Search for Worn Cars to Aid War Effort Is Opened

Residents Are Urged To Assist Campaign
That Closes Dec. 15

Law enforcement authorities of Ottawa county are on the look-out for "fugitives from the scrap pile"—jalopies whose days of normal travel are over but which could ramble right along mightily against the Axis in the form of armaments.

The concentrated drive to uncover worn-out automobiles and turn them into wartime scrap began Tuesday and will end Dec. 15. The Ottawa county salvage committee has appointed Sheriff William M. Boeve as chairman of the campaign in the rural areas and the chiefs of police in cities. They will have their forces of deputies and patrolmen on the lookout during this campaign to locate all the old "junkables" possible. The public is also requested to join in the hunt and report the location of any such cars or trucks to either their police department or the salvage committee.

"Although hundreds of these old cars have already been processed through the junk yards and are in the 'battle' against America's enemies, there remain many more that ought to be disposed of and now is the time to do it—when our country needs them," said John Van Dam, chairman of the county salvage committee.

"Our job," said Van Dam, "is to locate every unused or junkable jalopy and then to persuade the owner to sell it to a junk man so it may find its way into the war. We will appreciate the cooperation of the public in locating any such cars."

Residents of Ottawa county who wish to assist in the campaign may use the following report form. Names of those signing the report will be kept confidential.

In no case will the cars be requisitioned. Owners of cars which no longer are useful for transportation will be contacted and urged to dispose of the vehicles as scrap.

Three Fined After Hen Pheasants Are Found

Grand Haven, Dec. 3 (Special)—Conservation Officer Forrest Lavy and state police arrested three men Tuesday after finding their car parked on the highway near here while they spent the day hunting in nearby woods. The car belonged to Edwin C. Rhodes, 49, route 5, Muskegon, and his companions were Arthur Vander Sluis, 36, route 1, Spring Lake, and William M. McCormick, 30, of Muskegon Heights.

State police, investigating the car, found five rabbits and, under a blanket, two hen pheasants. They called Officer Lavy, and the men were located. Since none of the men would admit responsibility for shooting the pheasants, each was charged with the illegal possession of a hen pheasant. Upon pleading guilty, the men were fined $50 each and $7.25 costs and will not be able to secure a hunting license next year. Rhodes was also fined $5 and $1 costs for leaving his car parked on the highway.

Suffers Burns in Fire at Garage

De Leeuw Treated at Hospital After Sparks
Set Gasoline Ablaze

Warner De Leeuw, 56, 271 West 17th St., suffered serious burns to his hands and face in a fire which broke out in a garage at his home about 9:15 a.m. Monday.

Mr. De Leeuw, well known local contractor, was removed to Holland hospital for treatment of second degree burns on both hands and first degree burns on his face. He remained in the hospital and it was reported he was suffering considerably from pain. According to reports, Mr. De Leeuw and Gerald Hilbink, route 6, Holland, an employee of the former, were under the truck investigating a leak in the gasoline tank. They were using an electric light extension and when the bulb struck the floor it broke and the resulting sparks set fire to the gasoline.

Mr. Hilbink was not burned. The fire spread to the building. The truck was burned somewhat but it and the family car were pulled from the burning garage. Holland firemen responded to an alarm and remained on the scene for about half an hour. The garage rafters were so badly burned that the roof was left in a sagging position, firemen reported.

Deising Has Close Call in Invasion of North Africa

Monty Deising, 182 Columbia Ave., was believed today to be back in naval action following a brief respite after the invasion of North Africa in which a lapse of 12 minutes saved him from being hit by a shell.

In a letter sent from an east coast city to The Sentinel, Deising said he hoped soon to receive a furlough which would permit him to return to Holland for a few days.

"I have just returned to the states from the African battle," he said. "The ship which I fought on suffered slight damage."

"I am very thankful to be able to say that 12 minutes later in a place where I was standing a shell struck. The ship that I fought on stayed in the thickest part of the battle from the start of the fight until four days later."

Deising received his recruit training at Great Lakes Naval Training station and later was sent to New York city where he remained until assigned to a ship.

After spending several days in Holland on a furlough, Lieut. (jg) Crawford, accompanied by his wife and children, left for Boston to report for duty. They arrived in Boston Saturday night and registered at a hotel only one block from the scene of the blaze.

Mrs. Crawford said all navy men were pressed into service and Lieut. Crawford was assigned to direct traffic in the vicinity of the fire. Ride 'Hooking' Is Aired by Council Without taking any action common council Wednesday night gave recognition to the dangerous situation which exists in Holland by children hooking sleds or grabbing onto the rear of automobiles for rides, now that the first heavy snow has fallen.

Ald. Bruce Raymond reported having received a telephone call from an official of the Holland safety council in which an appeal was made for the public to cooperate with the police and school teachers to abolish this practice. Raymond referred to a warning which appeared in Tuesday's Sentinel, which the safety council appreciates, but he said he felt that steps should be taken to safeguard children from accidents.

The Holland police department also is faced with this same problem. Tuesday night officers investigated numerous complaints of children hooking rides and some motorists went to police headquarters to register complaints, fearing that some child might be seriously injured. Police are requesting parent cooperation in doing away with this practice.

Raymond said the police are handling the situation as best they can. Ald. Bernard De Pree referred to the practice of bicycle riders who leave their bicycles parked on sidewalks and in front of downtown business establishments. He said a near-blind man fell over two bicycles recently because they had been "carelessly" left on the sidewalk. De Pree reported merchants have complained, but are powerless to remedy the situation.

Raymond said the safety council is considering a plan in which bicycle parking stands would be set up but that it is not ready to make recommendations at the present time.

Truck and Auto Are in Accident

A truck, loaded with 2 1/2 tons of butter, and an automobile were involved in an accident about noon Wednesday on US-31, three miles south of Holland, during the blizzard which limited the visibility of the drivers.

Because of the storm, it was impossible to place a wrecker crossways of the road to pull the truck back onto the road until this forenoon. A wrecker of the Holland Wrecking and Auto parts was called. It was not necessary to unload the butter from the truck.

According to state police at the South Haven post, the truck was driven by Walter Robbins, Jr., of Pullman, and the car was driven by Balwin Hergenhan of Huntly, Ill. The truck was proceeding north toward Holland and Hergenhan was going south.

The truck was owned by Lyle Hoyt of the Pearl Creamery Co. at Pullman. The impact of the collision reportedly pulled the gasoline tank off the truck, flinging it a distance of some 60 feet away where it caught fire but did not explode.

Jalopies Are Needed for Scrap

Impressive Rites Mark Launching Of Naval Vessel

Twelve Hundred See
Christening of U-Boat Chaser at Local Firm

With the words "I christen thee..." Mrs. John Gingrich, Washington, D.C., wife of a U.S. navy captain, broke a bottle of champagne over the bow of the first submarine chaser to be constructed by the Victory Shipbuilding Co., and sent it sliding down the ways into Lake Macatawa in a historic event Saturday afternoon at Macatawa park.

Approximately 1,200 persons witnessed the launching ceremony, probably the first in Holland for any major craft to be constructed by a local firm for the U.S. navy. Among those present were company employees, naval and coast guard officials and invited guests. The program was not open to the public.

Mrs. Gingrich stood on an elevated platform with Irvin Bletz, president of the company, and R. W. Bramberg, chairman of the board of directors, for the christening ceremony. As sponsor of the 110-foot, all-wood craft, she said it was the "most thrilling day of my life and I am proud and consider it a great honor and privilege to sponsor this ship."

With the United States at war against the Axis and with the boat scheduled to become a unit of the U.S. navy, extreme precautions were taken by the navy and coast guard to protect the sub-chaser from sabotage.

Armed coast guardsmen were stationed on and about the ship in the vicinity of the launching, and about and inside the buildings and on the company's property. Eighteen coast guardsmen came here from the Muskegon station to aid another 18 coast guardsmen from the Holland station. The eight members of the company's plant police also were on duty.

Photographers were limited to four and each had to be identified and had to submit credentials before admission to the company's property. Certain restrictions were issued to each photographer and pictures and negatives had to be submitted to Lieut. (jg) B. J. Platt, U.S.N.R., who is assistant supervisor of shipbuilding, U. S. navy, at the Victory Shipbuilding Co., for naval approval before publication. During the time they were on the company property, each photographer was accompanied at all times by a coast guardsman.

While the sub-chaser slid down the ways into the lake, the Holland American Legion band played a medley of sea songs. Prior to the ceremonies, the American Legion band played a brief concert.

Dr. Wynand Wichers, president of Hope college, who spoke first, recalled that 78 years ago Holland pioneers had started construction of a ship but it was never launched. He told briefly how Mr. Bletz and Mr. Bramberg came to Holland and said the launching of this submarine chaser which will join other similar craft was a tribute to the builders. Dr. Wichers introduced Mr. Bletz and Mr. Bramberg to the audience.

After welcoming the guests, Mr. Bramberg said that "our ego is probably very well inflated today but if you will consider our record, we believe that you will also agree that this is something which we can point to with pride."

He told how the company received its contract from the navy last May 7 to build the ships, that it was necessary to remove 188 large pleasure boats from storage, install concrete floors, build wooden platforms and runways, purchase and install machinery and acquire materials some of which are high on the priority lists. He said the keel and frame of the new ship were deep rooted trees last May and that it was necessary to go into the woods of Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky to find the trees.

Mr. Bramberg related how he and Mr. Bletz worked from 14 to 16 hours every day to complete organization of the company which now has more than 130 employees, 90 per cent of whom had never had any shipbuilding experience.

Among the honored guests present were Lieut. Cooke of the ninth naval district security office, Lieut. (jg) Sweeney of the U.S. coast guard, captain of the port at Muskegon, and Chief Petty Officer Reed of the ninth naval district security office.

Lieut. Platt spoke briefly, saying that every employee had been busy for six months, that they had worked hard and fast. He expressed belief that the officers and crew who man the ship would fight just as hard.

Mrs. Gingrich called upon Dr. H. D. Terkeurst, pastor of Trinity Reformed church who has applied for a chaplaincy in the navy, to invoke the blessing of God on the ship.

Gas Rationing Not to Interfere With Court; Judge to Hold Sessions Here

Now that gasoline rationing has gone into effect, local attorneys and those involved in court litigation may find it difficult in the future to travel at random to Grand Haven, the county seat of Ottawa county, by automobile due to lack of sufficient gasoline.

To forestall any possible hardships, Judge Fred T. Miles of Ottawa circuit court has offered to remedy the situation by holding court sessions on certain occasions in Holland, common council learned Wednesday night from City Attorney Clarence A. Lokken, presiding the court is allowed to do so. The council chambers for such hearings.

At Lokker's suggestion, council, on motion of Ald. Bruce Raymond, authorized the sending of a communication to Judge Miles in which he will be offered use of the council chambers as long as it does not interfere with other civic uses or its use by the municipal court.

The city attorney said he took it upon himself to grant Judge Miles permission to use the council chambers Wednesday to preside over a civil case. The city attorney also reported that Judge Cornelius Hoffius of Grand Rapids was scheduled to preside over another civil case today and Friday in the city hall.

Lokker advised council that Judge Miles would hold court in Holland only on occasions when it was agreeable with the lawyers and those involved in the case. He said he felt the city would have no objection to this but would welcome the opportunity to serve the community more efficiently.

Judge Miles resides in Holland and likewise has to travel to Grand Haven to preside over sessions of the Ottawa circuit court.

Registration Work Is Progressing Nicely

Flames Damage Local Residence

Considerable damage resulted to the three-family residence at 25 East 10th St. when fire broke out about 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

The home was owned by Bert Breuker, route 6, Holland.

Only two of the three apartments were occupied, Mrs. and Mrs. Bernard Van Langevelde living in the west downstairs apartment and Mr. and Mrs. George Nash, occupying the east apartment. The east downstairs apartment was vacant.

Mrs. Breuker expressed belief that the fire may have started from an overheated stove in the Van Langevelde apartment. Neither Mr. and Mrs. Van Langevelde nor Mr. and Mrs. Nash were at home at the time.

Most of the damage was to the west side of the residence where the roof caved in and partitions were burned out. It was reported that Mr. Van Langevelde carried an insurance on his household furnishings while Mr. Breuker had insurance on the home.

Holland firemen responded to an alarm and remained on the scene until almost 10 p.m., using water from two large lines of hose and from two booster pump lines to bring the fire which was fanned by a stiff wind under control.

Large Residence At Graafschap Is Razed by Flames

Two Families Routed
In Nightclothing; Four
Other Alarms Occur

Holland firemen responded to five alarms from about 5 p.m. Wednesday until 10:15 a.m. today.

A large two-family home in Graafschap, owned by Mrs. Harry Bonzelaar, route 5, Holland, was destroyed by fire which broke out shortly after midnight, causing an estimated loss of several thousand dollars.

Occupants of the large residence were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reus and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hoek. Awakened by the fire, the 12 occupants which included eight children were forced to flee into the cold in their nightclothing.

Mrs. Bonzelaar estimated the damage to the house alone will amount to $3,500. She carried only $1,500 insurance on the property.

Cheryl Ann, three-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reus, suffered minor burns on her arms and legs when, it is believed, sparks fell on her as she was being carried from the burning home.

The fire started in the Reus part of the home and Fire Chief Andrew Klomparsen expressed belief that it originated from an overheated stove.

Fanned by a stiff wind, the fire threatened Mulder's hardware store and the John Walters home, located on the opposite side of the street, but firemen prevented the flames from spreading. A barn at the rear of the grocery store, also on the opposite side of the street, caught fire but was quickly extinguished with only minor damage.

Holland firemen were summoned and remained on duty for almost an hour. They used water from a booster pump and also laid a line from a nearby hydrant to fight the flames.

Prof. and Mrs. McLean discovered the fire when they were awakened by the smoke and had to flee from the burning residence.

Prof. McLean said a fire had been built in the fireplace to conserve fuel oil and the fire broke out between the partitions and apparently burned for some time before being discovered.

Police reported that Arnold Slagh, route 2, Holland, was given a traffic violation summons for parking in the fire zone.

Allowance for Clothing Granted Police Officers

Council Sets Up Fund Of Fifty Dollars Per Year for Each Officer

To provide Holland with better uniformed police officers, common council approved the creation of a $50 per year clothing allowance for each officer of the Holland police department at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

Reporting for council's public safety committee, Ald. Bruce Raymond said the officers' uniforms have become somewhat worn. He reported that they need replacing but an investigation shows them to be somewhat expensive breeches for motorcycle officers costing $25 and $26.

In his motion to create the $50 allowance, Raymond recommended that a new officer be allowed the $50 outright towards purchase of a new uniform. His motion was seconded by Ald. Ben Steffens.

Several years ago police officers were furnished with new uniforms but during the depression the officers furnished themselves as part of their pay cuts. Then more recently under the former police and fire board an officer was allowed a $30 per year allowance.

AND THE TAXPAYER PAYS

Charity and mercy are beautiful virtues, but in the maze of paternalistic schemes in Washington it is high time to show some charity and mercy to the willing but hard-pressed taxpayers. They are ready to foot the bill to the last dollar for all things necessary to win the war, but an increasingly large number of them are beginning to protest against paying for unnecessary expenses.

Thus there is the recent scheme of the WPA to establish day nurseries for young children whose mothers are going into munitions factories. All over the country, in such industrial cities as Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, the mothers are engaged in war work by the scores of thousands. Their young children have to be taken care of, if the mothers are to do their necessary work.

But—and here's the joker in the situation—the WPA idealists are proposing to establish the nurseries at the expense of the public. These women war workers are not paupers; they are not people whose children would be neglected if the government didn't look out for them. They are women who earn from 80 cents to more than $1 an hour, and at the same time their husbands are often drawing down pay at a similar or still better rate. They are the people, almost the only people, whose income is greatly increased by the war. Why should the rest of us, whose incomes have often been sharply reduced by the war, pay for the keep of the children of those newest American plutocrats?

The reason is that many social agencies have become self-perpetuating institutions. The WPA is as good an example as any. It served a very excellent purpose at one time, and some of its functions are still necessary.
But it has been fast becoming an anachronism in a world that has changed over from an economy of scarcity of jobs to one in which the jobs are crying for labor. But the vast organization of the WPA is manned by thousands of officials who are depending on it for the weekly pay check. Thinking up new schemes that will seem to make the WPA a social necessity has become their profession, and their pay depends on it.

So they think up schemes with all their might, comfortable in the knowledge that no matter how goofy the schemes may be they will be paid for by a benevolent government that has created the system. And the government merely slaps another load on the tax burden to find the money. The average citizen who is self-respecting enough to pay for the services for his own family foots the bill. It is high time to deflate all such bogus idealism.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

The Rt. Reverend James E.
Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, says, "The church and all that it stands for must make an irresistible appeal to troubled men and women today.
The churches of every name in this city open wide their doors and extend their quieting, comforting, refreshing ministry to all our people. Come to them, and in them find a brief respite from life's confusions and trials. Come to them and with neighbors and friends, forge the ties of a closer comradeship and pray earnestly for a better, more satisfying world. In them restore an impaired confidence and ease the burdens that, without a firm faith, are too heavy to be borne.
If the home front is to make strong the battle front, the home front must be made strong through the comradeship of faith and worship.

Why not accept the invitation and go to church next Sunday?

The Meaning of Church Membership
Act 2:37-47; 1 Corinthians 12:12-31; Colossians 3:1-17

By Henry Geerlings

The source of Christian morality is deeper than morality itself.
The Christian life does not begin with duties. It begins with good news. It is a gospel not an obligation. In Christ we come upon something much deeper than advice. We come upon an authentic insight into reality. We discover the reality of our own nature previously obscured by a false nature.
We discover the reality of social relationships obscured by competition and social abuses. We discover the reality of the universe often falsely interpreted as materialistic and indifferent to human fate. Through Christ we know this universe to be friendly.

How do we appropriate this reality? Through a revolution in character. We find reality by becoming real. We discover truth by becoming true to ourselves. In the language of the parable of the Prodigal Son a man comes to himself and to God. This is to find what is realistic. All other ways of life are sentimental, romantic, unrealistic. They seem to be practical, but they always break down in the end.

This insight into the kingdom of God as the only reality and the way of Christ as the only realistic way of life must precede morality.
Following upon the insight there must be a personal death and resurrection, a rebirth, a regeneration, a redemption, a conversion, or a commitment. There are many ways of saying it. Faith, repentance, confession, and baptism signify and accomplish this about-face in the character of a person. Repentance implies restoration, confession, forgiveness, reconciliation, and a positive life of love.

This means that no person may come into the church who does not come as a sinner. The genuine member is one who comes confessing his failure and putting it behind him. Without consciousness of sin there can be no real entrance into the relationship with Christ which makes church membership meaningful. With anything less than that the church is no better than an uplifted society.

The Christian insight into life and the new character which results from this insight, once life is surrendered to Christ, has far-reaching and world-shattering implications. Paul traces a few of these.

After faith we are ready for morals. Before religion, no ethics; but after religion, ethics must follow as the daylight must come when the sun rises. The old immoralities are burned out at the roots, and must of necessity withstand and die out. What are some of the things that are to be put off?

There are evil appetites. These include all sensualistic ways of life. The Christian is to be master of his appetites, not slave to them.
The Christian will no longer serve his body, but will cause his body to serve as he serves God.

There are evils of self-conceit.
Anger, railing shameful speaking, lying—these are the result of selfish separatism. Those who live to themselves by themselves are guilty of anger, selfishness, uncharitable speech, and untruth-fulness. All of these evils proceed from an undue consideration for others. They are characteristic of the unrealistic, un-Christian life.

There are racial divisions and class distinctions. These distinctions are the kind of distinctions we are always making when we do not regard the human family as one race. These race distinctions are still with us. Paul would have us make no mistake about it.
These ways of chopping up the human family into bits must not apply within the church.

The qualities of this new life are sharply contrasted with the qualities of the old life. Kindness, tolerance, forgiveness and love do not exist in themselves. They spring naturally from the new insight and purpose that come from association with Christ. None of these qualities should be strained or unnatural. They should proceed easily from the fundamental orientation to life which Christian faith involves.

Peace and harmony are to characterize the Christian internal life and his life with others, so that the church may truly be one.
Living at peace with others is again a natural outgrowth of the new frontage upon life which comes from Christian faith and unlovely.

Knowledge of Christian teaching is the outgrowth of the teaching function of the church and implies a continual replenishment by which the Christian keeps the knowledge of the teachings of Jesus fresh.

All of life is to be permeated with Christian purpose. Daily speech, home life, recreation, vocational activities, participation in national life and civic relationships—all of these are included. Christian faith is not a compartment. It does not apply to one segment of thought and action alone. It takes in everything a man has and does.

Wrecked Cars Made Like New

The Holland Body and Fender service, 50 West Eighth St., is operated by Howard Westmoreland and Edward Vile. The firm is one of the best equipped body, fender, wheel aligning and glass auto shops in Holland.

Using the Bean Wheel balancer, the firm also has expert mechanic Cars with balanced wheels are easier and safer to drive because unbalanced wheels set up a shake or tremble and, in many cases, a tramp which makes hard and tedious steering.

Pay Many Claims In Holland Area

Ben L. Van Lente, 177 College Ave., is the local agent for the State Farm Insurance Co. The local office handles a general line of insurance, including property damage and liability for autoists and accident, wind storm, tornado, fire and life insurance.

Mr. Van Lente stated recently that during the first ten months of 1942 his company has paid over 800 claims in the vicinity of Holland. He also said that during the same period of time, there was less than a 5 per cent decrease in the number of collision claims compared with a like period of 1941. This slight decrease in number is offset by the increased cost of about 35 per cent on each collision claim. With the increased earnings of defense workers the cost of liability personal injury claims have also increased considerably. In spite of this fact the rates on liability insurance have been substantially reduced. "Adequate insurance at reasonable rates" is the motto of the State Farm Agency.

Lemmen Advises Early Coal Buys

White Oak smokeless coal, sold by the Lemmen Coal Co., East Eighth St., gives any furnace a fresh start. It starts up quickly, holds fire all day, burns with a minimum of ash, and costs no more than ordinary coal. G. J. Lemmen advises everybody who possibly can to order their coal now while a supply is still available, as no one can tell what conditions will exist later in the winter.

The Lemmen Coal Co., which was founded in 1935, also handles Cranberry and Pocahontas coal. Prompt, clean and courteous delivery is guaranteed at all times.

Nelis Cites Tulip Loss for Dutch

Nelis Nurseries was established in 1922 and incorporated in 1937. Although they handle a complete line of nursery stock, trees, flowering shrubs and evergreens of almost every description, tulips always have been and still are the flower for which they are the most noted.

The management of the nurseries recently gave a Sentinel reporter this interesting fact about the tulip fields in the Netherlands: The result of 50 years of scientific culture and hybridization of tulips was lost when the German occupation authorities in The Netherlands ordered the tulip fields plowed up and potatoes planted in their stead.

Nelis has a complete line of nursery stock now available.

Pieper Points to Tests for Sight

Dr. John Pieper, 28 West Eighth St., says there is no way anyone can be absolutely sure about his eyes without a scientific check-up. If a person cannot read a newspaper at a distance of 14 inches, or read street car and bus signs at a distance of 200 feet, or "Stop" signs and other road markers at a distance of 600 feet, he may be reasonably sure that he needs glasses.

Perfect vision is an essential tool for today's increased production output. Brains think quicker—hands move faster, more accurately—when the worker's vision is unimpaired, yet fully 25 per cent of all workers in this country have uncorrected errors of vision.
