laman and Nathan Vander Werf.

The money pledged will be sent to three young churches in Canada. They are located in London, Ontario,

Dutch Score 21-0 Victory; 7-2 for Year

The finest record since 1953 and the best team coached by Russ De Vette are two claims the Hope College football team plucked off Saturday with its 21-0 victory over Beloit College before 1,800 chilled fans at Riverview Park.

Hope ended the season with seven wins and two losses to equal the 1953 mark and give De Vette his most successful season since taking over the Dutch helm in 1955.

The unit that De Vette fielded, with the help of end coach Al Vanderbush and line coach Gord Brewer, was the best the Hope mentor has molded.

Twice in the second quarter and once in the fourth, the Dutch hit for paydirt in the season's finale. During all four quarters, the defensive team was hard at work giving Beloit more than they could take.

Probably one of the best defensive units ever assembled at Hope, they allowed the Bucs only 85 yards rushing, 20 in the first half and never did Beloit threaten. Ken Faber, Larry Ter Molen, Don Paarlberg, Gene Van Dongen, Tom Miller, George Peelen, Bill Huijbregtse and Jim Hilmert composed the defensive unit for the most part, making most of the tackles.

While offensively Faber and guard Dick Gantos again showed fast pulling power and the entire line hit hard on its blocks as the backs came sailing through for yardage which totaled 224 yards, 108 in the first half.

Hope opened the scoring on a three-yard pass from quarterback Mert Vanderlind to fullback Ron Bekius with six seconds gone in the second quarter. The pass climaxed a 40-yard, nine-play drive, highlighted by a 15-yard run by right half Jerry Hendrickson and a 14-yard Vanderlind pass to fullback Ty Rupp. Huijbregtse converted.

A 15-yard personal foul against Beloit following a Buc punt gave Hope the ball on the Beloit 25 and in eight plays the Dutch were home. Left half Jim Hoeksema sliced off tackle for six yards and the score with 4:40 gone in the second period. Huijbregtse took a fumbled pass from center and ran through tackle for the extra point.

Hope capped a 56-yard third quarter drive with its third touchdown with 40 seconds gone in the final period. Hendrickson, who sat out most of the first half with a twisted ankle received in the first quarter, scored on an end run of nine yards. Huijbregtse converted. The touchdown came 16 plays after the drive which featured a running game of dives, reverses and bucks.

Vanderlind scored a fourth Hope touchdown on a 17-yard bootleg in the fourth quarter but the play was called back because of a holding penalty against the Dutch.

Hope drove to the Beloit one in the early minutes of the game but failed to score on fourth down. The drive covered 34 yards following a Buc punt. Hoeksema led the Hope backs with 67 yards in 18 tries while Vanderlind had 38 in nine, Hendrickson, 34-6; Herp 5-3; Rupp 8-29; Bekius, 3-11; Menzer, 2-4 and Wetherbee, 1-3. Phil Thompson led Beloit with 47 yards in 19 carries. Twenty-three of his yards were obtained in the last three minutes against the Hope subs along with 35 yards in passing as De Vette emptied the bench.

Beloit was coached by assistants Clare Eddy and Bob Nichols as Coach Carl Nelson was called to Colorado because of the death of his brother. Beloit ended with a 3-4 record.

It was the final game for nine Hope seniors and all turned in fine closing performances. They are Vanderlind, John De Fouw, Wetherbee, Faber, Gantos, Curt Menning, Hilmert, George Van Verst and Paul Wiegier.

Beloit took a plane to Grand Rapids and a bus to Holland. They returned to Wisconsin immediately after the game.

Zeeland's Power Was In Its Rushing Game

ZEELAND (Special) — Power on the ground but with no threat in the air told the story of the Zeeland High football team this season as they finished with a 4-4 record and a third place tie in the Kenewa League.

The Chix backs, behind one of the strongest lines in recent years, didn't have any trouble ripping off the yardage and made a total of 1,847 yards in eight games for an average of about 230 yards per contest.

But through the air, Zeeland couldn't present a threat. With quarterback Brian Mohr pitching, the Chix completed 13 out of 32 passes for 120 yards or an average of 15 yards per game.

Zeeland ran up 308 yards against Hudsonville for the top single game performance and totaled 277 yards rushing against league champion Fremont.

Coach Jarold Groters said the performance against Fremont was the best game the Chix played this season. He added that Zeeland's rushing total this season was better than that made by the unbeaten 1955 Chix team.

John Bloemendaal, senior right halfback, led the Chix in ball totting with 544 yards in 83 tries for about six yards a carry. Dave Den Ouden, senior left halfback, gained three more yards but took 125 attempts to do it.

Zeeland fullback, senior Laverne Slagh gained 389 yards in 104 tries. He lost only one yard.

The Chix scored 94 points to their opponents 72. The fourth quarter was the most productive with 34 points being scored, one ahead of the second quarter total. Zeeland foes each only scored six points in the third period. Den Ouden led the Chix scorers with 35 points while Bloemendaal had 14.

Zeeland made 97 first downs, 92 by rushing and the opponents picked up 65. The foes tried 57 passes and completed 18 for 17 yards.

The opposition ran 271 rushing plays and gained 1,660 yards while Zeeland carried the ball on the ground 432 times. The Chix had a total of 464 plays and the foes, 329.

The Chix defensive team, especially the line, was regarded by Coach Jarold Groters as the best defensive group he has had in his five years as Zeeland head coach.

Marv Feenstra, a rugged 6' 2", 190-pound junior, spearheaded the defensive team from his tackle position. Jim Van Dam, smallest man on the team at 5' 7", 135, was the top backfield defender.

Zeeland was nosed out in total offense by 10 yards, 1,977, to 1,967. The Chix punted 21 times for 534 yards and the eight opponents 28 times for 779 yards.

The Chix were penalized for 325 yards and the foes, 230.

Review of Historical Book Highlights DAR Meeting

The Elizabeth Schuyler Hamilton Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Maibelle Geiger.

Miss Katherine Post reviewed the book, "Men of the Western Waters" by Dale Van Every. She said that she chose the book because it deals with a period of history which has been somewhat neglected by historical writers. It is the dramatic story of the frontier between the battles of Yorktown in 1781 and of Fallen Timbers in 1794.

Though the Revolutionary War officially ended in January 1784 when the Treaty of Paris was ratified by Congress, more people were killed between that time and 1794 than during the whole official Revolutionary War. The book gives a vivid account of the part played in this struggle by the new United States and by Spain, England and the Indians.

It pays tribute to Anthony Wayne whose skillful leadership was largely responsible for the decisive victory at Fort Greenville which brought an end to this critical period of history and decided the continental destiny of the United States.

Miss Laura Boyd, regent, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Benjamin Van Lente, chaplain, conducted devotions, using Thanksgiving as her theme.

THE SUMMING UP

This is a good time to look back at the annexation campaign that will be decided in today's balloting. A summing up of the results of the most spirited community contest in years is in order.

The most comforting conclusion is the reasonable conviction that it has been worth while, regardless of the results of today's election. Because of the campaign, the city and the townships have developed a sense of their common stake in a group of community problems that could hardly have been achieved in any other way. Even if the annexation proposal is rejected, it is good for both parties in the equation to recognize that they have problems in common.

Another reassuring fact that comes out of the campaign is that this was in no sense a cold war between city and townships but a cooperative attempt on the part of both to take a look at the facts of local community life. On the whole each side respected the other and used argument and persuasion, not abuse. Understandably, individual tempers flared occasionally, because all kinds of temperaments are involved in a contest of such proportions. But for the most part, the campaign was conducted on a high level. That achievement is worth while, regardless of the result of the vote.

Moreover, the annexation campaign was a demonstration of the democratic process at its best. Democracy is sometimes thought of as existing only in the stratosphere of national government. Actually democracy would be impossible in Washington if it was not practiced as a matter of course in small communities like Holland, all over the nation.

"Democracy" means a government by the people. The people of this community, both in the townships and in the city, made the decision to face their own local governmental problem and to come to a reasoned conclusion in their own way. They did not look to Lansing or Washington to solve the problem for them; they made their own decision to try to help themselves. Such a thing is impossible in a totalitarian country, like Russia; there the decision as to annexation or non-annexation would be handed down to the local community from headquarters. Again, whatever the decision, it is comforting that it is our own.

Throughout the campaign, this paper has tried to give a full chance to anyone who had ideas to present to air them in print. That is our understanding of practical democracy in solving community problems.

There still is time to vote. True democracy involves not only the privilege to vote but also the responsibility. Your vote is the summing up of your own personal part in the contest.

THE BIG FRENCH QUESTION

How long will the Felix Gailard government in France last? That is the big question that confronts the people of France first of all now that the 24th post-war premier is warming up his office chair. And not only the people of France, also the people of all the other countries of the free world. That world is so interdependent that if the "bell tolls" for one of its members it tolls for all.

To have had 24 governments in approximately 12 years is surely a record that cannot be matched by any other major power in the world, perhaps not in all history. If the present government lasts only the average six months of the other 23, what will that do to the French economy? And if France falls politically and economically, what will that do to the alliance that confronts the Soviet threat?

Americans can perhaps best understand the French political situation by translating it into American terms. In those terms we would have had 24 different presidents and their cabinets since the time when President Truman first took over the reins of government from the dead hand of Roosevelt. Not only different individual presidents but different political policies. What would that have done to the American economy? If Truman had been ousted from office six months or a year after he became President, with Eisenhower put in his place; if a few months later Eisenhower had been turned out and Adlai Stevenson had taken the job; if in a similarly brief time Stevenson had been forced out to make way for, say, Nixon or Knowland or someone else of that type — if that had gone on for 23 administrations over a period of a bare dozen years, what would have become of America, strong though the nation was when it all began?

Added to France's troubles is the fact that the French nation was by no means strong when the process began. France had been occupied for years by the Nazi hordes. The people had been bled white, in terms of economics, by the German legions. Many of the nation's most creative nationals had been shipped to foreign slave camps; hundreds of millions of French francs had been diverted to enemy use; millions of people had been reduced to poverty.

France found herself in such a state at the close of the war that she could less afford to indulge in internal political warfare than at any time in her history. She chose just this time to go politically berserk. The result has been tragic; it has threatening tones. In the end anything could happen. The French however, have a way of shrugging their shoulders and continuing to live on.

Ottawa County Farm News

We want to thank the folks who came out to our Turkey Day on Tuesday, Nov. 12, for being so patient and considerate. The crowd was so much bigger than we had anticipated and planned for, therefore many people had to wait a long time before being served. Then too, a few people got into the auditorium who shouldn't have been there and this of course cut considerably into our supply of turkey.

However we would like to assure everyone if this event occurs another year our experience of last week Tuesday will make us much better qualified for another such event. We calculate approximately 1,300 or 1,400 folks were fed that night and that is a lot of people to serve in a couple of hours.

At this time of year it is well to begin planning for next spring's plantings; not only of the crops in rotation, but for trees we may wish to plant. In fact, it is more important to decide early which trees we wish to plant than the rotation crops.

With rotation crops it is only a problem of fitting the rotation into the fields, knowing our rates of seeding, and arriving at the seed needed. With trees it is more complicated because we have to fit the tree selected to the planting site. It is then necessary to locate the desired seedlings at some nursery, often hundreds of miles from the farm. If we delay ordering these seedlings until spring we may find that desired species are not available because others who ordered earlier have exhausted the limited supply.

Many times we substitute a less desirable species when the one originally planned is sold out. When one stops to consider this action it can scarcely be justified. Twenty years from now someone will be saying "I wish we had white pine growing here instead of jack pine."

Possibly the potentialities of the site are not known and assistance may be desired from some technician in helping decide the species best suited to the specific place you wish to plant. The importance of the proper tree on that particular soil can not be exaggerated from the standpoint of growth, vigor, and economy.

If you plan to plant trees next spring, decide now the species you desire and how many you will want. It is then imperative that you order early enough to insure getting the species specified.

Caring for the small fruits in your garden is a fall as well as a spring time job. Ernest Bergman, horticulturist at Michigan State University, offers a few hints on fall management of small fruits.

Strawberry growers know that it's essential to use a good mulch. Bergman says it's best to mulch as soon as the tops are dried off and the plants are dormant, or as soon as the ground is frozen. If you use straw, apply about a two inch layer. You'll need about two bales for every 100 square feet. If you use leaves, be careful that they're not too heavy, otherwise they might smother the berries.

Blackberries and dewberries can use some attention in the fall, too. All canes that bore fruit this season need to be pruned and burned; it's best to wait until spring for the others. For winter protection you might want to mulch your dewberries and blackberries with sawdust, leaves or straw. Use a layer about four to six inches deep. The canes can be covered with two to three inches of soil for protection. If you use leaves or straw for mulch, wait until the ground is frozen to prevent any mouse damage.

When it comes to the question of fertilizer, Bergman says that manure is best for blackberries and dewberries. If no manure is available, you can substitute a commercial complete fertilizer at the rate of about two ounces per young plant. Strawberries also need a complete fertilizer, but at the rate of about five pounds per 100 feet of row.

Grapes too can be fertilized now. Here you'll want to use a complete fertilizer at five to twelve ounces per plant, depending on their age. Some folks like to prune their grapes in the fall, but Bergman says that this is one job that definitely should not be done this fall. Pruning your grapes is one job that is done with best results only in the spring.

You've still got time to mulch your shrubs before winter sets in. Mulch should be placed under ornamental shrubs and evergreens before the ground freezes. Start at the trunk and go out as far as the reach of the outside branches.

The mulch should have organic matter and some nutrient content. Leaves can be used if they are old and partly decomposed. Fresh leaves tend to pack and cut off the air.

Manure and straw used together makes an effective mulch. Widmeyer says. Other satisfactory mulches are ground corn cobs, buckwheat hulls, sawdust (the coarser the better), and wood chips. The material should be two to four inches deep on the ground.

For bulbs and below - ground plants, you should wait until the ground freezes before mulching. Mound up the soil around roses and wait for the ground to freeze. Mulching after the ground freezes will stop the shifting of the soil due to freezing and thawing which would damage roots. Do not prune the roses at this time of year.

The benefits of mulch are primarily the reduction of moisture loss by evaporation and runoff, and the organic matter added to the soil. The mulch can be worked into the soil in the spring. To maintain the nutrient content of the soil, $\frac{3}{4}$ cup of ammonium nitrate or ammonium sulfate should be added to each bushel of mulch worked into the soil.

Spraying the lawn with mercury fungicides will help protect it from snow mold this winter.

Snow mold is a white cottony growth that appears on the grass during late fall, winter and early spring. As leaves are killed, they turn brown and frequently mat together.

Snow mold fungus thrives under the cool moist conditions of melting snow and is commonly found in this part of the country.

In addition to spraying, providing adequate drainage, avoiding the use of nitrogenous fertilizers late in the fall and keeping all trash off the lawn so it will dry quickly in the spring will help control the disease.

On lawns that were infested with snow mold in previous seasons, several applications of mercury fungicides during the winter may be necessary to keep the disease down.

Christian Giving
I Corinthians 16:1-14
by C. P. Dame

(Based on copyrighted outlines prepared by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and used by permission.)

Some church members do not like to hear anything about money matters in a church service. Jesus said much about money and Paul did not hesitate to mention it and to teach churches to give.

1. The early Christians were told to give. Paul was not afraid to give orders. The Christians in Jerusalem were in want. Paul planned to gather a collection for them from the Gentile Churches. Paul had two good reasons for taking this empire-wide "firing." The first reason was the need that was in Jerusalem. The second reason was that Paul wanted to unite the Christian Jews and Gentile Christians more firmly together. Paul gave orders to the Corinthian Church to take up a collection on the first day of the week — on Sunday.

The congregations were in the habit of meeting on the first day of the week in commemoration of the Lord's resurrection. To take up a collection such as this was something new in the world. Christianity was already uniting people of different races.

These early Christians were told how to give. Paul ordered them to give "as God hath prospered" them. Some prospered more than others and therefore they were commanded to give proportionately. The more a Christian prospers the more he should give. Often when the income increases the desires also increase but not the giving. There should be systematic giving — on the first day of the week. Paul heartily believed in being businesslike and therefore he wanted some persons from the church in Corinth to go along to Jerusalem and see to it that the money was wisely used.

Some churches can learn a lesson from this plan. It is not advisable for one deacon to count and distribute the money nor is it right for money that has been given for benevolence to be used for local expenses. Some members have no system about giving. Often when a person gives a lump sum he thinks he is doing real well. The person who gives weekly gives far more than most givers who write out one or two checks in a year. Why should a Christian be careless about giving to the greatest cause on earth?

II. Opportunities about today. And where there are opportunities there are also those who oppose. Paul wrote his letter to the Corinthians while he was in Ephesus where "a great door and effectual" was opened unto him and there were many adversaries there too. We live in a time of many opportunities and much opposition. Paganism, materialism, naturalism and secularism oppose Christianity. Usually the more opportunities there are the more opposition there is. We should use the open doors knowing not when they will be closed.

God has a variety of workers for the open doors. In the lesson Timothy and Apollos are mentioned. Timothy was young and shy. Apollos was eloquent and gifted. Timothy could do some things that Apollos could not do and Apollos was able to render a service Timothy could not do. If all church members use the gifts they have much will be accomplished.

The counsel Paul gave to the members of the church is timely for modern church members — "stand fast in the faith." We are summoned to stand fast in the faith founded on the Word of God, the faith that centers in Jesus Christ who suffered for our sins and rose again for our justification. Christianity is not a religion for the soft and the lovers of ease — "quit you like men, be strong" — these words are timely and the words "Let all things be done with charity" by all means remembered.

Women Accountants Have Monthly Dinner

The Holland Chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants held its monthly dinner meeting on Tuesday evening in the Centennial Room of the Warm Friend Tavern. President Cecelia Ver Hage presided at the business meeting.

Miss Bonnie Stoltz introduced the speaker, Walter W. Scott, Superintendent of the Holland Public Schools, who spoke on "Public School Financing." Every adult should have some concern about government costs and, therefore, should have an interest in public school financing, he said.

Mr. Scott explained that the public schools in the State of Michigan are supported by three main sources of income — local taxes, State Aid which is a portion from the sales tax revenue, and Federal Government Aid which is for vocational education. The Holland schools also receive income from tuition for non-resident students.

Mr. Scott used budget estimates and circle graphs in explaining the income and expenses.

Plans were made for a tour of the new Junior High School at Zeeland for Tuesday evening, Nov. 26.

Mrs. Donald Crawford and Miss Sharon Crawford and Mrs. Warren S. Merriam of Holland were among a large group of persons attending the Theater Train tour of New York plays. Mrs. Ben Aspy of Indianapolis, a Macatawa summer resident, also took the tour. Plays seen were "My Fair Lady," "Mary Stuart," "The Belles Are Ringing" and "West Side Story."

Anna Van Horsen

County Clerk Dies After Heart Surgery

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — Anna Van Horsen, 64, Ottawa County clerk since Jan. 1, 1950, died Monday in Blodgett Hospital in Grand Rapids where she had undergone heart surgery two weeks ago.

She had submitted to heart surgery Nov. 4 and was thought to be convalescing satisfactorily. She had visited another Grand Haven patient in the hospital Friday night. Early Monday a clot apparently formed and at 3 a.m. she went into a coma. She had been in failing health the last few years.

A life-long resident of Grand Haven, she was born Oct. 17, 1893, to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Van Horsen. After graduating from the local high school she was employed in the C. N. Addison department store. On Jan. 1, 1916, she started work for the county as a deputy clerk under Clerk Jacob Glerum. When Glerum was defeated by Orrie J. Sluiter that same year, she continued as deputy under his administration.

On May 1, 1926, Sluiter was appointed clerk of the U. S. district court in Grand Rapids, and Circuit Judge Orrie S. Cross appointed William Wilds as county clerk. Miss Van Horsen continued as deputy. Wilds retired on Jan. 1, 1950, and Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith appointed Miss Van Horsen as county clerk. Appointment of a new county clerk will be made by Judge Smith.

Miss Van Horsen was a member of the Presbyterian Church, the State National Federation of Business Women, the Legion Auxiliary and was a charter member of the Triangle Business and Professional Club.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Etta Barr of Grand Haven; Mrs. Marie Godlewski of East Lansing and Louise Van Horsen with whom she made her home at 411 Ohio St., Grand Haven; two brothers, Henry and Howard of Grand Haven.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday from the Presbyterian Church at Fifth and Franklin Sts. with Dr. Wallace Robertson officiating. Burial was in Lake Forest Cemetery.

Veteran Holland Christian Cage Team Ready for Season

Holland Christian's cage drills were entering the final phases of preparation this week as Coach Art Tuls was putting his 1957-58 basketball squad through its paces awaiting the home opener with Kalamazoo University High just 10 days away. The Maroons raise the curtain on the season, Nov. 29 on the Civic Center court.

Tuls has cut his squad down to 10 men, the smallest outfit he has carried in a long time. Six members are lettermen, all seniors. The remainder of the club is made up of two juniors and two sophomores. Two regulars from last year's state quarterfinalist club are back for action this season.

Heading the list of returnees are Warren Otte, 6'3" center and Cal Klaasen, a rugged 6'2 1/2" forward. Other lettermen back are Jim Meurer, a 6' converted guard this season, who saw considerable action as a forward last year; Jim Kool, another six footer who saw a great deal of action at both the center and forward slots last season; Dan Bos, a driving guard who stands 5'11" and Bob Klingenberg, a 6'2" guard, converted from last year's forward spot.

The newcomers include two juniors, Arlyn Lanting a 5'11" guard, up from the reserve squad and Jim Hulst, a 6'2" forward, also up from the reserve team. The two sophomores are Vern Wedeven, a 6'2" center and Jack Bouman, a hefty 6'2" forward. Both boys played on the reserve team as freshmen last season.

The Dutch mentor said it was still too early to make any predictions, commenting that he was waiting for the first few games to find the rough spots. "We're well pleased with the progress and the spirit of the boys at this stage of the practices," Tuls said.

"Considerable experience at several key spots should be counted as our biggest assets at this point," he went on to say. Otte who didn't start a game until late in the season, but rounded into form in the tournaments again looks sharp. Both Klaasen and Kool look good at one of the forward spots, with both fighting for the starting berth. Hulst has impressed at his forward spot and more than likely will get the starting nod.

Dan Bos, a driving type of player with a good shot, will probably start at one of the guardposts. The other guard position finds Meurer, Klingenberg and Lanting vying for the honors. Both Meurer and Klingenberg are being changed to guards from forward posts last season, although Klingenberg also played guard on the reserve team.

Tuls said he was also well pleased with the sophs, Bouman and Wedeven. "They should both see plenty of action this year," he said.

Defense and shooting appear to be the biggest trouble spots at this stage, although Tuls said he expects this to pick up as the season progresses. Commenting on the small squad which he is carrying, Tuls said, "Our thinking is this. If any of the reserve squad look as if they can help us out at any point during the season, we'll move them up to the varsity."

The Maroons will play a rugged 18 game schedule, perhaps highlighted by the new facilities in which they expect to play this season. Six brand new gyms await the Maroons on the road this season. The sixth was added Saturday when Tuls and Reserve Coach Clare Pot were informed at the coaches' clinic in Kalamazoo that University High will play its return game with the Dutch on Western Michigan University's 1 1/2 million dollar field house floor on Dec. 27.

De Vette Praises Hope Team for Successful Season

Coach Russ De Vette of Hope College said today that he thought before the start of the football season that the Dutch "would have a good ball club and capable of beating every team on paper."

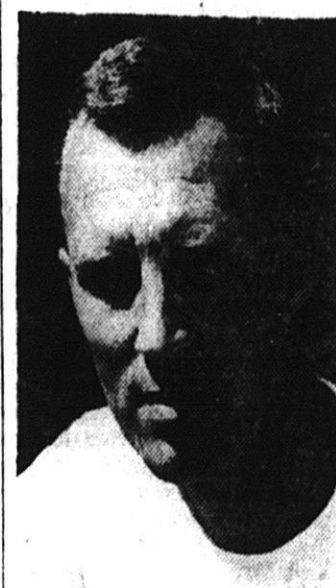

Now with the season behind him, De Vette looked back today and said "because we had a good team we also had a good season."

The Dutch won seven out of nine games, finished in a tie for second place in the MIAA and lost the two games by margins of a single point.

De Vette felt that defensive play, which was greater than he ever anticipated, and the depth in the backfield were the two main reasons why Hope had its best team in five years.

He singled out several players as reasons for Hope's success. Probably the biggest factor on the line was the play of senior Ken (Mick) Faber.

"We planned on Faber only for offensive action this year but he was determined to be a defensive player and he turned out to be a tremendous linebacker. He always worked hard and said he had more this year than ever before," De Vette said.

His move to defense was brought about because of the injury to senior Dick Gantos, who was expected to play regular linebacker.

Juniors Don Paarlberg and Bill Huibregtse both came through as expected defensively and teamed with Faber to give Hope the power.

Huibregtse had the best average for extra point kickers in the MIAA. Hope made 14 out of 18 extra points and Huibregtse made 13 out of 16. Alma, a team which defeated Hope by one point, made only five out of 14 while Hillsdale scored 21 out of 33 attempts.

Sophomore Gene Van Dongen, valuable for his long kicks and centers for punts, was another pleasant defensive surprise in the final two games. Van Dongen had been bothered with a knee injury and the Hope staff didn't want to use him on defense. But the injury responded and Van Dongen took a crack at linebacking in the final two games and turned in top performances.

Sophomore George Peelen was a third string tackle in 1956. De Vette said, and in the first two weeks this season he earned a starting offensive berth. Later he was needed for defensive purposes because of injuries and turned in a "tremendous job."

Other pleasing spots on the line were sophomore end Ron Bronson, freshman end Mike Blough and seniors George Van Verst and Curt Menning who filled in admirably for the injured seniors Paul Wiegink and Jim Hilbert.

Junior tackle Larry Ter Molen was another "coaches dream" on the front line. He went both ways with equal effectiveness.

Tom Miller, a transfer from Grand Rapids J.C. also was a valuable defensive lineman but missed several key games because of injuries.

De Vette felt the high point of the line was the Albion game. "Their play was obvious," Hope won 47-7 but the big thing was that we had them all, something we didn't have for our other games," De Vette said.

"Our backfield depth this year allowed us to execute any series of plays," De Vette said. "We had backs for power and for wide stuff and if we did get injuries, we had replacements so we weren't weakened," he added.

Halfbacks Jim Hoeksema, a freshman and sophomores Duane Voskuil and Ty Rupp were used for the power while junior Jerry Hendrickson, sophomore Jim Menzer and freshman Jerry Herp executed the wide plays.

"Rupp started as a quarterback, then we switched him to halfback in the Kalamazoo game and then when (Ron) Wetherbee was injured he became our fullback. He put out all the time, was a good blocker, a hard runner and the best fullback at the end of the season," De Vette said.

Sophomore Ron Bekius and Wetherbee were the other Hope fullbacks and gave the Dutch depth at this spot.

Captain Mert Vanderlind was the key to the Dutch success this season. When Hope changed its offense for the Kalamazoo game and moved Vanderlind to quarterback, the switch gave Hope a diversified running attack. The Grand Rapids senior, because of his quickness, faking ability and speed could operate wide plays such as bootlegs to compensate for the up-middle plays.

Vanderlind was also good on running back punts because of his shiftness and joined with Jack Faber, Hendrickson, Wetherbee, Hoeksema and Bekius in carrying out Hope's pass defense.

"We were determined to cut down on the long passes this year since so many of them beat us in 1956," De Vette said, "and I think we were successful even though Hillsdale did score on us on a long one."

De Vette Heads Group

Russ De Vette, Hope College football and basketball coach, has been elected president of the MIAA coaches association, Eklin Isaac of Albion was named vice president and Bob Gillis of Adrian, secretary.

It was a busy time at The Sentinel office Tuesday night. Phones buzzed five and six at a time, but with a single issue such as annexation, calls were kept brief. Returns were promptly broadcast over WHTC from the news room.

The Holland city vote was unusually prompt. The first precinct to report was fourth ward, second precinct, which had returns ready by 8:05 p.m. Within 20 minutes, all nine precincts had reported to City Clerk Clarence Grevingoed.

Township returns were much slower, most of them reporting more than an hour later. A mixup in Holland township in keeping out-dated votes separate from the proposed annexed areas in several precincts was not resolved until well after 11 p.m.

Response from persons calling The Sentinel for returns were varied. Here are some samples: "Can you tell me if I live in the city now?"

"What's the score?" "Oh, that's too bad." "What will we do now?" "They didn't go at it right. They should have taken in a little at a time."

"But where will my daughter go to school?" "I knew it wouldn't pass."

Grand Haven School Board Okays Report

GRAND HAVEN (Special) — The Grand Haven Board of Education accepted the long-awaited Area School Study committee report Monday.

This climaxed a project begun a year-and-a-half ago and will provide area school boards with much information for discussion.

Plans were okayed by the board members to begin taking bids for the printing of the report so that copies can be made available to participating schools and interested organizations.

The board proposed the report April 9, 1956 to find out what the future held for education and how to deal with it. It was made by a committee of 38 headed by William Vivian of Grand Haven township as chairman. The group was assisted by Dr. Byron Hansford of Michigan State University. He also helped the Holland group with its report.

It was pointed out that the report was prepared by a group of lay people who have become familiar with school problems. The major conclusion to be drawn from the report is that one large school district for the area considered in the study would be cheaper to operate and would provide for better education.

The area was broken down into three school groupings to facilitate the study. But of those three, the one consolidated district appears to be the answer.

Those groups were three possible school districts for the area which would include (1) Ferrysburg and districts north, Spring Lake and districts east, and a consolidation of all districts south of Grand River; (2) all districts north of the river and all districts south of the river and (3) one large, consolidated district.

The study included Peach Plains, Rosy Mound, Pigeon Creek, Agnew, Bignell and Stone Districts in Grand Haven Township; Connell and West Olive Districts in Port Sheldon Township; Worley, North Robinson, Maplewood, Clark, West Robinson, Robinson Central and New Era Districts in Robinson Township; Patchin District (now part of Spring Lake District 41 in Crockery Township; Jeffers and Midway (now part of Spring Lake District 41), Spring Lake, Ferrysburg, De Witt (now part of Ferrysburg District), in Spring Lake Township and the Grand Haven District.

It was found through a questionnaire sent to families that school districts south of Grand River had 80 to 100 per cent of their needs supplied by Grand Haven. The exception was the southernmost districts of Connell and West Olive which obtained 40 to 60 per cent of their services in Grand Haven and the rest in Holland and Zeeland.

In other business, the commission opened 11 bids for a new crane and eight bids on snowplows, all of which are being tabulated before final decision is made. The crane bids involve 34 different models ranging from $17,895 to $30,290.

The commission adopted a resolution to relinquish jurisdiction over roads now within the enlarged city of Hudsonville.

Maps are being prepared designating certain roads for special loading.

Housemother Joins in Fraternity Fun

How would you like to have 50 sons?

This is the position petite Mrs. Jeannette Boeskool finds herself in — housemother to a whole fraternity full of boys.

Mrs. Boeskool, who is the last fraternity housemother left at Hope College, came to the college eight years ago to take over her new job in the Arcadian fraternity.

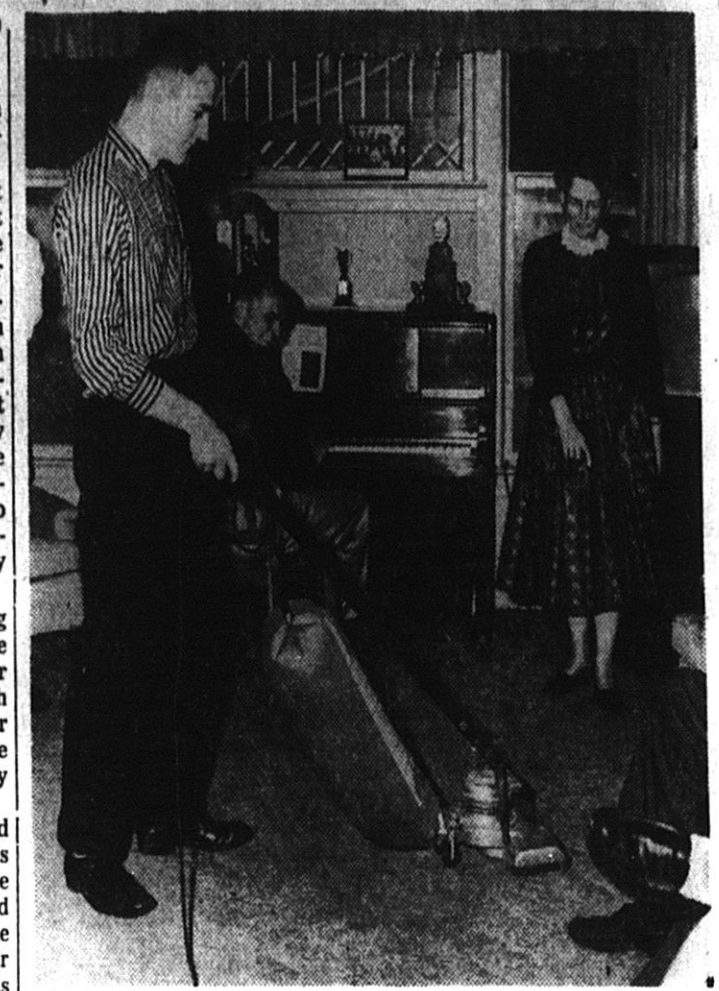

At the time she was working in an office in Grand Rapids when her son, one of three sons who attended Hope College, told her that Hope was reopening the fraternity houses and were going to have housemothers. Mrs. Boeskool applied, got the job, and came to Holland to become the housemother of the Arcadian fraternity which just acquired a house.

"I enjoy and am used to being with boys," Mrs. Boeskool, more popularly known as "mom" or "General" said, "they are so much fun. Occasionally they have water fights with water guns that have to be called to a halt when they start using pistols," she laughed.

Among Mrs. Boeskool's fond memories of her fun-loving boys are the shaving cream fights, the beds that were pulled apart and later found in the shower, and the boy who slept in the lounge rather than ask her for his mattress which had been placed in Mrs. Boeskool's bath tub.

Mrs. Boeskool joins her boys in cards, general discussions on dating, and religion, and study breaks for coffee and cookies in her apartment. "The boys have lovely parties and dances," she said, "of course, I'm not at all partial to the Arkies."

Among her other duties as a

AND HERE'S A SPOT!" — Although a cleaning lady comes to the Arcadian House once a week and a house janitor keeps the hallways clean, a fraternity house with approximately 50 members still manages to get messed up. college housemother, Mrs. Boeskool is head hostess in the Juliana dining room at Durfee Hall, issues dining-room tickets at the beginning of each semester and keeps order in the Arcadian house, chaperones their parties, and inspects rooms once a week.

Interpreter of India Speaks at Literary Club

"A new birth of freedom has come to India, be patient, she will catch up and be a friend," Don Ebright, interpreter of modern India told a small but enthusiastic audience at the Woman's Literary Club Tuesday afternoon.

He is full of hope for the plans India has for her people and he should know whereof he speaks after spending 19 years traveling all over India as an administrator.

Mr. Ebright told his listeners if they remembered only two things he told them, that would be enough — the first already mentioned, the new birth of freedom, and the second, that when India chose to be a sovereign democratic republic in 1947 after being granted her freedom from England, she took the finest possible step.

Manpower in India is so cheap that the speaker could build a tennis court by hiring as many laborers as he wanted for 10 cents a day.

Only six per cent of the population has running water, there are 200,000,000 sacred cows, a teacher with a BA and an MA earns only $25-35 a month, goat meat is eaten five days a week — these are some of the statistics Mr. Sebright pointed out.

The first five-year plan, which had nothing to do with other so called systems, was designed to assist agriculture. Agricultural experts from this country, specialists in 4-H work and others are helping the farmers of India to be self supporting.

The second five year plan aims to assist industry. The second five years will be over in 1961. India has a mixed economy, Mr. Sebright said. Tea which might be grown on a plantation next door, cannot be purchased directly. It must be shipped to England, packaged and shipped back to India. They have government owned transportation and atomic control. But coal, iron, steel, paper are all private enterprise.

Spiritual revolution and land reforms are also uppermost in the new freedom with the elimination in many places of the caste system.

Mrs. Clarence Becker, club president, introduced the speaker.
