High School Seeking New Affiliation

The Board of Education Monday night gave its blessing for Holland High School to seek association with the Big Six, a conference of schools in not only athletic competition, but debate, music, forensics and student council activities.

High School Principal Fred S. Bertsch Jr. outlined the school's current status after leaving the Valley Coast Conference three years ago and said there have been difficulties in scheduling games as well as community interest in athletic events.

He said there is no assurance that Holland will be accepted in the Big Six League but said possibilities are more encouraging than the OK League (Ottawa-Kent counties) where Grand Rapids schools have been given preference. "In the Big Six, Holland would neither be a doormat or king of the woods," Bertsch said. "Holland would compete equitably with the other schools, and would still play its traditional rivals, Grand Haven and West Ottawa."

Schools presently in the Big Six conference are St. Joseph, Niles, Dowagiac, Portage Central, Portage Northern and Kalamazoo Loy Norrix.

Contracts were approved for two elementary teachers as replacements. Mrs. Gwendolyn Maatman, a 1970 graduate of Western Michigan University with two years' experience, will teach in Lakeview School and Mrs. Deanna Vos, a 1969 graduate of Northwestern College with three years' experience, will teach in Apple Avenue School.

Dr. Philip Schoo, director of curriculum, presented a summary and evaluation of a recent in-service staff program aimed at improving the quality of instruction for Latin American students in Holland public schools, covering a series of meetings from August through November.

An evaluation following the Nov. 16 conference indicated a definite positive attitude on the part of teachers, giving them a better understanding of linguistic problems, culture, and other aides in individualizing and personalizing the classroom approach in meeting the needs of minorities.

A report on parent-teacher conferences for elementary schools revealed that 88 per cent of the parents had had conferences with Maplewood School having the largest percentage of 98.9 per cent. A total of 2,872 families were listed, and 2,524 conferences were held.

The board approved a request of approximately $7,000 to install a new device in the swimming pool changing from a bromine system to one using chlorine. Pool instructor Ron Howard said the increased number of swimming meets and tournaments plus other increased uses had led to a condition that was causing eye irritation in a few cases. He said there had been few complaints, but the situation should be improved in holding the chemical balance.

The board also moved to put $2 per elementary students into the revolving fund for elementary textbooks, correcting an oversight which previously had provided $1 per student.

Announcement also was made that an insurance reevaluation on buildings has been completed and the new appraisal figures given to the Holland Agency for writing specifications.

In personnel, Dr. James Prins said studies were being made into minority staff members and to staff reorganization.

John Weeber commented on the fine Christmas program put on by high school musical groups Sunday, suggesting the board send a note of congratulation.

President James O. Lamb presided at the meeting which lasted just over 1½ hours. Mrs. G. S. MacKenzie gave the invocation. John Amaya was absent.

City plows worked from 3 a.m. but the continuing snowfall resulted in hemming some parked cars, to the consternation of drivers who became stuck.

"If snow would fall conveniently around midnight and after, our trucks at 3 a.m. could complete their rounds before normal activity begins. Tuesday's snow fell mostly in midmorning after many cars were parked," Start said.

Holland Gets $210,940 As Fund Share

Municipalities in the Holland and Zeeland areas were receiving their revenue sharing checks from the federal government Tuesday and in some cases, such as Holland, the first installment was more than expected.

City manager William L. Bopf said $210,940 was received today as Holland's share in the first check, far more than the $165,000 which had been expected.

Bopf said it was the intention of council to use the revenue sharing funds for "no recurring capital items," to purchase items badly needed but not possible without raising taxes. A final decision is needed by Dec. 31.

Holland Township reported a check for $18,095, "about what was expected," treasurer Glenn Van Rhee said. No decision on its use has been made.

Park Township reported $17,792 of which some will be used for recreational purposes.

Zeeland City received $32,960 with no decision made.

Saugatuck has $6,014 and village officials said some probably would be used for street improvements.

Understanding Sought for Those On Poverty Level

ALLEGAN — Harold Leep, director of Allegan County Social Services today asked for understanding the plight of people confronted with minimum wage and below the poverty level.

He said 20 per cent of the population is receiving 42 per cent of the income at the top of the scale. At the bottom, 20 per cent is receiving 5 per cent of the nation's income. This bottom rung includes people too old to work, too young to work, too ill to work and those too ill - prepared to work.

Leep said most people were fortunate enough to be born into a family that was stable, healthy and industrious.

"Those on the staff at Social Services are doing their best as servants of the state to help the less fortunate segment of society, but we need your help to improve the economic conditions. Let's all work together during the coming year to make our nation, state and country a better place to live in," Leep said.

Skill Center Vote Slated On March 8

The Ottawa Area Intermediate District which includes nine school districts in Ottawa county and four in Allegan county will hold an election for a skill center, also referred to as a vocational - technical school, Thursday, March 8.

This information was relayed to the Holland Board of Education at its monthly meeting Monday night by Supt. Donald L. Ihrman from a communication from Roger Troupe, area intermediate superintendent. No information on millage needs or organizational structure was included at this time.

Holland Board Treasurer Charles Bradford said it also was time to consider election dates for Holland, both for operating millage and the new junior high program. Both operating millage issues expire, the 10 mills for 5 years and the 4.65 mills voted for one year.

More than a half hour of Monday's meeting was devoted to a discussion of hot lunch programs for elementary schools, outlined by Mrs. Beth Panic, who was accompanied by an attorney, Rick Feferman of Michigan Legal Services for the OEO. Mrs. Panic spoke of a letter she had written to the board, of a letter from Sen. Hart which indicated Holland would implement food services in the public schools, of a survey on needs for such a program, and the availability of surplus foods and aid for children from families on poverty levels.

President James O. Lamb said the board had spent considerable time studying all aspects of the program. He could shed no further light on the Hart letter which he believed was not based on local facts. He expects there will be a surplus at the close of the 1972-73 year but said it has been the policy of the board to use such surplus to reduce the millage requests.

He pointed out that most elementary schools have no adequate kitchens or equipment to provide hot lunches and not all schools have the room for serving food. He said the board has studied several types of food service but was not prepared at this time to proceed further.

Mrs. Panic introduced a mother who has five children in Washington School. As a working mother, she cannot provide hot lunches for her children who are fed at the Day Care Center in Third Church. This brings a supervision problem for the time between lunch and the time the school opens for the afternoon, and the Day Care Center has made such arrangements.

Attorney Feferman who also aids the United Migrant Services said Holland should be aware of its obligations in providing services such as hot lunches, that the federal government says nutrition and education are intertwined. Another representative, not identified, said there are 540 children in Holland district who qualify for lunches on the poverty or near poverty level.

Mrs. Panic asked about the possibilities of a referendum on lunches and was informed this was possible, either through board action or through initiative petition. Lamb said, however, he believed that such a question for public vote should be accompanied by millage costs on implementing the program so that people would have full information, much like the swimming pool issue which had included the sum to finance construction and millage for operation.

At the close of the meeting, Lamb suggested reinstituting board study sessions on the fourth Monday evening of each month beginning in January. Members concurred. Purpose of these informal study sessions is for in-depth study of such subjects as lunch programs, new junior high programs, etc.

Hamilton Coach Wayne Tanis said that his team showed great defensive ability, and so they must have, as they only held Byron to eight points for the entire second quarter while racking up 16 points for themselves to give them a 30-18 lead as the first half ended.

Hoping to come back from a great deficit, Byron Center tried to come back in the final half but once again were held to only 10 points in the third period. Meanwhile Hamilton scored 14 points giving them a 44-28 lead as they entered the final period.

The Hawkeyes' defense held tough through the last period as Byron only could manage to score 10 points. Hamilton came up with 20 points in the final quarter to give them its 64-38 victory.

Denny Berens, Brad Brink and Earl Slotman reached double figures for Hamilton with 17, 14 and 10 points in that order.

Maroons Roll Over Hackett For Third Straight Victory

It was fun night for the Holland Christian basketball team Friday night in the Civic Center, as they rolled over Kalamazoo Hackett 73-52, to record its third win in a row. Hackett, a game but badly outmanned team, began the game with a press against the much taller Maroons, but gave up quickly, switching to a zone defense. Neither proved too successful as Christian raced to a 12-3 lead in the first three minutes, before the Irish rallied to narrow the count to 18-14 at the quarter stop, which was the closest they were to get.

Christian also played a zone defense which kept the Kalamazoo five from using their speed to drive in for good shots. Chuck Visser scored six of the Maroons' first 12 points before guard Sid Bruinsma, who sparked all night, took over. The sneaky guard hit on 12 baskets out of 19 shots for the night, as well as connecting on both of his tries at the charity stripe, to take scoring honors with 26 points.

Bruinsma's running mate at guard, Keith Brandens, started connecting on shots at the top of the key in the second period, and the two guards accounted for 14 of Christian's 18 points, 36-21 halftime margin. Bob Sadler, who was nearly all of Hackett's offense for the game, scored six of his team's seven points in the period.

The Irish tallied the first three points in the second half, before Brandens hit three consecutive buckets, followed by a pair from Bruinsma, to put Christian up 46-24 midway in the third quarter, which ended with the Maroons well in control, 55-38. Brandens, incidentally, made good on seven of 11 shots in the game.

Scoring the first nine points of the quarter, the Maroons took a 64-38 lead for the biggest difference in the game. Both teams emptied their benches with everyone on each roster playing.

The play of sophomore center Keith Frens had to be particularly pleasing to Coach Elmer Ribbens. Frens put the ball through the hoop four times in five tries and also hauled down six rebounds. The Maroons took 36 off the boards compared to 25 for the Irish. Terry Grassmid led with seven while Rick Klompmaier, Jim Terpstra and Bruinsma joined Frens at six apiece.

Brandens followed Bruinsma in the scoring column with 14 markers, while Visser contributed 11 points. Sadler, with 19, was the only Hackett player to reach double figures.

The Maroons took a total of 69 shots and connected on 33 for a fine 48 per cent average, while Hackett had to settle for 24 of 56 for 43 per cent.

Coach Dave Vander Hill's reserve squad evened its season record at 2-2 by trouncing the young Irish, 62-38. The Maroons, trailing 12-11 at the end of the first quarter, went off the floor at halftime enjoying a 23-18 advantage, which was stretched to 42-28 at the three quarter mark.

Dave Gritter paced the Maroons with 18 points with Jon Houseward helping with 12. Rick Barta, also with 12, was high for Hackett.

Tip Union In Double Overtime

GRAND RAPIDS — In one of the most exciting basketball games one would ever want to see or one's heart could take, Holland High's Dutch won a cliffhanger from Grand Rapids Union in double overtime, 71-70 here Friday night.

With the Red Hawks leading by a 70-69 score and only six seconds left on the clock, Jed De Boer sank a 15-foot jumper with three Union players all over him to give the Dutch their first win of the season.

One may have thought the Dutch had just won a big tournament by the way the players and fans of Holland reacted after coming up with a stunning upset of the favored Hawks, who went all the way to the quarter-finals of the Class A state tournament last year.

Jed De Boer ... has outstanding game

All the Dutch players were hugging everyone in sight while Union couldn't believe what happened as they quietly headed for the dressing room.

"The kids were just fabulous," said Coach Don Piersma. "De Boer was supposed to have called time out before he took that shot but I guess I can forgive him." (chuckle)

"It had to be one of the most pleasing wins ever," continued Piersma. "The guys wanted to win bad and when you put the ball in the hoop like we did tonight, you can do that."

Put the ball in the hoop the Dutch did, as they blistered the nets with their best shooting percentage of the season (28 of 50) for 56 per cent while Union netted 33 of 62 attempts for 54 per cent.

The turning point of the game came when Union's big 6'7" senior center Roosevelt Belcher fouled out with his team on top, 67-63 with 1:03 left in the second overtime.

Reserve Dick Wood put in two pressure free throws to cut the deficit to two and Tim Van Tongeren stole the ball and layed in a bucket to knot the count at 67-67.

Union made another turnover and Wood was at the right place to sink a basket to give Holland the lead shortly later but sub Gary Stephens connected on a three-point play with only 32 seconds left to put the Hawks back on top 70-69.

Even though there weren't many Holland fans on hand, the ones that were there made as much noise as the crowded Union cheering section.

De Boer played a brilliant game for the Dutch, as he finished with a game high 31 points. In fact, Union used six different players in trying to stop Holland's 6'11 1/2" quick moving forward.

"They just couldn't stop him from going to the basket," said Piersma. "It was his best game by far but I thought we did another good job on defense."

Mrs. Piersma was biting her nails as she was naturally pulling for the Dutch to win in the heart pounding affair.

"No, it doesn't get any easier," she replied when asked about the tension. "In fact, it gets tougher," she stated.

The Dutch were up against many obstacles but in the end just wanted the game more badly than Union and De Boer had a lot to say about that with his super performance.

De Boer canned nine of Holland's 11 team points in the opening quarter, as the Dutch trailed by six, and 17 of Holland's 29 markers at the half, as the Hawks were on top by only one point, 30-29.

He only scored four in the third stanza as Union went on top by five points, 47-42 but was dead in the fourth quarter, as he tallied six points to team with center Ron Israels to spark the Holland comeback. Israels also had six during this time.

After being down by that 47-42 score, the Dutch outscored Union, 8-2 to go ahead 50-49 on a bucket by Tim Boeve.

From then on it see-sawed back and forth with both teams having opportunities to win it in regulation time and in the first overtime period.

Israels followed De Boer in scoring with 12 points in his finest outing of the season while Boeve and Paul Van Oostenburg added nine and eight respectively. Wood helped out with seven and everyone seemed like a biggie.

Beucher paced the Hawks with 16 while two sophomores

Val Bracey and Bill Guyton added 12 and 11 in that order.

De Boer, Boeve and Israels more than held their own on the backboards against the Hawks, who were the tallest team the Dutch had played to date.

The Dutch reserves weren't as fortunate as they went down to a 79-40 defeat.

Chuck Modders led Holland with 11 points while Greg Holcombe had nine.

Holland will face another uphill battle next Friday when they travel to Veenstra land to meet unbeaten Hudsonville Unity. But after shocking Union, anything is possible.

City Codes Tough On Snowmobile Use

Snowmobile operators and owners were reminded Saturday of city ordinances that govern use of snowmobiles in the city.

Holland police said they have received some complaints concerning use of snowmobiles on public streets and private property.

Local codes prohibit snowmobiles from operating on any street, highway, sidewalk, alley, park or other public place unless otherwise specifically designated and posted by the city manager. There are no such posted areas in Holland.

Properly registered snowmobiles may cross sidewalks, streets and alleys if the crossing is made to gain access as close as possible to a lawful area of operation and done only in safety and does not interfere with free movement of vehicular or pedestrian traffic.

Operators must obtain permission from property owners to use private property for snowmobiling. No snowmobiling is allowed on lands enclosed to exclude intruders, fenced, posted or when notice against trespassing is personally communicated by the owner of the land or the land user.

Snowmobiles may not be operated in nursery, crop or decorative planting areas nor may they cross a cemetery or burial ground.

Snowmobiles shall be registered with the state except if used exclusively on land in control or owned by the operator and registration numbers shall be attached to the snowmobile in letters and numbers three inches tall.

Operators of the snowmobiles must have a valid drivers license if the snowmobile is to be used on public streets.

Snowmobiles may not be operated from 1/2 hour after sunset to 1/2 hour before sunrise without operable head or tail lights.

Operators cannot operate the snowmobiles as speeds faster than reasonable for existing conditions nor while under the influence of liquor or drugs. The operator involved in the accident must make a report to police.

Zeeland Takes First Triumph

ZEELAND — Zeeland pulled out its first basketball victory of the season for head coach Hal Cutsell as they came from behind in the last minute of play to come out 60-56 victors Friday night over Forest Hills Northern.

The first quarter was nip and tuck all the way. However, Zeeland came out on top when Scott Van Dort with one second left in the period put in the go ahead points for Zeeland as they led by a 13-12 margin.

Second quarter action was again in the hands of Zeeland as they racked up 16 points compared with Northern's 10. The two teams went into the lockerrooms at the half with Zeeland ahead, 29-22.

As the third quarter began, a fired up Northern team came out to try to take the lead from the Chix, however even though Northern came up with 19 points compared with Zeeland's 15, Northern only crept to within three points as Zeeland led 44-41 at the end of the period.

Northern came up with 15 points early in the last quarter to give the fans something to cheer about. But then Zeeland came back with a minute to go and regained the lead and held out for the final minute of play to gain the win.

Kurt Bennett paced the Chix with 21 counters while Steve Bassett had 12.

In junior varsity play, Zeeland came up victorious, 57-42. Mike Hiezenga was high point man for the Chix with 19 points.

Zeeland again won a freshman game from Northern 56-29.

Zeeland will host Allegan Tuesday night as they put its 1-2 margin at stake.

Activities of Game Area Are Reviewed for Rotary

In a review of the 1972 activities of the Allegan State Game Area, Charles Friley, Game Biologist with the Allegan state area, disclosed many new facts to the members and guests of the Holland Rotary Club Thursday.

He stated that the 45,000-acre Allegan State Game Area is different from other state game areas in that it was purchased only partially with federal grants. This makes it possible to be more assessable to various uses than other game areas. There are still many areas in the game refuge that are not for public use due to the wildlife interests that the part was constructed for.

The 1972 year was started with the annual duck banding project on the Todd Farm. Between five and six thousand mallards, and black ducks totaling 1,353 were trapped and banded. In the process 54 ducks that had been banded previously to this year, were recaptured. The wintering Canadian Goose population is between eight and 12 thousand birds. The banding and count was made in October of 1971 for the 72 year record.

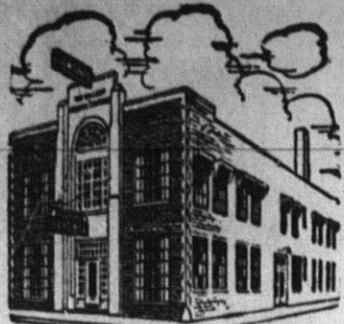

January 1972, the game area was opened to use by snowmobilers. Many limitations are placed on snowmobilers in a game area. The Allegan game area is one of two southern game areas where snowmobiling is allowed in a no trail area. Five other areas have snowmobile trail routes but no scramble areas. There are 43 state game areas where no snowmobiling is allowed. Allegan has four designated areas. They also have areas for horseback riding and dog sledding with camps in the areas. The total acreage for the three sports is 12,410.

In March of 1972 the waterfowl population at Allegan was estimated at 24,000. They had all left for their spring and summer nesting grounds by April 25. More than 1,043 acres are planted in corn to feed the various waterfowl and other game birds that come to the area.

There are four public camp grounds with 147 campsites, water, pit toilets and tables. They had 120,000 camp days between April and October. The campgrounds are open all year around. Barry Ranch campgrounds is closed in April and May because it is the wild turkey nesting area.

From April 26 to May 16 three five-day turkey gobbler hunts are held with permits restricted to 200 in each five-day period. In 1973 additional hunting periods are being planned. The results of this year's shoot was 28 turkeys shot.

TANGIBLE APPRECIATION

The State Board of Education has approved a plan to pay private colleges for the degrees which they award. The decision comes from a realization of what the private colleges mean to the state in economic terms. More than 50,000 students get their education at private colleges and this saves the state about $75 million which otherwise would have to be added to the state's education bill.

Rising costs of everything has made it almost impossible for private educational institutions to continue to compete with the state schools. Private schools must pay for almost all their expenses with tuition money, and continual raises in tuition costs tend to price private colleges out of the market.

Public institutions, on the other hand, get their bills paid from taxes and are able to keep tuition costs low. This situation, however, has a kind of time-bomb built into it, for if private institutions are financially incapable of carrying on, all students will finally end up in state supported institutions and the state will be footing the entire bill for higher education.

The preservation of a private system is also important because it widens the student's range of choices of the kind of education he desires. This kind of right, we feel, is inherent in our American system, and the state should do what it can to preserve it.

We are beginning to see that private schools perform a valuable function in our society, both financially and culturally, and that we must find ways of perpetuating the private systems. This applies to secondary education as well as to colleges. When we get some plans worked out for governmental support of private secondary education within the framework of our American freedoms, we will have put our educational problem on the basis of equality.

Bible Clubs Entertained By Faith Church

A Christmas dinner was held Tuesday evening at Faith Christian Reformed Church for children and their parents who are currently attending the Faith Bible Club meetings which are held Tuesday afternoons in the church.

The tables were decorated with pop-corn Christmas trees from which streamers led to miniature gift books for all adults in attendance.

The Rev. Charles Steenstra welcomed the group and opened with prayer. Following the dinner, parents were given the opportunity to meet teachers and friends. Approximately 225 persons were in attendance.

A dramatic Christmas film, "The Greatest Gift," was shown. Mrs. John Tibbe, director of Faith Bible Club, led the Bible Club children in demonstrating to their families some of the favorite songs they had learned in club meetings. The entire gathering then joined in carol singing. Several carols were sung in Spanish.

The program was closed with prayer, and each family present came forward for a Christmas gift.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, Dec. 17
Costly Loyalty
Jeremiah 38:2-13
By C. P. Dame

The word "loyalty" ought to become more popular again. It is a word that has dropped by the wayside. This lesson tells us about two men who in a trying time were loyal to their convictions and paid the price. Witnessing for the Lord costs.

I. Loyalty to God costs. Some people are controversial individuals and Jeremiah was one of them, not especially by choice, but because of circumstances. His nation was in trouble. Two nations, Egypt and Babylon, were contending for first place in the world and some politicians in Judah favored Egypt. The king of Judah was subject to Egypt. Babylon defeated Egypt and placed Zedekiah on the throne in Judah.

He promised loyalty to the Babylonian king but rebelled and as a consequence the Babylonian king besieged Jerusalem. The king sought counsel from Jeremiah who urged him to surrender. The siege was lifted for a short time and some people believed the city would be spared, but it fell as Jeremiah predicted. The prophet got word from God and he stuck to it regardless of the consequences.

II. Loyalty causes conflicts. The princes wanted Jeremiah to stop preaching surrender since that weakened the morale of the soldiers and the people. Zedekiah the king was weak and told the princes to do with Jeremiah what they wanted and they placed him in a cistern in which there was no water but plenty of mud. Because he gave God's message, the leaders and the people opposed, and the prophet suffered. The king did not have the courage to stand up for what he knew was right and eventually the nation was carried into exile.

When conflicts come, what then? After seeking God's will, do it. Sometimes friends may be alienated, ties may be cut which hurt, and losses may be incurred, but it is always best to do God's will even though it may be costly.

III. Loyalty leads to action. Note the contrast between a weak king and a palace official named Ebed-melech, an Ethiopian who came from a race known for its cruelty, but he showed kindness. When this man heard about Jeremiah being in the cistern, he went to the king who gave him and three other men permission to take Jeremiah out of the cistern.

Service can be rendered in various ways. The official threw a cord to the prophet and some cloths and rags and told him to put them under his arms lest the cord would hurt him. The prophet's life was saved because one man had courage and loyalty and acted. This lesson speaks of two loyal men, one who was loyal to his God and country although he was misunderstood, and suffered on account of it, and the other who was loyal to a friend and courageously acted. We are living in times that call for loyalty to God and His kingdom even though it may cost much.

Volleys From Ambush

The arrival of Leonard Mitchell Vander Broek in Holland Hospital a week or so ago was the occasion for reviewing, past, present and future.

Mostly, it's the past. Not only does this new baby have four living great grandmothers, but he is a direct descendant of Dr. A. C. Van Raalte who founded the Holland colony in 1847. This year marks Holland's 125th anniversary.

His great grandmothers are Mrs. John (Gertrude) Vander Broek, Mrs. C. B. (Adeline) Meyers, Mrs. Frank Ten Have and Mrs. Eldon Dick, all of Holland.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vander Broek of 354 Wildwood. Mrs. Vander Broek is the former Jennifer Dick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dick.

The new arrival has an older brother, John K. Vander Broek III, who will be three years old in January. He has the same impressive slate of great grandmothers as well as being a direct descendant of Dr. Van Raalte.

An idea for a Christmas gift is the new mini-album for $3 available in Holland post office, or any post office for that matter. The 1972 mini-album contains 31 commemorative and special stamps issued during 1972 worth $2.40.

Among the stamps are Post Sidney Lanier, Peace Corps, Family Planning, PTA, Tom Sawyer, Osteopathic Medicine, National Parks Centennial, Yellowstone Park, Cape Hatteras, City of Refuge, Mt. McKinley, Olympic Games, Mail Order Business, Pharmacy, Christmas, Stamp Collecting, American Bicentennial, and Wildlife Conservation.

The Birmingham Eccentric on Nov. 23 carried a feature story on Mrs. Bernard W. Vosteen who heads the Friends of the Library for the Woodward Memorial Library in Rochester, Mrs. Vosteen, a Holland native, is a daughter of Mrs. Ruth Nonhof, 209 East Eighth St.

Mrs. Vosteen has headed Friends of the Library for six years, spending at least 48 hours a week there, much of it in the children's section. She and her husband who is employed in management with Parke-Davis have two children, Mary, 12, and Margaret, 11.

The Holland post office often goes above and beyond the call of duty.

At least, Lester Steggerda thinks so and he credits Postmaster Lou Haight with going that extra half-mile.

On Nov. 18, Mrs. Grace Dams sent a birthday greeting containing a $10 bill to Mrs. Steggerda addressed to route 3. The Steggerdas live on 12th Ave. which was formerly route 2. No return address was included.

When the greeting did not arrive, Steggerda mentioned it casually to the postmaster who sent a tracer.

On Dec. 9, the Dead Letter office returned the greeting to Mrs. Dams.

There were some luscious frosted doughnuts in the Sentinel newsroom.

The occasion: Gretchen Derksen's dog was one-year-old. Gretchen is on the newsroom staff.

Can you think of a better way to celebrate?

One of our readers after we printed a picture of a white squirrel shot near the Hamilton Dam recalled that Olney, Ill., near the Indiana border has a colony of white squirrels so well known that the town's newspaper has "Home of the White Squirrels" on its masthead.

The town has another colony of black squirrels but they do not get along well with the white squirrels and the groups fight a lot.

Since albinism is a trait developed by inbreeding, he supposed the brock group makes some contribution of new blood occasionally, but not too much.

Albert Frank Schwarz who came here in 1941 from Italy was pressed into service as an Italian interpreter at Holland Hospital a few days ago.

A crewman aboard the 602-foot Italian ship Patignies which arrived here Dec. 2 to load 6,000 tons of scrap from the Pados Co. became ill, and the doctor and nurses had a hard time communicating with him, and somebody remembered Schwarz.

It wasn't appendicitis. It was gall bladder trouble, and the patient, 29-year-old Sergio Dalto, preferred surgery in his Italian homeland. So he received treatment here and left two or three days later for Italy.

The ship left for Japan, via Montreal, the East Coast and the Panama Canal.

And Schwarz' name was put on a list at the hospital, not only for Italian but French and German too. There are plenty of Spanish interpreters here, and goodness knows lots of Dutch interpreters.

The city hostess welcomed many families to Holland in November.

All the thrills of an entire basketball season were packed into one game here Tuesday evening as the Panthers lost in a triple overtime to Hudsonville's Eagles, 75-73. The game offered the fans just about everything, from heart failure to total exhaustion.

It was a tough one for the Panthers to lose as they came back from a first period deficit to take a big 10 point lead by the time the third quarter was history, only to see it dwindle in the final period. But even in defeat the Panthers looked good.

Defensively, West Ottawa put on a good show especially in the third period, strongly evident in the fact that the Eagles scored only six points. The Panthers put on a good offensive performance too, scoring 21 points.

This was the best performance to date as far as turnovers were concerned as the Panthers only lost the ball 13 times which is about half of their average for the first two games and most of these occurred at the beginning before they settled down.

Hudsonville was tough in the first period, hitting from all over until the Panthers defense cooled them down. It would be hard to point out any single player on defense because they were all doing a lot of hustling and stealing the ball away from the Eagles.

The Panthers got hurt at the charity line though as Hudsonville kept in the game with their accurate free throws. The Eagles kept the press on West Ottawa throughout the evening but here too, the Panthers did quite well, in breaking it up.

Mark Miersma had a fine night with his good defensive work and his fine out court shooting. Tim Glupker was a tiger on the boards along with Joe Gaskill and Steve Hartman. Kelly Vander Ploeg put the Panthers ahead in the second overtime, making two from the free throw line, but the Eagles kept tying it up. The Panthers had four players with double figures so the scoring was pretty well balanced. Wiersema took top honors with 18, followed by Glupker with 16, Con Zommermaand swished in 14, and Vanderploeg had 11. Reserve Steve Miller led the Eagles with 18.

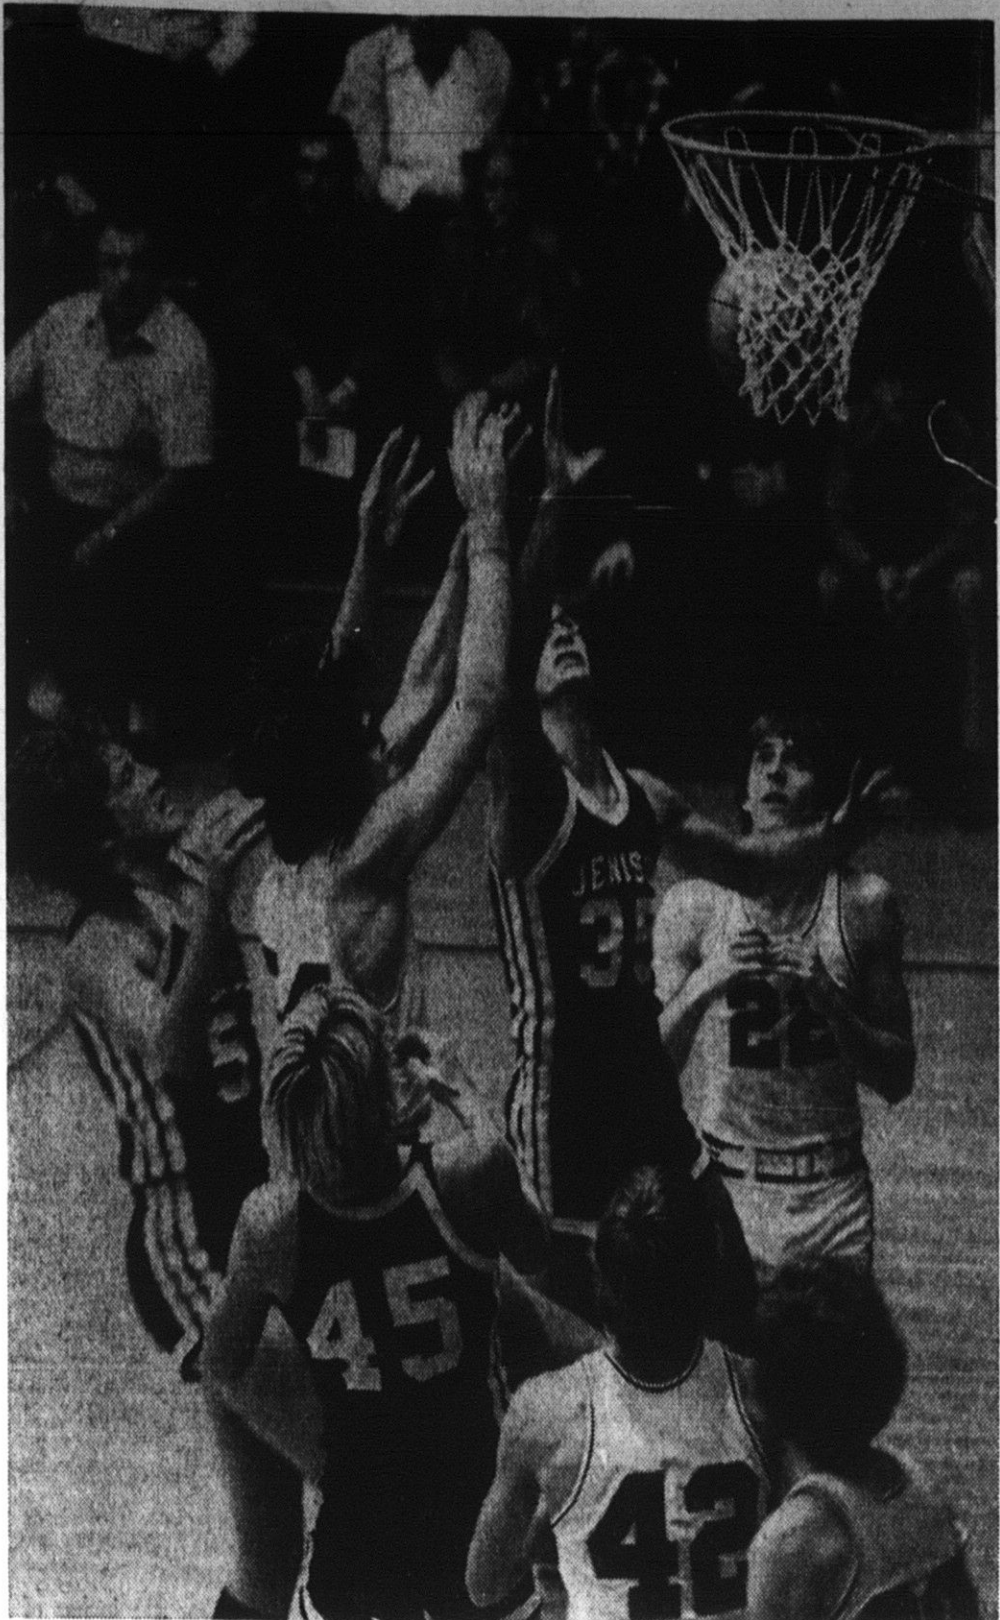

Kathy Kissman, the pretty wife of coach Jerry Kissman commented in the hallway after the game that she couldn't take too many more games like that, "It's just to nerve racking," and the game was just that.

Coach Karl Von Ins' reserves won its second straight, defeating the little Eagles, 69-56. The Panthers were behind at the end of the third period, but rallied in the final quarter to win by a comfortable score.

Big Mark Visser, "Weed", as he is called by his teammates scored 24 points for the winners followed by Dan Scheerhorn who played a fine game with 19.

Huisman Leads Trinity To Win Over Dutchmen, 90-76

Big George Huisman pumped in 37 points in leading Trinity Christian to a 90-76 basketball win over Hope College Saturday night in the Civic Center.

Huisman, a 6'8" forward connected on 16 of 23 shots from the field and five of eight free throws for game high totals.

Also reaching double figures for the winners were Art Bishop, a 5'7" guard, who tallied 17 markers, Darrell Phillips added 14 and Ed Harvey chipped in with 10.

Pacing the Dutchmen was Lee Brandsma with 24 counters on nine baskets and six charity tosses. Brian Vriesman, Jack Klunder and Tom Wolters helped out with 14, 12 and 10 in that order.

The winners finished the night with a fine 50 per cent average on (39 of 78) totals. Hope attempted 86 shots and made 34 for 39 per cent.

"They have a fine team and that Huisman is really something," said Hope's Coach Russ DeVette after the game.

"I thought we played fairly well at times but we just couldn't stop their shooting when we had to."

The Dutchmen, who suffered their first home defeat and second of the season compared to one victory, out rebounded the taller Trolls, 50-47. Wolters and Vriesman both had 15 to lead both teams in that department. Huisman had 10 for Trinity.

Hope did commit one more turnover than the winners, 14-13 in the well played contest.

The Trolls, who were defeated twice by Hope last season already had nine games under their belt coming into the Hope tilt. The record evens out their record at 5-5.

Trinity did lead by 12 points in the first half, 32-20 before the Dutchmen roared back to take a 36-33 halftime lead on some fine moves for baskets by Brandsma.

Hope's fans showed its appreciation by giving the Dutchmen a standing ovation as they headed into the lockerroom.

The game was tied in the first half on six occasions and changed hands seven times.

With Huisman hitting four of his first five shots in the second half, the Trolls jumped out to a 53-42 advantage with 14:05 left in the game.

The fans couldn't believe how well the giant Troll player could shoot from all over the court.

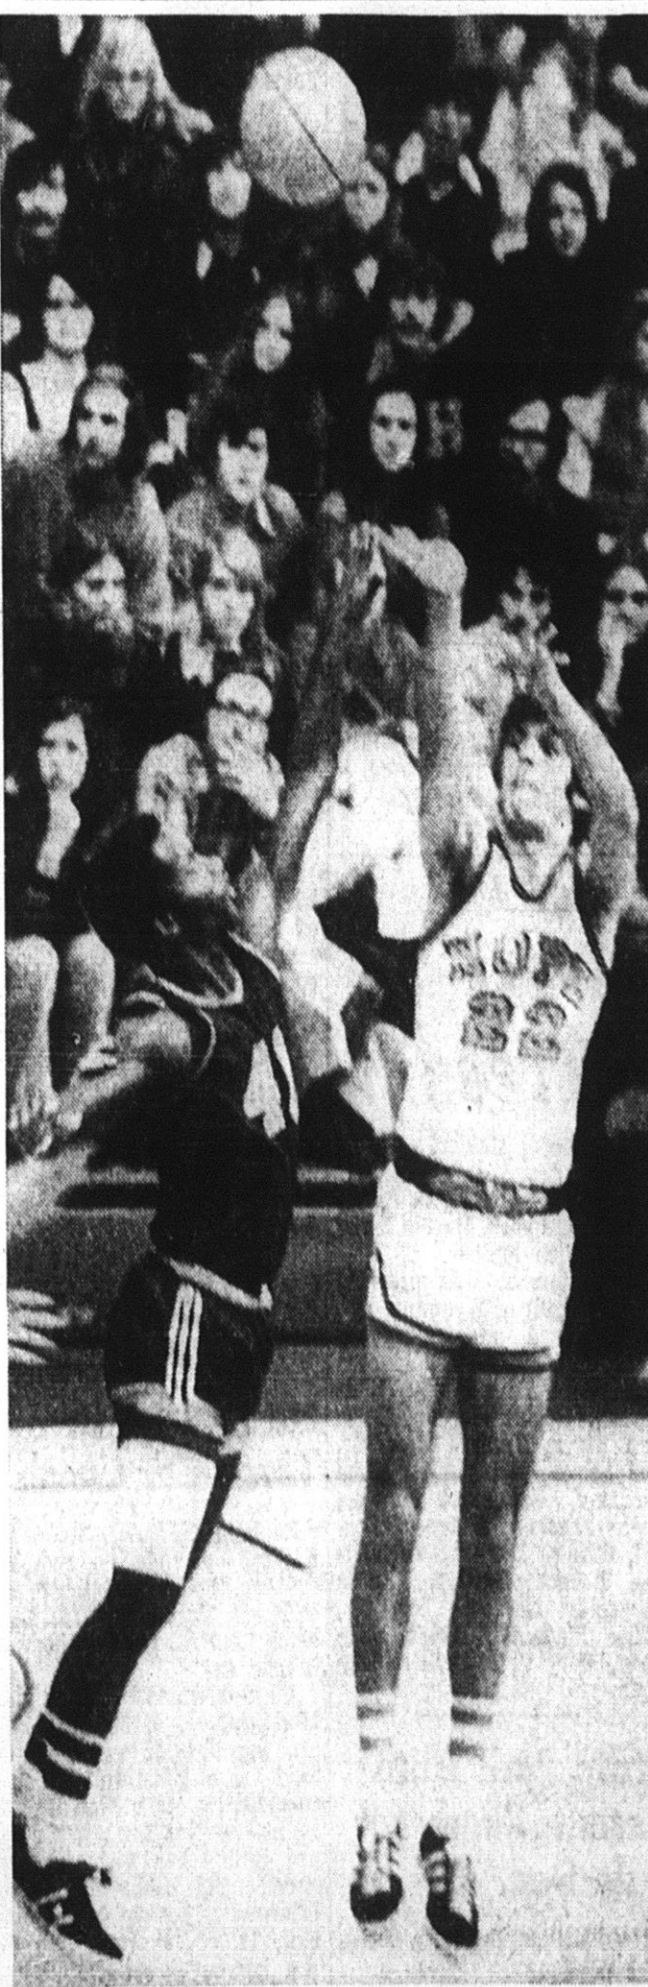

Trinity took its biggest margin at 70-50 with 8:20 left but the Hope fans were hoping for another burst like that in the first half to pull the game out.

The Dutchmen did cut the margin to 10 points but that was as close as they could come against the Trolls, who were really putting on a show in the second half.

Hope will host Principia in a rare Wednesday home game.

Adults Become Children For 'Annabelle Broom'

Adults became children for the delightful children's musical, "Annabelle Broom," at an invitational premiere Thursday night in De Witt Cultural Center, presented by the Hope College Theatre.

This fascinating tale of good witches and bad witches by Eleanor and Ray Harder held children (and adults) spellbound in the hour-long fantasy of scary witch magic, thunder and other tricks, all against an imaginative forest background and flowing costumes which seemed to be made of cobwebs and tatters.

The production was a real bonanza for sound effects and lighting technicians providing thunder, light flashes and assorted gimmicks with a big witches' cauldron in a tree stump and even trapezes to simulate flying broomsticks.

Because of a cold, Joann Duvekot as Annabelle Broom did not sing full volume, but her characterization of a good witch who tinted her hair and wished for a pink dress was faultless. Besides, with her cute turned-up nose, she was the only witch with a clear complexion and one who did not have long six-inch fingernails. Her copy of "Harpies Bizarre" was an inspired prop.

Rita Henrickson and Connie Demos as the children lost in the forest were outstanding, both in singing and in simulating fear and bravery in their association with witches.

Other witch roles of Mabel (who always commanded thunder), Lydia, Esther and Maude provided meaty opportunities for George Ralph, Stephanie Leanza, Margaret Rose and Steve Britton. Completing the cast were David Ukert as the story teller and Jerry Bevington as Tumble, his acrobatic sidekick. Barbara Timmer was the accompanist.

The children's production marks the first anniversary of the college's fine theatre and workshop, and "Annabelle Broom" provided an opportunity for imaginative settings and costumes, much like the recent production of "The Beggar's Opera" in which Richard Smith also served as scenic and costume designer.

Donald Finn was the director; Gregg Purvis designed lighting, and Michael Grinstaff took charge of special effects.

The weird costumes and scary sound effects could be frightening to small children, but everybody in Thursday's audience was brave. Besides, mommy and daddy were right there to assure them the thunder wasn't real. And Annabelle's final appearance in a beautiful pink dress made everything right.

De Witt Gallery on the balcony level has a display of art by elementary school children of Holland area.

John Jones, new treasurer for the Port Sheldon township board, as main spokesman protested the cutting of trees on Lakeshore Dr. from Grand Haven to Ottawa Beach. Four or five other persons also spoke.

There also was some mention of scenic routes as proposed in a recreation report drafted by a team of the University of Wisconsin. This concerns such routes as Lakeshore Dr. and Leonard Rd. which winds along Grand River from Grand Rapids to Spring Lake.

As a result, the commission passed a resolution seeking closer rapport with the Road Commission on any changes or proposed improvements along scenic drives in the county.

The commission also named Frank Schmidt of Coopersville to the Road Commission, succeeding Richard Ossewaarde who did not seek reappointment after some 18 years. The new six-year term commences Jan. 1. Schmidt who did not seek reelection to the Board of Commissioners resigned as a commissioner before his nomination was made.

The discussion on trees took about an hour and 15 minutes. Several Holland persons were included in the large group. Part of the problem involved proposed improvements to Van Buren St. near Lakeshore Dr. where 11 trees already have been removed on contract of the township board with the County Road Commission. Surveys had revealed that the main road was about 33 feet off course. Work has been halted.

Tree lovers presented each commissioner present with a small evergreen tree for planting. Twenty of the 21 members were present with only Karl Ball absent. Next year, the board reverts to 11 members.

In other business, the board approved the budget for 1973. Al Geerlings of Holland was appointed to the Social Services Board succeeding Frank De Jonge. Named to the Community Mental Health Board were

A Look At Library Facilities In Holland Schools

BEAN BAG CHAIRS ARE POPULAR WITH WEST OTTAWA MIDDLE SCHOOL STUDENTS

(Photos by Robert Steenwyk)

Requirements Vary At 3 School Levels

By Susan Ehrlich
The goals and the means of attainment in learning and education vary basically at the three school levels. They do share several similarities, some intellectual and some physical. Libraries are one segment shared in principle, but differ in theory and in practice. Because the emphasis and stress vary throughout the complete academic exposure, so do the requirement and execution of a school library vary.

For recreational reading, the Center has 24 colorful bean bag chairs scattered around the area. Music floats through the Center and the students roam with ease through the stacks. Still in the embryo stage, the West Ottawa Middle School Resource Center has the potential of becoming a dynamic force in the education of its patrons with a long-lived impact.

SENIOR HIGH

Holland Senior High School's Library contains 9,500 to 10,000 books with an average daily check-out of 100, according to Librarian Miss Judy Mastenbroek. In addition to reading and research materials, the library also shares the responsibility for the school's audio-visual aid equipment.

Assisted by a fulltime clerk, a cooperative training student and student assistants, Miss Mastenbroek spoke softly but adamantly of her wishes for the library, in concept and in execution.

One of her most heartfelt criticisms is not having the entire faculty using the library as an integrated segment of the curricula. She faults some faculty members for being "too textbook oriented" and ignoring the library and audio-visual aides of the school.

Every book and audio-visual aid in the senior high inventory may be checked out overnight by the students and they are encouraged to take advantage of film strips and recordings in their studies and presentations to their classmates and teachers. The school does not have cassette equipment and this item is high on Miss Mastenbroek's priority list.

The library is the first in the area to experiment with evening hours. Beginning this fall, the library is open Tuesday evenings from 6 until 9 for the convenience of not only senior high students but also the adult education enrollees.

Currently, approximately $5,000 is spent annually on books and upkeep and an additional $2,500 on the audio-visual equipment and repairs. As is the case in so many areas of education, Miss Mastenbroek feels her budget is inadequate to provide the materials and equipment she believes are needed.

Instead of perpetrating the long-standing image of a stern drill sergeant running a hospital-quiet, muffled smelling police state, Miss Mastenbroek and her staff try to provide an atmosphere in which students enjoy learning and discovery and use of the library and audio-visual aid facilities to their greatest advantage.

The book selection is primarily made by Miss Mastenbroek with the advice and guidance of the faculty. There is no formal selection committee but the suggestion was made and taken that perhaps student participation in the selection is not only feasible but beneficial.

Looking to the future, she hopes that not only the library and audio-visual aid facilities will be increased and expanded, but that the use of the library by students and faculty will become a stimulating supplement to the curricula and to the whole educational process and growth at the senior high school level.

HERRICK

Working closely with all the local school librarians and pupils is the Herrick Public Library.

Roger Walcott, Herrick's head librarian, speaks with blatant pride of all the library provides students and especially of the Children's Library, headed by Mrs. Helen Gibson.

Tours are arranged for all students, from pre-schoolers to adult education pupils. Instruction is offered on the use of the card catalogue and the many indexes and the importance of proper library material care. When possible, the tours and talks are on a one-to-one basis.

The books in the Children's Library are grouped according to grade and reading levels in an effort to make them as accessible as possible for the child, parent and teacher.

Herrick keeps area teachers up-to-date on its new film lists and many teachers strive to coordinate their instructional units with these films. In addition to the library's own collection of 150, it subscribes to two film circuits each providing 13 films monthly.

The inventory of film strips, records, still photographs and paintings add a further dimension of service to complement the learning format for both student and teacher.

For specific instructional units, teachers are permitted to check out many books and materials for periods of six weeks. Such a policy allows all students access to the research materials.

ELEMENTARY

The need and use of a school library at the elementary school level is as important a teaching tool as it is at the senior high level, according to Lee Vander Ark and Harold Grissen, principals of Rose Park Christian Elementary School and Maplewood Christian Elementary School, respectively.

Each school is currently creating and developing its library following the reorganization of the Holland Christian Middle and elementary schools this summer.

At the elementary school level, the physical requirements and specifications are not as critical and/or demanding as they are at the middle or senior high levels. This is true because the use and emphasis of libraries at the elementary level are less exacting and/or consuming.

Keeping in mind the imperative need to instill the importance and resulting enjoyment of reading at this primary educational stage, the Holland Christian elementary schools generally concentrate on recreational reading in the use of the library for the first few grades.

In the later elementary grades, the library takes on the additional task of providing research and complimentary materials to the various teaching units. Also, filmstrips, movies, records and other audio-visual aides take on a greater significance.

The use of cassette or "listening centers" receive considerable attention at both schools and each principal wants to increase this collection.

Maplewood has been experimenting with the use of paperback books which have proven to be popular with the youngsters. Presently they have nearly 600 such books and when their school usefulness has expired, it has been the school's policy to offer them to the students.

Nether school employs a librarian at this time and the facilities are shared and maintained by all. The book selection is a faculty effort as well. Each principal has found pupils use the library before school, during recess and even after school.

Vander Ark and Grissen fully realize the importance of elementary age children not only learning to read but learning the importance of good reading habits and the unlimited horizons reading can open up to them. Through the use of the library and the acquired ease of utilizing it, they agree on the vitality of its role.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

The first impression one has of West Ottawa Middle School's Resource Center is favorable. The impression becomes intensified when the spirit and enthusiasm is caught.

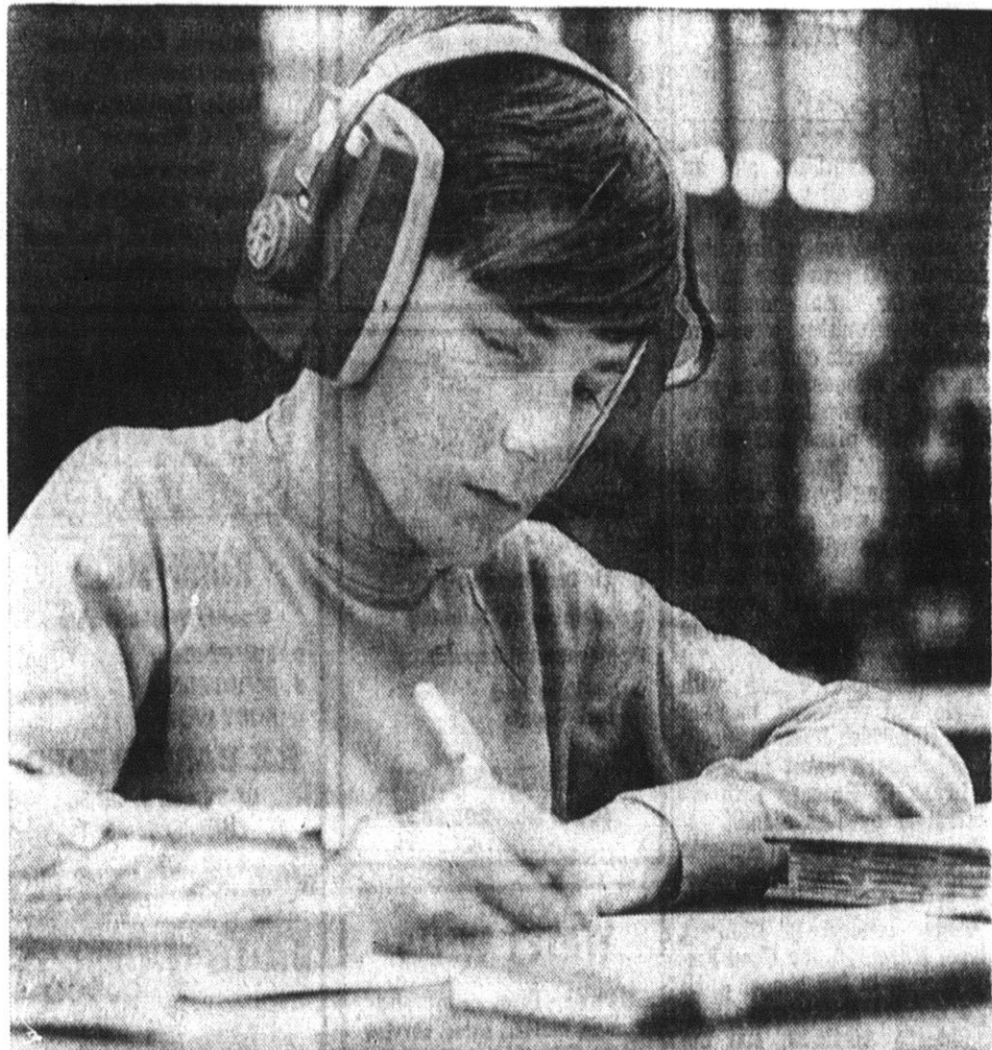

The purpose of the Resource Center, according to Librarian Miss Ardeth Folkert, is "having the right material to the right student at the right time." She is assisted by a full and two parttime aides in addition to an audio-visual aide.

The library has an inventory of approximately 4,000 volumes. In the next five years, Miss Folkert expects to build the library up to a minimum of 20,000 books. Ordering is almost a fulltime job and she is ordering without a specific budget, an almost unheard of situation in education.

The audio visual equipment is receiving equal treatment. In addition to movie, film strip and record equipment, Miss Folkert and the other members of the middle school faculty are experimenting with sophisticated cassette players including a 6 to 12 channel component. The system works similarly to those often found on airplanes. Teachers can listen in and even speak to an individual student.

Miss Folkert is a member of the school Curriculum Coordinating Council and through this participation, she is able to prepare for any special research requests and at the same time know what the faculty feel is needed and required in terms of books, periodicals and audio-visual materials.

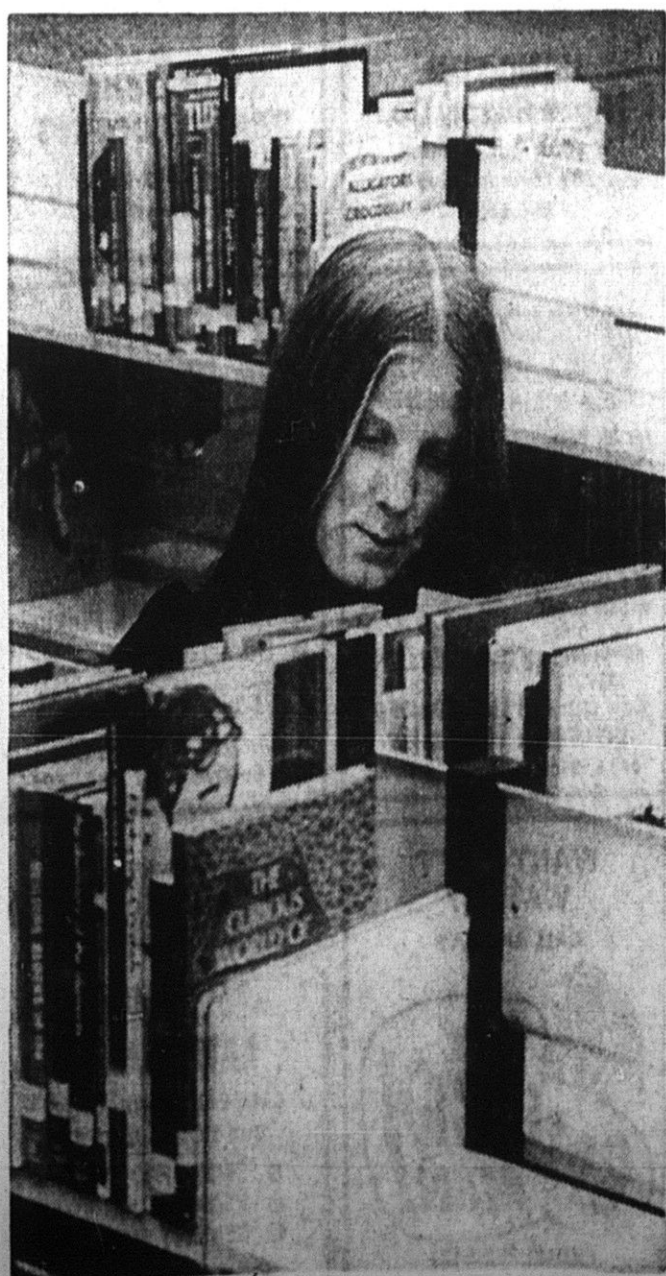

Responsibility is placed upon the student in his care of the library materials. The fines have been removed from overdue books and students understand that damaged or lost materials will be corrected by them.

Concert-Goers Enjoy 'Evening With Friends'

By Helen Wright

An agreeable, light concert by a talented pair was presented to a relaxed audience in holiday mood in Civic Center Monday night.

Billed as "An Evening With Tevye and Golde," it was also an evening with Jerry and Nina, both displaying considerable vocal talent and winning stage presence.

Nina Dova, striking in a blue gown, opened the program with selections from world-wide folk music, accompanying herself on the guitar, and providing chatter along with songs ranging from the plaintive to the rollicking.

She wound up her section of the program with a sing-along of a temperance song, warning of the evils of rum-soaked fruitcake that drew chuckles and a rousing performance by the audience.

Then it was Jerry Jarrett's turn to occupy the spotlight, and he did, with considerable charm, both as Tevye, the be-mused father of seven, and as a latter-day Tevye with the same problem of coping with a generation gap.

Along with considerable gifts as an actor, Jarrett revealed a strong baritone that enhanced the songs associated with Tevye, "If I Were a Rich Man," and the lusty "L'Haim."

He also invaded the operatic repertoire, explaining that if Robert Merrill and Jan Peerce, with 30 years of operatic experience, could try their hands at acting the role of Tevye, he, with 30 years of acting experience should certainly be allowed an aria or two. The results were amusing, and not all that bad, musically.

He was then joined by Miss Dova in the duet of a 25-year marriage, "Do You Love Me?" and a reprise of the bittersweet, "Sunrise, Sunset."

The entire program, which lasted the full concert two hours including intermission, seemed short, as does any evening spent in pleasant company. And Jerry Jarrett and Nina Dova are pleasant company indeed.

Bach Oratorio Provides Welcome Yule Treat

Johan Sebastian Bach's Christmas Oratorio proved to be a real holiday treat for music lovers Saturday night in Dimmet Memorial Chapel, augmented by Christmas carols, all under the direction of Calvin Langejans.

Presented by the Holland Community Choral and orchestra, the first of the six parts of the Bach masterwork was sung with great feeling by the chorale, highlighted by selections from three excellent soloists, Mrs. Alvin Heerspink, contralto; Eugene Westra, lyric tenor, and Harley Brown, bass. The latter is a co-worker with Langejans on the music faculty of West Ottawa High School.

The oratorio included the 12 numbers of the first part, mainly recitatives and arias, plus five other selections from the entire work, most of them chorals which have become familiar tunes in the better hymn books.

A purist might find some flaws in the difficult Bach score, but the presentation was truly remarkable in the light of limited practice by busy people, some coming from Grand Haven and Hamilton, and an orchestra, also all volunteers.

Conductor Langejans is to be commended for setting high standards and providing an opportunity for local musicians whose opportunities often are limited to church choirs.

An extra dimension was provided by a harpsichord, fore-runner of the piano and widely used in Bach's time.

Carol singing by the audience and chorale was a thrill, particularly those with showy fan-fares and setting written by Langejans which had everyone present belting out the lively tunes at top volume.

The program closed with chorale and orchestra in "Let All Mortal Flesh Keep Silence," an old French carol arranged by Frank C. Butcher with orchestration by Langejans.

The chorale plans concerts for the Dutch Immigrant Society in Grand Rapids Dec. 19, a winter concert in Dimmet Chapel March 10, the Good Friday service in the chapel April 20, a concert at Orchestra Hall in Chicago April 28, and the Tulip Time Festival Musicales May 16 in Civic Center.
