Hope a Family School

Third Generation

The Founder of Hope College, Albertus C. Van Raalte, "looks down with pride" on the five grandchildren of the late Rev. Herman Maassen ’16 on Campus now. They are, left to right: Peter Maassen, freshman; Tim Vander Uttar, senior; David Vander Uttar, sophomore; Ruth Maassen, junior; and Susan Maassen, freshman.

The Rev. John Maassen, field secretary, Particular Synod of Chicago, RCA, wrote to the alumni secretary following receipt of the Winter issue of the Alumni Magazine. "You will be interested to know that there are five third generation Hopeites on campus this year, all grandchildren of the late Rev. Herman Maassen ’16.

"Susan Maassen is the daughter of the Rev. John H. ’42 and Harriet B. Muyskens ’47 Maassen, South Holland, Illinois. She is a freshman. Her sister Elizabeth Maassen Hougeboom graduated in 1971.

"Peter and Ruth Ann Maassen are the children of the late Rev. Pierce H. ’53 and Edith Herlein ’47 Maassen. Peter is a freshman and Ruth Ann a second semester transfer student from St. John’s College in Maryland. They live in Fremont.

"Timothy and David Vander Uttar are the sons of the Rev. Deibert J. ’44 and Gerrit Maassen ’47 Vander Uttar, Orange City, Iowa.

"Susan has a grandfather, a great uncle, her parents, ten uncles and aunts, two sisters and six cousins who are at, or have attended Hope College." That count is 22.

In a subsequent letter from Mr. Maassen, he wrote: "In reflecting upon the large number of relatives of third-generation Susan, I was reminded of her great uncles Gerrit (’20) and John D. (’14) Muyskens, also graduates on her mother’s side. Gerrit was a longtime Michigan educator, while John was a career missionary in South India for the RCA.

"Sue’s mother also reminds me that additional research may unearth other great uncles and even great-great uncles of Susan via the Muyskens Clan. Possibly Revs. Arte (P. ’02-editor) and John P. Muyskens (’18) who served in the Presbyterian Church, Dr. William Muyskens (’11), a Detroit dentist, and Miss Marie Muyskens, a missionary for the RCA in Kentucky."

Editor’s note: Adding four of those in the second letter (Susan had one great uncle listed in the first letter) the count is now 26 for Susan. Can Anyone top this figure?

Bradly Van Zyl, grandson of Bertha Brouwer Van Zyl, a graduate of the Prep School in 1917, now living in Lacey, Washington and the late Gerrit Van Zyl ’18, is a third generation freshman. His parents are Dr. Allison ’50 and Carol Fringe ’49 Van Zyl of Lake Odessa, Michigan. Brad’s grandfather was professor and chairman of the Chemistry Department for forty-one years, and so taught multiple generations of Hope students.

His father is a dentist and Brad has already worked with his father as a dental assistant. So he’s dentist bound in the Sloan science program. His hope is to complete his pre-dental work in three years and go right on to the University of Michigan for his D.D.S. degree. In fact Brad says, “I wish I were ready to practice right now. I love to work with my hands and really like to work in my Dad’s office.”

In his Lake Odessa High School, Brad lettered three years in golf, a sport he started playing in the eighth grade, his Dad plays a lot. He was second and first man on his team during his senior year. He also played baseball his junior and senior years. He made the honor society in his junior year, finished 15th in his class of one hundred ninety.

Brad’s interest in sports includes hunting. He and his Dad go pheasant hunting on the “first day” every year. Snow skiing and water skiing are second to his love of golf. He’s busy. He says, “The last two years of my life have gone so fast, I can’t believe I’m out of high school already.” Brad worked at the Kohler Company making cookies in Grand Rapids last summer, hopes to work there again this coming summer. He earns enough there to help substantially with his College expenses. He worked one summer in the pro shop at the Ionia golf course.

Brad has a married sister at Ferris State College, a brother in the eighth grade, and a sister in the fifth grade.

Jon Post, freshman from Huntingdon, Pennsylvania, is a third generation Hope man. He enjoys biology, he’ll probably major in that, but he also likes his psychology course in animal behavior. In fact, Jon says, "I am interested in many things, in all my courses. I'll probably be here for five or six years because I want to take so many things. When I study, I want to go where the study leads me, even beyond the assignment."

Quite involved in his high school years, Jon played the tuba in the band, was a biology lab assistant, basketball manager, belonged to the Ecology Club, and was a member of the tennis team. He won first in the Voice of Democracy speech contest in his junior year.

Jon likes chorus work also, and sings in the Presbyterian Church Choir which his mother directs. His mother is Mary Ellen Brower Post '48 who teaches literature in the Huntingdon Area High School. His father is Ernest II. Post Jr. '48, a history professor at Juniata College. His maternal grandparents are the Reverend Bert '23 and Susanna Hamelink '22 Brower of Grand Haven. Jon has a sister, Mary who will graduate from Beloit College this year and a brother, Paul at Wooster. His younger sister, Susanna (named for her grandmother Brower) is in high school.

Fourth Generation

Anna May Engelsman Tusink, Glen Rock, New Jersey, wrote about her Hopeite family: My grandfather, Rev. John Huizenga, was graduated in Hope's second class, the Class of 1867. There were three ministers, he being one of them; one schoolmaster and two business men, six in all.

Uncle Abram J. Muto, the famous pacifist, was graduated in 1905. (Many Huizenga relatives also graduated from the College.)

I am a 1930 graduate, my husband, Howard Tusink, 1936. My father, Rev. John Engelsman, attended Hope three years (being older, the trustees allowed him to go to Western Seminary without a Hope diploma as he lacked but a couple of credits). My brother Henry E. graduated in 1934, my sister Alice Engelsman Redeker, in 1936, also a brother Jack E. (John), in the late 30's.

Without any compulsion our son Paul decided to attend Hope. He was graduated in 1964. We were amazed when Ken followed (brothers often don't go to the same college) and made it in the Class of 1967. His wife, Sharon Dykstra, is a 1968 graduate.

Howard loves being one of Dr. Peale's associate ministers. He holds down two jobs, Stewardship minister and Parish Minister; he is busy of course.

Paul received his M.D. degree from the University of Michigan this last July and became a regular staff member at Menninger's Clinic, Topeka, Kansas, in psychiatry.

Ken received his M.A. at the University of Michigan in Business Administration and after three years in the Navy and training in banking, moved this past December 17th to San Jose, California where he is a commer-

The Year of the Student

The Alumni Magazine has named 1974 the “Year of the Student.” This is an effort to assure the nearly 12,000 alumni that the students today are updated models of themselves and, in fact, of those eight young men who comprised the first class in 1866. Although each Hope student is definitely an individual, many observers have noticed that all have a common denominator: The Hope Spirit! The Winter issue of this Magazine featured this year’s third and fourth generation freshmen. For this Spring issue, the chairman of all academic departments were asked to nominate a student or two, not necessarily the best academically, but students who had some experience that would make a story. Those selected for this issue were asked to write articles about themselves; most of them did and seemed pleased to be asked to do it. A variation in style, and fresh, compact modern writing is the result. Here they are!

“A Strange Breed of Man”

In the words of a prominent sportscaster, Howard Cosell, the men that participate in motor sports competition are “...a strange breed of man...” Among us here at Hope College we have one of these rare specimen whose story is a rather interesting one.

A senior honor student majoring in chemistry, Larry Schaeft, is also a card-carrying professional motorcycle racer. He is 24 years old, married, and a veteran of the Viet-Nam conflict. His life is split by many dedications: the two greatest being his academic career and his racing career. Not your normal chemistry student, he is seldom found working diligently on a research project or reading chemistry journals to all hours of the night. He is concerned about his education, he says, that being his main reason for choosing Hope College. The chemistry department, both in faculty and facilities, was the best available to his discrete way of thinking. He was willing to sacrifice a round trip journey each day from Grand Rapids for the chance to attend a first rate institution.

Instead of finding him in the laboratory at two o’clock in the morning, you’re more likely to find him laboring away in his workshop or deeply involved in some other facet of his racing. Going to school alone, is a strain for the wife of a student, but to have your husband trying to earn a living by racing, ???. Larry’s wife, Gail, has had to endure many tense moments because of his endeavors, some of them not so pleasant. But she has accepted this difficult role and has met the challenge in a most direct and successful manner.

Larry has competed actively for seven years, with a three year interruption for his military service. The 1973 season was his first endeavor in professional competition since his return from Viet-Nam in 1971. Last year he gained national prominence by finishing seventh in championship points in the fourteen state central United States region. His sights are set higher for the 1974 season, and it’s a sure bet that he will give it all the time and effort possible for a man in his position. That stubborn German streak of his shows up quite strongly when a challenge is presented to Larry, and he makes up his mind to meet it.

Right now his career goals are a little hazy. He worked part-time for the Grand Rapids Police Department as an assistant to the chemist, assisting in the analysis of drugs and other police related materials. His sights have been directed somewhat along that line with his major interest in chemistry being in the organic field.

What more can you say about a talented young man? His whole life can be best described in one word, ACTIVE; but he wouldn’t stand to have it any other way. Besides, to change this dynamic characteristic of Larry’s would render him unrecognizable to many on the Hope campus.
“Busy, Happy and Stimulating”

The beauty of Dimnent Memorial Chapel first attracted Mary Vlieger to Hope College. Upon looking into the academic, social and religious aspects of the college she was even more impressed. Despite the 750 miles between Holland and her home in Sioux Center, Iowa, Mary decided to make Hope her college home.

As a junior math major, Mary is beginning to think of graduation and her teaching career. She followed her father’s example: he graduated from Hope in 1942 with a math major, taught for a while and is now in a management position. Mary is also working on a science composite minor. She hopes to teach a math or math-science combination on the junior high level.

Education is personal as well as academic growth. In this area Mary has pledged the Alpha Gamma Phi sorority. As a resident advisor of Cluster 1-6 in Dykstra Hall, she greatly enjoys working and living with the girls. She enjoys sports and participates in the intramural athletic program.

Lake Michigan is a favorite of Mary’s. She has spent the last two summers working as a counselor at Camp Geneva, located just north of Holland. She sees this experience valuable to her growth as a Christian as well as excellent preparation for teaching and working with youth.

Mary’s years at Hope have been busy, happy and stimulating. The lessons she has learned here will contribute greatly to her growth and development as an individual.

Contemporary Christian

David Daubenspeck, senior from Holland, is enthusiastic about his commitment to Jesus Christ. His goal is to be a missionary broadcaster on radio and/or TV; thus using his talent in radio broadcasting to share his faith.

David will enter Fuller Theological Seminary next year where he expects to get his M.Div. degree in three years; then perhaps pick up his masters in communications in a year. A communications major, at Hope, the four years of graduate study should adequately prepare David for his work toward his goal.

“Providence lead me to WJBL when I was in high school,” says Dave. “I have worked there since that time as an announcer and newscaster.” WJBL is a Holland radio station with a religious emphasis. In Holland High, Dave competed in the local, regional and state Radio News section of forensics competition.

In the summer of 1973, Dave went to Quito, Ecuador to work with World Radio Missionary Fellowship. His work was in the area of Christian Ministry broadcasting on station MCJB, one of three radio stations of the WRMF. Operating AM, FM, and short wave in 18 languages, these stations cover 80% of the world. The RCA Temple Time beams over MCJB in English and Spanish.

As an independent study project in his Communications Course, Dave is currently designing a Christian rock program for transmission of two 15 minute programs per week over WJBL and WTAS, the Hope radio station. He looks upon this project as a means of soft sell evangelism through the medium of today’s music. He calls his program “A New Song,” a contemporary Christian youth music program. He researches “up tempo” religious and secular records for these broadcasts. Dave says, “I find some very inspirational philosophy in some secular music: George Harrison’s ‘The Light that Lights the World,’ and Harrison’s ‘Give Me Peace on Earth’ are examples. They are searching music. Those two pieces have to be interpreted as ‘Christ is the answer.’”

In the Communications Department, Dave was one of five students who worked as a task group on the preparation of a departmental calendar for promotional purposes.

Besides his work as an announcer at WJBL fifteen hours a week, his curriculum study, his devoted time with the Campus Crusade Master Action Group of the Ministry of Christ’s People, David is a member of the Chapel Choir, the Arcadian Fraternity, and a resident advisor at his campus residence.
Finally, Class of '74

Christian J. Njimma is one of Hope's "Geneva Scholars" from Africa; with double majors in English and economics, Class of 1974. His home is in Iho near Owerri, in the heart of the war-ravaged Secessionist Eastern Region of the Nigerian Civil War. The third of the six children of John and Elizabeth Njimma, Christian completed his high school education at Stella Maris Secondary School in Port-Harcourt, Nigeria, graduating as the valedictorian of his class in 1966. Through the Geneva Scholarship Funds and the Hope College International Education programs, Christian was enrolled to study at Hope in 1967, but the outbreak of the Nigerian Civil War set him back by four years. By 1971, funds were made available again and he finally arrived to begin courses at Hope. He plans to study for advanced degrees and on the completion of these, to return to his country and teach English Language and Literature.

When asked about his impressions during his studies at Hope, Christian commented: "Hope College is Holland, and Holland is Hope College. The twain are harmoniously coalesced to offer students an equitable academic environment, and the sum and substance of western cultural vitality."

"A Total Involvement"

Nancy Sigworth, a theatre major from Buffalo, N.Y., holds a fairly un-romantic view of her involvement in the performing arts. Whether she is acting, dancing or doing a mime, it is far more than the roar of the crowd and the smell of the grease-paint that counts. "Theatre is not just learning lines, coming up with clever bits and performing them for the fun of it. It is a total involvement, a way of life, and a serious self exploration. Without a strong commitment and willingness to give honestly of oneself, an artist in the theatre cannot effectively express himself."

While at Hope College, Nancy has explored several areas of the theatre. She was a part of the first Hope Summer Theatre. The theatre department's artist-in-residence program has brought her in contact with a number of professionals including award winning actor, Jose Ferrer. She has studied with professional choreographer, Rich Rahn who teaches dance performance at Hope.

In 1972 she spent a semester in New York City on the GLCA-New York Arts Program where she worked with the famous Nikolais Dance Theatre and the American Mime Theatre. Nancy's special interest and aptitude in mime prompted her to spend a good portion of last summer in Maine studying with one of the country's leading mime artists, Tony Montenaro and his Celebration Mime Theatre. Earlier this year she taught a mime workshop on campus and plans to direct one of Michel de Ghelderode's rarely produced mime plays.

As an actress Nancy's latest appearance at Hope was in the recent production of Cabaret when she played two roles including a dancing gorilla. Last semester she was seen as a raucous maid in The Servant of Two Masters and as the delicate Yelena in Uncle Vanya (see picture).

She also works as an assistant to the theatre department in charge of make up - a job that has called upon her to build false noses, transfer youthful actors to old age and constructing historically accurate commedia dell'arte masks. She has, in addition, directed for a student produced play festival and participated in several departmental workshops and demonstrations.

As Nancy looks toward the future she is interested in combining the various aspects of theatre performance (mime, acting and dance) into one whole technique. "The theatre is constantly changing trying to relate to the current conditions in the world. Right now there seems to be a genuine movement afoot to discover a form that can best speak to our age. It will be a powerful, total theatre and I want to participate." Nancy's first step in this direction will come this summer when she will participate in the Hope-Dubrovnik program in Yugoslavia. While there, she will work with students and teachers from other American schools and from Yugoslavian academies.
Businesswoman

E. Marie French, a junior business administration major from Bangor, Michigan, is a Hope College student of note. She is one of a slowly increasing number of women who are becoming leaders in the former man's world of business.

To her credit is the fact that Marie worked for a year before continuing on to college. This period enabled her to determine her desire for a liberal arts education, and decide that such an education, with a Business Administration emphasis, was the course she wanted to pursue. This working period also has given Marie a deep appreciation of the knowledge she is gaining from the liberal arts and has caused her to really work to get the best possible education.

Since her admission to Hope, Marie has been awarded a George F. Baker Jr. Scholarship given to aid the development of managerial talent. She is the current vice-president of the Baker Scholars. Marie feels that the Baker Scholarship, which was awarded in the spring of her sophomore year, has a very valuable program which enables the scholars to combine their textbook knowledge with a wide range of valuable business experience. During the Fall semester of 1973, the Baker Scholars undertook a study to determine the feasibility of setting up student-run businesses in order to provide the students with experience, academic credit, and financial benefit. Marie, along with another Baker Scholar, is engaged in the creation of a proposal to set up a student-run Accounting and Management Service which would employ Hope students as accountants to serve the surrounding community. The Baker Scholarship has also set up a "Mentor Program" between community businessmen and scholars in order to expose the scholars to various business areas and enable them to gain from a working relationship with the businessmen.

Among her other activities, Marie is an active participant in the Business Administration Department, being the elected student representative from the Baker Scholar Group, along with being a part-time student assistant to the Department. Marie is also an active member and the current treasurer of the Sigma Iota Beta Sorority. She and her roommate, Helen Dingwall, lead a second-grade Bluebird Troop, named the Butterflies, at Holland's Jefferson School. In addition to these extra-curricular activities, Marie enjoys cooking, sewing, knitting, crocheting, and various other needlecrafts and handicrafts, which she employs to make things for her family, friends, and herself.

After becoming a Certified Public Accountant, Marie plans to pursue a management career in the Finance or Production areas. She hopes to remain in the mid-west area after graduation.

All American . . . Politics

Ron Posthumus, a senior from Grand Rapids, is interested in pursuing a career in government. At the present time Ron's plans include graduate school at either Syracuse University or the University of Michigan where he would study in the field of public administration. Eventually he hopes to work as a congressional staff aide specializing in urban affairs.

Ron has been the recipient of many awards during his years at Hope, one of the highest being named to the 1973 College Division Academic All-American Football Team, one of just two Michigan collegians named to the team. Another was the prestigious National Collegiate Athletic Association $1,000 postgraduate scholarship. This award was established to recognize student-athletes and was presented to 10 students in the College Division of the NCAA. Ron, who is the first Hope student ever to receive this award had one of the highest grade points (3.83) of the College Division recipients. He had formerly been named a Presidential Scholar and Baker Business Scholar.

While at Hope, Ron lettered four years on the football team at defensive tackle. He was named to the all-MIAA squad this past season; the Flying Dutchmen captured the championship with an unbeaten record.

Besides Ron's talents on the football field he has also been active in campus affairs. He is presently president of the Student Congress, a member of the advisory committee to President Van Wylen and liaison to the Board of Trustees. He has been on the Dormitory Council and the Campus Life Board for three years in addition to playing a role in one of Hope's theatre productions.

A political science and history major at Hope, Ron spent the spring of 1973 in the Washington Semester Program, where he served as an intern in the office of Gerald Ford.
“Not Dutch, Not Reformed”

What brings a student who is not Dutch, not Reformed, and not interested in chemistry five hundred miles from home to the shores of Lake Michigan for his college education? “The friendliness of the people on campus, I guess,” Kevin Echart replies, “along with the impression that here was a college community that was honestly striving to combine a Christian commitment with academic excellence. I thought the result of such a combination would be a quality life-style, and I’ve found a good deal of that at Hope.”

For three years Kevin, a junior from Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania, remained a student-at-large, sampling a variety of courses from many departments, but this semester he has settled down to declare a major in his first love – history. “I think history provides a framework into which a lot of subjects – philosophy, literature, art, etc. – can be fit. Beside that, it gives a perspective often missing in twentieth-century American life.” This perspective was sharpened this summer when Kevin traveled in Europe with the Vienna Summer School, an experience he considers the focal point of his education. “At school you tend to be somewhat sheltered and isolated; being immersed in another culture and its values, seeing firsthand what before you have only gotten from books – that really secures the value of an education.”

This fall Kevin had another type of firsthand experience, working with primary documents in the Hope Archives while writing a biographical paper on Dr. Gerrit Van Zyl, long-time chairman of Hope’s chemistry department. “I felt like a real historian, researching not just other people’s work, but the original stuff.”

What about Kevin’s future plans? He hopes to attend graduate school “somewhere back East. After that my interest in Europe may lead to work overseas, but I’m also considering college teaching as a career. As I see it, college teaching enables you to pursue your own scholarly work in a community of people with similar academic interests. It is a more integrated life than many professions, a continuous living and learning process, and with the possibility of a real ministry to people. Several professors here had a real impact on me inside and outside the classroom. Teaching would be an opportunity to share that.”

“Potomac Fever”

As chairman of Hope College Republicans and columnist for the Anchor, senior political science major Chadwick Busk believes that political expression and participation should be a vital interest of every American. “Political involvement should be regarded as one of the highest contributions a person can make to his country, rather than the lowest,” he says. “People must see that the old stereotype of ‘corrupt politics’ is a poor rationale for political apathy.”

While at Hope, Busk has engaged in activities that might be viewed as developing skills essential to a successful political career. In addition to heading campus Republicans, he is vice-chairman of the Michigan League of College Republicans. He has won numerous tournament awards for intra-collegiate forensics, especially debate, and is a member of the honorary forensics organization, Pi Kappa Delta. In 1971 he received the George Birkhoff Award for the best freshman English composition. He is also a member of Eta Sigma Phi, a national honorary classical languages society.

In the 1972 campaign, Busk was in charge of the Republican vote-getting effort on campus for an internship course under the direction of Dr. Jack Holmes. Following the election in January, he went to Washington, D.C. as one of the Hope students selected to participate in the Washington Semester Program at the American University. While in the nation’s capital, Busk attended discussions with Congressmen, lobbyists, the press, and officials of the Executive branch. In addition, he participated in the Young Republican Leadership Conference, an event highlighted by a White House reception. Busk returned briefly to Washington last October with a delegation from Hope to attend the Pacem in Terris III conference. He admits to having a classic case of “Potomac fever.”

When asked whether or not he will go into politics, Chad Busk invariably grins and replies that it is not a question of one “going into” politics but of political opportunities which may arise, causing “politics to get into you.” Anyway, there are more immediate things in his future. After graduation in May, he hopes to attend Notre Dame Law School, where he plans to specialize in International Law.
Politics in the 1970's presents a picture of both confusion and certitude. Bombings, wars, scandals, and crises heighten confusion while orderly elections, enduring constitutions, and stable bureaucracies denote underlying certitude.

At Hope, political scientists strive to describe and analyze this confusion and certitude through the use of many different tools, methods, and opportunities. The result is that graduates who majored in Political Science have found attractive job positions in law, government service on all levels, education, business, and industry. An outstanding congressman, a member of the State Department Policy Planning Staff; a member of the President's Executive Office and a top Newsmaker writer are but a few that Hope points to with pride. Furthermore, studies show that for certain types of functions in commercial firms, political and social science majors are preferred to business majors. Anthony Fusaro of Northern Illinois University explains the reason for this. "Presumably," he writes, "their more broadly-based undergraduate programs have better prepared them to deal with people and to more fully understand the broader implications of questions they must cope with."

The Hope Political Science Department has a number of unique qualities that facilitate the student's understanding of the discipline. First and foremost is a faculty of four full-time and two temporary professors, with Ph.D.s from Colorado, Denver, Duke, Harvard, Iowa, and Michigan.

Dr. Renze L. Hoeksema is one of the newest members of the staff, coming to Hope in September, 1971 after spending over twenty years as a career foreign service officer. Dr. Hoeksema received his Ph.D. from Harvard (one of his classmates was Secretary of State Henry Kissinger) and spent his foreign service career in Pakistan, India, Iran, the Philippines, Australia, Laos, Cambodia, Vietnam, Thailand, and Washington, D.C. His special teaching interests are Southeast Asia, the Middle and Far East, American Foreign Policy, International Law, and Race Relations. He is acting Chairman of the Department and has spent the past two summers as a visiting scholar at Harvard University, and one month working in the Department of State in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Robert Elder joined the department in 1969, after spending eighteen months in India in order to collect information on population control for his Ph.D. dissertation. Professor Elder received his Ph.D. from Duke University in 1971. His primary teaching interests are political theory, public administration, and the politics and culture of India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, and the developing areas. Dr. Elder recently authored a book, Development Administration in a Northern Indian State: The Family Planning Program in Uttar Pradesh, and an article to appear this July in Population Studies, published by the University of London.

Dr. Jack Holmes also joined the faculty in 1969, after spending two years as a policy researcher in the Pentagon. Dr. Holmes received his Ph.D. from Denver University in 1972. He is on leave of absence in 1973-74, serving as the administrative assistant to U.S. Representative Donald Brotzman in Denver, Colorado. Professor Holmes' major teaching interests include international politics and organization, American Foreign Policy, Latin America, National Security policy, and the environment.

Dr. Jack Holmes also joined the faculty in 1969, after spending two years as a policy researcher in the Pentagon. Dr. Holmes received his Ph.D. from Denver University in 1972. He is on leave of absence in 1973-74, serving as the administrative assistant to U.S. Representative Donald Brotzman in Denver, Colorado. Professor Holmes' major teaching interests include international politics and organization, American Foreign Policy, Latin America, National Security policy, and the environment.

Dr. James Zoetewey has been a faculty member since 1966 and chairman of the department since 1971. Receiving his Ph.D. from the University of Colorado in 1971, Professor Zoetewey's teaching interests are Congress, the Presidency, political parties and elections, political party history, and national government. Dr. Zoetewey is on sabbatical leave in the Spring Semester 1974 and is working on several articles on Colorado politics.

Dr. James DeBorst of Calvin College and Dr. Edwin VanBruggen, who taught for several years at De Pauw University, are temporarily replacing Dr. Holmes for the 1973-74 school year. A graduate of the University of Michigan, Dr. DeBorst is currently teaching a course in Constitutional Law. Dr. VanBruggen, a 1971 graduate of the University of Iowa, has taught courses in U.S. national, state, and local government and urban politics.

The second unique quality of studying Political Science at Hope is the abundance of internship courses which a student can take to supplement in practical experience the many academically oriented courses. Recently, students have worked in the City Manager and Finance Department offices of the Holland city government and in the Washington offices of Congressmen Gerald R. Ford and Guy A. VanderJagt. In addition, Hope students have attended national presidential conventions and interviewed officials in Washington, D.C. about federal vocations; they also have planned and participated in model United Nations assemblies and political campaigns. At the moment, the possibilities for even greater internship opportunities are being explored.

In the past, the Washington Semester Program has enabled several outstanding Political Science majors each year to spend a semester of study in the nation's capital at the American University, meeting Congressmen, lobbyists, the press, and other federal government officials in small group sessions. This year’s participants are Paula Murray, Peter Hockstra, Jodi Jappinga, and Eugene Sutton. In the Spring of 1976, however, Hope will have its own Washington semester program. Not only will a greater number of students then be able to benefit from the Washington experience, approximately 12 to 15 per year, but also they will learn about the federal government under guidance from a Hope Political Science faculty member. Hope will be one of the few private colleges to have a program of this nature.

The third area that adds interest to Political Science study at Hope College is the large number of programs and activities that give students a chance to interact with professors, each other, and outside speakers. Often, these get-togethers have occurred in the informal, relaxed setting of Marigold Lodge. This year’s Christmas meeting featured a warm fireplace, caroling, season refreshments, and a talk by Western Theological Seminary President John Hesselink about the radical student movement in Japan. In the past year the department also sponsored visits by U.S. Senators Hatfield and Dominick, Congressman Les Aspin, former P.O.W. Larry Stark, Mexican-American Anti-Defamation Committee Spokesman Domingo Nick Reyes, and World Law Fund Spokesman Gerald Mische. Also on campus were representatives from, or spokesmen for Rhodesia, the Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department, South Asia, the People’s Republic of China, Indiana University Law School, and the Ottawa County legal aid office. Future tentative speakers include Japanese Consul General Tatsuo Suzuki, U.S. Representative Guy VanderJagt, and Michigan Governor W. G. Milliken.

At a time when many view politics as something they should go out of their way to avoid, the Hope College Department of Political Science, students and faculty, voice dissent. Dissent to the hysteria that government cannot be trusted to do much of anything anymore. Dissent to the extremism that problems in our system of government cannot be corrected without revolution. And with this dissent there is belief — profound belief that a most effective way to use one’s talents to make peace, feed the hungry, clothe the naked, and lead the blind is to provide dedicated political participation and leadership in America and the world.

Missionary Doctor

Dr. E. J. Strick, a 1903 Hope graduate, celebrated his 93rd birthday on January 6, 1974. Dr. Strick lives in San Francisco in a 15th floor apartment overlooking San Francisco Bay, the Golden Gate Bridge to the left, Alcatraz to the right. This scene is visible through full length glass doors as wide as the apartment. The alumni secretary felt as though she were on a movie set during the interview. Dr. Strick does his housekeeping, prepares his meals. His apartment is enhanced by beautiful things collected during his 26 years as a medical missionary in China: oriental rugs, a pearl ornamented ebony table, large brass tray, objects in carved wood, to name but a few. When Dr. Strick went to Hope Hospital, Amoy, China in 1911, he followed Dr. John Otte, an 1883 Hope graduate, a first medical missionary to China. Dr. Otte built Hope Hospital and named it for his Alma Mater in 1898. Dr. Andrew Bomhuis, a 1903 Prep School graduate was at Hope Hospital with Dr. Strick, an 1899 Hope Prep graduate.

In his specialty of surgery, Dr. Strick did much to relieve hundreds of Chinese from their burdensome tumors. He has a booklet filled with grotesque “before” surgery photographs, amazing “after” ones. Besides his full-time work at Hope Hospital, he made many house calls and was the U.S. Public Health Assistant Surgeon to inspect boats in Amoy Harbor bound for Manila. His fees for house calls and boat inspection were given to Hope Hospital.

Dr. Strick left Hope Hospital and the Reformed Church missionary service after 12 years to establish a 50-bed hospital with an assistant on the island of Kulangsu. During his seven or eight years there he served the Island as the Chairman (mayor) of Municipal Council in Kulangsu for one year. Following his work there he went to Chuanchow as a medical missionary of the

Dr. E. J. Strick, a 1903 Hope graduate, celebrated his 93rd birthday on January 6, 1974. Dr. Strick lives in San Francisco in a 15th floor apartment overlooking San Francisco Bay, the Golden Gate Bridge to the left, Alcatraz to the right. This scene is visible through full length glass doors as wide as the apartment. The alumni secretary felt as though she were on a movie set during the interview. Dr. Strick does his housekeeping, prepares his meals. His apartment is enhanced by beautiful things collected during his 26 years as a medical missionary in China: oriental rugs, a pearl ornamented ebony table, large brass tray, objects in carved wood, to name but a few. When Dr. Strick went to Hope Hospital, Amoy, China in 1911, he followed Dr. John Otte, an 1883 Hope graduate, a first medical missionary to China. Dr. Otte built Hope Hospital and named it for his Alma Mater in 1898. Dr. Andrew Bomhuis, a 1903 Prep School graduate was at Hope Hospital with Dr. Strick, an 1899 Hope Prep graduate.

Dr. Strick left Hope Hospital and the Reformed Church missionary service after 12 years to establish a 50-bed hospital with an assistant on the island of Kulangsu. During his seven or eight years there he served the Island as the Chairman (mayor) of Municipal Council in Kulangsu for one year. Following his work there he went to Chuanchow as a medical missionary of the English Presbyterian Church where he stayed until 1937. Chuanchow is the place visited by Marco Polo who knew it as Zaytun (our word satin).

During his service in China, Dr. Strick spoke two Chinese languages: the Amoy Dialect spoken by 11 million Chinese people and all of Formosa (now Taiwan), also in the Strait settlements in Malaysia and in Indonesia; and Mandarin, the official language and that of northern soldiers. His knowledge of Mandarin was imperative to his medical work for the army. This work was recognized by his being honored with the Order of the Tiger conferred upon him by the Chinese Army.

Before the close of his 1937 furlough, Dr. Strick was advised that the Japanese had taken over the Chuanchow area and that his return would mean his life. He remained in Palo Alto, California where he had spent his furlough, to become school physician in Palo Alto and continued this pleasant service until 1952. He said, "I enjoyed this experience most of all because school children are well people."

Dr. and Mrs. Strick enjoyed life in Palo Alto. They had an active professional and social life. They were members of the Methodist Church. They also enjoyed their home where they had a beautiful garden. Mrs. Strick was the former Edith Mae Walker, granddaughter of Elder Walker (Dutch) of the First Reformed Church in Holland, now Ninth Street Christian Reformed Church. The Stricks went to China the year they were married, 1911, also the year Dr. Strick received his medical degree from the University of Chicago. Mrs.Strick died in 1962.

As an adjunct to his work with the school children, Dr. Strick did much for the Boy Scouts; so much that he received the Silver Beaver Award in 1956, served as a member of the National Council BSOA from 1963 until 1970 and still goes to the national meetings. He was honored with membership on the Executive Committee BSOA in 1972 at the age of 92. Dr. Strick registers great pride in his work for the Scouts as well as with the school children; he is especially pleased with his block "P" received for his service as team physician for the Palo Alto high school football team.

Proof of another professional involvement in California, Dr. Strick has a Medal and four Certificates of Appreciation from President Harry Truman and three Medals from President Franklin Roosevelt for his service on the California Draft Board, World War II.

Another prized activity is his membership in the Palo Alto Kiwanis Club since 1938 and his perfect attendance for 30 years. He regularly played the piano for the luncheon meetings. Dr. Strick said, "no one else played the piano and in the kingdom of the blind, the one-eyed man is king." When Edward Strick was ten years old his father bought a Cottage Organ at Meyer's Music Store in Holland. A Miss Van Haitsma made (he circuit of his piano and in the kingdom of the blind, the one-eyed man is king."

Dr. Strick said, "no one else played the piano and in the kingdom of the blind, the one-eyed man is king." When Edward Strick was ten years old his father bought a Cottage Organ at Meyer's Music Store in Holland. A Miss Van Haitsma made the circuit of his community by horse and buggy to give music lessons. Edward took the lessons, but his twin sister hid in the barn because she didn't want to take lessons.

Dr. Strick was born in Forest Grove, Michigan where his father was a farmer. The State of Michigan has recently erected a Centennial marker on the farm indicating that it has been in the same family for 100 years.

To continue with Edward’s musical education, he took ten lessons on the piano in Orange City, Iowa when he went there to teach in the Academy in 1903. These lessons concluded his musical education. However his talent was passed on to his son via the violin who was concertmaster of the Stanford University Symphony while a student. The son's daughter and son are accomplished pianists. This granddaughter now has Dr. Strick's Steinway.

After teaching English and Greek for two years at Orange City Academy, Dr. Strick taught the Latin class in Sioux Center, Iowa where he was principal of the high school and superintendent of the grade schools for one year.

It was after his Iowa experience that Dr. Strick went to the University of Chicago for his M.D. While a medical student himself, he assisted in the Anatomy Department in gross anatomy histology and neurology. He prepared a set of histological specimens, which were highly praised at the Medical School and were used in classes. It was among these specimen that Hope's G. J. Van Zoeren, a chemist, discovered the nerve cell which he called "the perfect specimen."

While a student in the Prep School "A" (senior) class, Edward Strick was the Class Poet. He still writes poetry about things that “get to him.” During the California “hippie epidemic” he wrote a trilogy in poetry about it; two were with ridicule and contempt, the third was with pity: “God's all encircling arms of love / are round the hippies too / What does God see in them? / The same he sees in me and you / Vile sinners all, with naught to boast / Who strays the farthest needs Him most.”

Familywise Dr. Strick has three sisters, one of whom is the mother of Henrietta Keizer '25, a brother died years ago. He has two daughters and a son: Mrs. Francis N. Marshall, San Francisco; Jacqueline Cibilich, San Jose, California; Harry Walker Strick, Westport, Connecticut; twelve grandchildren, and four great grandchildren.

At the close of the interview which sparked with Dr. Strick's wit, and his sharp intelligence, he prepared and served a cup of tea, China tea, the capstone of a delightful afternoon overlooking San Francisco Bay. As the secretary took leave, Dr. Strick quoted verses of a hymn. This came through as his continuing and growing philosophy through a long useful life, always in its focus: "I am trusting Thee, Lord Jesus / Trusting only Thee / Trusting Thee for full salvation / Great and free / I am trusting Thee for pardon / At Thine feet I bow / For Thy great and tender mercy / Trusting now / I am Trusting Thee to guide me / Thou alone shalt lead / Every day and hour supplying / all my need / I am trusting Thee for power / Thine can never fail / Words which Thou Thyself shalt give me / Must prevail."

The excellent rate of acceptance of Hope’s health profession students into medical and dental schools, compared with the national average, prompted this resume by Dr. Norman Rieck. Dr. Rieck has been chairman of the Health Professions Committee for the past ten years; an associate professor of biology since 1962. When he returned to Hope, he had teaching experience at the Temple University and University of Michigan medical schools. His M.S. and Ph.D. degrees were received at the University of Michigan. A veteran of the USAF in World War II, Dr. Rieck recently became a member of the Macatawa Flyers, Inc., a new non-profit corporation which purchased a Cessna Skyhawk. These flyers reason that they can fly more often in a newer plane for less expense.

Late each summer a considerable number of the young men and women who arrive on the Hope College campus ready to embark upon their academic careers with us, have a health professions goal of one sort or another in mind. Many of this group proudly announced that they are “premeds” or “prelets”.

Throughout the nation this group of young people is steadily increasing in numbers. Hope College students are no exception to this national trend.

During the time that it takes for the exuberant freshman to mellow into stable, confident, academically sound seniors some have come to the decision that medicine or dentistry is not the road to follow. This of course is both normal and healthy. Personally, I would much rather have a happy, well-adjusted physician or dentist performing his or her particular skill on my body than a miserable, frustrated individual who pursued an unwanted career because this was expected of him.

In the past decade those Hope students who decided that their lives could be most meaningful if they pursued careers in medicine or dentistry have found a considerable measure of success in achieving these objectives.

The number of medical schools in the United States has increased slowly but steadily to the present number 115 and the number of places for first year students has increased to just less than 14,000. However, the number of applicants in the last few years has risen disproportionately. The result of course is that the percentage of applicants accepted has been declining steadily. Last year this figure was just over 38%.

In the face of such discouraging figures, about 2/3 of Hope College premedical students have gained admission each year. When averaged over the past decade we find that roughly 70% of the applicants from Hope College have been accepted.

While numbers of students are smaller, the same general ratio of applicants to accepted students hold for those interested in dentistry.

We are proud of this record of accomplishment by our students because we feel strongly that it reflects well upon the training both within the classroom and laboratory and beyond the walls of the academic buildings which they have received from the hands and minds, and most importantly, the hearts of many faculty members whose lives have touched theirs in a variety of meaningful ways.

We are grateful to loyal alumni who have continued to send us fine young men and women whom we can learn to know, and teach, and love, and then send on.

RIDER RESIGNATION

I also want to add a personal note of appreciation to Dean Rider for the counsel and friendship he has given me. This has been invaluable to me, since I came to Hope College, and I am grateful to him.

So, it is both on a personal capacity and as the representative of the faculty, that I express to you, Dean Rider, our appreciation, affection, and best wishes.

SUMMER GRANTS

Hope College annually makes grants to faculty members for summer professional development or research projects which promise to help them in their growth as scholar-teachers. The selection of grant recipients is made by an elected faculty committee, the President and the Dean for Academic Affairs. Faculty members present a detailed proposal for their summer project. Two special grants are awarded each year. These are the DenUyl Fellowship, which is awarded annually to a teacher of established reputation and marked distinction, and has been made possible through a gift to the College by Dr. Simon DenUyl, '19. The Julia Reimold Faculty Award is given to a member of the faculty whose proposal for summer research in writing best offers effective expression of those spiritual and cultural values which motivated the founder of Hope College, Dr. Albertus VanRaalte.

The Committee named Dr. Eldon Greij from the Department of Biology as the DenUyl Fellow of 1974. Dr. Greij will pursue his research with several students in the breeding biology of marsh birds in the Lake Macatawa watershed. Last summer, Dr. Greij and his students banded a large number of birds in the area and collected preliminary data which was presented at the annual meeting of the American Ornithologists Union last October. The Reimold Grant recipient is Dr. Sang Lee from the Department of Religion, who will pursue his studies of the unpublished manuscripts of Jonathan Edwards and his place in America's intellectual and religious history. The work will be undertaken in the Yale University Library and the subsequent writing will become a portion of Dr. Lee's book on Edwards.

Additional faculty members have been designated as grant recipients from funds established by the Matthew Wilson Foundation. These include Professor Alan Bedell from the Department of German, who will spend the summer in Germany preparing materials for use in the German classes at Hope College. Dr. Allen Brady from the Department of Biology will use the grant to prepare for publication results of his research for the National Science Foundation on the lynx spider in Southwestern United States, Mexico, and Central America. Dr. Elton Bruins '50 from the Religion Department will continue his work in writing a book entitled VanRaalte and His People, a documentary history based upon research which he has conducted in the United States and during his sabbatical leave to the Netherlands last year.

Dr. Earl Curry from the History Department will pursue his research at the University of Chicago and at the Hoover Library in support of a publication on isolationism and American foreign policy. Dr. D. Ivan Dykstra from the Department of Philosophy will spend the summer examining the Problem of Scientific Explanation related to his teaching and other research in the area of the Philosophy of Science.

Dr. Douglas Heerema from the Department of Economics will pursue his writing on a book concerned with Economics for the Clergy, tentatively entitled Man, Markets, and Morality. Dr. John Hopkins from the Communication Department will continue his research on the topic "An Investigation of the Speech-Writing Process Employed by President Harry S. Truman and His Staff, 1945 through 1953," with a portion of his time being spent in research at the Harry S. Truman Library, while Dr. Anthony Koosker of the Music Department will continue his work in the Master Piano Classes of Leon Fleisher at the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore.

From the Chemistry Department, Dr. William Mungall will represent Hope College at the 1974 Conference on Laboratory Instruction in Chemistry to be held in New York, and following that, the meetings of the Organic Chemistry Curriculum Committee of the American Chemical Society of which Dr. Mungall is a member. Dr. Robert Palm, Religion, will continue his research in the works of medieval scholars in relation to a Christian philosophy of education at the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies and the Center for Medieval Studies at the University of Toronto. From the Department of Spanish, Orestes Pino will study Inter-American Relations and Brazilian Literature at the University of New Mexico. Dr. Robert Reinking, Geology, will conduct research into the effects of highway deicing salts on the surface waters of the Lake Macatawa Drainage Basin, and from the Department of English, Dr. William Reynolds will undertake an investigation of the fiction of a major science fiction writer, Arthur C. Clark, who wrote the screenplay for 2,001: A Space Odyssey. Another member of the English faculty. Dr. Peter Schakel will continue his research on Jonathan Swift and pursue the influence of less known political satirists of the late Seventeenth Century on Swift's poetry. John Timmi of the Theatre Department will study vocal production for the actor with the Lessac Institute in New York for use in his teaching and coaching of vocal production courses in the Department of Theatre. John Wilson from the Department of Art

Hope's dean for academic affairs for the past seven years, Dr. Morrette Rider, informed the faculty and administrative staff of his resignation in the following letter on January 14, 1974:

I have today delivered a letter to President Van Wylen asking that I be relieved of the duties of the Office of the Dean for Academic Affairs at the end of the present college year.

This has been a difficult decision made only after many months of careful thought and conversation. It is essential that the President have the opportunity to make his own selection of a Dean and that this Dean be a person whose educational philosophy and administrative style are fully supportive of his objectives.

I deeply appreciate the friendship, cooperation, and support each of you have given me over the past six years, and I know that my successor and President Van Wylen will receive this same consideration.

President Van Wylen wrote the following letter to the faculty on January 16, 1974:

As you know, Dean Morrette L. Rider has submitted his resignation as Dean for Academic Affairs, effective at the conclusion of this academic year. Dean Rider has served with distinction in this capacity for the past six years. These years have been marked by some of the greatest stresses that the higher education community has ever known. The present strength of Hope College results, in a very significant measure, from the dedication, commitment, and effective work of Dean Rider during this period. I am sure that I speak for the entire faculty in expressing to Dean Rider our great appreciation for all that he has done for Hope College while serving as Dean. We have valued his personal friendship, counsel, and encouragement.
will work at the Frick Art Reference Library in New York to study various aspects of Eighteenth Century European art.

BACH FESTIVAL SOLOISTS

Two music students have been declared winners in the ninth annual young artists competition sponsored by the Bach Festival Society at Kalamazoo College. They are Marian Voetberg, a freshman piano major and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Voetberg of Zeeland and Rhonda Rider, a cello major from Holland and the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Morette Rider. They will appear as featured soloists at the Young Artists Program of the Bach Festival Society on March 21 in Kalamazoo.

Miss Voetberg is a piano student with Miss Joan Conway of the Hope Music Department. She attended all state program at Interlochen in the summer of 1972 and the Western Michigan Summer Music Seminar in 1973. In 1973 she was the second place winner in the Grand Rapids Youth Symphony Concerto auditions. While at Hope she serves as organist at Grace Episcopal Church and plans to pursue a career in music education upon graduation. She will perform the Partita No. 1 for piano by J.S. Bach.

Miss Rider graduated from Holland High School in January and is now enrolled as a special student at Hope. For the past five years she has studied with Dr. Robert Ritsema at Hope and now during Dr. Ritsema's sabbatical is studying with Dr. Herbert Butler of the School of Music of Western Michigan University. During the summer of 1973 she was a member of the World Youth Symphony Orchestra at Interlochen and has for the past two years been the principal cellist with the Grand Rapids Youth Symphony Orchestra. She plans to pursue a performance major in cello at the Oberlin Conservatory beginning next September. She will perform the First Suite for Solo Cello by Johann Sebastian Bach at Interlochen in the summer of 1972.

The Bach Festival at Kalamazoo was founded in 1946 and in the following years has gained international stature as one of the leading festivals devoted to the composers from the Baroque era. The Young Artists Concert, instituted as a part of the Festival in 1965, is intended to encourage young artists to become involved in the performance of music from this period. Soloists are selected from a series of live performing auditions, this year from over 70 entrants.

CHILDREN'S ART AND DRAMA CLASSES

The Hope College Art Department and the Holland Junior Welfare League jointly sponsored a Saturday morning art program for fifth and sixth grade students. The classes were conducted by art education students from the college under the supervision of their instructor, William C. Strudwick. Because of generous financial support by the Junior Welfare League, there was no fee charged for these classes, which ran from February 9 - March 16.

Creative drama classes for children, ages 5-13, were offered during February, March and April by Mallie Finn, Hope College theatre instructor. The classes emphasized informal drama experience for all children, not just a talented minority. According to Mrs. Finn, "creative drama does not aim to produce plays or to train actors. The objectives, instead, are to encourage self, group and sensory awareness and to provide an outlet for emotional and imaginative response." Activities included in these classes are introductory work in vocal and physical expression, role-playing, improvisation, story dramatization and play-making (creative plays based on their own ideas).

TWO GRANTS

Dr. Lynn M. Hoepfinger, associate professor of chemistry at Hope has been awarded a $14,700 grant from the U.S. Public Health Service for a project titled "Isolation and Properties of Bovine Kidney Urokinase".

The project will involve the extraction of the enzyme urokinase from animal kidney tissue, a substance which can be used clinically to remove blood clots in humans. It is currently used to remove clots in pulmonary arteries but it has not been extensively because of its limited supply, high cost ($1,000 per patient), and difficulty of isolation.

"The project hopes to provide the expertise necessary to supply the medical profession with an inexpensive source of urokinase, analogous to the animal source used for the medical supply of insulin," said Dr. Hoepfinger.

Two Hope students are currently beginning the isolation procedure. Tom Kapral from Philadelphia, will do the isolation while Dale Rice from Rochester, New York will determine enzyme purity.

The project will continue for two years and provide research experience for two students working full time during the summers.

The Helm Foundation of Ann Arbor has awarded a grant to professors Brooks and Nancy Wheeler of the foreign languages and literatures faculty to support one year of study in the doctoral program of the department of Classical studies at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Wheeler holds degrees from Dartmouth College, Harvard University, and the University of Michigan, while Mrs. Wheeler holds degrees from Indiana University and the University of Michigan. They joined the Hope faculty in 1968.

FELLOWSHIP RECEIVED

Dr. Peter J. Schakel, associate professor of English at Hope College, has been awarded a $1,000 post-doctoral fellowship by the William Andrews Clark Memorial Library in Los Angeles for study this summer.

Only six such awards were made from a nationwide competition among scholars of late 17th and early 18th century English literature. Eligible scholars must have received their Ph.D. within the past five years.

The Clark Library, part of the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA), has one of the world's finest collections of publications and manuscripts produced in England between 1660 and 1740 according to Dr. Schakel.

The topic of the program, which will be held during July and early August, is "The Literature of Controversy, 1660-1740." Each fellowship recipient will be allowed to work on his own project in addition to attending a weekly seminar session with the other fellows. The program will be directed by Maximilian Novak, a nationally known scholar in this field.

Dr. Schakel will continue his study of the poetry of Jonathan Swift, concentrating particularly on his political satire.

As we go to press the following letter inviting alumni assistance arrived from president Gordon Van Wylen:

"As you know, Dean Morette L. Rider, who has served to effectively for the past six years as Dean for Academic Affairs, has resigned from this position. We are grateful to him for all he has done for Hope College during these years.

We are now seeking to identify candidates for this position. We have tentatively decided that in the future the chief academic officer have the title of Provost. We seek a person who will give outstanding academic leadership at Hope College. We believe this person should have a distinguished academic record, and personal qualities and commitments which will enable him/her to effectively identify with and represent Hope College.

We invite alumni to assist us by suggesting the names of persons to serve in this position. Please send recommendations, along with biographical information, to my office.

Thank you for your assistance in this important matter.

TWO GET DOCTORATES

Dean Sommers, assistant professor of mathematics at Hope College, has been awarded his Ph.D. by Ohio State University. Dr. Sommers has been a member of the Hope faculty since 1969. He received his B.S. degree from Huntington (Ind.) College and the M.S. degree from Ohio State. Dr. Sommers' dissertation evaluated the factors used in predicting the potential success of Hope College students taking a course in calculus. One way in which the results of the study will be used is in the strengthening of the advising program for entering freshman at Hope whose course of study includes calculus, according to Dr. Sommers.

Howard M. Iams, assistant professor of sociology at Hope College, was awarded the doctor of philosophy degree in sociology from the University of Michigan on Dec. 16. Using data from the U.S. Census of 1960, Iams wrote his dissertation on the topic of inequality in earnings between men and women.
women. A paper based upon a portion of the dissertation was presented at the 1973 annual meetings of the North Central Sociological Association. Currently, his work examines changes between 1960 and 1970 in the inequality in earnings between men and women. Last year, he joined the Hope faculty in 1970. He received an A.M. degree from Indiana University in 1967 and an A.M. from the University of Michigan in 1969.

ENGLISH WORKSHOP

Dr. William Reynolds, assistant professor of English at Hope, attended a workshop in February on new kinds of texts.

Sponsored by the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan, the workshop on "Alternate Methods of Evaluating Student Performance in the Cognitive and Affective Domain" was held at Nazareth College in Kalamazoo. It is one of a series of workshops for college faculty supported by the Kellogg Foundation.

Basic assumption of the workshop is that the traditional "paper and pencil test" is no longer adequate, especially with the new learning methods current in colleges. Such learning approaches as seminars, internships, simulation games, and independent study projects require means of evaluation that are innovative yet precise, says Reynolds.

ART WORKS COLLECTED

Works of art by a Hope College faculty member, student and graduate have been added to the permanent collection of the city of Grand Rapids.

Bruce McCombs, assistant professor of art, had an Intaglio print entitled "Freeway" accepted. McCombs has won 15 invitational prizes and awards since 1968, including the purchase awards from the annual exhibits of the Society of American Graphic Artists in 1968 and 1973. His prints have been included in nearly 60 invitational exhibitions throughout the country.

Debra Van Tuinen, a 1973 Hope graduate from Grand Rapids, had an etching entitled "Mansion" accepted. Miss Van Tuinen is currently pursuing a graduate degree in printmaking at Idaho State University. As the student assistant of professor McCombs, Miss Van Tuinen was given a purchase award from the College's purchase awards from the annual exhibits of the Society of American Graphic Artists.

The back cover of the Vesper Service illustrated in the printed program, The Esther M. Snow Vesper Service, was presented on Sunday evening, February 24, in Dimnent Memorial Chapel. The Reverend Dr. Glen O. Peterman, minister of Hope Church, Holland gave "The Spoken Word": the Chapel Choir directed by Roger J. Riehberg, sang.

In the printed program, The Esther M. Snow Vienna Scholarship Fund was announced. The fund will annually provide one or more scholarships to outstanding students planning to spend a summer in Vienna studying Music, German or European Culture.

Mrs. Snow's children, all Hope alumni, and two grandchildren honored their parents' memory by singing in the Hope Church Choir on that Sunday morning. Their father, the late Curtis M. Snow, had been organist and choir director there from 1929 until his death, their mother continued in the work for twenty-one years.

The children are: Curtis M. Snow '45, Severna Park, Maryland; Robert W. Snow '49, Toledo, Ohio; Janet Snow '49 Pontier, Cedar Grove, New Jersey, and Jean Snow '49 Bloomfield, Holland. A grandson, Timothy Snow, graduated from Hope in 1973. Another grandson and a granddaughter will enter Hope in the fall.

The back cover of the Vesper Service program was a beautiful resume of the life of Esther MacFarlane Snow, 1895-1974. It follows:

Esther MacFarlane Snow was born in Yankton, South Dakota on July 26, 1895. She died on February 19, 1974 in Holland Hospital where she had been a patient for about a month. Death was due to cancer.

A Memorial Vesper Service for Mrs. Snow was presented on Sunday evening, February 24, in Dimnent Memorial Chapel. The Reverend Dr. Glen O. Peterman, minister of Hope Church, Holland gave "The Spoken Word": the Chapel Choir directed by Roger J. Riehberg, sang.

In the printed program, The Esther M. Snow Vienna Scholarship Fund was announced. The fund will annually provide one or more scholarships to outstanding students planning to spend a summer in Vienna studying Music, German or European Culture.

Mrs. Snow's children, all Hope alumni, and two grandchildren honored their parents' memory by singing in the Hope Church Choir on that Sunday morning. Their father, the late Curtis M. Snow, had been organist and choir director there from 1929 until his death, their mother continued in the work for twenty-one years.

The back cover of the Vesper Service program was a beautiful resume of the life of Esther MacFarlane Snow, 1895-1974. It follows:

Esther MacFarlane Snow was born in Yankton, South Dakota on July 26, 1895. She died on February 19, 1974 in Holland, Michigan. Her long life was rich and joyful because she was a woman of great vitality and many interests, chief among them people and music. These two pointed the direction for her career. After formal training at Morningide and Oberlin Music Conservatories, she came to Holland with her husband, W. Curtis Snow, in 1929 when he was appointed the first organist in the newly erected Dimnent Memorial Chapel. Participating with her husband in his many music tasks, she was soon recognized as an accomplished pianist, organist, and choir director in her own right. Thus, when the early death of her husband in 1935 left her at the mainstay of a family of four young children, she was prepared to take over her husband's tasks. For eighteen years she was chapel organist, piano instructor, and director of the Women's Glee Club and Hope College Choirs.

When arthritis began to make continuing mastery of the organ more difficult, she confronted it with equanimity and even enthusiasm, and set out at the age of fifty-nine to prepare herself for a second teaching career, turning now to another of her interests, the German language. Armed with an M.A. in German from Michigan State University, she returned to Hope for the final ten years of her teaching career, as Assistant Professor of German—the favorite teacher and inspiration of many a student who was convinced he never could learn a foreign language. When the Hope College Vienna Summer School program was inaugurated, her instinctive way with students, her wit, her constant enthusiasm for enlarging her world, and her former experience with Choir tours made her a natural asset for this program; and for six years she served on the Vienna Summer School staff, up to her retirement in 1965.

Most of Mrs. Snow's creative service centered around Hope College. However, she was active, too, in the life of the church and the community. A member of Hope Reformed Church for nearly half a century, she served as its organist and choir director for twenty-one years. She was a long time member of the Holland Centennial Room, and the time of her death was serving as president of a local chapter of the P.E.O. Sisterhood. Surviving her are a sister, her four children, and thirteen grandchildren.

Charles was a 1964 graduate of Three Oaks High School and a 1968 graduate of Hope College. He was graduated cum laude from Hope. During the summer between his Sophomore and Junior year, he was sponsored by the Trinity Reformed Church, Holland, for Internship work in the Bronx, N.Y. area under the direction of the Church of the Comforter, Rev. Carl De Jong, pastor.

In 1971 he received his master of divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary. He was examined and granted his Preaching License by the Classis of Kalamazoo. He was presently working on his doctoral degree at Princeton. Charles received the Benjamin Stanton Middler prize in 1970 for his Old Testament studies at Princeton.

While at Princeton, Mr. Lake was engaged in field work at the Addisvel Reformed Church, Richboro, Pa., the Faith Reformed Church, Levittown, Pa., and the Griggstown Reformed Church, Princeton.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, January 3, 1974 in the First Reformed Church, Three Oaks, where Charles was a member. Participating in the service were the Rev. Bernard D. Ekema, Pastor; Dr. James Cook, from Western Seminary; The Rev. Charles Brown, Fellow Doctoral Student at Princeton, and Dr. Bernard Anderson, chairman of the Biblical Department at Princeton. Internment was in the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Three Oaks.

Charles and his wife, the former Suzanna Dykhuizen, were married July 1, 1967 in Rochester, N.Y. They resided at 203 Loetscher Place, Princeton, N.J. Survivors are his wife and parents.

The First Reformed Church of Three Oaks is establishing a memorial fund in honor of Mr. Lake to be designated The Charles Lake Memorial Prize in Philosophy at Hope College. Annual awards will be granted to deserving students selected by the Philosophy Department faculty, Contributions may be sent to the First Reformed Church, 201 N. Elm St., Three Oaks, or to Hope College, Holland.

ADELAIDE DYKHUIZEN, niece of Hope's late President Edward D. Dimnent, died December 15, 1973, in Adelaide, Australia, where she and her twin sister, Geraldine, were visiting. They had planned to spend Christmas with a nephew, Dr. Daniel Dykhuizen in Canberra.

Miss Dykhuizen, her sister and brother, the late Harold D. Dykhuizen, lived on campus while they were students. Their bachelor uncle, president of the College, had recruited his sister, their mother, Mrs. Nell Dykhuizen, to be his official hostess. The twins, Adelaide and Geraldine were graduated in 1926, Harold in 1930.

Born in Chicago, Miss Dykhuizen taught in Holland for forty-two years, nine years in the Hope High School and thirty-three years in E. E. Fell Junior High School. She taught English, French and history.

Always active in educational circles, Miss Adelaide served as president of the Holland teachers' organization and since her retirement continued her interest in the policymaking level for retired teachers. One of the early members of Holland's Junior Welfare League, she had served as its president. At the time of her death, she was active in the AAWL, the Woman's Literary Club, the League of Women Voters, the Holland Garden Club and the K.W. Chapter of PEO. She was a member of Hope Church and its Guild for Christian Service.

Miss Dykhuizen's survivors are her sister, Geraldine, Holland; a sister-in-law, Lucille Walwood '31 Basker, North Muskegon; a nephew, Daniel Dykhuizen, Australia; and two nieces, Ann Dykhuizen Brenner '68, Evansville, Indiana, and Jane Dykhuizen Schroeder '70, Holland.

MARION MERSSEN BAKKER '23, wife of the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Nicholas Bakker '23, Manchester, Ct., passed away in Hartford Ct. Hospital, February 7, 1974. She was a descendant on her mother's side of the Visschers who came with Dr. Van Raalte and founded Holland in 1847 and Hope College in 1866. She was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Merssen; the sister of the late Mrs. William Van Hazel (Grace '22) and of Cathalene Mersen '27 of Tucson, Ariz. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Cornelius Jr., Braintree and Wellesfield, Mass.; Peter Mersen '57, Pleasant Valley, Ct.; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Merrill, Alexandria, Va., and Mrs. Paul J. Moritz, Suffield, Ct.; twelve grandchildren. One grandson, Bron C. Gervais, is a freshman at Hope College.

MARY LA HUIS COITCH was born July 13, 1891, in Zeeland, Mich., the daughter of Albert and Christine Den Herder La Huis. She graduated from Hope College in 1913 and was married in Zeeland, on August 31, 1917, to Herbert S. Coith of Bloomington, Illinois. They celebrated their 50th wedding... anniversary in Cincinnati, Ohio, where they had made their home since 1924. Dr. Coith, who was Chemical Director of the Procter and Gamble Co., died in March, 1968. Mrs. Coith returned to the family home and died after a short illness on November 23, 1973. She is survived by two children, Mrs. Richard C. Vanderhoff of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Dr. Robert La Ha Coith of Cincinnati, six grandchildren, and five great grandchildren.

ELIZABETH GROTEMAT DYKSTRA '08, widow of the late Rev. John D. Dykstra, died December 19, 1973, at Resthaven Nursing Home, Morrison, Ill. Elizabeth Grotemat was a charter member of the Sorosis Society and its first president. Mrs. Dykstra and her husband served the Reformed Church in America for 36 years. They served pastores in Illinois, Michigan, North Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin and South Dakota. Survivors include five children, Josephine Thostenson, Iowa City; David, Hempeast, N.Y.; Daniel, David, Calif.; Philip '41, Tinley Park, Ill.; Rachel Spindler '48, Chicago; eight grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.

As we go to press we are informed of the death of HAAKSM '51 on February 9, 1973, in Utica, N.Y. Mr. Haaksma, a chemistry major at Hope received an M.A. in educational administration from the University of Michigan. He was appointed registrar of Mohawk Valley Community College, Utica, in September 1971. He had previously been registrar of Tusculum College, Greenville, Tenn.

Area Alumni Meetings

Alumni Director Tom Houtman and Mrs. Houtman entertained 46 at coffee in their home in Midland on Sunday January 13. This get-together was held in conjunction with President Van Wylen's preaching in Midland Reformed Church.

Len and Ann Rowell made the arrangements for an evening dessert and coffee in the United Methodist Church Conference Center, Cherry Hill, New Jersey, on January 25. Thirty-three alumni, parents, and prospective students from the Philadelphia and southern New Jersey area attended.

Alumni Director Rev. Jack and Ruth Hasenup invited alumni, parents and Hope friends on Long Island to an afternoon coffee on Sunday, January 27. This get-together was also tied to Dr. Van Wylen's preaching in Mr. Hasenup's church, Brookline Reformed, Glen Head, in the morning.

President Gordon Van Wylen, Vice President Robert De Young and Alumni Secretary Marian Stryker attended the Philadelphia, Westchester and Long Island meetings.

Evelyn Albers Wilson arranged a meeting for 40 west coast alumni, friends, parents, and vacationers in the Northwest Christian Reformed Church on February 10.

Willard and Martha Bicknell took care of arrangements for dinner in William Miller's Restaurant, Ft. Lauderdale, February 22. Forty attended despite the critical gasoline situation in Florida.

President and Mrs. Van Wylen, Kent Van Genderen, director of planned giving, and Marian Stryker attended the Florida meetings.

Since August 1972, Dr. Van Wylen has met 1054 alumni, parents, or friends of Hope in twenty-three organized alumni meetings.

Thirty alumni attended a get-together following the Hope-Central basketball game in Pella, Iowa on December 8, 1973. Vice President Robert De Young, Director of College Relations Tom Rennen and Marian Stryker attended.
Needles and pins, needles and pins.
That’s how June Stoppels’ day begins.

“Not really, laughs Mrs. Robert M. Stoppels, but she admits that many days are spent cutting, pinning, sewing, gluing and decorating—puppets.

Her hobby started in childhood, became an avocation during the teaching days and now has branched into a part-time vocation.

Her own children grew up surrounded by puppets. “Robin, now 19, John, 15, and Michael, 10 sometimes found themselves talking back to the puppets I created.”

She not only makes puppets for herself but donates them to worthy organizations. The Salvation Army, school groups, 4-H clubs, Campfire Girls and Bluebirds have been recipients.

“It can get costly if you use special materials, but I generally find remnants of cloth and use paper cups, plates and odds and ends, so it isn’t too expensive,” she said.

Now that she has written one book, she intends to do another, but “first I want to see this book become a success.”

She has a master’s degree in elementary education and taught for many years. Now she free-lances and finds herself involved in teaching puppetry.

“Puppeteer Don Battjes and I both taught a class in puppetry at Ottawa Hills Elementary,” she said.

“We both found that children who are shy about acting can overcome this if they use puppets.

“I especially like it in theater classes. A shy child will speak his lines well if he has a puppet who supposedly is saying them. Later, when he puts down the puppet he retains that confidence.

A theater buff, Mrs. Stoppels has acted in Grand Rapids Community Circle plays, with the Civic Theater and in other area theaters.

She directed the Lollipop Players at Circle in the Park, held children’s workshops in Civic Theater and worked with the Carousel Players and Thornapple Community Theater. She directed the Kentwood High School production of “Lil Abner” and the senior play at Godwin Heights. She also will direct that school’s junior play.

She teaches puppet theater for both the East Grand Rapids and Grand Rapids recreation departments and currently is involved in the Women In Transition program of Grand Rapids Junior College, in which she teaches “creativity” and “creative play with children,” courses geared to puppetry.

“The latter courses will be held in Grandville, Caledonia and Jenison schools,” she explained.

“Children are smart. You give them an idea and they enlarge on it. So I often show them how to make a puppet and they come back with an original character, besides.”

“I went to the library to check on puppet books to make sure mine was different. It is. It is especially easy for anyone to follow and I’m happy about that.

“So far, my publisher (Glory Publishing Co.) has released the book in only a few bookstores. Perhaps after January it may be distributed in places like supermarkets—I don’t know for sure.”

Although she spends a good deal of her time in a make-believe world, she also is very involved in the real world. “Working with children and people is a satisfactory existence. It has many rewards.” Knowing she is dealing in a commodity that gives pleasure pleases her.

Phillip Engel ’31 of West Ghent, N.Y. \end{tabular} had a new book of poetry published in 1973. Titled \textit{Sale of Property & Other Poems}, it was published by Johnny’s Ideal Printing Co., Inc., Hudson, N.Y. A review of the book in \textit{The Register-Star}, Hudson, December 24, 1973 included, “Mr. Engel writes with a perceptiveness and directness sadly lacking in so many contemporaries. His prose is competent-mainly cast in Shakespearean sonnets, quatrains, and well-lined couplets. A chastening aura pervades much of his work and stands as a stark collective conscience to the community… A series of ten sonnets entitled, ‘Youth and Age’ points the instinctive relationship of a rare friendship… there are poems that exhibit reportorial excellence. ‘On the Inside’ is a shocker, a seven-page free verse expose of the barrenness of the lives lived by inmates of an institution for the mentally disturbed… Here is a rare insight and compassion for the individual, combined with a readable sense of fair play, a sympathy for the plight of administrators and therapists who must deal willy-nilly with the problem…the Engels’ virtue lies in the faithful rendering of fact and emotion, suffused with just enough of the Apolline art to lift the subject and set it apart for poetic scrutiny.”

Hope alumni will be interested in 12 “Hope College Sonnets” published in the new book. Submitted “Between the twenties and early thirties,” these sonnets have titles: \textit{Arriving There, Dutch Setting, Student Activities, Transition-Time, Extra-Curricular, The Pageant, Green Caps and Ties, Testing Philosophies, Holding Onto The Past, The Pull, College Citadel, and Tulip Time.}

The editor of this magazine found College Citadel particularly appealing: Hope is the dream. The college citadel / Where all your ill-begotten plans turn chaff / The place where irritation in the shell / Becomes the pearl. The words comprise the epitaph / You have become a consecrated one / Clinging to shreds of goodness still intact / For Hope has brought you momentary sun / Supplying courage which you would have lacked / Remember those who sought so hard to bring / Those better things before your youthful gaze / You walked where good prevailed, and Christ was King / Those were impressive, spirit-building days / This knowledge is a rampart through the years / To brace you when you are unnerved by fears.

Zachery Veldhuis, P1890, DVM, celebrated his 104th birthday on December 19, 1973, at his home in Hamilton, Michigan. Norman Timmer and Marian Stryker of the College staff called on him, presented him with a card, a poinsettia and a jingle: Zack. Zack. Zack / What a great fellow / He cared for dogs, cats / Horses, chickens and cows / Inspected the meat / His fellowmen eat / By the ton / In Hamilton / And now he’s One Hundred / And not one, but four. Dr. Veldhuis gave up driving his own car just two years ago and has restricted his practice as a veterinarian to emergency cases only. He can’t say no when an animal needs help.

The doctor, who lives alone, gets a ride downtown each day, picks up his mail and stops for a cup of coffee at a local restaurant before returning home.

Dr. Veldhuis was graduated in 1896 from the veterinary department of the old Detroit College of Medicine, now part of Wayne State University, one of the few veterinary surgeons in the U.S. at the time. He left Detroit and moved to the Allegan County community of Hamilton in 1945 where he set up practice after working for the government inspecting animals and doing field work for bovine tuberculosis.

\section*{Hope Runner in London}

Phil Cceley, a junior from Royal Oak, Michigan, studying this semester in London, made the BBC newscast and London’s two main evening newspapers on February 21. The Association of Tennis Professionals, in London for the Rothmans International Tournament at the Royal Albert Hall, challenged the public to join Australia’s Rod Laver and other top tennis stars in a light-hearted run before play in the tournament. The public left the tennis stars trailing, the first of them to finish was back in 20th place.

“The race was won by a 20-year-old American, Phil Cceley who is studying in London at the IES. He was given a tennis racket and two tickets to the Rothmans finals,” as reported in the London newspapers.

Phil is on the pilot program of the IES in London. The director sent the “cuttings about Phil” to Dr. Paul Fried, director of International Education. A quote from the director’s letter, “Phil made it on the main newscast of the BBC last night where he was seen setting off on the race with the large letters HOPE on his athletic chest.” At Hope Phil finished first in the league last fall and was the Most Valuable Runner in the MIAA.

Phil wrote to Dr. Fried, “London is great. I have joined a running club, the Polytechnic Harriers (established 1883). I have already been to Wales with the Club for a training weekend… The program at IES has high standards. Along with 10 books, there are papers and tutorials. The professors are very good. I am doing an independent study from the economics professor on International Monetary Cooperation. I ran into Bill Weller (son of Ken and Shirley Weller - attended Hope last year - editor) who is on the Central College program last week. We are going to get together and drop in on Coach Kraft,” (George Kraft of Hope’s athletic staff is on sabbatical in England - editor).

M.I.A.

Captain Elzinga entered the Air Force in April 1966 and was transferred to Cam Ranh Bay, South Vietnam, in October 1969. Five months later, stationed in Thailand, he flew his first mission and disappeared.

Last March an enemy Pathet Lao agent was captured carrying three $20 Bank of America Travelers Checks signed by Elzinga. The agent said the checks were given to him by another Pathet Lao agent in order to buy supplies. They were in excellent condition and dated two weeks before Captain Elzinga's disappearance. The recovery of the checks supports the belief that he is alive. Captain Elzinga is the son of the Rev. Richard '30 and LaMila Brink '35 Elzinga, Rt. 1, Box 253, Shedd, Oregon. Mr. Elzinga is the minister of the Wilmette United Presbyterian Church.

Plans are under way for the 18th annual Village Square to be held on Friday, AUGUST 2 in Holland, Michigan on the Hope College Campus. Mrs. J. Norman Timmer, 1974 Village Square Chairman announces a new feature this year will be an Art Show demonstrating art work by Hope faculty and students. Alumni and friends of Hope are invited to donate works for this project.

Food will be available throughout the day and a Chicken Bar B-Q will be served during the dinner hours.

The Auction will be held outside the Cultural Center. All of your favorite booths from other years will again be well-stocked.

All of the day's proceeds are used for dormitory furnishings on Hope's Campus.
