The Signal Gun.

On the south-eastern shore of the point that juts out to the westward of Gouldsbrough Bay, upon the north, there used to stand--and in all probability it stands there yet--a small cot, which, in the winter of 1856, and for several years previous to that time, was occupied by an old weather-beaten son of the ocean, appropriately named James Storms, who retired from active service somewhere about ten years previous to the above mentioned period, and who now carried on the various operations of fishing, boat-building, sail-making etc. The old man's wife was still among the living; and she, together with her husband and one daughter, a fair girl of nineteen, possessed the unbounded love and confidence of all who ever chanced to form an acquaintance with the inmates of the humble cot.

It was on the evening of the 31st of December, 1856, the last day of the year. The old man had returned from his boat-house, whither he had been to close the place more securely against the driving storm, and shaking the white fleece from his thick pea jacket, he hung it upon a peg near the fireplace, and then drew up to the blazing fire.

"Ah!" exclaimed old Storms, with a shudder, as he rubbed his half benumbed hands, "this is a hard night for the end of the old year. The Lord have mercy upon any who may chance to be on our coast!"

"Amen!" fervently ejaculated his wife, as she drew her chair nearer the fire. "Come Hannah," she continued, turning to her daughter, "let's have our cheer for the dawning of the new year. You know we hold our watch to-night."

"Yes, mother," returned the girl, "our supper will be ready in good time. 'Tis but nine o'clock yet."

"Well," said the old man, "let's have our supper now, for I feel as though I needed it."

In obedience to her father's wish, Hannah, set about the work, and ere long the table was covered, and all prepared for the evening meal. But once a year did the family eat their supper so late as this; but for six years past had they made a practice of watching the exit of the old and the advent of the new year, and on such occasions they had postponed their meal further into the night. At the head of the table sat the old woman, at her right hand sat her husband, while at her left sat her daughter. At the opposite end of the table was set a plate, and an empty chair, on the back of which, was tied a narrow piece of black crepe.

For several moments after they had taken their seats at the well-filled board not a word was spoken, but all eyes were turned mournfully upon that empty chair. At length the old man opened his trembling lips, and uttered in a broken tone:

"'Tis six years since our poor boy was lost. Six nights have we watched the old year out, and his chair has stood empty before us. Ah! Robert, so long as your father and mother live, no one shall fill the seat that once was yours."

Thickly-flowing tears checked the old man's utterance, and, drawing the back of his hand across his eyes, he leaned forward upon the table and wept. The mother and daughter wept also; and though their lips gave not utterance to words, yet for the boy that was gone--for the laughing, joyous and affectionate Robert of other days--they sent up prayers as warm and true as ever went up from the hearts of earth. Their New Year's dawn was a scene of sorrow and mourning; but still they sorrowed not in vain, for their hearts were softened by the tribulation, and their souls were purified by the tide of affliction that had thus rolled in upon them. To their humble home, Robert had, in former years been the sunlight and joy. He had been an affectionate and dutiful son, and a kind and loving brother; and when they first learned of his death in the Indian Ocean, a dark cloud settled over their household, which even the sun and frosts of six years had not been able to dispel.

Ten minutes, perhaps, had they sat in comparative silence at the table, the storm raging without in all its fury, ever and anon sending a shrill blast through some chink or crevice which art had not completely guarded, and the hail-stones, as they rattled ceaselessly against the windows, threatened to force an entrance into the dwelling. The old man had gradually composed himself from the effects of his first outburst of grief on seeing that empty chair, and, wiping his eyes with his handkerchief, he was about to offer his humble petition to the throne of grace. Not half a dozen words had he uttered, when he started up from his chair and placed his hand to his ear.

"Ha!" he exclaimed, as he bent his ear toward the door; "did you not hear that gun, Hannah?"

"Yes, father."

"There it goes again!" cried Storms, as the dull report of a distant signal gun came breaking through the roar of the howling tempest.

"There's danger on our coast. Get my lantern, Hannah, and you, wife, bring my tar kettle from the porch. I'm afraid I shall never be able to light the signal on the cliff; but at all events I'll try."

In a few moments the old man was muffled up for the duty he had on hand; and, with the kettle in one hand and the lantern in the other, he issued forth. The storm was indeed terrific; but with a noble purpose, the sturdy old coastman breasted its fury, and made his way as fast as possible up to the top of an overhanging cliff, which reared above the storm-dashed breakers below.

On the cliff was erected a rude structure, the work of his own hands, which had been expressly formed for the purpose of enabling him to light his signal when the wind was too fierce without, and into this he at once made his way. The furious blast had torn the rough door from its leathern hinges, but with an old piece of sail which happened to lie rolled up in a corner, he managed to so protect the entrance that he was enabled to set fire to the tar; and, as he added a considerable quantity of spirits of turpentine, the bright flame shot up like a flash the moment it came in contact with the fire. In a few moments the blazing mass was removed to the brow of the cliff, and though the howling wind and driving hail seemed to threaten instant annihilation to the old man's signal, yet it flared forth a brilliant light, and the reports of three guns, which came in quick succession over the driven sea, plainly indicated that they on board the struggling vessel had seen it, and that they also understood its import.

For fifteen minutes did old Storms stand on the cliff, endeavoring to peer through the gloom to where the devoted bark seemed to be, and at the end of that time he made her out. She was a brig, not more than two cables' length from the shore, and, being driven in stern first, it was evident that she had her anchors out ahead.

The phosphorescence of the foam-crested sea, and the reflecting power of the hall, seemed to throw considerable light over the scene, and the old man was ere long enabled to make out distinctly the exact situation of the brig, from her yards and stays were snapping and fluttering remnants of her sails; but not an inch of canvas was there left that could be set, all having been blown from the bolt-ropes in the vain attempt to lay the vessel to. The star-board anchor was out, while the dangle end of the larboard cable, told plainly that its anchor was gone; but the remaining one did no good, for it had no power against the gigantic strength of the driving wind.

The beacon light had gone out, and for some time the old man stood undecided what to do. In ten minutes, at the farthest, the brig must strike the rocks, and then--Lord have mercy on the crew.

"The poor fellows shall have the risk of my life at any rate," exclaimed the hardy coast-man, with sudden energy, as he darted from the rock and made toward the house. "Hannah," he cried, as he reached the door-step, upon which his wife and daughter were standing, "run to the boat-house and bring the new harpoon line. Quick, now, for in a few minutes more it may be too late."

FOR PRESIDENT,

ULYSSES S. GRANT,

OF ILLINOIS.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

HENRY WILSON,

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention, to nominate Candidates for State Officers, and Electors for President, will be held in the city of Lansing, at Representative Hall, on Wednesday, the 31st day of July, 1872, at 11 o'clock a.m. The several counties will be entitled to two delegates for each Representative in the lower branch of the State Legislature, under the apportionment law of 1871, and every organized county having no Representative will be entitled to one delegate. Under the resolution of 1868, no delegate will be entitled to a seat who does not reside in the county he represents.

IN SEARCH OF A PARTY.

It is no uncommon thing for political parties to be somewhat embarrassed in arriving at the conclusion whom they shall present for the suffrages of the people. There is generally no lack of candidates, and this may be and often is one of the greatest difficulties to be encountered. A much rarer spectacle, however, is one that has never occurred in the history of American politics,—until Horace Greeley furnished it—is that of a candidate seeking for a party to support him. He does not seem satisfied with the Cincinnati convention, which nominated him, a mass meeting, without representing a constituency, or being delegated with the power of any political principle. Mr. Greeley seems to have arrived at this conclusion upon the second sober thought, and appreciating the fictitious value of his Cincinnati offering, is now seeking some party that will endorse him. Having no hope of any success with Republicans, he very anxiously turns his eyes toward the "anything to beat Grant" Democracy, and though a life-long, bitter enemy to this Democracy, he now very complacently says: "Gentlemen, I want to be President; won't you help me? I will agree to forget all I have said against you. I don't believe all I said was true. I will let bygones be bygones. Only give me your nomination, and your votes, and if we succeed, I will fix things to your satisfaction." A forlorn hope indeed, when the Presidential fever rages with such force as to cause a man to throw himself upon a life-long enemy for sympathy and support, and perhaps we should say a more forlorn hope is manifested, if such parties accept the pleading of such a political renegade, thereby losing the support and confidence of a large portion of the most prominent leaders, and surely dividing their once powerful party.

OUR OWN LOCALITY.

After having made a careful political survey of our community, we are enabled to report to our friends throughout the State, that not a single Republican has endorsed the Cincinnati nominations, but the reverse may be said: if the Baltimore convention should endorse the Greeley and Brown ticket, many of our hitherto staunch Democratic friends will declare for Grant. But few of the Hollandische Democrats will support Greeley. Only those who may be seeking the empty honor of a nomination for Congressman, or a county office.

THE STATE TICKET.

The Republican papers throughout the State are agitating the question of candidates for State officers, discussing the merits of their friends from their different localities and outlook. While we have heretofore indicated our position upon the gubernatorial nomination, we have said nothing relative to other nominations, from the fact we had no preferences; believing the good sense of a nominating convention would not force upon the suffrage of a free people any man whose record, politically, is not clear, or one who cannot command a full vote in their own neighborhood.

But as we see the names of different gentlemen proposed for this or that office, we find that party fealty dictates to us a preference; and although we had thought to keep silent, and await the result of the convention, our tongue will not cleave to the mouth, nor our ideas cease to give vent.

In looking over the list of names presented as candidates, we find none that impresses us more favorably than that of Hon. H. H. Holt, of Muskegon, for Lieut. Governor. Mr. Holt, we have known for some years, and believe him a gentleman of honor, in the prime of life, and one who would move the hearts of the young men of the party, and receive such a support in Western Michigan as no other man can command. Mr. Holt is a lawyer of large experience, liberally educated, with a clear and active intellect, great power of executive ability, and as a Republican, sound and earnest; has had large legislative experience, having been elected three successive terms to represent his district at Lansing, and is acknowledged one of the best parliamentarians in the State.

There is no man within the range of our knowledge, who combines so many qualities for Lieut. Governor as does Mr. Holt, and no one whom we could more cordially endorse and work for, should he receive the nomination.

We do not recollect that Muskegon county has ever been represented on the State ticket, and now if they should ask for the promotion of Mr. Holt, should it be denied them? If locality is to be considered at all, we think Mr. Holt's chance a good one.

THE POLITICAL GAME.

With the Greeley Democrats, the canvas at the present stage, is a game of bravado, played for the same purpose that the cowardly boy whistles to keep his courage up. The object is to secure the endorsement of the Cincinnati ticket at Baltimore, thinking that by so doing, they will secure a candidate that will draw upon the Republican vote. In playing this part, it is not of so much consequence what points he can really make, as it is what he can make his rival believe he can make.

Hence, we see that many of the over zealous Greeley fanatics are already erecting their pyramids of States, only "to be knocked higher than Gilderoy's kite" on the 4th of November next.

How foolish to attempt to strengthen a lost cause by such exhibitions of erratic display; better own up gentlemen that you are unable to stem the tide of popular indignation against the renegade ticket; for sober men, men of sound reason and judgement, who think for themselves, are not so prompt in accepting such fruitless efforts, as they would be, did they not read and form opinions for themselves. We have had plenty of this kind of figuring. Last Spring we were told that New Hampshire and Connecticut were irredeemably lost to the Republican party, because renegade Republicans were using their powerful influence against the administration and favoring the Democratic candidate; but the closest investigation into the history of that campaign, fails to discover the first vote influenced by those efforts; and thus it will be, independent of all the pyramids they may erect, and the games they may play; the resultant effect of a renegade ticket is only to strengthen the straight, out-and-out Republican ticket.

A Delaware Democratic paper admits that the nomination of Greeley at Baltimore "will be a heavy blow to the prospects of carrying Delaware for the Democratic ticket."

MISS NELLIE GRANT.

Correspondence Between Her and Queen Victoria.

The San Francisco Chronicle has received through private sources, a letter written by Miss Nellie Grant to Queen Victoria, previous to her recent visit to Windsor Palace. Its charming simplicity and thorough good sense, if it be authentic, put beyond question all doubts as to the nature of the visit, and the feelings which prompted it. It reads as follows:

LANSLEY'S HOTEL, May 17, 1872.
MY DEAR LADY AND QUEEN:—I am embarrassed at the honor of an official request, given through a high officer (your Lord Chamberlain, I think), to be presented to your Majesty. I should dearly love to see you, that I might tell my mother and father that I had been thus honored. I am but a simple American girl; that I am the President's daughter, gives me no claim to your recognition as a Sovereign. If, with the kind lady who is acting as my chaperon, I might visit you, I should be very glad. Our Secretary of Legation hints at some political significance in this opportunity. I cannot so interpret it, and would not wish to be so received, because it would not be right, as I am nothing in American politics, and I am sure my father would not desire me to appear other than as my simple and very humble self. If, with this explanation, your Majesty will allow me to visit you, I shall be greatly honored and very proud.

I have written this note of my own motion, and because I think it the right thing to do. I am your Majesty's very obedient servant and admirer.

NELLIE GRANT.

The reply is equally refreshing, and betrays a spirit which does more honor to the British Queen than multitudes of other actions for which her subjects have loudly applauded her.

WINDSOR CASTLE.

MISS NELLIE GRANT:—I have instructed Lady— to convey to you this note, and we shall receive you as the daughter of your honored parents; without the intervention of high officers of State. I shall accept your visit as an "American girl," and there shall be no other significance in the fact than your kindly expressed desire to see the lady, and not the sovereign. I shall find it pleasant to forget that I am Queen in receiving you to-morrow afternoon at our palace of Windsor.

VICTORIA.

WILDER D. FOSTER.

The Washington correspondent of the Detroit Tribune in giving the position and records of the Michigan Congressional delegation thus refers to Hon. W. D. Foster:

Mr. Foster has fully equaled, if not exceeded the expectation of friends, and though a quiet, modest and unassuming man, has shown himself on all occasions, to be a safe, prudent and incorruptible legislator. He is serving on two committees, the first on Public Expenditures, and the other on Enrolled Bills, the last named requiring the most careful and patient work, and in which the well-known business, experience and qualification of Mr. Foster are peculiarly valuable. Succeeding Mr. Ferry, whose zeal in looking after the interests of his district is so well known, it is safe to say that Mr. Foster has accomplished all that could have been done by a new member who had the devious ways of congressional legislation and of the executive departments here to learn, and which are excellently illustrated by a remark of Dundreary's, "Something that no fellow can ever find out."

Public Debt Statement—Return of Secretary Boutwell.

WASHINGTON, July 1.
The public debt statement for the past month, is as follows: six per cent bonds, $1,374,888,800; five per cent bonds, $414,567,800; total coin bonds, $1,789,456,600; lawful money debt, $25,343,090; matured debt, $7,926,707; legal tender notes, $359,882,206; fractional currency, $40,855,835; coin certificates, $32,086,300; total without interest, $2,253,251,228. Total debt, $2,285,057,142; total interest, $41,705,813. Cash in Treasury, $15,821,889; total amount in the Treasury, $109,470,708; debt less cash in the Treasury, $2,191,436,343. Public debt decreased in the past month, $2,081,085. Bonds issued to Pacific Railroad Company, interest payable in lawful money, principal outstanding, $64,623,712; interest account not yet paid, $1,938,705; interest paid by United States, $14,631,870; interest repaid by transportation of mails etc., $2,708,934; balance of interest paid by the United States. Secretary Boutwell resumed his official duties this morning. The President is expected to return to Washington in time to hold a Cabinet session on Friday next. The Postmaster General ordered mail service to be placed on the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad, between Washington and Baltimore, commencing to-morrow.

The Mobile Register again bitterly denounces the Democrats who advise going over to Greeley. It says: "The South has been waiting and longing for an opportunity that now offers, and at the very moment that the prize of victory is within its clutch, it loses both head and heart, turns its back on duty and honor and triumph, and stampedes a cowardly and panic-stricken crowd to beg for mercy under the coat-tail of its most diabolical enemy, Horace Greeley."

POLITICAL NOTES.

"Gen. Grant never has been defeated and he never will be."—Horace Greeley.

There is a serious split in the Democratic Party of San Francisco. It is worse than any since that of 1860.

Senator Casserly is sending anti-Greeley documents without number to his Democratic constituents in California.

An Alabama correspondent expresses the firm belief that Greeley will not receive the votes of as many colored men as Seymour got in 1860.

Senator Alcorn, in a letter to a friend in Mississippi, takes strong ground in favor of the election of Grant for a second term.

That "large and enthusiastic" Greeley meeting (vide Tribune) in Warwick, Orange County, closed up with cheers for Grant and Wilson.

It is predicted that Senators Thurman, Casserly and Vickers will not support Greeley even if he is nominated by the Baltimore Convention.

Somebody wanted Jubal Early to run for Congress in the Lynchburg (Va.) District, but, with more sense than his impulsive friend, Early refuses.

There is a dreadful rumor of an unpleasantness between the Schurz and Blair wings of the would-be happy family party in Missouri. This is not as it should be.

Thomas B. Bryan is mentioned for the Republican nomination for Congress in the First District of Illinois; J. D. Ward in the second, and Charles B. Farwell, present member from the Old First, in the Third.

The St. Louis Democrat has ascertained that an accurate census of the Liberal Republican Party of Illinois shows that it is composed of Horace White, Jessie K. Dubois, and an undivided half of John M. Palmer.

It is announced that the law providing for the introduction of the one-cent postal cards cannot go into effect for some time, as arrangements for printing the same have not yet been completed.

"While asserting the right of every Republican to his untrammelled choice of a candidate for next President until a nomination is made, I venture to suggest that Gen. Grant will be far better qualified for that momentous trust in 1873 than he was in 1868."—Horace Greeley, Speech on 5th January, 1872.

The Terre Haute (Ind.) Express says that a painful, but well authenticated, report reaches it that the candidate for Vice-President on the Greeley ticket has once more abandoned his total abstinence, and is in imminent danger of again indulging in buttered watermelon as soon as the season fairly opens.

They had a woman suffrage meeting in New York lately, when head sufferer just before adjournment, informed her hearers that $200 was needed to settle up the expenses of the meeting, upon which, remarks, the New York Observer sneeringly, "a general rush took place for the doors." Of course there did; everybody rushed out to get the $200 called for by the sufferer, as they didn't happen to have it with them.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Coroners, to-day, have been notified to hold inquest on twenty-eight victims of sunstroke.

The steamer Escort while passing a boat between this city and Sax Harbor, collided with the former, a barge, this morning, and sunk. No lives lost.

Horace Greeley left for Boston, by the steamer Providence, this afternoon.

The strikers appear to have given up all idea of gaining the eight-hour law.

The sash factory of Wm. S. Jenkins and other property in Canal street was burned to-day. Loss, $15,000; insured. Several firemen were prostrated by the heat.

The jury in the case of John Heneker, charged with uttering obscene photographs and books, were unable to agree and are discharged.

Silas B. Ducher, United States Supervisor of Internal Revenue, is dangerously ill of congestion of the brain.

The heat is again intense. Thermometer 102 degrees above zero. Some 40 deaths from sunstroke.

DETROIT, July 2.—In the Democratic Convention at Lansing, to-day, the Greeley element largely prevailed.

The chairman Judge Littlejohn, said the party was of the past, and advised acceptance of the Greeley ticket. The delegates to the Baltimore Convention are all for Greeley, excepting one.

A new State Central Committee was appointed, a majority of whom are in favor of Greeley.

The following resolutions were adopted: Resolved, That we endorse the principles embodied in the Cincinnati Platform.

Resolved, That our delegates to Baltimore be directed to vote as a unit.

The delegates from this District are A. S. Butler of Allegan, and Hon. M. D. Howard of this city. We see to it claimed the delegates are all Greeley men but one from Wayne County. We will add to that member the name of Hon. M. D. Howard. In the several conversations we have had with Mr. Howard he has unequivocally stated that he was not in favor of Mr. Greeley, but if the Baltimore Convention endorsed him he would probably fall in line.

Local News.

Our Brass Band discoursed the best of music the Fourth of July, on board the excursion boat.

A large Pic Nic party from Saugatuck joined our excursionists near the mouth, and as they are some on dancing a good time was had.

The examination at the Union School commences next Monday, and will close on Wednesday afternoon with rhetorical exercises. A special invitation is extended to the patrons.

The hill on Eighth street has been cut to grade giving a full view of the street from the rail road crossing to the water of Black Lake, and the street when paved will be one of the finest in Michigan.

Hay is a full crop and our farmers are busy in securing it. Wheat has come forward well, of late and will be but little less than an average crop. Corn is growing finely and bids fair for to yield as well as usual.

The fruit prospects are still flattering though the peaches are dropping badly, it is supposed the extreme heat and the want of rain is the cause, if the present drouth does not continue long enough will remain on the trees for a good and profitable crop.

The Agricultural Implement man R. K. Heald has been out in the country haying this week trying to convince the farmers that the Eureka Mower will do more work and do it better than he can, we presume he succeeded as he has sold several machines this season.

An accident occurred at the Michigan Lake Shore depot on the 4th. A young man named Mayo while carelessly handling a pistol in a large crowd, it went off, the ball passing through his right hand fracturing the bones to some extent, luckily no one else was injured.

We learn from the Grand Haven Daily Herald that our esteemed fellow citizen H. D. Post has a large stock of goods on hand and is doing a fine business here in Holland; tell us the street and number that we may find his business for we are anxious to notice it as soon as we learn the facts by seeing them.

REPUBLICAN RATIFICATION MEETING.—A meeting of the Republican electors of the city of Holland to ratify the nomination of Grant and Wilson, will be held at the Central Wharf, on Wednesday evening, July 10th, at 7 o'clock. The Brass Band will be in attendance, and good speakers will address the meeting. Let us have a rousing ratification, and a turn out of every Republican. By order of city Rep. Com. M. HOOGESTRAETER, Sec'y.

An agent for the Wyckoff street pavement is in town looking toward the improvement of our streets, he, in company with Heber Walsh, have been looking after our gravel, with a view of submitting a proposition to property owners for the paving of Eighth street. We hope that the estimates will not look so formidable as to deter parties interested from adopting them, and proceed at once to construct the same.

RAIL ROAD.—We see by the Saugatuck Commercial and the Barry County Republican that strong efforts are being made to divert the rail road project intended for this city to Saugatuck. We call the attention of our citizens to this subject again, hoping they will not longer pursue the suicidal policy of remaining inactive, and allow projects which we consider of vital importance to our future growth and prosperity to pass us by unnoticed. We believe that should proper representations be made to the company, they could be induced to make this city on their route to Saugatuck, by doing so the company would secure a cheaper and more feasible route connecting here with the many roads we now have in operation and forming with a line of steamers across the Lake to Milwaukee, Racine or Kenosha, making it really the road for which we should spare no pains or expense compatible with our ability, to secure; at the same time Saugatuck would secure no more if the road should not come by way of Holland; citizens, are we to remain idle and lose the golden opportunity, when by a little exertion we can secure it?

ACCIDENT.—On Sunday last, a Mrs. Warrendorp, of this city, in building a fire, was severely burned with kerosene while using it to start the fire. The can exploded, burning her right hand and arm severely, and several places about the body. Medical assistance was procured, the wounds properly dressed, and are now doing well.

GRAND HAVEN.—The celebration at Grand Haven passed off very pleasantly; a large crowd of people were in attendance; the exercises were promptly executed; the orator, Mr. G. C. Stewart, succeeded admirably in edifying his hearers; and the maiden efforts of friend Starr, of the Cutler House, was eminently successful. The steamer Ironsides made excursion trips, was well patronized; and all seemed to enjoy the "day we celebrate," irrespective of "race, color, or previous condition of servitude."

RATIFICATION MEETING.—The Republicans of this city are requested to meet in mass convention on Wednesday evening next, to ratify the nomination of Gen. Grant for President, and Henry Wilson for Vice President. To ratify these nominations, should be the willing duty of every Republican in this city, and we hope that not one will be found wanting enough in patriotism and fidelity to principle to remain away from the meeting. The political crisis requires every man to the front. Several speakers are expected to be present and address the meeting. The Holland City Cornet Band will be on hand, and will give some of their best music. Republicans, the reville is called; let there be a unanimous response, thus showing the few Greeleyites in our midst that the opening of the political campaign in Holland means business for Grant and Wilson.

FIRE AT LUDINGTON.—From D. A. Melendy, Esq., of Ludington, Michigan, we have the particulars of a fire at that place, last Saturday afternoon. It appears that a spark from Ward's mill set fire to one of the warehouses connected with that establishment. A brisk breeze was prevailing at the time, and soon an adjoining and larger warehouse, also the property of Mr. Ward, became a prey to the flames. Both of the warehouses were stocked, and in the latter Mr. Melendy had 3,500 bushels of grain in store, which were entirely consumed. Between the warehouses and the grist and planing mill of Sibbens & Co., stood Allen's broom-handle factory. The intervening premises were lumbered up with stock and through this fire was communicated to the works, which were also destroyed together with their machinery. The mills of Sibbens & Co., were soon ablaze and were in a short space of time reduced to a heap of smoldering ruins. On the head beyond the mills of Messrs. Sibbens & Co., were a number of large establishments, but fortunately the cinders were carried by on the breeze, but, for a time, they were in imminent danger. The loss is estimated at $20,000.—Daily Herald, July 3.

FOURTH OF JULY.—The Fourth of July passed off very pleasantly. There being no preparations for a great celebration, the day was quite generally observed by families or groups of citizens, in patronizing the excursion boats, and picnics in the grove near the mouth of Black Lake, not forgetting to usher in the day with a National Salute at sunrise. Those who spent the day at the grove speak of having enjoyed the occasion very much; refreshment stands were erected there, which together with a bower for dancing, facilitated the efforts made to please all who that day desired to throw off the cares and responsibilities of business, and find relaxation outside the world of care and strife. It is well that such days do come occasionally, that the man of family may enjoy a sweet respite from daily toil, in companionship with his heart's idols; and join in swelling the grand chorus of love of country and love of home. It is pleasant to witness the paternal anxiety manifested on such days, by their eagerness to secure for all, the highest maximum of enjoyment, regardless of cost, with unceasing watchfulness striving to educate the little ones around them in all the new and varying scenes, that on such occasions may be brought before them. And the shy, coy maiden, with her youthful gallant, are particularly of those who seem to enjoy such occasions, and who can tell, but He who knoweth all things, how many hearts were blended, and how many vows made, only to be broken, when sympathies are wrought upon through joyous participation of gala days like this? Al together, the day was well spent, with but little to mar the pleasure; no rowdiness was exhibited, and but one accident occurred, which is elsewhere noticed.

INNOCENTS ABROAD.—We find in the daily Herald of June 30th, the following:

"COMPLIMENTARY.—We take it the following is a complimentary notice of the Daily Herald. We find it in the Holland De Watcher of yesterday. If our limited knowledge of the Holland language has led us to misconstrue the item, we plead innocence."

"Volgens de Grand Haven Herald, zal te Grand Haven een nieuwe Afgeschedene kerk gebouwd worden, 40x70 voet groot. We vreezen deze zal alweder te klein wezen."

"We see in the Grand Haven Herald, that at Grand Haven, a True Reformed church will be built, 40x70 feet. We fear this will again be too small."

How is this for a compliment for the daily Herald? Gentlemen, you should not believe all you hear, nor half that you see; "For there are ways that are dark and tricks that are vain."

But if any sufficient cause appears, or is shown to the Common Council, they will review said assessment roll, and make assessment as may be just and right in the premises. By order of the Common Council of the city of Holland, Dated, City Clerk's Office, Holland Ottawa County Mich., June 25th, 1872. CHAS. F. POST, City Clerk.

PLEASURE EXCURSIONS ON Black Lake & Lake Michigan

We wish to inform our citizens and the public generally, that the steamer Fanny Shriver, of Holland, can be chartered any day or evening during the summer season of 1872 to run excursions on Black Lake and Lake Michigan, for the small sum of FIVE DOLLARS. We put the price down to the lowest figure, so that any one family, can afford to take pleasure trips during the hot, sultry, summer season, and enjoy the cool and refreshing air of Lake Michigan. We wish to have it fully understood, that on trips when the boat is chartered, no persons will be allowed to go, only those parties that chartered the boat.

INSURE WITH THE OLD

"North America"

INS. Co. OF PHILADELPHIA, PA.

(ESTABLISHED 1794.)

Why? Because it is the oldest Ins. Co. in the United States.

Because it was the first to pay its Holland losses in Ready Cash.

Because it has paid over $26,000,000 losses.

Because it has a surplus over and above its debts of more than two Ins. Co's. in the United States.

Because it has a surplus of more than five times that of all the other Ins. Co's. in the city combined.

For proof, read the (Jan. 1872) Report of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of New York.

Policies issued at the Holland agency, as low as by any other responsible Company.

Do not waste your money with worthless insurance but insure with the old

Holland Stomach Bitters.

These Bitters are good for all diseases arising from a derangement of the stomach. As a corrective, it cannot be excelled. Pleasant to the taste, assists digestion, and keeps the system generally in good condition.

Reason why we have so great a Demand for

OUR BITTERS.

First—Because they are more foodlike than other Bitters. Second—Because the Bottles are as large as a great many Bitters which sell for $1.00, while ours are sold for the small sum of FIFTY CENTS.

DIRECTIONS.—One-half wine glass before each meal. Take one-third Bitters and two-thirds liquor, and you will have a pleasant drink. Sold by dealers generally. STEKETEE & KIMM, Sole Proprietors, 1-1. 67 Monroe St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Lake Erie.

WILL IT DRY UP?

Lake Erie will dry up one of these days. The precise date is not given; but the reader is permitted to calculate for himself after surveying the indications. We copy from correspondence of the Boston Globe:

But intensely as I enjoy this lake view, and confidently as I expect to have my lake, my river in heaven, I propose to show reasons for my believing that Lake Erie—the path of the traveler and the dweller on its shore—will not continue always. The time will doubtless come when it will be a vast marsh—even when it will be the home of the teeming population, and covered with vineyards and orchards and thriving cities. A careful survey has shown that while Lake Michigan has an average depth of 1,800 feet, Lake Superior of 900 feet and Lake Ontario of 500 feet, Lake Erie has an average depth of 120 feet. The upper part of Point Belle Island has an average depth of 30 feet. The middle position between Belle Island and Long Point averages only 20 feet. The bottom of the Lake is quite level, and composed of soft clay. This clay is constantly accumulating, from sediment carried down by tributary streams. The south shore is composed of easily disintegrating blue, gray and olive shales and gray sandstone. The western and northern coasts are made up of limestone of the Helderberg group, which easily yields to the action of the waves. Consequently both shores constantly contributing to fill up the bed of the lake. The work is not rapid, but it is as certain as fate. There are frequent landslides on this shore, which are quickly taken up and deposited in sediment beneath the blue waters. Indeed, along the shore, especially after a storm, the water can hardly be called blue. It is brown as far as the eye can reach, with the clay washed down from the hills and taken up along the shore. Let this process continue—and there is nothing to prevent it—and the time must come when the upper part of the lake, which is scarcely navigable now in rough weather, will cease to be navigable except through a very narrow channel, when even the middle and lower portions will cease to be covered with white sails, and become a vast marsh where the wild alder and swamp whortleberry will grow. Even if this did not come through the filling up process, Niagara is slowly but surely cutting a ditch that will one day drain Lake Erie. Every observing man who has visited the great cataract knows that it has cut its way up from Lake Ontario to its present position. It is now many feet further up the river than it was the first time I listened to its roar, and gazed entranced upon its wonders. The soft limestone that lies beneath the "table rock" cracks and drops away. When the cataract shall have worn its way back to the head of the rapids, its progress will be much faster than it is now. It is easy to see that it will one day reach the deep waters of the Niagara river. Lake Erie will be effectually drained, and there will only be a deep river flowing through its central channel. Then what digging and boring there will be to find the treasure that has gone down in sinking ships, and will go down. For of all the great lakes, Erie, owing to its shallowness, is the most treacherous to the navigator. A severe storm lashes its waves into the the utmost fury, and woe to the luckless sailors who find themselves on a lee shore. So great is the commerce carried over this lake that there is scarcely a storm which does not find vessels in this unfortunate position.

A GIGANTIC RAILWAY CAR.—Among the mechanical novelties to be seen in operation at the Grand Central depot in New York is a steam railway car 70 feet wide, which travels on a track of corresponding width. This great vehicle is made in the form of a low platform car, and the track on which it runs is provided with four rails, extending from Fourth avenue to Madison avenue. The car is used for a lateral transfer of passenger cars from the main tracks of the Hudson River, Harlem and New Haven Railways to the various side tracks, thus avoiding the use of turn-tables. The car is propelled by steam, the engine and boiler being contained within a sheet-iron house, carried on one side of the machine.

The cars to be transferred are run upon the great car, steam is then turned on and the great machine trots off with its burden with as much ease as a horse draws a buggy. The machine is supported on eight wheels, arranged on independent axles. There are in addition four driving wheels arranged upon one axle. It was proposed not long ago to construct a grain railway from New York to Chicago on a gauge of 12 feet. That was considered a big thing in the way of broad gauges. But it is a pigmy compared with this 70 feet gauge railway and locomotive of the Grand Central. —Scientific American.

Thinning Fruit.

Hon. Marshall P. Wilder, in his address before the American Pomological Convention at Richmond, Va., stated:

This is the lesson which we have learned and the necessity of which we have often endeavored to impress upon cultivators and which every successive season teaches with stronger emphasis. It is an absolutely necessity, for all who send fruit to markets are constantly and progressively requiring large and fine fruit. Even the Seckel pear, which once commanded in Boston market the highest price, will not now, unless of extra size, sell for any more, if as much as common varieties of larger size. A medium sized fruit, or even one of smaller size, may be more economical for use, but until decided change in the preferences of the majority of purchasers shall take place, large fruit will sell better than small. To produce this, the fruit must not only have good cultivation, but must be thinned, and we agree with Mr. Meehan that "one-half of the trees which bear fruit every year would be benefited by having one-half of the fruit taken off as soon as it is well set, and that the overbearing of a tree will in a few years kill it." We may lay it down as a certain rule, that excessive production is always at the expense of both quantity and quality; if not in the same season then in succeeding ones, for when branch is contending with branch, leaf with leaf, and fruit with fruit, for its supply of light and food, it would be indeed an anomaly in nature if this should not result the permanent injury to the trees as well as to the annual crop.

New Mode of Washing.

The ill effect of soda on linen have given rise to a new method of washing, which has been extensively adopted in Germany, and introduced into Belgium. The operation consists in dissolving two pounds of soap in about three gallons of water as hot as the hand can bear, and adding to this a teaspoonful of turpentine and three of liquid ammonia; the mixture must then be well stirred, and the linen steeped in it for two or three hours, taking care to cover up the vessel containing them as nearly hermetically as possible. The clothes are afterward washed out and rinsed in the usual way. The soap and water may be re-heated, and used a second time, but in that case half a tablespoonful of turpentine and a tablespoonful of ammonia must be added. The process is said to cause a great economy of time, labor and fuel. The linen scarcely suffers at all, as there is little necessity for rubbing, and its cleanliness and color are perfect. The ammonia and turpentine, although their deterring action is great, have no injurious effect upon the linen; and while the former evaporates immediately, the smell of the latter is said to disappear entirely during the drying of the clothes.

What to do in a Case of Sunstroke.

From an article on Sunstroke, by H. C. Wood, Jr., M. D., in the July number of Lippincott's Magazine.

Now, that the true nature of the disease is known, the method of treatment becomes most obvious, and we learn not merely what to do, but also what not to do. As heat is the cause of the symptoms, common sense points to the abstraction of the heat in some way as the mode of cure. And here again with vivisection comes into play. I have taken an animal, comatose, paralyzed with heat, apparently dying, and plunged it into a bucket of cold water. The temperature of the sufferer at once fell until it reached the normal point, and just in proportion that of the water in the bucket rose. As the animal cooled, its respirations became more regular, the unsteady whirr of the heart was stilled, by-and-by the eyelids were opened, and out from the glassy eye came the beams of a new life. If the period of unconsciousness had been short, it was in a few hours apparently as well as ever; if long, the animal would recover sufficiently to recognize its surroundings and struggle for release, but when allowed to escape, the paralyzed limbs, and the slow, imperfect progression indicated the profound injury the nervous system had received, and in a few hours the animal would be dead.

The lessons of these experiments are too often overlooked. Whatever is to be done in this disease must be done quickly. Clinical as well as experimental observation enforces this doctrine. There should in those cases be no waiting for the doctor.—The remedy is so simple, the death so imminent, that the good Samaritan passing by should save his brother. Go at once to the fallen man, open his shirt bosom, and lay the hand upon his chest; if the skin be cool, you may rest assured that, whatever may be the trouble, it is not sunstroke.—If, on the contrary, the skin be burning hot, the case is certainly sunstroke and no time should be lost. The patient must be carried to the nearest pump or hydrant, stripped to his waist, and bucketful after bucketful of cold water be dashed over him until consciousness begins to return, or the intense heat of the surface decidedly abates.
