Zeeland Offers Perpetual Care in New Cemetery

NEW ENTRANCE TO BE BUILT; CIRCULAR PLOT TO CONTAIN MEMORIAL MONUMENT

Since Zeeland acquired the Oetman property on Lincoln St., a very laudable transformation has been taking place. The old gulley, formerly a drainage and sewer outlet, has been completely filled up and leveled. The site of the old landmark, long termed "The Parsonage," and its appurtenant farm buildings has been cleared of brush and weeds and the tall tele evidence of dilapidation.

The Zeeland council has decided to name this additional property Restlawn, a cemetery which will also be administered by the city's cemetery commission, Messrs. C. Roosenraad, J. N. Clark, D. F. Boonstra, Peter Hoekstra and C. A. van Bosch.

A new entrance will be laid out in plating this property, which will open directly from South Church St. It will not be a public street but will be amply wide. A short distance from the entrance, a large circular plot, fifty feet in diameter, will be laid out directly in the path of this approach which will divide and circle about that site with a 30-foot street. In this circle, the Memorial Monument, donated and dedicated by Mr. C. Roosenraad to the World War veterans, will be erected, removing it from its former site in the older cemetery.

The front portion of this new area will not immediately be opened for interment purposes. Lots will be staked out and offered for sale to purchasers, under a perpetual care and upkeep agreement. In this section the commissioners will promulgate regulations covering requirements for markers and monuments as to style, type and size in order to effectively maintain a harmonious and beautiful vista.

If this May weather continues very much longer in December, the first winter month will go down in history as one of the warmest of all time as far as Holland is concerned.

COUNCIL NOTES

Rev. Zeth Vander Werf opened the council with prayer.

There were ten aldermen present, Fritz Jonkman was one of the absentees, he being on a trip to Europe.

The oath of office of James McLean, new member of the board of public works, named in place of the late Walter Lane, was accepted and filed.

Alderman Westing reported $219 paid to the welfare department, $112 regular aid and $107 temporary aid.

The committee on sewer, drain and water courses allowed Walter Pail to construct a culvert across his property on Cherry Street to be built at his own expense and according to city regulation.

The board of public works reported that the high tension wires belonging to the Consumers Power Co. and running along 20th street are in bad shape, dangerous and should be removed. The matter was referred to the city attorney for action. These wires are left-overs from the old Holland incinerator which the Consumers Power Co. purchased. When the local railroad was put out of commission, the Consumers stretched their wires along Fairbanks Ave. south, on 20th street west. It is understood however that the company is going to skirt the city with its wires and remove those within the city limits.

The Ways and Means committee is to advertise for bids to have the city books audited by expert accountants. This is done annually.

City Clerk Peterson has been instructed to advertise the sale of eighth street bonds. These bonds are issued to pay for the new pavement. The whole issue is for $19,490.55. The amount to be sold, however is $16,300, the difference being assumed by the city, since the first payment is made in February. The amount includes 25% of the sum total of the payment of eighth street which was levied on the property holders. 75% of it will be remembered was assumed by the city at large.

The Happiest Man is The Man Who Gives

DIEKEMA TELLS STORY OF PILGRIM TRAVELLING FOUR ROADS

The Happiest Man Must Have Been The Man From Galilee "Who Gave His All."

Wm. J. Olive, president of the Exchange Club fittingly introduced our townsman, G. J. Diekema, as the guest and after dinner speaker Wednesday noon.

Mr. Diekema stated that the subject he was given to speak on was "Happiness" and he felt that the Exchange Club was brim full of it since they opened the meeting with the song "Smiles, that Make Us Happy" and closed with the offering "Pack up Your Troubles," which he stated was a happy frame of mind to be in.

Mr. Diekema said in part as follows:

"We are all emerging from the unknown and we are marching onward to a destiny that is only partly revealed to us, but this tremendous army of travellers and endless procession is marching on. The white, the black, the yellow, the child in its innocence, the older grown with anticipation, the tottering aged slowly marching on."

"There is the joy and sound of wedding bells and the mournful dirge, and as this legion marches on some drop away and with time the ranks grow thinner and thinner. This is a picture of life's span from youth to old age. Some march to greater heights, others to failures and disappointments. Some tread the "primrose path" of ease and luxury, others the path of avarice but the procession moves on, it never stops."

"In this concourse of people travelling this long and dusty road there is not one but who is imbued with two hopes, that of immortality, a life free from pain, sickness and sorrow in a place somewhere beyond the stars. The second hope is the desire for happiness, the subject which I am about to talk upon."

"Happiness—what is it? Is there a road to happiness? If so, where is it? This is the thought that is in every human mind. I can best picture that through an illustration of a pilgrim searching for it on four highways of life."

"The first road the pilgrim takes is to wealth. He believes that supreme happiness lies in piling up a fortune and adding farm to farm, barn to barn and piling up possessions, but he finds that he is so occupied with money making that he has no time for his family, no time for his friends, too busy for church work, occupied in his own narrow sphere amassing silver and gold, and soon he becomes a miser—a slave to his own wealth rather than a master of it. He feels lonely as he grows older and although successful in terms of wealth he really has been a dismal failure. He finds no happiness on this road."

"The pilgrim says 'this is not the road to happiness, I shall travel the road of pleasure and shall be supremely happy'."

"He builds himself a large home with gardens, streams and waterfalls. He surrounds himself with women, pleasure makers, food from distant lands. He lives a life of pleasure and as the years creep upon him he finds that his nerve is gone, his stomach is paralyzed, the sweet morsels of yesterday are nauseating today."

"The pilgrim finds that the road of pleasure is not the road of happiness but the road to despondency. "So the pilgrim takes the third road and says 'I shall acquire knowledge, I shall climb the cold mountain of education, I shall know more than my fellows and be supremely happy.'"

"He makes the climb and soon finds himself isolated from his fellows. He is much alone on this cold somber peak on the mountain of knowledge and in his loneliness he says 'This surely is not happiness.'"

"In despair the pilgrim, who had grown old with travel seeking happiness but in vain, comes to the fourth and last road."

"It is the road to giving, it is the road to sacrifice. In his despair he bows his head and prays for guidance fearing to go astray any longer."

"A great light dawns upon him, his face beams with life, his otherwise tottering step is quickened. The old body is imbued with a new spirit."

"The pilgrim cries out 'I have found it! I have found it! I now fear God and obey his commandments. I abhor selfishness, I disdain self-pleasure. I seek wisdom acceptable in the sight of God. I can now give, I can now share with others, I can now make sacrifices and feel the happiness of giving. I can now enjoy these good things that life gives, not by selfish appropriation but by sharing part of these pleasures and this happiness with others.'"

"And so the pilgrim after a lifetime of search has found the road to happiness. "Happiness is a state of mind, reflected in the faces of others. A selfish man can never be happy. You have never seen the smile of real happiness on the face of a person whom you know is really selfish."

"What is in the heart is reflected in the face. The face is the mirror of a man's inmost soul. "I can best illustrate happiness through the story of a king who had a large bell erected on his palace grounds. He was an unhappy king, and wanted to be happy so much but real happiness passed him by."

"He said, 'I am erecting this bell so that it may be rung at a time when I am supremely happy.' The king lived on, the years rolled by but the bell was silent. One day the king became desperately ill. One morning surrounded by his

The summer hack doing duty between the City Hotel and the depot is now in winter quarters and a fine light bob-sleigh is put in service. Note: The City Hotel was built in 1872, was later called Hotel Holland, and was located on the Warm Friend Tavern site.

Sleighing is here for good this winter and there is great activity in the woods near by. Logs, cordwood, stove bolts and stove wood are being brought to town by sleigh and grain too is being hauled to the mills here. Henry Westveer has sold his store in the First Ward Drug Store to Dr. A. A. Schouten, who is now doing business in his own name. Note: The Schouten drug store was then a frame building. Many years afterward the doctor built the brick building now occupied by Jack Blue. Hope College Coach Jack Schouten conducted the drug store for a time after the death of his father.

The death of Jefferson Davis, Jr., leaves the ex-President of the Southern Confederacy without a relative bearing the name of Davis. Senator James G. Blaine made his speech on southern outrages in the U. S. Senate Wednesday last, but it must be admitted that the shirt has changed color a little and was not quite as bloody as before. His main point in the speech was "that the Southerners, by intimidation, etc., had got control of the negro vote and thus controlled a larger representative vote in congress, pro rata, than their white fellow citizens of the north."

Harbor Congress Committee Has Returned Home

Mayor Brooks Says City Should Not Fail to Send Representatives Annually

The delegation from Holland, namely Mayor Brooks, city attorney McBride, and G. J. Diekema, representing this vicinity at the River and Harbor Congress at Washington, D. C. have returned, and the mayor gave a verbal report to the common council Wednesday evening.

Mr. Brooks says this congress was very much worth while, especially since this city has a harbor to maintain.

The Holland delegates become directly acquainted with the powers that be and also gain information as to what is required to make the proper showing at Washington when this harbor is specifically taken up.

While the direct results achieved for this year were not all to be desired because of the attitude of President Coolidge toward the River and Harbor bill, better things are expected later. The president has indicated that if the River and Harbor bill passed as it was drafted that he would veto it.

First, because of tremendous lot of money that is being spent on the much needed flood protection project in the Mississippi Valley and second, because of his program of economy.

In view of these facts the River and Harbor Congress felt that it was safer to hold the Rivers and Harbors bill over until the next session when President Hoover will be at the helm.

The delay will not effect Holland alone but the appropriation of every harbor and river in this country. Holland is listed for an appropriation in 1929 of approximately $50,000 and for $100,000 in 1930.

City Attorney McBride also gave a short report along the lines given by Mayor Brooks stressing the fact that it was through this River and Harbor Congress that Holland can keep in close touch with its own harbor interests.

Every lake port town sends their most representative delegation to Washington and Congress keeps close tab of these representatives who come to the conference.

Holland must not fail to send a delegation each year for then the heads at Washington will know that we are alive to our own interests. No delegation would indicate that we are not much concerned and would soon reflect in the help we receive from the government.

TWIN CHRISTMAS TREES IN PARK MAY BE ILLUMINATED

It is understood that R. B. Champion, of the board of public works, is making special provisions to trim the twin fir trees in Centennial Park, to be lighted up from Christmas eve to and including New Year's night, as soon as the organization in charge gives the word.

It is especially brilliant and no doubt the proper arrangements will be forthcoming to put on this beautiful and most appropriate annual event.

FILES SUIT FOR $5700 DAMAGE

De Pree of Zeeland has filed suit in circuit court against Lambertus Van Heest for $5,700 which plaintiff alleges was spent in redeeming 611 shares of Holland-St. Louis Sugar Co. stock left with defendant as security for the purchase of other stock. Plaintiff charges defendant used the stock as collateral.

Rev. Hoffman Resigns as Ref. Church Pastor

WAS FORMERLY IN CHARGE OF SECOND REF. CHURCH OF ZEELAND

Ottawa County folk were very sorry to learn that Rev. Benj. Hoffman, former pastor of the Second Reformed church of Zeeland has been compelled to discontinue his duties as a regular pastor in the Reformed church. The cause was illness, so it was impossible to continue the work, and his release from his contract with the Reformed church at Morrison, Ill., was granted by the Classis of Chicago. Mrs. Hoffman has also been ill for several years.

Mr. Hoffman has been a minister of the gospel for the past thirty years, and he has been affiliated with the Reformed denomination during this period. He graduated from the Western Theological Seminary at Holland in 1898, and he has held pastorates at Spring Lake, Grand Rapids, Zeeland, and Morrison, Ill. He left Zeeland about five years ago to become pastor of the Illinois city church.

While in Zeeland, Rev. Hoffman was very successful in his work, and he was held in the highest esteem.

The new traffic lights recently installed at Grand Haven are proving to be a great convenience to both motorists and pedestrians, and there also seems to be a tendency to be more careful on the part of the public. Similar lights have been purchased by the city of Holland and will be installed here as soon as equipment arrives. The red and green lights alternate with the amber light only previous to the red signal which gives the motorist a chance to stop. There is no warning at the through signal.

A reception was held at the O. E. S. hall at Fennville Tuesday night for Miss Marjorie Bassett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bassett, who recently was elected to the Grand lodge, O. E. S. of Michigan. Two hundred attended the event.

TAXPAYERS OF HOLLAND GET EXTENSION

On motion of Alderman Brive, seconded by Alderman Kleis, the Common Council Wednesday evening resolved to extend the time for payment of taxes to January 10th, instead of January first, as heretofore.

In the first place, there is a lot of sickness in Holland, the holiday season always carry added expense, as well as the winter necessities, and the Common Council felt that a breathing spell of ten days was not of order and no doubt please a great many of the tax payers.

TWO POLICEMEN ARE ASKED TO RESIGN

For no given reason two old and faithful patrolmen have been asked to resign from the police force, namely Rufus Cramer and ex-sheriff Cornelius Dornbos.

Cramer especially has been one of the most accommodating officers on the force and is popular with the tourist public.

Dornbos, as a game warden, a sheriff or a patrolman, has always been considered as an able officer. Strange things have been happening at police board sessions. Mr. Van Etta, a stranger on the police force, has been appointed to a job that has been considered an advancement by the old patrolmen. It was the position given to Officer Steketee, the oldest man on the force, namely that of night sergeant, and his election to the office of sheriff left the vacancy that seemed should have been filled by one of the old, tried and true men.

In the older days the selection of patrolmen was left to the chief of police, as was the discharging of a man. In fact, it was considered part of his work. His action was approved by the board.

Today, it would appear that the board hires and fires. The patrolmen do not have to look to their chief, but rather to five board members who cannot be in as direct touch with the force as can the chief with whom they are associated.

Surely such a method does not strengthen discipline among the patrolmen, when they feel their head practically has no voice in matters in which he is directly concerned, and among men whom he is supposed to command.

The News fails to know the whys and wherefores for the recent actions of the police board.

We hope that Chief Van Ry and the old boys of the force will be given a fair consideration. They have done admirably with a force of six men guarding this large city night and day. The detail of this job alone is a tremendous task.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

The Holland City News has four sections this week and every day is a news item in itself, for there are hundreds and hundreds of Christmas suggestions contained in these advertisements.

PIONEER CHURCH SOCIETY RE-ELECT FOUNDER PRESIDENT

The annual meeting of the Men's Relief Society of Trinity Church was held in the basement of the church last Monday evening. The following officers were reelected: President, Mr. A. Van Ry; Vice President, H. Van Lente; Secretary, Mr. Chas. Dykstra; Treasurer, Mr. Geo. Albers. Mr. H. Houting was chosen director. The society has paid $1176.70 in claims during the past year, the largest amount ever paid. It gives aid in times of sickness and death. At the business session a surprise was sprung on the president by one of the members, Mr. N. J. Jonker who moved that a gift be presented to the president, Mr. Van Ry. This was unanimously carried. Mr. Jonker then with a few fitting words presented in the name of the Board and the Society Mr. Van Ry with a fine watch chain as a token of appreciation for his long and faithful service. Mr. Van Ry was completely taken by surprise and thanked the members. A program followed, an orchestra played, the Misses Albers rendered a duet and Miss Gertrude Baker gave a reading. Refreshments were served. The organization was originated by Mr. Van Ry and has been a help to many members. Other churches have followed the example of this society which is a pioneer.

The Vriesland Sink Hole Has Been Conquered

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS HAVE BEEN SPENT BY THE STATE TO CROSS THIS BAD SPOT

For the past five years the sink hole at Vriesland has been the source of annoyance to the Ottawa County Road Commission not alone, but especially to the State Road Department.

For some time it has been considered as a hole that could not be covered. For years the Pere Marquette has been having trouble at that point and it has been said that there is an underground lake there that could not be filled.

The State Highway department about five years ago attempted to make a fill when the sand out of a hill in the neighborhood, was dumped into the sink hole during the day and the next day the entire fill was swallowed up and this was repeated nearly one whole summer until practically the entire hill, yielding thousands of loads, had been cut away.

After a conference with the Ottawa County Road Commission the job was given up and a temporary wooden bridge has spanned this mire of quicksand.

The wooden structure has served its purpose since the new trunk line to Grand Rapids was built.

Another try was made late last fall at a different spot and from outward appearances it would seem that the job would never end but undoubtedly the engineers met with more difficulties which were overcome and the bridge is now complete.

The new bridge which was constructed under difficulties, is composed of three spans, each approximately 20 feet in length. The entire bridge over all measure 58 1/2 feet, with the center section which spans the drain 18 1/2 feet. The width of the structure is 40 feet. It has a concrete floor.

The treacherous sinking and delayed the work. The contract called for four pairs of caisson piers of reinforced concrete that had to be sunk to bed rock 45 feet under the sinking ground. The builders were forced to work slowly or the rapid action of the water in the sand would trap them before they could be removed to the top. In spite of this danger no one was injured.

The work on the structure was begun about July 1 and was finished on schedule time. Plans are being presented to place the approach to the bridge in better condition. The construction of a concrete roadbed again may be attempted in the near future.

COLDS LEAD TO THE GRAVE

A cold is not to be sneezed at, says Chicago's health commissioner. That is not a joke. At least 75 per cent of the 3,187 deaths that have occurred so far this year in Chicago from pneumonia originated in colds, according to Dr. Kegel. The same authority estimates the annual economic loss from colds in that city alone at $20,000,000.

Chicago colds are no more dangerous than Holland colds. They are all encouraged by certain remediable conditions, among which first place must be given to reduced bodily resistance through lack of sleep or lack of proper exercise, fatigue, an improper diet, overheated and inadequately ventilated rooms, or local infections. They may be combated by avoiding these causes of reduced vitality and protecting oneself from sudden exposure to extremes of heat or cold.

The popular habit of doing nothing to cure colds is a relic to an age when it was not so definitely known, as it is today, that they led to diseases such as influenza, bronchitis, tuberculosis and pneumonia. The idea of going to bed with a cold, or because of it, appears ludicrous to robust men, who would rather run the risk of going to the grave with pneumonia or the "flu." They may have a right to indulge this folly, as long as they confine the consequences of it to themselves; but they become a public menace when they insist on coughing and sneezing the germs of a cold into the faces of others in public conveyances and meeting places.

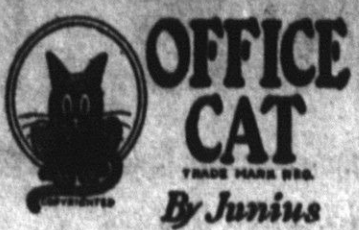

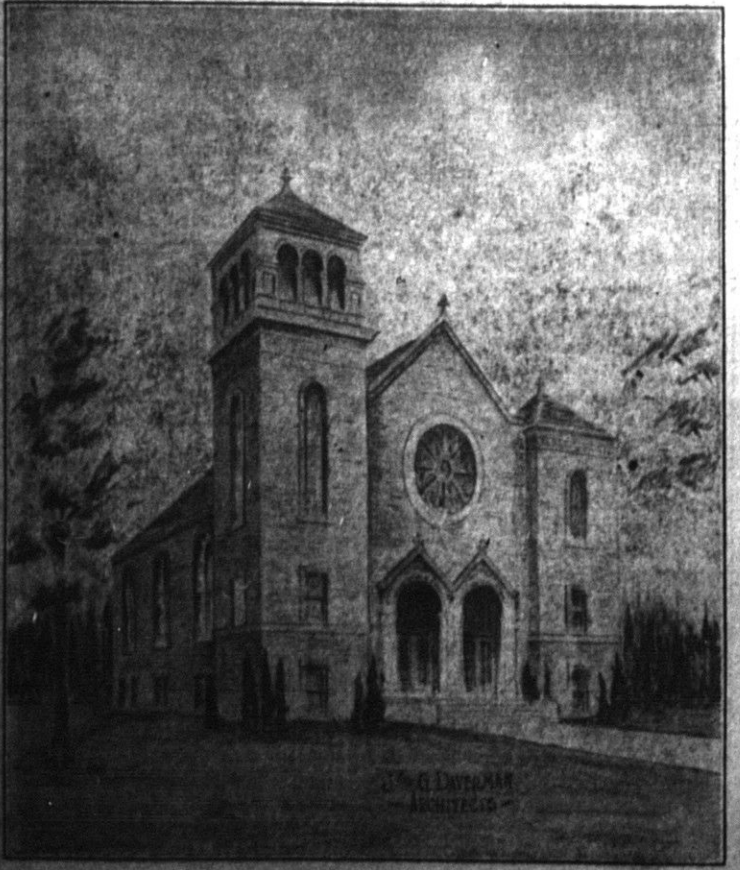

SUPPOSING CHICAGO CAN'T GET NOAH'S ARK

The heated term has long been definitely a thing of the past, and the frosty breezes from Lake Michigan should be now have well cooled the fevered brows and brains of those domiciled along its coasts. Yet see what has come out of Chicago only this week! Nothing less, forsooth, than the announcement of a plan to put over a big sensation at the 1933 centennial in the Windy City by producing the original, one and only ark that Noah built and used during the period of excessively high water, popularly known as the Flood.

The parentage of this truly noble scheme is credited to William H. Strong, described as a former president of the Chicago chapter, American Association of Engineers, who, according to accounts, is confident that the ark is somewhere on the top of Mt. Ararat, simply because there is no reason why it should have been destroyed or should have decayed in a mere five thousand years, and who purposes exploring the heights, and breadth and length of the range with airplanes, carrying powerful long distance detective cameras.

We have but a single suggestion to make. In case Mr. Strong is unable to find the object of his search, or in case he does find it and encounters insuperable difficulties when he undertakes to place it on skids and roll it down hill to the nearest seaport, there still will be a consolation prize for which he may search. Noah left a second monument to his career in the form of the first postdeluvian wine press, and presumably he did his bootlegging in some valley not far from the mountain that ended his career as a navigator. If Mr. Strong can find the patriarch's grape squeezer he will have something that will interest his fellow townsmen more than any ark would.

Uncle Sam Will Keep Highways Free From Snow

EVERY $100 SPENT IN SNOW REMOVAL MEANS $1,000 MORE IN BUSINESS TO COMMUNITY

More than 122,000 miles, nearly 50 per cent of the main arteries of vehicular travel in the 36 states in the snow belt, will be kept open and free from snow during the present winter, according to a statement issued today by national headquarters of the American Automobile association, according to information from Washington, D. C.

Approximately $5,425,000 will be expended for this extensive program and it will mean a saving of millions of dollars in economic benefits to the snow states.

The national motoring body says that while it is true that the problem of snow removal has been gradually brought to a more standardized basis, there is still much to be done, and every effort will be continued to have this program extended, not only in the interests of economy, but as a vital factor in distributing food, maintaining social communications and keeping the schools in operation.

In the winter of 1927-28 a total of more than 117,000 miles were cleared of snow, the A. A. A. says, and this mileage will be increased 5 per cent in the winter of 1928-29. The estimated cost for the ensuing winter is based on a slight increase in both mileage and cost over last winter.

The A. A. A. estimates that every $100 spent in snow removal yields $1,000 in more efficient transportation and business, every community thus benefited.

HOLLAND DOESN'T CARE WHAT THEY CALL IT, IF WE ONLY GET THE ROAD

Holland has surely been patiently waiting for a good road between here, via Hamilton to Allegan. If there should be a concrete road anywhere it should be this stretch. It appears that there is something being contemplated according to the Allegan Gazette. This is all good and well and let the highway be called anything the state desires as long as the road covering this stretch becomes a fact. The Allegan Gazette has the following:

"Road Commissioner McOmber and Senator Leland were in Lansing this week in consultation with the state commissioner and brought back some important news. A part of it is that the state, the coming season will pave M89 from the western city limits to Cedar st. junction with Hubbard st. There the route of M89 will be down Hubbard st. to the South Side bridge and on to Otsego and Plainwell provided the city is ready to do its part. M40 is to be changed to Holland for the present and a new number given to the road to Martin. There is something wrong about all this. M89 would better remain as it is and when finally the improvement is made on the Beeline road to Holland it should be regarded as a part of the road to plainwell, for it is a manifest continuance of that diagonal line. Then M89 should be the Pennville-Martin line for it is a road running practically in east and west lines across the county with further terminal connections."

Interurban's Swan Song Set For December 20

Holland has gone through the heart breaking period of losing its interurban and is somewhat over the shock but it appears that the Michigan Railway of which the old Holland Saugatuck car line was a part is going the way of the others namely under the hammer. The Muskegon Interurban has already been sold to wreckers and the wreckers have nearly completed their job of destruction.

All the property of the Michigan Railway company (the interurban) will be sold Dec. 20 under order of the United States court in Detroit. This includes every scrap of the company's belongings to the last rail and tie. Passenger service was discontinued Saturday night between Kalamazoo and Jackson but freight carrying will continue until the day of the sale. No doubt this will result in demolition of the lines to the last detail and it is a mournful proceeding. When the line from Kalamazoo to Grand Rapids was constructed by W. A. Foote it was regarded as the finest example of its sort of road in the United States. Mr. Foote thought it to be the crowning achievement of his useful life. He was spared by death from witnessing its ruin. The part of the present system between Allegan and Battle Creek was purchased from the company which operated that line from Allegan to Toledo but the remainder of the line has been operated as a steam line even until today and of course is not affected by this sale. Probably the rails will be taken up from Allegan to Battle Creek as well as on the rest of the system. The roads were profitable until their business was ruined by the automobile and truck lines. They hit the steam lines a hard blow, taking from them fifty per cent at least of their passenger income. In turn it has brought about a most disastrous failure. Stockholders will receive nothing from their investments and it is doubtful if the bond holders will realize in full upon their investments.

O. E. SZEKELY CORP. TO BE MADE $1,000,000 FIRM

Official announcement was made by O. E. Szekeley of the Szekeley Aircraft corporation today that the company will be completely reorganized and expanded into a million dollar concern within the next month.

The factories here and in Chicago will be closed for the present. The change is being brought about by aid of eastern capital. It is rumored that the plant will be moved to some other city.

The Szekeley corporation made its real bow to the industry and were accepted as one of the leading manufacturers, at the recent aviation show in Chicago. The Flying Dutchman and the SR3 engines were claimed by directors to be of the highest class in their respective lines. ## Soldier Draws Big Pension From Uncle Sam

ALLEGAN MAN REPORTED KILLED BUT WAS LATER FOUND IN HOSPITAL

Officially reported as killed in action about 10 years ago, today Burrell Torrey of Allegan is drawing a large government pension. Wounded on the battlefield of France and believed to be dead, Torrey some time later was found recovering in a hospital. A few days ago announcement was made that Torrey would benefit under the retirement bill passed at the last session of congress. He is believed to be the only man in Allegan county benefiting from it.

He had been retired from the army with rank and pay of Captain of Infantry. Capt. W. B. Torrey has been in the pay of the government for over 23 years. In August, 1905 he enlisted in the third U. S. Infantry which is the oldest regiment of infantry in the army. He served in various regiments including the seventh and 26th continuously until 1917 when he was appointed instructor of Military Tactics at the Colorado Agricultural college. Later he was made clerk to the senior instructor in the second training camp at Ft. Riley, Kan. Torrey served as an instructor in the second training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and as Captain of Infantry. He was assigned to the 89th division, Gen. Wood's division, with which he served overseas. He saw hard service on three battle fronts and was severely wounded during the latter part of the Argonne drive, Nov. 4, 1918. He commanded a front line company during the first mustard gas attack ever laid down by the Germans which cost his company 132 men and officers. He was invalided home in January, 1919 and after undergoing five major operations was discharged as partially recovered in August, 1920. After returning home he served Allegan as clerk one term.

Van Eenennaam of Muskegon were among the one hundred guests present at a reception tea given by Mrs. William Olive of Holland, honoring her niece, Miss Margaret Anderson, Miss Anderson's engagement to Mr. Kenneth De Pree of this city was recently announced. Mrs. H. De Pree and Mrs. G. J. Diekema assisted Mrs. Olive.

Famous Breed of Cattle

Friesian cattle were mentioned by the Roman historian Tacitus as being of importance as early as the year 23 A. D. Perhaps because of this early start, or by reason of the favorable location of the province in regard to industrial cities of northern Europe, Friesian farmers have grown prosperous through many years of furnishing their neighbors with butter and cheese.

Holland Men Do Good Work; O. K. Game Laws

DOLLAR LICENSE ASKED FOR EVERY ONE OVER 18

SPEARING THROUGH ICE WILL BE BANNED IF RECOMMENDATIONS ARE MADE INTO LAW

When Joe Rhea and Bill Dour of the Holland Game Fish Protective association were at Lansing recently together with other sportsmen from different state clubs they did their share to help in the codification of our game laws general. The sportsmen met with the State Conservation Department for the purpose of drafting what will be practically a new set of game laws eliminating conflicting laws that are ridiculous and do not have the moral support of a community or sportsmen as either many such have effect in Holland waters. Anyway our Holland men stood opposed to the $1.00 rod license provision, a very unpopular measure in Holland but generally favored by other game clubs. It is doubtful if any legislature would pass such a provision in the law.

The Holland men also backed up a proposal to have old spawning beds. Mr. Rhea, Mrs. Dour and others during spawning season especially, and in or out of season no shing should be allowed near these beds in our lakes and streams past Arthur Baumgartel formerly of Holland now of Grand Rapids, fought hard for recognition on their provision proposed for the game laws and no matter whether the conservation department sees fit to recommend it later or not, efforts are to be made to take this matter up directly with the next Legislature if the conservation department fails to do so.

On the whole there was remarkable unanimity prevailing among the Michigan sportsmen at this game law revision meet.

The proposed fish bill, which would repeal 132 fishing laws now on the statute books and codifies the many restrictions and regulations upon fishing in Michigan's inland waters, met with overwhelming endorsement from the delegates, proving that the department of conservation had done its work well and had performed a fine job of interpreting the wishes of the sportsmen.

Chief among the new provisions of the proposed bill are the clauses providing for a shorter bass season, a general rod license, protection of pike and the division of the state into three zones for the regulating of open seasons.

Hope that the "fish refuge plan" might obviate the necessity for shortening seasons faded when it was learned that, while the conservation commission is fully in accord with the establishment of fish refuges, this could not be accomplished for a number of years, while the season regulations would provide immediate relief.

HOW STATE IS DIVIDED

According to the proposed bill, the northern zone shall comprise all of the Upper Peninsula, the central zone all waters north of the southern boundary of the counties of Mason, Lake, Osceola, Clare, Gladwin and Arenac, and the southern zone everything south of that line.

The new dates for the black bass season would be July 1 to December 31, opening one and two weeks later respectively in the central and northern zones. The same opening dates would apply on calico bass, rock bass, strawberry bass, Warmouth bass, crappies, blue gills and sunfish, the closing dates being extended to March 31. The total number of panfish permitted in one day would be 25 of all species, instead of 25 of each, now legal.

Under the new bill the creel limit on great northern pike would be 10, with an open season from May 1 to March 31. Dates and creel limits on brook, brown and rainbow trout would remain unchanged.

LICENSE FEE ONE DOLLAR

The codification, as it will go to the Legislature will provide for a resident license at a fee of $1 for all persons over 17 years. A badge similar to the small game button now worn will be issued, and no license will be required of those fishing on their own property.

The proposed bill settles the spear question, a live subject during last Winter, by forbidding its use on Michigan's trout streams, and permitting its use on other waters only for taking of non-game fish and suckers. In the bill, pike are deemed as game fish, hence spearfishing for pike will be illegal under the proposed bill law.

The new bill would permit only one gang hook and two single hooks to be used on a plug, this clause going into effect Jan. 1, 1930, thus enabling sporting goods dealers to dispose of their stocks.

Indicative of the recognition of the value of minnows as food for game fish, the new bill would regulate the taking of minnows for commercial purposes, although permitting the private fisherman to help himself for his own use to the minnows of non-game fish.

A motion made from the floor which provides for the protection of artificial snags placed in trout streams by the department of conservation was included in the bill upon unanimous vote of the delegates.

DISAGREE ON GAME LAWS

In decided contrast with the harmony prevailing the first day of the conservation conference on fish there was a sharp disagreement among the delegates on the game bill, which was under consideration the second day of the session.

The greatest stir came when a motion was made for setting aside 75 cents of the small game license and $1.50 for the deer license for the purpose of purchasing game refuges. This motion was bitterly opposed by the conservation commission, which held that it ties the hands of the conservation commission by making it dependent upon the Legislature for money for administrative purposes. The Upper Peninsula delegates were supported in their position by the Michigan Conservation Congress which had gone on record as favoring this move at its recent annual meeting, and so close was the vote that the motion was decided only by the chair giving the advantage to the Upper Peninsula men. It is the contention of those favoring this measure that part of the money received from hunting licenses should properly be set aside for game refuges, thus protecting the hunting for posterity, and that the administrative costs of the department should be paid by legislative appropriation.

SKUNK AND FOX SEASONS

The proposed bill placed the skunk and fox on the protected list, which, however, met with ill favor from the delegates. The argument became quite heated, during which C. W. Tuller of Detroit charged the Michigan Fur Dealers' Association with lobbying and responsible for placing skunk on the protected list. Likewise, the proposal to hold the beaver season closed until 1932 was voted down, at the instigation of Upper Peninsula delegates, who would have the season open in 1930.

The bill would provide, under the general hunting regulations, for a longer season for the training of dogs, the creation of an educational department in the department of conservation, would issue hunting licenses only to citizens of the state, place a ban on silencers and limit magazine guns to six shells.

The new bill would advance the opening of the duck season to October 1 with 30 in possession and 50 for the entire shooting season per hunter. The season on squirrels would open on October 15 to October 31, and likewise on woodcock, pheasants and prairie chickens. Partridges and prairie chicken may be killed to the number of 15 in one day, with that number in possession at one time and the season limit at that figure, in the proposed law.

The season on jacksnipe and Florida gallinules and rails will be much changed if the new order of things passes the legislature as proposed. The snipe will as usual fall under the duck season. The season on the gallinules and rails will open on Oct. 1 and close Nov. 30.

Taking heed of the cry of the woodcock hunters that the birds have flown before the season is open, the department has advanced the season to open on Oct. 15, as against Oct. 25 at the present time. The season will close on Oct. 31, allowing one more week of woodcock shooting.

The seasons on cottontails and varying hares would be open from October 15 to December 31. The deer season would remain as it is at present.

Provisions in the proposed bill relative to muskrat, trapping, tag, system, violation and the like are the same and similar to the present law. The Upper Peninsula men attempted to advance the muskrat season, but the majority of delegates voted to retain the dates of from November 15 to January 1.

Want To Honor Young Soldier For Bravery

SAVED WOMAN AND THREE CHILDREN FROM BEING MOWED DOWN BY P. M. TRAIN

The Pere Marquette Railroad service monthly recommends a Carnegie medal for George Florian, a soldier of the World War, now post master at Grand Junction 30 miles south of Holland on the company's main line. It appears that when the Chicago passenger recently came whizzing through that junction a Mrs. R. Saunders and two little children were snatched from death at the main street intersection of that place because of the presence of mind of this soldier post master.

Driving an automobile and unaware that a fast moving passenger train was bearing down on her, Mrs. Saunders had looked only in one direction, the south. She had not noticed the train coming from the north until almost too late when she applied the emergency brake which caused the machine to skid and stop directly in the center of the crossing.

Mr. Florian, seeing the danger, dropped the mail sack he was carrying, rushed on to the track, and by almost superhuman effort, pushed the automobile clear of the locomotive. The engine was so near that it brushed Florian from the track as it went by. That he escaped without injury seems almost a miracle.

The incident was witnessed by a number of persons, who standing almost transfixed with fear, covered their eyes to shut out the sight of what seemed to them inevitable tragedy.

The accident occurred near Montello Park Monday evening as he was riding slowly from Holland and two companions walking beside him. A truck came up behind him and turned out and the car directly behind the truck struck the bicycle, not seeing it until he hit it. Mr. Van Lente was rushed to the Holland City hospital and it was found he had two scalp wounds and severe bruises about the head and face. He was taken to his home the following morning and it is not believed that his injuries will prove serious. Latest reports from him are encouraging.

De Pree Slaying Case Occupies Circuit Court

CONFLICTING STATEMENT BY WITNESSES IN GRAAFSCHAP KILLING

Holland Doctor is Also Called as a Witness in Laketown Case

Charged with fatally injuring his brother-in-law, Bernard De Pree, 21 years old, during a Halloween row, George Oetman, 32, a Laketown farmer, has been on trial before Judge O. S. Cross in Allegan circuit court.

The jurors were drawn Monday afternoon and the interest in the trial is so great that the court room and corridors were crowded before court opened.

Dr. Harry J. Irwin, of Holland, the first witness, stated he attended De Pree in the Holland hospital and that autopsy showed death by skull fracture.

In his opening statement to the jury Prosecutor Harry Pell declared there had been no quarrel between Oetman and De Pree and that the blow struck was without cause.

Clare Hoffman and son, Leo, defense attorneys, say that had feeling between Oetman and De Pree had existed for some time, and that De Pree had once given Oetman a beating. He said at the time De Pree was injured he and a number of young companions rushed upon Oetman, after they had threatened him.

Jacob De Pree, father of Bernard, was the second witness. He told of a visit at his home two years ago of Mr. and Mrs. George Oetman, the latter his daughter, Ann, and cited a quarrel over money matters that ensued. He admitted Oetman was struck over the head by a lantern and that later Oetman was beaten by the son, Bernard.

Rudolph Zeedyke, the third witness, related occurrences Halloween night that led up to the blow inflicted upon De Pree, with whom he and several other youths had drunk part of a pint of moonshine, according to his story on the stand.

He said Oetman had ordered them off his premises and that Oetman, using a heavy stick, had struck De Pree over the head. De Pree's companions took him home and then consumed the rest of the whisky in order "to forget about Bernard," Zeedyke told the court.

There was no talk about fighting prior to the blow by Oetman, he declared. Then he, Zeedyke, offered to thrash Oetman but others prevented him doing so, he said.

The four, Harold Helmlink, Neil Sandy, Rudolph Zeedyk and William Velcamp, all of Holland, agreed in their testimony that there had been no fight between Oetman and De Pree and said they knew of no reason why the respondent should have attacked his kin.

The story of the night's events, as brought out in direct examination by Prosecutor Harry Pell, was that the quintet had stopped in front of Oetman's home "to do some Halloweening." Oetman, they testified, came to the door almost immediately and they drove several miles down the road and stopped at another farm house.

Oetman, they continued, followed them in his car and upon overtaking them, removed the keys of De Pree's car and took them home. It was when they approached Oetman at his house again to recover the keys, they said, that the De Pree youth was fatally injured.

There seems to be conflicting statements made by witnesses as to the instrument which caused the fatal blow. Several said Oetman wielded a heavy stick upon the skull of De Pree while Hogadorn told the court it was a piece of pipe. The latter witness declared Oetman threw the pipe away and prevented him from finding it after the alleged attack.

George Oetman of Graafschap took the witness stand in his own defense Wednesday. The defendant said he had feared young De Pree for two years. The reason he testified, was a thrashing administered to him by the youth's father, Jacob De Pree when he had gone to the home of his father-in-law to get some money that was due Mrs. Oetman. He asserted the elder De Pree was aided by his son and added that the youth threatened then to "get" him.

Oetman then told of the night of the fatal injury. He declared he had been hit on the head with a stone and in his car had followed a machine containing those he suspected of throwing the missile. He caught up with the other car and took its keys, he continued. Bernard De Pree was one of the occupants of the automobile he added. He then returned to his home.

The defendant corroborated previous testimony that the youths followed him to get the keys. When they arrived, Oetman asserted he smelled liquor on them. He asserted he had picked up a piece of pipe only after members of the crowd had said, "Let's lick him," and "Let's get him now." Because of the episode two years before, the witness said, he was afraid of great bodily harm.

He gave the boys the keys and told them to leave the premises he continued, and they went out to the road, but returned and according to his testimony, when Bernard made a motion as if to hit him he struck him with the pipe.

On cross-examination, Prosecutor Harry Pell asked Oetman why his testimony on the stand differed from the story he had told in the prosecutor's office. Oetman replied that he now remembered the events more clearly, and then burst into tears.

Mr. Riemersma was president of the association last year and takes an active part in the deliberations of each session. Several speakers of note are on the program.

Rev. A. Vanden Berg of the Second Reformed church of Zeeland will have charge of the services at the Sixth Reformed church in this city Sunday.

George C. DuVall, president of the Fennville Athletic Club, has set Monday as the opening night for the club's winter program. The regular meeting will be held at that time in the high school gymnasium and teams will be made up for the winter's play.

Bob Maentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Maentz of Allegan, a student at Culver Military academy at Culver, Ind., has been elected captain of the 1929 football squad. He is at present at home, the college being closed on account of the "flu" epidemic.

Agitation has again been started to make Holland a branch for providing automobile drivers with license plates. When the attempt was made last year the movement was stalled by state authorities with the suggestion it be tabled for a year.

The Fennville High School orchestra under the direction of Prof. Kingman is making good progress. There now are about 20 pieces in the organization.

Hymen Ezra Cohen of South Haven has been elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, by the University of Chicago chapter Wednesday. His scholastic average has been between A and B. Mr. Cohen is a senior at the university.

HIGH SCHOOL TO MEET ST. JOSEPH

Holland Sentinel—Prospects for winning the St. Joseph game on Friday night took another setback when Jim Nettinga was reported lost to the Holland high team because of illness. This announcement followed one which declared Tanis and Bennet ineligible because of scholastic difficulties. Coach Hinga had intentions of placing Nettinga in Tanis' forward but now the situation will rest on Van Kolken or Zwemer. St. Joe will be a hard proposition as they have a fine team built around three veterans from last season. When they invade the armory floor, they come with a record of defeating the local tossers on three previous years on the local court. Although the Holland boys returned the compliment with a victory at St. Joe on each occasion, the local boys are anxious to break the seeming jinx.

In all probability Jim Tysee will start at the center berth, with "All State" Japinga at one forward and Van Kolken or Zwemer at the other. Either Norlin or Visscher will help Captain Gordon Korstanje on the defensive side of the game. In a preliminary tilt, the Ottawa Furniture quint will meet the high school reserves starting at 7:15. The Ottawas are all former high school stars and are out to give the Chapmans a good trimming. Van Zanden, Zigterman, Dalman, Boter and Arnie Van Zanten appear at favorites to start the fray but many of the fellows will be given a chance.

Bible School Teachers and Officers Meet

NINTH ANNUAL BANQUET IS HELD IN FIRST REFORMED CHURCH

The ninth annual banquet of the First Reformed Church Bible School was held on the evening of Friday, December 7th, in the church parlors.

The ladies of the church made ample provision for an exceptionally fine chicken supper with all the trimmings.

The program was also unusually well arranged and was strictly home talent with the exception of the address given by Rev. H. Pyle of Overisel.

Rev. Pyle in his address took the topic, "Youth." He stated that one should be sympathetic with youth and that love and kindness are attributes that lead youth to realize Bible truths more fully.

Rev. James Weyer, pastor of the church, speaking on the subject "The Field" made it a personal matter for the teachers to bend their energies in their particular way to cover the field of Bible teaching. He pointed out that it required study to equip one for this work. He stressed the point that with proper knowledge and heart for the work could not help but bring glorious results.

Miss Theresa Mool likened the heart of the student to "grain" which with proper sowing of seed and with intense culture of Bible truths would surely bring about an abundant harvest. Mrs. M. Marsilje augmented the subject in a toast "Harvest" in which she brought out that the result of the planting and the cultivating in a religious way would be evident in the size of the harvest to be brought in.

The program was as follows: Music; Devotionals, Prof. C. Kleis; Banquet Dinner; Introduction of Toastmistress, Mr. J. Nykerk; Toastmistress, Mrs. E. Walvoord; Music; Ladies Quartette; Toast, Grain, Miss T. Mool; Toast, Harvest, Mrs. M. Marsilje; Music; Ladies Quartette, composed of William Van Bunte, Marian Kurz, R. Mulder, and Mrs. H. De Loof; Toast, Field, Rev. J. Weyer; Representing Consistory: Address, Rev. H. Pyle; Hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"; Closing Prayer, Mr. Geo. Schulling.

The officers of the First Reformed Church Bible school are the following: Superintendent, George Schulling; Assistant Superintendent, Mrs. E. Walvoord; Assistant Superintendent, Prof. C. Kleis; Secretary, Van der Haar; Assistant Secretary, J. Luiden; Treasurer, D. Schaafsma; Assistant Treasurer, Anna Witvliet; Birthdays Secretary, Anna Witvliet; Werf; Cradle Roll Supt., Mrs. Geo. Mool; General Assistant, Peter Bonyenga.

The list of teachers follow: Beginners Dept.: Mrs. M. Marsilje, Supt., Mrs. Geo. Schulling, Mrs. M. Bde, Mrs. J. Nykerk, Mrs. G. J. Kronmeyer, Mrs. G. Mool, and Mrs. C. Hoeland.

The Bible Seen Through Oriental Eyes, With Special Reference to India

By Chris A. De Jonge

The word "burden" is very common in the languages of India. This is also true of other countries of the Orient, such as China. The reason is that bundles, packages, boxes, etc., which are carried on the head, are referred to as "burdens." It probably would seem ludicrous for a woman in one of our American cities to go down town, buy a basket of foodstuffs, and then return home, carrying the basket on her head. Yet that is what I have witnessed many a time. I have seen women dexterously balancing furniture, such as beds, on their heads as they threaded their way through the busy streets of Madras.

It is comparatively easy to explain to a native-born Indian just what is meant by having a "burden on your heart" for they know from experience what it means to have a burden on their head. The burden bears down on them; the longer they carry the burden, the heavier it seems to get. The burden hampers their every act, for though they may seem to be wholly unconcerned about the load on their heads, the fact is that they are ever conscious of it. Often one hand is kept on the bundle to help steady it over the uneven roads, of which there are many in India.

Soldier walking sprightly to the marshalling beat of the army drums. Often a child rides as an additional load on the hip of the mother: one arm of the mother hugging the child, and the other balancing the burden of wood. Betwix her load of life and her burden of wood, she unflinchingly walks on and on. When will she rest? What will she do with her burden?

Suddenly along the Indian road, appear two stones, torn by dint of hours of chiseling from a stubborn rock nearby. There are thousands of these stones placed along the highways and byways of India. They seem useless. These stones are always found in pairs, rising up from the ground about four and a half feet. They are about three feet apart, two inches thick, and a foot wide. They resemble marble slabs that have had one end riveted solidly in the parched earth.

The Sugali woman, struggling with her heavy burden of wood, is indeed a sorrowful picture. Sorrow is written in deep lines all over her face. She is pensive and sad, for perhaps she cannot sell her firewood tonight. Suddenly she sees these two stones, these two friends of hers, that stand speechless along the roadway. She quickens her pace! She runs the last few steps, and then, with audible sighs of relief, she stands between these two stones, lowers her head slightly, and then the heavy burden rests on the two pillars of stone. What a look of joy and peace and rest steal over her face! What a contrast! She has found a place where she can rest, under the shades of the great trees which line both sides of the Indian road, to protect the pilgrims of the land from the ravaging sun. She has found rest.

To my mind, the two stones, though lifeless, represent the two strong arms of Christ. He is standing along the byways and highways of Indian life. As he stretches out His arms, He says in the matchless, subdued voice of the Master, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light."

The woman in the photograph is not only heavily laden, but she has also labored hard, all day long in the woods, collecting the pieces of firewood, which she has carefully bound together with strips of brush, improvised twine. After collecting the wood, these women, mostly members of the Sugali (Gypsy) tribe, often walk five to eight miles to a neighboring town in order to sell the wood they have collected for eight annas, the equivalent of fifteen cents in American money.

The numerous decorations on her body do not seem to be innumerable to her as she hurries along the road in the tropical sun. On each arm are at least a dozen bangles (bracelets). In her nose she is wearing a nose ring, her ankles are covered with more bangles, and the rings are even visible on her toes. It is an interesting, pathetic sight to see this woman struggling along the road with her burden. The bangles on her arms and ankles, give a certain weird rhythmic music as she marches on, as a dersize, resulting in another loss to the farmer. I consider this poor condition mostly due to two causes—too little corn in the ration and worms. Too many farmers try to grow young stock without enough corn in the ration. Pulletts must have plenty of corn, especially in the fall. Corn puts fat on the bird without which proper fat production is out of the question. By far the greater difficulty is worms. When birds are thin and have colds, even when fed properly, the trouble is worms. It might be well to say here that worms cause more poultry trouble than anything else. The situation can be controlled if the farmer will observe some precautions. If he neglects them he will be likely to suffer loss. The question is too long to discuss from the beginning of brooding. On our farm we have a definite program which I may present at another time.

Suppose you are ready to place your pullets in the laying house: You find them thin and suffering from colds and possibly a few swelled heads. The best thing to do is to eradicate the worms first. This is a regular performance at our farm and has been for a number of years. We do not think we could raise poultry with any degree of success without fighting worms. We have proved that it pays in official egg contests as well as in our own flocks.

Last year our "Twins" which recorded 299 eggs each Michigan contest were treated before shipment. This year our 308 and 306-egg birds in the Michigan contest and our bird No. 7, which led the entire Maryland contest with a record of 301 eggs, had treatment before leaving for the contest.

We have no faith in general flock treatment. Give each bird a dose of combination remedies for both tape and round-worms. This we follow with a tonic (generally nuxomica) for a few days, also a good wet mash with milk.

This system has never failed to give us good results. The remedy, a capsule, is economical and we use them as often as we think necessary.

Sometimes the birds will partially molt but we always feel that with the worms eradicated, this will correct itself soon. Remember, farmers, you can not get a profit from hens infested with worms. Intelligently fight the pest and you will find as much profit in poultry as any other branch of agriculture.

Mrs. Ruth Mulder has returned from Muskegon where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Landegend.

dition they will not lay eggs. True, they may lay sometime before spring, but the best opportunity for profit has gone because spring eggs, as every one knows, are relatively cheap.

Thus the problem resolves itself into bringing the birds into the laying house in laying condition or in such condition that they will soon lay.

The farmer simply has to have eggs and that as soon as possible. Feed bills and no eggs will soon force him out of the business.

As I tell poultry about the country, I notice that pullets coming into the laying house are often thin, apparently underfed, and often afflicted with colds. Such birds rarely lay many eggs until January 1 or later. By that time the high price has gone by, and if eggs are sold for hatching they will be culled heavily, due to un-

Christmas Seal Campaign Is In Full Swing

YNTEMA, WELLER FIRST HOLLAND PERSONS TO BUY XMAS SEALS

To B. H. Weller and Mrs. D. B. Yntema goes the distinction of being the first persons from Holland to buy Christmas seals. The letters containing their money arrived at the offices of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, Lansing, shortly after the seals were put on sale.

Early returns from the sale indicate that the quota set for Michigan will be reached, according to Miss Mary Maier, seal sale director. Although the number of letters received has fallen slightly behind last year's figure, the sums enclosed have been larger on the average than in previous years.

Christmas seal mail, however, contains much more than money, says Miss Maier, who has charge of opening the hundreds of envelopes that arrive daily at the offices of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

"The number of people who take time to write a kindly message of good wishes and appreciation is surprising. The knowledge that our work has made us so many friends means as much to us as our ability to finance it adequately for another year."

land schools, Cornelius Vander Meulen gave the principal address on the subject, Poor Relations. They praised the hospitality extended them by the city and consider this one of the most successful meetings they have had, with an attendance of over 60. Several of the delegates also gave short talks. The next meeting will be held sometime during March at Grand Rapids.

Six students enrolled at the local high school, have Christmas, December 25th to their credit as their birthday anniversary. They are George Good, William Hanning, Wilma Kasten, Marie Kool, Thelma Vrieling and William Vanden Berg.

Rev. Benjamin Hoffman, widely known minister in the Reformed Church of America has resigned the pastorate of the Reformed Church at Morrison, Ill., owing to ill health. The Chicago classis at a recent session, dissolved the pastoral relations and announced a schedule of supplies. Mr. Hoffman this year completed a service of 30 years in the ministry, following his graduation from Western Theological seminary in 1898. He served churches at Spring Lake, Fifth Grand Rapids and Second Zeeland, before assuming his present field about seven years ago. He graduated from Hope College in 1895.

100,000 SEALS TO BE DISPOSED OF IN HOLLAND

Christmas seals, totalling 100,000 were sent to Holland citizens Wednesday morning and return checks are now coming in. This is an annual campaign for funds to fight tuberculosis and the money spent for these seals will be used to help men preserve life.

The 1928 seals represent the Ship of Health and carry on their masts a red double barred cross. Two-thirds of the money received from the sale of the seals will remain in Holland to be spent here by the civic health committee in maintaining the free chest clinic and the baby clinic, thus giving all a fair chance to fight T. B., the dread disease which has robbed the world of so many valuable citizens.

Citizens have devised a number of novel uses for them. The penny stickers are now found to decorate gift packages, theater programs, club notices, monthly bills, pay envelopes, restaurant menus, papers, magazines, etc. Do not neglect to send in your check, and if done promptly will be much appreciated. Do not put the Christmas seal letter away and forget about it. Mail your check to the civic health committee today. The committee of Holland women, who will be at your service during this campaign, are: Mrs. George Albers, General Chairman; Miss Anne Visscher, Chairman; Mrs. C. J. MacLean; Mrs. Wilson Diekema; Mrs. F. M. Lieveens; Mrs. Charles K. Van Duren, Publicity.

SOCIETY

HOLLAND STUDENTS NOT HONORED AT KAZOO

George E. Little, director of athletics at the University of Wisconsin, gave the principal talk at the men's dinner at Western State Teachers college Meet Wednesday evening in honor of the members of the football squad.

On this occasion awards were made to 29 members of the varsity squad and 45 members of the freshman squad. Ten track awards also were given. In the long list not a Holland name appears; however, Zeeland is represented by Judson Hudnot, a freshman, and Fennville by Dan McCarty, varsity, and Grand Haven by Francis Pellegrom, also a freshman.

WAITING FOR TURKEY DINNER DIES

Mrs. Peter Koolman, age 45, a resident of Grand Haven, died from heart disease while listening to a Thanksgiving service over the radio and Albert Berger, 59, also of Grand Haven, died of heart disease while sitting with his small son on his knee waiting for the turkey dinner that was about to be served. Strange to say a third Ottawa county man died of heart failure immediately after Thanksgiving day. He is H. S. Wierenga of Hudsonville. On Thanksgiving evening he complained of not feeling well; however, a doctor was not summoned. Shortly after midnight his wife found him lying on the floor of his bedroom when she returned from bringing him some water. Dr. Henry Moes of Hudsonville and Coroner Gilbert Vande Water pronounced the cause of death heart failure. The funeral was held Monday afternoon, Rev. Heemstra, formerly of Holland, officiating. Wierenga, who is 26 years old, is survived by a wife and three children.

HOLLAND HIGH RESERVE TEAM FAILS BUT ONCE

The Holland High Reserves received their only defeat this season at Riverview Park. The only reason that can be found for this is that South's Reserves must have been better swimmers than Chapman's team because the field was a sea of mud and water and it rained continually throughout the game.

OTTAWA CANDIDATES LUNCH WITH INCUMBENT

Ottawa County politicians are trying to read meaning into the fact that Judge Oren S. Cross of the Allegan-Ottawa circuit court and Fred T. Miles and Louis Osterhouse, both candidates for Cross' judgeship, lunched together at Grand Haven.

Judge Cross has so far made no announcement regarding his bid for a fourth term. The others have both announced as candidates.

Hope College News

Those who have not visited the new chapel since school started would be greatly surprised at the progress that has taken place both upstairs and down. The north and south vestibules are decorated in tapestry brick.

Practically all but a small part of the plastering is completed, and electric wiring awaits the fixtures. The recitation rooms in the basement are large, light, and airy. It is expected that leaded glass casements for the basement and tower windows will arrive this week, or very shortly. The basement floors for the time being will be concrete, with linoleum perhaps to be laid. At the present rate of progress, the basement rooms will be completed soon, as all they lack are blackboard fixtures, and the necessary furniture.

The felt sound-proofing for the chapel ceiling is on hand, and will insure a quiet auditorium, deadening all echoes and unnecessary noises. The material comes in large squares, 15 inches by 15 inches, 1 inch thick, and is made of a felt composition.

That CHRISTMAS MONEY will give you a Hoover

YOU have told yourself so many times that you would like to have a Hoover. And here you are with your Christmas money in your hand—isn't that the opportunity you have just been waiting for!

You can telephone and have a Hoover sent up for a demonstration first, if you wish. Or you can simply specify which model you prefer—the de luxe Model 700 at $75 or the popular-priced Model 543 at $59.50. Both have the famous cleaning principle, "Positive Agitation," which enables the Hoover to remove more dirt per minute than any other cleaner.

Even if your Christmas check is just a very small one, it will cover the down payment of $6.25 on your Hoover. The remaining payments you make in small monthly amounts—which you can easily save out of your household money. If you have an old cleaner, of any make, we will also give you a liberal allowance for it.

THAT CARSON
GIRL
A Christmas Story?
By Robert Stead

FROM the hilltop where Clare stood she watched the sun sink slowly into his bed of snow. Her vantage point was the only elevation for many miles in all that prairie country. It commanded a view as far as the eye could reach, broken only by the grooves of box-elders and Russian poplars, now leafless and shrunken, which the settlers had planted about their stendings. Clare loved to climb it for the exhilaration, the vastness, the sense of infinity which it gave her.

At least, that was the explanation she offered when explanations were necessary. Her custom of walking to the top of the hill every evening before sunset could not escape observation and comment in a community where the doings of neighbors constituted the chief topic of conversation.

"Saw that Carson girl on 'the knob' again tonight," Bert McVain remarked at the supper table after his return from the market town where he had been delivering a load of wheat. "She's getting crazier every day."

"Too bad," Bert's mother commented with a sigh. "She used to be so bright. It must be a great trial to Mrs. Carson."

And so the talk ran through the neighborhood. Clare Carson was "a little off." Echoes of that gossip did not fail to reach the Carson homestead, where Clare had been taken strictly to account for her wanderings.

"But, Mother," the girl protested, "so long as I don't neglect my work—and I don't—why shouldn't I walk up the knob? If I want to. The exercise and fresh air are good for me after all day in the house."

"Just the same, it don't look right," her mother argued. "People are beginning to talk."

"Let them," said Clare. And because she was twenty-two, and had a will of her own, the walks continued and the gossip grew.

"Oh, why can't they let me alone," she exclaimed to herself, as she watched the sun dip into his bed of snow. "Fred, Fred! Do you know—can you understand—how I am keeping my promise?"

The red light, mingled with that bluish-white reflection which artists find in untrodden snow, touched her cheeks with its feathery blushing, painting them with the glow of buoyant health. Under the lam which sheltered her pretty head her eyes shone with a sunset luster even while they pleaded for an answer from the infinite.

For six months she had kept her tryst; six months to a day, for was not this the twenty-fourth of December? On that June night half a year ago Fred had held her in his arms on this very spot while he told her of the urgency which took him East. The death of his father demanded his immediate return. "And, Clare," he told her, "I know what their plans are. There is a match all made for me. It may be a condition of the will; I don't know; but condition or no condition I'll be back for you as soon as I can put affairs in order. It was to escape her I came out here—and found you! Do you believe that I will come back to you, dearest?"

She assured him with her lips. "I will have a fight of it, dear," he went on, "and I will need your help. You don't know what it is to have all your people set against you. They think it's for the best, of course; Julia is a nice enough girl, and comes of an old and wealthy family, and they can't understand my objection."

"Why don't you marry her?" Clara interrupted, and he heard

"Do You Believe That I Will Come Back to You?"

again. "rich, beautiful, and make you happy."

"That's just it—she wouldn't. Why should I marry a rich girl, when I have already enough for me? And as for beauty—no one who has seen you would call her beautiful."

He held her again in that still June night as though he never would let her go.

"I will need your help," he repeated at length. "You will help, won't you?"

"But how?"

The question silenced him for a moment. Then, "I'll tell you, Clare. Come to this spot every evening at sunset, and think strong thoughts of help for me. I will remember, and surely I will catch your message. If a radio station can send its waves around the world, surely your mind—your soul—can do much more."

So she had promised, and for six months she had kept her promise, while the neighbors concluded that the Carson girl was "a bit off."

On this Christmas eve, from her pinnacle of sublime loneliness, she watched the last red rays pour out over the bluish-white snow, touching to color tattered remnants of cloud adrift in the western sky. She wondered if it could be possible that her yearnings were in some way reaching her lover, strengthening his heart for the fight with the wealth and pride of his family.

Suddenly her reverie was interrupted by the sound of sleigh bells on the road at the foot of the hill. A team and cutter were swinging sharply southward through the gathering dusk. As she watched, the horses were reined in, the cutter stopped, one of the two occupants got out, and a man came running toward her. The next moment she was in his arms, breathless, laughing, almost too excited to speak.

"I knew I would find you here," he cried, "it only we made it on time!"

"But tell me, Fred, how does it come? Explain," she managed at length.

"I will—at the house," he answered.

"Come!"

She hesitated, and a shadow swept her glowing face. "You know what my people think," she reminded him.

"I know what they thought," he laughed. "They thought that because I was rich I could not be serious. But when they hear how I have lost all my money—"

"Lost your money?" she echoed. "Does it make any difference, dear?"

"All the difference in the world," she cried, exultantly. "Now I can marry you, and no one will say it is because you are rich! But what about her?"

"At the house," was all he would

EITHER DROWNED OR WHIPPED; PRAYERS FOLLOW

The wife of a man who had enlisted in the navy handed the pastor of a church the following note: "Peter Bowers, having gone to sea, his wife desires the prayers of the congregation for his safety." The minister glanced over it hurriedly, and announced: "Peter Bowers, having gone to sea his wife, desires the prayers of the congregation for his safety."

MICHIGAN SURE IS A FRUIT ORCHARD

Michigan ranks first in the number of cherry trees, third in the production of small fruits, fifth in pear production, tenth in apple fields, and fourth among all the states of the Union in total acreage of fruits, according to the State College. Berrien County, in southwestern Michigan, has a larger area devoted to fruit than any other county in the state. The cherry industry extends from Benton Harbor to Charlevoix, being stressed around Manistee, Frankfort, Northport, and Traverse City.

answer. He seized her arm, and together like children they rushed down the hill.

"It was like this," he explained, to the assembled Carson family after supper. "My father left me a million or so and a request that I should ask Julia France to be my wife. Uncles, aunts, cousins, my mother—everybody interpreted that request as a command. 'It was such a suitable match,' they said. Julia, it seemed, shared that opinion."

"I delayed my proposal until I could think it over, and one day, just at sunset, came a bright idea. Perhaps it started on Knob hill." He glanced appreciatively at Clare, who blushed, but kept her counsel. "Then I rushed to my broker."

"How long does it take to lose a million dollars on the stock market?" I asked.

"Many people do it quicker than they expect," he confided.

"Well, lose a million dollars for me as soon as you can. There is no time to spare." I told him my reason and, like a good sport, he promised to do his best.

"I bought a comfortable life annuity for my mother, but everything else went into the mill. Cash, bonds, stocks, securities, deeds—they poured into that broker's office like shavings into your separator, Mr. Carson, and all the time they kept clamoring for more. At last I was sold out. They even threatened bankruptcy proceedings. It was quite a scandal, I assure you. Then I proposed to Julia, just as my father said, and was turned down cold. So here I am, offering to make you a Christmas present of a brand new son-in-law."

Mr. Carson sucked at his pipe. "Well," he remarked at length, "any fellow that's fool enough to lose a million dollars for a girl deserves what he gets. Take her!"

"Gee, won't Bert McVain be mad?" shouted Clare's young brother Bert. "He always wanted Clare himself!"

Later, when the Carson family had obligingly retired, Fred held Clare's hand close to his own. "The joke of it is," he whispered, "I didn't lose a million dollars. I made a million and a half. But that's a secret—until after the wedding!"

Observe Three Yuletides Within Twelve Months

There is one place where Christmas is kept three times a year—in the Church of Nativity at Bethlehem, the reputed site of the Stable of the Inn.

The Roman, Greek and Armenian-Greek bodies have each their respective section of the church, but their Christmas celebrations do not occur on the same day. The Latin Christmas is celebrated at the Roman Catholic altar on December 25. Thirteen days later the Orthodox Easterns perform the Greek rite. Another 13 days later the Armenian church keeps its own ceremonial of Byzantine faith.—Montreal Herald.

The growth in membership and scope of usefulness of the organization has been gratifying. Recently the club purchased several pounds of poppy seed and sowed it in all the unattractive and advantageous spots in the town as a start for next summer's activities. The last project has been taken care of by the men of the association, who have just completed the building of a stretch of ornamental fence through one of the public parks.

PAUL AND HIS FRIENDS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 20:16-38; Rom. 16:1-4; Phil. 2:25-30; Philimon. GOLDEN TEXT—A friend loveth at all times. PRIMER TOPIC—Paul Writes a Letter to Philimon. JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Letter to Philimon. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul as a Friend. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place of Friendship in the Christian Life.

I. Paul Praying With the Ephesian Elders (Acts 20:16-38). This incident reveals the real spirit of fellowship which had developed between Paul and the elders of the church at Ephesus. Knowing the seriousness of his mission to Jerusalem and the probability that he would never see them again, he asked these elders to meet him at Miletus, that he might give them the proper instructions so as to enable them to meet the issues which confronted them. Before leaving them he knelt down and prayed with them.

II. Concerning Certain Ones at Rome (Rom. 16:1-4). 1. Phoebe commended to the Christians at Rome. Phoebe was a Christian woman from the church at Cenchreae who was making a visit to Rome. Her business is not defined, but it was such that he could ask the Christians not only to receive her, but to render her the proper assistance therein.

2. He asked that the Christians greet Priscilla and Aquila (vv. 3, 4). The ground upon which this greeting was urged was their own loyalty to himself. He stated that they had laid down their own necks for his life.

III. Concerning Apaphroditus (Phil. 2:25-30). Not being able to revisit the church at Philippi, Paul sent his friend Apaphroditus to minister to them.

IV. Paul Writes to Philimon. Philimon was a member of the church at Colosse. Onesimus, his slave, wronged him and perhaps stole from him and fled to Rome and there came under Paul's influence and was converted. Paul sent Onesimus back to Philimon with this letter. This is one of the most tender and beautiful letters ever written and the first anti-slavery petition ever penned.

1. The salutation (vv. 1-3). His aim was to touch Philimon's heart; he, therefore, refers to himself as a prisoner and links Philimon to himself as a fellow-laborer in the gospel of truth.

2. Philimon's reputation (vv. 4-7). (1) His faith and love toward the Lord and all the saints (v. 5). His earnest desire was that this faith bear fruit in Christ Jesus.

(2) Philimon generously ministered of his substance to the poor saints.

3. Paul's request (vv. 8-10). He requested Philimon to receive back Onesimus, the runaway slave, as a brother in Christ.

(1) Beseeches instead of commands (vv. 8-10). Though conscious of his right to enjoin, he pleads as a prisoner of Jesus Christ, for love's sake.

(2) He pleads on the grounds of grace (vv. 11-14). He admitted that Onesimus had been unprofitable, had forfeited all claim upon Philimon, and that on grounds of justice his plea might well be rejected, and yet, because Onesimus was begotten by his bonds (v. 10), was in a real sense part of his own suffering nature (v. 12), he ventured to suggest that he should be accepted.

(3) Paul desired that Onesimus be received back, not as a slave, but as a brother in Christ (vv. 15, 16). Here is the real fugitive slave law. Paul never attacked slavery, though it was contrary to Christianity and therefore hateful to him, but emphasized the principles which destroyed it. The wise thing to do is to get men and women regenerated and thus transform society, instead of seeking change by revolution.

4. The basis upon which Onesimus was to be received (vv. 17, 18). The debt of guilty Onesimus was to be put to the account of Paul and the merit of Paul to be put to the account of Onesimus. This is a fine illustration of the atonement of Christ. Whatever wrongs we have committed, debts incurred—all our shortcomings are debited to Him. Jesus Christ, on behalf of the whole universe, said to God, "Put that to my account." Onesimus was taken back, not as a runaway slave, but as a beloved brother in Christ.

5. Paul requesting lodging (vv. 22-23). He expected a speedy release from imprisonment and proposed to journey with Philimon. What a welcome he must have received!

SIGNS OF RAIDERS SEEN IN GRAND HAVEN FISHING PLANT

The tug C. J. Bos and two of the net houses located near, both belonging to William Verduin showed signs of marauders early Tuesday morning when the crew left for the fishing grounds of Grand Haven Harbor. A raincoat and some boots were taken and a few nets from the tug. The lock was forced on the net houses but no loss of nets reported. A more complete check up will be made when the crew returns to port tonight as no estimate was made before the tug went out to haul their nets.

BEGS HELP OF SHERIFF

Grand Haven Tribune—"I've been drinking, I've been drinking! I want to stop and go to work, please take care of me!" was the plea made to Sheriff Fred Kamferbeek today by a stranger giving him the name as Fred Olsen, from Grand Rapids, who claims he has been working here and is a good mechanic. The man was much worse for several days about and was in sore straits when he stumbled into the jail. When the sheriff, in his big hearted way, told the man he need not worry as he would be cared for, Olsen shook his hand in heartfelt thanks and seemed content he would be taken care of.

Spelling Bee Amuses Club

COMMUNITY MEMBERS HOLD OLD FASHIONED "SPELL DOWN", MONDAY NOON

Grand Haven Tribune—The members of the Community Club harked back to the "good old days" by indulging in an old fashioned spelling bee at their noonday meeting Monday.

Lawrence Dornbos and Dr. J. C. Addison were made captains and they lined up the 29 members present, in a word battle that produced much interest, merriment and perhaps a bit of confusion.

Dr. Addison and Loyd Buckley, tied for honors although neither were declared winners as they both went down on the bothersome word, vermillion. The occasion brought to mind the lecture given here last winter by Prof. Henderson of the University of Michigan on "The abominabilities of English spelling," and the humorous way in which he solved spelling.

The experience was a good one and provided an entertainment both beneficial and mirth provoking. The club voted to discontinue the meetings on the Monday before Christmas and also the Monday before New Years.

The catechism class of the Sixth Reformed church, taught by N. Bruinx of the seminary, enjoyed the following program Wednesday evening: piano solo by Miss Eunice Hagelskamp; duet by the Misses Evelyn and Eleanor Hietje; reading by Henrietta Haverdink. Games for the evening were planned by Misses Bertha Coster and Evelyn Hietje. Refreshments were served after a social hour.

LISTEN MEN! YOU SHOULD KNOW THIS!

You husbands who have paid from $250 to $450 for Hudson Seal coats for the fair members of your family are entitled to know what a Hudson Seal is. The season on Hudson Seal in Michigan is from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15. They are not rare but may be found along any stream in the state that runs through grassy meadows or woodlands more or less free from molation. Some are found in streams in the outskirts of cities. There are Hudson Seals in the limits of Detroit for instance, free to be caught by those who will take out a license to trap them. Madame knows her fur as Hudson Seal. The trapper recognizes it as Muskrat which brings him from $2.50 to $4 a skin when caught in their prime and handled properly. The skins are sent to the furriers who pluck the long guard hairs and dye the skins black. The higher grade coats of Hudson Seal are then clipped evenly with a machine made specially for the purpose. The result is a soft, satiny fur that is beloved by the fair sex.

How Michigan Animals Spend The Winter

JACK VAN COEVERING OF THE DETROIT TIMES TELLS US HOW

How do animals spend the winter? That is a question often asked by those who inquire into the ways of nature. But no animal ever worries about it. Instinct helps each creature solve this problem to his entire satisfaction.

Woodchucks, gophers and chipmunks burrow deep enough underground to escape the cold, and sleep through the winter to a great extent. Gophers and chipmunks store up food, and often eat some of it during the winter. The habit of the squirrel of storing up nuts is well known, and he as well as rabbits and field mice are constantly on the go in all but the severest weather.

The muskrat likewise stirs about all winter. His house has been built of reeds and grasses gathered during the summer and in the winter he sits snugly inside, making excursions for food as he wishes. He feeds on ends of long reeds, lilies, stalks, and roots of flags. He eats clams, fish, and insects when ever he can get them, but most of his food is found under water.

Bats hibernate in caves, attics, barns and hollow trees. They sleep all winter, and for all the observer can tell, they are entirely dead. But when spring arrives, they thaw out nicely, and travel about and live as you please.

Carnivorous animals are particularly active in the wintertime, because the herbivorous animals on which they prey are likely to be more scarce. The mink, skunk, opossum, fox and wolf hustle about more vigorously than usual in search of their dinners, and may account for their added boldness in the wintertime.—Detroit Times.

Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Judd are now in Chicago, guests at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Takken. From there they will go to Cleveland, Ohio and then to Toronto, Canada, where they will visit their daughter, Miss Kathie Judd. They expect to return to Holland next spring on their way back to their mission station in China.

Very Interesting Letter from Miss Nettie De Jong of Holland, now in China

Changsha, China, October 12, 1928.

Dear Friends:

This has been a week of rather unusual events and I thought you might be interested to know that October tenth of 1928 was far different from that of the two preceding years. While this, the birthday of the Chinese Republic, is observed every year throughout the land, the nature of the festivities differs materially from time to time. Then, too, the celebration is different in different parts of the country. This was the first time I had spent this holiday in Changsha, the capital of our province, and it was the most wonderful holiday ever observed here in this city. For the first time China was united under the Nationalist flag. And every effort was made to lead the people to rejoice in the hope of a great and wonderful national future. We Americans naturally were thinking of our own Fourth of July and various emotions thrilled our breasts. Rather than theorize about the importance of the day, I am just going to tell you about what we saw and heard and then trust you to draw your own conclusions. But these conclusions will mean more if I remind you that for two years this city and this province have been the hot-bed of anti-foreign feeling and that last year the foreigners who were in the city found it wise to remain in hiding, so strong was the feeling against all the so-called "imperialistic nations." And last year communism was still working havoc in many a Chinese home as well as in schools, hospitals, and churches. Not so in 1928.

We were early risers on October tenth and joined with the groups of students here on the campus in the ceremonies attending the raising of the Nationalist flag. Then there was singing of national anthems and three rousing cheers for the new China, ending with what was formerly reserved for the Emperor, the "Wang Shui" "Wang Shui" which means "may the country flourish for ten thousand years!" The principal of the Fuh-sing High School was in Chicago last year and, as he led the cheers with great enthusiasm, we might have imagined ourselves on the campus of that American University or rather on the stadium at some great game.

At nine o'clock there was a big patriotic meeting at the church and representatives of the school sang and delivered addresses. The pastor of the church gave an able resumé of the history of China during the past eighteen years and then at some length spoke of the friendship that America had shown toward China in the past and, especially, during the year which had just closed. Then he asked the whole audience to rise to show to us who were Americans the gratitude of China for these recent tokens of friendship. After this one of us was asked to make a brief response. Perhaps, this means little to you, but it means much to us who still remember the bitter attitude of the past months.

In the afternoon we were greatly privileged to be invited to a reception at the governor's yamen. There, in the presence of thousands of prominent Chinese, all the foreigners resident in this community were publicly received by the governor and assured that it was his desire that friendly relations be restored and perpetuated between our countries and China. He greatly deplored the fact that the rise of Communism had led to much destruction of foreign property and that many of us had been obliged to leave China for our safety. But, now that war was over, it was the desire of the Chinese that we should work and live here in peace and quietness. I wish you could have seen all the decorations and the thousands that came to greet the new governor.

At four o'clock in the afternoon we were present at a big union prayer meeting in the city church where all of the Christians of Changsha met in a prayer and praise service. The prayer service lasted an hour and a half but there were no embarrassing pauses. Most of these Chinese Christians have seen recent days of persecution and they are deeply grateful to God for the quiet and peace of these present days. Refreshments followed the meeting.

Late in the evening there were wonderful fire-works and the crowds thronged the streets that were so gay with lanterns and colored flags. Schools have been closed for three days and everything has been done to inspire a deeper patriotism in the hearts of the people. Posters decorate all walls and gates, but no longer those dreadful anti-foreign ones. Public orators lecture on street corners, but no longer do we hear our national sins denounced in public. Perhaps it is too early to congratulate China, but those of us, who have experienced something of the hard days of the past three years, are truly grateful for promise of a new era in international friendships. So we too join in the cry of the new republic: "May China flourish for ten thousand years!"

With sincere greetings and good wishes to all of you, especially over at the college,

Yours truly,
Nettie R. De Jong.

EASTERN STUDENT COMPARES HIS COUNTRY WITH MICHIGAN

MR. TOONIN FROM MESOPOTAMIA NOTES NEW FREEDOM

Mr. Kamil Toonin, Hope freshman from Basrah, Iraq (formerly Mesopotamia) has some interesting comparisons to make between Holland, Mich., and his native country. Winter is not as cold as in Michigan there, and most of the people have never seen snow, but the weather is usually a disagreeable damp cold. Once in a few years in a severe cold spell, people will die from the cold, mainly due to lack of protection.

At this season most of the people will have returned to the towns and cities after the harvest season, in September and October, for dates and grapes. Hundreds of people are seasonably occupied in picking, sorting and packing dates, one of the chief products of the country.

Mr. Toonin remarked about the new freedom of the country in many ways; he considered the better educated classes much more tolerant of the Christians, and new customs, such as the Europeanizing of the Moslem women's dress. He was greatly surprised here, however, at the remarkable freedom of the women in the colleges. In his country educational schools are unheard of, and women never travel about in the evening, even in groups, without escorts. Incidentally, Mr. Toonin believes that the Eastern women in European garb compare most favorably with the best of America.

CANDIDATE FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

To the Voters:

I recently announced my candidacy, at the Primary Election to be held March 4, 1929, for the office of Judge of the Allegan-Ottawa Circuit Court, to succeed Judge Oren S. Cross whose third six-year term will expire next year.

I have been in active general practice of the law for twenty-two years, and my public service includes two years as Circuit Court Commissioner of Ottawa County, six years as Prosecuting Attorney, and nine years as City Attorney for Grand Haven.

My record as a lawyer and citizen and for respect for and enforcement of all the laws cannot honestly be impeached.

My standing at the Bar of our Circuit is evidenced by the fact that I am now the President of the Ottawa County Bar Association.

If you can conclude that I am qualified for the office I now seek and deserving of it, as I have tried to be and believe I am, I will be grateful for your support of my candidacy.

LOUIS H. OSTERHAUS
Grand Haven, Michigan.

The membership of the Holland ship is now 55, which is considerably larger than the customary ship, and Skipper Hyma plans to organize two or three more ships as soon as possible.

Happy New Year

The old year is drawing to a close. It has been a good year, and now 1929 promises to be a period of plenty.

We will continue our efforts to make it more satisfactory for the farmers to grow pickles and other crops we need. Our interest in the welfare of the whole district will be the same as in the past. We have seen and experienced Holland's great spirit of co-operation, and under its influence we are justified in expressing the hope that the New Year will prove both prosperous and happy.

One of our most gratifying thoughts is that we hold the friendship of Holland and its worthy citizens. It makes us feel that we have an established position in the community, that we are neighbors to our neighbors.

Since Christmas is a time when friends meet friends with hearty good wishes, we have created this opportunity to express the hope that dawn of the glorious day will find joy reigning supreme in every home.

G. H. Tribune Tells of Holland Game

HOLLAND CHRISTIAN HIGH HANGS 31 TO 26 DEFEAT ON LOCALS MONDAY NIGHT

Grand Haven Tribune. — Grand Haven absorbed an opening game defeat last night when the Holland Christian Reformed five took the Cohrmen into camp on the local court, 31 to 26. The visitors got off to a 9 to 3 advantage in the first quarter and although the Havenites played them even for the rest of the game, the six-point margin was enough to insure the clever Holland outfit a victory.

Christian High had a tall, rangy outfit that had been practicing since October and they were in fine form, giving the locals lots of trouble because of their height and condition. Condition on the Grand Haven team was not of the best and the players were slow and didn't use the brand of team work that Holland exhibited.

Dirkse did the best all around work for the Havenites and held up under the gruelling pace of his position at running guard. The rest of the team let up toward the last, fatigue getting the better of them. Boyink found the net for six field goals and played a hard game. Wiegink, who replaced Katt at guard, also showed up well and is doped as a regular by those who saw him play.

Vander Hoop was the big noise for Holland with five field goals while Bowman broke through for four. The entire Holland team played nice, fast ball and picking a star for them was difficult.

Neither team scored for over two minutes after the tip off and then Vander Hoop rang up a free throw. Katt came back to tie and then Dirkse gave Grand Haven the lead with another free throw. Vander Hoop broke the ice with the first field goal shortly afterwards putting Holland ahead and Fasen, Timmer and Bowman brought the count to 9 to 3 at the first quarter.

Holland lengthened their lead right at the start of the second quarter with a goal and then Byl, starting the field goal scoring for Grand Haven, put the count 6 to 11. Dirkse took the ball through on the tip off to make it 8 to 11 and fans had visions of the Havenites getting going. Holland showed mettle and the half found them ahead 15 to 9.

As the second started, Boyink rushed the goal for a deuce and continued the tactics, engaging in a tip and tuck battle with Vander Hoop to see who could do the most scoring. The quarter ended with Grand Haven down 22 to 17. Another goal as the last period opened by Boyink brought the Cohrmen closer, 22 to 19, but Holland started again and it was all over as their well drilled aggregation drew ahead of the Havenites, who plainly showed the effects of a hard battle.

Grand Haven's cheering, led by Alice Chamberlain, was better than usual despite the small crowd. Miss Chamberlain has been putting forth a lot of effort and is as good as any cheer leader in Western Michigan, but needs the co-operation of the students to make as much noise as some of Grand Haven's opponents.

Lineup

Grand Haven	Holland
Boyink	Bowman
Byl	Fasen
Van Schelven	Vander Hoop
Dirkse	Boven
Katt	Timmer

Field goals: Boyink 6, Byl 2, Dirkse, Vander Hoop 5, Bowman 4, Boven and Fasen. Free throws: Boyink 2, Katt 2, Dirkse and Van Schelven, Fasen 3, Boven 2, Bowman, Vander Hoop. Substitutions: Correll for Byl, Carlson for Boyink, Schultz for Van Schelven and Wiegink for Katt. Referee: E. Westerhof.

SEVEN GAMES BOOKED FOR HOPE COLLEGIANS ON WESTERN CAGE TRIP

Coach Jack Schouten made definite announcement today of the schedule of games to be played by Hope's Varsity on their trip thru the middle west next week. The program includes many strong college quintets, and one of the best professional teams in the country, Cudahy's five of Orange City, Iowa. The schedule is as follows:

Dec. 15, Northwestern at Naperville, Ill.; Dec. 17, De Kalb College at De Kalb, Ill.; Dec. 18, Lutheran College at Dubuque, Iowa; Dec. 19, Buena Vista College at Storm Lake, Iowa; Dec. 20, Sheldon Jr. College at Sheldon, Iowa; Dec. 21, Orange City, Jr. College at Orange City, Iowa; Dec. 22, Cudahy's five, at Orange City, Iowa.

This schedule of stiff collegiate squads following immediately upon the first M. I. A. game to be played at Kalamazoo tonight will certainly be a severe test of the Hope mettle and should whip the squad into A-1 shape for the M. I. A. contests. Coach Schouten will probably take about 10 or 12 men.

TENNESSEE BEACH ROAD PAVING ASSURED

Tennessee Beach road which runs parallel with the lake shore from a point about 1,900 feet south of the George Getz Lake farm to Port Sheldon will be paved next spring, according to present indication. The Ottawa county road commission has set December 17th as the date for a second hearing on the project.

This road leads through a well developed resort section and will prove a big convenience to owners of summer homes. Scores of cottages are nestled in the hills for several miles along the lake front and the proposed road will greatly enhance the value of the property.

From all appearances we are going to have a girls' Dormitory in the tower of the Chapel, else why are they screening it?

"Heinie" Steffens was selected as center on the second M. I. A. A. eleven. Martin, Japenga, Klay, and Cook were given honorable mention. There were some good results of the past football season, it seems.

The basketball team will be leaving for their pre-Xmas trip in a few days. We certainly wish the boys lots of luck and hope that they won't be lost in the primitive wilds of Iowa.

To the Home Volunteer Group last Friday evening Dr. Nettinga gave the first of two lectures on the Reformed Church in America. His subject was "The Origin and Growth of the Reformed Church in America." The history of our church, while not spectacular, is very interesting. The present Reformed church is the union of two movements of immigration. The first group of immigrants came in the first half of the 17th century and the second group in the middle of the 19th century. The first group settled in New York and in New Jersey and the second in western Michigan, Illinois, and Iowa. The churches of these two groups were united by Dr. Van Raalte and the leaders in the East. Those who settled in the East came mainly for economic reasons, while those who came to the West came seeking religious freedom. He also gave several reasons for the slow growth of our church. His lecture was one which brought much enjoyment and knowledge to those who were present. This week he will lecture on the character and accomplishment of the Reformed church.

The annual "Fraternal" serenade was made at Voorhees Dormitory last Friday, when the Fraters sang fine romantic selections to the peering heads above. Beneath the chilly stars rang out "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," "Sonny Boy," and similar dramatic hits of the season. The Tremolo on the violin was no exaggeration, for the temperature was far better for radio broadcasting than for nocturnal vocalizing. The event being celebrated was the election of society officers for the second of the three terms. "Fraternal" new officials are: Otto Yntema, president; Nellis Tanis, vice-president; Bernard Arends, horst, secretary; and Henry Steffens, treasurer. These will officiate until the end of the next twelve weeks. Titus Van Hattama, a Hopeite who enrolled from the distant land of Zealand, now reigns in splendor as "Janitor." He addressed the Dorm girls during the serenade, making a brief but forceful speech.

The "Fraternal Home" now has a candy store where members and visitors can procure all the well known bars.

In the first game of the 1928-29 court season the Hope basketball team defeated the Seventh Reformed Church of Grand Rapids by a score of 28-14. The game, although not particularly closely contested, was interesting enough to watch. The Hope College squad had an immense advantage in that they had available over twenty men, any of whom could be substituted at any time.

The first team that appeared for Hope was made up of Martin, Van Lente, Klay, De Pree, and De Velder. This proved to be the fastest combination of the evening and considerable of the scoring was done by this aggregation. However, in a short time a second team consisting of Tigelaar, De Young, Vanderbush, Becker and Cook, appeared and made a splendid effort to continue the fast work of the former team; and they succeeded in a very creditable manner. From this time on the various combinations of men were tried.

The first half was characterized by swift, smooth, steady playing by the Hope squad, while the Grand Rapids group seemed to be at a veritable loss to cope with the speed of the Hope men. However, at the beginning of the second half the Grand Rapids group seemed to rally, and did some very clever, and rapid scoring for several minutes. But in a short time the Hope team subdued our visitors, and the game ended as indicated by the score. The Hope scoring was as follows:

Floor Shots Fouls

Martin.....5.....0

Van Lente.....3.....2

De Velder.....0.....1

Cook.....1.....0

Becker.....1.....0

De Pree.....1.....0

Vanderbush.....0.....1
