HOLLAND CITY NEWS STARTS A STORY THAT IS WORTH READING

OPIE READ WRITES TALE SITUATED AROUND NEW ORLEANS

In today's issue on page two and three the Holland City News starts a story that is really worth while. The story is entitled "Periwinkle House"—a mysterious affair written by Opie Read, who is an eminent story writer and knows the South like a book.

In the face of the New Orleans and southern stories written during the trip of the American Legion Band to New Orleans, this interesting tale copyrighted by the Bell Syndicate and purchased by the News will not be amiss.

Opie Read is the greatest story teller in America, and having been born in Tennessee is eminently fitted to write this story.

The hero is from the north, and the other prominent characters are all southerners.

The hatred for the North is still shown all through the story and while a great many humorous incidents run all through the tale, the dramatic and thrilling extremes showing southern chivalry as well as hot-blooded temperament, are contrasted with Northern cool headedness.

The mysterious part of the play is not brought out until the last minute of the story in which a love scene closes the incident, in fact the sequel to the story is not known until the last paragraph which proves to be a surprise entirely.

The News gives a large installment of seven columns today, a treat for Thanksgiving.

After this story is completed a second one will be started which will possibly be "The Indian Drum."

ALLEGAN COUNTY MEN TAKEN ON SERIOUS CHARGES

A very unsavory condition was brought to light by the arrest of a number of young men charged with offenses against a 14-year-old girl of Otsego. George Fuller of Allegan pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of the girl and was given 60 days in jail with a fine of $40 and costs of $4.35 by Justice Brady. Ray Moon pleaded guilty to the same charge and was given 90 days in jail. Howard Julien of Otsego also pleaded guilty and drew 30 days in jail, $50 fine and $6.35 costs. Norman Harnden strongly denied having anything to do in the matter, but was charged with a more serious offense and will be examined next Monday.

THANKSGIVING WILL BE GENERALLY OBSERVED IN HOLLAND

All the churches will observe Thanksgiving services on Thursday morning some with special music.

A Thanksgiving program is to be given at the high school Wednesday afternoon, and our schools will be closed Thursday, Friday and Saturday and studies will not be resumed until next Monday.

Hope College and the Western Theological Seminary will also be closed.

On Thanksgiving evening the Young Women's League for Service will give a program at Trinity Reformed church consisting of an organ recital by Miss Susanna Hamelink, and a missionary play entitled Robert and Mary. The story of Robert Moffat and his wife, the parents of Mrs. David Livingstone, is told. Some of us do not know much about the hardships and triumphs of this brave pioneer missionary to Africa. Come Thursday evening and learn about them.

HARBOR ENGINEER WILL MAKE REPAIRS ON PIERS NEXT YEAR

HAVE MONEY ON HAND FOR REPLACEMENT OF REVETMENT

Capt. Harrington, J. A. Johnson of the Graham & Morton, Congressman Mapes and the local press have been busy with the government officials, relative to the hole that was stoven in the North pier which at any time with a severe northwest storm might ruin the harbor.

Lansing H. Beach, major general, chief of engineers, at Washington, D. C. has been conferring with Congressman Mapes and he states in a letter in possession of this paper that on June 30 last, upward of 11,000 cubic yards of material was dredged from the channel and repairs were made to the pier proper at a total expenditure of $7,500.00.

The year previous $9,500 was expended for similar operations. Mr. Beach states that about three years ago a portion of the pile revetment that protects the channel connecting Black Lake with Lake Michigan was washed out. Up to this year the funds available to the Department have not been sufficient for its replacement, but it caused no obstruction to navigation, the full project depth of 16 feet being maintained by dredging.

"Funds are now on hand however," says Mr. Beach "for the replacement of this revetment, and it is intended to begin work as early in the spring of 1923 as weather and other conditions will permit.

Mr. Beach states further that the needs of Holland harbor are not being neglected and he will see to it that navigation is not retarded because of the entrance to this port.

No doubt Holland business interests will be exceedingly pleased over the fact that this much needed repair to the harbor will soon be made, and before navigation opens next spring.

SYLVESTER PAULUS HIGH SCHOOL BOY MAKING GOOD

IS A PHYSICAL DIRECTOR IN AN ARIZONA SCHOOL

Sylvester Paulus, a graduate of Holland High school, and son of Peter Paulus of the Bush & Lane Piano Co is making good as a physical director in the Nogales High school of Arizona. With poor material to start on he has built up a foot ball team that is smashing everything, and from all appearances the school he represents will win the Southern Arizona football championship.

Last year the school won the South state basketball championship under the training of Coach Paulus of Holland, and the southern state papers are making a great deal of the work of the coach who hails from this city.

No doubt Sylvester has taken a great deal of pep engendered by "Dubby" Drew, south with him.

Anyway Holland will be pleased to hear from another one of her sons making good abroad.

DISPLAYS PICTURES OF RECENT TRIP TO EUROPE

Miss Marguerite Meyer, daughter of A. H. Meyer, the music store man, has received a prize from the Detroit Free Press in the amateur photograph display.

The Detroit Free Press is printing in its Rotogravure Supplement worthwhile pictures taken abroad and calls the page "Bits of Hither and Yon."

Miss Meyer last summer made a trip to Europe and incidentally took a great many views of the different places visited.

Her contribution to the Free Press is a view taken on the island of Marken, in the Zuyder Zee, the Netherlands, which portrays children who look like diminutive women in frocks, fashioned in the identical manner of their grandmothers and great-grandmothers.

The picture is a very unique one and covers nearly a quarter of a page, and the name of Miss Meyer appears on the bottom as the photographer.

NO WONDER PRICE OF EGGS IS SOARING HIGH

Daily as many as 200 dozen eggs, 60 to 70 gallons of milk, 75 pounds of butter, 75 loaves of bread, two cases of grape fruit, a hind quarter of beef, and ten hams are being used to still the hunger of 420 student boarder at the Chubb House, one of the oldest eating establishments in Ann Arbor.

For twenty-three years has its owner, Mrs. Chubb, served the students of the University of Michigan in the Chubb House, which opened in 1899 with 50 boarders. At present there are sixty tables in the remodeled structure on State street, at which 420 students seat themselves at every meal.

G. Van Schelven is on a trip to the county infirmary at Eastmanville today. Mr. Van Schelven is one of the poor commissioners of Ottawa county.

ARE NOW WEIGHING LOADS OF COAL IN HOLLAND

ARE PICKING TRUCK LOADS FROM THE STREET TO SCALES

Chief Van Ry and his men besides being officers of the law are also the keepers of weights and measures in the city of Holland, and John Adoelle, commissioner of the agricultural department has notified Chief VanRy to make rigid examination of coal scales in Holland and stop loads on the street in order that these may be weighed.

The chief and his men have been at this work off and on for more than a week, and they can honestly say that the coal dealers of Holland have a clean slate and not an irregularity was found in any of the scales nor was there a short weight load picked up.

It is understood that the state department is demanding this all over the state unexpectedly because of coal shortage and the high price of fuel.

Mr. Van Ry can give the Holland coal dealers a clean brief to the state.

THE ADVENT OF ELECTRIC SIGNS IN HOLLAND

BOULEVARD LIGHTS STIMULATE THINGS ELECTRICALLY AMONG BUSINESS MEN

It was not so long ago that when strangers would come to Holland at night they would ask, "Where is Holland?"

Holland's main business streets were dark lanes here and there dotted with an electric sign and an intersecting street light burning dimly.

It surely did not portray at night but could be seen on these thoroughfares in the daytime.

Just a year ago Holland installed one of the most beautiful boulevard lighting systems in the United States, after this had been hammered at in the local press for years, and after committees had been diligently working for funds.

There was always a great deal of opposition to boulevard lights in some quarters, but now that they have been installed, there is not a person in Holland who would wish to see them removed.

With the boulevard lights other things electrical began to appear. Business men installed added electrical signs. Electricity is often used in window displays.

However it was up to the Strand theater to put in the first moving electrical sign which is shown in the fountain display in front of that playhouse.

Another beauty has just been installed by Roy Stevenson of Stevenson's Jewelry store. The sign is 20 feet long and runs the full length of the building topping the roof. The letters spelling Stevenson are 15 inches square, spelled out with electric bulbs, and crowning the sign is a large diamond, built up out of 24 electric lights. Automatically the diamond scintillates in four colors namely green, amber, red and white.

The sign as a whole contains 60 lights and is controlled by clock work. Certain colors are switched on at rapid intervals until the entire sign comes out in a blaze of glory and the illumination this way is repeated constantly during the evening and cannot help but attract a great deal of attention.

No doubt signs of this kind together with the boulevard lighting system cannot help but encourage the other merchants to also adorn their places of business with similar illuminated signs, and while 8th St. and River avenue are already great "white ways," we predict that in a year from now the illumination will be considerably more pronounced because of the electrical displays put on by local business men.

MOONSHINERS FLOCK BACK TO MUSKEGON

COLD ROUTS THEM OUT FROM THE WOODS AND SAND DUNES

Because of the cold weather, the moonshiners are returning to Muskegon in great numbers these days from their hiding places along the lakes and in the jackpines.

Moonshining in the city is considered dangerous because neighbors constantly tipping off the officers. So the moonshiners, following the Kentucky customs, leave for the woods in great numbers in the spring to remain until cold weather drives them back in the winter. Among the sand dunes and in the tall timber they find safety.

More than a dozen abandoned stills have been found by Muskegon officers in the last few weeks, they having been reported by hunters.

Mash will not ferment in the cold weather, when in the open, moonshiners say, and so it is impossible to continue operations out in the woods. Some of the moonshiners are said to have erected shacks, however, so that operations can be continued during the winter.

PART-TIME SCHOOL IS ESTABLISHED IN HOLLAND

EMPLOYED YOUNG PEOPLE BETWEEN 15 AND 17 MUST ATTEND 8 HOURS A WEEK

More than a hundred young people in Holland between the ages of 15 and 17 will have to go to school eight hours a week after this even though they had long since quit school and gone to work. They can keep on with their jobs, but they must be in their class rooms during the specified eight hours, and it is announced that the law is just as strict about attendance as it is about attendance of other children.

The Part-time school law was passed by the last legislature. It specifies that every city of 5,000 or over having fifty or more unmarried persons between the ages of 15 and 17 who are employed shall establish such a school, and Holland is just now in the process of organizing one. There are more than one hundred such pupils in Holland and the class, when it gets down to actual lessons, will be a large one. Mr. Bernard Young, of Grand Rapids, has been engaged as the teacher and he is now busy getting the school in shape. He has been interviewing parents and employers with a view of making arrangements for having the young men and women report when the school opens. The eight hours must be taken out of the regular hours of employment. In other words, it will not be a night school.

When the school has been established no children under seventeen can be employed by anybody without a permit from the superintendent of schools. Such a permit has until now been required for children under 15, but the Part-time school law raised the age limit to seventeen.

It is expected that the new school will be in full operation in a week or two. It takes a great deal of work to get such a new system started, and parents and employers are requested to co-operate with the school authorities to make things run smoothly. The school is established under state law and the school authorities are required to establish it.

NEW JAY WALKER PUZZLES AUTOIST

W. C. Pinkerton of Grand Rapids, was so puzzled over the refusal of a pedestrian, hit by his automobile, to give him his name or hold Pinkerton responsible for the accident that he reported the matter to the police.

While driving his machine through a busy thoroughfare, Pinkerton says he hit the stranger, whose hand was severely cut and who may have received other injuries.

"I am at fault," insisted Pinkerton, it is said.

"No, the fault is mine," was the stranger's contention.

"I didn't understand his attitude, so I thought I'd report to you," Mr. Pinkerton told a clerk at police headquarters.

WRESTLING MATCH AT ZEELAND GOES ONE HOUR TO A DRAW

SEIKMAN IS ALMOST DOWNED BY GRAPPLER CY IN FIRST MINUTE OF BOUT

Several American Legion boys from Holland attended the Legion wrestling match at Zeeland last evening between Grappler Cy and Seikman, both of Zeeland.

In the first minute of the bout Cy with a powerful head scissors hold nearly succeeded in pinning his opponent to the mat.

The match went three rounds of twenty minutes each when Referee Vis called the fight a draw.

In the second round Seikman had the best of it with a body scissors hold which made the Young Grappler groan. The hold was broken how ever just as the referee called time.

The third round was rather tame except for a sensational ending when Seikman caught the Grappler with a severe body hold and succeeded in putting his weight upon the Grapplers chest.

It looked like a close finish, but the young Zeeland lad succeeded in lifting the entire load off the mat, allowing the referee to pass his hand underneath the Grapplers shoulders proving that a fall had not taken place.

The so-called bridge position was held until the third round and the bout was ended.

After the bout Grappler Cy challenged Frank Fabio, a former Holland wrestler to a match, also challenging any man in Ottawa county of 160 pounds.

The Holland City News comes out today because of Thanksgiving in order that the city and rural readers may receive their News before Thanksgiving. A wonderful mystery story is started in this issue written by Opie Read. The story is laid in Louisiana and the hero comes from the north. Those who have visited New Orleans lately or who have read the items during the trip of the American Legion band will be especially interested in this story. The News starts off with an installment of seven columns which will make good Thanksgiving reading.

PERCH ARE STILL BEING CAUGHT IN BLACK LAKE

Although December is almost here, perch continue to bite in Black Lake and a number of hardy fishermen who dare to brave the cold are still catching them. Most of them are of good size and some fine meshes of fish are being caught.

Most of those who are in the habit of indulging in this sport, however, have been scared away by the weather, but those few who still go out after fish are catching them.

SAYS CONVICTS NEVER WERE NEAR FENNIVILLE

One of the four escaped convict from Lima, whose supposed presence in this vicinity caused such a stir and gathering of the hardy clans of warlike newspapers photographers and word painters, has been returned to his cell by his brother whom he went to visit in Toledo. The prisoner says they were never nearer this place than Grand Rapids where they separated, the other three making for the upper peninsula. This would seem to show an inhuman disregard for the feelings of the pious posses who boldly besieged hill and swamp. "But deep perchance, the villain lied," says a stick Commercial-Record.

TALK ABOUT CIDER—LOOK AT THIS

The cider mill of Steffen Co. has just closed a busy season at Fennville. The firm made 347,000 gallons of cider, or a little over 11,000 barrels. The company put up 117 barrels of dill pickles, 110 barrels of salt pickles and about 22,000 pounds of No. 1 salt pickles. That's a fine run and it has meant the consumption of a quantity of apples that would have been largely wasted had it not been for this plant.—Fennville Herald.

WOMEN ARE FUNNY—THINKS DELIVERY MAN

Carl O'Dell, delivery man for De Kraker & De Koster, left his Lizzie while delivering meat to a house in the West end breathing normally, but when he returned the young lady had capriciously taken it into her head to vomit. She had continued the journey on her own account and had landed in a ditch. And all the honeyed words that Carl could think of were of no avail to persuade her to come out of her uncomfortable position, and finally the services of another Lizzie were needed to put her back on the road. "Women are funny," was Carl's comment.

FENNIVILLE'S NEW PAVED STREET IS A MIRE

Some provision should be made for cleaning the pavement, especially the gutters. A few merchants keep it fairly clean in front of their places of business while others give it no attention. In many places on Main street, the mud and filth is as thick and bad as before the street was paved. This to some extent, defeats the purpose for which we spent our money and should be corrected.—Fennville Herald.

SAUGATUCK BANK ISSUES A ROAD MAP AS A CALENDAR

The 1923 calendar issued by the Fruit Growers State bank at Saugatuck, is in a class by itself, and probably the most useful and interesting ever issued in Allegan county. It is a road map of the county in colors, showing also connecting and extending lines in adjoining counties. The map is drawn on a scale of three miles to the inch, distinguishing state trunk lines, county roads and secondary roads, improved and unimproved. It is strictly up to date, even leaning a shade to the future, as it shows route 89 in the condition it is expected to be when work now in progress shall have been completed. The calendar itself also is arranged for the utmost utility, each monthly leaf carrying a complete calendar for the year in smaller figures. As a publicity medium it is vastly superior to the art calendars which have had such vogue and it is a most valuable advertisement for Allegan county as well.

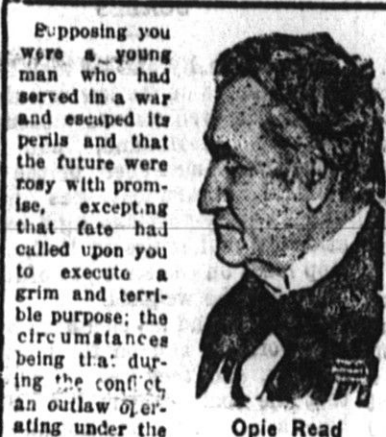

WOMAN JUROR DRAWN ON ALLEGAN COUNTY LIST

The name of one woman appears on the list of jurors for the December term of court drawn Thursday. She is Mrs. Ella Hacker, of Leighton and will appear on the second day of the December term with the other 25 on the list.

The list follows: Herman Vaupell, Allegan city; August Norkey, Allegan township; Luther Latchaw, Casco; Japheth Hartley, Cheshire; Clifford Morse, Clyde; Wm. Gray, Dorris; Henricus Nyhof, Fillmore; Alva Hoover, aGnges; Charles F. Richards Gunlain; George H. Bloss, Heath; Dan Requa, Hopkins; Edward Nyland Laketown; William Schaffer, Lee; Mrs. Ella Hacker, Leighton; J. H. J. Slenk, Manlius; Frank Hall, Martin; Bert Langshaw, Monterey; William Gren, Otsego city; Milan Elank, Otsego township; Harry A. Lampen, Overisel; Isaac Bond, Salem; William C. McVee, Saugatuck; Alex. Hadden, Trowbridge; Eke Smith, Valley; Harold Wise, Watson and Wilbert A. Crocker, Wayland.

Statistics compiled from the alumni of Western Theological seminary show that only three members of the first seven classes are living and that four of these classes are extinct. The total enrollment in the seven classes was 24. The pioneer class of 1869 numbers one survivor, Rev. Peter Moordyk, who now has the distinction of being the oldest alumnus of the institution. Rev. James DePree of Sioux Center, Ia., is the one survivor of the class of 1870 and the class of 1874 has a lone representative in Rev. John Hoffman of this city.

Opie Read

Supposing you were a young man who had served in a war and escaped its perils and that the future was rosy with promise, excepting that fate had called upon you to execute a grim and terrible purpose; the circumstances being that during the conflict, an outlaw operating under the semi-sanction of guerrilla warfare had raided your home and murdered your father, and then, hanging his body to a tree, had insolently pinned a card to it bearing the outlaw's name! Would not you likely do as Virgil Drace did—swear a solemn vow to find that outlaw, hang him as high as Haman, and decorate his corpse with your own card? Then, while you were setting about to execute that vow, suppose you met a fascinating girl with whom you fell in love and had the satisfaction of finding your affection sincerely reciprocated. Then suppose it developed that the girl was the daughter of the man upon whom you had sworn to wreak vengeance. What would you do? Is it not a satisfactory web upon which to weave an intensely interesting story of romance, especially when the incidents occurred in the South following the Civil war, the young man a northern officer, the girl a beautiful, fiery southerner, and all the other characters and episodes of the South and that turbulent period which marked the days of reconstruction? Would it not be more absorbing if, as in this case, the author were one of the greatest of American novelists? You will find this stirring romance worked out in the most charming way in "Periwinkle House," by Opie Read.

No man in the United States has written as many stories as Opie Read. He has had a larger number of readers. He was born in a small town in Tennessee in 1852, followed newspaper work for awhile in Kentucky, and then moved to Little Rock, Ark., where he edited the Arkansas Gazette from 1873 to 1881. He was next on the staff of the Cleveland (O.) Leader and then returned to Little Rock, where he established the Arkansas Traveler, a humorous paper which attracted the attention of the entire English-speaking world. Mr. Read furnished most of the material that went into the publication. He conducted it from 1883 to 1891 and then moved to Chicago, where he has since resided, engaged in literary work. It is doubtful if Opie Read himself could recall the titles of all the books he has written, without referring to a list. One or more of them is in nearly every home where fiction is indulged in throughout the land. They form a conspicuous part of the fiction sections of every public library, and are carried in stock by every enterprising book dealer. During late years he has been less prolific, due to the fact that he has not had the leisure for writing, for he has become one of the most sought after lecturers, and his time is practically filled with Chautauque, Lyceum and special platform engagements. In this work he has covered practically the entire nation and has visited some sections several times, for there always is a demand for his return.

CHAPTER I

Out upon the sheen of the mighty river the pine-torch flames fell in rippling streams, and the full moon, peeping over the tall timber, made mouths at herself in the wrinkled mirror of flood. On the steamboat Leona the negro deck-hands were chanting the buoyant anthem of the June rise. In the gilt, enameled saloon, a sweet-stringed waltz, centuries removed from the melodic bellow of the black bucks below, swelled out upon a breeze that seemed eager to mingle with it, while sentiment smiled and gallantry bowed in the studied graces of a floating ballroom on the Mississippi. All ceremony was precise with the inherited observance of precedent, save when some half-greased and less refined dandy of the woods, having lingered too long at the bar, let liquor fly to his heels to cut a rebellious pigeon-wing.

The boundless ranch of the West was unknown, and along the lower Mississippi lay the great plantations of America. Except for the toil of the slaves, industrial life had been only a sort of happy indolence; but society held many a thrilling charm, and with its libraries from Europe, intellectual life indulged the luxury of ceremonious romanticism. This atmosphere was still breathed on the big Mississippi steamboats, for fantasies which render poetic the condition of us all linger on the water after having been driven from the land.

In the ballroom of the Leona the dress of the men and the women was variegated with the odd ends of different periods of style. Old chests, hidden during the Civil war, only a few years past, had been opened to give up the faintly scented fluffs and gourd-flowered vests of Andrew Jackson's day; and the brigadier in ruffled shirt poured gallantry's extravagant figures of speech upon the graceful young dame arrayed in the silk that had adorned the form of her grandmother when in the village of Washington she waltzed with Lafayette. During a lull in the music-measured capering a tall, handsome young man, garbed in the fashion of the day, passed with long and careless strides from one end of the saloon and out toward the upper deck.

Admiring eyes were bent upon him; and one lady turned to her partner and said:

"Oh, please, Colonel, tell me who he is."

The Colonel placed his right hand on the bosom of his ruffled shirt and bowed. "Miss Lucy," he said, "it would be one of the satisfactions of my life to gratify your more than natural curiosity, but that pleasure is denied me. I can't tell you who he is."

And then—because the Colonel had sighed his own sentimental distress in the presence of Miss Lucy and because her curiosity concerning the young stranger stirred a jealous qualm—he added: "He looks like a Yankee to me."

The young man was a Yankee. And because he was journeying to the South upon a grim and terrible mission, the gayeties of the ballroom had grated upon him and he had sought the solitude of the upper deck. Yet it was this moment that Fate chose to bring him face to face with one who was to change the whole course of his life.

For as he turned into a long passageway, aflame with light but deserted, there suddenly entered at the far end a girl thrilling in liteness and almost barbaric in dress. In swift unconsciousness of him she approached, a great handful of roses in red glare hiding her features. She lowered her hand; he caught full view of her face; and it seemed to him that his heart ceased to beat, like a pendulum caught and halted, then thrown again into motion. She did not look at him as he slowly passed her. He gazed into her eyes as she bent them upon the roses held out in front of her; and then he wheeled about to follow her. She turned into a cross-passage, was gone; he ran to the entrance, but she had vanished.

In the young man's heart was a struggle to call her, but there was no appropriate word; and then sobered, the Yankee smiled at himself. But the smile did not banish his delicious wounds, and he continued his search into the ballroom. There were many handsome women, belles of proud villages, but to none did he give a second glance. Again he passed out toward the upper deck.

For a time he stood gazing down upon the never-solved mystery of night on the Mississippi. The fiddles were going again, and he heard slippers feet whispering over the floor, but it seemed to him that this scene of gaiety was forced, like a melancholy laugh; it reminded him of a book of poems in tatters, of a love-letter in faded ink.

Built about one of the smokestacks was a shanty of boards called the "dog house." Turning a corner of the shanty, the young man stumbled against some one; a man growled in resentment.

"I beg your pardon!" "I should say you do!" A young fellow of unusual height and of humorous slowness came forth out of the shadow. The boat was landing, and a turpentine-torch on the shore revealed him, pale and long of face, with collar cut low and chin standing high.

"Yes, sir," he added, "and although it may not be necessary on this occasion, yet if you knew who I am, you would apologize some more."

"Ah, you don't say!" replied the Yankee, smiling. "And as you seem to be fond of the music of apology, will you please tell me who you are?"

"I can do that easy enough, but I don't wish to frighten you."

"You are considerate. But the fact is I rather enjoy the sensation of fright."

"Then tremble: I am Liberty Shottle."

"What, you don't mean that you are really Liberty Shottle?"

"I swear it."

"Well, well! And now will you please enlighten me as to who Liberty Shottle is? And why do you suppose that people who have heard of you, tremble in your presence? What have you done?"

"Sir, modesty puts a clamp on me. . . . And now would you mind telling me your name?"

"Not at all. My name is Virgil Drace."

"You don't say? Well, well! But I never heard of you, either." Now they laughed, the joyous and unsuspecting mirth of youth. They stood looking down upon the deck-hands, loading freight, listening to the stream of the second mate's profanity, who swore his emotion by the stars, the moon, the river, the universe; and when the Leona was on her way again, the fiddles going, the muddy roustabouts singing, Liberty Shottle and Drace seated themselves on campstools, eagerly toward swift acquaintance, the friendship of two natures far apart in aim and principle.

"If you've got two cigars, I'll join you in a smoke," said Shottle. "Thank you. You see, my people, what few of them are left, say that I don't exist. They haven't cast me off, or anything of that sort, but being of staid habits themselves, they swear that I am too unreal to exist. Lord, what is the world but queer? What's your game?"

"I haven't any—any game," parried the Northerner. "But what are you doing on this boat yourself?"

"I'm going down to New Orleans," replied Liberty, "to see how long I can stay there. I had a pretty fair job a couple of months ago teaching a school near Memphis. They liked me, too. I've got a sheep's hide from Chapel Hill university, North Carolina, with all the wool singed off and the board acknowledged my qualifications, but they caught me shaking dice with the boys and told me that as there were some branches of learning they didn't care to have instilled, I'd better get a professorship in some higher institution. Have you been in there?"

Liberty Shottle waved his hand; and Drace, thinking he meant the ballroom, answered him:

"Only passed through. I've been rather worn with that sort of thing."

"Oh, you think I meant the ball! I meant the poker-room."

"Yes, I sat in there for a time."

"How did you come out?"

"Not very well. Lost two hundred."

"You speak of losing two hundred as lightly as if it were a matter of breath instead of blood. Would you mind holding my hand till you say it again? Two hundred! Why, you know, a fellow would teach bullet heads and slates for two months for two hundred dollars. . . . Now, let me lay down a proposition: I am lucky tonight. I lost fifteen dollars, all I had, but I'd just got up to the point of winning when I lost my last dollar. Just one more ante, and it would have come my way. I saw it coming, but a blundering fool headed it off. Now, here's my scheme, and it's a good one; you want your two hundred back; you stake me to a hundred, and I'll go in there and make a cleaning. Don't refuse, now, until you have let your mind digest the situation. Most of the errors in this life come from snap judgment."

"Ah, you think you can win, because you lost?"

"My dear Virgil, there is, you might say, a psychology in everything. Who wins a fight? The man who believes he can't? No, the man who knows he can. And I know right now. Why, I'd stake my life on it. You give me the hundred and stay right here and wait. As for my honesty, I can give you references—the mayor of New Orleans and Judge Hebbins of Memphis—but he died last week. No matter—I'd jump into the river and let the paddle-wheel beat me into sausage meat before I'd deceive you. Liberty Shottle, that's my name!"

Drace leaned back and laughed. "Liberty, a thing astonishing to me is going to happen. I'll stake you to the hundred."

No superstitious devotees ever received from the priest of the gods a libation with more of emotional strain than Liberty Shottle evinced when he closed in tight clutch on Drace's adventurous hundred. Then he bowed and disappeared.

Drace sat musing, and soon he began to wonder why he had been so weak as to give $100 to this peculiar fellow, a stranger. Well, Liberty had amused him. Made him laugh, and in this world there is more money spent for the promotion of laughter than for the relief of tears.

Presently Shottle returned. He sat down and though physically he was light, the camp stool groaned beneath him. Drace waited. The Leona blew her great horn and all the world

Rheumatism Makes an Invalid in Arms
Health Talk No. 35
By JOHN DE JONGE, D. C.
When rheumatism attacks a child it makes a temporary invalid in arms of its victim, and may result in a deformity lasting a lifetime. Rheumatism is an acid poisoning of the body due to under elimination of wastes and poisons through the kidneys and bowels.

When kidneys and bowels fail to function normally for any period of time long enough to result in rheumatism, the cause is found in the spinal condition. Due to displacement of spinal bones causing pressure on spinal nerves to liver and kidneys there is weakened functioning, and the poisons gradually accumulate. By chiropractic spinal adjustments the nerve lines are freed and the kidneys and bowels are restored to normal vigor. The poisons gradually clear from the system and health returns. There is nothing that will remove the cause like chiropractic.

WELL IN A WEEK
"On Sunday night our son, Bobby, was feeling badly. Monday his legs were swollen and he could not walk. We carried him downstairs and called a doctor who said it was rheumatism. He called another in on Tuesday and both agreed it was rheumatism. This was on Wednesday and on Thursday we called the chiropractor. On Friday the boy could move his feet and on Saturday he ventured out to play with other children."—Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Phillips, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1397N.

seemed to tremble. When the sound had died, echoing miles away, the gambler coughed lightly and groaned. Drace wondered why he should be tickled over any one's misfortune, but he felt a merry tingling in his blood. "This boat's got a good bass voice," he remarked.

"Bass voice! Do you know what I'd like to do? I'd like to bore a ten-inch hole in her bottom and let her go down."

"You must have lost, Liberty." "Don't call me Liberty. Call me Lib—just Lib; that's enough. But let me tell you something. Never in all my life have I ever come as near being a rich man as I was just now. I had won—by George, I had so much money stacked up in front of me that a mulatto from the North called me 'master.' And then a cog slipped. We could have split and had a small fortune apiece."

"Blundering fool again?" Drace inquired.

"Yes, sir, and I was the fool. I wanted to be a rich man—and came within one of it. You know, sometimes Fortune hesitates as to whether she shall crown you or slap you."

"In your case, she didn't seem to hesitate long, Lib."

"No the hair-tangled hag! And then do you know what she did just as I was forced to get up from the table in as hot a fever as ever scorched a man's blood? She smiled at me. Now, I'll swear to that. But it's all over. A fellow has his little day, and then stretches out and lets the undertaker measure him."

"Yes, Lib, and I'd advise him to bring along extra tape when he comes after you."

Shottle attempted to smile, but the fever within him was still so hot that his effort ended in a grim tightening of the mouth.

"That's all right, Virgil, but you must remember that you are one out of a million. How a fellow can lose $200 at poker and get up from the table with money still in his pocket is beyond me. However, it means that you haven't got poker in your blood, which of itself is a marvel. But I want to tell you that every man is food for some sort of desperate passion. If it isn't gambling, it may be love. How about that?"

"Hasn't caught me yet," answered Drace, stoutly, even though the picture of the girl in the passageway was at the moment floating bright before his mind's eye. "Of course," he added, "I may marry, Liberty; that sort of thing runs in our family, you know. But I don't think the subject very interesting."

"I grant you. In this we walk shoulder to shoulder. But there is something of vital interest. Just now—I lost."

"Yes, and a very natural thing," Drace agreed.

"No, it wasn't natural. It was unnatural that I should lose just at that time. It was an accident. Listen to me for just a minute. Anybody can do the natural and expected thing. A dog or a cat or any other animal always does. It is doing the thing that nature didn't intend that marks the progress of civilization. Now, I have a proposition to make that may seem unnatural. Perhaps no man you ever met before would make it. But you never met such a man as I am, before. You couldn't look forward and see me. Could you?"

"I didn't," Drace cheerfully admitted.

"And it would have been hard for you to believe that I exist, which I don't, according to the belief of some of my folks. Now, then, what are we getting at? Another stake? No, I am not going to ask you to risk any more of your money. But this is my proposition: You let me have $100; if I win, I'll pay back all I owe. And if I don't, I'll belong to you—your property, body and soul—but with this understanding, I am not to perform any mental service in public. And it is further understood and agreed upon that if by any chance I can raise $100, I am to have the privilege of buying my freedom. The first $100, you understand, was a stake and not a loan. Before you decide, weigh the advantages of owning a man. I will be your Greek, your enslaved philosopher, be your Epictetus and turn your mill. We will revive the ethics of ancient society. Won't that prove that history really does repeat itself?"

"Yes," answered Drace, "but I don't care any more whether history repeats herself than I do that a stammering man repeats himself."

"Now my dear friend soon to be my master, I hope—I ask you; isn't it something to own a companionable slave?"

"Yes. By the way, do you know New Orleans very well?"

"What! Does a bloodhound know the scent of a dork?"

"All right, Lib—here's $100. And I believe that within an hour from now you'll be my property."

CHAPTER II

Drace sat musing over the strange creature who had just left him, but soon his mind flowed down another channel, far different from a whim or an amusement—his mission in the South, secret, grim and desperate. But life on a river steamer in that day left little time for brooding for, a few moments after Shottle left to risk his liberty and Drace's hundred, a roustabout thrust his head in at the door and announced that down on the deck there was to be a throwing and tying match. The big fireman of the Leona was about to encounter Vicksburg Joe for the championship of the River.

In an instant Drace was on his feet. All his instincts keen and ready to jump. He was something of a boxer and wrestler, but he had not been taught in this peculiar art of tying an adversary once one has thrown him. And there was that in his mind which made the acquisition of this knowledge seem to him desirable indeed.

As he joined a group of men making their way below, he overheard the Colonel, Miss Lucy's admirer, explaining the gentle pastime. "Tying a man once you have thrown him," the Colonel was saying, "is the climax of prowess. I saw Cal Blodgett throw and tie Nick Pavin at a barbecue at Mount Zion campground, and I have cause to remember it, for the young lady I went with deserted me for the hero, sir—actually stuck flowers into his hair. Here we are."

Two enormous fellows were struggling, while nearby lay a convenient rope. Finally Vicksburg Joe tied the fireman, and he lay helpless, unable to get up.

"I will give you five dollars if you can throw me and tie me that way," called Drace to the victor when the excitement had a little subsided.

Joe looked at Drace a moment. The young man looked powerful enough to be dangerous, but—five dollars was five dollars. He smiled, bowed, spread out the wrinkled rug and took Drace by the hand to lead him forth. To the astonishment of all, Drace threw Master Joe; but he could not tie the champion.

"Show me how it's done," said Virgil, "and I'll give you the money."

For a long time, and until the Colonel and Shottle were worn out with waiting, the two struggled; and so apt was the student that he succeeded finally in turning the master over and tying him. But it seemed that the burly champion was too willing, and Drace insisted on another fall. And now, though the struggle was genuine on Joe's part, Drace tied him. Still more, another five promised, and Virgil was willing to quit.

"Finest sport I ever had!" he said as he turned away to the upper deck again to avoid the questions and congratulations showered upon him.

Drace was musing—not, it must be confessed, upon the serious purposes which had brought him to the South, but upon that girl of the red roses—when Shottle appeared again. Liberty stood in his presence, not with a droop but straight in the manly resolution to discharge the duties an adverse fate had thrust upon him. In the belief that it would make him look more like a slave, he now wore his coat turned wrong side out.

"Master, I salute you," he remarked.

"All right," said Drace. "But turn your coat. I want my slave, the grumbler of my mill, to appear respectfully clad. You may sit down."

"I thank you, sir."

"You didn't last long."

"No, master. The tangled-haired hag kicked me sidewise, like a cow. In only two pots! But what can you expect of a man that has an ace-full beaten? How long can a man preserve his freedom at that rate? And a fellow with a spindle chin and a nose no bigger than the average wart bout me with four jacks. Crushed me! And he would have crushed Julius Caesar just the same. Well, after all, freedom has many responsibilities. As a slave I'll cultivate what virtues I can get hold of, and look toward old age and a cabin on the hillside. And now, as it is natural for every man to hide his degradation, will you permit me to call you Virgil in the presence of other people?"

"I thought you didn't believe in the natural thing! But all right; I grant your request. And now I suppose I'll give you some pocket-change. It isn't well for even a slave to be broke."

The slave's face brightened with hope. "You couldn't make it as much as five dollars, could you?"

"No, thirty cents."

Shottle took the money and sat drooping. Drace gave him a cigar, and they smoked for a time in silence. At last Shottle looked toward Drace, his face guiltless of the whimsical humor that had hitherto possessed it.

"Master," he said, "I don't want to be inquisitive, and if I'm prying into what's none of my business, I won't mind your saying so. But I want to be a faithful slave, and I can serve you best if I know what—what are my master's purposes in life. For example, was there any special reason for your learning to throw and tie that way? Is there anybody in particular I could help you to put the rope on?"

Drace made no answer for a moment, but bent a searching eye upon his new servitor. Somehow the man's soul seemed to shine transparent in his face; and through it Drace saw sincerity; moreover the longing of youth for comradeship was strong within his lonely soul and won him from reticence.

"Liberty," he said, "did you ever hear of a man named Stepho la Vitte?"

Liberty nodded. "Yes, I've heard of him; they say he's an outlaw, a smuggler."

"And worse," said Drace. "He's the man who—Liberty, give me your word, your oath, that you'll keep this a sacred secret!"

Liberty gave his word and his oath with a certain quaint dignity, and Drace went on:

"Liberty, before the war my father, Alfred Drace, was manager of a line of steamboats on the Ohio. In his employ was the creole Stepho la Vitte. After a time it came to my father's knowledge that Stepho was not only dishonest in ordinary dealings but had been guilty of piracy along the Gulf coast. And so my father dismissed Stepho from a position which the creole's dishonesty had made lucrative and valuable to him.

"Just after that," Drace went on, "the war broke out. La Vitte became a guerrilla—one of the men of Quantrell's stamp, who kept out of the army and gathered in bands and lived by rapine along the border. I was only a little boy, Liberty, when La Vitte's band of guerrillas crossed the Ohio near Cincinnati and raided the little town where we lived. But the horror of that night still burns like a flame in my brain, Liberty."

Drace stopped, drew from a breast pocket a card and handed it to Shottle. On it was written in bold black characters: "Stepho la Vitte, with the compliments of Alfred Drace's son Virgil."

Shottle read the card, then looked inquiringly at Drace:

"Liberty," the young man explained, "those guerrillas under La Vitte burned our little town and killed nearly every grown man in it. For word was brought of their coming, and the men—nearly all of them married men or old—who had not gone to the war seized weapons and went out to defend their houses."

"They were massacred almost to a man. . . . And it was not plunder alone that led them to choose our little town for outrage, Liberty, but a passion for revenge. For next morning my father was found hanging to a tree. And on his breast was pinned a card that read: 'Alfred Drace, with the compliments of Stepho la Vitte.'

Liberty looked again at the card he held in his hand, then handed it back to Drace. "I reckon I understand now, master," he said. "You are huntin' this Stepho to—"

"To hang him as high as Haman and to pin that card on his breast," declared Drace passionately. "While my mother lived, Liberty, I could do nothing. You know how women are in such matters. But—she died this spring, Liberty, after long years of grieving for the man that d-d outlaw foully murdered. Now I am free to strike for my honor and my father's memory—to carry justice to that murderer."

With an awkward gesture Liberty stretched forth a hand, caught Drace's and wrung it warmly. "You're like—like Hamlet!" he exclaimed. "I'll do my best to help you, Hamlet. Let me be your Horatio as well as your slave."

Drace returned the fervent hand-clasp. "My Horatio!" he agreed. And then, solemn again, he added: "It's a worthy cause, Liberty. It's not alone my private vengeance, but the wrongs of a whole community that the ordinary machinery of justice can never right. Why, Liberty, dozens of men were murdered by those drunken fiends; little children were trodden under the hoofs of their horses, and women—Near our house, Liberty, an old couple live in poverty. At the time of Stepho's raid their son and his young wife lived next door to them; they were well-to-do and prosperous. The day of the raid the son had received ten thousand dollars from the sale of some lands. When rumor of the raiders came, he hurriedly hid the money somewhere in the neighborhood, scribbled on a piece of paper the location of that treasure and gave it to his wife before he went out with the other men to fight. Next morning he had been shot; and the young wife had been carried off by those devils—her child with her, after the Indian custom, to keep her from suicide. No one knows what became of her. Nor has that money ever been found. Liberty, if I could find Stepho, get him in my power, I believe I could at least learn what became of that poor young woman—possibly find that paper and learn where to find the money those poor people so sorely need; for once, some years ago, a mysterious fellow was caught digging about their yard. . . . But I've talked enough, Liberty. Action! Do you know any more about La Vitte?"

"Not much," replied Liberty. "I believe he is often seen up the River, and sometimes down on the coast. He has his friends, and nearly everybody else is afraid of him. So you—we—must keep dark till we get our chance."

And you mustn't show your feelings in your face. Remember, master, you're just a young man out to see the world. H'm—here comes Colonel Josh. Suppose we talk to him. He was a mule-buyer in the war and may know something about Stepho."

The door was darkened. In came Joshua Mortimer, the man whom Miss Lucy had plied with questions concerning Drace. He had dodged in for a smoke, he said, when Shottle had introduced him to his master, and it was evident that it was his aim to impress Drace with his military bearing. He had not been actually in the army, but had acquired the title of colonel from his adventurous work of buying mules for the Confederate government. The Colonel "took it" that Drace was from the North.

"Yes, but some of my people were from the South."

"Ah! I congratulate you, sir. I have a match, thank you."

Drace had offered him a light. He filled his pipe with tobacco crumbs dug out of his breeches pocket, and, long legs crossed, sat back to enjoy himself.

"Well, sir, Mr. Drace, the war has been ended some years; and if we forget an evil as easily as a virtue, sir, it will soon be only a dim memory. I had enough of it."

"But you were not really in the army, Colonel Josh," the slave spoke up.

The Colonel pulled at his pipe, stretched his neck and appeared to fish for something down in his collar.

"Liberty, my duty was scouting and the incidental picking up of mules, as the records of the War Department will be pleased to exhibit, sir."

After a few minutes' more conversation the Colonel rose. "I will now go back to the ballroom," he declared himself. "Liberty, I came aboard tonight with your third cousin, Miss Lucy Sanders."

"That so? Come down, Marse Drace, and I'll introduce you to her."

"I think, sir, that she has retired," the Colonel was quick to interpose, realizing that he had thoughtlessly suggested an invasion of his own territory.

"Not while there is a fiddle going," said Shottle. "Come on."

Into Virgil's heart flew the hope that the slave's cousin might be the barbaric girl with the roses; there could be no mistaking her, after meeting her for in that brief gaze he had carried away a master's painting of her, etched in his mind. So he was quick to hasten below with Shottle, the Colonel panting behind them.

Miss Lucy had just left off dancing. No, she was not the thrilling barbarian, but Drace swallowed his disappointment dry, like a swamp man taking quinine. Shottle might have reflected that never before had his kinswoman been so glad to see him. On his arm she hung as she cooed, but her eyes were on Drace, and he listened, not to her words, but to the music of her accent, soft as the notes of a dove. Like a frost-bitten Shanghai, the Colonel stood first on one foot and then on the other. Drace politely asked Miss Lucy to dance with him.

"She Takes to Him Like a Duck to Water," Said the Slave, Looking After His Master and His Third Cousin.

and the Colonel dropped onto a chair. Shottle sat beside him.

"WINDMILL" YOUR WAY TO HEALTH, SAYS A PARIS DOCTOR

The "windmill" dance is the latest thing to take Paris by storm. It was advocated by Dr. Paul Lenard as the "best exercise ever invented for the development of the female figure."

The new creation is danced to slow shimmy time. The partners clutch hands and advance with a variation of the fox trot step, at the same time working the arms forward and backward alternately so as to give a circular motion to the shoulders.

The dance is very graceful when properly executed and the experts who have seen it claim that it is the first really new thing in dancing since the invention of the one step. Dr. Leonard asks "windmilling" for a half hour twice daily in preference to any other exercises.—Chicago American.

NEW COLLEGE ANNUAL TO BE B-ST YET

"All hands on deck," is the password among the Juniors of Hope college who are determined to put out a "Milestone," which can safely claim to eclipse all previous editions. The staff is busy accumulating the necessary materials, and the different departments have been successful in putting the college annual on a sure footing. An effort is being put forth to eliminate the general work as rapidly as possible, after which the class will devote time to carrying out a program of improvements. The features of the book have not yet been disclosed.

The annual for one thing will have the advantage of additional photographs, including a panoramic view of the student body. Contracts have been let for the engraving to a Chicago concern, while it is yet uncertain where the book will be printed.

Consideration of the dedication of the volume is a present concern of the class. In view of the service rendered the institution, several nominations have been presented, and the entire student body is eagerly awaiting the discussion of the class. It is one of the highest honors that can be tendered by the students.

Besides this the book will be a credit to the institution and will contain the roll of the largest graduating class in the history of the college. The class-roll reaches the 66 mark as compared with a membership of 56 of the graduating class of 1922.

Harold Damstra of this city, is the editor of the "Milestone," and he reports that the work of the staff is progressing rapidly.

Mme. Schumann Heink, world's renowned contralto is coming to Gr. Rapids on Friday evening, December 8, at the armory to give a concert under the auspices of the Mary Free Bed Guild. Many music lovers from Holland have already secured tickets for this event.

A mass meeting of the men of the Reformed churches of Holland is called to meet in the Third Reformed church next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The call is issued by the pastors of the churches. Mr. G. Dosker of Grand Rapids will be the chief speaker.

Capt. G. F. Lofberg, superintendent of the tenth coast guard district has returned from a 30-day hunting trip in the Lake Superior region. The captain brought back a fine buck as a trophy of his hunt.

John F. Van Anrooy is the first Grand Haven man to receive one of the new Dodge Business sedans arriving Thursday at the C. E. Smith garage, having driven overland from Detroit—Grand Haven Tribune.

Wm. Bilz of Spring Lake, chairman of the Republican county committee, J. Van Anrooy, sec'y., Capt. Olson, treasurer of Grand Haven, met with the executive committee consisting of Thomas N. Robinson, Arthur Van Duren, B. A. Mulder of Holland and Isaac Van Dyke of Zeeland. The meeting was called for the purpose of auditing and allowing the bills contracted during the last campaign. No other business was transacted. Under the new law the work of the committee is practically completed. The law provides that the county candidates nominated are to select their own county committee, while formerly these were chosen by the county convention. As the next batch of republican candidates are not nominated until Sept. 1924, the selecting of a new committee will not occur until after the primaries at that time. The work of the old committee was no doubt finished after the bills were allowed as there will be no campaign until 1924, in time for a new committee to take charge.

The Daughters of the King, S. S. class of the 9th St. Chr. Ref. church held their Thanksgiving meeting on Friday evening at the home of Miss Sena Alofs, 25 E. 21st street. The business being adjourned, those present were favored with a vocal solo, by Miss Bertha Vos, and a reading by Miss Martha Cook. Refreshments were served by the hostess, and after the singing of several songs, the twenty or more young ladies wended their way homeward.

Negotiations have been at last consummated by the Ottawa County Road commission for strips of property necessary for re-routing the Grand Rapids-Grand Haven highway near Marne. The cost for the property will not exceed three thousand dollars and includes purchases from ten property owners. The largest amount of land which had to be taken was two and one-half acres. The property thus acquired will be the right of way for the road to Grand Rapids and will be paved as soon as possible. Rerouting of this road was in accordance with the road commissions' policy of cutting out railway crossings wherever this could be done.

Said a prominent merchant Saturday morning: "This is real winter and good for business. Nothing stimulates trade as much in the fall and early winter as seasonable weather, and nothing retards the sale of many lines as much as unseasonable weather conditions, for the buying public depend largely upon the weather in their purchasing of seasonable goods."

Another boulevard light standard was swept down at the corner of River avenue and 12th street Sunday morning. Cecil Huntley was endeavoring to get out of the way of an oncoming car driven by Mr. Mac Connell and owing to the slippery condition of the highway, the car skidded into the lamp post. The impact was so terrific that the cement foundation upon which the standard was bolted was pulled out of the ground. The running board of Huntley car was completely torn off and other damage was sustained.

FRANKLIN CAPPON MAKES GOOD IN HIS LAST GAME

Franklin Cappon of Holland will go down in Michigan history as one of the greatest football players in the United States, ranking with Hammond and Heston, who are pointed to as the greatest football stars of all time.

This is "Cappy's" last year and Saturday was his last game, and from all reports the work of Mr. Cappon stood out as never before.

The game between Yost's unbeatable eleven and Minnesota stood 16 to 7 in favor of Michigan, Minnesota scoring first.

All through the game fullback Cappon got in his deadly plunges but while he failed to gain more than five rods against the Wisconsin team last week Saturday, he whanged in to those big Gophers for good distances time after time.

According to the Herald Cappon's great line plunging was one of the outstanding features of the game. Ten of Yost's football stars including Cappon have finished their football career this year, and Coach Yost will face a hard task in building up a team for 1923.

Goebel and Kirk, are also lost to Yost along with Cappon.

Of the ten men who wore the Maize and Blue colors for the last time against Minnesota, only three ended the season as regulars. But Captain Goebel, Bernie Kirk and Franklin Cappon represent three of the strongest parts of the Wolverine machine.

And two others, Douglas Roby of Holland and Eddie Johns, would probably have started every game had it not been for unfortunate injuries in early season. These last two are vital losses to Coach Yost, felt only less keenly because their positions have already been filled.

Holland's High foot ball team was soundly trounced Saturday afternoon by the strong Union High team of Grand Rapids. Coach Truesdale surely has a wonderful team and at present it looks like the biggest contender for the state championship honor. The game was simply a case of a light inexperienced eleven bucking up against a heavy well-drilled team. Union presented a varied attack, with Fugoni, Harrigan and Quentin as stars and was able to score eight touchdowns and a field goal, while Holland obtained but 3 points. Union was equally successful in skirting ends, plunging, and passing, even using the latter means to add a point after touchdown. Holland started out with a rush, after receiving the kick-off and making a few substantial gains, Hill punted to Quentin, who tumbled, Van Raalte recovering. After two attempts at the line had failed, VanZanten dropped back to the 30 yard line, and kicking from a difficult angle he gave Holland a 3 point lead.

The lead was only for a short time, however, as Union received the kick-off and Fulgoni made 40 yards before he was stopped, Harrigan adds 30 yds. and Quentin made the remaining distance for a touch down. Union continued scoring, ringing up touchdowns in rapid order and before the half had ended they had obtained 33 points. In each of the remaining periods, Union scored two touchdowns battling hard to defeat Holland by a more decisive score than Grand Haven had been able to run up. In comparing the two teams with all due respect for Grand Haven's fine team, Union is by far the superior.

Most of Union's touchdowns were the result of long gains by Fulgoni considered by most critics as the best full-back in the state. Many times after Holland had repulsed the attacks of the other Union backs Fulgoni would be called upon and was always good for a gain. Out-weighted and out classed, but not out-fought, Holland battled hard making Union fight for every gain, and forcing them to punt on many occasions. Lordahl and Hill gained much ground through Union's line, and at one period in the game, they made three first downs in rapid order. Lordahl by his good showing earned himself a place on the Herald's All State Selection for the 2nd team. Vanden Brink also played a good game, his tackling being of a high order. Many times he stopped a Union back that had successfully eluded all other Holland tacklers. The Union game was the final for the Holland team which has enjoyed a fairly successful season.

PASSES AWAY AT THE AGE OF SEVENTY YEARS

Mrs. Ella E. Lampson, aged 70, died Sunday morning at her home at 305 West 15th street. She is survived by three sons, Walter E., of Muskegon, Edward of Adrian, and Charles of Detroit and one daughter, Mrs. Fred Sherwood, of Grandville; also by three sisters and three brothers of South Bend, Ind.

The funeral will be held Wednesday forenoon at ten o'clock at the Dykstra Funeral Home, 29 East 9th street, Rev. G. B. Fleming officiating. The body will be taken to Grand Rapids for burial in Greenwood cemetery.

LOCAL "CO-OP." HAD GOOD YEAR THE REPORTS SHOW

The Holland Co-Operative Association has had a very prosperous year and it made plans Saturday afternoon at the annual meeting for a still bigger year in 1923. The meeting was one of the largest ever held by that association, about 250 farmers from Ottawa and Allegan counties being present. The association now has a membership of 507.

Last year's business was exceeded this year by a substantial margin, both in the matter of sales and general business, and all the reports of the various officers were very favorable, showing that the association is on a firm financial basis and is now ready for a year of substantial growth. Equipment to the amount of $3000 has been added during the past year. The board has made plans for an increase in members during 1923 which they believe will be successful.

The local Co-operative association plans to go in for marketing farmers' produce the coming year on a larger scale. This is an important part of the association's service. The Michigan Produce Exchange has been organized as a branch of the Michigan Farm Bureau, and the local association will work through this exchange to open markets for the farmers of this community. Mr. Bloom, in charge of the Michigan Exchange, was present at the meeting and gave an interesting address. County Farm Agent C. P. Milham also spoke, his subject being "Co-operating and the Standardization of Crops."

Bert Van Lente and Wilbur Van Appledorn were re-elected as members of the board of directors for a term of three years, their terms of office having expired. Other members of the board are: Maurice Luidens, G. J. Deur, Henry Sagers, Peter Bauwman and Elvin Bauhahn. The officers are: Maurice Luidens, President; G. J. Deur, vice-president; Henry Sagers, secretary-treas.; H. G. Ratering, manager.

NEW PASTOR ARRIVES AT EBENEZER CHURCH

A reception was held Friday evening in the Ebenezer Reformed church in honor of the new pastor, Rev. Gerit Flikkema and family. The new pastor and family drove in from Prairie City, Ia., making the trip in three days. Rev. Flikkema will be installed next Wednesday afternoon. The services will be conducted by Prof. Thomas Weimers, and Rev. Mr. Strabbing and Rev. James Wayer will also take part. A new carpet has been put on the pulpit platform, donated by Mrs. John R. Naber before her death.

JUDGE CROSS SENTENCES ALLEGAN COUNTY OFFENDERS

Violators of the liquor law in Allegan county were given the same dose by Judge Cross as was given the Ottawa county offenders recently, some getting from six months to a year in jail. Eight offenders of the county were sentenced when brought Saturday before Judge Cross on "criminals' field day." The respondents are: Isaac Sliter, Otsego, six months to a year at Ionia; Ira Marth Dor, 90 days in jail; John Schumaker, Salem, six months to a year at Jackson; Harry Fales, Otsego, six months to a year in Ionia; Adam Rasmus, six months to two years at Jackson; Wm. Hendrixson, Otsego two to ten years at Jackson, and Jerry Butler, Allegan, one to fourteen years at Ionia. The first five were convicted of violating the prohibition laws, and Rasmus of resisting an officer. Hendrixson was accused of a statutory offense and Butler of forgery. This was the largest number ever sentenced in the Allegan county court in one day.

PECULIAR CASE SETTLED BY JUDGE CROSS

For some time Bill Byron and Simon De Groot, living side by side on Central avenue, were having trouble over 20 inches of ground 86 ft. deep.

Both claimed the 20 inches the full length of the lot and when one planted the other transplanted, and the narrow strip was a sort of no man's land in the heated dispute.

Bill finally took the proper course and had his lot surveyed by the city surveyor Jacob Zuidema, and it is said that De Groot objected to the stakes being put down.

Byron then brought suit against De Groot in circuit court and the case was tried the latter part of the week and Judge Cross decided that the land belongs to Bill Byron and not to De Groot.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO FORMER ALLEGAN MAN

In the November number of the American Magazine appears an interview with Coach Fielding Yost of Ann Arbor, headed "How to play your game," in which there is the following tribute to an Allegan young man: "I think the best all-around football player I ever knew was 'Boss' Weeks, who was quarterback on the Michigan team in 1901 and 1902. Napoleon had nothing on that boy, believe me! Weeks was not a big fellow physically, but he had the courage of a giant. As a rule the quarterback position is back of the scrimmage line, but Weeks used to say to me 'I can't stay back of the line; I must get into the thick of it.' And into the thick of it he did get. He was like a wonderful commanding general who took the brunt of actual combat alongside his men. In the two years that he was the Michigan quarterback the team made an amazing record by scoring 1,194 points, with only 12 points scored against them. 'Boss' Weeks died a few years ago; died because he 'couldn't keep out of the thick of it.' He was making a fine record with a big construction company in Washington, D. C., but he would go back too soon after an attack of diphtheria."

FARMERS VOICE THEIR SENTIMENTS ON THE SHERIFF'S ELECTION

The farmers of Allegan county are almost as much excited about the sheriff controversy as are the farmers of Ottawa. This was shown at the annual business meeting of the Holland Co-Operative association on Saturday afternoon when men from Allegan county denounced as loudly the attempt to take away the fruits of victory from Fred Kamferbeek as did the men from Ottawa. The former had no say in the election, but they insisted on having a say in expressing their opinion of the present state of things.

There were a large number of Allegan county farmers present at the meeting as well as many from Ottawa, and both of them wanted to go on record. At the suggestion of the members a committee was appointed to draft resolutions for passage at the meeting. The committee was composed of E. B. Scott, G. J. Der and Austin Fairbanks.

They drew up the following resolution: "Resolved, that it is the sense of the Holland Co-Operative association that the result of the last election as shown on the face of the ballots should be followed in regard to the election of sheriff."

While the resolution is worded in very calm terms, some of the expressions in regard to the controversy were not so calm. The farmers showed that they were very much aroused over the matter and that they wanted to have their opinion expressed. When the resolution was put to a vote it was enthusiastically passed by a unanimous vote of the 250 farmers present at the meeting. Some of the farmers declare that they would not be doing their duty as American citizens if they did not give expression to their feelings in the matter.

WERE MARRIED

AT THE HOME OF THE BRIDE

On Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. DeHaan, E. of Holland, their daughter, Henrietta became the bride of Mr. Benjamin J. Boeve. Mr. Boeve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit H. Boeve. Rev. John A. Roggen of Hamilton, a brother-in-law of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends. A very enjoyable program was rendered in the evening and many beautiful presents were received. Mr. and Mrs. Boeve will be at home to their friends after Dec. 15 at E. B. 9, Holland, Michigan.

On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Kruidhof of Vriesland, entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Boeve. Those present were: Mrs. Wm. Drost, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Drost, and son Alvin; Mrs. A. Glem, Mrs. L. Stevens and daughter Doris of Holland and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hollands of Grand Rapids.

LARGE SHIPMENT OF CLOTHES SENT TO NEAR EAST

The Red Cross Monday shipped to headquarters a large consignment of clothing for the Near East Relief. This clothing was collected by the Ladies Aid societies of Third Reformed church, the Fourth Reformed church and Hope church. The clothes were packed Saturday and Monday and they were shipped immediately, headquarters having intimated that there is need of haste so that the goods can arrive in the Near East to relieve suffering this winter. The other churches have not yet reported, but they are expected to do so soon, when another shipment will be made.

The following goods were shipped today:
For Men—Overcoats 5; small coats 17; trousers, 10; vests 14; shirts 15, Underwear 32.
For Boys—Trousers 23; jackets and coats 17.

FATAL ACCIDENT BROUGHT UP IN PROBATE COURT

A case in which Holland is interested was taken up in probate court in Kent county by Judge Higby involving Theodore Peters, son of Abraham Peters of this city.

Judge Higby authorized the acceptance of $5,500 from the father in behalf of the son, in settlement of a claim arising from the death of Anna Van Eck, 11 years, who was killed in an auto accident and injuries sustained by her two sisters, Lucille, 9, and Caroline, 6 years old, when they were struck on April 28 by an automobile driven by Mr. Peters' son. There is paid $2500 for the girls' death; $2400 for injuries to Lucille and $600 for injuries to Caroline.

It will be remembered that the son of Mr. Peters while driving the Peters car met with another driver by the name of Rockwell. The Rockwell car obscured the children from Theodore Peters and in order to avoid a collision with the Rockwell car the Peters car struck the curb and young Theodore Peters lost control of his car.

At a coroner's inquest held later young Peters was exonerated from all blame by the jury, but the final settlement for injuries sustained was a matter for the probate court.

While the accident was deplorable, Mr. and Mrs. Peters did all in their power to alleviate the sorrow and the suffering of the bereaved and injured ones.

The final hearing in probate court it is understood, settles the matter. It is stated that Mr. Peters is fully insured by a local representative of an insurance company.

Cases that have not yet come up and remain unsettled is the death of Jean Meyer 6, and the injury of another little girl whose case it is understood will come up later.

NATIVES IN INDIA SEEM TO BE FOND OF GLASS EYES

Rev. and Mrs. Bernard Hakken, who left Holland a few months ago to enter the mission service of the Reformed church in India, were the victims of native housebreakers and as a result Mrs. Hakken, formerly Miss Ella Van Putten, is minus a number of things that were valuable to her because most of them were wedding presents Rev. and Mrs. Hakken were at a mission conference in India and while there they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Dame. Their trunks had been sent on to their permanent station, but Mrs. Hakken carried clothing and other articles for her immediate needs in a traveling bag.

While the family and guests were away from home at a meeting some housebreakers entered the Dame home and took with them the bag and its contents, a sewing kit belonging to Mrs. Hakken, and her purse containing $8 in money. They also stole all the clothing and personal belongings of Mrs. Dame, as well as 50 glass eyes carried in stock by Dr. Dame for his medical work. Nothing else belonging to the men was touched, and it is supposed that the job was done by natives who were attracted by the finery of the women. The glass eyes they presumably took to serve as beads for personal adornment.

With the close of the whitefish season November 20th, Grand Haven fishermen have turned to trout fishing and are awaiting favorable weather to go out and start lifting. Two lifts have been made so far since the nets were set on and shortly after November 20. It is hoped that very soon fish will start coming in for with but two lifts made so far, none of the dealers are as well supplied with fish as they might be.

Four tugs are operating out of the Grand Haven port at present, the others being smaller and not able to stand the heavy seas which are rolling at all times. These tugs are: the Alice, owned by P. J. Fase & Sons; Bos, owned by Wm. Ver Duin; Johanna, owned by Roy and Martin O'Beck; and the Neptune, owned by Abel Abinga. These four are the largest fishing tugs in that port.

The whitefish season closed last Monday and will not reopen before Dec. 15. In spite of this large hauls of trout are expected and the fishermen expect a good season. Only a fair season was had last year.

Not over two and a half score years ago, Grand Haven was a great fishing port with a fleet of over half a dozen big tugs and a squadron of small sailing craft which plied the fishing trade. A great falling off in the number of fish caught caused many to abandon fishing and two years ago it is stated that hardly any fish were taken.

Apparently this year things are picking up and it is possible that again Grand Haven may become important as a fishing port. Many of the tugs have been fixed over in anticipation of a big season, among these the Faze tug, "Alice" which was taken to Sturgeon Bay last summer and completely rebuilt.

On or about Nov. 29, a change will be made in the Grand Haven Pierhead Range Front Light station, according to a communication from the government hydrographic office.

The luminous power of light will be increased to 12,000 candle power and will be forty-two feet above the water and will be visible 14 miles. The fog signal will be changed to an air diaphone sounding one group of two blasts every 30 seconds. The entire pier will be changed from the present one, and will be constructed of reinforced concrete steel. The machinery installed is electrically driven with gasoline auxiliary for emergency purposes. The concrete pier stands high above the water and has a front like a ship.

PIKE TO GRAND HAVEN IS NOW OPEN FOR TRAVEL

The last connecting link on the West Michigan Pike is completed and autoists going north do not have to make the detour on the Beachwood road to the tannery to the Alpena road and back on the pike.

Austin Harrington, chairman of the Ottawa County Road Commission, states that the road was opened Saturday morning and motorists can now go over it freely.

There is only a small strip of 300 feet from the Grand Haven bridge to the North Side Grovelly where only half of the road can be used, as at this narrow strip there is no chance for a detour because of the high embankments, and while the first half was laid sometime ago, traffic used the unaided half and now that the new road is hard enough to stand travel the last half laid a little over a week ago is fenced off until such a time as it will be in shape to stand the wear and tear of traffic.

This Mr. Harrington states, will be a little over a week but this fact will not inconvenience travel in the least outside of possibly a little wait on either side of the 300 feet at times when traffic is congested.

The completion of this road finishes the pike as far as Holland and Ottawa county are concerned.

The route through Holland over River avenue and 17th street to the Macatawa road was completed this fall, which makes an ideal thoroughfare.

With the recent improvement of the bad stretch of road at South Haven, Holland motorists can go from Holland to Chicago, or South Bend, Indiana, without running across a poor stretch of road anywhere. The road north too is ideal for a hundred miles at least.

HON. G. J. DIEKEMA GIVES STIRRING ADDRESS AT ALLEGAN

The Allegan Gazette give more than a column on the recent talk given by G. J. Diekema before the Commercial club at Allegan.

Says the Gazette:—"He began by picturing the conditions of European states, 'everywhere seething commotion; everywhere radicalism.' In our own country, he thought, this wave of international socialism is sweeping into our larger cities. At such a time it is doubly important to turn our attention to true Americanism."

"A true American may have been born under any flag, in any land. If his heart beats in sympathy with the principles of republican government, if he is willing to live with them and die for them, it makes no difference where he was born nor what his creed or religion. He need not even belong to the Republican party. He may be a Democrat or a Prohibitionist, or some other party man, but he should belong to some party so that he can aid in crystallizing into law the principles that agree with his belief. He may be black or white or some other color, if his heart is loyal and true. It is, indeed, an interesting problem what type of man will result from the mixture of different bloods and mingling of varied intellects in this country; but while the land is dotted with schoolhouses over which floats the American flag and from which sound the songs of liberty, while the spires of churches rise above the tops of the trees, we may be assured he will be patriotic intelligent and religious."

"The true American must love his flag better than any other flag; he can not be 'hyphenated,' and he must be a patriot. We cannot have international patriotism until we are patriotic nationalists. We sing 'My Country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty' because our land is dedicated to freedom and liberty, and the maintenance of these principles is true American patriotism."

VISSHER-BROOKS AGENCY

THANKFULNESS ALL THE YEAR.

More than a million people are thankful every day in the year, - especially in the cold weather, of course, - that their homes are made comfortable and healthful by THE HOLLAND FURNACE.

As an organization we are thankful that it is our job to help folks make their houses into homes. If all we did was to sell iron and steel in one form or another, perhaps we could not feel so enthusiastic about it, but knowing that we are actually selling Home-Comfort: why that thought fills us all with an abounding gladness.

We are especially happy just now over the fact that people have bought more HOLLAND'S in the first ten months of 1922 than we planned to make and install in the entire year. We try to be modest but after all it is only human to enjoy and be grateful for appreciation when one finds it as sincere as this.

(Attest)
ORRIS J. SLUITER, County Clerk.

In the above count it will be noticed that only the number of votes for the office of sheriff is reduced while the other candidates are receiving their full quota of votes including those from the wards and precincts in which the lead pencil ballots appear and for that reason were thrown out on the sheriff recount. The reason for this is that there was no recount asked on the other offices and consequently the vote remains the same as was given by the election inspectors of the different wards and precincts in their respective reports. Had a recount been asked on the other offices these votes would also have been thrown out, however it would have made no material difference in the result in these instances for the reason that the winning candidates had enough votes to spare even had the questionable ballots been thrown out and marked against them.

POLAR BEAR "DEN" TO BE FORMED IN HOLLAND

Efforts are being made to form a "Polar Bear Den" in Holland to which all the former members of that picturesque military organization can belong and the purpose of which will be to advance the interests of all Polar Bears throughout the U. S. Mr. Leonard De Pree has been appointed by State Secretary A. Anselmi to get the organization started in Holland, and he has been working quietly to get the men interested. Soon it is expected that things will be in shape for a meeting of the "Bears."

"The new organization will not interfere with any other military organization in the city," said Mr. De Pree. "It will not be in competition to the American Legion or any other body of men. The Polar Bears, after they have formed the new 'Den' will be as loyal members of the Legion as before. It will not make a difference in any way, because we now also think of ourselves as Polar Bears; but when the 'Den' is formed we shall be in position to make ourselves heard in the state and national organization of the Polar Bears, and we shall be entitled to membership on the state board of governors."

A minimum of ten members are needed to form a "Den." In Holland of course it is expected to secure many more than ten members, but as soon as ten of them have been banded together, the "Den" can secure a charter from the state organization. When that has been done the local "Den" can send a representative to state meetings and help to shape the state policies. The membership in the local "Den" will also automatically mean membership in the national association. Local Polar Bears who are already members of the national association will be regarded as charter members of the Holland "Den" without paying any further dues.

The next meeting of the state board of governors will be held on January 16 and it is hoped to have the local organization from Holland represented at that meeting.

CAN ENROLL ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING

Every person in Holland will be given an opportunity before the end of the Red Cross roll call on Thanksgiving day to take out a membership. The house to house canvass is about completed, but there are always houses that are missed for one reason or another, often because the people are not at home. All such persons will be given an opportunity to contribute even if they have not been seen by one of the American Legion boys.

The members of the Auxiliary of the Legion have taken it upon themselves to do this work. They will be at all the three banks in Holland on Saturday afternoon from 1 to 2 and on Saturday evening during the period that the banks are open for the purpose of giving those who have not been approached a chance to be enrolled.

GRAND HAVEN HAS A PECULIAR FOG HORN HOUSE AT HARBOR

Grand Haven Tribune—Out at the end of the Grand Haven pier where the waters of Lake Michigan are almost ceaselessly sighing along the concrete pier walls a crew of about seven or eight men working every day in order that the fog horn house and pier equipment may be ready for the winter storms.

A solid block of apparently solid concrete is reared at the extremity of the long arm of the south pier. However, this supposedly solid block which is surmounted by the familiar red fog horn house, is not solid at all. Inside is the cellar of the fog horn house which is well fitted up and which presents a concrete barrier to the storm.

Inside of the concrete block with its pointed nose and its port lights which resemble the bow of a boat, the foghorn house is well equipped. A boat room in which there will be installed a boat, a furnace, water system and lavatory are only a part of the equipment which is being installed to make the Grand Haven light house service equipment among the best on the lakes. Between the square part of the cement foundation the sharp bow there is a bulkhead and in the bow proper the coal supply for the house is stored.

A wealth of needful equipment is to be installed in the fog horn house proper and even now the huge air compressor, to be operated by electricity is in place. In the event of a hitch in the electrical supply, a big gas engine and air compressor are ready for use as an auxiliary power.

In addition to the powerful fog horn which is to be installed as a part of the pier equipment, the lights are to be converted for electricity and will be made to show greater brilliance.

A well equipped, well lighted and safe port will be the lot of Grand Haven when the work is finished. The men in charge hope to have the affair ready for use on the 25th or 26th of this month but it is a hard job, working out where the waves do the window washing and the cold blasts from the northwest chill the unsheltered.

TO BUILD NEW CURVE NEAR SCHOL- TEN'S BRIDGE

The Ottawa county road commission has approved the survey made by the state engineer to make a 300-foot curve on the turn at Scholten's bridge. This curve has ever been a very dangerous one, it being at right angles with a narrow pavement. Only last week Sunday evening two young fellows nearly lost their lives when they unexpectedly came to this turn and as a consequence hung their Studebaker Special Six over the old river bed on top of the fence. The turn will begin near the bridge, just missing the large tree east of the present pavement and will extend on the road toward the east about half way to Mr. Boone's residence. The old road running north will be left in its present location while the new curve will permit those driving on M-51 without reducing speed. The fill-in, which is 17 feet low grade at one point, will require many hundred yards of dirt which is available directly at hand. Work on the grading will begin soon in order to give the ground time to settle before concrete is poured next summer. Although no plans have been made, it is urged by motorists that the curve near Scholten's place be improved in like manner.

GAS MEN STALLED BECAUSE THEY REFUSED TO TAKE A SUBSTITUTE

Stories of automobile mishaps in which Holland men figured while going to the Michigan-Wisconsin game at Ann Arbor last Saturday continue to leak out, and the latest one concerns a gas tank that could no longer leak because there was nothing in it. A party of Holland fans passed a car Saturday morning stalled on the road between Battle Creek and Jackson, and the driver recognizing Holland men in the car stopped and offered his services.

It developed that the men in trouble were Wm. Vanden Berg, Vaudie Vanden Berg, and Ed Stephan. To have an oil man run out of gas is somehow always funny, and the wood-be rescuers had a good laugh at the expense of the stalled ones. It appears that their trouble was due to their enthusiasm for Sinclair oil and its pep qualifications. They knew they were low on gas but they had passed up a chance to get another brand of gas, hoping to get to a station before the tank would be empty. But they had to use another brand after all—lugged by Vaudie in a can from a service station some distance off.

ZEELAND MAN ATTENDS WORLD CONVENTION

A World's League against alcoholism is to be held at Toronto, Canada, November 24th to 29th inclusive. A. LaHuis of Zeeland, was commissioned by Gov. FORWARD MOVEMENT CLUB BACKS MAYOR IN ELECTION FIGHT

The Forward Movement club at its regular meeting held Monday evening, voted unanimously to go on record as backing the mayor and the council in their fight to uphold the will of the people as expressed in our recent election for Sheriff of Ottawa county.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted: Whereas, we believe that the county canvassers have tried faithfully to do their duty, according to the election laws of the state, irrespectively of the outcome, as far as the candidates or the wrath of the disfranchised voters were concerned.

Therefore, Resolved, that we hereby express our disapproval of their action in setting aside the plainly expressed intent of the voter.

That, believing in the Golden Rule and a square deal for everyone, we emphatically denounce the action of our present Sheriff, Delbert Fortney, in trying to retain the office for another two years, against the plainly expressed will of the people—simply because of a technical error, committed by a few election inspectors, who were negligent in their duty in properly initialing the ballots.

Therefore resolved that we urge Mr. Fortney to take the noble stand of declining the office, because the recount showed plainly that there had been no attempt to defraud; and then to leave it to the proper authorities to appoint Mr. Fred Kamferbeek, the choice of the people, as sheriff.

Further, Be it Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes, and copies sent to Mayor Stephan, Mr. Kamferbeek, Mr. Fortney and to the city papers daily and weekly, for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
H. Vander Warf, President.
J. S. Brower, Sec'y.

JOHNSON WINS FOURTH GAME IN TOURNAMENT

By defeating Bert Colton Thursday night Earl Johnson has now won four straight games in the pocket billiard tournament which is being held at Post's Billiard academy.

This was a very exciting game and both men were out to win and played a real game. Some fine prizes are being offered for the winners of the games and are on display in the window of the Academy. The next game will be played on Tuesday night when Earl Johnson plays George Bontekoe. Games start at 7:30 p. m. sharp, and every one is welcome.

SEVENTEEN OTTAWA CO. FOLKS APPEAR FOR CITIZENSHIP

In Grand Haven in the circuit court room at the court house 14 aliens were admitted to U. S. citizenship. Three failed to gain admission who were on the list. One of these was absent while another was refused admission on the grounds of dodging military service during the war and a third was unfortunate in having relied on a witness who was not a citizen.

Six of those who were admitted were from Grand Haven, four from Holland, two each from Hudsonville, and Coopersville.

The names of those from Grand Haven who are now entitled to the many benefits and duties of American citizenship are as follows: Arthur Fisher, Frank Gryzb, Frank Kindellous, Josef Zura, Albert Schinkas and Fred W. Quade. Holland has enrolled the following as American citizens, Gerrit Riphagen, Herman Weyschede, Harm Knoll and Claus Volkema. From Hudsonville, there were two, Isaac Zurykhuisen and Nick Steenryk. Joseph Smith and Joe Kasarka were the two from Coopersville.

John Peddimores of Holland was denied admission to citizenship because he had claimed exemption from the military service of the U. S. in the World War on the ground of being an alien.

Anna F. Kuite of Zeeland was denied admission because of the fact that one of her witnesses was not a citizen of this country. Samuel Dickman of Nunica had moved.

Nine of those who applied for admission to citizenship were from the Netherlands. These were, Fischer, Stenryk, Kuite, Riphagen, Wey-schede, Knoll, Volkema and Zurykhuisen. From Austria there were five Kindellous, Zura, Smith, Kasarka and Schinkas. Gryzb is from Poland, Dickman from Russia and Quade is from Germany.

Up to Friday the sum of $778.50 had been turned in to Mrs. G. J. Van Duren by those who have been making the canvass for the Red Cross in Holland. No reports have come from outside of the city as yet, and several more canvassers in the city also still have to report. This is the third report given, the first being for $190, the second for $226, and the third for $362.50. Today's report was as follows:

Mike Schoon	$11.00
Mart Kameraad	50.50
Charlie Vos	18.00
John Emmick	28.00
Al Van Lente	22.00
Marinus De Fouw	10.00
Edward Cook, Hol. Furnace	223.00
Total	$362.50

HOPE COLLEGE PRESIDENT SPEAKS IN MUSKOGON

Muskegon Chronicle — Approximately 50 members attended the regular quarterly meeting of the Consistorial Union of the Reformed churches of Muskegon and Muskegon Heights Monday night in the chapel of the Unity Reformed church.

Dr. Edward D. Dimment, president of Hope college, delivered a splendid address on "The Relation of Hope College to the Reformed Church." The speaker graphically pictured the present world situation; current peace movements and the possibilities of the present Near East situation precipitating the nations into another world war, more vast than the recent conflict. As a remedy for these conditions the speaker proposed not conferences, nor treaties, nor a league of nations, "for these," he said, "will be regarded as so many scraps of paper, as they have been in the past. The only cure-all, he said, is the Christ of Olivet and his teachings. The speaker then sketched the relation of Hope College to this task; the hundreds of exponents of this principle, graduates of Hope, at work in this nation, in Japan, China, India, Arabia, Turkey and Africa, all setting forth the teachings of the Prince of Peace.

The address was scholarly showing a keen appreciation of international affairs and withal was inspiring.

PUNNING ABILITY WINS PRIZE FOR MRS. M. K. CHERRYMAN

Mrs. Myrtle Koon-Cherryman, of Grand Rapids, who frequently comes to Holland to read before the Century Club, the Woman's Literary club and other organizations, and who has many personal friends here, has been awarded a prize of $10 by the Grand Rapids Herald for the best title for a cartoon representing a schoolboy reading Sherlock Holmes surreptitiously while the schoolmaster points to a problem on the board. Mrs. Cherryman has won considerable of a reputation as a maker of puns and her title for the cartoon was "Holmes' where the heart is."

ASKS SUPPORT FOR STATUE OF WAR GOVERNOR

William J. Rigby, resident park commissioner of the Vicksburg National Park at Vicksburg, Miss., has sent an appeal to the people of Holland to take an interest in erecting a statue in that park in honor of Austin Blair, war governor of Michigan.

It is to be a bronze heroic statue and will be in honor of Michigan's war governor not only but of all the Michigan soldiers who engaged in the Vicksburg operations.

UNION COLLEGE FUND IS STILL GROWING

The fund that is being collected for the Union Colleges in the orient is still growing in and around Holland as it is doing throughout the country. Mrs. James Wayer, who is in charge of the fund locally, reports climbed to $1853.50. Last week Sunday Mrs. Wayer spoke in the Central Park Church, repeating the substance of the address of Dr. Ida Scudder in Holland and when the collection was taken it was found that that little church had donated $83 to the cause, which is considered a very large donation considering the size of the congregation.

Mrs. Wayer has received word that Pres. Pendleton, of Wellesley College, has joined the team of Mrs. Scudder and appeared with the party in Minneapolis, Chicago, Dayton, Toledo and other cities. In Minneapolis Dr. Scudder and the others again spoke their message to the whole country into a radio apparatus.

WILL URGE SEVERE PENALTY ON ALL POISON LIQUOR VENDORS

Lansing, Nov. 24—Enactment of a law making the giving, selling or furnishing of poisonous liquor, when it results in death, a crime punishable as manslaughter will be asked of the 1923 legislature by the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, it was announced Friday.

A tentative draft of the measure provides that when any person shall sell, give or furnish to any other persons for beverage purposes any intoxicating liquor, contrary to the law, and the persons to whom the liquor is furnished shall die from the effects of drinking the liquor, the person furnishing the liquor shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter.

"BUDS OF PROMISE" ORGAN- IZE THURSDAY EVENING

The Sunday school class of Mr. E. Westing gathered at the home of their teacher, on East 14th street, Thursday evening, for the purpose of organizing.

The young ladies, 15 in number, spent a very busy but enjoyable evening selecting a name for themselves and electing officers for the coming year.

The young ladies state that from now on they will be known as "Buds of Promise," and elected officers as follows: president, Mr. E. Westing; vice president, Minnie Alois; secretary, Bertha Nienhuis; treasurer, Gertrude Beltman; Chairman of the various committees are: social, Jeanette Smalligan; program, Nella Den Uyl; Sunshine, Mary Schrottenboer. Music and refreshments were also features of the evening's entertainment.

READS PAPER ON PERVERTED HISTORIES

Mr. Earnest C. Brooks read a very able paper, "Anglicized or perverted histories taught in our schools," before the Michigan Society Sons of the Revolution Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Beach.

He brought out the amazing fact that at least ten different text books in our public schools in use in one part or another of the United States have had to be revised or thrown out altogether, either on account of misrepresenting our leading men of history, inaccuracies as to events or total omissions of important domestic and foreign affairs.

Mr. Brooks stated that the work of correcting history text books has been taken up by the Sons of the Revolution, Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish War Veterans, the Knights of Columbus, The American Legion and other patriotic leagues, besides a special committee of 21 educators appointed by the superintendent of schools of Greater New York.

As a result of these investigations it was found that British, and other foreign influences have been at work to glorify their governments to our own disadvantage.

Reference was made to Muzzy's history which is taught in our Holland schools and Hope College but no criticism was offered.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT HAPPENS IN GRAND RAPIDS FRIDAY

Two little girls, Antonia Stachulaucks and Adella Stachulaucks, cousins, were run over by a G. R. & I. train at Grand Rapids late Friday afternoon while they were walking on the track, searching for a brother of one of the little girls.

Unaware of the approaching locomotive, and the warning yells of two boys that were near, the engine struck them, hurling them ten feet from the track, one being thrown on one side and another on the other.

They were picked up bleeding and unconscious and the left foot of Antonia is terribly mangled.

The physicians say there is little hope of the recovery of the two.

The engineer of the train states: "I was four minutes ahead of time and was coming in slowly. The children had their coats round their heads and did not hear the whistle. When I first saw them I put on the air brakes, but was unable to make a quick stop."

TELLS OF MARKED BALLOTS IN KENT AND OTTAWA COUNTY

Nearly every paper of any importance in the state has taken up the matter of wholesale disfranchisement of voters in Ottawa county because of technical questions raised relative to marking of ballots under the state law. The Grand Rapids Press man editorially has the following:

"Hundreds of voters in Kent and Ottawa counties have been disfranchised by the throwing out of votes in recent shrewdly recounts. Their trouble of going to the polls has been rendered vain. Their study of the candidates and the sincere effort of many citizens made to have their votes count for good government has been cancelled by the carelessness of election inspectors who failed to initial the ballots in ink, or even failed to initial them at all, the most perfunctory routine duty imposed upon them by the law.

"It may be, and probably is true, that the recount and the destruction of ballots will not alter the results though in Ottawa county the contest was so very close it has now gone to the circuit court. But the mere happenstance that candidates are not affected does not alter the seriousness of the offense of negligence nor remove in the least the sense of futility which must come to any voter when his ballot is thrown away. The first essential of encouragement to good citizenship is the assurance of a clean and competent reception and counting of the citizen's ballot. All sorts of safeguards against dishonesty have been thrown about the polling places but not enough against carelessness.

"Possibly similar negligence has prevailed in county elections for years, but has come to notice only through the revelation of a recount demanded by an unusually close vote. Whether the county adopts voting machines or not county action to make sure that inspectors at least know their primer is demanded before the next election."

Castle Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will entertain at their hall Wednesday evening, Nov. 29. There will be a card party beginning at 7:45, and dancing beginning at 10:30.

SAND BAR FORMS AT THE MOUTH OF THE HARBOR

On account of the storms of autumn a sand bar has been forming at the mouth of the harbor at Macatawa Park that is considerable of a menace to vessels in bad weather. When the weather is good there is no difficulty going out of the harbor or coming in, as there is plenty of room left through which the large Graham & Morton vessels can pass, but in times of storm when it is not possible to choose the exact route for the ships, the captains are rather nervous.

The bar has been forming for some time to the southwest of the harbor, so that at present there is only a depth of about 14 1/2 feet. To the northwest of the harbor the depth is about 20 feet.

Last week the sand sucker, the General Meade came to Macatawa to dig out some of this superfluous sand but before it had progressed far two of its sand buckets were broken, putting the vessels out of commission for the time being and stopping work on the removal of the sand. The Gen. Meade therefore raised her anchor and steamed away to be laid up for repairs. It is doubtful if the boat will return this fall, and so the sand bar will have to remain where it is until the end of navigation.

The Graham & Morton Co. is continuing its freight service and they hope to keep it going as long as the weather conditions will permit and provided the sand bar does not seal the harbor before ice forms in the lake.

The life saving station at Macatawa will continue open for another five weeks. No definite orders have been received by Capt. VanWeelden, but it has been the custom for the past 5 years to close at midnight on the last day of December and it is expected that that custom will also be followed this year. The station is now being conducted by four regulars and three subs. It has been impossible to keep a full crew of regulars.

Grand Rapids is to have an apple and "earth apple" show Dec. 5 to 8. Early Rose and white elephants will vie with Maiden Blush and Silk—No further as it were.

Judge Ford Stratton states that probably no foxes will be sent from Allegan to the Silver Fox Show at Muskegon, Dec. 6-8, because of sickness present among foxes of that county. He will attend as vice-president of the National Silver Fox Breeders' association. On a former trip to Canada he selected 35 pairs of the best foxes, the best out of 400 examined. Of these fifteen pairs have just been received and the remainder will be kept in Canada this year.—Allegan Gazette.

The sheep business must be good in Allegan county. Frank Stratton has shipped nearly 1000 so far this fall. Farmers in Allegan county buy western lambs in the Chicago market and fatten them, the process requiring 60 to 80 days, during which they double in weight, and then ship them to eastern markets.

SAND CO. OF GRAND HAVEN CONDUCTS LARGE SAND SHIPMENTS

Grand Haven Tribune—The gap which the steam sand shovel has been making in five mile hill for more than a year is steadily getting larger and to date it has been estimated by a competent authority that about two thousand six hundred cars of sand have been taken away to points in eastern Michigan.

The sand goes to factories in the eastern part of the state to be used in coremaking and in grinding the plate glass. The Ford factory gets much of the sand which is shipped from there.

Grand Haven makes an excellent shipping point for sand as it is transported in coal cars and this city is a receiving place for many empty cars which are brought over the lake on their return trips to eastern Kentucky and West Virginia coal fields. The car ferries bring over many empty cars which are made use of in this way and thus it will be seen that sand can be shipped from there with greater efficiency than from any other point in the state.

Sand is quite important in industry now, especially in the automotive industry and activity in shipping that substance from Grand Haven is seen as long as the wheel of the east state manufacturing institutions keep going.

Five Mile Hill will soon disappear for the contract of the Grand Haven Sand company will continue for quite a time and the hill will gradually be wiped out. 30 to 35 cubic yards of sand is taken away with every car. When the hill is leveled to a certain extent the new real estate thus created will undoubtedly be sought for manufacturing property or possibly home sites, it being located on Harbor Ave. drive.

The company has a complete set of tracks to the hill and has one steam shovel working. Operations started about October first in 1921 and up until October first of this year, 1974 cars of sand had been removed. This was by actual figure: Half of this amount went this year and at present the company is shipping on an average of 15 to 20 cars every day.

20-INCH 'GATOR MAY NOW BE MAILED

When is and when isn't an alligator a harmless animal, has been a much-mooted question. Those who have undergone the still more or less discussed fictional adventure of the destruction in a big 'gator's switchable tail, are somewhat decided. There are many folks who still believe a youngster is a playful pet that may be kept in the parlor as a chum for the baby; but one who has had even the smallest hang onto his amicably extended forefinger with a grim persistence of a steel vice, may still be firm in his belief that it's best to leave 'em alone at any age.

The postoffice department, however, has decided that while under 20 inches over all length the baby saurian is harmless. So are baby chicks, softshelled crabs, blood worms and chameleons.

One may feel confident the blood worm can be fondled with ease and without fear of danger, and still have his doubts also in regard to the baby terrapins, but the latter also are classed by the department as harmless.

This classification has been made by the department for the ease of mind of harassed postmasters whose clients have sought to make of their offices near-menageries. The mailability of live "mail matter" is still a hazy question among the general public, and even among many postmasters, the department declares, so as to clear up the matter a circular has been prepared to settle the question.

For more than a year live fowls and domestic animals were acceptable for mailing under a ruling that prescribed their handling only when the complete journey was made by motor trucks, but this ruling was revoked more than a year ago. Another applying to the insurance and C. O. D. privileges of such shipments was not modified, under which regulations a few shipments of live fowls and domestic animals have been accepted by postmasters.

Only small live animals "having no offensive odor and requiring no food nor water in transit," such as the ferocious animals mentioned, and their like, may be sent in the mails and insured against loss. Alligators up to 20 inches are included in the list.

WHAT YOU SAW IN THE HOLLAND CITY NEWS FIFTY YEARS AGO

Owing to the stormy weather nearly all day the vote in Holland was light. The vote for president was as follows: U. S. Grant 273; Horace Greeley 81. In Holland township, Grant received 172; Mr. Greeley 53. Arie Waltman for sheriff received a majority in Holland of 291. Note—The Holland man, it will be noticed ran ahead of his ticket, making a better run than Mr. Grant. It is quite interesting to note the difference in the number of the votes cast then and now at the last election nearly 4000 voters came out while 50 years ago the total was 354.

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Market day at Drenthe was well attended by farmers and business men. Among those who displayed wares there were John Pessink, the baker, H. Meyer & Co., the furniture and organ store, H. Meengs. Several farmers came with horses and even from Illinois with a drove of horses. F. Boonstra of Zeeland did a good business selling refreshments while J. W. Everhard of Zeeland had a line of hardware to sell. Many farmers came with bulging wallets.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Mr. Edwin Thayer having declined the nomination for county treasurer, the republican county committee have placed the name of Gerrit Van Schelven upon their ticket.

Next Friday evening Hon. Sam Clay, silver tongued orator of Grand Rapids will address the people of Holland upon the political issues at Lyceum Hall. Mr. Clay comes under the banner of Demo-Green party. Democrats and Greenbackers having joined to beat the republicans.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

"Pete" Dogger, the Western Union Telegraph Co. messenger boy has been presented with a regulation uniform. He steps faster now and citizens may expect their messages delivered with the utmost promptness.

R. N. De Merrell completed last Wednesday a slab for the First Reformed church on the corner of 9th and Market streets. The inscription reads "First Reformed Church 1847-1887." It will be placed on the side of the building fronting on 9th St.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Bergan Hall is nearing completion and will prove valuable for the young men of the city as a Y. M. C.

A. The following donated papers and magazines for the reading room: H. S. Meyers, principal of the high school, Century Magazine; John Bosman, Review of Reviews; Jerry Winter, Harper's Monthly; Henry Geerlings, Scribner's; George Huizenga, Harper's Weekly; Henry Vander Ploeg, the Independent. Note—Bergan Hall was named after Rev. J. T. Bergan who was interested in the youth of Holland. The building is occupied by Keefer's restaurant and the Y was upstairs where the Moose Hall is.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Just beginning to lay cement side walks 25 years ago, E. J. Harrington is putting down one in front of his store on East 8th street and Jas. Brower is doing likewise on River street.

Henry George, the Great Single tax man died suddenly of heart failure on the eve of the election, running for mayor of Greater New York. The party quickly substituted the name of his son Henry George Jr.

The hired man of Eugene Fellows of Olive came to town with a load of wood which he unloaded at the Keppel wood lot on 7th street. The horses took fright and dashed into a tree and one was found dead because of the impact.

R. W. Jones has sold his place on Macatawa bay, a seven acre tract including dwelling, to Alex Zeese of Chicago. Consideration $2800. Note—After building a beautiful home there Mr. Zeese was killed in Chicago by falling from an elevated car line to the street below. The family lived here for a time but sold the place to James W. Himebaugh for $10,000. Now it is owned by Dr. R. M. Waltz local dentist.

Twenty Years Ago Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Slighter, East 18th street, a daughter. The discovery was made Monday afternoon that a ballot box used in the election in the second ward at Grand Haven had been cut open and the ballots used at the spring election were missing. Something of a sensation was created and the common council offer $100 reward for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

Miss Addie Huntley at her home on Central avenue entertained forty young ladies at a miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Mabel Allen who is soon to become the bride of Alfred Huntley, Jr. In the progressive pedro, Miss Edna Allen won the head prize and Miss Christine Van Duren the booty.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

The death of Sarah G. Alcott occurred at the age of 75 years. Charles A. Floyd, manager of the Holland Interurban has resigned as manager of the Michigan State fair. The fair this year cleared $40,000.

Con De Free has just returned from a 4 week's business trip thru Washington, Montana and California.

It took Contractor Abel Postma just 70 days to finish a nice residence for Austin Harrington on 1st avenue.

The Misses Reka and Minnie Riksen entertained a few friends Friday evening at their home on West 17th street. The guests were entertained with music and refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Della Van Dyke, Katie Muller, Jennie Klumper, Fannie Balgooyen, Marie Zwemer, Dena Klumper, Maggie Leenhouts, Kate Vandenberg, Henrietta Poelakker, Nellie Muller, Kate Ver Meulen, and Jennie Karsten.

TEN YEARS AGO

Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall were elected as president and vice president for the first time. Election results: Carl Mapes won in the fifth district by 552 votes. Carl had a narrow squeak with the Bull Moose ticket cutting in. Here is the presidential vote in Ottawa county: Taft 1558; Wilson 1713; Roosevelt 4023.

Charles Mc Bride for representative of the first district of Ottawa also had a narrow escape: Mc Bride 1609; Van Tongeren 1370; Simon Kleyn (Bull Moose) 1506.
