Review and Comment upon Retiring

MRS. PRINS

"I'm retiring before it's mandatory because I want to live a little longer. Mainly, I want to get acquainted with my grandchildren — 8 of them; four live in Ithaca, New York, where my son, Robert, is a professor of music at Ithaca State Teacher's College. The time is never convenient to visit them — between my husband's work and mine. In retirement we can go when we want to. Also, I want to work in my garden. I'm going to dig up everything in it and start with all new, good stuff, and watch it develop. Four other grandchildren — our daughter's (Peggy Prins De Haan '49), ages two to nine, live in Holland. We want to know them better, too," Prof. Marguerite Meyer Prins '17, head of the French Department, speaking.

"I've taught at Hope College under three presidents — 27 years in all. Under Dr. Dimnent during the 1922-1923 two-year stretch; Dr. Wichers and Dr. Lubbers, 1937 to 1962. I came back to substitute for Nell (Miss Nella Meyer, French Department) for one year in 1937, and stayed 25 years! Changes? From the five day, 20 hour week to 12, 16, 17 hours; from no committee work, to chairman of several of the committees, presently chairman of the Cultural Affairs; during the years I have served on all committees there are except the Administrative, with two terms as chairman of the Library Committee.

"The students: students through the years have been an intrinsically fine group. I think the students of the present have a greater awareness of their opportunities than earlier students, but I'm not sure if they work harder because they are interested in the subject, or for the grade. I have found the work pleasant, and it is because I enjoyed it that I have stayed 25 years.

"In our two-month air trip around the world starting with the World's Fair in Seattle on June 23, ending in Rome in September, we expect to visit parents of Hope students in Japan, and of a girl who is coming to Hope from France in the fall. In Japan we'll visit the families of Mitsu Emori, whose mother, Setsu Matsunobu, graduated from Hope in 1934; Koichi Takasi, Mitsu Kubo and Louise Mak.

"My traveling during my teaching career has been for background as well as for pleasure. My first sojourn was at the University of Besancon in 1921; in 1922, I took a six-week tour of France. Seventeen years later — 1939 — I resumed travel in Normandy and Brittany. During the summer of 1952, I took practical courses at the Sorbonne, including travel in Switzerland, England, and the Netherlands; and courses in civilization at the same university in 1954 included travel in Denmark, Italy, and Germany.

"Since I was teaching Spanish also, my next four trips embraced Spain, Scandinavia, and Germany in 1956; western South America in 1957; Mexico, 1959; Yucatan and Mexico in 1961. Our 1961 trip was entirely different — Japan!"

Peter Prins '20, who has shared many of the former trips with Mrs. Prins, retired from his position with Meyer Music Company this spring also. They will travel around the world together, visit their grandchildren together, and live a little longer!

MRS. BAUGHMAN

Mrs. Norma Hark Baughman celebrated her 50th year in professional music when she retired from her post as assistant professor of voice in the Hope College Music Department in June.

This career began when she won the Springer Gold Medal — the highest achievement award for four years of work at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati. After her graduation, the then Norma Hark was granted an audition with Arthur Hammerstein in New York which resulted in the part of "Conscience" in the allegorical play "Every Woman." After traveling for two years in this role, she went on to light opera, playing in New York and on the road for ten years. In 1926 she married Mr. Stanley Baughman, a professional singer and organist. They worked in radio for CBS and did concert work until they accepted a position with the Westminster Presbyterian Church in 1936.

Mr. Baughman taught vocal music at Hope part time in conjunction with his work at Westminster for two years. After his death, Mrs. Baughman came to teach full time, in February 1947.

Each of her private students during the past fifteen years has been prepared to present a recital. It has often been mentioned by many that Mrs. Baughman taught not only music, but grace and presence also.

Her greatest effort through the years, next to her actual teaching, has been research to find music. Formerly she went to New York City twice a year to search her favorite music houses for appropriate music for Hope College and for each student's voice.

After retirement! Mrs. Baughman plans to teach private students in her home on South Shore Drive.

Colorful and charming describe the career of Norma Hark Baughman. Gracious in all her contacts with her students and her colleagues, it was characteristic of her, on the occasion of her retirement, to present the music department a pair of exquisite silver candelabra to grace the coffee table for receptions after future student recitals.
MR. THOMPSON

"This is a far cry from my start in 1914 — $400 a year in a country school in Ohio!" Prof. Oscar E. Thompson, Head of the Biology Department made this comparative statement at his retirement interview. A graduate of Mt. Union College, Ohio, in 1923, Mr. Thompson got his A.M. degree from Cornell University in 1926. His pre-Hope College days were spent teaching in country schools, a term of service in World War I, and a year of teaching at Mt. Union, 1924-25.

Asked for his reminiscences, Prof. Thompson, twinkle in eye, said, "My reminiscences after 36 years at Hope College — I came in 1926-27 — have to do mostly with the improvements in facilities. When I started the Biology Department was on the second floor, east end of Van Raalte Hall — office, classroom, laboratory. The cat room was in the basement of Van Raalte — now the smoking room — no heat, no water — terrible!

"Faculty members endowed with character stand out in my memory. Dr. Nykerk, for example — he was vice president of a sort. When Dr. Dimment went away — very seldom — Dr. Nykerk took over. He saved all his grievances against the students to act on during those brief days of 'being in charge'."

Most Hope men and women know of the esteem the students felt for Prof. Thompson. Students recognition was 'underscored' in May when he was elected an honorary member of Blue Key (senior men's national honor fraternity), along with Dr. Lubbers, Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra and Dr. Paul G. Fried. It was noted during retirement ceremonies, too, that many of his fellow staff members through the years in the Biology Department, on occasion, made the same remark, "I learned a lot from Mr. Thompson."

To the inevitable question in such events, "What will you do in retirement?", Mr. Thompson responded as though he had been planning this moment throughout his career. "Biology is a good interest to carry over into retirement. It can be a hobby, because there's so much to it. I'll do a little fishing, work in my lilies in the summertime. Summer is no time to travel from this area anyway, and I have all these interests for this time of year. But Mrs. Thompson and I would like to travel to the Pacific Northwest sometime, and we plan to go south to the Gulf of Mexico to see our son who is a marine biologist down there. I reckon we'll keep busy.

"I wouldn't retire now, but my health has bothered me for about five years, and I don't want to hinder the students by absences and such. I've been absent more this year than I have during my 36 years here."

As with all good teachers, the students' interests are first. For that reason, Mr. Thompson retires early.

DR. EDWARD WICHERS Retires

One of the world's outstanding authorities on analytical chemistry, Dr. Edward Wichers, retired from the National Bureau of Standards, U. S. Department of Commerce, on March 31. Dr. Wichers has been an Associate Director for the last four of his 44 years at the Bureau.

Within the past year, Dr. Wichers saw the completion of one of his favorite projects when the physicists and chemists of the world agreed on a single scale of atomic weights. Dr. Wichers was a major influence in the unification. Prior to the adoption of the new scale, physicists and chemists used tables of atomic weights differing by about 275 parts per million. The new scale is based on carbon-12.

During his career at the Bureau, Dr. Wichers centered his interest on platinum metals, rare earth elements, reagent chemicals, and pure substances. He contributed to the development of a complete system for analyzing the platinum metals. His efforts in the analysis of chemical reagents, including the specifications now governing their purchase, are credited with bringing about major improvements in the quality of reagent chemicals used in this country. The standard work on this subject by the American Chemical Society Committee on Analytical Reagents, of which Dr. Wichers was Chairman, is one of his major achievements.

While Chief of the NBS Chemistry Division, Dr. Wichers established the Pure Substances Section. It is largely through the efforts of this group that NBS stands at the forefront of the highly important field of pure substances.

Dr. Wichers' membership in various professional societies and scientific organizations, national and international, indicates the range of his interests in chemistry. In addition to his previously mentioned Chairmanship of the Commission on Atomic Weights, he has been President of the Chemical Society of Washington, and has held important posts in the American Chemical Society. Currently, Dr. Wichers is President of the Commission on Physico-Chemical Data and Standards of the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry, and for many years was a member of the Bureau of IUPAC. He has also served as President of the Inorganic Chemistry Section of the Union.

In 1920, three years after his arrival at NBS, Dr. Wichers was appointed Chief of the section dealing with platinum metals and chemical reagents. From 1948 to 1958 he was Chief of the Chemistry Division.

Among the many awards and honors presented to Dr. Wichers were the 1938 Hillebrand Prize of the Washington Section of the American Chemical Society (received jointly with Dr. Raleigh Gilchrist), and an Exceptional Service Award from the U. S. Department of Commerce in 1952.

Born in Zeeland, Michigan, in 1892, Dr. Wichers received his B.A. from Hope College in 1913 and his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Illinois in 1915 and 1917, respectively.
HONORS to Hope Men

MCA Outstanding Teacher Award
To Chemistry Professor

Dr. Gerrit Van Zyl '18, professor of chemistry and chairman of the department at Hope College, was named one of the six outstanding college chemistry teachers in the United States and Canada by the Manufacturing Chemists' Association, in May.

Dr. Van Zyl, for many years, has carried on studies on the chemistry of thianaphthene, supported by the Research Corporation and the Petroleum Research Fund and sponsored by the American Chemical Society, with students participating.

A member of the ACS Committees on Chemical Education and Visiting Scientists, he is a former president of the Michigan College Chemistry Teachers Association and was an organizer of the Midwestern College Chemistry Teachers Association and of the Hope College Science Alumni Chapter. He was a lecturer at the First College Chemistry Teachers Institute, Laramie, Wyo., and has served on examination committees, Educational Testing Services.

As part of a long-term program of education activity, the MCA in 1959 presented the first of its College Chemistry Teacher Awards. The awards, presented during the Association's annual meeting at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, West Va., June 7, consist of a medal and a citation, accompanied by a $1,000 check.

To be eligible for an award, the chemistry teacher must be nominated by his or her university. He must have 10 years' service in undergraduate teaching in chemistry, chemical engineering or allied courses, but no minimum length of service is required at the institution from which he is named. Professors emeriti are among those eligible.

The five other recipients this year were: Dr. Reuben B. Sandin, University of Alberta; Dr. John Franklin Baxter, Jr., University of Florida; Dr. James A. Campbell, Harvey Mudd College; Dr. Carl M. Hill, Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial State University; and Dr. Harold A. Iddles, University of New Hampshire.

Noted Teacher Honored in New York City

A noted alumnus of Hope College, Dr. James Muilenburg '20, was honored by students, friends, and colleagues at a testimonial dinner held at Union Theological Seminary in New York City on May 5. The purpose of the dinner was to pay tribute to his outstanding contributions in theological teaching and in the field of biblical interpretation.

A present member of Hope's faculty, Dr. Simon J. De Vries, who has been a student of Professor Muilenburg, was on hand to bring the greetings of Hope College.

At the dinner, Dr. Muilenburg was presented a Festschrift in his honor. This is a new Harper publication, Israel's Prophetic Heritage, containing essays by more than a dozen noted biblical scholars.

Dr. Muilenburg, with Mrs. Muilenburg—Mayme Kloote '19—has been at Union Theological Seminary since 1945, where he has established a reputation for himself as one of the world's outstanding teachers and scholars in his chosen field. One of his most widely appreciated writings is his commentary on Isaiah 40-66 in the Interpreter's Bible.
In a last speech, it is foolish to indulge in fanciful might-have-beens or grandiose pipe-dreams. For better or worse, at last one must live with what he has in fact been committed to, and be understood to mean what he has in fact been, not what, for publicity's sake, he might, in retrospect, wish he had been.

The assumption I shall make is that what a person really is is revealed in his spontaneities better than in his careful premeditations. If you want to know yourself, look to your impulses, the inclinations that keep coming up unless you labor to keep them down, or the themes that make the pulse beat faster and the temper rise. I am more sure of what I am against than of what I am for. Every creative move begins as a protest which is clear and sure.

But what is the current of protest, the recurring thing that often makes the hackles rise? I would suppose that it has been so far a battle against all forms of the dehumanization of man. If there is any pattern in the sometimes intemperate outbursts that have marked the years, I must judge that they have all arisen out of quick suspicions that somebody somewhere was threatening somebody's stature as a person, or that somebody somewhere was violating his own best stature as a person. I am not the first and only one to fear this kind of damage from modern culture. If fighting the dehumanization of man is an exciting challenge, it is exciting because in fighting it one stands at the center of the deepest and most pervasive fear and conflict and aspiration of modern times.

Surely among my last prerogatives is this one: that I may say what it is that has mattered most to me. If this has mattered most to me, it must matter much to me that this will also matter most to you, that you will recognize the threats to your humanity and refuse to let them have their way with you.

It could be that when we have gotten this far you will want to ask, "Why not?" or "Why be a man at all?" or "Why this rash of fear at being less than men?" There is nothing more chilling about our times than the ease with which we let that kind of question slide off our tongues. If you have a mind to ask it, I have no other answer than that this must be our unproved but unquestioned axiom: that we must be what we can be and nothing less; that by virtue of being a person you can be one and so must be; or, to paraphrase that old question just a bit: "For what is a man profited, if he gain the whole world and lose his stature as a man?"

The issue of the dehumanization of man or his humanization is not just an issue between Marxist statism and western democracy, or between atheism and religion, or between Catholicism and Protestantism, or between mainstream orthodoxy and sectarian piety, or between an industrialized urban culture and a primitive agrarianism, or between science and the humanities, or between a university and a small private college. If it were that, the solution would be so simple. We would only have to guarantee that everyone would move to America, become a pietistic Protestant, study literature, art and philosophy at Hope College, and then go back to the farm, forever after to enjoy his happy humanity.

But it is not that simple. People have been dehumanized even in America; even pietistic Protestantism can be mechanized; philosophy is a notorious depersonalizer; people have had their humanity squeezed out of them even at Hope College, and a person can degenerate into a thing even on a farm. The issue whether a person shall be truly a person or not does not finally merely set East against West, scientist against scientist, et cetera. The severe test of any culture as a whole and of every institution that forms a part of any culture, is whether when it is done with a man it leaves him a little more a man, with a little more of the Creator's image glinting on his face and beating in his breast.

But even that does not tell the whole story of the burden that culture bears in relation to man. It is sobering to know that everywhere in culture man can be dehumanized, that no part of culture is immune against the risk that it will turn a man into a thing or deface the image. It is even more sobering to know that with every good and creative and necessary upward thrust of culture there come new opportunities and ingenuities for destroying personalities.

If I were a German like Tillich, I suppose I would be talking now about the demonic character of culture, that is, the impossibility of avoiding dehumanization as the price we pay for every move to humanize mankind. But since I am not a German like Tillich but a Dutchman like Calvin, I should talk, not of demons but of depravity, meaning now that we are endowed with an infernal capacity and propensity to prostitute every good thing to this evil end; only, I am not so certain that our dehumanizations are merely wilful and intended, rather than inevitable and compelling.

Alcor Chapter of Mortar Board sponsored a "last chance talk" in April, Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra '35, Professor of Philosophy, was selected to give this unusual lecture in Dimnent Chapel. The idea, not original with Hope students, is that the speaker express his ideas under the assumption that this will be his last opportunity to talk.
This is the continuing and compelling protest and compelling problem: how can we be truly persons?

There are no simple strategies or unfailing panaceas. But do not expect too little either. For we do live by this kind of grace that where the threats of dehumanization are many-faceted, the strategies for rebuttal are many-faceted, too.

This thing only I want to make clear at first, that I really do not care much how you go about becoming genuinely a person, so long as you do. In fact, the strategies cannot be neatly fixed, for becoming a person is a many-pronged thing, and every achievement that moves us closer only opens new challenges to self-transcendence that call for new ingenuities. So, wherever you guess fresh openings lie, look carefully there. If you can find your stature as person in a small school rather than a big one, do not miss the chance. If you can get it by writing a research paper rather than by reading a book, by all means write the paper. If you can become a person more surely by getting into a seminar than by listening to lectures, by all means go for the seminar; or by studying music instead of chemistry, then study music; or by driving a foreign car rather than a domestic car, then drive the foreign one; or by having a dozen counsellors instead of one, do not settle for the one. In honesty I suppose I must also add, even if it hurts, that if you can become a person by trading the Kletz for the "hungry i" in San Francisco, then try the "hungry i" (though in that case, I would like to investigate the Kletz). Or if you are sure this will come by throwing away your razor or wearing a pink polka-dot suit, by all means do it.

But there is a catch. The task of becoming a person is not at all simple, as if achievement were automatically guaranteed each time we did some different thing or devised some new unorthodoxy. To be different is not automatically synonymous with being truly human; and to make some change is no automatic assurance you will improve. If one must worry about the threats of dehumanization or about our indifference to the threats, there must also be deep worry about something else: our readiness to believe that every change is improvement and every new proposal a final humanizing. There is still a vast difference between becoming a spectacle and becoming a person, and between attracting attention by your oddities and becoming human.

I cannot imagine why we have been so coy about using the best hope we have of becoming human — our minds. They can dehumanize, too, but nothing can replace them as devices for humanization. One inference I would hope to be permitted to draw from Jesus' saying, "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he," the inference, namely, that it is by the thinking in his heart that a man must become what he becomes.

There is much more to becoming human than just becoming individual or free. Being human consists much more in a quality of personality than in its independence, which is only a contributing condition in which personal humanity can develop.

I should think, for instance, that a man would be well on the way to being a person if he always meant what he said and always knew what he meant; but to reach this takes a mind. Or if he knew himself in the exact sense that he was able to link whatever he did to some purpose and his little purposes to his big ones. But this also takes a mind to accomplish it.

But you can carry it on from here. What can you do with your mind? You can always use it to study philosophy. But if you do, do it carefully for you can run afoot even there. You had better read Socrates before Aristotle, Augustine before Thomas, Sponza's peroration on the vision of God before his metaphysics and Nietzsche before Hegel, just to make sure that you will know for sure that philosophy is not just disembodied pale abstractions or tidy systems; it is people using ideas simply as tools to fulfill their highest, most compelling hopes as persons. If you are a little careful you may discover for yourself that philosophy is not really a noun but a verb, not a result but a struggle and an aspiration, and no less a struggle and an aspiration when it is logic than when it is ethics or religion or art. Once you are sure that this is so, then you can trust yourself to go on to read the rest, knowing that with a little effort you can discover a little humanity even in Aristotle and Thomas and Kant and Hegel and Whitehead and Russell.

But if you do not dare risking "knowing yourself" and so becoming a person through philosophy, do it your own way; but do it! Maybe you will want to try a real liberal education, not the dead thing you so easily make of it, as if it were a matter of acquiring so many separate facts made meaningless because torn out of the contexts of some human quest to be more truly human. When will we finally learn that education under any name is an illusion so long as it is a matter of accepting what is handed on to you as so much information only so you can pass the same dead stuff on to others who will also pass it on only because you passed it on to them?

Try something else. See science for once not as a routine fiddling around with dead detached items according to cold methods dictated by abstract theories. See science rather as people, always engaged in the dramatic wrestling with stubborn nature to make it give up its secrets and finally its treasure so that people may finally be delivered from want and the fear of want. Or ethics; do not let it ever be detached and wordy theories or debates carried on on stratospheric levels. Ethics is people, people living freely by the good they know but also tirelessly moving on in quest of the better good their intuitions tell them lies somewhere beyond all the goods they have won. Or history; how many ways we have devised of turning this into a travesty! and how readily do we fall for the terrible phrase, "the dead past"; as if the past ever could be dead for us who are alive! History finally is not simple facts and dates, it is people. And they who study it are people, too, trying gloriously to extend the all too tiny span of their lives, by a dramatic and living recapitulation of all that any anywhere have done and thought and dreamed, multiplying their own infinitesimal selves by all the billions who have gone before, and mounting themselves on the mighty shoulders of the past so that they may hurdle forward in new bursts of creativity. And even religion can come alive and make us human when we stop seeing it as merely so many dead propositions organized into logical systems or as a certain kind of nebulous piety. Religion, too, is people, hoping and aspiring and achieving all they possibly can, and then out there where they know the despair of knowing there is infinitely more to be done and learned and no more strength or time to do or learn it, crying up to God for that final fulfillment and that final quietude which a God of mercy is pleased to crown and complete a life of labour.

ALUMNI BOARD

NEW MEMBERS

Four new directors of the Alumni Association were present at the annual meeting of the board on June 2, as well as Lamont Dirks who was appointed to a second three year term from the Muskegon Club.

Ruth De Witt will represent the Class of 1962 for two years. She majored in English and was active in extra curricular activities while on campus. Having worked summers and part time in the admissions office during her college residence, Ruth was a natural for the job she accepted upon graduation, Assistant to the Director of Admissions, Hope College.

Henry J. Kinkema '37 is the newly appointed director from the Kalamazoo Club. He succeeds John Hoekstra '50. A registered pharmacist, Henry is employed at the Upjohn Company. Mrs. Kinkema is the former Lois Ketel, class of 1934. There are three Kinkema children: Robert, Joan and David. The family belongs to Bethany Reformed Church.

The Albany Club appointed Paul Kranendonk '32 to succeed Cornelius Meyer '32. A graduate of Western Seminary, Paul is serving his second church since his graduation in 1954 — Guilderland Center. His former parish was in Marion, New York. He and Cathy Sharp '51 Kranendonk have two adopted babies: Kevin James, 2; Karen Jean, 6 months. Both Paul and Cathy have continued their interest in music since graduation.

Marvin B. Meengs '30 succeeds Lester Kieft '34 as the Science chapter director. Obtaining his M.D. degree in 1934 from Rush Medical College, Marv interned at Harper Hospital, Detroit, and completed a year's residency at Cottage Hospital, Grosse Point, before starting his practice of medicine in Muskegon in 1936. He was Chief of Staff, Hackley Hospital 1957-59 and President of the Muskegon County Medical Society in 1961. He is a member of the consistory of Central Reformed Church and a member of the Muskegon Kiwanis Club. Dr. and Mrs. Meengs have three children: Philip, 18, who will enter Hope in the fall; Nancy, 16; and Stephen, 12.

Dr. John W. Schut with an assistant and ataxia research equipment.

Ataxia Research Progressing

Dr. John W. Schut '42, who has written to many Hope alumni in the interests of the National Ataxia Foundation, wishes to thank all who responded to his appeal so generously. He has sent word that research on this mysterious, debilitating disease is going forward at Glenwood Hills Hospital in Minneapolis.

Dr. Schut, himself a victim of the disease, has conducted extensive research and has found that ataxia usually assails its victims at about the age of 30 and at that moment the victim's life expectancy is about 10 years. He will be joined in this research by a chemist from the University of Minnesota on July 1. The Foundation is registered by the United States Government now, and continued support is hoped for.

Hope Man Publishes

June 11 was the publication date by Westminster Press of Philadelphia of the book, "The Virgin Birth," by Thomas Boslooper '45, minister of the Second Reformed Church of Schenectady.

This is the first historical-critical study of the doctrine of the birth of Christ.

Later the book will be released for European distribution by the S.C.M. Press of London.

A REQUEST

Will anyone who has any of Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer's books for which they have no need, please send them to Mrs. C. L. Fickens, Jr. (Elizabeth Zwemer '21) c/o Overseas Department, 281 Park Ave. South, New York, New York.
Three hundred fifty-three Californians gathered in the main ballroom of the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, on March 24 in the interests of Hope College. Upon the request of California alumni for a Spectacular—such as the record breaking dinner at the Waldorf Astoria in New York City in April 1961—Dr. Lubbers organized a pilot program for the 1962-63 Alumni Fund, patterned after the Looking Ahead with Hope program.

After traveling great distances via all the California freeways, 353 alumni, Reformed Church members, and friends enjoyed an Ambassador dinner and a program planned by co-chairmen, Rev. LeRoy Nattress '27 and Prof. William E. Welmers '36.

Dr. Lubbers gave the address of the evening designed to inform many about Hope College, and review its struggles and victories for alumni.
Others participating in the program were Miss Judith Nattress, daughter of Le Roy, who sang expertly giving evidence of her fine music education at UCLA; Rev. John M. Vander Meulen, D.D. '26; The Honorable William P. Hasselman, Consul General of the Netherlands at Los Angeles; Rev. William Miedema '50; Mabel Vander Linden Biel '45; Roger Voskuyl, Ph.D. '32; and William Welmers.

Approximately $20,000 had been contributed by this group to the Alumni Fund up to press time with the possibility of more. This program was requested by California alumni because they wanted their west coast friends and others to be informed of the stature of Hope College through the number of people gathered, type of program presented, and the actual story through the one most able to speak for their alma mater, Hope's president.

News Review

Hope College President Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers announced his retirement, effective February 1, 1963, at the close of the school year, after nearly 18 years in the presidency. The Board of Trustees, at its annual meeting, honored Dr. Lubbers' request for retirement. He had deferred a decision to retire for the past several years, because of the board's request that he remain for the duration of the Looking Ahead with Hope campaign.

A future issue of the Alumni Magazine will attempt to do justice to Dr. Lubbers' term of leadership.

Thomas M. Pool, a sophomore this past year, has been awarded a $2,125 scholarship for a year's study in Freiburg, West Germany, with the Institute of European Studies. The scholarship, awarded on the basis of superior scholastic achievement, will enable Tom to continue his studies in languages and literature in German taught classes without disrupting his college career. Tom comes from a Hope family: Rev. Gerard C. '26 and Lillian Schmidt '27 Pool are his parents; "Nick" Pool '56, his brother.

Beula Kampen, a senior next year, will spend the summer in France with a French speaking family by reason of an award with the Experiment in International Living National Foundation. Beula is a French major who is studying Spanish and Russian also.

Robert D. Jaenig '63 was selected the 1962 Community Ambassador from Holland. Bob will go to Nigeria, Africa, live with a Nigerian family, tour the country, and report back to Holland on his experiences. Bob is an English major intending to continue in graduate work following his graduation in June, 1963. He plans to combine careers in journalism and college teaching. He has been a part-time reporter-photographer for the Holland Evening Sentinel and a staff announcer for radio station WHTC for the past five years. He was employed during the summer of 1961 with the Cleveland Edition of the Wall Street Journal, under a Newspaper Fund Internship scholarship.

Hope College is one of the first colleges in the country to put an electronic device, called a telemicroscope, to use in the classroom. Recently acquired by the college on the recommendation of Dr. Philip Crook, Associate Professor of Biology, it is being used in demonstrations and experiments. "The heart action of a frog, for example," said Dr. Crook, "which formerly could be observed by only a few students, can now be observed by a whole classroom over a television screen." Next fall the biology departments of all the MIAA colleges plan to visit Hope and observe the telemicroscope in use.

Miss Mary Berghorst, a junior from Zeeland, was crowned May Queen at ceremonies in the Pine Grove on May 4. The six members of her Court are: Abla Antar, Tuckahoe, N. Y.; Sharon Cady, Allegan; Maurine Haas, Grand Rapids; Mary Ann Iperlaan, South Holland, Ill.; Sakiko Kanamori, Kochi, Japan; and Marcia Spaan, Grand Rapids.

Junior women "tapped" for Mortar Board, senior women's honor society, on May Day are: Lynne Adams, North Clymer, N. Y.; Kristin Blank, Three Rivers; Donna Davis, Catskill, N. Y.; Barbara Walvoord, Oradell, N. J.; Judy De Ryke, Grand Rapids; Jean Louret, Hingham, Wis.; Marcia Meengs, Chicago, and Mary Peelen, Kalamazoo. The last four were honorary members of the Queen's Court.

Honorary memberships were awarded to Dr. Irwin J. Lubbers, Prof. Oscar Thompson, Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra, and Dr. Paul G. Fried.

The First Reformed Church of Schenectady has announced a $700 scholarship to be awarded to a foreign student attending Hope College. The recipient will be chosen on the basis of his academic performance and contribution to campus life. He should preferably be someone who has come to Hope from one of the RCA areas and plans to return to his homeland after graduation.

A new sorority, Kappa Delta Chi, has been organized on Hope's campus. Six juniors, eighteen sophomores and eleven freshmen have been initiated into it.

Miss Carole Closterhouse, a sophomore from Indianapolis, has been accepted into a program sponsored by the United Presbyterian Church. This acceptance will enable her to study at the Beirut College for Women in Beirut, Lebanon. Miss Closterhouse will begin her year of foreign study in the fall, traveling round-trip by ship and stopping in Italy for 10 days and also in Egypt. She plans to spend Christmas vacation in the Holy Land. She will be one of 53 students from various American colleges studying in Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Europe and Latin America under the program. The college, founded in 1924, is a liberal arts school with an enrollment of 420 students from the Middle East. It is closely associated with the American University of Beirut and the near East School of Theology.

The 1962 Mission Drive by the students netted $1600 for Voorhees College (India) grants. This amount will support three students at the college for four years. The Drive this year engendered lots of interest and lots of participation through a "work project" and a Shakespeare Marathon.

The four finalists for the G. E. College Bowl are Nancy Sonneveldt, Grand Rapids; Gerry Wolf, Northfield, Ill.; Michael Snyder, Benton Harbor, and Herbert Tillema, Arlington, Va. Robert Tigelaar, Birmingham, is alternate.
Inasmuch as the appearance has been scheduled for October 7, rather than the tentative June date, Tigelaar will move into Miss Sonneveld's place, because she will not be able to appear after graduation. Tom Werge, North Bergen, N. J., will become alternate.

The selection of the final team was based on a number of factors. Using the results from two written tests and two oral practice sessions, a faculty committee selected the team on the basis of these tests and also on the basis of the majors of the semi-finalists. Thus, a person with a high over-all average may have been passed over in favor of a person whose average was not quite as high but who was particularly strong in one field. Members of the faculty committee were: Mr. Philip Van Eyl, psychology department; Dr. Edward Savage, English; Rev. Lambert Ponstein, Religion; and Mr. Gerald Kruyf, Public Relations.

Tuition will be raised by $25 a semester and room by $15 a semester for the academic year 1962-63. The cost of tuition, room and board for the year will be $1480, $80 more than last year. The reasons given for the raise by Henry Steffens, college treasurer, and John W. Hollenbach, vice president, are two: general maintenance costs have increased and faculty salaries must be increased to meet competition from other institutions.
