Tribute Paid in Holland To Martyred President

Tributes to the late President Kennedy were given by three local clergymen at the community services at 11:15 Monday in Civic Center.

The service, arranged by the Holland Ministerial Association, included messages on the place of the president in the historical past, a eulogy and an outlook for the future. The Rev. William Burd of First Presbyterian Church read scripture before each tribute.

Also included in the service were a military tribute by men in uniform, music by the Magnachords, hymns and prayers, silent and audible.

The Rev. J. Herbert Brink, president of the association, presided. Capt. Eric Britcher of the Salvation Army conducted the prayer service and the Rev. William Swets of Maplewood Reformed Church gave the benediction. A 21-gun salute by 11 National Guardsmen was given as the Magnachords closed the service with the signing of "Battle Hymn."

Speaking on "Our Heritage: The Office of the President," the Rev. Hilding Kilglin of First Methodist Church said the office of president as developed in the constitution embodies all the hopes and dreams this country has for freedom and liberty.

"The man who fills this office from time to time has thrust upon him the ideals and principles of freedom not only for our people and our country, but embraces the same for all free-loving people of the world. When our president cannot move about with a reasonable sense of security to express these hopes and dreams without fear of consequences, then in a measure all of us begin to lose our freedom, our liberty and our hopes out of which this nation was born."

In a eulogy to the late President, Msgr. Julian A. Molecki of St. Francis De Sales Church said, "The entire free world is still plunged in deepest mourning at the death of a man who was totally and unreservedly dedicated to world peace and to the soul stirring conviction that men everywhere can and must live in dignity and self-respect, irrespective of race, color or religion."

"It is this commitment, which in a way, brought his life to an abrupt end. It is true that all leadership of importance involves certain risks; that it also generates opposition, animosity, hatred, and even the loss of life. It was no different in the life of President Kennedy. The methods to pursue his objectives were always honest, sincere, unequivocal. He stood thus before his people and his God."

"We pray that when peace comes to the world, that when men once again live in dignity and self-respect everywhere, that the free world shall never forget it was John F. Kennedy who made it possible to a great degree. God grant this martyr eternal rest."

In looking to the future, the Rev. Dick L. Van Halsema of Central Avenue Christian Reformed Church, said, "The tragic death of the late President Kennedy demonstrates the unpredictability of human life and the fallibility of human security measures. Learning from this, let us affirm a new declaration of dependence upon Almighty God. He alone is a refuge and strength. Blessed is the nation that puts its trust in Him."

Child, 4, Lands Safely In Yule Trees

A 4-year-old girl escaped possible injury Tuesday when she fell nine feet from a window of the Holland Bowling Lanes, at 215 Central Ave., and safely landed in some Christmas trees on sale in an adjacent lot.

The girl, Lori Beth Vanderploeg, of 183 East 28th St., was treated by a physician for minor bruises.

She was in a nursery attended by two women Tuesday afternoon at the bowling alley while her mother, Mrs. Earl Vanderploeg was bowling in the women's bowling league.

Arthur Quist, owner of the bowling alley, said he did not know how she could have fallen from the window. The nursery room is located on the north side of the building and the windows are quite high from the floor, he said. A chair would have to be used to climb up on a register before any of the children could have reached the locked windows, he said.

But, somehow, Lori did manage to reach the window. It was opened and she fell about nine feet into the solid packed Christmas trees.

Holland Joins In Mourning

Holland, Zeeland Set For Santa

Holland entered the Christmas spirit today with the completion of Christmas decorations in the downtown area.

Santa will arrive in Holland without fanfare at 10 a.m. Friday and will visit downtown stores both Friday and Saturday. His visits were set ahead one week. Previously they had been planned for Dec. 6 and 7.

Arrangements have been made with the Hotel Warm Friend management to have Santa Claus available in the lobby for pictures with children for about an hour starting at 1:30 p.m. both Friday and Saturday.

There will be no photographer on hand, so people will bring their own cameras. Santa Claus will have his headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce office. It has not been determined whether he will make further appearances after this week-end. His hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

In Zeeland, Santa Claus will arrive at 10 a.m. Saturday to set up shop for Christmas and he will remain downtown until 8:30 p.m. "Story Wonderland" is the theme of this year's events on Fridays and Saturdays before Christmas.

Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer will be with Santa in Zeeland, Saturday, Dec. 7, from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., and on Dec. 14, Hansel and Gretel will be the main attraction from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Santa will be in his shop every Friday evening in December before Christmas from 6 to 8:30 p.m. and on Saturday, Dec. 21, from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Starting Monday, Dec. 2, downtown stores in Holland will remain open evenings until Dec. 24 when they will close at 5:30 p.m. In Zeeland most stores will be open every evening, except Dec. 2 and 3 at 5:30 p.m., Dec. 4 and 11 at noon, and Tuesday, Dec. 24, at 5:30 p.m.

Holland decorations this year are much the same as last year with the usual evergreen festoons around boulevard light poles and large evergreen wreaths suspended from pole brackets. Intersections are crisscrossed with garlands of aluminum nine inches across. These garlands which broke in heavy winds last year have been returned to the company for reinforcement and it is hoped they will withstand the brunt of windy winds this year.

The old strings of electric lights which in years past had been used at intersections had worn to the degree that the Board of Public Works informed Chamber officers they no longer could be used safely for the purpose. These strings have been sorted out and rejuvenated and are now on loan to the Park department for use in Christmas trees in Centennial Park.

Holland joined the nation — and the world — Monday in mourning the death of President Kennedy.

Civic Center was crowded to overflowing for the community service at 11:15 a.m. which saw all churches, patriotic orders and the community in general join hands and hearts in a common grief over the passing of a great leader.

The impressive service, quiet and dignified, encompassed the spirit of religious beliefs with the color of the military in solemn rites. Two squads of color guards headed the procession and its four-man squads stood for the ceremonies arranged by the Holland Ministerial Association.

A minute of silent prayer at noon was a part of a prayer service conducted by Salvation Army Capt. Eric Britcher as he called for prayers for the family, the President and the nation. At the conclusion of the service, the large crowd remained in silence as an 11-man firing squad of National Guardsmen joined in a 21-gun salute.

All branches of the services, active and reserve, were represented in the processional which followed the colors. The community service represented a united expression from the Holland area. It was the high point of day of mourning which saw all schools closed for the day and all business cease from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Flags flew at half mast on all public buildings and will continue such for 30 days. Downtown flags draped in black also were put up for the day.

A great number of meetings this evening were cancelled out of respect to the President.

A High Requiem Mass for the dead was offered at noon at St. Francis De Sales Church with the Rev. James M. Bozwing as the celebrant. The children's choir sang the Mass and the responses and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. A. Molecki gave the sermon.

Hope college students did not have classes but gathered in Dimmet Memorial Chapel at 3:30 p.m. Monday for a special service.

Holland churches Sunday joined churches all over the world in paying tribute to the slain President.

School Issue Voted Down 3rd Time

Holland school district failed in its third bid Tuesday to raise millage for operating public schools.

The vote was 2,771 to 2,992, and the margin of 221 votes was considerable less than the two previous elections.

The vote called for 3 mills for 3 years.

Another millage election loomed strongly as residents expressed opinions after the vote was counted.

Harvey Buter, president of the Board of Education, expressed thanks to the 2,771 people who voted yes and said it was reassuring to know these people think enough of education to support it with their vote.

"As long as there are 2,771 people who want a good program for their children and the community, we will continue to work diligently for better education in Holland. We are again disappointed that some chose to vote against the recommendations of the Board of Education, which is of course a body elected to represent these same people. With a gain of 700 yes votes over last February's election, we feel that progress has been made in communication between the board and the public. We will attempt to make this even better in coming weeks and months."

The vote in the city's 14 precincts follows:

Precinct	Yes	No
1-1	167	159
1-2	164	273
2-1	157	114
2-2	246	164
3-1	289	319
3-2	214	221
4-1	321	246
4-2	145	191
4-3	245	177
5-1	188	233
5-2	121	223
5-3	122	252
6-1	279	273
6-2	413	147

Totals 2,771 2,992

A total of 5,766 votes were cast in Tuesday's election. This represented a loss of 33 votes which personnel in the city clerk's office say must be caused by voters who do not leave the voting pointers down as they turn the big lever to record the votes.

The first election May 10, 1962, had a total of 3,990 votes cast, listing 1,111 yes and 2,883 no. Lakeview, Holland Heights and Maplewood were not in Holland school district at the time.

The second election held in connection with the primaries Feb. 18, 1963, had a total vote cast of 5,455, listing 2,064 yes and 2,726 no. Holland Heights and Maplewood were not a part of the city school district at that time.

Voting favoring the millage issue Tuesday was particularly heavy in the Lakeview, Washington and Thomas Jefferson districts.

The vote will be canvassed at a meeting of the Board of Education at 4 p.m. today in the library of the Senior High School.

PASSENGERS REMOVED — One of the passengers from the steamer Argo is removed from the ship by breeches buoy after the ship ran aground off Holland harbor Nov. 24, 1905. Passengers and crew were taken off the steamer by breeches buoy and surfboats. The picture belongs to the collection of Charles C. Zalsman of 1930 South Shore Dr., and brought to The Sentinel by David Hoedema of 94 West 17th St., Holland High student who provided the information taken from The Sentinel files.

Steamer Argo Ran Aground Off Harbor on Nov. 24, 1905

With the fifth anniversary of the sinking of the steamer Bradley, longtime Holland residents recalled other November storms on Lake Michigan including the steamer Argo off Holland Harbor, Nov. 24, 1905.

According to The Sentinel files, the ship ran on to a sand bar 1,500 feet out from the north pier with 50 passengers and a crew of 22 men. Capt. John Stewart was in command. The steamer was sighted at 4 a.m. by lookout William Wolterding. The ship waited until daylight and about 5:30 a.m., Capt. Stewart headed for the channel.

In the heavy sea, the boat "was buffeted about and instead of entering the channel she dashed against the north pier, tearing a big hole in the structure," The Sentinel reported.

"The boat did not appear to be damaged by this shock and drifted away to the northward finally settling on the bar outside the harbor," The Sentinel said. "Here she lay with her bow pointed shoreward, the rolling of the boat indicating that she struck amidships, both bow and stern being free."

A Capt. Poole and a crew reached shore in a life boat and shot a line to the steamer. The first line shot carried to the north and "the second struck one of the fenders and hung there until a sailor scrambled over the side of the vessel and carried the line to the deck where it was secured."

After the line shot was made to the boat, the boat's crew did not understand how to fasten the lines to the steamer. A surface boat was launched and when it approached the steamer, a line was passed from the steamer to the surfboat which was seized by surfman Smith. He tied it around himself and leaped into the water.

"The buoy lines were made fast to the spar of the steamer but when the surfmen began to take up the slack the spar broke and fell to the deck of the boat, and several persons narrowly escaped being crushed beneath it," The Sentinel said.

Rescue began when the line was fastened and 15 of the passengers were taken ashore, one at a time. The first ashore were four women passengers.

At 11:30 a.m., local agent Zalsman sent a message to Stewart, fastening the slip of paper to the breeches buoy regarding the condition of the boat," The Sentinel said. Zalsman, the father of Charles C. Zalsman of Holland, was a passenger agent for the Graham and Morton Line, boat owners.

"She is taking no water as yet. Engine and rudder all right. Are pumping her full of water to settle her on the bottom. So far everything is O. K.," was Stewart's immediate reply.

As the buoy was being returned to the vessel, the lines parted and the buoy was useless. Later the other 11 were taken ashore by a surfboat.

Another breeches buoy was set up later and the rest of the passengers were rescued including H. Pelgrim Jr., and Peter Brusse, who were among the Holland persons on the boat.

While in her plight the Argo first drifted to within 400-500 feet of shore and later about a mile north and 200 feet shoreward.

The ship didn't sink and was refloated and brought to Manitowac, Wis., for repairs. Then she was taken to salt water for passenger runs. She was later brought back to fresh water and scrapped.

The Argo was built in 1895 in Detroit and was 721 gross tons, 192 feet long, 35-foot beam and a depth of 13 feet. Information on the incident was gleaned from Sentinel files by Dave Hoedema of 94 West 17th St., a Holland High junior.

The sea cow, manatee and dugong belong to the Sirenia, an order of aquatic, herbivorous mammals of doubtful affinity. Their origin is unknown.

Allegan Radio Station Entered

ALLEGAN — Sheriff's officers are investigating a break-in at radio station WOVE's transmitter building. Station manager Alger Workman reported extensive damage to tubes, transistors and transformers and said the extent of the damage seemed to point to "sabotage, rather than simple vandalism."

Although the station was not off the air at any time as a result of the break-in, Workman said the damage appeared to be the work of someone with expert knowledge of radio transmission.

Officers said access was gained by smashing a window in the building. They said fingerprints were found at the scene and they are not discounting the theory that the damage was done by someone who might have had a grudge against the station.

AAUW Hears Dr. Hines Tell of Russian Trip

Dr. Herbert Hines of the Hope College faculty presented an intensely interesting program to members of AAUW at their monthly meeting Thursday evening in Durfee Hall.

Entitling his speech "Penetrating Into the U.S.S.R.," Dr. Hines told of his fourth trip to Russia taken this past summer.

On this trip he visited the three most southeastern republics in Russia: Kazakh, Tadzhik and Uzbek. The people of Alma Ata in Kazakh, about 100 miles from the Chinese border, resemble in looks their Chinese neighbors and are worried about the relations between Russia and Red China. This republic is noted for its zinc, copper and lead mines, has good fruits and a pleasantly warm climate.

Dr. Hines told of visiting a collective farm in the republic of Tadzhik, close to the countries of Afghanistan and Pakistan. After admiring the excellent corn growing there he asked what kind it was and was told it was "Garst corn." Dr. Hines' host was most interested to hear that Dr. Hines knew Mr. Garst of Iowa.

Samarkand and Dushanbe, cities visited in this republic are very old cities. Samarkand's history dates back to the fourth century B.C. They are Moslem cities in which the mosques are well attended. The people wear western garb but the men continue to wear the old style small embroidered hats, the speaker said.

Dr. Hines concluded his talk by stating that Russians are exerting great efforts in the field of education. He said that he feels "the future truly belongs to our country but that our youngsters must be well educated and must learn to know the temperament, language and ambitions of the Russians."

At the brief business meeting, Mrs. G.S. MacKenzie announced that the Holland Branch of AAUW now has 119 members. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Herbert Holt and her committee from a table decorated attractively in an autumn theme.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 12 at the home of Mrs. Calvin VanderWerf.

LARGE CORN — Dutch farmers have never seen such large corn as that produced in the United States. Here a Dutch visitor to the U.S. Food and Agriculture Exhibition in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, chats with Dick Machiele, Agricultural Agent for Ottawa County, Michigan, (extreme right) and his son, Boyd.

Many Attracted to Ottawa Booth at Netherlands Fair

(Dick Machiele, Ottawa County Agricultural Agent, Mr. and Mrs. John Van Timmeren of Allendale and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Patmos of Hudsonville attended the U. S. Food and Agriculture Exhibition in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, and following is an account of some of their experiences there. Editor's Note)

By Jeanne S. Park
USDA Information Specialist
AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands — Do all Americans have cars? Is it true that Americans eat out of tins (cans)? Do farm women do their own housework? How much land does the average American farmer have? Are farm prices controlled? What do you think of the current chicken war?

Questions, questions, questions... That's all Mr. and Mrs. John Van Timmeren of Allendale, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Patmos of Hudsonville, and Richard Machiele of Zeeland, Mich., hear from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. as they stand near the entrance hall of the huge U. S. Food and Agriculture Exhibition in Amsterdam.

Fair visitors — whether they live in town or country — are tremendously interested in how Americans live.

The farm families, both of Dutch ancestry, tell them a little about their life in Michigan, their children and their farms. Then they stand ready for questions. And they usually get plenty.

The Dutch women ask about the foods the farm wives cook for their families and how much they help their husbands in the field. Dutch farmers inquire about price controls, cooperatives, and how Americans are able to grow such large ears of corn. The young people want to know how long American youngsters must go to school. What kind of music they like. And what they do for fun.

The Michigan farm couples answer their questions as best they can. They are honest and direct in their replies, often stepping down from the platform to personally talk with visitors.

Although both the Patmoses and the Van Timmerens have interpreters, they really don't need them. Most of the people who stop at the exhibit can speak English. And if they don't, the couples know enough Dutch to get along.

Dick Machiele, Ottawa county agent, doesn't even have an interpreter. He speaks both Dutch and English as required.

"Though," he admits, "I try to switch to English whenever I can."

Dick is stationed at a country fair booth. A 16-foot ferris wheel loaded with grains rotates in the center of the exhibit and at each side are revolving displays of dried grains, ears of corn, 4-H calendars, caps, sweaters and samples of blue-ribbon awards for Michigan students.

There are a sweater knit by Nancy Karsten of Zeeland and blue knit bedroom slippers made by Nancy Bosch of Jenison, a blue-ribbon apron bears the label Audrey Glerum, Bursley.

Also on the revolving display are a dress made by Judy Van Strien of Jenison and a sports outfit by Gwen Spoolstra, Hudsonville, Mich.

Canned goods put up by Sharon Van Kampen of Holland and Judy McNitt of Conklin stand in proud display beneath the ferris wheel of grain. Beside these are a bird house made by Keith Veldheer of Holland; a handsome checker board crafted by Tom Rozema, Jenison; and a short three-legged stool built by Bruce Karsten, Drenthe.

Prize-winning Michigan onions, potatoes and golden and red delicious apples complete the exhibit.

Perhaps it's the 4-H displays, perhaps it's the seeds and crops — but Dick Machiele's exhibit is always crowded. City folks ask what the various seeds are and inquire about 4-H work. Dutch farmers carefully question Dick about feed-grain ratios, how much fertilizer Americans use, what about drainage.

Although soils and climates are different, the questions of the farmers of the Netherlands and the United States are pretty much the same, Dick finds. They all want to know how to do their job better — for better yields and better returns.

With this introduction to American agriculture, the Dutch visitors then fan out into the rest of the giant U. S. Food and Agriculture Exhibition. They pass over a bridge of water that signifies the necessity of two-way trade between Europe and America. They see the many European farm and industrial products we use in the United States.

Biggest attraction at the exposition is the giant supermarket at the rear of the exhibition hall. Here European shoppers buy American foods with Dutch money.

Although the Dutch have supermarkets, their stores do not offer the wide variety of foods we have in America nor do they have the latest in convenience foods. That's why there's been such a run on the U. S. supermarket.

First-day crowds cleared many of the shelves. Most popular items are frozen chickens, cake mixes and chewing gum. Maple sirup and frozen turkeys are also among the best sellers.

There are three American eating places at the exposition. A Western barbecue offers visitors charcoal-broiled steaks, chicken, hot dogs and hamburgers. They pick the meat they want, and it's cooked for them while they wait. Tables are hewn tree trunks; the stools, sawed stumps. The barbecue area itself is in a setting of cacti and giant redwoods.

At the American-style restaurant, Dutch visitors can select from a menu which includes such foods as hamburgers, Manhattan clam chowder, typically

Judge Speaks To Lions Club

Probate Judge Fred Miles spoke on the procedures of the Probate Court and its responsibilities at a meeting of the Holland Lions Club Tuesday noon at the Hotel Warm Friend.

Miles included Juvenile Court in his talk and noted the new Youth Home on Ferris St. has room for eight boys and four girls. Work is increasing rapidly, he said, as Ottawa County has a population of over 100,000.

John Van Appledorn, Lion secretary, presented 24 Lions with perfect attendance pins and the Rev. Bernard Brunsting of First Reformed Church was introduced as a new member.

Activities for the month included giving $150 to "Welcome Home for the Blind" at Grand Rapids, $150 to Leader Dog School in Rochester, and $100 to the West Ottawa (Fairbanks) Student Aid Memorial Fund.

The president reported that a new Lions Club has been formed in Allendale. Charter night is Jan. 20, 1964, and the Holland Lions Club and the Coopersville Club are co-sponsors.

American salads, and New Orleans fried shrimp.

There's also a leather style show which attracts large crowds. The space capsule in which Walter Schirra, Jr., made six orbits around the earth is another hit of the show.

In all, the U. S. Food and Agriculture Exhibition covers an area the size of three football fields. It is the largest food show ever sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture overseas.

The Michigan farm couples and Dick Machiele, his wife and son, Boyd, arrived in the Netherlands shortly before the exhibition opened on Nov. 7. They had previously had a whirlwind tour of London, Paris, Switzerland, Belgium, Denmark and Norway.

The Van Timmerens also visited relatives in Appingedam, Kolham, Hoogezand, Neuwe Pekela, Denmark, Appledorn and in Province Groningen.

In the Netherlands, all three of the Michigan families have been impressed by the neatness of the houses and yards, and the frugal use of land. Every nook and corner is used here. And flowers are grown everywhere. Even now in November you can see window boxes and gardens filled with mums and roses. Every farm has flowers growing in the front yard.

As the American farm families give their talk, they stand in front of a photo of a typical U. S. farm. The photo is an eye-catcher — a color transparency 40 feet long by 7 feet high. Everyone admires it. But a few Dutch women stop to inquire where the flower beds are,

ALLEGAN — Hub of community activity in Allegan for the past 34 years, the Griswold Memorial Building has recently undergone extended improvements designed to accommodate additional public gatherings.

Chief objection to use of the building's gym for large dinner meetings has been its barn-like construction where speaker's voices bounced off the walls in the form of hollow echoes. This fault has been corrected by the application of acoustical tile to walls and ceiling and the room has been completely redecorated.

A 10 burner, double-oven, stainless steel range has been installed in the kitchen adjoining the gym and plans are in the offing to purchase a new refrigerator.

Three generations of Allegan feet have trod down the aisles of the theater on the main floor — all on the same carpet. Now, new carpeting has been laid over thick foam rubber adding a definitely luxurious touch.

The theater itself was redecorated four years ago and is still in good condition. A new walk has also been laid leading to the imposing double door entrance.

According to building manager Mrs. Alma Roltsch, rental rates have not been raised during her 10-year stay. Minimum fees are charged to help cover part of maintenance costs.

The list of Allegan organizations who consistently use the Griswold Building is a long one. Included are all patriotic groups and auxiliaries; the History Class, Allegan's oldest woman's literary club which dates back to Civil War days; and the Community Players, Michigan's earliest established little theater group.

ALLEGAN — Hub of community activity in Allegan for the past 34 years, the Griswold Memorial Building has recently undergone extended improvements designed to accommodate additional public gatherings.

Chief objection to use of the building's gym for large dinner meetings has been its barn-like construction where speaker's voices bounced off the walls in the form of hollow echoes. This fault has been corrected by the application of acoustical tile to walls and ceiling and the room has been completely redecorated.

A 10 burner, double-oven, stainless steel range has been installed in the kitchen adjoining the gym and plans are in the offing to purchase a new refrigerator.

Three generations of Allegan feet have trod down the aisles of the theater on the main floor — all on the same carpet. Now, new carpeting has been laid over thick foam rubber adding a definitely luxurious touch.

The theater itself was redecorated four years ago and is still in good condition. A new walk has also been laid leading to the imposing double door entrance.

According to building manager Mrs. Alma Roltsch, rental rates have not been raised during her 10-year stay. Minimum fees are charged to help cover part of maintenance costs.

The list of Allegan organizations who consistently use the Griswold Building is a long one. Included are all patriotic groups and auxiliaries; the History Class, Allegan's oldest woman's literary club which dates back to Civil War days; and the Community Players, Michigan's earliest established little theater group.

Win Contest In Final 30 Seconds

PAW PAW — West Ottawa's basketball team started off its new season with a thrilling 56-52 victory over Paw Paw Tuesday night.

The Panthers were behind by as much as 11 points midway through the third quarter before they were able to somewhat close the gap. Dave Vizithum stole a pass and drove the length of the floor to tie the score at 49-49 with 2:25 left in the final quarter. This was the closest the Panthers had been since early in the second quarter.

Rick Warmbold sank a free throw and also scored a basket for the Redskins and they then led 52-49 with 1:24 remaining. Bruce Van Huis, 6'4" Panther center, sank a free throw after he had been fouled making a shot to again tie the score, this time at 52-52, with 1:10 remaining.

The Redskins applied a strong press but the Panthers broke through and Bruce Johns scored the go ahead basket with only 30 seconds remaining. Vizithum cinched the game with two seconds remaining when he made two free throws.

Each team started rather slowly in the first quarter as each was testing the others defense. Bruce Johns and Dave Farabee were hitting as Johns had seven and Farabee six for 13 of the team's 14 first quarter points.

The Panthers went suddenly flat in the second quarter and scored only six points. The losers in the meantime were finding the range for 16 points, including 10 in a row at one time and left for halftime with a 27-20 lead.

The opponents were always on the fast break and they made enough breaks to score some baskets. They also received an eight point scoring effort from guard Gary Cooper.

West Ottawa was getting the same shots in the second quarter that they got the rest of the game but they didn't go in. Things looked even worse in the third quarter and about midway through they fell behind 35-24. Suddenly Vizithum found the range with deadly accuracy and scored four quick baskets on jump shots from his guard position and Johns scored three quick ones to close the gap to 43-39 at the third quarter mark.

The fourth quarter was all Johns and Vizithum as they combined for 14 points to pull the game out of the fire. Also instrumental was the fine rebounding of Van Huis and Clare Vanden Bosch.

Coach Jack Bonham of the winners was happy with the play of the squad in that they did not quit when they were 11 points behind, but rallied and won the game in the hectic last minute.

Paw Paw used an extensive press in the final seconds of the game, but the Panthers were able to use it to their own advantage. The Redskins were a good ball club, fairly tall, liked to fast break, and played good defense.

The Panthers gave the losers some easy baskets but did not get many in return. Especially effective for Paw Paw was a guard, Butch Allen, who was the playmaker on offense and clever on defense; and a forward, Tom Murch, who was especially strong on offense.

Johns, Vizithum, and Van Huis all scored in double figures for West Ottawa. Johns scored 19 points, mostly on his patented left-handed jump shot; Vizithum 17, for his finest offensive effort in a long time; and steady Van Huis had 13.

West Ottawa made six of 13 free throws and the losers 10 of 21.

West Ottawa opens its home season next Tuesday evening when they entertain Hudsonville Unity at West Ottawa's gym.

MARITIME HOBBYIST — David Hoedema, 16, of 94 West 17th St., has a collection and knowledge of over 300 ships which sail or have sailed the Great Lakes. The books and autographs on his bed show a fair sampling of his collection. Hanging on the wall is a list of station bell signals taken from the Alabama ship. He also has a starboard light which he acquired from the Alabama before it was dismantled. (Sentinel photo)

David Hoedema Has Unique Collection of Pictures

David Hoedema, 16, of 94 West 17th St., lives and sleeps with one hobby and is well on his way to one day becoming an expert in that field. His hobby: ships and shipwrecks on the Great Lakes.

David already has over 300 photographs of ships, over $100 worth of books on ships; travel folders from ships dating from 1900 to the present; file cards with information on ships, clippings from newspapers on ships, and relics from another ship, the Alabama.

In fact, David collects everything there is connected with Great Lakes ships. The only thing he lacks are miniature models; none are made commercially of Great Lakes Ships, he said.

He belongs to three organizations in connection with his hobby — the Marine Historical Society of Detroit, with the Rev. Edward Dowling as president; the Great Lakes Historical Society of Cleveland; and the Great Lakes Maritime Institute.

David says the Rev. Dowling has over 10,000 photographs of Great Lakes ships. David's aim he said, is to have the largest collection — and he has a good start by taking some away from Rev. Dowling's collection.

Last week, he sent out 32 letters to different shipping companies for more photographs. Most of them send photos. He already has pictures of shipwrecks, burning ships, and just plain ships.

David plans to get a larger file this winter for his pictures. He picks up communications on Great Lakes ships with a short-wave radio; he receives journals from several societies. He visits local coal docks to see when and which ships will be coming in.

David first became interested in Great Lakes ships — they must be from the Great Lakes — about two years ago when he heard his father, Arthur Hoedema, talking about a shipwreck on the Lake Michigan waters outside Holland.

Curious for more information, David went to the library.

Soon he was seeking photos and information about other ships. In addition to his letters, he talks to retired sailors still living around this area and Saugatuck, who sometimes also give him pictures.

David's future plans, naturally, include his hobby. He would like to work a summer or two on a boat, or some docks where large ships come in. And he plans to join the U.S. Coast Guard. Presently, he's a junior at Holland High School.

Several Groups Aided In Service

After receiving many calls commending the city for its moving tribute to the late President Kennedy at Community services in Civic Center Monday, Mayor Nelson Bosman today gave recognition to the many groups cooperating in the joint service which marked Holland's grief in a single but dignified manner.

"It was truly remarkable how all groups readily gave instant cooperation. Everybody seemed to forget whatever differences had ever been expressed, politically and otherwise, and all joined in a common bond of humbleness," the Mayor said.

The mayor took the initiative in working with the Ministerial Association in the hour-long service, and joined with the ministers' group in recognizing other groups which contributed to the solemn rites. These included the National Guard, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Explorer Scouts who served as ushers, the high schools for various services, the Magnachords and their leader Cal Langejans, Roger Rietberg the organist, and the police department which assisted throughout.

Both local radio stations carried the program live.

A DEATH IN THE FAMILY

The deep grief and the feeling of gray emptiness caused by the savage assassination of John F. Kennedy will be felt more poignantly by Mrs. Kennedy and her two children.

The loss of a gallant husband so well matched with his wife in youth, impeccable taste, and admirable nobility must, as nature decrees, inflict an excruciating wound that only time can ease. The children, now mystified by an inexplicable stroke of fate, will live out their lives with their happy memories of their father fragmented and tarnished by the corrosive hate that motivated the assassin.

The remarkable and close-knit family in which the late President was a son and brother must be stricken by the irony that its most scintillating member should be so tragically snatched from them at the height of a meteoric career.

The American people, the larger family in which the late President had taken so intimate a place, will miss his courage, his humor, his leadership, his noble ideals, his vision of equality for all the members of the national family. John F. Kennedy had so often visited by radio and television in the homes of millions of American people. President John F. Kennedy had endeared himself to so many of the American family.

The family of free nations struggling toward the ideal of human tolerance and freedom and brotherhood mourn the loss of a visionary and active leader, one who fought gallantly in the war for freedom both as a soldier and as a statesman.

THE RESPONSIBLE CITIZEN

Superintendent of Public Instruction Lynn M. Bartlett has announced that 113 schools in the State ended the 1962-63 school year with a deficit. Over a half million students were affected because schools lacking sufficient funds were forced to cut back on programs. This certainly highlights a difficult situation in our school system.

The Holland School system has had a similar experience. There are times when retrenchment is necessary. Holland has done this, but at the cost of larger classes, a weakened program in music and language, and loss of personnel. We are again ready to vote to restore the program. We ought to review our situation.

Since our first election on this matter we have had the opportunity to express our confidence in those who represent us as a school board. We have heard new members of the board express themselves on this matter. We have had the reports of a committee of fellow citizens.

This seems the time the voter ought to re-evaluate his position in the light of the past. It is also the time that this decision on what we ought to do should be made by all the voters, certainly a substantial number. A real weakness in our democratic process of government develops when men allow themselves to be ruled by a minority.

It is perhaps not the most important that we insist on one point of view. It is important that the voter by his acceptance of his duty as a citizen becomes responsible. When he does just that we are willing to let things in his hand. Remember the polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. Tuesday - Nov. 26th.

Sunday School Lesson

The Grace of Generosity
II Corinthians 9:6-15
By C.P. Dame

Some people are very generous and some are not. Christianity has always taught the art of being generous. Paul was a great missionary and he also knew how to raise money for a good cause. The arguments Paul used to persuade people to be generous are still sound. I. Giving is like sowing seed in a field. Paul planned taking up a collection for the mother church in Jerusalem which had members who needed financial help. Paul had two reasons for doing this. One was, there was need in Jerusalem, the other was, he wanted the Gentile churches to show appreciation to the mother church and thus bind the Jewish and Gentile Christians more closely together.

Paul gives several reasons why the Corinthian Church should give. He cites the example of the Macedonian Churches, how generously they had given and the example of Jesus who laid aside his heavenly glory to come to this earth. He also tells them that they began well but they let the project bog down. It was time for them to put that original fine feeling in action.

He concluded his arguments by saying that life has a way of evening things up — with what measure we give we also receive. The more seed we sow, the bigger the harvest will be. The generous man may not always get more wealth but he will gain in love and win friends and become more compassionate.

II. The generous giver trusts God. Some church members readily say, "I can't afford to tithe," or "I cannot help this cause just now." They never plan with God. Paul told the Corinthians that they would have enough for themselves and for others too for God had promised this. God is able and good. The God who reveals his generosity in nature is also busy in the domain of grace — the God who cares for our bodily needs will not neglect the soul. Unbelief keeps some people from giving.

III. Giving yields blessings. People who give to the needy benefits others and give them an occasion to thank God. Church members who give enrich themselves. Preachers who persuade members to give do them good. Giving also honors God. The Corinthian Christians through their gifts would make the Christians in Jerusalem to become more grateful. Today Christians in America by their gifts make Christians in other lands to become thankful. Paul turned the minds of the Corinthian Christians to God's indescribable gift — Jesus Christ. Since God is so liberal, we who have experienced the generosity of God ought to be generous to the needy.

Some people have put system in their giving. A number of people tithe. Some are hesitant about tithing and select a percentage, hoping to increase it later on. Many use the weekly envelopes and some refuse to use them for various reasons. Let us all give generously and show that we are thankful to God.

Kaat Takes 'Token Cut'

MINNEAPOLIS — Jim Kaat of Zeeland signed his 1964 contract for "a token cut in salary," a new term introduced into baseball this year by Minnesota Twins president Cal Griffith.

Kaat, a winter resident of St. Petersburg, Fla., was reported not complaining over the "token" cut. He was the third player to sign his 1964 pact. Catcher Earl Battey and outfielder Jimmie Hall signed earlier.

Griffith silenced trade talk on Kaat. "I've been keeping him out of all trade discussions," Griffith said. "We want to keep at least six pitchers that we know can go."

Kaat's arm trouble bothered Griffith. The Twins figured Kaat should work it out but "I told him not to experiment when he is on the mound."

"It's nice to talk to an old player if the advice is adaptable, but everybody's pitches move differently," Griffith said.

This was in reference to Kaat's talk with Warren Spahn when the Twins played an exhibition in Milwaukee July 22. Two days later, trying to copy Spahn's stance and push off the mound, Kaat blanked Cleveland on six hits. But that was his last win.

"Jim isn't dumb," Griffith said. "He wants to learn. But I think he listens to too many advisors."

"Will it be 'back to the old grind' minus a few tears of sympathy, or will what each of us feels in man is the possibility to do good and at the same time evil, cause us to take a firmer stand on the side of what we believe to be the good and the right and the true?"

"It's all over almost . . . the parades, the oratory, the interment. Time has caught its breath and is ready to march on. Don't let it move off without asking God to help you be what deep within each of us we want to be."

The chapel choir closed the service by singing "Hope Thou in God," by Hayden Morgan which had been sung for the first time a week earlier at the inauguration of Hope's eighth president, Dr. Calvin Vander Werf. Roger Davis was at the organ.

ALLEGAN — W. F. Rockwell, Jr., newly elected president of Rockwell-Standard Corporation, had good news for Allegan when he paid his first visit in his new capacity to the firm's universal joint division here.

Rockwell announced that construction would start soon on a 16,000-square foot addition to the local plant which is Allegan's largest employer.

The 80-by-200-foot addition will "square off" the plant on its west side where an addition of approximately the same size was completed two years ago.

Rockwell said the addition was planned to straighten out the plant's production lines, from which roll a large share of the universal joints produced in the United States.

Rockwell is no stranger to the community. He recalled visiting here many times "as a youngster" in company with his father, Col. W. F. Rockwell, Sr., whom he succeeded Sept. 1 as president of the burgeoning, 24-unit corporation.

Slain Dallas Policeman Buried; Leaves Family of 4

DALLAS (UPI) — Little Curtis Ray Tippit, 5, looked with eyes big as saucers at the cameras, policemen and newsmen Monday and tried hard to understand.

He only knew that his father was gone.

His father, J.D. Tippit, 39, was shot down in cold blood by the same man who was accused of killing President Kennedy.

Mrs. Marie Tippit, 39, and the other children, Brenda Kay, 10, and Allen, 14, stared straight ahead at the casket containing Tippit's body.

Allen tried hard not to cry, biting his lips and blinking his already tear-swollen eyes.

Brenda and her mother wept. Pastor C.D. Hipps Jr. of the Beckley Hills Baptist Church quoted from First Thessalonians, the same book of the Bible quoted from by Richard Cardinal Cushing at the funeral mass of the President in Washington.

The pastor said: "He was doing his duty when he was taken by the lethal bullet of a poor, confused, misguided, ungodly assassin. 'Human words are futile.'"

After the service, three dozen red roses spread on top of the casket were removed and the lid was opened. More than 1,000 of Tippit's brother officers filed by to say goodbye.

An occasional tear could be seen on the grim, set faces of some.

Then the mourners filed slowly out of the church for the one-block trip to Laurel Land Cemetery. Six officers carried the casket between an honor guard of police.

Mrs. Tippit walked haltingly behind the casket. Her knees buckled, but she caught herself and was supported by two officers.

At graveside, it was too much for her. As the final prayer was recited, officers led her away.

Dallas police have no insurance and are not covered by Social Security, but the police department retirement fund will pay Mrs. Tippit a $225 per month widow's pension. Tippit's salary was $490 a month.

Contributions began to pour into the police department. Several radio stations and newspapers set up collections.

Capt. Glen King of the police department said $1,500 has been received there and another $15,000 promised by various organizations and individuals.

The slain officer was honored by being the first hero ever buried in the memorial plot at Laurel Land, set aside a year ago for persons who give their lives in community service.

There was also talk of a posthumous award or medal for Tippit.

Lt. George Butler, president of the association, said "if that man (Oswald) had escaped, there is no telling what might have happened in Dallas."

Grand Rapids Holds Services

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—The peal of church bells. The crack of rifles. A trumpet sounding "Taps."

This was Veterans' Memorial Park at noon Monday as hundreds of persons took part in a military salute to the late President John F. Kennedy.

The memorial service in the city square was just one of many as Grand Rapids residents and city officials mourned the death of America's leader.

Honor guards of soldiers, sailors and marines stood at attention for 20 minutes at the memorial honoring Kent County's war dead.

Rev. Henry Dondzila, state chaplain of the Catholic War Veterans, prayed: "Help us evaluate the lesson he passed on to us." Referring to the assassination of the President, he said, "awake in us a consciousness of our national laxity."

Mayor Stanley J. Davis eulogized President Kennedy as "a great citizen, a great soldier, a great statesman. All of us must share some blame, at least, for his death."

"We have lost a symbol in our departed comrade," said Rev. Fred Harris, state chaplain of the American Legion. "Every reasonable American found something in common with him as a man."

Seven soldiers fired a three-gun rifle salute to the dead president. Church bells sounded in the background. A wreath of red, white and blue carnations was laid at the foot of the park monument. A trumpet sounded taps and the service ended.

All city businesses ceased operations from noon to 2 p.m. All government offices were closed for the day as were schools.

Sentinel Staff Member Recalls Visit With Kennedy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The death of President Kennedy was a personal shock to everyone. The impact was perhaps a bit greater on Mary Ellen Mrok, a Sentinel news staff member who had met the President when he was a Senator in 1959 and saw him on several other occasions. Following are her memories.)

By Mary Ellen Mrok
My memories of President Kennedy date back to 1957 when I read an article concerning a Catholic becoming president. The article mentioned Senator John Fitzgerald Kennedy and I, for some reason at the age of 14, became intrigued with him. I began reading about him and on Sept. 17, 1958, was given my first opportunity to meet him when he gave the keynote address at a dinner in Grand Rapids. I went to Grand Rapids with a family friend, Lawrence Smith of Holland. I still remember that his name was given incorrectly in the program as "The Honorable Joseph B. Kennedy."

Our seats for the dinner were in the balcony and I can recall the warmth of his personality that went out as he scanned the people in the balcony. After his speech, I went to shake his hand and was impressed — when he looked at me — he made me feel as though I were an old friend.

After this meeting, I was even more determined than ever in reading about him and I began collecting articles and clippings which were later compiled in a scrapbook. Then came my second chance of meeting him on May 29, 1959, at a dinner in Detroit. He was again one of the keynote speakers and was accompanied by Mrs. Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy is a very beautiful charming and poised person. At first she appeared as a school girl lost in a crowd but when I talked with her, she too had that Kennedy quality of making you feel as one of the family.

Later that evening after the dinner, I was taking pictures and at one point stood on a folding chair to get a picture of the Senator. I lost my balance and fell pinching my foot in the chair. Looking up and hoping a minimum of people had seen my "faux pas" I glanced at Mr. Kennedy. He had witnessed the incident and flashed that winning grin of his and I too had to laugh with him. This was typical of his great sense of humor.

By this time I became acquainted with the actions of the Senate Rackets Committee and its chief counsel, Robert Kennedy, and like all teenagers "just had to meet him." So with my aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miesch of Houston, Texas, I went to Washington, D. C., in July of 1959.

I went to the Senate Office Building with my aunt and uncle to see Robert Kennedy and was informed by his secretary that he was busy. However, she took my name and asked me to wait. I next remember looking up at the doorway and seeing him stand there with that same wide grin his brother had. We talked for about 30 minutes on various things including the work of the rackets investigations, what I was doing in school and his brother. He said that his brother was in Hawaii but would be returning the next day. The following morning I went to the Senate Rackets hearings and was surprised when some of the office people called me by my first name. This is just typical of how down to earth they are and how they made everyone feel at ease.

TREASURED PHOTO — This picture was taken in July, 1959, in Washington, D.C., just outside the office of Senator John Kennedy. The Senator had returned that morning from a trip to Hawaii and was to meet gentlemen doing an article on him. He did however make time to pose for this picture and a quick conversation. With the Senator is Mary Ellen Mrok a member of the Sentinel news staff.

Later that morning Senator John Kennedy returned and I went to his office. He had a meeting scheduled with some gentlemen working on an article about him but we did have time to talk and take some pictures.

I remember one large picture in his office which had appeared in a magazine. It showed the Senator at the doorway of Statuary Hall in the United States Capitol. The background of the picture was of campaign posters depicting the hard road of accomplishment.

I saw him a few times after that including at a meeting in Detroit on March 26, 1960. At that time I had completed the scrapbook on his campaign activities to the point and presented it to him. He autographed it and returned it to me — "with hearty and best wishes of my friend — John Kennedy." He said I should keep it as a memory of him.

These are some of the memories I recall of the late President showing his lighter side. He was an enthusiastic person who put himself completely into all he did. He was witty and intelligent and was capable of thinking of several things at one time but never did he lose his sincere interest in all persons.

The last time I saw him was on June 6, 1962, when he addressed the Corps of Cadets at West Point. As he approached the platform, the traditional "Hail to the Chief" was played and tears of pride came to my eyes just as tears came when I heard he had been assassinated — then, because he had achieved his ambition, now, because he has attained his greatness.

Holland Area Stunned At Death of President

Holland, like cities everywhere, was stunned at the death of President Kennedy Friday afternoon.

Flags on public buildings were lowered to half-mast as soon as word of the tragic death became known. Most work seemed to come to a standstill as people spoke in hushed tones in small groups. Perhaps the busiest places were newspaper offices and radio stations where news poured in over teletypes.

Mayor Nelson Bosman, speaking for the people of Holland, said "The people of Holland join in mourning the sudden and untimely passing of President Kennedy. They extend their heartfelt sympathy to members of the Kennedy family and pray the Lord give them strength and comfort in this time of grief."

Hope college students gravitated to Hope Memorial Chapel and a special prayer service was held at 3:15 p.m. with 800 to 900 students and faculty members present.

Some churches immediately arranged prayer services Friday night but most churches gave proper observance at regular services Sunday.

Some pastors went to their church sanctuaries Friday night for informal counsel and prayers.

St. Francis De Sales church offered a mass for President Kennedy at 8:15 a.m. Saturday and will have special prayers at all masses on Sunday. A requiem mass was offered in the church Monday, the day of the funeral.

The Rt. Msgr. Julian A. Moleksi of St. Francis said, "The news of the President's violent death is shocking to all of us at St. Francis. We feel his loss greatly and pray that God gives to all his survivors the grace to bear this heavy cross. We feel that this country has lost a president, a martyr to his undaunted conviction that all men are created equal. May God grant him eternal rest."

At Grace Episcopal Church at 8 p.m. Saturday, the litany was recited and a Requiem Eucharist celebrated for the late President. The Rev. William C. Warner was the celebrant.

At Holland High School Friday afternoon, students in stunned silence heard the news as the flag was lowered to half mast. Because of their inability to concentrate on lessons of the day, school was dismissed shortly thereafter. The same pattern of stunned silence was observed in other schools over the area.

All examinations scheduled at Western Theological Seminary today were cancelled and all students and faculty members were contacted by phone Friday night alerting them to the special service at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the chapel. The exam schedule, concluding the work of the first quarter, will resume Monday.

The Rev. Herman Ridder, seminary president, presided at the service Saturday, basing his meditation on an experience of Isaiah (chapter 6, 1-15) in which the prophet reacted to the death of a great national leader in Israel, Uzziah. It was at this time that Isaiah went to the temple where he was given a great vision of God of his own inadequacies and the duty that lay before him.

Rev. Ridder said, "This is a service of worship in which we count our faith in God and confess our sin that such a deed as an assassination might arise out of our midst. In a sense all of us are guilty that such could happen in a time like this and we turn to the ultimate source of our faith and hope—God. We join the nation and world in mourning our beloved President and we pray for forgiveness for him who is now charged with this foul deed who could not know nor understand what really he did to a man and to a people and to a world."

Dr. Calvin Vander Werf, president of Hope College, made this statement Saturday: "People all over the globe who love freedom and justice have lost a true friend and heroic champion. To all he had become a shining symbol of hope and peace. May we in this nation put aside our differences as we humbly seek divine guidance in rededicating our lives to the principles for which President Kennedy lived and died."

Holland's social life, like all other fronts, was affected by the tragedy. Events of a more frivolous nature were cancelled or postponed. The American Legion immediately cancelled a hootenany Friday night and its dance Saturday. The VFW also cancelled its dance Saturday.

Veterans to Get Questionnaires

Any veteran, widow or a child of a deceased veteran in receipt of "pension" or "death pension" from the Veterans Administration will receive an annual income questionnaire from that agency, it was pointed out today by F. W. Stewart, assistant department service officer, Department of Michigan, VFW.

This year forms are to be sent out with the November check due Nov. 30 or Dec. 1. The absolute deadline for filing this form will be Jan. 31, 1964, and if it is not returned by that date, the pension will be stopped immediately.

This does not pertain to veterans who are in receipt of "compensation" or whose widows who are in receipt of "death compensation" and who do not have to file a questionnaire.

Persons in this area wishing to get in touch with Mr. Stewart may do so on Thursdays between the hours of 1 and 3 p.m. at the VFW Club, 175 West Eighth St., Telephone EX 4-8633. However the meeting this week will be postponed due to Thanksgiving Day.
