Ex-Escapee Foils Allegan Jail-Break Bid

ALLEGAN — Brian Sharp, who sawed his way out of the Allegan County jail Nov. 10, has had his fill of jail breaks and proved it by helping thwart another prisoner's escape, Sheriff Walter Runkel said today.

Runkel said the 21-year-old Doster man, who was returned to Southern Michigan Prison as a parole violator Monday, was instrumental in preventing the escape of a 19-year-old Kalamazoo youth Sunday.

According to Runkel, Norman G. Jones, Kalamazoo, one of four youths being held for a breaking and entry at a Hopkins dry goods store, jumped Deputy Robert Gooding Sunday night.

Holding a razor blade against the deputy's throat, the youth ordered the deputy to go to an upper cell block and release Sharp.

Gooding did so, but Sharp refused to participate in the proposed escape. Jones asked other prisoners to join him then, Runkel said, but not a one of the 25 men agreed. Jones then returned to the lower cell block, apparently intent upon escaping alone.

Sharp followed him and before an outside door could be opened he started talking to Jones. While Jones was thus distracted the deputy broke away and then disarmed the prisoner.

Patients Have Choice of Food

Starting Wednesday, regular patients at Holland Hospital are on selective menus.

This means that a patient receives a menu at breakfast each day to mark meals to be served the following day. Red Cross nurses aides pick up the menus and assist patients in checking choices if necessary. Menus are then tallied to guide food preparation the following day.

Patients are asked to check the portion size for each meal, listed as small, medium or large. Beverages and toast or bread choices appear at the bottom of each order.

Patients on special diets will not receive menus. They will be visited by dietary personnel. Patients arriving in the afternoon too late to sign a menu will be served first choices on the menu the following day.

Breakfast menus for Thursday list the following choices: orange juice, pineapple juice or whole orange; oatmeal, puffed rice or corn flakes, fried eggs or ham and fried egg.

Thursday's dinner choices: broiled baby beef liver with onion gravy or spaghetti with meat sauce; hash browned potatoes; green beans or brussels sprouts; apricot pecan molded salad or tomato salad; fresh fruit cup or cream puff.

Supper menu choices: cream of asparagus soup or lemonade; turkey a la king on toast or baked spare ribs; mashed potatoes; buttered cauliflower or baked squash; banana nut salad or relish plate; orange sherbet or baked apple.

Beverage for each meal lists choice of coffee, tea, kaffee, postum, milk, skim milk or chocolate milk. There is choice of white or whole wheat toast for breakfast, or white or whole wheat bread for dinner and supper. Also to be checked for each meal are such items as lemon wedge, cream, butter, jelly and sugar.

Selective menus were worked out by Betty Metcalf, consulting dietitian for Szabo Food Service which operates the food service at the hospital.

Jaycees Conclude Diabetes Drive

The Holland Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night climaxed its diabetes detection drive with the testing of 1,728 Dreyapak test strips.

The 21 persons will be notified, along with their family physicians, and further tests may be conducted to determine if the individual has diabetes.

A total of 4,500 test strips were distributed to employees of the General Electric, Hart and Cooley and H. J. Heinz companies. Last year only about 600 test strips were returned out of the same total distributed.

Plans List 32nd South To 48th St.

May Request Hearing; Building Date in 1962 Interested Persons

LANSING—The State Highway Department today announced preliminary plans for widening a portion of the US-31 business route in Holland from two to five lanes.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said preliminary plans call for widening about one mile of the business route—between 33rd and 48th Sts.—on the south side of Holland.

The center lane would serve motorists desiring to turn left.

The Highway Department proposal includes plans for curb and gutter and storm sewer the length of the project.

Mackie said the new highway would serve as the south business route connection with the future Interstate 96 Freeway which will by-pass Holland to the east.

The project—to cost an estimated $142,000, including right of way and engineering—is scheduled to be placed under contract in the third quarter of 1962 if proposed plans are approved by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The new road would be built on a variable right of way ranging from 100 feet along most of the route to 155 feet in a few areas.

The Highway Department said all interested persons who would be affected by the proposed project may request a formal public hearing by writing John W. Knecht, Jr., Director of Public Hearings, Michigan State Highway Department, Lansing.

An official record of a hearing, including statements for or against the project, would be reviewed by Highway Department and Bureau of Public Roads officials before final details of the project are set.

Applications for a hearing should reach Knecht by Dec. 6.

'Cappy' Dies After Practice At Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J.—Franklin C. (Cappy) Cappon, 61, Princeton University head basketball coach for 23 years and Holland's most legendary high school athlete, died here Wednesday from a heart attack.

He collapsed and died while showering after basketball practice in Dillon Gym. Cappon had suffered a mild coronary in January and was hospitalized the past summer with an occlusion in an artery of his left arm.

The dean of Ivy League coaches, Cappon became head basketball coach at Princeton in 1938. His teams won five league championships and compiled an overall record of 399 wins and 244 losses.

Cappon had never missed a varsity game at Princeton from the time he became head coach until Jan. 17 this year when he suffered his first coronary.

Edward J. Donovan, junior varsity basketball coach, was in the shower when Cappon was stricken. Donovan said he saw the coach falling and lowered him to the floor. He called the Princeton first aid and rescue squad and then summoned Dr. Joseph M. Ranpona, Cappon's personal physician.

The doctor arrived 10 minutes later and found Cappon dead on the floor. "I think he had a new coronary," Dr. Ranpona said.

Cappon, a 1924 University of Michigan graduate, was elected to the Helms Hall College Basketball Hall of Fame in 1957 and a former president of the National Basketball Coaches Association. He was also on the committee to select the United States basketball team to compete in the 1960 Olympic Games.

Although best known for his athletic and coaching ability, Cappon had interest in other types of education and was a remarkably well-informed teacher interested in discussing all educational techniques besides athletics.

A 1918 Holland High graduate, Cappon played four years of varsity football and basketball and was all-state in both sports. He was also named captain of the all-state basketball team. Cappon was a fullback and his prep football accomplishments have become legendary.

His first year at Michigan, Cappon played end. He made all-conference and his second year he played tackle and halfback and made all-conference. He also played guard. In 1922, his biggest year, he was all-conference at fullback. Cappon also was a top guard for the Michigan basketball team.

With Cappon at fullback, Michigan won the Big Ten championship in 1922 in an undefeated season. His first coaching post was at Luther College in Decorah, Ia., and then he served three seasons as head football coach at the University of Kansas.

He returned to Michigan in 1928 as assistant football and basketball coach. From 1931 to 1938, Cappon was head basketball coach and assistant athletic director at Michigan. While at Princeton, he was also football end coach.

Cappon received the Western Conference medal for combining academic achievement with athletics in his senior year at Michigan.

During World War II, he was lieutenant in the Naval Aviation physical fitness program. He later wrote training texts and directed athletics for the fleet airwing on the West Coast. He served in the Pacific and returned to Princeton after the war.

Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Princeton Chapel with the dean of the chapel, Rev. Earnest Gordon, officiating. The body will be cremated but disposition of the ashes was not yet known.

Cappon is survived by his wife, the former Henrietta Van Putten of Holland, a son, Franklin C. Jr., of Hamilton Square, near Trenton, N.J., a daughter, Mrs. Mary L. Cappon Muller of Plymouth, Mich., and five grandchildren.

Other survivors are four sisters, Mrs. John Maubetsch of Ann Arbor; Mrs. E. P. McLean of Castle Park; Mrs. Marvin De Vries and Miss Lavina Cappon of Holland.

Cappon was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cappon of the Cappon-Bertsch Co., which was located on the site of the present Civic Center.

Zeeland Wins Over Wyoming

WYOMING — Shooting an amazing 48 per cent from the floor, Zeeland High's basketball team rolled to a 65-46 opening game win over Wyoming here Tuesday night.

The Chix, coached by Paul Van Dort, made 29 baskets in 61 tries with senior forward Jim Klinger getting 14 of the field goals. Klinger added a free throw to score 29 points, his highest single game output in two seasons of varsity play.

Zeeland got off to a slow start and trailed Wyoming, 15-7 at the end of the first period. Then the Chix went into high gear and outscored Wyoming, 26-6 to grab a 33-21 halftime lead. Klinger scored 14 points in the second quarter.

The Chix continued to use the fast break effectively in the third quarter and romped to a 20-point, 53-33 margin. Van Dort began to substitute at the close of the third quarter and his entire team saw action.

The Chix made seven of 15 free shots for 47 per cent while Wyoming had 14 of 25 at the charity line for 46 per cent. From the floor, Wyoming made 16 of 67 for 24 per cent.

Dan Zuverink, Zeeland forward, held Wyoming's high scorer Lance Riemersma to only three baskets. Van Dort also complimented the guards on a good job of setting up the Zeeland plays. Klinger, Zuverink and Gary Boeve were strong on the boards while Chuck Hanson and Terry Butler set up the plays.

The Chix host Coopersville in the home opener Friday night in Zeeland. The game is a non-league battle.

West Ottawa Drops First Season's Tilt

PAW PAW—Paw Paw ruined West Ottawa's debut this season as they built up a big, early lead and then coasted to a 45-38 win over the "cold" Panthers in a basketball game played here Tuesday night.

The shooting of the Panthers during the first half was "cold" as they hit on only three of 30 shots from the floor for a dismal 10 per cent. The Panthers hit 34 per cent in the second half on 10 of 29, but could not over come Paw Paw's big early lead.

Paw Paw scored 15 straight points, mostly on the fast break, before the Panthers managed to make a free throw. The Panthers did not connect on their first field goal until only 3:43 was left in the second quarter and they were behind 20-3. The Panthers solved the offense of the winners at this point and went into halftime trailing 20-9.

After scoring a quick bucket in the third quarter, the losers' shooting turned sour again and Paw Paw increased their lead to 26-11, before the Panthers began to close the gap.

Tom Vizithum scored all of his 12 points in the second half to allow the Northsiders to pull within six points, 41-35, with 1:35 left. The last 1:35 was one of frustration, however, as they tried to press Paw Paw and couldn't keep from fouling them in the process. Paw Paw made enough of the free shots to insure the victory.

Coach Roy Rennback of Paw Paw said the game was pretty much decided in the first quarter when his team had a lead of 15-1. His team made 17 of 31 shots for 55 per cent but it looked good compared with the losers' overall percentage of 22 per cent.

Coach Herb Maatman was at a loss to explain the poor shooting. "The team had plenty of opportunities, but just couldn't find the ring. The team also made their share of fundamental mistakes. Tom Vizithum, 5'11" junior guard, looked good in the second half."

After the first quarter, both teams substituted freely in an effort to find a good working combination, but neither was too successful.

West Ottawa made 14 of 22 free throws for 64 per cent and Paw Paw had 11 of 24 for 46 per cent. Scott Smith and Cliff Essig did most of the damage for the winners as they scored 14 and 15 points respectively. Essig was especially adept at dribbling through the whole team for a lay-up shot.

The Panthers will have a week and a half to solve their shooting difficulties before they start Grand Valley action at Grand Rapids Godwin next Friday.

Dutch Settlers Quickly Signed Up in Civil War

(This is the first of a series of articles describing the part played by Holland residents during the Civil War. The story was compiled and written by Rev. J. Masselink after months of research. Editor's note.)

By Rev. Edward J. Masselink Ph. D. Pastor Central Ave. Christian Reformed Church

The Dutch settlers who came to America in the middle of the last century were deeply committed to the cause of liberty as soon as they reached these shores. They remembered the struggle for freedom which they had gone through in their native land, and they resolved that this precious gift should be shared with others.

When a new call for volunteers was issued in the summer of 1862, they were among the first to respond. One of their own leaders, Dr. H. P. Scholte of Pella, Iowa, had been vice-president of the Republican National Convention where Lincoln was nominated for the presidency. Central College, Scholte's school, has a marble plaque bearing the names of twenty-four students who served in the war. Their comrades in western Michigan showed equal readiness to participate in the war of liberation.

Recruiting for the 25th Michigan Volunteer Regiment began on August 14, 1862 in the office of K. Schadelee who was Justice of the Peace. On the first day, fifty-five were Dutch immigrant boys who had recently come from the men were enrolled. A week later Schadelee went to Zeeland, and recruited fifteen more from Zeeland, Grand Haven and Grand Rapids. During the intervening week five more enlisted, bringing the total to seventy-five. These were organized as Company I, with William E. Dowd as Captain, and Martin De Boe and Jacob Dowsburg as Lieutenants. Capt. Dowsburg died Feb. 17, 1863. At that time Martin De Boe was promoted to Captain, and John Kramer became Lieutenant.

The great majority of these men were Dutch. Most of them had been in this country only a few years, and spoke only a few words of English. Many of their letters were written in Dutch, some with German script. A large number of these have been preserved, and have been a prime source of information for the story which follows.

The Company included many others also, and was broadly representative of the entire community. Among them we find such names as Frederick Bos, Jan Brouwer, Isaiah James and Joseph Crofoot, Peter De Feyter, Klaas Dykema, John Naber, Jan Riemersma, John Steketee, Hendrik Ten Slechte, Johannes Van Lente, Gerrit Van Schellven, Adrian Ver Hage. From Zeeland we find such entries as John Albers, Geerlinus De Kruij, Cornelius Den Herder, Albert Eding, John Everhard, John Huizenga, Jan Oeggel, Marinus Huizenga Luyster, Gerrit Wesseling. At least four of the volunteers were from the newly organized Hope College at Holland. They were Willem Van Putten, Ale Burisma, John Huizenga and D.B.K. Van Raalte. Two of these, Ale Burisma and John Huizenga, later became clergymen in the Reformed Church of America.

The age at which these men enlisted is remarkable. Of the seventy-five men in the Company, twenty-nine were eighteen and nineteen years of age, and one was seventeen. In the events which follow we must remember that they were hardly more than boys. Several men of Company I distinguished themselves for bravery beyond the call of duty. Benjamin and Dirk Van Raalte (famously known as D.B.K.) were sons of Dr.

A. C. Van Raalte, the founder of the colony. Benjamin enlisted on the first recruiting day, August 14, 1862, at the age of twenty-three. Dirk was eighteen years of age, and joined on August 20. It is not difficult to reconstruct what may have transpired in the Van Raalte home in the six days which lay between.

During July and August of 1864 the Twenty Fifth Michigan Volunteers took part in the siege of Atlanta. There was heavy fighting at Utoy Creek, near Last Point on the outskirts of Atlanta. On August 6 the regiment lost both color bearers, and the regimental flag was left on the field when the Union troops were driven back. During the night Ben Van Raalte crept through the Confederate lines and somehow laid hands on the flag which they had lost. He brought it back to his own position, and for the rest of the war he carried the flag which he had rescued. In later years he always proudly carried the flag when the regiment was on parade. (There are several versions of this story. The account which is here given is taken from the book, "Michigan Regiments in The Civil War," in the volume on the 25th Michigan Volunteers. This book is in the library of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.)

On August 26, D. B. K. Van Raalte rode through a wooded area to deliver a message to headquarters. On the way he was ambushed by a group of Confederate soldiers. When he heard shots he spurred his horse; but the horse instead of going forward, reared backward. A Confederate sharpshooter found him a ready target. The bullet struck him first in the forearm and then in the shoulder. Finally it grazed his right cheek, leaving a scar. His right arm was amputated at the shoulder, and he was removed to a field hospital at Marietta, Georgia.

On August 30, 1864, he wrote a letter home. D. B. K. began the letter, writing clumsily with his left hand, and his brother Ben, who was with him, finished it. The letter was cheerful in tone, but did carry an urgent appeal for their father to come. Dr. Van Raalte immediately left by train, but was not permitted to go farther than Knoxville, Tennessee, for military reasons.

D. B. K. Van Raalte was riding a black horse when he was shot, and in later years he always drove a black horse as he went about his business. Sergeant Otto Boot was killed by guerrilla bushwhackers near Centerville, Tennessee on November 26, 1864. The story of it is told by one of his companions who signs himself "L. C. H." "November 26th — I was unable to keep up with the regiment, and in company of Corporal George Westover of Company G, and Sergeant Otto Boot of Company I and several others, we crossed Piney Creek. When about a quarter of a mile from the creek, twenty five or thirty guerrillas suddenly dashed upon us from a bend in the road. They fired upon us and demanded us to surrender.

"I had a watch and two pocket-books, one containing $3 in my right hand pocket, and the other containing $40 in the other. They asked for my watch and pocket-book. I gave them the watch and the pocket-book containing $3. Four guerrillas now took the six of us round by a creek and into a deep ravine. Here they halted us and ordered us to turn our backs. I said, "For God's sake, don't shoot us so. These words were hardly out of my mouth when they fired."

He himself was slightly wounded, but pretended to be dead. The others, including Sergeant Boot, were killed. After a short time, two of the guerrillas came back with spade and shovel, and began digging a large grave. Not caring to become involved in this, "L. C. H." rolled back of a bush and took off into the woods. Somehow he made his way back to the Union lines. Otto Boot was nineteen when he enlisted.

Other men in Company I distinguished themselves with similar deeds of valor which have not been recorded. Cornelius Van Dam was killed in action at Resaca, Georgia, on May 14, 1864. He is buried at the National Cemetery at Chattanooga, Tennessee. Alexander Jonker of Zeeland was mortally wounded at Utoy Creek and died the next day, August 7, 1864. Several other men served under General Philip Sheridan in the Second Cavalry regiment.

A century later we can still sense the pulse beat of their enthusiasm and patriotism. These lads loved liberty and were willing to pay a price that it might be maintained. The drumbeat of the nation had been heard in the colony, and the men from Ottawa County had taken their stand among the ranks of the soldiers of freedom.

'Buy Now, Pay Later' Is Given by Mrs. Donovan

Mrs. Edward Donovan has been giving the review of the book, "Buy Now, Pay Later" by Black to many of the Holland high classes.

In her review she said the American consumer is frequently deceived by the credit card. The credit card has given this country a high standard of living and more jobs are rolling because of this card but the wild spending of the Americans using this card is what is frightening.

Consumer debts have increased 200 per cent in the last 10 years and income only 60 per cent, she said. Never have so many owed so much. More money is made on selling credit than on the profit of selling merchandise, she continued.

The teen-agers are the biggest crop for credit cards. There are three things which can be done before the ceiling falls: Shop for credit; teach that easy credit is not easy and teen-agers and older people refrain from charging when ever possible.

RETIREMENT

More and more people are reaching the age of sixty or more. In many industries today there are more people due to the longer life span who are either retiring of their own free will or they are retiring because the long range planning of many companies has made arrangements for their retirement shortly after they reach their sixties.

In some cases people age sooner than others and this has caused a report to be brought out by the University of Chicago covering the research on the Aging and the Aged.

Some of the captions of the paragraphs read like this "The Roleless Role. The Mirror as Calendar. The Productivity Puzzle. Tests of Success, Aging as Disengagement and The Broad Biological Theories."

Then we read about the great number of people who are retiring or reaching the retirement age and this, according to the report, shows there are two conflicting theories of the fundamental biology of the aging process.

One says literally that death is inherited, the product of the genetic makeup of the individual.

"This is the conception of pioneer atomic scientist Leo Szilard, professor of Biophysics."

"The other theory contends that both hereditary and environmental factors are joined in the process of aging and death." This idea has been formulated by George Sacher, radiobiologist at Argonne National Laboratory, operated by the University for the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

In Szilard's theory, the time of death is precisely determined by an immutable progression of faults of a genetic nature.

"In Sacher's theory the time of death must necessarily contain an irreducible element of uncertainty, due to the chance fluctuation both in the inner physiological condition of every human being and in the external stresses and strains of him."

The report, "Aging and the Aged," uses the 1960 Census and "that the time has come for critical evaluation of policies, programs, and projects, and for reliance on basic research for scientific knowledge of the capacities, needs, and potentialities of older people."

One of the designers of the 1960 Census, Philip M. Hauser, provides some of the statistical dimensions of the aging problem. An international authority of demography, Hauser is professor and chairman of the Department of Sociology and Director of the University's Population Research Center.

He reports, "Americans were younger on the average than in 1950; the median age of the population declined for the first time in 170 years. But the population was also older, as measured by the proportion of men and women 65 years or more."

"During the decade 1950-60 the number of people 65 years old and older increased by about 35 per cent, a growth rate almost twice that of the nation as a whole."

"This growth grew 3 million in 1960 to 15.8 million in 1960, more than five fold increase."

"As a consequence, the proportion of older people in the population more than doubled, going from 4 to 8.7 per cent, over the same period. Expressed in another way, the United States has been transformed from a young to a mature society."

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, December 3
Growth Through Witnessing
Acts 4:13-21
By C. P. Dame

The Christian Church needs many more witnesses. Perhaps the study of this lesson may persuade some silent church members to become vocal. Lay members today have many opportunities to witness for Jesus Christ.

I. Christians with a holy boldness are not afraid to witness. In Acts 4 it is related how Peter and John healed a lame man. The healed man who was known quite well because of his former begging, attracted attention by his walking and praising God.

Peter spoke to the crowd that gathered and told them about Christ whom they had killed, whom God had raised from the dead and through whose power the lame man had been healed. While Peter and John were talking to the people the authorities arrested them and locked them in prison.

On the next day they were called to appear before the same council that had sentenced and judged Jesus. The apostles were asked by what authority they had healed the lame man. In reply, Peter, guided by the Holy Spirit, spoke to the rulers about the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus.

The rulers were impressed by the boldness of the apostles. The apostles were unlearned, unschooled men who had never held a public office. They recognized that they had been with Jesus. Christians who are bold in the good sense of the word, witness by word and deed, by what they do and don't say, and do not say. Effective witnessing calls for an agreement between profession and performance.

II. Facts can be stubborn things. The rulers saw the healed man standing by the two apostles. The best testimony of the reality of the Christian life is a changed person. The healed man was a proof of the power of Christianity.

Something had happened to the beggar. Changed people in a congregation speak loudly of the fact that the congregation has something to tell about. The rulers in this story had to admit that a notable miracle had been wrought.

History reveals that Christianity has changed lives and families and communities and conditions. Although this is true many people will not even give Christianity a try.

III. Bold Christians are not frightened. In a private conference the rulers decided that they would command these apostles "not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jesus." These apostles took their religion seriously and so they refused because they felt sure that it was not right to obey these rulers and disobey God.

These men had an inner compulsion which they expressed in the words, "For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard." After threatening them some more the rulers let these men go. What good did their witnessing do. Well, it advertised their religion among the people.

Witnessing, done by consecrated Christians does that today too. In addition, witnessing did something for these men—they appreciated their faith more than ever by standing up for it. When believers witness for Christ today, they gain in conviction and grow in faith.

Yes, it costs to witness, even today in this land, but it is well worth the price and is indeed most rewarding. Try to witness more and learn from personal experience what it does. And do remember that we witness by consecrated Christian living and conversation—by our walk and talk.

Allegan City Okays Funds For Airport

ALLEGAN—City council unanimously approved a resolution committing the city to spend $8,000 for badly needed municipal airport improvements, providing state matching funds are approved by the Michigan Aeronautics Commission.

The city already had budgeted $2,000 for the field this year and the council's resolution called for borrowing the additional $6,000 from surplus funds, the money to be repaid from revenue at the rate of $3,000 per year.

Approval of the expenditure was a major victory for V. C. Olcott, Allegan businessman who has been waging a personal campaign for airport improvements for many years. Olcott has repeatedly emphasized the importance of an adequate landing field to the area's plans for industrial development.

Olcott said that if matching funds are available from the state, the resulting $16,000 project should give the city an adequately drained and graded 3,500-foot east-west runway, plus approach lights. He said this runway would handle most business planes in use today, including DC-3's, but urged the council to consider paving the landing strip as the "next logical step."

In recent weeks, Olcott has been working closely with City Manager Kenneth Bollinger and Mayor Richard Haskins on a survey of airport needs.

He told councilmen that, on a recent visit to the state aeronautics commission, the Allegan delegation was greeted by staff members who said "we've been expecting you for seventeen years. . . wondering why no one over there was interested in airport improvement."

The commission staff will make a complete, detailed survey of the field as the first step in the project, Olcott said.

Hope Back To Receive Bosch Award

Sherwood (Sharky) Vander Woude, Hope College's brilliant "jack-of-all-trades" football player today was named co-winner of the Randall C. Bosch of Holland award presented annually to the MIAA's most valuable football player.

Joe Schurmur, Albion College junior guard, was named the co-winner and the two players will receive a diamond-studded gold football from Bosch, Holland industrialist.

Bosch has been presenting the most valuable award to the top football and basketball player in the MIAA for more than 25 years. It is the fifth time that a Hope football player has received the award and the first since 1938 when tackle Larry Ter Molen tied with Albion end Tom Taylor. Bosch will present the award to Vander Woude at a Hope home basketball game this season.

Vander Woude was outstanding for the Flying Dutchmen for four seasons and was a two-time All-MIAA choice. He was named last season as a fullback and this season as a defensive linebacker. Schurmur was the lone All-MIAA selection this season chosen on both the offensive and defensive team. He was named as an offensive guard and defensive linebacker.

Schurmur won't play football for the Britons next season since he has been accepted at the University of Michigan medical school. The announcement of his MVP award will be made tonight at a team banquet in Albion.

Vander Woude is also headed for medical school and his first choice is Michigan. Virtually an all-around student, Vander Woude is taking a pre-medical course at Hope.

The selection of the 21-year-old Randolph, Wis., senior is a fine climax to his career and shows the respect the MIAA foes had for him despite injuries that struck him this year.

Vander Woude was able to play in three MIAA games and saw action on only a few plays in a fourth game against Olivet. His play against Albion was "tremendous" but injuries received in the game prevented him from seeing much more action. He played briefly against Alma and Adrian and missed the Kalamazoo game.

Although he didn't play against the Hornets, the scouting reports lauded his play and the Kalamazoo players were aware of his ability. Foes also remembered Vander Woude's play in other seasons.

Coach Russ De Vette said today "Sharky has tremendous ability in all the phases of football but we may have kept him at a disadvantage for the award because he was a jack-of-all-trades and played all positions, wherever he was needed. If he had played just one position, he would probably have been All-MIAA three years."

The Hope coach was thrilled his 1961 captain won the award. "We thought because of our poor record this season and because of his injuries, Sharky had lost an opportunity to win the Bosch award." Hope lost seven games this season, five in the MIAA. Vander Woude, who scored 126 points as a high school back, played quarterback and halfback this season for Hope and was a defensive linebacker. Last season he was used offensively at fullback and played safety and corner man on defense.

"He might have been able to be All-MIAA at all of the positions, halfback, fullback, quarterback or safety, if he had stayed at any long enough," De Vette said.

Vander Woude was a strong runner, a good passer and his lone MIAA punt this season was 49 yards, the longest in the league.

Tom Van Wingen, Hope fullback of Grand Rapids won the Bosch award in 1950 while quarterback Dr. Nick Yonker, Muskegon native, copped the coveted honor in 1949. Center, guard and fullback Dr. Bob Powers of Saginaw won the award in 1939. Ter Molen is from Grand Rapids.

Other nominees this season included: Kalamazoo — Jim Harkema; Adrian — Gil Nanney; Alma — Ken Renard and Olivet — Larry Spencer. Duke Davis of Hillsdale won the award last year and Jim Northrup of Alma in 1959.

Maroons Lose 62-59 Game To Crusaders

An eager, sharpshooting Hudsonville Unity Christian basketball team spoiled Holland Christian's opener in the Civic Center Friday night by taking a thrilling 62-59 win over the Maroons, before a sellout crowd of 2,400 fans.

Coach Andy Ten Harmsel's Crusaders had good size to go along with the fine shooting to control the boards throughout much of the contest. Paced by lanky 6'5" Dave Zondervan and sophomore substitute Doug Oostendorp, the winners were able to keep the Maroons from getting more than one shot at the hoop on their offensive maneuvers.

In addition, the clever Ron Schuitema, Unity's backcourt ace, always kept the pressure on Christian with his fine shooting. Five times in the second half, Schuitema came back with the key basket after the Maroons had knotted the count or taken a scant lead. Schuitema chalked up 25 points for his efforts before the contest was over.

Christian couldn't match the overall shooting of the Crusaders, nor could they get a sustained offensive rolling. Coach Art Tuls felt that his offense moved too slowly and didn't take enough good shots from outcourt when the opportunities presented themselves. Capt. Clare Van Wieren was the big scorer for the Maroons as he piled up 26 points in the last three quarters. He showed drive and some fine shooting from the free throw area, giving the Unity defense plenty of trouble.

... scores key baskets

Reserve center Jim Langland also showed well after he replaced Paul Steigenga early in the second half, after Steigenga had picked up his fourth personal. Langland did a good job on the boards, besides hitting five baskets at crucial points in the game.

The contest was typical of the rivalry between the two schools. Unity's biggest lead was six points in the first quarter. Holland's biggest margin was one point and that coming seven times throughout the tilt. The contest was tied six times in the third period alone.

Unity opened the scoring on a free throw before Steigenga put the Maroons ahead on the first field goal of the season. Christian led 5-4 at one stage before seven straight Crusader points gave the visitors an 11-5 bulge. The Maroons fought back to a 13-9 deficit at the quarter.

Van Wieren and Schuitema then began to trade baskets in a nip-and-tuck second period. The Maroons knotted the count at 13-13 and went ahead 17-16 as the lead changed hands with every basket. Midway in the stanza, the Maroons led 21-20. By halftime the Unity club was back on top to hold a 28-25 margin. Van Wieren collected 14 in the period and Schuitema eight.

A basket by guard Paul Tuls and some good free throw shooting knotted the count at 30-30 in the early minutes of the second half. Unity moved out to a 38-33 advantage before baskets by Ron Lubbers and Langland closed the gap. The losers knotted the count at 44-44 with 38 seconds left in the period as Schuitema swished another to give his team a two-point lead going into the finale.

It was close for the first four minutes of the last period before two baskets by Van Wieren gave the Maroons a 53-52 lead. Schuitema again grabbed the lead on an intercepted pass. Two baskets by Langland pushed the Maroons to a 57-56 count at 2:30, but then Schuitema took over again and tied the contest.

At the charity stripe, Christian cashed in on 13 out of 23 while Unity hit on 12 out of 18. Van Wieren and Schuitema were far and away the leading scorers for both teams.

Next Friday the Maroons invade East Grand Rapids to take on the potent Pioneers.

FIRST CAMPUS PLAN — This picture-map shows the site plan for Grand Valley State College as it would look by 1975 if this campus plan were adopted. "Community commercial" (upper left) and "community residential" (lower left) refer to commercial shops and housing to be constructed by private enterprises on land leased to them by the college. "Visitors' housing" (upper center) refers to a privately operated facility for persons staying overnight on the campus. "Special Student Uses" (upper and lower right) refers to dormitories when and if they are needed. "Athletic fields and core" (center) show tennis courts and playing fields and a small field house. The "assembly area" (lower center) shows an auditorium, central eating facilities, room for open-air assemblies, and offices for co-curricular activities and college administration. The "academic area" (lower center) shows the buildings that would be needed for learning centers and the library. All major areas include space for parking.

Grand Valley State College Studies First Campus Plan

GRAND RAPIDS—Grand Valley State College Thursday received its bird's eye view of what the campus may look like in 1975.

The Ann Arbor firm of Johnson, Johnson and Roy, site planners, submitted its preliminary Campus Plan 1 for the college's site on M-50 and the Grand River near Alendale, designating areas for academic buildings, athletic fields, visitor's housing, residential halls when and if future enrollment outgrows the commuter stage, and a "campus town" on the western edge of the site.

The plan was given to Grand Valley's Board of Control as part of a progress report at its special meeting at 10:00 a.m. on November 24 at college offices in the Randall House. The board was to choose an architect for its first building, after consideration of a survey of architectural firms prepared by Philip W. Buchen, vice-president.

Buchen suggested that the college, or a foundation set up for its benefit, acquire the land on the edges of the site, which is now under option, and then lease it on a long-term basis to private enterprises to support community development, both within the campus and adjoining it, of the stores and housing necessary for a complete college campus in a rural area.

The first campus plan takes advantage of the natural beauty of the site, with its river frontage and wooded ravines. The academic core is located within the arms of the ravines, which gives a natural definition to the area, and allows for expansion while at the same time providing that the first buildings will not appear isolated. Entry is provided from three sides of the campus. The assembly area is in close proximity to the classrooms, laboratories and lecture halls, and parking is allocated in both areas.

The student athletic fields and buildings are located on the level, open part of the site, where cost of developing them will be at a minimum.

"Campus town" is on the edge of the property, just across 48th St. from the expected community that will develop with Grand Valley. Housing for faculty and other college personnel is also closely related to the community, while future student housing is more remote and self-contained.

Work on the first building is scheduled for early summer of 1962, following legislative action on Grand Valley's request for capital funds. Plans for the building are to be presented to the legislature by the end of January, and legislators from the 8-county area have indicated they would work for approval of the appropriation. First students will enroll in September of 1963, and by 1975 the student body is expected to reach 8,000 to 10,000.

Holland Wrestlers Open At Grandville on Dec. 1

High-spirited workouts, a list of lettermen and plenty of desire make Holland High wrestling coach Bob Weber optimistic about Holland's chances this season.

This marks the third year of wrestling at Holland High and the sport has caught on under Weber's tutelage. Weber has several candidates in most every weight class and has been pleased with the eagerness shown in early drills.

"If we can keep everybody healthy and eligible we could have a real good team," Weber said.

"We have boys in every weight for the first time and we have some real good kids in some of the weights," Weber said.

"They started the season in high gear and at their own insistence we finished up with brief bouts at the end of the first practice," Weber said.

Jim Brower, a transfer from an Indiana high school, will give Holland strength in the lighter weights. Brower was a runnerup in an Indiana regional wrestling tourney last year.

"Brower is 105 now but I hope he can get down to 95 pounds," Weber said. "He's an aggressive kid and moves well and he's better than most of the small wrestlers I've seen in the area," Weber said.

If Brower doesn't go at 95 he will be a 103-pound candidate. Letterman Steve Penna will either wrestle at 103 or 112 pounds.

Penna started the season at 112 but lost some weight and Weber expects to use him in the 103 pound class. Penna stood out for the Dutch in this bracket last season. David Lubbers and Tom Dykstra are other 103 or 112-pound prospects.

At 120 or 127 pounds, Harry Bose or Dykstra are top contenders backed up by Mike Dorn, Junior Ruiz and Ken Kolenbrand. If Bose doesn't wrestle at 120, he will grapple at 127 pounds.

Bose is "solid" at 127 while other 127-pounders are Ed Garcia and George Brigrance. Craig Kuite, letterman Jim Dykstra, Walt Van Oosterhout and Tom Arendshorst are scrapping for the 133-pound spot.

Al Bosch, another letterman, may also work at 133 pounds but Weber expects Bosch to be in the 138-pound bracket. Other 138-pounders are Jim Dykstra, Al Vandenberg and Allan Croff.

Tom Coleman and Dave Risselada are the top 145-pound contenders with Dave Egger, Mike Eody and Louis Gonzales the other candidates. Rich Collins will also see action at either 138 or 145 pounds.

Letterman Jim Van Fleet will wrestle at 154 pounds while other candidates are Scott Wyman, Art Gonzales and Mike Westerhof. Tom Alfieri, another letterman, joined the squad Wednesday and is catching up on condition.

He will be strong in this class along with Gary Hopkins, who tore some cartilage in his chest and will be out for two weeks. Weber is high on Hopkins. "He will be a strong competitor, learns quickly and has lots of drive," Weber said.

Tom Shashagway is learning rapidly at 165 pounds and other hopefuls are Dale Colburn, Theron Wierenga, Steve Bronson and Ron Vande Wege.

Les Baumann has looked strong at 180 pounds, Weber said, and has the inside track. Heavyweight letterman Terry Husted may also wrestle at 180. The other heavyweight grapplers are Rich Miner, Dan Hill and Tom Bolhuis.

Holland opens its schedule Friday, Dec. 1 at Grandville. All of Holland's meets in December and January will be on the road and the home meets in February will be staged in Holland's new field house.

Highlighting the schedule will be the Zeeland Invitational tournament in Zeeland, Dec. 29-30. A total of seven teams are competing in the event and a team trophy and individual medals will be distributed.

Holland Family Injured in Crash

Four members of a Holland family were hospitalized in South Haven Community Hospital Friday night following a two-car head-on collision about four miles south of South Haven.

Egbert Texer, 42, of 27 East 27th St., Holland, and his wife Leona, 35, and son Douglas, 14, remained in the hospital Saturday. Eleven year-old Suzanne was discharged from the hospital Friday night after receiving treatment for minor bruises and abrasions.

Texer suffered a severe laceration of the right eyebrow while his son received a similar injury of the left eyebrow. Mrs. Texer received facial and hand injuries which required x-rays, hospital authorities said.

State police from the South Haven post said that Texer, who was going north, was attempting to pass three cars when his car collided with a southbound car driven by Edward Balyeat, 43, of St. Joseph. Officers said Balyeat tried to get off the road for the oncoming car. Balyeat was not injured.

Police charged Texer with improper passing.

Salvation Army Bells Start Ringing Today

Salvation Army lassies have a new look this year as they presided over Christmas kettles during shopping hours downtown from now until Christmas.

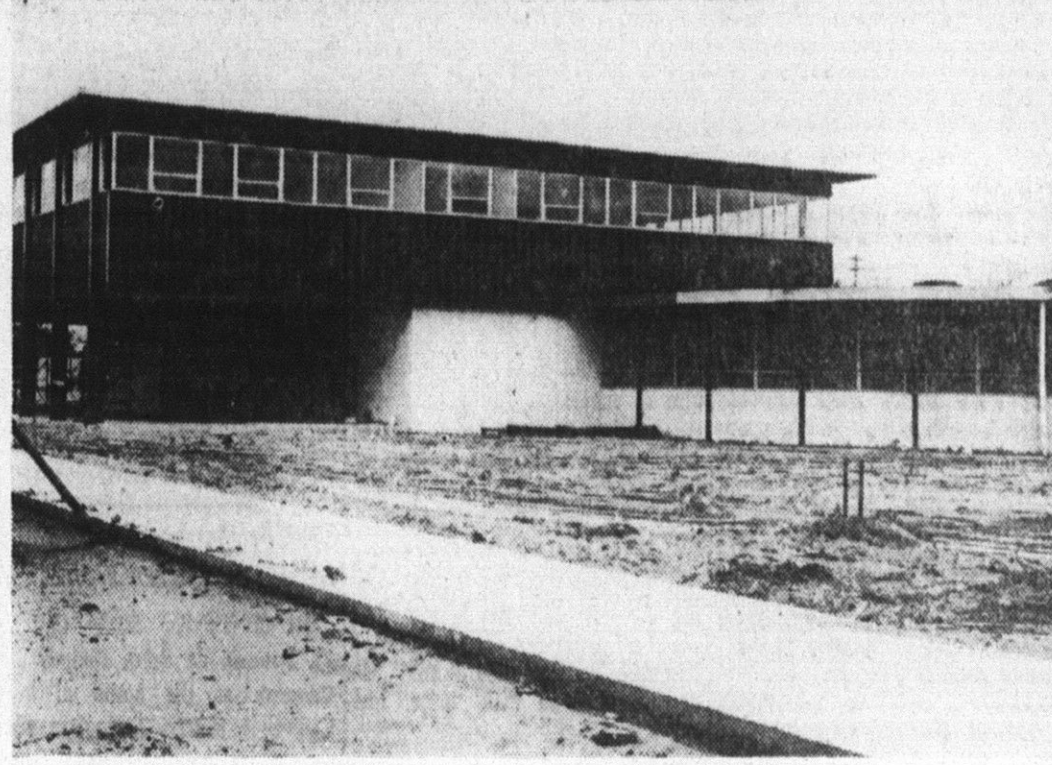

Local women are wearing red capes and overseas caps. The kettles appeared for the first time today.

Capt. Eric Britcher said proceeds will go for Christmas baskets and in some cases for toys. Any proceeds left will be used for welfare purposes throughout the year.

DOMES NOW WHITE — The picturesque fieldhouse which dominates the cluster of buildings for Holland's new high school has a white dome after drawing comment for many months because of its black "tarpaper" appearance. Workmen are shown here applying white plastic which is the permanent finish. The huge building with its 90-foot beams is equally impressive from the inside. Lockers, basketball backstops, scoreboards and bleachers will be installed after Dec. 1. (Sentinel photo)

ACADEMIC UNIT — This is one of two academic units housing classrooms for general classes in the new high school nearing completion on its site at 24th St. and Van Raalte Ave. General classrooms are on the lower level in wedge-shaped rooms and science and commercial classrooms are on the upper level. The two academic units will be the first buildings to be finished. Other buildings are the library, art center, fieldhouse, auditorium-music building and shop building. The school is scheduled for use during the second semester. (Sentinel photo)

INSPECT SCHOOL — Fire Inspector Marvin Mokma of Holland (right) and William Cram of the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal Division (second from right) last week went over the new Holland High School with a fine tooth comb, checking for compliance with

Continue Work on School

Contracts for Holland's new senior high school were let just over a year ago and today the seven buildings of the award winning school are in various finishing stages with a view to opening the school for the second semester Jan. 29.

And with constant development on the high school site are certain renovations and other building activity elsewhere in the public school system, all part of the bond issue passed about a year and a half ago.

Persons watching development for the new high school observe at first view that the complete site from 24th to 28th Sts. and running from Van Raalte to Harrison Aves. has been leveled and graded, seeded and covered with straw. Exterior walks and drives are almost complete and a parking lot on 24th St. for 200 cars has been blacktopped.

As of Aug. 15, 1960, the balance in the 1960 high school building and site fund was $3,250,000. Additional receipts including $135,000 to date from the Herrick Foundation for the art center and $70,908.02 interest on investments brought an additional $226,816.30 for a grand total of $3,476,816.30 as of Oct. 31, 1961.

Expended to date on all building activity was $1,858,083.40, leaving an Oct. 31 balance of $1,618,732.90 in the building and site fund. Budget appropriations on all activity covering buildings, furniture and equipment, capital outlay, legal and architect fees, consulting services, building projects for junior high renovation, Lincoln school gym, other elementary school improvements, and site development, total $3,460,750.

The bond issue approved by local voters Feb. 23, 1960, called for an outlay of $3,388,000 which included $138,000 for refunding school bonds of Apple Avenue and Montello Park Schools. A separate issue of $250,000 for a swimming pool did not carry.

Elzinga and Volkers of Holland are general contractors except for the shop building which is under separate contract to Vander Veen Construction. Kirkhoff Electric has electrical contracts for all buildings and Hertel Plumbing and Heating hold the mechanical contracts for all buildings. Separate contracts for the shop building and art center were let later than contracts on academic units, field house, auditorium and library.

The two academic units will be the first buildings finished in the group and it is expected they will be ready for installation of equipment by Dec. 1. Colors are soft yellows, blues and greens to contrast with the dark laminated wood beams and charcoal window sills.

All plastering and installation of light fixtures have been completed in the new auditorium building where work is currently concentrated on installation of air conditioning and sound systems. This building also houses the music department.

The large field house with its picturesque dome has received its exterior covering of white plastic after drawing comment all summer because of its black "tarpaper" appearance. Lockers, basketball backstops, scoreboards and bleachers will be installed after Dec. 1. The library building which also houses homemaking departments and administrative offices has reached the plaster and paint stages. Library furniture from the Worden Co. of Holland will be installed in December. The home-making equipment already has arrived and will be installed in December.

The beautiful Hazel Forney Herrick Art Center, a gift to the school from the Herrick Foundation, with its facilities for painting, drawing, sculpture, ceramics, metal working, and related arts, is nearing the end of its mechanical installations. Building furnishings and equipment from the E. H. Sheldon Co. of Muskegon will be installed after Dec. 1.

The shop building, the last contract let for construction, has walls up and roof on. This building is of prefabricated steel with insulation in ceiling and sidewalls. The building also houses wood shop, machine shop, printing, drawing, power mechanics, electronics, and has two classrooms.

The high school will be closed during the week of Jan. 22 to move to the new school. Considerable progress also is reported for the new gymnasium at Lincoln School which is expected to be completed by January. The $130,000 project includes renovation of the present gym into a school library, storage room and kitchen improvements. The latter projects have been completed and the rooms are in use.

New lighting has been installed in Washington School.

Several things are scheduled for completion after the high school opens for the second semester.

Scheduled for the summer of 1962 are planting of trees and shrubs, additional walks if necessary and possible underground sprinkling system. A flagpole and school sign may be installed in February or March and exterior and grounds lighting may be done in April or May. The sculpture court between the art and library buildings will be done in the summer of 1962. Additional parking should be completed also that summer.

As for buildings, all exterior metal will receive final painting during the summer of 1962. This also applies to the exterior block of the fieldhouse and service building and the overhangs of all other buildings.

Studies will be made on wood cabinet and counter items in all areas as well as chalk and bulletin board additions and miscellaneous furniture items. Installation will be arranged either during spring vacation or during the summer of 1962.

Heating, ventilating and plumbing items will require adjustments during at least one heating cycle and probably will not be completely adjusted until the end of 1962.

Hamilton Faces Tough Varsity Schedule

HAMILTON — With a varsity basketball team for the first time, Hamilton High faces a real challenge this season with a 15-game schedule against well-established varsity teams.

Coach Tom Bos, a Zeeland native and graduate of Western Michigan University, is coaching the Hawkeyes. He directed Hamilton's first basketball team last season and the freshmen played a total of 13 games against ninth grade schools.

"We have pretty good height for sophomores," Bos said, "but we lack experience. We're playing all 12th grade schools but with our share of the breaks we could come out okay," Bos said.

Mark Johnson, 6'11" forward is a leading candidate for one starting spot while 6' Dale Folkert, 6'2" Loren Redder or 6' Jerry Van Den Beldt are vying for the other spot.

Jerry Folkert, 6'2", is the center and the guards will be 5'9".

Jerry Grissen and 6'11" Vern Rankens. All are sophomores. The other sophomore forward 6'1" Howard Elferink while 6' sophomore Bart De Jonge is a center.

Freshmen on the team are guards 5'6" Harold Drenton and 5' Darwin Rigerink and 6'1" forward Gord Locatis.
