BPW Gives Report On Possible Cause Of Power Failure

Many Factors Might Have Caused Turbine
To Go Out Of Whack

(This report was prepared for
The Sentinel by the Board of Public Works—Editor)

A complete investigation to determine the cause of the power failure at the James DeYoung plant now is being conducted by the Board of Public Works staff and Allis-Chalmers engineers.

This work will require several weeks. Therefore, the preliminary report as printed below includes some elements of speculation and must be taken subject to later revision.

The failure of both turbines within a couple of hours may have been the result of several unusual conditions.

Normally, water used in the boilers is distilled water pumped from the condensers. There is, however, an emergency boiler water feed line direct from the city lines. One of the valves in this line was found to be faulty and may have permitted some "contamination" of the boiler water.

Under these conditions, a boiler may foam up when the pressure suddenly is released or when unusually large amounts of steam are required. A slug of this foam or "wet steam" could have passed through the steam lines with enough force to damage the turbines. This condition is called priming.

The next question is what caused the turbines' steam governors to call for an unusually large amount of steam?

In the case of No. 1 turbine, which was operating first, an examination of the rotors disclosed three blades broken on No. 34 rotor. (Each turbine contains several thousand blades.) If these blades were broken prior to the breakdown, they may have wedged between the rotor and the turbine casing.

In this event, the turbine would lose velocity and automatic steam controls would call for more steam. As these steam requirements became excessive, priming in the boiler may have occurred.

The No. 2 turbine was "warmed up" immediately after the first turbine was shut off. In about 60 minutes, it was up to temperature and speed—ready to take over the task of energizing the nine city circuits. In the meantime, many thermostats throughout the city had added oil burners to the load and many refrigerators likewise were calling for energy.

It is quite possible that the surge resulting from picking up some of the larger circuits was sufficient to overload the boiler—causing priming and subsequent failure of the No. 2 turbine.

Unfortunately there was no way of knowing what caused No. 1 turbine to fail before No. 2 turbine was put into service.

Examination of the recording instrument charts disclosed that proper water levels had been maintained in the boiler; that steam pressure and temperature were normal and that the turbine operator had reacted quickly to the emergency.

A number of plant improvements are contemplated to prevent further trouble of this sort. Some of these plans already have been put into effect. The important lesson for electrical users to remember is that all switches should be turned off when there is a current interruption, except possibly a single light to determine when service has been restored.

BPW members deeply appreciate the splendid co-operation and patience of the citizens of Holland and outside customers. Of special value was last communication made possible by radio station WHTC and the Holland Evening Sentinel.

Check Artists Active in City

Five bad checks, with an estimated $200 face value, have been passed in Holland during the past week, according to Police Chief Jacob Van Hoff.

The chief pointed out that the Christmas season is an ideal time for check artists, because of the confusion resulting from the holiday rush in business.

The checks have been sent to state police. Passers include both men and women, according to store owners who are victimized. Van Hoff urged merchants to exercise the basic rules in cashing checks: Know your endorser, and demand authentic identification.

Citizens Fill Hope Chapel for Traditional Oratorio

The people of Holland turned out in traditional fashion Tuesday night to fill Hope Memorial chapel for the annual Christmas performance of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah." Presented by the Hope college Messiah chorus and orchestra under the direction of Prof. Robert W. Cavanaugh, the entire production was one of artistic and spiritual significance.

With his chorus of nearly 200 voices trained to a nicety of expression, shading and clean attacks, Prof. Cavanaugh presented what was undoubtedly one of the finest performances of his successful career at the college. He was assisted in the various departments by other members of the faculty—William Druckenmiller, associate conductor, who trained the orchestra, Mrs. W. Curtis Snow whose presence at the organ console gives confidence to chorus and soloists, and Mrs. Harold J. Karsten, who capably furnished piano accompaniment for some of the numbers.

Local music lovers are used to the best in oratorio soloists, and they were not disappointed Tuesday night. The familiar tenor solos took on new significance with Harold Haugh's dramatic interpretations. Mr. Haugh is new to

Lohman Resigns As Supervisor; Two More Named

Fillmore—Ben E. Lohman who was elected state representative from Allegan county in the November election submitted his resignation as supervisor of Fillmore township, a position he has held 10 years, at a meeting of the township board this week.

Russell Boeve, who lives just south of Holland city limits, was appointed to Lohman's unexpired term. The board also appointed George Klingenberg to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Austin I. Fairbanks.

Both Boeve and Klingenberg are members of the zoning board formed in February, 1946, which drew up a permanent zoning ordinance adopted April 16, 1948. The ordinance has operated so successfully that it has been used as a pattern by state and county planners.

The township appointed a Fillmore Planning Commission last Jan. 16 to make a thorough study of present and future needs of the township as a whole and its individual neighborhoods.

Its first project was acquisition of an 11-acre playground in the Maplewood district just south of Holland at a cost of $6,500 covering cost of property and improvements. The sum will be raised by a special assessment on all property within the boundaries of the neighborhood.

The township board paid high tribute to Lohman whom members considered a great asset during his 10-year tenure. "He has been influential in creating a splendid co-operative spirit throughout the various branches of township government," it was said.

Boeve, his successor, served as chairman of the zoning board since its organization. This position as chairman automatically placed him on the township board of appeals. Klingenberg, the other appointee, served as secretary of the board, and also serves as building inspector for the township.

Present and newly appointed members of the township board and their wives will state a farewell party for Lohman Dec. 22 in the home of John Tien, township clerk.

Ottawa Recount Halted As Half-Way Mark Nears

With the recount halted, the official vote will revert to the canvassed vote in which Ottawa gave Kelly 16,179 and Williams 8,115.

Both O. S. Cross of Holland, special assistant to the attorney general, and County Clerk Anna Van Horsen received telegrams this morning from Secretary of State Fred M. Alger. The county was instructed to submit a final report as of today, re-wrap all ballots, resal and replace them in ballot boxes.

In other municipal court cases, Daniel Hazebrook, 17, of 407 College Ave., and Arthur Arenas, 17, of 370 West 15th St., pleaded guilty to a charge of drinking on a public street and were placed on probation one year by Municipal Judge Cornelius vander Meulen. Conditions of the probation are that they pay $1 a month probation fees and obey all laws. The alleged offense occurred Dec. 5.

James T. Klomparsen, doing business as Klomparsen Coal Co., pleaded innocent to a short-weight coal charge, and trial was set Friday, Dec. 22. Arrest was made by a state inspector who charged a 65-pound shortage on a 7,200-pound load.

A $2 parking fine was paid by Henry Rozeboom, route 2, and $1 parking fines were paid by Bud Baskett, 253 West 16th St.; Henry J. ## Powers Sentenced In Fatal Shooting

Allegan (Special) — "It is my personal belief that the jury rendered the most lenient verdict that could be expected when it convicted you of manslaughter," Judge Earl Pugsley told Melbourne Powers Monday afternoon.

He then sentenced Powers to 7½ to 15 years in Southern Michigan prison at Jackson for the fatal shooting of his son-in-law, Albert Strampel, last July in the Powers home at Douglas.

Judge Pugsley, a visiting jurist for the second Powers trial, said he considered Powers' previous prison term for a felony when he decided sentence.

"After hearing the testimony, I find no justification for your facing Strampel with a loaded gun," Pugsley told Powers. "I am not overlooking the fact that there had been trouble. I accept the fact that he had been unkind and made assaults upon you and your daughter, his wife."

"But at the time of the shooting, he was not the aggressor. You left the room, and he entered, sitting upon the davenport and engaged in a conversation with Orrin Ensfield, a witness in this case."

"At that moment you entered with a loaded gun, and after only a few words, the gun discharged—you state, accidentally."

Before addressing Powers, Judge Pugsley told the court that he had held a private conference with the defendant, in which the convicted man reassured his innocence and justification in the shooting. He said Powers had expressed regret over the death of Strampel.

Sheriff Louis Johnson said Powers would be taken to Jackson today.

Powers' attorney, Leo Hoffman, said he planned to file a motion for a new trial in this court, and if that is dismissed, he will appeal to the state supreme court.

Furnace Company Receives Honor

The Holland Furnace company has been honored as being "excellently managed" during 1950 by the American Institute of Management in New York city.

In a letter to the company dated Nov. 30, the institute said, "This outside appraisal of your company has been helpful in our work. We congratulate you on the quality of your leadership."

The letter is signed by Jackson Martinelli, institute president.

The Holland company was one of 2,000 included in a study recently completed. Out of this number, 238 were selected from 93 industries for the management honor. Holland Furnace was the only company so cited in the heating field.

The institute made the study for the purpose of providing a base for research concerning corporate policies and procedures of well-managed companies.

Aliens Reminded They Must Register Jan. 1-10

Att. Gen. J. Howard McGrath today directed attention to the requirements of the alien registration act of 1940 as amended by the international security act of 1950.

The attorney general said that under the amended law any alien residing in the United States on Jan. 1, 1951, except one lawfully here in a temporary status, must notify the commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization service, Washington, D. C., of his current address within 10 days thereafter and during the same period in each succeeding year.

A. R. Mackey, acting commissioner of immigration and naturalization, cautioned all aliens that failure to comply with these provisions of the law will subject them to prosecution. Mackey also said that an address report card (known as Form I-53) should be used in making the required reports, and that alien registration numbers should be printed on the forms. Form I-53 may be obtained at any immigration and naturalization service or any United States post office.

MSC Scientists Seek Strawberry Plants to Study

Botany, Plant Pathology Department at MSC to Probe Virus Diseases

Michigan strawberry raisers have an opportunity to aid in a research project conducted by the Michigan Agricultural Experiment station to find disease-free plants for research.

The botany and plant pathology department of Michigan State college, co-operating with the department of horticulture, has set up the project to study virus diseases of strawberries.

At present, most of the plants of the standard varieties carry concealed or latent viruses which they have picked up since their introduction. This is not a recent discovery, as these virus diseases have been known for some years. However, it is not known whether all of the viruses are really harmful.

The investigators at the college want to find plants which are virus free. They are seeking to find if such plants have superior productivity and greater runner production. They are wondering if they can find disease free plants for distribution to nurserymen to be grown under specified conditions for certified plants.

The first job is to find disease-free plants. Robert H. Fulton, assistant in small fruit research, says the scientists are seeking plants from strawberry patches maintained by growers for 20 to 30 years by using their own transplants. Such plants would have erect stems, large, flat leaves, and would produce excellent yields.

The investigators are interested mainly in the standard varieties such as Premier, Robinson, and Dunlap. They would need about a dozen plants of any given variety and could use them immediately as work will be conducted in greenhouses. A report of findings will be sent to growers who furnish plants.

Plants may be sent to the Botany and Plant Pathology department, Michigan State college. The grower's address and variety name should be included.

Injury to Carcass Cuts Animal Value

Application of a little common sense in handling farm animals pays off with a dividend when it comes time to market your livestock, say Michigan State college animal husbandrymen.

Tests at one meat-packing plant reveal about a third of the cattle and hogs were bruised. Two-thirds of these bruises were caused by man's carelessness, reports revealed. High priced cuts were found by packing plants to be the most often bruised.

It isn't worth five dollars to kick a hog in the ham, animal husbandry specialists say, but the loss is often that great. It is also unwise to crowd cattle when it results in a bruised loin.

They add that it doesn't pay to lift a lamb by the wool when such a practice leaves unsightly bruises which cut carcass value.

In the long-run, it's the stockman who pays, for paying concerns must figure in these losses with their costs, and this results in lower prices to the producers.

World War II Mothers Elect New Officers

Mothers of World War II met Wednesday evening in the GAR room, City hall, with Mrs. Blanche Shaffer presiding.

Election of officers highlighted the business meeting. Mrs. Cora Nicol was elected president; Mrs. Melva Crowe, first vice president; Mrs. Marie Huizenga, second vice president; Mrs. Ethel Von Ins, recording secretary; Mrs. Bertha Drij, financial secretary; Mrs. Jeanette Cranmer, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Buurman, chaplain; Mrs. Nellie Jacobs, historian; Mrs. Leona Norlin, sergeant at arms.

Color bearers and chairmen will be appointed at a later meeting, it was announced.

Plans were made for a Christmas party on Dec. 20. Instead of a gift exchange, members will give the money they'd have spent on gifts to a purse for a hospitalized veteran's family.

Mrs. Bertha Drij and Mrs. Marie Huizenga served refreshments during the social hour.

Funeral Services Set For Herman Bultema

Holland Post Office Has Grown During the Last Half Century

Holland's post office has grown by leaps and bounds during the last 43 years.

Back in 1907, when the post office was located in a part of what now is the Woolworth store on West Eighth St., there were 20 men on the staff.

In 1915, when the present post office was built, there were 30 employees and receipts for that year amounted to $40,000.

This year promises to break all receipt records, according to Postmaster Harry Kramer. He anticipates receipts totaling $400,000 when the year ends. And today's staff numbers from 63 to 65 men.

Of the 20-man staff back in 1907, just six are living today. Paul Coster, one of the original carriers, died just last week. Those still living are Dick Oosting, Al DeVries, Simon Ver Wey, Al Kleis, Ed Westveer and John K. Van Lente.

Gerrit Van Schelven was postmaster and Ed Westveer was assistant postmaster. One of the clerks at that time was John Kramer, father of Holland's present postmaster. John K. Van Lente is the father of one of the present city carriers.

That staff included four clerks, six city carriers, seven rural carriers and one sub-carrier.

Maroon Reserves Bow to Eagles

After a shaky first quarter, Coach John Ham's Holland Christian Little Maroons played on even terms with Grand Rapids Christian's reserves but it was no avail as they lost 40-27, Friday night. The contest was played in the spacious Civic auditorium, the size of the floor bothering both squads somewhat at the start.

The Dutch managed to score the first basket in the fray, but soon fell behind. They trailed 16-5 at the end of the first period. They dropped two points in the second quarter and were behind 26-13 at the intermission. Grand Rapids continued to move in the third canto and pushed the total to 36-20 at the end of the quarter. Holland outscored the winners in the last period, but the damage was done.

Jerry Schipper and Rich Sharda shared the Maroon scoring honors with eight points each while Vander Henst had 15 for Grand Rapids.

Insure Good Milk With Proper Care

What happens to the quality of milk after it is taken from the cow depends upon conditions and facilities provided by those who do the job of milking and caring for the herd. D. L. Murray, Michigan State college extension dairyman, reminds dairymen that quality is important from the standpoint of consumers' using dairy products in greater quantities.

A strong point from the standpoint of selling dairy products is that they are purchased and consumed because people like them, Murray advises. To maintain this valuable aid of flavor in selling dairy products, producers must provide milk that is free from off-flavors and which possesses good keeping quality.

Several important items must be considered if quality of milk is to be maintained until it reaches market. Murray cites as the first item the cleanliness of the cows. Clean, well-bedded barns, along with clipping the rear quarters of the cow's body, help to protect quality.

Clean, sterile utensils and equipment used in handling the milk are next in order, and are of major importance in preventing bacteria from getting into the milk supply.

Prompt cooling to below 60 degrees Fahrenheit is necessary to prevent the growth of those bacteria that may be present.

Careful attention to all steps of milk production is necessary in producing high quality milk. Achieving good results is up to those individuals who are caring for the herd and handling the milk, Murray maintains.

License Plate Sales Continue

A total of 467 passenger car licenses were issued during the first week of sales at the Holland License bureau, manager Al Dyk reported today.

This is in comparison with 400 sold at the same time last year.

The 1951 license plates went on sale Dec. 1. Others besides passenger licenses being distributed are commercial, farm commercial and trailer plates.

Dyk emphasized that car owners don't have to wait for license application forms to arrive from Lansing before purchasing plates. "We have them here," Dyk said. "If you want your license, just come on down and get it."

"However, you must have the title to your car with you," he concluded.

The license bureau is located at 87 West Eighth St., the west door at the C. C. Wood building.

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mulder

When the late Paxton Hibben published a life of William Jennings Bryan he described it as "the biography of a voice." There was irony in the phrase, because Hibben had little love for Bryan the man.

A new book, "Gerrit J. Diekema, Orator," by Dr. William Schrier, is likewise essentially the "biography of a voice," as its title indicates. But even the faintest suggestion of irony is absent from that title. For although the book is an objective study, the author plainly reveals by implication that he admires the man he discusses and that he has done his work in a spirit of sympathetic interest.

Dr. Schrier disclaims any intention of writing a "biography in the ordinary sense"; his concern is with Diekema as an orator, and biography is incidental. Since however any man's public expression reflects the speaker with peculiar intimacy, an excellent portrait of Diekema the man develops as the story of Diekema the orator unfolds. The author calls it a "specialized kind of biography," and that describes the book accurately. In a volume of 269 pages Dr. Schrier has succeeded in bringing to life on the printed page a man who, during his long career, was one of the best known Holland Americans of his day.

The book deserves the sympathetic interest not merely of readers who happen to be of Dutch descent but of all those who believe that our national culture has many roots. This "specialized" biography of a very eloquent voice deserves a place on the bookshelves of all who are attracted by the infinite variety of expression in America, but in a special way of those who take pride in being Americans from Holland.

Along with the introduction, acknowledgments, chronology, list of illustrations, appendices, bibliography, the book proper contains fourteen chapters. The titles of some of them will most clearly suggest, in brief form, the character of the book.

Thus there is one chapter called "Gerrit J. Diekema the Man," a character sketch setting forth his personal, political, economic, religious traits. Another chapter develops the theme of "Diekema's Political Philosophy," a subject that the plan of the book called for since many of Mr. Diekema's speeches were political. This discussion is supplemented by another chapter called "Diekema's Political, Economic, and Social Themes and Ideas." Then there is a chapter devoted to "Diekema's Religious Themes and Ideas."

Dr. Schrier gives a vivid account of his character's background in the little pioneer city of Holland, and that leads him into the subject of Diekema's audiences, their traits and points of view. Being one of them, Mr. Diekema understood his audiences through and through, and Dr. Schrier goes into some detail describing how the orator prepared his addresses and adapted their tone to the psychological atmosphere in which they were to be delivered. Three whole chapters are devoted to Diekema's workmanship, the literary style and delivery of his addresses.

Then there is a chapter called "Diekema's Local Influence," and another on "Diekema's State-wide Influence." The author suggests that his subject's influence was more than statewide by calling one of his chapters "Diekema's National Speaking Activities."

The final chapter, "Diekema's Ministerial Career," tells the story of the Holland man's appointment by President Hoover as Minister to the Netherlands, a position he was holding with distinction when death overtook him in The Hague in 1930.

Poultry Production Soars in 20 Years

During the last 20 years, poultry farmers have become experts in egg production, says Henry Larzelere, Michigan State college agricultural economist, in citing recent U. S. Department of Agriculture figures.

By adopting better strains of chickens, by keeping more pullets in the laying flocks, and by better feeding and sanitation, they now manage to get over a third more eggs per hen than they did twenty years ago. USDA economists expect these improvements to continue through the next 10 years.

Along with this, the number of chickens and eggs needed will increase as our population grows. But they say that unless production goes down in the next year or two, and then expands at the same rate as population, prices for chickens and eggs will continue low compared with other livestock products.

The economists believe the fewer chickens being raised this year indicates that adjustment is already being raised this year indicates that adjustment is already under way.

Judge Denies Motions For Dismissal of Case

Grand Haven (Special)—In an opinion filed in the Ottawa circuit court Friday, Judge Raymond L. Smith denied motions of Edward Blakeslee, 21, Grand Rapids, and Richard Radeck, 21, route 2, Coopersville, seeking dismissal of their cases.

Both young men, charged with rape, had filed motions seeking dismissal on the grounds that the evidence produced at a preliminary examination in Justice George Hoffer's court last Sept. 15, did not disclose that the offense of rape was committed, and that the venue was not shown.

A jury trial having been waived, the trial of both cases has been set for Dec. 19 at 9:30 a.m. The alleged offense occurred in Wright township involving a 27-year-old Grand Rapids woman.

Maroons Lose Out In Final Minutes Of Hectic Contest

One of the gamest basketball teams ever to wear the maroon and white of Holland Christian threw the dope sheet to the winds Friday night and almost upset a towering Grand Rapids Christian quintet. As it was, the Furniture City five managed to eke out a 41-36 win in the closing minutes of the tilt.

A crowd of almost 3,000 witnessed the annual clash in the Grand Rapids Civic Auditorium, and really got its money's worth. Ticket officials said more tickets had been sold, but some stayed away due to bad weather.

Sheer determination and a smooth functioning "set" offense almost turned the trick for the Hollanders. Giving the winners almost three inches per man, the fighting Maroons not only excelled in their floor game, but on many occasions in the fray, actually controlled the backboards. Holland's front line men composed of the Kok brothers, Sherwood and Jim, Ken Knott and Earl Schipper did outstanding work in this department.

A basket or two in the right spot could have given the locals the victory. With the count knotted at 36-all and less than four minutes to play, the Dutch were in excellent shape to notch the win. Coach Wes Vryhof's crew was shooting wildly at this point. However, the Holland five, trying to outreach and outfight the giant Grand Rapids forward wall, fouled repeatedly in the final two minutes. The Eagles closed in on five successive free throws to clinch the decision.

Grand Rapids, paced by 6'7" Paul Newhof, got the best of a see-saw first quarter, outscoring the Dutch 15-11. Newhof, using his height to good advantage, garnered the Eagles' first nine points in the fray.

After a slow start in the second period, the Grand Rapids offense moved into high gear in the closing minutes to take a comfortable 24-17 margin at the half. Coach Arthur Tuls kept shuffling his front line constantly to keep fresh men in the fray. At one point the Eagles held a nine-point margin, but Jim Kok's two charity tosses whittled the lead at half time.

Grand Rapids took its biggest lead of the game soon after the second half opened, moving out in front, 30-19. Then came the Holland rally which eventually knotted the count. Playing strictly the style they wanted to play, the Dutch used screens and cuts effectively to whittle the margin to 32-29 as the quarter ended. Tony Diekema, who showed a return to form, was the big gun with six points in the quarter.

The winners increased their margin to five points twice throughout the final quarter, before the determined Dutch closed the gap at 36-30 on a one hander by Diekema. Then came the final hectic minutes which saw Grand Rapids forge ahead on foul shots, neither team being able to score a field goal.

Others showing well in the tilt were Ben and Ralph Bouwman and Ken Mast for Holland, and Harold Hoeksema and Roger Hamstra for Grand Rapids.

The Tulsens connected on 10 out of 18 foul tosses while Grand Rapids hit 13 out of 23.

Newhof led all scorers with 17 tallies. Diekema was high for the locals with 12 points followed by Ralph Bouwman with 10.

Keep Tractor in Top Condition in Winter

Having trouble getting your tractor to start on these cold mornings? If so, you'll benefit from these three suggestions given this week by L. R. Arnold, Ottawa county agricultural agent.

He recommends keeping the engine clean as the first job. Dirt collects around the spark plugs, magnet, and distributor cap. Then it gets damp and shorts the electrical system. A clean engine is always a help to easier tractor starting.

Agent Arnold also says to be sure you use winterized fuel. Some manufacturers add volatile materials during the winter months, and these light materials help promote easier starting.

Finally, the agent advises, keep the fuel tank full as much of the time as possible this winter. This will help keep moisture from condensing on the inside of the tank and promote easier starting.

Trapping Fur Animals Income for Farm Boy

Trapping wild fur animals offers the farm boy a good chance to earn extra cash, says Charles Shick, extension specialist in game management for Michigan State college and the Michigan conservation department.

Correct handling of pelts will help increase the income from trapping efforts, he points out. Time and care should be taken when skinning, especially around the head regions of a fur animal. Use stretchers that shape pelts to their natural size. Never overstretch a pelt since this will thin the fur and make it look poor.

Shick advises that all excess fat and tissue should be removed from pelts before they are allowed to dry in a cool, airy place. Fire and direct sunlight should never be used in drying. Pelts should remain on stretchers until dry enough to hold their shape. Never ship green or unstretched pelts, he cautions.

MORAL ISSUE OR PRACTICAL

A national network radio commentator who is noted for his objectivity makes the remark that the use of the atom bomb has never seemed morally more objectionable to him than the use of any other weapon. The atom bomb, he points out, merely kills more people more quickly than any other weapon that has been devised. But in the precision bombing of Hamburg during the war over a period of weeks on a carefully worked out schedule, more people were killed—civilians as well as military personnel—than were destroyed by the dropping of the atom bomb on Hiroshima. "And those people were just as dead as the Japanese were who fell victim to our atom bomb," he added.

The use of the atom bomb has been widely regarded as a moral issue. It is significant that when President Truman made his most recent statement, appeal was made first of all to the clergymen of the nation. Since the great Protestant unity meeting was at Cleveland at the time, the opportunity was present for getting the reactions of national religious leaders. And to a man almost the use of the atom bomb was condemned.

But always on moral grounds. The religious leaders and statesmen who ranged themselves on that side of the question felt that it would be wrong to use the bomb. Faced with the situation in which American boys now find themselves in Korea, it is doubtful if one of those leaders would have said that ordinary bombs should be withheld from those boys or the most modern guns or hand grenades. Their use is not considered morally wrong. During the war a clergyman won fame by saying, "Praise God and pass the ammunition."

But an enemy killed one by one or ten by ten or a hundred by a hundred is just as dead as are those who are wiped out wholesale by an atom bomb. So are civilians. There was a time when the use of gunpowder was considered morally wrong, and doubtless in the stone age the use of the early bows and arrows was held to be morally reprehensible.

It is hard to see how the dropping of the atom bomb can be held to be morally wrong—if war itself is held to be justifiable. But there is a very good argument on practical grounds for our not using the atom bomb. During the world wars both sides refrained from the use of bacteria warfare, and to a considerable extent the use of poison gas, for fear of reprisal. That practical consideration saved many lives, and that is all to the good. Now that Russia has the same weapon available, for use of the atom bomb would be almost a case of attempted national suicide. The issue is practical, not moral. What do others think? If you have ideas, write us 300 words.

Sunday School Lesson

December 17, 1950
Victorious Daily Living
2 Corinthians 11:18-30; 12: 8-10
By Henry Geerlings

Our lesson title and topic bring to our attention the importance of victorious living day by day. In almost any line of study or endeavor we are greatly influenced in what we do now by the ultimate aim we have in view. Some lives are without any real aim, either as regards this world or the next. Such people just exist and find what pleasures they can in the passing days.

But if we, like the apostle Paul, are animated by the hope of enjoying God forever, we should live to glorify Him now. And in this there is involved victorious living now—the kind of living that pleased God and that will bring an ultimate reward. But that kind of living is not a soft and easy thing. The very word victorious implies conflict and struggle with opposing forces—struggle that ends in victory and not in defeat.

We must meet the great enemy of our souls with his divers temptations. The experiences that try our faith will be far from pleasant, but as we endure them with the help of God, they will work steadfastness. The victorious need to be won a day at a time. And as we resolutely fight and win our daily spiritual conflicts, we shall take our place with Paul and the hosts that have gone on before who have emerged triumphant and have kept the faith.

Christians do not blame their troubles on God, but find them a special opportunity to experience how much God cares for them. The result is that instead of complaining about their troubles, they have additional reasons for glorifying Him.

If there ever was a man who suffered it was the apostle Paul. For a good many years he was afflicted by what he called a thorn in the flesh. What made it worse, he prayed that it might be removed, and it was not. I can easily see why he called this affliction a messenger of Satan; for again and again Satan tried to make him doubt the love of God. But God assured him that his love would be sufficient, no matter how uncomfortable the thorn made him.

In connection with his missionary labors he suffered untold hardships. A various times he was treated most unjustly by the Jewish and Roman authorities. It was not because he was a wicked man, but because he was a minister of the One who could transform evil-doers into the finest Christian characters. He was not only sent to Lystra and left for dead. Missionaries have always been ready to endure hardships; even in these days some of them lost out on our modern conveniences and comforts. They have always expected opposition and persecution. Perhaps they have persevered because the apostle Paul was such a shining example of how Christians can accomplish great things for God, even if it entails physical and spiritual suffering.

Nor was his success as a missionary pure joy. In every church there were problems which weighed heavily upon him. Ministers of churches are accustomed to a life full of troubles. Surely they have no bed of roses in spite of the fact that they are dealing with the best people in the community. Consider some of the causes for Paul's suffering and heart ache. In Philippi there was discord; in Corinth there were divisions in the church; in Galatia there was confusion on account of legalism; in Colosse there was coldness on account of philosophy; in Tessaonica there was sorrow instead of comfort and hope, at least for a while until Paul could write them a good letter.

But great as was his physical suffering it was not to him as heavy a burden as his mental and spiritual travail. He had one of the great intellects of all time. In his thinking he laid the foundations upon which has rested the Christian church. He was never a detached thinker. His thinking was always related to his work. But he was a pioneer thinker, a creative thinker who wrestled with the implications of the Christian faith for all of life. Men may be comfortable in body, but engaged in mental effort that is strenuous and exhausting.

Heart power is more costly than head power. Emotional strain is more exhausting than mental effort. Paul bore on his heart the burden of the churches. He was deeply interested in people. He had the capacity of the pastor to enter into the sufferings of others. If a heresy appeared among the Colossians, it called a special letter. If the Judaizers were at work among his Galatian converts, his heart was torn with deep concern for those in the faith.

A little man can shut himself from the sorrow and suffering of the world. But a man with the heart of the apostle must share the compassion of his Lord. This involves something of the suffering of Jesus in the presence of the sin, the evil, the sorrow, and the suffering of the world. The bearing of such a burden is costly, but it is involved in Christian growth.

Just a Recount Echo... Tom Settles With Sheriff

Grand Haven (Special)—Big Tom Robinson, former Holland attorney who has been in Grand Haven more than a week helping the Democrats in the governor's recount, settled with the sheriff Tuesday.

Tom, who left Holland about 20 years ago for Benton Harbor, owed Sheriff Jerry Vanderbeek $36.38 for more than a year and just never got around to pay it.

Yes, he had been dunned, but his answer was, "Go ahead and prosecute."

At 4:05 p. m. Monday, Under-sheriff Harris Nieuwma and Deputy Bill Wiebenga approached the snappy attorney in the court house with the bill. Robinson said he was unable to pay for it at the time and asked, "Why don't you start suit against me?"

Nieuwma was prepared for that and whipped a summons issued by Justice George Hoffer from his pocket. It involved services rendered Sept. 19, 1949, in the case of Benjamin H. Lievens, now deceased, against the Michigan Unemployment Compensation commission. It was strictly a civil matter.

Big Tom was quiet for maybe a half a minute.

Today he thought better of the situation and paid the $38.86 plus cost.

A Christmas play will be presented by the Sunday school members of the Burnips Methodist church on Friday, Dec. 22, at 8 p.m. They will begin practice next week.

The Burnips Boy Scout troop, No. 32, met Tuesday evening with their leader in the Salem Township Community hall at Burnips. The recreational period followed the short business session.

The weekly prayer meeting was held Thursday at the local Pilgrim Holiness church. The Rev. John Harold Kotesky is the pastor.

Kiwanians Hear Talk On Chinese Situation

The Rev. John Mulienburg, recently returned missionary in China, gave Kiwanians an eye witness account of conditions under Communist domination at the regular Kiwanis meeting Monday evening at the Warm Friend Tavern.

Having lived in China the last four and a half years, Rev. Mulienburg described the hectic life caused by changes in the country, particularly through political maneuvers and economic breakdown brought about by inflation. The speaker said that because the social structure has fallen to pieces in China, it is easy for the Communists to overrun the country. He also pointed out that with China's vast territory, conditions vary throughout the country, with some sections apparently not under Communist control.

In telling about the Korean crises, Rev. Mulienburg said the biggest advantage the Communists are gaining there is prestige resulting in increase in morale with the pushing back of United Nations forces.

George Sketete, program chairman, introduced the speaker. The Rev. Herman Rosenberg gave the invocation and President William DuMond conducted the meeting. Paul Rathke was a guest of the club.

The Hornet is powered by the new high compression H-145 engine, the most powerful automobile engine in production. The Hornet has a 124-inch wheelbase. In addition, Hudson has the Commodore Custom, Super-Six Custom and the Pacemaker Custom series. Hudsons are only five feet high, yet have full road clearance and more head room than any other car due to exclusive "step-down" design with recessed floor. The new Hudsons are on display at Haan Motor Sales Inc., 25 West Ninth St.

City Digs Out Of Snow Drifts

The street department, aided by all other departments of the city owning a truck or a shovel, was out in full force 3 a.m. Saturday clearing roads and walks of the heavy deposits of drifted snow left in Friday's wild blizzard.

Slightly lower temperatures—it was 25 degrees at 11 a.m. today—caused the wet snow to harden somewhat, and cars navigated local streets with some degree of confidence. There were more cars stuck at curbs and in drifts Friday than any person could recall. There also were more chains in evidence than in many years.

Roads remained slippery in the city and police urged caution in travel. Highways were fairly clear but icy in places.

One accident occurred Saturday on US-31 and 27th St. where a heavy semi, driven by Harold Winegar of Grand Rapids, hit the rear of a city snow plow truck as the latter was making a left turn off the highway. The city truck, driven by Gerrit De Haan, 316 West 19th St., was slightly damaged but the tractor of the semi was considerably damaged on the right front.

Pontiac's 1951 silver anniversary models bring 28 fresh styling innovations and 17 mechanical improvements. The new Pontiacs, now on display at Ter Haar Auto Co., 150 East Eighth St., again are available with six or eight cylinder engines. All models offer a choice of Hydra-Matic or synchromesh transmission. The popular Chieftain four-door sedan pictured exemplifies the advanced styling of the Pontiac line.

Mrs. Paul Newnham and 2 1/2-year-old Elizabeth Ann pack a few of the many things they will need when they arrive in Germany to join their husband and father, T/Sgt. Paul Newnham, who has been in Germany 1 1/2 years. Mrs. Newnham is taking her car, a minimum of furniture and furnishings and a washing machine. She learned the latter is one of the most essential appliances in getting along in Germany.

They Expect to Spend Christmas in Germany

Fennville (Special) — Epend-ing Christmas in a far off foreign land with their husband and father is in the offing for Mrs. Paul Newnham and 2 1/2-year-old Elizabeth Ann, who left last week for New York where they will sail for Wiesbaden, Germany.

Sgt. Newnham is doing his second hitch in the army and was sent to Germany in July of this year. He first enlisted in 1941, and was sent overseas in May, 1942. After being in England and France he returned in November, 1944 when he and the former Betty Keag were married. He received his discharge in August, 1945. However he re-enlisted in June, 1946. After attending schools in Illinois, Georgia, Louisville he was sent to Lowry Field, Denver, Colorado in September, 1948, where he stayed until July. Since his arrival in Germany he has been promoted to Tech Sergeant.

Traveling, except by boat, holds no novelty for Mrs. Newnham who has moved with her husband throughout his travels. At Denver where both men were instructors, they made warm friends with Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Suban, and their nine-year old son, David. Both men now are together in Germany and both women and children will sail together. This friendship between the women has stood Mrs. Newnham in good stead or she might "have missed the boat."

In their letters they would compare progress made for their trip and Mrs. Kuban finally wrote she had her port call.

Mrs. Newnham waited for a few days and Monday of this week she called Fort Custer but no orders had come through. Her father, Robert Keag, a World War I veteran, suggested calling headquarters in Chicago. There she learned her orders' came through Nov. 27. Then minutes flew fast to get ready.

Tuesday, army personnel from Ft. Custer came and got her car and household goods and furnishings as well as trunks and large baggage, the last of which they hoped to have ready to accompany her.

Through a friend in Germany Mrs. Newnham learned the most essential household furnishing to bring is a washing machine, for the German women scrub all their clothes and they last but a short time.

Mrs. Newnham took little furniture, only essentials such as the child's bed, washing machine, throw rugs, cooking utensils, toaster and electric iron.

T/Sgt. Newnham is a director of finance in Wiesbaden. His enlistment expires in June, 1953.

Asked if her husband plans to stay in the Army, Mrs. Newnham replied, "that all depends."

GRANDSTANDING...

by Dick Millman

May we quote from a publicity release dated Sept. 8, 1950?

"Notre Dame, winner of 38 games in four years, should sweep its 10 game schedule and retain national championship laurels, a writer reports.

"The Irish...still look better than any team on their schedule, with the possible exception of Southern California.

"Francis Wallace figures Ohio State will be undefeated and winner of the Big Ten; rates Michigan to get the Rose Bowl bid but to lose to Stanford on New Year's Day."

The top 10 teams were ranked pre-seasonally as: Notre Dame, Cornell, Texas, Stanford, Tennessee, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Army, Louisiana State, Michigan.

The following 10 included Illinois, Maryland, Southern Cal, Southern Methodist, California, Kentucky, Alabama, Princeton, Duke and Wisconsin.

How did they finish? The final United Press poll released Dec. 5 showed Notre Dame nowhere in sight. Cornell, Wallace's No. 2 team, drew three votes for a 20th place tie.

The first 10, in case you've forgotten, were Oklahoma, Texas, Tennessee, California, Army, Michigan, Kentucky, Princeton, Michigan State and Ohio State. Wallace did much better on the All American squad. He picked eight of 11 players correctly. But they skipped the two top vote getters, back Vic Janowicz of Ohio State and tackle Jim Weatherall of Oklahoma. The other selection missed was Irish center Jerry Groom.

Otherwise, the two teams were intact. He was right on UP selections as follows: ends McColl, Stanford and Foldberg, Army; tackle Gain, Kentucky; guards McFadin, Texas and Richter, California; backs Rote, SMU, Williams, Notre Dame and Heath, Oklahoma.

Instead of Janowicz, Weatherall and Groom, Collier's predicted Karras of Illinois, Tonneff of Notre Dame and Pierik of Cornell. Which all goes to show the futility of forecasting in the sporting world.

TAIL-ENDERS: Projects are afloat that Western Michigan's giant center Jim Wenke, six-five, will be available for tonight's tilt against Hope. Wenke twisted a knee in the Northwestern game...

John Cavas and Hugh Moran, who looked good in basketball roles for Adrian against Hope Saturday night, are both freshmen...

End Dorn Dibble of Michigan State was the first griddle in Adrian's history to make an all-American team. Dibble was named to a defensive end spot on Grantland Rice's team...

John Benington, assistant basketball coach at State, was a star forward on the San Francisco team that won the National Invitational tournament during the 1948-49 season. His coach at Frisco is his present boss at State—Pete Newell...

The St. Louis Browns annual baseball school will be held at Pine Bluff, Ark., from March 13-22...

Sports writer Grantland Rice has accepted the chairmanship of the sports division for the 1951 March of Dimes, for the 10th consecutive time...

Down at South Bend, Irish fans expect Notre Dame to snap out of this year's slump on the basis of a strong freshman team. Story making the rounds is that a fan approached Frank Leahy to say he had heard the freshman team was running through the varsity in practice...

Leahy, putting on a long face, replied, "Yes, they have been—but who hasn't?" Only two players scored any points for the losers as Adrian St. Mary's bowed to Ida high school last week, 53-20. Forward Paul Forsthoefel got five field goals and one free throw for 11 points, and center Mike Mudgett carded three buckets and three charity tosses for nine points...

The Greenville high school reserve team lost in two ways at Ionia Friday night. The junior Yellow Jackets returned to their locker room from a defeat at the hands of the Ionia seconds and found someone had rifled their billfolds, making off with an estimated $25...

Ludington high is just as sure it tied Manistee 52-52 last Friday night as Manistee is that it won the game, 53-50. The argument concerns a late-minute basket by a Ludington player that partisans claim wasn't posted in the official scorebook, or on the scoreboard. But the official scorer said he hadn't missed any points, so the Manistee victory stands.

by Dick Millman
Who's going to win the MIAA basketball race this season? We'd like to know, too.

Michigan's small college circuit is in a pre-season muddle, with no clear-cut favorite. Until Tuesday night, it looked like Albion might be the powerhouse in the league, with 10 returning veterans from last year's third-place club. But Tuesday, Alma dumped the Britons, 75-69.

It appears at this point that we'll have to wait and see.

But anyway, we can look at the various squads.

Kalamazoo will be out to defend last year's title. Coach Bob Grow has five lettermen back. Captain Bob Simanton and Tom Wilson showed promise in the Hornets' opening win over Assumption. Others back will be John Sentz, Dick Cain and Lee Van Haften. A lot of help is expected from the freshman team.

Albion, Alma and Hillsdale finished in a third place deadlock last year. Albion coach Walt Sprandel can floor a first five including veterans Chuck Mohl and John Porter at forwards, Dick Allen at center, and Bob Eggleston and Don Little at guards. Other returnees include Max Berry, Charley Frost, Bob Clark, Arnie Pinkney and Bob Betz.

Alma's Scots are going to be tough under coach Norm Borton. Lanky Scot veterans include Russ Halpin, Bill Healy, Bob Hamilton, Chuck Saxton, Bob Pueschner, Hess Wever and Joe Thibodeau. Healy and Saxton were on the all-MIAA team last year.

Irv Wisniewski at Hillsdale has been cheered by the return of two former players who didn't compete last year—Rod Oberlin and Merv Holbeck. Other varsity men will be Captain Ed Johnson, John Rummel, Bob Blomeke, Rod Halstead, Dave Sebring, Tom Lusk, Dave Hinkle and Len Wisniewski.

The Adrian club which invades the Armory Saturday night ended in the cellar last year. The Bulldogs hope to better this position under new coach John Darnton, who replaced Navy-bound Lyman Abbott. The first five at Adrian probably will be Tom Gillman, John Stepp, Marc Woodward, Regie McConnell and Earl Wilkie, all veterans.

There's your roster. What help the various teams get from freshman classes and newcomers probably will make the difference in the 1950-51 race. The old Grandstander will go out on a limb by predicting Hope will do no worse than last year's second place finish. Alma, from our perch on the limb, looks like the team to beat.

Hope Leads Busy Basketball Week With Three Games

Hope college leads a busy local basketball card going into action three times this week. In all, eight games are scheduled for the Holland-Zeeland area. Of these only three games are slated for local courts.

While Hope is playing three contests, Holland high will play two, Zeeland two and Holland Christian one.

Three games are scheduled for Tuesday night with Holland high playing at home. The Dutchmen originally were not scheduled to play Tuesday, but when their contest with Muskegon scheduled for last Friday, was postponed, officials shifted it to Tuesday. This contest with the Big Reds will serve as a big test as far as Holland conference chances are concerned.

Hope takes to the road on Tuesday when it journeys to Kalamazoo to meet Coach Bill Perigo's powerful Western Broncos. The Broncos have played tough competition to date and will have to be placed in the favorite role.

On the same night, Coach Joe Newell's fast moving Zeeland Chix will invade Grandville for a game with the Bulldogs. The Chix will be trying to break the .500 mark in season play. To date they have won two and lost two.

Holland Christian swings into action Thursday night when it meets a veteran-studded Kalamazoo St. Augustine five on the Armory court. Coach Arthur Tull's club will be trying for their second win of the season, but have their work cut out. Coach Harve Freeman is bringing a good St. A team to Holland and fans can expect a good ball game. The Maroons have dropped their last three starts after winning their opener.

Also on Thursday night, Coach Russ De Vette will take his collegians to Alma for Hope's second MIAA encounter. Hope led Adrian in the power-halted tilt Saturday night. Alma has a veteran aggregation and will prove tough on their home court. So far this season, the Scots have bowed to Calvin and Central Michigan but hold a decision over Albion.

On Friday night, Coach Fred Weiss' Holland high quintet meets its second Southwest conference foe when it travels to Benton Harbor. The Tigers are always a tough outfit and this year seems to be no exception. The Hollanders go into this week's play with a one victory, one defeat record.

Hope closes its strenuous week or Friday when it entertains Wooster, Ohio. Little is known about the invaders this season, although they have had good squads in recent years.

Zeeland plays its second game away from home, also on Friday night when they travel to Paw Paw to meet the Redskins. Paw Paw has been a powerhouse in recent years and are always potent on its home court.

49 Antlerless Deer Killed in Ten Days

Allegan (Special) — The kill was 49 deer in the special 10-day antlerless deer season which ended Sunday in Allegan county.

There were calm moments and furious moments in Friday's storm which piled the seven-inch snowfall into high drifts, closing almost all schools and slowing traffic to a minimum. Top picture was taken this morning during a calm moment at Ninth and River, showing cars halted by deep snow, some of them patiently waiting for the snow loader to carry away some of the big piles. Lower picture taken from across the street shows storm at the height of its fury.

Orland Haugen, Swan Creek station manager reported, about 500 hunters of the 800 given special permits were out after venison during the period.

The kill was slightly less than last year's 54.

Archers have until Friday to stalk their game with bow and arrow and try to match last year's total of 36 deer killed in the 60-day bowmen's season. The archers so far have bagged 22.

Basket by Eggers Margin of Victory In Close Contest

Holland high school's basketball team won a nip-and-tuck battle from Muskegon high Tuesday night, 53-51, in a double overtime contest at the local Armory.

Roger Eggers, who pumped in 27 points for his best effort of the young season, sank a perfect lay-up shot in the first minute of the sudden death second overtime to give the Dutch their hard earned triumph.

It was a rough and ready ball game, and the lead changed hands 15 times. At nine points in the contest, the score was tied.

Holland led at the half, 34-29, but the Big Reds poured on a strong offensive in the third period, and Fred Weiss' charges had to overcome a six point lead in the fourth period to knot the count at the end of the regular playing period, 50-50. In the first three minutes overtime, each side added only one free throw, and the stage was set for Eggers' game winning bucket.

The story might well have been told at the free throw line, but it wasn't. Muskegon was charged with 23 personals and one technical, giving the Dutch 31 chances from the charity line. But the locals could connect on only 11 of them.

The Big Reds had a much better average. Holland was detected in personals 17 times and once on a technical, giving the visitors 20 free throws. They sank 13 of them.

Forward Earl Morrall started things off by sinking three quick buckets in the first minute of play and it looked like Holland was in for a drubbing. But after a time out, Eggers stole the ball and dribbled in for a bucket to break the Dutch scoring ice.

With Eggers pouring in 10 points and Max Doolittle four, Holland trailed at the quarter mark, 15-17. They picked up in the second period to outscore Muskegon, 19-12, for their half-time margin.

The third period was all Muskegon, as coach Tom McShannock's boys contributed 16 points while holding Holland to seven. In the fourth period, the Reds played a cautious ball game, trying to work in close for sure shots. The result was that Holland overtook them on Bob Tasma's free throw with 11 minutes to play in the game.

Ed Morrall had a chance to win the game with 15 seconds remaining, but the Muskegon guard missed a free throw on Tasma's technical.

In the first overtime, Muskegon's Bob Kendall sank a charity throw to give the Reds a 51-50 lead. Then with the period half gone, Doolittle drove in toward the bucket, but was fouled and two shots were awarded in addition to a technical on Harvey Beaucamp. Max missed both his tries, but guard Tom Maentz swished the technical shot through the hoop to tie the score. Lots of shots were tried in the next 11 minutes, but none connected until Eggers dropped the boom in the sudden death period.

Muskegon lost three men on the personal route, with flashy guard Bruce Bosma being waved out in the third stanza. Earl Morrall, who poured in 18 points to pace the losers, and Don Rademaker, who was second high with 11, were the other two to leave. Tasma, who was second high with 11, were the other two starters for Muskegon had four fouls each by game's end.

Although their passing and foul shooting were both way off form, the Dutch overcame this with fight, close guarding in the waning minutes of the game, and chips-down backboard work.

Eggers' scoring consisted of 13 field goals and one free throw for his top 27 points. Tasma was next with two buckets and four free throws for eight. Doolittle had seven, Van Dyke four, Armstrong and Maentz three each and Ron Bekius one.

Muskegon used only five men the first half but were forced to send in reserves as the personals mounted on the regulars. Holland used but seven men the entire game.

It was the first conference game for each school. Holland travels to Benton Harbor to engage the Tigers Friday night.

Repairmen Cheer As Turbine Goes Into Production

Lights Flick On, Workmen Return To Their Jobs

Lights went back on. Workmen returned to work. The power crisis was ended.

Holland electricity users began receiving their usual amount of power early today for the first time since a double breakdown at the James H. De Young power plant threw the city into total darkness Saturday evening.

Two turbines burned out Saturday, and the city has been getting along on about half its usual supply of power. Emergency restrictions were put into effect.

But the crisis is passed. And the patient is doing well.

The scene was tense at the De Young plant. At 11 p.m. Tuesday, workmen completed assembly of one turbine. It was turned over slowly until 1:30 a.m., in a warming-up process, and shoved into full speed at 2:30. Shortly after that, the first load of power was put on.

Lusty cheers mixed with the hissing of the turbine as the instrument panel showed everything running smoothly. Joining in the celebration was a mixed crowd consisting of Allis-Chalmers engineers, retired Holland BPW workmen, and anxious board officials.

On the second turbine, work is continuing around-the-clock, and a complete rebuilding job is expected to be completed in a week to 10 days. A-C men are staying on in Holland until the second job is finished.

One salesman for A-C did nothing but errand duties for the rest of the workmen. He shuttled men and parts back and forth from Holland to the Muskegon airport, where they came and went by plane to Milwaukee.

At least six factory men were at the plant Tuesday. They phoned at noon to Milwaukee for a part and a man, and the man was in Holland with the part at 4 p.m. He finished his work here at 7 and was back in Milwaukee at 9:30, with another part to repair.

Many employees of the Board of Public Works have been putting in 17 hours daily since the breakdown—from 7 a.m. until midnight.

The repaired turbine along with the Fifth St. plant was giving Holland a normal 9,300 kilowatts per hour this morning at 10 a.m.

The Fifth St. plant will remain in full operation until the second turbine is repaired completely.

A full technical report on the cause of the breakdown is being prepared by Allis-Chalmers and the BPW.

Holland is not the only Michigan city to suffer in darkness. Midland, too, recently had a taste of electrical difficulty.

Sunday night, one of the transformers at the Consumers Power substation supplying Midland and surrounding areas burned out. Monday evening, the second transformer did the same thing. And Midland was in the dark for 45 minutes before one was fixed.

Manager George H. Hillman commented that it was "a very unusual circumstance to have the two fail so close together."

Churches Arrange Prayer Services

Christian Reformed churches in Holland and vicinity have planned special prayer services in keeping with the proclamation of Governor Williams declaring Friday a day of prayer in which citizens shall seek the divine guidance in this war crisis.

Ninth Street Christian Reformed church has scheduled a prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Thomas Yfi will preside.

A combined prayer service will be held by Fourteenth Street and Maple Avenue Christian Reformed churches Friday at 7:45 p.m. in the Fourteenth Street church. The Revs. William Van Peursen and Gareth Kok will conduct the service.

Prospect Park and Bethany Christian Reformed churches also have scheduled a combined service Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Prospect Park church. The pastors Dr. J. T. Hoogstra and the Rev. Louis Breun, will be in charge of the service.

Joint prayer services will be held by Sixteenth Street and Montello Park Christian Reformed churches Friday at 8 p.m. in the Sixteenth Street church. Taking charge will be the Revs. Arthur Hoogstra and Louis Voskuil.

Central Avenue Christian Reformed church will conduct its prayer service Friday at 7:30 p.m., according to the pastor, the Rev. William Haverkamp.

The Sunday School Teachers' meeting and the Teachers' Training classes, usually held Friday night in the Maple Avenue parish house, will not meet this week. The training classes will recess during the holidays, until Friday, Jan. 5.

Liquor Violation

The Michigan liquor control commission has announced citation of Harry and Elizabeth Yutts, of 200 East Eighth St., on charges of selling to a minor. The commission has filed violation charges against two Muskegon licensees also.

Newest service organization in Holland is the Christian Business Men's committee, which meets alternate Thursday noons in the Centennial room, Warm Friend Tavern. Gerrit Vander Hoening has been chosen chairman of the group and Gilbert Van Wynen, secretary-treasurer. The committee is an international organization, whose purpose is "to make Christ known as Savior and Lord." At this week Thursday's meeting of the local club, Chief Detective John De Blay of the Grand Rapids police force will be speaker. All men are

Without Power

Perhaps the most confusion resulted in theaters, at the basketball game and at the roller rink during Saturday night's blackout.

A lot of skaters took tumbles when the lights went out at the Rollarena, but nobody was hurt. Later, a car was driven in and the skaters rolled merrily on by candlelight. A lantern provided illumination in the canteen.

At the armory where Hope college was playing Adrian, some people couldn't understand why the telephone company was lighted when the armory was in darkness. The answer was simple. The telephone company has its own auxiliary power.

Most churches used a minimum of light during evening services Sunday. Some even used the piano instead of pipe organs. The Youth for Christ meeting Saturday night was carried on by candlelight—very effective too, it was said.

Police notified many merchants to turn off their electric signs. Most signs have timers which had to be readjusted.

The police department is about the main source of information in case of an emergency, and its two telephone lines kept buzzing constantly when the lights went out at 8:45 p.m. Saturday. They did a good job too. On Sunday night, Chief Jack Van Hoff put on two extra patrolmen during the "brown-out" to safeguard against possible vandalism, but the department observed nothing out of the ordinary.

"Golly, a phonograph record would have been a dandy thing Saturday night," one officer said. "We'd have saved a lot of lung power."

"Maybe we ought to have a daily record about the condition of the roads too," another added.

Radio station WHTC really did the city a lot of public service during the week-end power failure. Prepared statements of the Board of Public Works were read at intervals, and the town kept abreast of developments, particularly in regard to what industries would be closed down, and how to conserve power in the home. Announcements were made several times each hour.

Suburban residents on Consumers power couldn't quite understand at first why WHTC went off the air at 8:45 p.m. Through some fluke, Hopalong Cassidy came through on some radios.

By and large, the co-operation of the Holland people in cutting down their power was wonderful, and the week-end emergency caused plenty of reflection on modern trends in living and the all-important part electricity plays in the world. It also made people realize how excellent the service of the Board of Public Works has been throughout the years.

The Sentinel went to press early Monday morning, its big press at a time when there would be a minimum of demand on the city's depleted power reserves.

Local merchants transacted their business hurriedly at a coffee kiosk session Monday and then returned to their stores ready to serve the hordes of local residents who decided they couldn't do much at home and might as well get a head start on their Christmas shopping.

Merchants, however, did make plans for Santa Claus to arrive in Holland at 4 p.m. Friday and for a letters-to-Santa contest which will bring prizes to winners every day after Santa arrives. Youngsters, 12 and under, may write letters to Santa Claus in care of the Chamber of Commerce. The shorter the better, Santa says.

Santa will be in his little house outside Chamber headquarters every day from 4 to 5:30 p.m. after his arrival Friday. He will have treats for the children greeting him there.

Merchants also decided to remain open an extra night this week—Thursday. Thus, stores will be open Thursday, Friday and Saturday night, of this week, and Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

The power failure caused no great hardship to Holland hospital, according to Ferd Burd, hospital director.

"If the power was off for any great length of time—12 hours or so—then we'd be in trouble,"

Burd said. "But there was enough heat in the building, and our small emergency unit gave us light in the proper places during the blackout. If the power was off for half a day, then it would affect our steam, heat, and sterilization operations."

The emergency unit which was turned on during the times power was off provided lights in the halls, operating room and delivery room. This unit was used Saturday night and at about 2 a.m. today.

The hospital has applied emergency measures to conserve city power. Only emergency x-rays are being taken, and patients who are able use the stairs instead of the elevator.

Several patients had to be carried up and down stairs on stretchers while the power was off and the elevator was not running.

Hope college was closed Monday to conserve electricity in the many buildings on the campus.

However, public schools were in session, operating with a minimum of electricity. Plenty of snow outside helped keep daylight quite bright.

Thus the score of school attendance was evened. During Friday's hard blizzard, Hope college classes were in session, but all other schools were closed.

Dutch Reserves Edge Muskegon

The Holland high school reserve basketball team built up a 24-11 halftime lead and then withstood a last-half flurry by the Muskegon seconds to eke out a 40-39 win Tuesday night at the Armory.

It was the third straight triumph for coach Bob Connell's junior Dutch.

The Big Red seconds outscored Holland in the second half, 28-16, but couldn't overcome the big first half advantage.

Dean Vander Wal paced the winners with 16 points, while Jack Kemper racked up 11. Ron Israels was next in line with five, and Visscher and Moran scored four each.

Muskegon's high man was Voss, who carded 12. Dobyas and David each had 11 for the losers.

Japanese Educator Guest at Hope College

Dr. Tsuraki Yano, general secretary of the National Christian Association of Japan, has been a guest of Hope college for several days. Sent out by the Interboard Committee for Christian Work in Japan, Dr. Yano is touring American colleges and universities and is a key figure in guiding the 65 Christian schools in Japan, according to Prof. Henry Schoon, chairman of the Hope college chapel committee.

Following his arrival here Saturday, Dr. Yano attended a round of informal conferences arranged for him. His appointments included a visit to Holland Christian high school Monday morning, when he spoke briefly to students during chapel exercises. He was introduced by Dr. Clarence De Graaf of Hope. He was taken on a tour of local Christian schools by Supt. Bert P. Bos.

Dr. Yano is a member of the Japanese government commission to reorganize education in that country. He also is a member of the board of directors of the new Christian university to be established in Japan.

Dr. Yano left here Tuesday to tour the Pacific coast colleges. He already has visited Harvard, Princeton, Yale and Columbia and all the colleges in Ohio. He will sail back to Japan Jan. 10.

Grandville Downs Zeeland on Third Quarter Onslaught

Grandville (Special) — On the basis of an outstanding third period, the Grandville Bulldogs pulled away from Zeeland high school in a non-league basketball game here Tuesday night to win going away, 44-26.

In the fatal third stanza, the home team rolled up 13 points to but two for Zeeland. The Bulldogs outscored the Chix in the final period, 10-8.

Grandville jumped to a six point lead early in the first few minutes, but Coach Joe Newell's Chix pulled up even. After the Bulldogs went ahead again, Zeeland caught them once more in the second period. But the winners led at the half, 21-16, before their third period onslaught.

Bern Raterink was high for Zeeland, with seven points. Ensuing paced Grandville with 17 markers.

The Bulldogs used a fast break and worked out set-ups for their triumph. Zeeland's rebounding and passing was off form, although Milt Lubbers turned in a good backboard job on the small Grandville floor.

The Zeeland reserves took it on the chin in the preliminary, 47-36. Paul Heyboer led the Chix with 10 points.

Zeeland returns to action Friday night when it travels to Paw Paw to engage the Indians in a return to the Tri-County wars.

Report Heard on State United Fund

A comprehensive report on the work of the United Health and Welfare Fund of Michigan, Inc., was given by Earl Lippincott of Lansing at a meeting of the Council of Social Agencies, Monday in the City hall.

The fund covers 21 agencies which include heart, arthritis, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, epilepsy, mental illness, hearing, VD, and such problems as delinquency, family problems and race relations.

The Lansing representative told how budgeting is done by a group of representative business and professional men of the state. Purpose of the fund is fewer and better campaigns covering more agencies.

He said Michigan as a whole has a better setup and better campaign result than any other state in the union. He said all defects have not been ironed out, but expects even more efficiency as time goes on.

Dr. Lester J. Kuyper was elected new president, succeeding Rex E. Chapman who has been chairman four years. Bernard Donnelly was elected treasurer succeeding Tom Parker. Mrs. Edith Walvoord was retained as vice president.

First-Half Lead Proves Too Much For Hope Cagers

Kalamazoo (Special)—Hope college outscored powerful Western Michigan, 40-39, in the second half, but it wasn't enough to overcome a 38-16 halftime lead by the Broncos, who added the MIAA school to its growing list of collegiate victims here Tuesday night, 76-56.

Coach Russ De Vette of Hope attributed Western's big margin to speedy floor play and adeptness at intercepting Hope passes. Neither team was outstanding in the height department.

Western started the first five in the second half but substituted freely. Hope countered by doing the same thing, and the second half saw reserves battling against reserves.

"At no time was our varsity playing against Western reserves," De Vette said. "We just couldn't catch up."

Center Junior Bremer, after a slow start, picked up to pace the Dutch cagers with five field goals and six free throws for 16 points. Ken Van Regenmorter and Ron Appledorn shared second honors with eight each, while Jerry Jacobson had six and Ron Bos five for Hope.

All 10 men who saw action for the losers broke into the scoring column to present a well rounded attack of sharp-shooting.

High for Western was forward oe Shaw, with 18 points. Next in line was guard Bob Adams, who carded 17 markers.

Western used the same ball-hawking tactics with which they upset highly-rated Iowa Saturday night. In a pre-season United Press poll, Iowa was rated among the nation's top 10 teams, and the choice in the Big Ten.

The Broncos had 31 fouls called against them compared to Hope's 18 offenses. The Dutch hit on 20 of 33 free throw tries. Western scored eight out of 20 times from the charity line.

"We earned a lot from the game," De Vette commented after the combat.

Hope travels to Alma Thursday night to return to the MIAA wars, and returns home Friday to play host to Wooster, O., college.

In the preliminary, the Western freshmen downed the Hope frosh, 70-45.

Engineers Okay Harbor Project

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

The Army Board of Engineers has given its approval to a project to improve Holland harbor.

The board has recommended widening of the turning basin from 600 to 750 feet at a depth of 18 feet and the extension 2,600 feet upstream of the authorized channel. This part of the improvement project would cost $182,000.

Also recommended was the widening of the revetted entrance channel by the removal of the old revetment and construction of a new revetment on the south side, at an additional cost of $378,600.

The Army engineers approval was indicated in a letter Tuesday from chief of engineers Maj. Gen. Louis A. Pick to Rep. Gerald Ford of Grand Rapids.

The approval is a necessary, but only beginning, step toward construction, Ford said. Congress must say "yes" to the engineers' recommendations, and then appropriate the required funds. Ford said it might be a matter of two to four years before the improvements to the harbor actually are started.

Ach Researcher Visits in Holland

Dr. T. B. Bayles, teacher at Harvard Medical school and in charge of arthritis research at Robert Breck Brigham hospital and Peter Breck Brigham hospital in Boston, was in Holland Sunday and Monday for a brief visit with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Bosch, and family.

Dr. Bayles headed the research which produced Ach, new miracle drug made from the pituitary glands of pigs in which arthritis patients make their own cortisone. Other substitution treatment and therapy is cortisone, a synthetic drug manufactured by Merck and Co.

Dr. Bayles is continuing his research in both fields. The Robert Brigham hospital is an arthritis hospital, the largest such hospital and about the only arthritis hospital in the country.

He came to Holland from Chicago where he had attended an Ach meeting sponsored by Armour Co., which had been one of the main sources of supply of pituitary glands. Dr. Bayles has been working closely with Armour's since he started the research about two years ago.

Arthritis and rheumatism are considered something of a stepchild of medicine, Dr. Bayles said. He explained less attention is given these diseases because they do not kill and called attention to the Arthritis and Rheumatism foundation which has a branch in Grand Rapids. The foundation was organized about two years ago and launched a campaign for funds about the middle of November. He said the foundation is covered in Michigan by Michigan Health and Welfare. This is one of the agencies covered in the Community Chest and the Single Solicitation Plan in Holland.

Streets, Walks Slippery Monday

The weather Monday was all but forgotten in Holland's power failure emergency, but streets and walks appeared even more slippery than at any time since the wild blizzard Friday.

Police advised caution in travel. In the city, the stubborn snow had packed on the streets topped with a slick coat. There were few bare spots.

Snow removal crews concentrated Monday on side streets, and huge piles were pushed to the middle of the road on Ninth St. and on some avenues for the snow loader to haul away.

Two suits filed Grand Haven (Special)—Two suits for $100,000 each have been started by summons in circuit court against George McCarthy of Grand Haven township. One suit is brought by Hermine Ver Berkmoes and the other by her husband, Cornelius. The suits arise out of an automobile accident which occurred Jan. 6, 1948, when Mrs. Ver Berkmoes sustained severe injuries when allegedly struck by McCarthy's car.

The United States exported 28 million tons of bituminous coal in 1949. Canada took 57 per cent.

Club Program Based On Christmas Theme

Christmas observance is surrounded by tradition, Mrs. John A. Dykstra of Grand Rapids pointed out Tuesday afternoon to members of the Woman's Literary club, as she briefly reviewed the history of the festival in the final meeting before the holiday recess.

The singing of carols, the burning of yule logs, all the tradition relating to Santa Claus, candles in the windows, Christmas trees, the singing of Handel's "Messiah," pageantry of Creche, all are tied up with tradition, she said.

Dickens and others were great tellers of Christmas tales, the speaker said, and some of the Christmas poetry is of the finest. To the delight of her audience, Mrs. Dykstra recited from the classics and also from works of the moderns to illustrate her point.

Mrs. Dykstra, always popular with local audiences, concluded her holiday with the reading of two short Christmas stories, "The Black Madonna," by Margaret Applegarth and Charles Tazwell's "The Littlest Angel."

The club house was artistically decorated with twin Christmas trees by Mrs. William Winter, Mrs. Jay C. Petter and Mrs. Harold Van Tongeren. Mrs. Clyde Geerlings, club president, extended holiday greetings. The club will not meet again until Jan. 2.

Warm clothing to be sent to Korea was contributed by the women. The box will be packed by Mrs. A. E. Hildebrand, Mrs. Dyke Van Putten and Mrs. George Schutmaat.
