Burglars Hit Four Churches

Maple Ave., Trinity;
Fourth All Entered;
Other Attempts Fail

Burglars struck seven times Monday in Holland including successful safe burglaries at three churches. The total loss may exceed $10,000.

An estimated $5,000 to $6,000 was taken from Maple Ave. Christian Reformed Church, 18th St. and Maple Ave.

An estimated $3,000 or more is missing from Fourth Reformed Church, 15th St. at Washington Blvd. where an old-type safe used for many years was peeled or torn apart in

Van Hoff Asks Churches To Deposit Funds in Bank

Holland police chief Jacob Van Hoff today asked church officials to make arrangements with banks to have all monies deposited at night.

"We do not have enough men to patrol the churches," Van Hoff said, "Don't trust any safe. They can be opened."

"Leave a night light on above the safe if it can be seen from the outside," Van Hoff said. The chief's statement followed burglaries of churches in the Holland area early today.

much the same manner as other safe jobs Sunday night. At this church, however, the burglars left their tools, six pieces of wrecking equipment of varying sizes.

Thieves took $243 from an upstairs office at the Trinity Reformed Church, 20th St., and Central Ave., after finding no money in a double door safe which they smashed open.

Also entered was a barber shop at 16th St. and Columbia Ave. The only thing missing appeared to be a box of bubble gum.

Thieves tried but failed to enter Bethel Reformed Church, 18th St. and Van Raalte Ave.; Prins Gun Shop, 203 Columbia Ave., and Reliable Cycle, 254 River Ave.

At Maple Ave. church burglars entered through an east door which apparently was locked but had not been pulled tight enough for the lock to catch. They first tried to pry open a nearby east door which led to a kitchen, but failed.

Once inside the church they pried open the door of the consistory room. A walk-in vault door was peeled back. Inside the vault the door on a small safe was peeled back and then ripped off. The estimated $5,000 to $6,000 represented regular and special collections for the past three weeks. An attempt to open another safe in the consistory room failed.

Pieces of the safe dial and door were scattered around the room. Some collection envelopes, still with money in them, were left behind.

Detectives said the manner in which the safes were opened was that of professionals. They believed all the burglaries, except the one at the barber shop, were by the same gang.

Trinity Church was entered through an unlocked front door on the 20th St. side of the building. The thieves apparently went through the auditorium into the secretary's office where they pried open a small filing cabinet safe and took out approximately $243.

In the basement of the church, the burglars smashed open the large double-door floor safe. The only cash in the safe was a few dollars in coins, which the thieves left, and a few pledge and special donation envelopes. The amount of cash in the special envelopes taken by the burglars was not known.

The minister's office was also entered, but nothing appeared missing. The thieves fled via a side door leading from the basement.

The safe at Fourth Reformed Church, 28 inches high, was kept in a small storage room in the basement of the old part of the church fronting on 15th St. The locked door to the room had been forced. Also in this storage room were such articles as coffee urns, communion sets, a wheel chair and other items.

ZEELAND — Karen Joy Hulst, 14 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hulst of 10453 Melvin St., Zeeland, died at the Zeeland Community Hospital Friday evening following a one day's illness.

Surviving besides the parents are two sisters, Vicki Lynn and Sharon Ann, both at home; her grandparents, Mrs. Henry Pul of Zeeland and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vanden Bosch of East Saugatuck and a great grandmother, Mrs. Bert Van Dis of East Saugatuck.

REPAIRS MILL DRIVE WHEEL — Jan Medendorp, Dutch windmill technician, repairs the drive wheel of "De Zwaan" in the city warehouse on Fairbanks Ave. When the windmill is assembled the wheel, 11 feet in diameter, will be connected to the 4-ton millshaft, which will turn the millstones. Bees wax is used to lubricate the mill's gears. (Sentinel photo)

SHAPES NEW BEAMS — Jan Medendorp, supervisor of the reconstruction of Holland's imported windmill, chisels a groove into a thirty foot beam that will replace one brought from The Netherlands. The beam is one of eight up-

rights that will help form the mill's framework. Medendorp, a native and citizen of The Netherlands, is doing the restoration work in the city warehouse on Fairbanks Ave. (Sentinel photo)

Windmill Work Progresses Well

Reconstruction work on Holland's imported windmill, "De Zwaan," is progressing smoothly according to Jan D. Medendorp, director of the work.

At present Medendorp is shaping three new thirty-foot beams that will replace some brought from The Netherlands. The three beams are among eight that form the uprights for the mill framework. The new beams are being made from American lumber.

About 20 to 25 per cent of the parts of the old mill have to be replaced. The canvas for the sails, planks for the roof and floor of the mill, and the three beams are the major new parts. Some of the crosspieces in the mill framework will be replaced, as well.

"De Zwaan" was originally built in the Zaan district of The Netherlands about 200 years ago. It was moved to Vinkel, in the southern Dutch province of Noord Brabant, about 80 years ago. Negotiations for its purchase by the city of Holland were closed early last summer, and the mill was dismantled and shipped to the United States. It arrived in Holland last month.

Medendorp is from Guidaren, Drente, The Netherlands, and is descended from a long line of Dutch millers and millwrights. He is an expert at the restoration of windmills, having supervised the reconstruction of mills in the Dutch Antilles and in the Keukenhof Gardens of The Netherlands. He supervised the dismantling of "De Zwaan" in Vinkel last summer.

Medendorp expects to begin reassembling the mill in about two weeks, when the wooden gallery around the top of the mill's brick base is completed. The eight upright beams will be placed in position first, and then the cross pieces of the framework will be installed. If all goes smoothly, Medendorp hopes the framework will be finished two weeks after it is begun.

Several wooden gears, the largest of them 16 feet in diameter, and four millstones weighing more than two tons apiece will be installed inside the framework while it is being constructed.

After the framework is complete it will be covered by planking, a job Medendorp hopes will take two weeks. When the planking is done, the windmill's cap will be hoisted into place. The 80-foot sails will be restored last.

Medendorp said he expected the cold winter weather to slow the reconstruction down somewhat, but foresaw no serious difficulties in completing the job on schedule. The windmill is to be finished by Tulip Time 1965.

Restoration work is being carried on in the city warehouse on Fairbanks Ave. Medendorp is being aided in his work by two Holland residents, Andrew Knoll and Henry Zoet.

Deputy Bags Deer Close to His Home

By 5 p.m. he had shot and killed a six pointer in Crockery township not far from his home.

Two more deer were killed in highway accidents Tuesday night, according to sheriff's officers. One, an eight-point buck, was struck by a car at 7 p.m. on M-50 near Linden Dr. in Tallmadge township. The other, a doe, was killed in similar fashion at 7:10 p.m. on 120th Ave. south of Tyler St. in Olive township.

PAINT WINDMILL FRAME — Jan Medendorp (left) and Andrew Knoll discuss windmill plans as Knoll paints a section of the framework that will support "De Zwaan's" cap. The upper part of the mill will be covered by planking. The framework sections, the millstones and the windmill gears will be hoisted atop the mill's 30-foot high brick base by a crane. Medendorp is the supervisor of the rebuilding project and Knoll is a carpenter helping in the work. (Sentinel photo)

New Lighting Fixtures Are Installed Here

Board of Public Works crews have been working in downtown areas on lighting improvements replacing old incandescent installations with the V-type fluorescent fixtures.

Crews have completed installations on Eighth St. from River to Maple Aves., and River Ave. from Sixth to Eighth Sts. They currently are working on River Ave. from Eighth to 10th Sts. which they hope to complete this week. New installations have been completed on Central Ave. from Seventh to Ninth Sts. and on College Ave. from Seventh to Ninth Sts.

The lighting improvement program carried on by the Board of Public Works also calls for the brighter mercury vapor lights on all replacements in residential areas.

Juvenile Officer Is Hired Here

Hiring of a juvenile officer for the Holland police department was approved by City Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

City Manager Herb Holt submitted the recommendation of Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff for such an officer, pointing out that a well qualified candidate is presently available for the position in the person of Leslie Van Beveren, a 33-year-old patrolman who is a graduate of Hope College, with training in sociology and psychology. In the new position, Van Beveren would work under Chief Van Hoff dealing with young offenders under the age of 17.

The report also included a job description prepared by the personnel officer and recommended pay level. It was pointed out that juvenile problems have been on the increase over the last 20 to 30 years, and the need for early detection and followup work is needed today more than ever.

James McDowell, of 209 West 12th St., a social worker in Allegan, emphasized the need of a qualified person and adequate office space for such a position, pointing to the need of training in sociology, psychology and psychiatric work. He said such a person could be effective in detecting potential criminals and mental illness.

Council set Dec. 16 at 7:30 p.m. as date for a public hearing on four sanitary sewer projects. These are listed as: in 23rd St. from Plasman Ave. to Graafschap Rd., $5,633; in 38th St., Columbia to Lincoln Aves., $4,571; in Hazel Ave., 16th St. to 19th St., and in 19th St. from Hazel east to end, $12,085; in Apple Ave. from 24th to 27th St., in Brookside from 26th St. south to end, and in 26th and 27th Sts. from Brookside Ave. to Apple Ave., $17,542.

Council authorized the city clerk to take bids on a mechanical grave digger for the cemetery department, described technically as one Ford tractor model 21300 with backhoe model 723-1 and front-end loader model 725 equipped with an Owendale steel cab. It was pointed out the several suppliers would be able to submit bids.

Council granted permission to the Salvation Army to solicit funds on streets in Christmas kettles Nov. 30 to Dec. 24 and to install a "tree of lights" in front of the John Good building.

A card of thanks from Councilman and Mrs. Morris Peerbolt expressing appreciation for expressions of sympathy in the passing of their brother was filed.

The city clerk presented the official tally of votes cast on the three proposed charter amendments in the Nov. 3 election. The proposal to limit term of office and the amendment to increase mayor and council salaries were defeated, and the library budget proposal was approved.

Claims against the city from Dan Lubbers, 275 East 14th St., and Henry Van Wyk, 525 West 22nd St., were referred to the insurance carrier and city attorney.

A city manager's report together with a communication from Allegan county drain commissioner suggesting transfer of jurisdiction of the Timmer drain and the Lela drain from Allegan county to the city of Holland was approved.

The city manager reported costs of the 1964 sidewalk program at $1,629.47 and the cost of sidewalk repairs at $645.32. These costs will be charged to property owners who have until Oct. 15, 1965, to pay. Thereafter they will be levied as special assessments.

It was explained that property owners are notified when sidewalks are to be put in or when repairs are called for and have 30 days in which to have the work done themselves. Thereafter the city does the work and bills the owners, later special assessing them if not paid.

Mayor Nelson Bosman presided at the meeting which lasted one hour. Absent were Councilmen Henry Steffens and Harold Volkema. The invocation was given by Capt. William Stuart of the Salvation Army.

Boats Continue On After Layover

After a 24 hour layover in Holland harbor, due to rough water in Lake Michigan, two U. S. Coast Guard boats, a 110-foot harbor tug Arundel and a 45-foot river buoy boat, were on their way to Sault Saint Marie.

The Arundel was escorting the recently completed river buoy boat from Chicago to Sault Saint Marie, where it is to be equipped. The boats were docked at the Penn-Dixie Cement Dock on West Eighth St.

Dykema Ct. Problems Settled?

The matter of Dykema Ct. west of Fairbanks Ave. and its attendant problems caused by truck traffic seemed settled at least for a time, following a report by City Manager Herb Holt to City Council Wednesday night.

Holt reported having met with representatives of Home Furnace Co. to discuss an adequate road to service the company. He also submitted a map of the area showing the width of Dykema Ct. west of Fairbanks Ave. as 32.8 feet, approximately half of a regular 66 foot roadway. It had been agreed that the existing Dykema Ct. is not satisfactory.

Company representatives revealed that the business is growing so rapidly that it is impossible for it to make long range commitments for additional land acquisition in the area at the present time.

Holt said Dykema Ct. area is included in the urban conservation study recommended by the Planning Commission, approved by City Council and scheduled for completion Jan. 1, 1965.

Holt also announced Home Furnace Co. has taken steps to improve the immediate situation by requesting trucks to enter the area from Fairbanks Ave. further north thus using Dykema Ct. for exit only, and has erected a barrier at Fairbanks and Dykema Ct. to protect residential property.

Holt's report stated that it would appear that any long term solution to the problem of providing an adequate industrial route must wait until the area study by the Planning Commission is complete and the long term expansion needs of the company are more definite. The report was filed as information.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gamby, who live at Fairbanks and Dykema Ct., who have appeared before Council on several occasions, were present Wednesday night but offered no opposition to Holt's report. During "communications from the audience," Mrs. Gamby asked for developments in the safety study for that area and was informed by Councilman Bertal Slag that he has been making a survey for the Traffic and Safety Commission of all children in the area, how many walk and how many ride to school, and what routes are taken if they walk. He said his report is being turned over to the commission which in due time will make a recommendation.

Mrs. Gamby pointed out that Lincoln School is asking all children to cross the tracks at 11th St. since arrangements have been made for a woman attendant there at periods children go to school and return home.

5th Victory Panthers Chalk Up

Friday the 13th was not an unlucky day for West Ottawa's football team as an enthusiastic crowd of 2,106 saw Coach Ron Wetherbee's team show its toughness as they concluded the season by defeating the Coloma Comets, 13-0.

Halfback Dave Farabee scored both Panther touchdowns in the first half to give the Panthers their fifth victory of the season out of nine games.

The four men who made the Panthers go were the same who had it in earlier games. Captain Dave Vizithum assisted by Craig Van Dyke at quarterback, fullback Lynn Bakker, halfbacks Dave Farabee and Roger Zeh.

Farabee, a 175-pound senior, was the workhorse of the offense. He carried 12 times for 73 yards ramming over the middle for an average of 6 yards per tote, an indication of his importance to the Panther attack.

From the way the powerful Panther line tore into its opponents and opened the way for the dangerously quick Panther backs, it seemed that Coloma was in for a fearful beating against such explosive power and speed.

The first Panther touchdown came at 3:17 of the first quarter. The victors began their drive from their own 25-yard line picking up a first down immediately as Van Dyke passed to A. J. Visser to the Panther 35. On the next play Farabee slashed through the middle to be forced out of bounds on the Coloma 33-yard line. An unexpected break, a penalty against Coloma, advanced the ball to the 18 where Lynn Bakker crashed down to the 11-yard line.

Farabee then pounded to the two where Bakker lugged to the one foot line as the Comet line stood fast. Not to be denied in his final game Farabee drove off tackle scoring the first touchdown. John Onk's conversion attempt was wide.

The Panther stalwarts in the line had much to do with last night's victory. Line coach Doug Waldron had his boys primed to stop the persistent battering of the hard smashing Coloma backs who mercilessly attempted to slash through the middle. Time after time the names of Vander Lip, Rozeboom, Houting, and Hamilton were heard over the public address system as they stopped the Coloma backs in their tracks thereby halting scoring threats.

The Panthers subsequently kicked to the Comets who moved the ball from their own 44-yard line deep into West Ottawa territory before the West Ottawa linemen held strong and forced the Comets to turn over the ball on the Panther 20-yard line.

Farabee then drove up to the 36, then to the 50, then down to the 47 where a series of incomplete passes forced the Panthers into a kick situation. Farabee's punt was fumbled by Coloma on the 23-yard line and recovered by Paul Buscher to give West Ottawa the spark to score their second touchdown of the evening.

Farabee, Bakker, and Vizithum drove to the three-yard line where, at 7:05 of the second period, Farabee plunged off tackle for the score. This time John Onk's conversion attempt was good and the Panthers were on top 13-0.

Coloma began the second half by resorting to "the long bomb" three times in a row. Each attempt found the Coloma bench more gloomy than ever as the receivers were completely covered by Panther defenders.

For Coloma the evening was turning into one of utter frustration as they couldn't get their attack moving against the determined pack of Panthers.

Coach Wetherbee, who played all his team Friday night, said after the game that "We played some good ball this season. Three of the four games we lost could have been ours. We were only outplayed by Godwin. The boys played some good football tonight and all season."

Holland picked up a safety with 1:25 left in the game. Creston punter Randy Wiser was downed in the end zone after the pass from center went over his head.

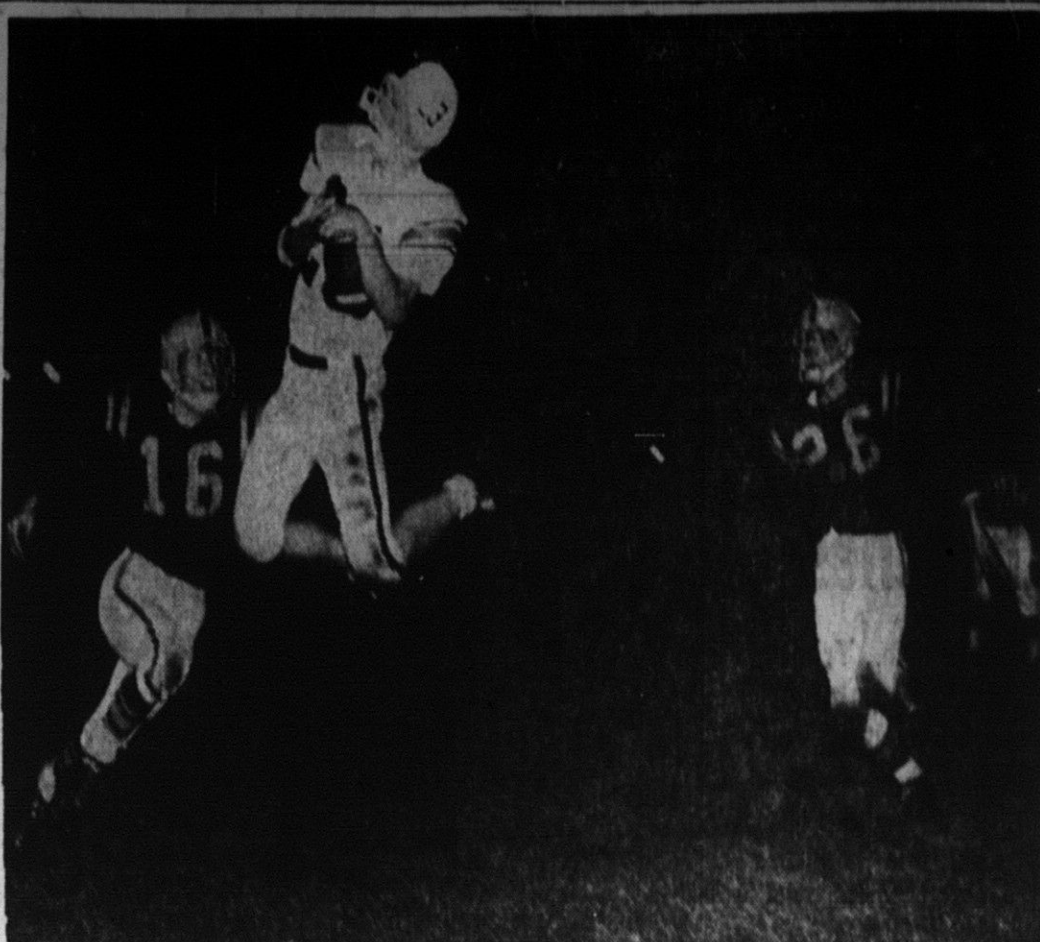

The losers had two chances to score in the first half. Early in the second quarter they drove to the 20 but were stopped short of a first down on Cowell's tackle of Roger Woltman. The drive started on the Dutch 33 with the Creston kickoff.

The Dutch took 14 plays to get to the 20 including two fine 10-yard gains around end by junior fullback Larry Crace. Tom Thomas recovered a fumble late in the second quarter on the Polar Bears 24 but again Holland was stopped on fourth down on the 20.

In the third quarter Mike Bos completed a 33 yard pass to Mort Van Howe for Holland's best gain. The juniors connected on a third down play when Holland was on its own 10-yard line.

Holland kept the drive going for two more series of downs and penetrated to the Creston 41 where they gave the ball up on an incomplete fourth down pass.

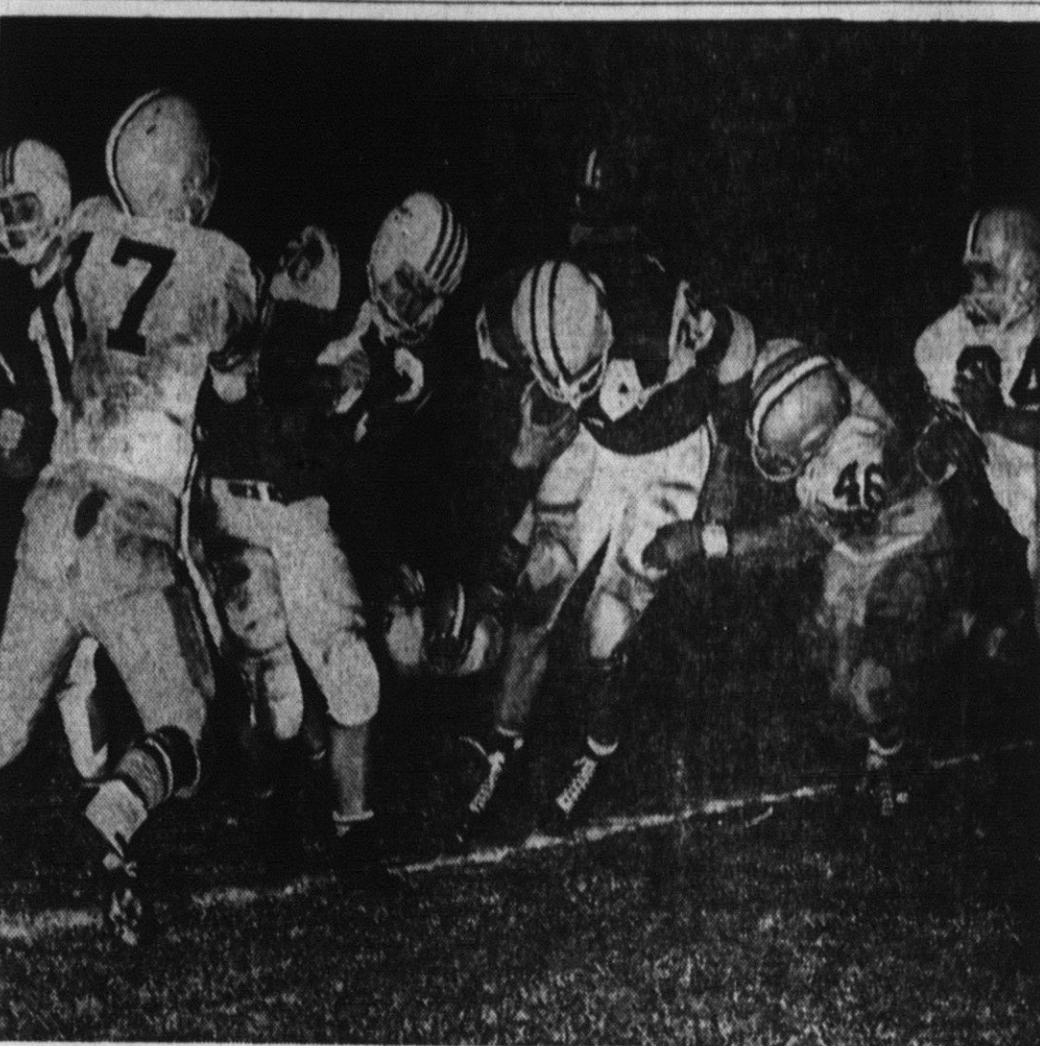

The Dutch tried 18 passes and completed three. Two were intercepted. The other two com-

EXERTS FINE EFFORT — Halfback Roger Zeh (23) leaps high in the air to grab a West Ottawa pass in the second quarter of Friday night's game between West Ottawa and Coloma at the West Ottawa Field. But the reception went for no avail as the Panthers were called for holding on the play. Coloma defenders are Bob Freed and J. Davis. West Ottawa won the season's finale, 13-0

Dutch Drop 8th Contest This Season

Holland High's football team closed a dismal season here Friday night as they dropped a 12-2 decision to Grand Rapids Creston before 1,800 fans in Riverview Park.

It was Holland's eighth straight loss after the season's opening game win against East Grand Rapids. The win evened Creston's opening game win against East Grand Rapids. The win evened Creston's mark at 4-4.

Creston scored the first time they had the ball. After a Holland punt to the Polar Bears 15, the winners began a strong running game. Led by 193-pound junior halfback Dave Ripmaster and 156-pound sophomore fullback Bob Saunders, Creston ground out the 85 yards in 13 plays.

After keeping on the ground 12 of the plays, quarterback Tom Schultz crossed up Holland with a 23-yard touchdown pass to Kirby Brown. Schultz' kick was wide.

The winners scored again with 4:05 left in the game. Larry Cowell, who played a fine all-around game for Creston, intercepted a Holland pass at mid-field and returned to the Dutch 29.

Again the Polar Bears put the running game into motion with Saunders carrying the ball to the three-yard line in four carries. Ripmaster, aided by Saunders' fine fake, carried over. Jerry Orent's run for extra point failed.

Her bouffant elbow-length veil of silk illusion fell from an orchid headpiece accented with taffeta petals and seed pearl twigs.

As maid of honor, Sylvia Garcia wore a turquoise satin gown featuring a bell-shaped skirt. Her headress was a short bluish veil of nylon meline falling from a braid frame studded with small pearls. Bridesmaids were Janie Garcia, Amparo Olivo, Lupe Martinez and Chris Alfaro. All were dressed identically to the honor attendant. Carolina Barbose was the flower girl.

Best man was Antonio Ortega and ushers were Jesus De La Luz and Armando Garcia.

Following the ceremony the couple left for a Southwest wedding trip.

Book Review Delights Crowd At Library

A review of Anne Sinclair Mehdevi's book, "Persia Revisited," provided an entertaining afternoon in Herrick Public Library Wednesday when Mrs. Robert S. De Bruyn of Zeeland appeared as the second reviewer of the season.

Mrs. De Bruyn said she had reviewed Mrs. Mehdevi's first book, "Persian Adventure," 11 years ago for Holland liberals, and the current book starts where the other one ended. The first book, written with a light-hearted air by the American wife of a high-born Persian, had received good reviews in America but was considered undignified in Persia (Iran) and virtually banned there because of a mystic reverence for the written word.

In fact, the author's father-in-law who was equivalent to king was so irate over something in chapter 14 (he had enjoyed the earlier parts) that the author and her husband felt obligated to leave the country and remained away for 10 long years before the patriarch asked them to return because he was getting old and wanted to see them before he died.

Mrs. Mehdevi's new book describes the changing Persia, a land where fine Persian rugs are the same as negotiable money, where people board jet planes, and fly to capitals in Europe without blinking an eye, and a land where a servant watching a television set carefully draws her veil closely over her face when a man's picture appears on the screen. It also is a land where a Ph. D. can consult a witch doctor . . . with favorable results.

The new Persia in which the country had changed from a feudal age to a nuclear age has left a gap for the teenagers. Girls no longer switch from dolls to marriage and motherhood at 12 or 14, but the new life has made no provisions for teenage clubs, no drugstore hangouts, and no place where girls could meet eligible young men. The only place seems to be beauty parlors and girls spend hours there, coming out looking gorgeous and with no place to go.

The book also described the self-contained family structure, the foresight the "king" exercised in providing European education for all the children and the great love people have for each other, usually covered up because of fear of the "evil eye" which harms only good and beautiful things.

It was almost an afterthought in the book that cleared the initial fury which banished the author from her husband's country, and it turned out to be an error in translation on the part of a 12-year-old grandson who was reading the book to his grandfather. Because there was no Persian word for the American expression "curled up" the boy for lack of the word said "like a meatball" and the king was irate.

Mrs. De Bruyn was introduced by Geraldine Walvoord of the library staff. Mrs. John Hollenbach of the staff briefly reviewed new books, many of them on travel in Europe and books related to Persia.

The next review will be given by Mrs. Gary Freeman Dec. 9.

There are about 2,800 varieties of wild flowers which grow from a few inches to several feet tall. Many of these have been cultivated in gardens such as daisies, geraniums, lilies and orchids.

THE POVERTY PROGRAM

When Benjamin Franklin was told that the war for independence was over, he said: "Say rather the war of the revolution. The war for independence has yet to be fought."

The election over, there is a parallel here with the political future in the next national administration. With the incoming Congress overwhelmingly Democratic, political analysts expect a modified form of medicare to pass, with the opponents fighting a rear-guard action to obtain the least objectionable measure. But with other elements of The Great Society, the "war for independence" remains to be fought.

For it is still an open question whether the Johnson landslide was a repudiation of the views of Senator Goldwater or represented approval of the so-called Great Society, whose exact details have not yet been spelled out.

In the area of the poverty program, for example, it would be a mistake to interpret the election as approval of an enlarged federalism and federal largess. As a matter of fact, there is some public misunderstanding of the proposed assault on poverty and the campaign did little toward enlightening the public. Pending bills clearly stress the idea that the initiative of all moves toward the help for problems should come from local communities and the states. Governor Romney recognized this early and even before the campaign began, urged cities and the state to be prepared to initiate proposals. He reiterated this view recently in designating Nov. 15-21 as "Action against Poverty Week." In that proclamation, he said: "The full resources of our state government together with voluntary efforts can work as a team on programs which will raise the standards of living of our poverty-stricken so that all of Michigan's citizens may enjoy the fruits of economic progress."

We must remember that all of the problems solved at the local level are much more economical.

The Testimony of Paul's Life
2 Timothy 3:10-13; 4:1-8; 17-18
By C. P. Dame

This is the last lesson from Paul's Epistles to Timothy. The words of the lesson text were written in prison. Paul was facing a trial and perhaps death. However, he was not concerned about himself, but about the cause of Christ. May his concern be ours.

I. A noble example is most valuable. Timothy had a fine example in Paul, his spiritual father. Paul had trained his spiritual son well. Timothy knew Paul's "manner of life, purpose, faith, longsuffering, charity, patience." These fine personal qualities Timothy had seen in action. Every Christian worker needs them—have and keep them.

Timothy knew how much Paul had suffered for the sake of the gospel. The names of the cities, Antioch, Iconium, Lystra, reminded Timothy of Paul's suffering. Acts 13 and 14 tell the story of his suffering. "Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution."—these words modern ease-loving Christians should remember. Perhaps Christians today do not show enough zeal to provoke opposition. Paul is still a fine example to us all.

II. Preaching is most important. "Preach the word," that is the standing order to the church. The preacher should be "urgent in season and out of season." His work is to "reprove, rebuke, exhort, with all longsuffering and doctrine." Paul wrote about unresponsive hearers, people "with itching ears." These people do not like sound doctrine and so they turn away from the truth to fables. This sounds modern. Paul told Timothy to be watchful and show readiness to "endure affliction" and to "do the work of an evangelist." Opposition should stir him to do greater work.

III. Making a good record is satisfying. Paul knew the end was near. As he looked back he could say, and did say, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." Some people begin well but stumble before the end comes. Solomon began well but ended life tragically. In these days too many people lose their faith. Paul kept it. He had lost friends, position, standing, but kept the faith. What an example!

Paul looked back with satisfaction, and he looked to the future with joy, for there was laid up for him a crown of righteousness which the Lord would give him and all that love His appearing. Notice that Paul looked back and to the future with gladness and testified to the abiding companionship of the Lord who strengthened him in prison and during his trial and in all his experiences. May the Lord give us more of the Pauline spirit.

Status of Women Today Outlined by Mrs. Goebel

"We no longer live the lives of our parents and grandparents, and the multitudinous chores of living today require that many women must leave their homes and go into the marketplace to make a living," Mrs. Paul Goebel of Grand Rapids, chairman of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, told the Woman's Literary Club Tuesday afternoon.

"Some reasons women take employment are more noble than others," she added, explaining how a good number of women support families, others work for a new car or a color tv, while yet another is saving money for her children's education, a factor more important today than ever before.

She said the complexities of living (yet always interlaced with simplicities such as quick foods) have had an impact on laws affecting the welfare of the people, and to a great degree women.

She praised Michigan for its strides in recognizing the status of women, explaining that this state is a leader in policies and legislation. Yet the women themselves are a far cry from their grandmothers who alfred Douma, and Glen Folkert; deacons, Glenn Brower, Leon Hulsman, and Vernon Lohman.

By Dr. Leslie R. Beach

"Who in the world are you?"

This question recalls a smile to my face as I recall a humorous incident of a few years ago. It was the question being fired at me one night by a campus cop as he wrote out a ticket for me for having my car parked — of all places — in the gymnasium.

Yes, the ticket read: "Violation: Parking in gym."

It was a small car. And having just left the floor from a hard-fought faculty-student game of volleyball, I could grasp in a moment how it got there. But the cop wasn't kidding!

That incident is a story in itself, portraying a brand of humor involving the American college student — and his professor — which can be paralleled in no other country in the world.

While the questions may have a ring of sarcasm, it can also be extremely profound and serious. I ask this question here because I believe it is one of the most important questions that can be asked seriously of any person. I find it most worthwhile, in all seriousness, to ask this question of myself. One of the most significant acts a person can perform in the process of becoming truly adult is to establish his own personal identity. Too many of us are not entirely successful in this effort.

Many of us never do make a ring of sarcasm, it can also be extremely profound and serious. I ask this question here because I believe it is one of the most important questions that can be asked seriously of any person. I find it most worthwhile, in all seriousness, to ask this question of myself. One of the most significant acts a person can perform in the process of becoming truly adult is to establish his own personal identity. Too many of us are not entirely successful in this effort.

College students, for example, when asked by social psychologists, "Who are you?"—respond in terms of groups they belong to rather than something about themselves. They define their own personal identity in terms of their affiliations with others.

Many of us who begin to discover who we are do not find the courage and the path to live out what we have discovered and thus miss becoming true, honest, authentic persons. Rather, we do what we are expected to do; we play the proper roles assigned us by others; and we live in constant fear that our "front" will be found out, that the mask will be ripped off.

Or we live a half-life, frustrated and defeated because we never know the satisfaction of running our own lives. We can tell you what we believe our values are, what is most important in life, and what are our major goals and purposes. But then we go out and make liars of ourselves by our acts. We permit ourselves to become enslaved to the demands of life circumstances or of other people.

In my psychology courses, I pursue with my students the fascinating study of human behavior and the human personality. But study of scientific psychology is not enough. In addition to learning about people, my students also must come to know and understand themselves better. Then and only then can they develop real understanding and insight into the behavior and experience of others. Only as they affirm their own personal integrity can they relate most meaningfully to other persons.

In "Hamlet," Shakespeare gives us the words: "This above all: to thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

If this world, our nation, the community of Holland need anything today, they need true, honest, genuine persons who have discovered themselves and then have mustered the courage to live that, to be that, to become that in a responsible and healthy way.

To live responsibly and satisfyingly and fully, we must ask ourselves with relentless, penetrating seriousness: "Who in the world are you?"

The Zeeland Chamber of Commerce at its recent Board Meeting decided to write to the State Highway department to request better directions to Zeeland when motorists leave U.S. 31 just east of Holland.

Signs point to Holland and Grand Rapids but fail to mention Zeeland. Local merchants have received complaints from out state customers that they are well on the way to Grand Haven before they realize that they have missed the exit to Zeeland.

In connection with improvements the Board discussed possible tourist attractions and it was pointed out that if any citizen might have any suggestion to offer for tourist attraction they should contact either Mr. Bennett or C. Karsten, secretary of the Chamber.

It was also announced that C. Karsten, secretary-manager of the Zeeland Chamber of Commerce, was elected to the American Chamber of Commerce Executives Association.

In the announcement by Ralph L. Bradford, executive vice president of the organization, he points out that "As a Chamber executive you have accepted a vital responsibility that involves great significance to your community and nation."

ALLEGAN — Countering with a more recent attorney general's opinion, the Allegan County Social Welfare Board has announced its intentions to stick by its appointment of Robert Hilaski as departmental director.

The announcement added that "it is hoped that misinformation and confusion surrounding the appointment will be cleared up in the near future" and pointed out that the welfare committee of the board of supervisors was present when the decision was reached at a special meeting Thursday.

Hope Grad Appealing Dismissal

DAYTON, Ohio — Joseph N. Tooni, a 1935 graduate of Hope College, native of Iraq, has filed suit in U. S. district court appealing his dismissal from his $10,970-a-year government job.

A 15-year Air Force civilian employee, Tooni was discharged April 3 for "alleged falsification of employment applications filed by him with the government."

Any errors, he claims, were unintentional and the claimed falsification in no way affected his job qualifications of competency. In a letter to the Sentinel, he explained he had taken engineering refresher courses at the University of California (extension) and passed all courses with a "B" average, but failed to mention they were not credit courses.

"I have served my new country in two wars, enlisting in the Army as a private and honorably discharged as a major in ordnance," he added.

Tooni blames his dismissal partly to a personality clash with a base officer at Wright-Patterson Air Force base near Dayton. It concerned Tooni's transfer to Middletown, a move he objected to and won.

Tooni's suit seeks reinstatement in his government job and back pay in excess of $6,500, dating back to the date of his dismissal. After discharge, he filed an administrative appeal with the Chicago office of the U. S. Civil Service Commission and was upheld on June 2 when reinstatement was ordered. On Aug. 28 the Board of Appeals reversed the decision handed down by the Chicago office.

On his own, Tooni has carried the fight for reinstatement to the White House, asking President Lyndon Johnson for intervention.

Supt. Ihrman Speaks to PTA Council Group

"Education for What?" was the question on which Supt. of Holland Public Schools Don Ihrman dwelled Monday evening when he addressed members of the PTA Council at a dinner meeting in Durfee Hall.

Quoting John Diebold, founder and president of the Diebold Group, Inc., a management consulting firm, Ihrman said that "according to estimates for the next 30 years, 60 million Americans in several hundred occupations will find their work changing radically. Some jobs will disappear sooner, some a little later; but the work of every one of these employees is practically certain to be obsolete within the next generation."

He said Mr. Diebold predicted that the following job categories are "dead-end jobs;" aircraft assembly workers, appliance assembly workers, automobile assembly workers, automobile body repairmen, bank clerks, bookkeeper, brokerage margin clerk, coal miner, court reporter, elevator operator, railroad train personnel, service station attendants and the unskilled worker. The "bright-future job" list, he said includes aerospace engineer, aerospace skilled worker, athletic director, attorney, chemical engineer, civil engineer, communications equipment installer and service worker, computer maintenance worker, computer operator, industrial engineer, electronic assembly and testing, insurance actuary, mathematician, nuclear engineer and many more of the same kind.

It should be quite obvious that education, not merely adequate, but high quality education to meet the requirements of a vast, changing, evermore complex society, is vitally and critically needed, the speaker said.

"Ideally, in a democracy all citizens — children, youth and adults — are given equal opportunity to achieve personal fulfillment. To this end, our assault on the many educational difficulties and problems that confront us must be a total one — beginning even before the kindergarten and extending through and beyond the college and university."

Rachel Vander Werf, vice president of the PTA Council, introduced the speaker.

Plans for better communications between Holland Public Schools and Holland citizens were discussed. Radio programs and a newspaper column are contemplated as a means to inform the public of school activities and problems.

The next PTA Council meeting will be held in January. The program will consist of a panel discussion arranged by Miss Margaret Van Vyven, school coordinator. They will discuss current tax books and why they choose them.

Granted Snow Removal Fund

LANSING — Ottawa and Allegan counties were among 32 of Michigan's 83 counties which had enough snow last winter to qualify for snow removal funds, the State Highway Department said today.

The official total snowfall for Ottawa County was listed at 89 inches, while Allegan County's total snowfall officially stood at 95 inches. A county must have had at least 70 inches of snow the previous winter to qualify for removal funds.

Ottawa County will receive $17,853 and Allegan County will get a payment of $33,916. This year's snow removal fund totals $635,865, compared to about $612,000 a year ago. The money, which is set aside from gas taxes and license plate fees, helps defray cost of snow removal in counties which have heavy snowfalls.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said the average snowfall for Michigan last winter was 67.3 inches compared to 72.5 inches the previous winter. Keweenaw County in the Upper Peninsula had the highest average snowfall last year with 191 inches.

Mackie said this year's largest payment, $51,584, will go to Chippewa County, which had an average snowfall of 129 inches. This year's smallest payment, $613, will go to Presque Isle County.

Distribution of the money is based on a complicated snowfall, mileage and snowfall count formula. Snowfall measurements are made at one or more U. S. Weather Bureau Stations in every Michigan county.

Furnace Co. Faces Charge

CHICAGO — Three federal judges had under advisement Tuesday a criminal contempt prosecution brought against the Holland Furnace Co. of Holland, Mich.

The clerk of the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the proceedings was the first of its kind ever brought against a company in the court and only the second in the history of the nation.

The company was charged with criminal contempt for allegedly failing to follow the court's orders.

The case, which opened Sept. 28, was heard by U.S. Appellate Judges Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Roger J. Kiley and Luther E. Swygert.

Emerson K. Elkins, attorney for the Federal Trade Commission, charged in his closing remarks Monday that Holland salesmen have repeatedly violated a 1959 order of the court prohibiting fraudulent sales techniques.

Elkins cited 93 examples of violations and alleged "responsible officers" of the company were aware of the practices.

The action taken by the appeals court charged not only the firm but also 11 persons associated with the firm as either officers, directors or stockholders, with criminal contempt. One of the 11 was P. T. Cheff, former president and chief stockholder.

Stuart Ball, defense attorney and a brother of Undersecretary of State George Ball, admitted some of Holland's employees had violated the court's orders. But he denied company directors he represented were aware of the violation.

"My husband and I studied at Moody Bible Institute in Chicago and were planning to be missionaries," she said. "The pastor of Moody Memorial Church in Chicago who had offered to help us had moved to Immanuel Baptist Church in Holland, so we joined him here."

We thought we would be in Holland about six months. Next month it will be 12 years," she said.

"My husband took employment at the General Electric sample shop where I became company nurse."

A 1918 Hope College graduate, the now retired Dr. Potts received his M. D. degree at Rush Medical College in 1924. He was surgeon-in-chief at Children's Memorial Hospital from 1947 to 1960, and professor of surgery at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Husband-Wife Piano Duo Charms Local Audience

A highly appreciative audience basked in the melodious music of a husband-and-wife piano team, Howard and Patricia Barr, appearing in the second concert of Holland's Community Concert series.

A well balanced program demonstrated complete coordination of the couple that comes about only through years of practice together, plus a warm and personal contact with the audience resulting in an enjoyment shared by audience and artists alike.

Alternating pianos and leads (the Barrs travel with their perfectly matched Baldwin grands), the artists spanned centuries of piano music with numbers ranging from heavy themes requiring precise technical mastery to light, frivolous melodies.

For the purist, perhaps most enjoyed were the Rachmaninoff Suite for Two Pianos, the Saint-Saens Scherzo, the Handel Passacaglia and the Gluck Melodie from "Orpheus and Eurydice."

Howard Barr's own words set the stage for the highly enjoyable Milhaud "Scaramouche" when he said one person described it as 1920 jazz as might have been played in Hong Kong.

Another unusual number was the Victor Babin arrangement of Barodin's Polovetsian Dances from "Prince Igor" which score served as the basis for the Broadway musical "Kismet" and its familiar "Stranger in Paradise" theme.

Generous in encores, the Barrs obliged with the familiar "The March of the Soldiers" just before intermission for children who might have to leave early.

Another encore, Polka by Shostakovich, was described as a class reunion musical where where the instruments were out of tune and the players out of practice — a perfect description for dissonances not always easily understood.

In their final encore, the Barrs bowed to contemporary favorites in a rippling rendition of Hoagy Carmichael's "Stardust."

West Ottawa Board of Education Monday night approved the purchase of a lot in Rose Park subdivision to be used by children in the north part of the subdivision who will be attending the new central elementary school currently being constructed on Division Ave. Price of the lot is $2,500.

The lot will allow access from Essenburg Dr. to Division Ave. and will be used for pedestrian traffic only. Plans call for a 10-foot pedestrian walk to be constructed.

Currently there is no access from Rose Park to Division Ave. This would require children to walk south to James St. and the north to the school for a considerable distance, making them eligible for bus transportation, according to school policy.

Supt. Lloyd Van Raalte said the new elementary school will be completed shortly after the first of the year but that some rooms may be ready for occupancy in December. As soon as such rooms are available, students currently attending Ventura School will be transferred. These 98 fifth and sixth grade students at Ventura are housed in two rooms where team teaching has permitted maximum utilization of space, but the rooms nevertheless are overcrowded.

A group of kindergarten students currently attending Glendene school in a temporary room also will be transferred to the kindergarten section of the central school.

Full operations of kindergarten through sixth-grade at the new school will not take place until September of 1965. Full changes would mean disrupting 41 classroom groups already assigned to teachers in other districts. It also would mean new hot lunch programs, kitchen assignments and new transportation routes. The lesser changes the superintendent has recommended involve no significant alterations of transportation or hot lunch programs.

Harvey Knoll, member of the board's transportation committee, reported having met with a self-appointed transportation group. An evaluation of the practices of the West Ottawa board concerning transportation of children in the district by a representative from the State Department of Public Instruction indicates that policies as carried out within the district were in accord with state recommendations, so no action was recommended.

Supt. Van Raalte presented a comparative study of the West Ottawa budget for 1964-65. Comparisons were made of several other local budgets and state averages. The study indicated that the budget would be proportioned essentially along distributions which are typical for the state of Michigan with a proposed cost per child lower than state average.

Bank to Open New Branch

People's State Bank will build its second branch bank on the south side of Ninth St., next to the Ninth St. Christian Reformed Church, on the site of the bank's present main office parking lot.

George B. Tinch, board chairman, said the new facility will include two drive-in windows and a walk-up window with access from Ninth St.

The bank has purchased additional property on Tenth St. for a new main office parking lot.

In announcing the new plans, Tinch said that People's State Bank intends to continue to provide convenient and complete banking services to the Holland community.

Architects of the new structure are Kammeraad and Stroop. Plans are now out for bid, and construction should be completed during January.

Tinch also announced that an application had been filed with the Banking Department for the opening of a third branch bank on the corner of Maple Ave. and 29th St.

Fire Heavily Damages Park Township Home
A fire at the home of Mrs. Margaret Hall, 1626 Jerome St., did an estimated $1,000 damage to the house and its contents late Thursday night.

Park Township fire station No. 1 was called to the home at 11 p.m., but the fire had died down considerably since closed doors and windows had cut off its oxygen. Extensive damage had already been done to the combination living room-kitchen, and the rest of the house had been heavily damaged by smoke. The fire was extinguished by 11:30.

Firemen believe the fire was caused by faulty electrical wiring.

Volleys

Bob Kouw of Holland has uncovered an old booklet, the forerunner of the modern paperback, entitled "The Michigan Book," a state cyclopedia published in 1901 containing sectional county maps and a wealth of information much like today's Michigan Manual.

Michigan at the turn of the century was well on its way, but had not hit its stride as a leading manufacturing state. Its leading articles of manufacture in 1901 listed boots and shoes, beet sugar, freight cars, cigars, cement, caskets, drugs, furs, furniture, fertilizer, leather, lumber, matches, organs, ships, silk thread, stoves, soda ash, varnish, white lead and woodenware.

While lacking vision on the automotive revolution, Michigan was surprisingly up to date on some other fronts.

Included in the election laws was provision for election voting machines, reading on page 75:

"The board of supervisors of any county or the common council of any city or village may authorize the use of any thoroughly tested voting machine at the township, city or village election following their meeting."

"These machines must be prepared for an election by the election commissioners of the county or city. There shall be a booth for each machine and instructions for operating same placed in each booth. When a machine has been authorized to be used, it must be on exhibition at the registration preceding the election so that voters may become familiar with it."

"The use of the Rhines' Vote Recorder, the Abbott Voting Machine and the Myers' Automatic Ballot Machine is authorized by law."

Ottawa county, we learn, was created in 1831 and organized in 1837. It was named from the Ottawa tribe of Indians. The name Ottawa means the "nation with a hole in their nose" because they wore little stones suspended from their noses. Some give the word "Traders" as a free rendering of the word Ottawa. County seat is at Grand Haven, originally known as Ottawa. Acres in county, 352,633. Population in 1840, 208; 1850, 5,587; 1860, 13,127; 1870, 26,665; 1880, 33,125; 1890, 35,358; 1900, 39,667. Votes cast at spring election of 1899, 5,972. Presidential vote in 1900, McKinley, 5,334; Bryan, 3,064.

Allegan county was created in 1831 and organized in 1835. It is named from an ancient tribe of Indians inhabiting the Allegheny mountains. County seat is Allegan. Acres in county, 530,029; population 1900, 38,812. Votes cast at spring election of 1899, 6,720. Presidential vote in 1900, McKinley, 5,597; Bryan, 3,283.

Hope College at Holland belongs to the Dutch Reformed Church, was organized in 1866. Statistics for college year 1897-98: 13 instructors, 256 students, 18 graduates. Has library of 15,000 volumes. Value of grounds and buildings, $85,000.

On other fronts, three Holland girls were honored for highest scholarship at a dinner Oct. 28 in East Lansing for students achieving an all-A academic record for spring and summer terms of 1964 at Michigan State University. So honored were Marthens Bosch, a junior in arts and letters; Carol L. Lound, a junior in natural science, and Jean M. Wedel, a sophomore in University College. The latter has been on this honor roll three times.

Returning to the historical front, longtimers may be interested in a new book "Saddlebag Doctor," by Dr. William R. Vis, who has practiced medicine in Grand Rapids since 1918 and is in active practice today. It is a vivid account of the early days of Grand Rapids and Western Michigan, geared to the 1830's when there was only a scattering of log houses and businesses placed along the river than called by the Indian name, Owastanong. In adjoining territory were the camp fire and hunting grounds of the friendly Ottawa Indians. Canal St. in Grand Rapids, part of Monroe Ave. today, was a musical frog pond.

The book is written from the standpoint of a physician to illustrate the advance of medical science in the 19th century, yet is an historical novel, the result of long years of research into the history of Western Michigan.

The author was born in Jamestown township in Ottawa county.

A picture of Nancy Vandewater, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Vandewater appears in the October issue of the National Geographic in connection with an article by an Indian Author, Joginder Singh Rekhi, who visited 48 states in the United States on a 2½-year tour of 74,000 miles. Wit and wisdom:
Some old-fashioned mothers who can remember their husbands' first kiss now have daughters who can't remember their first husbands.

Our neighbor says she has a wonderful recipe for goulash — all she has to do is mention it and her husband takes her out to dinner.

An ounce of "keep your mouth shut" beats a ton of explanation. A newlywed is a fellow who still tells his wife when he gets a pay raise.

A woman who continually interrupts a man's conversation is either married or never will be.

Audience Cheers, Hisses At Oldtime Melodrama

It was all a lot of fun. A full house attending the opening performance of the old melodrama, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads," Monday night in Holland High School fell into the spirit of the thing and cheered the hero, hissed the villain and all but cried with the wronged maiden.

A melodrama was a departure for a senior class presentation, but a happy change that became an audience participation show, lacking only something to throw at the sinister villain played by Richard Steggerda who glided through the five scenes with the grace of a ballet dancer.

It was the finale, replete with hero tied to the railroad tracks and horrifying train whistles coming nearer and nearer that brought down the house. The fact that the villain got his own foot caught in the track made for some poetic justice.

The director, Jon Anderson, newcomer to the faculty this year, used topical material in beefing up the old script, injecting such substitutions at the villain enticing the heroine to take a trip with him to Graafschap and the "fast" girl of the cast coming to Holland from the Grand Haven campus. The entire play was cast in a farm on the banks of Black River at the narrowest point where the new New York and Grand Haven railroad was sure to be built.

Oldtime costumes, one even with a bustle and another the striped suit of a convict, and other props, plus the exaggerated acting that is part and parcel of any melodrama added to the enjoyment.

Villain Steggerda was joined by Carol Vander Molen as the as the true and tender heroine, David Lauridsen as the bashful hero, Margo Haken as the widow who dies a dramatic death, Sharon Nienhuis who plots with the villain, Craig Hills as the cornball rustic, Peggy Wich as the aristocrat of Boston and Graafschap, Leonie as her daughter, Annica Ostlund as the French maid, and Lorraine Miles as the little girl who never had a father.

Kurt Hopkins, James Marcus, Dale Knoll, John Snively and John Rympa appeared as happy boy scouts hiking into the final scene completely ignoring the people tied to tracks in the face of the approaching train. Old-time music from a doctored piano was provided by Bill Schwarz whose tremolo in hearts-and-flowers type music gave a fine professional touch.
