Griffin Opens Holland Office

Congressman Robert P. Griffin announced Wednesday that he has opened an office in Holland as a means of providing "the best possible service to the people of Ottawa County."

Congressman Griffin's new office is located at 31 West Eighth St. in Holland, and is in charge of Bruce M. Raymond, former professor of history and government at Hope College.

In making the announcement, Rep. Griffin emphasized that Ottawa County residents should feel free at all times to contact him directly, either by telephone or by writing him at the House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. Griffin said, "I feel certain that the Holland office will provide a convenient, year-round point of local contact which many Ottawa County people will find useful, as a means of expediting congressional business."

Raymond will be available in Congressman Griffin's Holland office from 9 a.m. until noon, Monday through Friday of each week, and also by appointment. Raymond noted that he may be reached at other times through his home telephone.

Under a new redistricting law made effective before the recent election, Ottawa County is one of 11 counties which will be represented by Congressman Griffin beginning Jan. 4. His 9th Congressional District stretches along Lake Michigan from Holland to Traverse City. Congressman Griffin pointed out that some northern Ottawa County residents may find it more convenient to contact his Muskegon office which is located at 405 Michigan Building, and is in charge of James F. Schoener.

Raymond, 66, also serves Ottawa county as an official of the Red Cross and as director of the blood program. He was

He has been active in the Ottawa County Republican organization.

"Raymond is very well qualified, and I am convinced that the people of the 9th District are fortunate that he is willing to take this position," said Congressman Griffin.

In addition to his other experience, Raymond has been a Holland city alderman, vice chairman of the charter commission, a member of former Gov. Van Wageningen's Constitutional Revision Study Commission, a member of the State Tax Study Commission, and chairman of a subcommittee on local government by appointment of former Gov. Harry Kelly.

City Studies Possible Suit

Holland is studying a possible suit against salt companies for alleged overcharging on ice control chemicals sold to the city.

City Attorney Gordon Cunningham met with other city attorneys in Lansing Wednesday to consider alleged price-fixing in bids by leading salt companies.

City Manager Herb Holt said that the city has spent more than $75,000 on salt and calcium chloride for control of ice in the last ten years.

Holt pointed out that no definite action on a suit has yet been planned by Holland as erroneously reported in other newspapers. He added that any litigation by Holland would have to be approved by vote of the City Council.

Pittsburgh and Milwaukee have already started suits against leading salt companies, and other cities that are considering court action are Grand Rapids, Philadelphia, Boston, Detroit, Dearborn and Lansing.

City's Mill Has Publicity

Holland's windmill De Zwaan has received its share of publicity as evidenced by the following caption which appeared under a photo of the mill June 18 in the newspaper "De West" in Paramaribo, Surinam, a Dutch protectorate located in the northeastern part of South America:

"This mill, De Zwaan, which has been standing for 80 years in Vinkel, province of Brabantse, will be carefully dismantled to be built up again, stone by stone and board by board, in America. Friends of the windmill in Holland, Michigan, financed this to bring a real part of the Netherlands to their city. The official papers of the mill will be signed Saturday, and shortly after the dismantling will start."

The newspaper clipping was mailed to Sidney Schaap of 516 East Central Ave., Zeeland, by Mrs. Clyde Rubinstien, whose husband is stationed in Surinam with the Dutch Air Force.

Officials at the Netherlands Information Agency in Holland said the reason Surinam is interested in Holland's windmill is that the only other mill to be permitted out of the Netherlands will be reconstructed in Surinam.

Holland police said Torres' car, headed south on Fairbanks Ave., left the road and struck a 50-gallon drum filled with sand, ran over a stop sign and truck route sign, and came to rest after climbing a steep embankment at the end of the road on the south side of 16th St.

Torres was charged with driving under the influence of liquor and having no Michigan operator's license. He was released on $100 bond and was to appear in Municipal Court Tuesday.

Bird Damage Causes Loss Of Income

By Robert Van Klompenberg,
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Blackbird damage is an increasing problem for corn growers. It is such a serious problem in some areas along the Grand River that it has become impossible to grow corn economically. Some farmers have lost from $500 to $1,500 per year from the damage done by blackbirds.

From a survey that was taken in the area losses from saleable corn have been upward of $20,000 not counting the loss of cost that has been invested in these fields which is about $50 per acre. This would be a loss of $130 per acre for field of corn. For sweet corn it would be near $1,000 an acre.

The County Agricultural Agent has a committee of local farmers who will be meeting at Michigan State University on Jan. 8 with representatives of three other counties in the state, Berrien, Monroe and St. Joseph, and John Beck, District Agent for the Branch of Predator and Rodent Control. They will discuss bird control measures and plan for field testing a new control technique which will be followed by a meeting in the county.

Broader Service Program Slated At Hope in '65

Hope College, emerging from a year of academic expansion, looks forward to 1965 as a year for greater community service and closer cooperation with the city of Holland.

As part of its planned community service projects, the college is preparing to start adult education courses in cooperation with the city's secondary schools.

The program got its start during 1964 when Hope conducted is expected that the college's student body will number more than 1,600 for the first time in history next fall. Present enrollment stands at 1,560.

In spite of big plans for future expansion, Hope College has not stood still during the year now ending. Dr. Vander Werf cited the biggest single advancement made by the school during 1964 as the strengthening of the faculty.

Some 14 new members were added to the faculty during 1964, 10 of these as replacements and four others in newly created positions.

The completion of a new Physics - Mathematics Building, along with the strengthened faculty, have "increased the opportunity for high quality education" at Hope College, Dr. Vander Werf said.

The high quality education available at Hope is reflected in the number of Hope students to receive academic awards. Seven Hope students received Woodrow Wilson Scholarships, two received Danforth Scholarships, and there was one Marshall scholar.

The faculty and administration of Hope College are proud of this outstanding academic achievement. Dr. Vander Werf said this was "a testimony to the high quality education Hope students receive."

The total of 10 students to receive these scholarships was higher than that achieved by any other liberal arts college in Michigan and was equal to the combined total of those awarded to all the state's other liberal arts schools.

Another achievement of Hope College during 1964, according to Dr. Vander Werf, was the closer understanding between the college and the Reformed Church in America and strengthening ties with the college's alumni.

The church has taken hold and is contributing greatly toward the new Physics - Mathematics Building, Dr. Vander Werf said, and Hope's alumni are now winding up a record $126,000 fund drive.

In sports, too, 1964 has been a good year for Hope College. Hope won the MIAA All-Sports trophy without the aid of athletic scholarships for its athletes.

The sports program has been broadened to include soccer and wrestling, and a beginning has been made on including a swimming program among the college's athletic events.

Although 1964 has been a great year for Hope, 1965 promises to be even bigger and better.

a personnel management seminar for leaders of business and industry in the Holland-Zeeland area and held a summer chemistry institute for area high school teachers.

Possible courses to be offered under the expanded program include art, literature, foreign languages, science, Bible and religion, and business. Hope President Dr. Calvin Vander Werf said the actual courses offered would depend upon interest shown within the community, however.

The year 1965 will also be a year of continued growth for Hope College, which will enter its centennial year next fall. The college will begin a $5 million fund drive during 1965, which will run for the next two years, to provide funds for urgently needed physical facilities.

Included on the list of "must" facilities are a Student Cultural and Social Center, a Science Building annex, a new wing on the Music Building and a fieldhouse and stadium on the Van Raalte campus. Each of these has been designated as an urgent need of equal priority.

Among the projections for the year 1965 is an anticipated increase in Hope's enrollment. It

Windmill Project Top Story in 1964

By all standards, Holland's new windmill was the No. 1 story of the year 1964.

The Sentinel carried more stories and more pictures on the imported Dutch mill than on any other single subject. The windmill currently is under construction on its 36-acre site on the banks of Black river. The 28-foot brick base was completed a couple of months ago and the heavy framework is now in place. Siding will be placed soon, and the mill is expected to be ready well in advance of the opening of Tulip Time next May.

In mid-March City Council sold $450,000 in revenue bonds to finance the 158-acre Windmill Island project to Goodbody and Co. at the rate of 4.224 per cent. Revenues from admission fees will pay off the bonds and the entire project is being done at no cost to taxpayers.

The Windmill program received national publicity particularly at Tulip Time in May when the festival theme was geared to having the windmill ready for the 1965 festival. A heavy rain the first day of the festival, cancelled plans for ground breaking on Windmill Island.

In June, the city sent Willard C. Wichers, coordinator for the Windmill project, to the Netherlands to arrange for transfer of a mill, and Wichers arranged for the purchase of the De Zwaan, a 200-year-old mill which had stood at Vinkel for some 80 years. The windmill was dismantled during summer months under the supervision of Jan (Diek) Medendorp, who later came to this city to supervise the reconstruction.

Site clearing began at the Windmill Island late in July. The same month Jaap de Blecourt was named head gardener of the project and started plans for gardens and landscaping involving planting of 150,000 tulip bulbs. De Blecourt, a native Dutchman, was head gardener at Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island which has gardens covering 200 acres.

The dismantled windmill aboard the Prins Willem van Oranje arrived in Muskegon Oct. 5, marking the occasion for ceremonies in which the windmill was officially turned over to the city of Holland. Present were the Windmill committee, city officials, representatives of the Dutch government, state tourism officials and representatives of the governor, the city of Muskegon and Chambers of Commerce.

The following day, the dismantled mill came to Holland on trucks provided by Holland carriers forming a parade down Eighth St. to Civic Center parking lot. The mill was then taken to the city warehouse on Fairbanks Ave. Jan Medendorp arrived from the Netherlands to spend four months here supervising the restoration.

Informal ceremonies placing heavy beams on the 28-foot brick base were held Dec. 14.

The No. 2 story of the year was the rash of safe crackings in Holland, most of them in local churches in November and December.

On Nov. 16, safes were cracked in Maple Avenue Christian Reformed Church, Fourth Reformed Church and Trinity Reformed Church for losses of about $10,000, and on Dec. 21 eight other churches were entered for losses of over $6,000. Break-ins were at Prospect Park Christian Reformed Church, Faith Christian Reformed Church, Bethany Christian Reformed Church, Graafschap Christian Reformed Church, Central Park Reformed Church, Grace Episcopal Church, Christ Memorial Reformed Church and Gospel Chapel. Grace Church and Christ Memorial Church had no safes but the premises were ransacked.

Two Chicago men have been charged with safe breaking and currently are in Ottawa county jail unable to provide $50,000 bond each. They were halted the morning after the Dec. 21 burglaries in a Holland taxi in Otego. They had hired the taxi to take them to Kalamazoo.

Two days after the church robberies, two cardboard boxes containing at least $6,000 were found by Francis Drake in a melting snowbank at his home at 94 West 20th St.

On Dec. 3, a safe was ripped apart at Brewer's City Coal Dock and $420 taken. A suspect was apprehended in a few hours and a second suspect a few days later.

Story No. 3 was a vicious wind and electrical storm June 10 when winds up to 100 miles an hour uprooted trees, snapped utility wires and created havoc generally. Hardest hit was 11th St. between Pine and Van Raalte Aves. where many fine old shade trees were uprooted, twisted and destroyed. Also hit hard was Centennial Park where the storm cut a swath through the north end of the two-block area, uprooting trees, and causing others to lean dangerously. Cleanup work took several days.

There were many other stories of interest during 1964.

One story of note was a compromise settlement of the bulk of the electrical equipment-trust litigation amounting to $384,000 as proposed by six defendants, or a net recovery to the city of $256,000. This settlement was the result of litigation over price fixing affecting city purchases of electrical equipment in a three-year period of 1956 to 1959.

The six defendants in the settlement are Allis Chalmers, McGraw Edison, Moloney Electric, Wagner Electric, General Electric and Westinghouse. The greater share of the settlement came from General Electric in connection with the sale of turbo-generators, with gross amounting to $359,000.

James E. Townsend was special counsel for the city, working with the Philadelphia law firm of Dilworth, Paxon, Kalish, Kohn and Dilke.

Another development the past year was the start of the new sanitary land fill which has been in operation since September, following months of study and discussion on the part of City Council. Council passed an ordinance in August redefining specifications for refuse containers. A ban on burning of refuse went into effect in May.

Holland also is hopeful that Beech-Nut Lifesavers, Inc., of Canajoharie, N.Y., will establish a plant in Holland. The company has an option on a 98-acre site on 48th St. near the Allegan C and O tracks.

Bonnie Timmer, 18-year-old senior at West Ottawa High School, was named Miss Holland at the annual Miss Holland Pageant in May, sponsored by Holland Jaycees.

Holland Christian schools selected a site for a new high school in the vicinity of 40th St. and Ottawa Ave.

Supt. Walter W. Scott resigned in June and was succeeded by Donald E. Ihrman, former Holland man. Jay W. Formsmas, principal at Holland High School, left to take a similar position at a new high school in Livonia and was succeeded by Fred Bertsch of Holland.

Joe Moran was named Holland's first full time recreation director in May.

Two Holland men, James J. Taylor, 45, and Andre (Andy) Docos, 40, were lost when their light plane plunged into Lake Michigan near Muskegon late in April. The wreckage was discovered about two weeks later and the bodies shortly thereafter. Taylor was associated with Taylors of Holland, a men's shop, and Docos was with General Electric.

Holland City built a new warehouse for the street department on Fairbanks Ave. in the vicinity of 11th St. The old warehouse was sold to Swift and Co., for expansion of their ice cream business. The city also sold the old Roamer Boat

Deputies Foil Breakout Bid

GRAND HAVEN — A 13-year-old Saugatuck youth, after a fling at playing big-time hoodlum, was back in the Ottawa County juvenile home today with the friend he tried to "spring."

The Kingdom is at Hand
Matthew 3: 12
By C. P. Dame

During the first quarter of 1965 we will study the Gospel of Matthew. The writer was once a publican, became a disciple and then an apostle. In his gospel, which he wrote primarily for the Jews, he proves that Jesus of Nazareth is the promised Messiah. He quotes the Old Testament 60 times in order to prove this. Since he was an apostle and was with Jesus and saw His miracles and heard His teaching he was fully qualified for this work.

Our lesson tells about the ministry of John the Baptist who called upon his hearers to repent.

I. The preaching of repentance is always timely. "In those days came John the Baptist, preaching." All four gospels tell about John. Luke tells about his parents and his birth. Before he began to preach he was in the desert. By his preaching he stirred the nation.

For four hundred years no prophetic voice had been heard in the nation—Malachi was the last of the Old Testament prophets. All kinds of people went to hear John preach. He called upon the people to repent and to get ready for the coming of the Messiah.

John not only preached like the Old Testament prophets but he also dressed like them. He lived in the wilderness and his dress was simple, his food sparing and his needs few. Many people, upon hearing John, confessed their sins and then were baptized which suggested forgiveness.

II. Religious people need repentance too. John noted that the Pharisees and the Sadducees came to be baptized. The Pharisees were the strict religious people, the Sadducees the worldly, and the wealthy. John told his hearers that it was not enough to be a descendant of Abraham.

To these people he spoke of the axe, the fan and the fire. He tried to make them realize that they were harboring a false confidence. They thought that to be a descendant of Abraham was a passport to heaven. It seems so easy to have a false confidence which indeed is tragic.

John said that God is able to raise up children of Abraham from the stones lying in the desert. We must all bear in mind that God burns up and builds up. God is holy and loving.

III. Jesus is greater than John. The lesser pointed to the greater. "I indeed baptize you with water to repentance; but He that cometh after me is mightier than I." John was a holy and a humble man. He said that he was not worthy to carry his successors sandals.

The coming Jesus would baptize with the Holy Spirit and with fire, and He would cleanse the threshing floor—not destroy it—gather the wheat in the garner and burn the chaff.

"Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John to be baptized of him" — which John did. Jesus insisted for He wanted to "fulfill all righteousness." Thus Jesus identified Himself with the nation, by submitting to baptism.

Ends 33 Years Of Service In Allegan

ALLEGAN — A man whose signature probably appears on more official Allegan county documents than any other will wind up 33 years of service Thursday, Dec. 31.

He is Muri Moreland, retiring at the age of 76 after thirty-two years as the county's registrar of probate. His record includes another year of county service as an assistant in the office of the late Arthur D. Morley, county agricultural agent, back in 1932.

In spite of his long years of service, Moreland has served under only two probate judges. His first "boss" was the late Irving J. Tucker who induced him to leave the county agent's office early in 1933. When Tucker was defeated in a hotly contested election by the present judge, Harold Weston, Moreland was one of the few staff members retained by the incoming judge.

The Allegan county building will be closed from 11 to 1 p.m. Thursday while officials and employees bid him an official farewell.

As registrar of probate, Moreland is official custodian of files and records in thousands of probate court matters. Within easy reach of his desk is a cabinet containing the 133 basic forms used in his job of keeping track of estates, appointment of guardians, persons judged mentally ill, incompetent or "spend-thrifts," condemnations and a long list of other matters.

With approximately 2,000 new cases each year involving an average of five official documents per case, Moreland estimates that he has signed his name in an official capacity at least 320,000 times.

Attorneys and others whose work puts them in frequent contact with Moreland are quick to portray him as "a man who never blows his top . . . even though he has had frequent reason to."

When Moreland assumed his post in 1933, he recalls that his predecessor spent a half-day with him and passed on a "little black book" which was supposed to tell him where everything was.

In those days the job was even more exacting than it is now, he recalls. He said few attorneys were then involved in handling estates and the probate court staff handled a great many details now taken care of by law firms.

Moreland was a native of Detroit where he held several office jobs before coming to Allegan in 1930. One of his most interesting posts as a young man was office manager of the Michigan Central Railroad's field headquarters while the company's Detroit river tunnel to Canada was under construction in 1907.

Industrial Confab Set

GRAND HAVEN—In an effort to get the Tri-Cities area "off the ground" industrially, the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday announced that a community-wide meeting will be held at the chamber office Jan. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The event is sponsored jointly by the industrial committee and the directors of the Tri-Cities Industrial Fund, Inc., and the purpose of the meeting is to discuss the Grand Haven-Spring Lake area's future.

Invitations will be mailed to all units of government in the northwest part of Ottawa county and organizations interested in attracting new industry to the community. The continued growth and expansion of the area's 110 existing industries will also be discussed.

An acute shortage of industrial sites having needed services was revealed by recent surveys. There is a large amount of land zoned for industry in rural areas but it is not acceptable for industry because of essential services, such as natural gas, water and sewers.

There are some industrial areas in Grand Haven and Spring Lake but the size is limited. Large areas are available in the townships but there are no utilities.

Views From The Campus

(Delbert L. Michel joined the Hope faculty in September as instructor in art. A native of Rushville, Indiana, Michel received his B. A. from DePauw University, and his M.F.A. from the State University of Iowa where he had been serving as curator of the university art collection since 1961. Editor's Note.)

By Delbert L. Michel

What is one to look for in a modern painting? This question, frequently asked in reference to abstract painting, is relevant to the appreciation of modern art and traditional art as well.

Our misunderstandings of what we should look for in a painting sometimes restrict our art appreciation to non-artistic values. We find ourselves looking at a painting for a literary message, a representation of our environment, or a sentimental description of our shallow emotions. Our misconceptions in viewing art have, in part, been conditioned by our preoccupation with literal subject matter in traditional art.

Admittedly, subject matter in the work of art in some measure engages our attention. Too often, it is with the recognition of the subject that our consideration of the work stops. Subject matter becomes the sole criterion for evaluating the work of art.

We praise the traditional artist for his technical virtuosity in rendering the superficial appearance of things. However, we fail to react to the emotional qualities of color and form.

We are often distracted from the appreciation of art as an artistic experience because we are too easily satisfied by our associations with identifiable objects, incidents, or suggested outside experiences that we recognize. We demand nothing more from a painting than that it tell a story. If we are to adopt such a limited view of the function of art, verbal description can be an exact equivalent of painting.

Fortunately, art has its own unique function. The artist and viewer are enabled to achieve an artistic communion through "expressive content." Expressive content in a work of art refers to the total effect of the artist's visual sensibilities expressed through his use of color and form.

In order to experience a modern painting as an artistic communion, we must be completely receptive to the visual stimulation of color and form. Then we may become creatively involved in the work through our own tastes and values.

Rather than preaching a return to the outworn values of traditional art, we must cultivate our artistic tastes to correspond to changes in our way of life, changes which not only produce efficiency and comfort but alter the very appearance of our surroundings. We readily adjust to the "new look of things" in our environment. Why then should we reject the new look of contemporary art?

The term "modern art" has suffered much abuse by the masses in American society. We have come to associate modern art with the shocking, the spectacular; with the novel achievements of monkeys, of so-called artists armed with rifles shooting at paint-filled balloons, or of madmen exercising psychotherapy in paint. Too often we allow our disgust with such deauchery to close our minds to the appreciation of high quality modern art. Indeed, we refuse to look at a painting because we recognize it as being "modern."

Admittedly, much of the blame for our attitude toward modern art lies with the artist or critic who makes us feel that art is something mysterious and can be appreciated only by probing the psychological depths of the artist. This is not true. Painting is largely a matter of creative intuition. Likewise, the appreciation of art is intuitive.

What does one look for in a work of modern art? One looks for visual form that stimulates our aesthetic sensitivity. One looks, is receptive, and becomes creatively involved in a communion with the artist through the work of art. If we look for immediate intellectual understanding in a painting, we may be disappointed. If we allow a painting to evoke our emotional response, we may discover a new dimension to the self.

Imported Windmill Is City's Biggest Story in 1964

ARTIST'S SKETCH — Here is an artist's sketch of the Windmill Island Recreational Project which will be ready for Tulip Time in 1965. The mill, imported here from Vinkel, the Netherlands, is a grain grinding type and products will be sold. The development also calls for a miller's house and barn, tulip fields, gardens, dikes and other authentic Dutch touches. Money paid by visitors will retire revenue bonds of $450,000.

UP SHE GOES! — Workmen hoist a 42-foot structural section of the Dutch windmill De Zwaan into place atop a new red brick base on the Windmill Island site on the banks of Black River. The huge timbers were put into place Dec. 14, a bitterly cold day, in the presence of city officials and special guests. The brick base of 28 feet is atop a 10-foot mound of dirt and the windmill when completed will rise some 85 feet from the ground level, plus another 40 feet when sails are up.

DUTCH SHIP ARRIVES — The Dutch freighter Prins Willem van Oranje arrived in Muskegon Oct. 5 with the dismantled windmill De Zwaan from the Netherlands. Formal presentation to the people of Holland was made at ceremonies that evening in the presence of Holland officials, Dutch dignitaries, tourism leaders and others. The dismantled mill weighing some 66 tons was loaded onto six local trucks which formed a parade of sorts the next afternoon in Holland.

FROM THE BRIDGE — Capt. Aart Schuijjer watches from the bridge of the Prins Willem van Oranje while the dismantled windmill De Zwaan is unloaded onto docks at Muskegon Oct. 5. Capt. Schuijjer, a sailor for 43 years, has visited Michigan eight or ten times.

IN VINKEL, NETHERLANDS — First steps in dismantling the windmill De Zwaan at Vinkel, the Netherlands, started in June when Jan (Diek) Medendorp started removing cross pieces in the sails of the mill, one of the largest in the Netherlands. The asphalt paper covering will be replaced by wooden shingles after the mill is restored in Holland, Mich.

VINKEL MILL — This is how the windmill De Zwaan looked in its native setting in Vinkel, Noord Brabant, in the southern part of the Netherlands before it was dismantled and brought to Holland, Mich. It is estimated to be 200 years old and had been on the Vinkel site at least 80 years.

SHAPES NEW BEAMS — Jan Medendorp, supervisor of the reconstruction of Holland's imported windmill, chisels a groove into a 30-foot beam that will replace one brought here from the Netherlands. The beam is one of eight uprights that form the mill's framework. This preliminary restoration work was done in the city warehouse on Fairbanks Ave.

An afternoon ceremony in Phelps Hall on Tuesday united in marriage Susan Jane Murdoch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Murdoch of 561 Lawndale Ct., and Lt. Martin L. Ehrlich of Paso Robles, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ehrlich of New York City, N.Y. Judge Raymond L. Smith officiated at the ceremony.

The fireplace was filled with greens and a holiday wreath decorated the mantel. Bouquets of white roses completed the decorations. Mrs. Larrie Clark, pianist, played the traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white velvet gown with a modified sheath skirt and detachable chapel train. Her matching pillbox hat held in place a chapel length veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses.

Miss Eva C. Young attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore an emerald green floor-length gown of silk crepe with an empire waistline. A matching headpiece and a ball of white pompons completed her ensemble. The bridesmaids, Miss Gretchen Steffens and Miss Marthana Bosch, wore royal blue gowns styled like the honor attendant's with matching headpieces and similar bouquets.

Edward H. Ehrlich served as best man. Groomsmen were Richard P. Murdoch and Steven Wissink.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Murdoch selected a cherry silk dress with a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Ehrlich chose a moccasin lace dress with a corsage of white roses.

Lt. and Mrs. Ehrlich greeted their guests at a reception following the ceremony in Phelps Hall. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Arthur Wyman, Mrs. George Heeringa, Mrs. James Ward and Mrs. J. Donald Jencks.

The new Mrs. Ehrlich attended Michigan State University and is enrolled at San Jose State College. Lt. Ehrlich was graduated from Michigan State University. After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in California.

Maroons Fall In 2nd Half; Lose, 74-60

GRAND RAPIDS — Holland Christian's basketball squad dropped its third straight of the season here Tuesday night on the Civic Auditorium floor bowing to a scrappy Grand Rapids Central Christian outfit, 74-60 before a homecoming crowd of 4,000 fans.

Great foul shooting and aggressive second half play on the part of the winning Eagles helped spell defeat for the Maroons who, for the second straight game, faded after building up huge leads. Holland led for over three quarters and at one time enjoyed a 15 point bulge in the second quarter. The Maroons still led by nine at halftime.

Paced by 5'8" junior Mike Phelps, who was cut from the squad last year, Coach Ken Zandee's outfit took over the lead from the Maroons with 7:06 left in the game. Phelps was all over the court with alert play and threw in 30 markers, 11 coming in the final quarter.

At the charity stripe, Grand Rapids connected on 22 out of 27 attempts for a great average, hitting 12 out of 15 tries in the final period. In the final payoff stanza, the alert, opportunist Eagle outfit outscored the Maroons 30-10. With no player taller than 6'2", the winners displayed plenty of desire and great second and third efforts on the boards.

Harold Alferink, Maroon center, and Tom Wedeven, lanky forward, both showed their best form of the season, on the boards and in the scoring department. Wedeven led his team with 18 markers before fouling out in the last period, while Alferink chipped in with 15, mostly on a good one hand shot from outcourt.

Coach Art Tuls succeeded in befuddling the Eagles throughout much of the game and particularly in the first half with a variety of defenses. However much of the damage to the Holland cause came before the Maroons could set up the defense as the Eagles repeatedly beat the Maroons downcourt and then received two and three tries to score.

Grand Rapids used a zone defense during much of the game and added a press in the second half. Holland worked well against the zone during the first quarter and received many good shots. To top it off, the Maroons hit well behind guard Tom Deur and Wedeven to race out to a 20-12 margin at the first horn.

Alferink and Deur combined for seven successive points to boost the Holland lead to 27-12 with six minutes left in the period. With Phelps starting to connect on the fast break, the winners started to whittle the margin a bit, although the Maroons were well in command with their fine offense. A one hander from midcourt at the buzzer cut the Holland lead to 39-30 at halftime.

Fortified by their desire and an effective downcourt press, the Eagles made their move to close the gap to 43-38 midway in the period. However the Maroons rose to the test to score five straight points to build the lead back up to 10 points. Phelps and forward Jim Kett combined to slice the local bulge to 50-44 going into the final stanza.

Several costly errors, particularly in fouls, helped the Eagles knot the count at 50-50 in 30 seconds. At this point Phelps took over at the charity stripe to give the Grand Rapids club its first lead at the 7:06 mark.

Alferink did manage to give the Maroons one more lead at 53-52, but at this point the Maroons began to fade badly.

Although the Maroons only trailed 58-57 at the midway point, they had lost the tempo of the play and permitted the spirited Eagles to race to a 65-57 margin at 3:25. After the losers cut it to 65-60, the winners scored nine game-clinching points in the closing seconds. Wedeven, Deur and guard Larry Klaasen all fouled out in the final minutes.

While Grand Rapids was hitting its fine average at the free throw lane, the Maroons were connecting on eight out of 11. Christian next entertains state ranked Muskegon Christian in a New Year's afternoon game. The prelim begins at 1:30 p.m.

Panthers Lose, 65-62 To Rogers

WYOMING—The West Ottawa basketball team suffered its third loss in a row as they fell victim to the Golden Hawks of Rogers 65-62 before 700 fans at the Rogers gym Tuesday night.

A determined West Ottawa rally in the fourth quarter fell short as they fought from a 15-point deficit in the third quarter to come within three points as the game ended.

Rogers was gradually pulling away in the third quarter and had built up a commanding 44-29 lead with about three minutes remaining. At this point Coach Bonham reached into his bag of tricks and came up with a full court press.

With Dave Vizithum stealing the ball and balanced scoring from the rest of the team, the Panthers began to cut the lead. Vizithum and Arvin Visser each hit for five points to cut the lead to 11 points at the end of the third quarter.

With Rogers leading 50-39, Vizithum stole the ball and drove for a layup to make the score 50-41. Visser then hit from the outside and Bruce Van Huis made a turn around jump shot to cut the lead to five points with 6:09 remaining in the game. Jim Hildreth countered with two free shots to up the lead to seven points.

For the next two minutes both teams matched baskets. Then West Ottawa again cut the lead to five points on a basket by Craig Van Dyke with 4:50 remaining. Rogers increased their lead to seven points at the three-minute mark on a basket by Barry Barr and then went into a stall with 2:55 remaining.

The stall was not effective as Vizithum stole the ball and scored. Dale Boeve followed with two points but he was matched by Steve Minema and the score stood at 64-59.

Van Huis hit for two and Boeve added a free throw to make it 64-62. Hildreth made a free throw with 57 seconds to make it 65-62. The Panthers were not able to get a shot in the last 46 seconds as Rogers controlled the ball.

In the early part of the game the score was tied only twice as Rogers held two and three-point leads throughout most of the first quarter and led 17-12 at the end of the quarter.

Halv Snyder led his team in the second quarter as he scored eight of the 13 points to give Rogers a 32-25 halftime lead.

Coach Howard Geerlings was very pleased with the rebounding of his big front line which included 6'5" Hildreth, 6'4" Snyder and 6'3" Minema. These boys also carried the scoring load for the Golden Hawks as Snyder hit for 23 points, Hildreth for 22 points and Minema for 10 points.

For the first time this season the Panthers received balanced scoring as Van Huis had 15 points and Visser, Boeve and Vizithum each had 13 points.

The next game for the Panthers will be against Grand Haven, an LMAC member, in a non-league game, at the West Ottawa gym on Jan. 8 at 8 p.m.

Officials said Burke lost parts of two fingers of his right hand, had six teeth blown out and part of upper lip ripped away by the blast.

The mishap occurred when 14-year-old Paul MacDonald of Hudsonville, with whom Burke and his brother, Duane, 17, had been hunting laid his .20 gauge shotgun on the floor of the car they were riding in and the gun went off. The injured youth and MacDonald were sitting in the rear seat of the car.

MacDonald told Ottawa County deputies he had removed five shells from the gun before getting into the car but that he had neglected to take the remaining shell from the chamber of the shotgun.
