Johnny's Opinion of Grand-mothers.

BY ETHEL LYNN.

Grandmothers are very nice folks; They beat all the aunts in creation; They let a chap do as he likes, And don't worry about education.

I'm sure I can't see it at all, What a poor fellow ever could do For apples and pennies, and cakes, Without a grandmother or two.

Grandmothers speak softly to "ma's" To let a boy have a good time, Sometimes they will whisper, "is true, 'Tother way, when a boy wants to climb.

Grandmothers have muffins for tea, And pies, a whole row in the cellar, And they're apt (if they know it in time, To make chicken pies for a "feller."

And if he is had now and then, And makes a great racketing noise, They only look over their specs, And say, "Ah, these boys will be boys.

Life is only so short at the best; Let the children be happy to-day, Then they look for a while at the sky, And the hills that are far, far away.

Quite often, as twilight comes on, Grandmothers sing hymns, very low, To themselves as they rock by the fire, About Heaven, and when they shall go.

And then, a boy when stopping to think, Will find a hot tear in his eye, To know what will come at the last; For grandmothers all have to die.

I wish they could stay here and pray, For a boy needs their prayers every night, Some boys more than others, 'tis posed, Such as I need a wonderful sight.

Extraordinary Affair in Washington.

A Fashionable Wedding Indefinitely Postponed on Account of the Storm Suddenly Disappearing.

A special dispatch from Washington to the Boston Traveler tells the following strange story:

One of the most extraordinary affairs ever known occurred in this city on Saturday evening last among the fashionable community of Capitol Hill. Some time ago, it will be recollected, it was announced in this correspondence that Captain F. F. Buckley, of Natick, Mass., had presented General Butler and Hon. Henry Wilson with two handsome canes made from the ship Kearsage, and that the recipients thereof had been greatly pleased with his tokens of regard. Handsome and dashing himself, it appears that the Captain won the affections of the cherriest lipped lady on Capitol Hill a Mrs. Emma—, who, while youthful in appearance, is yet on the point of rounding thirty-five, and surrounded with that matronly impressment which is peculiarly enchanting to the widower and the man of the world. His suit progressed; he was accepted, and promised his lady-love an endowment of a three thousand dollars residence in Natick. The bridal outfit was procured—the tresson, as the French say. It was elaborate and ornamental in every particular. Presents of silver ware, brooches, diamonds, bracelets, costly cutlery, and table service, and the rarest pictures and baubles were purchased by their friends, and at the last day was set, the minister engaged, the cards sent out, and "all went merry as a marriage bell." The supper, which had been gotten up, was unusually tasteful. Elegant ladies crowded the parlors of the paternal residence, and the bride stood in her chamber in hopeful expectancy. But the bridegroom did not come. He suddenly and mysteriously disappeared. The minister was annoyed beyond expression, the charming lady driven into hysterics, and the richly attired company disappointed beyond measure, waited and waited in vain. A carriage was sent for the groom, and the fact transpired that he was not in town.

These, in brief, are the interesting points of this extraordinary affair. Captain Buckley has not yet been heard from.

When he came here, the gossips say, he represented himself as worth a large sum of money, and was told before he sought her hand that Miss Emma— held in her own right between $30,000 and $40,000. With this idea the match proceeded, but now that it has so abruptly terminated, it is said that one of the acquaintances assured him that the lady was comparatively penniless.

A somewhat remarkable fact in connection with the affair is that the lady was once engaged to be married to the surgeon of the same regiment in which Captain Buckley held command, and that on the very day the wedding was to have taken place the surgeon died.

The Telegraph as an Errand Boy.

From the New York Evening Post.

Electricity is to be reduced from its proud position as a messenger between the continents to the humble uses of domestic life. It is to be made an errand-boy, to answer every household call. A company has been formed, which proposes to establish offices at convenient places, in various parts of this city and Brooklyn, when messengers can be sent, on demand, to any house within the respective districts. These offices are to be connected by telegraphic wires with the houses of such persons as pay a certain amount monthly ($3 50) for the benefits offered by the company. The occupant of a house, by touching a key, will simply give notice at the office that a messenger is wanted. The offices will be numerous, and so distributed that any house can be reached by a messenger within three minutes after the notice. It will be the duty of the messenger to go on any errands required of them, to any part of the city, the persons employing them to pay the company 15 cents for every half hour of service. The telegraphic apparatus, consisting only of wires and the small key instrument, will be placed in the houses or offices of the subscribers without charge. The batteries will be at the company's offices only.

It will be seen at a glance that this system will bring many conveniences; but all its advantages cannot be appreciated until it has become, as we think it will, a necessity of domestic life in all large cities. There are thousands of little services which persons in moderate circumstances would gladly pay for at the rates named, but they cannot afford, or do not desire to keep an errand-boy or other male house-servant. But the plan promises more than mere convenience; it promises safety and comfort. It will afford security against burglars at night, and a ready means of calling a physician or a friend in cases of illness. If burglars are in the house two touches of the key will bring a policeman at any hour of the night. In cases of fire, too, the system would be invaluable; many small fires become great ones on account of the unassisted efforts of servants or members of the family to suppress them without a general alarm. Indeed, the more one considers the uses of the proposed system the more they multiply themselves and we confidently predict that within a few years we shall be wondering how our ancestors got along without it.

The name of the new organization is the "American District Telegraph Company." It has general offices at 62 Broadway and 185 Montague streets, Brooklyn. One district in the latter city will soon be ready for the first experiment, and then branch offices will be opened rapidly at suitable points in both cities.

A Balloon Ascension—A Magnificent Spectacle.

From the Kalamazoo Gazette, July 9.

Prof. La Mountain made a successful ascension yesterday. The balloon, which is 60 feet high, 36 feet in circumference, requires 20,000 cubic feet of gas to inflate it, was sent of nearly in front of the Presbyterian church at about 5 o'clock. For the first five or six hundred feet it moved almost perpendicularly, and then bore gradually off to the north, continually rising. The sight was perfectly magnificent. After the balloon had reached the altitude of about a mile it seemed to stand motionless, but gradually bore to the east, and was in sight at least half an hour. When lost sight of it was going in the direction of Gull Prairie and seemed to be descending.

LATER.—Mr. La Mountain landed on the farm of John Simons, in Richmond, some five miles northeast of Kalamazoo, without accident.

The Perils of Meddling with Handcuffs.

From the Utica (N. Y.) Observer.

An amusing accident occurred in Little Falls, the other day, which created considerable innocent fun at the expense of a pleasant young lady.

Officer Becker of Herkimer, conveyed a man from Utica to Little Falls, who was charged by a crazy man with larceny. After arriving at his destination, the officer was sent back to Herkimer to summon the principal witness. Before leaving Little Falls he deposited his handcuffs in the telegraph office, at the depot, for safe keeping, not caring to carry them about in his pocket, and left for Herkimer on the day express, about noon. He had hardly arrived in that village when he received a telegram saying, "Come back to the Falls, quick!" There was no train going east within two hours, and a reply to that effect was telegraphed back. Another telegram was received, imploring him to go back to Little Falls as quickly as possible.

Officer Becker waited anxiously for the train, fearing that something dreadful had happened in connection with the prisoner. When he arrived at Little Falls he was dragged into the telegraph office as quickly as possible, and without a word of explanation being given, the key of his handcuffs was demanded. Officer Becker's laugh came in just about this time, and his anxious mind was relieved. He enjoyed the laugh heartily, but a young lady sitting in a shady corner of the telegraph office felt like anything else but merriment. It appears that, with woman's natural curiosity, the young lady had been examining the steel bracelets, which were never intended to encircle fair hands like hers. By accident, or design, one of the young lady's friends closed the handcuffs, and the young lady was subjected to the mortification of wearing the inelegant bracelets until Officer Becker arrived. She smiled through her tears as the officer entered the telegraph office, and will never meddle with such dangerous articles again.

Lancet's Prescription.

Dr. Lancet was a blunt old fellow and an excellent physician, and he never drove around an obstacle when there was need of going through it.

Matilda Jane had just come home from boarding-school, and was not feeling well. She was troubled with a rushing of blood to the head, with dizziness, and with loss of appetite. In this condition she called in Dr. Lancet, and asked him if he could help her.

"I have been trying to doctor myself," she said, languidly, and with a faint, fluttering smile, as the old physician felt her pulse.

"Well—I have taken Limpshin's sarsaparilla and Knave's anodyne, and Hummer's pills, and Numhead's balsam, and Foole's tonic, and the None-such Expecterating Cordial, and Dr. Flathead's universal vivifying recuperator, and—and—"

"Goodness mercy!" gasped the Doctor; "and haven't any of these things given you relief?"

"No," replied the pining fair one, "they have not helped me at all. O, dear Doctor, what can I take that will be sure to do me good?"

"What can you take?" repeated the old man, moving back and eyeing her from head to foot. "Take!" he exclaimed, with a flash from beneath his shaggy brows; "my dear girl, take off your corsets!"—New York Ledger.

The Michigan Fruit Growers.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 5.—The Michigan State Pomological Society will hold its annual peach festival at South Haven, Van Buren Co., in August; about the time the early Crawford peach ripens. There will be a two days' meeting, and a fine exhibition of fruit. Horticulturists are invited. Addresses will be delivered by gentlemen eminent in fruit culture. Peach culture, peach lands and the peach belt will be the topics before the meeting for discussion. The exact time of meeting will hereafter be announced.

Rape, Murder and Lynch Law.

Two Young Men Hung by a Mob.

Wednesday morning, a mob of 300 persons took from the jail in Celina, Mercer county, Ohio, Abesalon Kimmel, Jacob Kimmel, and Alexander McLoud charged with the murder of Mary Jane Secore.

After leaving the jail, a special to the Gazette says, the men were placed on a wagon prepared, and the immense concourse, at a command, commenced a forward march. It appears that they were desirous of executing them near the scene of the terrible outrage, so they repaired to the Kimmel farm, in sight of the place where the poor young girl had been violated, murdered and thrown to the hogs. Here they halted under a sapling, a rude gallows was improvised, and the three prisoners fitted with halters about their necks. At this juncture, Elias Secore, brother of the murdered girl appeared, and Local News.

Weather cooler, and more ambition to work.

Be sure and read all the new advertisements this week, there is something advertised that you want.

Packard & Woodhams is the place to go for fresh vegetables. In passing their store a few days ago, we saw very fine tomatoes, radishes, apples, onions, beans etc.

L. T. Kanters & Co. is the place to go and enjoy the warm evenings. Soda water, Ice-cream and Lemonade for refreshing the inner man, also for anything in the line of books, stationary etc.

HARVEST BALL.—Levi M. Comstock one of the contractors on the City Hotel has leased the lower story for a Grand Opening Ball next Thursday evening. Wells' band, Grand Rapids. Bill for the dance, $1.00, for supper $1.00 per couple. A general invitation is given.

CITY CONVENTION.—There will be a meeting of Republicans of this city on Thursday evening July 24th, at Zaalsman's old store, west of public square, for the purpose of electing seven delegates to attend the County convention to be held at Grand Haven, July 29th, and such business as may properly come before it.

By order of City Convention.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—The steamer Fanny Shriver gave an excursion on Thursday evening last. The party was not large, but those who were there expressed themselves well satisfied with their ride. Those who have never enjoyed a sail upon the water, under the serene influence of a full moon, with a pretty girl, have missed one of the purest pleasures of this life, and one that once experienced, will never be forgotten. We hope to enjoy many happy returns of the same occasion.

FIRE IN THE WOODS.—We learn that fires are raging about one and a half miles north of this city requiring the greatest exertion to keep it from consuming fences buildings etc., during this dry weather great caution should be exercised in setting fires for clearing land, as it was from this cause that the fire of last summer originated. We hope the farmers and others will delay burning their fields until such time as it can be done with less risk to the country around them.

ODD FELLOWS.—On Thursday evening last, a Lodge of the Independent order of Odd Fellows was organized in this city by the most worthy Grand Master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of the State of Michigan. Hon. F. H. Rankin assisted the most worthy Grand Warden; Geo. W. Griggs of Grand Rapids and a large delegation of the brethren from Grand Haven and Saugatuck. The Lodge is organized with good material and will, we hope prove a success. Meetings Tuesday evenings of each week.

SERENADE.—On Monday evening last, we were awakened from our slumbers by the sound of music under our window, we hastily gathered ourselves together and viewing the line of attack, we at once surrendered. While accepting the situation, and demonstrating our gratitude, that their intentions were musical only, several beautiful airs were rendered by a party young ladies and gentlemen of this city who came out to see us: glad that we were so agreeable surprised and entertained, will accept a repetition of the same, and no question asked.

A VISITOR.—A drunken woman with two small children was perambulating the streets a few days since asking alms, as she was a widow with two small children, substantial sympathy was being manifested. During the afternoon she had accumulated enough funds to purchase a small tin pail and a quart of whiskey; soon after marshal Woltman arrested her as drunk, being incapable of caring for herself or children, the marshal threw the whiskey into the street, placed her and the children in safe keeping for the night, when arrested she had a bogus fifty cent note about a pint of whiskey, a tin pail, two children and a pass to the Wayne County Poor House, dated July 12th, 1872. Her name is Mary Walker.

Alpena Burned.

Four Lives Lost and others Injured.

LOSS $170,000.00.

On the 12th inst. a most destructive fire occurred at Alpena. About 5 o'clock p. m. a fire was discovered in a barn belonging to the Sherman House, and raged with uncontrollable fury until about 6 o'clock before it could be got under control, destroying three and one-half blocks in the center of the town.

But the saddest record we have yet to make, is the burning to death of three persons, while two others were badly burned, and still one other died soon after, in consequence of injuries received from the fire: Mrs. Westbrook, keeping a millinery store on Second street, perished in the street in front of her store. She could not be rescued until nothing but her bones remained. The bones of two others, supposed to be men, have been found. Geo. Westbrook, son of the milliner, was so badly burned in trying to rescue his mother, that he died shortly after. A sailor, named Kelley, and G. R. Westby, Barlow's engineer, are very badly burned, and doubts are entertained of Westby's recovery. One of the men whose remains were found is supposed to be a man named John Lavinted.

Alderman Steketee, of Grand Rapids was in this city Wednesday, looking hale, hearty and honest as ever. Mr. Steketee is one of the City Fathers of Grand Rapids, also senior member of the well known patent medicine manufacturing firm of Steketee & Kimm, 67 Monroe street. Less than three years ago this firm began to put up medicines for the trade, commencing with but one remedy, Kimm's Anti-Bilious Root and Plant Pills. It was thrown upon the market and was soon pronounced good. Other remedies for other diseases soon followed, until now eight preparations are manufactured by them, and all are growing in popularity and constantly increasing in sale. Orders from dealers in numerous cities, towns and villages in nearly all the Northwestern States, show how large a trade can be built up in the short space of two years. Some of their preparations have been before the public but a few months, but the name of the manufacturers, and the valuable qualities of their remedies, as demonstrated by actual use, have made for them a reputation which must insure for them a large trade for the future. The following medicines are now being manufactured by them: Kimm's Anti-Bilious Root and Plant Pills, Kimm's Holland Worm Cake, Kimm's Ague Cure, Steketee & Kimm's Holland Stomach Bitters, Kimm's Grease Extractor, Kimm's Perfumed Tooth Powder, Steketee & Kimm's Aromatic Bitters, Steketee & Kimm's Condition Powders, for horses and cattle. All the above medicines are finding a ready sale at remunerative prices. This firm attributes a large share of their success to their judicious system of advertising.

Greeley's Acceptance of the Democratic Nomination.

Mr. Greeley gratefully accepted the Democratic nomination from the Baltimore convention. He said he was glad to get it, but wept when he reflected that his motives were misconstrued by his old friends. He intimated that he would write a letter, which is as follows:

"NEW YORK, July 20.

"GENTLEMEN OF THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION: It is the happiest moment of my life, when I am informed of my nomination to the Presidency by such a lot of thieves, pimps, and blacklegs as you are. As I have frequently remarked, you hate school houses, and where they are pretty thin you are pretty thick. You are propagated in sinks of iniquity, and begotten in festering run-holes; therefore your approbation fills me with pride. I loathe your contaminating presence, as I loathe before. You fill the jails and Republics support them, as I remarked in the Tribune of last September. As I said on January 7, 1868, 'every one who chooses to live by pugilism, gambling or harlotry, with nearly every keeper of a tippling house is politically a Democrat. A purely selfish instinct attaches the lewd, ruffianly criminal and dangerous classes to the Democratic party by the instinct of self-preservation.' Therefore my heart throbs with delight at this manifestation of—of—[here his pen faltered with emotion.] Recovering himself he proceeded: You have not elected me to anything very often. [Laughter.] It seems to be a good deal like going home. Because as I recently said in the Tribune: 'Point where you please to an election district, which you will pronounce morally rotten—given up to a great part to debauchery and vice—whose voters subsist mainly by keeping policy offices, gambling houses, grog shops and darker dens of infamy—and that district will be found giving a large majority for which it styles itself the Democratic party.' There you see yourselves, boys, as in a glass. This is a most auspicious moment. I hope Republicans will not doubt my sincerity when I cast myself into the embrace of such a set of jail birds, as you are. Now then, all together, let us move forward earnestly for reform.

"Yours, contemptuously, but devotedly, 'HORACE GREELEY.'"

Now that the grading of Eighth St. is so nearly accomplished, we begin to appreciate the situation. There is no way a farmer from the eastern part of the county can get a load of hay, wood, grain, or any other commodity into this city. The sand is so dry and deep in the main streets as to stop farmers from making any effort to reach the central portion of our city for the transaction of business. We know that farmers the past week have driven their teams into the eastern suburbs, hitching them there, carrying their butter and eggs from there to market. We believe that every week's delay in making passable our thoroughfares from the country, we lose more than we can recall in a month. Let us be up and doing.

Our Old Railroad Project.

We have never lost hope in our favorite project for building a railroad between Holland and Saugatuck. Even when most discouraged by the very cool reception that project met last spring, from those mutually interested with us in the road proposed, we believed the advantages such a road offers to Grand Rapids and to Holland would be appreciated, and the proper interest in it be shown by those places. We were therefore well pleased when gentlemen from Holland came, Wednesday, to assure the people of this village that Holland has awakened to the importance of connection with this place, and is willing to do her fair share toward building a road from that city to our excellent harbor. The arguments in favor of such a road are those we have before advanced. It will give Grand Rapids a direct route to Chicago, shorter by fourteen miles than their old via Grand Haven; gives the benefit of competition on the lake, and gives to Grand Rapids easy communication with another good harbor. To Holland it offers an inducement, as it is really but the beginning of a road that will be built, within five years along the Lake Shore to South Haven and Benton Harbor. If the Canada, Michigan and Chicago railroad is built direct to Saugatuck, and there is little doubt that it will be, Holland will need to come here to get the greatest benefit from that road. If Holland becomes the terminus of the great trunk line in prospect, then Saugatuck must have a road to Holland.

Saugatuck is asked to help pay for a preliminary survey for the road proposed, between this place and that city, and we are confident she will not be backward in doing her full share.—Saugatuck Commercial.

A Paper for the Masses.

The (Pittsburg, Pa.) Real Estate Register comes to us this week enlarged to a beautiful sixteen page, sixty-four column, illustrated weekly, with the name changed to the American Land and Law Advisor. The original features introduced into the old paper by its publishers caused it to be sought after by persons in all parts of the United States, and thus encouraged by public patronage, the publishers determine to give to the people a paper every way worthy for the name they have chosen for their new weekly. The American Land and Law Advisor is a "Weekly Journal of Real Estate, Finance, Building and Popularization of Law." The issue before us is absolutely a necessity to every landed proprietor or real estate owner in the country, as well as to every citizen in the United States that wishes to keep posted on that indestructible element of value—Real Estate. The law department of this excellent weekly is edited by the ablest law counselors in the country, and answer, free of charge, all questions of law submitted to the paper with a clearness and accuracy that makes them understood by men of the most ordinary intelligence. This feature alone should cause to be taken by every farmer and land owner in the country. The illustrations on the first page of original designs for cottages and suburban residences, gotten up expressly for this journal is also a feature that commends itself to those about to build, and if we are to judge the future by the first issue, now before us, we should say it alone was worth many times more than the subscription price. The weekly correspondence from the General Land Office at Washington, D. C., giving the latest laws governing the Public Lands, Homestead and Pre-emption, as well as those from all parts of the country,—is also a valuable feature; to say nothing of its news and general information found in no other journal in the United States. To crown all, the enterprising publishers offer, by way of inducing an examination and subscription, a beautiful $5.00 Chromo, of either of the following subjects: "The Lost Babe," or "The Unwelcome Visitor"; all for the exceedingly low price of $2.50 a year, embracing a beautiful parlor picture and over 800 pages of useful reading matter and illustrations. We would say to all our readers, send stamp for a sample copy. Address CROFT & PHILLIPS, publishers American Land and Law Advisor, Pittsburg, Pa.

"Light and Shadows of New York Life; or, the Sights and Sensations of the Great City." A work descriptive of New York City in all its various phases. Its Splendor and Wretchedness; Its High and Low Life; Its Marble Palaces and Dark Dens; Its Attractions and Dangers; Its Rings and Frauds; Its Leading Men and Politicians; Its Adventurers; Its Mysteries and Crimes. By James D. McCabe, Jr.

The National Publishing Co., of Chicago, have just issued one of the most remarkable and attractive books of the day, bearing the above title. It is comprised in one large octavo volume of 850 pages, and illustrated with nearly 200 fine engravings of noted places, life and scenes in New York.

To Mr. McCabe is due the credit of having produced the most complete and graphic account of the great city, and its busy and varied life it has been our fortune to meet with. His book is brim full of solid and useful information, and abounds in descriptions of the various public buildings of New York, its palaces, prisons, hotels, churches, stores, hospitals, etc.

The work sets forth in glowing colors the noble work for suffering humanity, which is going on every day in the great city, and reveals with a bold hand the terrible crimes; the dark mysteries, and the hidden sins of metropolitan life. We are introduced into the home of the Fifth Avenue millionaire, and carried with equal interest to the squalid cellar of the Five Points beggar. We are brought face to face with the good and the bad, the high and the low, with leading merchants, bankers, editors, and actors, with bums, thieves, detectives and murderers, with working woman, ballet girls, adventuresses, and a host of others, and we seem to be listening to their stories from their own lips, so thoroughly does the author enchain our interest. Our warmest enthusiasm and our deepest contempt are alternately aroused by the thrilling recitals of their deeds of virtue and vice. The history and frauds of the famous Tammany Ring are related with great force and candor, and this portion alone is worth the price of the book.

In short the book is New York in miniature. The author has penetrated, under the protection of the police, into the darkest and most dangerous haunts of crime in the city, and has thus been enabled to obtain accurate information on the topics whereof he treats. Visitors to New York, cannot hope to see or know as much of the city as they may learn by a perusal of this book. To all who contemplate visiting the great Metropolis, we cordially recommend it, both for its powerful warnings, against the dangers of the city. Those who cannot see New York for themselves will be in a great measure repaid for that privation by reading this work. It is published in both English and German; sold by subscription only, and the publishers want agents in every county.
