WE SALUTE YOU, ADMIRAL HADDEN!

In late June Mayo A. Hadden, Jr., a captain in the U.S. Navy, was one of 29 captains selected for promotion to rear admiral by the Flag Selection Board in Washington, D.C.

Admiral Hadden's achievement to this high rank in the service of his country is an honor to him and to his Alma Mater, Hope College. We salute you, Admiral Hadden.

Rear Admiral Mayo A. Hadden, Jr., USN, currently on duty in the office of Politico-Military Affairs, Department of State, will leave for Keflavik, Iceland, in January to become Commander Iceland Defense Force.

A 1938 graduate of Hope College, Admiral Hadden's 27 years of distinguished service in the Navy began in 1941 when he left a position as sales promotion manager for the Spring Air Company, a bedding manufacturer.

After receiving his commission as an Ensign in the Naval Reserves as an aviator in 1942, Admiral Hadden participated in the invasion of North Africa, flying from the USS Ranger, and in many Pacific campaigns from the USS Essex. Admiral Hadden is a fighter pilot Ace with eight aerial victories. Among his other decorations, he wears the Silver Star, three Distinguished Flying Crosses, three Air Medals, three Purple Hearts, the Navy Commendation Medal, and the Presidential Unit Citation.

In 1944, Admiral Hadden became a fighter-type instructor, forming and commissioning new squadrons. His progressive duty assignments included Air Officer, Executive Officer, and Commanding Officer of fighter squadrons; Aide to Commander Naval Air Military Center; Air Operations Officer of a commander carrier division; Head, NATO and Worldwide Aviation Branch, Military Assistance division, in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

Admiral Hadden then served as navigator of the USS Yorktown; then on to duty in the plans division of the staff of the Commander in Chief of the U.S. Pacific Fleet; then Head, Atlantic and Caribbean Command Combat Plans Branch, Joint Chiefs of Staff; on to Commanding Officer of the USS Graffias, followed by the same office of the USS Hornet.

Under Admiral (then Captain) Hadden's command the USS Graffias established new ship-to-destroyer records six successive times including the present Pacific Fleet record; and while in command of the Hornet the ship won the coveted Battle Efficiency Pennant for being the outstanding antisubmarine aircraft carrier in the Pacific Fleet.

Admiral Hadden has also taken courses at George Washington University in International Affairs. During the academic year 1965-66, he served as the U.S. Navy Fellow in the Center for International Affairs at Harvard where his primary research fields were the Relationship Between Science and Public Policy, and the Military Aspects of Oceanography.

In his new assignment, Admiral Hadden will command all the NATO and U.S. Military Forces in Iceland. In the NATO chain of command, as Island Command Iceland; in the U.S. chain, as Commander Iceland Defense Force. The headquarters of both commands are located at the NATO Air Base, Keflavik.

Admiral Hadden is married to Lorain Grant of Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Mrs. Hadden attended Hood College in Maryland and the University of Wisconsin. They have four children: Captain Mayo A. Hadden, III, U.S. Army Reserve, recently with the 5th Special Forces Group in Vietnam, and now stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington; Michael G. Hadden, a seaman in the U.S. Merchant Marine; Jon Marta (Mrs. Donald D.) Winter, whose husband is an Army helicopter pilot now in Vietnam, currently a senior at Michigan State University; and Merry Lorain, a junior in high school. The family resides at 3103 Worthington Circle, Falls Church, Virginia. Mrs. Hadden and Merry Lorain will move to Iceland with Admiral Hadden in January.

Homecoming Saturday

Homecoming Saturday 1968 sparkled - all the way! The weather was perfect - bright and crisp! The floats in the Parade, designed on the theme "Changing Times" had a professional aura. The Football Team triumphed over Olivet 33-28! Plans by the Homecoming Committee under chairmen Jan Sebens and Bob Klein couldn't have been executed better to please the large number of Homecoming alumni.

But the feature that made it an exceptional Homecoming was the one that because of a great need, had been anticipated the longest: the groundbreaking for the new $2.2 million De Witt Cultural Center. This event followed the Homecoming Parade on Saturday morning, October 19. The ceremony took place at the planned site for the building, east of Nykerk Hall of Music and south of Carnegie-Schouten Gym, on 12th Street near Columbia Avenue.

Kenneth De Groot '45, Board of Trustees member from Newport Beach, California, and the one responsible for the final effort to obtain funds for the Center, was master of ceremonies.

Dick and Jack De Witt, whose gift of $600,000 made possible the groundbreaking, turned the first shovels of dirt.

Others who participated in the ceremony were President Vander Werf, Student Center President Ronald Hook; Holland Mayor Nelson Bosman, and Bruce Neckers '66 and Preston Maring '67 who were active in beginning a student drive for such a center in 1964.

The De Witt Cultural Center will include a theater, an art gallery, classrooms, bowling alleys, game rooms, the college bookstore, and several lounges.

Homecoming Concert

The Homecoming Concert of French Music in Dimnent Memorial Chapel on Sunday, October 20, was another Homecoming gem.

Presenting the pleasant and perfect concert were four members of the Music faculty: Charles Aschbrenner, pianist; Norman Jennings, baritone, accompanied by Jantina Holleman, pianist, and Roger Davis, organist.

It was Mr. Jennings' debut on the Hope campus. With Music degrees from Kansas City Conservatory and Indiana University, Mr. Jennings has sung in many cities in Europe while living in Vienna for three years. At the close of his three numbers, a "bravo" was heard above the applause.

The response to Mr. Aschbrenner's two Debussy numbers, and Mr. Davis' "Premiere Symphonie pour Grand Orgue" by Vierne was most enthusiastic. Mr. Aschbrenner and Mr. Davis are old favorites with alumni, students and townsfolk since they have been on the Music faculty since 1963.

HOMECOMING KLETZ CONCERT

The shock of Stanley Harrington's death changed the program at the Fourth Annual Homecoming Kletz Concert. Usually a gay and playful event, such a program could not go on on that Friday evening, October 18. Participants ready to perform asked to be excused.

Inasmuch as Mr. Harrington's death had occurred at noon on Friday, the program turned most naturally into a memorial tribute to him. The band played a number in tribute, and then as if by design the Chapel Choir plus the choir alumni were standing by to join with the band, directed by Prof. Cavanaugh, in the "Battle Hymn of the Republic". The Choir sang with hearts and souls "to Stanley" which brought the large audience to its feet in a standing ovation! Stanley Harrington had been a member of the Chapel Choir, its president for a year.

THOSE DE WITT BROTHERS

From this striking new office building in Zeeland, Michigan, Jack, chairman, and Dick, president, administer the Big Dutchman, Inc. Their business is the world's leader in automated egg, poultry and livestock equipment and systems, doing approximately $50 million volume of business a year.

A member of President Johnson's Export Council, Jack understands the importance of maintaining American business in all the countries of the free world. He understands this because Big Dutchman has its equipment in every country of the civilized world. To undergird the statement a few inclusions in "every country" are Finland, Argentina, Peru, South Africa, New Zealand, U.S.-S.R., Mexico, Austria, Bulgaria, Japan, Egypt, and of course the Netherlands.

Starting their business in 1936, the brothers developed a reliable automatic feeding system in 1938 which led to their worldwide market beginning in Holland in 1958.
THOSE DE WITT BROTHERS

Their memories of their own days at Hope College are deep!

Jack entered Hope Prep in 1924 at the age of 12, the youngest student on campus at the time. Following his years in the Prep school he entered the College in 1928, majored in History, was a member of the Emersonian Fraternity - its president in his senior year; was president of his class in his junior year. He served on the anchor staff, managed the Basketball team and was a member of the H Club.

Dick's Hope memories center around his four years in Prep. He took his advanced education in the United States Navy. When contacted by the Alumni office and asked about his days in the Prep, Dick responded immediately with words of great appreciation for his teachers during those years 1927 to 1931.

Apparently Dick has carried instruction from those teachers with him through the years. He greeted Mr. Edward Wolters in German and said the German he had learned from Mr. Wolters had served him well in his dealing with German business men.

He recalled also his enjoyment of Dr. De Graaf's literature classes. Evidently literature and German were preferable subjects for him. He told his History teacher, Miss Adelaide Dykhuizen, that though he enjoyed her class, History was not his favorite subject. He mentioned having had the late Mr. Garrett VanderBorgh as a teacher also. With the exception of Mr. VanderBorgh, his Prep teachers assembled with him at the Alumni House to review those years through the medium of the 1930 Milestone.

It is evident in talking with Jack and Dick that they have followed their Alma Mater's progress through the past thirty-some years with pride and affection. Was it memories of their own student years that prompted their making the largest gift ever received by their Alma Mater - to provide a more complete environment for today's Hope students?

Miss Adelaide DyKhuizen

Richard De Witt, as his name was written in the High School section of the 1930 Milestone, recalled his membership in the Metaphone Society and his participation on the Debate team when he met Prof. Edward Wolters and Dr. Clarence De Graaf at the Alumni House. The Alumni Secretary, Marian Styer, was interested too for she had done her practice teaching in the High School with Dr. De Graaf as critic teacher and Richard De Witt as a student in the class.
RUSSIAN TOUR
by George Arwady

George Arwady and Charles Lang in front of the University of Moscow. George Arwady, a senior from Bergenfield, N.J., is editor of the anchor.

The students participating in the Russian Tour of the Hope College Vienna Summer School discovered this summer that traveling from Berlin to Warsaw can be considerably more difficult than traveling between Holland and Chicago.

East German police removed the 22 of us from an international train in East Berlin just as we were beginning our trip behind the Iron Curtain. The communist guards said our group did not have the proper visas and ordered us off the train.

We unloaded ourselves and our baggage from the train we had boarded only minutes before, and stood on the station platform as our transportation to Russia pulled slowly out of the station.

An empty subway train pulled into the deserted station heading back toward West Berlin. Led by history professor Michael Petrovich, we piled our luggage on the train as the communist police

FIVE WEEKS--
TEN CAPITALS
by Fred and Maxine Wight

Fred '49 and Maxine Gregg '49 Wight led two groups of 31 persons each on two separate study tours of five weeks. The groups were comprised of social work personnel from the United States and Canada. Mr. Wight, who has had 16 years in social services in Michigan, is director of Professional Development and training at the Department of Social Services, State of New York (since 1965), in Albany. The first tour was to Western Europe: England, France, West Germany, Switzerland, The Netherlands and Finland. The second tour, about which this article was written, included Russia, Hungary and Poland. Czechoslovakia was to be included but had to be by-passed because of the Russian occupation of the country.

Of all the capitals Moscow made the most profound impression:

- The capital of the largest country in the world with a rich and colorful history, world wide influence, and advanced technological ability.
- A city of spacious squares, beautiful parks, and magnificent architecture.
- A cultural center rich in its heritage of literature, painting and music.
- And, the home for some of the friendliest, most hospitable and helpful people to be found in any city.

It is just one month since our return from five weeks in Europe. It is much too soon for us to have meaningfully analyzed the innumerable thoughts, reactions, and feelings which were generated at an alarmingly fast rate. This process will take us months. It requires an attempt to honestly ap-watched. Fifteen minutes and one more rapid train switch sufficed to bring us back into the center of free Berlin.

Back in Berlin, our group leaders made plans for getting past the troublesome East Germans. The next morning, we flew west to Frankfort, Germany, and then flew east, over the GDR, to Warsaw Poland.

We spent five days in Leningrad, where we saw the majesty of the former Czarist state and felt a little of what it is like to live in modern communist Russia.

We visited the Winter Palace of the Czars, which was also the last seat of power of the provisional democratic government in 1917. Today the old palace, renamed the Hermitage, is one of the world's largest museums, boasting both Russian art and fine collections of the work of artists such as Da Vinci, Rembrandt, Rubens and Van Gogh.

Our Summer School group viewed the former glory of the Russian Orthodox Church in the beautiful cathedrals of Leningrad. The atheistic basis of the new Socialist state was evident everywhere, as almost all the cathedrals visited were state (Continued on page 22) praise what we saw and experienced. In some instances this results in conflicts with our long held biases, prejudices and misconceptions. That it is easier to hold fast to these old notions there can be no doubt. But we continue to struggle with the process of evaluating and modifying them in the light of new information.

Since we have not yet sorted out the deeper meanings of all our experiences we will share our observations and impressions without arriving at conclusions.

The tremendous range of architecture, from the ancient buildings of the Kremlin to the mammoth modern Russian Hotel with 6000 rooms, creates an overall impression of majestic beauty. One is soon aware that there are other elements which contribute to this impression. The wide boulevards, the numerous parks, the plentiful assortment of trees and shrubs, and the absence of any litter.

Moscow is beyond doubt the cleanest city we have visited—including the beautiful Dutch cities of Amsterdam and The Hague. Each morning we were awakened by the swishing of brooms outside our hotel room window, which was one block from Red Square and the Kremlin. The cleaning began early in the morning and continued throughout the day.

Even the subways were spotlessly clean and beautiful. The "metro" system in Moscow is as impressive and awe inspiring as many art galleries. A series of murals cover the walls which are glistening white. The beauty is accentuated by the brilliance of the numerous chandeliers. Every station has several huge statues as well as murals which memorialize important personages or depict outstanding events in Russian history. The 1917 Revolution and Lenin being the two dominant themes.

The subway cars are the most modern—the service exquisite. Trains run at 60 second intervals during peak hours. Even the updated and extensive "metro" system of Paris, of which Parisians are justifiably so proud, looks drab and unattractive in comparison.

We explored Moscow quite thoroughly by taxi, boat, bus, metro and on foot. The fact that we had the freedom to go individually any place we wanted to, any time of the day or night was a surprise to us. There was not the slightest restriction imposed upon our activity and we took full advantage of the freedom we had. Much to our surprise we found no "slums" or "ghettos" as we know them in this country.

PAUL FRIED HONORED BY AUSTRIA

Dr. Paul G. Fried, director of International Education at Hope College, received the Austrian Gold Medal of Merit at the Homecoming meeting of the Second Century Club, October 18.

The award, the highest Austrian public service honor bestowed on a non citizen, was presented to Dr. Fried by Austrian Consul General Norman H. Birnkrant of Detroit.

Dr. Fried is the founder and director of the Hope College Vienna Summer School. More than 600 students (366 Hope students and 275 students from 137 other colleges and universities) have studied in the Austrian capital since its beginning in 1956.

A long time advocate of exchange programs involving European and American students, Dr. Fried is a member of the Board of Directors of the Council on International Educational Exchange. Last year he was elected to the executive committee of the Institute of European Studies Council.

Dr. Fried, born in Leipzig, Germany, emigrated to the United States in 1939. His uncle, Alfred Fried, won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1911, and his father was a newspaper editor in Berlin who vigorously campaigned against Adolf Hitler in the 1932 election in Germany.

After enrolling at Hope College in 1940, Dr. Fried entered the United States Army in 1942. During the war he was promoted to Staff Sergeant and awarded the Bronze Star and a Certificate of Merit.

In 1945 Dr. Fried returned to Hope and was graduated cum laude in June 1946. He received his M.A. in History from Harvard University in 1947. He then returned to Germany to accept the post of chief of the Translation Section for the Foreign Office Case of the Nuremberg War Tribunal.

Dr. Fried received his Ph.D. from the University of Erlangen, magna cum laude, in 1949 and did post-doctoral research at Harvard. He joined the Hope faculty in 1953.

VIENNA FUND ESTABLISHED

Seven Vienna Summer School alumni met with Dr. Fried in New York City last month to lay the groundwork for an endowment to be designated The Vienna Fund. The purpose of the fund is to bring Austrian and other international students to study on the Hope College campus.

Dr. Fried said "the new scholarship program offers an exciting project for a two-way opportunity to increase intercultural contact and understanding. It will make study at Hope College possible for a student from Austria who might not otherwise be able to come to the United States and at the same time the presence of such students will give an added international dimension to the campus community."

The Vienna Fund will also fulfill the long standing ambition of the College to reciprocate for 13 years of hospitality shown to Hope students by Austrian citizens.

Many alumni of the VSS have maintained an interest in the program over the years and will be the force behind The Vienna Fund. When the seven alumni met last month, it was announced that one alumnus from every summer session has volunteered to raise funds from other student participants for his year.

Austrian Consul General Birnkrant started the fund on its way following his first duty of bestowing the Gold Medal of Merit upon Dr. Fried, by making another presentation - a sizable check to The Vienna Fund.

John P. Tysse, an assistant director of Development at Hope College and an alumnus of the VSS is serving as coordinator of the program.
Margaret Greenshields '62 directed the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial summer program at the First Church in Albany (Reformed), New York. The $4,000 program, funded by members and friends of the church, featured a Vacant Lots program at five inner city lots and playgrounds. Bible School was conducted in the morning and an evening program was held at which movies were featured as well as speakers on Negro history, discussions concerning community problems and community picnics. Over 700 children were enrolled in the week-long programs.

Another aspect of the program was the Backyard Bible Schools in the afternoon. Six First Church families living in the suburbs of Albany invited neighborhood children to their homes to be joined by a carload of children from the core city. This program received recognition by the New York State Teachers Association, Department of Research.

Bus trips for children living near the church and for children participating in the Vacant Lots program were held each Saturday. Over 400 children visited various parks and cultural centers. A two-week vacation Bible School was also held in the church midway through the summer.

Assisting Miss Greenshields were Mr. John H. Jenner '63, educational assistant at the church, who served as Field Director; Mr. Robert Fialko '64, a staff member was in charge of the afternoon sessions; the Rev. William Cameron '57, associate pastor, adviser, and Valerie Wight, daughter of Fred '49 and Maxine Gregg '49 Wight, a volunteer.

Miss Greenshields and Mr. Fialko were cited by the North Colonie Central School district for their outstanding summer work.
1968 ALUMNI TOUR

Appearances to the contrary notwithstanding, this group just embarking on a three weeks tour to Scandinavia, Prague and Vienna, are not as happy and comfortable as they look. They have just arrived at Kennedy Airport three hours late, the temperature is 98 degrees, the airport is crowded with passengers trying to make alternate arrangements for those missed by have to “hold” over here and there because of excessive air traffic at Kennedy.

The group of alumnae did make their trans Atlantic Pan Am flight, and from that point onward had a perfect trip, even the weather was excellent, until their return to Kennedy Airport where air traffic was still causing delays and frustrations.

The three weeks of concentrated sightseeing included breathtaking scenery, such as the Norwegian fjords; delightful cultural achievements including the Milles Gardens in Stockholm; European gayety as at Tivoli in Copenhagen, and fabulous opportunities for shopping.

A high point for everyone was meeting Colombe Bosch ’23 Heimburger in Stockholm and spending the evening with her. A classmate of Frances Mills VandenBosch, Colombe also had many friends of college days in the group. It was also exciting for the group when they found themselves in the same hotel in Bergen, Norway, with Barbara Granberg ’67 and her husband Dan Joldersma, also Nelda Prothro ’66.

To be in Prague when the conversations for “peace” were going on in Bratislava was an interesting experience for tour members. Prague was busy and much brighter on August 1 and 2 than it had been when the writer was there four years ago.

It was like going home for Hope alumnae to arrive in Vienna and be met by Paul Fried, director of the Hope College Vienna Summer School for 13 years. Four days of Viennese hospitality and food coupled with a program arranged by director Fried were a fitting close to three weeks of education and pleasure for the participants in the 1968 Hope Alumni Tour.
Dr. Joseph Zsiros retired from his post as professor of Greek in September to accept the pastorate of the Hungarian Reformed Church in Kalamazoo.

Members of the College faculty paid tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Zsiros at the annual opening dinner. President Vander Werf and Rev. Eugene Osterhaven, professor of Systematic Theology at Western Seminary spoke honoring Dr. Zsiros.

Rector and professor of Old Testament at the theological faculty of Sarospatak College in Sarospatak, Hungary, Dr. Zsiros accepted an invitation in 1947 to serve for one year as a visiting lecturer at Hope College. The Communist takeover of Hungary made it impossible for him to return in 1948, so he continued on the Hope faculty until 1950 when he accepted a pastorate in the Hungarian Reformed Church in Racine, Wisconsin and later Toledo, Ohio. He returned to the Hope faculty in 1956.

After World War II the students of Hope adopted Sarospatak College and with the aid of the Holland-Zeeuwn communities provided tons of food, books and equipment to the war devastated institution. Sarospatak, founded in 1531 as the first evangelical school in that part of Europe, celebrated her 400th anniversary in 1967.

Mr. Osterhaven, a member of the Hope faculty at that time, was to have spent a year at Sarospatak while Dr. Zsiros was in the United States, but was unable to do so because of the Hungarian Revolution.

Born in Hungary near the present Czech border, Dr. Zsiros studied at the universities of Berlin, Debrecen in Hungary, and Pennsylvania in the United States before joining the faculty of Sarospatak College.

"The movement of Dr. Zsiros between school and church shows his profound interest in both institutions," said Mr. Osterhaven in his tribute. "Blessed with an excellent mind and educational advantages second to none, Dr. Zsiros' first loyalty has been to Jesus Christ and his church. With mind and heart Joseph has served God and man."

Dr. and Mrs. Zsiros have a son, Alexander, who resides in Gary, Indiana.

FLASH ANNOUNCEMENT

As we go to press, announcement has just been made that Dr. Christiaan Barnard of South Africa, the doctor who performed the first successful human heart transplant, will deliver an address at a special convocation in Dimnent Memorial Chapel on November 23. He will be presented an honorary Sc.D. degree by Hope College. Dr. Barnard, the son of a minister in the Dutch Reformed Church of South Africa, teaches surgery at the University of Cape Town and directs research at Groote Schuur Hospital.

TWO GIFTS IMPROVE HOPE'S PROGRAM.

Upon receiving a gift of a 35 foot express cruiser, Hope College officially launched an inter disciplinary marine program.

Mr. Edwin Raphael, president of the Edwin Raphael Co. Inc., a drapery manufacturing firm, presented the keys to the boat, "Infinity Hope" to President Calvin A. VanderWerf in mid September. The craft is an Owens Flying Bridge cruiser equipped with two 210 horsepower engines. Its cabin has sleeping accommodations for six and a complete kitchen. It is equipped with its own power generator, a ship to shore radio and a depth finder.

The cruiser will be of special benefit to the Geology department which has an oceanographic study course. Dr. Cotter Tharin, department chairman, said that practical experience on the boat will allow students to study the water qualities, currents and bottoms of both Lake Michigan and Lake Macatawa, adjacent to Hope College.

The Geology department, founded just two years ago, added a second member to the staff this fall. He is Dr. William French, an experienced oceanographic surveyor. He was a member of the U.S. Navy Oceanographic staff and was in charge of scientific personnel on the naval research vessel Silas Bent in the Western Pacific before joining the Hope faculty.

Dr. David Klein, of the Chemistry staff, will return after a years leave-of-absence with plans to use the cruiser in his work. He is currently conducting research in the field of chemical oceanography at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography in La Jolla, California.

L. to R.: Edwin Raphael, Mrs. Raphael, Dr. Tharin, President VanderWerf and Dr. French.
Through a generous gift of the Dewey D. and Hattie Battjes Foundation of Grand Rapids, Hope College has acquired the vacant Holland Rusk Bakery, a building on 8th Street, east of Columbia, in downtown Holland.

The three-story, 43,000 square foot building was purchased from the National Biscuit Co. of New York. This company had discontinued operations at the Rusk Bakery in August 1966.

The college has preliminary plans to convert part of the building for use by the Art department. The Art department is presently quartered in the basement of a dormitory on campus and in other scattered areas.

The Battjes Foundation was founded in 1952 by the late Dewey D. Battjes and his wife Hattie. Members of the Foundation are Mrs. Hattie Battjes, Mr., and Mrs. Donald Battjes, Mrs. Leonard VandenBerg and Mr. Clyde E. Battjes, all of Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Battjes’ son Donald Jr. is a 1968 graduate of Hope and majored in Art. Robert VandenBerg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard VandenBerg, is a Hope sophomore.

ENROLLMENT

Student enrollment for the fall semester rose to an all-time high of 1980 full-time and part-time students. Students represent 33 states, the District of Columbia and 26 foreign countries.

The breakdown by classes: seniors 153 men, 149 women, total 302; juniors 261 men, 216 women, total 477; sophomores 259 men, 255 women, total 515; freshmen 280 men, 309 women, total 589.

Of the 589 freshmen 50, or 8.4% are second generation young people. Names can be found in the class notes under parents’ years.

Foreign students represent Hong Kong, Japan, Canada, Singapore, Burma, Malaysia, Indonesia, South Viet Nam, Germany, France, Switzerland, Great Britain, Finland, Greece, Spain, Chile, Surinam, El Salvador, Colombia, Cameroon, Ghana, Ethiopia, Chad, Tanzania, Trinidad and Korea.

Michigan still leads in state representation with 976. Other leaders include New York with 284, New Jersey 244, Illinois 166, Ohio 49, Pennsylvania 34, and Indiana 33.

The religious affiliation of the students breaks down to Reformed Church in America 1037, Presbyterian 151, Methodist 104, Baptist 75, Christian Reformed 68, Congregational 66, Episcopalian 61, Catholic 49, Lutheran 49, Evangelical United Brethren and Judaism 6 each, Covenant 4, none 14, others 260.

COLLEGE ADMINISTRATION APPOINTEES

Two administrative appointments pertinent to student personnel were made during the summer and announced by Robert De Young, dean of Student Affairs.

Miss Jeanette Sprik was named an associate dean of Students filling a vacancy created by the retirement of Mrs. Isla Van Eenennaam; Michael Gerrie was promoted from director of Men’s Housing to acting associate dean of Students.

Mr. De Young said, “Hope College has moved toward a more functional title for its student personnel administrators in order to broaden their areas of responsibility. In the past, the college has referred to its student personnel administrators as Dean of Men and Dean of Women.

Miss Sprik is a native of St. Clair Shores and was graduated from Michigan State in 1962. For the next five years she was the coordinator of activities for Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship in Ohio. She served as a graduate resident adviser while doing graduate work in student personnel administration at Michigan State last year.

Mr. Gerrie, who served as director of Men’s Housing last year, received his B.A. degree from the University of Dubuque and his M.A. from Western Michigan University. A native of Canada, he was an all-province hockey player in high school. He played goalie for the Minneapolis-St. Paul entry in the professional Central Hockey League while attending the University of Dubuque in Iowa. Upon graduation from college with a Biology major, he taught and coached hockey in high schools in Ottawa and Montreal, Canada. Mr. Gerrie taught in the Bangor, Michigan school system before joining the Hope staff.

Mr. De Young named two administrative appointments pertinent to student personnel. He succeeded Roger Rietberg who has been promoted to associate professor of Music to devote full time to teaching and academic duties.

Mr. Curry came to Hope from Michigan State University where he was an associate director of Admissions and Scholarships. He was also the chief administrator of MSU’s financial aid program. He formerly taught in Homer and Inkster, Michigan, after graduation from Denison University. He has an M.A. degree in guidance and counseling from Michigan State.

Mr. Van Wieren was appointed an Admissions counselor in August. He succeeds Roger Rietberg who has been promoted to associate professor of Music to devote full time to teaching and academic duties.

Mr. Van Wieren was a member of the Physical Education faculty for two years before accepting the new administrative position. He served as head coach of the cross country, baseball and junior varsity basketball teams. He taught in Grand Haven for two years before joining the Hope staff. During student years he was an all-MIAA selection in both basketball and baseball.
THE ARTS AND HUMANITIES

ART DEPARTMENT

Two instructors were added to the department in September. They are Robert Sheardy, B.A. and M.A. in Art History from Michigan State; and David Smith, B.A. University of Massachusetts, and M.A. department of Design, University of Kansas.

Delbert Michel, assistant professor, has received a purchase award in the Butler Institute (Youngstown, O.) of American Art Mid-Year Show for his mixed media watercolor, "Butterfly and Flowers, No. 1." An exhibition of etchings and drawings by Keith Achepohl, assistant professor, was displayed at the Anderson Gallery, Seattle, in October. "Motive" magazine, a publication of the University Christian Movement, carried "Hortus Conclusus," an intaglio etching by Mr. Achepohl in the October issue.

ENGLISH

Dr. Francis G. Fike joined the Hope staff in September as associate professor. Formerly from the English department at Cornell University, Dr. Fike has an A.B. from Duke, a B.D. from Union Seminary, and an M.A. and Ph.D. from Stanford.

Walter Pancki has been appointed a teaching associate under a Great Lakes Colleges Association program. An alumnus of Adelbert College, he is a graduate student at Case Western Reserve University.

Dr. Joan Meuller, associate professor, and the GLCA have been awarded a $8,850 grant by the department of Labor to explore the nature of racism among white college students in order to discover ways of recognizing and eradicating racist attitudes.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Two appointments to the French department are Nelson D. Curtis, assistant professor, and Miss Marjorie Hull, instructor. Mr. Curtis, presently working on his Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin, has a B.A. from Western Michigan University, a diploma d'et from the University of Paris, and an M.A. in French and Philosophy from the University of Michigan. Miss Hull has B.A. and M.A. degrees from Eastern Michigan University.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Wheeler are instructor and assistant, respectively, in the Classical Languages. Mr. Wheeler has an A.B. from Dartmouth, an M.A.T. from Harvard, and an M.A. from the University of Michigan. Herman Voskuil, after 22 years as a member of the Bowling Green State University Economics department, has retired to take a job as visiting professor of Economics at Otterbein College in Westerville, Ohio during the 1968-69 school year.

While on the Bowling Green campus, besides a full teaching load, Mr. Voskuil was a head-resident of a residence hall for ten years, an adviser to a fraternity, active on many committees and a member of the Faculty Senate.

When not teaching in the summer, Mr. Voskuil enjoyed a fellowship with Crowley-Miller's in Detroit, a fellowship with Schio, with the Economics-in-Action at Case Institute, a year as a fellow and one year as an assistant director of the Economics-in-Action program at the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. Voskuil's comment: "Other than enjoyable summers studying at Northwestern University, the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota, thoroughly enjoying teaching at a private academy and at the University, traveling throughout the United States, paddling some twenty-four hundred miles on various canoe trips in Canada, my life has been uneventful."

Mr. Voskuil, who retired as Professor of Economics at BGSU, claims that it is a family tradition not to quit working after retirement, but to move on to a new position. He said, "I am looking forward to a new life and challenge in a small college." His address: 406 Crescent Drive, Westerville, Ohio.

Rev. Raymond C. Lubbers and Mrs. Lubbers celebrated their golden anniversary in the summer. The reception was at the Gibeauville Reformed Church in Wisconsin where Mr. Lubbers had served from 1934 to 1956. The Lubbers are making their retirement home at 325 Sheboygan Falls, Wis., in the Gibesville area to be near their children. The Lubbers formerly served parishes in Albany, N.Y., Penria, Ill., and Cleveland. As a supply preacher, Mr. Lubbers is in great demand and occupies many pulpits of Reformed and Presbyterian churches. During his active career, Mr. Lubbers served on the boards of trustees of Western and New Brunswick Seminaries, United Temperance Movement in Wisconsin, Temple Time, Inner-City Protestant Parish of Cleveland, and as secretary-treasurer of the Presbyterian Ministries Club of Cleveland. Rev. and Mrs. Lubbers have three daughters, two sons, nineteen grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

The Rev. Nicholas T. Keizer retired the first of September after more than 34 years in the ministry, nearly 23 of which were spent at the North Presbyterian Church in Lansing. At his final service, Mr. Keizer's daughter, Winona Willing '59 of Midland, sang a solo with the choir, and his son, the Rev. Thomas D. Keizer '55 of the Fairplain Presbyterian Church in Benton Harbor, assisted his father in a special observance of the Lord's Supper.

Ordained into the Presbyterian Ministry in 1934 at the Heyworth (Ill.) Presbyterian Church, Mr. Keizer, a native of Michigan, began his ministry as stated supply at the Heyworth church. Succeeding pastorate have been the First Presbyterian Church, Chenoa, Ill.; Immanuel Presbyterian Church, Grand Rapids and the North Church in Lansing from 1945 until 1968.

Mr. Keizer has been moderator of four Presbyteries in the Synod of Michigan; the Old Presbytery of Grand Rapids, the Presbyteries of Western Michigan, Lansing, and Grand River of which he is now a member. He also served as chairman of the Foreign Missions of the Synod of Michigan, trustee of the Presbytery of Lansing, and vice moderator of the Synod of Michigan. In addition, he was a member of the Chaplain's Advisory Committee of the Michigan Department of Corrections for 15 years, secretary for two terms and chairman for one. He concluded his service on this committee last spring.

Mr. Keizer has been delegated commissioner to the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church three times during his ministry. This is the highest judiciary of the church. During his pastorate at North Presbyterian Church, the building was completely renovated, a new chapel was created, and dining rooms and a fellowship hall were built. Rev. and Mrs. Keizer are making their home at 2533 Lilac, Holland, Mich. 49423.

J. Oliver Lampen, Ph.D., director of the Institute of Microbiology at Rutgers University, was attending a three-day Second International Symposium on Yeast Protoplasma in Brno, Czechoslovakia at the time of the Russian invasion. In a letter to relatives in Holland, Dr. Lampen said he arrived in Prague and went to Brno about 150 miles southeast of Prague on Monday evening, August 19, with no idea anything was brewing. After a busy first-day conference on Tuesday, he went to bed tired and was awakened at 5:30 A.M. Wednesday by a line of tanks and trucks with soldiers driving past the hotel. He wrote: "I dressed and went downstairs to find a couple of hundred people standing around and watching TV which was actually showing some of the events in Prague. People were weeping, signing petitions supporting the government and singing the National Anthem. The streets were crowded with people standing around with a dazed look. There were, also, two parades of people with Czech flags shouting 'Russians, go home!' As we went into the building for our meeting we heard shots — three young boys were killed in the nearby square. Also tanks charged a crowd and ran over several people. Our meeting went on although everyone was distracted. At noon the 'Free Radio' (which was still running from secret quarters even when we left Thursday) had asked for one minute of silence as a protest. Most of the Czechs stood there with tears running down their cheeks. By noon Thursday most of the meeting had been finished — they were pushing ahead of schedule — and Dr. Falcone of Austria decided to try to drive to Vienna. The border had been closed all day Wednesday but reopened Thursday morning. A number of cars had gone through and the Czechs advised us to leave. About 20 of us from the meeting talked for 15 minutes with a member of the Brno central Communist committee who happened to be in the building. He said the committee had just met and voted a general strike for the next day as a protest against the Russians. We had to drive out of town past some Russian tanks and several bodies of troops. One of our number had a camera with telephoto lens and we managed to photograph some tanks. We reached the border which was guarded only by Czechs and were let through with a very friendly greeting and not even searched. Russian tanks had held the crossing during the morning but had moved to a nearby woods. It was a genuine relief to be in Austria."

Excerpt from the London Evening Standard, July 15, 1968: "A young Oxford don from Nuffield College, Mr. Larry Siedentop, has discovered a painting at a country antique fair which experts believe to be the work of Bartolome Murillo, the 17th Century Spanish painter. They are almost certain that it is an oil sketch which the artist made for his enormous painting 'The Dream of a Roman Senator', which now hangs in the Prado Museum in Madrid. Mr. Siedentop, who teaches political and social philosophy, bought the picture in a remote outpost village several weeks ago for a sum which was 'less than £50.' But it wasn't until sometime afterwards that he realized its true value. 'I bought it because I thought it was interesting. It was when I started to clean it that I realized what it was by. Later I saw the photograph of the Prado picture and felt sure it must be by the Master,' Mr. Siedentop said. Since then he has had it authenticated as a Murillo by a director of Christie's and an expert from the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford (where he has now deposited the painting — which could be worth as much as L10,000 — for safe keeping.) A director of the Prado is expected to see it in the near future."

museums. Today the omnipresent image of Lenin goes from where a crucifix might have hung in former times.

Few of us will forget our beautiful 19-year-old Soviet guide, a dedicated Communist, who told us sincerely that she had never met a young person who believed in God and certainly didn't believe in Him herself. During our time in the Soviet Union, I never encountered anyone or anything which indicated that she might be wrong.

In addition to getting a heavy dose of the communist view of religion, we discovered a good deal about one aspect of Soviet life which isn't too often publicized by Moscow: the black market.

We couldn't leave our hotel without being openly accosted by Soviet citizens desiring to exchange money or buy some of our clothes. The Russian stores lack both quality and quantity of goods by any western standard. An American-made shirt, jacket or dress will bring several times its original cost on the Russian black market. One black marketeer, for example, risked severe penalty under Russian law by attempting to buy the buttons off the dress of one of the coeds.

In addition to clothes, the dozens of black market agents which we encountered offered to exchange Russian rubles at five or six times the official Russian rate in order to get American dollars.

Unlike the Western tour veterans of hearty Bavarian meals, those who visited Russia came back five to fifteen pounds lighter.

The Kremlin and Red Square at night easily rank as the most beautiful sights of all the Russian cities we visited. The tomb of Lenin, with its famous figure preserved for over 40 years, was extremely impressive.

Equally impressive, moreover, were the thousands of people who lined up for hours each day to catch a glimpse of the leader of the Russian revolution. The devotion to Lenin attested to the great success of the Bolshevik experiment.

Not as impressive was the massive amount of red tape which surrounded the communist bureaucracy of the organization planning our group's itinerary. Everything was in triplicate; everything needed to be rubber-stamped; and everything needed final approval by the faceless, impersonal "buro" of the organization.

One of the features of the Soviet tour was the number of agents or "babbysitters" utilized by the Soviet Student travel agency. It was almost impossible to go anywhere without being accompanied by a member of Komsool, the Soviet youth organization. When we traveled by train, it was forbidden to take pictures from the train. Every room in the hotel where we stayed seemed to have a wide crack in the door for easy peering and several Hope students returned to their "locked" rooms to discover complete strangers inspecting their belongings.

After the first few days, we became accustomed to the agents and almost seemed to enjoy being considered important enough to be watched. We even gave our favorite Russian companions nicknames and offered them American cigarettes in return for their constant companionship.

Although these Russians were accepted with good humor, they created an overall air of distrust and oppression which was felt by the entire group by the end of our two weeks in Russia.

I left the Soviet Union with concrete impressions of a powerful industrial state which enjoys the support of its people despite a comparably low standard of living. Christianity is close to dead in Russia; Marxism-Leninism has broad acceptance there; and the citizens accept deficiencies in their standard of living with expectations of improvement in the future and recognition that their lives are materially better than those of most of the world's people.

FIVE WEEKS--TEN CAPITALS

attractions such as a visit to the Kremlin, Lenin's Tomb, the Economic Achievement Exposition, Gorky Street, etc. By far the more memorable events of our visit were the unplanned, spontaneous contacts we had with the Muscovites and other Russians.

On one occasion while returning from the post office where we had picked up the mail for our group, a young Russian stopped us on the street. In fairly fluent English he asked if I was from New York. He indicated that he had noticed that the State of New York was printed on my brief case and then proceeded to tell me about a good friend who lives in Irvington, New York. The young man was from Kiev and enrolled in the University of Moscow studying to be a "sportsman." He was extremely cordial and offered several times to show us around Moscow.

Several mornings while waiting for the Post Office to open for the day, we watched with fascination the steady flow of people coming out of a nearby metro station on their way to work. Except for the differences in the quality and styleness of their clothing, it would be impossible to differentiate these people from the throngs who emerge daily from the New York City subways. They walked crisply and with determination. They evidenced vitality and motivation. They gave every impression of having a mission they were bent on accomplishing.

The ready availability of medical care too was impressive. Two of our tour members developed physical ailments sufficiently serious that medical attention was indicated. In both cases we had a doctor accompanied by a nurse come to the hotel, give complete physical examinations, make diagnoses, and in one case prescribe medication. When we inquired about the charge we were told all medical service is free to anyone needing it --regardless of nationality, residence or any other factors. We did have to pay to have the prescription filled -- a total of 17 kopeks (about 14-15 cents). That was for a one week supply of medication.

We, of course, were interested in such social problems as unemployment, illegitimacy, and juvenile delinquency. The fact that there is no unemployment in Russia is probably a major reason for the absence of "slums." But they too have a serious employment problem -- not enough people for the jobs available.

The Russians in Moscow admit they have juvenile delinquents, but from all indication their juvenile delinquency problems do not reach the magnitude of ours. They have no idle youth inasmuch as they enjoy full employment. Everyone is guaranteed a job by the state. Ample opportunity exists for free higher education for those with the ability and motivation.

Children are born out of wedlock in Russia as they are in other parts of the world, but they are not labeled "illegitimate." Prenatal medical care, delivery, and post-natal medical care are provided free of charge. Because the medical care is free and there is not a strong stigma attached to having a child out of wedlock, unmarried mothers receive excellent medical care. The cost of medical care and the social stigma attached to having a child out of wedlock in this country often serve as barriers to unwed mothers obtaining proper pre-natal care. Unwed mothers receive the same children's allowance which is provided for children born to married couples.

An issue closely related to unwed parenthood and a popular subject today in many parts of the U.S. is abortion. In Russia abortions are legal but are not encouraged. Some may say we have gone "soft on Communism" or that we have been "brainwashed." The superficial descriptions offered here are based on experiential impressions and observations. We have made no attempt in this brief article to evaluate them in relation to the current political system in USSR. Such an attempt would be ludicrous from several standpoints.

We do think it is extremely important that we guard against being emotionally blinded to an appreciation of the rich history and culture of a country like Russia because of the current political system. Need we point out that Moscow for instance predated Communism by over 800 years.

Lending these tours was one of the most significant, interesting and satisfying experiences of our lives. The excitement of the travel, and the exposure to different cultures and life styles was stimulating, the exchange of information, ideas, and philosophies was broadening and resulted in much soul searching.

YOU SHOULD HAVE A WILL
by Randall M. Dekker '47
Zeeland Attorney

It is a curious incident of life that people will work diligently for an entire lifetime, and will accumulate an estate, and then will completely disregard the distribution of this estate upon their death. You may be assured that your estate will be distributed upon your death, either by way of your wishes, or by the law of the state in which you live. You may either die testate, that is to say leaving a Will, or you may die intestate by not having a Will. In the event that you do not take the time to prepare a Will, the state in which you live has prepared one for you, and your estate will be divided by the laws of intestacy. In some cases this law is adequate, however, in many cases this distribution would not be to your liking. It is recommended that you have a Will for the following important reasons:

1. A Will is a flexible document, which you may change from time to time as circumstances change, and which provides for the distribution of your property and assets to those persons whom you elect to leave it to.

2. A Will properly drawn along with a Trust Agreement could provide for a more orderly distribution to your children during their early years in the event of your early death.

3. It is possible that you may have a handicapped person in the family who should receive more than his or her equal share from your estate and in the event you leave the Laws of Intestacy to make the distribution, that will not be carried out.

4. You may in your Will select such persons as you desire, subject always to the approval of the Probate Court, to have the physical custody of any minor children in the event of the early death of the husband and wife.

5. If your estate is sizable, you may eliminate a great deal of Federal Estate Tax which is a steeply graduated tax, by having proper Wills and Trusts executed, which not only will protect your family from undue taxes, but may also protect your family and those persons you are interested in from undue loss due to inexperience in the handling of estate matters.

6. You have the privilege in your Will of naming the executor who is to handle the financial affairs of your estate and to carry out the terms of your Will.

7. By the preparation of a Will you can eliminate misunderstanding among members of your family, and you may specify certain items to certain persons as you wish.

8. Single persons or married people without children are especially vulnerable to the Laws of Intestacy inasmuch as it almost never carries out the wishes of the deceased.

9. Many people today are becoming conscious of their obligations to society and to charity, and for that reason have Wills prepared so that they may leave gifts to charitable institutions.

It is very essential and important that you consult with an attorney of your choice to prepare your Will; lay people do not have the special experience and training necessary to prepare a Will, which is a technical document.

Hope College has adopted an educational gift and estate planning service designed to explain the various methods of making gifts that may be of great mutual benefit to you and your family as well as to Hope College and to future generations. If you would like to receive further information on estate planning or in the making of your Will, I would encourage you to write Mr. John Tyse, Assistant Director of Development, Hope College, Holland, Michigan, 49423.

Stanley Harrington, teacher and artist, was stricken in the faculty lounge, Van Raalte Hall, on September 25 in the early afternoon. Following two weeks of alternating encouraging and disappointing reports, his condition was diagnosed by a neurologist as an aneurysm of a small artery at the base of the brain. Despite loving concern and expert care, Stanley left this earthy life at noon on October 18. Besides scores of students who have been encouraged and inspired through him, he leaves his wife, Jane Gouwens, a classmate in 1958, and a year-old daughter, Anne Elizabeth.

Following his graduation from Hope College as an English major in 1958, Mr. Harrington went to the University of Iowa, Iowa City, to study painting, drawing, and prints and to attain the master of Fine Arts degree in 1961. He taught at Lake Forest High School in Illinois as head of the Art department and instructor in drawing and painting from 1961 to 1963. In February, 1964, he joined the Art faculty at Hope College. He continued to teach at Hope until his death, except for a year's leave of absence during which he and his wife visited the major art museums of Europe.

One of Stan Harrington's main concerns as a teacher was that students be able to see and to study masterworks of art. During his first year at Hope he set up a gallery on the mezzanine of Van Zoeren Library where exhibitions on loan could be displayed. The first exhibition he arranged, in October 1964, included original prints by Rembrandt, Durer, Rouault, and Picasso.

It is fitting, therefore, that an art collection to be known as the Harrington Memorial Art Collection has been established at the college to perpetuate the memory of Stanley Harrington. The initial works in the collection will be donated by close friends of the artist, according to Art department chairman Delbert Michels. These 12 or 15 works will be displayed in a memorial exhibition in Van Zoeren Library during the month of November. Also in the exhibition will be a number of Mr. Harrington's most recent paintings, some unfinished.

The Memorial Collection will be enlarged through the purchase of original works with funds from the newly established Harrington Memorial Art Fund, for which contributions are now being received by the college. The works selected for the collection will be the property of Hope College and will constitute a distinct group of works, although they will frequently be exhibited with the permanent collection of the college.

While he was a student at Hope, Stan Harrington served as art editor of Opus and of Milestone; he was member of Blue Key, chapel choir, the Fraternal Society, and the college theater group. As a tribute to Mr. Harrington, the Hope College Theater presented two special benefit performances of their production "Under the Gaslight" by Augustin Deley. Proceeds from the October 30 and 31 performances went to the Harrington Memorial Art Fund.

Stan Harrington was an active artist right up to the time of his last illness. During the past nine years his paintings hung in exhibitions in Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Des Moines, Iowa; the Joslyn Museum in Omaha, Nebraska; the Detroit Institute of Arts; the Kalamazoo Institute of Arts; and in a National Small Painting Exhibition at the University of Omaha. In January of this year, 35 of his gouache and acrylic paintings comprised a one-man show at Valparaiso University.

Funeral services for Mr. Harrington were held in Dimnent Memorial Chapel on October 21. Dr. David Clark, History department, Rev. William Hillegonds, college chaplain, and Dr. Donald Bruggink, professor of Historical Theology at Western Seminary, officiated.
